Fortieth Annual Convention of the American Federation of Musicians Will Convene June 10th, 1935, at New Jersey's Beautiful Resort City.

THE International Executive Board has selected Asbury Park, N. J., as the Convention City for 1935. The of the Convention will be the Berkeley-Carteret Hotel and the sessions will be held at the Convention Hall, directly opposite the hotel, and will begin on Monday, June 10th, 1935, at 2:00 P. M., continuing each day thereafter until the Convention adjourns.

Asbury Park has been selected by reason of climatic conditions and accommodations secured there.

The City of Asbury Park, N. J., is one of America's foremost ocean resort cities. With beautiful and modernly developed beaches, modern hotels and new convention hall it offers an ideal spot for the holding of the Fortieth Annual Convenof the American Federation of Musicians.

Whatever one's preference may be as to hotel accommodation-the great modern hostelry or the smaller, more home like house-it is to be had at Asbury The picture shown at the right covers but a single corner of an extensive A large picture would hotel section. illustrate even more effectively the wide range of types and sizes which makes it sible for Asbury Park to satisfy every individual taste and purse.

Note how each house stands out by itself-the large structures, each occupying an entire ocean-front square. the wide, clean avenues; the parks. Note the gentle waves of the vast Atlantic washing the white beach. The wide, smooth boardwalk, with its surf bathing grounds and sea-water pools; its pavilions and stores and amusement places boardwalk miles in length is discernable between the large hotels and the ocean.

The parks, corners of two of which appear in the picture, are highly-prized features of this beautiful resort city. They are parks of trees and shade, and deep green lawns, and of lakes and little wooded islands. In its lakes and parks and broad, tree-lined avenues, Asbury Park is distinctive.

In the beautiful new Casino, built out over the rolling sea, there is always en-tertainment. On this wonderfully smooth and spacious floor devotees of the dance, glide to the music of nationally famous musical organizations. It is indeed a popular rendezvous with pleasure.

Asbury Park offers in abundance the very best of indoor entertainment and diversion. There are all sorts of amusement places-ballrooms in the hotels, public dance halls, cabarets and large and beautiful theatres that give the best in action picture, vaudeville and the greatest of Broadway plays.

These theatres are as up-to-date and modern, as to appointments and quality of productions, as those of the great metropolis and they play daily-summer. winter, fall and spring-to large houses.

Asbury Park is a theatre town.

Ocean bathing is popular and delightful from May until October. Across soft white sand one is lured irresistibly to a tumbling surf.

There is sport in the white caps-vigor in the splash, and health in the tan of the sun and the salt of the sea

There are hotels and lakes and parks on the land side and to the east the beach and the great wide, beautifully mysterious ocean from across the broad expanse of which there comes a brisk and cool, refreshing breeze.

Even in its mildest moments there is a singing of the sea that breaks "white water" on the beach.

In storm it is majestic and fearsome, but normally its graceful tumbling waves are indescribably beautiful.

Swimming pools, clean and always freshly filled with clear sea water; rest they supervised, there hasn't been a drowning on an Asbury Park bathing ground in thirty-three years.

Every one of the city's wide, shady avenues, graced with lakes and parks and beautiful homes, leads to the splendid Boardwalk Promenade.

And if you are a devotee of sport, it's here at its best, of any sort one's fancy moves toward.

Tennis: Hard clay courts at the stadium grounds.

Golf: Six great courses within a fivemile radius.

Riding: Miles of bridle paths through wooded and open fairyland.

Motoring: Hundreds of miles of wide, hard, smooth roads in a country of hills and level stretches, woods and fields and Fishing: Ocean, bay, river, lakes and brooks call and satisfy exacting devotees of rod and reel.

Boating: Sail, motor, row or canoe on rivers, sea or land-locked lakes.

Bathing: Well, that's the summer sojourner's chief dissipation. It is superfine.

And there is fine upland shooting in the woods and fields, and geese and duck down the bay for those who come and like such sport in fall and early winter.

The following are just a few of the many important points of interest the visitor to Asbury Park will see and enjoy: New Convention Hall and Theatre-Fifth Avenue and Boardwalk.

Casino - Asbury Avenue and Boardwalk.

City-owned beachfront, one mile long. Bathing beaches at almost every street.

Over a mile of Boardwalk that connects with Ocean Grove. Swimming Pools on Boardwalk at Second and Seventh Avenues.

Band Concerts - Open-Air Pavilion, Seventh and Eighth Avenues on the Boardwalk.

Athletic Ground at Sunset Avenue, on Deal Lake.

Public Playgrounds on several city

Atlantic Park open to the public, between Ocean Avenue to Webb and Fifth to Sunset Avenue.

Library Park, Heck Street to Grand Avenue and Asbury Avenue to First Avenue.

Information Bureau at First Avenue and Boardwalk.

Rest Parlors every two hundred feet on the Boardwalk.

The City of Asbury Park awaits you, and all delegates and visitors to the next convention of the American Federation Musicians. You will find it a hos-

The official Convention Headquarters will be at the Berkeley-Carteret Hotel. It is directly opposite the great new Municipal Convention Hall, where the sessions of the Convention will be held. The hotel has 400 guest rooms, every room an outside one and luxuriously and comfortably furnished. Every room has bath, supplied with hot and cold fresh and sea water. The Mandarin Grill and Crystal Room are the two most beautiful dining rooms on the North Jersey Coast, and the Berkeley-Carteret French chef is famous among particular guests. Asbury Park is easily accessible by motor, rail or boat—seventy-five minutes from New York, sixty minutes from Newark and one and one-half hours from Philadelphía.

beautiful lakes-some of them small, others reaching back for miles into wooded country.

These lakes are havens for devotees of the paddle and the oar.

And on the larger lakes and on the rivers speed boats dart about and outboard motors put-put in and out of shaded

Asbury Park has a boardwalk, of course, but a "different" Boardwalk—devoid of cheap and noisy catch-penny amusements. Here one strolls, or, re-laxed in the wheel chair, is rolled past interesting stores and shops with a dis-pavilions, stores, bathing establishments, high-class amusements and solariums line the west side of the real broadwalk that looks out over the sand and far away

The only structures east of the Boardwalk are the piers on which are located the three-million-dollar Casino-an amuse ment center; the five-million-dollar Convention Hall and the fishing pier.

There is nothing finer in bathing facilities than those provided at Asbury Park. The pools are the best that engineering can produce. The surf bathing beaches are superb. So efficiently are pitable city—a city that is not too large and yet so diversified that it will appeal to all.

What makes a Turkish Cymbal TURKISH

Thousands of American drummers know the answer to that question. When they buy cymbals they look for that famous old name "K. ZILDJIAN & CIE, CONSTANTINOPLE" stamped right into the metal. Then they know that they are getting the REAL THING—the genuine Constantinople Cymbal that's been the world's standard of cymbal quality for 300 years and more.

If YOUR professional standing demands the best there is in drummers' equipment, then there's only one cymbal for YOU—

K. ZILDJIAN & CIE. Constantinople Cymbals

Made in all popular weights and sizes. Heavy matched pairs for band or drum corps—thin, balanced type for crash cymbal—and paper-thin, high-pitched "Hot" cymbals for modern dance band work.

Try This One!

No. M611—K. Zildjian 11 in. Paper Thin Cymbal higher-pitched and "hot-ter" than any cymbal you ever saw. The price is $10.00 each.

At Your Music Dealer, or good faith-deposit brings it to you (C.O.D. for balance of purchase price) on 6 Days' Examination. Your money waits right there in the express office while you try it out and make up your mind. No risk!

Urge Equality For Women

Washington-Miss Bettie Gram Swing. an outstanding feminist leader, has joined the staff of the Inter-American Commission of Women, which seeks ratification and adherence of the women's equality treaties signed at Montevideo, at the last Pan-American Conference.

Works Both Ways

Anent the charge of some industrial and banker barons that the government is interfering with business, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace said: "The United States has suffered fully as much in the past from the private regulation of government as it has from the government regulation of business.'

There was only one other passenger besides the honeymooners, Buffalo-bound, While they on an early morning bus. on an early morning bus. While they passed through the lighted streets of cities, they maintained their reserve, but became affectionate as the coach sped along the countryside. The groom, anxious to reach the destination, asked his fellow-passenger if he knew how far it was to Buffalo.

'Yeah," said the stranger, "we passed it while you was in that last clinch."-

COMMENT ON World Events

Government figures disclose that week ly earnings in the automobile industry have been decreasing substantially in the past months, reaching an average of $18.85 during September. This was a decrease from an average weekly wage of $23.06 during August and also a substantial decrease over the figure for the same month a year ago. This is revealed in the October issue of the Labor Information Bulletin, a new service provided by the United States Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics, which aims, in the words of Secretary of Labor Perkins, to give workers, "un-biased and scientific information which covers not only conditions in their own particular industry, but also on the larger ues affecting the welfare of all labor and the Nation as a whole.'

Weekly hours in the automobile industry have dropped from 31.9 in August, to 25.7 in September, while hourly earnings have risen from 72.7 cents to 73.1 cents in the same months. These figures are not very significant, however, without taking into consideration the tremendous drop in employment which has occurred in the automobile plants since the sum mer. For example, the hourly earnings in the automobile industry are the highest of the ten different classifications used in Labor Information Bulletin, but in weekly earnings the automobile industry ranks sixth. And if yearly earnings are estimated the automobile industry is one of the lowest of all, since figures quoted by President Roosevelt indicate that the yearly wage of the average automobile worker is less than $900 a year. It is hard economic facts such as these which are driving the automobile workers into the American Federation of Labor unions in ever increasing numbers.

How industries rise and fall is illustrated in the history of the once great American whaling industry, now only a shadow of its former self. On June 30, 1934, the Department of Commerce reports, there were 14 whaling vessels of 9,037 gross tons in the American whaling et, as compared with a record of 198, 594 gross tons in 1858. The New England fleet of 1,858 was made up of about 1,000 sturdy vessels and in the ports of Gloucester, New Bedford, Boston, Provincetown and other New England seacoast cities lived the thousands of men who sailed those ships on adventurous voy-Today there are perhaps a few seamen living who can recall the thrilling cry "thar she blows," and who view the passing of their former calling with regret. Since the time the first American seamen headed their vessels away from the New England coast late in the 18th in search of "swimming treacentury sure," the headquarters for the fleet have moved across the continent and today all American whaling vessels, with one ex-ception, are operated out of Seattle and San Francisco. The fleet today is made up of 12 steam vessels, one motor vessel and one sailing vessel. When whalers were an important factor in the merchant fleet of the United States, virtually each one was a sailing craft. The last dozen years have seen the diminishing of this little group of survivors of what was once an outstanding industry.

Sixteen Pennsylvania utility companies the other day filed lowered rate schedules which will save consumers about $1,414, 000 a year. One by one the blossoms fall from the overshadowing tree of utility graft. The example of the TVA has lowered rates several million dollars a year within its sphere of influence. President Roosevelt's recent address at Tupelo, Mississippi, in which he said that the work of the TVA would be copied in every state, sent a chill through the atmosphere that doubtless will bring down more faded petals. Then came the New York State Power Authority with a report which shows that in the northeastern states of this country alone, utility extortions total $194,000,000 a year. One by and not half or a quarter fast enough -the utility graft blooms are coming down to earth. A good, rousing campaign for public ownership would speed up the process immensely.

Need for a well organized program for the prevention of occupational diseases is emphasized in a recent report of the United States Women's Bureau. Potential dangers of these diseases, which have been before the International Labor Organization at Geneva several times, are largely unrecognized in this country, the Women's Bureau says. Occupational diseases are often difficult to recognize, especially in their early stages. They are insidious in their onset and frequently their more serious effects do not appear until a considerable time after exposure, whereas industrial injuries are immediate and definite. This makes industrial diseases the more dangerous, as often the victim is beyond aid when the trouble is recognized. The Women's Bureau makes three general recommendations for dealing with occupational diseases. The first recommendation is, of course, for preventive measures, direct efforts toward the elimination of harmful substances from manufacturing processes being urged. Where this is impracticable, provision of adequate safeguards including compulsory periodic examinations in hazardous industries is advocated. "Secondly," the bureau says, "it is recommended that occupational diseases be covered on the same basis as accidents in workmen's compensation laws. The third important step urged is complete and standardized reporting of cases of occupational disease. Until data and reports on the subject are standardized, there is no possibility of establishing a scientific basis for accident and disease prevention.

Should non-profit institutions such as hospitals be forced to pay state minimum women workers in their laundries? This issue was recently raised by some of these institutions, particularly a small group of New York City hospitals which plead both poverty and extensive "charitable work" as justification for pay-ing a substantial wage to their laundry workers. However, the State Division of Women in Industry and Minimum Wage holds definitely to the opinion that all women and minor laundry employes. wherever employed, come under the terms of the law. It was pointed out, in connection with this incident, that substandard earnings increase the demand for the type of "charitable work" carried on by these institutions.

