Universal, BMG Team For Online Venture

The Universal Music Group and BMG Entertainment have joined forces to create a Web site called GetMusic.com. The site will sell CDs and work to build a fan community based on BMG's genre-specific Web sites Peeps Republic (www.peeps.com), BUGjuice (www.bugjuice.com), TwangThis! (www.twangthis.com), Rock Universe (www.rockuniverse.com) and Connect2Music (www.connect2music.com). GetMusic will feature chat rooms, interactive Web casting and links to the genre sites. While the site will sell music by artists on labels that compete with BMG and Universal, it will not promote these artists. At a press conference held last week in New York, executives indicated that GetMusic may eventually offer downloadable music, but that the site will not do so until the industry establishes a digital music downloading standard.

In a recent New York Times article, Lawrence Kenswil, President of Electronic Commerce at Universal Music, said, "People aren't our customers directly. They are radio station listeners, record store customers or MTV viewers. At the end of the day, we need (Continued on page 16)

IBM, RealNetworks Collaborate On Secure Digital Delivery System As the battle for a secure method of digital music

distribution wages on, streaming media giant RealNetworks (www.real.com) has partnered with IBM to develop consumer software that will integrate IBM's Electronic Music Management System (EMMS), better known as The Madison Project, into RealNetworks' RealSystem G2 player, rivaling MP3 and other competing technologies.

By allowing users the ability to "stream" audio and video media, IBM's EMSS will provide users with a secure, low-bandwidth solution for receiving (Continued on page 16) since Paul Morley, Trevor Horn and Anne Dudley first gathered together in a studio as the Art Of Noise. In its early-to-mid-

'80s heyday, the UNIVERSAL innovative and other interests. But in 1999, It's been nearly 15 years the band has returned, with new member and acclaimed

TOM WAITS Mule Variations (Anti-Epitaph)

III Tom Waits's first new album in six years may be one of his finest efforts yet, and that's saying something. With three decades of accolades to his name, the songwriter has become America's most venerated, if consistently unfashionable, left-ofcenter tunesmith. Waits uses avantgarde form and instrumentation to modify the traditionalism of Tin Pan Alley songwriting, but at the heart of his scarred and stumbling tunes lies the poignancy of a literary great and the smirking cool of a hobo poet. Mule Variations draws on styles that span the whole of Waits's storied career, from the sentimental, bluesbased piano laments of his '70s work to the percussion-heavy clank and thump of his more recent efforts. Over the years, Waits has grown both darker and gentler, and Mule Variations presents both sides of his personality with impressive conviction. "Big In Japan," for example, opens the album with a one-two punch of booming percussion and carnival barker-like rhyming, while "Hold On" shuffles along with the soft-hearted beauty of Waits classics like "Downtown Train." Wisely, cantankerous Tom refuses to soften with age; he merely gets more comfortable with his own shadow - Colin Helms

BEN FOLDS FIVE

The Unauthorized Biography Of Reinhold Messner (550 Music)

On Ben Folds Five's third album. the Chapel Hill, North Carolina, trio does away with the Broadway-byway-of-Collegetown-U.S.A. aesthetic of its 1995 eponymous debut and effort's multi-platinum crossover follow-up, Whatever And Ever Amen. The suddenly plaintive, more mature Ben Folds has discarded the energetic piano histrionics of his past in exchange for a less frantic pace, lush string arrangements and high-class restraint. While Reinhold Messner does flirt dangerously with Adult Contemporary appeal, its subdued reserve still acts as a vehicle for Folds' sardonic wit and his charming slice-of-life anecdotes. Without the ivory fireworks, Folds foregrounds his songwriting skills to unveil some of the best tunes of his short career. "Narcolepsy" and "Your Redneck Past" are dusted with the Mooged-out experimentalism of Folds's recent side-project Fear Of Pop, while "Don't Change Your Plans" and the gorgeous "Regrets" are worthy of a handshake and a plaque from Todd Rundgren. At first, the Five's latest may take a few of their hardcore fans by surprise, but faithful and patient adherents to Folds' slacker gospel eventually accept Unauthorized Biography Of Reinhold Messner as required reading.

60 Second Wipe Out (DHR/Elektra-EEG)

Waving the angry fist of refutation with the intensity of a freshly detonated terrorist bomb on the steps of the Pentagon, Atari Teenage Riot uses its status as a recording artist to stage an equal-opportunity skullbashing of established governments and political thought. The group also "plays" some of the most violent music ever created. Produced by Digital Hardcore guru/ATR backbone Alec Empire and mixed by studio vet Andy Wallace, the Berlin-based battering-ram's second American full-length takes its fivealarm recipe for hate one step further by adding a pinch of atmospheric leavening to its freedom-fighting anarchy. But the sonic beatdown's mellow moments are few and far between. Spacey Moogs and reverb-soaked samples will barely allow you to gasp for air before ATR's neck-snapping jungle breaks, chaotic speed-core, and jagged hip-hop grooves tear back into you like hot shrapnel. Boasting an impressive array of guests including ex-Bikini Killer Kathleen Hanna, NYC underground rhyme syndicate the Arsonists, and Fear Factory guitarist Dino Cazares, 60 Second Wipeout is ATR's most varied and accomplished work to date. The revolution is back in full effect. - Ron Hart

NAS

I Am... (Columbia-CRG)

11 The covers of Nas's three fulllength records show the MC's evolution from boy to man and now to gold-plated hip-hop prince. On wax, with 1994's Illmatic, the former Nasir Jones emerged fully formed. He experienced awkward growing pains on 1996's hit-and-miss It Was Written, but now he's dropping I Am..., which suggests he has a firm grip on both his past and his present. "Nas Is Like" lays it all on the line, simultaneously boastful and humble, with the rapper writing "streetwise scriptures for lost souls in the crossroads." Sampling Kenny Loggins (!) on "We Will Survive." Nas eulogizes Notorious B.I.G. and 2Pac, weighing in with a muchneeded, soul-searching perspective, which, in the meantime, also points out everything that's right and wrong with modern hip-hop. That brand of sharp and modest wisdom is cut elsewhere with bitch-bluntand-bullet clichés, yet that imagery doesn't diminish Nas's impact so much as position him as a curiously contradictory figure in a world of one-sided rhyme heads. Puff Daddy, DMX, Scarface and Aalivah make cameos on I Am.... but Nas always sounds best on his own, especially when lethal DJ Premier is behind the board. — Steve Ciabattoni

Pumpkins Welcome Back Jimmy Chamberlin for Club Tour

The Smashing Pumpkins have rehired Jimmy Chamberlin. A statement was posted on the band's official Web site. This coincided with the Web cast of a Detroit concert that featured Chamberlain on drums.

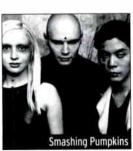

Band frontman Billy Corgan said, "James, D'Arcy, and I are proud to announce the return of Jimmy to the band...this will be our first show in almost [three] years...so being that we're a little nervous, we thought we'd broadcast it to the world."

A representative from the band's label, Virgin Records, had no official comment on Chamberlain's purported homecoming.

Chamberlin was fired from the band in 1996, after he was arrested for heroin possession in connection with the fatal overdose of touring keyboardist Jonathan Melvoin. While Chamberlain was in rehab, he was replaced by a series of substitute drummers including Soundgarden's Matt Cameron and Kenny Aronoff (John Cougar Mellencamp).

Last November, the Pumpkins parted with their management company Q-Prime, reportedly over the lackluster performance of their 1998 album Adore. Corgan's email posting to the Pumpkins' Web site also stated that the group's next album, with Chamber and applied to released in Soutember.

berlin on board, would be released in September.

NPR, MN Public Radio Build Network, Anger Stations

National Public Radio (NPR) has struck an Internet deal with its largest affiliate, Minnesota Public Radio. The two organizations, each of which operates a Web site, will construct a joint Internet network this summer, in an attempt to amplify the content of local affiliates' Web sites, many of which now consist only of programming schedules.

Plans for the network include online chats, e-commerce features, and access to online audio archives. The site will use content from other providers such as The New York Times. NPR wants to attract online visitors to its 700 local affiliate stations. Some of these stations, which collectively draw 28 million listeners weekly, feel threatened by the move, according to a recent Times article. These stations anticipate that potential listeners will end up at the main site and bypass their sites altogether. Lost listeners could lead to decreased ratings and less corporate underwriting.

However, Virginia Prescott, Manager of New Media at WNYC, claims that if many people already confuse the stations with the suppliers of their programming, as expressed, their concern may be misdirected. She adds that WYNC doesn't mind that listeners mistake the New York City station for NPR, which produces and distributes such shows as Car

Talk and the daily news digests All Things Considered and Morning Edition.

"NPR's branding has been that effective," Prescott told CMJ. Prescott, who works at the nation's largest public radio station, didn't want to speak on behalf of every affiliate, but she did hazard the guess that these affiliates may fear competition on the Web in general.

