Artists, Industry Execs Call On FCC To Move On Low Power FM Radio

More than three dozen artists and members of the industry are demanding that the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) show increased leadership and prioritize its plan to implement a new class of low power FM radio stations in the United States. Artists including Ellis Marsalis (musician/Chairman of the Louisiana Music Commission), Bonnie Raitt, Ian MacKaye (Fugazi/Dischord Records), Amy Ray (Indigo Girls) and Jackson Browne signed the letter, which was sent to the FCC. Industry figures who signed the letter include critic/author/musician Lenny Kaye and Dan Hayes, Executive Director of the International Bluegrass Music Association

Zap Mama Modernizes Its Music On 'A Ma Zone'

By Tad Hendrickson

On October 19, Zap Mama will release its fourth album for Luaka Bop. On A Ma Zone, the five-woman group, originally an a cappella ensemble, has changed its sound, adding hip-hop ' beats, grooves and dashes of drum 'n' bass to the vocal harmonies led by Marie Daulne. By uniting hip-hop with its African heritage, Zap Mama has created its own mesmerizing take on modern day music with studio help from the Roots, This Kid Named Miles, Speech and African singer Manu Dibango.

NINE INCH NAILS The Fragile (Nothing-Interscope)

The first single from The Fragile may be the cheerily titled "We're In This Together," but be forewarned, that happy sentiment is a red herring. Not only is the song an apocalyptic love overture that uses images of human dissection as a metaphor for emotional intrusion, but the two-CD set is a monolithic undertaking filled with Reznor's oft-copied '90s angst. Six years have passed since the last Nine Inch Nails record — in pop culture time, that amounts to a few decades - but Reznor hasn't altered his raspy yowl nor has he lost his pop-industrial bag of tricks. The surprise is that his music sounds as fresh as ever, albeit for new reasons. Pop's thriving "aggro" scene (e.g. Korn and Limp Bizkit) may attempt to match Reznor in its rebellious fury, but NIN is simply smarter, quicker, subtler, and, in many ways, much more vicious. Consider "Starfuckers, Inc." Once Reznor lambastes his unnamed, superstar target (widely believed to be Trent's former protégé, Marilyn Manson) as a phony and an ass-kisser, the singer expertly appropriates a classic Carly Simon lyric in a moment of fierce black humor. ### Blush (Too Pure-Beggars Banquet)

Those mourning the loss of Scotkand's Long Fin Killie may find comfort in the Bows, the disarmingly levely new project led by violinist/guitarist/novelist/ex-LFK frontman Luke Sutherland. Many of the characteristic rock ingredients that made the musician's past work so dramatic and expressive have given way to his new endeavor's equally stirring orchestrations of trip-hop beats, string sections, horn charts and textured guitar patterns. This combination is certainly nothing new, but Sutherland makes the aesthetic his own, thanks to his subtlety and his keen sense of timing and placement. He's not just positioning deep, dark drum 'n' bass grooves behind ethereal vocals so he can sound 1999 — he's composing. Also on Blush, Danish singer Singne Høirup Wille-Jørgensen edges out Sutherland to act as the album's key vocalist. Her voice possesses a sad beauty that gives the album much of its shimmering allure. On the spare, brief "Overfor Kommer Derefter," she creates magic by finding just the right spaces left by the haunting loop of an orchestral harp. As the mind behind the Bows, Sutherland shows that he has talent to burn. And what an intriguing glow that fire gives off.

LUNA The Days Of Our Nights (Jericho-Sire)

The Days Of Our Nights, Luna's fifth album, will probably end up being the quartet's most infamous work, if only because of its brush with bootleg glory - the band's longtime label, Elektra, dropped the group just before the record's release. Fortunately, Sire imprint Jericho Records has picked up the ball to issue what is undeniably Luna's most somber effort to date. One could never accuse these New Yorkers of making cheery music, but Dean Wareham has always spiked his band's consistently hypnotic, noir-ish guitar gymnastics with cockeyed pop sensibilities and goofy wordplay. On Days, his wacky lyrics and crackling, sleepytime vocals take a back seat to spare atmospherics. But there also remains a few glimmers of his trademark wit, found in lyrics such as "I lost my silver spoon and I won't be coming home" and the sung-entirely-in-German "The Slow Song." Each track, from the AM radio-ish opener "Dear Diary," to the closer, a cover of Guns 'N Roses' "Sweet Child Of Mine," proves that Luna possesses a singular moody elegance that has moved the group further out from the shadow of the Velvet Underground and beneath a black cloud all its — Carlene Bauer own.

ARCHER PREWITT HITE SKY

ARCHER PREWITT

White Sky (Carrot Top)

The music of Chicago's Archer Prewitt is marked by its utterly pristine songcraft. On his dusky and melancholic second solo effort, White Sky, Prewitt's silky string arrangements, tasteful horn sections, and droney mellotron cries augment the mellow and pastoral settings of his compositions. Much of this effort, as evidenced by the song titles "Summer's End," "Last Summer Days," and "Final Season," evoke feelings of impending change and isolation. Prewitt's light, sun-baked voice elegantly bends and twists around impeccable arrangements, while he pensively reflects on life's fractured, intimate moments. He's clearly grown as both a songwriter and an arranger since the release of his 1997 solo outing, In The Sun. The musician experiments with a variety of subtle textures throughout White Sky's nine songs, masterfully displaying his uncanny ability to erect complex pop forms that leave ample room for his uncluttered inelodies to blossom. Regardless of whether he's blowing a somber harmonica, strumming a jangly guitar or caressing a soothing vocal melody, Prewitt always manages to propel his tunes to their creative peak. — Glen Sansone

Hole Bassist Expected To Replace D'Arcy In Smashing Pumpkins

Hole bassist Melissa Auf der Maur has left the band, according to Allstar and Rolling Stone Online. Sources close to the musician state that she wants to pursue a solo career, and that she will join the Smashing Pumpkins as a replacement for recently departed bassist D'Arcy Wretzky. "It's not that she's been unhappy in Hole," an insider told Rolling Stone Online. "But all that inactivity has gotten to her. Courtney is working on a film, and they have no immediate plans to tour. Melissa needed to make music, so she left." Virgin Records, the Pumpkins' label, had no comment about Auf der Maur's possible involvement with that group.

However, Geffen Records, to which Hole is signed, strenuously denies rumors of Auf der Maur's departure. "Right now, as the band's spokesperson, anybody speaking on behalf of Melissa is erroneously doing so. Melissa has not left the group," Dennis Dennehy, Hole's publicist, told Allstar.

The bassist, who hails from Montreal, joined the band in 1994, replacing Kristen Pfaff, who died of a heroin overdose, which occurred shortly after the release of Hole's 1993 album Live Through This. When she hasn't been playing second fiddle to Miss World, Auf der Mar has worked with Blinker The Star, Idaho, Ben Lee and Ric Ocasek.

Music Sales Drop In Europe, Latin America

Despite having reported marginal sales increases in North America and Asia, the International Federation of The Phonographic Industry (IFPI) claims that the volume of global music fell 4% compared to last year's first-half sales figures. The IFPI did not release a dollar amount for those sales.

North America, the world's largest music market, reported a 2% rise in sales dollar amount and volume. Asia, despite a sharp decline in Japanese dollar amount and volume, reported a 5% growth in volume and an 11% growth in dollar value.

Europe's figures, tugged downward by an ailing Russian economy, dropped 3% in dollar amount and 10% in volume. Latin America, which has been affected by rampant piracy in Brazil, experienced a 17% in decline in dollar amount and a 16% decline in volume.

The IFPI surveyed 45 nations to compile these first-half figures.

The Art Of Noise To Tour For First Time In A Decade

The Art Of Noise will perform live for the first time in more than a decade. The group will gig in support of its latest effort, The Seduction Of Claude Debussy (Universal), which CMJ called "inspired and beautiful." Core band members Anne Dudley, Trevor Horn, Lol Creme and Paul Morley will be joined onstage by technical assistants Tim Weidner and Justin Fraser, and vocalist Amanda Boyd. In addition to playing songs from The Seduction..., AON will perform classic tracks such as "Moments In Love," "Peter Gunn" and "Beat Box." Dubbed the Blank Tour, the gigs will supposedly elucidate the Art Of Noise's highly personal feelings about "love, music, sex, rhythm, absurdity, intoxication, secrets, dreams, time, colors, art and the weather." The short tour will begin on October 7, in San Francisco. It will wrap-up on October 13, in Boston. For more information, visit www.universalrecords.com.

On October 7, Henry headlined a benefit event for the New York Academy of Art, chaired by Keith Richards, Natalie Portman Harvey Weinstein, MTV VI Serena Altschul and Jay Faires, President of Mammoth Records. The school was founded in 1982 as an organization that would foster figurative art.

Shed Seven Leaves Polydor

Having spent six years singed to Polydor Records, Brit-pop group Shed Seven has departed from the label, citing dissatisfaction with the handing of its recent greatest hits compilation. Going For Gold. The label, which suggested that the band compile a best-of anthology, wanted to release the act's old material in the form of "new" singles. Shed Seven, however, was under the impression that the label would issue two of its new songs. Lead singer Rick Witter told the NME that "some higher authority decided it would be a better idea to rerelease [a previous single] instead. We put our foot down and said, 'No way, we are not going to rip off our fans with old material.' In fact, most people at the label thought it was an awful idea.'

Shed Seven had the option to record a fourth record for Polydor, but the group refused: its contract with the company had been nearing its expiration date, anyway. The band is currently shopping for a new label. The group's full-length catalog consist of 1994's Change Giver, 1996's A Maximum High and 1998's Let It Ride.

pers saxophonist Ken Mosher auctioning off the gold record he received for the group's 1996 album

Hot. Mosher says that the move should not be misinterpreted as a sign of flagging allegiance to his bandmates; he's simply taking precautions.

