BEGINNING THE SECOND YEAR

THE beginning of the second year of the Roosevelt Administration finds important developments in the realm of Labor. The most significant change is the defining of fundamental rights—the right to choose representatives free from the interference of employers and to bargain collectively. These rights are implied in our free institutions, but the National Recovery Act wrote them into explicit mandatory provisions of law. The N R A, Section 7a, gives Labor status and, therefore, opens up opportunity and hope. These legal rights await action by the workers to give them substance and reality.

There is ahead of us the development of a new set of human institutions which shall bring freedom, greater justice and opportunity for growth and progress to the numerically largest portion of our nation. The result of our efforts will be higher levels of living for those who do the world's work. The organized labor movement is the instrumentality for realizing this high human purpose. The leaders in the cause are the union executives authorized to represent the group. Throughout the length and breadth of the land these executives responsible for the welfare of millions are planning and working to establish industrial agencies and practices that shall bring justice into work relations. Without the glamor of a crusade or the stimulus or the spur of popular approval these union executives are giving high endeavor to carrying out their mission. Not all have equal capacity, not all have the full vision of the cause which they serve, but they are doing their part. Here and there stand out leaders whose eyes see a vision of what life may hold for men and women who work, who love the cause of humanity and whose service is free from commercialism, whose faith gives the will to struggle and achieve. These leaders give others eyes to see, understanding to act and faith for courage—so that all might move upward in the slow march of progress, for, though opportunity may widen suddenly, achievement of results is held back by the slowness of individuals to see and act.

No one is insignificant in our forward movement, but since initiative has come through leaders it is unions we need now for the leaders to plan the next steps. The strength of the whole movement will depend upon the wisdom, the information and the vision of its leaders. It was with this need in mind the conference of national and international representatives held in Washington in January recommended that the officers of the American Federation of Labor call into special conferences periodically the executive officers or representatives, or representative committees of the several departments and divisions of organized labor within the American Federation of Labor to review the progress of organization made and to plan for future methods to be followed and means to be employed in furthering organization in their respective fields of endeavor.

Second Stage of Roosevelt Administration Finds Important Development in the Realm of Labor ---Defining of Fundamental Rights.

By WILLIAM GREEN, President A. F. of L.

Organization is the big task that lies ahead of us and we must not be deterred by urgent details from concentrating our forces on the developing of the agencies prerequisite to any material or sustained progress.

We urge every labor organization in the country to begin making organizing plans. Central labor bodies have a major responsibility and should call union leaders together to map out a labor forward campaign. Make your plans and call upon national and international officers for help. Write your plans to the Federation. State what you need in the form of organizing literature and information. Before getting under way make sure your union leaders are informed on labor's rights under the N R A and its compliance and enforcement machinery. Write the Federation your needs and get ready to reach the fifteen million mark in three years.

Contempt of Labor Rights

The unbending opposition with which employers have met workers' efforts to exercise some of their fundamental rights is illustrated by the course of Edmund S. Weir of the Weirton Steel Company. The employees of the Weirton Steel Company seized the opportunity given them under Section 7a of the N R A and organized in a standard trade union. The company, realizing what was happening, sought to divert events by initiating a competitive organization which would be intra-company and, therefore, under its control. Some of the workers joined the company union while others adhered to the trade union.

Since the purpose of employee representation plans is collective bargaining, one organization had to be selected for that purpose. This issue was referred to the National Labor Board with the request that the board hold an election so that the workers might make their choice under impartial auspices. Mr. Weir agreed to this course at the hearing before the board. He afterwards refused to co-operate. The situation was referred to the Department of Justice and when the Division of Conciliation of the N R A was set up was referred to that agency.

The President of the United States issued an Executive Order to provide for carrying out Section 7a of the National Recovery Act, in which he directed the board upon the request of a substantial number of employees to hold an election to determine their agency for collective bargaining. He also directed that the board report to the Administration of the N R A any employer who refused to comply with the result of such election. As is the practice in this country, decision of the majority would control. It would be impossible for management to negotiate work agreements with both majority and minority groups and to enforce two separate sets of standards.

Again the National Labor Board announced it would hold an election and sent its representatives to the Weirton Steel Company for that purpose.

The Weirton Company again expressed its contempt for the right of wage-earners to organize in unions whether implied by our free institutions or written into law. It flatly refused to permit the representatives of the National Labor Board access to its pay roll as the basis for the election. At every step of the Government to assure workers of this company their legal rights, the employer interposes its contempt for these rights and its feeling of superiority to government. It is this kind of attitude that compels the Government to consider providing penalties which will make even steel operators hesitate to disregard law.

Clearly the right to representatives for collective bargaining implies something more than courteous discussion—it implies negotiations which terminate in a joint agreement and its effectiveness. Resting upon such a foundation the joint relations between management and employees would become mutual and, therefore, contractual. The result would be organization of the productive (or labor) forces of industry that would make possible equitable participation for all in industrial decisions which affect their interest.

If only employers could bring themselves to accept the right of employees to representatives of their choosing to negotiate their work agreement and to manage their common work interests, it would be possible to develop constructive policies and the spirit of co-operation for the advancement of the industry. It is obvious there must be some way to restrain those who flaunt their contempt for Labor's rights.

Unemployment Insurance

Now that our economic structure seems safe from the disintegration that has been threatening, it is high time to plan against conditions that upset economic balance. While we do not know all the forces, there are some that stand out conspicuously. One of them is unemployment.