Charles G. Dawes has vouched for the high moral character of Samuel Insull and Samuel's brokers. But who has vouched for the high moral character of Charles G. Dawes? A good many years ago, some Chicago politicians wanted to start a bank. They had to show a certain financial backing in order to get a state license. Dawes, head of another Chicago bank, loaned them securities which they showed as their own, and got their license. Dawes took back his securities, Lorimer opened his bank, which duly went broke-but Dawes loaned no securities to help out the depositors. Two years ago, Charles G. Dawes was head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, whose chief work at that time was to bolster up shaky banks. The Dawes bank in Chicago was then decidedly shaky. Dawes resigned from the RFC with a grand gesture—and immediately thereafter borrowed $90,000,000 from the RFC, a government institution, which he had dominated for months, and the largest single loan it has ever made. A large share of the money hasn't be paid back yet. Dawes may vouch for Insull; but who is vouching for Dawes?

asked, why not investigate Fascist activities in the United States? There are good reasons why the Congressional committee investigating un-American activities here should take up Fascist propaganda and organization, which, documentary evidence shows, has been aggressively spread by Mussolini's agents among Italians and others in schools, churches and fraternal organizations throughout America. Fascist agents even maintain a spy system and seek by boycott and other means to punish those conspicuously opposed to Mussolini's regime. Activities of Fascist agents have convinced many persons that if the Congressional committee investigates Fascist propaganda here it will realize that it is just as much a menace to American institutions as Nazism, which has already received the attention of the committee. The committee cannot make a complete report on un-American movements in this country if it leaves out Fascist activities.

Assassination is not only the wickedest but also the most stupid of political crimes, says Sir John Simon—referring to the murder of King Alexander and M. Barthou at Marseilles. Given a more general application we should consider this to be a perfectly proper sentiment; but the assassination of monarchs and ministers is not a greater crime than the murder of trade unionists and social democrats. The Marseilles tragedy is a final terrible reminder that in a crisis of political violence such as Europe is now passing through, the secret assassin and the public executioner become companions crime. In the destruction of a regim of order and law, when democratically constituted political parties have been forcibly suppressed and liberty-loving men and women have been shot down like mad dogs in the streets, or dragged from prison to face firing squads without even the pretense of trials, it is no matter for wonder-though it is for horror and alarm -that the political assassin appears on the scene. This is not written in condonation of political murder. It is one of the lessons of history that Governments which derive their authority from the consent of the governed and are dians of the institutions of free citizenship create the atmosphere in which political murder excites the moral condemnation of every citizen and human life is secure.-Labour, organ of the British Trades Union Congress.

Everyone has read how Samuel Insull, dethroned utility emperor, paid himself salaries in 1929 of $481,000 for his various corporations. Everyone knows that this amount was increased to $485,767 in 1931, the second year of the depression. few people outside the Insull range know a circumstance which makes these outrageous payments ten times more outrageous than before. that he was paying himself these absurd sums, stocks in the companies from which these salaries were drawn were being fairly rammed down the throats of Insull's employes. Practically every man with more than existence wage was dragooned into subscribing for stock in proportion to his income; and the payments taken out of his pay envelope. The worker felt that he had to subscribe or lose his job; and these compulsory payments from modest or meager earnings supplied part Walter M. Citrine, general secretary of the British Trades Union Congress, has been telling American audiences that the time was approaching when the Labor would again be called upon to take over the reins of government. Results of recent municipal elections in England, Wales and Scotland indicate that he may whereof he speaks. A sweeping Labor party triumph was scored in London and provincial towns and cities and was followed up a few days later by an impressive victory in the Scottish municipal balloting. Everything in Scotland the Laborites made marked inroads against Conservative party power. Glasgow, Motherwell and other cities were carried. In England and Wales, the Labor party gained more than 700 seats and in London will control 15 boroughs out of 28 for the next three years. The vote was hailed by Labor party leaders as evidence the party has shaken off the "sock in the nose" received in 1931. The vote was declared to show a strong trend toward the Labor party and was even heralded as forecasting victory in the next general election. British labor, through the Labor party, has twice been the British government. If the results of the municipal elections reflect popular sentiment, Labor may for a third time win control of the government and that within a year or two.

No evidence that justifies a policy of discrimination against married women teachers as a class has yet been estab lished, is the conclusion of Dr. David Wilbur Peters, after a careful study of the subject. Any blanket rule which arbitrarily eliminates any group of individuals as a class levies a high fariff on training and talent, in his opinion. In reaching these conclusions, Dr. Peters studied the records of 1.320 married women teachers and the same number of single ones with comparable backgrounds, and teaching approximately the same types of work When the ratings of the two groups were examined, the differences found were too small to be significant. Another type of comparison including such items as years in the system, number of positions held. days of absence per year, credits for different types of advanced study-again revealed slight average differences.

Remarkable Things Said

It is better to make mistakes, as I feel the United States is doing in some cases, than to sleep and do nothing.-Etienne Flandin, French Minister of Public

The idea of a real and legal partnership between workers and the other elements in the company is, it seems to me, the only alternative to the bitterness of class struggle in our industrial order. For partnership is democracy, and is the only way to social peace in industry-Charles P. Taft, 2nd.

The reorganization of industry is certainly no easy task, but it is a task which America must carry through. We may easily have differences of opinion as to the efficacy of each particular measure employed in the achievement of this great goal, but such differences of opinion do not constitute the American issue now. The issue before us is whether we shall go on with that task or abandon it, on the theory that no New Deal is neces sary.-Edward A. Filene.

Africa is the only peaceful, quiet continent, without tyrants, without dictators, without danger of revolution or war.-Guglielmo Ferrero, Historian.

BETTER HOUSING

By The Observer

A little more than a year ago the Catholic Conference on Family Life drew up the following resolution on the question of housing: "In view of the fact that hundreds of thousands of American people are living in homes that are scarcely fit for human' habitation, we urge that in the allotment of the vast sums appropriated for a public works program, due attention be given the possibilities of bettering our housing conditions through generous provisions for this purpose.

Some attention has been given the matter of better housing since those words vere written, but hardly "due" attention. When the housing division of the Public Works Administration was established, an invitation to private organizations to establish low-cost housing projects on PWA loans was broadcast. One hundred millions of dollars had been allotted for these federal housing projects. The proposition of the PWA was to lend greater part of the capital to private corporations which were to contribute about 15 per cent equity in cash or land or both. Their operations were to be subject to federal approval, and each corporation was limited in profit to 6 per cent on its own equity investment. This limited dividend experiment failed to get anywhere. Only seven projects were actually approved and only one of these has been pleted to date.

This failure led to a change of policy on the part of the Public Works Administration. Furthermore, other developments are under way that suggest that the government is now turning more and more toward a vast housing program as the outstanding feature of a gigantic public works program by which it hopes to put millions of unemployed to work in productive fields and thereby get them off of direct relief which leads nowhere,

The PWA has concluded that for the present low-cost housing would have to be undertaken as federal slum clearance and low-cost housing projects, enjoying the benefits of an outright grant of 30 per cent of the cost of labor and materials. There is now on hand $150,000,000 for this purpose-the price of three battleships, as someone has significantly remarked. Thirty-nine projects in thirtythree localities are being considered. run from $320,000 in Montgomery to $12,500,000 in Chicago.

It is highly doubtful that the PWA will stop this $150,000,000 program. Indeed, the administrator has said that he could use between $1,500,000,000 and $2,-000,000,000 for slum clearance and low cost housing in cities. Futhermore, he would like to have the present $25,000, 000 allotted for subsistence homesteads swelled to $500,000,000.

Over and above all this, there is also the program of the Federal Housing Administration—a program which is be-yord the reach of the poorest classes.

There should be no mistake in launching a mighty and thoroughly organized attack on our housing situation in this We have allowed conditions to country. exist that are a disgrace to a Christian civilization-conditions that are not only at the bottom of the misery suffered by the lower classes in modern society, but also of the constant growth of immorality, crime, and even insanity.

Communist Lies About Organized Labor

ISREPRESENTATION and falsehood are the in attack. in attacking bona fide trade unions and their executives. This well-known fact is clearly illustrated by an editorial in the "Daily Worker," the official organ Communist Party of the United States and the mouthpiece of the Communist International with headquarters in Moscow, assailing William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

In commenting on Mr. Green's suggestion that as a measure of unemployment relief the owners of industry increase output 30 per cent and apply the 30-hour week, the "Daily Worker" says: "Will this shorter work week mean a cut in weekly wages, * * * Green is silent on this aspect of the case.

The fact is that Mf. Green and the American Federation of Labor advocate the 30-hour week without reduction on weekly earnings.

In its report favoring the 30-hour week the Commit-tee on Shorter Work Day of the 1934 convention of the A. F. of L. recommended that "such reduction in labor hours should carry with it no reduction in weekly pay. In supporting this report and urging its adoption by the convention, Mr. Green said:

"We couple with our demand for the six-hour day and the five-day week a proposal that there shall be no reduction in wages to the working man who may become the beneficiary of that reform. We cannot offer a remedy and with it a supplemental proposal that would at once destroy the efficacy of We cannot propose a shorter remedy itself. work day and a shorter work week with reduced earnings, because that would destroy the buying power, and we must develop buying power to the where we can find a market for the goods which industry produces."

At the conclusion of Mr. Green's speech the convention unanimously adopted the report of the committee. Both the American Federation of Labor and Mr.

Green have long advocated the 30-hour week without reduction in weekly earnings. To say that either the A. F. of L. or Mr. Green is "silent" on this question indicates the extent to which Communists will go in their policy of wanton mendacity relative to the position of bona fide labor officials on questions of deep interest to all working men and women.

Why Have Bank Failures?

THEY do some things better abroad. Banking for instance. In the first full three years of the de-pression—1930, 1931 and 1932, 5,102 banks in the States closed their doors, tying up deposits of $428,206,000.

In the first two months and four days of 1933-that is, before the bank holiday of ten days, 420 more banks closed, and all the rest seemed on the edge of doing so.

How desperate the situation was is shown by the fact that 4,580 banks remained closed after the holiday ended. Most of these have been opened or merged with other banks since; but at this writing, nearly 400 are still unable to secure a Federal license.

But—and this is both the milk and the meat in the cocoanut-not a single bank in either Great Britain or Canada was closed in the same time.

The insurance of bank deposits has helped to bring bank failures to a very low point since it has been in effect, and has abolished the losses of depositors in the two or three banks that have failed. But why allow bank failures at all? If Canada and Great Britain can get along without bank busting, why cannot we do the

The Laird's Minstrel

VY L. LEE, known to organized labor as one of its bitterest enemies, but to the oil trust in the United States and the dye trust in Germany present help in time of trouble, is dead at the age of

In mediaeval Scotland, every self-respecting laird had his own private minstrel, to sing the laird's prowess and virtues. As the minstrel told it, it was the laird who really whipped the enemy; the clansmen just came in to gather up the spoil. It was the laird who made the clan respected and feared to the remotest glen. the minstrel did his work properly, if he earned the sardonic compliment of Bruce:

"Well hast thou framed, old man, thy strains To praise the hand that pays thy pains;

he had something to eat, a place to sleep, an important position at the gatherings, and sometimes a drink from a flagon which the laird had sampled first.

Ivy Lee was minstrel to the Laird of Standard Oil, John D. Rockefeller, Sr. Ivy Lee was a clever minstrel. He praised the hand that paid his pains with more than common skill. He took up the job when the Rockefeller controlled Colorado Fuel & Iron Co. was still stinking with the smoke and blood of the Ludlow massacre; probably the most ghastly butchery that corporation gunmen have staged in America.

He set out, under these unpleasant circumstances, to "sell Rockefeller to the American people as a Santa Claus, not as an ogre;" and to an astounding degree he succeeded. He actually staged a scene in which Mother Jones, champion and idol of the miners, shook hands with John D. Rockefeller.

When that could happen, anything could happen. Lee's oily adroitness—the pun is unavoidable—has made hosts of Americans almost reverse their opinions of Rockefeller. They see only the University of Chicago, the Rockefeller Foundation, the reservoirs of money poured out—and, as a rule, wisely poured out—in charitable projects. They think these express the real nature of the man, and not his earnest desire for spiritual fire insurance. They forget his ruthlessn his cruelty, in gathering the gold which he is belatedly scattering.

This is to a considerable extent the work of Ivy Lee It earns him high rank among the ignoble company of sycophants. He has other titles to such fame. He began publicity work with the Pennsylvania Railroad, one of the hardest-hoiled, anti-union lines of the country He spread out, as the old-time minstrel could not do; and within a few months before his death he was taking a $25,000 yearly fee from the German dye trust, and pleasantly interviewing Hitler.

