MUSICAL CULTURE NOW CENTERS IN AMERICA

Nation Has Come of Age Musically — Opportunities For Musicians Appear Bright.

By DORIN K. ANTRIM

Feature Writer for Lea Editor of "Metronome"

'N case you haven't noticed it, Uncle Sam has kicked off his musical rompers and pulled on μ pair of long pants. In other words, this nation has come of age musically. To wit: We now have the largest and most discriminating audience per capita of population of any nation in the world. We have the best in music from swing to symphony and opera. Our music bill per annum runs three times as high as that of any other country. In fact, Uncle Sammy is now music king of this cock-eyed world.

In doing some intensive research on the musical state of the nation for magazine articles, I have been amazed at the findings. For instance, the tremendously increased interest in classical music. Although popular music has had a considerable following for some years past, the audience for classical music has been pretty thin. But consider for a moment what has happened in the symphonic field.

In 1885 this country boasted just three major symphony orchestras and only one-tenth of one per cent of the population had heard them. The rank and file did not know a bassoon from a baton, Wagner was no operatic legend but the name of the local butcher, and a Bach fugue was pronounced "batch fudge". Before the World War seventeen symphony orchestras existed in the United States, including ten of first rank. Now, according to the National Orchestra Survey, there are 270, with an increase of 130 from 1930 to Eighteen new orchestras were founded in 1932 alone.

total seventeen are now classed as Grade A, but all are of symphonic size and play the symphony phonic size and play the symphony repertoire.

What's been the reason for these symphony orchestras springing up? One thing—demand on the part of the general public. For a long time wealthy between the responsibility of their maintenance and this is significant. In some cities millions have been added to shrinking endowment funds by popular subscription; elsewhere the people have contributed liberally to maintenance funds. In one year in Rochester, N. Y., an appeal for the support of its orchestra brought 7.791 subscriptions. In San Francisco the people voted half a cent increase in the tax rate for the beneat of its orchestra. Not only has the audience for symphonic music increased enormously in this country in the past decade, but to hold their audiences, Dr. Grant of the National Orchestra Survey observes that civic orchestras find it necessary to play more full leugth symphonics every

Or take the opera. Prior to 1930, opera was considered by the mass of people in this country as an expensive plaything of the holty-tolty where tired business men were dragged for a bit of much-needed deep. During the 1931 season, the Metro-Politan went on the air and has continued the practice ever since. Results have been striffcant. Millions of people heard commission operas for the first time in their west. Many of them found that opera had meaning for them, that it filled a void in their lives. According to Edward Johnson, manager of the Metropolitan Opera hasociation, the opera audience in this country has increased at a conservative estimate, one thousand per cent.

Here are a few quotes from letters received. The program arrived in Los Angeles, California, Saturday morning and one employer in response to a petition, closed his establishment so his employees could hear it. A Michigan mother wrote that her four-year-old boy had acquired a book of opera and insisted she read the story of the opera prior to the performance. A boys' club in Mississippi wanted to know why they did not produce more Puccini. A Pennsylvania housewife said her husband used to play golf on Saturday afternoon, but now he hurries home to listen to opera. A lonely rancher's wife in North Dakota wrote: "I have never seen an opera on the stage but I live in hope of seeing one before I die". Which is a natural reaction of those making up this far-flung audience. A person who hears opera and likes it, gets a powerful yen to see the real thing.

Like the symphony addicts, won't these people eventually demand opera presentation for the cities that do not have it? In the case of San Francisco. The city of the Golden Gate now boasts a beautiful modern building, one of the finest municipally-owned opera houses in America, in fact, in the world. It was erected as a tribute to the local boys who fell in the World War. The building cost $6,125,000 and the fund is being raised by public subscription and a city bond issue. San Francisco citizens from all walks of life are contributing to this fund and they feel rightly that they have a proprietary interest. A small city tax takes care of the orchestra and other maintenance charges.

Finnish Workers Thank U. S. Workers For Aid

NEW YORK CITY.—A message of thanks to American labor for its work in behalf of harassed and bombed civilians of Finland, coupled with an appeal for continued and additional help, was contained in a cable received at headquarters of the Finnish Relief Fund.

Addressed to "Workers of America." the cable was from Eero A. Vuori, president of the Finnish Federation of Trade Unions at Helsinki, who added his voice of approval and encouragement to that of Sir Walter Citrine, president of the International Federation of Trade Unions and Sir Walter Citrine, president of the International Federation of Trade Unions and general secretary of the British Trades-Union Congress, who declared in an earlier message that he was "delighted" at the part played by American labor in rushing to the aid of Finnish civilians.

Vuoris cable, addressed to William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor and honorary chairman of the Labor Organizations Division of the Finnish Relief Fund drive, and Matthew Woll, vice-president of the A. F. of L. and chairman of the labor committee of the fund, said:

"Workers of America—

"Thank you for your aid to our suffering civilian population.

"Finland has become the victim of unscrupulous aggression in utter disregard of our country's desire for peace and her readiness to negotiate. The Soviet Union has taken up arms against us to achieve its aims. Its aim and object is the conquest of Finland and the destruction of her people.

"Organized labor in Finland regards Soviet Russia's act of aggression as an her people.

"Organized labor in Finland regards Soviet Russia's act of aggression as an imperialistic attempt at conquest. It was for these reasons that Finnish labor unanimously resolved to support the parliamentary government of the country and to join forces with all others in the defense of our country's freedom and independence.

"We have received much sympathy and material belts."

cerense or our country's freedom and independence.

"We have received much sympathy and material help from the whole world... But the struggle grows fiercer daily. The enemy's great superiority can crush us unless we obtain effective help.

"We hope the whole world, and especially organized labor in America, realize our position. We are deeply moved by the assistance already given us by our American brothers and we venture to rely on your further support.

"In the great forests of Finland a battle rages now for democratic freedom against imperialistic dictatorship. This war, workers of America, is being waged for the future of our small nation and for the future of its workers."

