BMI, EMusic.com Make Licensing, ECommerce Pact

Performing rights organization BMI and downloadable music retailer EMusic.com have entered into a licensing and e-commerce agreement, which aims to benefit more than 200,000 BMI-represented songwriters, composers and publishers. The deal will also encompass the Internet Underground Music Archive (IUMA), the EMusic-owned Web site for independent and unsigned artists.

Pursuant to the agreement, BMI will give a blanket music performance license to Emusic.com and the IUMA. Because of the negotiation, which encompasses both streamed and downloadable music, BMI's Web site will contain a link to Emusic's commerce engine. Through the addition of this link, the companies hope to stimulate the sales of downloadable music written by BMI-affiliated songwriters.

Richard Conlon Vice President of Marketing and Business Development for BMI commented, "We believe that we can help create legitimate markets for the sale and (Continued on page 13)

THE ESSENTIAL RELEASES OF THE WEEK

JOEL R.L. PHELPS Blackbird (Pacifico)

In 1995, after leaving the postpunk environs of Silkworm, Joel Phelps embarked on a quietly dour, meandering solo journey, treading a path littered with scraps of American roots music. On Blackbird, his third full-length, Phelps re-traces his steps: The crackle and burn of the singer/guitarist's amplifier recalls his former band, but his approach remains woefully forlorn and diffuse. If the earlier work of Phelps and his two cohorts (collectively known as the Downer Trio) sounded like they were touched by the lonesome pathos of After The Gold Rush-era Neil Young, the group's new album seems enamored with the tormented thunder and crash of Young's collaborations with Crazy Horse. While the trio's impressionistic, often explosive playing helps fuel Blackbird's intensity, Phelps's aching, coyote-howl serves as the music's emotional focal point. As he sings, he rides a lone, frayed nerve like it's some kind of bedraggled horse, painfully urging it over a raging crescendo before letting it rest momentarily in a pool of slowly decaying minor chords. Blackbird is at once tragic and tender, an epic expression defeat that masterfully of underscores its despair with sweet - Colin Helms strains of hope.

OL' DIRTY BASTARD Na Please (Elektra-EEG)

On his astonishing 1995 debut, Return To The 36 Chambers: The Dirty Version, Wu-Tang clown Ol' Dirty Bastard established himself as the world's most unusual MC, spraying his saliva-dreuched rhymes around the beat of the RZA's artful, subterranean backing tracks. On his grimy sophomore effort, Na Please, the tragicomic rapper has become an even more individualistic presence, stepping out of the shadow of the Wu braintrust and getting nasty over the surprising, damaged groove of a live funk band. But this is no party album. When he wants to, Dirty can still kick it to adventurous loops of post-Clan orchestration, and he's far too annoying, abrasive and totally fucking real to ever sink to novelty-act status. His violent celebrations of poontang, paranoia and debasement are undeniably funny, though they're anything but fluffy fun. The new record is messier than its predecessor, but ODB's rage is so rabid and clever that he sounds studiedly inarticulate, as if he were deliberately exploiting his own instability and congratulating himself for having released the weirdest major-label album of 1999. — Jordan N. Mamone

GET UP KIDS Something To Write Home About (Vagrant)

For a while there, people were starting to worry about the Get Up Kids. Their 1997 debut album, Four Minute Mile, garnered them so many accolades that the band found themselves in an inescapable swirl of major-labelsigning rumors. All the pressure seemed to beg for a follow-up album that would redefine the term "sophomore slump," However, on the impressive Something To Write Home About, the Kids remain independent in both label affiliation and spirit. Steeped in on-the-money hooks, the album will suck you in with its anthemic choruses, sublime harmonies and playfully swirling keyboards, all of which only add to the charge of the racing guitars. And while the Kids' forthright lyrics are still fearless declarations of feelings ("If I had to explain it/I wouldn't know where to start/It's like you're falling in love/While I just fall apart"), the band's music is peeling off that emo nametag and delving deeper into the joys of intelligent pop. A smartly balanced palette of driving pop with a couple of unashamed ballads, Something To Write Home About is exactly what its title implies.

WHEAT Hope And Adams (Sugar Free)

Upon the release of Wheat's 1997 Sugar Free debut, Medeiros, the Massachusetts four-piece's languid and emotionally blistered rock caught the ears of many critics and fans in Boston and beyond. To make Hope And Adams, the group, now pared down to a trio, hired producer Dave Fridmann (Flaming Lips, Mogwai, Mercury Rev) to fine-tune the atmospheric and elegiac nuances within its music. Having recorded the album in just two weeks, the band makes the most of its slight sonic imperfections and misshapen sound effects, both of which only enhance the carefully measured, vet disarming quality of tracks such as the pensive "San Diego." That song and the steady, lushly crackling "Don't I Hold You" keenly display vocalist/guitarist Scott Levesque's bruised lyrical style, which often deals with postrelationship anguish. or dramatic dream-like visions. His words grow more effective as the musical arrangements become sparser. Through a hazy mix of simple, whispering instrumentation, Levesque makes such unusual analogies as "Your love is a tow away zone/No parking unless you're willing to pay the fine" that further intensify the album's thought-provoking and haunting, emotional underbelly.

Beau Jocque, Zydeco Innovator, Dies

Beau Jocque, the man known for having brought rock 'n' roll muscle to zydeco, died on September 10 in his Kinder, Louisiana, home. According to the AP, the 45-year-old musician was discovered in the shower, where he had suffered a heart attack and collapsed.

Jocque, who was born Andrus Espre, in Duralde, Louisiana, initially approached music as a second career. He had earned a living as an electrician until 1987, when a work-related accident left him paralyzed from the waist down. During his son's 10-month recuperation period, Jocque's father dared him to learn to play the three-row button accordion, a traditional Cajun instrument that the elder Espre had deemed too difficult to master. Throughout the five years that would follow, Jocque and his wife, Michelle, haunted zydeco clubs, taking notes from such genre greats as Boozoo Chavis, with whom Jocque would later spar in on-stage duels.

In 1991, Jocque formed the Zydeco Hi-Rollers. In a 1996 interview with the New Orleans Times-Picayune, the musician described the band's music as his "own special blend," adding that he liked to "take an old song and keep the foundation but put in my own ingredients. Santana greatly influenced me, also ZZ Top and John Lee Hooker." Jocque flaunted his love of rock and blues on the group's trademark songs — a cover of War's "Low Rider," and the two-stepping, rap-tinged "Give Him Cornbread." The Hi-Rollers toured the nation and the world, selling out venues and inciting fans to shed their clothes — police once halted a London show because attendants were stripping and stage-diving. But the accordionist never alienated the Louisiana dance-hall circuit, where he won over young and old fans with his basso profundo, lead guitar licks and dynamic grooves. "What I set out to prove is that zydeco can be a relative to blues, rock and roll, jazz and you can play it anyway you choose," he told CMJ in 1998. "I think it's time for something new. I'm out here to have fun."

Jocque and the Hi-Rollers released eight albums during their career. Rounder Records issued five of the titles, the first of which was 1993's Beau Jocque Boogie. In 1999, Mardi Gras Records released Zydeco Giant. Jocque is survived by his wife and by his two sons, Andrus Adrian and Justin Travis.

MTV Files A Suit Against Imagine Radio Founders

MTV Networks has filed a suit against the founders of Internet broadcaster Imagine Radio. The cable network seeks to block an Imagine venture that violates a contract signed by the two parties.

In February, 1998, MTV bought Imagine from former college roommates Rotem Perelmuter and P. Michael Briseno. The company cost $14.5 million. During the transaction, Imagine's founders had agreed to never form a competing business during the period of February 4, 2000 to February 3, 2001. MTV had figured Imagine into its plans for its recently announced MTV Interactive (MTVi) online network, which is comprised of MTV.com, VH1.com and SonicNet.com.

According to MTV's lawsuit, Perelmuter and Briseno had been using MTV's information, with hopes of using the Viacom-owned company's employees, to develop an Internet radio project called Third Millenium Radio. The network found the scheme on Perelmuter's computer, which revealed that he had been working on a proposal to solicit $8 million in funding from Sequoia Capital. Perelmuter, who had been contracted to work with MTV until November of this year, and Briseno, who had signed on to work with the company until 2001, are no longer employees of the network.

Mushroom Quits Massive Attack

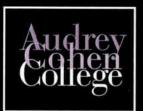

Massive Attack cofounder Andrew "Mushroom" Vowles has left the group, according to the NME. Vowles stopped touring with the band shortly after the release of the Bristol, England-based group's third album, 1998's Mezzanine. The band has no plans to replace him.

Vowles and Grant "Daddy G" Marshall formed Massive Attack in 1987 after the mid-'80s demise of the Wild Bunch, a British DJ collective with which they were involved. Massive Attack's core is rounded out by graffitti artist 3D, otherwise known as Robert Del Naja.

Talvin Singh Wins Mercury Prize

dance musician Talvin Singh has won the Mercury Music Prize, the annual British award for best recording made in the U.K. or Ireland. The honor was bestowed upon him for his album O.K. Brit-pop titans the Chemical Brothers, Blur, Manic Street Preachers, Stereophonics and Beth Orton competed with Singh, who is known for having organized London's Anokha club event and its namesake 1997 compilation Anokha: The Soundz Of The Asian Underground.

The BBC quoted the 28-year-old as having remarked that "I was kind of surprised, but then I wasn't that surprised because I feel that I do deserve this award. My life has been a bit of a struggle. With me being of Asian origin, I am a minority, and this is celebrating the struggle of our forefathers."

Critic Simon Frith, who chaired the panel of judges, admitted that there was a bit of a struggle among the jurors, who were mostly record execs. The debates, he said, were "unpleasant and acrimonious," although the judges agreed on the high quality of their short list.

The first Mercury prize was awarded in 1992. Past recipients of the honor include Suede, Pulp, Portishead and Gomez. After winning the prize, the latter act's 1998 album, Bring It On, became one of the year's top-selling albums in the U.K.

Cuban Bands Spark Controversy, Seek Asylum

Cuban band Los Van Van will play at Miami's Knight Center, according to Reuters. The news is being reported after a recent clash between anti-Castro Miami residents and the ACLU.

The popular dance group had been scheduled to give an October 9 performance at the venue. But Brigade 2506, a group made up of Bay Of Pigs veterans, aided by local politicians and callers to Spanish-language stations, had booked the Knight Center that evening. The group was planning to show an anti-Castro film. Miami mayor Joe Corollo called the band "the official Communist band of [Cuban President] Fidel Castro." When the Center's managers capitulated to protests and canceled the band's appearance, the ACLU threatened to take legal action.

The ACLU's Andy Kayton said that despite the protest, a new generation of Cuban-Americans are softening their stance on the Communist island. "Events that touch on the politics of Cuba are very volatile in Miami and this is part of a process over the last 10 to 15 years, in which we've seen constitutional values prevail over efforts to suppress ideas that a significant portion of the community finds to be offensive."

Ninoska Perez, spokeswoman for the Cuban American National Foundation, a major anti-Castro exile group, said, "The first amendment works both ways. [The band] has a right to play here, and the people in this community that feel offended have the same right to protest." Although the U.S.' s 37-year old embargo against Cuba is still in place, bands from that country can perform in the States under the aegis of cultural exchange. Artists cannot be paid for their performance, although they can be reimbursed for their expenses.

