Sony Japan To Sell Music Online

With the online music boom picking up steam in the U.S., Sony Music Entertainment Japan announced that it would begin to sell music downloads over the Internet, perhaps as early as December. Sony Music Entertainment Japan, 71% of which is owned by Sony, will sell titles by select Japanese artists. Sony spokesperson Akira Takayasu told News.com that one song would cost approximately between $1.70 and $4.40. Sony is now the first Japan-based music company to announce plans to sell tracks online. The company has not selected an audio compression format yet, though Senior Director of Sony Music Entertainment Japan, Yasushi Ide, told the the Industry Standard that, because the MP3 format does not offer copyright protection, Sony will probably use a different format. The company has already entered into a relationship with Microsoft, which manufactures the secure Windows Media Technologies 4.0. In May, Sony said that it would make music from its catalog available for distribution using the audio platform.

BEN HARPER AND THE INNOCENT CRIMINALS

Burn To Shine (Virgin)

Diversity appears to be the key ingredient of Ben Harper's mojo. The 29-year-old folk-soul brother writes songs the way a wax junkie spends cash in a used record shop stockpiled with his entire want list. Harper wears his influences on his sleeve, cultivating and harvesting the rustic beauty of Mississippi John Hurt, the kinetic power of Jimi Hendrix, the poetic R&B of Curtis Mavfield and the ragged spirituality of Bob Marley. Yet Harper's first three critically lauded works consist of fairly unique music that only hints at a certain potential greatness. That greatness is Burn To Shine, which is easily Harper's most personal and best work to date. On this record, the musician is not a songwriter, but a full-on pop composer, who never compromises his soul, even when he's stirring up a diffuse melting pot of styles. He explores his early-'70s R&B roots on "The Woman In You," and he tries his hand at human beatboxing on the sweet, funkdafied folk number "Steal My Kisses." The strolling clarinet on "Suzie Blue" even tips its hat to vintage Dixieland jazz. In Harper's mind, opposites really do attract. - Ron Hart

PROMISE RING

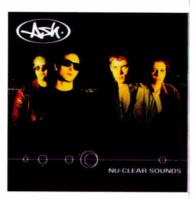

Very Emergency! (Jade Tree)

Over the course of two full-lengths and a singles collection, Milwaukee's hard-touring Promise Ring has amassed a large following of so-called "emo-core" or "post-hardcore" fans. This scene is characterized by its dynamic, guitar-driven style molded after the work of such genre titans as Rites Of Spring and Sunny Day Real Estate, but new favorites the Promise Ring are expanding these kids' definition of the abovementioned musical terms. Closer in sound to the manic pop thrill of the Wedding Present or the Pixies, Very Emergency!, the quartet's third album, is brimming with ringing hooks and a deepening sense of thoughtful pop craft. Not above writing a simple love song, vocalist Davey von Bohlen dreams up honest and straightforward lyrics that don't hide meaning in poetic subterfuge. The group embellishes these tunes with an assured but bittersweet maturity that reaches well beyond pop's often mundane sentiments. Hardly your little brother's "emo-core," Very Emergency! is an artistic, honest and beautiful album, a revelation for old punk fans and a pop invitation for new ones. — Tad Hendrickson

ASH

Nu-Clear Sounds (DreamWorks)

In anticipation of the domestic release of Nu-Clear Sounds and in an effort to ditch its teen-rocker image, Ash made an R-rated video for the song "Numbskull." Shot in a seedy hotel room and featuring plenty of nudity, simulated sex, "real" blood and "actual" drug use, the clip is an awfully hamfisted way to make a point. Even more importantly, though, the visual gaudiness does a disservice to the album, which stands tall on its own merits, free of such overcompensation. Nu-Clear Sounds is saturated with the confidence of a band that's responsible for having recorded two solid, guitar-pop records, both of which were huge commercial successes in England. Consequently, the quartet delivers its tunes with the kind of pop star impudence that only the English can pull off with such magnetic results. From its grimy, Nirvanainspired riffs ("Numbskull," "Projects") to its Oasis-style ballad bombast ("Low Ebb," "Burn Out") to its all-out, hair-shaking rockers ("Fortune Teller," "Death Trip"), Nu-Clear Sounds offers plenty of musical evidence that Ash has left its burdensome, adolescent image behind. These guys have earned peer status among their Brit-pop brethren, many times over.

MIKE VIOLA & THE CANDY BUTCHERS

Falling Into Place (RPM/Columbia-CRG)

New York City's Mike Viola & The Candy Butchers will immediately satisfy your sweet tooth with their consistent ability to efficiently construct memorable, classic pop melodies. The most effective moments on Falling Into Place, ironically enough, occur when Viola cuts back on his excessive arrangements and production trimmings, such as strings or various guitar effects - just check the simple pleasures of the title track, "All I Have," and the honeyed "Doing It The Wrong Way." The band revives chipper, precise pop of a bygone era, a form that has crept back into the past decade of music via artists such as Mathew Sweet and Jason Falkner. If you're familiar with the Viola-performed title track to the film That Thing You Do!, you'll appreciate the infectiousness of his raw, fourchord Beatle-pop. Garth Hudson (The Band) adds keyboards to "Killing Floor" and to the swanky, horn-inflected "Too Much Going On." In addition, Viola's scratchy, vet mellifluous voice offers up the aching ballads "Give Me Some Time" and the sad "Once I Was," the latter of which grows increasingly dramatic as its somber, humalong chorus marches on.

AOL, EMusic In Downloadable Music Agreement

America Online (www.aol.com) has inked a three-year deal with digital music seller EMusic (www.emusic.com). Emusic will provide users of AOL's Spinner.com with ICQ chat services and Winamp digital music players. EMusic and AOL's brands will cross-promote downloadable music products via reciprocal hyperlinks. The companies will also embark on future advertising and marketing initiatives. EMusic will create co-branded sites with Spinner, ICQ and Winamp, as well.

"We're creating a place for music consumers to buy music wherever they happen to be, not necessarily directly from us," Gene Hoffman, President/CEO of EMusic told CMJ. "We want to be one click away from any music consumer on the Internet," he added.

While the financial terms of the non-exclusive deal were not disclosed, EMusic will pay AOL a fixed, three-year marketing fee, in addition to a percentage of transactions. EMusic will sell performance-based warrants to AOL, according to Hoffman. AOL will be entitled to shares of EMusic stock, based on the company's ability to bring customers and sales to EMusic.

"[EMusic] didn't want to have an exclusive relationship. We feel like we want to be in front of MP3 consumers at any place they are on the Web," Hoffman said. "We don't think we're going to be the only game in town down the line. We've locked down premier positioning in the places we were most concerned with, [so] I don't think exclusivity was valuable for either one of us."

Everclear Members Face Assault Charges

On August 24, Everclear frontman Art Alexakis is expected to appear in Austin Municipal Court to face misdemeanor charges of simple assault by contract. The trouble for the guitarist/singer started during a July 31 Coca-Cola promotional concert in Austin, at which he was accused of dumping water over the head of a 17-year-old fan. Alexakis is also accused of throwing a water bottle at the woman during the band's performance. The fan told local police that the incident took place because the band believed that the concertgoer threw a drink on Alexakis. The fan has denied this allegation.

RollingStone.com reported that concertgoers who saw the incident said Alexakis appeared upset after being hit by one of the several cups and bottles that were thrown by the crowd. Reports say that the Everclear leader called audience members "redneck motherfuckers." He also threatened to "beat down" the person who hit him with the cup.

"The singer and guitarist confronted the person they thought was responsible for throwing the drink," Kevin Buchman, spokesman for the Austin police, told RollingStone.com. "The victim in this case did not throw anything."

Everclear guitarist Brian Lehfeldt faces harsher charges. He is being slapped with a Class A misdemeanor for assault with injury, for allegedly kicking the fan in the shoulder.

In a statement issued by Everclear, the band did acknowledge the flying projectiles, but it also claimed that Alexakis urged the crowd to stop throwing objects after he was hit on two occasions. Having made his request, Alexakis was allegedly struck in the face by a glass of liquid. The band left the stage, only to return after being informed that a woman had confessed at the audience's request. As security escorted the woman past the stage, on the way out of the venue, the band said that she began to curse and spit. Everclear claims that an agitated member of its crew poured the water on her head. The woman allegedly grabbed Lehfeldt's leg and tried to pull him off the stage. He claims to have pulled his leg free and pushed her away.

Oasis Says Goodbye To Bonehead

After eight years, Oasis guitarist Paul "Bonehead" Arthurs has left the popular Brit-pop band. The amicable split was largely due to Arthurs's desire to spend more time with his wife and two children. In a statement on the band's official Web site (www.oasisnet.com), Arthurs said, "After a lot of consideration, I have decided to call it a day with Oasis. I've had a fantastic [eight] years in one of the best bands ever to come out of Britain, and now I feel I have come to the stage where I'd like to concentrate on other things in my life, outside of the demands of being in a successful rock and roll band."

Oasis leader Noel Gallagher issued a rather cavalier statement in the NME, saying, "It's hardly Paul McCartney leaving the Reatles"

The guitarist split after completing his work for the next Oasis album, which is due out in February 2000. The group has not made arrangements to find a replacement, despite the rumors about the fill-in possibility of former Smiths guitarist Johnny Marr. A spokesperson for Creation Records, Oasis' U.K. label, said that the rumors were a result of "the U.K. press' rampant attempts at wish fulfillment."

