HE engagement of the Americanadians Dance Band, with Clarrie Gange as conductor. for national programmes is further evidence of the A.B.C.'s constant care to offer the latest in rhythm entertainment to the radio public. But recently arrived from America. this aptly named band is creating great interest with its novel programmes featuring all the hits and special effects which won them fame in cabarets over there. "Sweet" and "hot" music each find a place in their repertoire, and many novelty numbers new to Australia are being introduced. This is mostly the work of special arrangers.

Doris Casher (vocalist with the Americanodians' Dance Band).

Not only are there seven tirst-class arrangers, but in addition, some remarkably good voices in the band which make possible an extremely popular Glee Club of harmony singers. All the boys are good vocalists, and most of them play more than one instrument, so that many attractive doubling and trebling effects are obtained among members of the band.

The Americanadians were already a popular institution in U.S.A. when Clarrie Gange, their present leader, came across them during a holiday visit, and as some of their number wished to make a trip to Australia.

he had no difficulty in persuading them to accompany him on his return.

Despite their title, the Americanadians are actually all British subjects, with extensive experience in the States and Canada to their credit. They also did a lot of radio work over there. Following their arrival in Mcibourne a couple of months ago, the band had a big success in public appearances at the Palais Pictures and Palais de Danse, St. Kilda.

Their personnel consists of Clarrie Gange, the leader, who up till the time of his departure for America about 12 months ago had demonstrated his versatility in leading bands of Melbourne and Sydney: Monte Richardson (Pianist-arranger): Davies (String Bass, trombone and viola): Lew O'Leary (Spanish and electric guitars, violin); Sammy Lee (Drums); Jack Carpenter (alto and baritone saxophones, clarinet, guitar and piano); Dave Ackerman (alto and beritone saxophones, clarinet and flute): Henning Andersen (tenor saxophone, flute, clarinet and guitar); Bob Reid (1st trumpet): Peter McMurray hot trumpet); Bill Arthur (trombone and bass saxophone) and Doris Casher Igirl vocalist).

PAFTERTHETHIN

 Just a battle of tactics between Bill and a brunette.

"After the Thin Man" is the film broadcast for 2FC on Sunday night, July 11, at 9.10 p.m.

"To keep a proper balance, a star must live in two worlds."

This is the opinion of Myrna Loy, who has been one of the most successful of Hollywood stars in keeping her screen life separate from her private life.

"One is a world of acting," said Myrna, "the other a world of reality. The two don't mix. When they are merged trouble is certain to follow."

Few people know anything about Myrna, even her closest intimates at the studio. Charming and gracious, with a keen sense of humor that makes it a delight to work in her pictures. Myrna never talks about herself.

A little audio amplification

Some motherly advice?

• More tactics. Note the clever smile which Bill gives his victim.

A pause in the music.

"WATTO"

THE enormous tribute of correspondence to the late H. M. H. Watts, the Press tributes, and the attendance at his funeral, show him to have been about the most popular sessioner in Australia. Although we knew ourselves that his early morning session had enormous popularity, we were surprised by the very real public grief, which did not seem to come from particular people, but passed like a wave over the whole public: there was only one death that day, as, in Paris, when Proust died-you had only to call a taxi, and it would take you without direction to the church.

H. M. H. Watts had in fact a more real popularity than even the most famous of overseas broadcasting artists; and the reason was that his session was the kind of session which is most essential to broadcasting, and which is most appreciated by the public, a session in which day by day people may recognise a friend living the same life, facing the same problems, and having a cheerful philosophy of life.

Such a session requires special qualities; it is not merely an entertainer's session; no amount of cleverness would make it live unless the sessioner's whole personality went into it; and it was because he was always himself on the air that he was able to keep the session going without apparent effort, always gay, always witty, always full of vigor, so that if is almost impossible for those who knew him to believe him dead.

It will be hardly an enviable task for another man to take up his session; it is a position which can be created only by personality, and not by imitations of personality. The public feeling at his death proves what Mr. Bronner, the Talks Director, told us some time back: in broadcasting, the public follows the man, and not the subject; and we feel that the Commission will be very lucky if it gets another such man, or a man so-well worth following.

HOWLERS and Handelaps are humortions, juxtapositions, wisceracks, witticisms, word tangles, and anything heard over the air which shocks or amuses the listener by its spontaneous or imprompting quality.

This does not mean, however, that howlers which are amusing only when torn from a sensible context are eligible; readers are asked not to take unfair advantage of broadcasters, even though broadcasters may sometimes take advantage of them.

It seems hardly necessary to point out that the opinions and statements often quoted, are not those of "Wireless Weekly."

Howlers should be written down in exactly the same way as they are shown on this page. The name of the station, the time, the date, and, where possible, the name of the artist or announcer, are essential. The sender's name and address should be neatly written below the howler or handelap.

One shilling is paid for every one published. There is no limit to the number-which may be sent in.

Address your entries to "Howlers," Box 3368P, Sydney.

NOTE: More often than not it happens that two people (we have had as many, as twenty) report the same howler. When this occurs the prize goes to the most accurately and legibly seiting out the mistake. If you have sent in a howler which was like one of those published and have not received your shilling or ten shillings, you must take our word for it that someone else has sent it in more fully and more accurately described.

It has been suggested that the names or Initials of the contributors should be set down under all howlers pub-described.

It has been suggested that the names or initials of the contributors should be set down under all howers published, but this, we believe, would be spoiling the fun. We believe in preserving the readers' anonymity. uid pubUncle George, 2GB, community singing (1.15 p.m., June 24):

CROSS THE ATLANTIC

Some Interesting Stories of American Re-broadcasts, by Air Mail Direct from Our Editor in London.

NE of the features of the Coronation broadcasts was that more hours of transmission went out of England than were heard in England. Not all this was accounted for by the Empire stations, but foreign commentators of many countries were accommodated by the B.B.C.

This is not an unusual practice. The B.B.C. studios are available to the representatives of friendly foreign countries without cost to them when international hook-ups are necessary. The American broadcasting organisations, the N.B.C. and the C.B.S., are the principal users of these facilities. There is close competition between the two networks for London features.

Celebrities are the best bag, although events of world-wide interest are relayed as a matter of course. The relay cost via trans-Atlantic radio telephone is £2 a minute. Most broadcasts take about 15 or 20 minutes, but as the transmission is picked-up and relayed by thirty or forty stations in America, the average cost to each station for the relay is not so high.

At the moment of writing the representative of the National Broadcasting Corporation (Mr. Bates) is staying as a private guest at the Chateau de Tours, from which he is hoping to send a sensational description of an event the world has been watching for some time. The representative of the Columbia Broadcasting System is gnashing his teeth about this, and is probably privately hoping that the British G.P.O. will refuse to re-transmit the description as they did once before.

However, Mr. Saerchinger, the Columbia representative, can remember the time when he beat the N.B.C. This was the Bernard Shaw scoop. Columbia had been at Mr. Shaw to broadcast for some time, ever since he had been beard by Bernard Shaw said, "Hullo, you boobs!"

Americans at a dinner to Albert Einstein. But Mr. Shaw was not prepared to broadcast. "When I have something to say, I'll say it," he said. It was eight months before Mr. Shaw could be persuaded to speak again. "Anyway, you'll not let me talk without censoring my script" he complained to the C.B.S. man. "Oh, yes, we shall," was the reply.
"You can say what you like." "Very well, then," decided Shaw, "I shall talk about Russia."

But Mr. Shaw's freedom of speech about Russia did not cause anything like the amount of trouble in America as was caused by his opening words of

"Hullo, you boobs," he said, "you dear old boobs

Ghandi at the microphone.

GANDHI.

Another occasion when the C.B.S. and N.B.C. clashed over a "scoop" was the broadcast of Gandhi. It was the only broadcast Gandhi ever made on this side of the world. In anticipation of Gandhi's visit to London in 1931 the C.B.S. man had secured all the necessary permits from the Secretary of State for India, the Home Office, and through Miss Muriel Lester, Mr. Gandhi's hostess, a microphone was installed and landlines booked for the broadcast to Ame-

At the same time the N.B.C. man had travelled across Europe to meet Gandhi's ship, and had accompanied him on the last stages of his voyage. He had a promise from Gandhi to make the broadcast from N.B.C.

When the C.B.S. man eventually heard what had happened he explained the circumstances to Gandhi, who anxious that both companies should have the broadcast. He had thought that there was but one company in America.

However, the N.B.C. man held him to his promise. But the C.B.S. man stuck to his landlines and microphone. the time scheduled for the broadcast approached the situation was a deadlock. On the one hand one man had Mr. Gandhi and the other had the means of broadcasting him. Both were ada-

At last Mr. Gandhi negotiated a compromise between them, and the broadcast was heard simultaneously on both networks. It was probably the only occasion on which Mr. Gandhi was in the position of appealing for a compromise instead of being appealed to.

1º MUSIC CRITIC

HUBERMAN

E read much, these days, about "Huberman's Bach" or "Huberman's Beethoven," or "Huberman's attack." Which goes far to prove how our musical ideas have gone wrong. It is true that "Huberman's" Bach, Beethoven, etc., may have been rather a novel affair for some people and a surprise. It was not so for anybody who is used to "interpretations" as they ought to be. The solution of the riddle is that with Huberman there is no such thing as "interpretation"; he or Lotte Lehmann or any of the very great artists give not a "reading," but the intention of Beethoven, Bach, etc.

In these columns I have fought always for doing what the composer wants, as it is unambiguously marked in the music. And henceforth I shall simply quote Huberman or Lehmann as examples. If one of our local pianists would be given the chance to prove it, I am sure that amongst them there are also some who, though hot quite the genius like Horowitz or Schnabel, are capable of giving the composer's intentions.

That Huberman did not "play down" and did nothing to make his playing effeminate, or to include one or two romantic escapades in Beethoven's style, is certainly nothing new, but the accepted tradition, Huberman's secret lies somewhere else—it is his artistic conviction, the strength of his personality, his idealism, which makes him grow into one unity with Beethoven.

I have been asked if it were possible to define the difference between Menuhin-Heifetz and Huberman. Menuhin-Heifetz are proud of themselves that they know everything about music, that they have intruded deep into the secret of art; at the same time they have the respect for art that is indispensable for every great artist.

Huberman does not differ from them, in this respect. But he has something more, in addition—the irresistible urge to communicate art to human beings, to make them feel as he does, to lift them up to the heights of his own idealism,

In other words, it is the difference between intensive and extensive personality.

Huberman played the Brahms-concerto with the orchestra, and it was again as wonderful as when I heard him last, in 1925, in Cologne. I listened also to one of the rehearsals, and it is marvellous how Huberman points out that he does not want any licence at all—not a single "rit." or accelerando; he sticks to the music as it is written down by the composer, and from my point of view this is the highest praise, if one can say it of an artist.

Dr. Bainton, who conducted the concert, was not responsible for the programme, I believe, but Prof. Heinze, who was prevented by illness from coming to Sydney. It was not fair to himself that Prof. Heinze should have put Beethoven's Seventh on the programme, at a time when everybody is raving about Toscanini's recording. Heinze put also a version of Bach on the programme. When he performed this version, by Elgar, in Melbourne some time ago, the announcer said that also Stokowsky had made Bach-versions. To which I replied that the American musical critics reacted in the negative. Certainly, I must react in the negative upon a version which adds drums to Bach. This is not meant against Elgar. Beethoven, too, wrote once a "Battle of Waterloo,"

In the next concert, Huberman played sonatas (before the Lalo I left, wanting to keep the deep musical impression of the rest of the concert). And the fulfilling of the intentions of Brahms and Beethoven was again as great as it could be. The playing by Huberman was such that not the slightest ripple of the meaning of a musical phrase remained unexplained. The spirit of Beethoven and Brahms was resuscitated in a way very few mortals are able to do. And the great violinist added the slow movement of a Mozart sonata as an extra. That the audience answered with neverending applause is a proof that there is no music too good for Sydney audiences. The A.B.C. should take the hint

This week, Huberman is in Brisbane. The broadcast of the Elgar-concerto is no interstate broadcast. Why? Mr. Percy Code accompanies Mr. Huberman, replacing the permanent Brisbane conductor of the A.B.C. We appreciate the policy of letting other States hear something of our conductors, and would like, in exchange, to have the Brisbane conductor here, sometimes, in order to hear what he is like. Why does he remain anonymous?

