Labor's Unemployment Relief Measures

Representatives of National and International Unions Adopt Recommendations for President Roosevelt's Unemployment Relief Conference-A Broad Program of Constructive Measures by President Roosevelt approved in general the recommendations submitted by William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor.

The recommendations had received the endorsement of the representatives of the National and international labor unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor and the representatives of the railroad brotherhoods, who considered the program at a meeting of the labor representatives convened by Mr. Green to meet in the A. F. of L. Building the day preceding the conference.

The conference was held at the Department of Labor Building under the chairmanship of Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, who said it was an effort to secure the views of the conference members for transmission to President Roosevelt, who was drafting his general program for unemployment relief.

Labor on Relief Boards
Miss Perkins declared that in the administration of unemployment relief labor should be represented on State relief boards and should participate in setting administrative standards concerning the amount of relief allowed, the items in the budgets to be covered by these grants, the eligibility of applicants, provision for the homeless and transient, types of work re-lief projects and rates of pay on relief

Feed the Hungry

Mr. Green told the labor leaders, sociologists and economists that make up the conference that the millions of hungry should be fed even if it cost the Federal Government a billion dollars to do it, and that a huge public works program should be inaugurated to provide jobs for unemployed.

He emphasized the imperative necessity of the six-hour day and five-day week to minimize unemployment and stressed the equally imperative necessity of high wages to increase mass buying power. Organized labor's program, he said, included unemployment insurance, mortgage relief for home owners, immediate enactment of the Child Labor Amendment to the Federal Constitution, stringent enforcement of immigration laws, national economic planning to raise living standards, the dismissal wage and the establishment of a Federal bureau to compile data as to available work, wage-earners' income and standards for economic poli-

In addition organized labor insisted on wider government control over banking, flexible credit for business, and urged that the United States Government extend credit to municipalities to assist them in maintaining the public schools, which have already suffered materially.

Millions Receive Relief
Secretary of Labor Perkins declared that around 4,100,000 families and 600,000

single persons are receiving public relief. She approved a broad public works program, shorter working hours, increased buying power for wage-earners, unemploy-ment insurance, adjustment of mortgage problems in the interest of home owners and methods for restoring normal employment to labor.

Home Mortgages Increase

She said that, with 90 per cent of homes mortgaged, now as against 40 per cent in 1920, the home mortgage problem and the many usurious charges connected therewith demand drastic measures of relief to prevent foreclosures and concerted action in the matter of home mortgage finance.

The conference was called to submit recommendations which would reach President Roosevelt through the Secretary of Labor.

Labor's Program

The text of organized labor's recom mendations submitted by Mr. Green fol-

"The problem of Unemployment and Unemployment Relief should be approached from two distinct and definite "Congress should make an appropriation of an amount of money sufficient to meet the urgent relief needs caused by continued unemployment.

"Hunger and distress have become so widespread and have increased to the point where we believe that no less than one billion dollars should be appropriated for relief purposes and that said amount should be made available to the States and local communities at the earliest pos-

"Feeding of hungry, distressed men, women and children constitutes an emergency as great as the financial situation.

Public Works

'A huge public works program should be launched and inaugurated as quickly as possible. Public building construction, construction, the elimination of grade crossings, flood control, reforestation, soil erosion, reclamation and other governmental projects designed to supply work for those who are unemployed

"The public works program should be supplemented by the encouragement of self-liquidating projects, such as slum clearances, housing and the building of tunnels and bridges and all other self-liquidating projects which are practical and feasible

6-Hour Day, 5-Day Week "The American Federation of Labor urges the application of the six-hour day and five-day week in both public and private employment as a practical and constructive remedy for unemployment. This economic reform is made necessary because of technical changes, the mechanization of industry and the substitution of power for hand labor.

"In our judgment it will be impossible to definitely and adequately overcome the evil of unemployment until we institute and apply the five-day week and the six-hour day to all characters of employment, both public and private. It is, of course, not the purpose of Union Labor, in advocating the shorter workday and work week to provide thereby a means of reducing the daily or weekly compensation of the wage-earner.

"We are convinced that the observance of one day of rest in seven no longer meets economic and social requirements.

"The shorter workday and shorter workweek can, we believe, be brought about by direct negotiations between organized workers and employers or through the enactment of Federal legis-

"Federal legislation could be supplemented and aided through the encouragement and development of voluntary joint agreements between employers and organized employes.

We urge the speedy enactment of the Black-Connery six-hour five-day work-week bill. With specific reference to the transportation industry we favor the application of the principle of the six-hour day in the manner appropriate to the con-ditions of that industry.

increase Wages
"It is obviously impossible to overome unemployment without restoring to the masses of the people a buying power corresponding with the facilities of industrial production. Buying power can only be established through an increase in distress are directly traceable to a lack of buying power brought about through continued reductions in wages. The price level must be raised and wages must be increased before we can create work op-portunities for the millions of working men and women who are now idle. This result can be brought about through the enactment of minimum wage legislation for women and minors, through an increase in wages and through the develop-ment of a wage standard commensurate with the requirements of American citizenship.

Unemployment Insurance

"Unemployment insurance offers a partial remedy for the suffering and distress caused by unemployment. Special efforts should be made to secure the enactment of adequate, practical unemployment insurance legislation, both by the Federal government and by the different State legislatures.

Home Mortgages

The home mortgage problem of wageearners and unemployed workers should be dealt with immediately, constructively and in a practical way. Mortgages should be amortized and the rates of interest should be reduced. All assistance pos-sible should be extended to home owners, foreclosures of mortgages should be pre-vented and the time in which these mortgages should be paid should be extended, the extension to correspond with the op-portunities of the home owner to meet his financial obligation.

Child Labor Amendment

"As further practical remedies for unemployment we favor the enactment of the Child Labor Amendment to the Constitu-tion of the United States. We suggest that the President of the United States call upon the Governors of the different States to recommend to State legislatures the adoption of the Child Labor Amendment to the Constitution of the United States at the earliest possible date.

Immigration Laws

"We further urge that the Immigration Laws be impartially and rigidly enforced. We believe that the Federal government should supply such funds as may be necessary to prevent the illegal entry of aliens and to enforce the immigration statutes and thus protect American labor in this way so far as it is possible to

Economic Planning

"We recommend that the development of national economic planning, directly aimed at the raising of standards of liv-We hold that this is a matter of social importance and, because of its social importance, the government should directly interest itself in the development of higher standards of living.

"We hold further that workers' security is necessary and should be fostered by the Federal Government in order to social satisfaction, tranquility and industrial efficiency.

Dismissal Wage

"We further recommend that the Federal Government set an example to other employers by providing reserves out of which a dismissal wage should be paid to those dropped from the service.

"We recommend that a Federal agency be created for the express purpose of col-lecting and collating data as to man hours of work available, as to wage-earners' in-come and provide standards for determining economic policies.

