Avenue Records recording artists WAR recently stopped in the Big Apple to perform a special unplugged medley of their classic hits on NBC's "Late Night With Conan O'Brien." The group has been on a non-stop promotional tour in support of their recently released boxed set WAR Anthology 1970-1994, celebrating their 26th anniversary in the music business. Pictured on the "Late Night" set are (I-r): "Late Night" talent coordinator Jim Pitt; WAR guitarist Howard Scott; O'Brien; WAR drummer Ronnie Hammon; and WAR vocalist/keyboardist Lonnie Jordon.

COUNTRY MEETS CLASSICAL—The adventurous Concordia Orchestra, under the baton of its artistic director and conductor Marin Alsop, is set to perform in an innovative "Country Meets Classical" concert at Alice Tully Hall on March 2nd. The evening's highlight will be the N.Y.C. premiere of the "Fiddle Concerto For Violin and Orchestra" by eminent country fiddler/composer Mark O'Connor. The three-time Country Music Association Musician of the Year will appear as guest soloist in his first symphonic piece.

Rounding out the program will be David Rimelis' "Dance Of Affinity," a piece of merging musical styles to be performed by ten-piece swing band String Fever, also a N.Y. premiere, and "Centerpiece in A Minor for Piano and Orchestra," by late American composer Edward Collins, to be performed by guest pianist Leslie Stifelman.

O'Connor is one of the most sought-after session musicians around, having appeared on over 400 albums, and received a 1993 Grammy for "Best Country Instrumental Performance." His "Concerto" was originally commissioned by the Santa Fe Symphony Orchestra, where it premiered in 1993. O'Connor made his Carnegie Hall debut in October '93 with the great violinists Issac Stern, Itzhak Perlman and Midori.

SONS OF IRELAND BLACK 47 hit N.Y.C.'s Paddy Reilly's (where they had been doing a weekly Wednesday run) on the 18th as part of the East Coast tour in support of their second SBK/EMI album Home Of The Brave and single "Different Drummer." The group—Larry Kirwan, Chris Byrne, Geoff Blythe, Fred Parcells, Thomas Hamlin and Kevin Jenkins—will hit the Apple again the last week of the tour when they play Irving Plaza on March 17th. The guys even have a new book, Livin' In America, a collection of music and lyrics from the two albums, as well as short stories written by Kirwan to accompany each song.

CLEVELAND CHENIER, son of the late, great Clifton, helped Northerners celebrate Mardi Gras and Fat Tuesday when he brought his group the Red Hot Louisiana Band into Tramps recently; also feeling the mood were New Orleans bar band Cowboy Mouth and zydeco masters Loup Garou, playing at Wetlands; Buckwheat Zydeco played at Tramps; the outstanding cajun fiddler Harry LaFleur and his band were joined by accordion legend Aldus Roger at the Louisiana Bar & Grill; and the Crescent City's happy-time ambassadors, The Dirty Dozen Brass Band, were part of the "Carnival '95'' program at Symphony Space, French Quarter north.

ROSEMARY CLOONEY, much like fellow vets Tony Bennett, Frank, Barbra and such, has gotten her career second-wind. She's comfortably holding court at the high-up Rainbow & Stars room in Rockefeller Center. Sounding smooth and polished as ever, she's still doing real nice things to pop and jazz standards like "Falling In Love Again" and "Sophisticated Lady." Plenty of samples from the new Concord album, aptly titled Demi-Centennial, acknowledging 50 years of high-level crooning in saloons and concert halls.

The Derby nightclub in L.A. was the spot to be as the Tres Hombres Musica label hosted a record release party, poetry reading and concert by L.A. favorites The Ringling Sisters. The Ringling Sisters, known as much for their goings-on about town as their underground poetry and alternative music, were in fine form as they celebrated the success of their bright pink EP "After The Circus." MTV WILL HOST A BENEFIT for Rock The Vote at the Palace in Hollywood on Grammy Eve, Tuesday, February 28. Queen Latifah and Pearl Jam will be honored with the 2nd Annual Patrick Lippert Award, given to individuals who have inspired young people to participate in the political process. Last year the award was presented to R.E.M. at a benefit in New York City.

Judy McGrath, president, MTV Television Network said, "MTV is thrilled to host this benefit for the second year. We're proud to be able to support Rock The Vote's important work promoting political awareness among young people." While an impressive array of guest stars is likely to be there, specifics were still being bandied about at press time due to the demands of many of the expected guests' Grammy schedule. One band who won't be there, at least not in person, is Pearl Jam, as the group is currently touring Asia. However, they will be picking up their award via satellite.

The benefit will be held from 6:30-9:00 p.m.. Ticket prices are $150 each and can be purchased by calling Frances Kidd at 310-559-9334. FORMER REPLACEMENTS' GUITARIST BOB STINSON passed away over the Presidents' Day weekend. Stinson was found dead in his Minneapolis apartment from undetermined causes. The 35-year-old guitarist played with the landmark group on many of their most lauded efforts, including Tim and Pleased To Meet Me, before he left the group in 1986 due to drug and alcohol problems. According to most reports, Stinson had primarily been away from music since his parting with the Replacements.

The funeral was held last week in his hometown of Minneapolis. GRAMMY ADDITIONS: Just added as performers for this year's Grammy Awards are All-4-One, Placido Domingo, John Michael Montgomery, Rollins Band and Gonzalo Rubalcaba.

In post-event news, John Wesley Harding and The Foremen have been added to the ACLU "Banned Together" show at Luna Park. For information on the show, contact Meegan Ochs at (213) 977-9500, extension 214.

In the "what is this world coming to?" department, those purveyors of college rock, The Flaming Lips, recently shot a segment for Fox's hit TV show "Beverly Hills 90210." The Warner Bros. act, riding high on the single "She Don't Use Jelly," performed the song. The next single from their Transmissions From The Satellite Heart album will be "Turn It On." And you can turn it on March 1 when the episode airs. Pictured: Flaming Lips vocalist and guitarist Wayne Coyne on the set of "Beverly Hills 90210."

Spotlight

A Grandé Adventure Rides on "Mike's Bike"

HE'S COME A LONG WAYfrom that Brooklyn neighborhood that natured him as a youth and he's travelled around the world in a variety of fashions. But right now, the fortunes of Beacon recording artist Michael Grandé travels on the radioactive single "Mike's Bike," the second track culled from his Hey Friend album. The single is currently #59 on the Cash Box Top 100 Country Singles chart. The personable folk/Latin singer/songwriter may have forged his craft in the

Michael Grandé

Village, but the ex-marine's perspective about life and his music is the result of broad circumvention. "My musical odyssey actually began running through the streets of Brooklyn with a pair of Jackie Wilson's pants, taking them to the cleaners so he could have them back for his show," Grandé recently told Cash Box during a sit-down interview. Grandé says that his self-examination later began as a Golden Glove boxer and at his high school (Lafayette High), where he says "I was a daydreamer with no particular idea of what I wanted to do with my life.

smoky eafes and clubs around Greenwich

From there, Grandé, the youngest of seven children, commenced on a journey that eventually took from behind the skirt hems of five "gum-popping" sisters to the Vietnam war in its earliest stage. He left along with 11 neighborhood chums, but was the only one to return from the war. But the die had already been cast for Grandé when his friend Willie, a neighborhood bum, died while the performer was in Marine boot camp in San Diego. "That really devastated me because I really had grown up around Willie," says Grandeé, and that man became the inspiration for Grandé to start writing and led to the song

"Willie Lo." "Eleven guys from my neighborhood eventually got killed, but hearing about Willie dying was more painful," he says, adding that the affable spirit had been an eneouragement to him as a youth. "I look back on it now and wonder how I could have been ashamed of my mother for taking in people like Willie. She used to always tell me, 'Everybody has a right to eat.''' The musical journey has taken Grandé on the road with acts such as Richie

Havens (who calls Grandé "one of the finest and most inspiring artists I have ever shared a stage with"), Canned Heat, John Lee Hooker, Van Morrison, Seals & Croft, the late Jim Croee and briefly with Bruce Springsteen. Then came a hiatus during which he got married to world-class Canadian runner Gayle Olinekova, studied for a Ph.D, ran a chain of fitness centers in Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, taught guitar and became a nationally-ranked cyclist...which brings the journey back to the current single, "Mike's Bike'' and the album Hey Friend. "The album was originally titled Brooklyn Rescue Mission [released on E.O.S. Records], because that's what the guys in the neighborhood called my house because my mother was always taking in the poor, the sick and the hungry," Grandé explains, adding that the album titled was changed because it might confuse consumers about the content of the album or suggest that the record was to benefit a charity. "I had no problem renaming the album," Grandé says. "But I'll never forget why I originally called it the Bernefit and the Bernefit originally called it the Brooklyn Rescue Mission.

Indie News: On The Cutting Edge

By Steve Baltin

SAN DIEGO ROCKER MOJO NIXON, who previously went after Elvis and Don Henley in the songs "Elvis Is Everywhere" and "Don Henley Must Die," respectively, has found a new target -David Geffen. However, if you don't have the advance of Nixon's upcoming Wherabouts Unknown album, don't expect to find "Bring Me The Head Of David Geffen" anywhere. The song apparently was not scheduled for inclusion on the album and appeared on the advance due to a manufacturing error. Nixon, in a sure sign of the impending apocalypse, had no comment on the exclusion of the song. "Bring Me The Head Of David Geffen' was written and recorded on the day the Eagles reunion album debuted at #1

The album includes 13 songs and will be released March 7 on Blutarski/Ripe & Ready Records, which is distributed by AEC Distribution. The first single, a cover of the Smiths' classic "Girlfriend In A Coma," went to radio on Valentine's Day (see review on page 7).

REVIEWS By Steve Baltin

hHEAD: Jerk (I.R.S. 30927)

hHEAD are a Toronto-bred trio whose debut full-length CD (they released an EP last year) could use some of the smarminess their name and album cover suggest they possess. The 13 songs here, all of which are one-word titles, are fine, but it's nothing that hasn't been heard before, especially lately. Given their edge isn't coming musically, the trio should be more inclined to let a sense of humor run free. Jerk isn't a bad album, but one gets the feeling it could be a whole lot better. Maybe next time. (S.B.)

THE HELLECASTERS: Escape From Hollywood (Rio Records 2002)

If hHEAD's album is misleading, the packaging on this once could be called a blatant rip-off. One could call it that, or they could call it a pleasant surprise. With the band's name and the record's title it might be safe to assume party rock. but this CD is a classy guitar record featuring superb playing at times and some very elegant riffs. Where the audience is for this record is hard to figure, but those who do find it will be rewarded. (S.B.)

LAIKA & THE COSMONAUTS: The Amazing Colossal Band (Upstart 8010)

Now this is what I mean by sense of humorsurf rock from Finland. You gotta love it. Absurd to the point of bordering on the surreal, Laika & The Cosmonauts' music is no disgrace, and that's all they really need to be, because the style is what makes the record work. In addition, the group, and Upstart, aren't trying to fool anyone. They know what they are, and they proudly admit it in the CD's packaging, which is highlighted by a photo of Laika, The Space-Dog. If there's not a cartoon here, someone is missing the boat in a big way. (S.B.)

LATIMER: World's Portable (World Domination 0021)

Only a five-song EP, World's Portable makes up in quality what it lacks in quantity. From the opening strains of "Carolida," Latimer attack the listener with a ferociousness that challenges fans to leave the cozy confines of their sugar-coated pop and embrace the energy of rock. A blistering effort, this EP will leave audiences anxiously awaiting the next work from Latimer. (S.B.)

PICK OF THE WEEK

DIABLO SOL: Pound (Red Onion Records 2337)

Listening to Diablo Sol can be a bit bewildering at times; their sound doesn't fall neatly into any category and there's nothing particularly unique about it, but "Siddartha" or the rocking "Pound For Pound," Diablo Sol's music ingratiates itself into the listener's conscience. The thing about the Austin quartet is that they play like they mean it. There's a hunger on Pound, especially on "Pound For Pound," where lead vocalist Burke sings "I know I stand for something" over and over. In these days of multi-million contracts and debut efforts that sell 5,000,000 copies, the genuine passion of a band trying to make it is something special. (S.B.)

REVIEWS By Steve Baltin

BLUES TRAVELER: "Run-Around" (A&M 8341)

The second single from Blues Travelers' Four album is a delightfully upbeat tune peppered with an optimistic hook that is guaranteed to have fans smiling. The poppy melody is tinged with a bastardized version of reggae. The resulting sound is one that stands out like a smoldcring flame in the often dark scene. If the weather holds up, this could be the anthem for the start of spring.

THE PRIMITIVES: "Crash—The '95 Mix" (RCA 64284)

This peppy number could end up being '95's answer to the Proclaimers' "I'm Gonna Be (500 Miles)." Taken from the soundtrack to Dumb & Dumber, "Crash-'95 Mix" brings back to life a song that still garners the occasional Modern Rock airplay. Distinctly '80s pop in style, reminding one of Nena's "99 Red Balloons," the combination of audience recognition and the continued success of Dumb & Dumber may lead to a sleeper hit.

FREDDIE JACKSON: "Rub Up Against You" (Street Life 78018)

Trying to be a sultry number, Freddie Jackson's latest suffers from being too smooth. The detached keyboard beat might work in some situations, but not in a song that says, "Girl, I'm in a freakin' mood, I just wanna rub up against you." Distant and removed isn't the order of the day for this type of lamenting. Then again, it's likely to be a hit, though the crossover appeal is limited.