"We have not been working in the past 10 months," he told Wall of Sound. "I just don't want to go broke, and collecting expensive equipment when you aren't working will bankrupt you." (In addition, Mosher already owns the platinum version of his record.) This month, his band will enter the studio to record its next album. Mosher, who chose eBay as his auction medium, started the bidding at five dollars. The current bid totals a just over $600. The musician says that he only expected to earn $50-$75 dollars, and that he'll donate any extra cash to a North Carolina AIDS program and to the American Red Cross's flood relief efforts in the eastern part of the state. Moster is also auctioning a vintage microphone that, at press time, was going for more than $1500.

Scott Weiland Speaks From Jail

Stone Temple Pilots lead singer Scott Weiland, who is currently serving time in Los Angeles County Jail's Biscailuv Recovery Center for violating his probation, has issued a statement from his prison cell. The message to his fans reads: "I'm alive. Are you? Sixty days into my sentence, just a message to let you know that I still breathe, think, and have not lost the freedom to write. What can I say about jail? It is one of the travesties of mankind to lose one's freedom, to be locked and bound behind bars of steel, but if the wheels of a man's mind are free to turn and the wings of his spirit cannot be clipped, then is a man truly in chains?.... Choices and decisions of the mind and spirit, I am coming to find where my power lies. My power lies in having no power at all. A bewildering paradox but one I'm learning to be true." On October 26, Atlantic Records will issue No. 4, the latest release by the Stone Temple Pilots.

SDMI Anti-Piracy Standard Hits Rough Road

The Secure Digital Music Initiative met its own June deadline for unveiling its anti-piracy standards, but the organization's members have not been able to agree on the complexity of or the licensing agent for the necessary technology, according to CNET and EETimes.

The group, which is comprised of more than 120 music, computer, online and consumer electronic companies, has already announced specifications to create two-phase technology for portable digital music players. In the proposed Phase 1, players would accept pirated and SDMI-sanctioned files, but they would alert their owner that they would need to upgrade the player to the Phase 2 technology. The Phase 2 technology would reject pirated files.

The trouble lies in the Phase I component. Some SDMI members did not understand that the technology would have to perform two functions — that it would have to detect illegal files, as well as alert consumers about a necessary upgrade. The members are dismayed because the time needed to develop the technology would prevent consumer electronics manufacturers from marketing SDMI-compliant players in time for Christmas.

The question of who will license this technology further complicates the issue. The SDMI has announced that Aris Technologies will license the watermarking technology. However, Aris's technology can only trigger an update warning. Four major electronics companies — Intel, IBM, Matsushida and Toshiba — are sponsoring a water-

MARTIN HAYES

By Tad Hendrickson

Irish fiddle player Martin Hayes and American guitarist Dennis Cahill are two of the most mesmerizing talents in all of Celtic folk music. These gifted musicians seem to share a telepathic bond, as exemplified by their phenomenal interplay and their ability to string together songs in an extended medley. Simply put, they carry out an awe-inspiring revision of traditional Irish music. We caught up with the transplanted violinist at home, on the eve of Green Linnet Records' release of the duo's latest effort, Live In Seattle.

Why record a live album?

I've begun to put more trust in the intangibles of the music — the effect, the mood, the feeling. I've always felt that live performance heightens that. There's a momentum that you get while you play in front of people, and there isn't a chance to second guess yourself. There's an accumulation of energy when you play live. That doesn't happen in the studio.

Do you discuss what you are going to play ahead of time or do you just go with the moment?

It's pretty worked out, but nothing is final. There is a contingency plan of tunes and arrangements, but we can change that because we never know how long we're going to play a tune because we don't know how far we're gonna get with it.

We've heard you do a pretty mean Kenny G. impersonation.

I guess I did that with my haircut. That's the story when I go through airports. I see flight attendants look at me going, "It's Kenny G! It's Kenny G!," but then I turn into coach and they know I'm not him. Nine times out of 10 they ask me if I'm Kenny G., but there was one time they asked me, "Are you who I think you are?," and I'm like, "I don't know. Who do you think I am?," and they go, ""Weird' Al Yankovic."

The fact that Philips, Toshiba, Creative Labs, Diamond and Sony have released portable players while the SDMI haggles over specifications suggests that consumer electronic companies will take cues from customers rather than from the piracy-obsessed SDMI. ## Low Power FM (Continued from cover)

Radio Coalition told MP3.com. "Support for this letter demonstrates that this issue cuts across the types of arbitrary lines imposed on consumers by the commercial broadcasters. We are proud to have the support of representatives from opera, bluegrass, folk, rock, jazz and punk."

Once implemented, the primarily non-commercial, low-power stations would be able to operate at lower costs than most traditional radio stations, thanks to their weaker signals. The aforementioned artists have attacked the current corporation-dominated radio climate by saying, "The music that is played on the air comes not from love or respect for the art, but rather from a market analysis of how to squeeze more profits from a natural resource."

Low Power Radio Coalition board member Jenny Toomey, formerly of Simple Machines Records and the band Tsunami, is coordinating a national concert series called Left Of The Dial: 10 Days For Low Power FM, which will take place from October 14-24. A location for the event had not been established at press time. "Under pressure from the commercial broadcasters, the FCC has dragged this process on for months. Now it's time for the music industry and music fans to put on some pressure of our own," said Toomey. For the latest information, visit www.lowpowerradio.org.

Amazon.com (Continued from cover) efforts to offer a track and try to sell it. But more likely we'll do something in 2000."

Greg Hart, Amazon.com's Product Manager of Music told CMJ that the retailer has always intended to charge people for its downloads. He did not attribute his company's decision to the recent flurry of companies, such as Sony and Phillips, which have announced their intentions to manufacture portable digital music players by the holiday shopping season. Hart said that further forays into the sale of downloads would hinge on consumer acceptance of the format.

"When it makes sense for the customer," he said, "that's when it will make sense for us. We're the number one online music retailer of physical CDs and we intend to maintain that status when the format shifts."

He added that the April response to the two tracks from Sarah McLachlan's live album, Mirrorball, which were offered in April, demonstrated to the company that downloads could indeed prove profitable. On the strength of those tracks, Hart says that McLachlan's record became Amazon.com's best-selling title faster than any other record for sale at the site. He noted that Lyle Lovett, Alison Krauss and Carlos Santana have also topped Amazon's retail charts as a result of free downloads.

Amazon.com's competitors in the sale of digital downloads include Musicmaker.com, the CD compilation site, and Emusic.com, which sells singles and albums for download.

Hollywood Pictures has made a film out of Kurt Vonnegut, Jr.'s novel Breakfast Of Champions. Bruce Willis stars in the picture, and Capitol will issue the movie's sound-track, which is comprised entirely of music by Martin Denny, the pioneering granddaddy of lounge and exotica. Get kitschy and sip a nice cocktail while you enjoy the snazzy, jazzy moods of such classics as "Forbidden Island," "Stranger In Paradise" and "Quiet Village." For more information, call The Cage (Capitol) at 323.871.5174, or send email to cagepromo 1@aol.com.

Don't own a turntable? Well, shame on you, youngster! Regardless, those with digital inclinations may be interested in A Single History, Kill Rock Stars' compilation of six years' worth of singles by Unwound. Recorded between 1991 and 1997, the 17-track record includes such fine examples of angular indie rock as "Broken E-Strings," "Everything Is Weird," and "The Light At The End Of The Tunnel Is A Train." For more information call Josh Bloom (Fanatic Promotion) at 888.385.1231, or send email to info@fanaticpromotion.

This year, Saturday Night Live is celebrating its 25th anniversary. The weekly, late-night sketch program, which introduced America to many a cherished comedic character and launched the careers of dozens of young comics, has always managed to keep abreast of popular music. Aware of this fact, DreamWorks has released two separate albums containing some of the show's most memorable concert performances. SNL25 Volume 1 rounds up live stuff by Paul Simon, Lenny Kravitz, Dave Matthews Band, David Bowie and Jewel, among others. SNL25 Volume 2 amasses material by Nirvana, Beck, Alanis Morrissette, TLC, R.E.M., the Beastie Boys and others. Alas, Eddie Murphy-as-Buckwheat's furious version of "Wookin' Puh Nub" is not represented. For more information call Tony Kiewel (DreamWorks) at 310.234.7908, or send email to tonyk@dreamworksrecs.com.

In the recent past, Epic records released a Clash tribute album called Burning London. This month, indie label Karma Records is taking its own stab at putting together a tribute to the British quartet responsible for such anthems as "Should I Stay Or Should I Go" and "White Riot." City Rockers: A Tribute To The Clash contains 18 tracks by some of the most-respected names in independent modern punk. Dropkick Murphys cover "Guns Of Brixton," Kid Dynamite plays a version of "Hateful," Demonspeed takes care of "Rock The Casbah" and Hot Water Music does up "Clampdown." For more information, contact Karma at 215.575.0197, or send email to toodhype@aol.com.

The Funky Precedent seeks to support scholastic music education. The compilation, released by No Mayo-Loosegroove Records, is a benefit for the Fremont High School and the Manchester Elementary School in Los Angeles, and for the Mission High School in San Francisco. Cut Chemist, Dilated Peoples, Black Eyed Peas, Ozomatli, Styles Of Beyond and others get funky for a worthy cause. For more information call Matt Shay (Loosegroove) at 206.548.1599 ext. 102, or send email to radio@loosegroove.com.

Fox's surprisingly popular comedy That '70s Show has spawned not one, but two compilations. Volcano Records has issued That '70s Album (Jammin'), which amasses some of the funkier, more soulful tracks of the Me Decade, among them cuts by Parliament, Kool & The Gang, Average White Band and the Isley Brothers. The companion piece, That '70's Album (Rockin'), rounds up songs by such riff-crazed, Toga-party institutions as Ted Nugent, Lynyrd Skynyrd, Alice Cooper and Blue Öyster Cult. The record also contains "That '70s Song," the program's new theme music, altered and re-recorded by none other than Cheap Trick. The song is based on the Big Star classic, "In The Streets." For more information, call Volcano Records at 212.302.9790.