While Los Van Van were trying to get a gig in Miami, two members of another Cuban group, Sintesis, sought asylum in the city. When the latter act's tour ended in California, performers Jorge Luis Almarales and Eugenio Doria Del Valle took a bus to the Florida city and made their way to the office of Republican Congresswoman Ileana Ros Lehtinin. Almarales told the Miami Herald that he "couldn't live in oppression. I had to find a better life, to find my own future as a guitarist. Life is not eternal and you can't be suffering all the time."

At press time, the two had not filed formal requests for asylum.

Beck Finishes Followup To 'Odelay,' Loses Drummer

On November 16, Beck will release Midnite Vultures, his "official" follow-up to 1996's Odelay. Track titles on the new effort include "Milk And Honey," "Hlwd. Freaks," "Debra" and "Mixed Bizness and "Mixed Bizness." "Sexxlaws," the first single from the effort, will be backed by the non-album track "This Is For My Kru." The songs will appear on a limited-edition, white label 12", available for $5.98 through www.BECKdirect.com. The single also includes a remix by Roger Manning (a.k.a. Shotgun). The 1998-issued Mutations, the presumably unofficial follow-up to Odelay, was Beck's most recent album.

In related news, drummer Joey Waronker has decided to leave Beck's band due to scheduling conflicts. The session player has decided to concentrate on his production work and on his role as R.E.M.'s touring drummer. "It's not about leaving one band to join another," he told MTV News. "I've been asked to participate with R.E.M. for events scheduled next year. Plans for their next album are already on the blackboard."

Crispian Mills Splits Up Kula Shaker

Kula Shaker founder/guitarist Crispian Mills has broken up his group in order to pursue a solo career. The guitarist began writing material for a solo effort following the release of his nowformer band's sophomore album, Peasants, Pigs And Astronauts. The psychedelia-influenced Brit-pop group formed in 1995. The following year, Columbia Records issued its debut album, K. "It's like the changing of the seasons," said Mills. "We've had an excellent time and been a very tight band, but there comes a time when you want to do your own thing."

Fatboy Slim Settles Over Wonder Sample

Fatboy Slim (a.k.a. Norman Cook) has settled his beef with Canadian blues guitarist Ellen Mcllwaine. Cook had appropriated the musican's material without permission; the electronic musician's 1997 "Song For Lindy" utilized a sample from Mcllwaine's cover of Stevie Wonder's classic "Higher Ground," a track that appears on her 1975 album, The Real Ellen McIlwaine. Although the pair did not disclose the amount of their settlement, they reportedly agreed upon a flat fee, with a portion of the song's future royalties being paid to McIlwaine. Slim's cut was originally released on the Senseless soundtrack. It has also been featured on various dance music compilations, and it was also licensed by Microsoft for use at a convention.

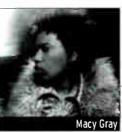

Bridge School Benefit Takes Shape

Promoters have announced the talent lineup for the 13th annual Bridge School Benefit concert. Pearl Jam, Billy Corgan and James Iha of the Smashing Pumpkins, Green Day, Tom Waits, Sheryl Crow, Lucinda Williams and Beach Boy Brian Wilson are scheduled to play at the Neil Youngorganized event. The songwriter's former cohorts Crosby, Stills & Nash were forced to cancel their appearance; Graham Nash is still in the hospital, after having broken both of his legs during a boating accident. One classic rock act that will be on-hand for the two-day show is The Who, which will reunite for and play an acoustic set on each day of the event. Although they disbanded in 1982, Pete Townshend, Roger Daltrey and John Entwistle have reunited several times over the years.

The Bridge shows will take place on October 30 and 31, at the Shoreline Amphitheatre in Mountain View, California. For ticket information, visit www.shoreline-amd.com.

CRTIST SPOTLIGHT LUNGFISH By Jordan N. Mamone

Like the creature from which the band takes its name, Baltimore's Lungfish has been gradually evolving over the course of its existence. The quartet's seventh album, The Unanimous Hour (Dischord), is its finest work yet, but despite this trend of steady improvement, the four-piece's posthardcore burn, fueled by obliquely poetic lyrics, has never fallen prey to trends or drastic changes. Vocalist Daniel Higgs gave us the dope on his group's refreshing allmusic/no-image philosophy.

Lungfish is a pretty enigmatic band. You've been around for 11 years, yet your bio is only three lines long.

We don't know who reads 'em. We're not clear on the function of those things...Lungfish is primarily, almost exclusively, about music...A lot of bands try to make everybody possible aware that they have recorded their music, and try to convince you somehow through clever images or slogans that you should check 'em out and listen to 'em. But that's all too theoretical for us. The people who want to hear our music tend to hear it and anything beyond that just seems manipulative...kinda pointless.

Your lyrics seem literary, often apocalyptic. Any inspirations?

I've just been writing since I was 11 or 12. I've read a lot of books...Language, everybody knows, is inherently musical. I'm not really consciously mulling over all that stuff when I write the lyrics. There's processes at work that I'm conscious of, but I can't articulate...I've been writing songs about the end of the world ever since I started writing songs. That [theme] runs through a lot of our songs — a major shake-up at hand.

You're from Maryland. Are you fond of crabcakes?

I have eaten crabcakes, yes. Eating the Chesapeake Bay blue crab is ceremonial. And if you're from there, it's not just a meai...It's not really about sustenance. There are easier ways to feed yourself.

Why the beard? Top secret.

California Superior Court, alleges that Gray and Leve had entered into an oral agreement in January of 1998. The deal would supposedly entitle Leve to a 15% management fee. Following the release of her critically acclaimed debut album, On How Life Is (Epic), the musician fired Leve and allegedly refused to pay her management fees.

Leve has also filed a contractual interference suit against Gray's producer Andrew Slater and his management company. The manager is seeking the same damages from Slater. Jill Berliner, a legal representative for Gray and Slater, told Billboard that no one has been formally served with the suit and that "the complaint that was filed is fraught with inaccuracies."

The Fall Are Battered, But Remain Together

Post-punk institution The Fall has resolved its interpersonal conflicts, following the bloody backstage brawl and the dismissal of drummer Tom Head that took place on August 27 at the U.K.'s Reading Festival. Chemical Brothers co-manager Nick Dewey replaced Head for the gig. Just prior to taking the stage, cantankerous leader Mark E. Smith and guitarist Neville Wilding engaged in fisticuffs. Like true professionals, the two men took the stage covered in blood. According to the NME, Smith reinstated Head the following day, in order for the band to perform at Reading's sister festival in Leeds.

A spokesperson told the NME. "There was an altercation between them that has been resolved. This was purely a one-off thing. It was just a Band-Aid job."

The Fall has a long history of in-fighting and altercations. In April of 1998, Smith assaulted keyboardist and then-girlfriend Julia Nagle in New York. In February of 1999, a court ruled that he would not have to pay a penalty for the incident were he able to keep his fists to himself until August 21. The fight with Wilding took place a mere week after the court's deadline.

MTV Bans Atari Teenage Riot Video

MTV has banned German digital hardcore act Atari Teenage Riot's video for "Revolution Action." The clip depicts the group kidnapping a businessman and ripping off his face.

An ATR representative told the NME that "Atari's intentions were to make a video that encapsulated their political beliefs but presented them in an entertaining rather than didactic way. MTV's attitude is not one of censorship, as there's nothing to censor. Instead, it smacks of over-sensitivity." Atari Tcenage Riot is currently on tour in the U.K.

Eminem Sued By His Mother

Hip-hop star Eminem, born Marshall Bruce Mathers III, is being sued for $10 million in damages, according to the Associated Press. The person filing the suit is none other than the MC's own mom, Debbie Mathers-Briggs, who claims that her son implied that she was an "unstable, lawsuithappy drug user." As evidence, the suit cited interviews with the rapper that appeared in Rolling Stone, Rap Pages, The Source and The Howard Stern Show.

New Bomb Turks Recruit Gaunt Drummer

Ohio punk band the New Bomb Turks have hired former Gaunt drummer Sam Brown, according to SonicNet. The group will work on its next album in a Detroit studio, in October and November. The record, working titles for which include From Point A To Point Blank and Urbane Renewal, may arrive in stores in the spring.

R.L. Burnside Recovering Following Heart Surgery

Having undergone successful angioplastic surgery, blues master R.L. Burnside, 72, is resting comfortably at his home. The musician was admitted to a Memphis hospital on August 31. Prior to his operation, Burnside was forced to cancel two shows due to exhaustion and respiratory trouble. After he fully recovers, he will resume touring with the Fat Possum Juke Joint Caravan, which also features T-Model Ford and Paul Jones. For tour dates, visit www.fatpossum.com.

Veruca Salt Signs To Beyond Records

Chicago rock group Veruca Salt has signed a record deal with Bevond Records. Louise Post, who will become a Beyond executive with the opportunity to creher ate own imprint, is the sole remaining founding member of the band. "I feel like basically I've been given a whole new and wonderful life," she told Rolling Stone Online. The group, rounded out by guitarist Stephen Fitzpatrick, bassist Suzame Sokel and drummer Jimmy Malda, is working on a new album, which will arrive in stores early next year. Post's boyfriend, ex-Filter member Brian Liesegang, will produce the effort.

Post and her former partner Nina Gordon parted ways in March of 1998, when the latter began pursuing a solo career. Veruca Salt is best known for its 1994 radio hit "Seether" and its debut LP, American Thighs. The band also released a 1997 fulllength, Eight Arms To Hold You.

Brian Wilson Collaborator Files Countersuit

Brian Wilson collaborator and producer Joe Thomas has filed a countersuit against Melinda Wilson, according to Billboard Online. On her husband's behalf, between her spouse and Thomas. Thomas, who seeks unspecified damages and $5 million in punitive damages, states that Melinda Wilson "schemed against and manipulated both Brian and [himself], and has misused [the joint venture between her husband and Thomas] in order to secure the full benefit of Brian's star status for herself." Thomas also claims that Mrs. Wilson canceled the tour in support of her husband's 1998 record, Imagination. Thomas also claims that she requested for him to receive fewer writing credits, and that, by setting up her own live dates for her spouse, she attempted to halt the creation of a second

Mrs. Wilson, the wife of the ex-Beach Boy, is seeking to dissolve the joint venture

Thomas-Wilson album. Thomas co-produced Imagination and he worked on the 1996 Beach Boys album Stars And Stripes, Vol. 1.

Gregg Turner, a former member of the wellknown Los Angeles punk band the Angry Samoans, has formed a new combo called the Blood Drained Cows. The trio is based in Santa Fe, New Mexico, where frontman Turner is employed as a mathematics professor at a college. But BDC's self-titled, Jeff Dahl-produced debut, issued by Triple X Records, remains a decidedly nonintellectual blast of straightforward, threechord rock. Punk grandfathers will enjoy the covers of the Angry Samoans' "I Lost My Mind" and the 13th Floor Elevators' "You're Gonna Miss Me." For more information, call Triple X Records at 323.221.2204, or visit the label's Web site, www.triple-x.com.