MELISSA ETHERIDGE: "If I Wanted To" (Island 854 238)

After entering the charts at a blistering #16 (that's where it debuted!!), there can be no doubt that Etheridge is the current queen of the singles charts. It couldn't have happened to a more deserving performer, either. A slow-building riser, Etheridge broke out with "Come To My Window," and since then there's been no stopping her. Another in her steady stream of bluesy rockers, "If I Wanted To" showcases her biggest asset—that powerful singing style. As a bonus, the single features a live version of "Like The Way I Do," taken from her self-titled debut. That in itself makes the single worth picking up.

PICK OF THE WEEK

MOJO NIXON: "Girlfriend In A Coma'' (Blutarski/Ripe & Ready Records 0666) The subtitle on the single cover says it all, "The Anti-Morrissey." After performing a fairly straight-ahead rockabilly version of the Smiths* tune, Nixon launches into one of his best attacks yet. Starting with the refrain, "1, Mojo Nixon, am the Anti-Morrissey," Nixon goes into a diatribe that says, among other things, "I like my meat, I like it sweet. I like to get laid." Nixon concludes by saying, "Hey, Morrissey, kiss my big hairy butt." Yes, it's classie Nixon, and it's hilarious. And even Morrissey fans must realize how much the subject is ripe for satire. Look for this one to approach the high level of success Nixon had with "Elvis 1s Everywhere."

The Anti-Morrissey

POP ALBUMS

REVIEWS by Steve Baltin

SIOUXSIE & THE BANSHEES: The Rapture (Geffen 24630)

Siouxsie & The Banshees are in some ways the elders of the alternative scene, having had success at Modern Rock radio when it was truly alternative and having been featured performers at the first Lollapalooza. But that doesn't necessarily translate into automatic approval in the fickle world of rock, where bands who've been at it five years are old. Recognizing that, the band enlisted former Velvet Underground member John Cale for partial production duties on their 14th album. The result is an album that may well be the best of the group's career. Combining their psychedelic sensibilities on the delightfully gothic and eerie "Not Forgotten" with pop musings never before seen on "O Baby," Siouxsie & The Banshees have hacked out a place for their sound in 1995 by reminding audiences of what the initial allure was.

POSTER CHILDREN: Junior Citizen (Sire/Reprise 45737)

The new album by Champaign's Poster Children is marked by inconsistencies, but the group score a bullseye with the Big Star-sounding "He's My Star." A lovely mid-tempo ballad, the song is a pop dream. The band incorporate that same style on "Drug I Need" to similar success. The problems come when they try to jack up the pace, as on the title track or "Revolution Year Zero." However, the sporadic moments can be expected. Though the Poster Children have been around for a while, they are still young enough to be finding their sound. One can only hope they follow the direction of "Drug I Need" or "He's My Star."

THE TRAGICALLY HIP: Day For Night (Atlantic 82729)

Day For Night is a hybrid of college music styles, from a slight U2 influence on the opening track "Grace, Too," to a Call sound on the record's middle songs, "Nautical Disaster" and "Thugs." The Canadian outfit make the imitative mode work with strong musical lines, both figuratively and literally. The band's meaty arrangements, many of which are based around superb bass playing, have a form of energy that isn't found much anymore. Instead of going for the frenzied pace of pop/punk or the quiet storm of acoustic music, The Tragically Hip's edge comes from a slow, pulsating hook. Both Modern Rock outlets and AOR should be intrigued by this CD.

DANNY TATE: Nobody's Perfect (Charisma Records 40090)

Danny Tate has perked up the industry's ears with his singing and songwriting. After listening to his debut, it's understandable. A largely rock effort in attitude, the album has too many country influences to be lumped in with the rest of the AAA scene, but Tate is likely to appeal to those same fans. A prime example of Tate's experimental approach comes with the lovely "The Other Road," which features a moving piano arrangement. The album is filled with little gems, such as the Chris Issak-sounding "Dreamin" or "Where The Sun Goes Down." A delightfully eclectic mix, Tate's simpilstic songs make Nobody's Perfect a diamond in the rough.

ARMAGEDDON DILDOS: Lost (Sire/Warner Bros. 45718)

Fusing techno with punk tendencies on some tracks and New Wave stylings on others, the duo known as Armageddon Dildos have come up with a spotty effort, but one that is infectious when it does work. Summoning up the early ghosts of New Wave on occasion, including Adam (while still with the Ants), Lost serves a nostalgia need that hasn't been bludgeoned by oversaturation. In addition, the pre-Lollapalooza Ministry sounds feel as if they've never gone out-of-date. And commercially they haven't. Armageddon Dildos' trip down the '80s lane has a built-in fan base...a guaranteed pleaser in the underground scene, and maybe beyond that. Of note: "Too Far To Suicide," which features a great melodramatic beginning.

where in the middle. While anyone who's seen Wholly Moses knows where the adage "too many cooks..." comes from, but Watt, who sticks primarily to bass on the record, insured that wouldn't be the case here by writing every song and producing the record himself, thereby maintaining some semblance of order and continuity. Highlights include "Chinese Firedrill," "Heartbeat" and "E-Ticket Ride.'

PICK OF THE WEEK

MIKE WATT: Ball-Hog or Tugboat (Columbia 66464)

As a member of the Minutemen in the early '80s, until the death of D. Boon in 1985, and then L.A. rock heroes fIREHOSE. Mike Watt has become one of the seminal figures on the true alternative/punk scene, the one that breathes in the underground clubs and fanzines. That may not be where alternative comes from these days, but that's where most of the bands on the charts come from, and they don't forget their roots. The result is that Watt's first solo album is the underground "We Are The World," featuring guest appearances from everyone from Lemonhead Evan Dando to Henry Rollins, with members of That Dog, Beastie Boys, Red Hot Chili Peppers, Porno For Pyros and Dinosaur Jr, to name but a few, some-

REVIEWS by M.R. Martinez

DENNIS BROWN: Nothing Like This (RAS 3137). Producers: Junior Reid & D. Brown Dennis Brown can actually sing. No surprise. He's been called reggae's Arthur Prysock, but since the early '80s this man has managed to become a reluctant R&B/reggae fusionist and keeper of progressive music from an all-too-often narroweast genre. This is urban/pop at its best. Tracks that hit-well, the entire album hits-include "There's Nothing Like This" (which inspired the album's title), and one-love songs such as "Have You Ever Been In Love," "Come Home," "Give Love A Chance" and "Come Let Me Love You." But this ain't soft. Give "Slave Driver" a chance.

FUN^DA^MENTAL: Selze The Time (Beggars Banquet/Atlantic 92421). Producer: Aki Nawaz.

Producer Aki Nawaz sculpts a delicious and vicious sonic tribal diatribe around the Muslim-driven words of this Afrocentric collective. These mic moves owe as much to the British sound system ethic as it does to the freestyle grooves of Da Phareyde. This is The Fire This Time. The group has wasted not in its attitude on the title track--"Sieze The Time." But the real noise kicks in on "President Propaganda," "Dollars Or Sense," and the massive Middle Eastern groove of "Mr. Bubbleman." The political dynamics are dropped in via samples of speeches by Muslim leader Louis Farrakhan and excerpts from other sources. But the original dialog here is the thing. It's 11:65 A.M.

VIEUX DIOP (VIA JO): (BIVia Jo (Wordly/Triloka 7209). Producer: Brian Keane.

Whether it be the rhythmic music of the Middle East or the musings from a Central Africa savannah, this man serves up bobbing, weaving grooves that are undeniable to the human pulse. Where Baabaa Maal, Angelique Kidjo, Salif Keita and Kings Sonny Ade and Okuson have forged a way, this artist has easily walked into the pop traffic understanding he is more than an emissary of the world's beat. Singing in both his native tongue and English, Via Jo is at ease, especially on the tracks "Banana" and "Lee.

CLARENCE (GATEMOUTH) BROWN: The CLA Man (Verve 523 761).

So much (and more) for icons of blues. Roots? Bubbling along as a visible filament in the connection to the cotton fields of Mississippi and the downtown Loop ie m of Chicago, Gatemouth walks through open doors on a litany of soul, ranging from the El' Train funk of "Honky Tonk" to the zydeco-juiced "Say You Love Me" (Paula Abdul should be so lucky) and "Big Mammou." The high point of the album is "Un- ANES chained Melody," which lingers on convention then becomes something for urban and new adult radio to think about.

PICK OF THE WEEK

FREDDIE JACKSON: Private Party (Street Life/Scotti 75457). Producers: Hush Prods.

This man might be laboring in the shadow of homeboy Luther, yet he has managed to forge a unique make-the-homegirl-peel-back-her-bedclothes and show you the "Private Party" thang. Jackson's album is a compendium of alluring soul, carefully couched in the R&B songwriting language that has made the genre most visceral and enduring. Jackson's first single "Rub Up Against You" is as funky as it is provocative. But the track "No One Else" is as demonstrative an example of traditional R&B sensibilities as anything currently available to urban radio. A Gold-selling artist, always on the verge of greater things, Jackson might flirt with more precious metal.

Special guests Toni Braxton, Brian McKnight, Sheila E and Keith Washington, along with executives of Reprise Records and its WEA distribution arm, joined Take 6 during a recent Los Angeles performance at the House of Blues. Pictured after the show are (I-r): Rich Fitzgerald, Reprise; Joey Kibble, Claude McKnight III of Take 6; Howie Klein, Reprise president; David Thomas, Take 6; Chris Palmer, v.p. of progressive music-Nashville; Tegra Little, WEA sales manager; (kneeling): Brian Avnet, manager; Mark Kibble, Alvin Chea and Cedric Dent, Take 6; and Steve Zapp, Reprise.

JAZZ BOWL: A veritable salad bowl of talent will be on hand June 17-18 at the Hollywood Bowl for the 17th running of the Playboy Jazz Festival. The line-up covers eonsiderable ground stylistically and generationally. Herbie Hancock and Al Jarreau meet Geri Allen. Grover Washington meets Boney James. The fresh traditionalism of Horace Silver and Benny Carter meets Hiroshima. The Brecker Brothers get busy on the stage as the Gerald Wilson Orchestra and the Dirty Dozen Brass Band kibitz in the wings. The all-female big band Diva will dance in the same open-air space on the time stream as Los Angeles-based roots group Los Lobos.

Making their first appearances will be trumpet great Donald Byrd with his New Black Byrds and flautist Herbie Mann. Mambo great Cachao and Kevin Mahogany also provide dimension to the 1995 festival lineup. And for good measure, the ubiquitous Bill Cosby will serve as host and also follow-up his impromptu performance with Joe Williams at last year's fest with the debut of his own band, The Cos of Good Music. Debuting exclusively at the Playboy Jazz Festival, this band alone will feature some of the most venerable and hottest talent, including sax luminaries Stanley Turrentine and Charles McPherson, up-and-coming sax stars Craig Handy and James Carter, remarkable bassist Christian McBride, pianist Benny Green and Greg Hutchinson on drums.

As usual, the equally ubiquitous George Wein of Festival Productions, Inc. will serve as producer, and the tireless Darlene Chan will be the associate producer. The main Playboy, Hugh Hefner, is the executive producer of this hallmark event and Richard Rosenzweig is the president of Playboy Jazz Festivals, which last year launched a touring show.

Spragga Benz (aka DJ Carlton Grant), who has raised raves in his Jamaican homeland, New York, London and Miami with the track "Jack It Up," has entered a worldwide recording contract with Capitol Records. The dancehall riddim blaster from Kingston was spotted by Capitol A&R staffer Stacy Greenberg, who enthusiastically urged his signing. The label is releasing the debut single, "A-1 Lover" b/w "Body Good," due out March 23rd, in advance of the album Uncommonly Smooth, due out in May of this year. The album features a cover of "Spanish Harlem," with Spragga being joined by Ben E. King himself. Pictured are (I-r): Greenberg, Capitol A&R project manager; Spragga; and Gary Gersh, Capitol president/CEO.

MULTI-FACETED DUB FEST: Distinctly different styles representing a spectrum of reggae '95 was the hallmark of the 14th Annual Bob Marley Day Festival held over a two-day span at the Long Beach Arena Feb. 18-19 amid the usual carnival atmosphere of colorful sights and savory food aromas, soothing incense smells and other herbal odors. Main headliners Steel Pulse, Inner Circle and Ini Kamoze, like the cornucopia of foods, clothing and gift items being vended, satisfied a variety of musical appetites.

The multi-faceted reggae blend of veteran band Steel Pulse and the roots approach of old school skanksters Inner Circle, contrasted sharply with the hardcore toasting of Kamoze and the hip-hopped dancehall posing of female chanter Patra.

It was Steel Pulse that demonstrated how reggae musical attitude is compatible with most any genre of music, with their more-than-one set ranging from roots blue beat sounds to New Jack Swing funk. Thankfully, the Steel Pulse set explored the rich legacy of the band's material instead of focusing on their latest (and perhaps last) MCA Records album Vex. A smart and seasoned touring band, Steel Pulse knows how to rock an arena with true rhythm, sound and fury. And lead singer/guitarist David Hinds continues to demonstrate why he is one of the most compelling frontmen in the reggae universe. Slated to headline both days of the Long Beach Fest and another date at the San Diego Sports Arena, the group didn't hold back the energy.

Kamoze postured like a boy from the hood and served up music like one of the reggae deejays of the mid-'70s. The music was frightfully close to genuine and did not necessarily resemble (thankfully) the sound and production of his U.S. pop chart success "The Hotstepper." But Kamoze borrowed from the burgeoning trend among rap artists—saving your top hit for the encore.

