EXPERTS PREDICT:

“RAIN IN THE SUMMERTIME” ALL SEASON LONG!

DROUGHT ENDS:
“Rain In The Summertime”
Answer To Programmer's Dreams.

Universal City—Leading experts are predicting a deluge of activity in the wake of the new single from The Alarm, “Rain In The Summertime.” Across America, stores are gearing up for a torrent of sales. AOR stations from coast to coast are already experiencing a flood of calls for the new single. America’s top program directors agree: “If you’re not playing ‘Rain In The Summertime,’ you’re probably all wet.”

ALARM STORMS THROUGH AMERICA

The Alarm will be crossing America with the strength of a tornado beginning December 1. 16 cities will be caught up in the storm.

The band will return to the states in early '88 for a complete North American tour. (See page 7.)

INSIDE TOP 40

by Dave Sholin

It requires something very special for cover versions of golden oldies to enjoy even moderate success, much less top their predecessors. Not only has that happened this week, but for the first time in Gavin history two cover hits by the SAME artist are sitting back to back in the number one and two positions on the Top 40! The odds of two former hits by Tommy James and the Shondells returning twenty years later with this kind of acceptance have to be higher than winning the state lottery. This is definitely one of the biggest stories in music during 1987. Congratulations to BILLY IDOL, TIFFANY and their producers and the staffs of their respective labels on a remarkable feat.

One look at the chart debuts racked up by WHITNEY HOUSTON this week, and it's easy to foresee another giant winner for her. Top twenty five debuts all over the place including KUBE Seattle #24, KGGI San Bernardino #23, WPHR Cleveland #25, WKOR Starkville/Columbus #21, PWR 99.7 Atlanta #25, WXTQ Athens #24, KRQ Tucson #24, KEYP Tyler #24, Y108 Denver #23, etc.

Rarely do as many programmers comment about one record as they did this week on JOHN COUGAR MELLENCAMP. The general consensus is that this song will become one of his classics. Harry Nelson moves it 32-15 at Z94 Boston and Lyndon Abell takes it top ten at KWK St. Louis 17-9. Also gaining at WPXR 29-21, WPFM 34-28, WFBG 31-24, K-STAR 34-23, POWER 105 24-20, Y94 26-20, etc.

INXS continue to establish themselves as the mega-superstars of the 1990s. 44 adds take them well over 200 total reports. New on KIIS Los Angeles, KZOU Little Rock, Y104 Hattiesburg/Laurel, Z93 Atlanta, KC101 New Haven, WKQB Charleston, CKOI Montreal, Z103 Tallahassee, KYYY

Bismarck, WDJX Louisville, etc. Debuts #14 at Y95 Dallas.

What began as a Miami dance sensation is now turning into a mass appeal winner in all regions. TAYLOR DAYNE moves into the top twenty for Gary Wall and Lisa Dent Q106 San Diego, Rick Gillette and Mark Jackson WHYT Detroit, Mike Schaefer HOT I-94 Honolulu, John Hampton KSTN Stockton, etc. #2 at POWER 96 Miami and 13-9 at Y100.

ELTON JOHN, A/C's number one record for the second straight week, now has a 9% Top 40 hit factor and is sure to gain entry onto the chart soon. A long list of new believers including Z104, Y95, KISN, KCPX, KFMY, WKTI, Z94, PRO/FM, B104, WAVA, B94, WPST, WBCY, FM102, KSND, KWNZ, KATD, KLYV, KIXS, WLXR, KPLZ, KUBE, KZZK, OK95, etc.

Tremendous week for new airplay on THE BANGLES. Jay McCall at KOZE Lewiston reports that it made his Top Five at Nine feature (done weeknights only) on Friday 10/30 and again on the following Monday. Carl Cross at WIZM La Crosse also mentions he's getting immediate phone response. 67 adds including KDWB, KNIN, 95XXX, WIQQ, WDBR, KJQ, KGOT, KDOG, Z103, WJET, KKBG, KZZU, etc.

Now that his former band SQUEEZE has scored their first Top 40 hit, PAUL CARRACK is preparing his own chart assault. He more than doubles his initial airplay of last week when he debuted in Up & Coming. New believers include WXKS, KNOE, Z95.5, Z93, 94Q, LG73, POWER 92, Y95, Z104, KDWZ, KDON, KCPX, KFMY, KAKS, KSND, WZOK, etc.

MEN WITHOUT HATS continue to build a chart profile worthy of special mention. Last week's RECORD TO WATCH is gaining for Darrell Kelley WHSB Alpena 19-10, Bob Beck KYYY Bismarck 27-21, and John Raymond KIXY San Angelo 26-18. Strong debuts at KMEL San Francisco #22 and POWER 104 Houston #26. Moves into the Top Five at LIVE 105 and KATD. Enters the Top Thirty at WMMS, WILI, WWHB, AM106, KZMC, etc.

Make room on the dance floor for SHANICE WILSON. In a year that's given us DEBBIE GIBSON and TIFFANY, this young talent could well join the ranks of teens who've conquered Top 40 territory. Debuts #23 at Q106 San Diego and #27 at KKFR Phoenix, where Scotty Johnson says it's getting lots of calls in addition to taking a huge increase in sales. New on KZZP, POWER 106, Z93, WTIC, WDJX, B97, KRNQ, KZOU, WNYZ, 100KHI, etc.

A couple of tips from around the country...Z95 Chicago, which played TIFFANY out of the box, is now reporting another track doing just as well. PD Brian Kelly tells me that his number one requested tune is TIFFANY's "Could've Been," which knocked "I Think We're Alone Now" down to number two in requests.

Out in L.A., KIIS's Jack Silver is shouting about THE PET SHOP BOYS and DUSTY SPRINGFIELD duet, "What Have I Done to Deserve This." Jack says the buzz is getting louder and louder around town.

Finally, Tony Waitekus at WCIL Carbondale is having success with a love ballad called "Together Forever" by SCOTT YAHNEY. Tony's had requests from those planning to get married and one listener will tell you why. It's on Dallas-based Oak Lawn Records, who can be reached at 214-520-2855. Moves 23-17 at WCIL.

IMPORTANT REMINDER..Your nominating ballot for this year's Gavin awards are in this issue. Please fill out completely as possible and mail back early. Deadline is November 20th.

THE $10,000 TELEPHONE CALL

Have you ever considered the cost of a dissatisfied customer—the actual hard-nosed dollars-and-cents loss? Since our cost-accounting techniques can't give us a precise answer, we often assume it's not a significant factor. But it is a significant factor, and it can be estimated. And an increasing number of effective managers are doing just that.

Take, for example, Linda Merritt, a middle manager at AT&T. Now that AT&T has some competition in the long-distance market, she was concerned about customers switching brand loyalty to outfits such as MCI and Sprint. She took it upon herself to talk about the "worth" of customer dissatisfaction with the account representatives—the employees who respond when customers call with questions about their bills. She presented the hypothetical case of the customer who protests a $5.18 charge for a collect call erroneously accepted by her nine-year-old son.

Merritt calculated that if the account rep quickly accepts the customer's argument and credits her bill, the cost to AT&T is roughly $10.18—the credit plus $5.00 worth of the account rep's time (assuming a five-minute conversation at a cost of a dollar a minute).

Suppose, however, the account rep does not accept the customer's argument. Two scenarios can unfold. In one, the customer ultimately wins, but only after a 10-minute argument with the account representative (that's $10 right there), plus the time involved with account representative's supervisor (an added $20). In this case, AT&T loses $35.18.

In scenario two, AT&T "wins"—i.e. refuses to credit the customer's account. In this case, the company still winds up losing $24.82, because, although it retains the $5.18, it has to spend $30 in company time to do it. Note that, regardless of the outcome, the immediate cost to AT&T is two to three times greater than what it would be if the account representative had simply credited the customer's account.

Merritt took it a step further. She noted that if the account rep had argued with the customer—in effect questioning her integrity—odds are the woman would become a dissatisfied customer, regardless of the outcome. Merritt then noted the marketing research indicating that more than 80 percent of dissatisfied customers don't come back. Assuming that the customer uses a long-distance carrier for 20 years and makes an average of $175 worth of calls a year, the loss of that customer to MCI or Sprint works out to an additional $3,500.

But why stop there? Merritt was also aware of marketing studies that show each dissatisfied customer is likely to tell up to 14 other people, and that people are more influenced by a "bad news" story than by a "good news" story. Even assuming that only two friends of the dissatisfied customer were influenced by her story and thus signed up with MCI, AT&T's loss is multiplied to a grand total of $10,530—all for a gain of $5.18.

If anything, the above numbers might be conservative. Research also indicates that for every customer who complains, 26 don't—they just quietly take their business elsewhere. So imagine the potential impact of 20-odd quietly disgruntled customers with their own version of the $5.18 complaint. Also consider another startling fact: It costs five times as much to prospect for new customers as it does to keep the current ones. The numbers keep on adding up, don't they?

The flip side, of course, is that satisfied customers also tell their colleagues and friends. So imagine this return on investment: A $5.18 problem handled quickly and courteously, albeit at a "loss" to the company, can return 20 years of a customer's business, totaling thousands of dollars.

Obviously, Merritt believes there are times when the phone company should not credit the customer. The account reps need to be trained and coached on phone etiquette, and then be given authority to use their own common sense. But, as Merritt points out, a whole new perspective on "costs" is needed.

That brings us to my last article, in which I described how an airline managed to alienate three customers in only 10 minutes—one because the airline agent refused to answer a simple question, one because he could not pay for his ticket with a check, though he'd been told he could on the phone, and the third because the loud, unpleasant argument between the second customer and the airline staff took up so much time she was in danger of missing her flight.

Let's use AT&T's perspective here: Assume the average customer spends $1,000 a year with this particular airline. If those disgruntled passengers take their business elsewhere for five years—and influence a total of 20 others to do likewise—we're talking a potential loss to the airline of $115,000.