Television Gets Green Light

Cevision Gets Green Light

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Federal Communications Commission has ruled that beginning on September 1st television stations may begin limited commercial programs. The ruling does not permit the outright sale of time to commercial sponsors but permits them to pay the expenses of experimental programs. This is a compromise between the request for outright commercial television and the view of the F. C. C. that no commercialization should be permitted until the new art has progressed to a point where stabilization will be practical.
The Commission refused to issue any ruling on standards, thus leaving the dispute between the 441- and the 605-line advocates unsettled. "That research should not halt and that scientific methods should not be frozen in the present state of the art, is fairly to be deduced from the engineering testimony of representatives of the company present at the hearing", the Commission stated. "Actual demonstration to members of the Commission indicates the need for further improvement in the technical quality of television.

INDIANAPOLIS HAS WEALTH OF INTEREST FOR VISITORS

Many Points of Beauty and Interest in Indiana City Will Be On Sightseer's List.

Visitors in Indianapolis for the 41st Annual American Federation of Musicians' Convention will naturally wish to go sightseeing. The purpose of this article is to enumerate the points of beauty and interest which will be on the visitor's list when he embarks upon his tour of the city.

tour of the city.

First, the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument which rears its impressive columa 284½ feet in the very heart of the city. This memorial to Civil and Mexican War dead has come to be the distinguishing symbol of the Hoosier capital. It is second in height only to the Washington Monument and is considered by authorities the finest piece of monumental architecture in the world. Symbolic groups of heroic size, said to be the largest groups ever carved out of stone, represent War and Peace. Bronze statues of Indiana heroes also adorn the sides. There are cascades of water at the base and an elaborate lighting system for the monument.

There will be no dearth of hotel roo delegates and quests at the Indianapoli vention. The HOTEL LINCOLN, pictured is the third hotel under contract to rooms at regular Convention rates.

Indiana's World War Memorial Plaza occupies five city blocks, was built at a cost of $15,000,000 and includes the beautiful limestone building which houses national headquarters of the American Legion. The Central Shrine is a massive building of Indiana limestone in which Memorial Hail, an impressively beautiful auditorium, is located. A World War museum is in the basement. Also a part of the Plaza is a black granite obeliek, 100 feet high with an illuminated fountain at its base.

The Plaza is fianked by the United States Post Office on the south and the James Whitcomb Riley Public Library on the north. The library is said to be the most nearly perfect example of pure Greek architecture in America. West of the Plaza is the $3,500,000 Scottish Rite Cathedral, a masterpiece of old world architecture, in its tower a rare carillon, a gift to Indianapolis from a public-spirited citizen.

Symphony Orchestras

NE anniversary seemingly begets another. As the passionate notes of Tchaikovsky anniversary concerts die away, plans for the Chicago Symphony Orchestra's fiftieth birthday next year go into a crescendo. Meanwhile, the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra begins to anticipate its one hundredth anniversary in 1942. The latter orchestra does not yet know exactly what it will do-tour the country, have a book written about itself, or have a festival-but one thing is certain: the opening program of the season will be identical with that which began its existence. And this means it will include the Beethoven "Fifth".

Chicago

Chicago
IN the celebration of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra's Fiftieth Anniversary, much honor goes deservedly to its conductor, Frederick Stock, who for the past thirty-five years has been one of the principal factors in bringing it to its present high point of development. Born in Julich, Germany, Stock entered the Cologne Conservatory at the age of fourteen, graduating as a violinist. He studied theory and composition with eminent masters and in 1895 came to America to become a member of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, conducted since its inception in 1891 by Theodore Thomas. In 1899 Stock was made assistant conductor. Then, on the death of Thomas, in 1905, he was appointed to the conductorship. Mr. Stock is also a composer of international reputation. Chicago may well be proud of him and grateful for the inspiration and encouragement he has given its orchestra.

DR. FREDERICK STOCK

Last summer, with Henry E. Voegeli, manager of the orchestra, Frederick Stock toured Europe, visiting many of the continent's outstanding musicians, with the result that many composers of note have pledged themselves to write compositions in celebration of the coming anniversary. So that American composers might also be represented, two awards are being offered (the first $500, the second $300) for orchestral compositions with a playing time of not more than fifteen minutes. The winning composition is to be dedicated to the Chicago Symphony Orchestra and is to become the property of this organization, with full right of performance. The closing date for compositions submitted is July 1, 1940. The judges will be John Barbirolli, Eugene Ormandy and Deems Taylor. Information about the competition may be secured from Henry Voegeli, Orchestra Hall, Chicago. An Anton Bruckner symphony did not help attendance at the concert of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra on February 1st. Though Frederick Stock has conducted through the years Bruckner's Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Seventh and Ninth Symphonies, he seems not to have convinced Chicago audiences of the merits of this composer. Anyway, the First Symphony, of good enough texture, but ravelled a bit at the edges, didn't get the enthusiastic response that this composer's devotees believe it deserves. Excerpts from "Rosamunde" by Schubert made a cheery thing of the concert's opening, however, and a note of novelty crept in with Edward Burlingame Hill's "Lilace", based on a poem of Amy Lowell. The orchestra really came into its own with the final composition played, Siegfried's "Rhine Journey" from "Götterdämmerung".

Snowstorms did not deter the faithful from attending the concert of February

Snowstorms did not deter the faithful from attending the concert of February 8th and they were rewarded. For Conductor Lange had two surprises on the program, the cellist, Edmund Kurtz' performance of the Tchaikovsky Variations on a Rococo Theme, and the revival after six years' silence of Berlioz' "Symphonie Fantastique", played with a conciseness and brilliancy that brought out all the inherent beauty of this work. Kurtz' playing of the Tchaikovsky composition was both compelling and musicianly. Milton Preves, first violinist of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, was the soloist February 10th, playing the Henri Casadesus edition of the Handel Concerto for Viola, a singularly beautiful work.

On February 13th there was a repeat performance of Busoni's Concerto for Piano, with Egon Petri, famed Dutch pianist, as soloist. Dr. Edgar Nelson's Apollo Musical Club provided the male chorus which sang in the fifth movement. This program opened with the overture to Wagner's "The Flying Dutchman".

Serge Prokofieff, who was to have conducted the concerts of the 15th and 16th of February, was detained by conditions in Europe. Dr. Stock, therefore, curtailed his vacation and took over the program, which had already been arranged. It consisted of Glinka's overture to "Russland and Ludmilla", a first American performance of Muradelli's Symphony No. 1; Prokofieff's "Peter and the Wolf", with Paul Leyssac as narrator, and Saint-Saens' "The Animals' Carnival", with Pauline Manchester and Catherine Saurer playing the piano parts.