Patra, the protégé of ribald dancehall dandy Shabba Ranks and the woman who scored Gold honors with her U.S. debut album Queen of the Pack, delivered a set that relied more on visual presence than commanding delivery, more on sex than sexiness. She and her pair of wiggling and writhing dancers stoked the libidinous fires of many of the younger male fans, but many of the roots fans were openly disdainful of the set.

Offering some traditional sounds, but far lcss energy than Steel Pulse, was Inner Circle. This roots band has become a pop fave in the United States because of its track "Bad Boys," the theme from the Fox TV program "Cops." But their set closed the show with the back-beat grooves that Marley himself made famous as the international ambassador of the music. Inner Circle ironically performed one of Bob Marley's major anthems, "One Love." But this Marley fest offered one love in many hues.

News From U.S. & Latin America

By Hector Resendez

HE'S CALLED "THE NARRATOR OF LOVE." Pop fans can call him Rafael Armando. And his label, SDI, describes him, with all eager anticipation, as among the new generation of singers for the next millennium. The 27-year-old writer-singer from Peru recently released his first solo production Si Tu Me Lo Pides, and the debut single release is the ballad "Como Te Extrano." His musical career started at the early age of 14, when he played guitar for the first time. In a short span of time, Armando found himself making personal appearances in his native country. He soon formed part of a adolescent group called CLIP, occupying first place with their first album for CBS Discos de Peru. And to better his musical knowledge, Rafael Armando attended music schools in Lima and in Florida.

On his solo debut effort, the composer-vocalist evokes feelings of falling in and out of love. The first release was timed well with Valentine's Day here in the U.S. Armando's voice rings with youthful radiance and melancholic wistfulness. The second release is a ballad piece by composer Reynaldo "Pachi" Lopez called "Un Beso De Quien Mas." In all justice, there are rock tunes included as well as the sure-fire ballads. One is the singer's own work, "Prisonero De Ti," where he performs vocals and plays electric guitar and drums.

All in all, Rafael Armando does signify a new breed of pop artists that will fill respective charts in the next decade to come. Look for SDI to place heavy priority on this rising star on the international pop scene...

Also coming into its own in '95 for SDI is KAOS. Actually, the musical group has been doing well in its relatively short time (one year) as a premiere merengue band from Puerto Rico. Since most groups of this type come predominately from the Dominican Republic, the commercial success of this young SDI group says much of their widespread appeal on their island. The time to explore new horizons is a welcomed challenge for KAOS. Says Guillermo Torres, creator and director of the group, "Our recent union with SDI permits us to take our music to other Spanish-speaking countries that we have yet to reach while allowing us to keep Puerto Rico as our home base."

LOWDOWN

The first single release is a merengue composed by Torres called "Puerto Rico." The debut KAOS album offers more than just merengues. There's the bachata number "Vuleveme A Amar" with vocals by Michael Rosario and the cumbia-tinged "Muchachita."

KAOS has succeeded in producing a strong project that is certain to do well in Puerto Rico and beyond.

YEAR OF THE ANGELS: One might think of artist Keith Chagall as a native Angeleno who believes in angels. (Living in L.A. sorta does that to people.) The Colombian singer-writer-producer recently released Angels On The Faultline, his first album on the Seven Thunders/Miracle Records label.

The 11-song production, says Chagall, is what he describes as "new pop" blending rock, pop and ballads with his particular styling. All but one of the numbers is in English. Ironically, it is that Spanish number, "Sara Espcrame," that has been a hit for Chagall. To date, he has sold over 30,000 units independently.

Chagall is proud of all that he has accomplished. Obviously, he feels that his album would well-accepted if it had more exposure. "We have 90 A/C radio stations giving us airplay with 10 additional stations on the Spanish-language side. The album is being heard from Alaska to Florida," says Chagall. "I believe my compositions reflect melodies and lyrics that inspire and are uplifting.' Chagall definitely has an optimistic attitude. He recently signed with the booking agency ICM.

Keith Chagall

With a bit of angelic intervention and his continued persistence, Chagall's carecr could very well be taken to a "higher level.

REVIEWS By Hector Resendez

KEITH CHAGALL: Angels On The Faultline (Seven Thunders/Miracle Music 10012) Producers: Keith Chagall and Larry Brown.

Composer-singer-guitarist Chagall scems to be one of those rare artists who's got all the right ingredients for success. His first album contains a fine mix of pop, rock and introspective ballads. The Colombian-born artist expresses an optimistic philosophy about life that does not ring as phony messages. There is one Spanish-language cut, "Sara Esperame," which has already been receiving significant airplay across the nation. The George Harrison classic "While My Guitar Gently Weeps" is another fine sampling of Chagall's fine acoustically-based style with his KAOS: Kaos 1995 (SDI 81467) Producer: Guillermo Torres.

This is the debut recording for KAOS, a young Puerto Rican band specializing in merengue music. The first single release, "Puerto Rico," should fare well on the group's native island as well as in the world's merengue capital, Santo Domingo. KAOS is striving to achieve an international following by incorporating popular rhythms such as bachata and cumbia. The group's producer, Guillermo Torres, reveals his talent as a composer as well as that of musical producer. KAOS puts on a strong showing on this first production.

CAL TJADER: Amazonas (Fantasy 840) Producer: Airto.

This 1975 classic recording by vibes giant Cal Tjader was produced by percussionist Airto, who recruited some of the most innovative musicians from his native Brazil to join Tjader. A great advocate of Afro-Latin music, this album is one of Tjader's projects in the final decade of his career. The arrangements were done by George Duke. This album will be a sure hit with Tjader enthusiasts.

PICK OF THE WEEK

GUADALUPE PINEDA: Enamorase Asi (BMG Ariola 22501) Producer: Pepe Aguilar.

No wrong can ever befall popular Mexican vocalist Guadalupe Pineda. Her latest album is an excellent example as to why Pineda remains one of the best loved romantic singers in Latin America. Enamorase Asi offers material written and performed by some of the best Latin composers and peformers. Consumers and fans alike will enjoy Pineda's signature medleys and tributes. On this album, the late legend Javier Solis is remembered. Pineda is a consistent winner both with her recordings and stellar performances.

THE BRITS: The 1995 Brit Awards, which took place at the Alexandra Palace in London on Monday 20, was televised to 41 different countries the following day, Tuesday 21. The show is without doubt improving each time, but in my opinion, still has a long way to go before it can compete with the Grammys. Madonna's performance was average, as was the song.

If they ever decide to make a film about Lady Godiva, then Madonna would be perfect casting.

Blur scored four of the awards, but for the life of me I don't know why. Winning is one thing and I congratulate them for their achievement, but they could at least make an effort in regard to their presentation and behaviour.

'94 THE BEST YEAR YET: According to the latest B.P.I. survey, the music industry achieved record delivery figures in 1994. The success of albums by artists including The Beautiful South. Bon Jovi, The Beatles and Now compilation helped push album shipments to 74.3 million in the last three months of the year, a 28.6% increase on the same period in 1993.

The figures pushed the total shipments to a record high of $\pounds 917.5$ million for the whole year, up on 1993 by a huge $\pounds 131.8$ million or 16.8%.

WELL DONE, ANNIE: Congratulations to Annie Lennox on her hit single "No More I Love Yous." It's a great record and video and I am sure the album Medusa will be equally as good. (Prediction C.B. Feb. 4th.)

ESP CHANGE NAME: Multimedia company Electronic Sound and Picture (ESP) is changing its name to EXP. Founder and managing director Graham Brown-Martin says the new name will help distinguish the company from others who share the ESP moniker. ESP was acquired last year by Virgin Interactive Entertainment, which is controlled by Blockbuster Entertainment. It has designed the presentation for next week's MW Awards, the world's first fully electronic awards show.

CASSON BECKMAN SUSPENDED: Casson Beckman has been suspended from investment business for 30 days by the Institute of Chartered Accountants. The action has taken over three "minor technical breaches." Raymond Fear, director of practice regulation department at the ICA, says the ICA monitoring unit uncovered a "couple of areas of coneern" following a visit to Casson Beckman as part of its investigation into former partner John Goldring.

U.K. POP PRESS ON THE DECLINE: Pop magazines took a dive in the latest set of ABC figures which show a generally buoyant market for the rock press. While Emap's Big and Smash Hits reported marked declines, the only titles which have posted increases were Q, Select, NME, and Vox. Loaded and Mojo both reported launch ABC's above their advertisers guarantee.

TRING ENTER THE VIDEO ARENA: Tring International is entering the video market with the release of 100 titles on March 6. The initial range will be made up of product licensed from Video Collection International, Video Games and Simitar, spanning children's sport, keep-fit and TV-related titles.

BMI executives joined Ace of Base at the recent MIDEM to celebrate the worldwide success of the Swedish group's album The Sign and hit singles "All That She Wants" and "The Sign." Kenny Rogers: Going Home Special on The Disney Channel

By John Goff

Kenny Rogers

HOW LONG HAS KENNY ROGERS been around? Sometimes it doesn't seem like long, another time it seems like forever. Depends on which area of music you're listening to him in. And actually, 30 years in this business is pretty much forever. If it doesn't seem like a long time, perhaps he's just moving into a new area and he just seems like he's breaking out—again.

He may have trouble making himself seem like he's new after you watch him on The Disney Channel Sunday, March 5 at 9 p.m. He is spotlit in this special in every musical arena he's ever been in. If he's to hit anything new in the future, it'll have to be rap.

Kenny Rogers: Going Home takes a history of the performer's career, beginning with the beginning as a member of the jazz trio The Bobby Doyle Three; his folk period with the New Christy Minstrels; rocking with the First Edition; country with Dolly Parton; and as a single delving into standards and back to jazz. At the end of the show you only suddenly realize, he's done it all.

Musically he re-joins Bobby Doyle and Don Russell for "It's A Good Day" after a jazzy "Walkin' My Baby Back Home" opening on stage at L.A.'s House Of Blues and later is joined by Take 6 on "Love Is Just Around The Corner." Interspersed throughout are vintage footage of Rogers working in the various guises and styles of music: duoing with Parton on "Islands In The Stream"; First Edition and the first appearance of the now trademark beard on "Just Dropped In (To See What Condition My Condition Was In)"; vintage footage of "Ruby" and several incarnations of "Sweet Music Man" which he's, apparently, been doing forever.

Intercut throughout these are moments with Rogers simply sitting, talking through his career history on periods, citing the time with the Bobby Doyle Three as the one which impacted him greatest, musically; assessing himself as "...an entertainer. I don't consider myself a great singer...I have an identifiable voice...and I tell a good story." He cites Lionel Ritchie for helping with his country/R&B tracks which produced "Lady." And he defines his outlook as "...totally future-oriented. I can't change the past but I can change the future...Memories are wonderful but you've got to go forward." And for longevity: "Love what you're doing."

It's an easy, enjoyable show, executive produced by Ken Kragen; produced and directed by Kelly Junkermann. David Foster was musical director. Show is a Kelly J Production in association with Kenny Rogers Productions.

Feature

Richard Rush Gets His Color On Cassette Debut

By John Goff

In a new wrinkle, and perhaps precedent setting deal, director Richard Rush's vision of the film is the first home video ever to be released in a different cut than the studiocut theatrical form. DIRECTOR RICHARD RUSH has just returned from Spain—one of the great cities of the world, Madrid—where he attended the theatrical release of Color Of Night.

His version's release, not Hollywood Pictures/Cinergi's release as seen on theatre screens in the U.S.

Rush was able to get his version out theatrically in some foreign territories only after the other version had pretty much fallen on its Suittruncated ass elsewhere and he went to the powers that be and said, in essence, Alright, let me see if my vision will play theatrically. It did, according to the director. Very well. Even dubbed into a foreign language, Rush reports, the story was easily followed and it came in at the box office in Spain ahead of Pulp Fiction.

Ahhh, vindication. Sweet.

Maybe you remember, maybe you don't. Color Of Night was Rush's first film on the screen in 14 years. First since The Stunt Man, for which Rush was Academynominated for Best Screenplay and Best Director. This releasing agreement is also another first: First time a Director's Cut version has opened on home video. That came about because Rush's vision didn't make it to the screens here in the U.S.

Originally the director had three previews to hone his film: "If they didn't like it after three previews they could cut it," Rush told Cash Box at his Bel Air home. Rush didn't get his three previews before he was fired and had a heart attack. Businessmen edited—let's call that experimented on, edited implies having a working knowledge with creativity—Color Of Night and in theatrical release necessary relationships between characters in the story were missing. Drawing an analogy, "Scenes [are] basically constructed as jokes, with punchlines," Rush says, and they "took out the punchlines...which leaves you [the audience] in a very strange place."

There's good news and bad news in regard to the new editing technology generated by computers and technological wizards. The good news is that it speeds the editing process up for creators. The bad news is that it makes it easy for anyone to make suggestions in the present-day process of cutting a director's film; thus when bean counters take over the editing room it's not unlike a proctologist stepping into the operating theatre in place of a brain surgeon. Basically that's what happened to Rush's Color Of Night and it showed at the box office.

In an unprecedented move Richard Rush was given a free hand in editing the home video version debut release which is currently on the market. This is the first time a filmmaker has been given this freedom.

What was he doing in those 14 years between The Stunt Man and Color Of Night? "I was almost doing three or four other pictures," Rush relates...Air America—which is yet another Machinations of Hollywood story for another time—and Batman among them. Ultimately Cinergi sent the initial Color Of Night script by Billy Ray and he found himself intrigued with the "illusion vs. reality notion," but "it was going off in the wrong direction." He "saw it as a metaphor for relationships today" and worked through a trio of drafts with the writer before they filmed it.

