Enter Lawsuit: Metallica Sues Napster

Metallica, following in the footsteps of the Recording Industry Association Of America (RIAA), has filed suit against Napster. The complaint accuses Napster of violating copyright laws by encouraging the illegal exchange of copyrighted songs on the Internet. Napster is the free software program that enables users to share MP3 sound files. Also named as defendants in the suit were the University of Southern California, Indiana University and Yale University, reflecting the fact that college students are frequent Napster users. The legal theory underlying the suit is that owners of prerecorded music are allowed to make copies for personal use only; therefore, trading MP3s constitutes a violation of copyright law.

Metallica, its publishing company Creeping Death Music, and E/M Ventures, the joint venture between Metallica and its label, Elektra Records, filed the suit in the U.S. District Court for the Central District of California. Metallica owns its master tapes and music publishing rights, facts that likely explain why Metallica is the first — and so far, only (Continued on page 7)

Court Hears Oral Argument in RIAA/MP3.Com Suit

The Recording Industry Association Of America's (RIAA) lawsuit against online music company MP3.com reached a crucial stage on April 14, when U.S. District Court Judge Jed S. Rakoff conducted a three-hour hearing on the RIAA's summary judgment motion. The suit, filed in January, charges that MP3.com's Instant Listening and Beam-It services violate federal copyright law. At the hearing, the RIAA argued that MP3.com is damaging the music industry by interfering with the major labels' plans to make their catalogs available online.

All Hands On The Bad One (Kill Rock Stars)

Five songs into All Hands On The Bud One, singer/guitarist Corin Tucker shouts, "You're no rock 'n' roll fun!" Obviously, Miss Tucker isn't referencing her band's new album, which features all the essential ingredients you've come to expect from a Sleater-Kinney record. Tucker's twitchy, quivering vibrato meshes with Carrie Brownstein's breathy murmurs to create a pinnacle of sweet, sexy harmonies, all piled atop a barrage of punky, gutsy guitars - enough to make any grrrl in a baby tee from Olympia to Philly bob her head. With their past albums, namely 1997's searing Dig Me Out, Tucker, Brownstein, and drummer Janet Weiss have proven that they can incite a rock 'n' roll riot, but there's no need to press the issue. With All Hands ..., indie rock's darlings have grown up and developed into skilled songwriters. The Pacific Northwest trio refines, rather than abandons, the rebellious streak that defined their earlier works. The fully ripened All Hands On The Bad One is a collection of estrogen rock that picks up exactly where 1999's The Hot Rock left off, weaving nervous, urgent energy with infectious melodies. It's a total package of brains, beauty and brawn.

DILATED PEOPLES

The Platform (Capitol)

The Platform is the sound of a group about to bust wide open. L.A.'s Dilated (as in "expanding") Peoples might be the most widely recognized hip-hop group without an album to their name. but their moment is finally here. Uniting in '92, the Peoples have a long and rather murky history involving an "educational" record deal and a discographical tangle of singles, compilation tracks (perhaps most notably the title cut of last year's Soundbombing II), guest appearances and Internet downloads. Having toured with Rage Against The Machine, Gang Starr and Jurassic-5, they come well connected, and heavy-hitters such as Cypress Hill's B-Real, the Alkoholics. Acevalone and Everlast all weigh in here. That's all well and good, but this album stands as a powerhouse on its own strengths: a unique fusion of old school sensibilities, new school attitudes and West Coast flavor. The samples bounce from Celtic fiddles to the Psycho soundtrack, and lyrically the group manages to balance realism and political ideology with a strong sense of fun. The Platform owes much of its impending success to Evidence, who has the rare talent of being equally gifted at rhyming and making beats. Drop the laser anywhere on this one - you - Jem Aswad can't go wrong.

GREEN VELVET

Green Velvet (F-111-Warner Bros.)

Green Velvet is fucked up. The man suffers from paranoia, obsessive-compulsive disorder, manic depression and hallucinogenic delusions. On top of that, his woman's been cheatin', he's been evicted from his apartment, aliens have abducted him... oh veah, and he's stalking you. That's how you'll feel, at least, when you hear Green Velvet's eponymous fulllength debut. In his deep, monotone drawl, Velvet (the alter ego of Chicago house producer Curtis A. Jones, a.k.a. Cajmere) humorously muses about his life's many miseries over tough drum beats and sparse, yet gritty '80s synthesizers. This combination creates some of the most ridiculously original and hilariously harrowing dance tunes to ever enter your ear cavity. A mélange that builds a creative bridge between hard Chicago house, minimalist German techno and British new wave. Velvet's music has been a fixture within the U.S. rave scene for a number of years. Now, dance music's answer to Kool Keith rises from the underground with undeniable anthems such as the pounding "Flash" (an exposé on the mindexpanding habits of bad-littleravers), the hysterical "Answering Machine" (taking you inside Velvet's phone message system) and the creepy "The Stalker" (where he proceeds to lose his remaining marbles). - M. PRINCESS SUPERSTAR

Last Of The Great 20th Century Composers (Corrupt Conglomerate) On her two previous self-released albums, Princess Superstar (born Concetta Kirschner) has skillfully proven her deadly aim when using a microphone as her weapon of choice. On 1997's C.E.O., the Princess took shots at the corporate lifestyle and large record companies, and hit her mark with sassiness, attitude and smarts. Her fourth album, Last Of The Great 20th Century Composers, is a not-tobe-missed slice of audio art on which this master manipulator of pop-culture references (think Eminem and Prince Paul) can make listeners nod in agreement and laugh with delight. Last Of The Great... unfolds as a futuristic concept album, beginning with archeologists discovering a Princess Superstar recording from the year 2000 — a time when big business had a stranglehold on musical creativity. Songs such as "I Hope I Sell A Lot Of Records At Christmas Time" and the "Planet Rock"styled electro-funk of "Do It Like A Robot" are slick-tongued, bootyjigglin' jams that should help this brilliantly eccentric rhyme diva reach new ears. With Prince Paul, Kool Keith and Jon Spencer all on the roster, this wild extravaganza of sounds and ghetto-fresh beats is impossible to pass up. — Glen Sansome

AOL Found Liable For Users' Music Piracy

A German court has found America Online (AOL) liable for piracy committed by its subscribers. German company Hit Box Software filed the suit in 1998, charging AOL with copyright violation after Hit Box discovered that its music files were being swapped in an AOL online forum. Hit Box sells instrumental versions of pop hits for use as sing-along karaoke tracks; the tracks typically cost about $15 on a CD.

AOL is protected from similar prosecution in the U.S. by the Digital Millenium Copyright Act, which for the most part relieves Internet service providers of responsibility for their customers' actions. AOL argued that it did not have the technical capability to monitor all aspects of its service and that controlling its users actions on the company's servers would amount to censorship. Hit Box is seeking $50,000 in damages; the Munich court has not yet ruled on this aspect of the suit.

Since AOL's merger with media conglomerate Time-Warner in January 2000, AOL has sought to distance itself from copyright-infringement fights. In March, AOL subsidiary Nullsoft released software for swapping MP3 files on the Internet. The program, Gnutella, was quickly squashed, but the software was disseminated nonetheless and has spread as an alternative to Napster, the popular though controversial MP3-sharing software.

The recent months have been litigious not only for AOL, but for the entertainment and music industries as a whole. In February, the Recording Industry Association Of America sued MP3.com for allegedly violating copyright law by allowing users access to a database of thousands of CDs that MP3.com compiled. MP3.com allows users to insert a CD into the user's computer hard drive to verify ownership, at which point MP3.com transfers the tracks from their database into the user's personal online library.

The suits demonstrate the music industry's concerns about copyright infringement, whether it takes the form of home-taping, CD-ROM burners, or MP3s. None of these technological advances has brought the industry to its knees; instead, it can be argued that they have all led to increased purchases of recorded music.

According to a recent study by Forrester Research, only 5% of Internet users have some pirated material on their hard drives, and only 16% of those own more than 50 such files. Meanwhile, the value of domestic shipments of prerecorded music and music videos has increased almost 20% during the last two years, from $12.2 billion in 1997 to $14.6 billion last year.

The Internet's growth may even increase those figures, but the Big Five major labels have been slow to embrace the Web and have yet to adopt a universally accepted music security protocol to replace the easily transferable MP3s proliferating across the Web. The Secure Digital Music Initiative (SDMI), a label-sponsored joint venture, is currently working on developing an acceptable, secure format, but is still soliciting ideas. A format isn't expected to be established by the coalition until the end of this year.

of other companies knowingly infringe on Intouch's music sampling patents.

Intouch was founded in San Francisco in 1990, and provides music retailers with kiosk and Internet-based music preview services. Among the company's shareholders is music distributor Handleman Co., which recently announced (as covered in issue 663 of the New Music Report) plans to distribute music and produce on-demand CDs for online and traditional retailers.

A spate of similar patent suits involving the application of business methods rather than the invention of new technology have provoked great criticism of the U.S. Patent Office. In response, the Patent Office has promised to overhaul its evaluation of applications for online business patents that grant exclusive rights for methods of electronic commerce.

Seagram Stock Drops As Sale Rumors Fade

The rumors concerning Seagram Co.'s possible sale have abated, while the company's stock closed at slightly over $53 on April 18, down about $12 from its recent 52-week high. The stock attained a peak price of $65.25 in March, around the same time that a rumor emerged that the company, the parent of Universal Music Group, was considering deals with suitors including France-based Vivendi, Bertlesmann AG, Rupert Murdoch's News Corp. and Disney. According to Variety, Seagram CEO Edgar Bronfman, Jr. had broached the possibility of a deal with those companies but has not confirmed any negotiations took place.