THE SYDNEY RECORDED MUSIC SOCIETY

will hold its third recital at 12 O'Connell Street, Monday, July 12. The main item on the programme is a recording of "L'Heure Espagnole," by Ravel. This short opera can only be given in private circles, as otherwise the question of royalties is rather awkward. Musiclovers who want to join the society should do so now, because there will be only a limited number of members, which will be reached in the near fut-

SYDNEY SUNDAY MUSIC

In the "Random Pages," Laurence Godfrey Smith played Schumann, Ravel, and Prokoffieff with his usual great artistry. I appreciated especially the fact that Schumann did not get any drawing-room additions of rubati, etc., but was played with restraint.

The Symphony Hour contained the same items as last Thursday's concert.

PAUL SCHRAMM

When I heard this artist first, in 1919, we all were sure that he might have climbed to the top of the tree if he took seriously the pledge he has received from nature. This judgment came to my mind again when Schramm played a Bach and a Beethoven sonata last Sunday. It came to my mind, also, how I heard Schramm play a whole recital of lesser-known Brahms works from the music. He could afford such things, his technical and interpretative gifts being wonderful, so that he must not necessarily conquer things by working hard. But hard work is indispensable for any being.

The waltz was introduced into serious music only by Weber; therefore, it was, to put it mildly, an anachronism to play the third movement of Beethoven, Opus. 2, 1, with the extension of the second beat required by Johann Strauss, Throughout this recital I noticed a certain carelessness as to style; I'd speak rather of the two styles of Schramm. The one is the right one, classical, flawless, The other one is romantic, with rubati, rhythmical licence, and all the things one should not apply either to Bach or Beethoven; which certainly Schramm should not If one or our young planists does not know it, we are not cross, and give a slight reminder. But with Paul Schramm we are as certain as we can be that he knows everything about it. Thus, there is no apology for playing a few bars in the classical, and a few bars in an all-but-classical style. The second subject in the first movement of Beethoven must not have a rubato. The turn in the slow movement must not marr the continuity of rhythm. There is no objection against applying pedal in Bach, sometimes. But the pedal must not make scales sound blurred. In pianissimo passages one should still hear everything.

HAPPY ENDING

Dear Sir.—Why can't the A.B.C. be consistent? To-night, while listening to that delightful "Miniature in Fancy Dress," we amused ourselves working it out in advance to its inevitable and exquire conclusion; and, then, realising that nothing was less inevitable than such a consummation in an A.B.C. play, we decided to enjoy our chuckles over same at once, before we were disillusioned, and left "up in the air" as usual; and blowed if it didn't go and end the right way after all, so that our forestalling was all unnecessary!

Now we're wondering how on earth such a piece managed to get accepted at all when it was neither morbid nor inconclusive.—Yours etc.,

"HAPPY ENDING."

Hamilton (17/6/'37).

UP TO PUTTY

Dear Sir,-I have been a subscriber to your "Wireless Weekly" for five years. Thus reading the Safety Valve, I have read quite a lot of proposals from readers regarding what they want in programmes and what they don't want, and I agree with the majority that the A.B.C. programmes are up to putty; we pay them to give us pro-grammes to listen to, but I think it should be the other way round; they ought to pay us. Take last Thursday's programmes from 2FC and 2BL; if that wasn't a lot of junk, I don't know what is. Why can't the A.B.C. put on some-thing that we can have a laugh at, instead of us sitting by our sets with a long face? A.B.C. wants to remember, him no good, me no listen .- Yours etc., E.C.R.

SUGGESTION

Dear Sir,—Might I make a suggestion to readers of "Wireless Weekly," regarding 2BL programmes at night.

Many readers situated, like myself, about 100 miles from Sydney, would often like to listen to 2BL programmes at night, but are unable to get decent reception, due, I am told, to the distance from Sydney. I suggest that listeners write to the A.B.C. requesting that one of the regional stations be linked with 2BL for the evening programme each night during the winter, instead of all being linked up with 2FC. One station would be sufficient and the same station need not necessarily be used the whole time.

Such a scheme, during the winter, would not penalise listeners in the regions served by the regional stations, who prefer the 2FC programme, but would allow a much greater choice, and give satisfaction to many listeners situated like those in Goulburn in relation to Sydney stations.

If a number of listeners would write to the A.B.C., requesting something like that I am suggesting, some change beneficial to all listeners might be obtained.—Yours, etc.,

J. Bingham.

NEWS

Dear Sir,—I am in agreement with your correspondent, "Hoping," that the present times for giving "News" are, perhaps, not the most convenient, as it is not always easy to get the news items at breakfast or lunch time. The hours mentioned by "Hoping" would seem to be more suitable, or one might suggest 7 p.m. as convenient for many people as a leisurely hour between business and the evening's engagements.

I agree with your correspondent that the time devoted to racing news is rather considerable, and is in contrast with the brief periods sometimes occupied by the "news" service, which many people like myself have to rely upon.

The Sunday evening programme, "In choirs and places where they sing," is, in my opinion, altogether admirable, —Yours, etc.,

COLLOQUIAL.

Dear Sir.-Since "A Few Bob . . .," (12/5/'37) invites comment on his masterpiece (?), he'll get it. The impression I got on reading it was anything but favorable. He neither argued, nor expressed his arguments (?) as one who knew the slightest bit about what he was writing. He bases his arguments on what he supposes, e.g., he supposes that everyone who is not able to afford Lehmann's concerts can afford to attend dances and pictures regularly, which, of course, is just absurd. Flesh and blood performances are "what he calls crook," but that doesn't say they are, and, in fact, they're not. Also "A Few Bob" Lotte Lehmann's "A Few Bob . . .," Lotte Lehmann's voice doesn't need judging by you or any other of your faction. Her voice Lotte Lehmann's has been acclaimed by critics who do know what they are talking about, and, however bad the reception in the country, her reputation cannot be harmed

I see the word "lieder" spelt "leider." It may be a misprint, or it may be a manifestation of "A Few Bob's" extensive knowledge and learning. I'm inclined to think the latter. If I'm wrong, so much the better. His section on the A.B.C. was full of obvious irrelevancies, and what he means by the "true musical spirit," as he uses the expression, perhaps he could explain.

After saying that half a concert is sufficient to be broadcast, because of the many records of the artist, transmitted, he goes on to say that there is too much "canned music." How are country people to hear such artists without "canned music" (wireless and gramophone)?

Space does not allow a full criticism of the many opportunities provided for it. But before "A Few Bob..." sets out to reel off such another article, perhaps he would profit by stopping a moment to think it out, and to express it so as to impress the reader (favorably, I mean). Such cheap colloquialisms become very tiring when one hears them, all and every day.—Yours, etc.,

"Reveille."

HOW TO BECOME A RADIO ANNOUNCER

TEST YOUR ABILITY

LITTLE while ago I was hearing some 30 or 40 people every week who wanted to be announcers. The number has been considerably reduced since I asked for WRITTEN applications for auditions, in which the applicants were expected to state their qualifications and to tell me fully why they thought they would make successful broadcasters. The reasons given under this system (which is in force now) were not only ingeniously varied, but almost all seemed to miss the point. Unless the writer seems to have some definite promise, of course, the application for audition is not granted. But practically every letter showed a complete ignorance of what I would look for in a prospective announcer, and it is this that has prompted me to set out, as fully as I can, what you need before you can hope to join the announcing staff of 2TIE

Before I try to tell you what is needed I'd like you to understand two things. The first is that 2UE is one of the "big" stations on the air, and it's harder to get in here than it would be if you were approaching a small country sta-tion, for instance. You're up against tion, for instance. that right from the jump. Secondly, you have to remember that I have already just as many announcers as I can carry. It would be financially foolish to engage an extra announcer. This means that if I engage you I have to let one of my present staff go; and THAT means that you've got to be better than one of them.
It's no use being "just as good." You've got to be better. Tough, isn't it? I can soften the blow a trifle, however, by assuring you that if you're as good as one of those I have with me now, then I'll keep your name by me, so that if one of my announcers decides to go to Madagascar for his health's sake or something then I'll get in touch with you to come and fill his place.

Now if you still want an audition (and remember that what I've written above is absolutely true), then chew over the rest of this article. It will give you some idea of what I look for in a GOOD announcer. The points I've noted come in order of importance. Give yourself a score out of a total of five for each thing I mention, and see how you add up at the end. Ready?

Have you enthusiasm? I don't mean merely are you eager to get into radio? I mean, are you enthusiastic about radio AS radio? After six months' solid, hard work before the microphone, could you stand being told that you were still very raw? Are you just wanting a spot of publicity, with a decent salary thown in, or do you want to be able to make a commercial announcement more artistically than any other man on the air? If you become an announcer, would you sit and talk and draw your pay, or would you fight and study to be a better announcer? And would you still be fighting to be better after the first two years. Be honest with yourself, and measure up the quality of your enthusiasm. What does yours score? 5?

Do you want an audition? asks Kenneth Fowles, senior annuoncer at 2UE.

Are you easy to get on with? Would you listen to advice and act on it? Do you take instructions with sincere good grace? If I commented on the way you made an announcement, would you say to yourself: "He's telling me," or "He's trying to help me, this is where I listen and learn?" In other words, are you "teachable"? Do you score 5? Be honest.

I'm not terribly concerned with whether you have a good voice or otherwise, but I do want an accurate voice. Do you lisp or stutter? You don't have to pronounce "S's" as "TH's" to lisp, and you can stutter without exactly saying "K-K-K-atie." Take this sentence that you're reading now and read it aloud at a very fast tempo all in one breath and see how many sounds or syllables you slur. None at all? 5!

No, I'm not much interested in your voice as a voice. I'm VERY concerned with how you use it though. Is your voice flexible? Take the word "lovely." Can you say it in eight different ways, making it mean something different each time? If you can, you score 5. If you can say it seven different ways you score 4, and so on down. How ya goin'?

Can you speak with intensity? I don't want you to bellow like a bullock driver, although he's very often as intense as anyone could wish. Can you speak softly and still sound intense? This sentence, for example: "Water is undoubtedly the finest tonic that any man can take." Now, suppose you've got to convince a public meeting that that sentiment is absolutely true. You've got to convince them, simply by the power of your expression. You've got to punch every word, practically. Try it now. Right. Now say it again with exactly the same amount of force in expression, but without raising your voice above a whisper. Manage it? If so, score accordingly. If not . .! And if you don't see what the deuce I mean in this paragraph, then go back to the second question I asked and take off all your marks. You're not "teachable," because you don't pick up the idea quickly enough. Tough? Of course, you're trying to get into broadcasting. (Satisfy yourself first time.)

Your voice should have a wide range of tones. No doubt you can sing up the scale—do, re, me, etc. Can you SPEAK up the scale? Try it. Don't sing, just talk, getting a tone higher all the time. If you can get from the original "doh" to the "doh" above you score full marks. Take off a mark for every tone you're under the full scale.

Do you understand the value of a pause? Do you know how long to pause at certain places so as to make what you're saying most effective? Here is the opening passage of a certain radio advertisement: "Are you proud of your children?-How proud?-Proud enough of them to want them to be proud of themselves?" When you read this passage as you'd read it on the air, you should pause at the dashes. Try it out, and see how long YOU pause. You SHOULD pause four seconds at the first and three at the second. Read it as you'd read it at a microphone, and see how you check. Score, please? (One for each second out.)

Suppose you were at the 2UE microphone at 6 a.m. to open the breakfast session, and found that the programme department had forgotten to give you any records or announcements? How long could you keep the station going until records were found? You've got to do ten minutes to score 5. You can say what you like, as long as it's all just talking and no reading.

There are lots of other things, such as knowledge of music, ability to sing or play some instrument, travel, experience on the stage, and so on, but none of these is essential. We'll leave them and keep to the points I've dealt with above. There were eight of them altogether, and, counting a total of 5 for each, that gives us 40. If you scored 35 or over I'll be glad to hear from you.

NICE WORK

Championship,

ARGUS the Prophet has changed stations—and now he's broadcasting with 2GB every Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday afternoons

ARGUS

Heard a little story to the effect that when Argus was under contract to broadcast at the 2GZ community concerts in country centres, they were proceeding towards Orange, and everything running smoothly. Said Argus, "I have a feeling that we will shortly have a puncture. It was just about here that we had one before." Half a mile further on the tyre blew out. No one passed Argus a vote of thanks for his foresight

OUW's Sporting Department is

Boxing

Heavyweight

But what they're so particularly proud of along at 2UW is the fact that theirs was the only station in New South Wales to broadcast the full description as received from America!

Well in the running for the title of radio's prize storyteller. Not that he reads fiction on the air—but when there's a pause in the day's work and time for an anecdote the players can always depend on 2SM producer Reg. Hawthorne to "put one across."