Government Control of Banking

"We believe that the lessons of the re-cent pass have taught all classes of people the necessity of the government exercising a wider, more definite and direct control over banking and banking facilities. We hold that credit facilities for legitimate business should be made more flexible and available. Through such action industry will be stimulated and the risks of industrial activities will be greatly

Protection of Schools
"The collapse of our public schools throughout the country is one of the most alarming manifestations of the depression. Thousands of schools have already closed for the year; major curtailments have occurred in school work in thirty

CHICAGO BIDS ALL TO THE CONVENTION

By JAMES C. PETRILLO

THE 1933 CONVENTION of the Amer ican Federation of Musicians will convene in Chicago on Monday, June 19-possibly the latest date at which the Federation hosts have ever gathered. This is due to the fact that it was not possible to obtain suitable hotel accommodations at an earlier date.

The Chicago Federation of Musicians extends to all the other locals of the Federation fraternal greetings, and invites them to take advantage of the opportunity thus afforded to visit the coming Century of Progress Exposition, which will be in full swing at that time locals are urged to be present, officially in the persons of their officers and delegates, and, unofficially, in that of as many of their members as can afford the time to make the trip.

Since the foundation of the Federation, nearly forty years ago, there has never been a finer stage setting for its conventions than that provided this year by the presence in Chicago of the greatest exposition yet created by the genius and enterprise of man. The site of the fair is one of the most beautiful which could have been chosen; an ideal setting for what already gives promise of being the finest scientific and industrial display the world has ever known. The location is on the shores of Lake Michigan, that majestic body of clear, limpid water whose cool breezes have made of Chicago the greatest summer resort to be found on this or any other continent. The buildings are all either completed, or so nearly so that there is no longer any doubt but that they will be ready for inspection when the gates of this most stupendous of all exhibitions are officially thrown open on June 1st.

The architecture is original and attractive and unlike any other type yet seen at national or international exposition, with the modernistic concept and design predominating. Already many of the outstanding exhibits are in operation, notably "Old Fort Dearborn" and the "Hall of Science," or electrical building, which, when lit up after darkness has settled over the scene, reveals the most amazing and startling display of electrical wizardry and beauty ever housed in one building. This one exhibit alone is worth the trip to Chicago. And there are many others, strung out along a shore line of over two miles, where the nights are cooled by soft lake breezes that never fail.

There is no other city in the world where the park and boulevard systems are as great in extent, and as varied, as they are in Chicago. Here the visitor will find over thirty miles of beautifully laid out parks, playgrounds, boulevards, golf courses and bathing beaches, in one unbroken line of continuity along the shore of Lake Michigan, the whole of it reserved exclusively for the people. No other city can show anything which compares to this magnificent group of outdoor recreation spots. On a hot, sultry night it is not uncommon to find a half million people enjoying that relief from heat which only a water-cooled trade wind is capable of inducing.

Chicago is an ideal convention city, the greatest in this country. That this is no idle boast is proven by statistics. More conventions are held in Chicago every year than in any other city. In June of the present year two hundred organizations will gather to hold their annual pow-wow, while the number for the entire year runs close to two thousand. There must be a reason for this. Climatically, Chicago is almost supreme on this con-tinent. The records of the Federal Weather Bureau show that the mean is lower than that of any other large city. And June is the most beautiful month of the entire summer. "What is so rare as a day in June?" particularly when it is experienced in that great center of urban activity which lies at the southern tip of Lake Michigan. Rarely, indeed, are the skies overclouded in that month of roses. Instead, clear, bright, sunshiny, but not too warm, days are the rule, and Chicago luck, which is proverbial, will see to it that this coming June will be one of the rarest in its entire history.

The Palmer House, where the convention will meet, is one of the finest, most spacious hotels in Chicago. It is palatial in a regal splendor that is very striking, a fitting rival of that magnificent edifice, the Biltmore, out in Los Angeles. The rooms are up to date and modern in every particular, while its management has established a reputation for courteous service second to none anywhere. Palmer House is one of the show places of Chicago. For fifty years there has been a Palmer House on the site of the present building, and always it has been the rendezvous for the leaders of society and the captains of industry. Delegates, and their guests, will find it a very satisfactory place in which to foregather. It is centrally located, in the heart of the city, with most of the greatest local transportation lines circling it. It has, under its own roof, every type and price of restaurant, while others (dozens of them) are within a stone's throw of its portals. Two of the finest broadcasting orchestras hold forth day and night in its dining rooms and ballrooms. The great department stores are within five minutes' walk of it. It is within a ten-minute ride of the fair grounds, while many of the leading picture and legitimate theatres are practically next door to it.

Field Museum, Planetarium. Aquarium, Art Institute, Soldiers' Field and other outstanding places of interest are in close proximity to it. Just across the Chicago River, a few blocks away, will be found the finest, most pretentious building of its type in this country, the Merchandise Mart, on the top floors of which the Chicago end of the National Broadcasting Company has its luxurious offices and studios. A visit to this building will open wide the eyes of even a New Yorker, whose city skyline reaches higher than that of any other. Crossing Chicago's famed Link Bridge, an excellent view of the Wrigley Twin Buildings can be had. In one of these the Columbia Broadcasting System has its Western headquarters. e list is endless

Take a flying trip north through Lincoln Park and Sheridan Road, which leads in an unbroken ribbon of delight as Milwaukee, passing en through such earthly paradises as Evanston, Winnetaka, Hubbard Woods, with its marvelous ravine and sunken road, Fort Sheridan and the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, most beautiful of all the outposts of Uncle Sam's armed forces. The vista of one long, endless bower of matchless, exquisite beauty, most of which lies within sight and sound of cool Lake Michigan.

But, to return to the Century of Progress Exposition. In 1893, Chicago, whose motto and slogan is "I Will!", was host to the World's Columbian Exposition, a conss of international exhibits which tablished a standard of excellence that has never since been surpassed, even if it has ever been equalled. But marvelous and astounding as that great exposition was, the coming Century of Progress will eclipse it a hundred fold. The Fair of 1893 had its Midway, the most famous of all "streets" connected with amusement undertakings, the climatic apex of which was the famous "Ferris Wheel," that extraordinary product of engineering skill and daring which was the wonder of its day and generation. The Century of Progress Exposition will also have its Midway, or "Street of Nations," the outstanding feature of which will be the "Skyride," the thrill of which will make the old Ferris Wheel seem tame and uninteresting by comparison.