Paul Leyssac was qualified from every point of view for his role of narrator in "Peter and the Wolf". Matthews.

In its twentieth week, which began Monday evening, February 19th, with a concert in Milwaukee, the Chicago Symphony Orchestra presented in its home city four concerts, two of which were directed by Frederick Stock and two by Stravinsky. In the Stravinsky pair, the 22nd and 23rd, this composer's latest works, "Card Game" and "Petrouchka", were played. He also directed Tchaikovsky's Symphony No. 2 in C minor. On February 24th, Dr. Stock conducted the tenth popular concert of the season with Dudley Powers playing the cello part in Boellmann's Symphonic Variations. Compositions by Dvorak, Berlios and German were also included on the program.

On February 27th Igor Stravinsky again appeared with the Chicago Symphony, for the last time this season, repeating his "Card Carms".

On February 27th Igor Stravinsky again appeared with the Chicago Symphony, for the last time this season, repeating his "Card Game". Other compositions on the program were Stravinsky's "Firebird" Ballet and Tchalkovsky's Symphony No. 3 in D major, the latter having its first performance by the Chicago Symphony. Vladimir Horowitz was the piano soloist in the concerts of February 29th and March 1st. He played Rachmininov's Concerto No. 3 in D minor. Bach's works formed the remainder of the program. The concert by the Civic Orchestra March 3rd had as conductor Hans Lange and as soloist Iso Briselli, violinist. As the Civic Orchestra is Chicago's training school for symphonic players, the prices for their concerts are purely nominal. February 7th, the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Dimitri Mitropoulos, presented in Chicago a program containing works by Beethoven (Overture to "Leonore"), Rachmaninoff (Symphony No. 3), Dukas ("La Peri"), and Wagner (Introduction to Act IiI, "Die Meistersinger"). The high point of the evening was reached with the quicksilver performance of Rachmaninoff's Third Symphony.

DAVID STANLEY SMITH, the compose of "Fourth Symphony", conducted his own work in the concert given by the New Haven Symphony Orchestra, Febru-

Washington
THE Mexican conductor, Carlos Chaves, made his first appearance in Washington, D. C., February 4th, as guest leader of the National Symphony Orchestra. The program included Mr. Chaves' own arrangement of Buxtehude's Chaconne and works by Beethoven, Haydn, Debussy and De Falla. Sigurd Rascher, saxophonist, made his Washington debut March 3rd, as soloist with the National Symphony Orchestra.

It looks as though this, its ninth, season will be the National Symphony Orchestra's last, unless some public-minded citizens come forward with something more substantial than suggestions. The orchestra has always had its difficulties, ever since, in 1930, a group of unemployed or partially employed citizens got together and called themselves The National Symphony Orchestra; but this time it looks as if the usual five and ten dollar contributions would be altogether inadequate considering the gravity of the crisis. This orchestra, which may fold up for lack of popular support, played this season twenty regular concerts, twelve student concerts, fifty concerts on tour and five special concerts, a total of eighty-seven performances.

Baltimore

"Syllogism", a tone poem by the English composer, Cecil Grey, occurred February 18th when it was played by the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Howard Barlow.

Charleston, W. Va.

THE proceeds from the third concert of the winter series, given by the Charleston Civic Orchestra, January 30th, went to agencies engaged in combating infantile paralysis. John and Jose Hiersoux were the soloists in the Mozart E-flat major Concerto for two planes and orchestra. Other compositions played were by major Concerto for two planes and orches-tra. Other compositions played were by Beethoven, Wagner, Vieuxtemps, Johann Strauss and Lucius Hosmer. As an en-core "Musical Miniature", by the con-ductor, W. R. Wiant, was played. The next concert will be given in the middle of March.

Winter Park, Florida

Winter Park, Florida

AT the first concert in its fourteenth season the Symphony Orchestra of Central Florida played, on January 16th, the Weber Overture to "Euryanthe", the Bach Concerto for Violin and Strings in E major and the Tchaikovsky Symphony No. 5, in E minor. The "twin cities", Orlando and Winter Park, turned out almost to a man to hear an excellent performance of these three works conducted by Alexander Bloch. The violin soloist of the evening, Broadus Erle, played the Bach Concerto with feeling and style, demenstrating a noble, full tone, especially in the slow movement.

The concerts of February 20th and March 12th, also conducted by Alexander Bloch, were well attended and enthusiastically received. The last concert of the season will be given April 2nd.

Suffolk County, L. I.

DURING the month of February the Suffolk County Philharmonic, under Max gave concerts in Babylon, Sayville and Islip, Long Island.

Philadelphia

THE Philadelphia Orchestra has a special The Philadelphia Orchestra has a special place in the hearts of "career" women, since it stands as ready to employ women as men members, if they qualify in musicianship. Already it has four women members—a violinist, a cellist and two harpists. The cellist, Elsa Hilger, is the most recent acquisition. She will occupy the first stand in the orchestra's Robin Hood Dell series this summer.

VIOLA MITCHELL, who established the unprecedented record during her first tour of America of making ten appearances with five major orchestras, was the violin soloist on February 2nd and 4th with the Pittsburgh Symphony Society under the baton of Fritz Reiner. She played the Bruch Concerto in G minor with comprehension and vigor. Other works on the program were Berlios' "Roman Carnival", Debussy's "La Mer", and the Beethoven "Fifth".

The Brahms D minor Concerto was the "Roman Carnval", Debussys "La Mer", and the Heethoven "Fifth".

The Brahms D minor Concerto was the composition chosen to display the genius of Eunice Norton, piano acloist with the orchestra February 9th and 11th. Described by Olin Downes as "fiery and capricious, unchained in poetical fantasy", she maintains a most sorious attitude toward her art, and is an ardent supporter of modern music. The program also included Rossini's Overture "Il Signor Bruschino", Daniel Gregory Mason's "Suite after English Folksongs" and the Haydn Symphony No. 9, in C minor.