Our whole basis of living requires each person to have an income or to be cared for by some one with an income. Employment is the source of income. When the job goes, the whole basis of living is gone. Not only are the individuals' lives demoralized, but also their contractual relations with individuals and business undertakings. These simple facts explain why unemployment is so demoralizing to society. In addition unemployment is demoralizing to the individual, for work is an essential means of personal development and expression. Unemployment is a social as well as an economic evil. We cannot in the immediate future at least abolish unemployment, for it is an accompaniment of change. We can, however, avert some of the worst consequences of unemployment while we bridge the way to new jobs. The method which has been most widely sanctioned in modern industrial countries is unemployment insurance.

The various plans for unemployment insurance that have been tried give opportunity to study experience as a basis for developing plans adapted to conditions in the United States. Briefly the various plans may be summarized thus:

The way was led by the Ghent Plan which supplemented trade union unemployment benefits. The English plan provided a central fund to which the State, certain employers and employees contributed and from which limited benefits were paid in accord with specified standards. The German plan established a corporation (to avoid difficulties due to a federal government). Employers and employees paid into a central fund contributions in proportion to classified wages. Similar benefits were paid, limited in time and amounts. Social upheavals of the past twenty years changed elements in these basic plans materially, but the essential principles remain. To these methods, discussion in the United States has added an additional proposal—reserves varying from plans for individual accounts and funds for an industry. This proposal tries to make regulation of unemployment profitable to the industry and depends upon analogy between reserves for wages and reserves for these industrial purposes.

In recent months consideration has been given to development of reserves for an industry under the machinery set up by its code.

While opinion is crystallizing as between reserves and general fund pooling risks; as between state-wide systems or plans covering competitive areas, separate industries or groups of industries or the whole country; as between governmental agencies or corporations for public service, two proposals important for whatever decision is finally rendered in these various methods, are before Congress for action. Of fundamental importance is adequate appropriation for our Federal Employment Service to provide the machinery through which any unemployment insurance measure must operate. An adequate, well-functioning service is prerequisite to additional social legislation.

The second measure is the Wagner proposal for a 5 per cent excise tax on pay rolls against which local contributions to unemployment insurance should be credited. Favorable action on these two measures will facilitate decisions in unemployment problems.

IMPORTANT TO WORKERS
The Wagner-Lewis bill, designed to advance the enactment of unemployment insurance legislation in the different States, is of great importance to the working people of the nation. The bill provides for the imposition of a five per cent excise tax by the Federal Government upon employers' payrolls; said tax to be refunded to employers where under the operation and administration of a State Unemployment Insurance Law the employer has made contributions toward the creation of unemployment reserves or to a State unemployment insurance fund.
The American Federation of Labor has endorsed this measure and is giving it whole-hearted and enthusiastic support. This proposed legislation marks a very direct and definite step forward in the enactment of unemployment insurance legislation. It is hoped and believed that following the enactment of this law unemployment insurance legislation will be introduced and passed by a large number of State Legislatures within a reasonably short period of time.

Have You Studied Harmony?

Music is a universal language and like the language of speech has its own grammar. The grammar of Music is Harmony—and if you have not studied the subject you should not delay any longer.

Learn to analyze compositions—to identify the chords used and thereby get an intimate knowledge of the intention of the composer. You get at a real understanding of the basis of phrasing and accent, which is interpretation, through a knowledge of the chords used. A knowledge of Harmony helps to satisfy the natural curiosity of every player, which is "How did the composer write it?"

Harmony will also help you to memorize more readily and more permanently because you understand the reason for the progression of chords used, and are able, therefore, to carry it better in mind.

Let us give you free, a practical demonstration of the thoroughness of our methods and how easily you can master any of our courses. Sample lessons will be sent without obligation to you.

Only by making an examination of the actual lessons can you form an intelligent opinion of the real merit of this remarkable method of music instruction. They will show you how quickly you can equip yourself for greater things in a musical way and make more money from music than ever before.

Get Catalog and Sample Lessons of these Harmony Lessons; also our other courses. It costs you nothing—you have everything to gain and nothing to lose. State age and course in which interested. Try the Lessons, then decide.

IT'S NEW IT'S DIFFERENT IT'S BETTER KING LIBERTY No. 2 TRUMPET

THE WORLD'S FINEST TRUMPET

A MASTERPIECE IN TRUMPET BUILDING

The New King Liberty No. 2 Trumpet

Everything new about it from mouthpiece to rim of bell. More and better tone. Greater brilliancy. Better intonation. Easier playing and more beautiful. See and try this marvelous New "King" Trumpet.

IMPROVED DESIGN AND CONSTRUCTION

Valves are lowered, giving better finger position, natural position for arm, with better contact. NEW TYPE OF VALVES, faster, surer action.

Solid Beveled Type Rim in Bell, adding strength and weight where most needed, and individual beauty in appearance.

Extra Length in Tuning Slide, smoother working with extra tuning length.

Modern Bracing and Trimmings, giving better construction and added beauty.

New and Modern Engraving, creating a beautiful, two-toned effect on the regular model and an artistic four-tone effect on the Silvertone Model.

Study the illustration and see how every inch of this trumpet has been changed, improved and moulded into the most perfect and most beautiful trumpet ever made.

NEW IMPROVED MECHANICAL FEATURES

New improved features add to the beauty and better playing qualities of the New Liberty No. 2 KING Trumpet. See illustrations.

EVERY INCH IMPROVED EVERY INCH A KING

The natural expression of players who see and try it say

"IT'S WONDERFUL. THE BEST I EVER PLAYED"

Del Staigers says:

After playing the new King Liberty No. 2 Trumpet, in all branches of my work for a period of eight weeks, I cannot speak too highly of this wonderful instrument.