Just like VH1, Cleopatra Records is giving you the chance to re-assess the prehistoric world of '80s hair-metal. The label has issued three new albums that will put a smile on the face of anyone nostalgic for the likes of Stryper, Nitro and Cinderella. Remembering White Lion isn't quite a reunion album by the kings of Aquanet, but it'll do. Backed by a new band, the group's former vocalist, Mike Tramp, covers and rearranges his old band's tunes. Warrant's Greatest & Latest is a 16-track spandex-fest that positions such poignant radio hits as "Cherry Pie" alongside select new material by the randy quintet. Looking for something a little tougher? Perhaps you'll find some merit in A Tribute To Guns N' Roses: Appetite For Reconstruction. The CD case's spine bears the slogan "metal vs. electronica," and the record boasts remixes by Pigface and Die Krupps, as well as

The work will arrive in stores in early 2000. However, fans who expected to buy the album in the fall shouldn't fret. Before the end of the year, the band will release a live, all-covers EP called Live From Omaha — Darrin's Coconut Ass... Metallica is veering still further off its early-years, thrash-metal course. The quartet will be challenging its fans yet again when Elektra issues a symphonic live album that will arrive in stores (hopefully) in time for Christmas. # Sony Box Set Chronicles 100 Years Of Music

By Tad Hendrickson

Steve Berkowitz is the self-proclaimed captain of Sony Legacy, the reissue wing of Sony Music. Following a stint playing guitar with bluesman Howlin' Wolf, Berkowitz became the tour manager for a number of bands, including the Cars. Later, he would work in A&R and sign such diverse artists as Jeff Buckley, Henry Threadgill and Ministry. Given his diverse history in the music business, it's fair to say that Berkowitz is certainly qualified to work as one of the executive producers of Sony Music's 26 — yes, that's right — 26-CD box set, Soundtrack For A Century, the material of which spans from the earliest recordings to the present. The set, which will cost approximately $310, amasses pop, classical, folk, gospel, blues, movie music, rock and R&B, spanning almost every conceivable genre of popular music. It even includes a gem ("The Washington Post March") recorded in 1890 by the United States Marine Band, conducted by John Phillip Sousa. Berkowitz had the following to say about this ambitious project.

Why execute a project like this?

In such a "now" world, there is such a great amount of music from the past that's just not fashionable for one reason or another, just as there is some older music that becomes fashionable for one reason or another. But when you are dealing with music that is great, you are never out of fashion. But the world deals with it that way, and things are cyclical. But if it was classic at one point, people will come back to it. Hopefully for good reasons, but it may be because they think it stinks. At the same time, while making this documentary, we also knew that we needed to make products that would be buyable.

Why such a big set?

The complete John Coltrane on Atlantic is what I consider a cute box. It's eight CDs. Try to imagine the complete Miles Davis on Columbia, and you've got over 100 CDs. Part of the largesse of the company is that we are blessed and cursed with quantity and quality. And it's not manageable. The people at Universal are going to find that out now, having all those labels in one place. We knew that we also needed to make it affordable so people will buy it. We wanted to build a monument, so we knew that it would be big.

How did you work out the 12 classifications of music?

Immediately, it made sense to break it down by genres because on the smaller packages, we didn't just want it to be, "Okay here's a history lesson about jazz, pay attention." Because part of what people use music for is fun, enjoyment, listening, sex, pain, whatever. So we immediately decided on what genres will be included and how do we identify them now so that the consumer today recognizes what the music is, including various types of musical forms within a certain set. If we arranged this large monument by genre rather than chronologically, we thought that it would be more manageable. Of course folk, or blues, or gospel could be their own set. [All three genres are included in one group.] There were some restrictions, and one of them was size, which would then be cost.

How did you pick the songs?

It had to be hit recordings, influential recordings or just great but maybe forgotten. We only included stuff that that was that was originally released by us. We also included stuff that came out on the label that may have been licensed. For example, we've always considered Chicago to be a Columbia group but the license ended five years ago, and that stuff is no longer here. It's their own music now. But since they are historically a part of this label, we licensed it back, as we did with Elvis Costello, Paul McCartney and many others.

Were there any recordings that you couldn't get back?

Yes, there were some, for various reasons. I don't think the box is hurt by any of their absences. Some people just said "no." Dave Clark of the Dave Clark Five said "no." It's almost impossible to find any Dave Clark records anymore, because Dave is not interested in having them out. He owns them.

Soundtrack For A Century is a pretty bold title. It's called Soundtrack For A Century, not The Soundtrack Of The Century because that would be preposterous. But you really will find in this collection as complete a collection as you will find in any one place of 20th Century music from a North American perspective. No, we don't have the Beatles, Charlie Parker and Elvis. But I do believe that in a year, five years or in 100 or 200 years, people can say, "What was music like back there in the 20th Century?" And this would be a fairly usable and accurate document.

Was there any stuff included on this set that had been long out of print?

Yes. Absolutely. Half the stuff from [the section called] Pop 1. Some of the stuff from Jazz. Some of the stuff from Pop 2. Certainly the International set stuff would be pretty hard to find. That's current stuff from Sony Music from around the world. The only reason it's included from a historic point of view is that it's part of Sony Music in the '90s, being a global music entity. This was to show what's happening in the rest of the world. It's not done from a historic perspective because you can't write about history in the present tense.

How difficult was it to work with all these different people?

They were all even-tempered and lovely. [laughs] One entity would say, "I'm not doing anything until I know what Dylan is doing. How many songs does he have? Well, if he has this many songs, I want this many." It was totally wild. It was great.

Musicmaker.com & AOL

entered into a $20 million, three-year agreement. America Online's Internet properties will give consumers access to Musicmaker.com's custom CDs and downloadable music. Over the 36 months, Musicmaker.com will make $18 million in payments. America Online will also receive a $2 million stake in musicmaker.com. The companies will cross-promote one another through links and advertising. They will create co-branded sites that will sell custom CDs and digital music downloads.

Users of America Online, AOL.com, Netscape Netcenter, ICQ, Spinner and Winamp will have access to Musicmaker.com's catalog of 200,000 tracks issued by 100 labels, among them Virgin, Capitol, TVT and Roadrunner. The custom CD service also struck a five-year deal with Zomba, the independent music group responsible for the Backstreet Boys and Brimey Spears.

Bob Pittman, America Online's President and CEO, said in a statement: "Music is already an enormously popular feature across America Online's family of brands, and we're committed to taking the online music category to new levels of popularity. Musicmaker.com offers a large catalog of song tracks—helping to extend our leadership in the online music arena as AOL brings online music [to the] mainstream."

This deal is the latest development in America Online's plan to expand its online music presence. The company recently acquired Internet broadcaster Spinner, Windows audio player Winamp and streaming enabler SHOUTcast, and during the winter, it hopes to unveil a music and audio portal.

to put out four a cappella records. Those first two albums [Adventures In Afropea 1, Sabsylma] are great. They're classics. We love them. But this new album is something else.

The mixing of African music and hip-hop is a match made in heaven."

Kaye expects the album to make inroads into the urban contemporary and hip-hop listening communities. "What's different about this Zap Mama album is that they've become a legitimate R&B and hip-hop act. We've found that a lot of the urban contemporary stations are digging it, so we're going to pushing a lot further in that direction." The first single from the release is "Rafiki," which features the Roots.

The label has already embarked on a fall promotional campaign that calls to place the record in listening stations at Tower and Virgin retail outlets. For the first time in three years, the group will hit the road. A live electric band will back the five vocalists for the occasion. While the show, which will hit U.S. and Canadian cities from October 13-November 10, will emphasize Zap Mama's recent experiments, it will also feature material from the act's first two albums as well. On October 23, one of the group's live shows will be webcast on RollingStone.com; DownBeat.com, Yahoo! and number of other sites are advertising the event.

According to co-owner Dan Mackta, Autotonic will service A Ma Zone to "most anything with a pulse." "We hope that people won't be too stupid to play it," he notes. "It's pretty cool stuff and we've worked with Luaka Bop before with the Os Mutantes, and that made the Top-10 of the CMJ Radio 200 chart. This is a different story than the Os Mutantes, but I think that people will dig it for a variety of reasons." Perhaps the CMJ audience will fixate on the electronic drum 'n' bass elements of the record, or maybe they'll embrace its brushes with hip-hop. In fact, Autotonic is going as far as to send the bold, multi-faceted release to Beat Box reporters. But fans of less modern forms of music will certainly enjoy the human voices that are Zap Mama's foundation. And, of course, A Ma Zone will undoubtedly score points with the world music set, which has supported the group from day one.

NINE INCH NAILS

Radio 200: 50-10 Core Radio: #63 debut Adds: #19 with 20 reports Loud Rock: #28 debut Commercial Alternative Cuts: 20-19 Internet Broadcast: 6-2 Internet Retail: 2-2

The long-awaited new album from Trent Reznor's Nine Inch Nails does not disappoint chart-watchers this week, as it gets into the hands of willing programmers and fans continue to snap up copies at their favorite Internet retail sites. The Fragile's (Nothing-Interscope) daunting double-disc length and Reznor's long absence are having no effect on his latest opus's foothold on the CMJ charts. With a tour slated to begin in early-'99 and an album full of potential radio singles, Nine Inch Nails should be a presence well into the new milennium.

MAGNETIC FIELDS

Radio 200: 49-15 Core Radio: 29-6

The latest release from Stephen Merritt's Magnetic Fields is a three-disc set containing no fewer than 69 songs on the perennial songwriting subject, love. If any format can appreciate such raw artistic audacity, though, it's college radio. 69 Love Songs (Merge) is also an amazing achievement, exercising every lyrical angle and instrumental trick at Merritt's disposal with his inimitable dry-as-a-bone wit. Thanks to a strong base at Core Radio, where the set leaps to #6 this week, 69 Love Songs eyes a potential Radio 200 top 10 appearance in the coming weeks.