Three soloists, all of them world-famous artists, made the all-Wagner concerts of February 23rd and 25th occasions to be remembered. Helen Traubel (as Sieglinde), Laurits Melchior (as Siegmund) and Emanuel List (as Hunding) sang the entire first act of "Die Walküre". On the same program the Prelude to Act I on the same program the Preduce to Act I of "Lohengrin", the "Ride of the Valkyries", "Bacchanale" from "Tannhäuser" and Prelude and "Liebestod" from "Tristan and Isolde" were presented. Helen Traubel, the operatic "find" of the season, was discovered by Fritz Reiner and selected for the role of Sieglinde even before the Metropolitan engaged her. Emanuel List, basso, and Lauritz Melchior, heroic tenor, are famous for their Wagnerian interpretations.

Scranton

THE Scranton Philharmonic Orchestra THE Scranton Philharmonic Orchestra of about eighty members, Georg Sebastian, conductor, gave its first concert in its second winter series January 22nd. Music by Sibelius constituted the larger part of a program in honor of Finland. Bach's Fifth Brandenburg Concerto was also ably played. The concert of March 4th took the form of a celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of Tchaikovsky's birth. The great "Pathetique" Symphony and a concerto for soloist and orchestra were included.

New Jersey

THE New Jersey Symphony Orchestra, directed by Frieder Weissmann, had I directed by Frieder Weissmann, had Michel Piastro, violinist, and Joseph Schuster, cellist, as guest soloists in concerts February 19th at Orange and February 20th at Montclair. They played the Brahms Double Concerto.

This orchestra is in its eighteenth season and has a permanent membership of eighty players. It is a non-profit-making, self-supporting organization and is managed by volunteers.

Newark

A CONCERT was played to a sold-out

A CONCERT was played to a sold-out house the afternoon of February 7th, when the Cleveland Orchestra, accompanied by Rudolph Ringwall, gave a concert for students there under the auspices of the Griffith Music Foundation.

The same sponsors presented Arturo Toscanini and the N. B. C. Symphony Crohestra at the Mosque Theatre, in Newark, on February 21st, 1940, in a program which demonstrated the wide gamut of this conductor's interpretive powers. The "Leonore" overture No. 2 and the Symphony No. 7 in A major, both by Beethoven, were presented in the first half of the program. After the intermission the Prelude to "Parsifal" and the "Good Friday Spell" by Wagner, "Till Eulenspiegel's Marry Pranks" by Richard Strauss, "Moto Perpetuo" by Paganini, in an arrangement by Toscanini, and two dances from "William Tell" by Rossini were presented.

Plainfield, N. J.

WHEN the Plainfield Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Louis J. Bostelmann, performed Beethoven's triple concerto, February 19th, the soloists were Katherine Bacon, piano; David Sackson, violin, and Percy Such, cello.

BACH'S Six-Voiced Fugue, in a musical transcription by Howard Ferguson, was played by the Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra in its concert of February 1st, and an admirable performance of Brahms' Concerto was given. Mishel Plastro, concertmaster of the orchestra, was soloist. The conductor, John Barbirolli, has incidentally, been re-engaged for two more seasons. He is to direct twenty-two weeks of the thirty-week season and to go on tour with the orchestra between November 19th and December 5th. The other concerts are to be under the leadership of Mr. Bruno Walter and Dimitri Mitropoulos, each conducting fourteen. Mr. Walter has long been associated with the New York Philharmonic and before the Austrian Anschluss was Arturo Toscanini's assistant in the Salzburg Festivals. Mr. Mitropoulos is the regular conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra.

phony Orchestra.

At the Sunday afternoon concert of February 4th, Alexander Brallowsky, one of the greatest living interpreters of Chopin, was guest soloist with the New York Philharmonic-Symphony Society. In his playing of the Coucerto for Piano and Orchestra in E minor by Chopin, he had ample opportunity to prove this anew to New York audiences, the tones slipping from his fingers like pearls into water. At the pair of concerts February 8th and 9th, the Hungarian violinist, Robert Virovai, gave a superior performance of the 9th, the Hungarian violinist, Robert Virovai, gave a superior performance of the Mendelseohn violin concerto, his tones rich, resonant, in the earlier portion and quick as the flicker of lights in the flying passage-work of the finale. He repeated the Mendelseohn Violin Concerto, February 11th. In order to get back to the United States for these concerts, he had literally to play his way out of Canada. At Niagara Falls, officials doubted his word and even his contract. They demanded more direct proof that he was indeed the great violinist. Nothing loath, Mr. Virovai took out his violin and played a tune for the officials. It goes without saying that he appeared at the Philharmonic, and on time.

On one of the stormiest nights of the winter, February 14th, faithful Bach lovers crowded into Carnegie Hall to hear Albert Stoessel conduct the Oratorio Society in the B minor Mass. Reverently, from 7:30 to 11:00 they listened to this supreme masterpiece, many studiously following the scores. The chorus of three hundred who had prepared this work in their precious spare time sang in this fourteenth unabridged performance of the Mass with increasing knowledge and authority. The vocal soloists were Dorothy Baker, soprancy Viola Silva, contralto; Hardesty Johnson, tenor (last minute sub-Hardesty Johnson, tenor (last minute sub stitute for Joseph Victor Laderoute) and John Gurney, bass-baritone. The orches stitute for Joseph Victor Laderoute) and John Gurney, bass-baritone. The orchestra included sixty players, and the instrumental soloists were Mischa Mischakoff, violin; Frederick Wilkins, fiute; Lois Wann and Carlos Mullinex, oboes; William Vacchiano, trumpet; Alfred M. Greenfield, plano, and Hugh Porter, organ. Mr. Stoessel deserves special gratitude of New Yorkers and those who travel from nearby cities, for his unvarying care and effort in yearly presenting this Mass; for it is a work pregnant with meaning for and it is a work pregnant with meaning for haste-ridden New Yorkers.

On the evening of February 15th Vla-dimir Horowitz made the concert of the Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra an the Philiarmonic-Symphony Orchestra an event of the season by his superb performance of Rachmaninon's Third Plano Concerto. The remainder of the program was devoted to Beethoven's Fourth Symphony and to the conductor, John Barbirolli's, own arrangement for strings of six selections from Purcell's "The Fairy Ouespa"

In the purely orchestral concert of Feb-In the purely orchestral concert of February 18th, the works played were by Beethoven, Powell, Ravel, and Handel-Harty. The Powell Suite brought back that delicate aura of early England; its three sections were "Snowbird on the Ashbank", "Green Willow" and "Haste to the Wedding". Ravel's "Bolero" was played at a fairly slow tempo, in keeping with the composer's intention.