Many fellow musicians who have tried it are of the same opinion. I think it would be advantageous to your firm if you were to stress more the marvelous intonation of this trumpet; it's wonderful.

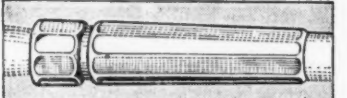

Very truly yours,

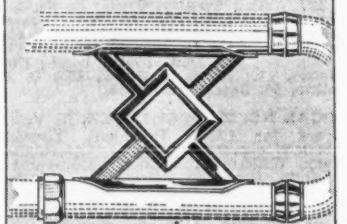

Del Staigers

(Signed) Del Staigers.

"Take a bow, Mr. Stabile"

"Your new mouthpiece is making as big a hit as your playing."

And why not? It gives everything a saxophone player can ask of it. It cuts through the largest combinations with plenty of power in reserve. It blows easily, yet powerfully. It gives a smooth, even, brilliant tone. In Dick Stabile's own words, "It's the finest mouthpiece I have ever played and I have tried them all."

The Dick Stabile Special is being adopted all over the country. Your dealer can get it for you, too. Ask him. Or, write to us.

Now made in alto, tenor and baritone.

Company Unions Must Go

THE very first step toward genuine collective bargaining is the abolition of the employer-dominated union as an agency for dealing with grievances, labor disputes, wages, rules, or hours of employment.—Senator Robert F. Wagner.

Labor's Power Demonstrated

THE power of organized labor, the force that all unscrupulous employers of labor know and fear, was demonstrated in Shamokin, Pa., recently when the labor movement there threatened a boycott on all merchants who were affiliated with the Chamber of Commerce. The action was taken as a result of the hostile anti-union attitude of the national Chamber of Commerce.

As a result of labor's stand, the local Chamber of Commerce severed its affiliation with the national body, and organized into the Community Service Association, to which all citizens and classes of organizations are eligible.

Come Clean, Moscow!

IN this country Communism has represented more than anything else a program of manufacturing trouble. Trouble for trade unions, for the courts, for the government generally, for our social and political institutions as such.

For that reason, and because of the historic position of the international communist movement, we could not but feel that Mr. Litvinoff had his tongue in his cheek, so to speak, when he negotiated a treaty with President Roosevelt in which he promised for the Soviet government not only not to promote or support any such trouble-making in this country, but not even to tolerate in Russia the existence of any organization having for its purpose the overthrow of American political and social institutions.

At the time of the making of that treaty there was presented to the President a pretty full statement of the activities of the communist organizations in this country, their relation to each other, and their relation to the Moscow Internationale. Mr. Litvinoff seems to have been able to satisfy the President at least as to the future policy of his government along these lines.

At least in one more or less public meeting an authorized press representative of the Soviet Government in this country has given an account of these happenings in a manner which seemed to indicate the "tongue-in-the-cheek" attitude.

Without wishing to over-valuate the effectiveness of the propaganda methods of the communists in America, it may be worth while to call to the attention of the real friends of Russia the fact that the less trouble they stir up in this country during the next few years, the more likely that country is to get some of the things which it really needs to secure from America, in the way of actual commodities, to say nothing of the credits which are likely to be needed to enable Russia to round the corner of its next Five-Year Plan.

The mere mixing of confusion into American councils, whether it be in matters of policy and procedure in the organization of labor, or along the line of racial problems which of necessity require a long-time process of elucidation, can add nothing to the benefits to be derived by this country from its experiences during the next few years. It will take some pretty positive evidence, however, to satisfy some of us that such scenes as those which took place in Madison Square Garden, New York City, at the attempted discussion of the Austrian situation, are not to be laid at the door of an established organ of propaganda which has its roots and which certainly finds moral, if not financial, support at the seat of the Soviet Government.

All Workers Should Enroll in Unions

THE 1933 convention of the American Federation of Labor emphasized the necessity of 100 per cent organization of working men and women in bona fide unions in order to equip themselves with the machinery necessary to secure their full rights under the codes of fair competition established by authority of the National Industrial Recovery Act.

The importance of the convention's admonition is illustrated every day in Washington in the hearings held by the Recovery Administration on the various codes, as well as in the procedure before and after the hearings.

The codes are practically all drawn up by organizations of employers, called trade associations, without consultation with the employes, organized or unorganized, despite the fact that the labor sections affect very vitally the welfare of all the workers.

In actual day-to-day practice it is a truism evident to all serious-minded persons that the labor sections of the codes receive much more consideration from both employers' representatives and Recovery Administration authorities when the employes covered by the codes are effectively organized than they do in industries where the employers for years and years have bludgeoned their employes into joining subservient company unions and similar schemes of employer "welfare work."

After the codes are signed by the President it is equally apparent, from months of observation, that the labor sections, according to the workers the right of collective bargaining without employer interference and setting up maximum hours and minimum wage standards, are much more adequately enforced if the workers are organized in bona fide trade unions strong enough to fight vigorously every infraction of labor's rights both under the National Recovery Act and the codes themselves.

Workers everywhere should enroll 100 per cent in unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. Otherwise the labor guarantees contained in the Recovery Act will become just what employers of the Weir and Budd and Ford type desire them to be—mere paper declarations with the workers kept in economic serfdom and unable to maintain their rights under the law.

"Coolie Wages" Must Go

BILLS to regulate wages and other conditions in industrial home work are being drafted in a number of States. They should be passed without delay. It is estimated there are a million industrial home workers in the United States. Under existing conditions, they are a menace to factory wage standards in every part of the nation.