GET UP KIDS

Radio 200: #22 debut Core Radio #26 debut Adds: #2 with 105 reports

With Jade Tree's Promise Ring climbing into the top five, and two Get Up Kids releases rocking the Radio 200, indie rock labels have something to cheer about. But when the quality of its releases are as impeccable as the aforementioned 'Ring release and the frenetic, poppy new Get Up Kids album, the attention programmers is richly deserved. Something To Write Home About (Vagrant) is only the sophomore album from the anthemic punk rock band (though it's accompanied on playlists by the Red Letter Day EP (Doghouse), released just a few weeks ago), but its stunning debut at #22 combined with 105 reported Adds suggest a powerhouse future on the CMJ charts.

PILFERS

Radio 200: 104-35

Just as Core Radio can take an album far on its sister chart, the Radio 200, the absence of Core support doesn't mean the end of an album's chart success. Witness the debut Mojo-Universal album from the Pilfers, Chawalaleng, as it rockets up the Radio 200, following last week's status as #1 most Added, with 116 reports. (The band's first album, a self-released effort sold at shows and over the Internet, has moved nearly 10,000 copies.) Featuring former Toasters frontman Coolie Ranx alongside former members of Bim Skala Bim, Skinnerbox and the Erratics, the early success of the multi-racial, mixed-gender band on the CMJ charts is proof that college radio's ears remain the industry's closest to the ground.

San Francisco's Green Witch Internet radio broadcaster utilizes Icecast streaming technology, which converts audio input from PCs into MP3 files, providing listeners a myriad of musical choices. A strong supporter of independent artists, Green Witch, at last count, featured 16 channels, including Blues Train, Coffee House, Hip-Hop, Punk Energy and the Witch's Brew, a mingling of rock, pop, folk, blues and world beat. The site is currently developing separate channel pages and the company has plans to incorporate an additional 20 to 30 niche channels over the next 12 weeks, including those devoted to '80s music, ska and surf. Featured partner channels include Loud Factory, which focuses on unsigned techno artists, and the label Atomic Pop, which features a selection of genre-specific broadcasts. Green Witch also includes an Internet music news and hot topics section, and a music directory listing many additional streams, all of which utilize the Icecast technology. Digital demographics are provided for each channel, including the number of listeners, average listening time, and for some, the actual song playing at the moment Internet broadcast enthusiasis can access the streams through Green Witch itself, or by visiting the stations via direct links. Green Witch plans on providing retail fulfillment in the upcoming weeks.

Records is now more than 30,000 used CDs at www.towerrecords.com. The secondhand product will complement the company's current stock of new releases, catalog CDs, custom CDs, digital downloads and electronic gift cards. Tower asserts that the mostly mint-condition CDs have been opened for in-store play or simply returned by customers for preferential exchanges. The CDs have not been purchased in "used" condition from other parties...Sony Electronics has developed a new digital music Walkman, which will allow the company to compete with Diamond Multimedia Systems, the current leader in the production of digital music players. The latest Walkman, which utilizes Sony's Memory Stick (a removable memory card that stores up to 80 minutes of digital music) is expected to reach the U.S. market in January 2000. The device will cost roughly $400. Sony predicts that more than 30 consumer electronics companies, including AIWA and Sanyo, will eventually use the Stick Memory in their devices...The Internet Underground Music Archive (IUMA) has announced completed integration EMusic.com. The archive has also relaunched its Web site, which promotes independent, unsigned artists. The redesigned site features a new interface that facilitates a given user's discovery of new music by emerging artists. Over the next two months, the IUMA plans to increase its technical integration into Emusic. The archive also plans to offer users an even wider variety of features...Creative Labs has introduced the new Sound Blaster Live! X-Gamer and Sound Blaster Live! MP3+ sound cards, which will collectively replace the company's Sound Blaster Live! Value card. Comparably priced at $99 each, the X-Gamer and MP3+ cards both feature a 32-bit EMU10K1 processor complete with digital input and output capability, which facilitates an easy connection to digital devices such as DAT decks. The X-Gamer card includes games such as Descent 3 and Thief: Dark Project, while the MP3+ includes a software bundle that's better suited to Internet music creators and users.

MP3.com, RealNetworks Update RealJukebox Music

On September 4, online digital music enterprise MP3.com and Internet media company RealNetworks, Inc. made news of their agreement, which states that MP3 will promote its artists' music to users of the RealJukebox music software. MP3.com will feature RealJukebox software, which will allow visitors to the site to download, manage and listen to music.

Michael Robertson, Chairman and CEO of MP3, said of the relationship, "MP3.com and RealNetworks are harnessing the power of the Internet to bring one of the largest and diverse selections of music [to] one of the most robust systems for consumers and artists everywhere."

Thanks to the deal, RealJukebox users now have the option of having MP3 deliver its top ten songs to their computer desktops, on a weekly basis. MP3.com will also host a Real ukebox custom faceplate, or skins page, and a "RealJukebox Recommends" page that lists the music selected for the player. The pact coincides with the gold releases of RealJukebox and RealJukebox Plus, which are currently available at www.real.com.

Teltran International, ANTRA Music Group Unveil RecordsToGo.com

On September 22, Teltran International. which offers businesses a full range of telecommunication and Internet services, and ANTRA Music, the newly-launched record label, announced that they had launched RecordsToGo.com, a Web site that the companies tout as being the "next wave for the online music retail industry." RecordsToGo will sell the world's largest selection of classic, difficult-to-find vinyl recordings, as well as current new releases. In addition, RecordsToGo will feature compact discs and downloadable MP3 music files. The site will also boast an auction house, at which music enthusiasts will buy and sell rare and hard-to-find vinyl and CDs.

Liquid Audio Announces Independent Artist Global Digital Distribution System

Liquid Platinum has been unveiled. On September 24, Liquid Audio, Inc., a leading source of software and services for the delivery of digital music via the Internet, introduced the technology world to its global digital distribution system aimed at independent artists and record labels. Accessible at www.liquidaudio.com, the new program allows users to easily post secure master recordings of their music.

Heather Furmidge, VP of Internet Business for Liquid Audio remarked, "Liquid Platinum empowers artists and labels to control their content and their careers, and ensures they get paid for every copy of every song sold."

Liquid Platinum capitalizes on the Liquid Music Network. The program allows consumers to download music via Liquid Audio's 200 affiliate Web sites, among them Yahoo! In addition, the company announced the arrival of its Liquid Platinum Studio, which, through an internal coding tool, allows studios to post their clients' mastered tracks directly on the Network.

HollywoodMusic.com Welcomes New Affiliates

On September 16, HollywoodMusic.com announced that MP3.com and Tunes.com had joined its e-commerce affiliate program. The companies are joining the ranks of such Hollywood affiliates as Reel.com and Netradio.com. HollywoodMusic is a full service entertainment Web site that offers the online community a vast array of services, among them the delivery of live music- and entertainment-related video feeds. The company's president, Anthony Orth, believes the new alliances will benefit all three enterprises by increasing traffic on the sites and increasing the organizations' subsequent revenues.

Soundsystem (Capricorn)

Four studio albums and one live record into its career, 311 still maintains a funky, hip hoppin' and youthfully idealistic outlook. But on Soundsystem, the California-by-way-of-Nebraska band turns up the hard rock element that was missing from its last studio effort, 1997's Transistor.

This time out, the group avoids redundancy by garnishing its patented and potent nasal vocals and suburban boy raps with a dressing of metallic riffs and hip-twistin' rhythms. 311 hasn't lost its goofy, high-school sense of humor, either. Thankfully, these kids aren't making any political declarations about the state of the planet; they're looking at life through rainbow-colored glasses. If you're looking for nothing but a good time, these sunshine boys will certainly make your day.

ANTARCTICA

81:03 (File 13)

Antarctica's music is a lot like the continent for which the band is named — disorientating and expansive. 81:03 is an 11-track double-disc primarily comprised of cuts that safely clear the seven-minute mark. While the wintery continent dizzies the human mind with its vast, untouched beauty, Antarctica the musical unit elicits a similar emotional response with its unmarked, ambient drones. The act drips shoegazer honey throughout the album, layering its effects-laden guitars. The vocalist howls with the intensity of The Cure's Robert Smith, his voice adding even more isolated despair to these frozen, cosmic planes of sound.

JESSICA BAILIFF

Hour Of The Trace (Kranky)

Like her haunting 1998 debut Even In Silence, Ohio singer/songwriter/musician Jessica Bailiff's second effort was recorded in Duluth, Minnesota, at Low's 20 Below studio. Produced and played on by that trio's Alan Sparhawk, with vocal and percussive contributions by Low drummer Mimi Parker, Hour Of The Trace is another collection of beautifully sweeping and numbing slo-fi moodscapes.

Opener "Crush," with its gentle, oscillating synthesizers and drowsy, hushed vocals, is as dizzying as a delicate snowflake caught in an upward spiraling whirlwind. "After Hours"'s majestic wall of distorted guitars grounds Bailiff's enchanting, ethereal mantras, preventing them from softly floating into space. This nearly 50-minute hypno-swirl — 20 minutes of which are comprised of a wonderfully eerie 2001-esque instrumental — full of stunningly somber, yet seductive, vocals might as well be entitled Hour Of The Trance. — Bill Konig

BROTHER JT3

Way To Go (Drag City)

After spending the majority of the decade holed up in a bedroom making intimate, lo-fi music, John "Brother JT" Terlesky has finally reconciled with his inner guitar god. His latest nine-track opus, discreetly produced by Royal Trux's Neil Hagerty and Jennifer Herrema (billed as "Adam & Eve" in the album credits), is more than just an extension of the freeform fuzz jams, tranquil four-track pop, and garageland psychedelia of the good Brother's work with Vibrolux and the Original Sins. Rather, Way To Go is one of the more mind-boggling displays of unadulterated, six-string showmanship since Dinosaur Jr.'s SST days, and in some cases reaches back to Band mation of indie rock's faith in the electric guitar.