Yet he will be remembered as the Laird Rockefeller's minstrel. He whitewashed the slaughter of American miners before he struck hands with the butchers of German Jews.

Out Beyond the Surf

Where thought, un-hastened by necessity or the Surf penetrates to truth.

Here, where the shallows throw no spray, let us ponder and enjoy the lessons of the art and the work and play of life.

Of course the election results are uppermost in mind almost everywhere—except where the subject is the latest move or what was in the so-called funny*pictures last night. As if the funny pictures are funny (with few exceptions).

The American people are telling themselves they marched to the left, which mostly they did.

But there are qualifications.

It will probably turn out, in the light of history, that marched against what was, rather than toward anything definite.

They marched toward a New Deal, which few, if any, outline definitely in their minds.

There is plenty of determination to kick out the old dog and get a new dog, without any really sound or final decision about what kind of a new dog it is going to be. Maybe it doesn't matter.

Today, after election, as well as just before, there is much talk to the effect that the Administration will become more conservative and more cautious.

Others say the people wouldn't stand for that,

That's wrong; the people would stand for it.

If the people had, in their own minds, a program upon which they were to any great extent really united, then they probably could not be brought to tolerate a new conservatism.

But the people have no real program. They follow the New Deal with joyous acclaim, because the New Deal stands for hope. But if New Deal leadership were to abandon the people the people would not, until a new leader should arise or until somehow they should find a way to unite on a new program, know much about where to go. Being leaderless and without program, they would stand for the new conservatism, beyond all reasonable doubt.

It is too early to say definitely that Roosevelt will turn to the right, as the politicos put it. It likewise is too early to say finally that he will not.

The balance is in favor of no turning back, but a balance is not a finality. It can be overturned.

So-called business interests have done a lot within the past year to build up their strength, notwithstanding the election.

To be candid about the election, it must be said that most of the outstanding conservatives were defeated, but the Democratic majority is by no means all progressive, though it leans heavily that way.

All of which is not by way of going gloomy, but merely by way of saying that in the long war between humanity and special privilege the die is not yet finally cast.

The die will not be cast until there is either an irrevocable position taken by a substantial group of leaders whose program meets the public requirement, or until a great section of the people themselves comes into agreement upon a program.

The weight of evidence today is that government has turned its face against the past, so far as its most glaring evils are concerned. But no final course has been shaped. That remains undone.

There may never be any final course. Perhaps none

But whether it is or is not, the point today is that too many are fooling themselves into the belief that a course has been set and that the old powers will never again rule from the throne.

Those who want to go forward have many a battle to fight, many a headache to endure.

Financial Wars Come High

INGS war, soldiers fight, and farmers pay is an old world proverb which needs little change to fit financial wars as well as international ones. In the trial of Samuel Insull at Chicago for using the mails to defraud, documents were read into the record showing that the war for supremacy between Insull and Cyrus Eaton of Cleveland cost Insull's stockholders $56,000,000.

Eaton quietly bought Insull stocks until he had enough to make him able to wage a damaging fight for control. Insull, after fighting vainly for a time, bought Eaton's stock at gross overprices, and put the $56,000, 000 required to do this on his-Insull's-companies. Forty million dollars of gold notes had to be floated to make the deal, and in the end the whole sum was lost and a great deal more with it.

The Keynote makes announcement of the death of Brother Herman W. Schme man, President of Local No. 5 of Detroit, Mich., which event occurred on Saturday September 29, 1934. The end came following an abdominal operation which he could not recover and after an illness of only a few days. Brother Schmeman was born troit, February 24, 1878. At the age of 5 he became a newsboy. His parents were people of culture, but reverses of fortune forced the boy at a very early age into the ranks of bread-earners. His first musical activities were in connection with a newsboys' band. He became a cornet player. Some time afterward he secured a free scholarship in Caton's Business College. A devoted student, he made rapid progress. He would not desert music, however, for any other line, and he was soon winning recognition as a bandmaster.

In due time Schmeman was given directional charge of the First Regiment Band and later organized a band of his In 1916 his band became the official band of Detroit. From that time forward he was a growing figure in Detroit musical affairs.

Brother Schmeman became President of Local No. 5 on April 1, 1932. He had business ideas of his own and assumed his new duties with vigor. He gave an administration which became notable for intelligent aggressiveness and a firm pur pose to safeguard the interests of all. When the end came, the Keynote, official organ of Local 5, was moved to say:

The passing of our President is a tragic loss to the Detroit Federation of Musicians. His has been a service which cannot be estimated in terms of days, or years, or of money. It was a service of a musician for the craft he loved and understood, and his contributions to the cause of music have been legion. At right is shown stroke of regular corner valve (38)(64 of an inch) only 6/64 of an inch less than this new Conn bass valve. Fully protected by U. S. Patents Pending.

ERE'S what bass players all over the nation have been clamoring for. A bass that meets the exacting present day demands of composers, arrangers and directors. A bass with an almost cornet-like action that makes solo parts miraculously easy.

See in the illustration and diagram above how Conn engineers have eliminated practically one-third of an inch from the conventional stroke—the stroke of this marvelous new bass is only 6/64 of an inch longer than that of a cornet. Then the finger tips have been arched to fit the natural position of the fingers and moved closer together. This gives the shortest, fastest, easiest valve action ever built into a bass. It's exclusive with Conn and fully protected by U.S. Patents Pending.

Intonation, response and tone quality superior to those of any bass we have ever built. Prove it to your own satisfaction. See your Conn dealer or write for full details.

Communist Lies About Organized Labor

INTERESENTATION and falsehood are the main weapons used by Communist propagandists in attacking bona fide trade unions and their This well-known fact is clearly illustrated by an editorial in the "Daily Worker," the official organ of the Communist Party of the United States and the mouthpiece of the Communist International with headquarters in Moscow, assailing William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor. In commenting on Mr. Green's suggestion that as a measure of unemployment relief the owners of industry increase output 30 per cent and apply the 30-hour week, the "Daily Worker" says: "Will this shorter work week mean a cut in weekly wages, * * * Green is silent on this aspect of the case

The fact is that Mf. Green and the American Federation of Labor advocate the 30-hour week without reduction on weekly earnings.

In its report favoring the 30-hour week the Committee on Shorter Work Day of the 1934 convention of the A. F. of L. recommended that "such reduction in labor hours should carry with it no reduction in weekly pay. In supporting this report and urging its adoption by the convention, Mr. Green said:

"We couple with our demand for the six-hour day and the five-day week a proposal that there shall be no reduction in wages to the working man who may become the beneficiary of that reform. We cannot offer a remedy and with it a supplemental proposal that would at once destroy the efficacy of the remedy itself. We cannot propose a shorter work day and a shorter work week with reduced earnings, because that would destroy the buying power, and we must develop buying power to the point where we can find a market for the goods which industry produces.'

At the conclusion of Mr. Green's speech the convenn unanimously adopted the report of the committee. Both the American Federation of Labor and Mr. Green have long advocated the 30-hour week without reduction in weekly earnings. To say that either the A. F. of L. or Mr. Green is "silent" on this question indicates the extent to which Communists will go in their policy of wanton mendacity relative to the position of bona fide labor officials on questions of deep interest to all working men and women.

Why Have Bank Failures?

THEY do some things better abroad. Banking for instance. In the first full three years of the depression-1930, 1931 and 1932, 5,102 banks in the United States closed their doors, tying up deposits of $428,206,000.

In the first two months and four days of 1933is, before the bank holiday of ten days, 420 more banks closed, and all the rest seemed on the edge of doing so.

How desperate the situation was is shown by the fact that 4,580 banks remained closed after the holiday ended. Most of these have been opened or merged with other banks since; but at this writing, nearly 400 are still unable to secure a Federal license.

But-and this is both the milk and the meat in the coanut-not a single bank in either Great Britain or Canada was closed in the same time.

insurance of bank deposits has helped to bring bank failures to a very low point since it has been in effect, and has abolished the losses of depositors in the two or three banks that have failed. But why allow bank failures at all? If Canada and Great Britain can get along without bank busting, why cannot we do the

VY L. LEE, known to organized labor as one of its bitterest enemies, but to the oil trust in the United States and the dye trust in Germany as a very present help in time of trouble, is dead at the age of

In mediaeval Scotland, every self-respecting laird had his own private minstrel, to sing the laird's prowess and virtues. As the minstrel told it, it was the laird who really whipped the enemy; the clansmen just came in to gather up the spoil. It was the laird who made the clan respected and feared to the remotest glen. the minstrel did his work properly, if he earned the sardonic compliment of Bruce:

"Well hast thou framed, old man, thy strains To praise the hand that pays thy pains;

he had something to eat, a place to sleep, an important position at the gatherings, and sometimes a drink from a flagon which the laird had sampled first.

Ivy Lee was minstrel to the Laird of Standard Oil, John D. Rockefeller, Sr. Ivy Lee was a clever minstrel. He praised the hand that paid his pains with more than common skill. He took up the job when the Rockefeller controlled Colorado Fuel & Iron Co. was still stinking with the smoke and blood of the Ludlow massacre; probably the most ghastly butchery that corporation gunmen have staged in America.

He set out, under these unpleasant circumstances, to "sell Rockefeller to the American people as a Santa Claus, not as an ogre;" and to an astounding degree he succeeded. He actually staged a scene in which Mother Jones, champion and idol of the miners, shook hands with John D. Rockefeller.

When that could happen, anything could happen. Lee's oily adroitness-the pun is unavoidable-has made hosts of Americans almost reverse their opinions of Rockefeller. They see only the University of Chicago, the Rockefeller Foundation, the reservoirs of money poured out-and, as a rule, wisely poured out-in charitable projects. They think these express the real nature of the man, and not his earnest desire for spiritual fire insurance. They forget his ruthlessness, his cruelty, in gathering the gold which he is belatedly scattering.

This is to a considerable extent the work of Ivy Lee. It earns him high rank among the ignoble company of sycophants. He has other titles to such fame. He began publicity work with the Pennsylvania Railroad, one of the hardest-boiled, anti-union lines of the country. He spread out, as the old-time minstrel could not do; and within a few months before his death he was taking a $25,000 yearly fee from the German dye trust, and pleasantly interviewing Hitler.

Yet he will be remembered as the Laird Rockefeller's minstrel. He whitewashed the slaughter of American miners before he struck hands with the butchers of German Jews.

Out Beyond the Surf

Where thought, un-hastened by necessity or the Surf penetrates to truth.

Here, where the shallows throw no spray, let us ponder and enjoy the lessons of the art and the work and play of life.

Of course the election results are uppermost in mind almost everywhere—except where the subject is the latest move or what was in the so-called funny*pictures As if the funny pictures are funny (with few exceptions).

The American people are telling themselves they marched to the left, which mostly they did.

But there are qualifications.

It will probably turn out, in the light of history, that they marched against what was, rather than toward anything definite.

They marched toward a New Deal, which few, if any, outline definitely in their minds.

There is plenty of determination to kick out the old dog and get a new dog, without any really sound or final decision about what kind of a new dog it is going to be. Maybe it doesn't matter.

Today, after election, as well as just before, there is much talk to the effect that the Administration will become more conservative and more cautious.

Others say the people wouldn't stand for that.

That's wrong: the people would stand for it.

If the people had, in their own minds, a program upon which they were to any great extent really united, then they probably could not be brought to tolerate a new conservatism.

But the people have no real program. They follow the New Deal with joyous acclaim, because the New Deal stands for hope. But if New Deal leadership were to abandon the people the people would not, until a new leader should arise or until somehow they should find a way to unite on a new program, know much about where to go. Being leaderless and without program, they would stand for the new conservatism, beyond all reasonable doubt.

It is too early to say definitely that Roosevelt will turn to the right, as the politicos put it. It likewise is too early to say finally that he will not.

The balance is in favor of no turning back, but a balance is not a finality. It can be overturned.

So-called business interests have done a lot within the past year to build up their strength, notwithstanding the election.

To be candid about the election, it must be said that most of the outstanding conservatives were defeated, but the Democratic majority is by no means all progressive, though it leans heavily that way.

All of which is not by way of going gloomy, but merely by way of saying that in the long war between humanity and special privilege the die is not yet finally

The die will not be cast until there is either an irrevocable position taken by a substantial group of leaders whose program meets the public requirement, or until a great section of the people themselves comes into agreement upon a program.

The weight of evidence today is that government has turned its face against the past, so far as its most glaring evils are concerned. But no final course has been shaped. That remains undone.

There may never be any final course. Perhaps none

But whether it is or is not, the point today is that too many are fooling themselves into the belief that a course has been set and that the old powers will never again rule from the throne.