The Chicago Federation of Musicians urges you to attend the convention June and visit the greatest show of its kind ever produced, "A Century of Progress" Exposition. It is the opportunity Do not miss it. Come to Chicago and take part, either as active participants, or observant guests, in the deliberations of the most highly organized, most powerful body of workers in the labor movement today, the American Federation of Musicians. Study, at first hand, that city which is more talked about than any other, and forget your troubles and worries in the shadow of the most stu-pendous and unique display of scientific and artistic progress that has ever been gathered together at one time and place in all history. Chicago bids you come to the Century of Progress Exposition during the week of June 19, when the annual convention of the American Federation of Musicians will be in session.

TOMORROW'S ENTERTAINMENT

"A great ethereal transmission system (the term 'radio' will lie discarded on the junk pile of the twentieth century) will be spread over the world; and this mighty instrument of the future will unite all of the forms of entertainment which we know today and present them to man in the very center of his lifethe home. Seventy-five years hence, the family will sit by its fireside, turn the switch of the receiver, and a greater a higher drama and a more aesthetic ballet will appear on the screen."-S. L. Rothafel ("Roxy").

CHILDREN FORCED TO STRIKE

An almost unprecedented thing. strike of child workers, is going on in Allentown and Northampton, Pa. Child workers in shirt and pajama shops in the two cities have been driven to strike by astonishingly low wages and wretched working conditions.

Wages actually as low as 15 cents a week are known. Unscrupulous employers have taken advantage of the fact that the children's parents are out of work to hire the boys and girls at wages that are lower than the pay of child workers in China and Japan.

Low wages paid children are menacing the living standards of all workers and the profits of business. Starvation pay is starting a vicious circle of low buying power that hits back at the employers, which they will realize more and more as time goes on. The only remedy at present seems to be legislation to make sweatshop wages, hours, and working conditions impossible. The quicker such legislation is adopted, the better for the

The New Deal for Music

An Editorial from THE METRONOME

HE new deal is here.

And beer is back.

That makes it a new deal for music.

Right now you have the greatest opportunity of the last ten years to get the old grip on the music business which has been slipping out of control through radio, depression and other causes.

God help the man who does not see this opportunity and who does not get back of it with all he's got.

It has been shown how we can cut off the cancers eating into us and start clean again.

The financial soundness of this country has been demonstrated without question. Almost overnight we bounced back; fear was replaced by faith. Money in the sock was put back in the bank or into busine Why? Because of the two-fisted leadership in the White House.

Beer is just one of the things. But it's the best thing that has happened to music in a decade.

With 20,000 or more beer gardens springing up in the country this summer, think what that means to the Putting 50,000 to 100,000 musicians music business? back to work. New saxes, horns, drums, reeds, accessories needed. Twenty thousand orchestras every three months requiring one hundred or more orchestrations in their books, a probable increase of a million or more orchestrations to be sold this year. Figure

It would give publishers a powerful plugging medium and take the edge off radio. It would hark back to the old days when publishers controlled their own business -before they were sold out to radio.

Franklin D. Roosevelt says the only further defeat we can suffer now will come from our own fear. Fear had already paralyzed our business even before the market crash of 1929.

We heard it said that music was done for, first because of sound pictures. Then radio hit its stride—sales of sheet music fell off until it is said that publishers eventually will only print professional copies for a few performers.

Are you still fearful and willing to concede that radio has you licked? Or have you the courage to demand a new deal, to buck this radio juggernaut, the object of blind devotion and ruthless sacrifice, this cancer which has sucked the life blood out of music? What might a Franklin D. Roosevelt do with this situation? He might restrain radio broadcasts, declare periodic moratoriums, control the broadcast of copy-right numbers and get back some of the sales of sheet It can be done and now's the time to begin.

Instrument manufacturers, too, have been guilty of rushing hell bent for the school group and neglecting the professional musician who helped them build up tremendous sales.

The dealer has been lax in not keeping in stock what the customer wanted and trying the "just as good" policy.

The musician has been guilty on various countsfirst, lack of sportsmanship. Radio, recording and other work is being done by a handful of musicians, busy day and night, doubling up on jobs, while their brother union musicians walk the streets. Why not divide up

Leaders cut in on royalties, arrangements, although the publisher is to blame for these practices. Many publishers promised on oath not to tolerate cutins or paying for arrangements. But some of them failed to live up to the spirit of these promises. Result, the publishers are carrying along a bunch of parasites double-dealing and penny-pinching leaders who should be put in their place. When will the publishers take a stand on this? Now's the time.

The publishers fear they will lose the plugs if they do not cut in the leaders. Result, they make tin gods of the leaders and pass over control of their business. Their employees fawn, coax and plead with inflated, egotistical favorites for plugs which only help to kill hits quickly.

The union fights with theatres over pay cuts when it should ban doubling up on radio jobs which permits a few combinations of musicians to interchange hours where many worked before. All of which helps to put the music business further in the moth balls.

We need Franklin D. Roosevelt in the music business; men who have the courage to clean house. Men to go after the business as they did before, in the spirit that it can be done, that orchestrations and sheet music can be sold, that instruments can be sold. Men to get hold of their business and run it and not sell out to leaders, radio and what not.

The time to start is right now.

While the new spirit is catching hold-the Yankee spirit that never gives up. Let's begin building instead of tearing down.

For years we have been cutting expenses, shaving corners, laying off, retrenching. It's time to set the house in order and start up again.

It's up to every man to give all he's got-There will be obstacles and difficulties. But these will go down under united action.

The time has come for deeds instead of words, action instead of aimless drifting.

The music business is coming backbut reborn. Beer is the beginning and ballads are next. The kind of songs all the people love to sing. The kind to open up the old piano and gather the gang around.

The people have responded to President Roosevelt's leadership as never before in the history of the country. They will respond to leadership in the music business.

Have you the courage to go ahead? Or will you still think, What's the use, the business is shot.

It's a challenge and test of everyone in the business. Let's demand a New Deal and get it.

Labor

Questions and Answers on Labor: What It Has Done; Where Queries It Stands on Problems of the Day; Its Aim and Program;

Who's Who in the Ranks of the Organized Toilers.

Q.-What big union has a committee to work for the passage of old age pension laws?

A .- The United Mine Workers of America. The committee was formed in 1916.

-Who is William P. Connery, Jr.?

A.—Representative from Massachusetts and chairman of the House Labor Committee.

O .- Has any State an unemployment insurance law?

A .- Wisconsin has a law, passed last year and effective July 1, 1933. The law provides for a voluntary system of insurance if employers of a stated minimum of workers adopted a satisfactory plan, but the system was to become compulsory if a sufficient number of employers did not voluntarily put the plan into effect.

Q .- What did William H. Taft say about the "absolute necessity of workers organizing?

A .- "The organization of capital into corporations, with the position of advantage which this gives it, in a dispute with single laborers over wages, makes it abso lutely necessary for labor to unite to maintain itself."

Q .- Does the "relief" bill passed by Congress for employing men on reforestation and other conservation work make any provision for the short week?