NetAid Concerts Aim To Fight World Hunger

In an ambitious, Live Aid-ish effort to fight world hunger, the United Nations is sponsoring NetAid (www.netaid.org), three October 9 concerts that will take place simultaneously at three separate locations. Artists such as Pete Townshend, Bush, Counting Crows, Jewel, Bono and Wyclef Jean will play at either Giants Stadium in East Rutherford, New Jersey, Wembley Stadium in London or the Palais des Nations in Geneva. The concerts will be simulcast live on television, on radio and on two Internet sites. MTV and VH1 will air the concerts in the U.S., while BBC TV and radio will carry the event in the U.K. Proceeds from the shows will be donated to both Kosovar and African refugees. The shows are expected to peak during the Moment Of Unity, when all three stages will feature the simultaneous debut of "New Day," a new song penned by Bono and Wyclef Jean.

NOW Representatives Protest Woodstock Violence

Incensed by the manner in which Woodstock '99 organizers handled the event's reported sex crimes, representatives of the National Organization for Women (NOW) demonstrated outside the office of festival promoter John Scher. NOW was protesting the violence against females that reportedly took place at the event. At press time, five rapes had been reported, in addition to the already reported incidents of sexual harrassment and assault.

"There is no excuse whatsoever for these acts of violence, and the individuals responsible should be found and prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law," said New York NOW chapter President Galen Sherwin. "We are also outraged by the dismissive comments made by concert promoters and by their refusal to take responsibility for the atmosphere of sexual violence at Woodstock."

One of the so-called dismissive comments to which Sherwin refers came from Lang, who questioned the possibility of a rape occurring during a mosh pit. Equally questionable were the sentiments of Scher, who was quoted as saying, "What about the 199 000 kids that came and had a great who was quoted as saying, "What about the 199,000 kids that came and had a great weekend?"

Lang and Scher have stated that they plan to continue cooperating with local law officials in an effort to facilitate the investigations. They also voiced their dismay that "a reputable organization such as NOW would blatantly misrepresent our position."

Cibo Matto Victims Of Most Recent Gear Theft

Will the summer theft plague that has descended upon New York hipster rock ever end? First Sonic Youth, then the Jon Spencer Blues Explosion, and now... Cibo Matto. The bands 's rental truck full of gear was stolen on August 6 in Brooklyn, New York. Miko Hatori and Yuko Honda are missing two guitars, two basses, two keyboards, a sampler, a drum kit and a discontinued drum machine. Regardless, on August 10, the band performed in Washington, DC, with rented and borrowed equipment. Cibo Matto plans to tour through September and October.

As of press time, no leads had turned up. Police investigations have not found the culprits in the other gear thefts, either. A lead did turn up for the recovery of Sonic Youth's customized gear, but the information turned out to be a prank email posting on America Online.

ARSONISTS

By Ron Hart

When indie rock flagship Matador looked to sign its first "urban" act, the label scoped out the Brooklyn-Bronx collective known as the Arsonists. These boys have spent five years battling it out in the trenches of New York's underground, destroying their competition with cleaver-sharp rhymes and intense live shows. The company that brought you Pavement is certainly exhibiting some surprising hip-hop street cred; on August 27, Matador will release the quintet's eagerly-awaited debut full-length, As The Worla Burns, which should floor the group's rabid rap fanbase. CMJ discussed these matters with chief Arsonist Q.

Many of the songs on As The World Burns were previously released on white-label singles. Was it your initial intention to revamp these songs for this record?

When Matador signed us, the first thing they wanted to put out was just the seven songs we had out as singles. We felt that we wanted to give more, so we put the seven songs [on the album], and then we surprised them and came with another 12 and turned an EP into an album.

What prompted you to sign with Matador, rather than a Rawkus, or the label that put out your early singles, Fondle 'Em?

Well what happened was, initially, we weren't even planning on signing to any label. We were on a mission where we could keep on putting out Fondle 'Em records. We really didn't care, and eventually put out our own album [ourselves]. And unknowing to us. Matador went to Fat Beats, bought all three singles, listened to them, called us and said, "Yo, we love y'all and we wanna do something with y'all." And that's exactly how it happened, straight up, real shit. There was no bullshit, no marketing plan, there was no gimmick to us or anything.

You're known for your killer live shows. What are the ingredients for a great hip-hop concert?

When you buy an album for 15 bucks, we wanna make sure that you're like, "This is worth $15." And when you buy a $20 ticket to go into a club, it's the same thing. It's all about entertaining people. We choreograph moves to our songs, so that when you see it, you be like, "Yo, that's fuckin' sick."

Sunny Day Real Estate To Release Live Album, Home Video

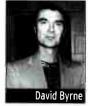

Seattle's Sunny Day Real Estate will release a live album and home video - both entitled Live — on October 19. The revamped band lineup consists of Jeremy Enigk (vocals/guitar), Dan Hoerner (guitar), William Goldsmith (drums) and Joe Skyward (bass). The album was recorded during at a May 26 performance at the University of Oregon in Eugene. The material spans all three of the group's albums, Diary (1994), Sunny Day Real Estate (1995) and How It Feels To Be Something On (1998). The video version culls nine songs from a May 30 performance at Seattle's Break Room. It also features clips for the Diary cuts "Seven" and "In Circles."

Classic Talking Heads Film Revamped, Soundtrack Retooled

In preparation of a September 7 re-release that will commemorate the anniversary of Stop Making Sense, Jonathan Demme's groundbreaking Talking Heads concert film has been remastered and remixed. In conjunction with the revamped film, Warner Bros. Records will reissue the film's soundtrack with seven previously unreleased tracks.

Stop Making Sense was filmed in 1984 at the Pantages Theater in Los Angeles. The movie contains edited footage from three concerts at the venue, and it includes such vintage Heads hits as "Once In A Lifetime" and "Burnin' Down The House.'

"I was surprised at how much energy we all had," said former Talking Heads leader, David Byrne. "My nine-year-old daughter has never seen it, so I'm going to take her to see it on the big screen, so she can have the full experience. And I know what the reaction will be: 'My dad is nuts. He is out of his mind.'"

Fugazi Bassist Forms Label; Drummer Scores Discovery Channel Show

Fugazi bassist Joe Lally has formed a new label called Tolotta Records, according to the D.C. band's official Web site (www.southern. com/southern/band/FUGAZ/index. html).

The label was created as an outlet for the music of heavy rock band Spirit Caravan, as well as an outlet for any future side projects by that group's members, among them former Obsessed frontman Scott "Wino" Weinrich. Meanwhile, drummer Brendan Cantry has composed music for the soundtrack to the Discovery Channel documentary series Bridges, Tunnels And Buildings. The series is scheduled to begin airing on January 24, 2000. Finally, Fugazi is writing new songs in preparation for a fall European tour.

Gin Blossoms Singer Signs To Atomic Pop

Former Gin Blossoms lead singer Robin Wilson and his new band the Gas Giants have signed to Internet-based Atomic Pop Records. "It's obvious that online is going to be picking up an increasing larger percentage of overall record sales, so it's cool to be a part of something that's really gonna concentrate on that," Wilson told Rolling Stone. In 1989, while still unsigned, the Gin Blossoms were selected by CMJ to perform at the nowdefunct New Music Awards, as well as at that year's CMJ Music Marathon. The group issued its self-titled debut EP in 1990, and achieved commercial success with 1992's New Miserable Experience (A&M), which spawned the Top 40 singles "Hey Jealousy" and "Found Out About You.

Following that album, band member Doug Hopkins committed suicide. The Gin Blossoms broke up following the lackluster performance of 1996's Congratulations I'm Sorry. Wilson's post-Blossoms band, the Pharoahs, signed to A&M in 1997. The label put the group's record on indefinite hold last year, following Universal's purchase of Poly-Gram. After changing its name to the Gas Giants, the band signed to Atomic Pop. The Internet label will issue Beyond The Back Burner via the Internet on September 14. The record will arrive at brick-and-mortar outlets on October 12.

Caroline Distribution Turns 'Sweet 16'

By Colin Helms

What do Nirvana, Smashing Pumpkins, the Offspring, the Chemical Brothers and White Zombie all have in common? Well, aside from being recognized as Caroline alternative music superstars, each act earned breakthrough

sales figures while being carried by an independent distributor, Caroline. What's more, consider the fact that the Offspring's Smash, among a number of other releases, reached multi-platinum status, which makes Caroline one of the definitive success stories in independent music, as well as in independent distribution. This year, the company is taking some time to bask in the glow of that success. Caroline celebrated its 16th anniversary with an August 13 birthday bash in New York City.

Launched in 1983 in a Greenwich Village apartment, Caroline Distribution began as an importing conduit for European punk and new wave releases. Eventually the fledgling company began to focus solely on distributing domestic labels. In its first year, the company employed a staff of five and sold nearly 200,000 records, primarily on vinyl. Today, Caroline distributes more than 300 labels and works with more than 900 accounts, most of which are Mom & Pop/small chain stores. In the past five fiscal years, the company has shipped over 31 million units, 6.9 million in its last fiscal year alone. Such lauded indies as Astralwerks, Ninja Tune, Drag City, Dischord, Rawkus, Nuclear Blast, Moon Ska, Kill Rock Stars, Invisible and Cleopatra all rely on Caroline Distribution to get their releases into record stores.