GETTING ALONG NICELY

ESME WILLIAMS tells us she has heard from Kathleen Bourke, the winner of the 2KY Coronation Player's Quest, and that this lucky lass is settling down in her flat at Pembroke Square. She has had an audition with the B.B.C., though how she fared was not known at the time of writing. Here's hoping that when the next mail comes in we can pass on the news that the little Sydney girl who was a typist until radio discovered her, has been engaged for the English air waves.

TAXI

CONTRARY to the usual run of radio folk, Albert Russell of 2GB, doesn't own a car, and has no wish to do so, although he is a skilful driver. He much prefers to be driven and usually rides in taxis. Yes, even after Leonard Bennett's recent picnic.

FOR DOG ENTHUSIASTS

THE 2GB Trio—Uncle George, and Russell and Morgan, have founded a Dog Lovers' Club, with a special session of its own every Tuesday and Thursday evening at 5.40. Every child who owns a pet may become a member, and interesting news will be broadcast along with hints for training and taking care of dogs.

He won the Crooners' Contest

SYDNEY'S BING CROSBY

HERE he is—Sydney's Bing Crosby, alias Les. Young of Allison Road, Randwick, 6ft. or so, and very excited because he has carried off the 2SM crooners' contest with flying colors.

"My heart nearly jumped out of my vest when the judges said, 'Nos. 5 and 11,' at the final, and another chap named Fish and I had to sing our numbers over again so that they could finally pick the winner. And they chose me, and it still seems too good to be true. What do I do for a living? I'm a travelling salesman, though I'm not doing anything at present. I'm learning the saxophone, and my greatest ambition is to get on the films. I've just about got every Crosby record ever made."

In addition to winning the silver cup, Les. received an engagement for a week at the Trocadero (July 5 to July 10). At home, he has a mike rigged up, and he sings in one room, while in another the family gives criticism. But whether that proves helpful or not, Les. didn't say.

CHARLES, HIS PUDDING

HONOR to Charles Stanley! A listener to the 2CH Breakfast session has sent him a recipe for a "Good Morning Man" pudding which she has named after him. Mrs. C.S., of course, tried out the recipe, and it's a corker, according to Charles. So everybody's happy.

HOBBY

BETTY SUTTOR, B.S.A. star, numbers among her hobbies—collecting the labels of match boxes. She has over a hundred different brands already. Any listener who has returned from abroad and has a box of unusual type to spare, please send it along to Betty. She will much appreciate your kindness.

Organ broadcasts by Knight Barnett are a well-loved feature of the 2CH programmes.

THEY WRITE TO HIM

K NIGHT BARNETT, well-known organist, who is heard nightly on 2CH, can claim a record for fan mail. He is constantly receiving letters from "long distance" organ enthusiasts with addresses in New Guinea, North and Central Queensland, and New Zealand. And have you heard about the note he received from a member of the Canadian Royal North-west Mounted Police who, at the time of writing, was in Alaska, and explained he wasn't sure when Mr. Barnett would receive the letter, as it would have to be taken by dog-team for a fortnight's trip to the nearest post-office?

More recently, Mr. Barnett reports that he has received a letter from a New Zealand listener who not only praised recent programmes, but included a complete list of numbers Mr. Barnett played during a farewell season in Auckland and Dunedin-and that was years ago. "That chap has a better memory than I have," acknowledges the organist.

TWO LOVELY BLACK EYES

ALL sorts of rumors flew around the 2GB corridors, ranging from friction between two members of the staff to attempted robbery, when Leonard Bennett, of the B.S.A. Players, put in an appearance at the studio with a pair of black eyes. Under the guise of sympathy, the curious sought to learn how and why. But they met with small satisfaction. However, the most probable version seems to be that the taxi in which Mr. Bennett was travelling from the city collided with a tram-with resultant injury to Leonard's looks.

SI MEREDITH'S AFTERNOON

SI MEREDITH, announced an afternoon to be held at the Blaxland Galleries, and by the next af-ternoon 600 tickets had been sold. It's to be a "Serial" afternoon, we hear. Not that it is to continue indefinitely, but that Uncle Si is to demonstrate the actual process of serial-reading at the mike. Various other radio personalities will be going along, too. Proceeds are to help the Red Cross Home at Rams-

NEW GEORGE EDWARDS FEATURE

THE George Edwards players are off on yet another new serial, "The Duchess of Marlborough." 2UW, 8.30 every evening, Monday to Thursday. July 5 was the date of episode one. But there's an introduction to make it easy for you to pick up the threads, just in case you missed the opening scenes.

THE PSYCHOLOGIST'S NOTEBOOK

FOR those interested in human affairs, the whys and the wherefores, Richard Want, M.A., presents "The Psychologist's Notebook" from 2GB each Sunday afternoon at 2.30. In spite of the name, this is not a book review, Mr. Want works on no particular system, but browses around among current events, books, newspaper cuttings and examines and expounds them. Being an M.A. and a practising psychologist, Mr. Want should know what he is talking about. On Sunday, July 10, Richard Want has chosen for his subject the character and life of the great Russian dancer, Vaslav Nijinsky. The talk will be based on the life of Nijinsky and his wife, Romola Nijinsky, and Nijinsky's own diary, recently 'published. sky's own diary, recently 'published. After an examination of these two books, Mr. Want intends to venture an opinion on "Why did Nijinsky go mad?" Balletomanes, please note.

COLORFUL

ALLAN TOOHEY, 2UE early morning announcer, has a weakness for colored pullovers, and boasts of a collection of the following hues—green, maroon, navy, royal blue, grey, yellow, and, of course, cream. Maybe that attractive girl-friend of Allan's is an expert with the knitting needles? Or are listeners responsible?

GOLDFISH

2 UW have just discovered another weakness of J. M. Prentice. This time it is goldfish! A member of the staff brought a goldfish in to the studios the other day, en route to his luxurious pond at his home, and everywhere the goldfish went, Mr. Prentice was sure to go. In fact, he took such a liking to it that it was immediately called after him, and now that little goldfish is the proud owner of the name of "Uncle Jack."

OFF THE AIR

WE hear that the state of the Springboks in the recent match and the recent heavy weather was as nothing compared to the state of John Dunne and Dom. Harnett when that bright combination played and defeated Dick Fair and Fred Webber at golf. By a very narrow margin. Mud up to the ears would perhaps be the best description. But the victorious pair voted it well worth while. Now there's a return match being planned-and one way and another, half the staff has been inveigled into the discussion of who's chances are what.

GOOD-BYE TO FRANK WATANABE

ALL good things must come to an end, and on July 6,, 2GB listeners bade good-bye to Frank Watanabe, who, in company with William Hathaway, has entertained thousands of people with his drollery. Maybe some-time in the future we'll hear more of Frank.

The feature has been succeeded by "The Cafe Round the Corner," a B.S.A. production.

COLD FEET

ERN COLLIBEE, popular Sunday morning announcer at 2UW, is just another of those people who have developed colds through having wet feet, but Ern's wet feet came about in a most exciting way. When returning from a party the other night in his 14-horse-power, he heard fire engines rushing around the town. Of course, he followed them, found the fire, and stood for hours in the pouring rain watching the efficient firemen put it out. Erny may need something to cure his cold, but this event certainly cured him of chasing fire engines around

NEW JOHN DUNNE SHOW

WATCH out for July 28—a new John Dunne show with orchestra and guest artists. It's to be on the lines of Henry Hall's B.B.C. guest night, says Mr. Dunne, and al-ready 2SM are on their toes, listing likely folk to be booked up. It's a fair way ahead—and we'll be letting you have further details as soon as they're to hand.

LIKE FATHER

HENRY GREGORY, 2UW's Midnight to Dawn announcer, has been greatly perturbed about the wet week-ends. Henry tells us he never was a good fireside dweller, but he much prefers it to playing golf in the wind and rain, although he is a very enthusiastic golfer. Mr. Gregory, jun., is fast following in his father's footsteps as far as the sporting world goes; he has taken to the game very seriously and shows great skill.

) SOLVING the RADIO CIPHERS)

In the issue before last we gave the first article on radio ciphers. Here is an article dealing with the solution of those ciphers, explaining one way of approaching the problem.

THE very interesting hobby of solving cipher messages has no doubt puzzled many, and we hope that sufficient time has been given by our readers to puzzle out the two simple cipher examples for themselves.

Before commencing to describe how to go about the solution of these ciphers it is interesting to note what an important part in history the solution of ciphers and codes generally has played. It was the publicity given to the German code messages picked up by the Admiralty in respect to the plot to bring Mexico into the war that ultimately forced America to take decisive action to enter the war on the Allies' side. This and many other incidents of the Secret Service department of the British Admiralty is told in a book called 40 OB, by C. Hoy.

In the examples which we asked you to solve in our issue of June 25, we stated that these were simple substitutional messages; the first method of approaching these is to compile a list of frequencies or the number of times each letter it represents is repeated. To do this it is usual to list the alphabet and place a tick against each letter for each time it occurs in the message. If this is done for the first message it will soon be seen that the letter D predominates.

The order in which the most frequent letters appear in the English language is usually the following: E, T, A, O, N, I, R. Applying these to the message in question we find that the first three-lettered word ends in E, and the U is also a frequently recurring letter in this message. We, therefore, commence by assuming that the first three-lettered word is T-E. from this we can easily assume it to represent the word THE, which is the most frequent three-lettered word in the English language. Having placed these letters against similar letters in the message one can next turn to the two-lettered words UT and TG. As we have already assumed letter U represents T, UT may easily be the word TO. We have now placed the probability of four letters.

The next two-lettered word to which we can turn our attention would be the two-lettered word TG. If T in the message represents the letter O this word letter you are endeavoring to fit is one begins with O and might be some word such as ON or OF. It is only by trying and fitting together these words the solution of a message will become clear. The frequency table should always be referred to as a check to see that the

of those frequently appearing letters.

Another point to attack in this message, assuming the first three-lettered word represented, is the four-lettered word XDHD. Using these letters, from what we already have, this would be HE-E, from which we can readily assume HERE, and thus are ready to try a further letter.

The letter A being a frequent letter is the next one we should endeavor to place in the message in qustion. The letter S appears nine times. We could therefore endeavor to place this with the first short word beginning with this letter as SGQ. As G is also a frequent-appearing letter, having appeared eight times, this may be N, if so the word may be AND. There is a further four-lettered word appearing three times, the word IBFF. This is a four-lettered word ending with a double letter. The most frequent four-lettered word ending in a double letter is WILL. This is a rule well worth remembering as it takes a frequency from two tables, that of doubleletters and four-lettered words,

From here the message will soon begin to fall into place and the reader will finally assume some of the blanks in trying them upon other parts of the message, and can arrive at words the same way as words gradually fit in crossword puzzles.

FIRST SOLUTION:

THE ENEMY PLANES WILL REACH HERE TO-DAY AND WILL COM-MENCE TO ATTACK ON WEDNES-DAY. A FLEET OF TWENTY 'PLANES WILL BE USED.

In the second example given we have the frequent three-lettered word DIO appearing thus; again by reference to the frequency of the letters can be assumed to be THE.

The next word from this looks like being the word TO represented in the message by DE. If the word IGBB If the word IGBB represents WILL it helps us to place the words GF and GT as two-lettered words beginning with I and thus we are soon able to fill in words which are pos-sibly IS or IN. This four-lettered word IGBB, however, is not the word WILL, as the letter I cannot be W if it is already H as assumed in the threelettered word DIO. The same method is presumed in this message as in the last, endeavoring to place the letters E, T. A, O, N, I, R by their frequency and by trying for various compositions in the message, the final solution to which is:-

THE TRANSMITTER WHICH HAS BEEN SENDING SECRET REPORTS TO THE ENEMY IS LOCATED IN THE HOLLOW OVER THE SECOND HILL FROM THE TOWN.

We append the two tables of the frequencies of letters appearing in these two messages together with the letters E, T, A, O, N. I. R against each of the tables. You will see that they do not of a necessity always appear in that frequency but at least remain among the most frequent letters.

In next week's issue we hope to give some further radio ciphers, and further advice about the solving of these ciphers —a most interesting and fascinating pastime.

A POPULAR RADIO

TRAGIC DEATH OF H. M. H. WATTS

NLY close friends know a man's the Commission, to "Wireless Weekly" private preferences; yet most listeners sent sheaves of flowers to the funeral of the late H. M. H. to the funeral of the late H. M. H. Watts, because they knew he did not like wreaths: perhaps this is the most eloquent proof of the real friendship his enormous public felt for him; every listener to his morning sessions felt he was a personal friend; they knew all about him; and not only in letters to and other papers, but in private letters from the country to the city, he was mentioned as you would mention a favorite uncle, or brother, or next-door neighbor.