CHRIS CORNELL

Euphoria Morning (A&M-Interscope)

If Chris Cornell wanted a clean break from his work with Soundgarden, he's certainly made one on Euphoria Morning. The singer's fantastically bold and beautiful voice remains intact on his solo debut, but his cutting timbre has found a home in a decidedly more rock radio-sounding setting than even Soundgarden's most accessible tracks. (The MTV-friendly "Can't Change Me" is the best evidence of Cornell's new direction.) Euphoria Morning is by no means slick, but one can't help but note the album's attention to detail that transcends a mere

Trike (Fat Possum-Epitaph)

Bob Log, the helmet-wearing, one-manband with the prosthetic hand, plays some of the most low-down boogie-blues around,

Reviews

only there's nothing remotely traditional about his cobbled-together, freakishly tuned blurts of high speed, rhythmic chicken scratch. His barely intelligible, rootless roots music bastardizes the Delta aesthetic while remaining totally reverent to the form's raucous spirit. Trike, the Doo Rag guitarist's second solo outing, identical to 1998 his debut, School Bus, save the musician's bassier, more electric slide guitar tone and his expanded arrangements. While Log's minimalist novelty can certainly wear thin (avoid the useless remix track), the new record remains an inspired work of high-caliber, low-fidelity weirdness. In fact, our hero allegedly hired a pack of hookers to record "Claps," a six-track suite consisting of giggles, dialog and the blissful sound of — yes, that's right - Jordan N. Mamone — tit-clapping.

LUNCHBOX

The Magic Of Sound (Magic Marker)

Music fans looking to find an undiscovered retro-pop gem will not be disappointed by The Magic Of Sound, Lunchbox's first full-length. Using reverbsoaked guitars, vintage electric keyboards, sugary vocal harmonies and lo-fi production, the San Francisco trio hits every one of its thrift-store marks. Songwriter/guitarist Tim Brown sprinkles his catchy, melodic songs with unexpected chord changes and strange musical bridges, which exhibit his painstaking attention to detail. Non-musical sounds and endless swirls of keyboards and fuzzy guitar leads also help twist the tunefulness in unexpected ways. This aptly titled musical patchwork is a heady, spellbinding accomplishment.

MERCURY PROGRAM

The Mercury Program (Boxcar)

What sets the Mercury Program apart from other likeminded indie bands inspired by Slint? Three words: restraint, sophistication, understatement. The Florida trio avoids the blatant idol-worshipping and overbearing emo-leanings of many of its peers, instead choosing to define itself as a serious, but never pretentious mood-rock ensemble. The group's vast, stoic debut is a true musician's record. The players interact with both cerebral cool and visceral heat. Tom Reno's alternately breezy and slashing guitar dances over calm and controlled, yet forceful rhythms that shift like Saharan sands, while vibes, infrequent spoken vocals and loose, jazzy adornments rescue the difficult but never choppy songs from the depths of austerity. Simultaneously spacious and intricate, this well-produced outing is a mature, intelligent work filled with real artistic conviction. — Jordan N. Mamone

MICROMARS

International Pop Modulations (AIP)

Micromars, the space-age bachelor pad postpop identity of one-man orchestra Christer Andre Jensen, isn't going to be tipping the scales of innovation anytime soon. But damned if this Norwegian auteur doesn't create his own convincing, stylish and witty brand of Stereolab-influenced wow and flutter. On International Pop Modulations, Micromars' attempt at defining "new pop sound," Jensen utilizes nearly 50 years of sonic technology to create his most ambitious outing to date. Melodies driven by French foreign film samples, found sounds from NASA, Farfisas, vocoders and distorted Stratocasters blend into bossa novafied shuffles. all of which makes even the most steely, technological output sound pleasantly homespun and organic. Lounge with this, kids.

LINDA PERRY

After Hours (Rockstar)

The name Linda Perry may not be immediately familiar to you, but the name 4 Non-Blondes and a mention of its lone 1993 hit, "What's Up?," probably jogs your memory a bit. After Hours, the second solo effort by the defunct group's former frontwoman, rides on the strength of Perry's husky, smoky voice. The tattooed, no frills performer will probably be faced with more than a few Janis Joplin comparisons, and rightly so. Her latest. grassroots album dips its toes into pools of acoustic rock, blues and jazz, while her confessional, folk singersongwriter style

- she recounts tales of trailer park residents and past love affairs as addictive as cocaine weighs in with mammoth proportions of heart and soul. - Amy Sciarretto

Coast following through a series of sold-out gigs at the famous Viper Room. The Solar Twins' self-titled debut finally lets the cat out of the bag. The combination of chanteuse Joanna Stevens' heavenly vocals and producer Dave Norland's alluring, smooth drum 'n' bass beats and dreamy electronic melodies is destined to woo the airwaves. Their upbeat, whimsical take on

The Clash's "Rock The Casbah" will make heads turn immediately, but the pair's lush and passionate originals focusing on themes of love, loss and redemption are what will hit listeners hardest. Solar Twins' modern, electronic pop music is as sweet and as sensuous as it comes.

MICK TURNER Marlan Rosa (Drag City)

As one textural third of the Aussie instrumental combo the Dirty Three, Mick Turner's subtle, ruminative guitar often plays a supporting role to the broad emotional strokes of Warren Ellis's violin. But Turner's spare, similarly vocal-less solo recordings reveal his understated style's importance to his group's trans cendent allure. Like the Dirty Three's two most recent full-lengths, Ocean Songs and Horse Stories, Marlan Rosa acts as a kind of thematically connected, wayfaring travelogue that uses the wistful, undersea journey of a marlin as a metaphor for life's quiet tragedy and beauty. Regardless of his lofty intentions, Turner's slow, painterly six-string work — occasionally intertwined with ghostly fragments of piano and harmonica — forms an emotional voice that speaks to our deepest despair and our most poignant triumphs.

VERMONT

Living Together (Kindercore)

Fans of emo-core titan Promise Ring surely recognize the names Dan Didier and Davey Von Bohlen. What some post-hardcore admirers may not know is that these two "Ringers" have formed a side project called Vermont. Joined by guitarist Chris Rosenau (Pele, Loomis), the pair has produced a wonderful departure from the music of their main groups. On the primarily drum-less, "melodicoustical" beauty that is Living Together, Bohlen's affecting voice breathes life into oft heartfelt lyrics such as "I'm not as good as the interstates are/I just can't take you that far" (from "Tiny White Crosses"), while Rosenau's gentle picking and strumming and Didier's soft sprinkles of percussion provide the peaceful surroundings. Sparse and somber as a New England maple stripped bare of its leaves, Living Together is, in its own way, as intensely moving as even the most rocking Ring record.

WINTERBRIEF

Complaints From The Beauty Class (Hub City)

In the hands of appropriately youthful D.I.Y. enthusiasts, a couple of synthesizers and a drum machine can go a long way. Case in point? Washington, DC, duo Winterbrief, whose obvious affection for the nostalgic hum, clack and ping of early-'80s

British new wave gets a refreshingly spunky, riot-grarl-ish charge on Complaints From The Beauty Class. On "Repressant," when frontwoman Jan snarls in a faux Anglo accent while a Wire-y Telecaster nudges the rhythm, the pair sounds more like Elastica than Haircut 100. However the majority of Complaints is characterized by a distinctly knowing synthpop smirk. Busy with gurgling synths and Jan's playful, often urgent, vocal posturing, Winterbrief's colorful, hook-sharp concoctions couch punk's explosive energy in deceptively harmless, child-like terms.

WINDSOR FOR THE DERBY

Now I Know The Sea Is Always There For Me (7" EP) (Western Vinyl)

This three-track single subtly exhibits Windsor For The Derby's slowcore prowess. The band manages to find diversity in an often homogenous genre. The opening "Shaken" is comprised of a simple, repeating melody with deep, moody vocals, while the title track glides by on pretty guitar picking and crackling vocals. Finally, the live track, "Nico," is sweetly entrancing, marked by a piercing drone. — Kelso Jacks

TRASH CAN SINATRAS

Cake (Go! Discs-London, 1990)

When I was a teenager, I thought I was pretty damn iconoclastic because I reviled Bon Jovi and loved jangly, literate U.K. bands. As a crusty twentysomething, I now realize that my tastes are (still) pretty damn pedestrian. But I do own one record that may give me the cred that I need to live in a city full of amateur archivists: Cake, the debut record from five Scotsmen known as the Trash Can Sinatras. I'm not embarrassed that I still own the record nearly 10 years after having purchased it, though I cringe when I remember that the act was the subject of a Sassy "Cute Band Alert." The album is unbearably lovely, but not fey. Crystalline guitars romp alongside strings, vamping pianos, tambourines, handclaps, echoing drums and backing harmonies. These guys, who came from outside Glasgow, make a joyfully ragged noise marked by a pub-hewn insouciance, no doubt crafted during their tenure as a cover band. Each song is filled with a fusillade of wit and wordplay, including the ballads. And the brogue-pebbled, heart-in-mouth vocals of gangly, bespectacled Frank Reader only increases the charm. "Obscurity Knocks, a high-spirited grouse about fickle fame and fleeting youth, is the best - and eeriest - number. In penning the lines "I'll pound out a tune and very soon/I'll have too much to say and a stupid dead name," the band seemed to have disqualified itself from the race to the top of the pops — even before the gun went off. The Trash Can Sinatras released albums in 1993 and 1996, but the quintet, which is currently looking for a new label, has never seen the attention afforded to the Smiths, Orange Juice, Aztec Camera, the Sundays and the La's. Perhaps disappearing after Cake would have made these lads even more famous than Big Country. — Carlene Bauer

For Fans Of: Smiths, Housemartins, Belle & Sebastian, Sundays

Recommended Tracks: "Dbscurity Knocks," "You Made Me Feel," "Only Tongue Can Tell"

Bio Facts: Cake was produced by the group with the help of John Leckie, who has worked with Pink Floyd, Felt, the Fall, Stone Roses and Radiohead; and with Roger Bechirian, who has worked with Elvis Costello, the DBs, and Squeeze. At the request of Trainspotting author Irvine Welsh, the band scored a 1996 stage production of one of his novels.