The matter of wages and the conditions of work is left largely to the President by the measure.

Q.—What was the first action taken by the American Federation of Labor on the Mooney case?

A .- Following Mooney's conviction, the 1917 convention declared there was a "firm conviction that a grave miscarriage of justice" had taken place at the trial and asked that Mooney and Warren K. Billings be given new trials.

Q .- Who has served longest as secretary of a central labor body?

A. The question has never been decided, but the honor is claimed for Frank J. Weber, who was recently elected for his 31st consecutive term as general secretary of the Federated Trades Council, Milwaukee.

-Did the Communists direct the big demonstration held recently in London to protest against the government's unemployment policy?

-No. The demonstration was held under the direction of the British labor movement.

Out Beyond

the Surf

Where thought, unhastened by necessity or trepidation, sometimes penetrates to truth. Here, where the shallows throw no spray, let us ponder and enjoy the lessons of the art and the work and play of life.

Akron down! The news flashed. First the shock attending disaster. Then the inquiring of the human mind.

Why?

There was a reason.

The Navy, clearly, had done its best. Why not, with the Navy's men aboard?

Was the Akron done to death before her birth? The great and beautiful ship was the product of driven, non-union workers, many working by the piece.

There were sabotage charges. Need there have been sabotage? Badly built buildings crash in every hurricane and earthquake, not from sabotage, but from inherent structural causes, product of greed.

Today you can order up your beer, in a limited number of places.

The coming of beer has been accompanied by much damned fool talk and much inconsistency.

By law it is branded non-intoxicating, like soda water, root beer, ginger ale.

But it is taxed heavily and various restrictions have been put upon its sale and by whom it may be consumed.

If it is non-intoxicating, why all these rules? Why not the same rules for other non-intoxicating

Why not the same rules and the same taxes for ice

The tax is needed, of course. But why bluff about it, if beer is not intoxicating? Let's call it a plain revenue device, like the abused gasoline tax. Let's say it's just a way, arbitrarily chosen, to get more taxes.

And why all the mush talk about the saloon? Just what is wrong with the saloon?

The saloon is no more wrong than any other gathering place.

What is wrong about the bar, with its brass rail?

At a bar a poor man can get a glass of beer—or could without paying for anything except his beer. At a table he must eat—and pay.

Most of the new rules discriminate against the worker, already the nation's shivering victim There is much that is nauseating about the rules surrounding the return of beer And most of the rules play into the hands of those who will attack beer on constitutional grounds? Probably unconsciously, lawmakers are playing into the hands of the fanatics.

Why should a glass of beer create so much pother and why should it cause so many politicians to lose their sense of proportion and their understanding of funda-

It seems to be a strange world, unable to live with consistency.

Gold must be given back to Uncle Sam. Strange. Men used to think they could keep the money they earned, if any. Read your paper money. "Payable in gold." But you can't keep the gold. One of many broken promises.

Government is today's leading promise-breaker, What price this deception? Army officers serve a life-time, promised a certain

How can school teachers point to George Washington and says, "You just couldn't tell a lie." Children, observing Uncle Sam, may say in cynical retort, "Boloney!"

How Good Is a Contract?

OU put money in a bank, with an agreement that you could get it back when you wanted it.

There are 5,000 banks out of which you can get nothing, for the present, and from some of them you will never get anything.

You had a contract, but it doesn't do you any good. You had a gold certificate that said, "redeemable in gold," etc. You can't redeem it in gold.

You had a contract, but it doesn't do you any good. You took out a life insurance policy, providing for loan values and cash surrender values.

Today you can't get any cash surrender value and you can make loans for only a few specified purposes.

You had a contract, but it doesn't do you any good. Maybe these things will all work out right in the end. It is to be hoped so. Meanwhile your contracts are scraps of paper, and not on very good paper, either.

OVER FEDERATION FIELD

(CHAUNCEY A. WEAVER)

June, the month of rare days, will also bring the thirty-eighth Federation convention milestone, which will be established at Chicago, on the nineteenth day of the month. The advance roster of delegates affords prophetic evidence of an old-time convention. Present indications are that there will be a large attendance of delegates and incidental visitors.

There is good reason why this should The cause for which the American Federation of Musicians stands is as vital as at any time during its more than a third of a century history. If times are dull, and business slack, and a sort of run-down-at-the-heel condition prevails—all the more reason why all interested forces should rally in a campaign for the betterment of conditions.

If, after the experience of the past four years, we still live, there is ample incentive to determine upon replacement victory during the coming quadrennium.

Railway transportation rates will be unusually low. The pendency of the Century of Progress Exposition will insure this. With that item taken care of, the delegate has little else to worry about. His room and his meals during the convention period are taken care of by the Federation. Scores of delegates and visiwill pass up the railway lines and come by automobile.

The convention sessions will be held at The Palmer House. Local No. 10 will prove a glorious host. The work of the convention will be carried on under pleasing auspices and those who are interested in the incidentals of sight-seeing will find enough to satisfy the most omniverous vision.

Chicago, second city on the North American continent, centrally located and available from every direction, will be the synosure of the Federation eye in June an event which we all hope may be the harbinger of a brighter and better day.

Los Angeles was the scene recently of a very interesting event, namely, the dedication of a monument to the immortal Ludwig Van Beethoven. The statue was the gift of William Andrews Clark, Jr., founder of the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra. Those familiar with the geography and topography of that city will be interested in knowing that the location faces Philharmonic Auditorium on the north side of the park. The sculptor was Arnold Foerster. President Weber sent a message of congratulations in behalf of the American Federation of Musicians. In writing the story of the fine occasion for the Los Angeles Overture, Executive Officer Chas. L. Bagley concluded his tribute to the great composer with the following fitting words:

Herr Beethoven-the City of Los Herr Beethoven—the City of Los Angeles salutes your sublime genius? Though it came to pass that you could not hear your own divine harmonies—they still fill the vaulted spaces of Heaven and Earth. You have no tomb—you dwell not with the dead, but with mankind as a living reality for WE CAN HEAR. In your present abode all imperfections have been healed and you have joined "The choir invisible, Whose music is the gladness of the world."

Mr. Henry E. Cordell makes frequent poetic contributions to the Chicago Labor Federation News. In a recent issue he furnishes one entitled "Labor and Capital," which breathes a philosophy worthy to be taken to heart by the masses of mankind. It is as follows:

If you and I had brains enough,
If you with me played fair.
We'd travel swell—if smooth or rough,
When in each other's care.

It matters not, who is the Boss Or who wields saw and buck, we are working for one cause Pluck crowns the team with luck!

I'll labor, you may like the chair, Combined we'll never drop, Together master earth and air, Together climb the top!

You care for me—I'll toil for you.
I need you, you need me.
Let's partners be, in all we do,
Let's change that 'I" for 'We'!