I believe these calculations may even be underestimates, but of course, I can't prove it to your accountants. But I'll tell you this—a lot of successful managers are changing their orientation towards customers, and reaping the benefits of increased profits.

Merritt put it well in a memo she wrote to her people:

"If you argue with a customer and lose, we lose.

If you argue with a customer and win, we lose." ●

SLACK JOHNSON, SUSAN LEVIN PROMOTED BY EMI-MANHATTAN

EMI-Manhattan has announced the appointment of Slack Johnson as National Director, R&B Promotion, and Susan Levin as National Promotion Director, A/C & Jazz. Both will report to Varnell Johnson, VP/R&B Promotion. Slack Johnson was VP/Black Music Promotion at pre-consolidation EMI America, while Levin was Manhattan's National Jazz Promotion Manager. Comments Varnell Johnson: "I feel these appointments will considerably strengthen our department. Susan Levin performed a first-rate job with the jazz product, and I feel confident she will do the same at A/C. I'm very happy to welcome Slack to the team." His experience and familiarity with the product will prove invaluable."

RATNER HEADS REPRISER SINGLES PROMOTION MARC: HIS WORDS

Marc Ratner has made the segue to National Singles Promotions Director for the revived Reprise Records label. The former Manager of National Singles Promotions for Warner Brothers, says the most challenging aspect of his opportunity to move up the corporate ladder was to comment on his new job without using the words "challenge" or "opportunity." "Let's just say it's exciting and terrifying," he said. Among the acts Ratner's working are Dream Academy, Roger, the BoDeans and Bryan Ferry. Your Rolodex might be interested to note the Reprise phone number: (818) 953-3750.

RADI-O-RAMA

WIZF-Cincinnati PD Ty Bell, who arrived in the Queen City from WMML-Mobile just a few weeks ago, is heading south again, as PD/morning host for parent Inter-Urban Broadcasting's WYLD-New Orleans. He replaces Inter-Urban's National Program Director, Dell Spencer.

Elsewhere in Urban Radio, Steve Hegwood from KHYS-Pt. Arthur, TX, is the new PD/p.m. driver at WLUM-Milwaukee, as Dan Weber returns to mornings ... WQIM-Montgomery, AL, programmer/morning talent Frenche Be moves up to consultant for parent Downs Broadcasting. PM driver Michael Long is interim PD while J.J. McKay arrives from WAWA-Milwaukee to handle wake-up duties.

News from another J.J. McKay--the one known as The Hitman at Maryland's 100KHI-Ocean City. He's added MD duties to his PD title, and welcomes new morning crew member Jill Heart ... Michael Meehan moves from news anchor to Program Director of Country combo WCMS-Norfolk ... Donna-Marie King is the new Promotion Manager for WDEL and WSTW in Wilmington, DE ... WWUF-Waycross, GA, adds Hollywood McKensie as MD/night host and Mark Anthony in middays.

Brian Taylor moves into the PD chair at WONE-Akron, replacing Ward Holmes ... Lou Tapia arrives from KZMC-McCook, NE, to handle music for KFMI-Eureka, OR ... Mike O'Brien, formerly of KREO-Santa Rosa, CA, is the new night personality at KLYK-Longview, WA ... New owner Mark Miller, having finally consummated his purchase of Twin Cities Alternative cable outlet KABL, says he's freezing the playlist for a couple of weeks while he moves the facility. "I just don't want anyone to panic," he told Chinwag. He promises a new address soon.

After several years out of the radio business, Dennis Erectus has returned to KOME-San Jose, hosting the Album rocker's Saturday night show. "We brought him back for a Halloween special, and the response was so overwhelming that we had no choice," says KOME's Steve Dunwoody. "He's the same old Dennis--but we've given him a new last name: 'Res-Erectus.'"

Crosstown, Gary Poole has joined KSJO as night host. He comes from KCFX-Kansas City ... The new morning voice on Sacto's KRXQ/93 Rock is Kevin "Boom Boom" Anderson from KZAP and KPOP.

KKLS/FM-Rapid City, SD, is changing calls to KPHR "The New Power 94FM." PD Roger Piper and MD Dave Kallaway remain. Joining Piper in mornings are Shawn Phillips and Dawn Sullivan, with Rick Allen shifting to middays ... Michael Right rejoins KKXL-Grand Forks, ND, as Asst. PD and MD.

MTV'S KAISER ON A ROLL REDBIRDS WIN, SHOLIN EATS CROW

We pride ourselves on being real cards around here, but it took losing a National League playoff bet to get a St. Louis Cardinals uniform onto Top 40 editor Dave Sholin (shown here with properly attired Associate A/C editor Diane Rufer). The victor, MTV VP/Programming Sam Kaiser, says he's also planning to collect dinner at "a San Francisco restaurant." Dave's already made reservations at his favorite noshery, Casa de Salmonella.

LABEL NEWS

CBS Records/Nashville has appointed Debi Fleischer to the newly created position of Manager, Regional Country Marketing, Central Region, based in Nashville. For the past 18 months, Debi has been the label's Manager, Secondary Promotion.

Hank Talbert has joined Capitol Records' Black Music Division as VP/Promotion. The former Hush Productions executive will report to Division VP/GM Step Johnson.

LABELS TEST THEIR METAL

POP MEETS PO

Though TV scheduling considerations delayed the centerpiece New Music Awards until next spring, 1987's CMJ Music Marathon attracted a slew of college radio programmers and record industry marketing and promo reps to New York City Oct. 29-31.

Besides showcasing new artists, this year's convention provided a forum for discussion of issues ranging from the impact of heavy metal to the politics of art.

Keynote speakers Abbie Hoffman and Billy Bragg both addressed the latter issue. Hoffman noted that pop culture cannot itself change society, but can bring together people who can bring about social change. Songwriter Bragg insisted, "Politics is far too important to be left to the politicians." Looking back a decade, he said, "The Clash said they were going to change the world--and I believed it. Instead, people bought the Sandinista album and thought they'd done their part."

"The Politics of Dancing" panel featured a star-studded cast of activist artists, including Ruben Blades, Jackson Browne, Little Steven Van Zandt, Bruce Cockburn, Holly Near, Nona Hendryx and gadfly journalist Dave Marsh. Little Steven emphasized the importance of concentrating on attainable goals, such as discouraging artists from playing South Africa's Sun City, or promoting letter-writing campaigns on behalf of political prisoners. Musicians have neither the time nor the expertise to create their own organizations, he said, which is why it is practical to "piggyback" on such groups as Amnesty International or Greenpeace.

Politics within the music industry was the focus of "The Heavy Metal Marathon," a convention-within-a-convention that dissected the genre through half a dozen panels. Bob Chiappardi of Concrete Management pointed to what he called the "Catch-22" predicament facing many hard rock bands who can't get acceptance without selling records, and vice versa. Commercial radio airplay is "the main wall we face," said William Howell of Metal Blade Records. Fellow panelist Ann Leighton noted, "You can thank Top 40 Radio over AOR for playing bands like Poison and Europe."

Showcase highlights include performances by virtually the entire Gavin Alternative chart, including the Red Hot Chili Peppers, Cabaret Voltaire, Guadalcanal Diary, Lyle Lovett, the Lime Spiders, Chris Stamey,

NON-COMPETE EXPIRES

WALKER TO POWER96-MIAMI

A year after leaving WHYI/Y100, Robert W. Walker is back on Miami's airwaves. With the expiration of a non-compete clause, Walker moves to weekends on WPOW/POWER 96. The former Metroplex VP/Programming purchased his own recording studio in the interim, but POWER96 PD Bill Tanner hopes Walker's business will allow him to join his air staff full time after the first of the year. "If he does, we will cut our air shifts to three hours and not delete any performers," Tanner

Victoria Williams, Pere Ubu and Buckwheat Zydeco. The Buckwheat Zydeco Dance Party contest was won by KCMU-Seattle's Faith Henschel, who will get a free trip to Mardi Gras in New Orleans next year. ("Rabbit Foot" Henschel was at the convention after winning a free trip in the Hurrah "Real Confessions" contest.)

Other CMJ highlights included a penthouse party hosted by Capitol Records' Harry Levy on behalf of Flesh for Lulu, Belouis Some, Mantronix and Fetchin Bones, and a dinner roast of Gavin Alternative editor Peter Standish organized by Arista's Michele Block.

On another subject, Tanner confirmed he will have a hand in programming Orlando combo WORL/AM and WORZ/FM when the stations pass into WPOW principal Greg Reed's hands at the end of December. "The AM is a very successful Black station and we have no intention of changing it," says Tanner, adding that speculation about the Classic Rock FM is premature until the sale is consummated.

INSIDE A/C

Elton retains the #1 status for one more week, but there will be a push and shove battle next week for the top slot.

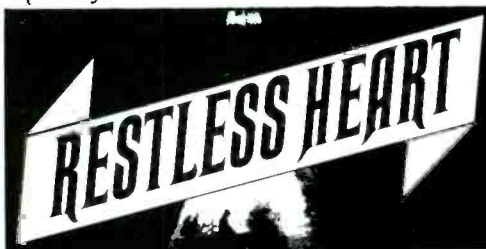

Neil Diamond should break into the top 10 next week. Among the new dreamers this week are WKGW, WMBA, WRMF, WMYX, KVUU, KRNO, WSER, WKST and WRVA.

George Harrison picked up another 31 adds and moves to #16 on the chart after just four weeks. KFYZ, WLAM, KGW, WKYE, WMVQ/FM, KVIC and KEZR are among the few that have it already in HEAVY rotation.

Michael Tomlinson is steadily moving up the chart. KLZS, WQHQ/FM, WALG, WSKY, WJON have it in HEAVY rotation and a few of the stations that have just come on board are KGLO, KJOY, KSL, WIHN, KVIC, KFYZ and KUIC.

In three weeks, Whitney's "So Emotional" has a total of 126 stations. Her HIT FACTOR profile shows that her single will move up to the chart quickly.