A recent article in the Wall Street Journal speculated that a merger with Vivendi seemed to be likeliest of all the possible deals. While no announcement seems forthcoming, Bronfman reportedly would like to sell the entire company instead of offering assets such as Universal Studios as separate entities. The piecemeal approach may be more attractive to potential buyers uninterested in taking ownership of Seagram's large wine and spirits business. On the other hand, industry analysts have noted that tax considerations would make it nearly impossible for Seagram to be broken up into smaller divisions. Another obstacle to a sale is Bronfman's insistence on remaining in an executive position with the company after it is sold.

Intouch Sues Over Alleged Music Sampling Patent Violations

Intouch Group, Inc. has filed a lawsuit alleging that Amazon.com, Discovermusic.com, LLC, Liquid Audio, Inc. and Listen.com are infringing upon two of its patents that cover a proprietary method of delivering music samples to in-store kiosks and listeners via the Internet. Intouch filed for an injunction to stop the companies from violating the patent by allowing users to listen to music on their Web sites. Intouch also asked for unspecified damages.

"As a result of defendants' infringement, Intouch has lost market share during this critical period in the development of the Internet, which has harmed and will continue to harm Intouch irreparably," said Intouch Chairman/CEO Joshua Kaplan.

In October 1999, Intouch obtained patent no. 5,963,916, which governs a "network apparatus and method for preview of music products and compilations of market data." The 1999 patent expanded upon a 1993 patent for delivering music to in-store kiosks.

"It covers [a user] going onto a site and requesting to listen to pre-selected portions of pre-recorded music — anything from sample up to full track," Kaplan said in a ZDNet article. Much of the technology used to transmit audio files over the 'Net requires the songs to be altered in some way; therefore, the patent effectively covers most online music transmission. Kaplan claimed that "perhaps hundreds" consin Governor Tommy G. Thompson has signed into law legislation that makes all forms of music piracy a criminal offense. The new statute, which is the state's firstever felony anti-piracy law, was supported by the Recording Industry Association Of America (RIAA).

"This is a critical piece of legislation for artists, musicians, songwriters, consumers and record labels," said Frank Creighton, Director of Anti-Piracy for the RIAA.

Violators of the law can face up to five years in jail and hundreds of thousands of dollars in fines. The RIAA said that music bootleggers have used Wisconsin as a safe haven to escape the laws of bordering states. Sound recording piracy is already a felony in 43 states.

TOSHACK HIGHWAY

Interview by Bill Konig

Toshack Highway is the side project of Adam Franklin, lead singer and guitarist for English shoegazer band Swervedriver. The band's debut was recorded in 1998.

while Swervedriver was on hiatus. Toshack Highway's atmospheric soundscapes exploit Swervedriver's signature guitar swirls, yet Franklin infuses a new appreciation for synthesizers into the mix, resulting in perhaps the perfect haunting soundtrack for traveling through space. CMJ recently interviewed Franklin to discover his inspiration behind Toshack Highway, both musically and nominally.

So, you're a big fan of soccer (John Toshack is a famous European soccer coach)?

First, I have to say that the name is 'football.' not soccer. 'Futbol' in South America. 'Fussball' in Germany, but 'football' in every language. It's called football because you play it with your feet, see? No hands. It's played with a round ball and it's otherwise known as the 'beautiful game.'

What exactly is a Toshack Highway then?

Before John Toshack became a coach he was a striker for Liverpool and Wales. Also upfront for Liverpool in the '70s were Steve Heighway of Eire and English forward Kevin Keegan. "Keegan Toshack Heighway" didn't quite have the right ring. So having dropped Keegan and the 'e' in the same way that Lead Zeppelin dropped the 'a,' Toshack Highway was settled on.

What inspired this side project?

Around 1997, I bought an old analog synthesizer and started [composing] tunes on keyboards, which was more of a challenge than doing it on a guitar at the time. I then called up Charlie Francis (REM, High Llamas) because he's a great piano player, as well as being a great engineer and a great bloke. We then got Jeff Towsin in to play drums and began knocking the ideas about. These songs were different from Swervedriver songs, so it was good to spread out a little bit musically and recording-wise, where there was more computer programming than anything previously.

The album is very atmospheric in nature. What was your inspiration behind the album's extraterrestrial soundscapes?

The album sounds quite serene, and even the ship on the cover is moving forward most serenely. I think this comes, to a degree, from the fact that this was recorded on the back of a lot of touring and mayhem and so this is the sound of me lying on my back with my eyes shut and taking it very easy.

EMI Publishing To Distribute Sheet Music On Net

EMI Music Publishing, the world's largest music publisher, has reached an agreement with Net4Music.com to digitize and digitally distribute sheet music from EMI's one-million-plus song catalog. In exchange for EMI taking an equity position in the company, Net4Music, a leading musicians' portal, will be responsible for the digital creation, licensing and marketing of EMI's song catalog.

Founded in 1995 in France as Interactives Musiques Companie by conductor Claude Poletti, President of the Association Of Music Academies in France, the company changed its name last year to something easier for Americans to pronounce, and more in keeping with its Internet-based future. In December 1999, Net4Music launched a comprehensive site featuring a catalog of 40,000 sheet music titles, as well as editorial content and artist midi files. Net4Music's copyright protection technology virtually eliminates piracy and unauthorized distribution of product.

Sonic Foundry Encoding BMG Audio Discs

Sonic Foundry, Inc., a developer and marketer of digital media and Internet software tools, services and systems, has reached an agreement with BMG Distribution to encode sample audio CDs for streaming on the Internet through BMG Distribution's business-to-business Web site. Sonic Foundry will also digitize the CD cover art, provide a detailed searchable database archive, and gather Meta data to support the Web site.

This deal will allow BMG Distribution's accounts and business partners to easily obtain information and marketing tools for their releases.

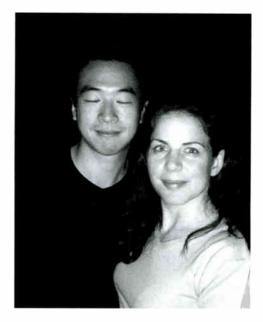

"It will allow our direct accounts, nondirect accounts and business partners (publications, Web sites, advertising agencies, etc.) who are making buying decisions, marketing or reviewing our releases to obtain up-to-the-minute status and information about our product, such as street dates, selection number, UPC number, credits, track listings, available artwork, bios, sound samples, links, key selling points, digitized sell sheets, etc. You can consider it a virtual new release book and catalog for the product we distribute," said BMG Distribution spokesperson Wendy Schlesinger.

In early April, BMG Entertainment, BMG Distribution's parent company, announced plans to develop an online consumer distribution system, with help from a number of partners including Liquid Audio, IBM, Intertrust Technologies Corporations, and Digital World Services. BMG plans to start a modest online distribution site this summer, with the goal of substantially increasing the number of available titles for sale by the winter holiday season.

Muze, Inc., an interactive entertainment information provider, announced the availability of its music and video databases to The MTVi Group, owner of such leading music sites as MTV.com, VH1.com and SonicNet.com. Muze's database houses artist biographies, album reviews and discographies and is currently accessed by over 250 Web sites including online retailers such as Borders.com, Urban Fetch.com and Tower Records Online. The information is frequently updated and improved. Muze's first claim to fame was its look-up kiosks in record stores. The company has now shifted its focus to expanding the world of digital music online. According to CNet, Muze's recent partnership with Liquid Audio supplied Muze's database with over 1 million music samples to be combined with editorial content.

Metallica, known for such songs as "Enter Sandman," has sold over 54 million copies of its 11 domestic albums and compilations.

In November 1999, the RIAA filed a similar suit against Napster. Napster claims that because any alleged illegal activity is carried out by its users and not the company itself, Napster is not in violation of copyright laws. It has also taken refuge under certain provisions of the U.S. Digital Millennium Copyright Act that do not hold Internet service providers responsible for the actions of their users.

The Metallica suit states that "Napster has devised and distributed software whose sole purposed is to permit Napster to profit by abetting and encouraging the pirating of creative efforts." Napster, however, has yet to come up with a moneymaking model. The company has no banner ads and receives no revenue for the software or from its users.

Napster's counsel Laurence Pulgram questions which party is ultimately the driving force behind the Metallica suit. He said, "This action raises the same copyright issues as the lawsuit filed against Napster by the [RIAA]. The complaint reads like it was written to inflame the press and intimidate universities rather than to present legal issues to the court."

money to be made on your [music online], you're the ones who should make it," Judge Rakoff said in response to the industry lawyers' argument. The judge will rule on the RIAA's motion on April 28; a ruling favoring the industry group would be a decisive blow in the lawsuit.

"We have the right to exclude [MP3.com] from this business," music industry lawyer Katherine Forrest said at the hearing. "They envisioned a potential market that belongs to [the record labels]."

MP3.com's Instant Listening and Beamlt services allow customers to transfer tracks from a disc purchased online into their personal MP3 library or to add tracks from MP3's database of over 40,000 CDs to their library. To add tracks from the database, users must first insert the relevant disc into their computer CD-ROM drive, confirming ownership of the disc. The consumer benefits by not MP3.com counsel Stephen Neal said music industry lawyers were not getting due credit to the fair-use doctrine, which allows owners of recorded materials to copy such materials in different formats for personal use.

In other litigious MP3.com news, members of the Coasters, the Drifters and the Chambers Brothers have filed a suit against MP3.com for distributing their work over the Internet without permission, according to Bloomberg business news. The suit seeks royalty payments for the online transmission of the veteran R&B groups' work, as well as class-action status on behalf of other artists who made records prior to the passage of digital copyright laws. Sony, Time Warner and two other unidentified labels are also litigants in the suit.

there was a 7% drop in cassette sales and a 4% decline in singles sales. Global sales of all formats combined were 3.8 billion units.