This was because he was always him-self; on the air or off the air, he had a vitality which burst continually into abrupt gaiety and devastating wit. The philosophy of life which his daily sessions expounded was welcome to all sorts and conditions of people because it was the philosophy of a soldier who had seen a great deal of the world, and who had done enough different kinds of work to furnish out ten men's lives; and it was a philosophy which had weathered the ruin and unemployment of the depression times. He was not the accepted type of humorist, morbid in private; he was as cheerfully casual off the air as he was in his morning sessions; never worried about his job: you took him or you left him, and that was all there was to it. It is very sad to think, that at 39, at the height of his success, the most popular radio personality in Australia, entertaining every day listeners in Queensland, New South Wales, Victoria and South Australia, and assured at last of financial security, he should have dropped off in a day.

H. M. H. Watts was born in London, educated at King's College (England). Went into the Army; and during the war was on active service in France, Egypt, Mesopotamia, Persia and India. In 1921 he left the Army, a captain in the regular Army reserve of officers. He took up rubber planting in the Malay States for two or three years; then went fruit-growing in Victoria on the Murray; sheep farming in New South Wales, and other jobs including driving taxis, etc. He wrote a great deal of verse, and published a little book of poems for chil-dren, "John's Scrapbook," first written bit by bit for his little son, and published in "The Sydney Morning Herald." It was often remarked, he looked very much like the English actor-manager, Tom Walls; and he had something of the same warm and easy-going humor in his make-up, which contributed to both their popularities.

He joined the Sydney studios of the Commission in 1935 as announcer; and although the Commission's policy has never encouraged much freedom in its announcers, his naturally casual per-sonality forced itself through the stereotyped announcements, and he rapidly gained an unmistakeable popularity, so that later, when it was decided to brighten up the morning sessions, he was chosen for the job, and succeeded so well that soon his session was being relayed to other States. A few months before he died, he introduced the physical culture session to which half Australia bent and squirmed in the mornings. His session was not the least. remarkable in that it was about the only one where the Commission's strict censorship was agreeably indiscernible; this was probably half because the Commission knew his taste could be trusted, and half because his unflagging and indomitable gaiety wore out their stock of blue pencils.

THE LATE H. M. H. WATTS.

ANNOUNCER PASSES

MANY TRIBUTES FROM LISTENERS

He was married and had two children, who sometimes read his verses in his Saturday morning sessions. The semi-military funeral blocked the traffic from one end of Oxford Street to the other; crowds had filed past the coffin in the funeral chapel all the morning; the service was crowded with representatives of the Army, all broadcasting studios and film studios, and with friends who had never met him, of every walk of life. After the funeral the flowers and wreaths were laid on the Cenotaph.

LOVE OF KIDDIES

"'Watto's' kiddies' five-minute 7.45 a.m. recordings were delightful. (As we said at our latest audition—Oh, take off that cynical stare)

If we "fluff" then some listener sneers, but have THEY got such vital careers?

Our glory will die in a year, of that we are fully aware, Criticise us as much as you can, that the programme is not worth a damn.

But do it yourself (if you can) and do it yourself if you dare.

-THE LATE H. M. H. WATTS.

REMEMBERED

MOTHER

"'Watto' never forgot mother. At 8.30 a.m. came the washing up music; father got his shaving music at 7.10 a.m., so the pace of father's shaving was a rhythmic flashing blade to the airs of Gilbert and Sullivan."

AN OLD PAL

"We are just an old couple and could not help a few tears this morning when listening to the tribute paid his memory over the air. We have only had our radio a few weeks, but in that short time his cheery voice was a stimulant for the day's duties of life."

"WATTO'S" MAXIM

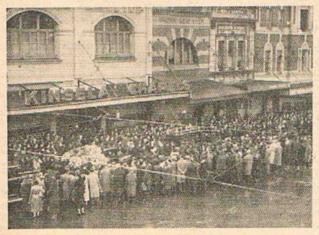

"If you make one person happy each day, seven days a week, in ten years you make 3650 happy." "Watto" told this to the kiddies over the air and he certainly lived up to the happy ideals he inculcated into the kiddies, also grownups, in his early morning programmes.

GREATLY MISSED

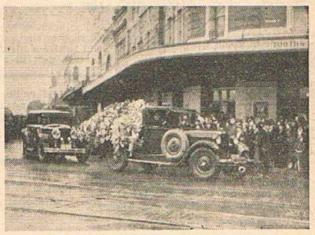

"His joyous air, personality and happy voice will be greatly missed in our home."

UNSEEN FRIEND

"I did not think it was possible to so like one whom you had never seen, but had only listened to, until I realised that Mr. Watts would never again conduct his session. I have no doubt I am not the only one, in fact, I suppose I am only one in thousands, but I feel that I must express my appreciation of this man who has done so much to brighten the breakfasts of many listeners."

FLORAL TRIBUTES FROM LISTENERS

ACROSS THE ATLANTIC

ranged by the C.B.S. was when Baron Aloisi, Italian delegate to the League of Nations, walked out of the Council Chamber at Geneva when the Abyssinian delegates took their seats, British diplomacy was somewhat shaken.

The news went round the world. It was an event of grave importance. What did it forecast?

Baron Aloisi had arranged to return to Italy by the midnight train, but at 11 p.m. he turned up in the Geneva studio, with his manuscript ready, prepared to carry out a promise to the C.B.S. man that he would tell America the reasons for walking out. America was waiting to hear him.

But at a few minutes to the hour the C.B.S. was informed that the British G.P.O. would not take the responsibility of allowing the use of their telephone lines to London for the transmission of the speech.

No amount of argument would shake the G.P.O. decision. America waited only a day, however. Baron Aloisi went immediately to Rome, where he was met by another C.B.S. man, and broadcast through an Italian station to America that night.

EDWARD VIII.

The British G.P.O. refused for some obscure reason of policy (it was as long ago as 1931) to permit Columbia the use of landlines to broadcast a speech which was being given by the then Prince of Wales at Glasgow. This would have been Edward's first broadcast to America, but for some reason the G.P.O. refused to handle it.

The C.B.S. man returned home very disappointed. An hour later he got a cablegram:—"Magnificent broadcast of Prince. How did you manage it?" It was then discovered that in the haste of the argument the G.P.O. auth-

LOOKING FOR TALENT

2SM's Quest Am .t Business Girls

RE you a singing salesgirl—a musical manicurist—a talented telephonist? Then, says John Dunne, a lucky break is coming to one of you. You can go about your job singing, "Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star," with the prospect of being able to do a little scintillating on our own account. It's this way

It's this way.

The Bing Crosby followers having crooned their way through Amateur Hour and one of them having carried off the special silver cup, the next idea is to let the musically inclined business girls of the city have the chance to prove their ability. On July 2 the first batch was heard. Register your applications, you blonde and brunette personality girls, and practice up your particular performance.

You'll get a kick out of trying for the prize even if you aren't the winner, and your friends will get a kick out of hearing "little Mollie Jones" (or whoever-you-are) taking her place at the microphone.

The Harmony Twins—Carmen Bowman and Rhana Medlyn—who you hear ever so often (and pretty often, too) on the 2SM programme, were business girls like you—one in the office of a leading store and the other a smart little salesgirl. Then 2SM discovered them and that was step No. 1 on a happy little climbing expedition.

The business girl who carries off the decision of the judges in Amateur Hour will receive a silver cup and—a contract to take part in 2SM productions.

Interviewed by "Wireless Weekly," Mr. Stuart Doyle stated that he intended to devote a great deal more attention to broadcasting in future, and intended to be actively engaged in building up the C.B.N. (Commonwealth Broadcasting Network) throughout Australia. He saw a greater future in broadcasting than even in the picture industry. He would make frequent visits abroad for the purpose of securing the latest radio developments for the Network. He believed this would tend to build up programme quality, which must benefit the listener.

orities had omitted to cancel the arrangements, and Edward's speech had gone over as though nothing had occurred.

The broadcasts of Edward, as King and as Prince of Wales, have always been the most popular overseas broadcasts in America. During the recent abdication crisis Columbia sent 158 regular and special news bulletins across the Atlantic, and 39 exclusive programmes presenting the viewpoints of famous Englishmen: Lord Ponsonby, Lord Birkenhead, Mr. John Drinkwater, Lord Lothian, Miss Ellen Wilkinson, Mr.

Wickham Steed, and other statesmen and journalists.

None of these broadcasts are heard in England, although most of them take place in the B.B.C. studios. Australians may ask why their national stations are not represented in a similar way by livewire reporters in London. One of the reasons, of course, is that the telephone circuit to Australia is not as satisfactory as the Atlantic circuit, and more expensive. Another is that money seems to be no object when the American broadcasters set out to get a "scoop." They think nothing of paying sums of £200 to prominent personalities for broadcasts to the United States.

tween and Me and Microphone

TRUTH AT LAST?

O many people have stopped me in the street and rang me up to congratulate me on the excellent page of the week before in which I was pictured as various personalities under the pretext that I was ill-

This morning a girl whose name I did not catch rang me up and congratulated me on the excellence of the paper since I had been editing it.

I said, "But I'm not editing it; Mr. Hull is editing it while Mr. Blunden is away."

She said, "Oh, I thought you were editing it; anyhow, you're James, aren't you?"

"Yes, I'm James."

"I always read it; the one in last week's, where you were pretending to be away sick, I enjoyed that im-mensely."

"But I didn't write it." "You didn't write it?"

"Didn't you see, it was signed

"Yes, but I thought-I seem to be putting my foot in it, don't I?"

"Yes, you do."

I could hear her hesitating about at the other end; and then she rang off. I felt terribly sorry for her, bungling things like that; but I couldn't think of anything to say on the spur of the moment, and she had rung off before I knew what to say; before even I could ask who it was; but I do hope she won't be offended or what not; it sounded a very nice voice.

I wish for her sake I had written the rotten thing; but it was not I-I have got a terrible bad reputation in this city for lying; and it is true that, given plenty of time to think things out. I can lie more convincingly than a foreign affairs expert, a dining-room clock, a shareholders' balance sheet, an advertisement of apartments vacant, a co-respondent in divorce, a weather forecast, a butcher, a clergyman at a burial service. a ear salesman, or a wife; and I have only to say on this page that matters were so and so, and everyone takes it for granted that matters, instead of being so and so, were really thus and thus; sometimes this causes me a certain feeling of pride and satisfaction; I say to myself: They see a great deal, but they can never be quite certain that they see everything; other times I feel sad; people won't believe me; I bet, no matter what I say, all except one of my readers will think I invented the above telephone conversation.

On the other hand, it gives me credit for powers of imagination I haven't got, and this is all to the good on pay day; although I feel a bit like sailing under false colors; and a good deal perplexed when, as I complained some years ago, some-one comes up and congratulates me on some writing, saying, "I always know your writing, even when it's unsigned; I know your style"; and about every time they say this, it is something I have not written; so just to prove it in this case, the piece describing various versions of my appearance was by our Mr. John Moyle. whose name you will seee on the inpage as Assistant Technical Editor.

Mr. Moyle, who is a pretty good writer, which is obvious, because he was mistaken for me, used to admire dedicate this space to "Suwanee," the Friday night, 2FC, Stephen Foster session, Every time I get a story from Mr. Russell Scott, the A.B.C. Variety producer, either it doesn't get written, or it gets forced, like last week's notice of "Suwanee," into back pages; so please listen to this session, which tells how each plantation song was written.

Yours etc., J.

my writings in Melbourne: but he thinks they have fallen off very badly these days; he can't see anything funny in them now, but he will talk to me for fifteen minutes at a time on the hilarious excellence of a drunk piece I did years ago:

He wears boots and carries an umbrella.

He tinkers round with radio sets and gramophone reproducifiers.

He organises clubs to listen to new records on his special reproducifiers. He analyses the excellences of . Schnabel, Rachmaninoff, and Horowitz, and makes me feel small.

He lives up the North Shore line.

He has no taste in ties.

He went to a Melbourne Great Public School.

I never liked his shirts, either; but I shall say no more, except that this really was the man who wrote the article describing my various appearances, and not me at all, and that the article was supposed to give four versions, one how he thought of me, one how Mr. Hull thought of me, one how Miss Grace thought of me, and one how Mr. Jeacocke, our advertising manager, thought of me; so just out of feeling nice, I picked out which was Miss Grace's, and he said "No: can't you see? This part is how I think Miss Grace thinks of you, and this part is how I think Mr. Hull thinks of you"-I had got it all wrong; so I suppose this excuses others from thinking they know my style.