So what is the key to Caroline Distribution's success? We recently spoke with the company's General Manager, Rick Williams, to find out.

Caroline Distribution has grown considerably since its early days an importer. Has that growth been gradual? What would you attribute this growth to?

Initially it was gradual, but over the last five or six years, it's accelerated quite considerably. [I'd attribute it to] the fact that the labels that we carry have been successful, and to our efforts in finding those labels and attracting those labels, the changes that we've made within our company making ourselves more efficient, making ourselves attractive to customers, providing a good service....We've been fortunate that the labels that we carry have been successful with their artists. That is the cornerstone of any distribution company. If you don't have good A&R, then you're in trouble. We're not signing artists, we're doing deals with the labels, so we've been very fortunate in that regard. And of course we've been able to attract those successful labels.

Considering that Caroline is the exclusive distributor of successful electronic dance music label Astralwerks, how important to Caroline's profile is the rise in popularity of electronic music?

It's an integral part of it certainly, but we've had success with most of the genres we've carried. There's a lot of music that we don't carry ---classicountry, cal. etc. As different genres become popular, I think that we've been at the forefront and have carried them before they were really popular. And electronic music, we were doing it a long time before it was really big. And I think you could say the same thing about [punk music]. We've carried a lot of punk music for a long time, and certainly, initially in the '70s, it was big, and then it went into somewhat of a decline, but we stayed with it and had, and still do have, a lot of success selling pop-punk. Although it has gone through somewhat of a change, we still carry a lot of indie rock, and we carry industrial and goth and we've begun now to look at underground hip-hop. We're having success with that too. But certainly electronic music, as a distributor, we were into it before anyone else. I think that because we were into it before other people, it established us in the marketplace, and we were ready when it really hit.

What do you think is the biggest misconception about Caroline?

I don't think that people realize the full extent of the labels that we carry. Everybody that has talked to me about our press kit says "You carry that?" People don't really think about the distribution company very much, they think about the label, or the artists, or the store. Because it's not necessarily the most attractive part of the industry, because we're a delivery system I think that's the biggest surprise that people have. The labels that we're associated with.

How did you prepare yourself for the release of the Offspring's Smash?

We knew that we were ready. We had a long relationship with [Epitaph], we knew the label, they knew us, they knew what we were capable of. To be honest. [Epitaph] came to me with a demo of the record, the first single ["Come Out And Play (Keep 'Em Separated)"]. They played me that and said "This record is going to be a smash." And they were 100% convinced before they'd even sold it to anybody, or attempted to sell it to anybody. They were prepared on their own end to do what it takes to really break a record and make it big. So that made our job so much easier.

How much do you see online sales and digital dowloading affecting independent distribution presently and in the future?

[Many independent labels] have been working with it, but it's not an enormous part of their business. If you look at direct delivery, or online sales, it's not an enormous part of the industry yet. It's a growing part, and it will be very important, unquestionably, but it's not an enormous part of the industry as we speak. So that's why [Caroline] is not rushing into it. We want to be sure that we do the right thing. I think initially there will be more avenues for business-to-business opportunities. For instar ce, people licensing individual tracks for movies or commercials. I think it will make it easier for companies that do that kind of thing to access the music and know what's out there. So I can see that taking off quite rapidly.

INDUSTRYNEWS I

Clear Channel To Invest In Tunes.Com

Clear Channel Communications, Inc. will invest $15 million in Tunes.com, which will offer a three-year warrant for Clear Channel to acquire an additional $22.5 million in Tunes.com stock.

Clear Channel, which owns nearly 500 radio stations in the U.S. and more than 200 abroad, is trying to build an Internet network based on its earthbound stations. Its investment is pending on Tunes.com's imminent IPO, through which the Internet music content company hopes to raise $52 million.

By owning a stake in Tunes.com, Clear Channel will become privy to the music fans who visit Tunes properties RollingStone.com, DownBeatJazz.com and TheSource.com. Clear will also have access to the multitudinous audio and visual experiences offered by the sites. The radio conglomerate's move may be an attempt to keep pace with the nation's largest radio network, AMFM, Inc., formerly Chancellor Media, which has made known its plans to enter the Internet arena.

Tunes.com recently joined up with RoadRunner, the broadband broadcaster formed by a joint venture between Time-Warner, Microsoft, Compaq, MediaOne and Advance/Newhouse affiliates. Tunes' goal in the move is to amplify Rolling-Stone.com's video content.

Media, Tech Companies Back BET Web Site

BET Holdings has entered into agreements with four major media and technology companies in a joint venture worth $35 million. The companies will create an Internet portal site (www.bet.com) marketed to African-Americans. BET made the deal with Microsoft, USA Networks, News Corp. and Liberty Digital, the latter of which already owns 34% of BET Holdings. The cable network will maintain majority ownership and control of the venture. The new portal is likely to feature entertainment and news content, online shopping and music retail services.

Famous Music Signs Blondie To Publishing Deal

sidiary Famous Music has signed a long-term, worldwide deal with the reformed new wave group Blondie. According to the deal, which industry insiders believe is worth approximately $1 million, Famous Music will acquire the publishing rights to the songs on Blondie's latest album, No Exit (Beyond), as well the rights to as all future Blondie releases. No Exit has sold more than 350,000 copies.

Navarre Makes Deal To Distribute Ichiban Int'l Catalog

The Minnesota-based Navarre Corp. has made an agreement with New Yorkbased Fortune Entertainment. Fortune will distribute the catalog of 30 Ichiban International titles, according to Billboard Bulletin. The label was previously distributed by EMD. Ichiban Records' holdings were not outlined in the agreement, though Navarre is seeking to distribute the label; Navarre's goal is subject to bankruptcy court approval. In May, Ichiban Records, which is distributed by Platinum Entertainment, filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection. Platinum has filed a motion before the court to allow its relationship with Ichiban to continue without interruption.

Spirit Music Boosts Catalog

New York-based music publisher Spirit Music has increased its catalog by 2,000 songs thanks to a host of purchases and administrative deals with songwriters and label publishing units, according to the Billboard Bulletin. The influx of new music includes the Pure Energy Music catalog, which contains the Madonna hit "Holiday" and the Marshall Tucker Band catalog. Spirit has signed administration deals with Stephen Bishop, Foghat's Dave Peverett, and the estate of Carl Perkins, which operates the Brick Hit House catalog. The company has completed administration deals with Delicious Vinyl, 32 Records and the dance imprint Rampage Records.

VIP Tour Company Launched Online Ticket Service

Illinois-based ticket broker VIP Tour Company has launched a Web site, TicketsNow.com. The company joins competitors such as Ticketmaster Online, TicketWeb and Tickets.com in the growing online ticketing business. The site will sell ticket and promote its trades and upgrade services for concerts, theater shows and college/pro sporting events.

Micheal Domek, President of VIP Tour Company told Webnoize, "Our clients feel more secure dealing through a licensed broker than the unknown sellers of online auctions, and they've also told us they want immediate service, not a five-day auction process."

KEEPIN' IT REAL: Following a recent performance at NYC's Fez club, Go-Betweens members Grant McLennan and Robert Forster were spotted loungin' and sippin' on gin and juice, Snoop Doggy Dogg style, with a few industry heavy-hitters. Do hockey-rock bands such as Two Man Advantage and the Hanson Brothers fit your musical tastes like a snug pair of ice skates? If that's the case, you'll want to make a power play for More Songs About Hockey...And Buildings And Food, the latest release by pop-rock band the Zambonis. The record includes such body-checking favorites as "Hockey Monkey," "Andy Moog Meets Robert Moog," "Lost My Teeth." "Johnny Got Suspended" and the savory "We Write The Songs That Make The Whole Rink Sing." Drummer/singer Jon Zamboni says, "This is our Pet Sounds." Joe Nieuwendyk of the NHL's Dallas Stars said, "Are they Canadian?" For more information, contact Jake and Paul (J.O.E.) 718.349.6480, or send them email at joempire@aol.com.

Viva la Cuban jazz! The 17-track Cuban Revolución Jazz compiles some of the finest names in jazz, including Paquito D'Rivera, Arturo Sandoval and Mario Bauza. All of the compilation's tracks were recorded between 1988 and 1997, and feature such standouts as "Zambia," by Afro-Cuban jazz legend Bauza, which was one of his last compositions before he died. Also be sure to dip into Gonzalo Rubalcaba's "Nueva Cubana," as well as the classic gem "A Night In Tunisia" by Arturo Sandoval. For more information, contact Milan Records at 212.782.1086.

Following the rave reviews for the first edition of the pop-happy International Pop Over-throw (catch the Material Issue reference?) compilation, Del-Fi Records has issued another action packed installment, International Pop Overthrow Vol. 2. The mix overflows (42 tracks!) with some of the best artists from the slightly more obscure fringes of the pop music pantheon. However, there are a few more recognizable names, including Jason Falkner ("She's Not The Enemy"), Single Bullet Theory ("Forever And A Day") and Liquor Giants ("Big Man In Town"). Other standouts include Elliot Kendall ("Everybody's World"), Matt Bruno ("Pin-Up Girl"), Spill ("Midwestern Jinx") and Cosmo Topper ("The Law Of Attraction"). For more information, contact Elliot Kendall (Del-Fi) at 213.966.4805.