THE CHURCH

Under The Milky Way: The Best Of The Church (Buddha/Arista-BMG)

Since 1981, The Church has been helping to refute accusations that its homeland, Australia, is nothing more than a glorified penal colony. Deeply influenced by the psychedelia of the Beatles, the Byrds and the Velvet Underground, the Sydney quartet makes kaleidoscopic music hallmarked by the detailed, twin guitar talents of Marty Willson-Piper and Peter Koppes. Singer and principal songwriter Steven Kilbey's opaque lyrics and dise n g a g e d monotone are the filigrees of the band's sweetly psychedelic pop. Long before 1988, when

the best of the church

"Under The Milky Way" became a Top 40 hit, The Church had regaled college audiences with multiple import and domestic albums, EPs and singles. The Best Of ... collects well-chosen highpoints of this veteran act's career.

BLUES

VARIOUS ARTISTS

Living Country Blues: An Anthology (Evidence)

It's ironic that, in many ways, the nation's blues enthusiasts owe a great debt to diligent, savvy Europeans, whose labels promoted the survival and proliferation of American roots music. This three-CD, domestic distillation of the 14-album, German import series Living Country Blues USA is proof of that strange truth. In 1980, two Teutonic blues fanatics visited the States and drove around the South extensively, recording every musician they could find on a reel-toreel. In the process, they acquired literally miles of tape containing performances by little-heard and utterly unknown performers. Their findings, pared down to a digestible body of work, is staggering in its rawness and its authenticity. This release features two or three truly great songs apiece from a wide variety of bluesman, as well as a few fife-and-drum bands, jug blowers, field hollerers, and other forgotten artists from the American South. Living

Country Blues should be required listening for all Americans, as its gritty songs and soul-wrenching stories reflect an important cross-section of the country's social and ethnic past.

HAPPY FERNANDEZ

Happy Fernandez (Short Arm)

There's a subtly hypnotic, lackadaisical quality to Happy Fernandez's slow-moving guitar pop that belies the band's melodic strengths. The New York-by-way-of-Philadelphia trio (named after a City Of Brotherly Love councilwoman) is led by singer-songwriter/guitarist Jeremy Fitzkee, whose soft, almost non-descript vocals make the album sound less detached and more extravagantly downcast. The band's frequently warm 'n' fuzzy stance — characterized by a modest mix of gentle, acoustic guitar rhythms and snaking electric leads — is sweetly agreeable, but despite having solidified an easy-to-identify approach, Happy Fernandez isn't above injecting a few smirks into its passive pop. The band's off-the-wall sense of humor and wacky lyrical songwriting makes these tracks more earth-bound than their woozy tempos suggest. — Amy Sciarretto

YELLOW NOTE VS. THE DALEKS

Yellow Note Vs. The Daleks (Liquid Sky)

With his first full-length effort, 1998's exceptional We're Not The Beatles, David Barratt (a.k.a. Yellow Note) proved to be one of the most innovative talents on the Liquid Sky roster. The follow-up album, Yellow Note Vs. The Daleks, is based on the fusion of dark, bouncy drum 'n' bass with jazzy, abstract hip-hop and smooth, funky chillout grooves. This music is the sum of obvious parts, but the synthesis created approaches both booty-wiggling jams and introspective head tunes with the same irresistible b-boy swagger.

METHOD MAN/REDMAN

Blackout! (Def Jam-IDJMG)

Like Abbott & Costello, Cheech & Chong or Simon & Garfunkel before them, Method Man and Redman have the chemistry that allows them to achieve creative perfection whenever they work together. Hip-hop fans that have been waiting for this duo's collaborative debut since they sparked microphone magic on "How High" will be amped to know that Blackout! lives up to the hype saturating its release. With the production work split between Erick Sermon and the RZA, the Funk Doc and John John make MCing sound like fun again, each effortlessly bouncing blazing hot rhymes off one another with a toke and a smile.

DR. DRE FEATURING SNOOP DOGG

"Still D.R.E." (12") (Aftermath-Interscope)

Tapping a new production nerve with the help of Mel Man and Roots keyboardist Scott "Kamal" Storch, Dre and Snoop get funky on the mic like an old batch of collard greens all over again on this rhyme assault co-penned by Jay-Z. If this 12" trailer is any indication of what to expect from the long-awaited sequel to the good doctor's gangsta classic, prepare for some mighty potent shit.

GOODIE MOB

"Chain Swang" (12") (LaFace-Arista)

The kings of Delta hip-hop set it off to a gospel-sized piano hook on this little taste of soul food fryin' in the skillet from their upcoming third album, World Party. The album is scheduled to hit the streets on October 12.

beat box news

Hurricanes, thunderstorms and last minute performance cancellations couldn't stop the final CMJ Music Marathon of the millennium, which, from September 15-18, knocked its annual dent in the Manhattan pavement. Once again, our little Beat Box universe supplied some of the event's crucial highlights. The convention floor boasted energetic, daytime performances by East New York collective Us and godfathers of Sportscenter hip-hop, the High & Mighty. An exclusive Lyricist's Lounge showcase kept the biz types entertained while they orbited the stage and loaded up their satchels with free industry shwag. On Wednesday, Prince Paul and the Automator gave one of their famous Handsome Boy Modeling School seminars at the Wetlands. The show featured special appearances by J-Live, Roisin from Moloko and Company Flow's El-P, among others. Rahzel and Talib Kweli pulled no-shows at the 15 Years Of Beat Box Success panel on Thursday, but NYC underground luminary Bobbito Garcia, Washington, DC-based hip-hop journalist Neil Drumming and Stepsun Music Inc. President/ Beat Box section founder Bill Stephney did an exceptional (Continued on page 34)

What's the best way to prepare for CMJ '99, the music industry's biggest, baddest, and best convention? Go to Roseland, catch the Livin' La Vida Loco tour and bang your head till your brains spill onto the floor. Roadrunner artists Amen, Slipknot, Machine Head and Coal Chamber brought the venue to its knees. That first group, which warmed up for the rest of the evening's monsters, is one helluva a live act. Frontman Casey Chaos kicked over monitors, threw himself violently onto the ground, and stood atop his drummer's kit, thrashing and flailing about.

Thankfully, the Roseland stage accommodated all nine members of Slipknot. Decked out in red industrial jumpsuits, the masked maniacs stole the scene. The kids in the pit acted like caged animals who had been freed to roam wild after years of captivity. In homage to the guys onstage, several audience members sported clown and bondage masks. Percussionist Shawn's kit now levitates while he plays it. (Continued on page 33)

CANNIBAL CORPSE Bloodthirst (Metal Blade)

Images of blood and gore immediately spring to mind when you think of Cannibal Corpse, a band as essential to the death metal scene as long hair and skintight black jeans. Blood-thirst, the band's eighth album and third with vocalist George "Corpsegrinder" Fisher, features the band's typically horrific lyrics that make the plot of a Wes Craven flick seem like an episode of Rugrats, along with demented Cookie Monster growls, and the group's trademark speeding-bullet riffs. This time out, the butchering fivesome also takes a "stab" at new sounds, incorporating some vicious black metal tones and melodies into its gruesomeness.

SAMAEL Eternal (Century Media)

Samael's Eternal presents a near-perfect union of hard rock, industrial and heavy metal. The Swiss four-piece meshes doomy (and sometimes robotically delivered) vocals, pulsating beats, apocalyptic riffs and grand keyboards for a lush, progressive blend. Even though pre-millenium tension is stressing out the masses, Eternal is a timeless record that is suitable accompaniment for any Judgement Day.

KREATOR

Endorama (Pavement)

Kreator used to be Germany's answer to Slayer: thrashy and loud as fuck. But over the course of 10 albums, these Krauts have tried new things and shifted their sound. Endorama is heavily influenced by European progressive metal bands like Amorphis. The guitar parts are chunky and riffy, while the vocals are alternately gruff and witchy, making for an album that's more prog rock than metal.

For Fans Of: Amorphis, Mercyful Fate, Paradise Lost Recommended Tracks: "Future Ring," "Golden Age," "Endorama"

DON BYRON

Romance With The Unknown (Blue Note)

Don Byron often injects a much-needed sense of fun and playfulness into jazz, a genre that often takes itself too seriously. However, albums like The Tuskegee Experiments show that he's definitely not afraid to explore the music's potential for deeper meaning. Here he's joined by guitarist Bill Frisell, bassist Drew Gress and venerable drummer Jack DeJohnette. Frisell's guitar intertwines with Byron's alternately playful or melancholy clarinet. As always, the program is not without a few unexpected twists and turns, notably the Beatles tune "I'll Follow The Sun."

JOH YAMADA

Bluestone (Milestone)

Rising young saxophone star Joh Yomada shines brightly on his domestic debut album as a leader. At 30, Yamada plays with a voice as confident, well-rounded and asssured as a veteran. With shades of Coltrane, Kenny Garrett and Greg Osby imbuing his playing, Yamada is already a formidable talent, playing with the likes of Junko Onishi and Terumasa Hino. Here he's joined by pianist Cyrus Chestnut, bassist Rodney Whittaker and drummer Clarence Penn.