Those who want to go forward have many a battle to fight, many a headache to endure.

Financial Wars Come High

INGS war, soldiers fight, and farmers pay is an old world proverb which needs little change to fit financial wars as well as international ones. In the trial of Samuel Insull at Chicago for using the mails to defraud, documents were read into the record showing that the war for supremacy between Insull and Eaton of Cleveland cost Insull's stockholders $56,000,000.

Eaton quietly bought Insull stocks until he had enough to make him able to wage a damaging fight for control. Insull, after fighting vainly for a time, bought Eaton's stock at gross overprices, and put the $56,000, 000 required to do this on his-Insull's-companies. Forty million dollars of gold notes had to be floated to make the deal, and in the end the whole sum was lost and a great deal more with it.

Financial kings fight, and consumers and investors

OVER FEDERATION FIELD

(BY CHAUNCEY A. WEAVER)

The Keynote makes announcement of the death of Brother Herman W. Schmeman, President of Local No. 5 of Detroit, Mich., which event occurred on Saturday evening, September 29, 1934. The end came following an abdominal operation from which he could not recover and after an illness of only a few days.

Brother Schmeman was born in Detroit, February 24, 1878. At the age of 5 he became a newsboy. His parents were people of culture, but reverses of fortune forced the boy at a very early age into the ranks of bread-earners. His first musical activities were in connection with a newsboys' band. He became a cornet player. Some time afterward he secured a free scholarship in Caton's Business College. A devoted student, he made rapid progress. He would not desert music, however, for any other line, and was soon winning recognition as a handmaster.

In due time Schmeman was given directional charge of the First Regiment Band and later organized a band of his own. In 1916 his band became the official band of Detroit. From that time forward he was a growing figure in Detroit musical affairs.

Brother Schmeman became President of Local No. 5 on April 1, 1932. He had business ideas of his own and assumed his new duties with vigor. He gave an administration which became notable for intelligent aggressiveness and a firm purto safeguard the interests of all. When the end came, the Keynote, official organ of Local 5, was moved to say:

organ of Local b, was moved to bay.

The passing of our President is a tragic loss to the Detroit Federation of Musiclans. His has been a service which cannot be estimated in terms of days, or years, or of money. It was a service of a musiclan for the craft he loved and understood, and his contributions to the cause of music have been legion. At the last rites held in the Scottish Rite Cathedral of Masonic Temple, were representatives of three groups with which President Schmeman had been closely identified more than a quarter of a century. These were Detroit Commandery, No. 1, Knights of Templar; the Old Newsboys' Astron. were Detroit Commandery, No of Templar; the Old Newsboys' n, and the Detroit Federation

STROKE CUT ONE-THIRD INCH

On left is shown stroke of conventional valve of large bore bass 63/64 of an inch). Center shows stroke of the new Conn short-action valve—44/64 of an inch, or nearly one-third less. At right is shown stroke of regular corner valve (38/64 of an inch) only 6/64 of an inch less than this new Conn bass valve. Fully protected by U. S. Patents Pending.

ERE'S what bass players all over the nation have been clamoring for. A bass that meets the exacting present day demands of composers, arrangers and directors. A bass with an almost cornet-like action that makes solo parts miraculously easy.

See in the illustration and diagram above how Conn engineers have eliminated practically one-third of an inch from the conventional stroke—the stroke of this marvelous new bass is only 6/64 of an inch longer than that of a cornet. Then the finger tips have been arched to fit the natural position of the fingers and moved closer together. This gives the shortest, fastest, easiest valve action ever built into a bass. It's exclusive with Conn and fully protected by U. S. Patents Pending.

Intonation, response and tone quality superior to those of any bass we have ever built. Prove it to your own satisfaction. See your Conn dealer or write for full details.

Local 174, New Orleans, is the sponsor of a movement which will be watched with great interest. It is the establish ment and maintenance of a Musicians' Recreation Home at Mandeville, in that A recent social function was an entertainment for Frankie Masters and his orchestra, who have taken great interest in the home and been very generous in the matter of helping to place the institution on a solid foundation.

The home, which is owned by Local 174, is the climax of many years of plan-It is the mental offspring of our old friend, G. Pipitone, President of the Local for several years, and is designed as a haven for sick and disabled musi-Like all worthy enterprises, it was at first misunderstood. As an example of the obstacles some sought cast in the way, the story was circulated that the home was to be a sort of incubating station for the hatching of new with which to combat canned music. The promoters of the affair, however, prepared to lay their case before the public. A theatre was rented and a show presented with talent entirely from the ranks of musicians, night club en-tertainers and other kindred sources. The box office was a complete sell out, the show went over big and a substantial profit was realized. Since that original venture the managers have manifested an entire change of front, have come forward with offers of vaudeville acts free of charge, and from other quarters a keen interest has been indicated which has insured the success of the enterprise as a permanent local institution. Recreation Home has been incorporated and owns a plot of ground 150 by 180 feet. The grounds are rich in oaks, pecan, fig trees and shrubbery, are located in a section of Louisiana noted for its wholesome atmosphere and particularly free from tubercular troubles. The locality has its own spring water and is but half a square from the beach on the north of Lake Ponchartrain, 56 miles from New Orleans by paved highway. A large cottage has been constructed in a way that other additions may be easily made. Local 174 has taken great interest and pride in this home and it may be said that they have put forth a hu manitarian effort highly to their credit.

Unique exercises of the imagination are always interesting. Somewhere along the line of our recent Western trip we saw a saloon named "Paradise."

What did you think of the national election returns? We felt much the same way.

Flying is getting so easy Australia may soon be putting in a bid for a national musicians' convention.

Many Locals are reporting increased membership. Another prosperity symptom.

It is believed that Old Man Depression has at least one foot in the grave.

Although 75 at the time of his passing, he had been active up until a month of his demise. He was a fine cornetist and violinist and had member ship in the Opera House Orchestra. He had served as organist for various churches of the Lutheran denomination and was in frequent demand as a vocal-ist—especially at funerals. The final rites were largely attended and the many floral offerings bore testimony to the high esteem in which he was held. Brother Wagner had attended many national conventions of the American Federation of Musicians, and will be widely and kindly remembered. As a result of Brother Wag-ner's death, Local 379 has selected Kenneth E. Brader, Secretary, and Stanley

As the San Francisco Labor Convention drew to its close, and the delightful weather which had prevailed gave promise of vindicating the finest autumnal traditions, we responded to the urge to indulge in a more circuitous route home. Accordingly we left the Golden Gate City on Sunday afternoon at 4 P. No visit to the great Northwest is complete which does not include Seattle and, consequently. I improved my second opportunity to do so. Rapidly approaching the half-million population point, the second largest seaport of the Pacific States, spread all over the eastern hilly shore of Puget Sound, one wonders at the lack of faith which the statesmen of three-quarters of a century ago manifested when ever the subject of far-west development was broached. In the romantic story of northwestern upbuilding, Seattle holds a commanding place. Cozily nestling in a home of its own, at 2025 Fourth Avenue, may be found the headquarters of Local After climbing several hills and

The board was in session and it was a busy one. There was not much time for visiting, aside from a conference in which it was made plain that the members up there have their problems and are facing them with a courage which points unerringly toward

When you visit Seattle try the upper stories of some of the tall buildings and get an eyefull of scenery which it would be difficult to duplicate anywhere on the face of the earth.

The ideal travel service between Seattle and Vancouver, B. C., is by Canadian One is never out of sight of land. You leave at 9:00 in the morning and arrive in the evening at 7:30-one half hour earlier in the midsummer months when a trifle faster speed is maintained. Snow-capped mountains within the range of visibility on the east and on the west. An unforgetable sunset Gleaming rays across massive hour! clouds, shining mountain tops, and over dancing waves. Passengers viewing the scene in silence-as though it were a profanation to speak. At 4:00 o'clock the little white boats appear—every one manned by an Oriental fishing for sal-We saw enough and heard enough to realize that the West and Northwest has a racial controversy of its own, and the mutterings of dissatisfaction indicate that some day another storm may break.

At Vancouver, B. C., we revisted scenes and renewed some acquaintances reviving memories of the Labor convention held there in 1931. Vancouver is a beautiful and rapidly growing city and the rapid expansion of all lines of industry in that territory mean much to her. It is the home of Local 145. Brothers J. Bowyer and Edward A. Jamieson are still President and Secretary. To Secretary Jamieson we are indebted for our first opportunity to contact a real ocean steamship. It was the Empress of Japan-said to be the largest and fastest liner operating between North America and the Orient. She has a gross registered tonnage of 26,000 and a displacement tonnage of 39,000. We saw the ship's crew in their daily fire drill—every mother's son of them a Chinaman. The lifeboats were lowered for our special edification to show what happens during a sea disaster. Each lifeboat accommodates about eighty passengers and each individual is given an allowance of two pounds of biscuit, two pounds of water and two pounds of milk, which items of food are expected to constitute your rations until such time as you may chance to reach a harbor of safety. This steamship is a floating palace. It must be seen to be appreciated. To one born inland and living on prairies, where even the rivers run low in midsummer, even one hour's inspection was an experience very properly classified among "the thrills which come once in a lifetime." Incidentally, let is be stated that the Empress of Japan orchestra is furnished by Local 145.

And, finally, homeward bound through the Canadian Rockies, and over the Canadian Pacific. It does not look so far on the map and yet three nights on a sleeper are necessary to span the distance be-tween Vancouver and St. Paul and then 270 miles more to Des Moines. The Rocky Mountains are noted for their scenic beauty throughout the world, but the Canadian Rockies have a splendor and attractiveness all their own.

There are many suspicious souls in the world; some of them within our own ranks. There will doubtless be those to wonder if my circuitous route home from the San Francisco Labor Convention cost the Federation extra money. No, my skeptical brother, I paid the additional expense out of my own private funds.

Since my last contribution to THE IN-FERNATIONAL MUSICIAN, the national election has been held, and the New Deal, whatever that, is, has been given electoral approval. It is very evident that we are living in times of change, new moods, radical realignments. In 1932 the pro-New Deal vote was 22,800,000; this year it was 14,000,000—a slumping off of between eight and nine million votes. Two years ago the anti-New Deal vote was 15,700,- 000: Thes the o man ing force 000: this year it was 11,000,000-a falling off of between four and five million. These figures constitute the basic foundation upon which much speculation during the coming two years will be predicated. The most hopeful sign for the average man is that his cause is receiving a growing consideration at the hands of the forces most potent in shaping national destiny. Whether the full realization of his dreams is near or far it would be hazardous to predict. Politics is a great game and it is ever being played by mas-ters of the art. Nevertheless, public opinion is still a positive force, and as thoughts of men are widened with the process of the suns," there is reason to believe that as elements are at work through one party or another, or an admixture of various parties, the world, or this part of it, will be made a better place in which to live. May this thought, which is the lesson of an advancing universe, bring an additional touch of radiance to the holiday season, which is hastening on. Another year-another mile!

This way the human pathway lies; So press we onward with a smile: Ah, who would have it otherwise?

LABOR JOINS TO CELEBRATE THE PRESIDENT'S BIRTHDAY

Labor will again join in celebrating the President's birthday on January 30

On that day there will be a birthday ball in every American community, the proceeds again to go into the great nacampaign against infantile paralvsis.

President William Green of the American Federation of Labor has accepted an invitation to serve on the National Committee and to organize a National Labor Committee. He has asked Matthew Woll, A. F. of L. vice-president, to serve as secretary of that committee.

This week invitations were extended to international union presidents and ecretaries to serve as members of the National Labor Committee.

Proceeds of the birthday balls this year will be divided between communities and the nation. Seventy per cent will remain in the community where raised, while 30 per cent will go into a national research fund to be expended under direction of the President to find a cure for the infantile paralysis scourge. Thus all suf-ferers will benefit. None of the proceeds will go to the Warm Springs Foundation.

Labor's participation in last year's celebration drew warm praise from every section and it is the purpose of the officers of the National Labor Committee to beat last year's performance

In responding to the invitation of Henry L. Doherty, chairman of the National Committee, President Green said he accepted with the greatest of pleasure the invitation to serve as chief of labor's committee and to be a member of the National Roosevelt President Committee. nounced his approval of the plan at Warm Springs, accepting Mr. Doherty's offer to again head the national celebration movement. Labor headquarters for the celebration will be at 609 Carpenters' Building, Washington, D. C., where Secretary Woll has established offices. All communications regarding the birthday ball should be sent to Mr. Woll at that ad-

President Green said in his wire to Col. Doherty:

"I accept your invitation to serve as member of the National Committee to serve in collecting funds at the birthday balls given in different cities and towns throughout the nation for the President's funds for the relief of infantile paralysis sufferers. Along with you and your associates on the committee, I am happy to serve in the promotion of such a worthy cause and such a commendable enterprise. Please rely upon labor everywhere to co-operate to the fullest extent and to serve in every possible way in making this year's birthday celebration to the President a complete success."