Has all the funk been taken out of your life? If so, give your booty a rhythm injection with United We Funk, the 14track compilation issued by Rhino Records' Major Label Records imprint.

Rick James, the System, the Gap Band and the S.O.S. Band are just a few of the names that heat up the party. The United We Funk All Stars, which included the late Roger Troutman of Zapp, also contribute a track to the album. The group's donation is one of the last recordings ever made by the funk legend. For more information, send email to Rhino's Bill Smith at bill_smith@rhino.com.

Bloodshot Records recently issued Poor Little Knitter On The Road: A Tribute To The Knitters. The album honors the '80s sideproject/alterego of the Los Angeles punk band X. Participants in the Knitters included Dave Alvin of the Blasters, Johnny Ray Bartel of the Red Devils, and Exene Cervenka, John Doe and D.J. Bonebrake of X. The ensemble only released one record, 1985's Poor Little Critter On The Road. Bloodshot has re-assembled that work track-for-track, replacing the original versions with Knitters covers by insurgent country bigwigs such as Whiskeytown, the Blacks, Robbie Fulks, the Old 97's and others. Kelly Hogan even re-joins (and assumes the frontperson role in) her former band the Rock*A*Teens for the occasion. Record Briefs

Modest Mouse has signed to Epic Records, but the band's former label, Up, will issue a farewell compilation album by the Seattlebased trio. Building Nothing Out Of Something will arrive in stores on October 16. The work will consist of 12 tracks taken from previously released LPs, EPs and 7" singles...Look out! This Yuletide season, the Antichrist Superstar will be sliding down your chimney and into your blazing fireplace. In November, Nothing Records will release a live Marilyn Mason effort entitled The Last Tour On Earth. Guzzle down the egg nog and dye your Christmas best black for these 12 songs recorded during the group's most recent tour of the U.S. Late in the fall, a Marilyn Manson music video collection, called God Is In The TV, will heighten the holiday cheer. Remember, "santa" is an anagram for "satan."...Despite the fact that the album will arrive in stores in November, Rage Against The Machine still hasn't titled its forthcoming release on Epic Reocrds. In a recent interview with CDNow, guitarist Tom Morello described the new songs as "some really heavy shit. There's some stuff that's faster than anything we've ever done before...This record is awesome. I've never been more proud of anything we've done than this batch of songs."...Miranda July and Mike Kunka of Enemymine are laying down material at the Dub Narcotic Studio. Calvin Johnson is rolling the tape. The duo is working on the soundtrack to July's film Nest Of Ten...To celebrate the recent release of Ol' Dirty Bastard's newest solo endeavor, MTV Online hås posted a run down of the rest of the year's Wu-Tang Clan-related adventures. Here it is, printed for your convenience: Inspectah Deck's Uncontrolled Substance will arrive in stores on October 5; Raekwon's sophomore solo joint, Immobilarity, should hit the racks by mid-November; Ghostface Killah's Supreme Clientele will also see the light of day before Thanksgiving...Straightedge hardcore quintet Snapcase is currently mixing Designs For Automotion, its upcoming release on Victory Records. In a post to the label's Web site (www.victoryrecords.com), vocalist Daryl Taberski describes the new material as "definitely Snapcase, but [it] has...catchier riffs and choruses that make it sound fuller than the last record."...Rumors about the break up of the Skoidats have been proven erroneous. On October 26, the band's second album on Moon Ska Records, A Cure For What Ales You, will become a reality.

DEN Files For $75 Million IP0

Digital Entertainment Network (DEN) has filed for a $75 million IPO with the Securities Exchange Commission (SEC). At press time, the company had not yet determined the number of shares or the offering price. DEN plans to use most of the money to produce programming for its Web channel and to develop its >en music group, a partnership with G.A.S. Entertainment, a company formed by ex-Capitol Records chair Gary Gersh and Gold Mountain Management chief John Silva. DEN's Web programming, which targets the 12-24 demographic, includes such six-minute shows as "Fear Of A Punk Planet," "Frat Ratz" and "Aggronation." The company is planning to expand its programming to include features about independent film, electronica and travel. The >en music group offers its artists a 50/50 royalty split, shorter contracts and cross-marketing campaigns with indie and major labels.

Arista Records' Clive Davis Inks 5-Year Deal

Arista Records President Clive Davis will preside over the label for another five years. His new contract, reportedly worth approximately $70 million, will reportedly earn him over $5 million a year. He will also receive an eight-figure signing bonus spread over the term of the contract. Arista recently completed the most successful fiscal year in its 25-year history. The company took in more than $425 million in revenues.

Smashing Pumpkins

the group's label, Virgin Records, issued a release confirming the news. "D'Arcy has left the Smashing Pumpkins," read the statement. "The band's new album is finished, and will be released on February 15, 2000 by Virgin Records. The Smashing Pumpkins will continue as a band and will tour in support of the new record."

According to Rolling Stone Online, a source close to the Pumpkins said that "D'Arcy's participation in this album has been minimal at best. Billy [Corgan, Pumpkins frontman] has been calling the band a power trio, and [guitarist] James Iha has been doing all the bass parts."

The 31-year-old bassist who cofounded the act with Corgan, Chamberlain and Iha in 1989, has reportedly been unhappy with the role she plays within the band. Insiders told Rolling Stone Online that the musician had long ago grown tired of Corgan's sovereign rule, and that she nearly left the quarter last April, when the band had embarked on a club tour.

Sonic Net reports that Wretzky, who is a co-conspirator in Scratchie Records, the company she founded with Iha and Ivy/Fountains Of Wayne songwriter Adam Schlesinger, plans to focus on an acting career. The money will help fund KnitMedia's new, L.A.-based club and it will help secure additional content and management personnel for its Web site, www.knitmedia.com. Michael Dorf's endeavor is also currently developing a video music program for Cablevision's cable modem broadband service. Knit-Media's other business ventures include a host of new media proposals, various festivals and several record labels.

Donnas. The department houses a music video production class, which, under the name 185 Productions, works on one video each semester. For its latest project, the 30-student class, led by director Babak Sarrafan, opted to shoot a clip for the allgirl quartet's song "Skintight." "They're local, they're an up-and-coming group and they have a lot of national status now because they're on MTV," student/ publicist Hazel Navarra told CMJ. The students collaborated with a crew of professional video producers, who pitched the idea to the Donnas' label, Lookout! Records. "[The label] is totally into it. They're giving us [the band's] media packages and all the information we need - we're in total contact with them all the time. They told us what they like and what they don't like," Navarra added.

The students helped carry out every aspect of the production, from its casting to its catering. The video, which was filmed from September 23-26, was shot at locations such as the San Jose State University and a convenience store in Heyward, California. The cameras were operated by both students and professionals "[The students'] input was just do our job and tell them what we've done so far. It's such a big production, we can't slack," said Navarra. A Hollywoodbased post-production house is currently putting the finishing touches on the video. As Navarra said, "we'll be able to see what the video looks like by December."

Last semester, San Jose's students filmed the clip for Mixmaster Mike's "Surprise Package." At present, videophiles can catch a glimpse of the Donnas donning grease paint in their video for the Kiss nugget "Strutter," a song that appears on the Detroit Rock City soundtrack.

Charlatans U.K. (Continued from cover) driving accident. But despite that tragic setback, the Charlatans U.K. have persevered, replacing Collins with Tony Rogers. The group's self-produced latest work. Us And Only Us, is perhaps its most refined and melodic work to date. The album will arrive in stores on October 19, but MCA has sent the first single "Forever" to College and specialty radio. In early November, the company will release "My Beautiful Friend" to the Commercial Alternative and Triple A radio formats. Kevin Godley has directed a video for the former song; the latter will also appear as a clip and as a series of remixes carried out by Lion Rock, Death In Vegas and Prodigy. In addition, "My Beautiful Friend" will appear on the soundtrack to the fallrelease film Ordinary Decent Criminals.

"This whole campaign from now until the end of the year is about just warming engines," said Rudy Provencio, National Director of College Promotion/Special Project for MCA. "The first of the year is when we pull the trigger and blow everybody's head off. I think the company has realistic expectations - we want to give the band a huge push and get them the tours that they deserve as well."

The Charlatans U.K. have existed for a decade. MCA and New Jersey-based independent promoter The Syndicate want to educate young radio programmers about the band's place in the college rock pantheon. The companies feel that the group's historical significance will be a key to the album's success. "The biggest thing for us is getting the word out," said Syndicate co-founder Jon Landman. "People may know the band's name more than they are familiar with the history of the band. People are more familiar with the name and that the band is important, but they don't know why they're important. However, I do think the more heritage college stations are going to eat it up because it has that flair of sounding like something different." Landman had the following to say about the sound of Us And Only Us: "The last record [Tellin' Stories] was this monster sound record with all the production, and this record sounds more introverted. I think it's the record they wanted to make."

The label also seeks to give the release maximum exposure at independent and regional retail outlets. MCA will launch a campaign consisting of in-store advertising and strategic, in-store product placement. The record will also be available at retail listening stations. The Charlatans U.K. plan to tour major U.S. markets in January of 2000. In preparation of the outing, MCA has already secured features in Alternative Press, Entertainment Weekly, Gear and Flaunt.

QUASI Radio 200: 68-8

Core Radio: #5 debut

Quasi's Field Studies (Up) is a delectable pop record, marked by sweet and innocent melodies and arrangements wrapped around biting, even cynical lyrics. With an ex-husband-and-wife team at the album's core. it's not surprising that there's such a juxtaposition. Its second week at radio is a stunning one, with a decisive 60-position jump on the Radio 200 chart bringing it comfortably in the top ten, and a commanding #5 debut on the Core chart. Quasi will be touring nationally throughout the fall, with McGathy's alternative division handling the album's promotion on the homefront, so expect Field Studies to remain a chart presence for months to come.

AIR Radio 200: 156-26 Core Radio: #17 debut RPM: 29-9

The world continues to wait for the follow-up album to Air's criticallyacclaimed debut album Moon Safari, but in the meantime the French duo offers Premiers Symptomes (Astralwerks). Comprised of cuts recorded between 1995 and 1997, the songs offer a background to the pair's easy way with lush and endearing instrumentals. Despite the material's age and its more primitive status. college radio is responding as fervently as if it were new material. RPM reporters move it 20 positions up the chart into the top ten, while Radio 200 reporters give it a 130-position jump and a debut at Core. Watch for Air's new album, due in the new year, to create even more of a stir on the college charts.

DANCEHALL CRASHERS

Radio 200: 166-29 Core Radio: #47 debut

The Dance Hall Crashers built their fanbase while on MCA, but found themselves without a label home after the Universal merger last year. Evidently, they're no poorer in terms of followers, though, since the band's first post-MCA indie outing leaps 137 positions on the Radio 200 and debuts on the Core chart at #47 in its second week. Purr is also the first release on the Fat Wreck Chordsdistributed Pink & Black label, which was established to release and promote music by female-fronted punk bands. Old and new fans alike can catch the Crashers on tour with No Use For A Name and Limp, a solid punk rock bill that will be taking it nationwide throughout the coming weeks.

