Five Largest Record Companies Settle Antitrust Case with Federal Government

The five largest music companies last week settled an antitrust case with the Federal Trade Commission (FTC). The FTC alleged that advertising deals the companies had with retailers set CD prices too high, stifled competition, and caused consumers to pay as much as $480 million more than they should have for CDs over the last three years.

Seagram-owned Universal Music and Video

Distribution, Sony Corp. of America, Time-Warner Inc., EMI Music Distribution and Bertelsmann MG — which collectively account for about 85 percent of all CDs purchased in the United States - separately agreed to discontinue for seven years all "minimum advertised price" (MAP) programs. Under MAP agreements, the record companies pay all or part of retailer advertising (Continued on page 10)

EMI Unveils Digital Downloading Plans

EMI Recorded Music last week unveiled plans for a digital downloading trial, which would make more than 100 albums and 40 associated singles available on the Internet by July I. This announcement by the third-largest record label group comes soon after similar announcements from Sony and Bertelsmann MG, which unveiled their own digital downloading strategies in April.

THE ESSENTIAL RELEASES OF THE WEEK

PEARL JAM Binaural (Epic)

Pearl Jam has been a sturdy rock institution since the release of its debut Ten in 1991, but some have wondered whether the band's golden era has passed. After years of being the voice of angst for a generation and concerning itself with authenticity over hit records, Pearl Jam seems unaffected by its battle with the corporate music machine. On Binaural, the group delivers a well-rounded work of earthy rock that effectively sheds some of the band's old skin. Despite its musical ebbs and flows. Pearl Jam's music has retained an underlying consistency over the past decade. The act's sixth album confidently vacillates between epic power rock (the thrashing "God's Dice"), slower, though no less mighty songs (the first single "Nothing As It Seems") and experimental, spacious tracks such as "Sleight Of Hand," which, along with "Parting Ways," bears the most perceptible touch of producer Tchad Blake. Surprisingly, some of Binaural's finest moments occur on its most tone-downed tracks, such as "Thin Air" and "Light Years," both of which demonstrate a combination of tunefulness and catalytic power that proves Pearl Jam is still capable of sheer brilliance while leaving the formulas that spawned its most historic work on the shelf. — Glen Sansone rapidly becoming a ubiquitous entity with the steady stream of solo releases by its members. But the moniker is really just a spoon to feed the masses some of Cuba's greatest and most legendary performers, and the flavor has been just fine. With a career stretching back to the 1950s, Omara Portuondo has been deemed (by Ry Cooder) the Edith Piaf of Cuba and the discourage of the properties.

The Buena Vista Social Club is

diversity of her musical career is reflected in the variety of styles on this stunning album. Virtually every song on this album could serve as the soundtrack to a firstdance '50s film scene set in an exotic Caribbean nightclub. Overall, it's slower and more string-oriented than the fountainhead project (although some sexy horns strut their stuff on "Donde Estabas Tu" and "No Me Llores Mas"). The BVSC crew came out en masse. Ibrahim Ferrer, Ruben Gonzales, Compay Segundo and company check in for at least a song or two, if not the whole ride. #### BILLY BRAGG & WILCO Mermaid Avenue Volume 2

(Elektra-EEG)

Mermaid Avenue Volume 2 resumes the musical and lyrical conversations that Billy Bragg and Wilco first initiated with the ghost of American folk legend Woody Guthrie on 1998's Mermaid Avenue. For that album Bragg and Wilco's Jeff Tweedy and Jay Bennett poured through a mountain of Guthrie's lyrics (provided by his daughter) and wrote new music to accompany the words. Insiders may know that Bragg, Wilco and Guthrie were never an unlikely triumvirate, but rather three principled artists sharing sharp criticisms about the worker's plight and some honest stories of love. Many of the songs on Volume 2 echo those of its predecessor, especially the romantic ballad "Someday Some Morning Sometime" and the lullaby "I Was Born," the latter of which features guest vocals by Natalie Merchant. But Volume 2 clearly takes a turn from pure folk toward a harder edge. The title of "All You Fascists," for example, is one you would expect from a lefty like Guthrie, but Wilco takes a red marker and underlines the folkie's statement with some rich American roots rock. Most importantly, Bragg and Wilco don't get in the way of the heartfelt lyrics, which remain as relevant and moving today as they did in Guthrie's time. - Enrique Lavin

QUEENS OF THE STONE AGE

R (Interscope)

R is not the album that faithful Queens Of The Stone Age fans who are known to burn copious amounts of bud and/or engage in lustful acts while listening to the band - might be expecting. But that's not to say that this record is a disappointment. Fuzz guitar hero Josh Homme, who built his reputation by erecting monumental jams with heavy rockers Kyuss (arguably the best stoner rock band ever) continues to broaden his scope while introducing some experimental chutzpah to the band's sound. Homme's guitar acrobatics keep the gearheads satisfied, and Nick Oliveri's thick bass lines and beefy, marathon jams effectively hall listeners into a trance. But Homme gives a wink and keeps listeners on their toes. He successfully employs pop-flavored enhancements, including handclaps, female vocals and bells - pieces that don't normally fit the distortion rock puzzle. Homme is the valedictorian of the stoner rock class who has done a 180 and delivered an album markedly different from QOTSA's eponymous debut. QOTSA takes the road less traveled with the quirky R, and in this genre, traversing new terrain makes all the difference. - Amy Sciarretto

MP3.com, Napster Limit Access After Legal Rulings

In the wake of recent court decisions that have found in favor of the Recording Industry Association of America (RIAA), MP3.com and Napster have taken steps to limit both their users access to copyrighted material and their own liability.

MP3.com is currently pursuing a settlement with the five major record companies since the RIAA's legal victory (issue #666). The company has already completed a licensing agreement with BMI, and recently announced that it would block access to major label recordings on its My.MP3.com streaming music service.

"While we disagree with the court's decision, we also want to demonstrate our good faith and strong desire to achieve an expeditious business resolution," MP3.com President Robin Richards said in a prepared statement. The judgment against the online music company did not require that it disable access to the music, though a court injunction to that effect was expected. "We expect to restore user access to the 'Big Five' major label groups' content if and when a settlement is reached and licenses are executed."

The groups have been negotiating a settlement for several weeks, and MP3.com CEO Michael Robertson has said he is cautiously optimistic of a settlement.

Meanwhile, Napster blocked the 317,377 user screen names that Metallica alleged were iillegally using the band's music. Metallica hired the British company NetPD to suss out the hundreds of thousands of users possessing Metallica MP3s on their hard drives, and drummer Lars Ulrich presented Napster with those names on May 3, asking that those users be banned from the service. Surprisingly, the company complied. Rapper Dr. Dre, who has filed his own suit against the company, recently hired NetPD to provide him with the same sort of information, according to ZDNet.

Users can appeal their ban, according to Napster's Web site. "Because of the methods employed by Metallica in assembling its list of usernames, it is possible that users may have been mistakenly implicated as infringing on the copyrights of songs and recordings originally included on commercially released Metallica albums," the company states on its Web site.

The distinction of commercially released Metallica albums' is an important one, since Metallica allows fans to record their live concerts. "Metallica makes no claim of copyright infringement with respect to recordings of [its] songs made by fans at Metallica concerts," read Metallica's notice to Napster.

According to Howard King, lawyer for Metallica and Dr. Dre, Napster's ban of the users will not lead the band to drop its lawsuit.

"Unfortunately, this doesn't solve the problem," King says. "And it's unfair how Naspster has tried to turn this into a battle against the fans. Having lost 90% of their legal defenses, they're going to turn this into an artists-versus-fans issue. It's disingenuous as hell."

Indeed, angry fans have already turned on the band. Its Web site has been hacked, and a cartoon depicting Metallica drummer Lars Ulrich and singer James Hetfield sitting on bags of money while threatening Napster users with jail time is now playing at the Camp Chaos Web site (www.campchaos.com/cartoons/napsterbad/).

Napster has also taken steps to ensure those banned from the service can't sign back on with a new screen name. New versions of the software can tell if a user's been blocked and will keep users from signing in with a new identity. The action responds specifically to the comments of Judge Marilyn Hall Patel, who in ruling in favor of the RIAA claimed that, "Napster has not shown that it reasonably implemented a policy for terminating repeat infringers."

Unfortunately for Napster, bulletin board posts and Web sites like the one run by Stanford Senior David Weekly (david.weekly.org), have enumerated several ways to get around the ban, including a program called "de-ban." Others may be moving to other file-sharing programs that have yet to be sued, such as Scour Exchange, iMesh, CuteMX and Gnutella. Gnutella is an unlikely choice for a lawsuit, since it has no known proprietor. It was developed by a subsidiary of America Online, but the company abandoned it. Shortly thereafter, open source proponents reverse engineered the program.

Congressional Hearing Scheduled To Study Online Music

On May 24, the House Committee on Small Businesses will hold a hearing to examined the role of small businesses in the rapidly changing online music world. The hearing is largely informational and will not result in any legislation.

"A lot of people have been saying that the 'Net would level the playing field for people putting their music online," said Dwayne Andrews, a committee spokesperson. "But if you give the music away, how are people going to make their money?"