Almost unbelievable low wages are paid in home-work. Elmer F. Andrews, New York State Industrial Commissioner, in urging passage of a bill to protect home workers in his State, showed that wages as low as 2 cents an hour are paid women and child home workers, who number 30,000 in New York State alone. Their weekly earnings, which averaged only $6.19 in the prosperous year 1928, have been cut to as little as 25 cents a day for 14 hours' work, he said.

Commissioner Andrews well branded these "coolie wages" as "shameful exploitation." Such exploitation must be stopped. It endangers the whole recovery program and is something that no civilized nation should tolerate.

We should be as careful of our words as of our actions, and as far from speaking ill as doing ill.—Cicero.

Labor Queries

Questions and Answers on Labor: What It Has Done; Where It Stands on Problems of the Day; Its Aim and Program; Who's Who in the Ranks of the Organized Toilers.

Q.—What early trade union movement used a symbol instead of its name?

A.—The Knights of Labor, which started its movement in 1869 in strictest secrecy because of blacklisting and victimizing of leaders in previous efforts to organize workers. The symbol of the "Five Stars" was used in all the activities of the order. This policy was discontinued as the organization grew in power.

Q.—What is the name of the official journal of the International Photo-Engravers' Union of North America?

Q.—Who is W. E. Bryan?

A.—President of the United Leather Workers International Union.

Q.—Were women printers ever organized in a union of their own?

A.—In 1870 the International Typographical Union chartered a union of women printers in New York City. The union was not a success and in 1872 the I. T. U. admitted women to membership on equal terms with men.

Out Beyond the Surf

Where thought, un-hastened by necessity or trepidation, sometimes penetrates to truth. Here, where the shallows throw no spray, let us ponder and enjoy the lessons of the art and the work and play of life.

One of the things upon which it is possible just now to ruminate without any too much satisfaction is that employers are a lot of crooks.

They give their solemn word to Uncle Sam and then they won't keep it.

They enter into covenant with each other and then dig out each other's foundations.

Of all the talk heard recently about how to get out of the depths, the most talk has been about violations of codes.

One Code Authority member accused his own industry, not many days ago, of only 25 per cent compliance. That's 75 per cent violation.

Mostly, violations are in the direction of cheating labor, or in ignoring trade practice regulations, which means cheating other employers or the public, or both.

Now isn't that a nice state of morality among our great minds?

More than that, to hear the stories told by employers when they are fighting against decent provisions in codes, you would think all employers were insolvent and that all employers were honorable and above suspicion. What a nice lot they are when they are pleading. What a crooked lot they are when they are telling on each other.

General Johnson says his worst problem is violation, or non-compliance. That means that his worst problem is how to stop employers from lying and cheating; how to reform them so that they will tell the truth and keep their agreements.

If labor unions were a quarter as bad they would be pilloried from New York to San Francisco. How any business man or any banker has the gall to say anything about labor is beyond imagination, yet such is their colossal nerve that they do it, even when caught red-handed in their filthy misdeeds. Is there no honor in that gang? The answer has to be: Very little.

Here's an example: A group of employers signed an agreement with a union. Then, with the ink scarcely dry, they proceeded to resign from their association and form a new one, through which they propose not to sign any agreement with any union. How's that for subterfuge? It's so apparent that it isn't right to even call it subterfuge.

And every government official who has had anything to do with code enforcement knows that employers are not to be trusted, as a class; that they will lie and chisel and cheat and evade, like a lot of second-story men caught half way up.

What is to be done with this matter?

It isn't easy for anyone to know. But it seems that the people of the United States set their faces toward a cure for all of this something over a year ago. There is some reason to suspect that they intend to effect a cure. And the meaning there is that if certain measures fail they will press on to try others.

Each failure will beget a more severe measure at the next step.

Employers who do not see this, and most of them do not, add stupidity to the already long list of their defects.

Perhaps every person's guess is as good as any other. But note this, as many have noted it: The tendency of trade unionists who have been up against employer tactics are getting more and more aggressive, more and more angered, more and more of the opinion that the situation may require a sock on the jaw instead of a slap on the wrist.—C. M. W.

Enforcing Minimum Wage Rates

NEW YORK is trying an interesting experiment in invoking public opinion in the enforcement of minimum wage rates. The new minimum wage law provides that for the first nine months of any wage order the industry affected shall have time to set its house in order and that no one may be sent to jail for failing to pay the rates. But public opinion can be used to bring immediate compliance, by publication of the names of employers who do not pay the rates.

The plan is now being tested in the case of the laundry industry, the names of 41 Brooklyn laundries who refused to pay the minimum rates having been published as legal advertising in the Brooklyn newspapers by the State Department of Labor.

The mere prospect of publication brought many laundry owners in line. Others defied the Department of Labor until the last moment and then agreed to comply. It is evident that the plan is getting results, but it seems certain that in every industry there will be a small minority of employers who will not comply until forced to by legal action.

(By CHAUNCEY A. WEAVER)

The necrological roll of the early part of the current year records the name of John Powell of Local No. 43, Buffalo, N. Y., whose demise occurred on the 27th day of January at his home at No. 374 Woodward Avenue in that city. Death followed an illness of several months. Brother Powell had been a delegate to many national conventions of the American Federation of Musicians. The Buffalo Evening News contains a comprehensive review of the career of the deceased from which we glean a few facts which will be of interest to his many Federation friends.