BREAKBEAT ERA

Radio 200: #32 debut Core Radio: #32 debut RPM: #2 debut

The 1997 debut album from Roni Size & Reprazent, New Forms, was a landmark for the drum 'n' bass genre, since it garnered some of the style's most highprofile press mentions. But Size is never one to stand still, and with his new Breakbeat Era (in which he's joined by a member of Reprazent and female vocalist Leonie Laws) he pushes the boundaries of drum 'n' bass while making an altogether darker and more sinister record than he did with Reprazent. Ultra Obscene (XL/1500/ A&M-Interscope) is on fire at RPM with a #2 debut, but is catching on with nonspecialty programmers as well, scoring a pair of #32 debuts on the Radio 200 and Core charts. Watch for a Breakbeat Era U.S. fall tour.

Underground radio 3WK is much more than just your average "Internet broadcaster." Upon visiting the home page, music enthusiasts will immediately discover what music is being played via an abbreviated weekly snapshot of featured artists. A "song chart" link displays an extensive band list and the respective songs playing on the station. A recent list included Air, Boom Boom Satellites, David Bowie, Stereolab, Tricky, and many others. To view the entire 3WK artist catalog, merely click on the "artists page" link, which features some 642 artists, complete with 3WK's favorite artist links. Want to make a request? No problem. Just click on a link and submit up to seven at a time. Wondering what the latest record sounds like from your favorite group? Again no problemo. 3WK features reviews for select artists. The site also showcases live and archived webcasts from select artists via links to SonicNet. House Of Blues. JamTV and LiveConcerts. 3WK's Business Community includes retail, Web design, comics and sports links. The station also welcomes visitors to register their businesses within the community. Other site features include a monthly CD giveaway to a few lucky winners, and a free subscription to a weekly music newsletter in which listeners are encouraged to email their thoughts on how the station is doing and how it could be improved.

Amazon.com Introduces New Music Spotlight, Independent Artist MP3 Downloads

On September 16, online retailer Amazon.com announced the launch of its New Music Spotlight, an area of the company's Web site devoted to promoting the music of independent artists, bands and labels. The new feature, part of Amazon's Free

Downloads area, boasts amazon.com free, downloadable MP3s containing songs by more than 30 of the artists who are participating in Amazon.com Advantage, the free program that allows independent artists to sell their CDs on the site.

Jennifer Cast, Amazon.com's music store general manager, said, "New Music Spotlight gives our top-selling Amazon.com Advantage artists a very effective way to promote and sell their music to millions of music fans." Consumers may purchase the songs, chosen by Amazon's editors, on a CD, which will be sold at Amazon.com. The editors will continuously make new songs available.

NetRadio.com, RealNetworks Announce Multi-Faceted Marketing Agreement

Online audio entertainment broadcaster NetRadio.com and Internet media delivery giant RealNetworks have entered into a multifaceted marketing and distribution alliance. Under the terms of the agreement, NetRadio.com will deploy RealSystem G2 across its network of more than 120 channels. With G2 in place, NetRadio will be able to broadcast with superior audio quality. In G2addition. the enabled NetRadio channels will be distributed in the RealPlayer G2's preset menu. As a result, millions of registered G2 users will have direct access to NetRadio.com.

Mjuice.com, Arkadia Entertainment Sign Online Distribution Agreement

On September 7, MP3 download site Mjuice.com announced that it had signed a distribution agreement with Grammy-nomijazz nated label Arkadia Entertainment. For a two-year period, Miuice.com will sell more than 300 of Arkadia's most popular tracks, among them tunes issued by the Arkadia imprint Chansons, the label responsible for issuing titles by Europe's most revered entertainers, among them Josephine Baker, Maurice Chevalier and Edith Piaf.

Minice.com currently sells more than 3,000 songs released on 40 labels, among them DreamWorks, Bad Boy and Alternative Tentacles. Arkadia is also planning to supply Minice with unissued and alternate takes drawn from the label's archives, material by its newly signed artists, and material from its highly-acclaimed Postcards label.

All-Talk Broadcaster Eyada.com Debuts On Internet

September 15 marked the launch of alltalk Internet broadcaster Eyada.com, the brainchild of Robert Meyrowitz, creator of the legendary "King Biscuit Flower Hour." The station currently consists of one channel, which focuses on the entertainment industry, month. but next Meyrowitz will debut an all-talk sports channel. By the end of 2000, he plans to create channels for and about teenagers, women and business.

However, some people are skeptical of the station, which plans to sell banner ads and audio commercials. Lisa Allen, a senior analyst for Cambridge, Massachusetts's Forrester Research believes the station's format "is not uniquely suited to the new medium." Furthermore, she feels that listeners will ignore the station's advertising. However, Mark Mooradian, a senior analyst at New York City's Jupiter Communications, believes that, if branded properly, Eyada could create a successful niche for itself.

Web design and Internet media company Spike Networks has launched an radio service called Internet (www.spikeradio.com). SpikeRadio The station will spin funk, electronica, world music, soul and disco. Dave Kendall, the former host of MTV's 120 Minutes, has signed on to be one of (or DIs SpikeRadio's many IJs)...Looking to save a few coins by purchasing used CDs online? CD Warehouse (www.cdwarehouse.com) has taken on the inventories of 71 company-owned stores; its online inventory of pre-owned discs now totals million than one more 1999. J-Bird units...Throughout Records (www.j-bird.com) has signed 25 new artists to its roster. The label plans to sign an additional 25-50 performers by the beginning of the year 2000. New signings include famed Who bassist John Entwistle, original Stray Cats member Lee Rocker and group Rockapella...Pine vocal Technology has introduced its new SM-200C, a multi-functional portable MP3 audio player. The device allows consumers to play all types of CDs, regardless of whether the music encoded on them was downloaded via the Internet or manufactured and packaged in a traditional jewel box. The player's special features include a title display, a remote control and an adjustable equalizer. The SM-200C is the first MP3 hardware device that doesn't require a computer or an Internet connection...September 13 marked the debut of Garageband.com, the new music Web site that uses the Internet as a sort of public A&R forum. The site, the founders of which include former Talking Heads member Jerry Harrison, will allow music enthusiasts to sample recordings by unknown artists. Fans will then rate the featured music. Each month, Garageband plans to award its most popular artist with a recording contract.

ARCWELDER Everest (Touch And Go)

Over the course of its career, Minneapolis's Arcwelder has forged six full-lengths and a couple of singles. This power trio, originally regarded as a sort of cross between Hüsker Dü and Big Black, makes each of its successive albums both a reaffirmation reamirmation and a refinement of its post-punk vision, which tacks ringing pop melodies onto grinding grooves. A good portion of Everest fits into the classic quiet verse/loud chorus mold, yet the band's great hooks complement their signature staccato guitar rhythms, galloping bass and near-funky drums. Arcwelder even adds some unexpected tricks by adding bits of acoustic guitar and piano throughout the mix. These notorious homebodies/parttime rockers are a treasure too seldom seen, but at least Everest will give us one more fleeting glimpse of them.

EUREKA FARM The View (Loosegroove)

The album may be called The View, but Star Jones and Barbara Walters are certainly not responsible for kicking out the jams on this hypnotically dark, eight-track opus. The second full-length by Northwest mood

rockers Eureka Farm is yet another elegant collage of low-endfocused, classical-leaning woodwind and brass charts, chamber pop melodies, Moog-driven textures and quiet storms of guitar feedback, all of which rely heavily on atmosphere. Whereas the band's debut album, Analog, was recorded in such locations as a sanitarium and a high school gymnasium, The View was primarily taped on the actual farm that serves as the quartet's namesake. The natural analog vibe of this rustic work is a promise of things to come from this talented young collective.

EVERYTHING BUT THE GIRL Temperamental (Atlantic)

On Temperamental, Everything But The Girl singer Tracey Thorn and programmerdeluxe Ben Watt offer no grand revelations, but then again, the pair got its groundbreaking out of the way early. Instead of radically altering its approach, the duo has settled for ensuring that its trademark trip-pop is as dubby, delicious and essential as it can be. "Blame," which enlists J Majik of Metalheadz, thrives on crisp breakbeats and Thorn's echoed voice, snatches of which curl around rubbery basslines. As always, Watt's grooves are masterfully simple. He knows that it's not the at it's not the beat itself that makes a track. Watt understands that for all those clicks and splashes to work, they need to work in harmony with his own supple keyboard figures and refined samples, as well as with the smooth coo of Thorn's voice. — Steve Ciabattoni

I Am The Freshmaka (Moonshine)

Sam Freshmaka and Duke Mushroom may not know a whole lot about making music that evokes a deep or meaningful emotional response, but they sure as hell know how to get a party started that will wear a hole or two in the ol' shag carpet. I Am The Freshmaka, the dastardly breakbe at-house duo's debut, is a bubbly, sampledelic trip into the depths of fun, frilly electronic dance music. Burly breakbeats and bass lines bump and grind with scantily clad melodies, inspired by an intoxicating brew of vocal and musical soundbites lifted from a variety of sources, ranging from old-school disco and hip-hop to easy listening ditties and television commercials. Using retro-funk riffs and futuristic production tactics, the Freshmaka has created a flamboyant and flippant, yet completely infectious dance album.

GRADE Under The Radar (Victory)

Chicago's Victory Records has built a rocksolid reputation for being an anchor of the hardcore scene, releasing albums by genre heavies such as Warzone, Snapcase and Cause For Alarm. But in some respects, Grade's Under The Radar is a departure for the label. To generalize, Grade is an e m o c o r e band; its raw, intensely personal lyrics and fevered d e l i v e r y ar lines What pierce its intertwining guitar lines. What the band does share with its Victory labelmates, though, is a belief in the burly, brass-knuckled spirit of hardcore. Grade's playing is bruising and relentless compared to the wiry riffing of emo icons such as Sunny Day Real Estate, and singer Kyle Bishop's voice growls in a shredded bark as often as it sustains a wounded, insistent wail. Under The Radar displays the spiritual kinship between the two punk styles without sacrificing its individual personality to either of them. — Cheryl Botchick

GUANO APES

Proud Like A God (Super Sonic)

The female-fronted Guano Apes — that's "Shit Monkeys" to you, if you speak Portuguese — get a boost thanks to the extra X chromosome of singer Sandra Nasic. The group is a certified rock phenomenon in its homeland, Germany, which is no surprise, given the musicians' lick-yerlips chops and Nasic's wide vocal range. For the most part, her voice recalls that of both No Doubt's

Gwen Stefani and Garbage's Shirley Manson. But other times, she grunts and barks like a death metal howler against loud, thudding riffs. Proud Like A God is a wellblended mix of sweet pop and bruising rock, with a little bit of electronicainformed loops and ambience thrown in for good measure. — Amy Sciarretto

JOSHUA A Whole New Theory (Doghouse)

If you're battling heartache, A Whole New Theory is as comforting as a steaming mug of Earl Grey tea, a thermal blanket, and the warm shoulder of a good friend. Joshua, an emo-pop act from Virginia, is comparable to the Get Up Kids or Elliott.