Restless Heart debuts at #36 this week and picks up another 29 adds from KKOBFM, KGLO, KSTQ, WDIF, WGHQ, WSWG, KSL, KLCY, WKYE. HEAVY rotation for KOST and KBMG with indications that many stations are on the way to converting.

SPECIAL NOTE: Enclosed in your Gavin this week is information on the Seminar For Media Professionals. Please get your registration into us promptly but more important fill out the nominating BALLOT. The deadline is November 20th. That is only two weeks away, so take a moment of your

Our MOST ADDED and second CERTIFIED record is Smokey Robinson's "What Too Much." His voice is sooooo smooth that it will leave many other singles in the ashes.

Last week's RECORD TO WATCH, George Michael's "Faith," picked up WKTJ, WSNI, WCVQ, WGSV, WSTU, KHOZ, KCMJ/FM, KCRE and KYJC. He's on his way to debuting soon.

This week's RECORD TO WATCH, Mr. Mister's "Border," has signs showing the way in A/C. New adds include WBLG, WKRP, WZLQ, KNOX, KATW, KBMG, KLZY, KSKI, KKIQ, KKLV.

REVIEWS

by Ron Fell & Diane Rufer

ROY ORBISON & k.d. Lang
Crying (Virgin)

Roy had a top five hit with this classic song in 1961, and Don McLean had a top five hit twenty years later. In 1987 (the year for remakes and movies), Roy & k.d. join together for this ballad, heard as the love theme from the movie "Hiding Out." Can't miss with this one.

JENNIFER HOLIDAY
Read It In My Eyes (Geffen)

What a gorgeous ballad! Jennifer really sings from the heart and yes, you guessed it, that's Kenny G on saxophone. A natural for A/C radio during those long winter nights.

LEVEL 42

It's Over (Polydor/PolyGram)

This English band brings us an open "Dear John" letter with help from Wally Badarou, whose jazz influence helps produce the great musical background.

Be Be & Ce Ce WINANS

BE BE & CE CE WINANS

Love Said Not So (Capitol)

This single should really establish Be Be & Ce Ce on the A/C pages. Their edited single sounds better with each play, as does the fine blend of their voices.

SOMETHING ELSE TO WORRY ABOUT

Broadcast organizations and the trade press have been strangely silent about something new that broadcasters must be alert for. You may be aware that the Environmental Protection Agency has been concerned about so-called PCBs for over a decade. This chemical was often used as part of the cooling oil in transformers such as those found at the top of utility poles. The stuff was believed to be poisonous, perhaps carcinogenic. Electric power companies have been involved with eliminating PCBs for years.

Now the EPA has extended its investigation to include broadcast stations. If your station has an older transmitter, there is a very good chance that its power transformers and/or oil-filled capacitors contain PCBs. That means warning labels need to be placed on all equipment which may contain them—even on access doors to rooms and buildings which house such equipment. It also means any sign of leakage of components believed to contain PCBs must be dealt with thoroughly in accordance with the law.

This is something to take quite seriously. Inspection of one major radio station turned up an engineer's routine log entry that an oil-filled capacitor "might" be developing a leak, and would have to be monitored. The EPA fined the station close to $30,000 for failing to take "appropriate measures" for resolving a "possible hazard."

That fine is nearly triple the largest fine ever levied by the FCC for severe misconduct. If it strikes you as unbelievable, I agree—particularly in view of the fact that some scientists have recently concluded PCBs may not be that hazardous after all. But the laws are on the books, and nobody ever accused government agencies of not trying to justify their existence.

Here's another one: A major-market station owned by a respected group owner was recently hit with a $5,000 fine after an EPA inspection of its transmitter site. The station's chief engineer believed all bases were covered—but the fine was levied for several very minor "violations," including (get this) having the wrong size EPA warning stickers!

PCBs are also often found in the "ballasts" of older fluorescent light fixtures, and these ballasts sometimes burn and leak when one tube of a pair goes bad. In speaking with staff members of a radio station where that recently happened, I learned the local fire department was not nearly as concerned as it would have been about one from specialized industrial equipment such as power transformers. Apparently, the EPA rules are more lenient concerning spills from consumer equipment, although they are more likely to result in exposing PCBs to the public than are transformers and capacitors. Nonetheless, the station has gone around posting warning stickers on all fluorescent light fixtures as soon as they show the first signs of flickering or turning black at the ends.

Since broadcasters have not been getting warnings on the subject from the usual magazines and trade organizations, this column may be a timely warning for those stations that may inadvertently be in violation of the EPA rules on PCBs. Any such violations discovered by government inspectors may prove very expensive! For more information, contact your local fire department and/or the EPA.

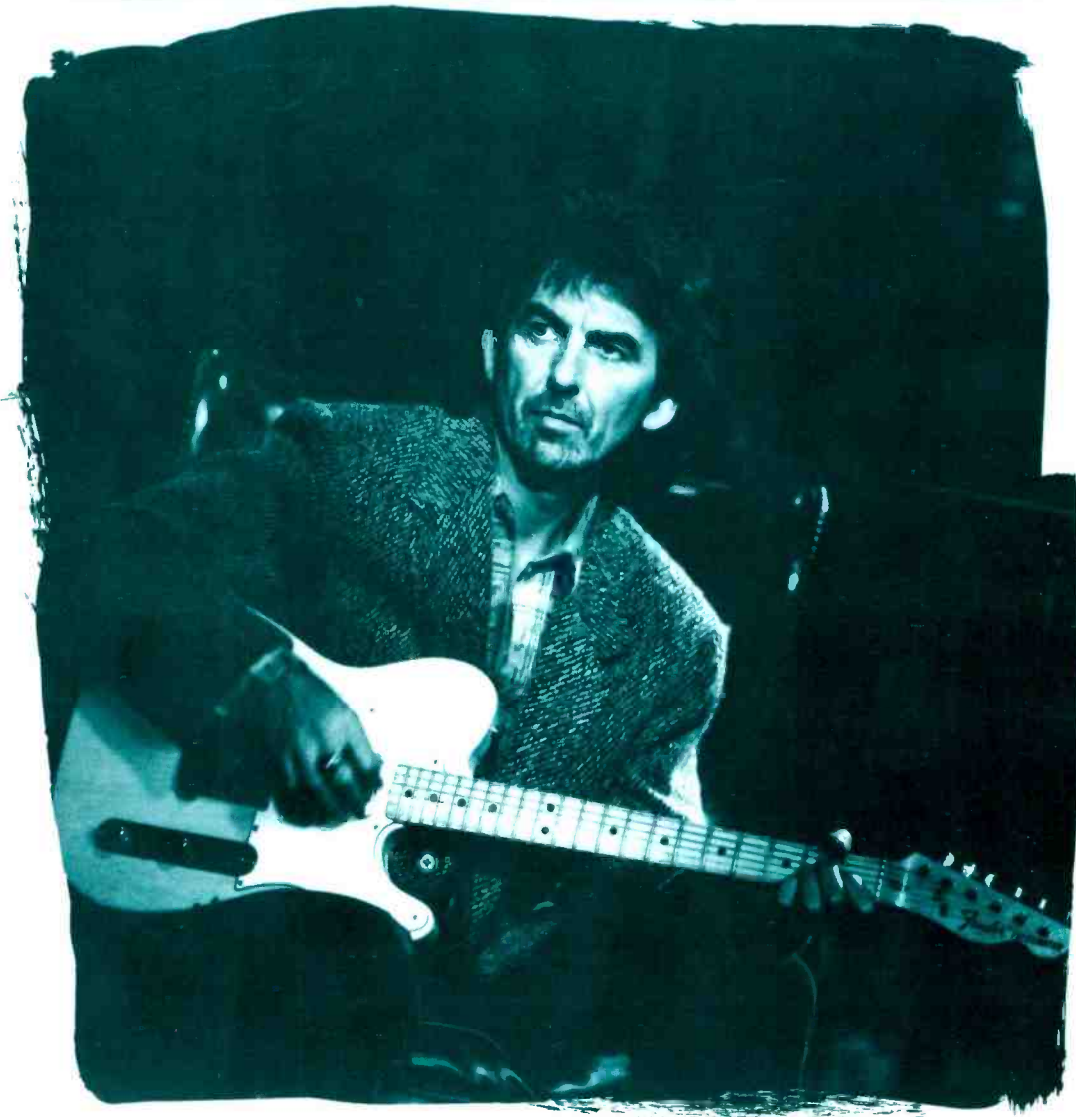

Here's another warning: Suppose you sell a piece of equipment, like an old transmitter, which has PCBs in it, and at some later date, it's involved in a leak or spill involving PCBs. The liability for that leak rebounds on the seller of the equipment (your station) and not on the buyer—no matter how careless the buyer may have been in handling the equipment.

That means that before you sell any equipment which does or might contain PCBs, all the parts which might contain PCBs must be replaced with those that don't, and the old parts must be disposed of according to EPA rules, which means paying an authorized disposal company to burn the PCB-contaminated oil. For most stations, that means it is not economical to sell or even scrap such equipment. If you can't trade it in, you may just have to keep it permanently—properly labelled with warning stickers, of course!

Next week: a reminder about a couple of FCC rules that many stations have actually forgotten about—and they, too, could prove costly. ●

If your station has an older transmitter, there is a very good chance that its power transformers and/or oil-filled capacitors contain PCBs.

THE GAVIN INTERVIEW: by Kent Zimmerman

GEORGE H

KZ: The first thing I noticed about Cloud Nine was how crisp and clear the sound is, as opposed to, say, All Things Must Pass, which was roomy and foggy.

GH: Well, that was a long time ago. All Things Must Pass was very much influenced by the fact that Phil Spector was producing. When I listen to that now, it just sounds so over the top with all the echo. It's swamped and swirling in echo. At the time it seemed very good, but in retrospect, it's just too washy. But this album is clean. I think the influence of Jeff Lynne is partly the reason for that.

KZ: There's a beautiful ballad on the album, "Just For Today."