Music Piracy Up, RIAA Fighting Back

The number of bootleg CDs confiscated in 1998 rose dramatically from number confiscated in 1997, according to a report issued by the Recording Industry Association of America (RIAA). In 1998, 338,458 counterfeit CDs were seized, representing a 163% increase over 1997's figures. During the year, the RIAA launched a number of anti-piracy initiatives, including an educational campaign to combat Internet piracy at college campuses. The RIAA also provided CD plants with tools to spot suspect orders, and the organization helped to pass an anti-piracy bill in California.

The organization also sent thousands of educational or warning letters to Web sites offering sound recording downloads that violated artist and record company rights.

This resulted in the shutting down of most targeted sites.

Freaky Tah's Murderer and Accomplices Arrested

Police arrested three suspects in the March 28 shooting of Lost Boyz rapper Freaky Tah. According to police, the trio is affiliated with the Hellraisers, an aspiring rap group that was involved in a feud with the Lost Boyz. Kelvin Jones, 29, of Albany, New York, is the accused gunman; Ryan Fritch, 24, of Queens, New York, is the alleged driver of the van used in the murder; Raheem Fletcher, 22, also of Queens, is accused of providing the van.

All three have been charged with second degree murder and illegal possession of a weapon. According to Queens County Assistant District Attorney Nina Sas, Jones and Fritch confessed to the crime at their arraignment.

As reported in CMJ issue #615, Freaky Tah (a.k.a. Raymond Rogers) was leaving a party at a Jamaica, New York, Sheraton Hotel. About about 4 a.m. he was approached and shot from behind by Jones, who was wearing a blue ski cap. He was pronounced dead shortly after the incident at Jamaica Hospital. A spokesperson from Universal, the Lost Boyz' label, said that the group would still release its third album LB For Life, in June.

Belle & Sebastian Cellist to Release Solo Effort

Yet another Belle & Sebastian member has formed a side project. On the heels of bassist Stuart David's band Looper, which released its debut Up A Tree on Sub Pop

The record will be released on Jeepster Recordings, Belle & Sebastian's U.K. label, through an arrangement with the Never Records Group/Proper Distribution. Before joining Belle & Sebastian, Campbell studied music at the University of Glasgow, where she taught music to children with learning disabilities.

Hole To Headline Canada's Edgefest

Hole didn't stay off the road for long after the band bowed out of the Marilyn Manson tour. Hole will headline this summer's Edgefest, the Canadian equivalent of Lollapalooza. Edgefest '99 will feature 14 acts performing on two stages.

The event's main stage will feature Silverchair, Big Wreck, Moist, Matthew Good Band, Edwin and Wide Mouth Mason. Finger Eleven, Eve 6, Treble Charger, Vertical Horizon, Gob, Serial Joe and Rascalz will occupy the second stage.

This lineup has been confirmed for the entire tour, with some local acts to be announced. The all-day festival, which has expanded to feature non-Canadian artists, kicks off on July 1, in Ontario, and makes stops in Ottawa, Montreal, Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Calgary and Edmonton before it wraps up in Vancouver on July 14.

In the meantime, Hole will embark on its own month-long tour of the U.S. The 18-date trip begins in Cincinnati on April 30, and makes stops in Nashville, Ft. Lauderdale, Florida, New York, Philadelphia, Boston and Cleveland before it wraps up in Detroit.

Chili Peppers Welcome Back Frusciante For New Album

Having hired and fired a slew of guitarists, the Red Hot Chili Peppers have finally returned to the studio. Bassist Flea, singer Anthony Kiedis, drummer Chad Smith and guitarist John Frusciante - returning after his last departure from the band — have already laid down 28 tracks for Californication, which Warner Bros. Records will release on June 8.

The quartet isn't sure which of the songs will end up on the album, but the list includes such titles as "Phfat Dance," "I Like Dirt" and "Scar Tissue." Rick Rubin, who sat behind the boards for 1991's Blood Sugar Sex Magik, will return to produce the Peppers' latest effort. Frusciante, who rejoined the band last summer, joins the Peppers after the amicable departure of ex-Jane's Addiction guitarist Dave Navarro. (In the interim, Arik Marshall and Jesse Tobias filled the position.)

Frusciante and Keidis, both of whom have spent time in rehab, have overcome their interpersonal problems. The singer was unsure when Flea approached him with the idea of reuniting with Frusciante. But Keidis told Rolling Stone, "[From] the first time we got together to play, I felt completely levitated." The group plans to tour in support of the record.

ARTIST SPOTLIGH

Interview by Steve Ciabattoni

In 1968, Irmin Schmidt, Hogler Czukay, Michael Karoli and Jaki Leibezeit formed the nucleus of Can, arguably the most progressive and influential German musical export. Its mixture of jazz, rock and avant garde has made its influence felt in the music of Sonic Youth, Bill Laswell, Tortoise and many more. This spring, Mute Records will release Box, a video, book and live two-CD package that sheds light on the Can legacy. We talked about a lot, but here's a Q&A that's literally a Q and an A.

CMJ: You visited New York in the late '60s, what was that like?

Irmin Schmidt: It was so different. Germany was very serious. There was pop music on one side and then there was "serious" art. [In New York] everything was mixed and I really liked that. The whole scene around Andy Warhol was pop and it was serious art and that was fascinating for me. Of course the meeting with [John] Cage opened your mind. Not that he guided you into any special musical direction, but he opened minds. He open widely my mind. [laughs] I remember the very first concert I heard him in Germany. He was performing at the theater and had this microphone on him and was drinking water going "glug, glug, glug" and all that...I had to laugh. I wasn't mocking him, but I had to laugh. There was this critic behind me who said "If you find that funny then you can just go out!" So I kept on laughing. After the concert I thought, 'I have to go to [Cage] to explain myself.' So I went and this same critic was standing beside him talking very seriously. And I explained how I meant [the laughing] and that this lady was telling me I should go out. And he turned to her and took her [in his arms] and shook her and said "Oh, I'm sorry didn't you have any fun tonight?" [laughs]

U.K. Indie Fresh/Freskanova Records Geared Up To Find U.S. Home

By M. Tye Comer

When the Freestylers bring their brand of urban electro/hip-hop to American ears with the May 11 release of their debut album We Rock Hard, the band's U.S. label Mammoth Records won't be the only record company keeping a close eye on the Yankee reception. The Freestylers' success is also the highest priority for the group's U.K. label Fresh/Freskanova Records, an imprint anxious to make its own impact on the American

"A couple of years ago, the radio scenario in the States was a lot more driven towards guitar-based bands," says Dave Morgan, who, along with partner Vicki Aspinall, founded the successful U.K. dance imprint in 1991. "But I think U.S. radio is changing and making room for good crossover pop and bands that come from more of a club genre. As a label, it was our goal to grow in the U.K., get licensed throughout Europe, and, when we had a substantial act that we really wanted the States to look at, come over there to take a look at the bigger picture."

The bigger picture includes providing the Freestylers, and other like-minded artists among them, Victoria Newton, Beat Boy and Lovestation (Morgan and Aspinall's own artistic venture) — with American distribution. But Fresh/Freskanova actually wants to develop its artists on U.S. soil.

"What we'd like to do is to get a two-tiered scenario going," explains Morgan. "We'd have a U.S. office to distribute set-up products, and then have bigger partner to take it to the next level. We do all the donkey work and work creatively to get the ball rolling and make sure that it is on the right path. And then, if we need to press a million records, we have someone with the muscle and the marketing support on their own end to make

With 15 U.K. top 40 hits and the sale of 250,000 albums and 1.2 million singles under his belt. Morgan is confident that he has something to offer the expanding American market. Several U.S. majors have already expressed interest in Fresh/Freskanova. Morgan attributes his success to both he and Aspinall's (a former member of the Raincoats) experience as musicians and, consequentially, to Fresh/Freskanova's reputation as an artist-friendly label.

"I think we're a very unusual really because Vicki and I are both musicians ourselves," says Morgan. "We initially started the label because we wanted to get our own productions out there. We understand how to put support into the band. Like the Stylers...there was a lot of creative effort from us involved putting the band together, and we put a lot of effort into finding the right people to get the band on the road. It's a very creative, organic way we work in our office. We're completely unlike any other label in that respect. We've really looked at what we're doing this year, and our longterm [goal] is development, not how much money do we make on the first single.'

Blondie To Tour U.S.

Blondie announced the dates for the first leg of its American tour in support of No Exit. The tour will kick off on May 15 in Boston. The tour marks the recently reunited four-piece's first full U.S. outing in 16 years. Tickets are available through Blondie's Web site (www.blondie.net), through www.atomicpop. com and at local ticket outlets.

Fear Factory and Gary Numan To Shoot Video For 'Cars'

Industrial metal titans Fear Factory have hooked up with Gary Numan to shoot a video for the band's extremely loyal cover of Numan's 1979 new wave hit "Cars." At press time, the director had not determined a location for the shoot. However, sources speculated that the video would be filmed in Canada, where Fear Factory recorded the song for a limited edition special release of 1998's Obsolete. Fear Factory recently performed during MTV's Spring Break Weekend. The band has been confirmed to perform on the second stage at this year's Ozzfest.