TOM HARRELL

Times! Mirror (RCA)

Trumpeter Tom Harrell speaks eloquently and evocatively through the bell of his horn. This ambitious big band project is a sophisticated and well-crafted rendering of Harrell's outstanding originals as well as a few select standards. Big band albums can often be staid and stuffy, but Harrell's approach is intelligent and well worth a serious listen.

jazz news

There was some quality jazz to be seen at this year's CMJ Music Marathon and MusicFest. The Knitting Factory showcase at Threadwaxing Space on Wednesday, September 15, the first night of the four-night festival, drew a fair number of folks who wanted to catch William Hooker, Elliott Sharp and Joe Morris with Mat Maneri. The Morris-Maneri duo was an amazing display of spontaneous, visceral musical interaction. The following night Matthew Shipp and Maneri performed at the Mercury Lounge as part of the Thirsty Ear showcase. Those lucky enough to be there were treated to the pair's take on "Greensleeves" as well as several Shipp originals from his upcoming album Gravitational Systems. On Friday, the jazz panel, titled "Dig The New Breed," convened. Featuring Jill Weindorf (Verve), Andy Sarnow (Blue Note), drummer William Hooker, Dorthaan Kirk (WBGO), Bill Amutis

(WUSB), Neil Gorov (Groov Marketing) and moderator Tad Hendrickson (CMJ), the panel tackled several topics close to the hearts of college programmers and jazz industry folks. The topics covered included the importance of college radio in bringing the jazz gospel to audiences, how jazz can be integrated into open format radio and how to create a jazz presence in the general community through station outreach and coordination with other jazz-friendly groups. The discussion also gave attendees an education on starting jazz programming, becoming part of the jazz community and what young audiences have to offer. The panel finished up with Amutis waxing eloquent on the role of DJs. (Kudos to the audience, which brought up some interesting points of its own.) The last big jazz event of the convention was probably the most eagerly anticipated. On Saturday night, Sweden's AALY Trio, with guest Ken Vandermark, made its New York City debut at hipster watering hole Tonic. CMJers and local jazz fans made this a happening event — the line to get in (Continued on page 33)

new world news

Femi Kuti's performance as part of the opening night shindig of the 1999 CMJ Music Marathon and Music Fest was a definite world music highlight. Kuti's galvanizing live performance would have made his father, the late Fela Kuti, proud. It took a little while for the mixed crowd to get into it, but once they did, the dance floor became a swirling mass of movement equal to that on the stage. Word has it that we can expect a domestic debut from the saxophonist in the not-too-distant future. Moving from Africa to Sweden, Garmarna played the same night at S.O.B.'s with world rockers Church Of Betty and the intriguing DJ Cheb I Sabbah. Garmarna's set was criminally short, but the band's ambient folk music is pretty interesting, if somewhat reminiscent of Dead Can Dance or late-'70s Bowie. Lead singer Härdelin certainly has a lovely voice, but she didn't seem too interested in breaking from her angelic repose. DI Cheb I Sabbah's set picked up the pace and took things further in the ambient techno direction. The world music panel took place on Saturday morning. The panel included moderator Lisa Pardini (Green Linnet), Bill Bragin (Symphony Space), Jennifer Daunt (Putumayo World Music), Russell Fink (Tuff Gong), Jeffrey Kaye (Luaka Bop) and Mark Schwartz (barnesandnoble.com). Eventually, a lively discussion ensued in which the difficulties of working with non-English-Ivric music, breaking established artists into new markets and convincing programmers and talent bookers to listen were explored. The modernization of ethnocentric music inspired some of the more spirited moments. Surprisingly, most everyone on the panel was in favor of it. That night, the Irish invaded Arlene's Grocery. Blink, Four Of Us and Tuan did their country proud, but the Frames, performing the blueeyed soul that made them famous in The Commitments, were the highlight of the evening. The world music contingency had its best representation yet at this year's MusicFest. Here's to even more worldly bands making the trek to the CMI convention next year.

MARTIN HAYES/DENNIS CAHILL Live In Seattle (Green Linnet)

In Celtic music, there are those who are traditionalists and those who explore the new. It's safe to say that Martin Haves and Dennis Cahill represent the best of both worlds. The phenomenal fiddle playing of Martin Hayes is an aweinspiring display of melodicism and talent. But his collaboration with guitarist Cahill is truly magical - the two interact with an almost telepathic quality, executing lightning shifts in mood and subtle graduations in dynamics that

PABLO ZIEGLER

Quintet For New Tango (RCA Victor)

Renowned tangoist Pablo Ziegler - long known as the late Astor Piazzolla's piano player - now presents an ambitious work that continues the evolution of the new tango. Ziegler was among the key players in Piazzolla's great combination of jazz and tango moods, and Quintet For New Tango brings together a diverse aggregate of musicians from many different disciplines, including jazz saxophonist Joe Lovano.

OUMOU SANGARE

Moussolou (World Circuit-Nonesuch)

This album, originally recorded in Africa in 1989, will no doubt inspire rabid ans to swoon under the impact of Sangare's haunting, moving vocals. This album is a real delight for fans of African music, featuring her impassioned, golden-toned voice backed by a small combo instead of the big brassy overproduced sounds of the Parisian studios.

Tunes such as "Eyeless" and "Spit It Out" felt like a bite in the butt from a pitbull. Misfits founder Jerry Only and his kids sat in the balcony and took in the spectacle. When Machine Head tore into "Desire To Fire," the first song from the new album, The Burning Red, frontman Robb Flynn ordered the attendees to "Fuck this place up!" We obliged. When his band covered Sepultura's "Roots," the always stylish singer, who now sports a spiky blonde 'do, barked, "That's better than anything an ex-Soulfly guitarist could play." The comment referred to departed axeman Logan Mader, who had quit Machine Head to play, albeit briefly, in Max Cavalera's post-Sepultura combo. Flynn may still be bitter about the split, but the new lineup of his group is a thousand times better than the Mader-era band. Thrasher faves "Take My Scars," "Ten Ton Hammer," "Old," and "Davidian" caused several pit explosions. I viewed the show from the balcony. When Flynn and company roared "Let freedom ring with a shotgun blast," I could hardly contain myself. I resorted to rocking out while standing on the chair. Security ever-soimpolitely asked me to calm down. Such is life. Coal Chamber wasted no time in owning its crowd thanks to versions of the hits "Loco" and "Big Truck," during which hundreds of sweaty moshers neared the point of collapse. Deftones guitarist Stephen Carpenter was on-hand, checking out the show. He confirmed that his wonderful band has entered the studio and that Tool's Maynard James Keenan is pitching in with a few recording ideas. Hurry the hell up, Deftones...The next day, CMJ '99 descended upon NYC. The big rock show at Westbeth featured Kittie, who have tightened their sound into loud, bitchin' metal. Do not fuck with these honeys. They were followed by Orange 9MM, which played with plenty o' heart and soul. The long-absent downset followed, kicking off with the anthem "Anger," a smart move given the group's recent MIA status. The track, usually the band's encore, was an instant crusher. Full Devil Jacket's guitarist looks like a rockabilly greaser, but his band is loud, sludgy and most unlike those puny garage acts that dress up like Fonzie. Biohazard closed the show and the venue cut the PA in the middle of the finale "Punishment." Evan, Billy, Danny and Rob kept playing, while the loyal crowd screamed the lyrics. On Thursday night, Hurricane Floyd drenched the city like the second coming of the Great Flood. At CBGB, Chevelle kept dry, burning through a rippin' new song entitled "Comfortable Liar." These boys just get better every time I see 'em. Afterwards, I dashed down to Wetlands to succumb to the mighty Queens Of The Stone Age, who dished out the rock after a set by ex-Urge Overkill-er Nash Kato. If you don't check these guys out, you will never forgive yourself. You must worship at the altar of guitar god Josh Homme. The trio kicked ass from midnight 'till well after 2 a.m. Next week: yet more loudness from the Marathon.

good portion of the crowd. Redneck rockers the Bottle Rockets headlined the showcase and nearly blew the roof off the place, winning over the folks who didn't think that they liked "country."...If we job picking up the slack, engaging in an insightful and, at times, heated discussion about rap and its effect on the American eardrum. But the massive, Friday night show at SOB's put on by the Anomalies, Afu-Ra, Rahzel and the Rawkus family was the gig that topped the list for those who wanted to catch some beats, rhymes and life. Audience sightings included Jeru The Damaia and R.A. The Rugged Man, the latter of whom inexplicably showed up wearing No Limit Gear (crustified, indeed). The criminally underrated Anomalies, a NYC-based collective of female entees, DJ's, graf artists and b-girls, opened the night with an impressive display of their multi-dimensional skills. Afu-Ra, whose new album will arrive in stores by the turn of the century, played next. Advance word is that the the crowd, makin' mind-boggling music with his mouth and dividing his set between on-the-spot, improvisational routines and material from his solo album, MTM 2000. The Rawkus shit kicked off at the end of Rahzel's set, when Mos Def stormed the stage, grabbed the mic and busted out a stripped-down, beatbox-and-vocals cover of "Girl," a gem from the Beatles' Rubber Soul. "What's the matter, you don't think black people listen to the Beatles?," he quipped, grinning, before breaking out into song. Partner-in-rhyme Kweli joined Def for a little Black Star action, and sets by Pharoahe Monch, Shabaam Shadeeq and the High & Mighty ensued. On Saturday afternoon, none other than Ice-T, Mr. Freedom Of Speech, acted as keynote speaker of the entire Marathon. The veteran addressed a variety of panelists,

labels

record is dope. Rahzel blessed issues, among them the present and future relationship between music and the Internet. Westway To The World, ex-Big Audio Dynamite DI/London '77 scenester Don Letts's stellar documentary about The Clash, allowed the kids to see how one of the most important punk bands in history got involved and downright obsessed with NYC's budding, early-'80s hip-hop movement. The Music Fest's head-centered activities wound down with a showcase at Downtime, organized by former 3-2-1 Records baroness Fiona Bloom. Such underground talents as Rubberoom, Strict Flow, Mr. Lif, Rasheed And Ill Advised, Micranots and Atmosphere kept the evening moving. And oh yeah, what was that I heard about CMI not keepin' it real?? Check the title of that new Ol' Dirty Bastard album for my response to that allegation, son.