GH: I originally wrote that one and "Breath Away From Heaven" for the "Shanghai Surprise" movie we did with Madonna. There was no soundtrack album because there didn't seem to be a point to it--the film was getting slated all over the place, even before it was finished. So I saved those tunes and recut them for this record because I thought the songs were good. That's why "Breath Away From Heaven" is slightly Chinese-sounding. And the other one was the love song between those two characters, played by Sean (Penn) and Madonna.

KZ: "When We Was Fab" is a stylistic look back at the Beatles. Did you collaborate with Jeff Lynne on that one?

GH: Yes. Jeff and I wrote "Fab" together, as well as "That's What It Takes." "Fab" was an idea I had--to try to write a song like that period. The cello contributed to the overall mood of that period. We did all the backing voices. Because it's nostalgic, there's a lot of little sounds subtly used, that remind you of that period. For example, on the backing vocals on the bridge, there's a little phasing and backwards stuff. Of course at the end, there's some sitar.

KZ: Do you still play?

GH: Yes, a little bit, just for my own amusement. It's a wonderful instrument--very, very difficult to master. I mean, I haven't really gotten through the guitar properly after all these years. But I just love the sound of the sitar. Every so often I play, mainly exercises--little scales and fills so I can continue to hear that sound.

KZ: This record sounds like a guitar album to me--and I beg to

"I'm no relic," the ex-Beatle sings.

A logical first question to George Harrison would have been, "Where ye been the last five years?" But, as he says, "What's five years these days when time flies by so quickly?" Sometimes five years is not a long time to be away, especially when you've been busy.

In person, George Harrison seems a lot different from the solemn portraits that have been showing up recently in publications like Rolling Stone. It makes it too easy to dismiss him as a serious, middle-aged ex-Beatle. He isn't. When we met in the Warner Brothers offices in Burbank, my immediate first impression was that of a first generation English rocker--hip clothes and a cool tossed haircut. As he had his first cigarette and his cup of tea ("I don't sleep well in hotel beds."), we fought the urge to talk mainly about movies.

During the last nine years, Harrison has shared a half-interest in Handmade Films, an innovative film company that employs 35 people, producing and releasing such acclaimed movies as "Life Of Brian," "The Long Good Friday," "Withnail And I" and "Mona Lisa." Handmade is a thriving firm with a bevy of interesting projects currently on the board, including the directing debut of actor Bob Hoskins and a new Nicholas Roeg picture.

But the subject at hand was music and Cloud Nine, Harrison's best recorded effort in over a decade. Co-produced and co-piloted by ELO's Jeff Lynne, Harrison also enlisted the help of stalwarts like Eric Clapton, Ringo Starr, Elton John, Gary Wright and Jim Keltner. Like Steve Winwood's remarkable comeback, the end results of Cloud Nine could well put Harrison "back in the high life again" when it comes to major rock n roll visibility.

In his notable Liverpudlian twang, George Harrison openly and congenially responded to all of our queries.

differ. I think you're a great guitar player.

GH: Thanks. I've got my own method of playing, but there are so many amazing players, it does humble you. I suppose what makes me feel less like a player is having not done all the live work and touring on the road. You really need to play all the time to keep your chops together. So when the occasion arises, when I do play, I'm so rusty. I just pick up a guitar for a session, I play chords a lot. Sometimes I've gone into my studio at home just to make a twelve-bar backing track, so I can just play along with it, but it always ends up turning into a tune. I write words to it. You're right. This album does have a lot of guitar. That's another reason I thought Jeff Lynne was a good choice. Like me, he's a songwriter/singer who plays guitar and produces records.

KZ: Aside from all the guest participants, it sounds like you and Jeff Lynne put together the lion's share of the album.

GH: Yes. We did most of the stuff--all of the backing voices, all the guitars except for the solos and little bits that Eric (Clapton) played.

Jeff and I did a lot of the keyboards. Gary Wright played piano on two tunes. Elton (John) plays on three tunes. Jim Horn did the horn parts. Apart from that and the drumming, the main bulk of the work was by Jeff and me.

KZ: Isn't it amazing how much two people can do these days.

GH: Or one person. I've made a lot of demos where it was mainly myself, maybe overdubbing the drummer--getting rid of the drum box. It's much easier these days because of all the MIDI'd stuff and all the drum boxes and computerization. But I didn't really want it to sound like that. I wanted my record to sound more like a band. We used the minimal amount of emulator. To my ears, like with Beatles records, you can still hear if it's an emulator, just like you could when it was a Mellotron back in 1966.

KZ: Technology can tend to bookmark a record into a certain time frame.

GH: Yes. Also it's like some of these rhythmic patterns. It's just too perfect.

KZ: Are you still into Eastern religion and meditation?

GH: I must admit I've been real lazy with it recently. That's probably why I've been so tired. I just got so into doing music in the studio that I let it slip from time to time. But my feelings about it are still the same. I've gotten a bit more quiet about it these days.

KZ: Why's that?

GH: It's like with anything. You change a little bit. You mature, I suppose.

KZ: It interests me that such a Western person can adopt such a blatantly Eastern philosophy and adapt it readily to their lifestyle.

GH: But it's not just Eastern. It's like the difference between the English language and Portuguese or Chinese. The thing that they call "Eastern philosophy" in itself is like a conceptual block. All that yoga, all the stuff from the Buddha, all the great Indian masters, Christ included--it's a science. It's just like how you would fix your motor car engine. You follow all the rules. You know how to take it all apart and put it together. It's as exact as that--but it's a long process to do it. That's what all the yoga meditation is about. It's the science of God's realization and how to attain that in your lifetime--or many lifetimes. It isn't really alien. It's a natural thing. Even down to when I did that transcendental meditation with the Maharishi, he'd say that the soul's natural instinct is to go from one state to the greatest state of happiness. What we naturally want is deeper happiness. Like the bee drawn to the flower with the most honey, our souls and our minds and our consciousness are naturally drawn to something that's nicer. So when you get into that meditation, as long as you have a few guidelines on how to approach it, it's really a matter of undoing everything. It's not letting everything get inside. And when you can get to that, your consciousness will automatically go to the state that's peaceful and joyful.

KZ: But aren't those rules stringent, for instance about lifestyle?

GH: Well there's different things. Some of these organizations that do observe explicit day-to-day procedures are very difficult. People think, "In order to experience this peace, I have to become a renunciate or go live in a cave in the Himalayas." You don't really. Some people like you are writers. I'm a musician. We all have our own karma. For the sake of a better word, that's what it is. We all have to do what we have to do. It's all how to put that into your life. The Krishnas, they're very austere. No drink. No smoke. No sex. No chocolate. No anything like that. Not everybody can do that. If you had to do that way, it would be terrible because only a selected few would be able to get that experience. Fortunately for us, because we're all many different people living different attitudes, there are many different ways of approaching the same thing. I don't really like the idea of eating red meat. I ate it up until 1965 because I was given it as a child. Certain things fall away from your life. I don't think you have to give things up to meditate. It's more like you get to the point where you just don't want things like that.

KZ: It seems ironic to me that in China, as they progress into the technological age, Confucianism is getting more popular.

GH: Yes! It's great. All that has been there for thousands of years and always will be. It's just the interpretation that makes it seem difficult. So many people out there represent a way of thinking, saying that they're teachers. You have to have a bit of discernment. Somebody once said, "Be like the wise ant and crawl through the grains of sand and just pull out the grains of sugar." I think all the experiences you have in your life enable you to get enough information or knowledge to then be able to discriminate and find the right approach for yourself.

KZ: How is it being in music, in your forties? I wonder all the time whether getting older changes one's outlook. I look toward people like yourself as an inspiration.

GH: I think you do get more responsible. I mean, I've become more responsible. I still have that ability to be a bit silly. As I said, things fall away from your life that you needed when you were younger and all you wanted to do was go out and boogie. Also, I don't have as much energy as I used to have. I've never been a great one for jumping out of bed in the morning. I've always been in that nagging kind of syndrome. I always work better later in the day.

KZ: Where did you find the song 'I've Got My Mind Set On You'?

GH: I've had the song for years. I bought the album the first trip I was in the States. It was a very old-fashioned recording. There's a guy who had a record that was really great called "If You're Gonna Make A Fool Of Somebody." It was popular about 1960 by a guy named James Ray. The original version wasn't a big hit, but the song was with us

We used to perform it a lot as the Beatles. Later, some other band from the North of England got a hit with it. "If You're Gonna Make A Fool Of Somebody" then became a bit more well known. It was written by someone called Rudy Clark. If he's reading this, I don't know anything about where he is.

KZ: Hopefully, he held onto the song. Do you own all of your songs?

GH: I have all of them from the Beatles' White Album. Everything I wrote before that, I don't.

KZ: Michael Jackson owns them, doesn't he?

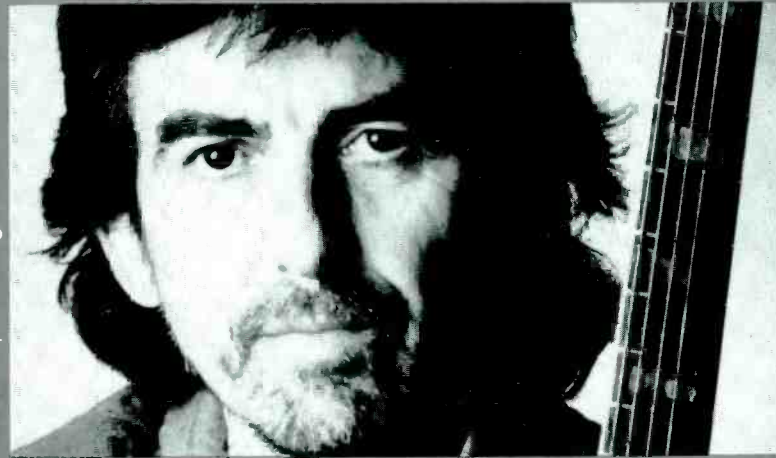

GH: (nods) That's just one of those things when you're young and somebody says, "Well, you've got to have your songs published." Publishing to me was like legalizing it somehow. They'd say, "Sign this bit of paper." What they failed to say was, "After signing this paper, I'm going to steal the copyright of your songs," which is what happened. It was assigning the copyright. I mean, who would ever sign that? Years later I found out I didn't own those songs. Those songs that belonged to John and Paul got sold to various people, and now Michael Jackson. People who buy copyrights or catalogs, don't think about how songs got written. They're just buying it like you'd buy an antique table or a painting.