Australian quartet The Church has followed up their 1998 album Hologram Of Baal with a cover collection entitled A Box Of Birds. The Thirsty Ear release, which hit stores August 24, finds the purveyors of jangly psychedelia tackling George Harrison's "It's All Too Much," Neil Young's "Cortez The Killer," and Mott The Hoople's "All The Young Dudes." The 10 tracks were recorded in rural Sweden, apparently. If you'd like to see if the band will play any of these tributes live, you can find out for yourself in September and October, when it will make another U.S. round of dates. For more information, contact Michele McGonigle (Thirsty Ear) at 800.866.2313.

Continuing in the grand pop-distilling tradition of their "Pure (fill in the blank)" series — Pure Disco, Pure Funk, Pure 70s, Pure Reggae — UTV Records now presents Pure 80's. The gang's all here—Eurythmics, Duran Duran, Tears For Fears, Stray Cats, J. Geils Band, Rick Springfield, Madness, Dexy's Midnight Runners, Culture Club, etc. The 20-track time capsule kicks off, appropriately enough, with the decade-defining Buggles song "Video Killed The Radio Star." For more information, contact Aaron Scott (Universal) at 212.373.0779, or email him at aaron.scott@unistudios.com.

We're hoping that none of you college kids would have need of this album yourself — you've got your academic careers to think of! — but in case someone you love is having a baby, you might find Rykodisc's Welcoming Children Into The World a nice gift. The 13 songs here have been curated by Ellen Kusnher, host of the public radio show Sound And Spirit, which has received thumbs up from no less than Bill Moyers. The album is a multicultural musical celebration of childbirth and baby's first year, featuring songs from such artists as African singer/songwriter Henri Dikongué, Navajo singer Susan Burch, the Boston-based women's music ensemble Libana, Sweet Honey In The Rock, and Woody Guthrie, whose contribution is a lullaby he recorded in 1956. Check out the liner notes, which detail folklore and customs from around the globe. Did you know that in Japan, new parents fly kites from the roof? We didn't think so. For more information, contact Sean O' Connell (Rykodisc) at 978.825.3200.

RECORD BRIEFS

David Bowie will preview fragments of his upcoming album, Hours..., at his Web site (www.bowienet.com). On August 6, the Thin White Duke began posting 45-second clips of new material. He will post a new clip every week, until Virgin Records releases the album on October 5...Slipknot singer Cory Taylor has collaborated with Onyx MC Sticky Fingaz on a track called "End Of The World." The cut, produced by Ross Robinson (Limp Bizkit, Soulfly, Korn), will appear on Sticky's upcoming solo album...On October 19, Spitfire Records will reissue remastered versions of four Twisted Sister albums. Under The Blade, You Can't Stop Rock N Roll, Come Out And Play and Love Is For Suckers will be reproduced in 24-bit sound, with new photos and liner notes. Spitfire will also issue Early Works, a collection of previously unreleased Twisted Sister material...On August 31, D&D/Cold Front-K-Tel Records will issue The Real Hip-Hop: Best Of D&D Studios Vol. 1. Mixed by DJ Skribble, the set will include 15 bomb-diggity tracks by top-notch hip-hop names such as Nas, Jay-Z and Gang Starr...Blanks 77 (Radical) will release C.B.H. on September 21. The effort was produced by Daniel Rey (Ramones, White Zombie)...Poet/rock legend Patti Smith has completed a new album entitled Gung Ho. The disc, produced by Gil Norton, will be released early next year on Arista Records...On October 19, British group Feeder will issue its follow-up to 1997's Polythene, Yesterday Went Too Soon. Radio will receive its copies on September 13...311 will issue its Hugh Padgham-produced Soundsystem (Capricorn) on October 12. The first single will be "Come Original"...This September, hot on the heels of the label's own 10th anniversary releases, Matador Records will domestically release a series of compilations to commemorate the 1989 birth of Warp Records. Warp is the influential, decade-old Sheffield, U.K., label from which Matador has licensed recent records by Boards Of Canada, Nightmares On Wax, Red Snapper and 2 Lone Swordsmen. Matador will issue three releases, each available as a two-CD or four-LP set, in honor of the occasion. Warp 10 Remixes, Warp 10 Influences and Warp 10 Classics will be released on October 12, in both the U.S. and the U.K....Artists such as Smash Mouth, Bush, Creed, The Cult, John Lee Hooker, Bo Diddley and Days Of The New are among the artists scheduled to contribute to The Doors: A Tribute, a (duh!) tribute to the seminal Los Angeles quartet...The Charlatans have completed a new album, entitled Us & Us Only. To get the press train rolling, frontman Tim Burgess reignited his feud with Ian Brown, calling the ex-Stone Roses singer "sad," "pathetic" and "bitter," according to the NME. As Pete Townshend once sang, "Why should I care?"

Internet music sales are expected to reach $4 billion by 2004. With the proliferation of Internet usage worldwide, and Japanese music sales stagnating as a result the country's ailing economy, Sony is taking a more aggressive position in accelerating its online initiative. Sony will probably use the Japanese public's response to its new marketing strategy as a barometer for a similar future initiatives in North America.

"We have to start selling music online, considering the prospects for an explosion of Internet usage and a proliferation of distribution technologies," Takayasua added. "But we still face the challenge of protecting our copyrights and intellectual property."

Around the same time that Sony plans to sell music online, the company plans to release the portable, thumb-sized, wand-shaped Memory Stick music device. The unit is capable of storing digital music in various audio formats.

(New York/New Jersey), Rising Tide Productions (North and South Carolinas), Stone City Attractions (San Antonio), 462 Inc. (Dallas), and Universal Concerts (U.S. and Canada). Contributions from each company will fund the organization.

According to Billboard, the IPO companies earned a collective touring gross of more than half-a-billion dollars last year. SFX Entertainment, which owns and operates the nation's biggest network of venues, will promote 20 tours this summer. Tours such as those of Cher, 'N Sync, Tom Petty and the Ozzfest could potentially earn $100 million for the conglomerate.

Members of IPO hope that by banding together, they will have a better chance at promoting tours in their markets; to that end, the organization will represent members by bidding for national tour business from managers and bookers. However, the IPO will not participate in collective bargaining or offering package deals.

"We thought that it would be better to [form] an alternative to SFX rather than letting them take everything away," Jerry Mickelson, CEO of the IPO told CMJ. Mickelson's Chicago-based Jam Productions has promoted Shania Twain, R.E.M. and Bruce Springsteen when they came through town.

compared to sales of 6.5 million units last year. A large factor in the market's rapid growth was largely a result of adding 45 indie retail reporters, which increased its total to 117. The top-selling Latin album during the period of January 4-June 27 was — surprise! — Ricky Martin's Vuelve (Sony Discos), which sold 402,000 copies. The late singer Selena's greatest hits package, All My Hits — Todos Mis Exitos (EMI Latin) ranked second, with 268,000 units sold. Three of the four top-

selling albums were by Sony Discos-signed artists, who helped give the label a 29.2% market share during the first half of the year.

The independent label sector was second with a 23.5% market share, followed by EMI Music Distribution (EMD) with 17.8%, BMG with 10.7%, WEA with 9.7% and Universal Music and Video Distribution (UMVD) at 9.1%. SoundScan data is far from complete. It is estimated that the company's figures only count for 30%-45% of the U.S. Latin music market.

captured on a new Mammoth compilation titled after the show, which is due in stores on September 7. Although the label has released four previous KCRW compilations under the title Rare On Air, the new title is the first collection hand-picked by Creative Music Director Nic Harcourt, who has hosted the program for the past year. He is the successor to former "Morning" host Chris Douridas.

Harcourt, who was most recently the Program Director for Woodstock, New York's WDST, launches the collection of in-studio performances with "Blewu" by Afro-pop stylist Angelique Kidjo. A prettily surreal version of "Que Sera Sera," by retro classicists Pink Martini, ends the record. Some might quibble, however, with the decision to place now-defunct Ednaswap on the same compilation as the venerable Mercury Rev. Why feature a band made famous by the fact that they penned a Top 40 smash for Natalie Imbruglia? "I'm not averse to that question," says Harcourt. "If there were no questions about the CD, then it would have been kind of pointless....But it's a great song." Harcourt quickly defends the playlist's inclusion of modern rock radio stars Smash Mouth. "[They've made] a really good album," he says, "and why would you not play it? We don't want to be snobs.'

Although the release features a characteristically disparate crew of artists — Cake, Joe Henry, Buffalo Daughter, Air, Semisonic, Freestylers, Brad Mehldau — the tracks effortlessly meld into over an hour's worth of subtle revelations. Harcourt, who chooses which musicians to invite on the air, planned it that way. "I wanted to put something together that somebody could put on their CD player and hopefully listen to the whole thing." Aided by input of his producer Ariana Morgenstern and three main engineers, he whittled his pool of 30 nominees down to 17 tracks. When asked if the strength of the performances were a result of having first-rate artists or merely a crack team of engineers, Harcourt answered that both teams were equally important to the show's success. "We do this three to four times a week, so the [engineers] are really good at their jobs."

Harcourt proudly points out that the album contains another hallmark of the show—the prominent placement of an unsigned band, Pink Martini. The host claims to be excited, rather than daunted, by the loads of unsolicited demos that flood his mailbox. He says that, each week, he receives 150-200 recordings and holds two, three-to-four hour listening sessions in order to find diamonds in the rough.