The "three Ba" were the composers

The Bach Suite in B minor. No. 2, was conducted with a forthrightness and vitality that suited it well. The Second Symphony of Beethoven and the First of Brahms completed a pro-gram which was given an appropriate patriotic flavor by being prefaced with "The Star Spangled Banner". The Bach "The Star Spangled Banner". The Bach Suite also began the concert of February 25th; the remainder of the program was Shoetakovitch's "Golden Age" Ballet and Tchaikovsky's "Pathetic" Symphony.

Tchaikovsky's "Pathetic" Symphony.

The National Orchestral Association, under Leon Barzin, in its current Gabrilowitsch Memorial series, gave a most interesting concert February 10th. Samuel Barber's overture to "The School for Scandal" demonstrated again the rich play of imagination in this composer's works. After its presentation, the soloiet, Rudolf Serkin, was heard in the Mosart concerto in E flat major and the Second Concerto of MacDowell, both demonstrating his ability to strike fire from the Mozart masterplece.

On the evening of February 19th the works of Boris foutzen ("Valley Forge") and Anis Fulethan (First Symtheny) were presented. Previous to the playing of these works, Karl Ulrich Schnabel, planist, played the Mozart E flat Concerto and the Chopin "Andante Spianato" and "Grande Polonaise".

The WPA Music Project gave, on February 6th, 13th and 27th and on March 6th, a series of symphonic concerts at prices comparing favorably with neighborhood moving picture houses. Georg Sebastian was the conductor of the first two, Maurice Abravanel of the second two. The concert of the 6th was devoted to Brahms and Sibelius. Adolf Busch, violinist, gave to the musical canvas of Brahms Concerto in D major the rich colorings it deserved. He has a vibrant sweep and colorings it deserved. He has a vibrant sweep and sense of tonal and dynamic proportion.

Brahms and Sibelius were again the sole composers on the program of February 13th. Brahms' Concerto in a minor for Violin and Cello was played by soloists Mishel Plastro, violinist, and Joseph Schuster, cellist.

The concert of March 19th will have as guest-conductor the brilliant young Izler Solomon with Charles Wakefield Cadman as soloist in his "Dark Dancers of the Mardl Gras", for piano and orchestra. Mr. Solomon, though not yet out of his twentics, is regular conductor of two orchestras, the tor of two orchestras, the illinois Symphony and the Women's Symphony. The concert which he will conduct will consist entirely of American compositions.

duct will consist entirely of American compositions.

The low-priced tickets, from twenty-five cents to one dollar, and the appearance of celebrated artists (who donate their services) combine to attract many who ordinarily would not attend concerts. The large number of young people in the audiences is another reason for optimism. The inescapable conclusion is that Mayor LaGuardia and Horace Johnson, the director, have opened up avenues of musical opportunity not only to many players but to many potential appreciators as well.

Exceptional enthusiasm on Exceptional enthusiasm on the part of the New York audience was the reaction to the visit of the Cleveland Orchestra, February 6th. Artur Rodzinski, appearing for the first time here with the orchestra he has trained and perfected, showed himself a masterful leader of a group both earnest and extremely sensitive to nuance and tone coloring. The consensus of opinion is that the woodwind and brass sections are of a quality seldom surpassed in any ensemble of the country, but that the violin section, though meticulously obedient to direction, is a trifle undermanned. The opening is a trifle undermanned. The opening performance, Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Sché-hérazade", was a crystal-clear rendering of the composer's intention. The playing of Ribelius's Fifth Symphony and that of Richard Strauss's "Till Eulenspiegel" were praiseworthy, the former for its revelation of power, the latter for its fantasy. At the end of the concert the orchestra and the director were accorded an ovation. Assisted by Artur Rubinstein, planist, the Philadelphia Orchestra, Eugene Ormandy conducting, gave a program at Carnegie Hall, February 13th. Rubinstein in the performance of the Chopin F minor concerto kept the note of fragile a trifle undermanned. The opening performance, Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Schéremain in the performance of the Chopin F minor concerto kept the note of fragile loveliness throughout, with no hint of modern crassness to mar the inspiration of that lovelorn composer. The finale was played with all the brilliancy and whimsy takerent in the work.

Departing from the long-established tradition of giving its concerts exclusively in its home-town, the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of its founding, will appear in New York on November 20th and 22nd. In reciprocation, the New York Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra will give concerts on November 21st and 22nd, in Chicago's Orchestra Hall. Such amicable relations have marked these orchestras throughout their histories. The New York organization, the oldest in the country, was founded in 1842, the Chicago Symphony, the third oldest, in 1891.

Rochester

THE famous duo-pianists, Ethel Bartlett and Rae Robertson, were soloists with the Rochester Philharmonic Symphony, under the direction of Jose Iturbi, Febru-ary 2th, playing Mozart's Concerto for Two Planos in E flat major.

Dayton, Ohio

THE Dayton Philharmonic Orchestra under Paul Kats was in fine form February 12th, when it played, with Israel Baker, soloist, the very exacting "Concerto for Violin No. 1 in D Major" by Paganini. Young Israel Baker's violinistic ability surpassed even the high expectations of his audience, especially in the playing, without accompaniment, with limpid, full tones, the andante movement from Bach's Concerto in A minor, and the Paganini Caprice.

The seventh and closing concert of the season took place March 11th, when the Dayton Chorus, directed by William Krebs, joined the orchestral players. Selections from Beethoven's "Missa Solemnis" were heard, and the Symphony No. 2 of Brahms.

Buffalo

THE soloist with the Buffalo Philharmonic, on February 27th, was Helen Teschner Tas, violinist. The conductor was Franco Autori.