He might be asking that very question to rapper Chuck D of Public Enemy, who will be speaking to the committee about Napster, one of the unofficial subjects of the meeting. The outspoken rapper has been an advocate for the program, describing it as a valuable promotional tool that shifts the balance of music-industry power back to music fans, after being controlled for too long by large corporations.

Mass MP3 trading has yet to have any demonstrable effect on record companies' bottom lines. Indeed, illegal pre-release trading of MP3s of songs from N'Sync's new album No Strings Attached did nothing to diminish its record-setting sales of 2.4 million during its first week of release. Yet, there is a great deal of pressure to limit programs which facilitate music swapping, for fear it will lead people to stop buying physical CDs. The recording industry made a similar argument in 1992, which led to the institution of a tax on the sale of blank CDs - meant to compensate them for potential revenue loss due to piracy. On the other side, artists complain that in most cases, the money from their CD sales never finds its way into their pockets, because of recoupable investments made by the labels in the artists' touring, studio time and marketing.

Vagrant Signs Saves The Day, Rocket From The Crypt

Continuing its growth as an underground force in pop-punk/emo music, Vagrant Records, home to such up-and-coming acts as the Get Up Kids, The Anniversary and No Motiv, has signed a geographically diverse group of bands.

The four recently inked bands are San Diego's longtime punk stalwarts Rocket From The Crypt, New Jersey's Saves The Day, Chicago's Alkaline Trio and Ohio's Koufax.

Rocket From the Crypt had been on Interscope Records before being dropped in the wake of label consolidation following its 1998 release, RFTC. The band will release its first album for Vagrant in early 2001. Saves The Day is a peppy, pop-punk five-piece with two albums on Equal Vision Records, including its most recent release, Through Being Cool. They just completed a tour with Dismemberment Plan and Hot Water Music. Alkaline Trio are a talented three-piece whose discourses on heartbreak, frustration and drinking your troubles away have won them a loyal following. The band has already released two EPs, a singles collection and an album, Maybe I'll Catch Fire for Asian Man Records. Koufax has one album out on Doghouse Records, and will join The Anniversary and Get Up Kids on a U.S. tour in September and October.

Rocket From The Cryp

Vagrant Publicity Director Kevin Kusatsu said that the label would put out a low-priced interactive compact disc of unreleased tracks from these new bands and other Vagrant artists.

other Vagrant artists.

Sony, Universal Join Forces To Create A "Jukebox In The Sky"

Sony Music Entertainment and Uni-Music Group (UMG) have announced plans to develop a subscription-based service for audio and visual content on the Internet. While exact details for what some are calling a "digital jukebox in the sky" still remain unclear at press time, but chances are it will be a combination of downloadable files and streamed content, not unlike MP3.com's new classical music subscription service. For a monthly fee of $9.99, MP3.com offers subscribers unlimited streaming access and more than 300 free downloads. Should Universal and Sony follow MP3.com's lead, the companies' combined assets will give subscribers to the digital jukebox access to over 45% of recorded music sold in the U.S.

This groundbreaking partnership between two of the five major record labels seems to come as a response to the planned merger of AOL and Time-Warner. There is fierce competition over the labels to distribute their music over the Internet in a copyright-safe way. "The music industry is constantly evolving to find new ways to reach our customer, the music fan," Sony Entertainment VP, Al Smith, said in a state-

XTC
Interview by Steve Ciabattoni

After languishing in legal label limbo for seven years, XTC is positively prolific, releasing its second album in a little more than a calendar year. The pop-rocking Wasp Star: Apple Venus Vol. 2 (Idea-TVT) resurrects XTC's chiming, electric sound where Apple Venus Vol. 1 concentrated on acoustic and orchestral tones. Chief songwriter Andy Partridge employed his stinging wit to talk with us about Wasp Star and other things we'd rather not print here.

In these quick interviews, I like to ask those Barbara Walters type questions.

Who is Barbara Walters? Wasn't she the bass player with Pink Floyd?

She's the "journalist" famous for asking celebrities questions like "if you were a tree, what kind would you be?"

[laughs] I'd be a lava-tree [lavatory]. I'd just want to see those beautiful women pissing on me every day!

Please, Andy, this is a family magazine. Musically, it's obvious that bubble-gum pop and psychedelia inspire you, but lyrically, there are all sorts of things going on: twisted fragments of folk tales, myths, children's rhymes.

To be truthful, music is only a small inspiration to making music. All of my training and expectations and all of my imagination is of the visual variety. I was going to be in the visual arts and then dreamed I was playing in front of 15,000 coked-out teenagers and woke up and I was. I kind of got into music quite by mistake. I think I got into music because I thought girls were more attracted to a guitar than a pencil. So in a sense, the albums are like the paintings.

Could these new songs on Wasp Star have been orchestrated like those on Volume 1?

No. The Wasp Star material was written when I wanted to get away from [orchestrated music] and wanted to get simpler, more direct. And what better way than to return to my first love: the electric cigar box with rubber bands on it.

Volume 1 was acoustic and orchestrated. Volume 2 is electric. So what style will you choose for a Volume 22

I suppose we'd have to stand waist-deep in gravel and yodel. Yes, the yodeling album.

ment. "The number of possibilities for this is very exciting, and we look forward to working with Universal to discover the best opportunities for consumers and our businesses."

As record companies compete with the My.Mp3.coms and Napsters of the world. the record labels must answer to consumers who, as they download and swap files for free, are saying, "What have you done for me lately?" The answer is that the labels must find an easy and attractive way for their customers to purchase their music.

Dave Goldberg, CEO of Launch.com, told CNN.com that a subscription-based service could actually save a record company money. For a monthly fee, Goldberg said, a record label could offer unlimited streaming of their music catalog and increase profits by eliminating the need to manufacture and distribute CDs.

Dead Kennedys Trade Epitaphs, Legal Niceties

Internecine warfare grips the former members of the Dead Kennedys in their ongoing court battle over royalties. Guitarist East Bay Ray, bassist Klaus Flouride and drummer D.H. Peligro have accused Jello Biafra, lead singer and sole owner of the band-founded label Alternative Tentacles since 1986, of mismanaging the group's catalog and royalties. They are seeking to remove the Dead Kennedys' catalog from the label's control and find it a new home. In turn, Biafra has filed a countersuit against Ray, claiming he mismanaged the band's business partnership, Decay Music.

East Bay Ray and the others members are arguing that Biafra, who wrote almost all of the band's lyrics, but none of the music, used proceeds from the band's music, owned and promoted by Alternative Tentacles, to fund the label and his own spoken word career. In his testimony, Peligro maintained that the Kennedys' songwriting process was collaborative, downplaying Biafra's role. "Biafra's not really a musician. He can't bring in a complete song.'

Biafra testified that it was his rabidly political lyrics that set the band apart and that his career as a spoken word artist, in addition to his high profile activities as a free-speech advocate and, most recently, as a presidential candidate, promote album sales for the band. Biafra testified the band is just upset he wouldn't license "Holiday In Cambodia" for a Levi's Dockers commercials, saying "I thought it would be a very bad move for the long-term reputation of the band. Our whole stance was very anti-corporate."

The other side's lawyer dismissed that claim, and says the real culprit was the label's decision to increase the wholesale cost of the albums without increasing the royalty payouts to band members. Regarding the 1998 discovery of discrepancies in royalties paid to the band for Dead Kennedys records sales, Biafra testified that he felt a "moral obligation" to pay the difference to his ex-bandmates but was prevented from doing so by the ongoing lawsuit and attorneys' orders for the band members to refrain from communicating with one another.

Notable for their scathing social commentary, the Dead Kennedys were one of the leading lights of the American hardcore movement, releasing four full-length albums featuring many humorous, memorable songs such as "Kill The Poor," "Well-Paid Mechanic," "California Uber Alles," and "MTV Get Off The Air."

Patching Up The Clash?

A tribute concert to be held in London for the late musician Ian Dury is rumored to be the venue for a possible reunion of the original members of The Clash, ending their 16-year separation.

The concert will raise money for the charity Cancer BACUP, for which Dury was a spokesperson until his death from cancer in March. It will be held on at London's Brixton Academy. Dury's old band, the Blockheads are set to headline. They will be joined by Neneh Cherry, Republica singer Saffron, Wreckless Eric, Robbie Williams and members of Madness.

A representative from Epic, The Clash's label, said that while three of the former members of The Clash - Mick Jones, Topper Headon, and Joe Strummer are scheduled to appear separately, there has been no confirmation whether they will play together. "These rumors seem to pop up periodically," the U.K. label rep told CMJ. New Music Express reported a spokesperson for the event said that the trio had no plans to perform together but that "nothing has been ruled out." At present, Paul Simonon, the fourth member, is not scheduled to appear.

The classic version of the band imploded in 1983 shortly after the successful release of Combat Rock. The band released another album, Cut The Crap, with Strummer, Simonon and three unknowns, after firing Jones and Headon, but it was universally panned. The group broke up the next year, in 1986.

Anti-Heroes Sue New Line Cinema

Atlanta-based street punk band, the Anti-Heroes are suing New Line Cinema for the unauthorized use of the band's logo and name in the movie American History X. in which Ed Norton starred as a reformed white supremacist. According to the band's lead singer, Mark Noah, the band was approached by New Line and asked if the act's posters, logo, name and music could be used as set dressing for one of the movie's characters.