Kids or Elliott. While the J Robbins-produced A Whole New Theory doesn't re-invent the sensitive-boyrock genre, the record is a welcome, worthwhile addition to quartet wisely the emocore canon. The quartet wisely steers clear of the whiny, upper-register wails indulged in by some of its peers. Instead, these guys churn out unforgettable melodies and jangly, bristling riffs layered over pounding drumbeats. Of course, it ain't emo if it doesn't include open-book lyrics that read like notes from a particularly revealing psychotherapy session; Joshua's words are appropriate, to say the least. — Amy Sciarretto

BILL LASWELL

Broken Vessels: Music From And Inspired By The Motion Picture (Velvel-Koch)

Some musicians might feel slighted if you were to categorize their work as "soundtrack music," but few artists can create sound sculptures as fitting for the cinema as the Buddha of bass and beats, Bill Laswell. Even without the accompanying visuals, his themes for the award-winning ward-winning independent drama Broken Vessels make for a compelling listen, as they crosspollinate genres to play out a challenging tale. Working with fiendish guitar ace Nicky Skopelitis and drummer Lance Garter, Laswell creates dynamic instrumental tracks of acidic drum 'n' bassinspired rock, haunting ambient dub and menacing, metaphysical mixtures of what lies in-between those forms. The thunder and lightning on "Strained," with its giant beats, piercing samples and scathing guitar solos, is convincing enough to make the Chemical Brothers run for cover.

MATERIAL

Intonarumori (Axiom/Palm Pictures-Rykodisc) Producer and Material kingpin Bill Laswell is a tireless innovator capable of deconstructing and reconstructing every style of music under the sun. Laswell was inventing weird remixes that delved into world music, avant-garde, free jazz, hip-hop and funk long before people had ever heard of drum 'n' bass, techno, or trip-hop. On Intonarumori, Laswell focuses his energies on hip-hop beats and sounds. The record's array of voices, among Keith, Flavor them rappers such as Kool Keith, Flavor Flav, Wu-Tang Clan's Killah Priest, and singers such as Lori Carson and Alicia Blue, only adds more color to Material's musical kaleidoscope. These moody, surreal, bumpin' and pumpin' notes from the beatbox underground are another milestone for Material and its main man.

ONEIDA

Enemy Hogs (Turnbuckle)

Oneida's occasionally spaced-out, but always ambitious Enemy Hogs is recommended to listeners who don't mind total stylistic inconsistency. The band dives into everything from rockin' rave-ups to psychedelia to free jazz to prog-rock to new wave, using instrumentation every bit as quirky as the songwriting techniques. Organs and vintage keyboards mingle with various musical surprises, among them the horn blasts of Masada's Dave Douglas and a chorus of children mirrored by a buzzing guitar line. What makes Enemy Hogs work, however, is its creators' veiled, tongue-in-cheek humor and their obvious relish of being as nonlinear as the tools at hand allow. Though the group is much more inclined to twist and skewer dreamy, lush pop, Oneida shares a lot in common with the Butthole Surfers in their indie label days. Which is a compliment indeed. - Cheryl Botchick

OUR LADY PEACE

Happiness...Is Not A Fish That You Can Catch (Columbia-CRG)

No one's disputing that happiness is one of life's more elusive fishes. It there's one thing Our Lady Peace has caught, however, it's the undivided attention of rock audiences all over America. Scores of people fell hook, line, and sinker for the band's sophomore album, 1997's Clumsy, and for its scorching single, "Superman Is Dead." The C a n a d i a n quartet's new em in with big-record will continue to reel 'em in with bigger, brighter melodies, smarter, stronger songwriting and more angst-ridden vocals. Proving that the third time is indeed the charm, Happiness... boasts several boisterous, radio-ready rockers. "One Man Army" and "Blister" are primed to burn up the charts. PLONE

For Beginner Piano (Warp-Matador)

Isn't it funny that, in an era in which our home video game systems are literally as powerful as our home computers, we can still gaze back fondly on the primitive block characters and two-tone bleeps of early video games à la Pong? If anything, that nostalgia may give you some insight into Plone's similarly retrofuturistic fascination with rudimentary electronica.

Remember Switched On Bach? Or those early Casio pre-programmed bossa nova demo tracks? For Beginner Piano's eerily naïve synthesizer suites evoke all of these listening experiences with a sense of childlike wonderment and sly kitsch. A shy vocoder makes an appearance on the whimsical "Plock" — one of the only tracks to feature singing — and bits of organic percussion (wood block, shaker) occasionally fancy up the nursery school proceedings, but for the most part, Plone crafts its simplistic pop solely from the sound of analog synths and prehistoric drum machines. Suddenly, it's 1976 all over again, and the machines are singing to us. — Colin Helms

RICH CREAMY PAINT

Rich Creamy Paint (Hollywood)

If the writers at Fox produced a new television program about a happy-go-lucky lad and his bubble gum crushes, Rich Painter (a.k.a. Rich Creamy Paint) would be a shoo-in for the lead role. The self-titled debut by from this 19-yearold Florida singer/songwriter is an innocent collection of sugary-sweet, Bambi-eyed tales of puppy love. Painter's H u b b a Bubba-sized head floats amidst pink and purple-colored clouds during his frequent saccharin serenades along the lines of "You are my sugar baby/You are the honey in my comb" ("You're A '10'"). But the kid can actually play — quite well, in fact. He's responsible for everything save the strings on some tracks. Painter's bouncing superball guitars and toy machine gun drums prevail throughout. Picture Rich Creamy Paint on a prom date with Britney Spears, chaperoned by Matthew Sweet, and you'll get an idea of what he's all about.

RICHMOND FONTAINE

Lost Son (Cavity Search)

It makes sense that Portland-area band Richmond Fontaine has shared the stage with the likes of Jeff Tweedy and X. Like Wilco, the group has country leanings, and like John and Exene, it can cook up a boiling pot of guitar rage. But carelessly filing Richmond Fontaine under "cowpunk" or "no depression" does these musicians a disservice. The act transcends those buzzwords. On Lost Son, their third album, guitarist/lead vocalist Willy Vlautin, bassist Dave Harding, pedal steel player acoustic backporch peace and quiet. And Vlautin is an exceptional lyricist — his bleak story-songs about prostitutes, homicidal security guards, and young men in search of their mothers are full of denouements that will make you gasp. — Carlene Bauer

LUKE SLATER Wireless (Novamute-Mute)

British techno-electro figurehead Luke Slater sees his consistently growing fame as a means of tantalizing and twisting more minds, prompting him to push each one of his productions a tad to the left of its predecessor. Following the sleek lushness of 1997's Freek Funk, Slater offers up a more bombastic vision with Wireless. Freaky funk and unbridled beats remain Slater's weapons of choice, but his attack is dirtier nain Slater's ttack is dirtier and more daring this time around, coupling taut e l e c t r o rhythms with washes of static, ear-bleeding techno noise and moody atmospherics. Cuts Rody Ereacful such as "All Exhale" and "Body Freefall, Electronic Inform" drop like bombs and demand your compliance, while "You Butterfly" and "I Thought I Knew You" creep along with sinister sonic urgency. The power of this grandiose release is not to be overlooked or underestimated.

SLICK SIXTY Nibs And Nabs (Mute)

Ever wonder what that guy who delivered that pizza to your house did after he hung up his hat and punched out? Well, the former pepperoni-chauffeurs in London's Slick Sixty went back to their houses and created sampledelic patterns of thick, illbient electrofunk. The trio's debut fulllength is actually a compilation of several years' worth of previously released material, served up as one definitive, hour-long opus. The result of Mute's first foray into abstract hiphop is an impressive conspiracy of live guitar licks and riffs, free-jazz trumpet skronk, Moogedout sounds c a p e s, turn table tricks, and electro-bouncy bass grooves. While most of Nibs And Nabs is a little too odd for the dancefloor, its erratic atmospherics make for great listening on the comedown ride home from the party.

SLOAN

Between The Bridges (Murderecords)

The members of Sloan are bona fide rock stars in their Canadian homeland, selling out arenas wherever they perform. During the Stateside tour in support of 1998's splendid Navy Blues, the versatile quartet each member takes turns penning songs, singing, playing instruments, etc. — finally began to court America, packing smaller, less grandiose venues. The maple syrupy combination of '70s grooves, arena-size power-pop, lyrical integrity and beautiful Beatlesque harmonies of Between The Bridges is likely to further weaken the knees of Ms. America. "Don't You Believe A Word," with its slippery disco beats and golden, pre-pubescent vocals, and the leg-kicking, stadiumshaking "Sensory Deprivation" are simply arresting.

Substitute Sloan's bus, corduroy leisure suits and wide-collared shirts for the Beatles' airplane, slick, black suits and thin ties, and you'll realize that Sloan is planning a Fab Four-ish U.S. invasion, Canadian-style. — Bill Konig

JON SPENCER BLUES EXPLOSION Xtra Acme USA (Matador) DUB NARCOTIC SOUND SYS-TEM/JON SPENCER BLUES EXPLOSION

Sideways Soul: Dub Narcotic Sound System Meets The Jon Spencer Blues Explosion In A Dancehall Style! (K)

It's worth digging through the trash to hear even the most disposable of Jon Spencer's studio scraps, experiments and remixes. That said, the leftovers and indulgences gathered on these two records add up to more than just footnotes in the Blues Explosion catalog. Kicking off with an

Explosionized version of the old Pussy Galore chestnut "Wait A Minute," Xtra Acme USA is, in many ways, a director's cut of its predecessor, featuring remixes and unreleased tracks from 1998's Acme and guest spots from the likes of Andre Williams, Moby, Money Mark, Jim Dickinson, David Holmes, Dante Ross, and Calvin Johnson. Speaking of Johnson, a 1997 recording session between his Dub Narcotic Sound System and the Blues Explosion served as the catalyst for Sideways Soul, a brilliantly sloppy nine-track jam that shimmies and grooves like Fred Sanford's junkyard pick-up. While several of the EP's tracks turned up on both Acme and the same year's Selector Dub Narcotic compilation, much of the work is previously unreleased, Grade-A garage rockin' funk. TRAM Heavy Black

Heavy Black Frame (Jetset)

Tram's debut, Heavy Black Frame, proves that simple things can be quite sublime. The British quintet's sensual songwriting combines wistful brooding with impromptu gusts of life. The band follows a mesmerizing formula to concoct its experiments in experiments in sparseness; each song begins with a hypnotically y a w n i n g melody that methodically winds in a slow, upward spiral. While the music curves heavntine path is enward in a mellow, serpentine path, its trembling incrementally gains intensity, thanks to the emerging percussive elements that surface during the final moments of each track. Paul Anderson's ghostly, almost spoken vocals often fade away, as the slightly psychedelic drugged up melodies begin to rise, filling the atmosphere with shimmering waves of sound.