Now his vision of Color Of Night is out and he says, "That's the picture I tried to make—love it or hate it—it's what I made." Rush says he loves the performance levels from his cast, which includes in addition to star Bruce Willis, Lance Henriksen, Lesley Ann Warren, Brad Dourif and Jane March. And, yes, it does make sense now and performances are whole.

What's next? Well, once he's rested up from Spain he'll begin reviewing some ideas he has and moving on. Let's just hope it's not 14 years between now and the next one, and he has better luck with it.

Quotes

*Cash Box —

MICHAEL GRANDÉ: Hey Friend (EOS/BCN 10132).

There is an acoustic dialectic working on this record. Singer/songwriter/guitar player Grandé works the milieu of modern urban folk and finds a niche that is truly his alone. While he might be, if one were to stretch the imagination, compared to Leo Kottke as a fretman, Grandé does not rely on technical skills as much as he attempts to emote. Tracks like "Mike's Bike," "Looking Good Bye," and "So Long Past The Leaving" are examples of this artist's endeavor to be diverse. POP PICK OF THE WEEK

*Variety —

"Michael combines a fine voice and good guitar work in a mixed array of folk and Latin material."

*Cue Magazine-

"Michael is a brilliant lyricist-composer, and he has warmth and charm which, when he performs, light up any room."

*Rock N Reel ----

"Michael Grandé is something of a rennaissance man. A richly varied and multi faceted talent Michael Grandé's debut has been a long time coming. "Hey Friend" is worth more than a casual listen.

*Richie Havens—

"Michael is one of the finest and most inspiring artist I have shared the stage with."

CRS: THE EARLY YEARS

By Judy Harris

Record promoter, country deejay and one of the "founding fathers," the late Biff Collie at CRS 1974.

CHARLIE MONK HAS VOLUNTEERED ME for many projects in our longtime professional relationship. The Country Radio Seminar was probably the most personally fulfilling.

I had no idea when agreeing to this endeavor how rewarding it would be, and how many wonderful people I would meet. The Seminar was truly born from a dream of Tom McEntee, a man with more energy than the law allows and a heart as big as Texas. I remember that energy, and his true respect and love for broadcasting. These qualities garnered help from other energetic folks, and when I came aboard as secretary there was a working core of fabulous people.

If anyone thought of the Seminar as a potential party, they were living on another planet. I saw so much of Tom, Gayle [Hill], Jean [Stromat], Barbara [Starling], Jerry [Seabolt], Biff [Collie], Dave [Olson], Ellen [Tune] & Frank [Mull], I thought we were family. I don't know how often we met, but the ASCAP boardroom was re-named "Seminar Central."

The most impressive thing about the Seminar was the actual concept, a working two-day academic/networking situation for country broadcasters in small, medium and large markets. Sharing ideas and successes that help their own broadcast industry...what a concept!

The Founding Fathers were ruthless (is adamant a better word?) in this concept, and I recall what pressure at times this put on some who had real jobs in the record industry. The Fathers did not want the Seminar to be a replica of the "Dee-Jay Convention," and I remember the bars at the hotels were actually patrolled while sessions were being held.

Mac [Allen] was such a hard worker and such a great guy to work with as were so many more: Dave [Donahue], John [Brown], Susan [Roberts], Carson [Schreiber], Elroy [Kahanek]...the list goes on and on.

The person who changed heated debates into normal discussions and who had the easiest going personality I've seen was Biff Collie. He had so many different jobs and did them all so well. He was such a pleasure to work with!

All of us got crash courses in how to do jobs totally foreign to us. From registration, to catering, to coming up with interesting agendas, to table decorations, name-tags, tickets, shuttle buses, the new faces show, and the worst of all-last-minute changes-these dedicated people worked hours not to be believed.

Since I started this little trip down memory lane with Charlie Monk, it's only fair to end it here. He was there with Tom from the inception. He was perfect in his role as devil's advocate at meetings. But he was probably the best with the worst jokes at the "New Faces Show." At least he kept everyone's attention!

Wonder what Tom had to eat for dinner the night he dreamed "Seminar"?

Biography of the author: Judy Harris is a consultant for BMG Music Publishing and was the Country Radio Seminar's first secretary. She worked as a volunteer for the first years of the Seminar.

"New Faces" Spotlight

George Ducas

By Richard McVey

GEORGE DUCAS, age 28, is a native of Houston, TX but left in 1985 to attend Vanderbilt University in Nashville. He graduated fours years later with a degree in economics and then set off to work at a bank in Atlanta, where it took less than a year for him to realize that music was his true calling. He quickly returned to Nashville, and after "paying his dues" had his first taste of success with the 1992 hit "Just Call Me Lonesome," which he co-wrote with, and for, friend Radney Foster. Now, two years later, Ducas is one of Liberty Records' hottest new prospects.

With stylistic charisma that most artists would kill for, newcomer George Ducas set radio waves ablaze with his first release, "Teardrops." Despite the great success of that single, Ducas has already surpassed it with his latest release, "Lipstick Promises."

"Teardrops' did well and served a purpose and went Top 30, which was great for a first single," Ducas tells Cash Box, "but it felt like it was a push-and-shove thing the whole time. 'Lipstick Promises' seems to be building the momentum on its own."

Ducas chalks up several reasons for his early success on radio. "It takes music that offers something real," says Ducas. "Even that doesn't ensure success. From an industry standpoint it takes strong label support, strong management and a strong promotion team. And only if it has all of that can it succeed. It's a real dogfight."

As for his next release, Ducas says he's currently reviewing his options with the label and with manager Barry Coburn, but hints that he has "Hello Cruel World" in mind. Ducas, who co-wrote all 10 cuts on his self-titled debut album, has already started writing for his second project. "I've written four songs in the past couple of months that I've been excited about," says Ducas. "I've also got a bunch from my first four years in Nashville that I can draw from. I'm starting to think about the next album more seriously every week. It probably won't be until September or October until I go back into the studio."

As for the "guitar symphony" prevalent on his first album, Ducas expects nothing to change. "Richard Bennett, who produced the first album, is producing the next one also," says Ducas. "We don't try to plan or map out everything we do in the studio, but it's guaranteed to be guitar-driven. We both have a real passion for that style of music."

Although Ducas is outspoken about his love of music, he's anything but when it comes to setting career goals. "Goals are a strange thing in this business because you're not in control of a lot of the aspects that define success. I can set a goal that says I'll be Platinum in one year and I can set a goal that says I'll win a Horizon Award, but I'm not in any position to do anything other than what I do artistically to realize that goal," says Ducas. "I think my goal right now is just to stay within myself, to make music that's true to what I do and to what I want to be about and not let the hype that comes along with this opportunity get in the way."

"New Faces" Spotlight
David Ball

IT WAS THE SINGLE "Thinkin' Problem" that brought Warner Bros. recording artist David Ball to the forefront. "It was a people's record, the people sort of broke that record," Ball tells Cash Box.

"We had one little station down in—I think it was in Pensacola, Florida—that started playing it right out of the box, even before we were going for adds. They actually really liked the song, and so as soon as we were going for adds, why, it was their most requested song! So that kind of helped us get a little blurb out there...I was glad that there was an audience out there for it because we'd heard some say, 'Well, it's too country for our station' or 'Our listeners won't like it,' and that's kind of scary when you start getting into ground like that."

Ball is no stranger to radio stations. "We played about 120-some radio stations before 'Thinkin Problem' was released. I was with a little trio and we would just go into a radio station and play for about 20 or 30 minutes...I remember one station we went into and the receptionist yelled down the hall, 'It's another new guy.' You know, we went in there, and we never did tell 'em who we were. We just played and as soon as we had their attention, we left. It was always different. You never knew what you were gonna get.''

Although "Thinkin' Problem" kicked off his career, he has followed it up with a second release, "When The Thought Of You (Catches Up With Me)," and his current single, "Look What Followed Me Home." Ball says he expects to go two or more deep into his debut album. "We're not sure whether our next release is going to be 'Down At The Bottom Of A Broken Heart, 'Honky Tonk Healin" or 'What Do You Want With His Love." He is looking for his second Warner Bros. album, already written, to come out in November.

For those fans who want to hear all of the songs from Thinkin' Problem, it shouldn't be too difficult, considering Ball expects to play more than 200 dates this year, including a three-month tour with Brooks & Dunn. Of touring, Ball says, "I'm real band-oriented. I want to get the band to where we're just, you know, tight, as tight as you can get."

Another difficulty Ball admits to is staying focused on the music and not getting too caught up in the business end of things. "I like to just concentrate on the music because songs are written, I think, from kind of a naive place. You have to kind of open yourself up, and if you're real worried about every little dollar and things aren't going right—like if the label is saying, 'Well, we need to find a direction'—to me, that's just death right there. You'll never get off the ground with that."

"New Faces" Spotlight Rick Trevino

RICK TREVINO WAS RAISED among the vast musical climes of the Lone Star state, and those influences have echoed throughout his self-titled debut album and even onto his upcoming project, Looking For The Light.

With four singles off his debut album including one #1, "She Can't Say I Didn't Cry," and one Top 5, "Doctor Time," this youngster belies his young age of 24. This is evident on his forthcoming album, which has already yielded the title track. "If you listen to the music, the characters, I think the vocalism is much different from everybody else," Trevino tells Cash Box. "I really don't think I sound like everybody else. The material that's on there, I think it distinguishes itself and speaks for itself...from a production standpoint, it's a little more edgy, but it's even more traditional and honky-tonk than the last one."

An admitted perfectionist, Trevino says the album, with a release party set for March 7, turned out much as he had hoped. "I had a lot of say-so in the production process. I didn't produce it or anything, it was just real important to 'Buck' (Steve Buckingham) and Blake (Blake Chancey) that we got the sound that I was looking for."

It appears that Trevino has also got a solid grip on what it takes to make it on radio: "The material, combined with a credible vocalist and artist, along with management and a label that's behind you 100% and is growing to promote your record," says Trevino. "It's real important to have a relationship with radio—a solid one."

Trevino even lists among his highlights the recent response he's received from radio. "Usually I go up to them and say, 'Thanks for playing my stuff,' you know. And I always tell them, 'Thanks,' and acknowledge them. So it's flattering to hear some of the radio personalities come up to me and say, 'Thanks.' It's just started happening this past five or six months. They go, 'Thank you for giving us music that works in our format.' Lately I've been hearing it more and more—they thank me.''

Currently touring with Sawyer Brown and Toby Keith, Trevino says that although he performed 175 dates last year, he expects to do approximately 250 this year. According to Trevino, hard work and staying true to oneself is the key. "If I had a goal, it would be just to continue to work as hard as I've been working and to continue to be the same person that I am today. It's real important that I don't let anything, especially my career, change what I stand for. I just want to continue to work as hard as I can and just let God do the rest of the work."

"New Faces" Spotlight John & Audrey Wiggins

JOHN AND AUDREY WIGGINS made their first trip to Nashville in 1987 and, like so many hopefuls, returned to their home outside Waynesville, North Carolina, shortly after. Subsequently, this brother-sister duo polished up their skills and returned in 1990 to try again. Audrey became a tour guide at the Country Music Hall of Fame and they took an apartment on Music Row. The music attorney next door liked what he heard and that led to a meeting with Jim Cotton and Joe Scaife, the studio team behind Alabama, K.T. Oslin and Billy Ray Cyrus. The men recorded John and Audrey and soon they found themselves auditioning for RCA, Arista, Sony and other labels. Mercury's Harold Shedd took them under his wing in 1992.

Since that time, John and Audrey Wiggins have produced a much-heralded debut album and spent most of 1994 visiting radio stations. "We dedicated the whole year last year to the record label just for radio touring and promotion," John tells Cash Box. "We only worked one paid date last year."

The amount of competition out right now requires this duo to take the time and make the effort to be seen and heard. However, they do believe that they have something the others don't. "I think you've got to have something different," says Audrey. "John and I have had the opportunity to be able to practice...we've been singing together for about 16 years. I think we have a different sound, and I hope that one day, when you turn on the radio and you hear us singing, you recognize our sound. People talk about sibling harmonies, and the fact that we're brother and sister makes us a little different."

Following the release of "Fallin' Out of Love," "Has Anybody Seen Amy" and "She's In the Bedroom Crying," the two expect to release one more song off the album. They are also gearing up for a sophomore project. "As a matter of fact," says John, "we're in the process of going into the studio now. Most of March we're going to be in the studio recording it. We're picking songs and writing songs right now."

John, who penned four songs on their first album, says he wishes he had more time to write, but adds that he already has three of his songs set for the new album. "We got the record deal and my writing's kind of suffered because we've been so busy doing the promotional stuff," says John. "But I'm anxious to get regimented to what we're doing so I can find a little spot to get back into my songwriting again."

If their upcoming tour schedule has anything to do with it, it could be awhile before John finds that spot. "We hope to work about 150 dates or better this year," says John. "It's early right now, but William Morris is doing our booking, so we could probably work as much as we wanted to. The main thing right now is getting this new album finished and then we can just kind of let them stack it up on us. We're ready to go work."

"New Faces" Spotlight Western Flyer

FEW NEW GROUPS have garnered as much attention and critical acclaim as Step One's Western Flyer. It takes merely one listen to their self-titled debut album to cast away any doubt that the attention thrust upon this supergroup isn't well-deserved.

The group, which came together in January of 1992 and signed with SOR in December of 1993, is comprised of six veteran musicians and vocalists whose base of musical knowledge is as diverse as the songs they sing. Danny Myrick, who co-founded the band with Chris Marion, grew up playing gospel music with a family band. Keyboardist Marion also has roots in gospel, as well as bluegrass and rock. Steve Charles, lead guitar and vocals, toured with Contemporary Christian artist Steven Curtis Chapman. Multi-instrumentalist Roger Helton performed in a number of bluegrass and country bands before his stint as a session player. Likewise, T.J. Klay, who plays harmonica and mandolin, made his name playing sessions with Delbert McClinton and John Prine. Lastly, drummer Bruce Gust spent nine years in the U.S. Marine Corps Band prior to his move to Nashville.

