6 Jason Mraz Loves Sex

And who could blame him? The man who describes his new record, Waiting For My Rocket To Come, as “an upbeat, sexually-charged record to shag to,” Jason Mraz has definitely outgrown the small San Diego coffee shops he used to play each week. Now, in the midst of a national tour, Mraz is taking the intimate coffee shop show feel into the bigger clubs and arenas that he is now finding himself filling to capacity with eager fans of his own. While Jason Mraz might be waiting for his rocket, his career is taking off.

INDUSTRY NEWS

After years of stiff competition, the suits at Bertelsmann have made the decision to allow their CDNow.com site, the Internet's most popular music retail source, to have all its operations taken over by archrival Amazon.com. While the CDNow site will still exist, it no longer appears to offer much more than Amazon's content under the CDNow logo. Bertelsmann, which first purchased CDNow in 2000 for a reported $117 million, relinquished control of the company's inventory, customer service division and Web site operation to Amazon on Dec. 4, in exchange for an undisclosed profit-sharing agreement, allowing the Amazon tribesmen to further their stranglehold on the online market. The decision also saw the recent termination of CDNow's popular online music news source, allstar. • As if the RIAA needed any more ideas — in a bizarre case, Finland's Supreme Court recently passed a ruling stating that the country's cab drivers must pay royalty fees if they play music in the car while a customer is in the back seat. The order, which applies to both albums and radio play, will affect all 9,500 cab drivers in the country, by forcing them to pay the equivalent of about $22 annually. A spokesperson for the Helsinki Taxi Drivers' Association stated that the ruling would most likely force most drivers to keep their radios turned off.

LABEL NEWS

Ever get so fed up you want to fuck the industry? Well, MSC

Music And Entertainment, Strange Music and underground hip-hop artist Tech N9ne know the feeling. In fact, the companies spent their music video budget for the rapper to purchase "Fuck The Industry" television ads on Comedy Central, Fox and MTV that feature Tech N9ne sporting an "F.T.I." T-shirt, ranting about how "the industry is punks" for trying to ban file-sharing, and urging viewers to download almost his entire album, Absolute Power, for free on his Web site, www.therealtechn9ne.com. The purpose of the ads and the rampage is to prove that the Internet can be as viable a marketing tool to learn about new music as the radio and television (not to mention all the publicity Tech N9ne's new album is getting from the ads). Challenging the traditional label views that downloading is bringing the industry to ruin, MSC believes that giving away the album for free will result in increased sales. Indeed, after just one week of commercials, over 27,000 Tech N9ne songs have been downloaded and there has been a slight increase in his album sales. • Rhino Entertainment and Warner Strategic Marketing are making the move to new offices in Burbank. Their new address is: 3400 West Olive Street, Burbank, California 91505, and they can be reached by phone at: 818.238.6200 and fax at: 818.562.9235. All e-mail addresses remain the same.

• Eagle Vision has appointed

Lindsay Brown to the position of Director of International Sales and Marketing in addition to his role as Managing Director of Eagle Records.

MUSIC NEWS

It's the end of the road for Australian act Midnight Oil, which rocketed to fame in 1988 with its album Diesel And Dust, featuring the massive hit single "Beds Are Burning." After two-and-a-half decades together, the band is calling it a day, in response to singer Peter

Midnight Oil

Garrett announcing his resignation from the group. In a statement on its official Web site, www.midnightoil.com, Garrett said, "The last 25 years have been incredibly fulfilling for me, and I leave with the greatest respect for the whole of Midnight Oil. The band has brought a lot of pleasure and meaning to people's lives, including my own. Who could ask for more? But it is time for me to move on and immerse myself in those things which are of deep concern to me and which I have been unable to fully apply myself to up to now." Meanwhile, the remaining members of the group are committed to continue working together under a different guise in the future. "We've had a unique relationship and special chemistry for many years," reads their statement. "One too good to lose." The band closes with the parting comment: "It's been a great ride together. Many, many thanks."

• After Oasis called off two German dates following the nightclub attack on frontman Liam Gallagher that left him in severe dental distress, the band was subsequently forced to postpone its entire German tour. "The damage to Liam's teeth is worse than it first appeared and he will have to return to the U.K. for surgery before he will be able to perform again," reads a statement posted on the band's official Web site (www.oasisinet.com). The melee in Munich that led to Gallagher's injuries also left two of his security staff in the hospital, and could see the singer facing charges for kicking a police officer who responded to the scene. The band is claiming that the initial attack was completely "unprovoked" and, unfortunately, the assailants escaped before law enforcement officials arrived.

• Glassjaw frontman Daryl

Palumbo also found himself in a European hospital on Dec. 5, after suffering from yet another bout of the recurring stomach ailment that has haunted his career, Crohn's Disease.

Palumbo was whisked away by medical staff shortly after getting off a plane in London, where, ironically, the band had arrived to begin a string of rescheduled dates, initially postponed after the singer faced the same problem in October and ended up hospitalized in France. "At the moment we are... sitting around thinking of what to say to whomever still gives a shit about our band," reads a posting on the group's official Web site, www.glassjaw.com. "You heard right, we are not playing at all. Our whole second attempt at Europe has been cancelled. We all wish it was a stupid prank, or some twisted joke on all of you, but it ain't. We just arrived this morning and, within the hour, Daryl began hemorrhaging once again. He is in the hospital right now and we are probably getting back on a plane within the next day or two." There was no initial word on whether the band would attempt to make up the dates. • Blur has confused many of its fans by releasing a new single, "Don't Bomb When You're The Bomb" that takes a more minimalist electronic approach to music than anything the band has done before — and putting it out only on white label vinyl, marked in Arabic writing that left buyers to figure out what it was. Frontman Damon Albarn hinted a while back that such a plan was in the works, but what he didn't know is that the single would be delayed by police involvement. Apparently the initial pressings of the record never made it to the shops because they were literally blown up by legal officials. "I only found out very recently that they were actually mislaid in Brighton train station in a cardboard box," Albarn told the BBC. "And it had 'bomb' written on it. The police performed a controlled explosion, which is why it never materialized until later. It's top secret information." Word is that the track will not be featured on the band's upcoming album, due early next year, so this news just reveals that the limited edition release of the record is even more limited than intended, making it sure to become a collector's item. Albarn also commented for the first time on guitarist Graham Coxon's departure from the band during the recent album sessions. "All four of us had to make certain decisions," he said. "Graham's made a very good decision, I think, for him just to be a bit quieter in life. He's never enjoyed the sort of fame side of things... I think it's good for everybody. Fair play to us all really." • While no one can ever hold a candle to John Tesh's theme song for NBC's NBA coverage, Robert Randolph And The Family Band have just recorded "We Got Hoops," which will be the new theme for the NBA on ABC. In addition to his appearance at the 2002 CMJ Music Marathon, Randolph, the gospel-inspired pedal steel master, has had quite a year — which included winning the Jammy Award for "New Groove Of The Year" and a recent signing with Warner Bros. Randolph's Live At The Wetlands is in stores now and ABC's coverage of the NBA begins Christmas Day.