GINNY HAWKER BLUES AND KAY JUSTICE Bristol: A Tribute To The Music Of The Original

Carter Family (Copper Creek)

On Bristol, West Virginia-born singer Ginny Hawker and Virginia-bred vocalist Kay Justice cover ballads and spirituals made famous by country music pioneers the Carter Family. Ex-New Lost City Ramblers guitarist Tracy Schwarz and a u t o h a r p / banjo player Mike Seeger, among others, provide an elegant, yet earthy accompaniment to the ladies' Carter-pure harmonies. Hawker and Justice many not be as well known as Emmylou Harris, but like that country stalwart, their mellow voices are simultaneously temperate and striking. Their singing is free of twang but full of bittersweet inflections, which highlight the enduring beauty of these old-fashioned songs — not even a card-carrying member of the Church of Satan could resist "On The Rock Where Moses Stood," a hopping hymn graced with surprising melodic twists. — Carlene Bauer

"King," the sassy tribute to any subscriber of the man-asking-of-his-castle cliché. On this song, Heat's trio goes back to its rock a billy roots, pitting full-bodied

Western gallops against a devastating rhythm attack. The flipside, "The Girl In Blue," is a sinister walk on the wild side. This snippet of cowboy blues plods along, as the Reverend's wicked vocals are led forward by the rhythm section, before a devilishly hot guitar solo takes the reigns.

BILLY BRAGG

Reaching Out To The Converted (Minding The Gaps) (Rhino)

In 1998, you couldn't pick up the year-end issue of any music rag without seeing a best-of mention of Mermaid Avenue, Billy Bragg's brilliant Woody Guthrie tribute album, made in collaboration with roots rock kingpin Wilco. The accolades given to that successful project not only sparked a r e n e w e d interest in Barking, Essex's most outspoken punk-rock folkie, but also heightened audiences' anticipation of his next solo endeavor. Reaching Out To The Converted (Minding The Gaps) collects the British import sides Bragg recorded between 1985 and the present, most of which were never made available in the United States. Highlights from this collection include the opening track "Shirley," a previously unissued alternate version of "Greetings To The New Brunette" featuring Smiths guitarist Johnny Marr, a gorgeous ballad variation of "Wishing The Days Away," and plaintive renditions of the McGarrigle Sisters' "Heart Like A Wheel" and the Beatles' "She's Leaving Home." —Ron Hart

MARK GROWDEN Downstairs Karaoke (Wiggle Biscuit)

A glimpse at the list of instruments — xylophone, accordion, tuba, grandma's organ, homemade spike fiddle (to name just a few) — used on San Francisco singer/songwriter/multi-instrumentalist Mark Growden's debut full-length will make you aware that you're in for an eccentric treat. It turns out that Doumstairs Karaoke is a wonaraoke is a wonderful collection of wicked tales, told by a heavenly-perverse storyteller. The o p e n i n g "House Of Love," with its spine-chilling organ, deathmarch snare The drain pipe drums and shadowy lyrics ("The drain pipe is clogged with old regrets and glass") could be a rain-drenched waltz conducted by the grumpy ghost of Johann Strauss. Growden exhibits a sensitive side as well. "Dirt Road" is a beautiful, moving, guitarbased folk ballad about a father/son relationship. A gifted composer of twisted tangos and distorted marches, Growden is indeed a beautiful freak. — Bill Konig

At the root of my rock fanaticism is an unabating, and frankly, sometimes alarming, adoration of power pop icon Cheap Trick. One of the great benefits of this quirk, though, is the number of interesting directions in which my love of the band has pointed my musical horizons. Cheap Trick frequently name-checked its influences, and those mentions spurred me to discover other artists. One of the more obscure ones is late-'60s/early-'70s British band The Move. Once I had located some of the group's records, I was immediately thrilled with what I heard. These guys not only sounded cool - fuzzy guitar tones, great melodies, prominent vocals with tight harmonies, and an overall Englishness underscored by that culture's biting, oddball sense of humor - but they also inspired me to make the Cheap Trick/Move connection immediately. Fronted by songsmith Roy Wood, The Move had an obvious Beatles bent, but was distinguished by a fondness for heavier guitars and its self-aware, darkly comic tendencies. To me, the band's later work, recorded after master arranger Jeff Lynne joined the band, built a logical bridge between the rocking power pop of Cheap Trick and my until-then inexplicable enjoyment of Electric Light Orchestra, whom Lynne later fronted. In fact, the best Move songs were equal parts Wood and Lynne, as these two intensely talented creative forces kept one another in check. (Lynne's later career, left unchecked by such a strong partner, has been overrun by his ever-more-rigid approach to how records should sound.) The pairing was too volatile to last --- after only a couple of years in the Move, Lynne left to form ELO, and Wood founded a new project — but the canon it left behind has become the bedrock of much of today's power pop. Cheryl Botchick

For Fans Of: Jellyfish, Cheap Trick, Big Star Recommended Releases: Message From The Country (1971), Great Movel: The Best Of The Move (EMI, 1994) Bio Fact: Wood had post-Move hit singles in the U.K. with his British glam-era band Wizzard and as a solo artist; Cheap Trick's most recent cover of a Move song was "Brontosaurus," the B-side of a 1997 Sub Pop single.

On September 10, Norman Cook (the British dancefloor jester better known as Fatboy Slim) surprised both those in and outside the dance community by walking away with - count them - three Moon Man statuettes at the 1999 MTV Video Music Awards. Fatboy Slim's hilarious video for "Praise You," which features a bumbling modern dance troupe created, coreographed. and led by the video's director, Spike Jonze, the "Torrance Community Dance Group." Jonze, under the alias of Torrance leader Richard Coffey, accepted award honors for Breakthrough Video, Best Direction, and Best Choreography. Cook's coup marks the first time that an Astralwerks artist has won a VMA. Cook also treated the confused crowd of superstar artists and industry bigwigs to a unique live interpretation of the song, during which the Fatbov himself faked it on the piano and the Torrance folks performed a head-scratching routine. The VMA awards, however, were simply the icing on Cook's cake: earlier in the week, his You've Come A Long Way Baby album reached platinum status — another first for an Astralwerks Records artist. Hats off. (RPM upcoming releases on page 37)

HARDKNOX Hardknox (Jive Electro)

The school of Hardknox is in session. Following the path of British big beat artists, this hardedged duo (introduced via the U.K.'s wellrespected Skint label) mixes gritty tech-funk and an upbeat smattering of samples with an array of bottom-heavy breakbeat rhythms that hit with the intensity of an H-bomb. The techno + rock + hip-hop formula may be old-hat at this point, but Hardknox's devastating, almost industrial take on the sound --- distorted sonics. sub-bass frequencies and over-the-top energy makes this debut an essential offering of dancefloor hits and brand new material.

MEG LEE CHIN Piece And Love (Invisible)

The arrival of London-based chanteuse and songwriter Meg Lee Chin to the testosteroneheavy world of industrial music is a welcome event. Best known for her work with industrial supergroup Pigface, Chin's full-length debut Piece And Love is a sexy affair that creeps into your consciousness like a virus, infecting your senses with an alluring mix of pop melody, gruff industrial noise and sassy trip-hop rhythms.

TOSHI REAGON The Righteous Ones (Razor & Tie)

If Toshi Reagon's name seems familiar, it's not just because her last name sounds like that of an ex-President. Toshi's mother. Bernice Johnson Reagon. founded the vocal group Sweet Honey In The Rock, which lends its bluesy vocal harmonies to the leadoff track, "Real Love." As a rocking African American singer-songwriter, Toshi Reagon draws inevitable comparisons to Joan Armatrading. However, Reagon incorporates a wider swath of musical influences, including R&B, jazz, funk and even hard rock on "I'm Just An Egg Don't Mind Me." What makes this album so strong is Reagon's ability to piece her musical patchwork into a coherent whole and deliver it through her dynamic, beautiful voice.

VOLEBEATS Solitude (Safehouse)

What do you call a band that blends the cool vibes of surf guitar with Americana-style country? Answer: The Volebeats. This band composes a soundtrack of America's highways and beaches that's marked by some twang and, yes, solitude. With Jeff Oakes' vocals setting the tone, "Beautiful Night" is particularly haunting.

The long-awaited new Crosby, Stills, Nash & Young album, Looking Forward, will finally arrive in stores on October 26.

The quartet produced these 11 new tracks with the help of longtime Young associate Ben Keith. Drummer Jim Keltner, bassists Donald "Duck" Dunn and Hutch Hutchinson, and CSN keyboardist/collaborator Mike Finnigan are among the musicians who play on the affair. The band is planning to tour sometime during the early portion of 2000...According to the official Grateful Dead website, Bob Weir's band, Ratdog, will launch an extensive U.S. tour beginning Oct. 21 in San Diego. A handful of venues have not vet been secured, but the tour will land in nearly 30 cities, focusing on clubs that hold about 1,000 people. The tour will end on December 2 in West Palm Beach, Florida. Ratdog was the longtime side project of Weir during his days with the Grateful Dead and is now his regular touring band.

Lauryn Hill, the night's big winner, walked away with four Moonmen for her amazing video for "Doo-Wop (That Thing)," which got nods for Best Female Video, Best R&B Video, Best Video Direction and Video Of The Year. During the distribution of the latter award, presenter Paul McCartney mistakenly gender-bent the singer's name, announcing the winner as "some guy named Lawrence Hill — I love that guy!" The Beastie Boys' "Intergalactic" took home the gold for Hip-Hop Video Of The Year. The award was given out by hip-hop soul queen Mary J. Blige, scantily-clad, brazen rapper Lil' Kim, and timeless diva Diana Ross. During the Beasties' acceptance speech, Ad Rock solemnly addressed the crowd about the recent rash of sexual abuse taking place at rock concerts. He called for his fellow musicians to lobby for more socially minded security regulations. In one of the more exploitative, albeit touching, moments of the ceremony, (Continued on page 38)

VARIOUS ARTISTS No More Prisons (Raptivism-Landspeed)

No More Prisons is an intrepid compilation of hiphop coming together to take a stand against the trend of building more prisions. Contributing new material to the compilation are decorated rap vets such as Stetsasonic's Daddy-O, Chubb Rock and Cold Crush Brother Grandmaster Caz, crossover upstarts like Last Emperor, Dead Prez and BKNY, and underground avengers such as the Anomalies, Rubberoom and Apani B. Fly Emcee. Spoken word luminaries Danny Hoch, Mike Ladd and urban beat legends the Last Poets also make notable appearances. Proceeds from the album will go to help raise funds against the further construction of jails and penitentiaries.

The Tenth Annual 1999 International Bluegrass Music Association (IBMA) Awards will be held October 21. The event is just one of the many surrounding the IBMA Trade Show and Bluegrass Fan Fest. which will take place October 18-24 in Louisville, Kentucky, The awards will be doled out at Louisville's Palace Theater: those not in the neighborhood can listen to a broadcast that will reach 14 foreign markets and more than 300 domestic outlets. Rounder Records must be crowing over their sweep of the Female Vocalist of the Year Category. All of the nominces-Alison Krauss. Laurie Lewis, Claire Lynch and Lynn Morris and Rhonda Vincent-are Rounder ladies. For more information on the ceremony, visit www.ibma.org...Young Irish accordionist Sharon Shannon will be hitting the road this fall with her band the Woodchoppers. Shannon and co. will start their run in Chicago on September 19 and will finish up in Denver on October 10. Shannon, touring in support of the recent Green Linnet release Spellbound: The Best

Of Sharon Shannon, will undoubtedly treat fans to the decade's worth of songs that appear on that collection. In case anyone is curious, Spellbound went platinum in Ircland days after it was released...More Irish music news, but generated by a different label—the release of Sin É's Wicklow debut, Deep Water Drop Off, has been postponed until February of 2000, even though many will be receiving the disc in the mail now. Hopefully the additional set-up time will help provoke additional interest.