Richard Strauss' "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks" formed the lighter motif for the occasion. For the orchestra's program of February 18th, Miss Marjorie Lawrence, soprano, and Lauritz Melchior, tenor, were the soloists. The concert took place in the large Public Auditorium which was chosen to accommodate the large audiences at these "popular" concerts. At the first pair of performances, February 22nd and 24th, given in the regular series after the Eastern tour, Dr. Artur Rodzinski conducted a program of works by Debussy, Scriabin and Beethoven. Debussy's string quartet, as arranged for orchestra by Frank Black, received its first Cleveland presentation. The Cleveland Philharmonic Chorus, Boris Goldovsky, director, joined the Cleveland Orchestra in its sixteenth regular pair of symphony concerts, February 29th and March 2nd. The program opened with Mozart's Overture to "The Abduction from the Seraglio". Next, Boris Goldovsky conducted Brahms' choral ballad, "Nanie", Op. 82. The Brahms Symphony No. 4 followed, directed by Dr. Rodzinski, and, after the intermission Prokofeff's Overture on Jewish Themes. The closing selection was the Chorus No. 10 by Heitor Villa-Lobos, which was given its first Cleveland performance on these programs.

THE unusually interesting program of the second concert of the Terre Haute Civic and Teachers' College Symphony Orchestra, January 23rd, included in its purely orchestral compositions Mozart's "The Shepherd King", Haydn's "London Symphony", and Liszt's "Les Preludes". The program was varied by Dorothy Lenhart Fidlar's playing of the violoncello solo, "Lamento", by Gabriel Marie. Barbara Booe, young flute soloist, played Gluck's "Ballet of the Blessed Spirits" with just the ethereal tone required. Mrs. Daisy Osterhage, soprano, sang "The Piper of Love" by Carew, adding as encore Oley Speaks' "Morning". Her accompanist was Miss Elizabeth Blood. The next concert of the orchestra will be heard on March 26th.

The concerts of February 16th and 17th presented two soloists, Leon Zawisza, violinist, and Ernest Friedlander, cellist. Wagner's "The Flying Dutchman" and R. Strauss's "Serenade for Thirteen Wind Instruments" were outstanding works on the program. Two compositions of Brahms, Concerto in A minor for Violin and Violoncello, and Symphony No. 4, brought the program to a close. February 25th was evening of novelties. "Concerto for Percussion Instruments" by Schreiner, sub-titled "The Worried Drummer", was as curious as the title sounds; Cloyd Duff played what might be called the title role. A violin solo, "The Deluge" by Saint-Saens was played by Leon Zawisza. "Pageant of P. T. Rarnum" by Moore was a glorious jollification. Crawfordsville, Indiana
IN its ninth consecutive season, the Crawfordsville Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Gilbert Kellberg, gave, on February 2nd, before the largest audience in its history, a concert consisting of Tchaikovsky's Symphony No. 5, as well as shorter works by Wagner, Grieg, Bach and Gronert. The latter composer—her full name is Hazel Dessery Gronert—is concertmaster of the orchestra. Her "A Proud Fair Maiden" was sung by the soloist of the evening, Margaret Hopkins, who also sang Grieg's "I Love Thee" in the original Norwegian. Crawfordsville is a town with a population of 10,000 and an indication of its cultural standing is the fact that it has been able to sustain for so many seasons an orchestra of truly symphonic proportions.

Browne, played two compositions by Americans, one by a citizen of Evansville, Sigurd Humphreys Rauscher, and one by a native of Boulder, Colorado, Harl McDonald. The first harks back to the composer's birth place, Vienna, and is a tribute to the heroism of the Vienness workers who died at the hands of the Fascist government in January, 1934. The other is a dance-form, in the popular modern rhumba rhythm, rising irrevocably to a tremendous climax which abruptly concludes the composition. The program further included Wagner's Overture to "Die Meistersinger", Saint-Saens' Concerto for Piano and Orchestra and Schubert's Symphony No. 8, in B minor.

Kansas City

City Philharmonic Orchestra went on tour, giving concerts in Concordia and Emporia, both in Kansas. Other out-of-town concerts played later in the season were in Lawrence, Kansas, Topeka, Kansas, and Springfield, Missouri.

A pair of concerts of entirely orchestral music was the offering of the orchestra on February 15th and 16th, Karl Krueger conducting. Wolf-Ferrari, Goldmark, Chabrier. Brahms and Wagner were composers whose works contributed to making these concerts culturally stimulating. On the following evening, February 17th, the orchestra showed its true pioneer spirit by putting on an evening of high-jinks. The program consisted of a series of "acts" and specialties by members of the orchestra, for instance a "doll dance" by Lois Craft, the harpist, and Beethoven's "Kitchen Symphony" played on pots and pans.

Minneapolis

Minneapolis

In their last concert, February 1st, before starting on a three weeks' tour, the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra played a program of such high standard and with such sensitivity as to further endear them to their audiences and make them appreciate more than ever the invaluable service this organization renders the cultural life of the city. The entire first part of the program consisted of works of that genial and sincere composer, Anton Dvorak. Dimitri Mitropoulos gave with zest and conviction a reading of "Carnival", portraying the two remotely related moods of boisterous merry-making and intimate confession. Nathan Milstein was the soloist February 1st in Dvorak's Concerto for Violin, Opus 53, in its first performance in Minneapolis, and his playing was such as makes one realize anew that the ability to comprehend and interpret the wishes of a great master is a far superior gift than mere technical perfection. After the intermission, when an appeal was made by Mr. Loring Staples for financial support of the orchestra, three "first performances" in Minneapolis were given, that of the Prelude. Aria and Finale, of Franck-Gui, the Passacaglia by Antonio Cece, and "Under the Spreading Chestnut Tree" by Weinberger. The first of these is an orchestral arrangement of a rich polyphonic piano number; the second is a composition by a protégé (Cece) of Mitropoulos; the third-well, the third has been played so often and so widely that by now it must be a humming accompaniment to most of the activities of workaday America.

At the first concert (March 1st) after its return from a three-week tour in which it visited more than twenty towns in the Middle West, the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra played the "Water Music" of Handel, in the Harty arrangement, "Four Tone Poems after Pictures by Arnold Boecklin", by Reger—"The Fiddling Hermit", "Sport of the Waves", "The Island of Death", and "Bacchanale"—works as weird as the pictures themselves, and "Pictures at an Exhibition" by Moussorssky-Ravel. Duluth

A CONCERT for the benefit of the Finnish Relief was given February 4th by the Duluth Symphony Orchestra under Faul Lemay. The program consisted entirely of compositions by Sibelius. With a large percentage of the population, in and around Duluth, Finnish, the concert, drawing from a radius of at least one hundred and fifty miles, swelled its attendance to near capacity.