KZ: Something doesn't seem right about that.

GH: I know. Especially when Paul was trying to buy it himself. I would like to have seen him get it just so it (the songs) would be controlled by at least one of the people who had written those songs.

KZ: How do you live with knowing those songs are owned by someone else?

GH: Well, there's been so many things like that in Beatle history. In the end, you'd go crazy if you kept worrying about everything every day. It's unfortunate. Everything I've written since the White Album--"My Guitar Gently Weeps," "Piggies," "Sgt. Pepper"...no, that was before, wasn't it? After that it was Let It Be, Abbey Road, then all my own albums...

KZ: It's funny to hear George Harrison get the order of the Beatle albums wrong. Now that they've started coming out on compact disc, what do you think of them?

GH: I like CDs generally. They're such nice, neat little things. As for the Beatles CDs, the first batch--the first records we made--were only in mono. George Martin kept trying to tell people they weren't stereo. You can't have them in stereo because we never made them in stereo! We used all this ancient equipment. But the Sgt. Pepper CD seemed like a different mix to me. It didn't seem as compact. I can hear too many isolated things that seem louder than I remember. I remember the sound as all together. So I don't know. I don't enjoy them as much as my memory of the final mix. I think the compact discs ought to get better as our records improved technically. By the time we made Abbey Road, I think we were on an eight-track machine, so the quality became better--although eight tracks doesn't sound like much, does it?

KZ: It doesn't sound like much now, but there seemed to be a lot of care taken when the Beatles originally recorded their music.

GH: Then again, Sgt. Pepper was made on a four-track machine. So even if you re-mix it, there's not much you can do. There are just four faders. I do suppose you can still change the overall impression.

KZ: Getting back to the new album, what about the song, "Devil's Radio"?

GH: That was a song that came from two things. One was that I was parked at a traffic light by this little church in England. They had a billboard on the side of this church which said, "Gossip--the Devil's radio. Don't be a broadcaster." I thought, "Well that's good. That sounds like a song." That same week I went to see Eurythmics live at Wembley. I enjoyed the show. I kept thinking, "God, I can do this kind of rock n roll stuff." I suppose the two thoughts got welded together into that song.

KZ: Do you listen to a lot of music at home?

GH: Not in the sense of what's current and on the radio, what's Top Ten and things like that. I've got a juke box, for instance, which is full of very early Elvis, Buddy Holly. You know, the old songs--Santo and Johnny (laughs). I still enjoy classical Indian music, and I still like the real old rock and roll like Little Richard and Chuck Berry. I like to listen to ethnic music--blues or Hawaiian, all that kind of music that's not really associated with the industry. I love old thirties music like Cab Calloway's band. It just kills me! It's just so rocking! I've seen old footage of Cab Calloway, and he was rocking more than Elvis! Listening to some of his band's arrangements, I couldn't understand why it took so long to get from the 1930s to the 1950s, unless it had something to do with the war or the depression and all that. Tracks on Cab Calloway's 1931 sessions are so much like Bill Haley--the first rock n roll kind of stuff. Why did it take twenty-odd years to pick up where he was already at then? Good stuff.

KZ: Isn't it amazing how music has become such a major export for England?

GH: It is, isn't it? It's because of unemployment and because it's desirable to be in a rock and roll band as well. There's always good stuff that keeps coming.

KZ: But you guys were responsible, almost singlehandedly, for building that industry.

I wanted my record to sound more like a band. We used the minimal amount of emulator. To my ears, like with Beatles records, you can still hear if it's an emulator, just like you could when it was a Mellotron back in 1966.

GH: Well, we helped it to break through and make it possible for other people to get noticed. But even within England, it was a terrible struggle to get down there to London and make a record. In the early sixties, they didn't really want to know about anybody outside of London. But once we made it, the A&R men from all these record companies signed everybody and every band that had made a record. It was a matter of opening up America as well. That was the main thing. Until us, nobody had really made it out of England into America really big. There had been a couple of number one records like Acker Bilk or Lonnie Donegan's "Rock Island Line" that penetrated the charts. It was not really until the Beatles and even with us, we had a couple of years before 1964, which was our first hit, where we had three records in 1962 and 1963 on different labels. Once we made it, again, it became a bit easier for bands coming out of England to be noticed--Rolling Stones and the like. But there's always been good musicians here. America has always been the place we looked up to that always had the greatest rock n roll and the greatest players and singers. England does have a lot of surprises that come out, like Dire Straits. Mark Knopfler came out in the middle of when the music was getting a bit weird. Suddenly this nice band came out, playing straight rock. Great guitar player! There's always been stuff like that in England and I'm sure it will continue.

KZ: Is having hit records still important to you?

GH: It's not that important in that I've already had a certain amount of ego gratification during all that (Beatle) period. In fact, it got to the point with the Beatles that it was so much and there was so much tension about, quite honestly I wanted a bit of peace. But it is important with this record. We spent all this time making it, and I know it's a good record, it's disappointing if it doesn't get on the radio, if it just disappears like my last album (Gone Troppo). I don't think it even got any radio play. That's disappointing. Then you see all these other people are out there selling these millions of records. I might as well sell some as well. There's no reason why this stuff isn't just as valid.

KZ: Are you going to continue making records regularly?

GH: (pauses) Well...actually this is my last record on my present contract. I'm not sure what I'll do next. But I do enjoy writing and making records. I don't really enjoy the promotion side of it--all the things I'm obliged to do like TV programs and chat shows. There is a certain amount of industry stuff I think is necessary to make people like you, and the radio stations and the public aware that the record is interesting. But all the other promo stuff, I can do without that, really. I've enjoyed it in the past and I try to enjoy it now, but I don't really like talking about myself. I've OD'd on being a celebrity.

KZ: What would you like to talk about?

GH: I'd rather not talk. I'd rather write songs and make records. It would be good if you could just put them out and have people play them. As I was saying about Jeff Lynne, we ended up enjoying the experience. I'd like to do, with Jeff, something more in the sense of a group. Although it felt a bit like he and I were this group bouncing ideas back and forth, when it came down to it, it's my record. I have to sing and do all that. There's certain things I'd like to do in a group where one person can sing one bit and another person can sing another bit. I'd like to have different voice sounds. If we could make a record like that...well, I know we can and possibly will. It depends.

KZ: My perception of you is similar to my perception of Eric Clapton. Making records is one thing, but I sense a reluctance towards being a bandleader.

GH: I would never want to be a bandleader. This was a problem back when we all split up and made solo records, and even more so doing a concert. I never wanted to be the guy at the front with the suit on. It's much better when you can come in and do your bits or whatever. But with a band, you have to do it, like Eric.

KZ: Is he like you--"Just put the record out"?

GH: He told me, "If you want to go on the road, I'll be in your band any day." He still enjoys playing as a sideman for other people. He even goes on the road occasionally just as a guitarist in a band.

KZ: You mention Big Bill Broonzy in "The Wreck Of The Hesperus."

GH: I'm not a relic. Big Bill Broonzy just came out. I used to listen to him when I was a teenager. My concept of Big Bill Broonzy is just like his name. This big guy who is just like a rock, doing his tunes as the rest of the world goes by. It just seemed funny. Sometimes the words just come out. I think, "Should I just say that? Oh, well. Why not?"

KZ: Are you ready for the success this record could bring into your life?

GH: Well, I hope the record is successful, but I certainly don't think this record's success is going to make me want to tour the world for nine months every year. Now I have other things to take care of, but I wouldn't mind occasionally doing some shows.

KZ: You now have a film company which is producing a lot of unique films. Will your emergence back into music be pulling at you?

GH: Music's my first interest. Films involve so many other people. It's a much more expensive and lengthy process. With music, you have more control. It's much quicker to hear and know what it is you've got. Then again the films are interesting. It's taken nine years since our first film, and over that nine years it's taken all that time to get Handmade Films respect in the film industry. It's got a nice name for itself. People see it's a Handmade film and they'll go see it. You see, we're not a big company. We don't have the backing and the finances the big companies do. We have to get the finances for each picture ourselves. We have to manage it in such a way in that at the end of the day, we break even, at least. We're not big high rollers, even with a successful film like "Mona Lisa."

KZ: But that forces you to compete on the cutting edge.

Personally, I don't want space movies. I want movies about people. Same thing with music.

GH: Exactly. I agree. That's how I am, really. The film industry is a funny business. There's so much product out that we have to go to small theaters. If you try to come out with a big movie with big distribution and that film doesn't clean up on the first weekend, it's gone. A few years back, you could have word of mouth, letting the film build and build. It's like, if you don't sell half a million copies of your album in the first weekend of release, then it's taken out of the shops. Can you imagine if that was the case? Well, that's what it's like with the movies. It's a very risky business.

BIO FEEDBACK

by RON FELL

GEORGE HARRISON

He was the first musician to incorporate the sitar in a hit song when he used the instrument on the Beatles' "Norwegian Wood" in 1965.

DIONNE WARWICK

She has won five Grammys, most recently for the song "That's What Friends Are For."

STEPHANIE MILLS

The four-foot, eleven-inch singer was once married to Jeffrey Daniels of Shalamar.

SMOKEY ROBINSON

Seventeen years ago this month, Smokey and The Miracles had a number one in the Gavin Report with "The Tears Of A Clown."

CHER

Her name at birth was Cherilyn La Pier.

ROGER HODGSON

He recorded his first single, "Mr. Boyd," in the late '60s, as part of a band called Argosy which included Nigel Olsson and Elton John.