Although the group's previous two singles, "Western Flyer" and "She Should've Been Mine," fared well, it is their third single "Cherokee Highway" which has brought the band a great deal of publicity. Co-written by lead vocalist Myrick, the group was invited to perform the single, which deals with racial unrest in the South, at the Martin Luther King Jr. Birthday Bash in Atlanta on January 13. According to Myrick, the group shot the video for the single on February 6 and 7 and are expecting to go for adds on March 6.

On their second year at the Country Radio Seminar, Myrick tells Cash Box, "You can't make it without it. I mean, there's way too many artists now to take for granted that people will recognize who you are. Somebody made the comment the other day that there's close to 250 signed artists now in Nashville. If you try to put 250 artists into 50 chart slots, you see real quickly that doesn't work. So you have to do everything you can to meet radio. It's an opportunity for us to begin relationships, not just see faces and say, 'Hey, play our record.' As for the 'New Faces' show, we've looked over the past couple of years at what it's done for other artists who are new and trying to get started. We hope that this can kind of be our diving board here and put us into the mainstream.''

As to what separates Western Flyer from those other 249 previously mentioned acts, Myrick says, "Our vocals...all six guys sing and we do some six-part harmony nobody else does. There's some other bands that have six guys—for example, Diamond Rio—but all six don't sing. We carry the same sound from the studio to the live performance....The main thing is that we want to do the type of material and songs that, five or ten years from now, people won't necessarily remember us for some hooky, catchy song, but they'll remember us for our depth on an album or our depth as an act."

"New Faces" Spotlight Archer/Park

ARCHER/PARK, a.k.a. Randy Archer and Johnny Park, packed quite a punch with their first release "Where There's Smoke." Off their debut album We've Got A Lot In Common, the single became one of, if not the hottest debut single of 1994, and immediately put this duo into the spotlight—where they're right at home.

In fact, it was the dream of a performing career in country music that led them to Nashville. As fate would have it, both singers ended up working as staff writers at the same publishing house. "We both came to town to pursue an artist deal and got involved in writing a little bit and saw that writing songs could open a lot of doors," says Archer (the clean-shaven one without the hat). "So it actually worked backwards." Following a few writing sessions together, the two decided to go into the studio to cut a four-song demo tape. "It was a total experiment. We didn't know how the harmonies would blend when we tried it, but it was a very pleasant surprise. The vocals worked together real well."

The resulting tape caught the attention of their current manager, Estill Sowards, and Atlantic Records, who signed the duo. Now two singles deep into their debut project and with high hopes, they're ready for their next release. "Our next single is called 'I Still Wanna Jump Your Bones," Archer tells Cash Box, with an expected release date of mid-March. "We really didn't know what we had as far as whether that song would be radio-friendly or not. We certainly liked the song and as time went on we saw how this song was working with the live crowd. People just love it. Even during our radio visits, most of the stations asked about this song. Magazines, newspapers...they ask about the song. We started thinking, 'We may have something here.' So it made sense to release this song. We just finished a dance mix on it and it'll be going out to dance clubs."

Expecting to go five singles deep into this first album, Archer says that they've already started writing for their next album. "It's in the early stages, but we are considering the second album," says Archer. "We're starting to write and trying to come up with ideas and songs for it right now."

Like so many who come to Nashville to pursue a career in music, this duo makes no bones about why they're here. "I think we're like a lot of people...it's the love of music," says Park. "Even if I was just scraping out a living at it, that's still what I would want to do. The most gratifying thing to me is getting out on stage and picking and singing, and there's an audience out there that likes what you're doing. I wouldn't be happy doing anything else."

"New Faces" Spotlight

Bryan White

THE MUSIC INDUSTRY found Asylum recording artist Bryan White pretty quick. Within 11 months of his arrival to Nashville, this 21-ycar-old had a deal.

In 1992, while his friends in Oklahoma City were packing for college, White decided to make his trek to the Music City. Shortly after his arrival, a family friend introduced him to Billy Joe Walker, Jr. It wasn't long after that that the two were in the studio and White was signed to Glen Campbell Music. He later began singing demos and impressed Asylum president Kyle Lehning, who signed him to the label in 1993. Lehning also produced White's debut album.

"I was intimidated," White tells Cash Box of his first exposure to Nashville. "There's so many artists and writers here. It's hard to kind of put yourself in the middle of it all and try to fit in."

As part of his baptism into the world of the "big-time," White embarked on a five-month radio tour prior to his self-titled debut album being released. 'It's a good thing to get out and do a radio tour and kind of put the face with the name, because there's so many artists out there. They [radio] get a new CD on their desk every day and they're like, 'Well, who in the heck is this now?'...I was expecting that, not knowing, being naive and green, but every time I walked into a station they were more than happy to see me. I've had a warm reception from everybody.''

As far as White's musical background is concerned, he draws from his diversity. "I guess the material's a little bit different," says White. "I bring a little bit of R&B into it. My background was country and rhythm & blues. My mother played R&B and my dad always sang country, so I kind of brought to the album and to the music kind of what I am and what I grew up being."

White's future plans center around songwriting and touring. "I'm actually going to have two singles out on the radio. The next single coming out is for Sawyer Brown. It's called 'I Don't Believe In Goodbye,' which I co-wrote." In the way of a tour, White has dates set with Pam Tillis, Diamond Rio, Tracy Lawrence and his hero, Steve Wariner. "I'd just love to achieve some success," White adds, "to keep working and doing what I love doing. I want to do this as long as I can, that's the main thing."

It seems that if the success of his songwriting and second release— "Look At Me Now," which White co-wrote—is any indication, he could be working for quite a while.

"New Faces" Spotlight Ken Mellons

IT WAS "JUKEBOX JUNKIE" that first cast light on Epic's Ken Mellons. "I still have a hard time believing that we've had a Top 10 record," Mellons tells Cash Box.

Mellons describes his style of music as "traditional honkytonk country music with a '90s edge. I think that sets me apart from most of the artists out there," admits Mellons, who draws from his traditional background.

Unlike most country artists, Mellons grew up in Nashville, where he frequented the Grand Ole Opry, bluegrass festivals and tapings of Porter Wagoner's television show.

It seems that over the years things haven't changed much. Beginning in first grade, Mellons wore cowboy hats and boots to school. It was also the same year he gave his first public appearance in the Hermitage Hullabaloo Talent Show. Throughout his elementary school years, he continued to sing at talent shows—and in a daily stint on his school's intercom system.

All through high school, Mellons kept it country, performing John Anderson's "Swingin" and other country songs at high school pep rallies. After graduating, he stepped up to performing at clubs in Nashville and Kentucky where he performed for free, keeping a series of day jobs to pay the bills.

Finally, the free gigs paid off. After catching one of Mellon's shows in Nashville, Grand Ole Opry general manager Bud Wendell invited him to make a guest appearance on the show. However, it was Mellon's second performance on the Opry that he considers his big break. "It was a Friday night Opry, in August of 1990," recalls Mellons. "That's when I met my record producer, Jerry Cupit, and I guess that was probably my big break, so to speak."

This year, as part of the "New Faces" show, Mellons will mark his third year of attending the Country Radio Seminar. "My first year I had just gotten signed to Epic and last year I played a showcase with BlackHawk, David Lee Murphy and Bob Woodruff," says Mellons.

While his current single "I Can Bring Her Back" is still climbing the charts, Mellons says to look for his next single, "Workin' For The Weekend," sometime in March and adds that he's "hoping that they [Epic] will come back with one more single after that."

As for a follow-up to his successful debut album, Mellons says, "We're working on it right now and it's just as country as the first one. Out of what we've cut, I've written or co-written six or seven of the tunes. One song called 'Don't Make Me Have To Come In There' I'm real excited about."

Mellons, who married his long-time girlfriend Stephanie on January 14, is due to hit the road with John Michael Montgomery come March. "That's my favorite part of this business—the live performances," says Mellons. "We really try to give the folks a high-energy stage show and really entertain them, but also keep the music country, because that's something that means a lot to me—the traditional side of country music."

It's also from this traditional side of country music that Mellons draws his goals. "I want to be a legend in country music. I want to be like George Jones and Merle Haggard. I want to be a member of the Grand Ole Opry, and be a member of the Country Music Hall of Fame, and be around this business for a long, long time."

MICHAEL COPELAND RIPS UP THE CASHBOX HOT-COUNTRY SINGLES CHARTS!

Michael Copeland

NASHVILLE - MICHAEL COPELAND's country music career is smokin' like a freight train, racing down the back side of MONTEAGLE PASS, north of Chattanooga. His latest single release, "FRIENDS BEHIND BARS", has been chosen the "pick hit of the week", by CASHBOX INTERNATIONAL MAGAZINE. The song debut'd on the HOT-COUNTRY SINGLES CHARTS with a bullet (indicates strong airplay) and he's got an "up & coming" in Gavin, Radio and Records, and "recommended" in BILLBOARD MAGAZINE.

The former graduate from LIPSCOMB UNIVERSITY, here in Nashville, is bustin' out in the country - God's country! According to Copeland, God's country is country music all over the U.S.A. The tall, handsome country singer is part of the beautiful new wave of country artists booming on the horizon at radio stations throughout the U.S.

When asked, Michael takes all this new found attention in stride. He's an artist whose humility surpasses most singers....kind of like his single release is passing up a lot of other label acts. Mike has a day job. He works for TASC, INC. (The Analytic Sciences Corporation). I asked him, "Don't you have to be really smart to work there, Mike?" He said, "Not really, you have to be really smart to stay there." What a way to start a music career!

Married 9 1/2 years to movie-star Anne Archer's look-a-like, RENEE COPELAND is 100% behind her country music star. Their two children, Ross (age 6) and Lisa (age 2 1/2), love the country and they love the music. They had a couple of black lab-retriever dogs named, BLACKIE & CHELSEA. I asked the kids if they named the younger one after President Clinton's daughter, and they laughed....laughed big. Seems like the President ought to be connected to something in country music!

Mike and his stunningly beautiful wife, RENEE, met while attending DAVID LIPSCOMB UNIVERSITY here in Nashville. Mike was coaching her sorority basketball team at the college. He decided to bench his future wife because she wasn't good enough. Then he decided to make her his assistant coach. Then he decided to just marry her in August after she graduated. Here's to the woman who didn't get to play basketball, but did get the coach that coached basketball! Pretty smart woman, Michael. That love story ought to be in a country song. Michael told me he's already recorded it. It's called, "I Worship The Ground That She Walks On."

I asked Michael where he developed his love for country music. He told me that during his first two years of college, he attended ABILENE CHRISTIAN UNIVERSITY in Abilene, Texas. "I spent a lot of my free time playing 42 (dominoes) and listening to the radio, out there in Abilene. You know, ABILENE, TEXAS has only got one format on their radio stations....and it's country. Abilene's a town full of tumbleweeds, a lot of hot, West-Texas sand, and it prides itself on the fact that disco has never hit there yet. I mean you don't go in a club in Abilene and ask to hear the latest rap record. In fact, most of the dance clubs have signs on them that say, 'We're Country & Proud Of It!'

"So country music and I got to be good friends. It got in my blood, and the man that influenced me more than anyone else was the mighty GEORGE STRAIT." Mike developed his vocal ability over the years and wanted to come to Nashville and record. His wife, RENEE, encouraged him to follow his dream and go for it. She had grown up in Huntsville, Alabama. She worked for the BOEING CORPORATION, launching the space lab project as a chemist.

"See, my wife has helped launch some big projects in her life. After launching the space lab, my music career was really simple." Renee's cousin is a pathologist in Memphis, Tennessee, DR. CAMERON HALL. He assisted the couple, along with Mike's parents in getting super-producer EDDIE KILROY involved.

Mike's dad has faced tough times before. He was an officer on the DAYTON, OHIO police force for over 27 years. "Out there on the streets, you learn to believe in yourself and we all believe in Michael's music", his dad said. Mike's mother, LULLAWEEN, and his dad, ROSCOE, have been a constant source of encouragement through the tough times of the music business.

After they got EDDIE KILROY to agree to produce Mike's product, Eddie got together with some of Nashville's biggest hit-songwriters and got songs. He contacted TOM SHAPIRO (Country Songwriter Of The Year), country artist, LARRY BOONE, and finally found Mike's current hit, at the most prestigious publishing house in Nashville, BUDDY KILLEN'S TREE MUSIC (now SONY/TREE). The single has been released to some 2800 country radio stations nationally on CASHBOX MAGAZINE's LABEL OF THE YEAR for the third year in a row, PLATINUM PLUS RECORDS. The owner, ROBERT METZGAR, gives EDDIE KILROY credit for seeing such tremendous potential in Michael Copeland. "Everybody needs a producer like Eddie, and a wife like Renee to encourage them," Metzgar said.

If you want further information on emerging new country act, MICHAEL COPELAND, please contact Mike at the following: MICHAEL COPELAND FAN CLUB, The Entertainment Factory, Don Wright, 35 Timberwood Lane, Springboro, OH 45066 513/748-9222

"New Faces" Spotlight Steve Kolander

A TEXAS NATIVE, River North artist Steve Kolander has a style that is truly his own. "The core of country that I grew up listening to was Hank [Williams] Sr., Patsy Cline, Marty Robbins and Hank Thompson," Kolander tells Cash Box. "Then I moved to Los Angeles. There I was introduced to the blues and jazz, which I also thought was really cool. The first time I came to Nashville I was playing just the hard-core country stuff of yesterday. I was told it was too traditional. And so I kind of slipped the blues, jazz and a little bit of Buddy Holly into it, and then it started sounding different."