But that poor girl; I feel sorry about that conversation; I feel I have acted badly, and not up to expectations; I am always letting girls down, and that is why I never go to dances or places where I might meet a lot of people. E.g., Miss Grace said to me, why didn't you get some evening dress and go to the radio ball, and others said to me, why don't you go to the Commission's staff ball? And others said to me, I didn't see you at the Microphone Club Ball—you're supposed to be the life of the party; why don't you go out and do your

So I said to Miss Grace in confidence what I now tell you in confidence: You know, I have spent ten years building myself up as a character, and a real bad character, a positive rip, a squire of dames, the answer to the maidens' prayer, the Countess of Westmoreland's Delight (I didn't invent this; it is the name of an old harpsichord minuet), a sayer of shocking things, a doer of unimaginably delightful wickednesses; and in the building up of this reputation. I have been pushed out of print sometimes, inveighed against by mothers-of-eight; and-suppose I go to a big dance, what will happen?

I said to Miss Grace-

Miss Grace, who is easily taken in by appearances, widened her eyes at the thought of the disgraceful doings that would be done.

I said. It will be the same as always it has been when I have gone to dances; girls will sit out a dance with me, and will come back whispering to other girls; other girls will sit out a dance with me, and the whispering will grow; soon everyone will know that the Great, the Unspeakable James is no more than a Country Bumpkin, a flour-faced booby, a twaddler with words, an overrated sham, a taker-of-no-for-an-answer. a jitterer, a waster-of-valuable-time: I have seen the faces, Miss Grace.

I said

I have seen the faces drawn with unutterable scorn, and the mouths twisting as we came out of the dark alley and biting off, "Well, thanks for protecting me so well," or coming into the lighted halls, "Thank you for sitting out with me." or worse, worse, worse than anything,

Miss Grace.

The acceptance of one as An Old Dear, or worse, worse than worst, A Perfect Little Gentleman - do you blame me for avoiding dances?

"Nonsense." Miss Grace said: "I don't believe a word of it."

"THE LADY FROM ALFAQUEQUE"

A Play by SERAFIN AND JOAQUIN ALVEREZ QUINTERO. English Version by Helen and Harley Granville-Barker.

Adapted for Radio by LESLIE CLARKE REES

"The Lady from Alfaqueque" is one of the better-known comedies of the Quintero Brothers, whose pictures of middle-class Spanish life have whimsically, humanness, humor, and atmospheric charm. Most of us have a soft spot for the town which bred us—especially when we have left it—and are prepared to condone the faults of that town, to give special welcome to people who arrive from it, even when they least deserve it. About this pleasant human weakness the Quinteros have written "The Lady from Alfaqueque."

CHARACTERS:

FERNANDIFA, the Lady from Alfaqueque, DON PASCUAL, her Husband, a Business Man. REALITO, a New Arrival from Alfaqueque, BLANCO, a Beautiful Young Woman living in Pernandita's

nat.

NICOLAS, her Finnee.

NOBLEJAS, a very polite gentleman.

FELIPE, a Young Poet.

ROSITA, a "Hanger-on,"

ALBERTA, a Servant.

ALBERTA, a Servant.
ADORACTION, a Woman Maker of Confectionery.

Production: CHARLES WHEELER.

2BL 4.0 THE WINTER'S TALE

By WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE

By WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE

Polixenes, King of Bohemia, has been paying a lengthy visit to his friend, Leonies, King of Sicilia. Pailing to persuade him to prolong his stay, Leonies urges his Queen, Hermione, to prevail upon Polixenes. Hermione succeeds in doing so. Hereupon, Leonies becomes insancly jealous and plots with his old servant, Camillo, to poison Polixenes. Camillo informs Polixenes and decides to flee from his master's wrath and serve Polixenes. When Leonies learns of this, his jealousy increases, and he determines to wreak his vengeance upon his wife. Hermione. He accuses her of infidelity and casts her into prison, where a child is born. Leonies orders her trial on a charge of adultery and conspiracy. While Hermione is defending herself with wifely dignity, word is brought that her young son, Mamillius, has died. Hermione collapses and is carried from the court. Later, Paullins, her friend, brings tidings that Hermione is dead. Heaping reproaches on Leonies, she presents him with the newly-born infant. Leonies, in a mad rage, orders one of his Lords. Antigonius, to take the child away, and, without mercy, abandon ft.

A period of sixteen years elapses. Leonies, having discovered how wrong he has been, gives away to remorse and mourns the loss of those he so dearly loved. The abandoned child has been found by an old shepherd, who cares for her and adopts her as his daughter, whom he calls Perdita, and the child grows to be a beautiful young woman. Hermione, who, of course, has not really died, is cared for secretily by Paulina; who, by a clever ruse, eventually brings about the reconciliation of Leontes and Hermione. With the remoin of Leontes and Hermione. With the remoine and polixenes this romantic comedy by Shakespeare ends amid general rejoicing.

An Australian Saga

Written for radio by EDMUND BARCLAY Incidental Music specially arranged by HOWARD CARR

EPISODE THE TWENTY-EIGHTH: NEARING TO-DAY

We are nearing the end of our saga, and in the twins, Martha and the Fifth Gilbert, we meet a generation which is alive and active to-day. Brighter days are dawning for Broadacres—a new spirit permeates the place—or it is not so much new as the revival of an old one.

CHARACTERS:

GILBERT III., Farmer, of Broadacres, GRACE, his Wife. MARTHA, his Granddaughter. GILBERT FIFTH, his Grandson. JIMMY BENTON, a Neighbor. Production: LAWRENCE H. CECIL.

2FC 8.0 THE FAITHFUL

A tragedy by JOHN MASEFIELD. Adapted by MAX AFFORD

THE CHARACTERS:

THE CHARACTERS:

ASANO, a Japanese Nobleman.
KURANO, his Counsellor.
CHIKAKA, Kurano's Son.
HAZAMA, Head Man of Asano's Workmen.
KIRA. a Japanese Overlord.
SAGISAKA, his Counsellor.
KAMEI, a Japanese Nobleman.
THE EMPEROR'S ENVOY.
WILD CHERRY, a Woman of the Court.
CAPTAIN OF THE GUARD.
SHODA, Minister from the Envoy.
ONO. Servant to Kira.
STARBLOSSOM, Woman of the Court.
A HERALD.
Voices of the Ronin.
For sheer austere beauty of phrase and powerful situation. The Patithful takes its place among the most moving tragedles in the English language. John Masefield has taken the old Japanese legend of the seven Ronin and, using this as a theme, has built around it the story of the Nobleman Kurano's relentless vendetta against the cruel Lord Kira, murderer of Kurano's friend, Assno.
Production: DION WHEELER.

MAX AFFORD

THE THIRTEENTH EPISODE: THE OWL UNMASKED

THE CHARACTERS

SIR ANTHONY ATHERTON-WAYNE, CHIEF INSPECTOR WILLIAM READ, JEFFERY BLACKBURN, ELIZABETH BLAIRE, ANDREW MONK, MRS. TAMWORTH, ARMSTRONG.

Following the destruction of Blaire's cottage, and the tragedy that accompanied it. Sir Anthony makes a discovery that eventually allows Blackburn to prepare the final trap-for the mysterious Owl. Will the criminal walk into the snare? Who was it that crept into the darkened library . . and when Jeffery dragged the mask from the face, whose features were revealed? This exciting chapter ushers in the close of this unusual serial.

Production: CHARLES WHEELER.

2BL 8.0 BULLDOG DRUMMOND

Adapted from SAPPER'S Play and Novel by JACK INGLIS

Captain Hugh Drummond—"Bulldeg Drummond"—Inding peace incredibly tedious and destrous of diversion, advertises that his services are available to anyone requiring assistance. He expresses his willingness to probe into the difficulties of persons and solving any crime; with the proviso that excitement is essential.

He is intrigued with one reply which he receives, and on consenting to aid the writer he plunges himself into not only romance, but excitement galore.

THE INVERSED REINARTZ

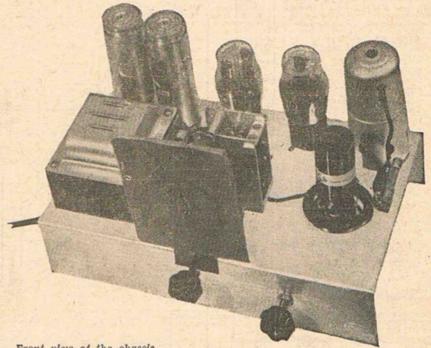

Provided that you realise its limitations this cheap little all-electric receiver will give you performance out of all proportion to its low cost

HE great success of our recent technical articles dealing with simpler types of sets has brought us to consider the modernising of some of the old-time circuits. After building up a simple three-valve circuit, using modern valves and applying inverse feed-back, we hasten to publish the details for the benefit of our readers. Sets of this kind have their limitations, but in competent hands they can give results out of all proportion to their cost.

The set is extremely simple to build, the original chassis going together (including the drilling of all the base holes) in just two and a half hours from the time the parts were unpacked until the speaker was pushing out a wide-range recording from 2GB with just as much punch and a good deal better quality than the average 30-guinea receiver. Of course that doesn't tell the whole story, for although the majority of the local stations came through well, there were a couple which could only be played by careful adjustment of tuning and reaction controls, and overlapping was only avoided by cutting the aerial to a fairly short length—20ft. in our particular location.

We only recommend the set for enthusiasts-those who are prepared to handle the reaction control intelligently and to those who appreciate that a set of this kind cannot give them everything in the way of sensitivity and selectivity.

It is also to be strongly recommended for use in up-country towns where it is desired to play only the local broadcasting station.

Front view of the chassis.

THE REINARTZ CIRCUIT

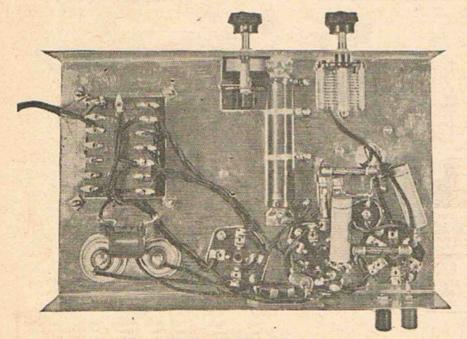

The question, "What is a Reinartz circuit?" will just about stump anybody. When in the United States last year our Technical Editor met John L. Reinartz, after whom all so-called "Reinartz" circuits have been named, but John was quite unable to understand why any particular circuit had been called a Reinartz, and he was quite unable to answer the above question. By general acceptance it seems to be taken for granted that any set using a single tuning circuit and employing reaction can be called a Reinartz. So let's be in the svim and call this set an "Inversed Reinartz." It will work just the same under any other name.

THE CIRCUIT

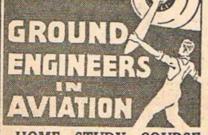

The circuit used is simply a screen-grid detector, resistance coupled to a pentode output valve with 10 per cent. inverse feedback to cancel out distortion. The detector is used in a circuit arrangement which allows an actual gain of approximately 100 to be obtained, and the use of reaction further adds to the effective gain.

THE PARTS

The parts used are all stock lines, readily available from all radio dealers. and what is more important, practically all the parts are equally suitable for larger receivers, and if the builder of this job decides on something more ambitious at a later date he will find that the only parts to be discarded are a few shillings' worth, and that a bigger receiver can be built up by buying the few extras required. It is on this ac-"Inversed Reinartz" count that the should especially appeal to those readers who want to get started in the radio hobby. This is a simple little job to build, and having built it you will obtain sufficient confidence to re-build it to the "Inversed Four" or some more elaborate ated after the style of an ordinary volume control, except that it will be found that if it is advanced too far the set will go into oscillation-squealing or choking up. THE RECEIVER MUST NOT BE OPERATED IN THIS CONDITION. Greatest sensitivity and selectivity are attained with the reaction control set back just a shade from the oscillating While adjusting the reaction control it is desirable to carry out this operation whilst using the other hand to rock the station selector control over the station which is being received, for it may be found that the reaction control is also linked with the tuning control and varying the reaction may tend to put the station selector control off the station a trifle. Once the right style is adopted it will be found easy enough to master the art and proper use of reaction can make a three-valve set work like a big job, the actual performance of a regenerative detector has never been measured, we believe.

WHAT TO EXPECT

To give you some idea of what a set of this type can do we would say that it will play all the eight locals in the Sydney suburbs which are at least two miles from a powerful transmitting station. This definitely rules out suburbs such as Epping, Coogee, and Cronulla.

In any of the favorable Melbourne suburbs results should be excellent, also at Newcastle (provided the Sydney stations are not expected) and, of course, in all country towns where only the local is required the set can be considered

ideal

As a gramophone amplifier the job is truly wonderful, but in order to have correct bias for the detector it becomes necessary to add a resistor and a bypass condenser. Instructions for doing this will probably appear in a later issue, or anyone wanting the information can obtain it from our Radio Information Service.