BANANARAMA

Rumors of their disbanding are untrue. Keren Woodward recently took time off to care for her newborn baby, and Shiobhan Fahey is currently seven months pregnant with her first child.

TIFFANY

She's from Norwalk, California, and her real name is Tiffany Darwish.

JETHRO TULL

The band takes their name from an 18th century English agriculturist.

STEVIE WONDER

The promotional mini-CD of Stevie's current single, "Skeletons," features the U.S. debut of the adaptor necessary to play the 3-inch CDs on any 5-inch playback unit.

COMMODORES

With producer Michael Omartian, they've recorded a song called "Homeless" for their upcoming album.

STING

This month he begins filming his role as Pontius Pilate in the film "The Last Temptation Of Christ."

YES

The title of their new album, "Big Generator," was inspired by a '50s documentary on the pending new age of nuclear power.

MICHAEL BOLTON

He wrote Laura Branigan's 1983 hit, "How Am I Supposed To Live Without You."

ROGER

Roger Troutman sings lead for the band, Zapp. He also co-wrote songs for Shirley Murdock.

FLEETWOOD MAC

One of their two new members, Billy Burnette, is the son of famous '50s/'60s singer Johnny Burnette.

WHITNEY HOUSTON

She's been offered a role in the movie version of "Dreamgirls."

SWING OUT SISTER

Recording was held up while everyone waited for Corrine Drewery to recover from an accident she suffered while horseback riding.

WAYLON JENNINGS

His autobiographical album, "A Man Called Hoss," was originally going to be a book, but as Waylon states on the album's prologue, "I realized there were too many people still alive who might get killed or divorced if I told everything."

DAVID BOWIE

His "Glass Spider" tour is being filmed for a 60-minute ABC-TV special.

GET RHYTHM - RY COODER (Warner Bros.)

This is Ry Cooder's first album in three years, although he's spent much of the interim touring and composing film scores. Two thirds of Get Rhythm consists of some strange covers, including an obscure Chuck Berry tune, "13 Question Method," which Cooder performs aggressively and acoustically. "All Shook Up" features the vocals of Cameo's Larry Blackmon. Johnny Cash's "Get Rhythm" gets a title track spotlight with Cooder's guitar sounding uncharacteristically ragged and haggard. "Women Will Rule The World" is a calypso tune dredged from the same well that bandmate Van Dyke Parks crafted his strange 1971 classic, Discover America. Get Rhythm is a live-sounding rock hoedown laced with ethnic contributions by Flaco Jimenez on accordion, Steve Douglas on sax and many other players familiar to those staunch Cooder fans.

SURVEILLANCE - TRIUMPH (MCA)

Drawing from literary sources the likes of Robert Louis Stevenson, Tennyson, Pascal, Longfellow, Swift and Lucretius, Triumph creates rock n roll with enough power to knock down library shelves. Steve Morse contributes a blazing lead on "Head For Nowhere," which is Surveillance's boldest stand. Triumph has never had trouble sounding like an orchestra while playing tight as a trio. Theirs is a brand of heady hard rock that closely rivals Rush, though for some reason they've yet to create equal the hysteria. Instead, Triumph has a more compact but equally dedicated following. In all its splendor, Surveillance seems to crave respectability with power and wattage.

NEW

slam dance

"BING CAN'T WALK" - STAN RIDGWAY (Island)

One of the highlights of the visually-heavy Wayne Wang film, Slamdance, was Stan Ridgway and Mitchell Froom's spooky theme song, "Bing Can't Walk." If Rumblefish's "Don't Box Me In" didn't, this could be your cup of sushi.

"ARE YOU LONELY FOR ME BABY" - BUSTER POINDEXTER (RCA)

David Johansen's cabaret nightmare alter ego, Buster Poindexter, comes to life on vinyl. Half singing, half shouting, "Lonely" is soul revival suitable for Album Radio. On the flip, David...er, I mean, Buster, does his best Eric Burdon, slicing into "House Of The Rising Sun." What the hay, right? Burdon copped it from somebody else.

PILGRIMS - ELIZA GILKYSON (GOLD CASTLE)

With a strong voice and a delicate touch, Eliza Gilkyson enters Jennifer Warnes' and Joan Baez's turf after a tenure in Santa Fe and Austin as an opening act and an activist. It was Gilkyson who wrote the powerful "Rosie Strike Back" on Rosanne Cash's most recent album. In a sense, Pilgrims is a concept strongly based on Jungian philosophy and ideas about masculine/feminine duality. But don't panic. Trax like "Call All Angels" and "Closer" stand on their own as single statements of song.

"LETHAL" - UTFO/ANTHRAX (Select)

As outlaw music, rap and tough metal have a lot in common. "Lethal" is a left wing meeting of the minds. Like Aerosmith with Run DMC, UTFO and Anthrax drop the axe on the grim realities of the street. Heavy stuff.

SATURDAY - THE REIVERS (Capitol)

The Reivers was one of William Faulkner's most accessible novels. In fact, the movie version even starred Steve McQueen. Formerly Zeitgeist, The Reivers utilize producer Don Dixon to his sonic fullest. Recorded in and around their home town of Austin, The Reivers cleaned the slate with a name change and start anew with a vitality illustrated on rockers like "What Am I Doing," "Once In A While" and "Wait For Time."

Dave Mason

TWO HEARTS - DAVE MASON (Voyager/MCA)

Dave Mason performs a high-tech comeback piece notably accompanied by Steve Winwood, Mason's former Traffic-mate. As programmed drum trax loom heavy in the background, Mason stiffly shadowboxes with his own voice and sounds surprisingly youthful. While Two Hearts is an obvious ploy towards upper demographics, its modern instrumentation may tempt album rockers. Throughout the album, Mason attempts a comeback as a guitarist as well. "Something In The Heart," with Winwood's distinctive synth/horn lines, is still Two Hearts' best shot.

CHRONICLES - STEVE WINWOOD (Island/Warner Bros.)

Before becoming a household name, Steve Winwood recorded effective and simple melodies in a home studio setting chronicled in part by this Best-Of collection. Songs like "Valerie," "Help Me Angel" and "Talking Back To The Night" have been spruced up with new mixes. An all new set of material has been tentatively targeted towards mid-1988. Until then, re-enjoy a few overlooked gems.

"The Brandos' 'Honor Among Thieves' one of my faves this year by far. The potential of this band is staggering. I don't need synths to get my kicks, just raw power and the Brandos, the coolest name in the biz!"

Dave Ross, KFMU

"The Brandos are one of those bands whose eventual stardom will only serve as an embarrassment to those of you who have somehow shown a current indifference. Listen to the record and see them live, and after you have done so, if you still have reservations, no one can help you."

Dave Sadof, KL0L

INSIDE ALBUM

by Kent Zimmerman

Who's Sorry Now?

Just as Jerry Falwell is dismantling his so-called Moral Majority, reportedly Albert and Tipper Gore met with a sample of entertainment execs to bury the hatchet. Or was it an attempt to open the floodgates of entertainment campaign dollars for Senator Gore's presidential campaign? According to Variety, which obtained transcribed accounts of the October 28th meeting, among those who attended was MCA chief Irving Azoff, Warner Brothers' Lenny Waronker, TV's Norman Lear and Miami Vice producer Michael Mann. Reportedly the Gores were eager to clear the air about allegations of censorship and to express their regret that the music obscenity issue even reached the congressional hearing stage. Prior to the Donna Rice/Monkey Business scandal, it looked as if entertainment support was leaning heavily in Gary Hart's favor. With Hart's elimination, that leaves those support dollars in limbo. It's also obvious Senator Gore "ain't too proud to beg," sensing the Democratic nomination is a loose football. How forgiving that atmosphere was, is not exactly known. But after recounting the private and legislative action still pending against the content of contemporary music, Azoff was quoted as telling the Gores, "We blame you for all of it."

Promotions. Columbia is about to announce the appointment of Alan Oremán to the position of Director of Album Promotion, replacing Jim McKeon who moved to New York to head up RCA's Album Department. Oremán spent eleven years in Atlanta as Columbia's local promotion director. He will be based in Century City... Though she's been on the job a little over a month, Pam Newman is directing Enigma Records' National Album Radio assault. Her current project is co-ordinating a series of Don Dixon listening parties/summit meetings/club gigs. By the way, Enigma is certainly on the move and are right on the edge of adding a five-person regional staff that could debut during early '88. Make sure that you're receiving all of Enigma's releases. They are among the most innovative and prolific in the Album/Alternative arena. You can reach Pam by dialing 213-640-6869... John Schoenberger is back in the Album and Alternative mainstream by accepting the West Coast album promotions gig for the fledgling Relativity Records. John will be Relativity's West Coast link handling national album promotion, press, the trades and artist relations. "It's a great company. I like the idea that their offices are located near the warehouse." Schoenberger was referring to Important, Relativity's parent company. Again, if you aren't receiving Relativity's rock n roll, Schoenberger can be reached at 213-212-0801.

Welcome To The Machine. Yet another Gavin station defects from Top Forty to Album Radio after a long transition. KKEG-Fayetteville, AR, has a rockin' playlist. Contact Rick Alan or J.L. Fisk. Address is Box 878, 72702. Phone is 501-521-5566.

