Frequently it's just "ours is better than yours." but more often the purists will say ours is better because it's true; it's the same as it was from the start; we've not ruined it with things that aren't jazz. While the modernists' stand is, we've got progress and the boys who play the stuff we like are the only ones who can, so naturally they're better musicians and the music is better.

Our reaction is usually—so what? But actually it isn't fair to leave it at that.

To us the whole argument can be compared to the storm that used to rage between "classical" music and jazz. You

TRIO SIGNED FOR FILM

The Page Cavanaugh Trio has been signed to appear in the film, "Romance in High C," which will be released by Warner Brothers. Starring parts in the picture go to Jack Carson, Janis Paige, Oscar Levant, Doris Day and Don DeFore.

ON THE COVER

BLLOWING his horn on our cover is Erskine Hawkins.

A steady drawing card for many years, Hawkins is today enjoying a wonderful degree of success. His bookings carry him through some of the richest territories and his superior brand of blowing never fails to show at the box office. When this reaches print, the band will be playing the Regal Theater in Chicago where he will continue until early next month.

As additional proof of his continued progress, RCA Victor is this month issuing an album of eight of his biggest hits under the title "Tuxedo Junction."

Sammy Kaye isn't getting much of a vacation this year so he's plenty happy when he gets a one nighter in Miami and has a chance to relax, as shown above. Girl is one of Sammy's many fans.

Big T Has New Disc Out

Marking his return to RCA Victor after an absence of many years, Jack Teagarden has waxed two typically fine jazz sides for the company's green label "Swing Classics" series.

Zinn Arthur Pic

Out now, the record backs Say It Simple with A Jam Session at Victor.

Side-men

Making up Teagarden's Big Eight are Cliff Strickland, sax; Peanuts Hucko, clarinet; Max Kaminsky, trumpet; Gene Schroeder, piano; Chuck Wayne, guitar; Jack Lesberg, bass, and Davey Tough, drums.

The biscuit

Bit Tea takes the vocal on Say It Simple and delivers the gently rocking tune in his infectious, throaty manner. The side opens with Kaminsky's mellow horn playing in front of the ensemble. Hucko plays delicately behind the vocal and comes out full after it. Then Teagarden takes a solo on his tram and sings the second chorus with Schroeder's tenor gently weaving harmonic patterns behind him.

Jam Session is just that. Davey Tough's drums set the pace and then Teagarden takes over with his blistering, gutty trombone featured. As his chorus comes to a close, he executes a smooth change of key and Hucko steps up with middle register clarinet that eventually works to stratospheric heights.

Hawkins' Big Hits in Album

EIGHT of Erskine Hawkins' most successful waxings have been coupled and will be out soon in album form.

The package takes its title from Erskine's biggest hit, Tuxedo Junction. As an indication of the versatility of the Hawkins band, this album is a good example. Two of the tunes feature an instrumentalist, two showcase full group improvisation, three have a male vocalist and one a girl singer spotlighted.

Sweet Georgia Brown is all Paul Bascom's. His tenor sax work on this number has made him famous.

The piano wizardry of Avery Parish was first acclaimed because of his driving, beatful playing on After Hours, which is in this album.

Tippin' In and Tuxedo show the group in its early days and in its more recent period. Perhaps the two most successful numbers Hawkins ever recorded, these two take their natural place here.

ERSKINE

Jimmy Mitchell displays his great vocal ability on the plaintive Song of the Wanderer, the moving Don't Cry, Baby and Don Redman's famous Cherry.

Laura Washington, who has been a member of the unit for only a year, sings the Joe Liggins tune that has insured her a place in this all-star group, I've Got a Right to Cry.

An album to have

Truly an album that has a place

From here on in everybody takes a solo and they're all great jazz thrills. The side ends with full ensemble enthusiastically playing to the rim.

in every jazz collection, this group of records is bound to be well received by those who have been anxiously awaiting the re-issue of these great Hawkins numbers.

BLAINE IN LONDON

Vivian Blaine, popular young singer and motion picture star, is currently in London working at the Casino Theater. Vivian left the States at the beginning of last month for a four-week stay at the London vaude house. She'll return at the end of this month.

Two titans of the tenor sax meet after a concert recently. Illinois Jacquet is at left and Sam Donahue on the right.

HIT WRITER WAXES FOR RCA VICTOR

VIII
BILL JOHNSON and his Musical Notes have gone so far in so short a time that they probably have a lot of other "cocktail units" wondering what the trick is. Organized only eighteen months ago, they've played some of the best jobs around the East and landed an RCA Victor recording contract.