Jason Mraz Loves Sex

Making his new record, Waiting For My Rocket To Come, marks the completion of at least one of Jason Mraz's goals. Although it sometimes feels like a job to the no-9-to-5 Mraz, it is exactly what he has always wanted. Story by Ryan Jones

Jason Mraz is a guy who wears a pin that says "I Love Sex." Not because it has ever gotten him any, but because he says it is the ultimate form of creativity. "If you think you are a creative person, and you want to be creative, create a person," he says. In addition to his sexual creativity, Mraz considers himself a minimalist when it comes to music. "I've always considered myself an artist who puts in [the] minimum amount of effort required and if you ask me something about music, I will know nothing about it." That's surprising from a guy who is touring in support of his Elektra Entertainment debut, Waiting For My Rocket To Come, and recently opened three dates for the Dave Matthews Band.

Mraz sings like a bird and has been playing acoustic guitar since 1996, when he opted against plans to pursue a career in musical theatre. A chance encounter with Bill Silva, a Southern California booking big-wig who is now his manager, led Mraz to San Diego, California. There, he would hone his craft, hook up with his bandmates — Toca Rivera on djembe drum and Ian Sheridan on bass — and create a scene that would become the launching pad for Mraz and his laid-back beach party sound.

Mraz, Rivera and Sheridan grew healthy roots in San Diego and remained in the Southern California city for a couple of years, playing weekly gigs at the local Java Joe's coffee house. The shows were spontaneous, family-style jam sessions with local musician-friends joining them onstage and adding flute, flamenco guitar, blues guitar, harmonica, freestyle rap and dance routines that often spilled into the audience.

"Whoever was in the crowd that night that we knew, it was like 'bring it up,'" says Mraz. "We rarely had a show where we didn't bring anybody onstage."

That inclusiveness extended beyond their set as well. The whole scene, as described by Jason, was like one huge, happy family. "Everybody knew each other and we all rode in the same car and we all went to the same bars; everyone knew all the songs and sang along and it was just a blast." Like something out of a Beach Boys video, it was a magical time for Mraz, who misses those glory days. "The vibe was summer sun all year long," he reminisces. "I would ride my bicycle around Ocean Beach right up until show time and just cruise around and know everybody. We had bonfires after the show and it was the best vibe you can imagine."

After more than a year of playing gigs at Joe's, Mraz would soon paddle out from the beach to record his album. He describes it as “an upbeat, sexually-charged record to shag to.” He doesn’t mean the “shag” that Austin Powers made famous, but the dance that dates back to the 1950s. Mraz says his whole record pays tribute to The Shag, especially the track “No Stopping Us,” and the happiness that comes from the feeling of “I’ve got sand in my shoes, not a care in the world and I might just get laid.” His music could correctly be compared to Jack Johnson, John Mayer or Dave Matthews, while Waiting For My Rocket To Come is a happy-go-lucky listen that has traces of Bradley Nowell (of Sublime), Jamiroquai and G. Love. Although the comparisons are apparent, Mraz thinks more of Bobby McFerrin, Mel Torme, Louis Prima and Nick Drake when he lists his influences.

Mraz is proud of his new record, but was initially a little nervous about the reaction of his hometown friends. “I was nervous because they were so used to that particular sound that we had,” he relates. “And, I was nervous about bringing in new elements that no one had ever heard. It’s like bringing home a new girlfriend to meet your parents.” The good news is that his San Diego friends took to the more produced, radio-ready sound and his homecoming turned out to be a great sendoff for his U.S. tour.

Making this record and touring to promote it marks the completion of at least one of his goals. Although it sometimes feels like a job to the no-9-to-5 Mraz, it is exactly what he has always wanted. His tour comes complete with the stories, smells and shenanigans that one would expect from a vanload of guys on tour. Mraz jabs his buddy and longtime bandmate Rivera as being the stinkiest thing in the van right now. “Last night, I couldn’t figure out what this smell was that kept occurring every 15 minutes.” Rivera’s burps were the culprit. “Dude, it was nasty! You can understand a fart, but when a smell that foul comes out of your mouth, you know something’s wrong.” The van may smell, but Mraz finds road-life sweet and his fans are finding his shows even sweeter.

Mraz tries to bring the San Diego vibe to his cross-country shows. He says it’s because “everyone out here has not seen it the way it was back then. It is not the same show, but rather the same style show. We’re playing about half the songs from the record and a lot of old tunes too. There is a lot on the record that’s such a production and when I’m out here, with only the acoustic trio, I’m not gonna try to force the tones of the record out of us.” But next year, Mraz predicts that the record will be in full swing and probably on the radio and, at that time, they will add more of the album’s songs to their set. When that happens, Jason says that he’ll slowly add more players to the band in order to make the live sound closely resemble the production on the album.

Even with added fortune and recognition, Mraz is keeping a good head on his shoulders and staying true to his roots and his fan-friends. He keeps in touch periodically by keeping a road journal and posting it on his Web site, www.jasonmraz.com. The postings are funny and include a lot of wordplay regarding subjects such as his gratitude for snow: “Thank you for keeping me cool on my day off. Thank you for being so easy to use as a weapon against the forces of Toca.” Another posting shares his longing for home and a Thanksgiving dinner: “Sweet home sweet potato.” Mraz wants to be expressive and connect with those that come to his shows and says, “Every time I sit down to write [a journal entry], it reminds me what I’m doing and why I’m doing it.”

“I’ve always considered myself an artist who puts in [the] minimum amount of effort required and if you ask me something about music, I will know nothing about it.”

That’s not the only way Mraz and Co. stay connected to their fans. Mraz, Rivera and Sheridan regularly hang out after shows to get to know folks because it reminds them of their Java Joe’s days. “That’s what we did back then and there’s no reason why we can’t do it elsewhere. I’m into it.” Probably thinking of the incident in the van with Rivera, Jason tacks on another reason. “We’ve got nothing else to do. If we leave, we are just gonna be hanging out with each other again.”

When asked about some of the things he has been accumulating on the road, Mraz says that he doesn’t really hunt for things, but rather waits for special trinkets that are dropped to him by the gods. This philosophy is very telling of a guy whose demeanor comes off as easy going and patient — he seems to know that time is on his side and everything is going to be all right. Currently, the band is wrapping up their inaugural tour and Mraz wants to bring home some souvenirs.

“Anything that’s gonna live in my bedroom and remind me of the tour,” he says. In one case, the gods brought him a “special little, Japanese, silk-wrapped, funky, shiny goldfish” that he said was “on the floor of a basement in Salt Lake City, Utah, just sitting there and staring at me. So, I took him.”

This tour is sure to end on a high note. As mentioned earlier, Mraz recently opened for the Dave Matthews Band in Tampa, Atlanta and Chicago, and he should have some special memories to go along with his new goldfish friend.