Around The Horn. Don Moody at KYJR-Wenatchee wants to rock, bemoaning the influx of adult rock n roll. He's making do with Jimmy Davis and Tom Caufield... The Radiators still rank high after six big weeks with Kurt Naumann at KTBC-Nacogdoches... Bryan Locke at WDNS/FM-Bowling Green couldn't help it. "I wanna plug this band Government Cheese. They come from around here." Locke was unable to pigeonhole the band with an easy description... Carter Alan at WBCN informs us that 'BCN prefers "Devil Inside" off the INXS. "We also love the Bangles." WBCN also added Dokken and was out-of-the-box on "Mandinka" by Sinead O'Connor on Chrysalis... D.A. Collins at KPGA-San Luis Obispo is getting lots of calls for Tower of Power... KROQ has added another track off Paul Carrack's album, opting for "Double It Up"... "Check out guitarist Joaquim Lievano's album on Global Pacific. It sounds a little like Ponty," urges Steve Cole at KSPN-Aspen. That's because Joaquim used to play with Jean-Luc... WLIR Screamer Of The Week is U2's "Christmas, Baby Please Come Home" off the A&M Special Olympics charity disc... Patty Martin at KSJO is in agreement with WBCN. Stay well. Yer pal. KZ

the GAVIN REPORT/November 6, 1987

R.E.M.'s reign at #1 finally comes to a halt as Love & Rockets explodes past the Smiths and takes an overwhelming 25% chart point lead. Guadalcanal Diary are still expanding their base of airplay and PIL regains their underline after a resurgence this week. Alternative radio loves Gene Loves Jezebel and an increase of points by over 25% proves it. The release of Bryan Ferry's full album was met with the enthusiasm of the Twins fans at the Metrodome after Game 7 of the World Series. Probably the most talked about album on the chart this week is the Screaming Blue Messiahs which is drawing response galore for Deb Brady, WXXP-Pittsburgh ("tops requests"), Valerie Pittman, WRAS-Atlanta ("#1 phones"), Helen Urriola, WFIT-Melbourne ("Big big record for us"), Ivar Hamilton, CFNY-Toronto ("top five phones"), Mike Summers, KRPN-Salt Lake City, Phillip Griffin, WRUV-Burlington, Adam Langley, WBNY-Buffalo, John Koski, WRVU-Nashville, Doris Duwe, WTSR-Trenton. The Housemartins had the largest gain of any record with a 31-position jump! They're grinning the faces of Jonathan Rosen, KEYX-Phoenix ("Tons of calls, a cross between the Smiths and REM in concept"), George Spillman, KUCI-Irvine, Lisa Securo, WUNH-Durham, Brian Davis, WDCR-Hanover ("People want it out of control"), Susan Kennedy, WWVU-Morgantown. Last week's Record To Watch is our Certified highest debut, The Connells, who almost doubled their points in one week. Our other Certified debut is Big Dipper knocking out Jason Cohen, WNUR-Evanston, Don Webber, KBVR-Corvallis ("Big hit here") and Josh Rosenthal, WCDB-Albany. Our Record To Watch is Flesh For Lulu who just missed debuting and should experience a very high debut next week. Those of you wondering how Terence Trent D'Arby continues his quest to debut on the Alternative chart. Armed with raving reviews of his live performances, TTD increased his station reports by 35% and is also close to cracking the top 50. Expect our Most Added album, Sinead O'Conner to make some headway on the chart next week. RECORD WATCH: Not just "Import Record Watch" this week. Mark Miller is thrilled about a local Minneapolis band KABL is supporting called the Beltane Fires. In Mark's words, it's a "toad-happer." Lin Brehmer, WXRT-Chicago, was beside himself over the new Mose Allison album on Blue Note Records. It's the greatest record since... since...the Godfathers "Birth School Work Death" single Lin preached.

Check out Dave Sholin's Top 40 single picks this week, it's always a thrill to see more of our artists crossing over to pop radio.

SPOTLIGHT LP

"Wanted" - THE STYLE COUNCIL (Polydor UK)

Upbeat and electrifying "Wanted" is richly textured with sweetness of Italian ice cream. Paul Weller continues his theme of presenting America Urban and jazz musical influences from his British pop perspective. The recipe is a success and should find its way to the top of many stations' playlists.

40 Miles From Nowhere - NAKED PREY (Frontier)

Naked Prey fuse tumbleweed blues and post punk and will undoubtedly be compared to their musical and geographical cousins Green On Red. The title track, "Find My Way" and "Silver Train" roll like locomotives at an unstoppable pace. Lead singer Van Christian (who once was the drummer for Green On Red) may not be blessed with the voice of a George Michael but he more than makes up for it with a fiery style on "Ill. Central" and "Sweet Marie."

INSIDE COUNTRY

Be sure to check out all the Gavin Seminar info enclosed in this week's issue. The Seminar will be held February 12-13 here in San Francisco where we'll also be celebrating The Gavin Report's 30th birthday. While skimming through the registration material, don't miss the nominating ballot for the 1988 Gavin Media Awards. Take a minute to nominate the folks you feel are the best in the business, and send it back in to the Gavin Report by November 20. The finalists in each category will be announced in January, and the winners will be revealed during the awards banquet at the convention.

While Reba McEntire spends another week at the top of the chart, Highway 101 inch ever closer to their first number one record. Highway's pulling in huge requests for Chris Griffin at WCHK-Canton and Don Roberts at KFGO-Fargo. K.T. Oslin has her most successful record to date--Paul Fredricks at KMPS-Seattle and Bob Flittie at WNAX-Yankton both call it one of their strongest. Look for the Kenny Rogers/Kim Carnes duet to break into the Top Ten next week. "This is the hottest song we've had in the last six months," claims Bob Davis at WADA-Shelby.

Billy Joe Royal had a good week, jumping from 38-33. Andy Vaughn at WFRB-Frostburg predicts that this one will be bigger than "Burned Like A Rocket." The ladies own the Certified category this week, as The Foresters debut at #35 and Rosanne Cash at #36. Listeners seem to love hearing Rosanne sing her daddy's song--we're getting "most requested" reports from Ray MacKenzie at CFAC-Calgary, Ron Scott at WKKN-Rockford and Gary Burkett at WSKR-Atmore. Both Dwight Yoakam and the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band jump into Chartbound in only their second week.

Last week's Record To Watch, Foster and Lloyd, tops Chartbound and stays one of the Most Added for the third week. This week's Record To Watch, Don McLean, gets 17 adds, including KSFA, KEYK, KXRA/AM, KJCF, KRLC, WMBC/FM, WDKC, KVDB, KROF, KEED, etc.

The most requested song for Charlie

Hoskins at KLXX-Bismarck is "(I Wish It Could Always Be) '55" from Alabama's Just Us album. Charlie adds "This LP is incredibly hot! It's selling so fast they can't keep it in the stores." Talk to you next week.

HIT FACTOR

Country
Research:
Lisa Smith
Elma Greer

Hit Factor is a percentage of stations which have it in Heavy or Medium rotation, i.e. 100 stations playing the record -- 60 stations have it in Heavy or Medium rotation -- Hit Factor = 60%

REVIEWS

NANCI GRIFFITH - "Never Mind" (MCA) Though Nanci is well-known as a singer/songwriter, this time she's chosen to record a song by award-winning songwriter Harlan Howard. The first single from her upcoming "Little Love Affairs" album, it's full of drinkin' and hurtin' and thoughts of what might have been.

TAMMY WYNETTE - "Talkin' To Myself Again" (Epic) When Tammy and producer Steve Buckingham were looking for songs for her "Higher Ground" LP, they found an old cassette of songs written by Jamie O'Hara. "Talkin' To Myself Again" was among them, and when Tammy recorded it, she asked the O'Kanes to do back-up vocals. Their gentle harmonies, combined with Tammy's strong vocals, shine on this classic Country heartbreaker.

JO-EL SONNIER - "Come On Joe" (RCA) Cajun singer Jo-el Sonnier shows us his Country side, blending his accordion with fiddles on this sweet two-step. His name? It's pronounced Jo-el (as in Noel) Saw-n-yay.

INSIDE URBAN RADIO

Before we delve too heavily into the music, let me briefly bother you to sit down and fill out that ballot that you received in this week's Gavin Report envelope. You should also have your Gavin Seminar For Media Professionals Registration Packet: Hotel Registration Card, Gavin Registration Card, Instructions for Registering, The Ballot, and the Ballot return envelope. The deadline is November 20th, so we are urging everyone to fill it out as soon as possible. The nominating ballots are blank - the Gavin Report staff does NOT nominate anyone - YOU DO! That's why it's important that YOU GET OUT AND VOTE!! Many thanks for your time - we appreciate it. This year is our 30th Anniversary and we want to make it special. Check out next week's Gavin Report for more specific details on the Seminar itself.

STEVIE WONDER holds on tight to the number one slot. Biggest mover is the WHITNEY HOUSTON single, debuting at number 12. MIKI HOWARD gets Certified this week, and Randy Sterling, KGBC-Galveston, reports major calls on it, as does Tony Wright, WJIZ-Albany. Melvin Jones, KRNB-Memphis, is getting calls for L.L. MONDAY and the O'JAYS. Frenche Be, WQIM-Montgomery, has just added the GLADYS KNIGHT AND THE PIPS, as have 32 other programmers, making it our Most Added by a long shot. He's getting early calls from the 18-34 demos and says it should be big in the clubs there, too.

EARTH, WIND & FIRE had an exceptional week on phone lines: Cy Young, WQQK/FM-Nashville, has it as his record to watch, and Patrick James, KTAM-Mission, has it in his top three requests. Scott Jantzen, OC104 FM - Ocean City, reports it as getting top phones,. PEBBLES is also listed as one of our Most Added. Howard Thomas, KMYX-Ojai, reports it as a top prospect there, along with ST.PAUL, which is also generating calls. LOU RAWLS is causing some chat on the phones: Joe Bullard, WANM-Tallahassee, "We missed his voice - it's a well-needed sound that we're happy to welcome back." Scott Jantzen, OC104/FM, comments that it should do well there, too.

This week's Record To Watch, PRINCESS AND STAR BREEZE, was penned by Prince, according to the label, and Thomas Lytle, K94-Norfolk, has 18-34 male and female callers, while Mickey Arnold, WRDW-Augusta, reports across-the-board phones. Go on, dig back through that stack of singles and give it another listen - you won't regret it.

Take Care. Betty

REVIEWS

By Betty Hollars and John Martinucci

LOVE OVERBOARD

GLADYS KNIGHT & THE PIPS - Love Overboard (MCA) If the dynamic "Calloway" duo does for Gladys what they did for Natalie, this "Love Overboard" will get the jump start it deserves. Sounds great on both the extended version and the short one.