The next concert was given March 15th, with Nathan Milstein playing the Concerto in E minor for Violin and Orchestra and capturing Duluth audiences as he has captured audiences in Holland, Spain, England, Italy and Poland. Daniel Gregory Mason's "Lincoln" Symphony was played on the same program.

The soloist on April 19th will be Alec Templeton, planist.

Portland, Oregon
TWO concerts were given during February by the newly organized Portland Philharmonic Orchestra. On February 6th, Lilly Hertz, mezzo-soprano, was guest soloist, singing songs of Brahms and Wagner which were especially arranged for her by her husband, Alfred Hertz, many years director of the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra and the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra. On February 27th the program included the Liszt Hungarian Fantasy, for piano and orchestra. The soloist was Lamar Crowson, thirteen-year-old pianist. The orchestra was conducted by Leslie Hodge.

Seattle

THE Seattle Symphony Orchestra's final subscription concert of the season was given February 12th under the direction of its conductor, Dr. Nikolai Sokoloff. As was fitting for such a significant occasion, Beethoven's "Eroica" Symphony and Richard Strauss' "Death and Transfiguration", majestic compositions both, were included on the program. "Fountains of Rome" by Respighi gave the lighter touch. Thus was portrayed in brief both the moments of gayety and those of grandeur with which the foregoing season had been rich.

FOR the concert of February 3rd, the last of the season under the directorship of Bernardino Molinari, that rich panorama of magical events comprising "Schéhérazade" by Rimsky-Korsakoff was unfolded with just the proper touch of fantasy. After the intermission, Rossellini, Salviucci and Respight (the last in his popular "Pines of Rome") were represented.

Bruno Walter conducted the N. B. C. Symphony Orchestra programs of February 10th and February 17th, in the former playing Haydn's Symphony in D Major, and Anton Bruckner's Symphony No. 4, and in the latter playing "Concerto Grosso for String Orchestra in G minor" by Georg Frederick Handel, Symphony in D Major by Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart and Symphony No. 2 by Johannes Brahms. During this second appearance of the season he played, in the Handel's Concerto Grosso, the dual role of conductor and pianist. After the programs of Molinari, more outstanding for their excitsm than for their homely qualities, these offerings of Walter, of substantial lasting stuff, were gratefully received.

On February 24th, Walter conducted the d'Indy "Istar" Variations, the "Rhapsody Espangole" by Ravel and Schubert's Symphony in C major. He directed also the concerts of March 2nd and 9th. Arturo Toscanini will return on March 18th.

Dr. Arnold Volpe

DR. ARNOLD VOLPE, founder of the New York Stadium Concerts, died in Miami, Florida, February 2nd, at the age of seventy. Born in Russia on July 9, 1869, he came to New York in 1898 and two years later began his career as conductor of the Young Men's Symphony Orchestra in that city, an organization that continued until the Great War of 1917 forced its disbandment. In 1904 Dr. Volpe established the Volpe Orchestra of some eighty men which for many years presented concerts regularly in Carnegie Hall. He always considered his greatest achievement, however, the founding, in 1918, of the Lewisohn Stadium Concerts, the first attempt in the United States to democratize symphonic music. Dr. Volpe conducted all the concerts the first two seasons and returned as guest conductor in 1924, 1927 and 1936. In 1926 he became conductor of the Miami Symphony Orchestra, leaving this organization in 1931 long enough to organize an orchestra for Kansas City. On returning, he founded, in 1934, the University of Miami Symphony Orchestra.

Television

IRST facts on television, covering the National Broadcasting Company's first eight months of telecasting, were recently released in a report submitted by Alfred H. Morton, N. B. C. vice-president of television.

The figures given in this report prove that television has been most enthusiastically received by more than 2,000 tele-receiver owners in New York City and its immediate surroundings. (Thus, showing up the skeptics who have put thumbs down on sight-broadcast.) The report gives an accurate picture of the size of the television audience, and reveals what the pioneer televiewers like in program material.

According to Mr. Morton's survey, 89.9 per cent of the total number of receiving sets distributed are located in homes in the metropolitan area.

The average audience for all shows, both afternoon and evening, is placed at 68.9 per cent of the potential audience of 10,000. The average evening performance the potential audience of 10,000.

includes about 8,000 persons.

This audience poll was begun by N. B. C. last October, in an effort to learn the likes and dislikes of the televiewers concerning program material.

program material.

Weekly program charts, with a detachable return card, were mailed to all set owners. The return cards bore spaces for the rating of each program item telecast. Two hundred and forty-nine names of set owners comprised the first mailing list, and three months later (first week of 1940) the list had grown to 1,005 set owners. Since then the list has been growing at the rate of about 10 per cent it week.

Mr. Morton states that the returns of these weekly rating cards have been high and consistent. The first week's returns amounted to more than 43 per cent of the total mailing. The highest figure is listed at more than 45 per cent, and the lowest at 33.5. Returns for the last week of 1938 were 38 per cent. These returns are most significant, as such high averages are quite unusual for a mailing of this nature.

Questionnaires were also sent with the program charts in which the televiewer was asked to rate each program on the basis of "excellent", "good", "fair" and "excellent", "good", "fair" and To date, the studio features, with "poor". To date, the studio features, with dramatic shows leading, top the list with an eight-month rating of 2.63. These are followed by outside special event pick-ups, rated at 2.11, and film features averaging 1.96. Short film subjects received a rating of 1.75 per cent. The average for all types of shows was 1.96, which was a triffe under the "good" classification. The play, "Jane Eyre", received the highest rating of the dramatic presentations.

The questionnaire has given every television set owner an opportunity to voice his opinion as to the quality and acceptability of every individual program broadcast, Mr. Morton pointed out. "We feel that in offering this opportunity to the television audience," he stated, "and keeping our thoughts and operation flexible, we can readily trim our programs as closely and as quickly as possible to the majority vote of the audience. Our weekly rating questionnaire forms a very sensitive measuring rod to guide us in this policy."

sensitive measuring rod to guide us an this policy."