Mraz already has some memories of Matthews — he once joined Jason on-stage during a festival show at The Gorge Amphitheater in Washington. “In the middle of the set, [Matthews] walked up on stage, looking totally shy, and asked if he could play a couple of tunes.” A longtime fan, Mraz didn’t sing along, but joked that he instead “smoked a cigarette and masturbated.”

Mraz has reason to be nervous about the shows, as he’ll be working hard to win over Matthews and his dedicated fans. “Dave picks the groups, and I want to make him feel good about his decision,” he reveals. “It’s definitely the challenge I’ve been waiting for, and it’s also a highlight.”

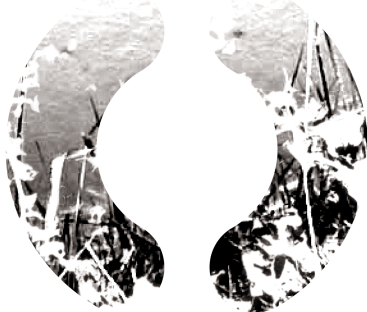

Matthews’ fans should be quickly converted.

One of Mraz’s favorites to play for the crowd is a song called “Unfold.” “It’s just free,” he explains. “We change it every time we do it and it’s got these really deep bass notes that just roll through it and make you feel real good. The song is all about letting go and we always let go as we play it.”

Mraz will return to California for a brief rest before hitting the road again in the new year. But it won’t be the same as when he left — Java Joe’s is closing the place where Mraz used to play in exchange for a new location. Mraz will not get another chance to play the old spot again, but that fact rolls right off his back.

“This is Joe’s fourth place and every one has had some history to it. I’m just delighted that I was able to put my history into one of them,” he says. “After all, Joe is one of my best friends and wherever he is, I know I’ve always got a place.”

Considering his own recent growth, Mraz concludes, “It seems appropriate. Joe is moving up as well. We are all moving up, moving on.” NMR

200 Moves

While many of our industry "friends" thought it was the first of April this past week (Beach Whistle, Soccer Mom, Golden Showers, Prostate Dancer — we weren't born yesterday, really!), Sigur Rós took things much more seriously and reclaimed the No. 1 position (2-1*) on the Top 200 after being displaced last week (Issue 793) by the Donnas, who fall back to No. 2. Furthermore, Jurassic 5 continues to show steam within the Top 5, stepping 5-4*. • Inside the Top 10, Björk's Greatest Hits improves again (6-5*). Other movers of note during this final reporting week of the year include: Joseph Arthur (19-11*), Raveonettes (26-13*), Richard Ashcroft (27-15*), Audioslave (35-23*), Dredg (39-31*), Liars (42-32*), Damone (63-38*), Helms (60-43*), Pearl Jam (56-48*) and The Blam (54-49*). • Impressive debuts this week: Smashing Pumpkins (D-27*), Primal Scream (D-37*) and the Roots (D-44*).

Just a reminder that CMJ's playlist reporting for 2002 has concluded with this week's issue. Our year-end charts will be published in next week's jam-packed year-end edition of the New Music Report (Issue 795). The first playlist reports for 2003 will be accepted Jan. 3-7.

Have a terrific holiday!
— Mike Boyle/Kevin Boyce

Dear Readers: We would like to acknowledge two errors found on last week's RAM page (Issue 793). The first error is the charting of Tori Amos' "Crucify" as the #1 song. "Crucify" was played as part of NPR's syndicated show "Morning Edition" on the 27th of November and registered as multiple plays. We had not run into this error before and will be making certain adjustments to our applications in order to avoid this from happening in the future. The second error is due to a publishing oversight in which the order of the Flaming Lips and Camper Van Beethoven were switched. Bob Marley should be listed as #1, Camper Van Beethoven as #2, The Flaming Lips as #3, Queens of the Stone Age as #4 and The Rise as #5. If you have any questions please feel free to contact us at ram@cmj.com.

Mark your calendars! The 2003 edition of the New England Metal And Hardcore Festival will occur on April 18-19 at the Palladium in Worcester, Massachusetts. The event, organized by Mass Concerts, gets better with every passing year and we expect 2003 to be no different. • Due to the ever-popular yet ever-uninformative “creative differences” excuse, Mad At Gravity singer J. Lynn Johnston has left the band. The remaining members are currently seeking a replacement. • On Broken Wings has signed with Florida’s Eulogy Records. • Biohazard’s cattle call has always been either “Brooklyn, NY, mother fucker!” or “From the top of the food chain.” In true alpha male fashion, frontman/bassist Evan Seinfeld has announced he will be tying the knot with porn goddess Tera Patrick. If seeing Seinfeld’s package in every episode of HBO’s Oz isn’t enough for you, then we’ve got good news: Seinfeld might foray into porn and drop trou with his future missus. God save us! If this is too much for you to handle, then we’ve come bearing good news. Look for Biohazard’s new album, Kill Or Be Killed, to drop next year. • System Of A Down’s oddball guitarist Daron Malakian and controversial punk rock anarchist Casey Chaos of Amen have teamed up to form a side project that should be nothing short of explosive. • Ex-Dokken guitarist George Lynch has formed a new band named L/P and has signed a deal with Spitfire Records. • Love him or hate him, you gotta give Andrew WK serious props, because the guy is a true fan of underground metal and hardcore — and he puts his dirty money where his dirty mouth is. WK is taking Shai Hulud on tour with him for a week’s worth of dates in the Midwest. Big ups, WK! Big ups. • Since By Man is the latest dazzling metal moshcore band served up by the fine folks at Revelation. The label sneaked us a copy of We Sing The Body Electric and it’s a fangs ’n’ claws bared, scorched-earth mosh fest. Expect this one to land on your desk sometime in February and get yourself a pair of earplugs because you’re going to need them. • Swedish deathsters Soulreaper, featuring members of Dissection, recently finished work on its new album, Life Eraser, which will be released by Hammerheart Records. • What is it with Equal Vision Records bands and moniker issues? First, American Nightmare had its name stripped. Now, As Friends Rust will be known as Salem. • Linkin Park — huge because it brings a rap element to nü-metal kids and a nü-metal element to hip hop heads — is hard at work on its new album, which will emphasize on the heaviest aspects of the band. • Another one bites the dust! In the latest installment of its revolving door membership, Martyr AD has lost its drummer. Chris Drake, who joined the band in June of 2002, has exited. Martyr is actively seeking a replacement. Interested parties can contact the Minnesota band at: deadpikey666@aol.com. Spread the word, because this is probably the best metalcore band in the world right now. • Former Drowningman singer (and resident smart ass) Simon Brody has formed another side project in addition to The Scheme. The other project, as reported by www.lambo.com, will be more metal and hardcore leaning, according to Brody. It’s called Black Tie Knife Fight. That’s tough. • KoRn was forced to cancel the remaining dates of its “Pop Sucks” tour because singer Jonathan Davis has strained vocal chords and his doctor suggested canceling the dates to preserve and protect Davis’s precious pipes. • The always outspoken Billy Milano posted his thoughts on America, as well as his colorful thoughts on the controversial political views of Audioslave’s Tom Morello and System Of A Down’s Serj Tankian, on www.blabbermouth.net (how appropriate!). To read Milano’s rant ’n’ rage on America the beautiful, hit the site. It’s a hootin’, hoolerin’ and patriotic spew. Milano does make the point that while Morello and Tankian often criticize America, he doesn’t see the guys living anywhere else. He does have a point, kids. In other Milano news, M.O.D. will release The Rebel You Love To Hate via Nuclear Blast in the spring. • Amazing Device, once known as Further and seen gigging around NYC for as long as we can remember, has signed a record deal with Tribunal Records. The first offering from the band will be titled The Quiet Room, a collection of remastered and remixed material from the Long Island group’s demos and indie releases. Congrats to all parties involved. • Ex-Anthrax singer Joey Belladonna is rumored to be resurrecting his solo project, Belladonna. • Congrats and warm wishes to Sepultura drummer Igor Cavalera, who is a father for the third time. The skinsman and his wife Monika recently welcomed son Icaro, who joins sisters Joanna and Raissa. In other Sep music news, the band is working on its covers EP, to be called Revolutions. The platter will include its (no doubt percussion-heavy) interpretation of U2’s “Bullet The Blue Sky.” (Trivia buffs: Do you know what other hard rockin’ band covered this same tune? Stumped? Okay. We’ll tell you. None other than P.O.D.) • These days, Slipknot is the Wu Tang Clan of metal, with all the members off working on individual side projects. Corey Taylor and James Root are off “botherin’” people with Stone Sour, while Joey Jordison and his Murderdolls are making mischief. Now, the hot rumor is that bassist Paul Gray has partnered up with American Head Charge singer Martin Cock (!!!) in a side project. The band is going under the name F.O.R. In other AHC news, the Minneapolis band is currently working on the follow up to last year’s The War Of Art. These Midwestern metallers might be stuck inland, but they are nothing if not prolific — and angry as a bear when waking up from a serious hibernation.