You've probably heard of several Bill Johnsons in the music business and wonder whether this is the same one who wrote Tuxedo Junction. Well, you're right. William Luther Johnson is the young man who spent more than half his career in the Erskine Hawkins band, playing the famous alto solos on Cherry, Song of the Wanderer and Bear Mash Blues and composing and arranging Swinging on Lenox Avenue, Uptown Shuffle, Wedding Blues, Dolomite and others, all on Bluebird or Victor.

Born in 1913 in Georgia, Bill spent most of his youth in Florida. His father taught harmony and theory, but Bill got his education at Marquette University and the Conservatory of Wisconsin, studying harmony, arranging and piano: he'd picked up sax and clarinet at high school, too. To pay his way through college, he worked with George Abernathy's band.

After two years back home in Florida, he came to New York in 1935, worked with Baron Lee's Blue Rhythm Band and Tiny Bradshaw's band for a few months each, and was with Erskine Hawkins playing lead alto from 1936 until 1943. Tuxedo Junction started out as a sax riff which he and the tenor man, Julian Dash, contributed when an extra side was needed on a record date.

In 1943 and '44 Bill wrote arrangements for Boyd Raeburn, Lucky Millinder and Vincent Lopez. Then he toured the South Pacific for ten months from Australia to Okinawa as a member of Snub Mosely's band. While on the tour he conceived the idea of forming a small unit in which every man could sing part-harmony as well as playing an instrument. Very few groups have done this successfully. Bill still has the same men he started out with late in 1945—Egbert Victor, piano; Clifton Best, guitar; Jimmy Robinson, bass, and Gus Gordon, drums and solo vocals.

The Musical Notes started with a three-month USO tour, then played a Long Island Country Club and have since played every kind of spot from Minton's in Harlem to the Down Beat on 52nd Street.

Their RCA Victor records, such as Don't You Think I Ought to

Irving Fields, young expert technician of the piano who records for RCA Victor, is also the composer of many highly successful compositions.

Among his best known are the two recent hits Miami Beach Rumba and Managua Nicaragua.

His background

Fields began playing the piano at the age of nine and at fifteen won the Fred Allen Amateur Contest. He attended the Eastman School of Music and won a scholarship to the Masters Institute in New York. At the age of fourteen he wrote his first composition and since then has originated many tunes, ranging from swing to symphony.

Once his school work was completed Fields began working in radio, directing the music on shows over ABC, finally landing a solo spot as a pianist on the net.

Following his discharge from the service in 1915 he organized his own unit and has since played at some of the smartest hotels and night spots. His latest biscuit is Black Eyes and The Beat of the Tumba Drum.

BILL JOHNSON

Know and Pretty Eyed Baby (a Mary Lou Williams tune), have been doing very nicely. And Bill, who writes a lot of the tunes and all the arrangements himself, is doing very nicely indeed.

SPIVAK MEETS KREISLER

WHEN they handed me the assignment of recording an album of Kreisler tunes, I was apprehensive. I knew it wouldn't be easy because of many different reasons. If it was going to be done properly I knew that it would mean a lot of work for the boys and myself.

We were up in Boston when Eli and Russ Case (Eli Oberstein, director of RCA Victor Popular Artists and Repertory, and Russ Case, Pop Music Director) came up with a Kreisler album. That night we sat up until dawn playing the album over and over again and getting ideas for the arrangements that Russ was going to do. Russ would play a side over to get the feel of Kreisler's playing and then he'd make notes on manuscript paper. We were all plenty beat when that session was over, but we knew what we wanted.

The next I heard of it was two months later when Case had finished arranging Kreisler's violin parts for my trumpet. We were in New York, so we had our first session with the new scores. We rehearsed and rehearsed until we finally got the tunes the way we wanted them. Then we started recording. Sometimes an album can be done in a day, sometimes in a week. It was a year later before we cut the final sides for this package.

The tune that gave us the most trouble was Caprice Viennois. That one we did while we were at the Pennsylvania Hotel last year. One day we went down to the studio and recorded for about five and a half hours without getting the number the way we wanted. So the next morning we returned to the studio for another session. Finally it was right, but only after we had made twenty-two takes of it. My lip was in such bad shape that I had to lay off for two nights from the Pennsylvania.

It finally turned out that we did five faces in New York and three in California before we were finished.

I hadn't heard the complete album all at once until about a month before it was released. I went up to the RCA Building in New York to find Fritz Kreisler there. What a thrill that was! He had always been a special favorite of mine and although I hadn't ever performed his compositions professionally before doing the album, I always admired his work, from the time I was just learning the trumpet.