Life would then not be half as tough, If you would only think: Perhaps, we both have brains enough, To find that missing link.

Announcement is made of the death of Brother E. L. Gochia, long a prominent and influential member of Local No. 73, of Minneapolis. His passing occurred on March 3. The only warning was a severe heart attack on the preceding day. Brother Gochia had served Local No. 73 as president and vice-president, and attended many conventions as delegate, including those held at Baltimore, Louis ville, Grand Rapids and Salt Lake City. The local feels that a great loss has been sustained to its membership.

Ordinarily, the week of June 19-24 might seem a hot period for a national convention. But do not worry. That Lake Michigan breeze is an exhiliration tonic which never fails. The Chicago Gillette of Los Angeles." The Golden State has a coast line of 1,555 miles and an area of 158,247 square miles. Some jurisdiction to cover. And yet in these days of radios, tele phones and aviation, the annihilation of space becomes daily trifles.

"Happy days are here again!" That is if you know how to adjust yourself to the pending situation.

The Radio-what entertainment, solace and joy it can bring in these hectic and turbulent times! On a recent Sunday afternoon I tuned in just in time to "listen in" on the complete program of the fine Goldman Band in the city of New York. It came in as clear and full as though in a park just across the street. Opening with a spirited Goldman march, then followed the stirring "Rienzi" overture, a Bach number and other selections—all high grade. Interspersed therein was a cornet solo by Del Staigers—"Car-nival of Venice," embellished in a wealth of brilliant variations, and executed in a fashion to make listening an unspeakable delight-even to those one thousand miles away. It was also a graceful gesture on the part of Mr. Goldman to play "Boston Commandary," as a special tribute to the composer, Bandmaster Carter, still wielding his baton before Boston musicians at the age of ninety-four years. In Henry IV, Scene 3, Shakespeare says: "And these musicians that shall play for you, hang in the air, a thousand leagues hence. And straight they shall be here; sit and attend." We sat, and we attended, until the last note died away upon the buoyant April air.

To the writer of these lines comes a sense of deep personal sorrow in the an-

As these lines are being written prime ministers and old world diplomats are sitting about a Washington, D. C., council table-discussing the state of many different nations. It is a consultation which is tremulous with far-reaching potentialities for weal or woe for the entire world. MONEY!

Here are nine things that money is or will do, and a tenth that it will not do:

- 1. A bait for the matrimonial hook. The most effective substitute for
- brains. 3. The most difficult thing to cultivate
- 4. That which women look for while
- men sleep-yes, often in their pockets
- 5. Money is the loudest sound in the human voice.
- 6. That which the rich don't need and the poor don't get.
- The root of evil to some and sorrow and worry to those who do not have it.
- The one thing that makes crooked things look straight and straight things look crooked.
- 9. That which speaks the language we
- 10. A provider for everything but hap piness; a passport to all places but heaven.

INSURANCE EXECUTIVES' PAY

High priced executives of the big life insurance companies have not suffered during the depression, though the com panies are now restricting cash surrender values and making of loans on policies and through numerous State legislatures have passed emergency legislation for the protection of the companies.

Interesting figures on big life insurance salaries have just been provided by Senator Arthur Robinson of Indiana. His tabulations shows that cuts on big salaries have been few and far bety From 1929 to 1932, reductions had been made in the case of only three of twenty seven executives of five leading companies, fifteen actually received increases, while the remaining nine drawing the same salaries in 1932 as in 1929. Salaries of lower paid employes of the companies sacred, however, and there have been numerous pay reductions affecting th rank and file of insurance employes. In the last few days, some big companie have announced cuts for the higher paid officials but their pay is still high.

Salary boosts were given all of the five principal officers of the Equitable Life Assurance Society. The 1929 to 1932 salary increases for Equitable officers fol-T. I. Murphy, vice-president, $20,000 to $30,000, and D. A. Walker, vice-president, $17,187 to $20,000.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company also raised the pay of its five leading officers as follows: F. H. Ecker, president, $175,000 to $200,000; L. A. Lincoln, vice-president, $66,875 to $125,000; A. C. Campbell, vice-president, $35,000 to $40,-000; H. E. North, vice-president, $30,000 to $35,000, and F. W. Ecker, treasurer, $27,500 to $32,000.

The New York Life Insurance Company boosted the salaries of President T. A. Buckner from $100,400 to $125,400, of Vice-President W. Buckner from $55,360 to $55,400, of Assistant Secretary Buckner, Jr., from $8,604 to $10,000; maintained the pay of Vice-President A. L. Aiken at $45,000; and reduced the salaries of Vice-President L. H. McCall and Treasurer H. Palagano, respectively. from $56,200 to $55,000, $18,892 to $18,000, and reduced the salary of Secretary L. H. McCall from $46,400 to $45,000.

The Prudential Life Insurance Com pany made no changes in the salaries of four officers. Those salaries ranged from $125,000 to $43,000.

LABELS TO SHOW QUALITY

Agreement to form a committee to devise a tag or label to mark garments made under good conditions was reached at a meeting in New York City of representatives of several organizations meeting was called by the Women's Trade Union League.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt endorsed the proposal, saying that all intelligent employers know that the greatest market for their products was among working people and that if wages were would lose their chief market. She said the public must be educated to the necessity of demanding products made under fair wage and working conditions and advocated a publicity and advertising campaign to make known the facts.

Mary Anderson, chief of the Women's ureau of the United States Department of Labor, emphasized the need for building up minimum wage standards before the label campaign was undertaken. She said that to push the label program now would be ineffective because of the cutthroat competition of employers which is steadily driving wages downward.

David Dubinsky, president of the In-Garment Workers ternational Ladies' Union, said that the average earnings of workers in the needle trades was below e minimum of subsistence and that unless this movement was checked there would be a return to the unsanitary sweatshop of twenty-five years ago.

Famous Bandmasters

DAVID WALLIS REEVES

By Henry Woelber

The American Band of Providence. R. I., up to 1866 had been one of the first well-organized bands of New England. The leader was Joseph Green. In the year mentioned after spending one winter in New York as a member of the celebrated Dodworth Band, David Wallis Reeves, at the urgent request of Green, became the conductor of the well-known Providence organization, and, with the exception of one year, from 1892 until 1893, during which time he was leader of the Gilmore Band, he remained in that capacity to the day of his death, March 8, 1900.

Born February 14, 1838, in Oswego, N. Y., at a time when bands were primitive affairs, he soon showed his talent for music. Like all boys, he went to the elementary school, and the Academy, in Oswego; he also attended Wells Academy at Aurora, where his sister taught music.

Another genius. Reeves was a self-made His father, who played the string bass in the churches, died when the boy was one year old, the support of the family being thrown on the mother. The parents had always frowned upon the professional musician.