COURTS BOTH MOVE

Thirty years ago, dissenting from a verdict of the United States Supreme Court which declared unconstitutional the New York law limiting the hours of work in bakeries, Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes indulged himself in a bit of sarcasm.

"The Fourteenth Amendment," he said, "does not enact Mr. Herbert Spencer's 'Social Statics'." But in substance and effect, that is about what a majority of the Court held the Constitution did. They held that the "liberty" guaranteed to the citizen by this amendment included the liberty to work as long hours as the boss desired.

The other day, Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo, upholding the New York law fixing minimum prices of milk, also went back to this part of the Constitution.

'The Fourteenth Amendment," said Cardozo, "does not protect a business against the hazards of competition." And the Court was unanimous in supporting this view.

Those two references to the Fourteenth Amendment, thirty years apart, mark a revolution in legal and judicial habits of

FEDERAL WORKERS START DRIVE FOR HIGHER PAY

Criticize Delay Until July in Restoring Salary Cut and Declare Justice Calls for Substantial Pay Increases.

WASHINGTON, D. C .- Announcement by President Roosevelt that the next Federal budget would provide for restoration on July 1, 1935, of the 5 per cent pay cut was criticised by organized Federal workers, who declared they would press for alary increases all along the line.

Disappointment was expressed by spokesmen of the Federal workers because the President's announcement failed to assure restoration of the pay cut on January 1, when the next six-month pay adjustment period under the economy act falls due.

The President said he expected the price level to rise sufficiently before July 1 to justify full restoration of pay to Federal workers. He indicated he did not believe the increases would be evident soon enough to justify restoring the pay cut by January 1.

Following the White House announce ment, made at a press conference, E. Claude Babcock, President of the American Federation of Federal Employes, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, criticised the Labor Department formula for arriving at the living cost index, which is the determining factor in restoration of Federal workers' pay.

"I think Labor Department statisticians will admit that it is not a fair "A reliable picmethod," Babcock said. ture of prices today will show that full restoration is more than warranted.

"As these prices advance, it amounts to a further pay cut for Federal employes, who have to pay that much more out of their pocket for everyday expenses. Only a substantial salary increase will help remedy that injustice."

President Babcock said his organization will work for new pay increases. He said workers not only will ask for 15 per cent increases in all grades, but where this raise falls between existing grades, the salary would be lifted to the next highest established level, so as not to upset unduly the present system of classification.

Commenting on President Roosevelt's announcement, the National Federation of Post Office Clerks said in a special bulletin:

"Hope of restoration of the remaining 5 per cent wage deduction on January 1 received a severe setback when the President is quoted as having informed a press conference that there was no possibility of bringing salaries up to their normal standards on January 1 through show ing of cost of living figures. This statement was said to have been made prior to the receipt of any advance figures from the Bureau of Labor statistics.

"The President did confirm reports cur rent in Washington for several days that the Budget Bureau at his direction had instructed the different department heads to include sums sufficient for restoration of the remaining 5 per cent deduction in the estimates for the next fiscal year. This information means that government workers must await for relief until July It is graphic confirmation of the position of the National Federation of Post Office Clerks and of its affiliated organizations as to the injustice and ineffiof using so-called comparative costs of commodities as a measuring stick for wages. It will be remembered that the American Federation of Labor conventions at Washington and San Francisco (recently adjourned) issued emphatic declarations against this system of setting wages."

BIG BUSINESS TO HOLD WORLD CONFERENCE ON WORLD RECOVERY

Chicago-175 N. Michigan Ave. Los Angeles-1101 S. Main St.

International Chamber of Commerce to Sponsor Paris Meeting in June, at Which Thirty Different Countries Will be Represented.

WASHINGTON. - American business men have been asked by the International of Commerce to state their views as to practical international steps that can be taken to accelerate world trade recovery.

The request, made by Thomas J. Watson of New York. Chairman of the Chamber, was sent out widely in a letter announcing plans for a world conference of business men to be held next June in Paris under the auspices of the International Chamber. Mr. Watson's letter was accompanied by a tentative draft of an agenda proposed by a preparatory committee.

Action similar to the American is being taken by the chairman of the national committees in thirty other countries connected with the International Chamber.

Preliminary plans for the conference, the general subject of which will be "The Revival of World Trade," were announced here by the American Section of the Chamber. Upwards of a 1,000 leaders of trade, industry and finance are expected to participate in the deliberations.

Preparation for American participation in the conference will be under the direct tion of Mr. Watson, who is President of the International Business Machines Corporation. Associated with him will be Owen D. Young, Chairman of the Board, General Electric Company; Henry I. Har-riman, President, Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and Eliot Wadsworth, American Vice-President of the In ternational Chamber, and President of the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

Under the four main topics proposed to form a basis for discussion of trade revival, the preparatory committee has outlined a wide range of related ques-

As part of the preparatory work for the conference, the Paris headquarters of the Chamber has requested the various national committees to prepare reports on leading work trade problems for the consideration of the delegates.

The man began to handle over the lot and pick out the big ones.

"Here, you can't do that," said the clerk. "You're taking the biggest eggs."

"Sure I am," answered the man. "That's the way to tell black hens' eggs.

EBBING TIDE OF BRITAIN'S TRADE UNIONISM TURNS

Organization Membership Is Once More Rising With This Year's Improvement in Trade and Industry.

By HERBERT TRACY

The usual gloating headlines in the newspapers marked the publication of official statistics regarding British trade union membership in 1933. Figures appearing in the current issue of the Ministry of Labor Gazette, based on returns made to the Chief Registrar of Friendly Societies, show a fall of 56,000 in the aggregate membership of all the unions in Britain and Northern Ireland.

This is a decline of no more than 1.3 per cent over the previous year.

Economic conditions were, of course, entirely adverse to the growth of trade unionism in 1933. With the improvement in trade and industry which began at the end of the year, a definite rise in union membership is taking place. As the Trades Union Congress General Council explained in its annual report to the Congress at Weymouth in September, an upward movement began in the last quarter of the Congress year. Many unions are putting on membership at the rate of thousands per month.

Illustrative of the turn of the tide are the following figures, gathered from the most recent reports of certain unions: the National Union of General and Municipal Workers record an increase of 14,000; the Painters and Decorators, 1,000; the Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen, 900; the Amalgamated Engineering Union, a monthly net increase of about 1,000 since the beginning of the present year. Blast-furnacemen, printers, butchers, foundry workers, constructional engineers, shop assistants, distributive workers, and clerks are also in the list of unions whose membership is on the upgrade.

The Chief Registrar's returns for 1933 show that there were in existence at the end of the year, 1,063 unions, with an aggregate membership of 4,383,000, as compared with 4,439,000 at the end of the previous year.

Largest Losses in Cotton

The largest numerical decrease, amounting to nearly 24,000, took place in the cotton manufacturing group. Membership in the railway service group declined by 17,000; the unions in the engineering, iron-founding and shipbuilding group lost nearly 13,000; and there was a fall totalling about 15,000 in the five groups representing building, public works contracting, etc.

But the returns also show that even in 1933 some groups of unions were adding substantially to their membership. There was, for instance, an increase of over 20,000 in the field of organization represented by national and local government employment, a rise of nearly 5 per cent. Unions in the metals, machines and vehicle building group increased their membership by over 9 per cent; there was a 3 per cent increase in the flax and jute; and similar increases are reflected in the figures relating to organization in the groups under commerce, finance and distribution.

Membership Gains Over 1913

Total membership is greater than in any year before the war. Membership statistics during the war were inflated by the enrollment of new entrants to industry who took the place of men on active service, the great majority of whom, of course, retained their union membership. Nominally membership was doubled during the war years, but the reflux of war workers in the post-war years, reflected in an almost continuous yearly decrease, has not affected the real strength and solidity of the trade union movement.

In comparison with 1913, the total membership is larger by nearly 250,000. This is entirely due to better organization among women workers: there were nearly 300,000 more women in the unions in 1933 than in 1913, and this growth of trade unionism among women more than offset the slight fall shown in the male membership of the unions as between 1913 and 1933.

NATION-WIDE WAR ON CRIME NOW IN PROGRESS

A nation-wide campaign is now in progress with the goal established as eventual elimination of the unprecedented crime wave that has swept the country with increased intensity during the last several years.

Civic bodies everywhere, as well as fraternal and professional organizations, have given particular attention to the subject of elimination of crime, but while police and Department of Justice agents have apprehended many vicious criminals, each day sees additional crimes reported in glaring headlines.

One solution of this nationally important subject, as a means of materially reducing, if not entirely eliminating crime, is to eliminate unemployment.

It is not to be construed that unemployment justifies criminal action of any kind by unemployed workers, but we are forced to realize that hungry men are actuated by instinct rather than by logical reasoning.

It is obvious that in a land of plenty, with surpluses of the necessities of life, that among millions of destitute unemployed workers, desperately in need of the bare necessities of life, sooner or later some of these otherwise law respecting, law abiding people, are going to violate the law by taking that which they require to maintain themselves and their dependents.

National adoption of a uniform thirtyhour work week would materially reduce unemployment by providing work for several millions of those who are now unemployed, and in an effort to abolish crime, it is reasonable to assume that this would be an effective step toward the objective which has been designed by American institutions—that is a law abiding Nation.

Dishonesty is not a characteristic of the average American citizen, but to many, it undoubtedly appears that the abundance of products of all kinds should not be monopolized by a comparatively small minority, while millions of their fellow countrymen are actually experiencing the pangs of hunger.

Crime does not pay, and it can be materially reduced by the upbuilding of a more charitable attitude on the part of these who control employment, and through this control exercise the authority to decide when their fellow men may or may not provide their dependents with the goods, services, and commodities necessary to meet the requirements of our American standards.

Consider Cigarette Wages

Washington — The National Recovery Administration has drafted proposed wages and hours for the highly centralized cigarette industry, which have been under consideration in conferences here. The revised section of the code applying to cigarette workers provides for a 36-hour work week and sets minimum wages for various workers in different divisions of the industry.

World Employment Figures

The International Labor Office has just released a statement on world employment, showing that Sweden is the only country making steady gains, re-employment lagging elsewhere.

Although unemployment throughout the world decreased 3,000,000 during the year ending last August, there are still 19,000,000 workers out of jobs, representing a population of more than 75,000,000.

WHAT THE PEOPLE GIVE, THEY CAN TAKE AWAY

"Rights" Granted to Corporations Might Be Withdrawn If These Artificial Legal Beings Refuse to Recognize Collective Bargaining.

By W. I. NEWMAN

A corporation isn't anything, really. It is just a legal fiction. The evidence of its existence is not anything corporal. You prove there is such a thing by producing a piece of paper with some scrolls and seals on it.

Before corporations were created by law, those who wanted to use their capital investments collectively formed partnerships. In a partnership, every member could make contracts which would be binding on all the partners; and every member was liable for all the debts of the partnership. Individual contracts, and individual liability, were the weak points of the partnership form of collective bargaining for investors of capital.

To meet this difficulty, an artificial, legal, person was invented, having certain of the qualities and functions of the investors, limited by the law to the powers created in its charter. This corporation thing is not human, but it has some of the attributes under the law and with respect to property, which every citizen has.

Acts For Members

The corporation acts for its members—stockholders—only through its chosen representatives—its agents and officers. These must act within the legal provisions concerning the corporation, or their acts are null and void so far as the corporation is concerned. They are "ultra vires," which means, beyond the powers of the corporation. That is how far the law goes in protecting the collective bargaining of investors.

gaining of investors.

Each stockholder is liable only up to the amount of his obligation to the corporation—his subscription for shares of stock. Behind the mask of the corporation is a perfect hiding place for the individual investor. He has a personal interest only in the—dividends. All the acts of the corporation are in its collective capacity, as the receipts of the individual investments. The investor assists in the selection of officers and agents. They do the bargaining, for the corporation.

Exist by Consent of People

This legal fiction—the corporation—comes into existence, it is treated as a real thing, by virtue of a law. But the law exists by the consent of the people. If the corporation has any rights, whatever rights it has are by sufferance of the people. In the last analysis, law is controlled by the people—at least in this country. If that were not true, there would have been no National Industrial Recovery Act.

Among the various bargains which these corporation managers make are the agreements made with those offering their personal efforts for sale, whose labor, is necessary for carrying on the business of the corporation. And one of the curiosities of modern business is this: Some of these agents of corporations, acting for from three to three thousand stockholders, collectively, are insisting that those who sell their personal services each make an individual bargain with the corporation. They are doing everything in their power to prevent this particular kind of bargaining from being done collectively on behalf of those who sell their labor power. There are just enough of these antediluvian hangovers so that they muddy the whole stream of business dealings.