This dedicated listening helps fulfill the

Radio 200: 163-14 Core Radio: #10 debut

Marking the band's tenth anniversary, Come Pick Me Up (Merge) isn't a stylistic surprise coming from this veteran band of indie rockers, but it needn't be. Along with the likes of Fugazi, Superchunk embodies the spirit of college radio: DIY, irrepressibly energetic, and wholly committed to its craft. Though it was preceded at college stations by the Hello Hawk EP, which featured acoustic versions of album tracks and B-sides, Come Pick Me Up probably would have made the stunning 149-position leap without the extra perks. With a long string of #1 CMI albums under its belt, watch for Superchunk to be a contender well into the fall.

MADDER ROSE

Radio 200: 149-42 Core Radio: #62 debut

Like its more celebrated college rock colleagues Superchunk, New York City's Madder Rose is proof that longevity can be one of the keys to continued success. Hello June Fool (Thirsty Ear) is the band's fourth album, and reflects its maturing songwriting skills in its intense pop songs, as well as its willingness to incorporate bits of new sounds with measured use of loops and trip-hop textures. After last week's status as #1 Add with 107 reports, it should be no surprise that Madder Rose leaps more than 100 positions to the chart's top 50.

Radio 200: 106-49 Core Radio: #40 debut

College radio loves a good government conspiracy, and the story behind the movie Soul Ecstacy is ripe with corruption by The Man. Originally released in 1972, the film was a politically charged story about a group of militant blacks embraced by Manhattan society, and their subsequent corruption of that society's rich, naïve hippie children. Soul Ecstacy would be a shocking story today, but in the time of its release it was downright explosive, and was shut down by theaters and distributors. While prints of the film no longer exist, this soundtrack does, and college radio is intrigued. Watch for Soul Ecstacy (Emperor Norton) to climb the charts even further as programmers become hip to its story.

Radio 200: 144-51 Core Radio: #43 debut / RPM: 16-8

The albums of μ -Ziq, the musical alias of Michael Paradinas, have been marked by a kind of spooky, inhuman quality. Though considered one of the keystones of "bedroom electronica," Paradinas's modus operandi was borne from a love of machines. Royal Astronomy (Astralwerks), though, is a sharp departure from that reputation. While there are a handful of drum 'n' bassstyled tracks for the devoted, the album also features strings, turntablist manipulation, and even vocals! RPM reporters have been aware of Royal Astronomy's charms for a few weeks already, but Radio 200 reporters are now in the game, too, pushing the album up 93 positions on this week's chart.

BIG KENNY

Live A Little (Hollywood)

Big Kenny is not your grandpa's singersongwriter. He didn't do time busking in the subways. Rather, this former house builder from Virginia taught himself how to tell one heckuva story. The lyrics of Live Á Little (e.g. "He lives somewhere in between creases/between rhymes and reasons") reveal that Kenny has done his share of living and learning. He dresses up his lessons and observations in bright, mid-paced poprock with a twangy twist. His major-label debut is earmarked by nasal vocals, sputtering drums, keyboard loops, soundbites and the rockin' guitars of his backing band. The songs may be full of standard-issue tales of lost love and the like, but thankfully, Kenny exuberantly spins the yarns with his tongue tucked firmly in his cheek.

CLEVELAND BOUND DEATH SENTENCE

Cleveland Bound Death Sentence (Lookout!)

Marked by an overmodulated, blown-cabinet guitar burn and gruffly coughed-out male/female vocals, Cleveland Bound Death Sentence's full-length debut offers up a refreshingly trashedout, whiteknuckled alternative to the late '90s' overabundance bouncy, hook-focused West Coast punk. Comprised of members of Pinhead Gunpowder and the Dillinger Four among others, CBDS deftly grinds through 14 songs (including tracks reprised from 7"s and compilations) in 18 breathless minutes without sacrificing any crucially sloppy, offthe-cuff ferocity. Further scuzzed-up by a muffled, bass-heavy mix, this self-titled debut is a joyously tough, finger-flip of a record, underscored by atypical lyrical themes. "Hoxha," for example, deals with the Communist Party of Albania. Weird. — Colin Helms

Slap-Happy (Wax Tadpole-Bong Load)

999 ATLANTIC RECORDING CORP ATIME WARNER COMPANY

steel-willed, wickedly funny women. Slap-Happy is the band's return to the indie world (Wax Tadpole is the band's own imprint), and the LP lives up to its snickering name, as the trio packs more than enough of the sludgy riffs we've come to expect, while letting its droll humor leap to center stage. This barrage of snarling L7 bon mots, which will go over the heads of more than a few men, ought to make female rocker fans hold their sides. A head-banging, witty addition to the band's already fine canon. — Cheryl Botchick

Downtown, Saturday (Undertow)

St. Louis's Nadine is a child of its surroundings. This rootsy rock band has certainly listened to its fair share of No Depression luminaries, but the trio is also fixated on and inspired by such non-Heartland, classic rockers as Neil Young And Crazy Horse, the Eagles and Tom Petty. Downtown, Saturday, the follow-up to 1996's Back To My Senses, again features songwriting that tips a hat to the band's forefathers, but Nadine has also learned a few things on its own. That such a fullyrealized effort was recorded in a crappy practice space is a testament to the group's instrumental craft and melodic sensibility. Often spare and moody, occasionally uproariously ragged, this album reaffirms the roots tradition while standing on its own two legs.

Life In Volcanoes (Nettwerk)

Póvi appropriately borrows its name from a Native American word for "flower." Just like a delicate blossom, the duo's beautiful soundscapes appear simplistic, but upon closer inspection, reveal lush songs full of intricate layers and colors, which help animate the consonant creation that is Life In Volcanoes. Using systematized programming, hypnotic synthesizers and pulsating percussion, L.A. producer/musician Carmen Rizzo has fertilized the soil for the soaring voice of enchanting Aussie singer Cristina Calero. Quieter moments such as "Volcanoes," with its soft vibes and fragile vocals, summon the ghosts of wilting petals that held on for dear life, while forceful entries such as "Creatures," with its furious beats and rabid guitars, evoke a flower chasing the sun into the heavens. With backing musicians providing additional keyboards and drums, Póvi's debut effort is a sweet mixture of exotic grooves, efflorescent electronics and moody vocals to pollinate the soul.

RECESS THEORY

They Would Walk Into The Picture (EP) (Take Hold) What happens when the primal guitar-pop frustration of Superchunk meets the coy, artsy wordplay of Joan of Arc? You get Recess Theory, a college-age quartet of young men who plead to Eugene O'Neill for romantic guidance while their guitars and bass bounce, stutter and flutter. On this EP, guitarists/vocalists John Ralston and Nathan Jezek, drummer Jeff Snow, and bassist Steven Eshelman revel in the pleasures of the minutes-long guitar joyride. The band expertly knits together guitar and bass, tugging the songs forward at top speed, in an effort to get it all out — misfired desire, playground nostalgia, the dangers of being starry-eyed. These young Floridians don't reinvent the wheel, but their belief in the cleansing powers of well-wrought noise makes for some irresistible indie rock moments.

ROYAL TRUX

Veterans Of Disorder (Drag City)

The underworldly, undynamic duo known as Royal Trux has released its finest album in ages, a work on par with the pair's triu m p h a n t e a r l y - '90 s material. Having issued two mid-decade, major-label records of disappointing, lowbrow Southern rock, Neil Hagerty and Jennifer Herrema began to show new signs of life on their 1998 return to indieland, Accelerator. On Veterans Of Disorder, however, they've re-attained their stumbling greatness of yore, slashing the wrists of a bluesbased corpse and shooting its veins full of mutilated '70s moves, fucked-up sound collages and misplaced, sorta-Caribbean percussion. Guitarist Hagerty's Martian slides, snuffed leads and surprising melodic tenderness snake around the playfully detached, reptilian groan of his companion. These two have really pushed themselves, rekindling their passion for experimental mischief, while learning how to write memorable songs. No wonder they still look like shit.