Brother Powell had been a leading bandmaster in Western New York for more than half a century. He was born in Richmond Hill, Ontario. For thirty years he was director of the old Sixty-fifth Regiment Band. He conducted concerts in city parks for many years. His band played daily at the Pan-American Exposition grounds. He frequently appeared at the Toronto Exposition. He led his band in Cuba during the Spanish-American War. Shortly after the war his band was chosen to play at the funeral ceremonial of President William McKinley following his assassination in that city.

Brother Powell was President of Local No. 43 for several terms and his name was prominently identified with important musical affairs in Buffalo and vicinity for a long period of time.

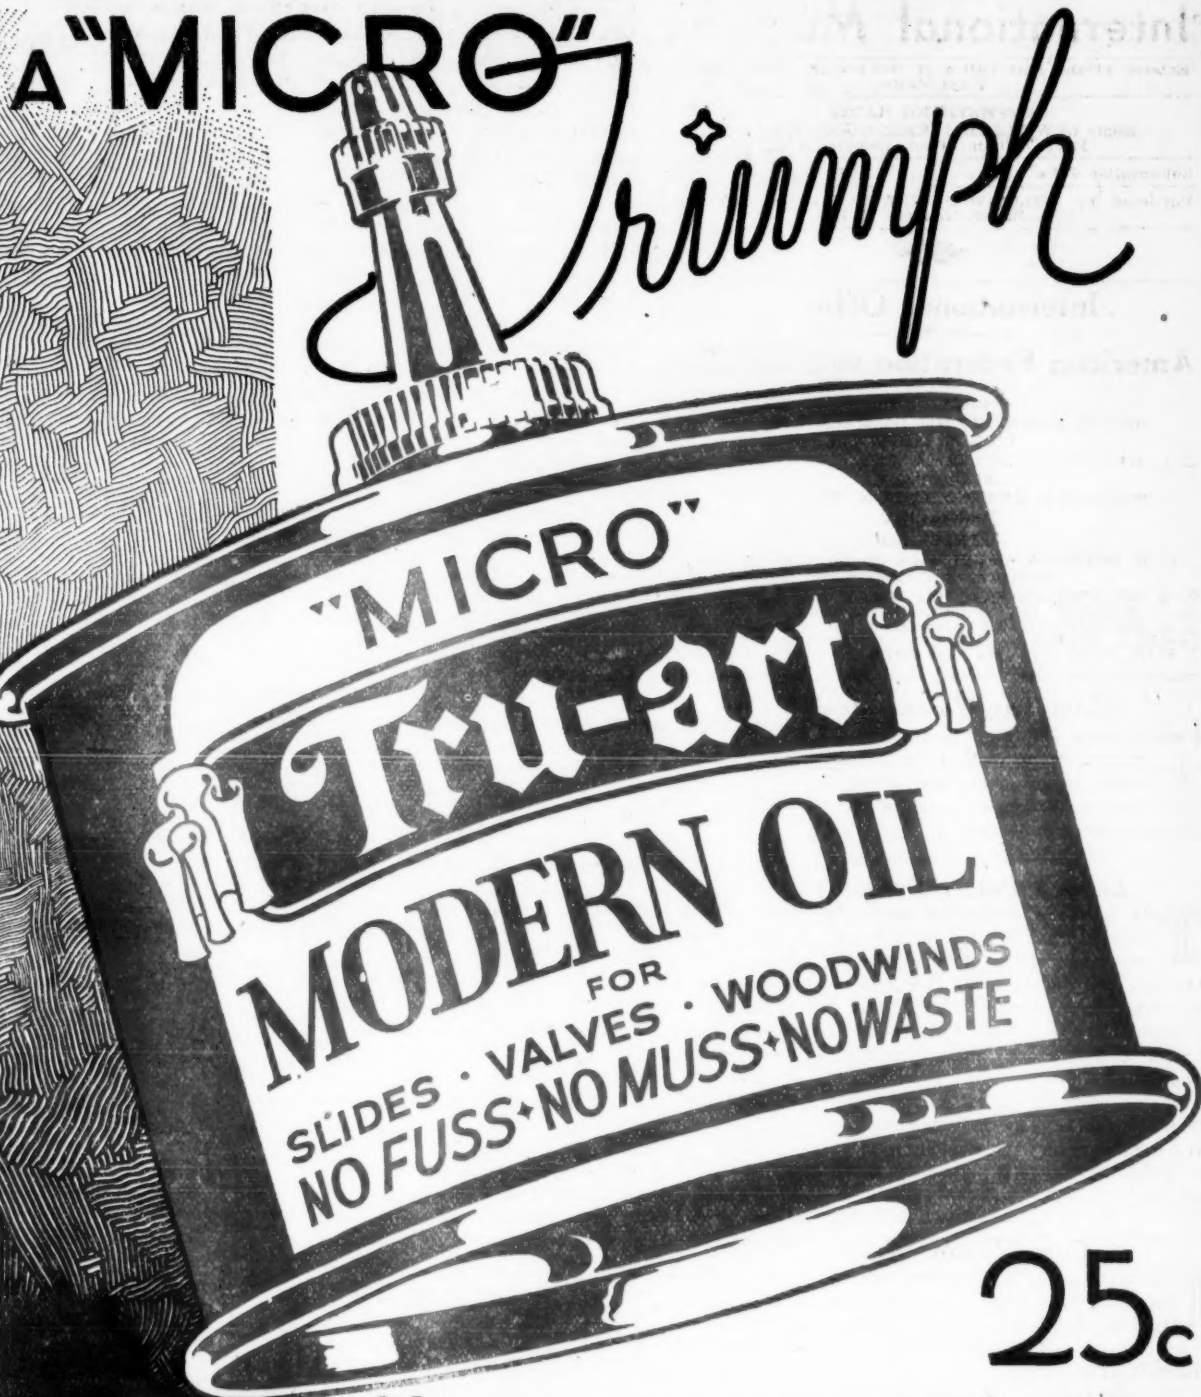

The deceased was seventy-five years of age. He was a member of Parish Lodge, F. and A. M., the Buffalo Consistory and Ismalia Temple. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Charlotte D. Powell, a son, Arthur L., and a daughter, Miss Mary E. Powell.