"We said, 'Sorry, you can't. We're not interested in being a part of that,' because we've always been the antithesis of that whole side of the music subculture," Noah told CMJ. "They did it anyway so we sued them. They either accidentally or intentionally left the logo and the band's name tattooed on this guy's arm who murders people and exhibits all this racist behavior."

The band originally filed an injunction when the movie was first released to theaters, requesting that all references to the band be expunged from the movie. The studio didn't comply, claiming that it would be too expensive. Home video versions of the movie, however, contain no references to the band - a move Noah calls "A tacit admission of guilt." Representatives from New Line did not return calls for this story.

Meanwhile, the legal wrangling continues. "It just drags on and on. They're now going to sue us for bringing frivolous litigation. It's an enormous pain in the ass," continues Noah. "We started getting hundreds of phone calls and threatening letters and e-mails. The other negative is that whenever anybody calls us to do press, that's all they want to talk about - this stupid lawsuit. And the hand's got a lot more going on than that."

"We'll probably all end up being stepped on by this 800-lb. gorilla, and end up having to shoot ourselves to avoid paying them every cent we've ever made in our life," joked Noah. Fans can see the band this summer at Atlanta's Beer Olympics over the Fourth of July weekend.

The band was founded by Noah with guitarist Joe Winograd (who went on to play guitar in Dolly Parton's backing band) in 1984 and has been a staple of the American Oi! scene ever since. The band just finished a tour with Agnostic Front supporting the group's last album, Underneath The Underground on GMM Records (www.gmmrecords.com), and will begin recording its fifth album this summer. Both of their last two albums have charted on CMJ, selling between 10,000 and 30,000 copies.

Beastie Boys Slapped With Suit

The Beastie Boys were slapped with a $150,000 lawsuit for a sample of renowned flautist James W. Newton used on the band's 1992 release Check Your Head.

Newton alleges that a six-second flute sample from his 1982 composi-"Choir" was used without his permission on the Beasties' song "Pass The Mic." The suit states that the Beastie Boys were granted permission to use the sample from ECM Records, the label that released Newton's Axum album, which contained "Choir," but Newton claims he owned the publishing rights to

Among the parties named in the suit are Capitol Records, Grand Royal Records, Brooklyn Dust Music and Mario Caldato, producer of Check Your Head.

The Promise Ring Forced To Cancel European Tour

The Promise Ring was forced to cancel its European tour due to singer/guitarist Davey von Bohlen's health. According to a statement released by the band, von Bohlen had been suffering from migraine headaches for a year before a neurologist finally suggested he get an MRI. Results of the test revealed a fist-sized but benign tumor growing in the outer covering of his brain. Surgery to remove the tumor was performed in a Milwaukee hospital on May 8. Prognosis for von Bohlen's complete recovery is good.

The band plans to reschedule the cancelled European dates, but they'll be taking most of the summer off to let von Bohlen recuperate.

Black Crowes Replace Bassist, Release Single

With a month remaining before hitting the road with Jimmy Page for a summer tour, the Black Crowes have fired bassist Sven Pipien and replaced him with Greg Rzab.

While no official reason has been given for Pipien's dismissal, a statement on band's official Web site (www. theblackcrowes.com) says it was the result of "a series of recent developments."

In 1997, Pipien replaced Johnny Colt and held down the bottom end on the Crowes' 1999 release By Your Side (Columbia-CRG) as well as the Internet-only Live At The Greek album that featured Page and paved the way for this summer's tour.

Greg Rzab is an experienced bluesman

Tarantino To Direct New N.W.A Video

Quentin Tarantino is about to "get medieval" on the members of the newly reconstituted N.W.A. The rappers have recruited the writer/director of Reservoir Dogs, Pulp Fiction and Jackie Brown to direct the video for group's first single, "Chin Check," which was featured on the soundtrack to Ice Cube's latest film, Next Friday. The video will be the first in more than ten years for the group. The 21st century version of N.W.A features original members Dr. Dre, MC Ren and Ice Cube, along with Snoop Dogg, who will be replacing the late Eazy-E, who died in 1995 of complications due to AIDS. N.W.A is currently gearing up for the Up In Smoke Tour, scheduled to kick off on June 15 in San Diego.

Stipe Speaks Out On Slaughter

When not 📆 recording with R.E.M, singer Michael Stipe is continuing to cultivate his interests in movies and documentaries. He has recorded the narration for A Massacre Remembered, a short documentary that focuses on the slaughter of 250 members of the Guatemalan Maya Achi tribe by the country's civil police force in 1982. The film was produced by Witness (www.witness.org), an international human rights group founded by Peter Gabriel that works with human rights organizations throughout the world, training them in video production and investigative techniques.

This is not Stipe's first foray into voiceover work. He most recently read the part of Schnitzel in Fox TV's animated Christmas special, Olive, The Other Reindeer.

Chrysalis Reports Mid-Year Gains

Chrysalis Group plc, a U.K.-based media company with radio, music, book, catalog and TV production divisions, reported sales of $122.9 million for the six month period that ended on February 29, up 28% from the same period the previous year. The group had also registered its first pre-tax profit since 1995, coming in at $301,000. Earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization rose 87% to $3.9 million, while sales for the music division were up 27% to $25.8 million.

In its report to shareholders, the company said that it will start a new electronic picture library and expand its media sales unit to handle online sales for third parties. It also announced several online joint ventures including two music and culture Web sites and a local information site called Citipages (www.citipages.co.uk).

The group owns and operates seven radio stations in the U.K. under the Heart and Galaxy brands, and they are all accessible online. Chrysalis Radio is currently the U.K.'s largest regional radio group, cover-

ARTISTdirect Announces Q1 Results

ARTISTdirect, the Los Angeles-based firm that maintains Internet music sites for recording artists, reported a net loss for the first quarter ending March 31 of $11.2 million, or a loss of 39 cents per share, compared to a net loss of $2.7 million in the year ago quarter.

The company saw net revenues of $4.5 million, up 165% from revenues of $1.7 million in the first quarter of last year. Online revenues from the ARTISTdirect Network were $3.8 million, up 173% from revenues of $1.4 million in the same quarter of 1999. Online revenues represented 85% of total revenues, up from 82% a year ago.

In the report, the company also further fleshed out details of a rescission offer it will make because it over-issued options to the artists for whom it maintains Web sites. The company's final prospectus filed with the SEC before its March 27 IPO stated that the maximum potential liability for the rescission offer is $33 million. "However, the net economic effect of the rescission offer to the company is much less," the company said in a statement.

Shareholders who have already exercised their options will receive an amount equal to the sum of their option price, plus 10% interest.

For those still holding options, ARTISTdirect will pay 20% of the exercise price, plus interest. Based on the number of unexercised options, the total out-of-pocket expense to the company will likely be less than originally anticipated. Therefore the company expects the maximum out-of-pocket cost for the rescission offer to be about $8 million.

The company is not sure if it will begin the rescission offer this quarter or the next, said Jim Carroll, CFO for ARTISTdirect.

costs for their CDs. In return, the retailers would agree to advertise the CDs at the manufacturers' suggested price. By signing the consent decree last week, the labels were settling with the government and did not admit to any legal wrongdoing.

In a press conference following the settlements, FTC chairman Robert Pitofsky said this practice originated in the early '90s as discount and electronics stores slashed CD prices to attract customers. More traditional retailers started to cut prices too, leading to a "price war," the FTC contended.

Chairman Pitofsky said that FTC did not have a problem with the initial agreements requiring record-company sponsored ads to show their minimum price, but the commission's opinion changed when tougher arrangements began to appear around 1996. These prohibited retailers from advertising lower than-MAP CD prices even in ads and promotional material the retailers paid for themselves, an arrangement Pitofsky said at least one industry executive referred to as "MAP with teeth".

"The FTC alleges these MAP policies achieved their unlawful objective. The 'price war' ended shortly after the policies were adopted and the retail price of CDs increased. The distributors then increased their own prices, and since 1997, wholesale prices for music have increased," the FTC said in a statement.

The Commission said that retailers who violated the agreement were subject to a 60-90-day suspension of MAP funds. "For chains, MAP money equaled hundreds of thousands of dollars," Pitofsky said.

After the settlement, BMG stated "After months of carefully considering our options, BMG concluded that rather than engage in prolonged litigation with the government, the best solution for resolving the FTC's MAP investigation was to sign a consent decree, which does not admit any wrongdoing."

Warner Music Group echoed those sentiments. "We believe MAP serves a valid business purpose for our customers and the consumer and is an appropriate and lawful practice. However, the FTC has made it clear that is disagreed with our view. Rather than risk having the focus of our business personnel being distracted by this matter, we made a business decision to resolve it," a company statement said.

"Also, given the number of other issues we have pending that require regulatory approval, it was not worth it for us to have the matter continuing," the Warner release continued. In particular, Time-Warner's merger with America Online is scheduled to close in the fall. Additionally, in January, Warner Music announced that it would merge with EMI's music division. Representatives from Universal declined to comment on the settlement.

artists such as Snoop Dogg, D'Angelo, Pink Floyd, the Beatles, the Beastie Boys and the Spice Girls.

The company will begin by offering downloads to consumers in North America starting in July and will expand the offering to the rest of the world later in the year. EMI has named neither the retailers it will sell its digital recordings through, nor the digital service providers who will facilitate this, but will have such details more fleshed out in the weeks ahead, an EMI spokesperson said.