I'd like to say that I think Kreisler a wonderful person, both artistically and personally.

We played the records and Kreisler seemed really impressed. He said that he had never known that a trumpet could do such things and asked if I had used an F instrument. When I told him it was just an ordinary B-flat horn he was amazed. He said that he never knew it could sound like it did.

One thing I remember his saying is, "the present generation has certainly progressed over that of twenty years ago. The maturity of its taste is encouraging."

When we had finished I got hold of a copy of the album and asked Kreisler to autograph it. Then I really got a thrill for he then asked me to autograph one for him.

Russ Case got credit for those

ROMBERG'S STUDENT PRINCE ON RECORDS

AL GOODMAN

RCA Victor Records has just released a recording of Sigmund Romberg's world famous operetta, "The Student Prince."

Al Goodman and his orchestra head the cast which co-stars Earl Wrightson, Frances Greer, Donald Dame, Mary Martha Briney and the Guild Choristers.

Romberg

Perhaps Romberg's hardest perennial, "The Student Prince," since its opening on Broadway in 1924 has appeared on the famous street more than six hundred times. This does not include the thousands of times it has been produced in theaters everywhere. Coming from the pen of one of America's most prolific composers, it is one of the many such successes that he has written from "Maytime," his first, till "Up in Central Park," his most recent.

The album

Containing four ten-inch records, the album is a well thought-out item containing the operetta's most famous numbers. Besides the records it has an interesting album liner with notes on the composer and the story of the musical.

The selections are, in order of their appearance: Overture to the Student Prince, Golden Days, Drinking Song, Student's March Song, Deep in My Heart Dear, Serenade and Just We Two. The number is K-8.

BLUE SKY BOYS VETS WITH DISC CO.

Earl and Bill Bolick, the Blue Sky Boys, expert singing duo, have been recording for RCA Victor since 1936.

The only time during this period when the boys were not engaged in making records was the five years while they were in service. Earl was a paratrooper who served with much distinction in the European Theater for two years, during which time he took part in some of the war's biggest battles. While in Europe he was wounded five times.

Bill was with the Artillery in the Pacific for eighteen months. While there he participated in the invasions of Leyte and Okinawa.

Discharged last year, the boys took up their careers where they had left off. RCA Victor got them into a recording studio as soon as possible and they began broadcasting over Station WGST in Atlanta soon after.

Presently they're heard over WGST from 6:30 A.M. until 6:45 A.M., and from 2:00 in the afternoon until 2:15.

For the kind of singing that has kept the Blue Sky Boys with RCA Victor Records for the past eleven years listen to their latest disc, Kentucky and I'm Going to Write to Heaven.

COMEDY DUO SIGNS CONTRACT

Lonzo and Oscar, famous singing comedy team who have become popular with the Eddy Arnold group, have signed a recording contract with RCA Victor.

The hilarious twosome, who have built their success on the burlesquing of popular tunes and original mirth provoking numbers, started their careers with Eddy two years ago. Their novel stylings have gained them a tremendous amount of success in this short time. Now under an exclusive recording contract to RCA Victor, their unique brand of humor will be brought to the further attention of the public.

Their first disc under their new pact is a pairing of Ole Buttermilk Sky and Take Them Cold Feet Outta My Back. What they do to the popular Hoagy Carmichael number will bring peals of laughter from everybody who hears it. Cold Feet, on the reverse, is almost equally as humorous and will do much to bring the duo increased popularity.

Currently Lonzo and Oscar can be heard on the famous Grand Ole Opry program which originates at Station WSM in Nashville, Tenn. They're on this show from 8:00 to 8:30 P.M. each week-day night. They also put in an appearance on the Eddy Arnold show every Saturday night from 11 to 11:15.

Some impromptu clowning goes on at the Brown Derby in Hollywood as Bill Thompson (left) gives Jerry Colonna a few pointers on the playing of the Irish Bagpipe as June Foray and Dennis Day look on.

2 While Tex is heard every Monday, Wednesday and Friday, Frankie Carle and his group are taking Jo Stafford's spot on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

3 Between takes on the film "Disc Jockey" at Miami Beach, Tommy Dorsey, Barbara Lee, Dean Hudson and Jini Boyd take five in the shade. The girls are starlets.

4 During an off period from his current tour of theaters throughout the country Perry Como takes time out for a round of golf.