INDUSTRY NEWS

This time of year, there’s always a plethora of ch-ch-changes in the music industry. Peeps leave. Peeps move on. Right now, however, it’s station personnel, as opposed to labels and promotions staffs, making a bunch of changes. Mikhail Alterman is no longer with WRUW/

Cleveland, Ohio. Taking over the reigns as Loud Rock Director is Ace Kumar. Kumar can be reached at: ace@wruw.org, or catch him on AOL IM at: AceKumar135. • Eric Isele, Loud Rock Director at WLSO/Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan, is graduating this semester.

Isele is a criminal justice major who doesn’t want to be a cop and we wish him luck in his post-college career! It’s been fun working with you and good luck in that real world place!

LOUD ROCK DIRECTOR PROFILE WRRG'S RICK LINUS

When we met WRRG/River Grove, Illinois Loud Rock Director Rick Linus at the New England Metal And Hardcore Fest in April 2002, we were drawn to his ice blue, lizard-eye contacts. But, as we got to know Linus a lot better this year, we've uncovered something far more fascinating: his dedication to metal and to his station.

Are you still wearing those killer contacts?

Those are my cat eyes. I still wear them quite often. Those contacts are available anywhere you buy glasses. I needed something for a Halloween concert I put together three years ago and I wanted to really shock everyone. I have tattoos and what not, but the eyes always seem to take everyone by surprise. I wear them to concerts all the time, especially to Dimmu Borgir or Slayer shows. I also love wearing them to the bars in Chicago, like The Exit, Delilah's or NEO. Those are more of the metal, goth, punk type clubs where I usually dwell.

Tell us about your show, "Mood Swings," which is celebrating its five-year anniversary!

"Mood Swings" is my little rock 'n' roll show for the daring hard rock enthusiast. It has its fare share of metal, punk, industrial, stoner rock, grind, noise and hardcore, as well as those unexplainable bands that defy categorization. My show isn't exclusive to any particular style or genre, hence the name "Mood Swings." Because I can go anywhere with the music, there's a freedom with the show. But I assure you, it's hard as fuck.

How do you use WRRG to cross promote with stores and venues?

Well, lately we've been trying to contact stores for sponsorship and cross-promote the artists we play with what they sell. We post playlists, pop in header cards saying "as heard on WRRG," leave fliers, stuff like that. The venues are cool with us, although we are at a disadvantage because of our location. We have the city stations, which really dominate the shows at venues, like the Metro, Fireside and Empty Bottle. But that never stops us from promoting there. In fact, it drives us to be more aggressive.

Do you guys do anything with Chicago based labels, like Victory?

Sure, Victory is great! We get serviced and spin their tunes and they have always been there and helped us with whatever we need. They're one of the greatest because they're like family. As far as other record labels, there's Hewhocorrupts Inc., which has really cool hardcore, punk and grind, and United Guttral, which is mostly death metal.

You have said that this year was WRRG's biggest and best.

Why is that?

We have so many creative people working here — all volunteers, I might add — with great ideas and we really executed them this year. We've appeared at a number of live festivals, held a few concerts, extended our programming, improved on our daily rotation and really told the city to listen up. It just feels great to be involved here right now. And, we have the best college radio Web site in the city: www.wrrg.org.

Here's the entire WUSM staff.

Station philosophy/ Audience perception:

WUSM is a 3,000-watt public radio station on the campus of the University of Southern Mississippi offering the campus and its surrounding communities a wealth of music and programming that is not readily available from other stations in our market.

Off-campus community involvement:

We are very involved with local groups and organizations in helping them publicize/promote charity events and we really try to bolster involvement in the city's music scene.

Promoting the station:

We have traded out with the campus newspaper to run our Top 10 records weekly, bartered for billboards and bumper stickers, and we work daily with the city's paper to increase our listenership and its readership.

News/Sports programming:

Currently we pull all of our daily news and actualities from the Associated Press, so students have real newscast experience. We took home the "Best Newscast" award in the state last year.

Station marketing/Fund raising:

We are always soliciting contributions and we are planning our most comprehensive fund raising effort ever for 2003. We offer underwriting and most of our clients have stayed with us through thick and thin. We are starting to develop a method of generating revenue from our Web site and continuing to try to develop a "silent fundraiser."

Remote broadcasts:

We offer remote broadcasts of various University events and press conferences.

Music/Audience research:

We obtain figures from the Radio Research Consortium and are currently working with our Department (Mass Comm./Journalism) on using students to give our station independent figures on the various demographics of our listenership.

Regular special features:

We have a plethora of interviews that we have played on the air and subsequently offer online. We also run a series of spotlight sets commemorating the contributions of African-Americans to our society during African-American History Month.

Current/Recent promotions:

KIWI WORLD SERIES IN AOTEAROA

Story by Jay B. Ziskrout

I'm flying at 35,000 feet, crossing the international date line from yesterday to tomorrow, coincidentally listening to "Get Some Sleep" by New Zealander Bic Runga on the November CMJ New Music Monthly CD (www.cmj.com/nmm). I am headed to Auckland, the cultural capital of one of the most remote nations on earth where extreme sports are thought to have been invented and where, apparently, great music is coming to a rolling boil, prime for international attention and consumption.