This move is the work of Jay Samit, senior vice president for new media, who has been spearheading the firm's digital strategy, the spokesperson said. "Since he came aboard, we have made it one of our focuses to get into the digital arena."

In the past year, the firm has stepped into the new media space by inking deals with Musicmaker, Digital On-Demand, Liquid Audio, Sanity.com, SuperTracks, Urocket, Listen.com, RadioWave, LAUNCH Media, Entertainment Boulevard/Vidnet, Preview Systems, On-Line Entertainment Network, Discover Music and Microsoft.

Though EMI is starting out with a small number of albums and singles – all released in the past 15 months - it plans to increase that number with regular releases of back-catalog items, and eventually wants to make digital downloading a standard release format for new albums, he spokesperson said.

The downloads will initially be available only as Microsoft Windows Media files. Customers will be able to use the recordings on home computers, burn CDs and also transfer copies to portable listening devices. EMI will allow up to two re-installs of the downloads to cope with possible technical problems, such as hard-drive crashes.

1998's Prolonging The Magic which spawned "Satan Is My Motor" and "Never There." After fulfilling the three-album term of their contract with Capricorn, Cake chose not to re-sign with the label.

The band is in the early stages of recording its first record for Columbia, according to Bonnie Simmons, Cake's manager. No release date for the album has been set.

1997 and So Far... The Best Of Sinéad O'Connor the same year. Three years later, the artist, who is the mother of two children, will make her Atlantic Records debut on June 13 with the release of the 13-song Faith And Courage.

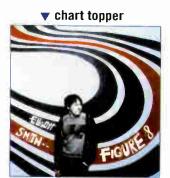

The album's first single, the self-descriptive "No Man's Woman," shows

O'Connor easing away from the delicate and lilting style of Gospel Oak and embracing a more modern, rhythmically pronounced sound. The single, co-written by Ednaswap's Anne Preven and Scott Cutler, was also produced by Culter and Preven, along with famed mixman Andy Wallace, who produced Run-D.M.C and Aerosmith's "Walk This Way" and Jeff Buckley's Grace, among many others. The album also features production/ songwriting contributions by Dave Stewart, Brian Eno, Adrian Sherwood, Skip McDonald and Wyclef Jean. "No Man's Woman" has been shipped to radio, with strong early response coming in from Triple A formats and Modern AC. Anthony Delia, National Manager of College & Metal Promotions for Atlantic is enthusiastic about reintroducing O'Connor to college radio, which was responsible for helping launch her career. "Personally, I'm excited to be working an artist like this," he told CMJ. "So many people have either been offended by her or have noticed her for whatever reason and care about her and what she's doing, so it's kind of exciting for me to be working with her." The record will be shipped to college radio stations, and will go for radio ads on June 20. "I don't really focus too hard on any tracks, when people ask what I like, I usually give them a few tracks to listen to. But this could be her biggest record since [I Do Not Want What...]," Delia added.

Following the album's release, O'Connor will be making television appearances on Late Nite With David Letterman, The Howard Stern Show and The Rosie O'Donnell Show.

CHARTACTIVIT

SONIC YOUTH Radio 200: 103-12 Core Radio: #24 debut Radio 200 Adds: #1

At this point in time, at least as far as college radio goes, anything that Sonic Youth releases is gold. Thus, it's no surprise that NYC Ghosts & Flowers (Geffen-Interscope) sits atop the most added tally this week, with a staggering 162 stations adding the album into rotation. A return in many ways to the New York band's groundbreaking, avant-garde roots, NYC Ghosts springs up 91 positions on the Radio 200 and lands at #24 on the Core chart. Lending the album more merit, and with any luck, extra staying power, is the presence of Jim O'Rourke sitting in as co-producer with the band. Apparently the theft of the group's customized instruments last year did nothing to impede the crew's creative growth.

BILLY BRAGG & WILCO

Radio 200: 77-5 Core Radio: #12 debut Triple A: #6 debut

Considering the fact that in 1998, when the first Mermaid Avenue album (Elektra-EEG) was released, not a single bad word was said about it, and that the album went on to top the CMJ Radio 200 chart, as well as enjoy a healthy amount of praise from the Village Voice's annual Pazz & Jop critic's poll, it follows that the second collection of Woody Guthrie lyrics made into songs by Wilco and Billy Bragg would enjoy the same sort of reaction. Already at #5 in its second week on the Radio 200 chart, the album ups the ante by debuting high on both Triple A and Core this week. Look for this impressive, inspired collaborative effort to pull a no-holdsbarred fight for the top spot.

REVIEWS

VAS In The Garden Of Souls (Narada)

Connecting the post-modern aesthetics of artists such as Dead Can Dance and the ancient hues of traditional Middle Eastern music, Vas's In The Garden Of Souls is a soothing collage of cultures. The album's combination of lush vocals and organic instrumentation lulls the ears like lullabies and arouses the soul like hymns. Azam Ali is the mystical chanteuse of the duo, her divine chords cascading above the wash of moaning cellos, tapping tablas, shimmering cymbals and skipping strings as effortlessly as bubbles ebb and flow with the tide. A comforting and consuming energy shrouds the release, peaking with the percussion-less "Unbecome," where the simple, yet dramatic duet between Cameron Stone's cello serenade and Ali's angelic cries exudes as much genuine passion and sentiment as the most reverent of Gregorian chants. - M. Tye Comer

For Fans Of: Dead Can Dance, Ofra Haza, Peter Gabriel's Passion Recommended Tracks: "Ephemere," "Unbecome," "Ceremony Of Passage" Contact: Lisa Samper Phone: 414.961.8350 Email: samperL@narada.com Release Date: May 9; at radio now

DAVID S. WARE Surrendered (Columbia-CRG)

For nearly four decades, David S. Ware has persevered as one of the leading hard men in modern jazz. The follow-up to his 1998 Columbia debut "Go See The World" finds the tenor giant exploring the outer reaches of modality and harmony. There are no true death-bop ear bleeders on Surrendered, but this six-track manifesto finds Ware, along with longtime collaborators pianist Matthew Shipp and bassist William Parker and new drummer Guillermo E. Brown, working beautiful melodies and a lyrical approach into the explosive inventiveness of their roots in the gospels of John Coltrane and Cecil Taylor. Interstellar moments on Surrendered include a brilliant reworking of Charles Lloyd's "Sweet Georgia Bright," and a version of Ware's epic 1977 duo jam with Beaver Harris, "African Drums." - Ron Hart

For Fans Of: William Parker/In Order To Survive, Archie Shepp, Matthew Shipp Quartet Recommended Tracks: "Peace Celestial," "Glorified Calypso," "African Drums" Contact: Coast To Coast Phone: 415,945.0129 Email: bchampion5@aol.com Release Date: May 23; at radio now Marketing Data: Surrendered features informative liner notes by Rolling Stone editor David Fricke; touring this year.

KOKO TAYLOR (Alligator)

Koko Taylor is the woman who told the world about the "Wang Dang Doodle," son. Born in Memphis, influenced by Big Mama Thornton, Bessie Smith and Howlin' Wolf, she hit the Windy City in the '50s and eventually signed with Chess Records and recorded under the direction of Willie Dixon. While modern electrified blues is her milieu now, that pedigree shines through in every line she sings. Here, songs such as "Save Your Breath" and "Blues Hotel" (featuring B.B. King) rock in tried and true fashion, but slower tracks such as "The Man Next Door" (a hot acoustic duet with Keb Mo') and Ray Charles's "But On The Other Hand" pack a stronger emotional punch. The pipes may be all of 65 years old, but the Queen of Chicago Blues can still rip it up like nobody else. - Jem Aswad

CALIBOS Calibos (Arlingtone)

Arlington, Virginia, space rock combo Calibos formed when self-taught drummer Nikhil Ranade picked up the drum sticks and assumed rhythmic duties during customary jam sessions held between guitarists Andy Fogle and Jeffrey McKinney, who were his former roommates. Performing at their first live gig in the summer of '98, Calibos has quickly blossomed into an arresting rock outfit behind the steadfast skins of Ranade. On the band's selftitled debut effort, the trio has effectively constructed nine deeply textured, mood-inducing songs uniformly reinforced by rock-solid walls of opaque, atmospheric guitar and driving percussion. Calibos's languid moodscapes perfectly frame the spacious wordplay of Fogle ("I'll be on the other side of blue azul-hazed mountain sky"). Definitely for fans of floating, fuzz-guitar rock. - Bill Konig

JOHNNY CASH

JOHNNY CASH Love, God, Murder (Sony Legacy)

This deluxe box set isn't the bombshell it is thanks to rarities in its track listing. What makes it extraordinary is that it is a portrait of Cash's career as Cash himself sees it. The Man In Black personally selected the songs for each of the three discs, grouped thematically by the topical triumvirate of Cash's life and music: good, evil, and spirituality. He also speaks up in the set's liner notes. Though each disc features an essay written by an appropriate celeb - Quentin Tarantino on Murder, where he refers to Cash's criminal songs as documents of "hillbilly thug life"; Bono on God, in which he draws a comparison between Moses and Cash; and Cash's wife, June Carter Cash, on Love, where she speaks of their destined relationship — Cash's brief reminiscences resonate in a way that dwarfs the guest commentary. Outsiders can only nip at the edges of the meaning of Cash's oeuvre; the Man himself is a colossal presence, even on paper, and his words of truth and wisdom about his life's work make Love, God, Murder an essential addition to any fan's collection. — Cheryl Botchick