Skunk Anansie Readies Virgin Records Debut

British rock quartet Skunk Anansie is preparing to release its Virgin Records debut, Past Orgasmic Chill. The album, produced by Andy Wallace (Nirvana, Jeff Buckley), is scheduled to hit the streets on August 24, but in July an enhanced CD5 for the single "The Skank Heads" will precede the record.

The CD5, which will be serviced to college radio, will include the track "Charlie Big Potato," along with two non-album tracks. In early June, the band will hit the road with German pyromaniacs Rammstein for a U.S. tour. The band will play several headlining dates on the West Coast before they launch a full-scale tour in August.

Section coordinated by Kelso Jacks

Bong Load and Geffen Records are servicing college radio with a new Beck EP. This promotional item will not be available in stores. The Cold Brains EP consists of the title track (which is also a single) and four songs that were previously issued on import records — "Electric Music And The Summer People," "Halo Of Gold," "Runners Dial Zero" and "Diamond Bullocks."

Rhino Records has issued a two-CD set of highlights from the award-winning, Chicagobased Public Radio program This American Life. With a total running time of over two-and-a-half hours, the anthology compiles material that spans the show's three-year history. In addition to excerpting the most memorable reportage and commentary from past broadcasts, the collection also compiles music from the program, including an exclusive track by They Might Be Giants. Lies, Sissies And Fiascoes: The Best Of This American Life is packaged with a set of trading cards drawn by Chicago-area cartoonist Chris Ware.

Jazz pianist Fred Hersch has released 24 albums over the course of 20 years. The ivorytickler is back again with Let Yourself Go (Live At Jordan Hall), a dynamic new concert disc on Nonesuch Records. Hersch performs such beloved standards as "I Loves You Porgy," "Let Yourself Go," "Blue Monk" and "The Nearness Of You."

Flipper's infamous live cassette, Blow'n Chunks, has been domestically re-issued on CD. ROIR, which released the tape in 1984, has finally digitized the San Francisco noisecore band's wonderfully attitudinous, musically reckless, 1983 performance at CBGB's. The original reels have been remastered with the addition of bonus material from the same show. The heavy, sloppy riffs and squealing feedback of "Life Is Cheap" and "Ha Ha Ha" will mow you down, make you think and put a smile on your cynical face.

550-Epic recently issued E-Class Mixtape Volume 1, an overview of the label's hip-hop acts. The compilation focuses on artists who are scheduled to release new albums in 1999. Cappadonna, Naughty By Bature, Cam'ron, Charli Baltimore, Men Of Vizion, TQ and Ginuwine are among the microphone fiends on this 37-song blowout.

David Holmes's debut album, This Film's Crap Let's Slash The Seats, is finally available as a domestic title. 1500 Records has picked up the record, which was initially issued in 1995 on the U.K. label Go! Discs. The American version has been baited with an eight-song bonus CD of rare and unreleased tracks, including a remix by Kruder & Dorfmeister.

George Carlin's You Are All Diseased is the home audio version of his 1998 HBO comedy special, taped at New York City's Beacon Theatre. The comedian does what he does best on this Atlantic recording: ranting with bitterness and humorous insight about religion, '90s parents and — a favorite topic in this office — "cigar-smoking white businessmen who proudly drop hip-hop lexicon."

On May 18, Hybrid and Sire Records will release The Kennedy Center Presents A Tribute To Muddy Waters, King Of The Blues. The labels have compiled music from a 1997 episode of PBS's The Kennedy Center Presents, which paid homage to the New Orleans great. The ninetrack collection features Buddy Guy, John Hiatt, Phoebe Snow, Keb' Mo' and others, as well as two songs performed by Muddy Waters himself.

The Queers' Later Days And Better Lays is a collection of 21 unreleased and demo tracks. Band members Joe King and B Face compiled the material for this remastered Lookout! Release, which includes the future party-punk classics "Murder In The Brady House," "Night Of The Livid Queers" and "Born To Do Dishes" (the latter featuring Dr. Frank of the Mr. T Experience on backing vocals), along with a cover of the Muffs' "Never Ever."

Six Degrees Records' Traveler'99: A Planetful Of Grooves is a fine and eclectic world music survey, juxtaposing Sufi drones with bossa nova whispers and ambient sputtering. Banco De Gaia, Pops Mohamed And The London Sound Collective, Os Cariocas, Euphoria and DJ Cheb I Sabbah represent just a few of the 11 musical explorers who contributed to the project.

The folks at Sub Pop have re-pressed the Afghan Whigs' long-out-of-print, six-song, all-covers Uptown Avondale EP. The mini-album could be your dream-come-true if you've longed to hear a slightly thinner Greg Dulli croon versions of the Supremes' "Come See About Me" and Elvis Presley's "True Love Travels On A Dirt Road."

The floodgates have opened for the memorabilia surrounding the forthcoming film Star Wars Episode 1: The Phanton Menace. Oglio Records' Star Wars: Cocktails In The Cantina culls dramatic motifs and lounge-y jazz from the first three installments of the Star Wars series. The movie's main theme appears alongside the music that helped define scenes such as "Ben Kenobi's Death" and the "Parade Of The Ewoks." Does this piece of movie marketing include the freaky tune from the first movie's beloved alien cantina scene? Find out for yourself.

Hip-O Records has completed its Excello Records Story. Volume 3 — 1957-1961 and Volume 4 — 1961-1975 wrap-up the revered label's history, collecting entries by Lightnin's Slim, the Crescendos, Lattimore Brown, Slim Harpo, Marva Whitney and Freddie North.

There's more to Florida than orange juice, retirees and Marilyn Manson. Tallahasseebased AAJ Records has issued The Nervous System: An AAJ Records Compilation, a compendium of unreleased and hard-to-find independent music by Home, Terrifying Experience, Cream Abdul Babar, Divided Body, Newsboy Legion and, among others, ex-Velvet Underground drummer Moe Tucker.

Without changing its sound or its line-up, punk band Snuff has released an album under the moniker Dogpiss. While Snuff normally records for Fat Wreck Chords, the Dogpiss release, Eine Kleine Punkmusic, has been issued by Fat subsidiary Honest Don's. The album features 13 new tracks and is in stores now.

Hip-hop producer M-Boogie is celebrating his 15th year in the recording industry with the release of Laid In Full, a 28-track continuous DJ mix. Released by Blackberry Music, the disc features 10 tracks that are exclusive to the release, as well as material by Al Tariq, Kut Master Kurt, Iriscience of the outfit Dilated Peoples, DJ Revolution and others.

The Raspberries will perform popular singles such as "Go All The Way," "I Wanna Be With You," "Tonight," "Ecstasy" and "Overnight Sensation (Hit Record)," as well as several Eric Carmen solo hits such as "All By Myself" and "Hungry Eyes." ## INDUSTRYNEWS

Universal Leads U.S. Album Market Share For First Quarter

According to SoundScan's first full-quarter tally for 1999, the PolyGram-owned Universal Music & Video Distribution has emerged as the leader in the period's U.S. album market share. This comes as no surprise to industry analysts, given Seagram's well-publicized recent acquisition of Poly-Gram.

Universal netted an impressive 26.7% total album market share for the January 4-March 28 sales period. This figure tops WEA's 17.3% first quarter sales total. (WEA has led the industry's sales tallies for most of the 1990s.) The collective independent label sector ranked third in the first quarter with 16.9%, while Sony Music Distribution ranked fourth with 14.5%. BMG Distribution (14.1%) and EMI Music Distribution (10.7%) rounded out the top six.

At 27.4%, Universal also had the highest current album market share. Universal was followed by BMG with 17.3%, the indie sector with 15.8%, WEA with 15.2%, Sony with 14.5% and EMD with 9.8%. BMG, however, was the period's top singles distributor, having earned 34% of the market share. WEA ranked second (22.1%) and Universal (18.1%) ranked third.

Parasol Records Signs P&D Deal With Grand Theft Autumn

Parasol Records and Distribution has signed a production and distribution deal with Grand Theft Autumn, the label owned by Braid's Todd Bell and ex-Braid drummer Roy Ewing, who now plays in Very Secretary. In the past, the label has released singles by Sarge/Supporting Actress (split 7"), Chisel Drill Hammer, Wolfie, and a full album by Sky Corvair. Portland, Oregon's Kind Of Like Splitting will release the first 7" release under the new agreement. Look for future label releases by the Trombones, Camden, East/ West and City On Film.

Planned shows include "Then and Now," a career overview of current VH1 artists, and "Uncovered," in which artists play songs by other performers who inspired them.

Matt Farber, Senior VP of Programming Enterprises for MTV/VH1 and GM for M2, says that the station will eventually be incorporated into "Buggles," MTV Networks' Internet radio service. Currently in development, Buggles will be created with the help of Imagine Radio (www.imagineradio.com), which MTV acquired in February.