Possessed of a clear, pure alto voice, unable to read a note, the lad relied upon a marvelously correct ear to sing in the church choir.

Many things in his life seem prophetic even Providential. played in the church; his mother was a constant attendant; the boy was. in life he discovered, and taught, one of world's premier cornet soloists, Bowen Church. The name "church" had played an important part in his successful and useful career.

In order to add to the family income, he soon left school to work in his brother's store. One day a circus arrived. Young Reeves promptly closed the store, and followed the band to the lot. His brother took him home, and afterwards his clothes were concealed, the boy sent to bed, whenever a show came to town. Four years later another circus, with Reeves a member of its band, played Oswego. From having his clothes hidden to keep him from the show, to becoming a part of it, was indeed quite a change.

In those days many boys were apprenticed to an employer; a merchant, tradesman, or mechanic. In this case, Reeves. 15, against the wishes of his mother, went to live with Thomas Canham, then a noted instructor of bands, who sa possibilities in his young pupil, who soon showed an aptitude for harmony, and be gan playing second E flat alto in the is noteworthy that so many prominent hand leaders, early in life took up some orchestra instrument, or piano, which is bound to manifest itself in future years.

He traveled with his patron's band, playing for circuses, summer shows, and dances, until at 19 he became leader, achieving his first real success with the famous old Rumsey and Newcombe Minstrels, with whom he toured Germany, Ireland and England. While in London he learned the art of double and triple tongueing, and was the first to introduce that style of playing in America. have many soloists now, but Reeves had played Jules Levy's "Whirlwind Polka" played Jules Levy's before that artist had left London for the United States. Returning to America in 1862 after several seasons of foreign travel with the minstrels, he now had a reputation, and astonished the natives with his rapid execution.

Overcoming all obstacles by American pluck and persistence, his work as cornetist conductor and composer brought him fame, far and wide.

Personally, he was an affable gentleman to meet, and one held in high esteem throughout the land.

The performance of Reeves' Band left nothing to be desired in the service of the public interested in band music. The programs were just suited for the common man, the every-day woman and average child.

Although he lived in a gossamer world, yet he was understood by the man of the street. Considering the pleasure and happiness Reeves gave all classes his biography is all too short.

He had a real urge and hunger for the band. A sweet memory is one of the virtues of mankind. The best medicine in the world is the kindly word of a friend. He retained the one and gave, unstintingly, the other.

A great moral is told in the story of the tortoise and the hare, but Reeves, from infancy, plodded along slowly, surely, unflinchingly, never doubting his ability to reach the goal of success and security.

In 1893 the Gilmore Band, under Reeves, played the Chicago World's Fair, the Minneapolis and Pittsburgh Expositions.

The Reeves Band also played the Minneapolis Exposition in 1889, and the Portland, Oregon, Exposition, in 1892, stopping en route to give concerts in Bismarck, N. Dak.; Missoula and Helena, Mont. While at Portland he received a telegram informing him of the Gilmore Band appointment.

On September 30, 1871, he married Mrs. Sarah E. Blanding, who, with a son and daughter survived him.

His dirge, "Immortell." immortalized him, and which he said he wrote for his own funeral.

Notwithstanding his numerous marches the outstanding hit of his career was the "Second Regiment, Connecticut National Guards March." It belongs to the class of rarities. Reeves was a man who made no pretentions whatever. Born with a God-given talent, he took what was given him and did his part on earth by develop-ing that talent by dint of persevering energy and unremitting toil. march he gave everything. There was originality, the necessary spark, the dash the inspiration, the martial strain, the emotion, that makes the blood tingle through the veins. A noted German conductor said: "Of the two greatest marches ever written one is the Second Connecticut and the other "Nibelungen" or perhaps Friedemann's "Kaiser Friede-What a compliment! Comparing the creation of a country boy with that of the German, Wagner. But again, comparisons are odious, because Reeves in writing his march had only the band in while Wagner's march was an incident of the opera.

Mascagni need never have written anything save "Cavalleria Rusticana" to make his reputation secure; Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci" was in itself sufficient to make him famous, and, although Reeves wrote many fine marches, his one masterpiece was enough for all time. Reeves had rhythm, and in his Second Connecticut March his full faculty came into play.

Although his band was from Providence, it was also the regular one for the First. Fourth and Eighth Regiments of the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia.

A pioneer in the development of the band, he soon drilled his men out of mere sound and fury, striving more for tonal quality, rather than bombast.

Who of the present generation can ever forget the elegant and majestic playing of Reeves' marching band, the solidity, the expression, especially when rendering one of his inimitable marches, not too loud, nor too fast! In the 18th century the full orchestra began addressing itself to the cultivated musical intellect, while the band began its mission of appealing to the public at large.

Reeves' musical knowledge was so elemental it defied criticism. He also had his own method in correcting a player. At one time he inquired: "Did you ever work in a dry goods store?" "Why, no," answered the trombonist, "why do you ask?" "Well the way you tear and blat your afterbeats FF makes one think you are accustomed to selling calico by the yard."

When his band played the Royal Italian March or the beginning of the allegro in William Tell he said he wanted the figures to be heard, besides, a storm does not come instantly, but rather softly, mysteriously, until it breaks out in all its violence.

To perpetuate his memory a fountain was dedicated to him in Roger Williams Park, Providence. R. I., as an endearing memorial.

Its inscription reads:

DAVID WALLIS REEVES 1838 — 1900

Cornetist — Composer — Bandmaster

SPRING FANCY

Some magic-fingered phantom sprite Has changed the garden over night! And fashioned iris 'round my door Where icy puddles were before.

Brought back the gold of early dawn, Put robin red breasts on my lawn And flung a fragrance on the breeze, And hung green cloaks on poplar trees.

And charged the crispy winter air
With warmth and sunlight everywhere.
It must have been a loving elf—
I can't believe it's true myself!
—Jessie Campbell.

SOUND LOGIC

A fool and his money are soon married.

Efficiency means ability to get along with others.

Why not insist that the next war be fought on a cash basis?

Curiously enough, it is not always easy to float a loan in a liquid bank.

An executive—One who can make quick decisions, but is not always right.

Most of America's famous fortunes were founded during depressions.

Bankers never worked harder in their lives than they did during the "bank holidays" of last winter.

Moral—No division in profits can be equitable unless there is a similar provision for a division of losses.

Few sensible citizens believe in political promises, not even those who make them.

Disarmament programs are intended to postpone the next war until the last one is paid for.

The average woman who meddles in politics is just about as efficient as her husband who stays home and tries to get his own dinner.

Some skeptics and scientists doubt there is a life beyond death. Most of them know so little about life that it is strange they should be so sure about death.

It took thirty years, at least, to put prohibition in the Constitution of the United States, and it may take ten to get it out again. But it will be worth it. And it will be a long, long while before this nation forgets how nearly it sold its freedom for a mess of speakeasies.