NEWS Mo Wax labelhead James Lavelle has retired his Unkle project for the time being, according to Nme.com. Lavelle, whose musical partnership with California's DJ Shadow resulted in the acclaimed 1998 album Psyence Fiction (Mo Wax-London), says he is putting the collaborative project on the shelf to concentrate on his label and to return to Dling. Lavelle said that the last two years had been "horrific" after Mo Wax's parent company in the U.K., A&M, was folded in the Universal merger, and that he had considered killing the imprint altogether. "I had built the label up from nothing," he told NME, "[and] it didn't seem the right way for it to go. So I decided to keep going and hopefully you just learn from the experience, channel it and become a lot stronger in future." Lavelle currently holds a residency at the London club Fabric and has recorded a soundtrack for the new film by Jonathan Glazer, director of Unkle's "Rabbit In Your Headlights" video. Lavelle is also finishing work on an album by a new band called South, which will be released on Mo Wax. South's music is reportedly rock-based with dance influences...On Wednesday May 10, Toronto's City Council voted to ban dancemusic events in the city despite heavy protest from the local dance music (Continued on page 35)

VARIOUS ARTISTS Phat Global #1 (Palm Pictures)

The uniting of world music instrumentation with the soulful sway of trip-hop, the stony pulse of dub and the mechanized thump of electronic dance may not be an entirely new concept, but the mad scientists gathered on this comp concoct their musical potions with an unusually intense potency. Ranging from the bottom-heavy, earthy pounce of Indian Ropeman to the drowsy Arabic soul of Cheb Mami to the swift dub-reggae undertow of Sly & Robbie, this first in a four-disc series collects songs from a dozen acts whose musical hybrids enhance, rather than dilute, the diverse flavors in the mix.

SLICKER Remixes (EP) (Hefty)

Confidence In Duber, the 1998 debut by Slicker (a.k.a. Hefty Records labelhead John Hughes), was a relatively gentle and organic fusion of random sounds and spliced up instrumental and vocal tracks. On this six-track remix EP, the artistic concept is pushed one disjointed step to the left by a crew of producers who contort material from the album into a robotic scrabble of skidding breakbeats, psychedelic noise and, occasionally, sheer hypnotic, space-age bliss.

WORKHORSE MOVEMENT Sons Of The Pioneers (Roadrunner)

The Workhorse Movement is Detroit's answer to Washington, D.C. darlings Clutch. One listen to the unholy matrimony of fuzzed out guitars and funkafied beats on the ballistic "Livin' Evil" will surely attest to that fact. But the Motor City fivesome injects its groovy, Sabbath-worshipping riffage with some down home soul. Vocalists MC Myron and Cornbread bounce off one another with so much energy, you'll feel compelled to offer them a dose of Ritalin. The Workhorse Movement comes hurtling out of Detroit Rock City with the force of an atomic bomb. It will destroy, conquer, and pillage everything in a 100-mile radius.

ALICE COOPER Brutal Planet (Spitfire)

Alice Cooper is a heavy metal institution. His horror-house performances and scare-the-pants-off-mom-and-dad look paved the way for Marilyn Manson and a host of other shock-metal wannabes. The Coop's latest offering, Brutal Planet, is a welcome reminder of his unwaning power. School's out for summer, but this album, fleshed out by some thoroughly chunky riffs, should have no problem finding a home on commercial specialty playlists.

For Fans Of: Marilyn Manson, Black Sabbath, Dio Recommended Tracks: "Brutal Planet," "Blow Me A Kiss," "Eat Some More"

VADER Litany (Metal Blade)

Here's something you don't hear every day: Polish death metal. Litany hits like a stream of Evander Holyfield punches to the groin. The album leaves no room for rest, with riffs that travel faster than a submarine rocket and colossal blast beats and double bass drumming that will make your ears bleed. Caution — this is for serious headbangers only.

When A Perfect Circle and Nine Inch Nails performed at Madison Square Garden, it was a cathartic, almost religious experience. APC, lead by Tool's fascinating frontman Maynard James Keenan, performed songs from its debut Mer De Noms. Keenan, who usually strips down to boxers when performing with Tool, wore glow-in-the-dark pants and a flowing brown wig. His mellifluous voice filled MSG (the arena, not that stuff they put in Chinese food) and he was backed by a stellar light show. Of course, Trent Reznor was not to be upstaged. He gave one of his most riveting performances ever, and his voice was totally on-point. The set list for the "Fragility Version 2.0" tour is primarily comprised of NIN staples such as "Head Like A Hole," "Closer," "Minion," "Terrible Lie," "March Of The Pigs" and "Piggy." The events of the first encore will probably evolve into a piece of rock history: Right before strapping on his guitar and blasting through "Starfuckers, Inc.," Mr. Reznor announced, "This is a song about my friend." During the breakdown of the song, when he sang "You're so vain/ You probably think this song is about you/ Don't you/ Don't you" none other than exiled Reznor protogee, the Antichrist (Continued on page 35)

NEWS This year's W.C. Handy Awards ceremony for blues and roots rock-influenced performers will be broadcast live for the first time in its 2I-year history. The House Of Blues Web site (www.hob.com) will cybercast the show live from Memphis on May 25 at 7:30 p.m. Central. PBS will broadcast some festival events in a 90-minute show sometime later this year. Performers include Wilson Pickett, Gov't Mule, Anson Funderburgh, Ruth Brown and Odetta. The Handy Awards are named in honor of W.C. Handy, who is known as the Father of the Blues. Other Handy Awards events over the Memorial Day weekend include a blues symposium with workshops and panel discussions...A man previously arrested for stalking singer Linda Ronstadt has been picked up again on the same charge in Sun City, Arizona. He was apprehended after police were tipped off that he'd be attending Ronstadt's performance during a taping of Garrison Keilor's NPR variety show, A Prairie Home Companion, at the Sundome. When police found the man in the parking lot he was dressed in a white tuxedo and had packages, letters and flowers for the singer in his car. #### VIGILANTES OF LOVE

Audible Sigh (Compass)

The Vigilantes Of Love have been an alt-rock mainstay since debuting in 1992. Armed with impassioned, earthy vocals á la Bruce Cockburn, main songwriter Bill Mallonee has led this Athens, Georgia, band through six previous albums (and almost as many labels), but Audible Sigh is the band's finest opus to date. Mallonee's probing, provocative lyrics and countrified rocker idealism are the group's driving force. This album is packed with consistently great songs such as "Goes Without Saying," which contains both a hopping melody and a challenging idea about inviting failure. Production by Steve Earle and contributions from Emmylou Harris and Julie Miller also aid in making this one of the best country-rock albums of 2000.

For Fans Of: Bruce Cockburn, Bob Dylan, Steve Earle Recommended Tracks: "Goes Without Saying," "Nothing Like A Train." "She Walks On Roses"

FRANCINE 1013 (EP) (Q Division)

Francine's background ranges from Clayton Scoble's hard-hitting pop roots as part of the band Poundcake to Steve Scully's artful contributions to Merrie Amsterburg's brilliant Season Of Rain. The result here is a collection of five skillfully crafted and beautifully executed pop gems in the spirit of Pavement with Wings-like pop sensibilities.

BAP KENNEDY Lonely Street (Dressed To Kill)

Bap Kennedy's previous album Domestic Blues had a hard-drinking country edge to it, but with Lonely Street, his greater concern is skillfully creating quality, hip songs. Lonely sounds influenced by Hank Williams-style honky-tonk, but the sexy cool of Chris Isaac and breathy phrasing of Don Henley can also be heard as influences.

For Fans Of: Hank Williams, Chris Isaak, Don Henley Recommended Tracks: "Be Careful What You Wish For." "Good Time On Franklin Road," "Elvis, Hank & Me"

JIMMY MCGRIFF McGriff's House Party (Milestone)

This album is a what-you-see-is-what-you-get kind of affair. One of the jazz organ greats, Jimmy McGriff throws a party of monumental proportion with plenty of guests making the scene. Fellow organist Dr. Lonnie Smith, guitarist Rodney Jones, drummer Bernard Purdie and saxophonist Eric Alexander all make appearances to revel in the greasy, deep funk provided by the host. McGriff's playing has lost none of its groove-laden chitlin' circuit soul, once again providing the perfect hybrid of jazz, gospel and funk. The tunes are a mix of covers and songs the guests brought in for the session, but they've all been remade by McGriff into classic organ jazz.

RAVI COLTRANE

From The Round Box (RCA Victor)

In 1998, much was made of Ravi Coltrane, son of John and Alice, when he made his debut as a leader: not only did he have the audacity to play tenor and soprano sax, he had the goods to put out a darn good album called Moving Pictures. A fine follow-up, From The Round Box features some smart modern-day bop times written by Ravi and a few written by his dad's colleagues. More lush and delicate sounding than his debut, From The Round Box features support from trumpeter Ralph Alessi, pianist Geri Allen and others.