While sales of CDs in America, the global music market leader, increased by 10% in '99, the worldwide figures were offset by widespread piracy in Latin America and a struggling Japanese music market. Four of the top five Asian markets experienced growth — led by South Korea's 15% gain in sales — but the Japanese market dropped by 11% in units and 7% in value. Excluding the U.S., the highest growth region was Australia, which was up by 6% in units and 5% in value.

"Growth should pick up again in 2000 so long as the world economy holds together. But the biggest threat will be from the explosion of piracy and illegal Web downloading, which may also start to have a noticeable effect," IFPI Chairman Jay Berman told Reuters.

Aside from Japan, economic difficulty in Latin America, exemplified by Brazil's currency devaluation of 60%, and high piracy levels, contributed to a 5% decline in the overall value of music sales in that region.

In Europe, sales in Germany and France fell slightly (2% and 2.5% respectively), while sales increased in leading markets such as Sweden, the U.K., Denmark and areas of Eastern Europe.

The IFPI also reported that the number of consumers purchasing CDs online climbed to 2.4%, up from 1.1% in 1998. But despite the small gain, Berman believes that online sales are the future of the industry. In addition, sales of Minidiscs were tabulated for the first time in 1999. Sales of the small, highly portable format totaled 1 million units worldwide.

Summing up the figures, Berman said, "It always depends on the release schedule. In 1999 we didn't have the kind of cross-over international artist like Celine Dion."

The Boy With The Arab Strap, which was followed up by the domestic release of the act's limited-release first album, Tigermilk. This past winter, Matador compiled their three import-only B&S EPs for release as a box set entitled Lazy Line Painter Jane.

"Over the past year and a half, we've been lucky enough to have the reissue of Tigermilk and those EPs from a couple years back, and it does provide us with an excellent ramp up for Fold Your Hands," says Matador Product Manager Kris Gillespie.

Preceding the album release, there will be a single issued on May 16, featuring non-album cuts "Legal Man" b/w "Winter Wooskie" and "Judy Is A Dick Slap." Matador will be sending out limited copies just prior to the release date. The full-length, by contrast, will be worked extensively to college radio and Triple A radio.

"We're going to try to go to some of the CMJ Triple A stations that don't necessarily play a lot of our stuff," says Donovan Finn in Radio Promotion. "This is more in their scope. I think it's strong enough that it'll be able to bridge the two a little.

"I think it will be a pleasant surprise for everyone," agrees Gillespie. "Just the depth of the songwriting and the actual sound. They put a lot of attention to detail as far as the actual songs on the record and it really shows. It has a lot more of a panoramic sound to it."

About a week after the American release, the band will make its first visits to the West Coast, playing four shows in Seattle, Portland, San Francisco and Los Angeles. The band's supporting act will depend greatly on which other artists are in the area at the time, according to Gillespie. "It's timing. Last tour they did a couple dates with Momus, which was perfect for both of them."

The band prefers to maintain control over online content, in the past making new songs available from their site, www.belleandsebastian.co.uk. So it's unlikely they'll provide added-value tracks to online retailers. The band has also been reticent when it comes to interviews. Yet, this limited approach certainly hasn't hurt the word-of-mouth promotion to date.

"It's difficult with a band that won't do so many things, like interviews, TV," says Finn. "But it's conceivably just the next step for a band that has their following."

As for college radio, Finn said, "You know 'em, you love 'em, you've played 'em before, play 'em again. It should be a no-brainer."

ELLIOT SMITH

Adds: #2 with 130 reports Radio 200: #12 debut Core Radio: #19 debut

Though college radio staple Elliott Smith comes in a surprising second on the Adds chart this week with 130 reports (congrats to Tommy Boy for a barnstorming week with its newest signing Broadcast), the album's debut numbers on the charts are more indicative of the format's affection for its most well-known troubadour. Figure 8 (DreamWorks) is in the top 20 on the 200 and Core charts, and with a week of special appearances slated to coincide with the album's release (e.g. Late Night With Conan O'Brien on April 20), it ought to push into the top five by next week.

SONGS FOR THE JET SET

Radio 200: 152-24 Core Radio: #16 debut

Jetset's tremendously popular Songs For The Jet Set series is now on its third volume, and the reliability of the previous editions results in college radio wasting no time in pushing the compilation up the charts. Featured on Vol. 3 are the as-yet-unknowns Tomorrow's World, Daisies, Wallpaper, Death By Chocolate, Loveletter and Milky, but judging by the rapid chart movement the album has in its second week (128 position leap on the Radio 200 and a #16 debut at Core), their anonymity won't last for long.

CHARTACTIVIT

BUILT TO SPILL

Adds: #3 with 109 reports Radio 200: #25 debut Core Radio: #26 debut

Built To Spill's first live album has a number of tracks that aren't exactly built for radio (two of them near 20 minutes in length!), but as always, college radio's appreciation for the music shines through, and Live (Warner Bros.) experiences an impressive first week on the charts. Aside from featuring BTS frontman Doug Martsch's steller lead guitar playing on a number of BTS "hits," the album includes covers of several songs that allow Martsch to really shine (e.g. a 20-minute version of Neil Young's legendary "Cortez The Killer"). A musthave for college radio libraries overall.

MELVINS

Radio 200: 191-50 Core Radio: #50 debut

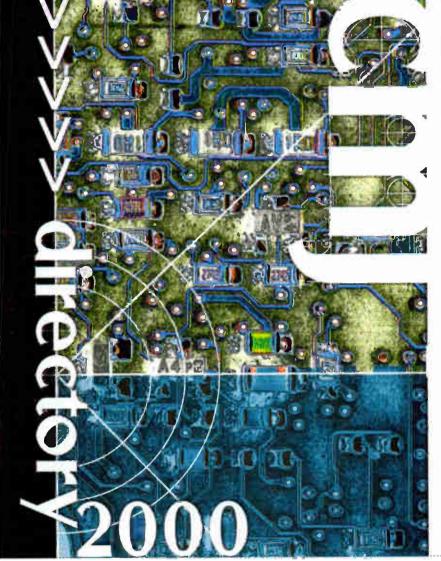

The Melvins finish their trilogy of albums for Mike Patton's Ipecac label with a bang with the characteristically clever The Crybaby. Featuring lead vocal turns by the likes of the Jesus Lizard's David Yow, Brutal Truth's Kevin Sharp, Hank Williams III and Patton himself, the album is a surefire hit for college radio. Factor in the fact that The Crybaby's lead track is a cover of "Smells Like Teen Spirit" with fallen/risen/fallen teen idol Leif Garrett, and the Melvins have made college radio magic. The Crybaby debuts at #50 on the Core chart this week, and makes a fleetfooted jump from 191 to 50 on the Radio 200.

THE SPARK

Did you ever wonder if you're really the bastard/bitch that people say you are (though a true bastard wouldn't care in the first place)? Or do you ever spend hours at a time lying paralyzed in bed wondering when you're going to die? Then The Spark is the online destination for you! The entertainment Web site is the perfect distraction for each day's inescapable lulls, especially between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. For starters, take the Bastard Or Bitch Test. Merely answer a group of amusing questions such as "If you could get away with it, would you sleep with any of your relatives?" (bastard) or "Have you ever called another girl a slut?" (bitch). Then have your results computed and discover the degree to which you are a bona fide bitch or bastard. Previous bitch/bastard results have also been correlated to such luminous insights as the fact that women who like the taste of beer are more likely to cheat on their boyfriends. Other tests include The Love Test, The Ass Quiz and, of course, The Death Test. Search the Web with the Ask Jesus search engine, or chat along with other procrastinators in such categories as Up Late, Pimpin' Cupid's Lounge and Cool Chat. Check out archived news features possessing headlines like "Boy Trapped Inside Hog: Rescuers To Attempt Daring Barbeque," or "Freezing Eskimos Have 47 Words For 'This Sucks'." Site features include an inside look at a new television comedy called Malcolm X In The Middle, complete with sound clips from this week's episode: Malcolm sticks the finger of Afro-American Unity into his brother's ear. Check out scenes from the medical drinking drama beER, or download The Spark's insult generator, capable of generating a myriad of insults, stupid! Also visit The Spark Cam, formerly utilized by a proctologist, which offers a glimpse into the twisted lives of The Spark's creators. - Bill Konig

BEDHEAD/MACHA Bedhead Loved Macha (Jetset)

In 1999, siblings Matt and Bubba Kadane sent tapes of some unfinished material by their defunct slowcore band Bedhead to their high school friends Joshua and Mischo McKay, members of ethno-rock group Macha. The ensuing sixsong collaboration, Bedhead Loved Macha, which was recorded by Macha and the Kadane brothers both collectively and separately in the studio. effectively summons the best of both group's musical ideologies. The album bears the strong mark of Macha's trance-inducing, Indonesian instrumentation and melodicism, but the Kadanes' intimate, soporific sound determines the album's overriding mood. The haunting opener "Hev Goodbye" is the record's strongest, most accessible track. The lazy cover of Cher's colossal hit. "Believe," is also not to be missed. - Bill Konig

For Fans Of: Macha, Bedhead, Tortoise Recommended Tracks: "Hey Goodbye," "Never Underdose," "Only The Bodies Survive" Contact: Will Simon Phone: 212.625.0202 Email: will@jetset records.com Release Date: April 25 Add Date: May 2 Marketing Data: Macha is currently on tour with the Dirty Three.