MTV Online And Loud Records Conducting Online Hip Hop Talent Search

MTV Online and Loud Records are conducting the music network's first online hiphop talent search. The grand prize is a recording contract with Loud Records, home of the Wu-Tang Clan and Big Pun.

The selection process allows MTV Online users to be directly involved in the process of choosing a winner. After the field is whittled down to 32, MTV (www.mtv.com) will post audio clips by the remaining acts on its Web site. Loud Records A&R execs will choose the winner on August 30.

Interested parties can submit music on tape or CD to: Ultimate Hip-Hop Talent Search 1999, P.O. Box 1946, Murray Hill Sta., New York, NY 10156-0612. The deadline is April 30.

information about [customers] that is not filtered by third parties."

Universal, which is owned by Seagram Company Ltd., currently comprises a 27% share of the U.S. music market, while BMG holds a 17% market share. Since its 1998 acquisition of PolyGram, Universal has become the world's largest music company. However, GetMusic will have to compete with the likes of Amazon.com, the leader in online retail with 8 million registered customers, and CDnow, which has 2 million registered customers.

In a related Times article, Jonathan V. Diamond, Chairman of CDnow, expressed that he did not see the deal as a threat. He called it "one of the most positive things that could happen. It is further validation of the Internet as a major promotion and retail channel." Officials would not disclose financial terms for the deal, and the management structure is still undetermined.

and processing digital media. Prior to this announcement, The Madison Project could only operate over broadband networks.

RealNetworks, which had been almost non-existent in the digital distribution arena prior to this announcement, has an installed registered user base of 35 million. This base will have access to the player during the third quarter of 1999.

"We view this collaboration with IBM as a significant step forward in insuring that artists and content distributors have confidence that their songs are protected when delievered over IP-based networks," said Rob Glaser, Chairman and CEO, RealNetworks.

Hole, Ice Cube, Korn, Limp Bizkit, Live, Los Lobos, Metallica, Alanis Morissette, George Clinton, Willie Nelson, Rage Against The Machine, Red Hot Chili Peppers, Foo Fighters, Guster, Rusted Root, Sugar Ray, the Tragically Hip, Brian Setzer Orchestra, Collective Soul, Dave Matthews Band, Foo Fighters, Jewel, Underworld and the Offspring will perform at the event. Contrary to rumors, Marilyn Manson, Guns 'N Roses and the Counting Crows are not currently scheduled to play. Tickets for Woodstock went on sale on April 25. They sell for $150 for the entire event; there are no tickets for individual days. A Woodstock pay-per-view special is also in the works. The bash will commemorate the 30th anniversary of the original Woodstock Music and Art Fair, which was held in August of 1969.

Records release marks the return of one of the most influential groups in pop history. "You can insert an Art of Noise track into any decade and it would still be unique," says Aaron Scott, the label's Director of College Promotion & Marketing. "Art of Noise is the most sampled band in the world. They are an influence on many of today's college and mainstream artists. In addition, AON has an influence on classical music, jazz, hiphop, RPM, art, films, etc. The members of the band influence the art and music world with their individual projects, as well. They are award-winning producers, [they] write for GO and Esquire, [they] produce TV and films, [they] compose Oscarwinning film scores and [they] direct award-winning videos. They are about expression. They are about speaking their minds and their music is only about music. That is what college radio is about."

The Seduction Of Claude Debussy does not attempt to mimic Art Of Noise's past glories. A member of the group describes the effort as "the soundtrack to a film that doesn't exist, that wasn't made about the life of Claude Debussy." The Art's new masterwork is a creature that — as the album title suggests — melds the musical influence of revolutionary French composer Claude Debussy with futuristic electronic rhythms and soundscapes. The record utilizes the talents of Rakim, Donna Lewis and actor John Hurt. Universal will market this moving, slightly iconoclastic music with an appropriately unconventional flair.

"The Art of Noise has never been a singles-oriented band," explains Scott. "[Therefore], there are no current plans for an official single. I feel the song that most closely resembles a single is 'Metaforce.' This track features Rakim, who is an ambassador of mainstream music in an album of artistic expression. There is a video for 'Metaforce,' but it is not your typical clip. The video is really trippy and I think it's something clubs are going to love."

"We don't have any confirmed tour dates at this time, but the band will be accessible," Scott adds. "We are working on some large events for college and the band will be making appearances in the U.S., but nothing is confirmed right now. I don't have a marketing plan that will target one group of people," says Scott. "I think the music is in a genre of its own. This record can be enjoyed and appreciated by almost anyone. This is also a record that almost anyone can play. I had one college station say the album would be great for new music shows, RPM shows, hip-hop shows, jazz shows, new age shows, etc. I have some great remixes on the way from London as well, [which] may broaden the spectrum even further. I just want as many people as possible to hear this record."

The Seduction Of Claude Debussy will arrive in stores on June 15, and the record will go for radio adds on May 3.

Radio 200: 98-21 Core Radio: #24 debut Adds: #11 with 26 reports Triple A: 19-15

Though Tom Waits is a larger-than-life veteran of popular music, his strange and spooky music and quirky career make him the quintessential college radio singer-songwriter. Mule Variations (Epitaph) is Waits's first album for punk label Epitaph, and it should do a lot to bring this great artist to a new audience. Not that he needs the help, of course: Waits's most recent album (and last for his former label, Island), Black Rider, peaked at #3 on the CMJ chart. With the Planetary Group backing the promotion efforts of the Epitaph staff, Mule Variations leaps to #21 on this week's chart, debuts on the Core chart, makes a steady move up the Triple A chart and garners a fistful of new Adds in the process.

FOUNTAINS OF WAYNE

Radio 200: #41 debut Adds: #3 with 145 reports

The Fountains Of Wayne is essentially a duo of songwriters backed by a variety of musicians, but the infectiously poppy nature of the pair's work keeps the entire affair from ever sounding like a writer's exercise. With one songwriter, Chris Collingwood, responsible for the title track to the movie That Thing You Do!, and the other, Adam Schlesinger, also a member of the band Ivy, Fountains Of Wayne come with a builtin fanbase to enjoy Utopia Parkway's (Atlantic) delectable songs and wacky lyrics. You can also credit indie promotion company The Syndicate for the album's strong first week: 145 reported adds and the top debut on the Radio 200.

Radio 200: 171-46 Core Radio: #49 debut

College radio continues to welcome new "post-rock" albums onto its playlists, and The Calendar Of Unlucky Days (Jade Tree) is the most recent example. Euphone is a band that works within a plethora of rhythmic structures while also incorporating as many genres (i.e. rock, jazz, dub, funk) into the mix as possible, making for an album that can be a real challenge to the assumptions of the average listener. Luckily, Euphone has indie promo company McGathy to help with the translation, and the album moves 125 positions on the Radio 200 chart this week.

UNDERWORLD

Radio 200: #51 debut Adds: #1 with 206 reports RPM: #5 debut

Triple A Adds: #1

If these numbers for Underworld's first week at radio don't give you an idea of how well Beaucoup Fish (V2) will likely do in the coming weeks, you're an awfully big skeptic. Not only does the electronic dance trio's first album for V2 (Underworld's former label home was TVT) nab over 200 Adds to easily take #1, but it manages a #51 debut on the Radio 200 at the same time, along with a top-five debut at RPM and top Add honors at Triple A. Watch for a Last Word on this hot album in next week's New Music Report, but in the meantime, catch on to the Underworld wave by giving Beaucoup Fish some additional spins on the home player and seeing what all the fuss is about.

As part of the expanding Tunes.com family of music sites, Rolling Stone Radio has also been growing, adding new specialty channels and features. In addition to genre-specific channels that play Modern Rock, Electronica, Dance Hits, etc., Rolling Stone Radio recently landed a superstar DI in David Bowie. DBRN (David Bowie Radio Network) boasts a handpicked weekly playlist that covers rock and pop from the '50s through today. Bowie makes for an interesting host. On top of the fact that he's worked with or is friends with a good part of his playlist, he drops in a few secrets about himself and the music that you couldn't get anywhere else. (He 'fesses up to ripping off the Hollywood Argyles!). Rolling Stone Radio uses a customized RealPlayer interface that allows for news and links to Rolling Stone info on the artists on the playlist. Listeners can make requests, vote on songs and chat with other listeners as well. And of course, there are plenty of ways for you to spend your dime, including a direct link to CD purchases through Amazon.com.

RollingStone.com. Using Microsoft's latest version of the Windows Media Player, BigVideo

In other Tunes/RollingStone news, Rolling Stone Radio has acquired some star power by picking up David Bowie's Radio Network. Bowie will hand-pick the network's playlist, which will feature the Thin White Duke's favorite tunes — by artists ranging from Elvis to Goldie - drawn from five decades of music.