But, this is not a "what I did on my (southern hemisphere) summer vacation" story. This is a tale of great music, and the uncommon alliance of extraordinary people behind it. The odyssey began with an invitation, from the Prime Minister of New Zealand, to attend a weeklong celebration and exposition of Kiwi music, dubbed "World Series."

It turns out that in New Zealand, or Aotearoa (the indigenous Maori word for NZ meaning "land of the long, low cloud"), the music community's mission to identify and champion musical culture has found an unusual partner...its government. In fact, the World Series, and other like-minded programs are the product of collaboration between various government agencies and private industry participants.

The equation is largely mathematical: In a country of only 3.8 million people, where a gold record represents sales of only 7,500 units, maintaining a vital national youth culture at home mandates overseas outreach and/or governmental or philanthropic support.

New Zealand's Prime Minister, Helen Clark (<http://www.primeminister.govt.nz/>), understands this new math and an array of innovative programs have been the solution. Prime Minister Clark, who also serves as Minister for Arts, Culture and Heritage, explains, "Strong export markets are crucial to the success of industry in a small country like New Zealand. This is why the government is committed to building the local music industry's foundations in the international market through events like the World Series."

The extent to which the New Zealand government has made itself a true partner with its music industry is truly impressive. The government's programs range from grants for recording, video production and tour support for artists that reach certain thresholds of success on their own. Unlike other governments (including Canada and France) that legislate minimum air-play quotas of domestic music, the NZ Ministry of Culture takes a much more progressive, and active, approach. They produce a regular series of CD samplers called "NZ On Air" and hire independent promoters (a.k.a. "pluggers") to go out and fight for Kiwi on air market share.

The World Series event was conceived of, executed and paid for by a consortium composed of Investment N Z, Trade NZ, Tourism NZ, Industry NZ, NZ On Air, APRA (Australasian Performing Rights Association) and the NZ Music Industry Commission together with non-government entities such as Independent Music NZ and the RIANZ (Recording Industry Association of NZ).

The plan was to bring 15 leaders from various quadrants of the international music industry to New Zealand to see and hear local music up close and personal, far away from the pressing distractions of the office.

Between Bands

The result is that 14 other "musos" (that's Australasian for music industry workers) and I spent a week listening to Kiwi music and sampling the national culture from which it springs (including participating in the America's Cup yacht race preliminaries). My fellow travelers included Arnold Frolows of Australia's Triple J Radio Network; Bill Scull of Tri-State Promotions & Marketing; David Kines of Much Music; Donald Tarlton or The DKD Group and Canadian Music Week; Emma Banks of the U.K.'s Helter Skelter Agency; Julia Frank of Germany's Marek Lieberberg Konzertagentur (MLK); John Watson of John Watson

Management (Silverchair, etc.), Keith Welsh of Music Network Magazine (Australia and Canada); Lewis Largent of Island/Def Jam, Michael McMartin of Melody Management and the IMMF; Ralph James and Steve Herman of The Agency in Canada; Nick Ferrara of Serling, Rooks & Ferrara (represents Creed, The Corrs, etc.); and Rick Arnstein of GMR Marketing.

While I knew that New Zealand was not some sort of suburb of Australia, I had no idea the extent of its unique characteristics, nor did I have a clear picture of the New Zealand music scene. Sure, I knew that the Finn brothers' Split Enz and Crowded House hailed from this two-island nation (despite the fact that Split Enz was generally presented as Australian to North American audiences). I was also aware of the Flying Nun label and bands like Straightjacket Fits; but not much more than that.

By comparison, the mere mention of Australia (Midnight Oil, INXS, Hoodoo Gurus, Silverchair, the Vines, etc.), Sweden (the Cardigans, Millencolin, The Hives, etc.) or even tiny Iceland (Björk, Sigur Rós), and aural images dance across my synapses. I was about to figure out that despite the buzz surrounding such bands as Bic Runga, the D4 and the Datsuns, New Zealand has yet to really receive its props overseas, which appears to be about to change.

But, then again, what relevance does geography have on musical expression? Could it be that music is a vibrant expression, inspired and forged by a certain societal, cultural, temporal or geographical reality? My best guess is "yes" and in the case of New Zealand, its very isolation combined with its unique historical, cultural and political evolution seems to have catalyzed a process of musical Darwinism, not terribly unlike the forces that resulted in the country's national icons, the flightless Kiwi bird and the silver fern.

New Zealand, like New York (originally Nieuwe York), was named by the Dutch. Sailor Abel Tasman dubbed it "Nieuwe Zeeland" as he sailed past on his way to Australia nearly 100 years before Captain Cook planted the English flag. Today, this forward thinking, multicultural (mainly European, indigenous Maori, Polynesian and Asian) South Pacific nation is working hard to make sure that its national artistic culture and character, of which music plays an important part, becomes as world renowned as its wine, bungee jumping and breathtaking natural scenery.

To that end, the various organizations already mentioned, brought in Brent and Helen Eccles of Eccles Entertainment to serve as World Series project coordinators. They commented, "In the past we have been very wary about governments getting involved in the music business. The World Series however shows the rest of the world how the two can work together brilliantly. We had a wonderful team consisting of members of government organisations and members from the private sector.”

They continued, “New Zealand is a very small country and we sometimes suffer from the paranoia that being small can create. On the other hand, we also have a strong desire to show all those bigger what we are capable of. We do have compelling and unique music in New Zealand — our population of Maori, Polynesian, Asian and Pakeha (white) gives us a mix that results in many different cross-pollinations.”

One of the first things the Eccleses did was recruit Australian John Woodruff, the CEO of Rough Cut Music, publisher of The Music Network (Australia & Canada) and artist manager (the Angels, Ice House, Cold Chisel, Boom Crash Opera, the Baby Animals and Savage Garden, etc.) to lead the international outreach. John commented, “Faced with a week in New Zealand with a bunch of my associates and acquaintances from the world wide music biz was never going to be a daunting task. Little did I expect that it was to be one of the most precious experiences of my now lengthy career.”

We arrived jetlagged, but curious. What we discovered over the following eight days could be described as sort of a music biz fountain of youth. A common refrain heard during this week of daily sightseeing activities and nightly artist performances was the sense of innocence, and lack of cynicism, so common in our daily lives back home. The 15 guests bonded with one another and the local industry and government hosts — as people, as professional colleagues and as music fans.

Front and center at the first night of showcases was the dynamic leader of the New Zealand government, the Prime Minister, Helen Clark who made it clear from the start that her government does not judge or meddle with the content of musical expression, but rather appreciates that “New Zealand music is hot” and works to give it every opportunity of being heard around the world.