For Fans Of: Branford Marsalis, Geri Allen, Wayne Shorter Recommended Tracks: "Cnartreuse Mean," "Blues A La Carte," "Monk's Mood"

MARVIN PONTIAC

The Best Of (Strange & Beautiful)

Marvin Pontiac is the blues singer alter ego of saxophonist John Lurie. Featuring an all-star cast of downtown notables, this faux-greatest hits album has a soulful blues sensibility that belies the project's New York City roots. This is Lurie getting down and mischievous with stellar results.

For Fans Of: Olu Dara, John Lurie, Tom Waits Recommended Tracks: "I'm A Doggy," "Runnin' Round," "Wanna Wanna"

Curated by music critic/producer/musician John Corbett, the series will bring to light rare free-jazz gems, unreleased studio and live tapes, and shows recorded for radio. Corbett's emphasis for the series will be to reissue seminal early work by saxophonist Joe McPhee. Another priority will be to release material by Fred Anderson that bridges the gap between his '60s work and his rediscovery in the '90s. The series will also issue works by NRG Ensemble founder Hal Russell, who passed away in 1992. Frequent collaborator Mars Williamson will help dig through Russell's personal collection of tapes to uncover what promises to be some real gems. Released on May 9, Fred Anderson Quartet's Milwaukee Tapes Vol. 1 was reviewed in CMJ #666's Other Dimensions column. The other three discs released were Peter Brötzmann Sextet/Quartet's Nipples, Joe McPhee's Nation Time and Mount Everest Trio's Waves For Albert Ayler.

NEWS

Ice Cube is a man with more on his plate in 2000 than Rikishi Phatu on his third round at the Old Country Buffet. In addition to the much-anticipated

Up In Smoke Tour with Dr. Dre, Eminem, Snoop Dogg and the recently added Eastsidaz, the self-proclaimed "Nigga You Love to Hate" has been tapped to portray the infamous post-WWII pimp Robert "Iceberg Slim" Beck in an upcoming bio-pic on the Harlem hustler. The film, which will be based on Beck's 1969 autobiography Pimp: The Story Of My Life, is scheduled to begin shooting in the fall after Cube wraps up his work on John Carpenter's forthcoming sci-fi epic Ghost Of Mars this summer with Courtney Love. Slated to direct the as-yet-untitled Iceberg Slim film will be Bill Duke, best known for his work both behind the camera on flicks such as A Rage In Harlem and Hoodlum and as an actor co-starring in such indelible screen gems as Car Wash, Predator and Menace II Society. In addition, the Iceman has also landed a deal with HBO to develop a series centered on the hip-hop ward of the music industry to be called Be Careful What You Wish For. No release dates for either the film or the TV show have been announced...Due out this August is the second volume of DJ (Continued on page 39) Muggs' Soul Assassins project. #### CALI AGENTS How The West Was One (Ground Control-Nu Gruv Alliance)

Two of the Bay Area's fiercest lyrical dart-spitters unite to form a more perfect hip-hop union on their debut as the Cali Agents with 56-plus minutes of remorseless MC roasting boasts rhyme patterns straight from the passages of a Class of '87 yearbook, woofer-blasting drum snaps and jagged asphalt grooves manifested by such beatminers as Hispanic of the Mole Men, Lootpacker Madlib, M-Boogie Paul Nice and Protest. How The West Was One has all the makings of a bonafide underground classic. Witness how Planet Asia and Rasco slipstream their flows on tracks such as "Crash The Boards" and "The Good Life." In time, this album will be to 'Frisco what Main Source's Breaking Atoms is to Queens. Just don't wait eight years before you realize what you're missing.

PUERTO ROCK

"Bangout" (12") (Epic)

After making a tidal splash in the streets on the third volume of Tony Touch's 50 Freestyles mix tape series and teaching the whole world to say "whassup!" after the Budweiser "True" ad campaign, this Bronx MC officially hits primetime on this roughneck rumba from his forthcoming debut joint. Equally dope is the block-rockin' B-side "Knockin' In The Projects." True, true.

CARLOS NÚÑEZ Os Amores Libres (RCA Victor)

The ambitious approach of this album by the frequent Chieftains collaborator Carlos Núñez is surprisingly simple: each track pairs his Galican pipes and flutes (not to be confused with Gaelic, although the two are similar) with various other musical collaborators to create a diverse yet unified listening experience. For this album Núñez worked with nearly 100 musicians in 10 countries including Derek Bell, Mike Scott, Jackson Browne, the Chieftains and others. Núñez also explores the links between the Galican tradition and Andalusian strains of flamenco and gypsy music.

After 16 years in business, respected world music label Music Of The World has been sold to EMusic.com for an undisclosed amount of money. One of the leading sellers of downloadable music, EMusic purchased the catalog of more than 80 albums, converting them to 850 downloadable MP3 files. Featuring such artists as Hassan Hakmoun, Shankar, Badal Roy, Beau Soleil and Nana Vasconcelos, the catalog will available for re-release to other labels...Hannibal Records has announced an interesting new project from Cuban all-stars ¡Cubanismo! entitled Mardi Gras Mambo. Here the Cubans reinterpret 12 classic New Orleans songs using the their signatory Afro-Cuban rhythms. The band spent 10 days in the Big Easy recording the album with members of Yockamo All-stars, drummer Herlin Riley (Wynton Marsalis), jazz saxophonist Donald Harrison, Clarence Johnson III, John Boutte and Tim Green. A perfect mix of the rollicking rhythms of Cuba mixed with the frolicking themes of the Crescent City, this is an idea who's time is long overdue. The album will be available on August 22...Following up the release of their new RAS album, Jericho, reggae legends Israel Vibration will be doing a handful of shows in the U.S. The band will be in California for shows in Temecula on May 27, Los Angeles on May 28 and Santa Barbara on May 29. The band will then head east to perform in New York on May 31 and Washington, D.C. on June 2. In other RAS news, Chilean reggae group Gondwana's second album will be out July 28. Alabanzas is the band's follow up to Together. The band will also be making select US appearances this summer. No dates have been announced, but the band will appear at the Reggae On The River Festival. And finally, the label is working on "a respectful" compilation of the late Dennis Brown's best work in Flabba Holt's Leggo Studio. May Your Food Basket Never Empty will feature such classics as "Same Song" and "Just Another Girl."... There has been a huge resurgence of interest in the work of Afrobeat legend Fela Kuti. Kuti's shows were spectacles of color, energy and music that featured as many as 30 performers. Helping to keep Kuti's memory alive, Shanchie is issuing an hour-long Kuti concert on DVD. The Spanish Society of Authors, Composers and Publishers (SGAE) is bringing two Spanish alternative music heroes to headline a four-city

North American conference called Rock en N (www.rocksgae.com) from July 9-16. SGAE protects the rights of its more than 50,000 members and 3.5 million titles all over the world in the realms of music, film, theater and dance. (Artists like filmmaker Pedro Almodóvar, Paco de Lucía and Molotov belong to SGAE.) The showcase will feature a yet-to-beannounced panel that will address the state of artist rights, publishing, album production and record companies. SGAE President Teddy Bautista will moderate the roundtable discussions. The whirlwind conference kicks off on July 9 in Chicago at the House of Blues. The rest of the schedule is as follows: July 10, New York's Irving Plaza; July 13, Los Angeles' House Of Blues; July 15, Mexico City's Metropolitán theater and at the Plaza del Zócalo on July 16. SGAE boasts the participation of alternativo titans Enrique Bunbury (EMI Latin) and Juan Perro (DRO East West). Bunbury is the ex-lead singer of the rock supergroup Héroes del Silencio (EMI Spain), and Juan Perro (a.k.a Santiago Auserón) was formerly the leader of seminal post-punk new wave group Radio Futura (BMG U.S. Latin). Bunbury is wrapping up a tour in Mexico in support of his latest release Pequeño Cabaret Ambulante, a conceptual album that integrates fleeting moments of Tom Waits's crooning with a longing for redemption á la the Doors' Strange Days. Having already sold 150,000 units in Spain, Pequeño has met with much wider success in the Latin alternative scene than his first solo effort, the electro-rocking Radical Sonora. Juan Perro, meanwhile, is a project that Auserón followed after his band broke up in 1990 after nearly a dozen years together. Auserón went to Cuba for several months to study Cuban roots music, which he later integrated with his new wave rock for one of the most important fusion projects in Europe. The nine-year-old group has just finished a promotional small-club tour through the United States with a notable stop at SXSW, where it was seeking broader distribution of its eight-album catalog. The quintet had previously released two albums on EMI-Odeon. The band recently released Live In Chicago, a quasi best-of album, which (Continued on page 39)

NAVA Nava (RykoLatino)

On this self-titled solo debut, Puerto Rican singer-songwriter Nava ties together his roots as a pop music songwriter with his personal reggae, hip-hop and rock influences. Known in the Latin music industry as Rodolfo Barrera (his real name), Nava already enjoys a successful career as a leading composer for artists such as salsero Jerry Rivera, mariachi heartthrob Pedro Fernández and pop singer José Feliciano. Nava, however, shows the artist can create music outside the trappings of Latin commercial radio. The album weaves samples of video arcade noise, TV sound clips and other found sounds through colorful tropi-rock songs erected on a rhythmic foundation encompassing cumbia, vallenato and merengue. His knack for creating catchy hooks within a tropi-rock hybrid recalls Mexico's Ritmo Peligroso. But it's in the soulful, reggae-cumbia number "Corazón Violeta" (Violet Heart) that he shows how far his penchant for innovation can go.