CYPRESS HILL Skull & Bones (Columbia-CRG)

The mighty Cypress Hill, one of the West Coast's top hip-hop crews for nearly 10 years going, has rarely rested on its laurels, never hesitating to plant new, often innovative, seeds in its distinct low-end sound. The trio's fifth full-length, Shull Bones, is two records in one: The first half features an emphasis on brash, old school-flavored lyricism, while the second rocks out with modern, neck-snapping rap-core from the 'hoods of Cali. The nasal delivery of B-Real is in top form on "Another Victory" and "(Rap) Superstar," as he displays a swifter, more determined approach compared with that of Cypress's earlier, glassy-eyed work. The standout "(Rock) Superstar" features Everlast and the Deftones shredding it up with the group, proving rather convincingly that Cypress Hill still packs a mighty punch.

DEATHRAYDeathray (Capricorn)

Sacramento, California's Deathray counts two former members of Cake (including the writer of that band's massive hit "The Distance") among its ranks. That fun fact, however, tells you very little about what this band - one of several the pair have been in together - sounds like. Deathray is surprisingly power-pop-oriented, with buzzing guitars, bleeping synthesizers and hooks so big and obvious, they're the musical equivalent of a large-print book. The songs aren't terribly complicated, but they're effective as all hell, evoking like-minded alt-pop denizens such as Weezer, Fountains Of Wayne, Smashing Pumpkins (circa Siamese Dream), and even the Cars. On first listen, Deathray might seem like a sonic Twinkie - all sugar rush and no lasting nutritional value — but its songs are deceptively clever and enduring. - Jem Aswad

For Fans Of: Cake, Fountains Of Wayne, Fastball, Weezer Recommended Tracks: "My Lunatic Friends," "What Would You Do," "Now That I Am Blind," "Happy New Year" Contact: Amy Leavell Phone: 800.289.ROCK ext. 6612 Email: aleavell@capricornrecords.com Release Date: April 25; at radio now Marketing Data: Touring in May.

DJ FOOD Kaleidoscope (Ninia Tune)

Superproducer tag-team Matt Black and Jonathan More (a.k.a. Coldcut) started the DJ Food collaborative in the early '90s as an outlet for their more jazz-leaning concoctions. On Kaleidoscope, like-minded BPM chefs PC (Patrick Carpenter) and Strictly Key - who make their recording debut as DJ Food here - update the menu with their own urban breakbeat recipes. Multicolored rhythms lain over a jazz platter and accompanied by choice samples and ambient embellishments make Kaleidoscope a groove lovers' feast. Among a varied cast of collaborators is baritone word-jazz poet Ken Nordine, who reads his 1984 poem "The Ageing Young Rebel" over a thick bass line and cool-cat bop on the track of the same name. Nordine fittingly poses the question "Do you really have the stuff?" as an open invitation to all trackmakers out there.

— Enrique Lavin

DOZERIn The Tail Of The Comet (Man's Ruin)

Blame it on Kyuss or on Black Sabbath (depending how far back you want to go), but there is currently an abundance of bands favoring music that's short on chord changes and long on oppressively heavy, fuzzed-out riffs. The Swedish quartet Dozer easily fits into this skuzzy grouping, pummeling listeners with grinding guitars that sound meaner than an ill-tempered Mack truck. The lyrics tend to be of the stoner-fantasy variety, but no one is looking to this kind music for political statements. When people are boppin' their heads and rockin' back and forth, there is no need to search for depth-it's all about the visceral experience. A promising debut after a handful of compilation tracks, split releases and singles, In The Tail Of The Comet is another stonerrock highlight from Man's Ruin.

GRANT HART Good News For Modern Man (Pachyderm)

While his former Hüsker Dü bandmate Bob Mould remained prolific during the '90s, drummer Grant Hart all but disappeared after the group's breakup. Although he continued to play live throughout the decade, his last U.S. release of new material was 1989's Intolerance with his post-Hüsker band, Nova Mob. Instead of following the alternative rock approach of Mould's work, Hart's latest solo effort hearkens back to late-'60s pop and garage rock, employing an organ to fill out many of the album's songs. "Seka Knows" has the feel of an Animals tune, while "Run Run Run To The Centre Pompidou" rides a harmony-filled, Beach Boys surf rave-up. With its plush production and openly melodic songwriting, Good News... lacks the post-punk crunch of the Hüskers or Mould, but its pretty, diverse songs prove just as engaging. - Chris Parker

TAMI HART No Light In August (Mr. Lady)

Tami Hart's No Light In August waves the solo-artist banner even more resolutely than most one-person affairs. The songs rise up to Hole-like bombast or fall into alt-country reveries, but her voice is always the centrifugal force driving them. Her tales of troubled wanderings are what provide color and depth, and the guitars, be they electric or a lone acoustic, trail unobtrusively behind. Hart's lyrics are actually not so much stories as stances, bringing a note of stubborn indie self-reliance to her variations on the man-trouble theme. On songs such as "The Kids That Call Us Clowns," an unmistakable whiff of Nirvana's Unplugged seeps through the melodies, but Hart's voice, unflinching and with a raggedy, hardwon edge, rescues it from the Courtney-wannabe bin. On the whole, No Light In August has a rough, unfinished quality, but what comes blaring through Hart's delivery is a toughness to rival any riot-girrl's. - Deborah Orr

NASH KATO

Debutante (Loosegroove-Will)

During his 10 years at the helm of Chicago's Urge Overkill, Nash Kato openly aspired to superstar status. Now a solo artist with several years of international jet setting under his belt, the lanky rock 'n' roll fashion plate emerges from the studio with this coyly titled debut. UO fans will be thrilled to find that Debutante is soaked in Kato's particular je ne sais quoi; between his trademark languid pipes and droll lyrics, there's no question as to who's in the spotlight. But where UO's power-pop was crisp and even mechanical at times (e.g. 1993's Saturation), Debutante is funkier and more decadent, with a trio of sassy female soul singers testifying behind Kato's vocal laissez-faire. Debutante's complex arrangements and seductive attitude are not only proof that Kato is a rock star to be reckoned with, but they're also your ticket to vicariously living his vida loca. - Cheryl Botchick

For Fans Of: Marc Bolan, Scott Weiland's 12 Bar Blues, Mick Jagger Recommended Tracks: "Zooey Suicide" (first single), "Octoroon," "Debutante," "Cradle Robbers," "Black Satin Jacket" Contact: McGathy Alternative Phone: 888.744.8636 Email: emert@ mcgathypromotions.com Release Date: April 18; at radio now Marketing Data: West Coast tour starts May 17; touring to continue into the summer.

RACHEL'S / MATMOS Full On Night (Quarterstick)

On this cinematic, 31-minute, two-song album, the far-out instrumental combo Rachel's reconsiders the song "Full On Night" from its 1995 debut, Handwriting, and then invites electronicsound sculptors Maunos for the chaser, "The Precise Temperature Of Darkness." The updated Rachel's track uses improvisational moments from live sessions and trades the original's ending chug of a safely fading train for a pounding rock chord progression that rails right over you. For "The Precise Temperature...," Matmos grabs Rachel's studio masters and runs them through body-hot computer noises. The result is an Orblike exploration of rhythmic momentum-building. Rachel's instrumentation, found sounds and a snappy hi-hat, leads to a wintry tension. The combo's violinist, Christian Fredrickson, unwinds things by telling a joke 14 minutes in, dryly followed by the punchline two minutes late. File Full On Night as two short films, where the movie screen is behind the evelids. - Enrique I avin

SARGE Distant (Mud)

Sarge is sadly no more, but Distant, which collects various unreleased cuts, should help ease fans' grief. The Champaign-Urbana, Illinois, punk-pop outfit exploded onto the Midwest rock scene with its infectious 1996 single, "Dear Josie, Love Robyn." Fronted by charismatic singer/guitarist Elizabeth Elmore, the group consistently improved upon its raw, energized sound. Multiple line-up changes and Elmore's enrollment in law school ultimately led to Sarge's premature demise in 1999. Distant serves as a musical snapshot of a solid rock band's gloried past, as well as the promise of what could have been. The record opens with three smoldering, never-released demos, the most arresting being "Detroit Starlite." Live versions of Glass Intact's finest, "Dear Josie," as well as a few covers that include Cyndi Lauper's "Time After Time," make for a truly pleasurable listen. — Bill Konig

SHELTER When 20 Summers Pass (Victory)

After releasing 1997's don't-know-which-genreclothes-to-wear Beyond Planet Earth, quintessential Krishna-core band Shelter disappeared. Scenesters assumed the band had broken up and that NYHC staple Ray "Of Today" Cappo had given up his Krishna lifestyle. Call off that search party because Shelter has apparently regrouped, teamed up with Victory Records and gotten its mojo back with When 20 Summers Pass. Sonically, this is classic Shelter, recalling the sounds of Attaining The Supreme and Mantra. There are popinfluenced melodies and mosh-worthy breakdowns among the thrash hardcore riffs of guitarist and longtime Cappo collaborator Porcell. However, the Krishna-centric aspect of Shelter has been watered down considerably. Gone are Cappo's outright glorifications of the Bhagavad Ghita, though his gift for spiritual metaphors and phraseology remains intact. - Amy Sciarretto

For Fans Of: H2O, Ignite, In My Eyes, Shutdown, Sick Of It All Recommended Tracks: "In The Van Again," "Crushing Someone You Love," "I Can't Change History" Contact: Tim Binder Phone: 888.447.3267 Email: tim@victoryrecords.com Release Date: April 25; at radio now

SOLACE Further (Meteor City)