CARL HANCOCK RUX

Rux Revue (550-Epic)

Carl Hancock Rux is first and foremost a poet, but don't mistake Rux Revue for a "spoken-word" album. The Harlem-born, Columbia-educated writer/performer's recorded debut renders the po-mo-poetry-recitation-over-a-canned-jazzbo-track an embarrassingly one-dimensional cliché. With a silky, yet bracing baritone, Rux's labyrinthine travels through the political, sexual and emotional pathways of his own past is tempered by the learned observations of his present-day mind. Half-sung, half-whispered, his story-songs document experiences both personal and symbolic with a mix of humor, frustration and rage, while

STYLES OF BEYOND

2000 Fold (Ideal-Mammoth)

Fans of underground left coast hip-hop need no introduction to Styles Of Beyond's otherworldly impressive debut album, which originally released last vear on Bilawn Records. The L.A.-based duo's illmatic rhyme schemes and resourcefully innovative grooves have since been rescued from obscurity by the Dust Brothers' Ideal imprint. Because of this, the club single "Easy Back It Up" has recently enjoyed a resurgent uplift on CMJ's Beat Box chart. And deservingly so. 2000 Fold is a testament to the limitless possibilities of rap, both lyrically and production-wise. As Vin Skully, DJ Revolution, Beat Junkie Rhettmatic, and DJ Cheapshot smelt a collage of tweakedout, basement tape beats, Ryu and Takbir offer a street-level take on subterranean West Coast abstraction on tracks such as "Gollaxowelcome" and "Killer Instinct," the latter of which features former Bilwan labelmate Divine Styler. - Ron Hart about the beats, but not the hip-hop kind. Tie Down That Shiny Wave, the group's Grand Royal debut, is an invite to an oddball marriage of evenkeeled, lo-fi pop and delicately decorative, throbbing pulsations. This five-song affair has an obvious bedroom-recorded feel thanks to its minimal use of keyboards and its sweet, somewhat hushed male vocals. Essentially, the pop on this warm EP thumps with a strong, healthy heartbeat. Tie Down That Shiny Wave is the work of a pair of indiepop lovin', sampler- and sequencer-usin' beatsmiths who clingingly adhere to the old adage that less is definitely more. A&R PICK

HI-FI DROWNING

Narci Darvish (Luminous)

For its second full-length, the buzzing, artpop quartet Hi-Fi Drowning has collaborated with Chicago producer Keith Cleversley. Like many of the other acts who choose to work with the knob-twiddler (i.e. Spiritualized, Mercury Rev), the band couches its elaborately detailed dream-pop in terms that are less droney and more aggressively melodic than one might immediately expect. Nanci

Darvish doesn't cut from one song to the next. Instead, it experiments with various textures that possess a free-flowing and instinctively creative approach. You'd normally expect to hear such limber music at a live show rather than in a studio. Lead vocalist/guitarist Eric Martin's soaring voice boasts a dramatic flair, falling on breakers of buzzing guitars and echoing swells of background harmony. During the few moments when his vocals come up short, the chorus-soaked walls of sound compensate with considerable power.

KID RAMOS

Kid Ramos (Evidence)

Kid Ramos cut his teeth playing in the West Coast blues scene of the 1970s and '80s, and as guitarist for the seminal blues-rocking T-birds, he learned his lessons night after night, strumming in one of the hardest-working blues combos known to man. (Kid also briefly flirted with joining the legendary L.A. group the Red Devils, but he wasn't able to live that combo's lifestyle e.g. staying up all night to gig at the Viper room while working a day job.) In the tradition of those units, Ramos's self-titled solo album is a blues tour-de-force. The Kid is tough, gritty and, perhaps, finally ready to go all night. A stellar cast of talent, including Kim Wilson of the Thunderbirds, harmonica master James Harman,

I'M YOUR FAN DURAN DURAN

Rio (Capitol)

I was a teenage Durannie, and I am not ashamed (anymore). In junior high, while all the other boys were discovering the pubescent joys of loud, misogynist cockrock, I sat in the back row, secretly stenciling the intertwined "DD" logo on the back of my Trapper-Keeper, wrestling with my confusing homoerotic fascinations about Simon Le Bon. And John Taylor. And Nick. And Andy and Roger as well, for that matter. It made sense (kinda) when you considered that the Duran boys were prettier and far sexier than any girls in Ms. Benton's Algebra class. Still, my early fascination with British pop got me into a fair amount of trouble with many of the school jocks. (If Kevin Shroyer is reading this, you still owe me for that Seven & The Ragged Tiger pin you flushed down the toilet. Neanderthal.) Despite the fact that much of DD's popularity was based on its visual panache, the boys actually did have talents beyond make-up application. Duran Duran proved its staying power with an arsenal of singles immersed in pop, rock and new wave. Rio, the quintet's breakthrough American release, finds the group at its artistic climax. Forget the melodramatic videos (if you can) and listen back to singles from this era - Nick Rhodes's fluttering flurry of new-wave keys during "Hungry Like The Wolf," John Taylor's defiantly funky bass licks in the title track, or Le Bon's sometimes nonsensical, but always romantic lyrics in "Save A Prayer" — and tell me that Wham!, Kajagoogoo or any of other long-lost '80s band could hold a candle to DD's divine pop prowess. Move past the hits and you'll find the more, yes, experimental, edgy side the rapid white-boy rap of "New Religion" and the ominous sonic hues of "The Chauffeur" being the standouts. There will be those who will always see DD as an MTV-manufactured darling, but the remaining members continue to construct compelling, pop-perfect tunes nearly 20 years after the group's debut. Let's see Blink 182 pull that off. - M. Tye Comer guest organist Dave Matthews (!) and even Cesar Rosas of Los Lobos, help the venerable guitarist get the job done right. An old hand at dishing out raucous jump blues, slinky, Al Greenstyled soul and hardedged Chicago sounds reminiscent of Howlin' Wolf or prime Muddy Waters, Ramos is as convincing as he is diverse. Regardless of his preferred musical style, he peels off just the right licks, keeping the party rolling with his trusty Telecaster. Don't look now, but Kid Ramos has just released one of '99's finest blues albums.

MAHAVISHNU ORCHESTRA

The Lost Trident Sessions (Columbia Legacy)

In 1998, while he was gathering tapes for a remastered version of the Mahavishnu Orchestra's 1972 opus Birds Of Fire, producer Bob Belden uncovered two unmarked, quarter-inch reels containing The Lost Trident Ses- sions, the shelved recordings that would have become the groundbreaking prog/fusion ensemble's third album. This archival record contains the sound of a band in tunrult, bridging the gap between its bracing early efforts and its later, more baroque endeavors, which featured guitarist/composer John McLaughlin as the sole remnant of the original lineup. This tension-filled battle, in which five egos wield solos like beautiful weapons, flawlessly and smoothly polishes '70s rock with light jazz and odd time signatures galore. McLaughlin's electric, but classical-inspired gnashing clashes with drummer Billy Cob-ham's physical finesse, which derails the frillier noodlings of violinist Jerry Goodman, bassist Rick Laird and keyboardist Jan "Miami Vice" Hammer. Yet the end product is a gorgeous, if gaudy, display of prowess — the pulse of five, scrapping men pouring themselves into their instruments, yet miraculously, functioning with a cohesive, Zen-like oneness. — Jordan N. The British musician (real name: Robin Rimbaud) was set to play 16 gigs across Europe and the U.S. during August to promote the release of his new album, Luawarm Instrumentals. Instead, Rimbaud sent lookalikes out to play the gigs while he stayed at home in London and did some decorating. All 16 gigs, including those in Berlin, Vienna, New York, Barcelona and London, took place on the same night in a stunt planned via email with friends living near the venues. "It's being a ant-garde with a sense of humor," Rimbaud explained. "It was meant to be amusing and a play on the idea of techno being faceless, that Rimbaud supplied each impostor with pre-recorded material for their "live" set and many gigs received favorable reviews from unaware critics. Avant-garde anti-performance or unrepentant laziness? You be the judge...Sign Of The Times #2: After years of exclusion, DJs can finally become members of the Musicians' Union. The British union, established in 1983, had previously felt that the rise of DJs would decrease the need for live music, but spokesman Nigel McGune stressed that the Musicians' Union now recognizes the importance of DJs. She was backed by a funky-ass big band that included former Red Hot Chili Peppers guitarist Arik Marshall. new world news

The Buena Vista Social Club phenomenon continue to captivate fans outside its native Cuba. Eliades Ochoa, the cowboy hat-sporting singer of

"Chan Chan," the opening track of BVSC, has recorded an album entitled Sublime Illusión that was released earlier this summer on Higher Octave. In support of that very fine record, Ochoa and his group Cuarteto Patria will be touring the U.S. for the first time. The two-week outing will begin on September 12 in Chicago and will travel from the Northeast to the West Coast. More dates are still being plugged in at this time. Blues harmonica player Charlie Musselwhite, who played on Ochoa's album, will make select appearances on the tour as well. Fans who live far from towns on the intinerary, take heart—Higher Octave has made available an unreleased live performance by Ochoa and Cuarteto Patria that was recorded on March 25 of this year in Madrid, Spain. The folks at Higher Octave assure us that the sound is top-notch. The disc is even tracked so stations can play individual cuts from the session. All radio stations have to do to get the free disc is to play it in its entirety once. Send an email to Matt Hughes at New World 'N Jazz Promotion & Marketing (matt@liferules.com) stating your call letters, name, address, phone, wattage and Web site. Most importantly, include the date and time the disc will be aired...Fellow Social Club members Ibrahim Ferrer and Ruben Gonzalez will take to the road this fall as well for an American tour. The joint outing, which is scheduled to run from October 14 to November 21, will hit most major markets. Ferrer's self-titled album is currently doing quite well on CMI's World charts, and Gonzales will release a new record on World Circuit-Nonesuch around tour time.

On Friday, August 6, Grateful Dead tape archivist Dick Lattriple a news vala died at his home in Petaluma, California. He was 56. Having originally worked as a postal employee, Latvala possessed a love for all things Dead, which led him to a long association with the band. He soon became famous for Dick's Picks, a series of fourteen albums of live Dead music. Latvala had suffered a heart attack on July 28, and passed away after he slipped into a subsequent coma...Steve Earle, Dar Williams, Jackson Browne, Ani DiFranco, Bonnie Raitt, Bruce Hornsby and John Trudell will be among the performers participating in the March of the Americas, which will commence on September 1 in Camden, New Jersey. The trek, which is a charitable benefit for people living in poverty, will make its way through five states, over the course of 30 days. Marchers will stop at numerous locations, at which music and other entertainment will occur. The relief effort will conclude in Washington, DC. For more information, call 215.203.1945.