Innerzone Orchestra, Herbaliser, Recloose, and Groove Armada. Friday evening marked the live NYC debut of Breakbeat Era. Singer Leonie Laws stalked the Westbeth Theater Center stage behind an all-live drum 'n' bass ensemble while cohorts DJ Die aud Roni Size ripped the decks with a flurry of breakbeat monsters both before and after the live set. The Liquid Sky crew brought the festivities to a close on Saturday with a top-notch arsenal of artists including Ming & FS, Raymond Roker, Jordana (1.8.7.), DJ Wally, DJ Soul Slinger and others at the Wetlands. Thanks to all of the artists, attendees who helped make this year's CMJ Music Marathon one of the best in the festival's history. Special thanks to Ming & FS, A-Trak, Peanut Butter Wolf, DJ Faust & Shortee and Metabass for blowing minds at Saturday afternoon's "DJs On Display" panel. Extra special shoutouts to Rev. Moose of The Syndicate and Susan Mainzer of Green Galactic for stepping up and filling in for some of the no-shows at Thursday afternoon's RPM panel. We couldn't have done it without you. Here's looking towards 2000....On September 18th, reigning DMC World Champion, Miami, Florida's DJ Craze defended his 1998 title and emerged as the 1999 World Champion title. (Only one other DJ in DMC history — Germany's DJ David in '90 and '91—has accomplished this feat.) Craze, who dedicated his winning six-minute set to his new daughter, wowed the crowd and judges at New York City's Hammerstein Ballroom and took home two gold Technics 1200s and a matching Technics SH DJ 1200 mixer. Craze, A-Trak, and Infamous (The Allies) also claimed second in the first official DMC Vestax/ Numark World Team Championships (first prize went to the U.K.'s Scratch Perverts). Craze will defend his world title in the year 2000 when the DMC Technics World Finals return to Britain.

World Radio History

[Live At La Bonbonniere] issued on Blue Thumb. The recording was well-received, but it made little impact, as the label folded shortly after the record's release. The 32-year-old Viola agreeably sums up his status in the industry. "Yeah, too young to be a legend and too old to be a child prodigy anymore," he concedes with a laugh.

As a teenager in the '80s, Viola's bands opened up for such MTV faves as Billy Idol and Quiet Riot. The local media fawned over the 13-year-old rock sensation. Thankfully, those "Where are they now?" acts did not exude much influence on Viola's music or, for that matter, on his fashion sense. If there's one thing people notice about Viola aside from his razor-sharp lyricism and his finely crafted post-Beatles pop it's his suits. At an outdoor concert last summer, on a day when the mercury flirted with triple digits, Viola and band refused to shed their suave apparel. "I just think about James Brown at the Rumble In The Jungle," says Viola, referencing the 1974 concerts prior to the Ali-Foreman fight in Zaire. "I think of those guys sweating it out. A 14-piece band and they're all in suits, and if they weren't they would have gotten fined,' he says, referring to Brown's legendary habit of docking band members for the slightest misstep. "So," he jokes, "I tell my band, 'You gotta wear 'em, or else!'

Viola's fashion fetish may seem like a gimmick, but his attire preferences are based on a genuine professional appreciation of the past, when the great groups of the day possessed a keen sense of both musical and sartorial style. "I remember seeing the way the folks at Motown dressed, and obviously the Beatles, and just how cool they looked," he says. "So when I started playing as a little kid, I've just always worn a suit. It's almost like if I don't have one on, I still feel like I'm at a sound check. I've played in bands before that have worn the cool t-shirts and jeans and stared at our toes, but it didn't last long. It wasn't in me. I'm lucky to have found a group of guys to go along with me."

As decisive as Viola is about his look, he's even more particular about his musical aesthetic. "Columbia came to me and asked, 'What kind of record do you want to make?' And I said I want to make a successful record, a radio record, but with really good songs." The band simply went into the studio and assumed creative control of the project, a fact that Viola claims was paramount to his ability to make good on his promise. "It's a band record. We basically went into the studio and cut it. There was no Svengali looming above us, which happens to a lot of bands when they first get signed. I don't think I really need a producer. I've just got really good musicians to work with. Hiring a producer is like hiring another member of the band."

The Candy Butchers' studio prowess is matched only by the strength of their live act, in which Viola's pop jabs pack a little more punch and his cocky yet self-deprecating sense of humor moves closer to center stage. At this year's CMJ MusicFest, he enticed three young female audience members into serving as his temporary backing vocal trio during one particular song. He encouraged the crowd to sing along as well, surreptitiously reminding the jaded NYC audience that he was playing pop music, and that it was okay to let loose and have a good time. At the same time, Viola was having quite a good time halfmocking his own mock-heroic showmanship.

Prior to the release of Falling Into Place, the Candy Butchers spent the summer playing dates on a high-profile tour. Viola managed to get the most out of the experience, strange as it seemed. "We did this summer tour with Barenaked Ladies on the Levi's First Stage, which is basically in the concession stands of some of these amphitheaters," he exaggerates. "It could be a really soul-draining experience and you could question your whole existence just by playing these stages, especially in the record-breaking temperatures this summer dressed to the nines. And it's in front of 14year-old girls and you've been away from your girlfriend. I mean, if it were the 70s, we'd be getting laid," he cracks. But the silver lining of this potentially dark cloud was that the kids actually became engaged in Viola's music. "We were able to get all these kids to respond and get on our mailing list," he beams. "For me that's exciting, because I'm 32 and I'm wondering how kids were going to relate to us, so that was pretty cool. I kept calling it the VH1 stage, and all the people were looking for the camera." The Candy Butchers' frontman obviously relies on his caustic wit to stay sane. "When you're in trouble and when you're in doubt, just lie," he says, acting out a hypothetical exchange with a friend. "'Hey, Mike, how's your career?' Fuckin' amazing!!!"

INDUSTRY PROFILE

Interview by M. Tye Comer

Carl Craig is noted as one of the architects and innovators of Detroit Techno, a futuristic and soulful musical movement, introduced in the late-'80s, that continues to inspire and set precedents for multiple generations of electronic dance musicians. But Craig has also excelled as a label executive, having used his long-standing Planet E Communications imprint as a vehicle to unleash some of the most progressive and original sounds the underground dance community has ever witnessed. In addition to Craig's own material, Planet E has released music from a wide spectrum of artists, discovering prodigies such as Recloose, Moodyman, Common Factor and Jason Hogans along the way. E's latest release is Innerzone Orchestra's Programmed (a joint venture with Astralwerks) that finds Craig reinterpreting his trademark sound with a heavy jazz influence. We caught up with Craig recently to discuss the past, present and future of his label and his music.

When was the Planet E label founded? What was your inspiration behind starting it?

Plauet E was founded in 1991 after a label I had started with a partner dissolved. The inspiration was to create a global music enterprise. Some of our first releases were from other places around the world. We've released music from the UK (Black Dog / Plaid, Kirk DiGiorgio [As One], Russ Gabriel [Fusion] and Steve Paton [4th Wave]), Holland (Eevolute [Dutch Techno Producer Stefan Robbers], Connection Machine) and Chicago (Gemini, Common Factor), as well as exposed new talent from Detroit. I wanted a label that was artist based but also paid attention to the development of new talent.

How has the Detroit techno genre changed over the years?

Detroit has many different sides to it, just like electronic dance music does. We took our inspirations from all kinds of music — Depeche Mode, New Order, Italo-disco, Prince, Kraftwerk, industrial, electro, all kinds of sounds — and made them our own. Everyone has his or her own perspective. What Underground Resistance does is different than Moodymann. What Jeff Mills does is different from me. Richie Hawtin does his thing. Stacey Pullen does his. I think that in many ways, Detroit is doing what it has always done...reflecting its own unique perspective on the world through its music. But what has changed is that the Internet, information technology, and better distribution of the music itself has made the world smaller, allowing people in far off places to get a Detroit perspective.

You worked as an artist and producer for years before working as a label executive. Has the aspect of creating and heading a label changed your perspectives on the concept of creating and releasing music? I wouldn't necessarily call myself a label executive. I have a Label Manager for that. I look at myself as more of a Creative Director. Planet E is a label driven by artists and an artistic aesthetic. We treat our artists, and cater to their needs, as best we can as an independent label in the manner I feel I would want to be treated by a label.

Your latest project, Innerzone Orchestra, released its album as a joint venture with Alstralwerks. What made you decide to partner with the label on this particular release?

I give a lot of the credit for the Astralwerks deal to Peter Wohelski (former Astralwerks Director of A&R and now Planet E's label manager). I was going to put it out on Planet E in the U.S. and, after hearing a few tracks, he convinced me that this boundary-pushing project was one that would benefit by having a greater force behind it. I have released a few of my other projects on majors and larger independent labels in the U.K. and Europe, but was the first time in the U.S.

What does it take to be a Planet E artist?

Good music and fat bribes. Seriously though, a Planet E artist is innovative and unique. Take an artist like Jason Hogans, for example. What he's doing with breakbeats and textures is similar to a Squarepusher or even a very abstract LTI Bukem, but he approaches it with a point of view unlike anyone else out there. Jason's EP (Peter And The Rooster) really blew some people's minds that are interested in the progression of breakbeat culture; friends like Dego (of 4 Hero) and Kirk (DiGiorgio) called up flipping out about the record when we sent them the white label. When people get a package from Planet E in the mail, they should realize that the contents will challenge their ears and make them get a groove on, regardless of what it is or where it's from. We're not and have never been just a techno label from Detroit, but rather a global electronic music enterprise based in Detroit.

coming out this year. I didn't want to put out some sort of "Best Of" release at the end of the millenium — that's kind of cliché — but I think Geology's a really good overview of the width of music and artists that Planet E has released over the last 10 years. Jazz-heads should check out World Trade Music, the album by (Innerzone drummer) Francisco Mora Catlett that we released on Community Projects, our new Jazz label. Next year, Common Factor will have a new album. Recloose should have an have a new album. Recloose should have an album next year. I think his new EP, Spelunking, is the best thing he's ever done. Totally inspiring. We're going to release a collection of some of my best remixes and some album projects that will surprise you, but the deals aren't done yet so mum's the word on those for now.