For Fans Of: Ritmo Peligroso, Santana, Rubén Blades, Maná Recommended Tracks: "Corazón Violeta," "El Paraíso" "Agua Bendita"

ARBOL

Arbol (Surco-Universal Latino)

Sprouting from Buenos Aires' fertile rock scene, Arbol (Tree) is the result of cross-pollenating traditional South American folk sounds — in particular the Argentine chacarera - with unshakeable punk, metal and hiphop. The act's sophomore album marks the quintet's breakthrough to an audience outside Argentina via the Surco imprint. With alternating vocalists Eduardo Schmidt and Pablo Romero behind the mic, the group makes use of fiddle, harmonica, flute and charango (a mandolin-like instrument) to create a rich, hand-clapping, folky base. Arbol then stacks heavy guitar riffs and monster-stomping drums over these serene elements to create some momentum-climbing rock grooves. Produced by master fusionist Gustavo Santaolalla, Arbol alternates lyrically between calls to exorcize inner-demons that plague our youth and raging indictments against post-dictatorship fascists in the city.

Email: vicky.cabildo@unistudios.com Release date: March; at radio now community, according to a Sonicnet.com report. The motion, which was proposed by the city's Mayor Mel Lastman and Police Chief Julian Fantino, stemmed from concerns over drug use at dance music gatherings following three drug-related deaths at raves in the area. The issue was debated for nearly five hours before a 32-18 vote to temporarily ban raves was passed. The ban comes six months after the Toronto council adopted guidelines to ensure that raves held on city property were safe. At the meeting, Lastman cited an April 22 rave at the city-owned Exhibition Place where 24 arrests were made and where Fantino estimated that 80 percent of the attendees were using drugs. "[The ban] is not very responsible," council member Olivia Chow, who voted against the motion, told Sonicnet. "Banning raves on city sites is the first step in pushing raves underground, which means sites such as warehouses and garages will be used and will create an unsafe environment." The motion calls for Fantino to report in August on ways to limit drugs at raves and on the ways police officers can effectively monitor the events; the Toronto Board of Health also will study and report on ways to reduce health risks at raves...On June 20, Jive Electro records will release the second volume of its Old School Vs. New School series. Picking up where the first left off, the compilation will feature electronic dance remixes of hip-hop classics from the Jive catalog, including the Propellerheads' take on "Electric Relaxation" by A Tribe Called Quest, Lionrock's revisit of Stone Roses' "Waterfall" and a Groove Armada remix of A Tribe Called Quest's "Description Of A Fool." ... On August 1, London trip-hop band Morcheeba will release the follow-up to 1998's Big Calm. The trio's third full-length, Fragments Of Freedom, will feature guest appearance by hip-hop MCs Biz Markie, Bahamadia and Mr. Complex and will be released on London-Sire records this summer.

LOUD ROCK NEWS

Superstar himself, Marilyn Manson, burst on stage and began singing the chorus with Reznor. As if that wasn't enough, NIN and Manson, adorned in skintight black leather pants and looking like the scary Marilyn of his early days, performed "Beautiful People." Manson even affectionately slung his arms around Reznor's neck. It was a reunion that had heads turning. Some of the kids next to me were screaming "Die Manson!" and turned their back to the stage until he left. NIN's second encore consisted of the intimate, hushed, and ultimately gorgeous "Hurt." What a way to connect with the crowd...The Palladium in Massachusetts hosted another metal-fest in May. Up and coming bands that feature females as prominent members performed early in the day, namely Catheter and Rain Fell Within. The former, hailing from Albany, New York, fits in the metalcore category. The lead singer who, like Walls Of Jericho's Candace Kucsulain, has energy, chutzpah, and barks like she's demonically possessed. Rain Fell Within plays operatic metal. If you like Therion or Cradle Of Filth's smartly executed, symphonic moments, then RFW is your cup of tea. Internal Bleeding, who passed out "Limp Bizkit Sucks" posters, and Immolation provided the fast death metal entertainment. Dillinger Escape Plan was typically frightening. DEP is avant jazz hardcore that's so bludgeoning, you have to wonder what the hell makes them so atrociously angry. The Syndicate's Eric Peltier offered the best explanation of just what makes those Jersey shore boys tick: "They are the end result of sitting in Jersey shore traffic on the Garden State Parkway on a Friday night in the summer." Shadows Fall's performance was the best I've ever seen. For its hometown crowd, the Fall kicked ass and took names with "Crushing Belial," "Fleshold" and the closing "Serenity." All That Remains, which features the former lead singer of Shadows Fall, was a snaggle-toothed, noisy metal monster. I saw Kovenant outside the venue and one of the Germans gave me a death stare so fierce, I felt holes burning in my skull. On stage, Kovenant was excellent, playing a Rammstein/KMFDM/ Cradle Of Filth style of metal. Moonspell delighted the crowd with a Joy Division cover. Amorphis headlined...Finger Eleven will release its sophomore effort Weakened Hands through Wind Up this summer...Eddie Williamson is the radio contact at Divine Recordings, which is Sharon and Ozzy Osbourne's label. Eddie can be reached at 310.205.3120 or at eddie@divinerecordings.com. He's got a lot in store for radio in the fall, as the label issues a Tony Iommi solo album, the Ozz Fest movie soundtrack and Slaves On Dope's debut.

TRIPLE A NEWS

the stalker has been deluging Ronstadt with letters and cards for many years... What do Don Henley, Glen Frey, James Taylor, James Brown, Brian Wilson, the late Curtis Mayfield and Neil Diamond all have in common? Each will be inducted into the Songwriters Hall Of Fame during the 31st annual induction and awards dinner on June 15 at New York City's Sheraton hotel. Other inductees this year include the songwriting team of Jerry Leiber & Mike Stoller and Johnny Mathis...Ben Folds Five won't have a new release until sometime this fall, however you can hear two new songs by the trio in a few upcoming films. BFF's cover of Steely Dan's "Barrytown" will be featured on the Me, Myself And Irene soundtrack, which will be released by Elektra on June 13. Ben Folds will also contribute a new song to the teen romance flick 100 Girls. In related news, the group will headline the Summersonic Festival in Tokyo this August, and Ben Folds Five bassist Robert Sledge will tour this spring with former Squirrel Nut Zipper Tom Maxwell.

currently in the mixing stages at a recording studio in Los Angeles. The Soul Assassins Chapter Two is slated to feature quite an impressive roster of guests, among them Mobb Deep, Zack De La Rocha of Rage Against The Machine, Kool G. Rap, Goodie Mob and GZA ...On the comeback trail are early '90s hip-hop revolutionaries Poor Righteous Teachers. The group had recently headlined the "Return Of Real Hip-Hop" concert held at New York's CBGB's Gallery alongside Deadly Venoms and Marx Men on May 13 as a part of the Black Roots Festival, a summer-long event aimed to raise social and political awareness through hip-hop and spoken word poetry. The group has also recorded a new album, entitled Losing My Religion, which will be released on their self-owned Exit 7A Records by late summer.

N ALTERNATIVE NEWS

Rock Alliance will screen a number of rock en español videos and films at the Cine Sol Festival. The film festival will take place at the South Padre Island Convention Center. The student-made documentary Alterlatino documents the genesis of the Latino rock movement in Austin and features footage of area bands Los Skarnales as well as visiting Mexican groups such as Resorte. The showcase will also show Latin alternative music videos that have been censored in Latin America for political or social reasons. For more information, call Michael Hernandez (LRA) at 512.440.9301; email: txmatador@aol.com...Argentine singer-songwriter Erica García (Universal Argentina) has just wrapped up a small U.S. tour in support of her latest release, the wild femme fatale rocking La Bestia (The Beast), a follow up to her cerebral 1997 album El Cerébro (The Brain). García has become Buenos Aires' darling of underground rock and the city's next big thing on the pop charts. Super-producer and compatriot Gustavo Santaolalla has since picked up García for his Surco label, which is distributed by Universal Latino.

The daughter of bossa nova icon João Gilberto and respected Brazilian singer Miucha strikes out on her own with Tanto Tempo. Words by Tad Hendrickson

Brazilian singer Bebel Gilberto made her recording debut on one of her mother's albums when she was seven years old. At age nine she appeared at the famed Carnegie Hall with her mother and jazz saxophonist Stan Getz. During those early years, the young Gilberto successfully pursued a career as a child actress. She collaborated with the great Brazilian pop singer Cazuza as a teenager, and appeared on albums with her famous father, and on those of such notables as Caetano Veloso, David Byrne and her uncle, Chico Buarque. But having entrée into such select musical company does not necessarily make life easier; "It makes things worse," says Gilberto from her London home. "Some people say it's easier, I'll say that it isn't. It's a lot of pressure."

Luckily for her, Bebel's parents were nothing but supportive. Primarily raised by her mother, Bebel feels a special kinship with her mom: Muicha has lived in the artistic shadow of her brother and husband even though she is an artist herself. But Gilberto is obviously something of a daddy's girl, and she laughs when she talks about her father. "We lived together until I was six. By the time I was 11 or 12 we became very close. I became very successful at getting him to do what I wanted. Whenever my mother and I would fight, I would go to my father's place and stay up late, sing along with him, eat good food." When he wasn't simply indulging his daughter, João would share his knowledge of music with her, teaching her how to improvise over chord changes. "We'd be laying down watching TV and he would pick up his guitar and start playing," she explains. "He would look at me and say: 'sing along to the music.' I would sing and he would say 'yeah that's great,' or 'no no, this is not so good.'"