Trying Dangerous Game

But there are only about four million individuals—judging by income tax returns—who are interested in these collective bargains for corporations, while there are at least 40 millions who are more or less interested in collective bargaining for the workers. So that when you think about the law, and the people who make the law, it becomes plain that these corporations are skating on pretty thin ice in trying to dictate to 40 million people what is to be done by these corporations.

A legal right which the people refuse to recognize will not be worth very much in the stock market. It is quite essential that the people have an opportunity to get a living. If the people should discover that the corporations are interfering with that opportunity—well—there are several things they could do. Laugh that off.

There were 8,550,284 workers in industry that year. Which means that these workers dug up—

An average of $825 each worker— Added at least that much value to their products—

By work which produced added values.

Without that work—

Neither interest nor dividends could have

Every grocery man adds enough to his prices-

To cover cost of merchandise, Rent, wages, interest and insurance— And taxes—

Otherwise—he goes out of business.
There are about 29 million families—
For whom no income tax statements are ever filed—

And who have no income tax receipts. But these families—

And the purchasing power which they are permitted to control—

And candlestick maker—
(That means the electric light company,

As well as for the landlord and banker.

It has been said that those must pay the taxes who have the money.

That is why—if you spend $1 for gasoline You pay from two cents to seven cents for tax,per gallon—

Taxes for schools we can understand; Taxes for streets—and highways—

Money to pay for police, and sheriffs— Money for the salaries of judges— And juries.

Salaries for congressmen, and presidents; And their secretaries and stenographers— Taxes after a while to pay bonds issued for the FERA—

All of this we can see—and get some benefit of—

They represent services—and some graft. But what do we get for that $825 average per year, per worker—

Which we dig out of Mother Earth and the raw material—

For interest and dividends?

Working at 82

Columbus, Ohio—Still able to lay bricks at the rate of 500 or more a day, although 82 years of age, Frank Leezer, old-time union bricklayer scoffs at the idea of retiring. He started working at the trade when 13 years old and will soon round out 70 years of active service.

Boston Butchers Strike

Boston, Mass.—Fifteen hundred union meat cutters and butcher workmen on strike here, asking slight changes in wages and hours, which were refused by employers, have effectively closed at least sixty large shops. A complete tie-up is threatened, unless reasonable demands of the workers are met by employers.

Unionists on Board

Tucson, Ariz.—It is announced that H. M. Watson, prominent union carpenter of Prescott, and Frank Brown, former organizer for the Western Federation of Miners and long active in Maricopa County, have accepted appointments to membership on the Regional Labor Board here.

Free Rides For the Blind

Seattle, Wash.—With the backing of union labor, a bill has been introduced in City Council here, providing that all residents of Seattle who are blind shall be carried free on the city's street cars and busses. Sponsors say no opposition to the proposed ordinance has developed.

Oil Men Reinstated

Washington — The Petroleum Labor Policy Board rendered a decision November 12, ordering immediate reinstatement of ten men discharged by the Continental Oil Company of Hominy, Okla. It was found that the men had been let out because of union affiliation, in an endeavor to destroy the union and render ineffectual employes' rights of organization.

Clerical Men Get Raise

San Francisco, Calif. — The National Longshoremen's Board, set up at the time of the recent strike, has announced a decision granting Pacific Coast clerks and checkers wage increases varying from 5 to 27½ cents an hour, with higher rates for time worked over eight hours a day. The award affects several Pacific ports and involves at least 1,100 men.

Farmers Down Again

Washington—Lo, the poor farmer! He's getting his bumps along with wage-earners. According to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, latest figures available from the Bureau of Agriculture Economics show a decline of three points in the farm price index, along with a decline of three points in purchasing power. Based on 100 for the five-year period, 1909-1914, the present farmers' purchasing power figure is only 79.

FERA Medical Director

Washington — Harry L. Hopkins, administrator of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration, has announced the appointment of Dr. Clifford E. Waller as medical director for the FERA. Dr. Waller was formerly assistant surgeon general in charge of the State Relations Division of the Bureau of Public Health. His duties will include directing both the policies and activities of the FERA in the field of medical relief to the great army of the needy this winter.

Elevator Operators Strike

New York—A strike of elevator operators in the garment center here, which may spread extensively, has shown members of the Real Estate Board and others who have persistently refused to grant them necessary minimum standards in wages and hours, that the men are really organized and capable of putting up a stiff fight. The elevator workers seek establishment of an 8-hour day, with a minimum weekly wage of $25. Attempted importation of strikebreakers has caused sporadic confusion at times, but it is believed the Building Service Employes' Union is strong enough to win out.

COMMUNISM

(At the San Francisco Labor Convention October, 1934), the debate was upon a Resolution introduced by communistic member seeking official recognition in the America Federation of Labor. Delegate Chauncey A Weaver of Des Moines, lowa, of the America Federation of Musicians, opposed the Resolution in the following address):

MR. PRESIDENT AND DELEGATES:

I am usually quite content to listen to other voices. But the subject-matter of the pending resolution raises an issue over which I have long felt deep concern. I, therefore, ask your indulgence for opportunity in which to voice a few personal convictions.

The press dispatches, both yesterday and today, have cast an ominous flare across the international sky. The fanatical political assassin is still plying his trade. Probably in every so-called civilized nation in the world there are anxious hearts propounding the query—what will the morrow bring forth!

We are not in position to point the finger of scorn at other nations because of what is going on in these tragic days elsewhere. Three Presidents of the United States have been murdered; two other Presidents have narrowly escaped bullets as the result of misdirected aim.

One of the prophets of an older time admonished—"Set thine house in order." In the presence of so many disconcerting elements can we not read therein the warning not only for early housecleaning, but for the urgent preliminary of removing some of the noxious litter inclined to accumulate about the front yard?

It seems to me that it must have been an encouraging, thrilling, inspirational hour throughout the ranks of organized labor, when on August 19th of the current year, announcement was made through an Associated Press dispatch that President William Green and the members of the Executive Council proclaimed that the hour had struck to begin a campaign of action for the purpose of demonstrating to the general public that organized labor and communism have nothing in common.

The announcement did not mean that these officers had given expression to any new-born conviction. It did not mean that they had been indifferent, when they should have been alert. It only signified that they had seen the lightning flashes on the industrial horizon and had heard the thunderous detonations which betokened the approaching storm.

What explanation is to be given for the unusual outbursts of communist activity which have been witnessed during the recent months?

What special incitement was produced? What was the nature of the impetus that gave it birth?

The responsibility may be safely laid to the United States recognition of Russia—the most fatuous, the most indefensible and the most asinine blunder that any administration has been guilty of in half a century of time.

It is quite likely some supersensitive soul will be murmuring—"O, he is attacking the national administration."

My attack, if it be an attack, includes all Republicans as well as Democrats, who had any hand in the perpetration of that monumental exhibition of governmental stupidity.

I wish to discuss that Russian Recognition Pact, first as to the social eclat, with which the deal was christened; and, second, from the standpoint of economic profit and loss.

I do not often read the society pages of the Washington newspapers, but chance afforded me an interesting opportunity upon this particular occasion, and I linger over this particular recital as one would hover over a wayside flower.

The Russian ambassadorial quarters at Washington had long been vacant. The ambitious spiders had woven their delicate tapestry across the window-panes; dust had accumulated; the structure, both inside and outside, presented a spectacle of desolation and gloom.

Recognition rumors began to circulate. Diplomatic circles commenced to flutter.

Senators and representatives, swearing they would ne'er consent, consented, and the deed was done.

Events moved rapidly. Renovators were set to work. Cobwebs were swept aside, dust was removed, and the interior decorators and drapery hangers got in their work—with RED, the dominant color.

How perfectly in accord with the doctrine which treats of "the eternal fitness of things!"

It was a gay and festive night. Washington society poured in. The society reporter says it was an unforgetable scene. In fact, it reminded one of Lord Byron's description of "The Night Before Waterloo."

And bright the lamps shone o'er fair women And brave men. A thousand hearts beat happily.

And when music arose with its voluptuous swell. Soft eyes looked into eyes which spake again, And all went merry as a marriagebell.

The champagne flowed with the even and unending tenor of Tennyson's Brook. The supply seemed inexhaustible. But around the "Witching hour of midnight, when churchyards yawn and hell breathes forth contagion upon this world," a note of consternation was sounded. There was no more champagne.

But lo, and behold, some paragon of far-seeing perspicacity had prepared for the emergency. Suddenly the liveried lackeys appeared with a supply of good old Russian vodka, which defied all possibilities of drouth. It is claimed that vodka is so potent that one whiff would be sufficient to make a canary successfully battle a tom-cat in less than ten seconds, and yet they tell us that the Russian vodka gurgled down the social throat with the musical cadence of a mountain rill when it leaves its home on the upper crest and goes gaily dancing to its destination in the valley below.

And the happy and well-lubricated ones lingered on—until night's candles were burnt out, and not only did jocund day stand tip-toe on the misty mountain-tops, but the golden beams of the morning were blending with the emerald hue of the Atlantic sea.

And the society reporter said, as she is always kind enough to say—"A pleasant time was had by all."

Now I come to an examination of the record as to just what was promised that the United States should realize when the Recognition Pact was duly ratified.

Here are the specifications:

(a) $200,000,000 balance of trade in favor of the United States.

(b) Adjustment of that long standing Russian indebtedness to the United States amounting to $500,000,000.

(c) The end of Communistic proselyting in the United States.

(d) There was to be a rift in the dark cloud of international misunderstanding through which it would be possible to see the morning radiance of a new day.

(e) Washington and Moscow would join hands in leading the vanguard of civilization to the music of the inspiring strains of John Philip Sousa's "Hands Across the Sea."

What is the golden fruitage thus far harvested as a result of Russian recognition?

There have been many references to the Declaration of Independence on the floor of this convention. I, too, wish to quote one sentence from that immortal document—"Let facts be submitted to a candid world."

The two hundred million dollar balance of trade which was to redound to the benefit of your Uncle Sam had reached the magnificent sum of a trifle less than six million dollars according to the last Treasury report—scarcely enough to buy bird seed for the Blue Eagle sufficient to last twenty-four hours.

As to the adjustment of that five hundred million dollar debt long owing to the United States from Russia—it is now explained by the Soviet powers that be, that the debt was to be satisfactorily adjusted IF the United States would loan them the money and accept Russian security therefor.

In the next place, how did Russia keep her promise of the termination of Communistic interference with the affairs of the United States? From the hour the Recognition compact was signed the floodgates were lifted and the tide rolled in and the Communistic program of hellraising has been displayed an increasingly brazen exploitation ever since.

There was, however, one concrete accomplishment growing out of that inspired segment of the new deal: The United States government now maintains a bureaucratic retinue at Moscow of sixty-three members, at an annual cost to the taxpayers of $114,376.

Last, but not least, as evidence that Republics are not ungrateful, Ambassador Bullit has been granted a three months' leave of absence in which to shoot about China and Japan, with a climacteric visit to his beloved America during the season of the happy Christmas-tide.

However, let us give credit where credit is due: Report is in circulation that President Roosevelt has vetoed the original plan for a million-dollar United States ambassadorial residence in Russia, and that Secretary of State Hull, one of the most finely-poised gentlemen connected with the national administration, has thrown up his hands in unqualified disgust with the whole affair.

There are certain elements which Nature designed should never be susceptible to successful amalgamation. For example:

Oil and water. Sunshine and shadow.

Liberty under law which is the cherished concept of organized labor and that universal governmental revolution which is the consummation of the communistic dream.

For what purpose are the apostles of communism seeking a more secure foothold within the ranks of organized labor? Is it to promote its upbuilding? Is it to stimulate its growth? Is it to proclaim the ideals for which we stand?

For answer let us look at the record:
On a recent summer day, when the prairie winds were searing the cornleaves like a blast from a Sahara simoon, and sweltering humanity was soliloquizing with Hamlet—"To be, or not to be!"
—I heard a vociferous newsboy shouting the merits of the "Daily Worker." I purchased a copy out of curiosity as to what it might contain. Upon opening the sheet I discovered a leading editorial devoted to a vitriolic denunciation of President William Green and his colleagues on the executive council as "the pliant tools of capitalism."

It mattered not to this editorial penpusher, that every one of these men, most of them born in the humbler walks of life, had devoted years in an endeavor to bring about better working conditions for laborers everywhere—this editor belonged to a poison squad whose mission it is to destroy, to tear down, to overthrow, and facts counted for nothing with him. He was simply being true to the communist concept.

Then I turned to another page of this crimson sheet. There I discovered an article explaining how a school was being established in New York—in which children might be nurtured in the fundamentals of communistic philosophy.