THOMAS MAPFUMO & THE BLACKS UNLIMITED Live At El Rey (Anonymous Web)

Thomas Mapfumo took the traditional sounds of mbira music (characterized by the gently plinking sounds of a thumb-piano) and fused them with electric guitars and rock drums to create a revolutionary hybrid. Shortly before his 50th birthday in 1995, Mapfumo undertook a small but significant U.S. tour that featured a stripped-down crew of two mbira players, a trapkit drummer and the phenomenal talents of Allan Mwale on electric bass. This is a superb testament of African music that is deeply spiritual, powerful and evocative.

BURNING SPEAR Living Dub, Vol. 4 (Heartbeat)

Since the late 1970s, Burning Spear has been considered the ambassador for conscious reggae in its deepest, truest state. His dub albums — instrumental reconfigurations of his vocal records — are also cousidered by connoisseurs to be among the finest examples of that instrumental genre. The Living Dub series has been a strikingly high-quality series, and Vol. 4 only adds to that reputation.

Congratulations are in order for the Jazz Composers Collective. September marked the seventh anniversary of the artist organization. During its existence, the Manhattanbased Collective has presented 72 concerts featuring the work of 34 composers and has debuted an astounding 300 compositions. Kudos to the more than 125 musicians who brought those compositions to life. According to Ben Allison, one of this year's composers in residence, the Collective's goal has always been to gather together those who "felt somewhat disconnected from the jazz scene and music industry associated with it." Looks as if they succeeded... Cecil Taylor and Elvin Jones just finished up a three-night stand at New York City's Blue Note nightclub. On September Bobby McFerrin 9, the last night of their stay, they played for only 45 minutes.

Despite that too-brief performance, Taylor must be pleased with the chemistry he and lones discovered while making Momentum Space, a trio album they recorded with saxophonist Dewey Redman, because he's been telling friends that he and Jones have plans to work together in the future. Redman, however, who was absent from the Blue Note dates, seems to have been left out of this chemistry equation. Apparently he doesn't share Taylor's and Jones's penchant for flat-out improvisation...Speaking of multiple-night venue monopolies. Bobby "Don't Worry, Be Happy" McFerrin recently completed a four-night stand of vocal improvisation at Minneapolis, Minnesota's Walker Art Center, which was captured ou video and audio for possible future release. McFerrin has also taken his four-and-a-half octave vocal range on the road Newark and Princeton, New Jersey and made stops in Los Angeles and Tucson as well.

WYNTON MARSALIS Mr. Jelly Lord --- Standard Time, Vol. 6 (Columbia-Sony Classical)

As a part of his jazz series for the millennium. trumpeter Wynton Marsalis pays tribute to the legendary Jelly Roll Morton, who was the selfproclaimed originator of jazz stomps and blues. The results are stunning: rather than losing himself in pedantic rhetoric or overblown concepts, Marsalis sticks with the fundamentals. Like Kid Ory, Buddy Bolden or a young Louis Armstrong, Marsalis endeavors to wow the crowd by playing his pants off, and that he does.

RAMSEY LEWIS Appassionata (Narada)

Those expecting Ramsey Lewis's latest to be a smooth jazz opus best fit for hot tub listening and background music on the weather chaunel had better be warned. Appassionata marks Lewis's return to the acoustic trio sound he first made his name with over 40 years ago. And unlike the bulk of smooth jazz, this one actually showcases the artist's skills as a jazz improviser steeped in the blues, swing and gospel styles. What a surprise!

BOB BROOKMEYER NEW ART ORCHESTRA

New Works (Challenge)

Bob Brookmeyer's New Art Orchestra makes music that is both challenging and listenable. Since the '80s, Brookinever has often teamed with this ambitious ensemble of young German and Dutch musicians to give birth to some of his more adventurous ideas. It's big band music with brains, much like Gil Evans or the more ambitious soundtrack work of Lalo Schifrin.

Revelation Prosthetic-Metal Blade Atlantic Pavement Snitfire

Ccrebral metallions Cave In, Candiria and Neurosis recently turned NYC's Tramps on its ear. I was as happy as a pig in shit to finally see the first group. I've been a raging fan of the act for two years, ever since that day when I heard its debut blasting out of a Philly music store. The Bostonians' songs are technically intense, flaunting subtle influences that run the gamut from metal to such new wave memories as the Police and The Cure. Candiria rocked the hometown crowd, giving shout-outs to local favorites in between tunes that mix ballistic bass lines with jazzy breakdowns. As for Neurosis, the band's intelligent clusters of sound will make ver eyeballs pop out of your skull...Congrats to New Jersev acts Step Kings and Boiler Room, both of whom have inked deals with Roadrunner Records. Speaking of Roadrunner, the label's radio promo queen, Jen Meola, is hosting her own local music video show, Rock This, which airs on Friday nights at 6:30 p.m. Check out Manhattan cable's Channel 57 to view the hard rock program. QUEENSRŸCHE Q2K (Atlantic)

Queensröche has always been ahead of its time. with 1988's Operation Mind Crime establishing the band as a head-turner in the Loud Rock world. Q2K may make Queensryche purists scratch their heads, but the band is merely incorporating '90s-style grooves into its prog-like mix. The most potent ingredient of Queensryche's sound remains the gorgeous, epic voice of Geoff Tate (his pipes could give Chris Cornell's a run for the money). Though Q2K doesn't find him hitting those almost operatic power-metal high notes like he did in the old days, his singing is undoubtedly still the anchor of the band. The fine Q2K tips Queensröche's scale toward modern rock.

For Fans Of: Fates Warning, Rush, Soundgarden Recommended Tracks: "Breakdown," "One Life," "How Could I?" Contact: Jon Nardachone Phone: 212.707.2135 Fax: 212.405.5631 Email: nardachone@aol.com Release Date: September 14; at radio now

AGNOSTIC FRONT Riot, Riot, Upstart (Epitaph)

In the '80s, Agnostic Front defined NYHC. The decidedly oi-styled Riot, Riot. Upstart, the band's second album since its 1998 reunion, opens with "Police State," esponsing its bellowing chorus of "Guilliani, Guilliani, Guilliani/Fuck you." That sentiment (a vicious attack on NYC's current mayor) sets the tone for this tried 'n' true slab of working class hardcore and throwback punk. Loaded with blinding riffs and Roger Miret's bleating vocals, Riot ... will have you singing along like you're in a CBGB's pit circa 1985, surrounded by boot-wearin' skinheads.

For Fans Of: NYHC, Sick Of It All, H2O, 7 Seconds Recommended Tracks: "Police State," "Sit And Watch," "Rock Star," "My Life" Contact: Marc, Ciancio, Eric (The Syndicate) Phone: 888.666.2061 Fax: 201.864.3380 Email: hardrock@thesyn.com Release Date: September 21; at radio now

SPITE

Bastard Complex (Prosthetic-Metal Blade)

Spite's Bastard Complex is a noisy, sludgy chunk of metal. The album is so wonderfully unpolished, it's like getting a dirt sandwich shoved down your throat. Twisting the thudding noise of Jesus Lizard with Helmet-style riffs, quirky chords, and quavering vocals, this quartet attacks its listeners like Rockem' Sockem' Robots.

For Fans Of: Jesus Lizard, Helmet, Buzzov*en Recommended Tracks: "Goodbye," "Me & Slim," "Box Of Chocolates," "American Silicone" Contact: Marc, Ciancio, Eric (The Syndicate) Phone: 888.666.2061 Fax: 201.864.3380 Email: hardrock@thesyn.com Release Date: October 5; at radio now

loud rock news

Labels may send videos to Meola at Roadrunner's address. Email comments about the show to rockthisbaby@yahoo.com ... One King Down has reunited with its original vocalist, Rob Fusco. The Albany hardcore hammerheads broke up this summer, due to internal scuffles with singer Ion Peters, who had replaced Fusco. Will the reformed band recapture the fast, hardcore sound of its Fusco-era classic Bloodlust Revenge? Or, will it integrate its original singer into the noisy, Converge-like structures of the Peters-era God Loves, Man Kills? Loud Rockers won't be disappointed regardless of the outcome. What a tangled web these hardcore kids weave...Is it me, or does anyone else get annoyed by those "rock is in decline" phrases that tumble out of people's pieholes? Those bemoaning the death of heaviness should note that Sevendust's new face-ripper, Home, sold 102,000 copies in a mere three weeks... Six Feet Under, which has embarked on a West Coast and Midwestern tour with metal swashbucklers Manowar, has issued Maximum

Violence, which is selling like Pokemon and becoming the band's biggest record yet. Woofreakin'-hoo...Indecision Records has released several noteworthy HC efforts. Eyelid's Conflict's Invitation resembles the work of Hot Water Music. Automatic's Crossing Kill Creek boasts melodic rock that recalls Texas Is The Reason. Time Flies' On Our Way should please fans of Ten Yard Fight...French label Season Of Mist has released two fine hunks of M-E-T-A-L. Bloodthorn's Onwards Into Battle is a gory slice of symphonic black metal, and the death metal potion that is Abaddon Incarnate's The Last Supper will put some hair on your puny little chest. So, if you've got big, metal cojones, contact SOM at season@worldnet.fr. The label has also signed Mayhem. Yes, the Mayhem, the world's most notorious black metal band. On October 14, the group will enter the studio to record Grand Declaration Of War. Despite the fact that now-deceased group leaders Dead and Euronymous were embroiled in the Scandinavian Black Metal Crisis (chronicled in the book Lords Of Chaos), the act's deal with SOM is a major coup d'etat, as several labels were vying for the rights to the band's work...On October 12, NYHC act Inhuman will release Rebellion, through Exit-Wreck Age...Metal king Jack Koshick has devised a plan for continued world domination. He has planned the Metal Mania Series, a sequence of shows that will take place around the country. The November To Dismember Metal Fest will crush San Antonio, Texas; the March Metal Meltdown will scar Asbury Park, New Jersey; Mayhem In May will melt Los Angeles; and the 14th annual Milwaukee Metal Fest will level the beer city in July. The series may expand in the future...Unida recently descended upon CBGB. Sexy singer John Garcia — a cock rocker in stoner's clothing - and his new band of barefooted riffers rocked like a hurricane. During my furious display of rocking, I blew out my right ear and popped two shirt buttons. It was unquestionably worth it.