So far as we have learned there is no objection to Congress adjourning most any time now.

No, Gertrude, the "staggering" of musicians has no reference to any suggestion of inebriety or its effects on equilibrium.

That Florida visit is now a carefully and securely classified memory. Since our last communication to the International Musician was mailed we have acquired some additional information concerning that interesting commonwealth. We refer to its meteorological versatility. Leaving Miami on a hot night, we headed for St. Augustine and Jacksonville—anxious to see some old friends and contact, if possible, some new ones, and expecting to divide the remaining time between the two far-famed and historic localities. Then something happened. The caudal appendage of that execrable northeastern blizzard suddenly swished down in that direction and enveloped us with a severe rainstorm just upon the point of arriving at the aforementioned destination. After being confined to the hotel for three nights and two days under a threatened pneumonia attack, we hurried home to hear the ecstatic twitter of the first spring robin and watch the melting snow infiltrate the soil preparatory for the next crop of Iowa corn. Let it be understood—we do not blame Florida for what happened. She is not to blame for what a badly regulated weather bureau dumps upon her. In her own inherent power and capability she is still the Land of Sunshine and a worthwhile Mecca for all travelers. Long may she prosper!

En route between Chicago and Miami we noted the suggestive sign—"Packing House—Horses and Mules." It may indicate the origin of certain modern types of bologna.

J. SCHWARTZ MUSIC CO., INC.
10 West 19th Street, Dept. No.—2 New York, N. Y.

We are assured that the New Deal has other trump cards yet to play.

Convention delegates of years gone by will recall the tall, militant figure of one who frequently represented Local No. 77 of Philadelphia, Charles A. Carbon. He was mustered out of the battle of life in his native and home city on February 12, at the age of seventy years. Brother Carbon had been a member of the Philadelphia Local since its charter issuance in 1903. At various times he served as president, sergeant-at-arms, member of local Executive Board and of Trial Board and as a delegate to many national conventions. In the Philadelphia Musician his friend and comrade for many years, Harry A. Crisp, pays him tribute, from which we quote the following paragraph:

"Charlie," as he was known to most of us, died as he would have wished—"in harness, with his boots on." This grand old fighter (always for the cause of honest unionism) would have hated a lingering illness—would have despised being helpless—or an object of sympathy. He was of the aggressive type, the kind of man who keeps going until he drops. Always active, mentally and physically, few realized how old he really was.

His hobbies were baseball and boating, and for the Philadelphia Athletics he was an uncompromising fan. We remember Charley Carbon as one who was an active and often aggressive participant in convention deliberations and we doubt not he will be missed in the local organization with which he had been identified for nearly a third of a century.

Jacksonville, Fla., people are strong on abbreviated nomenclature. "Jax" is the staccato monosyllable one observes through that entire vicinity thus personifying the Gateway City of the southeastern commonwealth.

Some of those Miami bathing suits would make wonderful lamp shades.

An open winter is one which seems to let in all out of doors.

Waukegan Local, No. 284, has a fine new home and recently dedicated the same with an elaborate social function.

One of the old guard Federation members recently called to his final reward was Arthur Geoffrion, who passed away at Cambridge Hospital, Boston, Mass. He was a fine clarinet player and identified during his seventy-six years of mortal life with many notable engagements. He was a native of Quebec. He was a member of John Philip Sousa's original band, organized in 1892, and played the opening engagement at the Casino Theatre in New York City. He went to Los Angeles in 1905 and became a member of Local 47, and later a life member. He served in official capacities in the latter local several years and was a delegate to the National Convention at St. Paul in 1921. He spoke English and French with equal fluency. Later he returned to the East. The remains were cremated at Mt. Auburn Cemetery, Cambridge.

After the administration alphabetic departments have looked after all the other classes of unemployed, perhaps they will decide as a grand climax to do something for the thousands of musicians long out of work.

The rapid flight of time is already indicated by the fact that delegates to the 1934 A. F. of M. Convention at Cleveland are already being elected. The comparatively central location, together with the fact that railroad fares have been subjected to a radical cut throughout the nation, should be an especial inducement to make this convention memorable from the standpoint of attendance.

We passed through Chattanooga just as the "Morn in russet mantle clad" was walking o'er the dew of the eastern hills and mountain tops. It brought recollections of a night of sweet repose on that majestic Lookout elevation, as long ago as May, 1911—a temporary halt on the way to the Atlanta Convention; and later to the enjoyable convention entertained by Local No. 80 in the much more recent past. The lifting of the night shadows was like raising the curtain on a stage where mighty dramas depicting both war and peace have been enacted. Lookout Mountain, Missionary Ridge, Chickamauga and Stone River—what a cluster of historic names to meditate upon from a single point of vantage!