Solace could haphazardly be categorized as part of the ever-growing stoner rock movement, but the band's distillation of its heavy metal influences is actually somewhat more complex. Black Sabbath is certainly the band's primary touchstone (in fact, the vocals owe such a debt to Ozzy that Solace is likely to hear from Sharon Osbourne about it!), but like early Soundgarden albums, Solace's riffing is loose and elastic compared with the tight progressions of Tony Iommi. Because of that, Further sounds as influenced by late, blues-oriented Band Of Gypsys Hendrix or Eric Clapton's jams in Cream as it is by proto-metal. Regardless of the academics of the band's inspiration, though, the Solace formula simply rocks. Cuts like "Man Dog" start off sounding like an unearthed Sabbath gem, but break into a flurry of leaden grooves and drum fills to rival Kyuss at its peak-wicked and devastatingly heavy. — Cheryl Botchick

VARIOUS ARTISTS Songs For The Jet Set 2000 (Jetset)

If flower beds in full bloom, go-go boots and the original version of Breathless are a few of your favorite things, then Songs For The Jet Set 2000 is bound to be one of your favorite albums of the vear, This compilation, the third in Jetset's ongoing series, is a pleasing collection of highly stylized retro-pop. Inspired by French film soundtracks of the 1960s, the songs are champagne bubbly and just as sweet. Delightful instrumentals are laced amongst playful (sometimes downright silly, as in the case of Death By Chocolate's "Bears") vocal tracks that float gently by like little lost party balloons. Winsome and fresh, this album suggests that bouncy keyboards, dainty female lead vocals and sparklingly precious harmonies could be all the rage again. - Kelso Jacks

VERNA CANNON Movie Star Faces (Cargo)

Columbia, South Carolina's up-and-coming Verna Cannon shows great promise as a slowcore band. Following in the warmhearted yet stark tradition of works by tenderly minimalist bands such as Mazzy Star and Low, Movie Star Faces, the band's label debut for Cargo, is a beautifully bundled blanket of sentiment and passions. With carefully paced guitars and drums leading the way, further poignancy is struck by the dolorous strains of Dan Cook's violin. Its cries and moans bring extra emotional punch to these striking ballads, especially when paired with vocalist/guitarist Molly Ledford's soothing pipes. With great sincerity, she reflectively sings, "Sipped like a fine wine/These moments gratify/More and more/As we grow older." After experiencing the subtleties of Movie Star Faces, it's fair to say the same will be true for these songs. — Kelso Jacks

PINK FLOYD Is There Anybody Out There? The Wall Live 1980-81 (Columbia-CRG)

Pink Floyd's conceptual masterpiece The Wall stands as one of the most acclaimed albums in the history of rock music. Originally released in December1979, the album's Orwellian perspective, post-WWI ideology and themes of alienation and social acceptance still resonate today, speaking to new generations of listeners with its occasionally bizarre, often beautiful, rock operatics. Recorded live in 1980-81 in London, the two-disc set delivers the audio spectacle of the performance in its entirety, while also featuring "What Shall We Do Now?," which was included in The Wall's film version only, and "The Last Few Bricks," which had not been released previously in any form. — *M. #### NEIL YOUNG Silver & Gold (Reprise)

Silver & Gold, Neil Young's umpteenth studio recording in a career spanning well over four decades, finds the mercurial singer-songwriter wistfully gazing back at his past for inspiration. Originally intended as his first entirely solo album - voice and acoustic guitar originals only - Silver & Gold is nonetheless marked by faint whiffs of breezy pedal steel, organ and dobro, recalling the nostalgic country-folk ache of 1992's Harvest Moon. Young also wrote part of Silver & Gold in the midst of rejoining Crosby, Stills, Nash & Young and assembling a forthcoming Buffalo Springfield box set, and the heartwarming effects of those experiences reveal themselves in moments of unabashed sentimentality ("Buffalo Springfield Again") and joy ("Good To See You"). - Colin Helms

COREY HARRIS & HENRY BUTLER Vü-Dü Menz (Alligator)

Though this project from young guitarist Corey Harris and veteran pianist Henry Butler is a classic May-December collaboration, the union provides much more than the usual elder/student lesson. The real star of Vü-Dü Menz is the musical history of Butler's native New Orleans, a town whose rich culture has also informed Harris's playing. Though Harris is generally billed as a master of vintage, pre-war acoustic blues, and Butler is known as a boogie man on the ivories, the collaboration conjures a swampy kind of voodoo that surpasses the sum of the musicians' individual magic. From traditional spirituals to jukeshakers to a handful of goosebump-generating originals, Vii-Dii Menz shows how great these generation-gap collaborations can be when the artists approach the work as equals. - Cheryl Botchick

DRAGSTRIP COURAGE Echo Rock (Vinyl Ritchie)

Boston's Dragstrip Courage is a slightly retrosounding pop trio that is obviously in complete control of its songwriting facilities. Echo Rock, the band's self-released 11-track debut, is a smart program of well-crafted jangle pop that varies in its energy, arrangements and overall sound. Crisp acoustic and wirv electric guitars embellish each song with hooks that stick with listeners like bad pennies. Warm melodic vocals and nicely layered back-up harmonies compliment the guitars as they serenade listeners with bittersweet lyrics about love and loss. On paper, it all sounds like standard pop, but Echo Rock's tunefulness makes for a surprisingly self-assured debut. Continuing the pop tradition of Big Star, early-R.E.M. and even Semisonic. Dragstrip Courage has built a fresh sound of its own while adhering to the pop tradition. Nicely done. — Tad Hendrickson Monolyth Records has released a new album of live material by the Amazing Crowns entitled Payback Live. The disc was recorded January 27 through 29 at the Met Café in Providence.

Rhode Island, and includes older material such as "1965 GTO" and "Shivering In The Corner," as well as the new tracks "Halos & Horns" and "Perfect Sin." Programmers should also note that Royal, the band's sophomore studio album, is scheduled for release on June 6 on Time Bomb Recordings. For more information about Payback Live, contact Jeff Marshall at 617.437.0117; email: jeff@monolyth.com.

While the Dandy Warhols' new album is slated to be released early this summer, Capitol Records has gotten the ball rolling by servicing college radio with a five-song EP. The sampler includes two album tracks and three songs that will later be used as B-sides. The tracks included are: "Godless," "Shakin'," "Lance," "Kinky" and "Phone Call." For more information, contact Steve Nice (Capitol) at 323.871.5174; email: cagepromol@aol.com.

Chapel Hill-based Merge Records has just released new EPs by two indie-rock darlings. First is the Spinanes' The Imp Years, a six-song collection from the now-defunct Portland band that includes rare singles and compilation appearances, as well as the previously unreleased cut "Hadful Of Hearts." The other release, Shangri-La, is by New York City's Versus. The concept EP features the band playing its own tune called "Shangri-La," while also covering different songs bearing the same title by artists such as the Kinks and Electric Light Orchestra. The EP is rounded out with Versus' rendition of "Out In The Streets" by the '60s girl group, the Shangri-Las.

For more information, contact Martin Hall (Merge) at 919.929.0711; email: martin@mrg2000.com.

Louisville, Kentucky, has given rise to another orchestrally-minded rock band in the form of Halifax Pier. The sextet employs cello and violin along with traditional rock instruments to craft its Rex-inspired tunes, and its self-titled debut EP was released on March 6 by the Temporary Residence label. For more information, contact Jeremy DeVine (Temporary Residence) at 410.662.4061; email: trllove@usa.net

On May 9, Atlantic Records will release The New America, the seventeenth album by Bad Religion. Radio has already been serviced with the first single from the disc, "New America." For more information, contact Anthony Delia (Atlantic) at 212.707.2000; email: collegeradio@atlantic-records.com.

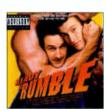

The second title in Bulb Records' Gold Reissues series is an album from the one-and-only Mr. Quintron. Internal Feedback 001-011 was originally released in a very limited vinyl pressing in 1994. The release was Quintron's debut album, so be prepared for some very experimental percussive endeavors. For more information, contact Bulb Records at bulb@scribble.com.

Drunken Fish Records has released the eponymous debut album by the Back Off Cupids. The experimental/math-rock work is the solo project of John Reis, who is best known for his role as the frontman of Rocket From The Crypt. Reis plays all the instruments on the record, save for the horn parts on two tracks. For more information, contact Drunken Fish at dfr@sirius.com.

It goes without saying that a feature film comedy about professional wrestling — comedy? wrestling? isn't that redundant? — should be accompanied by a sound-track featuring body-slam-min' artists. The soundtrack to the film Ready To Rumble features music by Kid Rock, P.O.D., the Offspring (covering Agent Orange) and Bif Naked, who covers Twisted Sister's '80s gem "We're Not Gonna Take It." For more information, contact Anthony Delia (Atlantic) at 212.707.2000; email: collegeradio@ atlantic-records.com.