5 Preparing for that long talked of trip to Russia, Benny Goodman gets a few pointers on the language from Mrs. Igor Stravinsky, wife of the noted composer.

don't hear much of that anymore simply because the two forms, happily, are coming closer together all the time. Boys like Raeburn, Kenton, Herman and the rest have taken lessons from Stravinsky and Debussy, while many of the classicists are drawing their inspiration from the soul of the people, its folk music, the same source from which jazz sprang.

The similarity of the two cases is self-evident, for if an Armstrong chorus thrills because of its beat, its feeling, its heart and its lyric beauty then surely a Gillespie passage thrills because of its harmony, dissonance, its lack of inhibitions, its vibrant youth and progressive enthusiasm.

The conclusion to be drawn is simply this: if Bechet, Mezzrow, Condon and the rest are the heart of the music we have at our disposal today then Sauter, Hefti, McGehee and men like them are its brain.

The sooner the heart and the brain can get together the sooner our music will be richer and more truly progressive. Perhaps this won't happen tomorrow or for a long time to come, but when it does we'll have a complete body of music that will have an undreamed-of strength.

LAATEST addition to Duke Ellington's band is Tyree Glenn, who plays trombone and vibes. Tyree just returned from a long European sojourn with Don Redman and other units. Taft Jordan is no longer with Duke. The band now has five singers—Marian Cox, Kay Davis, Ray Nance, Al Hibbler and Chester Crumpler. . . . When Frank Sinatra takes over the "Hit Parade" this fall it will be a virtually different show. Mark Warnow, who was musical director for the program for many years, will be replaced by Axel Stordahl. Doris Day will get the fem vocalist spot while the Pied Pipers will come in to back up both singers. Then too, the parade will march over NBC instead of CBS. . . . Eddie Condon's book, I Played Rhythm, will be out in the fall. . . . Arnette Cobbs, formerly with Lionel Hampton, is the latest tenor sax man to cause a big hit with his own small band, following the Illinois Jacquet pattern. . . . Jack Teagarden has signed with Joe Glaser to go on Louis Armstrong's jazz concert tour in the fall. . . . The abundance of jazz concerts in New York and consequent poor attendance at most of them caused Norman Granz to cancel three Carnegie Hall dates and break up his unit until fall. . . . Coleman Hawkins, meanwhile, is taking it easy, and Roy Eldridge has a band in Atlantic City, where Count Basie is also spending ten weeks this summer. . . . George Shearing, sensational blind English pianist, may take up residence here soon; he visited New York last year. . . . Ralph Tilken, drummer with the Hal McIntyre band, recently married Helen Ross of Philadelphia. She's a well-known model.

Louis Armstrong has been signed to appear in the new Danny Kaye pic "That's Life." He'll be in Hollywood about the time this reaches print to work on the Sam Goldwyn opus.

arrangements, too, for Kreisler said he thought them wonderful. Russ added to my feeling of elation by saying he considered me the only trumpet player who could have done the album and Kreisler evidenced his feeling some weeks later when he informed me that he was trying to make it possible for me to appear with the Buffalo Symphony orchestra.

I'd like to say that I've never been happier about anything than I am about this album. I'd also like to say "thanks" to the boys in the band, without whose cooperation the whole thing would have been impossible.

The arrangements were rangy for a trumpet and it took lots of work to get things right, but they were done sincerely, which is what, for my money, really counts.

Kreisler Favorites by Charlie Spivak and his Orchestra (P-179) includes Liebesfreud, Mighty Lak' a Rose, Caprice Viennois, La Gitana, Liebesleid, Tambourin, Chinois, Schön Rosmarin and The Old Refrain.

PRETTIEST GREEN EYED RED HEAD SOUGHT

Spade Cooley is looking for the prettiest girl in the country who has red hair and green eyes.

When this lucky girl is found her picture will appear on sheet music that will circulate throughout the country; she'll get a free RCA Victor combination radiophonograph and have four days in New York with all expenses paid.

The contest

In connection with the release of Spade Cooley's recording of the tune Red Hair and Green Eyes, a contest is being staged throughout the country. RCA Victor record dealers are giving to their customers entry blanks which will enter the contestant in a sectional contest. A photo of the girl along with a 25 word statement on "Why I like Spade Cooley's RCA Victor recording of Red Hair and Green Eyes must be entered with each entry.

When all of the sectional winners are chosen one national winner will be selected and the prizes will be awarded. Hill and Range Songs, Inc., is cooperating with RCA Victor and "The King of Western Swing" in sponsoring the event. The sheet music for Red Hair and Green Eyes will carry the winner's likeness.