PROLAPSE

Ghosts Of Dead Aeroplanes (Jetset)

A cursory listen to Ghosts Of Dead Aeroplanes might give the impression that Prolapse has gone all trendy and electronic on us. While the Leeds-based band has certainly softened its Fall-like guitar ruckus to emphasize grooves, drones and keyboards, the group hasn't quite traded its patented harshness and arty vocal harangues for DI remixes. Prolapse's fourth album still rages, but with newfound subtlety and stylishness. When the studio tinkering and effects totally obscure the delightfully rough, scratch-pop edges, the record lags with the fatigue of a purely transitional effort. However, dark horses such as the evil, clanging "Cylinders V12 Beats Cylinders 8" and the automated, sexy "After After" are both daring and successful in their bracing experimentalism. Juxtaposed against songs that recall earlier Prolapse efforts, these new twists make for extremely satisfying diversions.

MIKE NESS

Cheating At Solitaire (Time Bomb)

During his many years as the frontman of classic SoCal punk band Social Distortion,

Mike Ness made music that was, on the surface, built on the principles of rebellious rock 'n' roll. But the soul of the singer's snarl has always been tied to folk movements that date back to Woody Guthrie. Ness was one of the first rock 'n' rollers to find parallels between the alienated outcasts of '70s punk and the disenchanted protesters of American roots music. For his solo debut, the singer/guitarist completely strips away Social D's punk veneer to reveal his affection for the bare, ragged glory of the past. Cheating At Solitaire's material ranges from tear-in-beer ballads to raucous rockabilly numbers, but the unmistakable constants are Ness's distinct growl and his gritty personality, both of which illuminate his stories in a way that should attract both ex-punk rockers and new traditionalists.

KULA SHAKER

Peasants, Pigs And Astronauts (Columbia-CRG) With its debut album K, Kula Shaker proved to the world that swirling, psychedelic Brit-pop was alive and well and being performed by the son of a semi-noteworthy British actress. On Peasants, Pigs, and Astronauts, leader Crispian Mills - son of Hayley Mills, who starred in the 1960 screen classic Pollyanna - has entered the hanging-out-with-Ravi-Shankar phase of his career. With renowned producer Bob Ezrin (Kiss' Destroyer, Peter Gabriel's So) behind the boards, the London quartet's sophomore set sounds an awful lot like a time-warped, 1970-spawned offspring of Jesus Christ Superstar and Nuggets, weaned on a liberal amounts of Eastern mysticism and ethnic music. The tandoori flavorings of K are fully fleshed-out on Peasants, which is spiced with lava lamp organ jams, kaleidoscopic guitar licks and elaborate symphonic arrangements. George Harrison would be proud.

FUNKI PORCINI

The Ultimately Empty Million Pounds (Ninja Tune)

Globetrotting producer Funki Porcini is an architect of post-modern soul. His music, designed with a freak-the-mind-and-the-ass-will-follow mentality, takes specific and undiluted elements of Superfly funk, atmospheric jazz, spy themes, instrumental hip-hop and futuristic "electronica," and mixes those characteristics up into a potent audio concoction that always goes down smooth. The Ultimately Empty Million Pounds, Porcini's third full-length release, is a thrilling audio adventure, in which lazy hip-hop communes with quick-stepping drum 'n' bass, while the James Taylor Quartet discovers its common ground with both James Bond and Richard D. James. This wide-reaching, successfully executed effort proves once again that techno can spawn a bona fide superstar.

CRANBERRIES Bury The Hatchet (Island)

The Cranberries' fourth album is steeped in the two sonic flavors that have always defined the Irish band's successful career: sweet, shimmering ballads and tart, distorted jangle-pop.

Singer and co-songwriter Dolores O'Riordan stratifies her vocals in breathy layers on tender tracks such as "You And Me," while she shoots her voice out in brittle bursts on the punchier numbers, such as the siren-call lead single "Promises." Exemplified on "Copycat," a cynical swipe at a bland music industry, O'Riordan often laces the upbeat songs with attempts at lyrical provocation and/or thoughtfulness, but overall, her softer touch is what lyrically and musically best suits this record. On "Delilah," the most focused entry on Bury The Hatchet, the Cranberries pack strings into their lush, Smiths-inspired rock to really hit their mark. — Steve Ciabattoni

MOCKET

Pro Forma (Kill Rock Stars)

Many have taken note of Mocket's dualistic nature. Its two previous albums careened back and forth between new wave and punk aesthetics. Pro Forma, however, is an evolutionary step forward. Mocket cures its split-personality disorder by mixing the two genres together, placing racing punk rock rhythms beneath mechanized new wave melodies within the same song. In addition, random background noise and subtle electronic noodling fill out the pop racket and solidify the musical transitions. Carolyn Rue's jittery drumming is uniformly excellent and seamless, continuously syncopating her beats with unexpected funkiness. Mocket may have achieved a stylistic uniformity, but Audrey Marrs's riot grrrl purr remains playful and enthralling. — Tad Hendrickson

BACKSLIDERS

Southern Lines (Mammoth)

Alt-country irony does not inform the Backsliders' take on American roots music. Instead, time spent living in trailer parks and working the honkytonk circuit has instilled a g e n u i n e weather-beaten feel into the band. Fronted by the Southern drawl and the songwriting pen of Chip Robinson, the Backsliders still believe that good ol' beer-soaked rock 'n' roll and simple country twang can ease heartbreak and loneliness. The group's third album and first proper studio effort, Southern Lines shows off Robinson's penchant for classic, pedal steel-laced stompers, as well his gravitation towards more Nebraska-informed ruminations. Backed by granite-solid musicans, the songwriter's take on the sub-Mason-Dixon landscape is about as straightforward and as accomplished as they come.

ANDRE WILLIAMS & THE SADIES

Red Dirt (Bloodshot)

Gravel-throated R&B obscurity Andre

Williams works hard to prove that he's one badass son-of-a-bitch. But what separates him from likeminded dirty old men is that he makes it look so easy. For the revered, revived eccentric's collaboration with the countrified Sadies, Mr. Rhythm casts his voodoo spell with laidback naturalism, re-affirming his sordid mastery on such well-worded originals as "She's A Bag Of Potato Chips" and "My Sister Stole My Woman." He's also quite convincing on a hot cover of Johnny Paycheck's "Pardon Me (I've Got Someone To Kill)." The Sadies dish out an appropriate, if twangy, swamp-soul, though their slide guitars and fiddles become distracting when the band unwisely loses its way in the barnyard. Still, any combo that backs up a guy who rhymes "truckers" with "motherfuckers" is more than okay by us. — Jordan N. Mamone

MARMOSET

Today It's You (Secretly Canadian)

Somewhat akin to the tiny primate from which the band takes its name, Marmoset's playful screeches and herky-jerky bursts of energy occasionally suggest a troupe of miniature monkeys. More often, however, the menacing, stripped-down Today It's You evokes images of a troubled human being. Using a lo-fi palette consisting of two stammering guitars, tinny percussion and lusty-yet-lethargic vocals, the Indianapolis quartet paints an unglamorous portrait of sex, drugs, sleaze and general bad taste. The dark, dirty stuff is often interrupted by abrupt rhythmic changes that add a quirky urgency to the tracks, all 20 of which clock in at under two and a half minutes. Particularly effective, "Raincoats In Sea" uses whiny organ to embellish Marmoset's slightly disturbing picture.

CROWN ROYALS

Funky-Do! (Estrus)

This follow-up to the Crown Royals' 1997-released All Night Burner will kick start your heart and put the groove in your moves. Hitting every change on the one, the Chicago instrumental four-piece is a minimal R&B unit with tight rhythm guitar and an even tighter rhythm section. Like Booker T & The MGs, these cats pump out endless grooves, paying unflagging attention to the nuances and rhythmic intricacies of the genre. Tenor saxophonist Ken Vandermark stands out front, eschewing his trademark jazz stylings for in-the-pocket, innovative melodic variations. These four regular guys-in-suits ain't got no funky 'do's, but they certainly got the - Tad Hendrickson funk.

DDT

Urban Observer (Music Company/Elektra-EEG)

It's easy to hastily dismiss DDT as a manufactured frat-rock band created for a generation of bleached-blonde, party-minded college boys. But a more careful, open-minded analysis Urban Observer reveals that a dry sense of humor and a devil-may-care attitude pervades these power guys' chords and rapped vocals.

After all, Metallica skinsman and all-around smart guy Lars Ulrich "discovered" the group. DDT's debut contains several keepers, namely the knee-slapping "Blue Hair Crime" - which vocalist Brian Howse sealsoff with an '80s glam-metal howl that rivals Rob Halford's yelpings for Judas Priest and the funkafied "Walkabout." In a pop music era full of confectionery, teenybopper fluff, it's nice to hear that a commercial rock band with some musical substance can still - Amy Sciarretto slash and burn.