Name

The original edition of this book will be remembered as Drake's Radio Cyclopedia, but the many rapid changes in the field of radio and its expansion into new fields, such as sound pictures, public address work, television, and photo cells application, all of which have the one element common to radio, that is, the electronic or vacuum tube. made it necessary to use a really inclusive name, and that is why the present edition is called Drake's Cyclopedia of Radio and Electronios.

Treatment of the various subjects has been made simple and elementary so that no special electrical or mathematical training is necessary to understand the book. The practice of writing out the many formulas has been retained from the former edition and each subject has been gone into at a length proportionally to its practical and concrete applica-tions. For readers who retions. quire reference data rather than general instruction, a single alphabetical arrange-ment of all subjects has been used. By means of a complete cross-reference for each article as well as the regular alphabetical order, the reader can follow any line of investigation to any desired extent, without waste of time or effort. Illustrations and diagrams have been used diagrams have been used liberally throughout the edi-tion. Altogether it contains 1200 pictures and diagrams, all of which were specially prepared for this work. All material used in the book has been checked against definite sources and wherever possible has been verified by experiments.

Drake's Cyclopedia of Radio Electronics contains and complete illustrated information on more than fifty equally important subjects such as, Audio Oscillators, Aviation, Radio, Balancing, Band Selector Circuits, Biasing Resistors, Broadcasting, Crystal Frequency Control, Decibels, Direct Current Amplifiers. Distortion, Electrolytic Condensers, Frequency Meters, Grid-glow Tubes, Impedance Matching, Interference Elimination, Ionization, Loud Speakers, Microphones, Modulation, Oscillation, Phonograph Pickups Photoconduc-Cells. for improved performance and greater economy

TAKING HUM FROM THE QUALITY FIRST,

N our issue of May 28 we described a t.r.f. type of receiver which was designed to give exceptional fidelity of reproduction, yet at fairly low cost. The article concluded by mentioning that we would later give a further article to deal with hum trouble if encountered. With any good set which is really capable of reproducing low notes there is always the chance of hum, whilst true fidelity can only be appreciated when it stands out on a background of dead silence.

But although a number of these sets were built and favorably reported upon we did not get any complaints about hum until one day last week when the following letter arrived from Tom Parramore, of the Sydney Recorded Music Society, who had built his first radio receiver, one of these sets. Here is what the letter said-

"Dear Mr. Hull,-I am listening to reproduction from the 'Quality First,' and as you said you would be interested to hear my reactions to the set here goes.

"The speaker, a Rola K12, is mounted on a thick 4-foot baffle and the room is a comparatively small one; the first thing that strikes one is the pronounced hum. I hold that a quality set should be dead quiet as far as this is concerned and I will look forward to reading in 'Wireless Weekly' how far this is possible with this circuit and how to go about it.

'On radio the balance between low and high notes seems O.K. to me, but with a Crystal Pick-up the bass is much too heavy. A 250,000 ohm pot instead of the ,5 meg across the pick-up would help to correct this. Would this affect the circuit adversely in other ways? variable bass attenuator would be useful.

Could this be managed without difficulty?

"Now for the real delight in listening to this set, the 'highs.' It is not so much the very high frequencies because broadcasting stations don't give them to us, and the speaker would not reproduce them if they did, but it is the general quality, especially noticeable in the strings. I don't hear that hard, shrill tone that usually passes for "highfidelity" reproduction of say a solo What one hears is a closer approximation to the 'purring gut' of the actual instrument in the hands of a real musician. I take it that this is due to the low impedance output valve.

"I get a certain amount of that detestable hard string tone with my 'highfidelity' amplifier, so am looking forward to hearing something about the new amplifier using 2A3's that I've heard rumors of.

"Anyhow, get rid of the hum mentloned and the 'Quality First' will be a remarkably good set. One would be prepared to sacrifice a little punch if necessary as there seems enough to fill a dance hall at present.

"With best wishes for the continued success of 'Wireless Weekly,'

I am. Yours faithfully. TOM PARRAMORE."

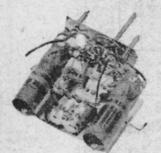

So knowing that an article dealing with actual experiences in ridding hum from a home-built version of this receiver would be more acceptable to readers than a theoretical discussion on the subject, we rang up Tom and asked him to bring in the chassis and let us work on it.

On the bench it immediately became noticeable that there was a hum, and quite a merry one, too. So we started to check voltages and everything appeared fairly normal, but the output valve was biassed a bit high. Using the multi-meter from last week's issue, we started on measuring resistance and found the 600-ohm resistor was actually nearer 750, so we put another in shunt and brought it down to 500 ohms, which worked out just nicely in this case; 600 is also O.K. but higher values than this tend to make the job a little harsh.

But still the hum persisted and so we next checked the centre-tapped resistor across the filaments of the output valve and spotted the fault at once. Onehalf of this resistor was open circuited, the resistance wire having broken away from the terminal in the middle. A new resistor was fitted and away went the bulk of the hum, the residue being about the normal level to be heard in the average commercial receiver. When playing a station at fair volume, the hum was inaudible, but when tuned off stations and running on the big baffle board, the hum was quite noticeable. So we looked around for further trouble and found that Tom had forgotten to watch the polarity of the electrolytic by-pass for the cathode resistor of the 6C6. One end is red and the other black and these should be connected with red to positive-the cathode, and the black end earthed. We didn't mention this in the original article and it was a mistake easy enough to make. So we put in a new one in case the old was damaged by the reversing of the polarity and then the set was indeed fine, but still a little hum. So we fished out some chokes and condensers and muddled around, but the hum persisted, until finally we found that the additon of a filter choke and extra filter condenser stopped all the hum, BUT ONLY WHEN THE SECOND FILTER CON-DENSER RETURNED TO THE TRANS-FORMER CENTRE-TAP. Why this should be so we still can't imagine. Normally the negative of the second and third filters would go to earth, with the first running to the centre-tap, but in the case on hand the solution was otherwise. Anyway, the extra choke and filter condenser entirely stopped the hum and, big baffle board and all, there was little chance of telling whether the set was switched on or off, until you started to play stations. And that set could play them, too; in fact, we had almost forgotten just how good that original "Quality First" could be. If anyone wants cleaner, clearer fidelity we'd be surprised. We can imagine that lots of people who are used to ordinary radio sets would think the reproduction terrible-but when you get used to this type of true fidelity, it gets right under your skin, and, although we've spent many hours in listening, we got quite a kick out of playing this set and just sitting down in front of it and tuning from one station to another in search of decent transmissions.

Fortunately the technique of 2UE has improved out of all recognition in recent months, as was clearly demonstrated on this set. Some of the recordings put over from this station left little to be desired and, of course, there were plenty of wide range, and diamond-point stuff from 2GB and 2UW, with quite fair microphone transmissions from 2BL and

But to get back to hum and its elimination, we advise those who build up the "Quality First" to use a fairly big base in case they desire to add the extra electrolytic condenser and the choke at a later date. For the choke, it is desirable to get a fairly heavy choke with a nominal rating of 30 henries at 150 ma., which actually means a true inductance of about 10 henries in practice. We suggest that in all cases the electrolytic condenser be mounted in an insulated manner, and a negative wire attached and then tested with this negative wire earthed, and then across to the centre-tap, and the hum should vanish with one connection or the other.

USING IRON-CORED COILS

Iron-cored tuning coils are ideal for this set and were used in Parramore's job, but it should be noted that the idea of trimming the coils by adjusting the core screw doesn't work out in practice and you want a gang condenser with normal trimmers and adjust on these.

With the iron-cored colls the sensitivity is quite good, quite sufficient to give plenty of distance, except that the lack of selectivity means interference trouble. But for a set to play the local stations and to give you everything that they can send out, we cannot suggest anything which is a better proposition than the "Quality First." It costs no more but gives reproduction entirely different from the ordinary run of sets.

SYDNEY TO NEWCASTLE ON 5MX

Ham Notes by W. M. Moore (VK2HZ)

THE outcome of the W.I.A. U.H.F. tests on June 27 was quite successful, and a contact was made between Sydney and Newcastle, a distance of some 68 miles. Nothing so far has been heard from either castle, a distance of some 68 miles. Nothing so far has been heard from either Queensland or New Zealand, who were co-operating, but possibly word from them will arrive within the next few days.

The Sydney-Newcastle contact was between Stations VK2NO. Bronte, VK2ZO, Newcastle, firstly at 3 p.m., and later a more satisfactory contact at $\tilde{P}$ p.m. It can be presumed from the result of these tests that it is only, a matter of time before a successful permanent U.H.P. link is made between the two cities.

The use of highly directive antennaes, higher power, and superfiet. receivers have all improved the position, and a suitable combination of these should bring about the ultimate result. Both 2ZO and 2NO are to be congratulated on their efforts; together with those that assisted, and their feat only proves that amaters will overcome what is apparently the impossible in radio.

The U.H.P. section of the institute has defilitely proved its worth, and it was only by their organisation that test was arranged. At Port Kembia only 2NO, Sydney, was heard, but no sign of Newcastle. VK2NA, VK2JE, VK2YI, and VK2HZ were all at Port Kembia VK2YI, vK2MR, VK2JE, VK2YI, and VK2HZ were all at Port Kembia VK2RA, operating his portable gear on 20, 40, and 80mx, contacted 2ZO, Newcastle, on 40mx, making schedules for 5mx transmission during the attennoon. However, these tests did not prove satisfactory.

The transmitter of the combined effort of 2EL and 2VN consisted of 6A6, driving push-pull 802's, driving a 6L6 driving push-pull 802's as a final on 5mx on 56,338 kc. using 60 watts input. The antenna comprised two vertical half waves arranged in a broadside array erection on 30ft, pole. The antenna could be rotated, and was later turned on New Zealand, VK2NO used push-pull 85's in the final from his home location at Bronte and a vertical H array. VK2ZO at Newcastle also used an H array. The transmitter, consisting of long line oscillator using 800's, driving push-pull 800's, modulated by class AB 6LB's.

authorities.

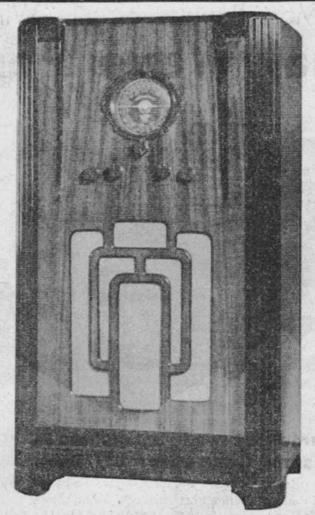

This action is with a view to getting Australia's support to several of the proposals.

To forceast the possible result of the deliberations at this stage would be impossible, but it looks as if European countries will experience difficulty in holding her allocations on the lower frequency bands, i.e., 1.7 and 3.5 mc.

The tendency over there is to utilise these frequencies for small ships and an aeroplane radio. To offset this, however, will be the strong support of the U.S.A. delegates for the retaining of these bands, as they are used extensively in the States for emergency and naval network communication.

At the present stage several European countries only allow their amateurs to use small portions of these bands, whereas in Australia it is entirely amateur.

Short-Wave Notes by R. N. Shaw

UTCH GOODWILL ET'S be friends although we don't know each other." Such were the appealing sentiments given BROADCASTS know each other." Such were the appealing sentiments given voice to by the announcer at the Dutch station, PCJ, one evening recently. In broadcasts we have been privileged to make to German and American stations, as well as in these notes, we have endeavored to stress the value of short-wave radio as a dispenser of goodwill amongst the nations of the earth, contending that it has no equal as a channel for the promotion of that spirit of cameraderie which is so necessary for the ensuring of peace and goodwill amongst the peoples of all tongues. If there is one station which has been conspicuously consistent in preaching this sentiment it is that of Philips Radio at Eindhoven, Holland. This station (PCJ) recently celebrated its tenth an-niversary, and ever since PCJ commenced its famous English sessions 10 years ago, its programmes have radiated happiness and goodwill. Older listeners will easily recollect the fine, breezy greetings sent out by the English announcer night after night. Some little while ago a special broadcast was introduced for Australia and New Zealand, and this is still a feature every Tuesday between 7.30 and 9 p.m. For this session another popular announcer, Mr. L. G. Wybrands, has been appointed and he is of the same happy and appealing disposition. This week we received a lengthy and interesting communication from Mr. Wybrands, who states that he is receiving many letters from Australians and New Zealanders, to whom he wishes us to convey his best thanks for the kindly sentiments expressed. He assures them of his lasting friendly feelings towards our country. As he said in a recent broadcast: "You have winter and we have sum-mer. You have evening whilst we have morning. But from the moment our happy waves go to your country this distance melts away. Let us be friends although we don't know each other." And, adds our friend, "That is the happy station spirit. Peace amongst nations and people and mutual understanding." Some time ago we mentioned that reports to PCJ should now be addressed to Hilversum, Holland, and not to the original location, Eindhoven. Mr. Wybrands says that most of Australian reports are still being sent to the latter and asks us to again mention the correct address.