What a drab and prosaic thing life would be without the warp and woof of sentiment interwoven therein. Along one of the Southern railway lines leading into Atlanta, close by the track is a Lone Grave. It is enclosed within an iron fence. Above the silent dust is a plain marble slab bearing the inscription—"Here lies the body of an unknown Confederate soldier, who died in defense of the cause he thought was right." Long after that struggle has terminated, and passion has died away, many sons and daughters of both North and South, as well as descendants of those who knew little of the issues determined, still pause in momentary respect for the memory of one who did not hesitate to pay the last full measure of devotion in defense of principles he thought imperishable.

The lure to stop in Atlanta was strong, but the limitations of ticket forbid. In mid-forenoon of a beaming day she loomed impressively as one of the great industrial and beautiful residential centers of the South.

Far-western musical circles have sustained a distinct loss in the death of Dr. Arthur Heft of Local No. 12, Sacramento, Calif., which event occurred last month. He had been a symphony orchestra conductor for thirty-five years and not only had charge of that organization in his home city, but was also director of the Sacramento Municipal Band. He had filled the post of concert-master of the St. Cecilia Symphony Orchestra at Neuchatel, Switzerland; was with the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra five years and was violinist with the Beresina String Quartet of Chicago. For ten years he was dean of Highland Park College of Music in Des Moines and at one time director of the Iowa State Band. Dr. Heft had a notable career, was a high-grade teacher and enjoyed the friendship of a vast multitude of people. He will be deeply missed in Sacramento, where he had had a prominent place in all musical activities for the past nine years.

We find an impressive exhibition of what can be accomplished in organized labor circles in the Voice of Labor of March 15, published in New Bedford, Mass. The article is from the pen of Secretary Joseph Cambra of Local No. 214, reviewing a recent campaign for increased membership. The result has been the bringing into the Federation fold of nine orchestras, increasing the membership more than one hundred—with a total membership to date of 225. The efforts of the local have not ceased with the present accomplishment and the prospects are bright that within a short time New Bedford will have a one hundred per cent musical union membership. We congratulate Local No. 214 upon its fine work in translating theory into worthwhile practice and commend its example to the American Federation of Musicians at large.

On arriving home we find a copy of Vol. One, Number 2, of the Louisville Musician upon our desk. The name of Harry S. Currie appears as editor-in-chief. As a journalistic infant its complexion is clear, its voice resonant, and its general anatomical make-up symmetrical—a combination of elements betokening long life and good health. May the most ambitious reams of its promoters be abundantly fulfilled as it undertakes to serve the best interests of the membership of Local No. 11.

As a memory test try occasionally to define the various alphabetical combinations with which the Federal government administration has undertaken to regale the country.

Fate sometimes demoralizes the most carefully laid plans. We never dreamed that a visit to Jacksonville would be marked by failure to see our friend of many years—Brother John Mackey. We were informed, however, that in the exercise of his functions as State Labor Commissioner he is constantly on the go, but never loses his special interest in the American Federation of Musicians.

The news dispatches tell the story of a girl in whose stomach a veritable hardware store was found. Perhaps she was collecting traps with which to qualify as a drummer.

We note the passing of another highly respected Federationist in the person of Brother Roscoe M. Packard of Local No. 40, Baltimore, Md. Brother Packard was born in West Paris, Maine, October 24, 1860, and died of ulcer of the stomach. In his long musical career he had served as president, vice-president and recording secretary. He was delegate four times to national conventions. He was a fine musical director and had conducted bands in city parks, for the Sportsmen's Exposition, the Elks' Exposition, Merchants' Exposition and the Boys' Brigade Encampment. He had always been an active figure in Baltimore musical circles and held the respect of all who knew him.

Ready

The New LUDWIG DRUMMER.

Here 'tis; that sparkling, newsy, entertaining, friendly visitor, you have been looking for. The new Ludwig "Drummer" is out.

Fresh from the press, it is literally loaded this time with just what's what in the world of drumming. It breaks all the latest news of drummers; gives a lot of brand new pointers on drumming; tells all about the very latest things in drummers' equipment, accessories, and traps; shows the latest drums and new finishes; and it is literally dripping with pictures.

No self-respecting drummer will want to delay reading these tidbits of news in the new Ludwig "Drummer." It's beyond doubt one of the best issues published, and the biggest news of all is that it is absolutely free. Clip the coupon now and mail it today for "immediate delivery" for your free copy of the Ludwig "Drummer." This places you under no obligation at all.

The LUDWIG general catalog is the drummer's "Bible." Check coupon if you need a new copy, free.

"Tell me what you eat," said a soda-counter philosopher in a loud voice, "and I'll tell you what you are."

"Countermand my order for the shrimp salad," piped up a little man a few stools away.—Ex.

A Deceptive Face

"Anyone could tell by looking at you that your parents came from Ireland."

"My parents did not come from Ireland," said Pat.

"Come on, don't try to fool me, your face shows your parents came from Ireland."

Remarkable Things Said

If war profits can be eliminated, I am satisfied that more will have been done to bring about world peace and disarmament than could be done in most any other way.—Senator Lynn J. Frazier.

We must remember that the bulk of the market for American industry is among the 90 per cent of our people who live on wages and salaries and only 10 per cent of that market is among people who live on profits alone.—Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The solution of the unemployment problem is a social concern not only because it springs from social causes, but also because the effects of unemployment extend to every person in the country and threaten the nation with ruin.—Senator Robert F. Wagner.

The Golden Rule of this administration is: Do after election as you said you would do before election.—Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York.

During the period of depression, while millions of men and women walk the streets ill-clad and half-starved, while governments have been unable to pay their debts, while educational institutions have been starved of funds, it is a fact that munition manufacturers have been realizing profits of 12 and 20 and 30 per cent.—Senator William E. Borah.