JULIANA THEORY

Understand This Is A Dream (Tooth & Nail)

Brett Detar, the vocalist for Juliana Theory, dresses according to a strict rockabilly code. His band, however, is unquestionably an emo-core unit. Understand This Is A Dream surges with waves of honesty and desperation. Guitars hum like saws, drums pound with military precision, energetic melodies shuffle by lyrics reflect on such pure, unfettered subjects as childhood and past loves. Detar's singing takes the cake, though. The man knows how to project for maximum efficacy, whispering or wailing or simply carrying a tune depending on his mood, while the group follows suit behind him. Juliana Theory certainly knows how to use its music to manipulate its audience's emotional responses, which is quite enviable. - Kelso Jacks

METALUNAS

X-Minus-One (American Pop Project)

Like most good surf rock records, the Metalunas' X-Minus-One is a concept album reflecting some otherworldly, cosmic marriage between reverbed guitars and sci-fi schtick. The opus opens with a staidly delivered, War Of The Worldsdescended monologue and proceeds with 13 interstellar, yet groovy tunes. While noted Canadian Mark Brodie plays guitar in the Metalunas, the wet 'n' wild X-Minus-One sounds more like it derives from a fun-in-the-sun, Californian point of origin. The trio even sun-dries its primarily instrumental 'board romps with handclaps and a Farfisa organ. Certain parts of X-Minus-One could double as spy movie soundtracks, but for the most part, this beachfriendly effort is ripe for riding the crests of - Amy Sciarretto huge Hawaiian waves.

PAPA VEGAS

Hello Vertigo (Sid Flips-RCA)

Papa Vegas's fresh-faced pop lilt and big-guitar posturings are the ideal addition to the crop of '90s groups filling out the Active Rock format. Raised on both new wave and classic rock, the Michigan-based band couches its bright vocal harmonies in squeakyclean production and forceful, straight-ahead musicianship. Synthesizers mingle with dense layers of guitars, expanding the album's already-big sound. The instantly accessible wall-of-vocals is Papa's most noticeable attention-getter, though. This unabashedly major-label act doesn't create anything fancy or overtly retro on Hello Vertigo, which is merely a well-recorded festival of simple pop hooks and alt-rock bombast. If arena-ready guitar-pop is your bag, then Papas Vegas will — Colin Helms satisfy on nearly every level.

A&R PICK

The Brother EP (Stinky Pony)

From the minute "Mean And Not Enough"

kicks into gear like a souped-up John Deer tractor, it's easy to hear why the Tares' crisp blend of country, roots rock and college guitar rock has earned them so many local accolades, including Northwest Arkansas Music Awards for best album, best rock band and best alternative band. Over the course of The Brother EP's six songs, the Tares offer enough infectious melodies and biting riffs to make them one of the most deserving figures on the alt-country landscape. #### I'M YOUR Fan

SNAPCASE

Lookinglasself (Victory)

Save five or six titles, my personal CD collection houses the bulk of the Victory Records catalog. The most worthwhile Victory disc I've thrown down hard-earned cash for is 1993's Lookinglasself, the debut juggernaut by Buffalo hardcore band Snapcase. I had heard about the band's Comatose 7" from several fellow scenesters. Looking back, the money I spent may have been the best 12 dollars I've ever spent. The album constantly pays me back, providing me with 45 minutes of intense aural and mental pleasure. While most hardcore critics praise 1997's phenomenal, Helmet-esque Progression Through Unlearning as Snapcase's crowning glory, Lookinglasself gets me in my gut every time, even six years after the fact. Though my disc has some weird manufacturer's error — the first track bleeds into the second — I treasure the possession like an emerald, for its carcass-raw production, distorted guitars, Daryl Taberski's maniacally screaming, and the tenderly personal vet universally applicable lyrics. Back in college, on the back of my Modern American Poetry notebook, I scrawled the lyrics to the title track: "My self-confidence has taught me virtue/Your power was my weakness/My weakness was your power." The words were so prominently displayed that a fellow student asked me where the phrases originated from. She promptly wrote the information down so she could score a copy of the record for herself. I used to listen to the impassioned chant "Incarnation" on my headphones. I'd sing along when I'd walk around, in between classes on campus. At every Snapcase show I attended, I would scramble to the front of the stage - no matter how tightly the venue was packed - as soon as the opening bass line to "Incarnation" rippled throughout the building. I'd scream along as is my life depended on it. At - Amy Sciarretto times, I've felt like it has.

For Fans Of: Helmet, Hatebreed, Avail, Boy Sets Fire, Sick Of It All

BioFact: Singer Daryl Taberski is the only remaining original member of Snapcase; the band is working on new material; Equal Vision Records will release a split EP with Boy Sets Fire in May; Victory will issue a new full-length in 2000.

I'm Your Fan is a weekly column in which individual CMJ editors sound off about music and artists, both new and old, that are near and dear to their hearts.

DA DAMN PHREAK NOIZE PHUNK

Electric Crate Digger (Studio K7)

Once Electric Crate Digger heats up, you'll have no problem guessing the better-known alias of Da Damn Phreak Noize Phunk. The funked-up, squelchy 303 acid maneuvers creeping through your speakers could only be created by Hardfloor's Oliver Bondzio and Ramon Zenker. Legendary for their aggressive, textured techno attacks, the pair's Phreak Noize project finds the German innovators once again trying their hands at trip-hop (their first foray since a 1995 EP). The music flows from dense, yet mellow, robotic jam sessions to stony, jazz-influenced chill-outs, making this funky collection a necessary edition to any techno-groove library.

VNV NATION

Praise The Fallen (Wax Trax!-TVT)

First released in Europe in early 1998, Praise The Fallen, an intense and intriguing industrial release by Great Britain's VNV (Victory Not Vengeance) Nation, is now available to American ears. Moving between dark hymnal compositions and tracks of more straight-forward aggression, this deftly executed album is guaranteed to be a favorite of disciples of hard electronics.

recent hard house remixes of Run-DMC's "It's Like That" and House Of Pain's "Jump Around." Of late, beat-infused versions of these tunes have inspired fans to crowd onto (or flee from) many a dancefloor. In keeping with his now-recognizable formula (yawn), Nevins's latest re-creation is "Mickey" — yep, a series of '90s-groove remixes of that Toni Basil anthem from the '80s. returned to the studio to record a clean version of "My Fault," a possible follow-up single to his breakthrough hit "My Name Is." The radio-friendly take will contain an identical chorus, but Em will twist the song's storyline to make it clear that his lyrical subject, Susan, dies from an allergic reaction to mushrooms on pizza, and not from the psychedelic kind. #### HERBALISER

Very Mercenary (Ninja Tune)

Long revered in electronica circles, British duo Jake Wherry and DI Ollie Teeba have combined nouveau-soul, acid-jazz breaks and smoothed-out hip-hop grooves to craft a brilliant album that should finally earn them respect in the hip-hop community. Topping their 1997 debut, Blow Your Headphones, Very Mercenary features a richer beat palette, as well as a tighter sonic focus. From the smokey soul burner "Mission Impossible" (featuring New York MC What What) to the full-on turntable battle "Who's The Realest, the album covers the entire abstract hip-hop spectrum. Also check for a blazing performance by Bahamadia on the hypnotic "When I Shine," and hot verses by Canada's Dream Warriors on "Road Of Many Signs."

YAT-KHA Dalai Beldiri (Wicklow)

Yat-Kha is folk-rock group from the remote Central Asian province of Tuva that is led by Albert Kuvezin, one of the founding members of the acclaimed Tuvan group Huun-Huur-Tu. While Huun-Huur-Tu spotlights traditional Tuvan music, Yat-Kha boldly takes this ancient and exotic music into the present and future (its previous release was titled Yenisei Punk). Present are the typical styles of Tuvan "throat singing" made famous by Huun-Huur-Tu, as are the Staro-Vera mystic drumming and exotic instruments such as the bass shanzi and morinhuur.

VARIOUS ARTISTS

Africa North (World Class)

Islamic pop music is an incredible mix of styles and sounds. Here, the ancient sounds of the ghaita, the oud and the darbukka drum mingle with the strings of Cairo film orchestras, folk instruments from the Atlas mountains, and even such Western pop elements as drum machines and synthesizers. Africa North shines a welcome spotlight on some of the trance-inducing pop hits of contemporary North Africa.

Tribal Gatherings: Native American Inter-tribal Music (Music Of The World)

The music of Native American peoples is too often under-represented in the catch-all genre of "world music." This collection spotlights an excellent selection of social and ceremonial music from the Navajo, Zuni, Pueblo, Cheyenne, Hopi, Kiowa and Comanche peoples. The songs are varied, including group and solo singing, drums and rattles.

EDDI READER

Angels & Electricity (Compass)

The fact that Eddi Reader is the only artist for whom Ron Sexsmith has composed a song isn't so surprising considering the sound and mood of Reader's Angels & Electricity. Sexsmith's "On A Whim" and Eddi's own artfully crafted songs on this album share an affinity for warm vocals and beautiful vocal phrasings. A former Glasgow, Scotland, factory worker, Reader used music to escape her grueling life, eventually moving to London where she quickly grabbed a backing vocalist gig for the Eurythmics and fronted Fairground Attraction. On her fourth solo album, Reader co-produces with musical collaborator Boo Hewerdine, opting for an acoustic and organic sound that allows her intelligent song style to shine through.