The first night of showcases featured an array of Kiwi Hip-Hop. While some was more imitative than innovative, unique mixes of Polynesian and/or uncompromising Maori sounds and beats made Heartmusic acts Tha Feelstyle and Dam Native stand out. Dam Native, who has been developing indigenous Hip-Hop for ten years appears on stage dressed as Captain Hook, playing real guitars and proclaiming that they aren't looking for any North American Hip-Hop props. Another notable performance, Nesian Mystic, currently enjoying a NZ hit, mixed R&B with Hip-Hop beats to great effect.

For many in attendance, the second night of showcases set the standard against which all others were measured. A night of solid indie rock, the highlights of which were Goldenhorse, Betchadupa and Evermore.

Goldenhorse has a knack for writing radio-friendly, contemporary pop songs that manage to be extremely accessible without being overly produced or polished. Singer, Kirsten Morelle, has a porcelain voice that highlights each song's rolling melodies and intricate arrangements. The world influences and roots rhythms are what really make this band special and set apart. A guaranteed Triple A darling.

Betchadupa (www.betchadupa.com) features

Liam Finn (son of Split Enz/Crowded House's Neil Finn) on vocals and guitar and Matt Eccles (son of Australia's hard rocking Angels) on drums. The quartet's release, Alphabetchadupa offers up charming pop songs in the vein of Ash meets Semisonic. Highlights include “At The Night,” 2002's Silver Scroll (NZ's songwriting award) finalist “Life Will Be The Same,” “Feed The Dogs”—a tune tiptoeing in boyish sighs, weeping trumpets and fuzzy guitars, and the beautiful “Alphabetchadupa” title track. A sure fit in the North American market, Betchadupa is a band to keep an eye on.

Evermore (www.evermoreband.com) is literally a “band of brothers.” The three brothers, aged 14, 16 and 18, live in a remote farming region of New Zealand's central North island. Home schooled and self-taught playing and composing music, Evermore probably had the most impact of any at the World Series. Their raw and innocent exuberance, technical skills and songwriting sensibilities combined to impact the way I feel about music. The band first achieved national attention by winning a nationwide battle of the bands contest open only to high school students. Their debut EP, Oil & Water, is just being released in New Zealand and Australia. Its first single, “Slipping Away” is getting played in both countries (including heavy rotation on Australia's Triple J Network), will appear on the January/February double issue CMJ New Music Monthly CD. It will also, no doubt, grace the CMJ New Music Report charts in the not so distant future. Owing to their performance at World Series, touring offers, serious A&R interest and airplay activity has been burning up transpacific communications satellites. Don't forget, it was a fraternal collaboration that was at the heart of two of New Zealand's biggest and longest lasting international rock successes.

One of the Kiwi “G-men” that had an active role in developing the World Series and hosting the international guests was the indefatigable Murray Jeffrey, Trade New Zealand's music sector specialist. Murray observed, “The local music industry has enjoyed its two most successful years and our domestic base is very strong with more local music than ever in the charts. The World Series was intended to build on this buoyant industry and the world-class success of several of our major artists. It was also timed to capitalise on the increased international attention on New Zealand as a result of the America's Cup.”

Expanding upon Mr. Jeffrey's observations, Cath Andersen, the Executive Director of the NZ Music Commission pointed out that, “The domestic music industry is really healthy at the moment. Just five years ago, only 3 percent of music played on commercial radio was local and it now averages around 25 percent to 30 percent on rock and youth radio. Also, the number of domestic #1 albums in 2002 has nearly doubled. Having a government that actively supports music has surely had a lot to do with the industry gains made in the last few years. The idea that our government would financially support a project like the World Series would have seemed like a distant dream only a few years ago.”

Andersen continued, “One of the great things about The World Series initiative is that it was an ‘even playing field’ for everyone. It didn't matter if you were signed to the biggest major or the smallest independent, you were showcased in exactly the same way, with the same level of production and care. The invited guests paid the same amount of attention too, night after night. It was great to be able to showcase over 30 world class acts, when our artists who are succeeding in offshore markets like Bic Runga, the Dadsuns and the D4 weren't even here! They were off doing their bit for conquering the world!”

The third night of showcases also had its surprises. Of particular note were Pine and the Brunettes. Pine, charged with the responsibility of opening the show did so in unique fashion. Three guys took the stage with organ, electric guitar and a drummer with nothing more than a snare drum and brushes. To be honest, I felt a yawn coming on. But then, in minutes, I was captivated by creeper hooks enveloped in a refreshingly sparse and airy presentation of folk, punk and pop. Their debut album, Longplayer, was released midyear in New Zealand and attracted significant airplay for the single, "Beaten Again."

The Brunettes (www.lilchiefrecords.com/brunettes) offered up bouncy bubblegum pop with sugary melodies supported by cutesy guitar licks and Heather Mansfield's giddy vocals. With song titles like "Holding Hands, Feeding Ducks," "Summer Love" and "Cotton Candy." The Brunettes keep their tongues firmly in-cheek and the kitsch-factor high, but the songs are still inviting enough to keep listeners interested in their Death By Chocolate-meets-the Cardigans amalgamation.

The next night of showcases featured high-lights Elemenop P, Goodshirt and Blindspott. Elemenop P (www.elemenop.com) is a hooky and humorous rock band fronted by the loquacious Dave Gibson, who sports a new wave style skinny tie on stage. Fresh off a radio hit in NZ with their single "Fast Times In Tahoe" (written by singer David about his days working at the Squaw Valley ski area in Lake Tahoe, CA), the band is now getting attention for its darkly humorous "Nirvana."

Goodshirt (www.goodshirt.co.nz) takes the baton from acts such as Cheap Trick and Fountains Of Wayne by writing upbeat and cheerful indie-rock songs with sweet hooks and just a splash of 1980s synthesizer flashbacks that could easily ensnare the masses. While the band uses layer-upon-layer of guitars, synths, organs, samples, programming and a barrage of percussion that keep the songs fresh enough for repeated listening, all songs remain accessible enough to fall in love with upon first listen. Goodshirt proves its worth with solid songs and the panache of music veterans.

Blindspott (beta.blindspott.co.nz) attacks the ear like a violent storm creeping up on a sleeping village. Soaring with tracks drenched in the intensity of bands such as KoRn, Blindside and Thursday. "Mind Dependency" sneakily opens with an orchestral vibe with slight chanting but quickly develops into a full force metal number. "Suffocate" is another aggressive, yet melodic track ideal for fans of nü-metal.

The final night of showcases was an NZ all-star extravaganza. Six of the country's most successful acts took the stage. Of these the most notable were Stellar*, Che Fu, and New Zealand legend, Dave Dobbyn.

Stellar* (www.stellar.co.nz) is a blazing alterative rock/dance outfit dressed in layers of smooth grooves and electronically tinged anthems. Led by Boh Runga (older sister of Bic), the band delivers trendy, sophisticated music with the edge of Garbage. With a (NZ) multi-platinum album (1999's Mix) under its belt, Stellar* released Magic Line – a disc rich in emotion and spine tingling melody. Party starters include "All It Takes," "Magic Line," "Are You Waiting" and "Sorry." "Taken" unleashes the band's sultry Morcheeba-ish groove while Boh's passionate voice drives "If I Could". Music makers with star power, Stellar* will soon be a household name.