Los Angeles was the location for Kolander's first break. "My big break came when Dwight Yoakam's bass player was walking by my house and heard me singing," recalls Kolander. "I was still writing commercials at that time. He came through the door and introduced himself and asked if I was a professional singer. I said, 'No, I just write commercials, I just write songs.' He said, 'Man, you should be doing this for a living. Let me help you out.' So that really changed my life, that particular day."

Kolander has certainly come a long way since then. Already on his second single, "Black Dresses," Kolander says this year's "New Faces" will mark his first performance at the Country Radio Seminar, but not his first performance for radio. "Last year, that's pretty much all I did was visit the radio stations. I just took my guitar and went and visited a lot of the stations."

Although Kolander says he plans on going five or six cuts deep into his self-titled debut album, he nevertheless is looking towards a second album. "I went to the record company with 33 songs, recorded 23 of them and put 11 on the record," says Kolander. "So I've got a ton of material and I've already written down all the songs for the second record that I plan on putting on there. Now I'm trying to write other songs to beat those to put on the record. I'm dying to put the next record out."

To Kolander, who considers himself a songwriter first and foremost, his most important goal is to communicate his songs to others. "As an artist, I want to be able to write great songs that have meaning to me, but I've got to make sure that they have meaning to somebody else, too," says Kolander. "I'd say that's my biggest goal right now. I've got to conquer that one first and then I'll figure out what to do next."

"New Faces" Spotlight Lisa Brokop

AT THIS TIME LAST YEAR, Brokop was performing along with Charlie Major at the Canadian Country Music Association's luncheon at the Country Radio Seminar. Since then she has released her debut Patriot album, Every Little Girl's Dream, and seen modest success with "Give Me A Ring Sometime" and "Take That."

Born in Surrey, British Columbia, near Vancouver, Brokop recalls performing in "a little family band" with her mother and brother when she was seven. By the time she was 11, she was sitting in with other local groups and becoming acquainted with people involved in Vancouver's flourishing music industry.

At 15, Brokop made her move from amateur to professional by joining the Marty Gillan and Sweetwater band as a singer, rhythm guitarist and keyboard player. She launched her own band a year later and released a series of independent singles. She continued to tour and issue singles during the next few years.

In 1991, when she was 17, Brokop won radio station CKWX's "Nashville Songwriting Contest," a victory that earned her the privilege of co-writing with Music City's Peter McCann. Subsequently, McCann agreed to complete production of her first alburn, My Love, for the independent Libre label. It contained six of McCann's own compositions, plus four songs Brokop released as singles.

As her career gained speed, the Canadian music industry started to take notice. In 1990, the British Columbia Country Music Association (BCCMA) named her its Horizon Award winner and Gospel Performer of the Year. After that, she earned the BCCMA Female Vocalist of the Year (1992 and 1993) and International Achievement Award (1993). Earlier this year, her work with the Johner Brothers netted her the Vocal Collaboration award from the Saskatchewan Country Music Association.

As long as she can remember, Brokop says she's been into country music. Her earliest musical passions were for Kenny Rogers and Dottie West. These days, Billy Dean and Wynonna rank as her favorites. "Nashville has been the big place for me since I was four years old," Brokop says. "I didn't know what it was—I just knew it was a place where everybody went."

One of those who went to Nashville was Brokop's manager, Paul Mascioli. Soon afterward, he began circulating copies of Brokop's album to gain attention from the major country labels in town. He then arranged for Brokop to come to Nashville shortly before Christmas in 1992 to do a showcase. "We invited as many people from the labels as we could," Brokop says, "and I did about 30 minutes of music. I got my recording contract that week."

The rest, as they say, is history.

WESTERN FLYER: "Cherokee Highway" (SOR)

Co-written by lead vocalist Danny Myrick, "Cherokee Highway" has garnered this group a great deal of attention. In fact, Western Flyer was invited by the King family to perform "Cherokee Highway" at the Martin Luther King, Jr. Birthday Bash in Atlanta. So for those listeners who are tired of "fluff" lyrics, look no further. This cut, laced with social commentary, is a prime example of what makes Western Flyer the top indie group out today.

Not pictured: Julie Phillips, secondary market;

STEP ONE RECORDS, the world's largest independent country label, will commemorate ten years of operation this March. SOR first established its credibility and business savvy by signing legendary artists and successfully marketing product on television and through mail-order. In recent years the company has introduced and broken several country acts, including Clinton Gregory, Western Flyer and Don Cox. SOR has also rekindled the careers of country legends like Gene Watson and the comedy team The Geezinslaw Brothers, who scored big with their #1 jukebox single "Help, 1'm White And I Can't Get Down."

But Nashville's only major independent label doesn't stop with country music. Another field of success for SOR has been in the Christian market with artists like Terry McMillan and Don Cox. Cox recently landed on top of the charts with his #1 Positive Country hit "In My Father's Eyes." Further evidence of the company's diverse array of music includes blues artist Celinda Pink, who had a Top 20 blues single.

SOR has also established itself within the international market by achieving a Top 10 album in the United Kingdom in 1994. The label's product is now distributed throughout the world. "Each year we continue to increase sales both in the U.S. and abroad," said SOR president Ray Pennington. "We've got the best network of distribution available and the international market continues to flourish. We had great success at the recent MIDEM convention in France," he said.

"We have thrived in a competitive market environment due to the music being our first priority. Plus, I have surrounded myself with a hard-working, competent staff who also put the music first," added Pennington.

SOR was born in 1984 out of a love for the creation and interpretation of music. Ray Pennington, artist, producer, songwriter and executive, and Mel Holt, manager of the Texas-based offices of SOR's parent eompany, guided the fledgling company into a multi-inilion dollar international company. Because of its unique marketing strategies and the business experience of its major players, SOR has doubled its sales every year the company has been in operation.

What began as a dream of the company's founders has grown to be the world's largest independent country label, steadily continuing to grow with product available throughout the world. "We've made history and I'm proud to be a part of what we've accomplished," concluded Pennington.

COUNTRY RADIO

Ed Salamon On Country Radio

TO MEASURE THE IMPACT Ed Salamon has had on radio, especially country radio, would be nearly impossible. It can be said that much of the current advancement and quality of country radio stations today can be traced in some way to his guidance during the early years of the format.

Salarnon, currently president, longform programming & satellite format operations at Westwood One Radio Networks, started out in Pittsburgh. He began his radio career at KDKA in promotions and was later named director/marketing and research. There he helped innovate the technique of call-out music research, widely used in radio today. In 1973, he became program director of WEEP/Pittsburgh and guided the country format station into the #2 position in the market among adults.

In 1975, Salamon was hired to program WHN in New York City. He later added duties as national program director for its owner, Storer Radio, supervising seven stations, ranging from personality-oriented contemporary hit radio in Los Angeles (KTNQ) to beautiful music in Chicago (WLAK). He also consulted stations KHJ/Los Angeles; KBZT/San Diego; and WCFL/Chicago, among others.

During his six-and-a-half-year tenure at WHN, Salamon led the station to the #2 rank in adults 25-49 among all U.S. radio stations, regardless of format. WHN became the most listened-to country formatted radio station ever, a record that still stands today.

Always pushing forward, Salamon originated country music's first successful syndicated concert show, "Live From the Lone Star Cafe." When WHN was purchased by the Mutual Broadcasting System, he produced programs for that network, including "The Johnny Cash Silver Anniversary Special."

In 1981, Salamon was a co-founder of the United Stations Programming Network. In 1985, the United Stations Radio Network was formed with the acquisition of the former RKO Radio Network. The 1989 merger of USRN and Transtar formed the Unistar Radio Networks. In 1994 Unistar was acquired by The Westwood One Radio Networks.

Salamon is also responsible for longform programming and satellite format operation. He has created many of the network's series and specials. In addition to his management duties, he regularly interviews artists ranging from Paul McCartney to Willie Nelson and has personally written and produced many network specials.

As if his previous accomplishments weren't enough, Salamon lists these among his other achievements: He graduated magna cum laude with a B.A. degree from the University of Pittsburgh. He is a director at the National Music Foundation as well as the Country Radio Broadcasters, for which he is now in his second term as president. He was chairperson of the National Association of Broadcasters' Programming Steering Committee for Radio 1989 and Radio 1990 and is a frequent speaker at industry conventions.

With all this in mind, Cash Box spoke with Salamon about the Country Radio Seminar as well as country radio in general....

What are your thoughts on CRS and how you've seen it grow and change over the years?

I'm in my second term, of course, as president of the Country Radio Broadcasters, who put on the seminar, and I've been going to Country Radio Seminars since 1974....The Country Radio Seminar has mirrored the changes in country radio in that it has gotten bigger and more successful. But at the same time, like country radio, it's maintained the feeling of camaraderie that existed in the first seminars I went to. And I think it characterizes or differentiates our format from other radio formats.

Is there anything, as far as the seminar goes, that you'd like to see more of?

The direction of the seminar is determined by two groups of people: the board of directors of the Country Radio Seminar—some of them, folks like myself, who have been around for a long time—and others are relative newcomers to the seminar. That's important to us because they bring the fresh ideas and new perspectives to what we're doing. The agenda itself is determined by an agenda committee made up of people who are volunteers who are really responsible for the agenda and everything that is seen and heard at the seminar. I guess what I'm going around to answer your question is, what the Country Radio Seminar is is really a roots kind of organization where there's a lot of people from all over the country in markets of all sizes, whether it's network-level, large market-level, down to very small markets, which are very important to country radio. The opinions of all of these people go into making the seminar, so it hopefully reflects the interest of country broadcasters from all over the country and in markets of all sizes.

What we're interested in doing is serving the constituents, serving the attendees, and I think the fact that the Country Radio Seminar has been growing every year is sort of evidence that we're doing that. We always want more input, and I always encourage anybody who has a thought, a suggestion or a criticism to talk to anybody on the board and the agenda committee. We take the criticisms and suggestions of our attendees very seriously.

Do you think the seminar can take any credit for the incredible growth that country radio has had?

I may be partial (laughs), I think I am partial. I think the Country Radio Seminar can take a lot of the credit for where country radio has gone. Basically, it's not the Country Radio Seminar, it's really the attendees of the Country Radio Seminar who have helped each other over the years. That is the feeling of camaraderie that we talked about.

At the early seminars, country radio was like an alternative format. It was usually not the most popular format in any particular market, and a lot of the stations were not the biggest or best-financed radio stations. We really had to learn from each other and help each other. Because country radio programmers tend not to be mercenaries, but tend to be people who have a passion for country music, that gives us a mission that's sort of unparalleled in other formats. Over the years, country broadcasters who maybe had an idea for promotion, or a music scheduling system, or some type of new management or technological innovation, would share these things with other country broadcasters. That's really the way that country radio has pulled itself up by its bootstraps.

Today, not only are we the most numerous broadcasters—one out of every four radio stations in America is a country radio station—we're among the most successful. A country radio station is more likely than any other format to be #1 in its market. More #1 stations are country than any other format. So I think in terms of increasing the quantity and the quality of country radio, there's no doubt that we and country radio have succeeded in doing that, and that's through sharing information with each other. The Country Radio Seminar has become the focal point of that. In that way, it can take some credit for country radio's success.

Where do you see country radio headed?

It's really hard to look in a crystal ball and predict, but this year the seminar is themed "Taking Country Radio to the Next Level." I think that it's important that as successful as we've all been in country radio, this is no time to sit back on our laurels and say, "We've achieved everything that can be achieved." I think we have to try to look forward and push the envelope. I think country radio's history is such that we're all very comfortable in trying to move forward and trying to achieve things that years ago people thought were impossible for country radio broadcasters.

Do you see the format splitting at all in the future?...maybe a country oldies, anything similar to that?

The expansion and division of the format is something that's talked about in every country radio seminar. It's so remarkable that, though there are so many more country stations and so many more country listeners than there have been before, we all seem to agree more than other formats on a body of music that is hit country music. So constantly, country broadcasters are on the look for some splitting in the formats. To this date, basically, the music played on country radio has been very homogeneous. The difference has been in presentation—some stations going for a more youthful presentation with hot country or young country formats and other stations staying the course for a mainstream country format by appealing to listeners who have been with the format for awhile. But you know, they all play Garth, they all play Reba, they all play Wynonna (laughs)...the big stars of country music are the big stars on both the youthful and the mainstream formats.

Jamie Harper: A Multi-Talented Entertainer

TO CALL SINGER/SONGWRITER Jamie Harper a well-rounded entertainer is something of an understatement. Not only does she sing and perform over a hundred dates a year, she writes and records her own material; plays the guitar, piano, flute and a variety of percussion instruments; has performed in Broadway shows in New York; and has won several awards for her singing and charted several #1 independent singles. If her track record has anything to say about it, it's very likely that her current single, "Big City Girl," which holds the #71 spot on the Cash Box Top 100 Country Singles chart, could find its way to the #1 independent spot soon.

and songwriting ability. In fact, Harper's life has always centered around music and performing. It was at Camp Seneca Hunt that an outgoing eight-year-old Harper made her first appearance on stage. It was there that she entertained her fellow campers with her rendition of "Somewhere Over The Rainbow."

Under the guidance of her uncle, Benny Davis, who penned several classic hits including "Baby Face," Jamie's love for music grew. "He would say, 'You're supposed to tell a story with the words and make the song your own," says Harper. Her uncle continuously spurred her interest in music. "He used to get a piano player every Christmas and make me sing for everybody, which became part of our Christmas tradition."