RECORDBRIEFS

Einstürzende Neubaten has finished work on a new album that has taken the band three years to complete. Mute Records will release the album Silence Is Sexy on June 20, which also happens to mark the 20th anniversary of the band's first live performance. Most notable is the fact that the band has retained all of its original members over the course of two decades...Former Soundgarden frontman Chris Cornell has finished sprucing up the song "Mission" for inclusion on the soundtrack to Mission Impossible 2 (Interscope). Although the album will not be in stores until May 9, curious fans can download a clip of the new track, which has been renamed "Mission 2000," at www.chriscornell.com...Fontanelle is wrapping up work on its debut album for Chicago's Kranky Records. The quartet features Rex Ritter and Andy Brown of Jessamine among its members...Maverick Records has signed Innercorse. The Michigan-based teenage loud rock quintet is currently working with producer Dave Jerden (Jane's Addiction). The band's label debut is projected for an August release...On June 27, Putumayo will release the American debut album by Brazilian musician Chico Cesar...According to MTV Online, Sporty Thievz have finished recording its as-yet-untitled follow-up to 1998's Street Cinema. The album includes guest appearances by Lil' Wayne and Nature...According to the British indie-music Web site Excellent (www.excellentonline.com), legendary Smiths guitarist Johnny Marr has formed a new band called the Healers. The band is said to include bassist Alonza Bevan, formerly of Kula Shaker. According to the site, the band is currently working on its debut album, Play Dumb...On May 23, Fat Wreck Chords will release The Phenomenon Of Craving, an EP of new material by the West Coast straight-edge hardcore band Good Riddance. The band has made plans to tour in support of the release, and landed a spot on this summer's Vans Warped Tour along with labelmates Snuff and Avail...Speaking of Avail, the Richmond, Virginia, punk outfit has wrapped up the recording of One Wrench, its next full-length release for Fat Wreck Chords. The album will be available on June 20...Fastball has announced the title of its forthcoming album, according to Allstar. The Harsh Light will be released by Hollywood Records in September. The band recorded the album with producer Julian Raymond, the same man responsible for recording the band's breakthrough album, All The Pain Money Can Buy...Century Media Records reported that Angel Dust is back in the studio to record Enlighten The Darkness, which is being tentatively scheduled for a July release. American fans might find that news surprising, as the band's last album, Bleed, was just issued in the U.S. last October. The record was released in Europe over a year ago...Note to those who will be looking for the new Matchbox 20 album, Mad Season, in stores on May 23. Rolling Stone Online warned that the band now favors spelling out the number "twenty" instead of listing it as the numeral 20.

FUNKSTÖRUNG Appetite For Disctruction (Stud!o K7)

Don't adjust your equalizer: Munich's Funkstörung is supposed to make your stereo system sound like it's gasping for its last breath. Pairing dark and dangerous lo-fi electrorhythms with alien funk and sci-fi hip-hop, Appetite For Disctruction is the music Afrika Bambaataa might have created were he inspired by Autechre instead of Kraftwerk. The static and distortion that the outlit (Michael Fakesch and Chris DeLuca) blankets its productions with is reminiscent of the most experimental stuff from Aphex Twin, but beneath the extraterrestrial hiss lies an affinity for urban soul, highlighted by the human vocal touch of MC Triple H and divas Greenwood and Carin.

DIMITRI FROM PARIS

A Night At The Playboy Mansion (Astralwerks)

Remember the good old days when all it took was a bouncy disco groove and an uplifting house croon to get your party on? Probably not, right? Well, international playboy Dimitri From Paris shows how it used to be with A Night At The Playboy Mansion, a 14-track mix of Paradise Garage-era retro-house jubilation. Several new cuts also make the grade, but it's the inclusion of '70s disco anthems by Cerrone and Ashford & Simpson that'll leave the biggest holes in your rug. For swingers only.

NEW YORK ART QUARTET 35TH Reunion (DIW)

Drummer Milford Graves, saxophonist John Tchicai, bassist Reggie Workman and trombonist Roswell Rudd rekindled their magic after 35 years apart when they reformed to close the 1999 Bell Atlantic Jazz Festival and record this album. In their brief time together, the NYAQ established themselves as a forward-thinking group of jazz musicians who displayed a strong sense of jazz history in their unprecedented and innovative free-time musical vision. The sweeping nature of the band's sound is only heightened by the addition of radical black poet Amiri Baraka, who appears on several tracks here. After so many years apart, the voices are just as fresh and poignant as they were in days past.

ROY HAYNES TRIO Featuring Danilo Perez And John Patitucci (Verve)

Drummer Roy Haynes has provided the beat for countless seminal jazz figures, including Monk and Bird. On this set, he works with two younger players in their prime. Interestingly, the broad mix of vibrant, bop tunes --- ranging from Rodgers & Hart to Chick Corea - is split between studio and live recordings. Haynes's crisp style particularly shines on the two live Monk tunes, on which the trio stretches out.

The lineup for this year's Bell Atlantic Jazz Festival was announced on April 12. The festival will be hitting Washington, D.C. (May 4-7), Philadelphia (May 11-14), Boston (May 17-21) and New York City (June 1-11). It will once again feature top-notch talent from different musical scenes in and outside the jazz world. Undoubtedly, Ornette Coleman's opening night program on the Battery Park Lawn in New York City is a must see affair. "An Evening Of Ornette Coleman" will feature the classic trio of Coleman, Charlie Haden and Billy Higgins; the Global Expressions Project featuring Charnett Moffet, Denardo Coleman and special guests Badal Roy, Sultan Khan and Probaker Karaker; and a 20-piece chamber ensemble performing a new Coleman composition entitled "Freedom Symbol." The Max Roach/Cecil Taylor Duo will perform in New York as well, marking the first time since 1979 that the two have performed in the U.S. together. The surviving members of the Art Ensemble Of Chicago will pay tribute to fallen comrade Lester Bowie in the intimate environs of New York City's Knitting Factory. Other acts making the rounds include the David Ware Quartet, Dave Douglas Sextet, Los Lobos, Ravi Coltrane Quintet, Sex Mob, Sun Ra Arkestra and the premiere performances of "To Louis Armstrong," a theatrical musical performance featuring Christian McBride, Melba Joyce and others. An opera with new music by Elvis Costello's keyboardist Steve Nieve will be performed at New York City's Town Hall with Costello and the Brodsky Quartet as the featured performers. Those unable to make the gigs in these four cities take heart: Knitmedia will be webcasting and archiving a number of the events at www.jazze.com. With additional technological muscle provided by Bell Atlantic, the webcasts promise to be groundbreaking, new media events. NEWS Company Flow fans rejoice! A new album is indeed in the works and will be ready for a fall release, according to a report on Sonicnet. Flow frontman El-P was quoted as saying that he wanted the follow-up to 1997's acclaimed Funcrusher Plus to be a concept album of sorts. "We're going for a continuous theme, something that's as fluid as Fear Of A Black Planet," he explained to the website. The album will be the group's first release for Def Jux, an imprint started by El-P with Ozone Entertainment. Confirmed guests include the Juggaknots and J-Treds (who make up the underground supergroup the Indelible MC's alongside Company Flow), Non Phixion's Ill Bill, Mr. Lif and Harlem's Cannibal Ox... In related news, Rage Against The Machine frontman Zack De La Rocha has tapped El-P to produce several tracks for his forthcoming solo project. The duo has not yet entered the studio, but it will be happening soon...Another group of underground mavericks aiming to drop some new sounds in 2000 are Philadelphia's Mountain Brothers, whose follow-up to their criminally slept-on debut, Self: Volume 1, could be out as early as this (Continued on page 35)

TONY TOUCH The Piecemaker (Tommy Boy)

DJ mix tapes are a crucial, grassroots element of hip-hop culture. Over the last 10 years, Brooklyn, New York's Tony Touch has become one of the cornerstones of this cottage industry of cuttin', scratchin', freestyles and massdubbed Maxell UR-90s. With his Tommy Boy debut, Touch prepares to blow up worldwide. Like his legendary 50 Freestyles trilogy, The Piecemaker is inundated with jaw-dropping cameos and collaborations from some of the hottest names in hip-hop, including Flipmode Squad, Wu-Tang Clan, Gang Starr, De La Soul with Mos Def, Royce The 5'9", Eminem, The Likwit Crew, D.I.T.C. and an all-time power trio of Big Daddy Kane, Kool G. Rap and KRS-One.

ILL BILL

"Gangsta Rap" (12") (Landspeed)

On this one-off single for Landspeed, Non-Phixion's lyrical teamster gets downright nasty with his trademark Canarsie flow over a strung-out orchestral beat masterminded by Necro and laced with some slick turntable action by Non Phix's DJ Eclipse. The B-side contains Bill's impressive spin on Redman's "How To Roll A Blunt," cheekily titled "How To Kill A Cop."

PHAROAHE MONCH

"Simon Says (Roni Size & DJ Die Remix)" (Rawkus)

Pharoahe's rallying cry of "Get the fuck up!" is translated for warehouse parties on this single. Roni Size and Reprazent's DJ Die add a little jungle love to the Godzilla vs. Mothralooped groove of "Simon Says." The flipside features JL's hyper-kinetic garage rendition of the Internal Affairs thug classic.

Seventeen of the Dakar, Senegal-based dance and music troupe Ballet D'Afrique Noire's 30 touring members disappeared following a April 10 performance at UC Berkeley's Zellerbach Auditorium. Though the troupe had performed extensively in Europe, it was in the midst of its first U.S. tour, which began in January. According to SonicNet, the members allegedly ran off and are hiding amidst the African population in the Bay Area. Officials of the U.S. Immigration And Naturalization office have been notified, but the organization has no leads at this time. There is no indication that the performers are attempting to seek political asylum. The Ballet D'Afrique Noire has been in existence since 1958 and is one of Senegal's oldest active folk music and dance companies. Each year, more than 150 members of the company train and Mendes tour...The Czech Republic's genre-bending Uz Jsme Doma will launch another U.S. tour on May 25 at New York City's Knitting Factory. Every date on the two-month tour has not been confirmed at press time, but it looks as though the band will be hitting all major cities and many secondary markets in America and Canada. The band is known for incorporating hard-rock and avant-garde stylings into the traditional folk music of its native land...Verve Records has just reissued five more of its popular Brazilian titles in its Verve By Request series. Previous titles included Luiz Bonfa's Composer Of Black Orpheus & Sings Bossa Nova, Antonio Carlos Jobim's Jobim. The five titles, released on April 4, are Paul Desmond's From The Hot Afternoon, Tamba 4's We And The Sea, Sergio Mendes & Brasil 66's Look Around, Antonio Carlos Jobim's Tide and Milton Nascimento's Milton. The fully remastered, competitively priced discs feature original artwork and bonus tracks. The albums will not be serviced to radio.