RANKINS

Uprooted (EMI Music Canada)

On their seventh album, the Rankins give listeners the sort of sweet, family-tight country harmonies that we've come to expect on songs such as "Moving On." But the family's musical vocabulary expands on "Long Way To Go," featuring Heather's rockin' vocals in an ensemble that sounds like Sheryl Crow and a few sisters fronting the Allman Brothers for a Southern rock tribute.

For Fans Of: Iris DeMent, Lynn Miles, Sheryl Crow Recommended Tracks: "Long Way To Go," "Parlour Medley," "One Day | Walk"

In May, Motörhead will roll out on a full North American tour, with Hatebreed and Dropkick loud rock news

Murphys...System Of A Down won't be playing the McGathy party due to "scheduling conflicts." But don't fret; the lineup for the weekend of May 13-15 will still blast NYC. Nothingface, Codeseven, Orange 9MM, Stinkbug, Roadsaw, Reveille, Dripping Goss, and Static-X will blaze the trail on Thursday, at Downtime. Staind. Queens Of The Stone Age. Loudmouth, and Honky Toast will play Friday night's scorching showcase at CBGB. As if that weren't enough rock for you weary souls, Buckcherry, Shades Apart. Orgy, and Verbena will convene at Irving Plaza on Saturday evening...Nashville Pussy and Buckcherry will not perform on the second stage at this summer's Ozzfest, as previously reported. Instead, Fear Factory will headline the second stage. Drain STH. (Continued on page 41)

EMPEROR IX Equilibrium (Century Media)

Few Scandinavian black metal acts inspire more fear than Emperor. The band's former drummer is in jail for murder, and its current guitarist Samoth did time for torching a Norwegian church. As for its music, Emperor's sprawling symphonic metal is played at the kind of Autobahn-worthy speed that could rip the skin from your face. The versatile Ihsahn plays guitar and bass as well as delivering screechy vocals in the same vein as black metal's most revered despot, King Diamond. The operatic songs on IX Equilibrium leave a deep chill in the bone, especially the ambitious "Elegy Of Icaros," which is quite possibly the slowest, deathiest Emperor tune ever.

SYSTEM OF A DOWN

Sugar (EP) (American/Columbia-CRG)

Loud rock radio has a special place in its heart for the politically fired-up System Of A Down. The band's eponymous debut stayed planted on CMJ's Loud Rock Chart for 20 weeks last summer, even peaking at a lofty #2. SOAD rewards radio's support with this seven-song, radio-only promo EP. This special release contains the chunky, previously unreleased "Storaged," as well as powerhouse versions (both explicit and edited for airplay) of the down-tuned anthems "Sugar" and "War," recorded during a January New York City show.

For Fans Of: Rage Against The Machine, Soulfly, Sevendust Recommended Tracks: "Sugar (Live Version)," "Storaged," "War?(Live Version)"

Pissing Razors join the ranks of power metal tuans like Pantera and Machine Head by erecting massive, Goliath-sized grooves. The slaughtering drum beats, firestorming riffs, and militaristic barks of the 13-song Cast Down The Plague will knock you down like a tired boot camp cadet.

INDIGENOUS PEOPLE Captured Live In Brazil (Jazzateria)

Indigenous People is a ethno-fusion project helmed by pianist Marc Cary. Captured Live In Brazil is to take the funky, earthy jazz sound of the five-piece group (clearly inspired by '70s groups like Catalyst or the Headhunters) as it absorbs the influences, sights and sounds while traveling and performing in Brazil. Recorded live on to two track in Sao Paulo, Brazil, this is a smoking live set of phenomenal jazz. Especially noteworthy besides Cary's funky keys are Daniel Moreno's percussion and Yarbrough Charles Laws's eloquent flute playing.

When noted downtown pianist Borah Bergman tangles with venerable saxophonist Oliver Lake live onstage at the Knitting Factory, sparks fly. This collaboration is full of intriguing ideas and exciting juxtapositions.

Static-X, Puya, Slipknot, hed (pe), Pushmonkey, Flashpoint and Apartment 26 have been confirmed, as well. Judas Priest had to bow out of the tour in order to work on its debut for Atlantic Records...A multi-cultural metal-fest will take place when Brit rockers Skunk Anansie, Brazilian bashers Soulfly, and German, pyrotechnic stage warriors Rammstein hit the road in June. Skunk bassist Cass was recently in NYC doing press for his band's forthcoming Post Orgasmic Chill. When asked about the tour, he responded, "We're very excited. I'm dying to play with Soulfly because of Max Cavalera. I don't know too much about Rammstein except that they set themselves on fire. So, I'm excited but bringing a fire extinguisher!" Skunk Anansie later went to Boston, to hang out in the studio with the dudes from Sevendust. Skunk vocalist Skin is rumored to sing on a forthcoming Sevendust track... Monster Magnet and Marilyn Manson brought their hedonistic rock to a half-full Meadowlands in New Jersey. Magnet's Dave Wyndorf, the quintessential rock star, with sexy leather hip huggers and pelvic thrusts, made me proud to be a native of the Garden State. Manson's set didn't feature any of those burning crucifixes (or parking-lot protesters) that allegedly scared Courtney Love off the tour. But Marilyn did exhibit his signature decadence, with burning American flags, stilts, and explosions of glitter...Your favorite aggro rock label Roadrunner is redesigning its Web site, located at www.roadrunnerrecords.com. Given the forthcoming summer avalanche of heavily anticipated skull-crushers, the warm months should prove hot and sweaty in the Roadrunner offices. The label will issue Machine Head's The Burning Red and Type O Negative's World Coming Down, alongside the debuts by Amen, Downer, Workhorse Movement and Slipknot (looks like Insane Clown Posse, sounds like Korn, not the same group as the namesake '80s hardcore band).

also promised that the COP Web site will be up and running as soon as humanly possible — dann Internet...And finally, our hearts go out to Chase and Re-Constriction Records, which officially closed its doors during the second week of April. May the company rest in peace. Send Net-cards and condolences to chase@ttlnet.com. (P.S. A bit of late-breaking, parting trivia: It appears that David L. Smith, the guy who maintained the Re-Constriction Web site, is the same David L. Smith who was recently arrested for spreading the "Melissa" cyber-virus. Fitting, huh?)

D.'s highly anticipated collaboration with Big Pun and Eightball — as well as cuts featuring Q-Tip and Cee-Lo...The supergroup Four Horsemen, comprised of Canibus, Killah Priest, Ras Kass and Kurupt, has finally recorded its first cut. "Horsementality" will appear on Canibus' new Universal Records EP, The C Quel. The Horsemen are also laying down a track for the next Pharoahe Monch (ex-Organized Konfusion) album...Despite the rumors that L.L. Cool J has given up the microphone for the silver screen, MTV.com has reported that the Ripper is currently hard at work on his eighth Def Jam album, which is tentatively scheduled for a fall release...Hip-hop chanteuse Erykah Badu began recording her latest slice of wax at her home studio in Dallas, with plans to finish the still-untitled project in New York City. With luck, the effort should be ready by the end of the summer...The list of guests for Run-D.M.C's Arista's debut, Crown Royal, reads like a who'swho of the hip-hop's elite. For its first album in six years, the Hollis crew has already finished tracks with Nas, Fat Joe, Hot 97 DJ Angie Martinez, Rahzel of the Roots, and Slick Rick. At presstime, the group is awaiting confirmation from potential collaborators such as Lil' Kim, the Beastie Boys, DJ Premier, Rick Rubin and Pete Rock. The two-CD set, which will hit the streets in August, will consist of an album's worth of new tracks and a second disc of greatest hits...Bad Boy Entertainment is finally carrying out its much-whispered-about plans for a new Notorious B.I.G. album of unreleased and remixed material. Under the working title Born Again, the collection is currently being worked on by the Hitmen, Sean "Puffy" Combs and Biggie's mother Voletta Wallace. The trio is sifting through over 50 tracks of raw, unfinished material that spans the entirity of the rapper's short-but-historic career. Bad Boy is planning to press-up the goods in June.

THE LAST WORD

By M. Tye Comer

blur at 13

hese days, Damon Albarn — frontman of Blur and designated posterboy of the Britpop era — seems somewhat, shall we say, reclusive. His speaking voice is worn, weary and washed-out, barley breaking a whisper as his deep, gravely words drip through the telephone receiver at the speed of molasses. He exhibits the kind of energy, or lack thereof, you'd expect from a man whose band is on the last leg of a worldwide, year-long tour — yet Blur has only been on the road for a few weeks, promoting its latest release, 13.

Albarn's misanthropic tendencies also manifested themselves during the band's recent trip to America. New York City and Los Angeles were the only U.S. stops during the all-too-brief North American campaign, but Albarn still seems to be squirming in his skin at the thought of returning to the States. It's as if he had played every secondary-market city in the country.