Che-Fu (www.che-fu.com) packs on the soul

Che-Fu

Boh Runga of Stellar*

like a hiker ready for Mt. Everest. This Hip-Hop band has enough R&B elegance to entrance fans of artists such as India Arie, D'Angelo and rap icons Missy Elliot and The Roots. Talented with a mature, layered sound, Che-Fu has obviously been playing this game for a while—a collective suitable for college and commercial markets. The 2001 release, Navigator, is a creative offering. Notable tracks include "Misty Frequencies" and "Share the Info" – a track that flows in smooth rhymes with a subtle touch of reggae.

For over 20 years, Dave Dobbyn (www.davedobbyn.co.nz) has been making music that has served as the soundtrack to Kiwi life. New Zealanders have sung his songs and stuck with him through good times and bad. Currently, Mr. Dobbyn is riding high with his re-recording of "Loyal," the anthem chosen for Team New Zealand's current defense of the America's Cup. While his relevance and appeal may be limited overseas, he is a true Kiwi icon.

The Eccleses reflected on the week long experiment, "As well as NZ bands now having strong contacts overseas, and as well as deals that have already been done — there has been a noticeable lift in the local music community and a stronger bonding between us all."

John Woodruff summed up, "The bands were, on the whole, wonderful. The music was possessed of an innocent passion that was to this point for me, a fading memory from my first few years in this line of work. The New Zealand industry and the government went out of their way to make us fall in love with the place and the people. They could not have succeeded better in this endeavour!"

Cath Andersen articulated what so many of us were thinking, "It was a week that reminded you why you work in music for a living."

Bondi(ng) Beach:

From around the world of music we came as semi or total strangers to share a week of Kiwi hospitality and culture. Eight days later, we left as friends and likely business associates with a deep appreciation and keen awareness of the New Zealand music scene and the uncommon people behind it. Even as NZ exports Bic Runga, The Datsuns and D4 are breaking around the globe, World Series '02 set into motion the machinations of even greater and enduring successes. All of us will no doubt give an extra listen to the next new Kiwi band that lands on our desks. And, I would encourage CMJ readers to do the same.

I'd like to extend my sincere thanks to John Woodruff for the invitation and to Brent and Helen Eccles, Sue Everet, Bridget de Launay and Brendan Smythe for organizing such an amazing event. For their energy, passion and for being all around great people a heap of thanks go to Cath Andersen of the NZ Music Commission, Murray Jeffrey, Reese Brailey and Gretchen Martin of Trade NZ, Issy Martinez of Festival Mushroom Records, Graham Rouse and the rest that helped make our trip so a memorable. Lastly, a special thank you to the Right Honourable Helen Clark for leading such a progressive government that understands the importance of nurturing a healthy national culture, of which music plays such a large part.

G'Day (Kia Ora).

HART OF THE MATTER

I want to thank those who responded to last week's CMJ Retail-sponsored cover story, "Putting The Value Back In Music." There were many of you. It's still, on the surface, a funny proposition: "Putting Value Back!" So, where did it go exactly? What has been losing value, really, is the purchasable artifact the business has staked its current claims on. That's not news, that's just business. But some mistake a downturn in the "perceived value of the format" for a slide in the "value of music" to consumers. Two completely different questions—not even sides of the same coin. So we have to be careful. The kinds of answers/solutions you come up with depend on the kinds of questions you ask. Case and point, the cover story response we received yesterday from Daddy Kool.com's Manny Matalon (St. Petersburg, Florida):

"Thanks for lifting my spirits. Our sales are down seven percent which, compared to a 19.7 decrease in sales at independent retail, must mean I am some kind of genius. The fact that the Best Buys and other box lot-ers have had an increase in sales while the industry as a whole is down nearly 13 percent shows that they are part of the 'value' problem. Not one executive in your article last week talked about lowering prices overall. And the inclusion of TVT was disgusting in an article related to 'value' after they completely raped Paul Westerberg fans (and retailers) with their Mono and Stereo scat."

The point (whether you agree or disagree with Vagrant's Westerberg-marketing this year) represents how so many feel about where one of the abiding questions of "value" still resides and where labels and accounts still can't seem to agree: pricing. How much is too much? Both a simple and extremely complicated question all at once. Consider Mike Fratt's point on co-op support and expenditures below—a concern born from the answer currently being given by labels to that question. Let's stay optimistic about the debate getting healthier before it becomes mute in '03. There may be enough goodwill out there to suggest that we could be.

One thing in particular we'd like to note in this week's issue: This year CMJ Retail clocked in at 200 "Points of Impact." So many great albums with some great marketing moxie behind them (and from time to time, a little brilliance and luck thrown in for good measure). As the year ends, we've chosen our Points Of Impact Albums of 2002. These are albums picked from the "Points" '02 vault who saw the coveted combination of great music, finger-on-the-pulse marketing and retailer's early embrace make a difference that many hoped... but that no one necessarily expected. Check 'em out on page 34. This week we're running the original columns written earlier this year under the title "Before The Impact." Next week, stay tuned for "After The Impact," where we interview those behind this year's "Impact" albums. Our selections? The Hives, Norah Jones, Avril Lavigne and the Streets.

The value of music ain't goin' anywhere.

SPEAK OUT

Mike Fratt
VP of Merchandising, Homers
Omaha, NE

Did you see the article in Billboard 12/7 about indie stores? Someone commented about what the retail landscape will look like next year. He stated that closures at chains may be imminent, leaving indie retail and mass merchants left to fight over the scraps. That may or may not happen, but it begs the question: "With sales of top product moving to mass merchants and away from other music retailers due to pricing, how will that affect co-op expenditures?" The majority of co-op is devoted to new releases and all too often out-of-the-box (which isn't always in a title's best interest—but that's a rant for another time). How will that impact market development funds for the indies? If we're selling less new releases, we're sure to slowly get smaller and smaller co-op support while the big mass merchants get more and more due to increasing sell-through at these big box retailers. All music retailers depend on these funds to reach their customers and to promote their stores. What policies will labels/distributors need to change/implement to prevent further inequality amongst their customers? Obviously bean counters will want to stay within a dollar-per-unit formula. But a single store may not be able to place a 1000-unit order in order to get reasonable funds to promote a catalog sale. We now have a situation where support is essential to indie retail to keep it alive but the economies of the business may leave indie retail out in the cold. Sure, many labels/distributors provide support, sometimes substantial, to indie retailers. But, the fallout of bad biz and layoffs and store closings next year may put pressure on this situation to change. The question is, "change to what?"