JOYCE SIMS

JOYCE SIMS - Come Into My Life (Sleeping Bag) No sleeping on the job for Joyce Sims. Even though both this and her last single, "Lifetime Love," are both mid-tempo tunes, this one has a familiarity that will cause you to stop and listen.

Fatal Beauty

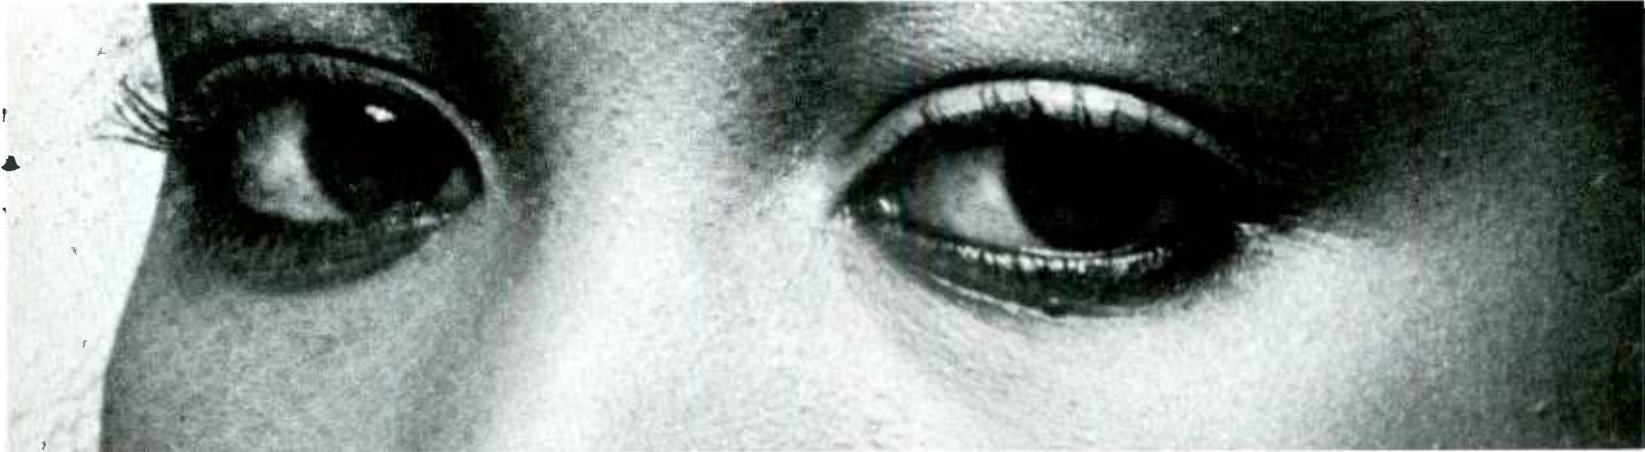

SHANNON - Criminal (Atlantic)

You won't snooze through this one - it's as uptempo as Shannon gets. And with a Whoopi Goldberg movie as a vehicle for airplay, this tune should "convict" you to give it radio play, too.

WHISPERS - In The Mood

(Solar/Capitol) No, this is not the old Glenn Miller tune, but when the Whispers are in the mood, they can produce an outstanding ballad! Sure thing to reach those older demos.

TIME PASSAGES

In broadcasting, "time" has a rather illusory definition, at least in the minds of the listeners. How many times have you heard a 10-second tag that sounded like 30 seconds? Or a 30-second promo that sounded like a lifetime? But, despite what many believe, the concept of brevity on the radio does not necessarily mean, "Limit your breaks to under ten seconds, and keep the sweeps going."

Regardless of where they are—in the car, at the beach or at home—listeners do not conceive of time as a constant. Things either sound "too long" or "too short," depending on whether they dislike or like what they're hearing.

In our effort to be brief and continue to build cumes, we must also consider the many aspects of "perception." This is especially true of stations trying to sweep the first three quarter-hours.

Transition from one element to another creates time consciousness. That's why two 30-second spots usually sound longer than one 60-second commercial. And that's why many listeners get irritated when stations piggyback as many as five or six commercials in a row in the fourth quarter-hour. "Well," you say, "I have to run them some time, and the fourth quarter-hour makes the best mathematical sense, so what's a mother to do?"

The first step is to understand that transition is the irritant, and irritation can sap your listeners' attention. That's why many programmers run station contest promos first instead of last. That's fine—as long as they're fresh and well-produced. But there are other transitions we need to be aware of. The transition from a crass song to a totally mellow one in a sweep can cause listeners to think they've been listening too long. This type of transition is often overlooked on computer-controlled playlists, but our studies, focus groups and auditorium testing have shown these little things can cause serious problems. They usually result in instant turn-off, and when extended, in a button being pushed to a new station.

As we probe deeper into transition, we must take into consideration the movement from thought to thought within a set. One thought per set is ideal, but may not always be possible. What we are ultimately reaching for is dynamic flow.

A long back-announce combined with a bit, a weather update and a long one-liner can result in clutter. And clutter can make a station sound tired. The way to deal with clutter on the radio is the same as with any other kind: get organized. If the "hook" is set up well on the left side of the stop-set, and the spots and promos run in the proper order, the set goes by quickly, the commercial messages "print" and it's back to boogie.

When we remove all the clutter from the station, with commercial-free hours, or days or dayparts, we can increase our quarter-hours—often substantially. But that's not always possible. Let's look at some of the clutter we can do something about on an everyday basis:

We may not have much say over the agency-generated commercials we air, but we do have some control over station promos. Many can be run as quick one-liners over intros—and should be. Others, like those for major contests, should be well thought out and well produced. Instead of being exactly 20 or 30 seconds long, they should be timed "by ear." You may find, for example, that you have produced a really strong promo that came out at only 22 seconds instead of the planned 30. That's okay—in fact, it may be ideal. When it comes to time limits, the sweep-second hand on the clock is no substitute for perception. Only your ear can provide that time limit, and tell you when to eliminate a promo that may exceed it.

It's key to note the distinction between core audience and target audience. "Core" is a state of mind that transcends age and sex. For example, there's no such thing as a "male 18-24"—a 36-year-old woman who likes urban rap songs may fall within that category. It's also important to note the varying tolerance levels of different groups. Our studies have shown women have a higher tolerance for irritants than men. Maybe that's why it's so difficult to corner those elusive 18-24-year-old males, and get them to put our call letters in their diaries. It has always been my view that most normal, active males simply won't take time to fill out a diary—so Arbitron assumes they don't listen. The reason that brevity seems to help more with males than females would make an interesting behavioral study. After all, it's been said that, to really know today's man, you must observe his behavior with a woman, a flat tire and a child. ●

DAVE SHOLIN'S PERSONAL PICKS — SINGLES

BANANARAMA - I Can't Help It (London/PolyGram) In a year when female artists and band have really made an impact, this remarkable trio has released its best work yet. Turn it up and you just can't help but feel good. C'mon, can anyone have any doubts about this high-energy dance production jewel?

MICHAEL JACKSON - The Way You Make Me Feel (Epic) By now all the "experts" have dissected, analyzed and inspected this album more carefully than my drill instructor looked over the troops at Fort Bragg. It's easy to pick favorites off "Bad," but the title track and this tune are the ones I gravitated to from the start. Quintessential Michael!

GENE LOVES JEZEBEL - Motion Of Love (Geffen) Yes, this is the same band that Keith Zimmerman interviewed over a year ago. They're also top ten on this week's Alternative chart. A recent tour with New Order has given them an extra boost and it's now time for Top 40 to sit up and take notice. Hip, musically adventurous, besides being very commercial. Give it an extra listen.

M/A/R/R/S - Pump Up The Volume (4th & Broadway/Island) Get ready..your're gonna be hearing a lot about this one over the next few weeks. The group's name comes from the initials of the members last names, who come from two other English bands, Colour Box and A.R. Kane. I don't think there's a better reaction record around right now. Guaranteed to get 'em pumped up.

RON FELL'S PERSONAL PICKS — ALBUMS

GEORGE HARRISON - Cloud Nine (Dark Horse/Warner Bros.) Cloud Nine is no cure for cancer. Rather, it is a fine guitar album capable of delivering the spirit of jaunty optimism in which it was apparently conceived. Sounding like a two-man collision of ideas between Harrison and co-producer Jeff "ELO" Lynne, '80s studio technology was obviously utilized but firmly kept in check. By overdubbing leads by Eric Clapton and Beatlesque drumming by Ringo Starr and Jim Keltner, Cloud Nine almost achieves Harrison's dream of sounding like a tight band. The subtleties injected into songs like DEVIL'S RADIO, THIS IS LOVE, and "FISH ON THE SAND" give those accustomed to Top Forty pop fantasies a new nitty gritty reference point. WHEN WE WAS FAB is a light-hearted pastiche of Beatle sounds and moods. GOT MY MIND SET ON YOU is a personal chestnut from Harrison's own record collection. Cloud Nine is George Harrison's euphoric re-entry into the atmosphere of high tech radio, where the rules and stakes are much different from the days of "She Loves You" and "My Sweet Lord." And he does an admirable job of fitting back in.

GEORGE MICHAEL - Faith (Columbia) After running into a puritanical buzz saw with I WANT YOUR SEX, George Michael flexes his Faith. So far, his solo material is far less produced than his previous material with Wham! Faith is more like music from George Michael's mind. It is a cool balance of vocal layers and sparse synthesized instrumentation that doesn't bludgeon or over-testify. Details as to who participates couldn't be more vague. I guess what you hear is what you get. The beat is dance-oriented while the bass is low and clean. George is maturing as a singer, choosing not to wield his voice like a weapon. Instead, like a snake in the grass, he teases the listener by staying firmly inside the groove. Trax: FAITH, HARD DAY and the gospelizing ONE MORE TIME.