KRIS KRISTOFFERSON

The Austin Sessions (Atlantic)

While Kristofferson's impressive backing vocalists, who include Steve Earle and Alison Krauss, add spice to Austin Sessions, it's Kristofferson himself who makes this one of the best country albums of 1999. Kristofferson's self-titled debut hit in 1970, but his first songwriting break came the previous year when Roger Miller recorded "Me And Bobby McGee." That and other newlyrecorded Kristofferson classics remind us of the gripping Americana richness of songs such as "Sunday Morning Coming Down" and "Help Me Make It Through The Night." Kristofferson's dusty South Texas baritone proves just as legendary on Austin Sessions.

HORACE SILVER Jazz Has A Sense Of Humor (Verve)

Horace Silver is one of the most revered hardbop piano players and bandleaders. He's also one of the great composers — his signature tunes "Song For My Father," "Sister Sadie" and many others have become jazz standards. Back in the '60s. he also played a role in mingling funk, soul and popular music into jazz, a trend which he continues on this superb funk-jazz opus, Jazz Has A Sense Of Humor. Silver certainly does have a sense of humor, as the titles to the funky "I Love Annie's Fanny" and "Too Much Mama" testify.

BOBBY MATOS AFRO LATIN JAZZ ENSEMBLE

Live At MOCA (Cubop)

Timbale player Bobby Matos has a style that is uncompromisingly traditional, yet pleasing to both hardcore Latin devotees and to the newer, more casual fans. This sizzling live recording showcases one of the tightest, heaviest Latin jazz outfits gigging today. Although Matos is of course the star, special attention should be paid to Michael Turre's outstanding sax work and to Victor Cegarra's eloquent, passionate piano playing.

Jazz At Lincoln Center will continue its year-long Ellington celebration with a roundtable discussion of Ellington's recorded legacy. The discussion, entitled "Beyond Category - The Recorded Legacy Of Duke Ellington" was to feature jazz writer and historian Stanley Dance, who unfortunately died earlier this year. The talk, however, will be dedicated to Dance. George Avakian and Teo Macero, both producers of Ellington's work, will discuss Ellington's recorded legacy and will most likely draw upon Dance's many published works on Ellington. The event, moderated by writer/historian Nat Hentoff, will take place in Lincoln Center's Stanley H. Kaplan Penthouse at 7 p.m. on September 14...Those jazz fans already drawing up their Christmas wish lists should cross out The Complete Miles

Davis Featuring John Coltrane. The boxed set has been bumped from October 1999 to February 2000...The date and lineup for 1999's one-day Fire In The Valley Festival has been announced. This low-key but ultra-hip festival in Amherst, Massachusetts has the same sort of vibe as New City's Vision Festival. The October 16 marathon affair will begin at 1 p.m. and, after a two-hour intermission, will rage until 11 p.m. Top-notch, inside-out players such as Joe Morris, Test, Marshall Allen, Alan Silva and Lisle Ellis are scheduled to play. For more information, visit the Eremite Web site (www.eremite.com)...The Global Music Network Web site (www.gmn.com) has unveiled a new jazz area that will feature videotaped performances, music, photography and commentary. The jazz novice will no doubt enjoy the site's multimedia tutorials visitors can bone up on certain facets of jazz and then experience audio and visual examples.

Fans of the Rollins Band, get yer asses in gear. Henry Rollins recently embarked on a mission to seek and destroy NYC. He performed at the Bowery Ballroom with a totally new lineup behind him. This incarnation of the Rollins Band is bluesier than the early group. The new guys were phenomenal, especially the rhythm guitarist. Hank and company opened with a new tune called "Illumination." The shirtless, barefoot ex-Black Flag singer delighted his adoring crowd by playing barnburners such as "Action," "Hotter And Hotter" and "Love Is So Heavy." The most smokin' tune of the evening was another new number, "Get Some Go Again." People were scurrying around, trying to re-attach their heads, which, thanks to this ferocious favorite, had been unceremoniously ripped from their bodies. This title track from Rollins's forthcoming album is, without a doubt, one of the most slamming songs I've heard all year. In without a doubt, one of the most slamming songs I've heard all year. It's also an excellent indicator of what The Thick-Necked One has in store for us. Hank's almost 40, but he can still rock like he's 17. He looks good for his age, still (Continued on page 35)

SEVENDUST Home (TVT)

Sevendust's pulverizing, heavy-as-fuck metal is like candy. Its exterior is hard and unbreakable. but if you persist, you'll get to a soft and delicious center. On the Atlanta quintet's Southernfried sophomore effort Home, the band rocks as though its life depends on every honest lyric and Tyrannosaurus Rex-sized, down-tuned riff. There is more chugga-chugga riffing and fewer tempo shifts here compared to Sevendust's eponymous debut, but Home will still knock listeners on their asses with massive groovination. Lajon Witherspoon's soulful voice is rich with gospel influences while Skunk Anansie's Skin and Defiones' Chino Moreno lend their pipes on separate, bone-cracking tracks. Sevendust has come Home to claim its Loud Rock throne.

METAL CHURCH

Masterpeace (Nuclear Blast America)

You don't get much more metal than Metal Church! And holy Moses, the original lineup (including singer David Wayne) is intact for Masterpeace. Suddenly, it feels like 1980 instead of 1999. The high priests of the band may have chopped off their locks, but they still play big, thrashy metal with apocalyptic lyrics and siren-like power-metal vocals.

VARIOUS ARTISTS

Never Give In: A Tribute To Bad Brains (Century Media)

The Bad Brains were one of the most influential punk bands ever. On this much-deserved tribute, modern day hardcore and metal acts such as Skinlab, Ignite, VOD, Adamantium, Snapcase, Turmoil, Will Haven, Haste, Downset and Sepultura pay their respects, updating the band's classics with '90s-style loudness and aggression.

show's mission, which Harcourt says is "to bring new and intriguing music to audiences...and to break talent," locally and beyond. "The show is recognized as a show that new music is going to break out of, and so before I got here and since I got here, as well, we will take chances, and there are times where that will translate into something bigger...because someone at a record label is smart enough to realize that if KCRW audiences react, then there's a bigger picture." Morcheeba, for example, has been given subsequent soundtrack work. Sixpence None The Richer, the band responsible for this summer's ubiquitous "Kiss Me," had their first L.A.-area airplay on the station.

Harcourt feels that college radio is the only remaining radio market for independent artists. It's fitting then that, for the second straight year, he's taking the "Morning" show on the road to CMJ's Music Marathon. The "Morning" aesthetic will come alive at the convention, when Harcourt hosts performances by Dido, Black Box Recorder, Dot Allison and Luscious Jackson at New York City's Museum of Television and Radio. If they're lucky, attendees might witness a performance worthy of the next KCRW compilation — Beth Orton's live take of "Sugar Boy," featured on the new release, was taped at CMJ '98.

taunting the crowd. And that menacing stare! In the middle of the set, an overzealous girl up front threw water at the sweaty Rollins, who responded, "Don't throw shit it at me. I've got enough personal wetness going on up here. Judging by the way you dig me, so do you." Ouch! The new musicians breathe new life into the man, the myth, the machine...The Bay Area thrashers of Skinlab and the Ontario riot grrls of Kittie recently shared the stage at the Continental, down on St. Mark's, in NYC's East Village. The latter band, a quartet of hellcats who range in age from 15 to 17, recently signed to Ng Records. These gutter-mouthed lunachicks look like an X-rated version of the Spice Girls. The felines' riffy metal was really rough around the edges, but every pair of eyes in the house remained fixated on their purty tails. Give 'em some time. The girls'll mature and rock the pants off any all-boy band out there. Skinlab was tighter than a porn star's pants. Sure, on record the guys sound a lot like their Oakland brethren Machine Head, but live, these DMFs come into their own. They opened with the boisterous "No Sympathy (For The Devil)" and dove into the brick-cracking "Know Your Enemies." Do not pass up the op to see these neck-snappers when they open for S.O.D., on that band's upcoming tour.

[in England] than guitars last year," McCune told the NME. "It would be foolish for us to neglect to include these musicians who are as creative — if more creative — than many other musicians." The Union is in the process of compiling DJ packages, which may include insurance for equipment and records. The organization will also be offering legal advice and services to negotiate better pay and standardized contracts. Current DJ members of the Musicians Union include Fatboy Slim, Paul Oakenfold, and Carl Cox.