When she wasn't singing at camp or during Christmas, Harper kept her vocals sharp by performing in choir throughout her school years, even while she attended Penn State University. Her enthusiasm and her ability to entertain crowds landed her a position on the school's cheerleading squad. Hesitantly, she later left the squad following the recommendation of her vocal coach, who felt that her voice should be saved for singing.

Also while in college she started a rock band and won her first acting role in a play. This ultimately led her to New York, where she performed in a multitude of Broadway shows.

After six years she made her way to her current residence, Ft. Myers, Florida. "I think moving to Florida is what turned me on to country music," says Harper. "There are actually five chapters of the Country Music Association around where 1 live."

It seems that things have certainly paid off for Harper. Over the past few years she has written, recorded

Finding Your Niche

By Dave Nicholson

FOR MANY YEARS, most markets had only one country station. Other broadcasters kind of left us to ourselves. Often competing broadcasters saw limited audience potential with the country format and weren't comfortable selling a format whose audience many in the advertising community felt consisted primarily of "good ol' boys in pick-up trueks with gun racks."

Now that the country format has proven to be very mass-appeal and delivers a very attractive group of consumers for advertisers, we find ourselves in a much more competitive arena. Many of the heritage radio stations in the format have evolved over the years to the point where their playlists are smaller and contain almost no songs older than late '80s and '90s.

This actually has presented some great opportunities in crowded markets to "niche" program. The idea behind programming any type of "niche" format is instead of delivering a large mass audience, you capture a smaller but very loyal audience. Because a good "niche" format delivers high "time spent listening," advertisers often get as good—or better—results as stations with much larger bulk audiences.

Most of today's market-leading country stations are playing 300-400 titles total and mostly '90s music. These stations can be effectively attacked on several listener issues. The first is repetition. With a limited playlist and high turnover, listeners to these stations, especially older listeners, are fatigued by hearing the same songs over and over. We see proof of this nationally by looking at the continued drop in "time spent listening" 35-44 and 45-54.

This effect is often compounded by the fact that most country listeners perceive anything from the past several years as "new" music. While even older listeners like much of today's new artists, there is a real sameness in sound. Much of this new music is moved on and off stations so quickly that listeners don't become familiar with artists the way they did in the past. The effect this has on listeners is that they perceive a lack of variety on many country stations.

Do these listeners really mean a better mix of old and new music when they say variety? I think they do. By playing a mix of old and new music you create a more defined contrast of styles. Country listeners have always been very tolerant of variety of "styles" of country music.

Stations that have an "in-your-face" on-air presentation hit another sore spot with older listeners. Even older listeners like good personalities, but they are averse to obnoxious morning shows that use lots of "blue" humor or are mean-spirited. While "warm and fuzzy" personalities have been somewhat maligned in recent years, they can be effective in luring away older listeners from a competing station.

The beauty of attacking the upper end of many of these established stations is that when push comes to shove, they'll defend their younger end and not their older end. They can't musically move to block you without alienating their younger listeners.

While radio managers value their 18-44 listeners, they don't see the 45+ audience as all that saleable. Remember that this segment of the audience will continue to grow as the huge population of baby boomers moves into the middle age and older. These older households have an above-average income and much higher discretionary spending than the 18-44 households. And if you program your "niche" country station correctly, you will capture a good amount of listening 35-44 and even 25-34, especially with males.

The key to playing a bigger mix of old and new songs is playing the right songs. If you can afford to do it, the best way to accomplish this is to test oldie titles. We have an advantage at "The Real Country Network"; since wc're heard in so many markets nationally, we have an enormous database which we use to research music on a truly national basis. Here are a few songs from different eras that, in general, are high-testing in most regions of the country:

1980s

GEORGE STRAIT—"Let's Fall To Pieces Together"—84 ALABAMA—"Lady Down On Love"—83 RANDY TRAVIS—"Deeper Than The Holler"—88 DON WILLIAMS—"I Believe In You"—80 MEL McDANIEL—"Baby's Got Her Blue Jeans On"—84 GEORGE JONES—"He Stopped Loving Her Today"—80

1970s

CONWAY TWITTY—''Hello Darlin'''—70 WAYLON/WILLIE—''Good Hearted Woman''—75 CHARLEY PRIDE—''Is Anyone Going To San Antone''—70 DOLLY PARTON—''I Will Always Love You''—74 MERLE HAGGARD—''If We Make It Through December''—73 JOHN CONLEE—''Backside Of Thirty''—79

1960s

MERLE HAGGARD—"Mama Tried"—68 LEROY VAN DYKE—"Walk On By"—61 BOBBY BARE—"500 Miles"—63 TAMMY WYNETTE—"Your Good Girl's Gonna Go Bad"—67 CHARLEY PRIDE—"All I Have To Offer You Is Me"—69 BUCK OWENS—"Together Again"—64

What percentage of old/new should you program? That depends on your competitive situation and whether you're an AM or FM station. To clearly define the difference in your programming, I would suggest at least 60% gold to 40% current and recurrent. If you're programming an FM station, use mostly '90s, '80s, and late '70s with a few '60s titles. If you're an AM station, your curne is going to be older than an FM's, so program a heavier mix of '70s and '60s and a few of the bigger songs from the '50s.

In some of our markets, we're starting to see that as the newer, young listeners are becoming familiar with country as a format, they are rediscovering many of the heritage artists. Just go to a Johnny Cash or George Jones show these days and look at the broad spread of ages in the audience!

The program is heard on 105 radio stations nationally in markets as small as Yellville, Arkansas to as large as Dallas, Texas. Owned by Buck Owens Productions, "The Real Country Network" is distributed by the ABC Radio Networks. As for Nicholson, he has programmed the network for the past two years. Prior to that, from 1989-1992 he programmed WNOE AM/FM in New Orleans and from 1982-1988 he programmed KCUB-AM and KIIM-FM in Tucson.

WSM-AM Goes "Oldies": Q&A With Kyle Cantrell

Cash Box: You're currently the program director of WSM-AM, but where did you get your start in radio?

Cantrell: I always had an intense interest in radio for some reason and I have no idea where it came from. But I was always a radio listener, a radio fan as a kid, and beyond that, a WSM fan. I'd listened to WSM when I was in high school, was a big fan of the radio station and sort of set as my goal when I actually embarked on a career in radio of someday working for WSM.

When I was in college at the University of Tennessee, I made it my goal, my mission, after my freshman year of college, to go out and try and find some work for the summer...I got a job that summer, it was the summer of 1980, with WMTS in Murfreesboro, which is a 5,000-watt daytimer down there....In that first summer I went from just starting out, having never touched a radio console, to doing mornings on the station by the end of the summer. I spent the fall at UT and I decided that I really needed to go to someplace where I could study and pursue a career. So I turned around and went back to MTSU, transferred all my studies to MTSU and eventually graduated from there, working at MTSU full-time at the same time. About a year before I graduated, I lucked into my job here at WSM. For the past 13 years, I have been at WSM.

When you started at WSM, what were you doing?

Part-time on-air. My first shift on the station was Saturday from 10:00 to 2:00.

When did you give birth to what some would now call the world-famous Saturday Kyle Cantrell Oldies Show on WSM?

That was actually much later. About halfway through my first year at WSM I switched with a guy who is also on the air here and I went to Saturday morning. But we didn't do an oldies show or anything at that time. The show I do now started in 1991, 1st of the year. It's four years old.

How did that come about...was it an idea of yours?

No, actually, it was an idea of Chuck Morgan's, a legendary announcer with our station, believe it or not. He was a member of the Opry announcing staff. Chuck did a deal every Wednesday night called his "Wednesday night oldies show"...The long and the short of it is, Chuck eventually left the station to host the Music Country Network. That show was handed to me when Bill Berlin could no longer do it. And I had to learn to play country oldies.

The name Kyle Cantrell, at this point, is synonymous with country oldies, and that's been kind of hung on you. What do you think about that?

Well, I'm flattered by the association. But I can really tell you that if my Saturday morning show comes off at all well, and if that overnight show was any good at all, it was just simply because I love the music. It is truly a labor of love for me, I'll tell you. There is no other good reason for me to be doing a Saturday morning air shift (laughs) on WSM, except that I just love doing it.

Isn't it rare for a program director in radio that works Saturday morning at the radio station they're programming?

It's not a time you'd really schedule yourself into, I don't think. But it's a perfect time, and Ted was very wise in scheduling the show at this particular time—it's a perfect time for a country oldies show. There's something about Saturday morning...it's kind of a laid-back time.

You obviously had excellent response from that show. Everyone talked about the show, everyone commented about it. I often heard people say, "I wish WSM would do more of this." You were very instrumental in the big change at WSM in this original country format.

That's true. But there was a common misconception around town here when I became P.D. that, because I play oldies on Saturday morning, I developed this brilliant idea to play oldies all the time on WSM. That's not true, because I always felt that WSM can be anything it wants to be. As long as it's successful, we're doing the right thing. But I was instrumental in it, as you said. It was actually a combination of folks who sort of decided—our research consultants, [and] Bob Meyer, our general manager, was very much behind it. When the idea was actually presented to me by our research partners and by Bob, I had thought about it, but it really didn't start to flesh itself out until then.

Describe the format and what it consists of...how is it different than a mainstream country station right now?

The idea behind our original country favorites format is rooted in the fact that country radio has changed a great deal in the past five years. The hot country, if you will, movement in country radio has caused a shift away from some of the artists and songs that were, a very short time ago, the staples of country music radio. And we've always felt that there's a great deal of loyalty among country music fans, and that folks aren't so quick to change their favorite artists and their favorite songs. Although they like the new music, there is still a contingent of people who want to hear the older songs. But the way radio has changed in the past few years, it's hard to hear sometimes, on the current country stations, artists like Merle Haggard and George Jones and even to a lesser extent, Alabama. It's getting harder and harder to hear some of their earlier music. The Judds, you know...times have changed to be sure, but they haven't changed that much. So we felt like there was a hole in the market here with the great country stations we have, our FM included, and we felt the hole in the market was a station that played the biggest hits from the '70s, the '80s, the early '90s. And that's what we're doing in our programming through the week.

In the format itself, how many oldies are you actually playing and how much current stuff?

Research is an ongoing project with us and since we are one of the first, if not the first major station in the country to take up a format like this, we're sort of writing the book on it. So we're doing lots of music research to try and determine what our audience wants. So the number of records we play today will probably be different tomorrow, and that's probably going to be changing for quite a while. This thing is evolving as we're going along. Most of the music we play comes from, say, 1977 to 1987. Now, having said that, we do play music from 1987 to 1992, and we do play music before 1977, going back as far as 1960. But those songs are not our core library and they have to cut the research mustard and they have to be songs that we feel our audience really wants to hear. Hopefully, what it's all going to come down to is, we're gonna wind up with a radio station with no duds on it and all good music.

What type of research has the station been involved in at this point?

Through our research company, we've done some perceptuals on the station, first of all, which really has nothing to do with music. We're also doing some call-out research.

What has Arbitron shown as far as ratings and demographics where are you at there?

We are seeing slight increases in time spent listening and quarter-hours. Predictably, our best increases are in the upper demos. We hope to eventually create for ourselves a strong position in the market between our two signals, our FM and our AM. We hope to kind of catch both ends of the age spectrum with some overlap in the middle. We have not done a tremendous amount of promotion with our new format because, as I say, we're still evolving it. We want things to be just right before we launch into that. So I think we have bought into this for the long-term.

From a management and sales perspective, how has client acceptance been so far?

So far it's been great. And that translates to clients, to listeners, nearly everybody says, "This is a breath of fresh air."

What do you think about this happening in other markets at this point?

I think this is one of the great growth opportunities for country radio. I believe that the time for the long-awaited fragmenting of country radio is upon us. I think we're starting to see it. Young country formats, whatever you wish to call them, are proliferating. The Americana format is coming along. There are starting to be offshoots of country, and I think this is a real serious growth area for country radio. It's going to vary market to market, but I firmly believe that a '70s-based and '80s-based...it'll vary depending on the needs of the markets and what the listeners there want....But I firmly believe that it's a growth area and a great opportunity for country radio.

Audio Processing Adjustment: Does It Have To Taste Like Castor Oil?

By Frank Foti

HOW MANY TIMES has this happened at your radio station?...The program director, general manager, or even the owner claims that there is something "wrong" with the sound of the station. Or, in an effort to try out the latest "hot" device, a new processing system is auditioned, and the result is anarchy in the hallways.

Sound familiar? I thought so!

If ever there was an issue that can divide staff members at a station, audio processing is it. Auditioning new audio processing equipment or adjusting the gear already installed doesn't have to feel like an upset stomach your mom treats by forcing you to take castor oil! Take it from me, the whole process can be positive, educational and even fun.

What follows is a guide you can use to create a plan to adjust or audition processing gear. Since the final result is subjective, a logical, systematic method for setting up, adjusting, and/or modifying processing is essential to getting the most out of everyone's investment of time and money. We strongly recommend this method as opposed to making hasty decisions and radical changes that might bring management and engineering to blows!

CLARIFYING YOUR OBJECTIVES

Your success in installing and getting the most out of a processing product is directly related to how well you have developed your objectives for the system. With a clear set of objectives, your tasks will be more clearly defined. Whether you are seeking better overall quality or specific spectral improvements, try to articulate and write down your goals. Do you want a little more loudness or "presence" on the dial? Are there certain characteristics of the sound of other stations in your market that you want to emulate? Are there any you want to avoid? If you are auditioning a different product, it is equally important to have a list of specific factors you are going to use to make your comparison with your present system.