The Simple Economics of the Depression

Since the depression, and particularly during recent months, the public press has been filled with a discussion of the economic facts dealing with the depression.

Statesmen, politicians, business men, bankers, economists, professional and amateur, have come forward with the panacea which, when applied, would lift us out of the depression and cure our economic ills.

Trade unionists have been requested to endorse this, that or the other proposed piece of legislation. The public has been flooded with what is frequently a vague, uninformed, most confusing discussion of economic causes and effects.

There are several ways in which the prime causes for the depression can be presented. The bankers undoubtedly are more responsible than any other group. The great manufacturing corporations and railway systems; the combination of incompetency and dishonesty in high quarters, all contributed.

It does seem that some clear statement, presented in a simple, direct manner, might be genuinely helpful in enabling any one to understand the basic cause.

Each year industry produces so much wealth. This is distributed among the farmers, the wage-earners, the merchants, investors and bankers. If this distribution of this wealth which the country creates every year is economically sound, then we have what is called prosperity. If the distribution is unbalanced, if one group collects more than its economic share, then we have bad times. The more unequal the distribution, the greater the injury to the nation as a whole.

Aside from the profits retained by business men and owners of real estate, the annual volume of wealth created by industry is paid out in the form of taxes, interest, dividends and wages. What happened beginning with 1922 was the payment of more and more of the wealth and dividends, which meant that created by industry in interest there was less and less of the annual volume of wealth created to be paid in the form of wages.

The corporations to pay interest and dividends on bonds and stocks depended upon their ability to sell their product to the public. By paying out more of the annual volume of wealth produced by industry in the form of interest and dividends, and leaving less and less for wages, the market in which the corporations were compelled to sell their goods, if they were to make profits from which the interest and dividends could be paid, was destroyed. This is not difficult to understand, for it's as simple as adding two and two.

One difficulty in understanding so simple yet so fundamental a fact has been caused by the multitude of opinions carried by the public press, many of which seem to have been prepared with no other object than to create confusion of the public mind.

Just a strong breath of common sense is required to blow the smoke screen away. The nation has been looted, and the looting was not done by the farmers, the wage-earners or the small business man. Those who were the looters are striving to hide behind the smoke screen of a myriad of explanations prepared by their intellectual errand boys.

The Cherry

Tree Where with our Little Hatchet we tell the truth about many things, sometimes profoundly, sometimes flippantly, sometimes recklessly

Many a young American, gazing upon the first glass of real beer he has ever seen, wondering whether to blow off collar or drink it, will think that here, after all, is just a glass of beer, brewed by rote, uninspired, like so much sarsaparilla or molasses.

How wrong.

Hanley's Peerless Ale used to advertise that the discovery of fermentation lies buried somewhere in the mists of antiquity.

And beer itself has been brewed through centuries. William Penn, it is said, introduced beer into America in 1664—a long, long time ago.

Beer didn't go so well in the young America. The English settlers preferred their stronger drinks. It seems they wanted "kick."

It was the coming of great numbers of Germans, and the coming of lager, that gave beer its big boom in the United States. From 1840 to 1895 the brewing industry grew with increasing pace, until a billion-gallon annual output was reached.

Bottled beer came along, but it, too, had a hard time. Not until after 1907 did it gain much popularity, but after that it came into wider use, until 20 per cent of the output was bottled.

There is a certain romance about the business of brewing. As for the beer itself, there is the magic of tiny yeast cells, working away, growing and multiplying to turn grain and hops into delectable beverage. There are the enormous yats, the huge and shining copper kettles. And there is the brewmaster, almost a legendary figure through these many years. Whatever may be his surroundings, it is the brewmaster who makes the beer. What finally flows into the glass and down the throat is the production of his artistry.

Plenty of old-time beer drinkers and, no doubt, plenty of brewmasters will be willing to quarrel with the findings of a San Francisco brewer who, in the old days, conducted something of a blindfold test and announced that the average man knew nothing about beer. He seated twenty men at a table and, one after the other, he set before them unlabelled glasses of beer to show that without their eyes they could not tell which from tother.

It was but one of the many lures of the brewers who sought new patrons for their limpid wares.

Who remembers the Anheuser Busch raft, with the Indians and the barrel and the case of bottled output? And who remembers who made Edelweiss? Of course, Blue Ribbon and the "Beer That Made Milwaukee Famous" are still remembered and are again in circulation. But many a lesser known brand, equally esteemed by those who knew it, has faded into history, where only musty records recall its former glory.

One change will be notable, at least to the oldsters. The mahogany bar and the back bar—where there are bars at all—will largely give way to bars of new design, the product of factories working with new materials, unknown in the old days. And the long coils, running through ice, are giving way to electric refrigeration. Progress is having its way in many places.

But the beer is the same, just as it always will be the same. For the processes of nature work in an unchanging way and beer is the result of nature's processes, like sunshine and the flowing of rivers to the sea.

COMMENT ON World Events

Long life is becoming a curse instead of a blessing to many old people, because after physicians have prolonged their lives, business and industry give them no opportunity to earn a living, Dr. Francis Pottinger, retiring president of the American College of Physicians, recently He urged physicians to join in an effort to change what he called an "admittedly unsatisfactory economic sys-tem" and to take a lead in "this period of reconstruction which is upon us."

"The fact that the number of people above 65 years of age has increased so markedly in recent years," Dr. Pottinger declared, "requires that our economic system make adequate provision for workers both during their productive period and in their declining years, otherwise public health measures become a mockery and work an injury rather than a bles The increased amount of illness which affects those of the higher age groups makes it more difficult for them, when once they lose their positions, to secure employment again. For those beyond 65 it becomes almost impossible.

There are more than enough mines and miners to supply all the coal the world will use in these days of oil burning and of electricity supplied by water power. Everything points to the desirability of shortening the hours of coal miners. But producers in every nation claim dare not cut hours for fear they will get out less coal for the wages they pay and so cannot offer their coal cheaply to sell abroad in competition with the ducers of other countries.

To meet this difficulty the International Labor Organization at Geneva has proposed an international agreement to make seven and three-quarter hours the maximum working day for coal miners in all the fifty-eight countries belonging to the organization. The Spanish government has already accepted the terms of the agreement and the governments of France, Luxemburg and Yugoslvia have declared their intention of accepting it. The government of Holland has taken the first steps toward joining them and Poland has declared it will join them as oon as Belgium, Czechoslovakia, France, Germany, Great Britain and Holland agree to be bound by the pact.