THE MANILA STATIONS

Just as they were gathering a large field of listeners in Australia the Manila stations, which recently made their appearance with so much ado, appear to have disappeared as suddenly as they came. For some time they had been heard each evening on both 31 and 25 metres, but last week we could not find a trace of either. Writing on June 24, Mr. b. J. Keast (Randwick) referred to the excellence of Manila on 25.33 metres, but this week he failed to find it on that or the 31 metres band. It is just possible that the stations were carrying out a series and will be heard again in permanent schedules ere long. Doubtless every listener in Australia will devoutly hope that they do, for Manila promised much entertainment for us during the winter months.

Mr. E. M. H. Potter (Kandos) also reports hearing KZRM on the 31 band and remarks that what he heard was the harmonic of KZRM on 28.8 metres as well. This would not be an harmonic, but is what is termed "double spotting" in the receiver. Harmonics can be obtained only on the half, quarter, etc., of the fundamental wavelength. Our contributor appears to be having the same experience with ZBW (31.49), which he hears excellently on 28.9 metres. This is certainly "double spotting."

Mr. Athol Steam (Temora) mentions excellent reception on KZRM, the wavelength of which he says had been changed for a time to 25.28 metres. It would certainly appear from all the reports that Manila has been endeavoring to find a suitable frequency for regular broadcasts.

Away in the far north at Charters Towers (Q.), Dr. K. B. Gaden also reports KZRM on 25.33 metres, with announcements by an American at 9 p.m. American and Manila news was heard just before 9 p.m., when the announcer mentioned that Manila was reported heard splendidly in San Francisco. Dr. Gaden states that the station was also heard in the afternoons, when it was much weaker. It was heard just above the French station, TPA3.

Still another report comes from Mr. W. M. Chapman (Moore Park), who logged Manila on 25.3 metres as early as 7.30 p.m. with a very fine signal. Mr. Chapman says he would prefer Manila on that band, an expression heartily supported by all listeners on account of the congestion at present existing on the 31 band, where half a dozen strong stations appear nightly between 31.5 and 31.28 metres.

AROUND THE STATIONS

Listeners who have the opportunity might check up on the Czech. station schedule, which now provides for a broadcast by OLR5A on 19.70 metres between 10 a.m. and 12.30 p.m. on Tuesday and Friday. The other Czech. station, OLR4A, on 25.34 metres, is scheduled for 5.30 to 7.30 a.m. daily, with news in English at 7 a.m. The latter station is now providing a fine signal around 7 a.m.

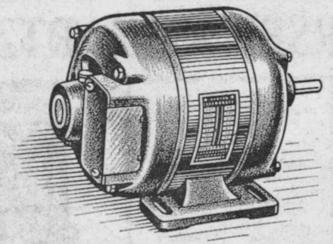

Moscow (RNE 25.0) has weakened very considerably in the 9 to 10 p.m. English sessions on Sunday and Wednesday, but is excellent in similar sessions between 7 and 8 a.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, when listeners can be assured of some candid talks at times on such subjects as the Spanish war. English news is also given, but the time varies between 7.20 and 8 a.m. Another fine Russian station these evenings is RW15, up on 70 metres. W. M. Chapman (Moore Park) finds RW15 putting out a wonderful signal in his locality.

The Spanish stations, EAQ (30.4) and EAQ2 (31.65), are very active in the mornings and are also reported by Messrs. L. J. Keast and W. M. Chapman. Mr. Keast refers to the intolerable interference operating on EAQ's frequency, making listening almost useless at times. As he says it can be best described as that of a "tremendous" dynamo. It would be interesting to know just whence comes this interference. The forces opposed to the Spanish Government might be able to afford an explanation! Mr. Chapman reports that he notices great activity amongst Spanish amateurs on the 20 metres band.

Another item of interest, says Mr. L. J. Keast (Randwick), is the return of YDB (Java) to its old wavelength of 31.09 metres. We referred to this station last week when it was testing around 31 metres, but it now appears to have settled down on 31.09 metres, where it is providing a maximum signal. We have also heard it at the same time on 31.3 metres. It covers the same programme as YDA (98.6), PLP (27.2), PMN (29.2) and YDC (19.8), all of which are still excellent every night, with the exception of YDC, which fades out towards 10 p.m. Higher up PMY (58.3), another Java station, can be heard well after 9.40 p.m.

The South Americans have been rather spasmodic this week in their evening sessions, rather the rector's egg, "good in patches!" Mr. Keast, referring to COCQ (30.77), says he does not think they are yet using the proposed greatly increased power, as at 10 p.m. strength is only as usual. It is possible that winter conditions may affect strength of signals from these stations. Stations such as HJ1ABE and HJ1ABP, on the 31 band, were generally very weak at 10 p.m.

One of the most enthusiastic of listeners is Dr. K. B. Gaden, an ex-Lismoreite, who is now up in the Gulf country of Queensland, and at Charters Towers, where he remained for a time, he managed to operate a battery receiver with good results. He finds PCJ (19.7) weak at 7.30 p.m. and stronger at 11 p.m., but not really good. The best 19 station is GSO, apart from the Moscow radiophone, which is very strong and clear. After 11 p.m. he logged no fewer than 10 stations on the 19 band, whilst in the mornings the 25 band is the better, with RNE the stronger, with OLR4A next, but after 7.30 a.m. GSO (19.76) is the best on the air until DJQ (19.6) opens towards 8 o'clock. excellent just now right through the forenoon session. In the afternoons there is little to choose between GSO, DJL, DJB and DJQ on 19 metres.

From 9.30 a.m. TPA4 (25.6) is now good, followed on 25 metres by GSD and DJD, but these are not nearly equal to the 19 metres group. Afternoon GSF (19.8) now improves and at 3.30 p.m. COCQ (30.77) can be heard, improving till closing at 4 p.m., when TPA3 (25.23) opens very strongly in its new schedule, and is really stronger than GSD.

On the 31 band in mornings conditions are not the best, the best being GSB, W2XAF and 2RO.

Dr. Gaden reports at night COCH, HJ1ABE and COCQ as good, as was one just below 9MI (49.9). The latter was much weaker than usual. He also hears stations on 35 and 41 metres with good programmes.

Listeners might look for Moscow (RNE 25.0), which now opens at about 12.15 p.m., but is weak until about 1 p.m., when it soon reaches a maximum signal,

Mr. L. J. Keast (Randwick) epitomises conditions, quoting GSG (16.8) as good at 8 a.m., RNE (25.0) excellent at 8.27. CSW (27.17) only fair, W3XAU (31.2) very faint at 8.54, YDC (19.8) clear and loud at 9 a.m. (when YDC opens), GSO (19.7) excellent in Hon. H. T. Armstrong's address at 10.7, and RKI (19.95) fair in talk. On Sunday mornings at 7 RNE was splendid, TPA3 good, OLR4A splendid, and EAQ (30.43) fairly good. At 7.30 a.m. CT1AA was good and at 7.55 a.m. a station was heard on approximately 29 metres, which appeared to be giving a church service. Later news was given, language apparently Spanish. This would probably be EAJ43, of the Canary Islands.

READERS' QUERIES

H.V.W. (Pinnaroo) has the "World Wide" enverter, which gives good results except in two respects.

A.—The shift in frequency with the shift in the power supply voltage is going to be a very difficult thing to avoid, and we are at a loss for a helpful suggestion in this matter, except perhaps to go to the power-house and thrash the engineer in charge. The microphonic how is another trouble which you may find hard to cure. It is sometimes due to a microphonism affecting the plates of the gang condenser, and mounted both gangs in set as well as converter) on rubber bushings seems to be the only cure except putting greater distance between converter and set, which we note is not possible in your particular case.

F.P. (Numurkah) has noted our request for suggestions, and makes the request that we re-print the original "Direct-coupled Two" or else bring it up to date.

A.—We agree that this little job was a win-A.—We agree that this little job was a winner at the money, and could give very fine resuits from a nearby station. It should still have ample application in up-country towns where there is a local station. Our recent
"Inversed Four" was a step in this direction, and it has been so successful that we reci fairly safe in promising that we will act upon your suggestion in the course of the next three or four issues.

T.W. (City) has connected a telephone micro-phone to the pick-up terminals of his set, but it falls to work properly.

A.—Yes, this is to be expected. It is necessary to energise the microphone with a battery of some kind and then it is desirable to feed the output into the set by means of a microphone transformer, the secondary connecting to the pick-up ferminals and the battery current in the primary being regulated by the action of the microphone. That is the underlying principle of this type of microphone.

F.C.P. (Belka) wants to apply inverse feed-back to an A.V.C. Pentagrid 4.

back to an AgV.C. Pentagrid 4.

A.—Yes, inverse feed-back can be applied to any of the battery sets, which use resistance coupling in the audio end and in all cases it is just a matter of running the detector load resistance to the junction of 100,000 and 10,000 ohm resistors across the speaker input transformer. Doing so should give a slight improvement in quality with normal bias or a slight saving in the current if higher bias is arranged for the pentode.

H.D. (Wallaroobie) wants to know if the Duplex single circuit can be used for two separate valves, such as A600, and also asks if an aluminium base is essential.

If an aluminium base is essential.

A.—The circuit is quite O.K. for use with separate valves, although the gain of the types mentioned does not approach that of the two sections of the 19. Each section is of fairly high-gain characteristics, and better results could be expected from the 19 type valve on this account. There is no essential need to use the aluminium base, although it makes a much neater job and is quite cheap.

Printed and published by Associated News-sapers Ltd., at the registered office of the 'company, 60-66 Elizabeth Street, Sydney, for he Proprietors of "Wireless Weekly."

R.I. (Canberra) wants to know if 3AR and 7ZL have changed around, as the dial of his set appears to be wrong, and also asks when the station positions will be settled.

A.—Yes, they changed 3AR and 7ZL recently to avoid some whistle trouble which was noticed when 7HT came on the air. Unfortunately when 7HT came on the air. Unfortunately there is nothing settled about present station wavelengths, and minor changes can be expected from time to time. For example, we happen to know (on the quiet) that they put down pegs the other day to show where the new Canberra regional station would be erected. It may be a year or two before they go ahead with it, but sooner or later you can expect to find that it drops in on your dial without being marked!

J.R. (Gladstone) built up a Pentagrid Four, but used a 33 type valve in the final, and finds that the battery current drains is heavy.

A.—We are not surprised, since the 33 draws about double the current of the 1D4, if it is biassed according to its rating. If you bias it according to our circuit the drain will be three or four times as high. It is also a valve with characteristics very different from that of the sensitive little pentode which we specified, and this probably accounts for the tack of range. We can only suggest that you pay closer attention to our instructions.

F.P. (Grafton) wants full instructions for the erection of a doublet antenna.

A.—We regret that we have not sufficient space in these columns to deal fully with a subject such as this. We have on hand, however, a number of reprints of an article on this subject. If you, or any other interested reader, cares to send along a stamped and addressed envelope we will forward one of these reprints, free of charge.

IT WAS FRED'S

Quintet Quintessence

By OSWALD ANDERSON

THE Novelty Quintet was Fred Hartley's own idea. Of course, there were many quintets before this one, but all were followers of convention. We had the straight quintet, consisting of strings or strings and wood-wind, and, on the other hand, the five-piece dance band, which can quite legitimately be called a quintet.

Fred Hartley saw far greater possibilities than these in the quintet. He visualised a five-piece combination with a piano lead; and a combination that would not only be different, but one that could cope with all types of music and yet have its own distinctive style of playing. Fred, Hartley was perfectly equipped for the formation of his Novelty Quintet. Besides being a brilliant pianist, his capabilities for arranging amount to something like genius. He is a young man, and has the modern musical outlook backed up with a solid academical training.

outlock backed up with a solid academical training.

Very few of his huge audience have seen him in the flesh; he confines his activities solely to broadcasting. This is to be regretted, for he has a likable personality and appearance which should take him far if he ever chose to appear on the stage. I found him very easy to speak to possessing a ready smile and a fascinating voice. Born in Scotland, he came to London when a boy to study at the Royal Academy of Music. It was his parents' wish that he should become a musician, but Fred. Hartley confessed that he had no ambitions in that direction.