Engineering, programming and management should all participate in the development of these objectives. After all, processing can have a direct effect on the bottom line of your station. A little bit of agreement before installation can save you a whole lot of disagreement afterwards.

AVAILABLE TIME

Let's get one thing straight: It takes time, a good deal of serious time, to process your station. We realize in our industry today, time is a precious commodity. Our product, the Unity 2000i, and its competitors, are expensive and multifaceted. We hate to sound like we are nagging, but don't try to install, or modify processing in between other major projects or the week your boss or your assistant is on vacation. Make certain in advance that the staff members who helped you set your objectives will be available to consult with you when you adjust these systems.

How much is enough time? Good question! We feel that working with a system for at least a week is a good starting point. We don't suggest that you drop everything for a solid week. What we do recommend is that you work on this during a week when you can spend a few hours every day on the project.

INSTALLATION AND ADJUSTMENT CONSIDERATIONS

Installing or adjusting processing requires a bit more than mounting it in the rack, connecting some cables, and then putting it on the air. Among the factors you should consider are:

1) You should have a good monitor location in which the system, once on the air, can be monitored. We suggest a good tuner, with a good reception, feeding a set of studio monitor speakers to be sufficient. While car radio and other "typical listener situation" settings are important, they should not be the main reference points.

2) Good, clean source material is essential. A well-respected processing colleague once said, "Garbage in produces more garbage out!" He was not kidding. If you are using poor source material, or poor performing playback equipment, you will not get the maximum sonic benefit from your demo. Anomalies that you perceive to be processing problems may be source problems that the processing is exaggerating! Make sure that you start out with a good first step—good source material!

3) Microphone processing may appear trivial, but the perceived sound of "live" voices over the air can change dramatically with different processing systems. Whatever the effect, your on-air microphones will probably change when you change your processing. If you utilize mic processing, you may have to adjust it to suit the operation of the new processing system. Most announcers develop a "comfort zone" with respect to the sound of their voice over the air. When that "comfort zone" is changed or modified, the common response is that something is wrong. Mic processing can be a very important part of your overall station sound.

4) Operating levels is another simple area where trouble can develop. Make sure the input and output levels of the system are operating at the proper level within your system. (Did you know that operating a processor with insufficient level into a STL system will cause loss of modulation and loudness?) If you are comparing different processors, be sure they are both operating at the same levels. Your modulation monitor is an important tool in any processing comparison.

5) Pick a starting point for reference. Proceed from a processing level similar to that currently used by your station and then if desired, become more aggressive. This is less likely to draw hasty, and negative, opinions.

6) Listen for awhile, then adjust. Try to avoid the temptation to "fiddle" with adjustments moments after making initial changes. Remember, you should evaluate the operation over time, not moment to moment! When it is time to adjust, create worksheets that can assist in establishing improved settings of operation.

7) In making changes to the system, do not make hasty or radical changes. Also, do not make too many different adjustments all at once. If too many parameters are changed at one time, it is hard to determine which change made the difference. That can be frustrating whether the change made your station sound better or worse!

8) Use the "sleep on it" method. Spend time adjusting and then listening, and when the system gets to the point where it sounds good, stop for the day. In making changes, there does come a time when the ears become less and less sensitive to adjustments performed. The ears sort of "burn out." That is why spreading the adjustment period over a number of days is recommended. If it still sounds good after you have "slept on it," quit adjusting. If it does not, continue with this method until you are satisfied. If the procedure is working, you will find that each day the discrepancies are smaller and you're making fewer adjustments.

9) When you get it where you like it, STOP! Nothing more said!

Because production of country music has improved dramatically over the last 10 years, it is vitally important to fine-tune the sound of your country station. With CD listenership in cars growing, your on-air sound must compare favorably with CDs as well as with other country stations. Superior audio quality must be maintained without losing your focus on the competitive nature of the broadcast signal. We believe that the above set of guidelines will allow you to achieve both of these goals!

Morningstar Network Builds New "High Country" Format

By Richard McVey

Pictured (I-r): Chuck Day of The Days (Cheyenne); Jed & Claire Seneca of Seneca (Ransom); T. Burt Perrault, president/CEO, Morningstar Radio Network; Susie Luchsinger (Integrity); Rich Tiner, director of broadcast operations, Morningstar Radio Network; Andy Landis (Star Song); Paula McCulla (Cheyenne); and Dick March, director of syndication, Morningstar Radio Network.

THE MORNINGSTAR RADIO NETWORK, which completed the seamless relocation of its entire broadcast operation from Houston to Nashville, announced the debut of its second format, now in full operation. The two-year-old network currently provides a "music-intensive, personality-driven" adult contemporary Christian music format to local affiliates in more than 100 markets.

Like Morningstar's AC/CM format, the latest offering will be delivered by satellite in CD-quality stereo, featuring fully addressable digital technology. It will be marketed under the trade name "High Country," and will feature such core artists as Paul Overstreet, Bruce Haynes, Susie Luchsinger, Michael James, Ricky Skaggs, Andy Landis and Ken Holloway.

Cash Box recently spoke with Morningstar founder and president Burt Perrault and the network's broadcast operations manager Rich Tiner at their Nashville offices to discuss "High Country" and what it means for radio....

How did all of this get started?

Perrault: Essentially, my wife and I launched the network and went on the air in May of '92 with the adult contemporary format, which now has 107 markets. Then after a lot of ups and downs and learning on our part, we thought the time had come to relocate the whole thing, so we moved the entire operation last August from Houston to Nashville. We made a signal switch...and you know, the switch of the entire network was a pretty awesome undertaking. The way we did it technically, we went ahead and got all the equipment we would need for the second format and installed it over here, and then waited until we had the switch made and brought the equipment over for the other format that we didn't have on the air yet. So actually, our second format is using the old equipment, the stuff we started with three years ago.

It was Pearl Harbor Day and we kicked off the "High Country" format, which was part of our original plan back in 1991. We were talking about three formats, and the third will remain nameless. We're not sure if it'll be the same one that we were contemplating back then. We were talking about a Christian Country or Positive Country format and sure enough, everything kept moving in that direction. There was a great deal of positive movement; new artists were being signed or releasing material. A couple of the major labels like Word were launching a brand-new Positive Country division. We recently had one of the major Christian labels tell our broadcast operations director that the fact that we had committed to this was what they needed for their go-ahead for them to launch a subsidiary country label. So it's evident that the time was right for that.

What size markets are you hitting?

Perrault: Everybody immediately assumes your first entry is going to be the little tiny markets. We're getting some good confirmation from some big markets. And then we have some of the interesting stations that can almost be nothing except country.

There is one that's in Arkansas; it's on top of a big mountain and has this awesome big stick on top of this mountain...100 thousand watts of power. They have a small AM/FM and a big FM, and they had a regular secular country satellite format that they switched to the Class A, the small FM, and they put us on their big stick FM. They're getting response from hundreds of miles away. And they've already expanded. Because a lot of our people carry us just overnight, overnight to weekends, overnight to middays—the last thing they want to give up is drive time, for example. And this station has gone from ten hours of programming a day to something like 16, and we see a real likelihood from our last conversation that they're going to keep expanding to either 20 or 24....

We have interaction with our traffic person where you really think you've got a two-person crew working. We use a unisex name in the afternoon, "Chris in the morning," and we ean just have our guy cut liners and say, "Here's Chris with a look at local news and traffic or weather"....whatever you want to put in, and they acknowledge the on-air guy and suddenly you have interaction between the live person locally and the live person on the network. It makes a real interesting effect of having the team in place.

What's your ultimate goal? How far would you like to take this?

Perrault: We have not defined an ultimate goal. But by the end of '95, we really would like to have as close to 150 affiliates on this first format as possible....Long-term, we're still defining. A lot of people think that there is room for four or five hundred affiliates on this particular format because of the huge number of country stations out there. But I'd say if we got 300-plus, we'd be real pleased.

Is it difficult, with this format being so fairly new, to find enough material?

Perrault: It has not been as difficult as we had thought, because we all agreed...part of the reason for when we launched was we thought we had just turned the corner where there was enough to do it. Almost 60 or 90 days earlier, there wasn't enough product. There's not any excess at all, but we can honestly say—in our internal conversations we confirmed this—that we are not playing anybody just because we've had a slot we had to fill. That goes for any piece of music or any artist. And I don't think we'll be any more discriminating when there's a lot more product there.

What criteria do you use for choosing a song?

Tiner: Well, we start with the record companies and what they're releasing as country singles. The Christian labels that are doing country are obviously our meat-and-potatoes, in terms of what we pick in songs. When we go to the mainstream labels, we look for an acceptable lifestyle, and then we want the whole project to be a squeaky-clean project. That's not to say that we want the whole project to be Christian, but we don't want somebody to hear something on a hot country product and be negatively surprised by the content.

What can the "High Country" format do for a small- or mediummarket radio station?

Perrault: Well, the first thing, it gives them a first-elass air staff that their audience will think is there at their radio station. We continue to have people call into local radio stations, sometimes from other neighboring stations, trying to hire our air personnel. We've had guys on the air say, "If I sound a little groggy, it's because nobody brought the coffee this morning," and some guy'll scream up to the radio station with two cups of McDonald's coffee and say, "Give this to the guy on the air." We have those kinds of stories almost every week. So that kind of identity is something we're able to make happen with really strong, capable air personalities and a sound that can be as local as they want it to be. So that's the first thing—we can help them sound great.

The next thing is on the assumption that maybe they feel that they can already sound great. We can save them several thousand dollars a month, because essentially, they can operate with maybe one person in programming and perhaps none. One of our AC affiliates that started out with just a few hours is all the way up to about 18 hours a day. We're quoting a recent magazine article saying that "it sounds better than we ever dreamed," which was their direct quote. So we're saving them thousands every month. And when we called there to make sure the quote was correct by the manager, he was the only guy at the radio station. There were no programming people, the secretary was sick, and everybody else was out in sales. And so that's what we recommend: take the money you're saving on part-time air staff or even your full-time air staff, keep your key person if you've got a great young program director, and you need somebody to coordinate the whole effort and make sure it's done local-take the rest of the money and put it into sales, because that's what you need to be doing is bringing in the revenue. So we cut their expenses radically, we update their sound and give them a product that they can sell.

Dance Club Goes Positive Country

LIKE SO MANY COUNTRY DANCE CLUBS, the sounds of country music keep the beat for two-steppers, but for The Crystal Chandelier, a 4,000-sq. ft. country dance club in Atlanta, a different kind of country is taking off—Positive Christian Country.

Here's a first-hand account by Ron Burt, DJ/music director, Crystal Chandelier:

"Positive Country has been a blessing to me in an a number of ways. First off, I spin five nights a week at the Crystal Chandelier night club in Kennesaw, GA. Like many other club DJs, I work with a house band. I've never been one to play a cut more than once a night unless it's HOT! Nowadays songs move up the charts so fast they don't even have time to get warm. I feel if our house band has a cut on their playlist, I really don't need to put it in my show. That's one reason that I jumped into Positive Country. It's a country format with fresh new talent and the songs are packing my dance floor.

Our club has a family day every Sunday. No alcohol is served and all ages are welcome to come in for dance lessons. Eeven church groups have started to come out for the dance lessons.

I had some Positive Country CDs and I put on Marvell's "Only Christian Country." It was an instant hit and filled the floor with two-steppers. It's still a top dance cut that I can play any night of the week and pack the floor with dancers. At the present time, there's not a dry eye in the club when I spin "Jesus' Rocking Chair" by the Greens. It's one of the most requested songs I play and a few other club DJs that I correspond with went out and bought the CD and are also getting heavy requests for this ballad.

Other artists that are getting a lot of spins include Carman, Ken Holloway, Terri Lynn, Brian Barrett and MidSouth. I like Positive Country and I feel my dancers are not only getting good country music to dance to but also a positive message.

Bally's The Shadow

CHICAGO-The Shadow, a mysterious vigilante whose occult powers and relentless pursuit of justice made him a hero to millions, goes back decades before many of today's heroes came into being. On radio, in pulp novels, comic books and most recently on the silver screen, his popularity has spanned generations.

Now comes Bally's The Shadow pinball game, a narrow-body machine that characterizes the Shadow's careful balancing act between good and evil. Included in the game are numerous Shadow icons such as arch-villain Shiwan Khan and his evil army of Mongols; the Shadow rings worn by his army of agents; and the potentially catastrophic beryllium sphere, among others.

The Shadow also features the mysterious phurba knives as player-controlled ramp divertersan industry first. And the game's elevated mini-playfield challenges players to defeat Khan by hitting all drop targets and breaking through the signature glass wall.

'The suspense and danger inherent in The Shadow are exhibited in many aspects of this pinball game," commented Brian Eddy, game designer. "For instance, in The Shadow pinball, a strange power first freezes the ball momentarily, then draws it into a ball lock at the entrance to the famous sanctum. This triggers a fast-paced three-ball multi-ball.'

Six other of the film's most memorable scenes have been recreated in dot-matrix mode, including Farley Claymore and Discover Hotel Monolith. In the video mode, players try to dodge a shower of phurbas that approach at ever-increasing speed. The final battle presents an incredible challenge---a guaranteed 30-second five-ball multi-ball.

The Shadow also features the DCS Sound System and custom-recorded speech by the film's stars, Tim Curry, Penelope Ann Miller and John Lone, and Alec Baldwin's film dialogue.

The game is currently in delivery. Further information may be obtained through factory distributors or by contacting Williams/Bally Midway at 3401 N. California Ave., Chicago, IL 60618