How would you like to have your little ones subjected to this motley crowd taking orders from and being financed by Soviet Russia, where at Christmas time the birth of the Saviour is burlesqued for the entertainment of the young?

He who was born in a manger; Who realized long before those thirty mysterious years of isolation had terminated, that He was traveling a journey that would lead straight to the Hill called Calvary, and yet hesitated not to pause upon the way to discover "Flowers in little children's eyes; Saw grace in lepers tumbling toward Him, In gladsome hope, and sweet surprise," and, gathering these little ones in His arms, could say to the assembled multi-tude—"Suffer them to come unto Me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom." He it is who at Christmas time is made the object of burlesque, of ribald laughter, and of scornful jest, and at a time when your own children's faces are radiant with the joys of the holiest season of the year.

In attending seventeen conventions of the American Federation of Labor I have witnessed one which was not opened with prayer-solemn and impressive recognition of the great truth that-"There is a divinity which shapes our ends, Rough hem them, how we will."

No one ever heard of a communist convocation being opened with prayer. They might open with a stick of dynamite, if feeling sure that they themselves would be immune from danger of the flying missiles, but never with any gesture of rec-ognition of "Him in whom we live, move, and have our being."

What would communism destroy?

In an Associated Press dispatch from Sacramento, under date of June 29, 1934. Albert Hagardy, communist organizer, is reported to have said:

"We have nothing to hide. We are simply carrying out the details of a prescribed program by the Communist Internationale of unseating the existing capitalistic system and substituting a control similar to that of Soviet Russia."

Surely, any mystification as to the cov eted communistic goal should speedily clarify before official proclamations like

"Capitalism" is one of those terms which enjoy an ever-expanding etymological significance. Although a capitalist is one who may be worth a million dollars, or one hundred dollars, showing that capitalism is a matter of degree, yet it anthe communistic purpose, glide easily from the communistic tongue, and helps to reach the unthinking element which is willing to march under a red

Communism is fundamentally incapable of comprehending or appreciating the idealism for the promotion of which Americans have ever been ready to give the last full measure of devotion.

The forward look is often inspiring, but the backward glance may frequently give a rich reward.

Let us lift the curtain of the centuries: The organ-voiced Webster is speaking in an atmosphere tremulous with moving historic tradition. Hear him:

When the Mayflower sought our shore, it was under no high-wrought spirit of commercial adventure, no love of gold, no mixture of purpose, either hostile or war-like to any people. Like the dove from the ark, she put forth only to find rest. The stars which guided her were the unobscured constellations of civil and religious liberty. Her deck was the altar of the living God. Fervent prayers on bended knees mingled morning and evening with the voices of the ocean and the sighing of the winds.

And thus it was, our Forefathers had turned their backs upon the tyrannies of the Old World: they had braved the perils of the deep; on the bleak shores of the Atlantic, they faced the mighty woods be-Red men and fore them. menaced, but with a trust in God that was "without variableness, neither shadow of turning," they cleared the forests, turned the furrows, sowed the seed, gath ered the harvests, erected churches and schools and laid the foundations of a movement for a civilization which was to cross the plains and leap the mountains and never stop, until the blazing of the new pathway should reach the furthermost continental rim. Today we are holding this convention at the Golden Gate, the ultima thule—Land's End. An epic from which communism draws no mead of pride! It is something utterly over and beyond their hectic vision.

I would as soon think of looking bethe smoke-begrimed and sulphurstained windows of Hell to find recruiting officers for the promotion of a society of Christian Endeavor, as I would for expounders and defenders and apostles of American idealism in the ranks of modern communism.

Americanism means love of country. It is a virtue which absorbs and possesses and inspires.

That explains why 658,000 men with union cards in their pockets marched away to help the Allied Cause in the late World War.

That is why Americans will never forget Bunker Hill, and Gettysburg, and Manila Bay, and Flanders Fields, and a thousand other spots which their countrymen hold dear.

I have in mind two specific illustrations supporting my contention that a vast majority of the membership of organized labor believe and hold they have nothing in common with communism.

At the annual convention of the American Federation of Musicians, held in Cleveland in June, a situation developed which made it quite necessary for a show down on the issue of communism in Greater New York. Under the direction of President Joseph N. Weber and of Edward Canavan, President of Local 802 of that city, a canvass was made. When the returns were in it was found that in the thousands of ballots cast. Communism been repudiated by a vote of over eight to one.

In the city of Des Moines a few weeks ago a strike was called at the Rollins Hosiery Mills. Over eight hundred employes made demand for better wages and working conditions. Local communists immediately spread their sombre wings and alighted at the scene of trouble. The strikers at once phoned the police department to remove the communists. The police responded and ordered the communists to leave. They left-after which the strikers gathered up the communistic literature which had been strewn about and started a bonfire. As the yellow rays of the summer moon mingled with the ruddy glow of the flames, the strikers joined hands and circled about the blaze, singing "Dancing in the Moonlight, Oh, What a Wonderful Time."

Incidents of this character might be multiplied, but time forbids.

Throughout this convention session, delegates entering the door have looked at the portrait of Samuel Gompers, hanging above the platform, and he, through the medium of portraiture, has been looking down upon you.

Samuel Gompers, he who as a boy, came to America. Here as a young and obscure cigarmaker, he dreamed his dream of industrial emancipation: formed the organization of which he was to become the distinguished head; saw it grow from handful of devotees to a membership of millions: achieved a standing before the world which made him the adviser of presidents, and won a place where he was able to cross intellectual swords with the diplomatic leadership of the world. At last his work was finished and he entered the Valley of the Shadow. As the vision of earth began to fade before "that pure white light which shines on neither sea nor land," he breathed this benediction: "God bless the institutions of America; may they grow better day by day."

(Pointing to the portrait)-If those lips could speak; were they to be touched by their old-time fire, what would be the message to this convention?

In the light of what he was, light of what he did, in the light of what he said, I think his message would beexpressed in language free from ambiguity and with the directness of a beam of "Communism is inimical to the per petuity of American institutions. It is subversive of law, order and government. It is an overshadowing menace to the welfare of her people and all that they hold dear. For the extermination of communism and fascism and all other isms of its character and kind, the resources of the American Federation of Labor shall be everlastingly pledged."

(The convention repudiated the procommunistic resolution by an overwhelm-

Labor Relief Kitchens

The Jackson (Michigan) Federation of Labor has maintained a "Relief Kitchen" during the employment slump that has served a total of 655.873 meals to the needy, including transients. A typical recent weekly report shows that 27.7 "floaters" applied and in all over 3,000 meals were served during seven days.

A Great Manager

GEORGE WASHINGTON STEWART

By Henry Woelber

"Make yourself an honest man, and then you may be sure there is one less rascal in the world."-Carlyle.

"Like the bee, we should make our industry our amusement."-Goldsmith

"Next to excellence is the appreciation of it."-Thackeray.

The above quotations well epitomize successful, business, and musical life of George Washington Stewart. He was born in Granville, N. Y. When an infant, the family moved to Washington, C., remaining four years, then going to Darnestown, Md. The Civil War about to break out in 1860, they returned to their native State, settling in Cambridge, N. Y. The father enlisted and served as a surgeon with the 74th New York Volun-teers of General Sickle's Brigade until the end of the war in 1865, and was wounded three times at the Battle of Gettysburg.

When a boy is born poor, in some obscure village, with no particular advantages, many persons are inclined to believe the world offers but few opportuni-ties for such a lad. But, as this story will indicate, the exact reverse is true, if one will but seek the opportunities.

The father was Joseph D. Stewart; the mother, Eliza G. Whitcomb. were the parents of two girls and three boys. They were very poor; turbulent times were brewing preceding the war, money scarce, people had great difficulty then, as now, to pay their bills. Among the five children born to this typically, pioneering, strictly American couple were two who distinguished themselves in the musical field. The one, George W. Stew-art, renowned band and orchestra manager, festival promoter, and director-general of all the music for two World's Fair Expositions, St. Louis in 1904, and San Francisco in 1915. The other, Miss Rose Stewart, eminent soprano, an accepted authority on the art of singing, a pupil Mathilde Marchesi, and classmate of Emma Eames and Nellie Melba. Only a severe illness prevented an operatic career for her in Italy, yet the world lost little as she achieved the highest goal of success in the concert field by often appearing as soloist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra under Henschel, and later with Nikisch, and Gericke, when that orchestra had reached the very peak of perfection.

In Stewart's district, country schools were not so numerous or accessible as now, but in his mother he had one who thought as much of him as though he were a Lincoln, or a Garfield. Until the boy was 8, she had charge of his primary studies, after which he entered the public schools, and finished at 16. At 15 he At 15 he taught himself trombone and baritone, never having had a teacher. At 18 he joined the eight-piece band of Washburn's Variety Show, traveling by wagons. Re maining until he was 21, the managerial genius of George W. Stewart began to come to the fore. Mr. Washburn was often obliged to visit sick relatives in New Hampshire, and although two sons were with the show, the entire business end was left in the hands of Stewart.

Coming to Boston in 1872, he soon went with Hall's Band on the Fall River Line at a salary of $18.00 per week. Two seasons in the orchestra at Woods Museum Stock Company, Philadelphia, followed. The summer of 1873 found him with John Robinson's Circus touring the Middle West and South to the Gulf of Mexico Just at this time variations were very popular for brass instruments. Stewart was one of the star performers. Cundy had published "Old Folks at Home", "Longing for Home" and "Old Kentucky Home", for baritone, written and played by Stewart. These editions are still in print and have been widely used throughout the band world. Returning to Boston he played in the orchestra of the Old Howard, and the Boston Museum Stock Company. In 1875 he became the regular baritone player in what was then perhaps the most noted band in the country-The Germania.

years previously Stewart had sought the advice of a great educator in the Boston Public Library. He reads, writes and speaks German and French fluently, and also reads Italian. In 1875 he played in the band for Class Day and Commencement at Harvard College, continuing as a player until 1886, when he also became manager of the Germanias. Later the organization really became Stewart's own Boston Band, so with no interruptions he had the great chance to hear the big men of the country from 1875 to the present at these two important college events. Here was another

Not being of a sadistic turn of mind. a blind painter, or deaf musician, Stew art had an idealistic future in the back his head. Wavering in the mind is poison to good deeds: doubt will spoil fine resolve before it is a foot high. No irony is more withering than the spectacle of a snob patronizing the man of talent. Here was a musician preparing himself for great subsequent events; to meet ambassadors, governors, chamber-lains, prime ministers, and at the same time never forgetting to be just as courteous and companionable to his own men. A true gentleman indeed! He never drank or smoked, and was bred in a strictly religious atmosphere. It is really quite strange that any man with such exemplary habits could go so far in life. Only once was he ever known to use profanity. and that was the time his car stalled on the side of a hill in a rainstorm; then he

When the Boston Symphony Orchestra started in 1881, a natural thing for Banker Higginson to do was to consult some one thoroughly conversant with orches tral affairs. The mantle of obscurity did not fall upon Stewart. He had played in many concerts, had the surge, and knew the glow and glamour of big affairs. To this day he treasures the letters from Henry Lee Higginson relative to the merits of the men about to play in the first new permanent orchestra of America. Stewart was the original bass trom-bonist in this orchestra, remaining ten years. His own ambitions about to succeed, he soon was a captain of industry minus the habits of a caveman. Any suggestion of an apostle of defeat, or a mirror of misery, did not fit in his scheme of things. Now thoroughly launched upon most colorful experience, his Boston Festival Orchestra made twenty-five spring tours from 1889 to 1913, inclusive. Being the first in that line, the large festivals of the country were the initial drops of a Niagara of publicity for him. He at once was known as the pathfinder in the spring festival business throughout America and Canada. On those tours, Calve, Sembrich, Nordica, Gadski, Schumann-Heink, Werrenrath, Edward Johnson, and others too numerous to mention, appeared. Among the instrumentalists were Joseffy, Ysaye, Kreisler, Gerardy and Madam Aus der Ohe. For the San Francisco Fair, Stewart engaged the incomparable Paderewski. At a banquet he was seated between the great pianist and his wife. "Let's see," said Paderewski, "I hear you once played in the Boston Symphony." "Yes," said Stewart, "I played trombone there ten years."
"That's strange," said the planist, "I, too, once played trombone." "That is really a pity," said Stewart, "if you had continued to play trombone, you might have made a great reputation for yourself.' Mrs. Paderewski joined in the laughter.