I make sex appeal natural—know what I mean? Audiences respond to my characterizations because the women I play are honest, they don't say "no" when they mean "yes."—Mae West.

FREEDOM IN LEISURE

By Howard Braucher

A committee on the use of leisure time! What is the idea! Of all the nerve! The response all over the country to the appointment of such a committee was much the same.

The spontaneous outburst is a very healthy sign. We in America do not want our lives controlled. Such control as there is we want as self-control. Leisure affects our lives so intimately, we do not want anyone determining it for us. If there is any place where democracy applies, it is with reference to our leisure.

Let us make no mistake. Much leisure time, character-building writing in the past has been definitely on the basis of controlling other people's lives. Ten years ago a philanthropist of great wealth sat entranced for three hours while a social worker outlined a plan for "scientifically conditioning men and women in their leisure time so that they would be compelled to be good." The social worker's illustrations even were taken from science, from chemistry. The difficulty is to find a Stalin, a Mussolini wise enough to answer the question—What is good, what is the good life?

Some of us would rather live in a bad world than in a world made good by external compulsion. It is clear that there are certain human activities that are recognized to do harm to others. Such activities are discouraged. But as between activities not in themselves harmful, who is wise enough to say in a given generation at a given time what combination of activities are higher or lower, give greatest satisfaction to this individual, to this group of individuals?

Protests against the committee on the use of leisure time have not been protests against providing baseball fields, bathing beaches, swimming pools, gymnasiums, meeting places, libraries, class rooms, recreation leaders, librarians, teachers—but rather protests against any "high-brow group attempting to tell us what we ought to do," against a suspected "vast desire to put across a program of self-improvement on us masses."

This protest shows the sound sense of America and gives one faith in the thought and feeling of the mass of the people. Recreation workers, leaders in education, adult education specialists may well ponder the clippings from all over the United States which show that individuals consider themselves perfectly capable of choosing wisely for themselves.

Many were deeply concerned when in certain industries the working hours were reduced from eighty-four hours per week to sixty hours or forty-eight hours. There has been no evidence, however, that this reduction which took place when the working day was shortened from twelve hours to eight hours, from seven days to six days, was disastrous to society. And in all probability men and women have within themselves the reserves to meet the situation as the working week is reduced from six days to five days and the working hours are reduced to seven hours.

RUDY SMILES APPROVAL—Joe Miller and Rudy Vallee as they recently appeared before the microphone at NBC Studio, New York. Joe has played a Conn for many years and wrote us on February 3, 1934, as follows: "I am now using a new Conn Tenor Saxophone. In my work with Rudy Vallee on the stage, in moving pictures, cabaret and night club work my instrument is subjected to the most exacting tests. I find the Conn completely satisfactory and congratulate you on producing so fine an instrument."

A RADIO FAVORITE—Leo J. Dreyer's engagements in radio work are a convincing testimonial to his high rating as an artist. They include such well known broadcasts as Lucky Strike, Cremo Hour, Oldsmobile and others. He has an enviable record also in recording and motion pictures, playing with many top notch orchestras. He plays a Conn Tenor Sax and wrote us on January 9, 1934, praising it as the "ultimate in tone quality, intonation and the quick, positive action so necessary in our work."

WINS HONORS—Robert D. Lick, Harrisburg, Pa., won first division soloist honors in the National High School Band contest at Evanston last year, some naming him as "outstanding" among all the contestants. He won with a Conn 24H and wrote us January 6, 1934, "I have tried all other reputable makes and find Conn by far the most satisfactory."

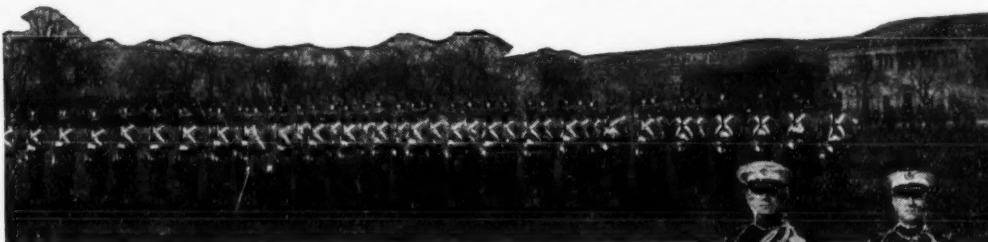

All Conn testimonials are guaranteed to be voluntary and genuine expressions of opinion for which no payment of any kind has been or will be made.

TRY THIS ON YOUR SERPENT HORN—Clinton Davis (center), Alto Sax with Clyde Lucas, plays a hot chorus on a modern Conn sax just to show its improvement over remote ancestors. Standing, left to right, Harry Shapiro of Dan Russo's band with first ancestor of saxophone, the serpent horn made in 1590; George Fortier of Jan Garber's band, with 1790 ophicleide; Morris Berov of Vincent Lopez' band, with original saxophone of Antoine Sax, 1840. All four players use Conn saxophones. A textmerightist Carlos Molina, popular director, with first American made saxophone, made by Conn in 1884.

INSPIRING FUTURE GENERALS—The band stationed at West Point Military Academy is an important part of the color and glamour that surround every activity of the nation's great training school for future military leaders. At right—Staff Sergt. John G. Erickson, first saxophone, who plays a new model Conn 6M2 and Staff Sergt. Elmer Reade, Alto Saxophone, who plays a new model 6M4. After recently receiving the new axes, they made a joint statement, dated February 2, 1934, that "the new Conn is far superior to any instrument we have ever tried."