KHALED Kenza (Ark 21)

Khaled is one of the true superstars of räi music, a passionate and stirring Algerian pop form characterized by heavy, swirling synths, electronic dance rhythms and wailing Arabic vocals. Kenza, his fifth studio album, can be divided into two halves: those tracks that were produced by Steve Hillage of the '70s prog rock group Gong, and those that were produced by Lati Kronlund, of the acid-jazz group Brooklyn Funk Essentials. Hillage adds a full orchestra to the räi sound here, creating a lush setting for Khaled's vocals.

SHAFQAT ALI KHAN

Shafqat Ali Khan (World Class)

Shafqat Ali Khan comes from a great family of singers — which includes his father Salamat Ali Khan — dating back to the 16th century. His self-titled World Class Records debut features a contemporary world/dance fusion reminiscent of Nusrat Fateh Ali Khan's hybridized work with Michael Brook and Eddie Vedder. Synths and samples mesh underneath Khan's emotive vocals to create a unique and surprisingly danceable blend.

This wonderful compilation documents the history of klezmer music from scratchy recordings of the '20s all the way up to today's modern, rule-bending practitioners such as the Klezmatics. #### JILL SOBULE Pink Pearl (Beyond)

If you thought that Jill Sobule's talent peaked with her sardonic 1995 hit "I Kissed A Girl," Pink Pearl is your wake-up call. Sobule possesses the uncommon ability to combine lilting, infectious melodies with personal and socially relevant lyrics, and then couch them in artfully crafted arrangements. The song "Rainy Day Parade" is both uplifting and melancholic, featuring some of Sobule's best lyrics: "I used to have stars in my pocket/Now I watch them on TV." But it's her catchy, retro-chorus, which includes tubular bells, that's the icing on the cake. An outstanding collection of songs by a top pop tunesmith.

Korn's Sick And Twisted tour ripped through Philly recently. Frontman Jonathan Davis went through three costume changes, sporting an ankle length, altar boy-like black cloak, a kilt, and a regal purple, sequined jumpsuit. He's such a fashion plate. Between band sets, Korn kept its fans entertained by playing clips of Spike & Mike's Sich & Twisted animation. The cartoons were grody and the jokes were of the toilet humor variety. You know, some characters were farting, popping festering boils, and getting vicious paper cuts. There was a skit about a horny dog who humped everything in sight and a stick figure guy who got his head ripped off or his body sawed in half by every woman he asked out on a date. Debauchery...For those of you that felt that this year's March Metal Meltdown didn't offer enough variety to satisfy your insatiable metal appetites, promoter Jack Koshick has assembled a booking committee to diversify the lineup for this summer's Milwaukee Metal Fest and all future Metal Mania series events. The committee consists of Koshick himself, Nightfall Records' Don Decker, and Relapse Records' Matt Jacobson. The committee is asking for suggestions from metalheads as to who they'd like to see on this year's bill. Put your two cents (sense, maybe?) in at MilMetFest@aol.com...Methods Of Mayhem and Crazy Town (Continued on page 36)

BOY SETS FIRE After The Eulogy (Victory)

On After The Eulogy's opening track, Boy Sets Fire's lead singer Nathan Gray asks, "Where's your anger? Where's your fuckin' rage?" The anger and the fuckin' rage will well up inside anyone who listens to this empowering hardcore album. The Delaware quintet rips into the government and society with passionate vocals and twin guitar breakdowns - you'll want to either stomp skulls or write your congressman a letter when it's over. BSF can write straight pop songs, too, such as "When The Rhetoric Dies," an anthem for the American wage slave. If you're a fan of major label rock acts with a message (e.g. Rage Against The Machine, System Of A Down), then Boy Sets Fire should satisfy your craving for an underground answer to the same issues.

Dance And Theatre remounted "Jam," a collaborative work inspired by the life of Vaslav Nijinsky. Originally premiered to rave reviews in 1998, "Jam" is part of Symphony Space's new program entitled Face The Music And Dance. The performances ran from April 27-29.

are on tour in a pre-OzzFest outing. No one was more cynical than me about how Tommy Lee's new rapcore band would go over live, but surprisingly, the show at NYC's Irving Plaza was fully entertaining. The well-endowed Lee strapped on a guitar and rocked the phat beats, and MOM was literally a groove machine. Mr. Pamela Anderson was also accompanied by an unnamed rapper decked out in a fluorescent orange jumpsuit and big dreads. About five songs into the set, Lil' Kim bounded on stage with her green wig and backed dat ass up to sing "Get Naked," MOM's big hit. Kim's got quite a stage presence, bumpin' and grindin' with Lee's bandmates. I wonder if Lee's former cohorts in Mötley Crüe are laughing or crying...The second annual North Florida Metal & Hardcore Fest is taking place on Sunday, May 28, in Tallahassee, Florida. This year's line up includes Dragbody, Damad, Hatred, Cream Abdul Babar, Social Infestation, Spinecast, Mastadon, A New Kind Of American Saint and Fungus Amungus. There are still a few spots open on the bill. If you know of any interested bands, please contact WVFS's own Dan Rozenblum. You can leave a message at the station at 850.644.3303, or email him at whatswrongwithyo@hotmail.com ... I'd like to send a parting note and a big congrats to my good friend Jason Rudolph over at McGathy Edge. Jason has left the world of indie promotion to move to Chicago and take over the reigns as Director Of Promotion at one of my favorite labels, Victory Records. Jay can be reached at 888.447.3267 starting May 15. Give him a call for all your Boy Sets Fire, Snapcase and Shelter needs. Please note that Tim Binder will still handle radio duties with his new co-worker. Jason, I'll really miss seeing your mug at shows in NYC, and dude, don't forget to send me — the biggest Hatebreed fan — a super-advance of its next album! Now, go kick some ass in Chi-Town.

on tour. In happier news, Deakin and his wife Tracy are expecting their first baby in June. The Maverick's latest release, Super Colossal Smash Hits Of The '90s: The Best Of The Mavericks, was released last November. The band expects to hit the studio soon to record a new album...Southern rock power-trio Gov't Mule will open for the Steve Miller Band during its June 9-July 9 U.S. tour dates. Gov't Mule has been on an extensive road trip of its own, and will join

Miller for 23 shows beginning the day after the group's own tour officially ends. During Gov't Mule's May dates, the opening acts will include Widespread Panic. Neville Brothers, DJ Logic, Ratdog and Jonny Lang...Collective Soul has teamed up with Atlanta radio station WNNX for a contest to name the band's fifth album. The contest, dubbed "Collective Soulection." runs through May 1 and fans are invited to submit a potential title for the band's upcoming album via the radio station's Web site, www.99x.com. The grand prize winner will have access to all future Collective Soul shows, free entry to all WNNX shows during 2000, and will announce the album's title from the stage during the group's May 6 performance at the Music Midtown Festival in Atlanta. Look for the band to perform some of their new material during shows in early May.

WHEN OOES THE KEG GET HERE?: Faith No More's Billy Gould hangs out WRKC's Chris Kulp and the Australain band Not From There. L-R: Gould, Kulp, Not From There.

Words by Kelso Jacks

Robert Schneider is balding, bearded and lives in Denver. Not exactly the profile you'd expect from one of the most important frontmen in rock's underground, although it seems to be turning up more often these days. In any case, it describes the leader of the neo-psychedelic band the Apples In Stereo. His group is one third of the holy trinity of the revered Elephant 6 music collective (along with the Olivia Tremor Control and Neutral Milk Hotel). He is also a much admired producer, having worked with most of the Elephant 6 group at his Pet Sounds recording studio, named, of course, for the lauded Beach Boys album that has heavily influenced the Elephant 6 community.

Schneider has a sparkling personality with an enthusiasm and sweetness that matches his music. Just mention his work and he bubbles effusively, "When I'm making my own music, that's everything I want to do. I love touring. I love it. I love playing shows. It's so fun. I love rock. I love the spirit of rock. I love the energy and the fun and everything.

"At the same time, though, by default I would rather just sit around and noodle on guitar. If I had my way, I would probably not record anybody else. I'd just record with my band all the time. I mean, I write maybe a hundred songs a year, so we'd have plenty of material to record. But I do love recording with my friends' bands and stuff, and there are bigger bands that I would love to record, so producing is definitely a big part of my life. When it comes down to it, though, of course I would rather just play my own music."

The release of the Apples In Stereo's third full-length album, the cryptically named The Discovery Of A World Inside The Moone, showcases a wealth of Schneider's material. Though it sounds rather romantic in nature, Schneider actually stumbled across the title while watching an astronomy documentary, which mentioned a medieval text of the same name. He was drawn to it because of the dichotomy that he sees in the moon—a dichotomy he also sees in his band.

"It's perfect because, well for one thing, The Discovery Of A World Inside The Moone is so sci-fi sounding while at the same time it sounds like exploration and trying to find yourself or whatever, and I really feel that's my band. We're definitely always looking and trying to do something different. Also, the moon is a place that's real strange and represents nighttime. It gives me images of dreams and shining. Shining, like, reflective, very mystical. I feel that our music is like that."