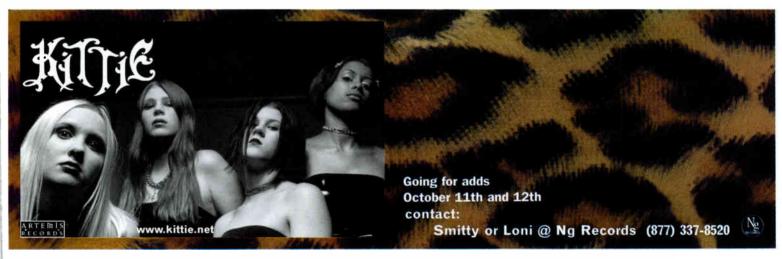

beat box news

Voletta Wallace and Afeni Shakur, the mothers of Biggie and Tupac, respectively, presented Jay-Z with the Moonman for Best Rap Video. By asking the two women — the matriarchs of an East Coast/West Coast rivalry - to appear onstage together, MTV was unquestionably flogging a pair of dead horses, which I personally think is disrespectful to the memories of both the departed artists and their kin. But Wallace and Shakur made the most of the situation. Other Beat Box-related winners included Eminem, who won the award for Best New Artist In A Video, and TLC, which won the trophy for best group video. Oh yeah, Will Smith won Best Male video, but — as we all know — the Fresh Prince doesn't exactly get jiggy with real hip-hop very often. As far as live appearances were concerned, the event kicked off with an amazing performance by Kid Rock, who stirred up a little nostalgia when he shared the stage with Run DMC, and Aerosmith's Joe Perry and Steven Tyler. The collective ran through a killer rendition of the 1987-released rap version of Aerosmith's hit "Walk This Way." Hill and her big-ass band played a show-stopping medley of "Lost Ones" and "Everything Is Everything." The group was all revved-up, having just completed its successful North American tour. Jay-Z showed no shame when he plugged his vanity imprint, Roc-A-Fella, during his energetic medley of "Jigga My Nigga," "Can I Get A..." and "Hard Knock Life." But the true Beat Box highlight occurred during Eminem and Dr. Dre's performance of "Guilty Conscience," during which the Doc reunited with Snoop Dogg, who turned the track into a roofraising version of that ol' Chronic gem "Nuttin' But A G Thang"...Busta Rhymes, who, despite having received multiple VMA nominations, got left out in the cold for his awe-inspiring, Janet Jackson-abetted video for "What's It Gonna Be," was sentenced to five years' probation after he plead guilty to a misdemeanor weapons charge that was filed against him in May. The rapper had been facing up to seven years of prison time for the violation, which stemmed from an incident that took place in December of 1998, when police discovered a loaded .45 in the MC's possession, after they had pulled/him over for erratic driving and an unsafe lane change. If Rhymes can stay out of trouble, he'll co-star in a remake of the 1971 blaxploitation classic Shaft, directed by Boyz N The Hood noteworthy John Singleton. Busta told MTV that the film was still in the writing stages. The dreadlocked maniac is also developing a short film for Home Box Office. Madonna will serve as executive producer of the affair. Rhymes's new album, The Anarchy, is still scheduled for release later in the year...Rest in peace, Mr. Hunter.

Charlie Haden Time Out Of

Musicians are known both for their ability to keep time and for their inability to be on time. so when the appointed mid-morning time came to call jazz icon charlie Haden, the bass player, of course, wasn't quite ready. "I can't do anything in the morning before I get my coffee," he says apologetically. He'd only be ready for the QBA after a quick run to starbucks. "I found out that Kenny G owns part of starbucks," he reveals, alluding to smooth jazz's most despised figure, "but I can't help it. It's good when there's not a line." pouble-shot, non-fat latte with caramel syrup in hand, an awake charlie Haden calls back ready to talk about anything, including his new album, his collaborators, the state of jazz, and his children.

A surprisingly soft-spoken individual who ends many of his statements with "man," Haden is one of the most accomplished jazz musicians of our time. His tone is beautiful; his technique unsurpassed. But Haden's most stellar trait is his versatility, which has enabled him to work with an incredible variety of players, among them Ornette Coleman, Pat Metheny and Keith Jarrett. He can often be found playing in duos, leading his large group the Liberation Orchestra, or fronting his longstanding Quartet West, which recently issued The Art Of The Song, on Verve Records.

Haden's quartet, his most straight-ahead project, is his vehicle for playing songs that often date back to jazz's early days, when the music was still considered pop. "I like to inspire people to imagine themselves walking down Sunset Boulevard in 1948 and walking into Ciro's and hearing Billie Holiday," he says. Quartet West's gentle, noir-ish gems romantically recreate music from the '40s and '50s. The standards are a far cry from the rambunctious free jazz of Haden's tenure with the Coleman Quartet, a radical ensemble that shook the jazz world back in 1959. However, the bassist is a strong advocate of open-mindedness. He believes that that musicians can go both far outside the song as well as deep within it — it just depends on where the particular players want to travel.

"This band has been together for so long that we have a real intuitive thing together," Haden says with pride. "Bands don't stay together anymore, like the [Modern Jazz Quartet] did. There's hundreds of CDs put out each week and the band that recorded them is usually an all-star band together for just the week." The Art Of The Song also features jazz singers Shirley Horn and Bill Henderson, who enhance the chemistry of the group, and an array of orchestral arrangements, which sweeten the background of the music. Despite his work with top-flight talent, Haden still feels like an endangered species. "[Jazz] is really a minority music, man, and always will be. The struggle comes in getting it out to the people and gaining recognition and respect for the art form, which it really deserves," he says, getting workedup about the subject. He pauses, then continues. "My goal since I started playing is to make this music accessible to people who wouldn't ordinarilv hear it. I want to reach all different kinds of listeners. In order to do that you have to look at the art form as beyond category. The jazz audience and the business of jazz has really limited the art form. It's almost become like a snob sort of thing."

The 62-year-old continually looks beyond his immediate musical surroundings to find cuttingedge sounds. "The innovation in music right now is in alternative music," he exclaims. How would he know? In the '80s, Haden jammed with the Minutemen, who he had booked as an opening act. He also played on Beck's Odelay. Two of his three daughters were in That Dog. The bassist has even gone as far as to cover music composed by his son. "My favorite musicians right now are my kids. My son, Josh, has a band called Spain. Petra is in New York with Sean Lennon working on some music, and Rachel is in San Francisco working on her record."

When his children were growing up, Haden became exposed to bands like the Meat Puppets and Black Flag. But as a child himself, a young Charlie was influenced by some very different sources. He first appeared onstage with his familv band at the Grand Old Opry, although he had to leave the group when he was 15, after contracting a disease that affected his vocal chords. Recently, however, Haden has decided to take to the microphone once again, this time to sing "Wavfaring Stranger," a song that his mother used to sing. The musician, who doesn't even sing in the shower, decided to take on the country standard as The Art Of The Song's closing track. However, he had no idea whether or not his whim would prove fruitful. "When I sang it," he recalls, "people from the orchestra came into the booth afterwards and they had tears in their eyes. I was like, 'Was it that bad?,' and they were like, 'No, it was beautiful.'" That Haden can deliver such a moving performance with such a rusty instrument is a testament to his musical genius.

INDUSTRY PROFILE

Interview by M. Tye Comer

The new voice fielding college radio calls at Elektra Records now is none other than Tyson Haller (a.k.a T-Bone), a Missouri native who slowly worked his way up through the label's ranks and recently took over the reigns as the National Coordinator of College Promotion. CMJ recently caught up with Haller to get his vlews on label artists such as Stereolab, Old 97's and Stalnd, to talk about his techno addiction, and to find out what the hell is up with the new Cure album.

How long have you worked with Elektra?

Well, I've been associated with the label in one way or another for five years. I started out as an "unofficial" college rep in St. Louis, sorta just helping the regional marketing and sales guy out of the Chicago Branch. I wasn't an official college rep for Elektra until 1997. That's when I started working under the mighty Mike DePippa and Chris Elles. After I graduated from college, I was hired in the New York office as an assistant in tour marketing and did that for a year, finally getting the national college promo gig last October. So it's been exactly two years as of about a week ago that I've been here in New York.

What music biz experience did you have before working at Elektra?

I did a few internships throughout school. I interned in Chicago at Atlantic Records and I was in London for a half a year interning at Virgin Records. That was a blast! I was always an admirer of Richard Branson, so it was cool to see where he started his mass empire, you know. In addition to the internships, I worked at a club in St. Louis called Mississippi Nights. I was the kid who picked up Henry Rollins from the airport, got Gwar the ingredients for their fake blood, etc... what you'd call a go-for, I guess. I was also assistant manager at a record store called Streetside Records. As far as college radio goes, I was a DJ at KWUR when Dawn Barger, who's now at McGathy, was MD. And then, of course, I had the Elektra College Rep gig, which kept me in close contact with a handful of college stations as well.

Which artist have you been most excited to work with in your time there?

I have to say, all the artists on Elektra have been great to work with. I love the Old 97's! What great songwriters and a great bunch of guys. Staind's another band that has been exciting to follow 'cus I think they're really starting to break. This is a new band that came outta nowhere (well Springfield, Massachusetts, actually) that Fred Durst signed to his Flip imprint. Elektra put out the record, and we serviced it to College Radio back at the beginning of year. The record went Top 30 at CMJ, which isn't too shabby, and now things just seem to keep going in the right direction for these guys. I guess it's just kinda nice to know I was a working part of developing a band's career, which will hopefully [be a long one]. Oh, and I can't forget Stereolab either. I remember being at an interview they did at KWUR around the time of Mars Audiac Quintet. At the time I was like, "Woo hoo! I got to meet Stereolab!" Now there's incriminating pictures in CMJ of the band with me stretched out across a coffee table. Go figure.

How important is college radio to a large, highly profitable label such as Elektra?

The fact that the label has a department specifically focused on college radio is pretty representative of how critical Elektra feels this format is in artist development. Bands should have a base to work off of before breaking into the mainstream. Not to say that every big time rock band started with success at college radio, or to say that every successful band at college radio will be a multi-platinum selling act, but it goes to show that Elektra wants to showcase new talent to an audience that is open minded and enthusiastic about new and upcoming music. I don't think this label wants to take bands, throw them against a wall and see if they stick. We're more interested in the growth of a band from infancy to possible superstardom. Yeah, records need to make money, but by taking the record to college radio, following through with successful grassroots marketing and keeping the band on the road with tours that make sense, we can try to develop an audience which will hopefully foster those sales.

You've been seen stumbling out of various NYC nightspots past daybreak on several occasions. Were you a club kid in a previous life or something?

Well, I've been listening to electronic/ techno music since the late-'80s/early-'90s... bands like 808 State, New Order, KLF, The Orb, and stuff like that. To come from St. Louis where there's not much of a club scene to New York City was quite exciting. Being able to see all the top DJs in the world is amazing. In my opinion it's like going to a concert of any one of my favorite rock bands... only there's no musicians present. Although, I'd have to say I've never been a rock concert until after the sun comes up. Ha!

What dish can you give us about your partner, Mike DePippa?

Mike's still around, don't worry. He was actually promoted a few months back. He's now Associate National Director of Alternative/College Promotion. For the most part, he's now calling Commercial Alternative Radio. He still runs this department though. As a result, I'm pretty much the main contact for college radio now.

And lastly, when is that new Cure album coming out and is it gonna be any good?

The new Cure record is friggin' brilliant!! Definitely a record for the true Cure fan. It's called Bloodflowers and we should be putting it out in February of 2000. It's very dark and melancholy, as a Cure record should be, I think. Bloodflowers sorta completes a trilogy that began with Pornography and continued with Disintegration. The Cure's one of those bands that has really made an impression at this format, starting out with an underground following and eventually rising to multi-platinum status. I'm really looking forward to taking this to College Radio.