Hartley confessed that he had no ambitions in that direction.

"There was nothing that I hated more than practising," he told me, "but my parents were determined, and I was made to study the plano and violin. I am afraid that I was not born to be a violinist, however, for after fifteen years of study I gave that instrument up as a bad job. But I have a great liking for stringed implements and enjoy arranging for them."

Those fifteen years were not wasted, for their influence is noticeable in many of Fred. Hartley's orchestrations. He has within his Novelty Quintet a string quartet, the perfect playing of which is well known to listeners. Nearly all his arrangements are made away from the piano, and yet there is the pianistic atmosphere always present. These arrangements combine a happy blend of smooth harmony and modern style, made all the more effective by the playing of accomplished musicians. It is the delicate precision of Fred. Hartley's Novelty Quintet that is most impressive. They play as a perfectly balanced machine, but without its mechanical lifelessness.

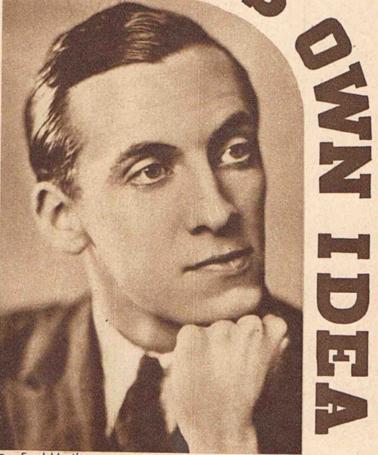

Let me take you through a Fred Hartley broadcast. A play as a perfectly balanced machine, but without its mechanical lifelessness.

Let me take you through a Fred Hartley broadcast. A word to the reception clerk at Broadcasting House and we are whisked down to the studio in a lift. We pass the lower ground floor, sub-basement and finally alight at the basement. Everything is very quiet here, but as we enter Studio BB the silence is broken by the sound of instruments being tuned. With a hasty greeting to the men—for he is a few minutes late—Fred Hartley goes to the piano at the far end of the studio and a short rehearsal begins. During the rehearsal, Fred pays great attention to the minutest details. He is constantly asking for a report from the engineer at the control panel. The second violin is moved—perhaps only a few inches—nearer to the microphone; the clarinet is requested to stand by while he plays a certain passage; the string bass is perhaps a trifle too heavy.

Fred Hartley conducts the rehearsal in a most efficient manner. Everything is quiet and orderly and not a second of precious time is wasted. The men are enjoying it; soundly trained musicians all of them, they take their work with a good-humored swing. Brian Lawrance is also in the studio. He is rehearsing a quaint Irish number.

Strangely enough, the Quintet sounds a little unbalanced in the studio. There are moments when the melody seems lost in the accompaniment, and Brian Lawrance's singing can scarcely be heard, But broadcasting has its own technique and the microphone a very different ear from ours. The engineer sitting behind a glass panel at one end of the studio is listening-in to the playing. A loud-speaker in the studio gives forth that the balance is entirely satisfactory and the rehearsal is finished. Fred Hartley glances at the clock—ten minutes to go before they are on the air. Just time for a quiet smoke.

The broadcast begins. The announcer enters the studio and with a nod at Fred Hartley switches on the red light. We are on the air. The announcer goes over to the microphone and speaks quietly: "This is the national programme. We have in the studio Fred Hartley and his Novelty Quintet, with Briah Lawrance singing. The first number is a Fred Hartley arrangement of . . ." As he steps back, without pausing a second, the Quintet is into the first number. The rich chords of the strings are being heard in a million homes. Under the subdued studio lighting the fiddles are bowing together; the clarinet is playing softly into the microphone while Fred Hartley plays a counter-melody on the piano. The violins pause for a moment while the clarinet plays the melody in a sub-tone. The light and shade of the playing is remarkable; a soft smoothly-phrased passage is quickly followed by a chorus in dance style, lightly but firmly attacked. Brian Lawrance comes to the microphone, and with a smile at Fred Hartley, commences his song. He sings softly and intimately right into the microphone. As Brian Lawrance steps back, the Quintet swells into a commanding forte. The players are working as one man—perfectly together. The players are working as one man—perfectly together. The number may not be completed without a solo by Fred Hartley. His fingers skip lightly, over the keys. Rhythmic phrases and delicate arpeggios follow in rapid succession. Here is a planist after our own hearts. With a final creecendo, the Quintet brings the number to a close. The spell is broken and the announcer steps once more to the microphonie. We are eager to applaud—an urge that is hard to restrain. But red lights are frowning at us from the studio walls.

So the programme goes on, with Fred Hartley swing

So the programme goes on, with Fred Hartley swinging away at the piano. This indeed is super-rhythm, and we are lost once more in the music of flying fingers and sweeping That's torn it! So maybe we'd better call it a day.

2GB NEWS REVIEW

HE 2GB News Review has not been on the air very long, but already it has created tremendous interest with all sections of the community.

The idea of such a feature was conceived by Mr. A. E. Bennett, the managing director of 2GB, who realised that what was required was not just a dissemination of news—which people can read for themselves in the newspapers—but rather the story behind the news. It is done to a certain extent in U.S.A. by mcn like Lowell Thomas, ctc.

The 2GB News Review is not limited by any restrictions—other than those of propriety and good taste.

The difficulty with which Mr. Bennett had to contend was the choice of a suitable commentator.

"FORCEFUL and FEARLESS"

It was obvious that he must be possessed of unusual acumen in interpreting the news as it "broke"-but in addition it was essential that he be possessed of a highly developed news sense with strong critical faculties. Eventually Mr. Bennett's choice fell on one who measured up to the requirements he had in mind. From the initial broadcast it became apparent that the 2GB News Review was certain to arouse exceptional and widespread interest. The Commentator has, from the outset, not been afraid to be very outspoken, and, in consequent, no listeners remain indifferent-they either agree or disagree strongly. Never a night goes by but someone rings up 2GB immediately the News Review finishes, and voices his opinion. Some people become vituperative and others laudatory, but up to date the most amusing was the cultured voice of an unknown lady who telephoned the Commentator and said, "You are an amazingly wonderful man"-and then rang off!

The 2GB News Reviewer was the first to protest against the stand being taken by local councils regarding the Government's diphtheria immunisation scheme, and accused the councils of making a political issue of it. He pointed out that, in effect, upon these councils themselves rested the responsibility of children's deaths from this dread scourge.

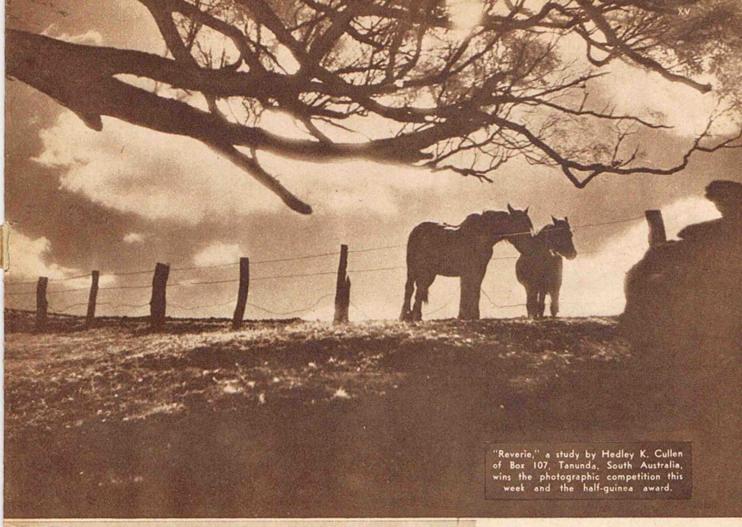

An uproar followed, council meetings became volcanic, members of Parliament wrote to 2GB, and the station was quoted at a North Sydney Council meeting. The following night the Mayor of North Sydney attended at 2GB studios, and made an announcement over the air that his council would in future immunise children free of charge.

On another occasion the Commentator discussed the evergreen subject of "tipping." and stressed the point that any form of service was of value to the community, and entitled to a reward commensurate with its value. The result was that the waiters of the Hotel Australia sent him a "round robin" thanking him for championing their profession, and the assistant manager of the Winter Garden at the same hotel, sent as a gift two books by Lord Riddell, which had been presented to him some years ago by the noble lord.

Another topic which created widespread feeling was the question of rebuilding St Andrew's Cathedral at some colossal cost, while poverty and sickness were rife amongst the poor.

The value to the community of the 2GB News Review is incalculable, for the Commentator is absolutely fearless in exposing hypocrisy sham, and subterfuge, and that this Review is appreciated by the bulk of the population is reflected in the rapidly growing mail which is sent to the Commentator from persons in every walk of life. The 2GB News Review is broadcast at 10 o'clock every night except Sundays.

RADIO in Other Places

EOME AMERICAN CAR MANUFAC-TURERS are trying to dictate to dealers what car-radios shall be installed on their cars.

HOWARD JACOBS, interviewed on his return to London from Australia, said the Adelaide studios were most satisfactory. He had a hard job to persuade the authorities to use two microphones, and, "generally, there would be a different man on the control board every night, so that consistency was impossible." Adelaide was the only city where they preferred hot music. The Musicians' Union made rehearsals pretty costly and Sunday performances almost prohibitive. And, "There was one problem we never solved... we couldn't find a decent crooner in the whole of Australia."

WITH THE AID of newspaper publishers from all over the country, the N.B.C. of America brought a group of newsboys, some grown men, to studios in leading cities, and opened the programme with all these studios tuned in together, "an indescribable din." Chicago boys told what they got: "I got big explosion on the South Side; I got the big sit-down strike; I got the big bombing." The Boston newsboys had breeding and refinement: "I have full international reports." The Hollywood boys put on a show of selling papers, saying, "Thank you, Miss Rogers," etc.; very proud of their customers. The prize, judged by a committee of publishers, went to Philip Minsky, of Boston, for his "references to politics and foreign affairs."

THE MADRAS GOVERNMENT proposes to instal 100 communal receivers in various villages; and to put up a short-wave station near Saidapet, and a medium-wave station at Trichinopoly. The Bombay Government has installed 18 receivers in nine village public buildings, some in schools, with automatic time-switches. A special service truck makes regular rounds.

THE U.S.A. Women's National Radio Committee, with a membership of 10,000,000, conducted a ballot among leaders of its various sections, and awarded a parchment scroll to: The WABC Sunday evening Symphonic Hour, the Vallee Varieties, the Chicago University Round Table, Carter's New Comments, Dorothy Gordon's Children's Corner, and the Monday night Radio Theatre from Hollywood. Commenting on these awards, the New York "Times" notes that the awards were only to regular sessions, this to explain the absence of the farewell address of King Edward VIII., "generally considered as the most dramatic broadcast of all time, and to have attracted the greatest invisible audience that ever eavesdropped on a single voice."

MOTORS

IT TELLS YOU HOW YOU CAN LEARN MOTOR MECHANICS IN YOUR SPARE TIME AT HOME ...

MOTOR ENGINEERING THE WAY WE TEACH IT IS NOT A DRUD. GERY. We deal with practical applications. The actual work is illustrated with hundreds of diagrams, charts and blueprints. A student has not to wade through page after page of theory or mathematics. The very first lesson is on the engine itself.

SPECIAL OFFER

We are making an attractive special offer of training students. You owe it to your future to get the facts-NOW!!

The Australian Technical Schools

537 George Street, Sydney. (Established 1923)

We are daily receiving letters of appeciation from engineering students, in all parts of Australia and New Zealand thanking us for what we have done for them. Here are a few extracts :--

1.—'I have a position in a leading garage—thanks to your diploma and reference."

2.—'I have a thorough knowledge of the Diesel Engine, and am pleased I chose your Diesel Engineering Course."

3.—'I am pleased with the Course, and recommend it to anyone wishing to learn engine driving."

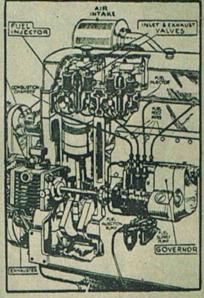

4.—'Thanks for the free (electrical) outfit. I had no idea it would be so good,"

5.—'I have prospects of a good position whon I gain your diploma."

6.—'It was a lucky day for me when I chanced on your advertisement,"

7.—'I must thank you for putting me where I am to-day. I am receiving £6/6/- per week. You have my gratitude."

Other worth-while Home study Courses besides Motor Car Engineering are:— DIESEL ENGINEERING, Shire Engineer's and Local Government Electrical Engineers' Exems., all Enginedrivers' Exams., Practical Electricity (with Free working outfit).