Stewart is dipped in the same dye as the late Senator Lodge, who didn't waste his argument on the curbstone or in hotel lobbies, but waited until he got the floor and people were obliged to listen. Unlike other managers, he is a keen judge of musicians and singers. than his share of the olive and laurel out-

He will barter and trade, arbi-trate, give and take, but once he says yes, no deposit is necessary to bind a argain. He never failed a young player. Thousands of times he thrilled an ambi-tious youth with an offer to go on his festival tour, play a summer band engagement, or a pageant at a mountain esort in a natural amphitheatre. All this meant first-class traveling accommodations, and opportunities, not possible for anybody in any other walk of life where only a moderate salary is involved. In dealing with men he used the methods of a Sicilian Sonata, rather than a twoply vendetta, and learned early in life that we have not conquered nature, but merely have learned how to walk in nature, and in nature there are no coloratura sopranos, or squeaky fiddlers. turned a superb performance of his band or orchestra into engines against oppression and wrong in the music business.

Many times with thorny questions to settle, he would fold his tent, and like an Arab, slip silently into the night. Emerging, and with no "blah," a fountain pen, self control, and an ease of conversation for his weapons, with verve and vigor, the arguments of his opponents are swept aside like chips in a high surf A man of rare mental and intellectual gifts, and high cultivation, there is firm ness in his jaw, coupled with an imposing presence, eloquence, dignity, and enthusiasm. It will be difficult for any senior up where this "post-graduate leaves off. Out of the abundance of his later years comes a power of description, and with it an imagination that makes the narrative more real than the performance itself. He keeps his own counsel and goes his own way. The headmaster in life's school is conservation, which is an art and a rarity. Stewart has the faculty of maintaining a most instructive conversation, and being able to enhance it by a phrase or an idea from the back eddies of a wonderful career.

Stewart was chairman of our theatrical committee many years ago when the price was raised from the old stock stipend of $20.00 in first-class houses. other members were Charles K. North, Frank E. Dodge and William H. Capron The managers headed by their rough spokesman, stormed into the room ex pecting to meet our union men each with blackjack and a stick of dynamite in his pocket. After the usual insulting words, Stewart calmly remarked: "My friends, please remember every one here is a gentleman." With hardly any dis-With hardly any discussion the new price of $30.00 was agreed upon. Stewart. To be success ful in any line one must have speed, dash, sparkle, nerve, vim, color and ambition. Without these qualities no person should ever think of cluttering up an artistic profession.

In closing these articles, the writer has endeavored to set forth the development of the band in America, and the part Boston, and Gilmore, played in that Stewart resolved not to oppose, but on the contrary, in consonance with a policy of revering everything connected with the classical past of the band and orchestra, to start the foundation of his own organizations, and the Boston Festival Orchestra, and the Boston Band, conducted by Emil Mollenhauer, were the result.

It would be very difficult to overestimate the influence of seven old members of the Boston Symphony on the band of today. They were Mollenhauer, Zach, Strube, Flockton, Patz, Lafricain, and Kloepfel. Many young players in fine positions owe their success to the opportunity of playing and getting the necessary experience under such men. When Strube wrote his "Cruiser Harvard" march, the band took on a new lease of life, for here was another great orchestra authority taking an interest in the band, and teaching it selfcontrol. The intricacies of harmony in any chord accompanying a melody is often beyond the understanding of the listener, yet the ear is pleased, and what we hear is ours. A genius by a few strokes of the pen brings forth a "Gypsy Love Song", a "Blue Danube", a "Song of India" and let leaders beware, and not exaggerate the band staccato, but rather insist upon the more sweeping and even tempo of orchestra.

With the great improvement in the mechanism of all the wind instruments almost any composition is possible now.

So many future conductors have played in the symphony or opera, sometimes perhaps only a few bars in an incidental piano part, but were compelled to listen, entranced, to the beautiful tones from the reed and brass sections, they then and there decided to form a band of their Is the art of conducting or playing well mere chance or acquired?

The appropriation for the St. Louis Fair was $420,000; for San Francisco, $665,000. At the former the Grenadier Guards, sixty-five men; the Guard Republic, eighty, and the Von Blon, sixtyfive, bands played. Only the World War prevented the great bands of Europe from coming to San Francisco. Komzak was a guest conductor at St. Louis, as was also Saint Saens at San Francisco, where he played his own piano concerto, and led a few of his compositions. Refore Stewart left San Francisco for Boston he had returned $30,000 to the department of music, something entirely un-heard of before. His honesty was never questioned.

It is a far cry from a village boy joining a circus band to becoming the sole music commissioner for the two largest world's expositions ever held. Each necessitated an extended trip to Europe upon both occasions the linguistic ability of the manager came in good stead.

Aside from being a manager and musician, he also is well versed in harmony, having specialized in his youth in the great Bach Chorales, which account for his judgment of tonal balance.

As he often said himself, the two outaccomplishments and bright standing spots in his life are his discovery of Emil Mollenhauer and Walter Smith. represented the very sunrise of his career, the other "The Evening Star" of glorious achievements.

THE A. F. OF L. UNION and Independent Unions Compared

The American Federation of Labor has issued a nine-point comparison between "company unions," organized and promoted under auspices of mill managements, and

1. Is formed by the employes themselves to secure better working conditions. Is opposed by employers because they know that such unions will secure better working conditions for their workers

3. Can never be destroyed so long as it is actively supported by all union members.

Is paid for by the union members and controlled by the union members Charges dues which help directly to build nationwide organization and to bring about labor laws to protect workers. 6. Does secure higher wages and better working conditions, as is clearly shown by the history of the American Federation of Labor.

Is a true collective bargaining agency which negotiates with the mangement as directed by the union members upon questions of wages, hours and working conditions.

Is chosen by the workers under Section 7(a) to represent them in collective bargaining.

Is affiliated with and supported by the American Federation of Labor, which is a nationwide organization, giving protection to all workers against organized independent unions organized by workers themselves for collective dealing with employes. The nine-point comparison says: THE COMPANY UNION Is formed by the company to prevent organization in a real union.

2. Is favored by employers because they know there is nothing to fear from such unions.

3. Can be destroyed by the employer at any time, since he runs it. 4. Is paid for by the employer and controlled by the employer. 5. . Charges no dues and makes no conution to general improvement in working conditions. 6. Does not secure higher wages or better working conditions. 7. Is not a true agency for collective argaining since employe representatives under company union plans are required to follow the instructions of the management.

8. Is not able to bargain in the true sense of section 7(a), because when the company bargains with the company union it does not bargain with the workers, but with itself.

9. Is limited to one shop, plant, or establishment, while employers themserves are so organized on a nationwide basis in trade associations that individual groups of employes are powerless.

The Cherry Tree Where with our Little Hatchet we tell the truth about many things, sometimes profoundly, sometimes flippantly, sometimes recklessly

Everybody has a birthday, including the President of the United States.

The printer who will set this in type, the proofreader who will probably see that no mistakes get through, the editor under whose eyes it will pass—and you, the reader—all have birthdays.

Everybody's own birthday is to him the most important birthday.

But a special significance for everyone is found in the birthday of the President of the United States, for it is to be set aside for a purpose that ceases to be personal to any one person or any small group and thus becomes personal to everyone.

On the President's birthday the nation will gather more sinews of war with which to treat and combat infantile paralysis.

Last year the nation raised a great fund with which to endow Warm Springs Foundation. This year a new plan will be followed, with the President's personal endorsement.

Every community will benefit directly and a national fund for research will be raised.

That is a grand idea.

Last year labor joined in celebrating and in raising money.

This year labor will join likewise, probably more effectively, because of last year's experience.

Labor will join with others in many places; in many other places it will conduct its own ball, carry out its own program, remit its own contribution to the general struggle against one of the most dreaded of all afflictions.

Himself a sufferer—and a conqueror— the President plays a dramatic and appealing part in this battle to help many sufferers.

President Green does a kindly and a creditable thing in agreeing with enthusiasm and energy to join in this campaign. He is a member of the National Committee. He is chairman of Labor's National Committee. Matthew Woll does an equally kindly and creditable thing in agreeing to serve as secretary and to care for the immense volume of work entailed in such a program.

Labor everywhere will want to join in this great campaign.

Infantile paralysis knows no boundary lines. It strikes at will, with tragic consequences, in all ranks and in all places.

The American people have determined to conquer this disease. They know that research and care will meet the need.

For those now afflicted there will be care.

To win the war there will be research.

Already labor headquarters have been

NEWS OF THE MONTH IN MUSICLAND

ERE'S up-to-the-minute news of another group of popular and talented artists — musicians who are making history in the world of music.

Their careers are widely diversified, but one thing they have in common—they use Conn instruments to enable them to keep pace with the exacting demands of modern music.

You, too, will find your greatest success with a Conn. Ask your dealer to let you try one of the wonderful new models. Or write for free book. Mention instrument.

C. G. CONN, Ltd., 1223 Conn Bldg., Elkhart, Ind.

BROADWAY WELCOMES KEMP—Hal Kemp and his fine orchestre, long a hit at the Blackhawk in Chicago, recently transferred their musical activities to the Pennsylvania Hotel, New York City, Overnight they became a sensation, with their two trombone stars coming in for special ovations. Between performances our photographer mapped a group of brass players upon whom Director "Hal" casts an especially happy smile. Left to right; Jack Shirra, who plays a Conn 34 H recording bass; "Gus" Mayhew, Conn 24 H Trombone; Earl Geiger, Conn Ballad Horn; and Harold "Pocky" Dankers, list Saxophone, Conn Alto Sax and Conn Tenor Sax. All praise Conn instruments—in letters dated from August 6, 1934, to October 23, 1934.

MOHAWK RUG BROADCAST—
Herman Yorks with Gus Haenschen's Orchestra, New York City, is a radio artist of the very highest calibre. Now appearing on the Mohawk Rugbroadcast, his solo work is outstanding. Previously on such popular broadcasts as Maxwell House Showboat, Bayer Aspirin, and Bisodol. For years a favorite with the great radio audience. Mr. Yorks recently purchased a new model Conn Baritone Sax and wrote us October 9, 1934: "I have played a Conn baritone for 10 years. Conn always has and still does make the finest baritone of all."

Freddy Martin and his Hotel St. Regis orchestra qualify as one of the greatest dance and radio bands of America's musical metropois. Broadcasting regularly over the MBC network, his new Sun day afternoon "Open House" program for Vicks is winning Iresh acclaim from the radio fans. This month we show Director Martin with three of his saxophone stars—an all-Conn, all-tenor-sax ensemble that challenges comparison. Left to right; John B. Condon, Elmer Feldkamp, Jess Carneol. Seated: Freddy Martin who wrote us on Sept. 2: 1934: "My Conn 10-M-01i the TEAMWORK IN DENVER—Rarely do you find one family so well supplied with musical talent and honors as is the case with the Leicks of Denver, Colorado. John S. Leick and his wife, Mabel Keith Leick, each have won international recognition. Mr. Leick is conductor of the Denver Muntichal Band. Formerly Director of the Kilties on their triumphal European tour. Also with Innes. Mrs. Leick is trumper instructor at the University of Denver and was for years a well known soloist and director in vaudeville, in both Europe and America. Each plays a Conn Victor cornet and wrote us in highest praise of their Conn instruments on October 5, 1034.

IT'S A SARRUSOPHONE—The Sarrusophone is an instrument extraordinary. In many bands and orchestras it is unknown; yet it is rapidly growing in popularity and as Owen C. Ranck, Milton, Pa., tright above) eays, "It nakes a fine substitute for string base or contra baseon." Mr. Ranck and his Sarrusophone are often heard over stations WKOK and WRAK. He size plays many other instruments, appearing with the Bucknell University Symphony Orchestra and Band. The Sarrusophone is made in America only by Conn.

BROOKS' BOYS SCORE HIT—Russell A. Brooks, Chicago, has built a remarkable reputation as a successful teacher and is also much in demand for club engagements. Formerly with Wayne King and Bernie Cummins. From his pupils he has organized this brass ensemble which is scoring hits wherever it appears. Mr. Brooks plays a Conn cornet and writes us on August 15, 1934: "My Conn is noteworthy for its easy blowing and speedy valve action. Ten of the fifteen boys in our ensemble play Conns and I am examerially pleased with their fine intomation."

ALL CONN TESTIMONIALS GUARANTEED TO BE VOLUNTARY AND GENUINE EXPRESSIONS OF OPINION FOR WHICH NO PAYMENT OF ANY KIND HAS BEEN OR WILL BE MADE

established. The wheels are in motion. When labor goes into action it goes

This is one of the many times when labor goes into action for the sake of the common good.

Those who think labor merely fights should learn of the many, many times when labor builds. Strikes are but one side of labor's great task—and a small side, at that.

Labor is the great building force. It is forever seeking betterment, using such methods as seem best.

Labor joins in this birthday celebration, not as something unusual, but as something typical of its spirit and pur-

Every local union in America will want to participate and every local union in America ought to participate. (Continued from Page 23, Column 4)