Haywood Patterson, 19-year-old Negro, has been convicted in the first retrial of the Scottsboro, Ala., cases, involving seven Negro youths accused of attacking two white women. Unprejudiced observers who followed the trial of Patterson were convinced that the evidence against him was woefully weak. The fact that he was colored, accused of an assault on a white woman, undoubtedly was a big factor, in his conviction, but perhaps even more of a factor was the feeling stirred by Communist handling of his Instead of sticking strictly to the questions at issue, his Communist attorneys advantage of every opportunity to inject their propaganda, with which the people of Alabama have no sympathy.

Judges, jurors and all concerned in the administration of justice are human beings and have a certain amount of stubborness in their make-ups. If they feel that institutions and ideas which they hold sacred are threatened, their stubborness is aroused, depriving them of the ability to reason calmly. That is what happened at the retrial of Patterson. Many persons believe that if his defense had been handled by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People or by some similar organization, the verdict in all probability would have been different.

Hitler apparently plans to destroy German trade unionism, unless it consents to become a mere adjunct of his "National Socialist" party. The British Labor party charges that the Nazi dictatorship is seeking to suppress the labor movement in all its manifestations and news from Germany indicates there is basis for the charge. German trade unionism is strong and may be dependent upon to put up a good fight. Labor th world over is watching the situation with keen interest and hopes that the German workers will successfully defend their Germans who have refused to bow to the new tyrannical Hitler regime deserve much credit. They face ostracism, persecution, all sorts of abuse and even death in many cases. Yet great numbers are true to democratic principles and are standing firmly for what they believe to be right. Among them is Dr. Paul Schwartz German consul at New York City, who was recently forced out of his position by Hitler. Dr. Schwartz frankly proclaimed himself an enemy of the Hitler dictatorship and that under no circumstances would he give it his approval.

Attempts to gag the press go on under the "new deal" as before. A bill for press censorship was passed by the House, with most of the members doing the rubber stamp act and voting for it without knowing anything about it or what it really meant.

The bill was ostensibly designed to prevent publication of confidential matter received by the State Department from foreign nations. It could be used to virtually seal government operations from the public, as it would prohibit any government employe from giving out information "without authorization of competent authority." In practice this would mean that government officials could refuse to tell of their activities unless authorized by the President to speak. This would give dictatorial control over pub lication of government business.

No possible justification can be urged for so drastic a measure. It would be far better to have some confidential matter made public than to adopt this proposed The Senate will serve the censorship. nation by killing the bill or at least modifying it to prevent it from being used as a press gag.

There seems no reason why legislation should be rushed through Congress before the members have a chance to study and understand it. The press censorship bill just referred to is a case in point. bers of the House confessed after it had been passed that they hadn't the slightest idea what it was all about. Undoubtedly there has been need for quick action and this is no time for Congressional procrastination on needed legislation. But Senators and Representatives should know what they are voting for. Otherwise foolish and dangerous legislation is almost sure to be passed.

Unemployment insurance legislation has failed to pass in New York and some other States where it was being consid But it will win in the end. As President Roosevelt says in his new book, "Looking Forward," "we shall come to unemployment insurance in this country as certainly as we have come to workmen's compensation for industrial in-

The European Plan

After the fall of the Herriot Government, an American, registered at a de luxe Paris hotel, approached the hotel keeper with his bill in his hand and

"Am I on the American or European

"On the European plan, of course," the hotel man replied.

The American smiled and commented, "Then I don't pay eh!"-Ex.

LABORGRAMS

Aiming at crooked banking and banking that bilks people, Uncle Sam had been hitting hard at the big New York bankers and, by and large, he has had for his targets exactly the banks that led the wage cutting movement. Which teaches us once more that sheepskin doesn't always cover sheep.

United States Chamber of Commerce has been paying one man $75,000 a year and this high-priced and pleasant gentleman has been for months and months campaigning for reduced government salaries as an example which private industry might follow. And how industry loves to follow!

If private and commercial banks should be separated, why not separate banks and industries? That's a question for Congress to answer and it probably will answer wrong.

Investigators are threatening to un-cover the J. P. Morgan secrets. If they go through with that we ought to get some real news from the heart of Big Biz. But don't look for a cure for all wrongs just because an investigating committee is on the trail. J. P. Morgan has faced Congressional committees before.

In its last convention American labor declared for federal licensing of corporations engaged in inter-state business. THAT would be a real move.

Beer has justified its return. Wheels hum. Taxes flow into yawning treasuries. Men, long unemployed, are back to work. Drunkenness decreases. Only the fanatical drys and the illicit brewers and thugs

THE RIGHT TO WORK

Out on the roads they have gathered, a hundred thousand men.
To ask for a hold on life as sure as the wolf in his den.
Their need lies close to the quick of life as the earth lies close to the stone;
It is as meat to the slender rib, as marrow to the bone.

They ask but leave to labor for a taste of life's delight.

For a little salt to savor their bread, for houses watertight.

They ask but the right to labor and to live by the strength of their hands.

They who have bodies like knotted oaks and patience like the sea sands.

And the right of a man to labor, and his right to labor in joy—

Not all your laws can strangle that right nor the gates of hell destroy;

For it came with the making of man and was kneaded into his bones,

And it will stand at the last of things on the dust of crumbled thrones.

—EDWIN MARKHAM.

Hooking the Collateral

"I'm sorry," said the diner who hoped to get away with it, "but I haven't any money to pay for that meal."

"That's all right," said the cashier. We'll write your name on the wall and can pay the next time you come in."

"Don't do that. Everybody who comes in will see it."

"Oh, no they won't. Your overcoat will be hanging over it."-Ex.

A Matter of Collateral

Two Georgia darkies were discussing the financial condition of the country. They didn't agree.

'You's all wrong," one vociferated. "Dey ain't no money sho'tage. Ah asked mah bankuh, is he out o' money and he tuk me in de vault and showed me piles an' piles o' money. An', I says, could he let me have jes' a little. An' he says, sho' he could. Has Ah any collat'rul! An' Ah hasn't. Now dat's what's de mattuh wif dis country. Dey's plenty o' money, but we'se jes' runnin' sho't on collat'rul."-Ex.

Don't Believe in Signs

SHE TOLD 'EM

It took a woman member of the lower house of the Maryland Legislature to set one of the big steel corporations down in its place and win a partial victory for a compulsory unemployment insurance bill.

Miss Lavinia Eagle was the woman and she took the floor to flay the Bethlehem Steel Company, of which Charles M. Schwab is the executive head, for lobbying against the measure.

She charged that the steel concern had allowed 1,200 of its employes to go to charity for help and then had objected to paying three-tenths of one per cent of its payroll into a security fund under the bill.

"It is the narrow and sordid attitude such as displayed by the Bethlehem Steel Company which will bring down upon our heads the same situation the bankers brought on in the world of finance," the woman legislator said.

The bill had seemed doomed to defeat, but after her speech it was carried by a vote of 72 to 27. The bill was beaten in the upper house, unfortunately, but ultimate victory for unemployment insurance. in Maryland is certain.