"Complicated" featured recently on the WB's new show Glory Days as well as Felicity (both with ad cards).	Press is insane—major praise from Alternative Press , Blender , BPM , Black Book , CMJ Monthly , Complex , Details , EW , the Fader , Flyer , Flaunt , GQ , Gear , Jane , Jive , Mixer , Nylon , Pulse , Remix , Rolling Stone , Shout , Spin , URB , Vibe .
Tour	Just asked to accompany U2 on next leg of tour—they're thinking about it. Also just offered Coachella. Nearly every date throughout England sold out. Will kick off full U.S. tour May 25. Recent (Intl.) Noise Consp. tour helping break band.	NJ's been on tour with Charlie Hunter. Will be at Mountain Stage in March, to Europe for two months and back to U.S. after street date for full tour. Two Mass. and three NYC dates in March. Also opening some dates for Willie Nelson. Will perform at SXSW.	Just finished radio promo tour that began March 6 and ended mid-April. Target markets included SD, LA, SF, Portland, Seattle, SLC, Denver, Austin, Dallas, Chicago, Mnpls, Philly, Boston, NYC, Baltimore, Atlanta and Tampa. Summer and fall tours coming up.	Four dates stateside to support street-week. Shows include San Francisco on 10/22, Los Angeles on 10/24 and NYC 10/26 and 10/27. An 18-20 date, full US tour kicks off mid-January.
Internet	Best info at www.epitaph.com or at www.burningheart.com (Epitaph's sub in Sweden). Free MP3s on Epitaph site as well as video streaming for "Main Offender."	Best info at www.norahjones.com and www.bluenote.com for specific tour dates, bios, pics, press, etc. EPKs will soon be available online as well. Stay tuned to those sites for updates.	Best site is Avril-Lavigne.com. Recently on AOL's home page as a New Artist To Watch. Video streams of "Complicated" and audio streams of "Sk8er Boi" and "Complicated" also available online. Early internet campaign targeting lifestyle and e-commerce sites.	Check vice-recordings.com and the-streets.co.uk. Cornerstone handling online promo and digital street teams. Focus online at AOL, Launch/Yahoo, MTV, VH-1, Windows Media, Real, GetMusic/RollingStone, Heavy, Sputnik7 and Epitonic. Amazon set up with a purchase and stream beginning this week.
Notes	Alan McGee (who signed and found Oasis, Jesus And Mary Chain, Teenage Fanclub, etc.) just released a collection of Hives on his imprint Poptone. Epitaph, not naive to the fact that UK success doesn't mean U.S. sales—has seen the Hives tour winning legions of stateside fans. Keep an eye on this album.	Starbucks is in love with this record and is stocking it in almost 750 of its locations. Album is produced by Arif Mardin. Display materials—tour posters, 1x1s postcards, etc. are all available from Blue Note now.	Avril Lavigne is 17 years old—but this album has an edge to it you wouldn't expect. It rocks. In-store play "Sk8er Boi" and "Losing Grip" and, well, you'll see interest. Posters, flyers, BMG Central flyers, ad-mattes and more all available.	The album is gold in the UK (which doesn't always translate stateside of course) and the story is building in Europe, Japan and Australia. Mike has put together a band that includes bass, drums, keys, samples and back-up vox. He premiered the lineup at Reading in August and blew the crowd away. All questions, hit pat@vice-recordings.com.

On the west bank of the University of Minnesota, Keith Covart opened the first Electric Fetus in June, 1968. The store's inventory grew (and, accordingly, so did its need for space) so in 1971 the Fetus moved to its current home on Fourth Avenue South. Two more Fetuses were birthed in September of 1987—one in Duluth and one in St. Cloud.

Steve Pearson began working as the Fetus buyer 25 years ago and has watched the stores grow in size, number and strength. "The Fetus was really started because we all had a great passion for music," says Pearson. "We wanted to do something we could believe in, have fun doing and also could make a living at."

At three stores and almost 90 employees strong, saying these guys "made it work" is an understatement. "The thing that makes the Fetus different from most stores is that we have such a diverse customer base. We carry all types of music and we're not pigeonholed. That's what has helped us endure tough times. We always have something the really avid music buyer will want to buy."

Q&A with Steve Pearson, Electric Fetus buyer

What local press affects sales most?

The City Pages, a free weekly magazine, as well as daily newspapers The Saint Paul Pioneer Press and Star Tribune.

What radio stations affect sales most?

Minnesota Public Radio really affects us, as well as Cities97 and KQRS.

The electric company: Electric Fetus

Do you have in-stores?

We don't have a lot of in-stores. We try to pick-and-choose ones that fit our demographics and will be fun for our customers and our employees. Highlights include Larry Graham, the Vines, Elvis Costello and Patti Smith.

What is your most effective program?

Our listening stations, particularly because we don't just take any submission but pick things we know will do well if our customers hear them.

What other programs do you offer? Are any of them discretionary?

We have window displays that can be purchased. On a discretionary level, we have new release endcaps that we put as many new titles in each week as we have room for.

What types of non-traditional promotions have worked best?

The one that has really stuck with us, and has kept us in favor with our customers, is the 10 percent discount we give them with the purchase of three CDs or more.

What display materials work best for you?

We don't really do too many displays. There are so many new releases and we want to be able to display as many of them as possible, so we focus more on displaying the music itself.

What are your current and all-time favorite records?

Peter Wolf's Sleepless and Miles Davis's Kind Of Blue.

What's the first record you bought and where?

In the early 1960s, I was walking home from school and these guys were working on their car. I walked over and asked what record they were playing. They said, "It's 'Hound Dog' by Elvis Presley" and I went straight to the grocery store where they had a rack of music and bought it.

What's the best concert you've attended?

The Doors in 1969 at the now-torn-down Minneapolis Auditorium.

Record Rack Sells Itself

Halfway through liquidating the Record Rack—the indie he had owned for 20 years—Bruce Godwin brainstormed the definitive answer to the fate of his store: “I’ve been selling CDs on eBay for years, why not just sell the whole store on eBay? Since the Internet’s taking away my livelihood, I might as well use the Internet to make some livelihood before I go out of business!”

The Record Rack, a Houston staple since 1957, is for sale on eBay. The winner of the auction can take the whole damn thing from the display racks to the pricing gun when the auction ends on December 12.

Record Rack has been located on the same Houston street corner for 45 years, but has found the increasingly download-centric modern music industry too much to handle. “We survived the opening of Best Buy, discount stores,” Godwin says. “We survived the changes from mono to stereo, stereo to quadraphonic, quadraphonic to 8-track, 8-track to cassette, cassette to CD. But when what you sell is available for free, it makes competing virtually impossible.”

Godwin also blames the economy in general and the declining popularity of both dance music and imports (both of which Record Rack specializes in), but also lays blame on the bloated industry. “If the record companies don’t lower the list price of compact discs to below ten dollars, the record business is going to cease to exist,” says Godwin. “A movie studio can sell a Star Wars DVD for $19.99 retail, and the movie costs $150 million to make... It cost $6000 to record [Nirvana’s] Bleach, but it sells for the same price. How can a record company justify [that]?”

Own your very own Record Rack: <http://cgi.ebay.com/ws/eBayISAPI.dll?ViewItem&item=1922997103>.