Smooth who embellished the Hard To Earn classic "DWYCK." Gang Starr ran through gems such as "Manifest," "Step In The Arena" and "Code Of The Streets." They also kicked more recent tracks such as "Work," "All 4 The Cash" and "Full Clip," a song dedicated to the memory of Big L. The Roots dropped one of their first shows following their return from Europe. The acclaimed Philly crew's set mirrored the group's breathtaking performance two weeks beforehand, at Woodstock. But the band never failed to impress, controlling the crowd with a true-toform jam session that meticulously improvised on tunes such as "Mellow My Man," "Concerto Of The Desperado" and "Double Trouble," the latter of which the featured the on-stage aid of Mos Def. But the true highlight of the Roots' 90-minute set was a climactic version of their signature hit "You Got Me," the chorus of which saw zany Godfather of Novze, Rahzel, drop a dead-on imitation of Erykah Badu's vox. Lyricist Malik B, who rarely joins the group on tour, also showed up to rumble. Not bad for a Wednesday night...By the time this issue arrives on your desk, Mobb Deep will have issued its long-awaited, much-delayed, fourth album, Murda Muzik. The product is five cuts deeper than that bootleg copy you got on the corner a few months back. The bonus tracks are "Spread Love," "It's Mine" (with Nas), "I'm Goin' Out" (featuring Lil' Cease), "Can't Fuck Wit" (guest starring Raekwon), and the remix of "Quiet Storm" featuring Lil' Kim on the hook. The latter is currently vying for the top spot on the Beatbox chart...On November 3, Tommy Boy will release the eponymous debut by the killer crew Diggin' In The Crates (DITC). The album has been 10 years in the making. It's one of the most anticipated hip-hop records in the history of the genre. Highlights include "Thick," which was produced by DJ Premier and vocalized by AG and OC; a Premier remix of Big L's street gem "Ebonics"; and "Drop It Heavy," Andre's round-robin with KRS-One and Big Punisher.

Doctorin' The House BASEMENT JAXX PRESCRIBE THE REMEDY FOR AN AILING CLUB CULTURE

At first glance, you probably wouldn't peg Felix Burton as house music's latest hero. As he shuffles into the Soho Grande café for a bit of breakfast and conversation, his scruffy exterior and shockingly untamed mess of blondish locks — combined with the comically exaggerated mannerisms with which he expresses himself — make him look more like a guy who'd most likely get denied at the velvet rope. Nothing could be further from the truth, however, as he and partner Simon Ratcliffe, better known as Basement Jaxx, are currently making the dancefloor a little more religious for those who had previously lost faith in da funk.

"The first time I heard dance music was when I was 16," says the wide-eyed and wiry Burton with an endearing, effervescent grin. "It was that early hip-hop and house music from New York. It just sounded so different, raw, and exciting. I'd get records sent from America all shrinkwrapped, and the label would look so cool, and at the beginning of the record, some guy would say, 'This is so dope, this shit is... slamming!' And being from the English countryside, I'd just think, wow, this stuff is wild. So fucked up. So urban. No submission to anything."

"I thought the most exciting thing about it was that it was unorthodox," echoes Ratcliffe, the calm, cleanshaven, more subdued of the two. "It had a futuristic feel to it, but it was also very expressive. It had soul and passion. It was music. But I think most of the house tracks [made] now...are just DJ tools. Everything fits seamlessly into the record played before it and nothing has its own personality or character. I guess we're looking at things slightly negatively because we're saturated with it and we're sick of it."

The contrast between Basement Jaxx's enthusiastic yin and disillusioned yang is jarring. But the zeal for club music's past and the disdain for its present is, in fact, the mother of the duo's dance-floor invention.

Initially, the pair's call to arms was sounded in the early '90s, in the form of underground parties held in tiny, sometimes dodgy South London locales ("Anywhere with a sound system was fair game," says Ratcliffe). There, the pomp and circumstance that suffocated DI culture was a given a rest, as the Jaxx spiked the punch with an eclectic mix of disco, salsa, techno, flamenco, rare groove - anything that made the few hundred bodies present move. In 1994, the bold, fuck-all mentality of those early extravaganzas prompted the duo to press its party onto wax with a string of singles and EPs, the spellbinding "punk garage" sound of which found its way onto the U.K. charts and prompted many a dance music figurehead — from "Little" Louie Vega to Armand Van Helden to Daft proclaim Punk — to Basement Jaxx as the new sound of house.

Four years later, Basement Jaxx have devised Remedy, their first full-length album. While Remedy is defiantly futuristic and forward-thinking in its construction, it is also replete with hallmarks that have pervaded the dancefloor since the heyday of disco — dashing divas, bellowing bass melodies, 808 drum kicks, and the unwavering belief that a DJ can indeed save your life. What makes the duo's concoctions so dynamic is a daring and often erratic juxtaposition of styles and influences — vocoder-processed vocals over sexy flamenco guitars, rough ragga rhymes under dense techno squalor, minimalist hip-hop next to a fierce salsa swing.

"When we started out, Masters At Work from New York was our main influence," says Burton. "They seemed to be doing something different; tracks that... stood outside dance music as it normally was. It had depth to it, it had emotion, it was artistic...like a minimalist form of proper music. Over the years, there's been really good dance music you could listen to at home as well — Soul II Soul, Sister Sledge, Prince, Bob Marley...that's all dance music to me. We want to find that balance...to make music that works well in clubs, but can also be listened to as music."

Many of the cuts do stand up to non-club, home-stereo listening, saturated with killer hooks and choruses that swirl in your head long after the strobe fades. But when all is said and done, Remedy is, at its base, a party album, one that attempts to link the past to the future and bring the energy of a house party back into the conventions of clubland. Judging by the international fervor and chart-topping success that has followed these two enthusiastic boys from Brixton, the revolution is right on time.

"People ask us if we're still underground and whether our music will change now that it's become somewhat popular," says Ratcliffe. "But...underground is a mentality. We'll always have that approach to music where we don't care what the mainstream is doing. We're always going to express ourselves and do something different. That's the buzz. People won't be able to put pressure on us recreate a certain style. All they can ask from us is to do that Basement Jaxx thing, whatever it is."

INDUSTRY PROFILE

By Amy Sciarretto

Original Religion Bad drummer Jay Ziskgrout founded Grita! Records in 1996 because he felt that Latin Rock music sorely lacked an outlet in the United States. Grita!, which translates to "scream" in Spanish and Portuguese. focuses on Rock En Español. The label recently joined forces with another Latin indie, Aztlan Records (which deals with Latin swing and ska), to further open the music public's ears to Latin rhythms and sounds other than Ricky Martin and Jennifer Lopez. Grita!'s most recent release was the all-Spanish language Exitos Al Cabron by the Voodoo Glow CMJ Skulls. spoke Grita!'s marketing and promotions director, Tiffany Hamilton, to see if she's livin' la vida loca.

What did you do before working at Grita!? I was the music director at KRUI at the University of Iowa. I interned at Lookout! Records, and worked music retail throughout high school and college.

As director of marketing and promotions for Grita!, what are the main tasks and challenges of marketing Latino music to a non-Latino audience? What are some of your tactics?

Getting the information out...getting people out there to the shows, [getting them to] open that package from Grita!, and [to] listen to the music. That's what sells [it]. Once they take that time, most are set aback with a "No way! This stuff is great. If I only knew before..." Our band Niños con Bombas played SXSW and blew everyone away. A New York Times writer said they were one of a couple [bands] that made SXSW interesting this year. I invited some people to come see the show and those who did were just blown away, profusely thanking me for opening up their world. My main task is opening people's minds. For many, it may be hard to listen to something "not in their first language." But it's when your hear the music...that grabs you. There's nothing like hearing how another culture can put its stamp on music, let alone rock music. Hmm...Latin rhythms and sounds with a good rock base. Delicious. I can't understand how people can look at a CD, see that [the lyrics] are sung in Spanish, and immediately discard it without listening to the first track. My main tactic to use towards an "Anglo" audience is to be like, "Hey, look, I'm a gringa who knows only a little Spanish, yet I really dig this stuff." Forty percent of Grita!'s audience is non-Latino, so something must be working.

What do you think about the current Latino music explosion, with mainstream stars like Ricky Martin and Jennifer Lopez making headlines? Do you think these artists are truly representative of the genre as a whole?

I think it's great. In every classification of music, you have your Michael Jacksons and Madonnas. Ricky Martin has made listening to Latino music "cool," and that's a step in the right direction. If some kid has an older sister listening to Ricky Martin or Jennifer Lopez, he or she may think, "I like this stuff. But I want something more rebellious, something that will make Mom yell at me to turn it down." There's the window to move into what's been happening in the Latin Rock world. Latin Rock has been happening for a while, but because of Ricky and Jennifer, it's now starting to see its day. In interviews, Ricky has pointed people in the direction of Latin Rock. He knows.

Of course, there are the big and phenomenal acts like Los Lobos and Puya out there, but what else is going on in the Latin scene? Can you name some bands that are on the verge?

Well, one of the best records of last year was Manu Chao's solo album Clandestino, which is in Spanish, English, and French. He's the founder of the infamous Latin rock band Mano Negra. In my opinion, that is the direction that future music should go towards....The U.S. calls itself this "melting pot of cultures," but this hasn't crossed onto the airwaves. Niños Con Bombas is one of the most brilliant bands I've ever heard. They do some interesting things musically that no one has ever done before: mixing languages, cultures (its members are from Brazil, Chile, and Germany) and styles (rock, punk, ska, cabaret, jazz, hiphop with elements of electronic.) This is why Grita! rejects the ever-popular term, "rock en español." It's not rock just sung in Spanish. It's so much more.

What do you think about college radio's relationship with Grita!?

Theoretically, it should be easy. Since college is a time of exploration, learning, and being open-minded, college MDs should be looking for that something different, whether it's that new release from a good rock band, that new hip-hop artist with exciting beats, or Latin rock. I think...college radio should be a mezcla ["mixture"] of different types of quality music not heard on commercial radio. Latin Rock is the underground and a lot of it is sparked by problems happening right now in Latin America. Guerillas capturing hundreds of people and coups all bring about passion, and passion for something brings great music. This is what Grita! tries to bring to people.