"Well... it's one of those things which is like...[pregnant pause] we could do more [American shows], but... it's not something that's...[pregnant pause] completely written in blood," he growls. Will Blur return to play more American shows? "Well...[pause] no. We just sort of made the decision to give heavy touring a rest on this album and see how we fair without dealing with that sort of...[pregnant pause] relentless schedule."

During the two gigs the band did perform Stateside, Albarn, guitarist Graham Coxon, drummer Dave Rowntree and bassist Alex James — who were once known for their energetic, acrobatic displays of dynamic pop posturing — seemed downright stoic, giving fans little more than a by-the-book live interpretation of 13, performed with only the slightest regard for stage presence or audience participation.

Albarn does not apologize for his onstage lack of enthusiasm. "Beforehand, I would have been really worried if an audience wasn't going crazy," he says. "But it's just not the way it goes this time. We just... play [the record] from beginning to end and don't really stop. There's no sort of gags or anything. It's just a different way of approaching it and it's a really nice change for us just to concentrate on our music."

So what gives? What happened to the cheeky, smarmy blokes who coined one pop-perfect Britrock staple after another, for nearly a decade? Why the long-face for a band so enamored of the spotlight that it used to impishly reschedule single release dates to do publicized chart-battle with the brothers Gallagher? To Albarn, the answer is quite simple: Blur no longer concerns itself with bullshit. The band grown up to let "the music [speak] for itself."

"I just look at [Blur's early material] as kind of a reflection on the age I was then," he says. "Turning 30 just completely changed things. The whole nature of the songs has changed and I just found a different vein to work in. I think we're one of those bands who have taken a long time to get to where we kind of wanted to get, so I feel that it's been a sometimes really funny and sometimes really painful learning curve."

The first indication of the band's changing focus came with its 1997 self-titled release — a marked departure from the more straightforward, traditionally "British"-sounding fare found on albums such as 1995's The Great Escape and 1994's Parklife. But not even the grungy guitar antics and American indie rock leanings of Blur could have prepared listeners for the radically poignant 13.

Taking its name from Albarn's recording studio ("It's just a really nice little space and we always have gotten good things out of it, so we thought it deserved a mention," he says), 13 is the most wildly eclectic and impassioned venture on which the band has ever embarked. Gone are Albarn's affected Cockney accent and his lyrical fascination with common British existence. In place of those traits sits a deeply personal and painfully executed array of songs, the subject matters of which seem to center on the singer's failed relationship with Elastica's Justine Frischmann. Strange background noises drift through folky, acoustic exorcisms, sung by Albarn in his genuine, true-to-life voice. Many tracks are models of organized chaos, marked by endearing audio imperfections. The material was constructed from a wonderfully uninhibited recording experience, which was facilitated by the album's producer, William Orbit.

"[Orbit] made the recording process different by turning up on the first day of the session," Albarn recalls. "I played my demos to everyone and he just recorded everything we did for the next four days — and that's basically what the album is. In the past, it would have been a process of getting the songs together and then going into the studio with Stephen [Street] and saying, 'This is the way it is,' because we'd already fussed around with stuff and tried to make it more succinct. William encouraged us to stick with our first instincts, and that just kind of effected everything we do now."

The overall construction of 13 is directly related to the band's current ideas about popdom. The record presents a subtler, more somber, older and wiser-sounding version of Blur, an edition based upon a newfound spiritual and artistic freedom. Albarn may not have very much to say at present, but that may be because he has already said it all. Blur's new music really does speak for itself, and, for now, that's the only voice the band's audience really needs to hear.

INDUSTRY PROFILE

Interview by Alex Ellerson

Almost exactly one year ago, CMJ reviewed a compilation called Deconstructing Beck, an album we described as "a maniacai, and at times unlistenable, amalgam of Beck product." (CMJ New Music Report, # 571 -May 25, 1998.) Released by the unholy trinity of ®™ark ("artmark," the self-styled "clearinghouse for anti-corporate activism"). Negativiand's Seeland label, and the appropriately named Illegal Art label, Deconstructing Beck will be joined on April 9 by the collective's second project. Extracted Celluloid. As the title suggests, the tracks included on the record slice and dice sounds from movies such as Titanic, Saturday Night Fever and Wizard Of Oz, creating from them a sometimes dissonant, but always interesting and unique collection of sounds. (For more information. check out the label's site at http:// www.detritus.net/iilegalart.) We recently caught up with Illegal Art label head, Philo T. Farnsworth (pictured), and ®™ark spokesperson Ray Thomas, and got an update on their trials and tribulations.

When we last spoke to you --- around the time of Deconstructing Beck's release - Geffen Records had sent you a cease-and-desist email, the lads from Negativland had subsequently referred you to counsel, and you had responded to Geffen by saying that "Illegal Art and ®™ark are currently referring this matter to an attorney." In a company email that you sent out on March 30 announcing the release of Extracted Celluloid, you stated that, "[a]fter [receiving] threatening letters from BMG, Geffen, and Beck's own lawyer, this ®™ark -sponsored disc escaped untouched from any real legal action." Can you fill us in on the legal machinations that transpired between the first time that we spoke to you didn't pursue it further. Unofficially, we found out that Beck's management told the lawyers to leave us alone. We also heard a rumor coming out of Geffen that Negativland's involvement influenced the decision to not pursue the matter in court, as Negativland are known for creating a lot of bad publicity in such situations.

Farnsworth: Basically, nothing happened. We chose to ignore the threatening letters, as they were not court orders, and they [Geffen et al.]

"Major record labels use threatening tactics and large sums of money to settle matters and then everyone just assumes that they were right."

Is it your opinion that the failure to clear samples used on your records constitutes "fair use," or that your uses constitute parody, à la 2 Live Crew's version of "Pretty Woman"? (In a landmark 1994 Supreme Court case, the Court found that 2 Live Crew's parody of the Roy Orbison song "Pretty Woman" did not necessarily violate copyrights held by Orbison's publishing company, Acuff-Rose Music, Inc., simply because the song was being sold for the commercial benefit of 2 Live Crew. The Court noted that a parody that incorporates copyrighted materials into it can qualify as a "fair use" in certain instances when the use of those materials creates a new composition that "comments" on the original composition.) Farnsworth: It definitely should be considered "fair use." Parody is the best legal defense for "fair use" and, according to the Supreme Court's definition of parody, we come close but fall into a gray area. What we do isn't as close to classic parody as 2 Live Crew was, but our projects ridicule the borrowed material enough to justify it as parody. What we would really like to see is for "fair use" to be more lenient towards tranformative reuse and then we would not have to rely so heavily on qualifying it as parody.

In a March 29 press release announcing all of the different projects that ®™ark is working on, you make numerous references to, "Deconstructing Beck, a compilation that illegally sampled the music of recording artist Beck," and your new "system for the theft and redistribution of commercialized video art." Are you using that type of provocative language just for the marketing effect? And if not, aren't you undermining your own legal positions?

Thomas: Yes, we are just using that provocative language for the marketing effect. We did the same thing with Deconstructing Beck, not quite knowing how it would turn out, and in fact not entirely self-consciously. An interesting few paragraphs about it are in the Time Digital article at the top of http://www.rtmark.com/pressdb.html — I think they make a good case for our hyperbole or seemingly self-destructive language. [Time Digital called the strategy "stupid, like a new-mediasavvy fox."] The Village Voice article, I think it was, very boldly quoted the "incredibly stupid" quote (as a graphic, you know what I mean...). It's in our video, in fact. It's so funny. (Bringing IT to YOU! can be viewed in RealVideo in the Materials/Video section).

What do you think are the biggest problems with the current state of copyright law in America?

Farnsworth: One of the biggest problems is that there are too many cases that have never been tested in the courts. Major record labels use threatening tactics and large sums of money to settle matters and then everyone just assumes that they were right.

Do you have any opinion on what's going on with the MP3 revolution and the copyright implications of that? Do you have any plans to move ®™ark in that direction?

Farnsworth: The MP3 revolution is concerned with making a copy without any alteration. We're more interested in being able to reuse something in order to create something new and different.

What are the long-term business strategles for ®™ark? Any plans to add a "dot com" to the end of your name, do a multi-million dollar IPO, and then become one of the wealthy but faceless corporations that you now attack?

Thomas: Well, we did do the "dot com" already — sometimes we refer to ourselves simply as "®™ark dot com." Both versions are fully trademarked. Adding the "dot com" does seem like a sound business decision, and could up our cultural ante to the point where an IPO would make sense. Of course, we'd have to find something else to "offer," since our truck and currency is cultural, not financial, and we have no financial income now nor foreseen, only cultural and more cultural and more cultural, until we are as big as any of the multi-nationals on that particular front. Faceless we already are, we hope.

Your press release notes that human beings are fast becoming "corporate appendages." Which appendages would those be?

Thomas: Well, this is Andrei Codrescu [®<sup>TM</sup>ark Media Fund manager and NPR commentator] speaking, and we cannot speak for him. Our own (unofficial!) interpretation of Mr. Codrescu's statement is: Humans are ceasing to think for themselves. We must keep our more salacious imaginings for a different interview.