Breathless, he continues his enraptured explanation, "Also, the moon is really very hard. It's just a big chunk of gray rock, so even though it's in outer space it's very down to Earth to me. Do you know what I mean? Even though looking at it from Earth, the moon may seem very mystical, it's really just rock. It's actually very earthy. And I like that duality. I think this new album is like that. I think it's a little hard and has more edges than our others. It's more rock." There seems to be some irony in there somewhere.

Originally intended as a double album, The Discovery... is "more rock" than its predecessors. Constant technical difficulties with Pet Sounds' equipment caused the recording process to drag on for an unexpected nine months, forcing Schneider to slim down the song count. Even this he addresses with exuberance, recalling, "We had twice as many songs than what actually made it on the record that, at the time, I felt were essential to the record. I really could not imagine the record without all those songs, but then with all the problems we had recording and the tape machine breaking down we were forced to cut it down. But that ended up being cool, too.

"As a double album it had a bunch of different directions it was going in, so when we cut it back we took the best of each direction. We wanted this record to be strange, and part of its strangeness would be that it wasn't obviously strange. I kind of imagine people listening to it from song to song and thinking, 'What's going on here? This song sounds totally different from the last song.' I wanted it to be different for us.

"We even left space between the songs, which is something that we've never done before. Usually, we let the songs all bleed into another and blend into one big song cycle. I tried to do something different this time. I think our previous records all have an overall gist to them, but this one has nothing that ties it all together—on purpose. I tried not to use the same instrumentation on songs. I tried not to use the same effects. I don't know if it's that drastic from outside of the band, but it is for me. To me every song is different. Basically, I wanted the feel of it to be having no feel."

It's obvious that Schneider is particularly proud of this album, and he is warmed by the possibility that it might influence some young musicians. Humbly, yet joyfully, he confesses, "There has been a shift musically in the underground scene back towards writing real songs again, as opposed to just experimenting with noises. I'm not saying we've influenced that, but there has been this drift, and I'm very happy with it. If we did have any part in the improvement in the quality of music out there, well, then I'm happy with that as well. I'm happy to be part of our generation's musical enlightenment."

So are we, Rob. So are we.

Interview By Ron Hart

It seems like you can't go to a hip-hop show these days without going home with a pocketful of street team propaganda. What first began as a cost-effective way of spreading the word about upcoming shows and album releases has transformed into an international marketing phenomenon that has generated an immense amount of buzz and interest from the advertising universe. Rob Love, who heads up the street marketing team at Def Jam, has been getting the word out on everyone from the Wu-Tang Clan to Montell Jordan for nearly a decade. He recently spoke with CMJ on the future of street market promotions and how it has grown in the past ten years.

What do you feel is the advantage of street marketing? How do you feel it has affected the exposure and success of hip-hop?

It's turned into a real big business enterprise. A lot of the major corporations are seeing this method of promotion as effective to their bottom line because reactionary consumers sometimes may not catch the radio advertisement. They may not catch the television spot. They may not pick up the trades and read it in the magazines. So how else do you reach them? You reach them by unconventional methods, by word of mouth advertising, which is the greatest form of advertising you could ever have. That's what street team marketing is all about, taking it to the people directly and being in tune with youth culture. The youth culture is the streets. It tells you when you're cool, when you're not cool, and lets you know what's hip and trendy. If you're wearing fat shoelaces and Gazelles all day, you're dated, and they'll let you know that too. It's a mixture of the lifestyle, fashion and culture of people. And it's not just black or white...it's young people (in general). When the youth decides to drink Sprite over Pepsi, then that means something. And why? Maybe because they've seen the Busta Rhymes advertisement. Or if youth culture says, "Yo, I wanna try Budweiser now," it could be because of the True (a.k.a. "Wazzzzuuuup") campaign. Youth culture is spending about 85% of its disposable income on our products and services, so that's the market where we wanna be, and in a non-patronizing kind of way that kids can relate to. It's all about being relevant, being precise and identifying with your target audience.

You are going to be moderating the street marketing panel at the upcoming Impact convention. What would you personally like to see come out of that discussion?

I need to see some more unity in what we're doing. Street teaming is a very competitive thing and everybody wants to outdo each other. But there's gotta be a way that we can effectively do what we gotta do and still remain in business. One of the things I wanna express is the respect of other street teams, like the in-stores and the record release parties. Record companies spend a lot of money on those events, and it's not fair for another record company to... interrupt their business. A lot of cats don't understand that. They may feel like they're only out doing their job. But if you look at the dollars and cents of it, somebody is paying and somebody is getting charged with it. If you violate one of our in-stores and something that we paid for, then we're gonna send the bill to your company and ultimately, they will see that's not the way they wanna go. So what I'm trying to do is give the whole street marketing thing the best direction possible.

How has street marketing grown since you began?

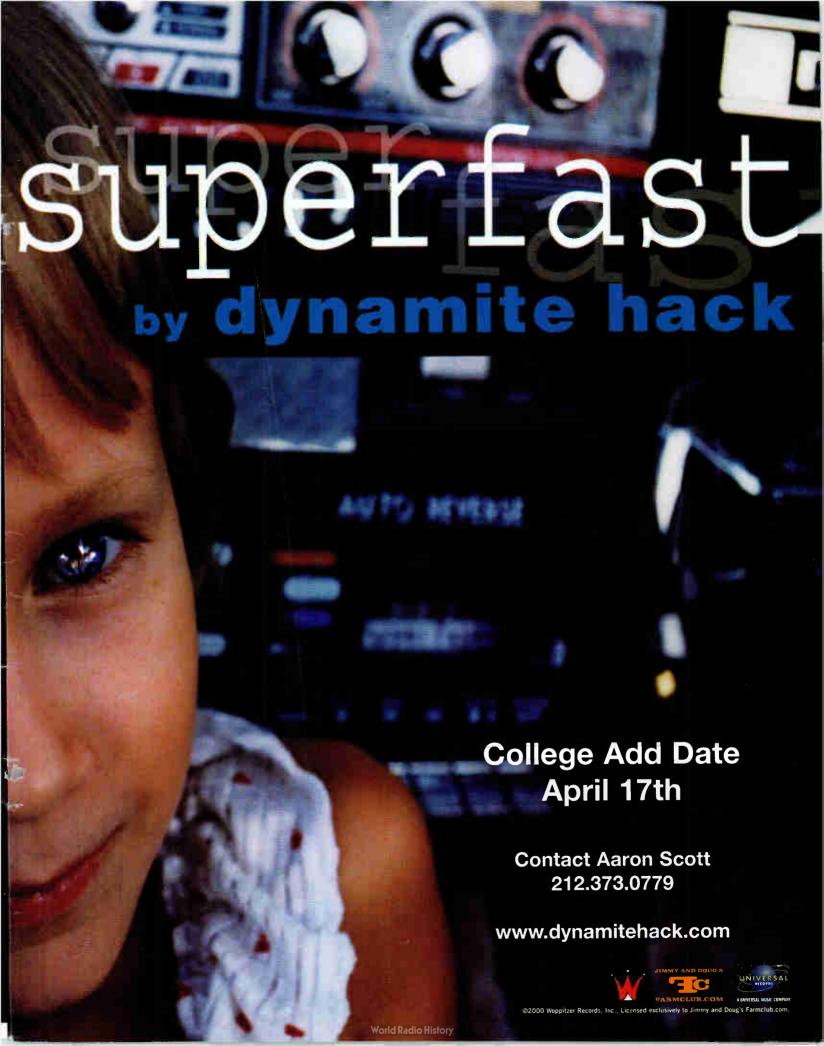

It's become a lot more sophisticated now. We've really adapted to the changes of the business and developed formulas and programs that catapult street teaming to different aspects of the business. [Now we deal with] major corporations, film companies, cosmetics, websites. We introduce original programming, like what we're doing for HBO with The Sopranos, and help brands come up with cool and creative ways to reach the youth. You see more marketing [ideas] interjected into the promotion aspect. Now you see a lot of rap vans and buses out there, a lot of moving billboards. Before, it was like you got some posters and put them up on the streets and passed out flyers. Now you have 20 or 30 people acting as a team, all in uniform, marching down the street, creating a buzz, causing an impact, delivering the messages. One thing that I've done to take it the next level is bringing to life Redman's virtual cartoon character that was on the cover of Doc's The Name for his new album coming in July. He's now a full, seven-foot tall mascot that you will see everywhere. He just did two shows at the House Of Blues with [Redman] and Method Man. And that's what the concept of the street team is - to get an impact, to inform, to persuade, and to remind people about the artist, the album, the record company, news, etc. The key to this thing is duplication. When we create these different characters and send them out on the road like the Redman mascot, it's like he was right there. That's right along the lines of what Walt Disney and Universal Studios does as far as theme parks and all that stuff. They've got the Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck. That lasts for generations. You have to start making that impact not only for our generation, but for the little kids coming up.

Is it very different to push a group like Mobb Deep than to market a more commercially-minded project like Sisqo or Montell Jordan?

You can't be afraid to go out and hang in the 'hood, to go into the weed spots and hit people off. Once those individuals gel into it and start talkin' about it, you got it. In the hood, everybody wants to have what's new and fresh. You can't wear a pair of white-onwhite Nikes for more than a week without getting dirt on them. You gotta get a new pair, you can't be seen all dingy. Keeping yourself fresh and on the cutting edge is one of the main things about youth culture. So to market groups like a Mobb Deep or an M.O.P., you definitely gotta go in the neighborhoods first, and then suburbia will catch on. Same can be said for Sisgo. You don't ever want the record to be bigger than the artist. You always want the artist to be bigger than any record they have. And that starts with the people in the 'hood. You don't wanna forget them.