During the early '90s, Gilberto left Brazil for New York City. "At the time the music in Brazil was really pompous and amusing," she recalls. "What was happening there wasn't exactly what I was looking for with my music. And because I came from such a musical family, people expected a lot from me. It made it sort of impossible for me to be a different person or do music that was different than what was going on there. People were conservative and had a lot of prejudice because I was João's daughter and I should be doing bossa nova or Brazilian rock music. I didn't want to do either of them." Gilberto released a critically acclaimed EP in 1986, but until now, she has generally avoided the spotlight. She's made guest appearances on such compilations as Red Hot + Rio (which features a stunning fourtrack version of "Preciso Dizer Que Te Amo" that she performed with Cazuza), Brasil 2mil and the Next Stop Wonderland soundtrack.

It has taken Bebel Gilberto more than 20 years since her recording debut to shed the weight of her musical heritage and step out on her own with Tanto Tempo, which translates from Portuguese as "So long." An imaginative reinvention of Brazilian pop music, the album takes notes of the leading trends in electronic music without discounting the samba and bossa nova music she was raised on. "I always had this idea that I wanted to use different producers," she says. "It's the one thing that I felt the strongest about. I wanted to have different people on my album to make each track different. I wanted to work with them, letting them interpret my songs into their sound." This A-list of producers includes Suba, Amon Tobin, Smoke City, Thievery Corporation and Mario C.

Sadly, head producer Suba died in a fire at his studio before Tanto Tempo was finished. "It was 80% done," says a subdued Gilberto. "All the songs were done but we were waiting for material from some of the other producers. We were going to work on the 'August Day Song,' but he died a few days before he was supposed to come to London." Inspired by the loss of her friend, Gilberto decided to write an additional tune called "Lonely," bringing her friends from Thievery Corporation to produce.

The singer seems most enthused about electronic collaborator Amon Tobin. "I'm pretty much crazy about the first track. When I first heard his music, I heard the crazy drum 'n' bass tracks, but he also had these laid back tracks that were utterly incredible. When I moved to London, I approached him to see if I could do any kind of work with him."

Beneath the album's electronic textures breathes an array of seductive acoustic tunes featuring guest musicians Carlinhos Brown, João Donato, Bocato, Celso Fonseca and others. "It's not an electronic album. I wanted to work with acoustic musicians because that is what I am. All the songs were written with acoustic instruments, capturing the feeling I wanted to get, but I wanted to update it myself. When I met Suba I was amazed at how well he mixed music with electronic environments. It was an incredible way of doing the music I love in the time of now." When fans come out to see Gilberto on her summer tour, they will be treated to an outstanding live band supporting the singer. Whether singing in Portuguese or English, Gilberto's reedy whisper easily cuts through the electronic backdrops, leading the group and securely anchoring the sound. Clarion clear, seductive and silky, this singer's gift and skills are obvious.

The young Gilberto has finally made up her mind to let her gift and knowledge blossom in her own right. Just be sure not to call her a bossa nova artist. "I don't like to be labeled as bossa nova. When I think of that music, I think of it as a huge part of the '60s; part of the attitude, part of the movement that happened at the time. It would be so pretentious for me to say 'Hey, I'm the new bossa nova hope."

INDUSTRYPROFILE

Interview by Glen Sansone

Beyond Music was founded by Allen Kovac, who also owns and operates Left Bank Management. The label boasts a diverse roster of artists from seminal rock acts such as Yes and Mötley Crüe, to more current acts such as Veruca Salt and singer-songwriter Jill Sobule - that benefit from the label's heavy focus on promotion and marketing. We spoke to the multitalented Suzanne Perl about her role with the company and what she thinks about some of the current trends in the industry.

What are some of your main responsibilities?

I am the queen of many hats. I am East Coast National Director of Rock & Alternative, and I'm also National Director of Video. I like the variety. I'm not always just talking to radio, I'm talking to radio and video, so it keeps it fresh.

How did you get to Beyond Music?

I've been with this label for three years. Before that I worked at Jeff McClusky & Associates for five years; and before that I worked for Allen Kovac, the owner of our label, [who] had another label called Impact Records.

SUZANNE PERL

East Coast Director Of Rock & Alternative/ National Director Of Video, Beyond Music

"We like to consider ourselves a marketing company....our artists are our partners. We don't give huge advances and say, 'See you later.'"

What do you like the most about working in promotions?

At Beyond we do a lot of cross-promotions. So it's really cool when it all comes together. You've got radio playing the artist, you've got them talking about your crosspartner, and then you've got the event and people actually show up. You see all the work and all the effort coming together — and that's the way it's supposed to be.

Do you work on a team?

We have label meetings every Wednesday, and we have an amazing marketing department. We're very much a democratized company, so we brainstorm. We have to come up with a point of entry, and we will not put out a record without one. With Veruca Salt, for instance, [Louise Post] just taped a Priceline.com commercial, so we'll have national TV exposure. We always try to get an outside entity that's not the radio industry to get to the consumer. The goal here is to sell records — radio and video is only one aspect of it.

You've said that Beyond Music is not a record company in the traditional sense of the word. Please explain.

We like to consider ourselves a marketing company. First of all, our artists are our partners. We don't give huge advances and say 'See you later.' We sit down with them, they come to our marketing meetings — they are as involved as they want to be, because ultimately it's their career.

The label's roster is very diverse, so how does the company decide who it will work with?

We've got the staples from Mötley Crüe and Yes to Blondie, Jill Sobule and Veruca Salt. We look for several things: with an act like Veruca Salt, they have a fan base out there. With someone new, like Mike Younger, he's just a really talented singer-songwriter. The one thing that goes across the board is that all our bands have a willingness to work and they want to work outside the normal record industry structure. A lot of hit songs get lost, I believe, because they're the ninth or tenth priority at a major label.

From a promotional and marketing perspective, how much energy do you dedicate to Web-based promotions?

We have the site BeyondMusic.com, which has its own staff. With all of our artists for the last two years, when they tour we do Internet ticket pre-sales. We link up with radio stations and different fan clubs and usually put tickets on sale 48 hours before anyone can go to Ticketmaster and buy them. In some cases shows have almost sold out that way. On the site, we're developing original content for all our artists. It's still under construction, but you can go there and see what's happening.

What Internet-based trend do you feel will have the greatest impact on marketing artists?

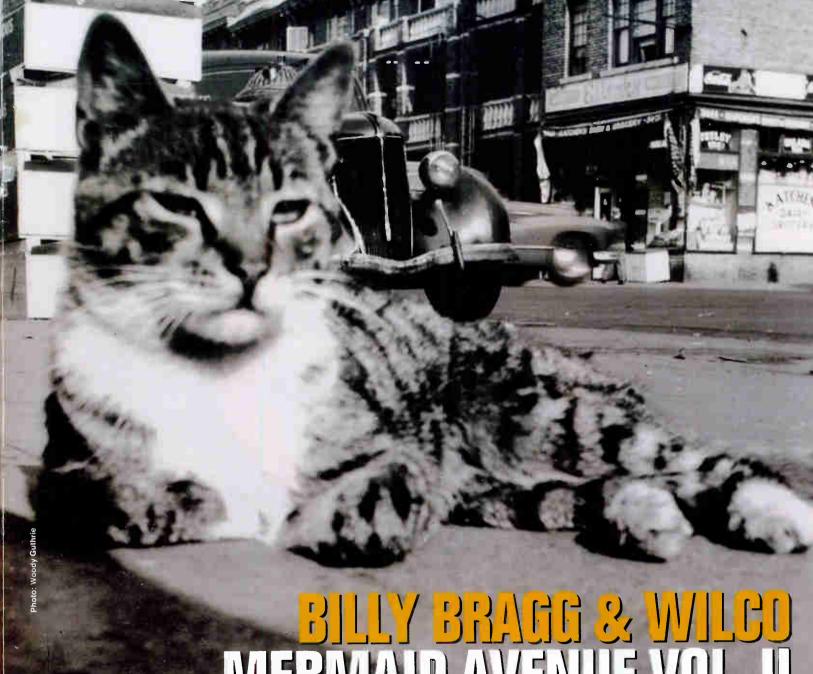

I think as people get more broadband access (DSL, satellite, cable modems), people will get music and video much quicker. I personally think things like Napster are the future. This isn't necessarily the view of Beyond, but I download music from the 'Net and I have ripping software. I keep an MP3 file on my hard drive. It's fun and it's easy.

Which side of the Metallica v. Napster issue are you on?

I understand [the band's] point of view. Artists make their money from their royalties and licensing fees. That is how they make their living — that is the product they sell. A lot of people think 'Oh, artistic license, they shouldn't make money...' No, they need to eat and pay their mortgage as well. When people illegally copy and distribute music, they are stealing from the artist. Unfortunately it happens a lot, [but] I think encoded music on the Web will be the future. We have to respect the artists' trade and their ability to make money, but still [embrace] advances in technology.