The number of hours telecast by N. B. C. during 1939 rose from 20.48 hours in May, the first full month of the N. B. C. service, to 58.73 hours in December. Programs to 58.73 hours in December. Programs presented by live talent led with 38.2 per cent of the total hours, followed by film telecasts, with 31.9 per cent, and outside special event telecasts placed at 29.9 per states:

As to the cost of production, Mr. Morton

"Having an interested audience, and generally pleasing it with a given program fare is all well and good, but at what price? Quick figures covering out-of-pocket costs, as we are operating at present, are around $10,000 a week. If certain overhead costs are included, the figure is more nearly $15,000 a week. In connection with costs, it is always a consideration as to whether organization, administration and cost control can progressively show continued efficiency."

Keeping within provisions of existing regulations, N. B. C. invited agencies and individual firms to experiment with them. Since the inauguration of their regular service on April 30, 1939, sixty-seven various advertisers have brought them programs for transmission over the company's facilities. These advertisers represent sixteen of the major industries of sent sixteen of the major industries of the country.

Programs of a commercial nature have totaled a number of 148 to date, and the number of hours devoted to these programs have risen approximately 100 per cent during this eight-month period.

Upon presenting his survey, Mr. Morton said: "We feel that with the groundwork described in this report, we have established the machinery, the philosophies and the enthusiasm requisite for successful television broadcasting."

witness the operation of the telecast stations, to view television in the home, and,

THREE new achievements in television research have been announced by William H. ETENTION of a number of noted Metropolitan Opera singers in Europe has, after all, proved a blessing in disguise, at least for American singers who consequently are coming into their own with this institution.

Artists who have made good in a big way in the last few years include Grace Moore, so well known for her singing of the title role in "Louise" as well as the leading soprano roles in "La Boheme" and "Manon"; Helen Jepson: Rise Stevens, who stars in "Der Rosenkavalier" and "Mignon"; John Charles Thomas and Lawrence Tibbett, who star in any role which they essay; Richard Bonelli, whose singing is always a delight to hear; Frederick Jagel, scoring successes in "Rigoletto" and "La Gioconda"; Charles Kullman, whose singing of Walther in "Die Meistersinger" and Pinkerton in "Madame Butterfly" is outstanding; Richard Crooks, whose work in "Romeo and Juliet", "Manon" and "Rigoletto" needs no further comment; Arthur Carron, famous for his singing in liacci" and "Aida"; and Julius Huehn, Wagnerian baritone.

Wagnerian baritone.

This year has seen Helen Traubel rise to stardom in "Tannhäuser" and "Die Walküre". Rose Bampton has re-established herself as a soprano, and Leonard Warren became an overnight sensation through his singing and acting of Barnaba in "La Gloconda". Other American artists who have made good include Anna Kaskas, Norman Cordon, Lucielle Browning, Maxine Stellman, Annamary Dickey, John Carter, Hilda Burke and Robert Weede.

The latest young American star to arrive is Raoul Jobin, making his debut in "Manon" on February 19th. This young native of Quebec has had considerable experience in Paris, where he sang at the Paris Opera and the Opera Comique. He returned to Canada and late last year was persuaded to enter the Metropolitan Auditions of the Air, being heard on New Year's Eve. The Metropolitan management was so impressed by his vocal resources and experience that when a vacancy arose he was engaged without the usual elimination process.

His debut was most impressive. He has a fine, robust tenor voice, good stage presence and histrionic ability. He is a valuable addition to the tenor contingent. Verily, American artists have at last come into their own, making the great Metropolitan more truly an American institution than ever before.

With the above in mind, Metropolitan patrons and the vast Metropolitan radio audience should feel more inclined than ever to contribute to the campaign to raise $1,000,000 to purchase the Metropolitan Opera House. At the time of this writing, 55,000 letters have been received at the rate of 3,000 daily and 99 out of 100 contain contributions.

In explaining the campaign to the audience on February 19th, Chairman George A. Sloan explained why it was necessary to purchase the present Metropolitan Opera House instead of trying to build a new one. The answer is simple; a new opera house would cost from ten to twelve million dollars. The present one can be mafeguarded as a home for the Met by raising one million dollars. He said one of the most frequent questions is, "What would happen if the present campaign failed?" The answer is that the future of the Metropolitan would be most uncertain. To the ever-recurring question as to why the present arrangement cannot be continued, he explained that the real estate tinued, he explained that the real estate company owning the building is controlled by a number of the stockholders who, in return for the many assessments levied upon them, are granted certain privileges, including their boxes in the grand tier. Much of this stock has passed into the hunds of estates which are administered by trust companies, some being under the direct jurisdiction of the courts. In many of these cases, neither the courts nor the trust companies will approve the paying of assessments; hence it is impossible to continue the present arrangement any longer.

Mr. Sloan further stated that there had been six donations of $10,000 each, the most recent having been received from a United States citizen who is residing in Switzerland. The Juilliard Music School has contributed $70,000, and there have been several donations of $5,000 and many of $1,000. The latest contribution was been several donations of $5,000 and many of $1,000. The latest contribution was received from Grenna Bennett, representing the twenty-one music critics of New York. One of the donations of $1,000 was given by Local 802 of New York City, the first contribution from a labor organization. The Local also has donated the services of its members for a special gala performance to be given for the benefit of the fund. gala performan fit of the fund.

the services of its members for a special gala performance to be given for the benefit of the fund.

The chairman of the board of the Metropolitan Opera Association, in thanking Local 802 for its efforts, stated: "This is a very generous gift and augurs well for the success of our campaign to make the opera a civic enterprise."

Many prominent speakers and Metropolitan artists have been heard in the radio broadcast appeals, including Lauritz Melchior, Kirsten Flagstad, Lucrezia Bort, Gluseppe de Luca, Mrs. August T. Belmont and Mayor Florello H. LaGuardia of New York City. The Mayor termed the Metropolitan Opera "one of the monuments of peace" and remarked how much more fortunate we were to be making an appeal for the maintenance of something cultural, than those countries where the frantic entreaties were being mode for handages for wounded soldiers. He ended his speech with the words: "Is this the twilight of the Metropolitan? Is it going out after sixty years of glorious record? Or is this the dawn of a new day for opera in this country? I think it is, because of the greater appreciation and understanding of good music."

On Sunday, March 10th, a special television broadcast, featuring stars of the Metropolitan Opera Company, was presented by N. B. C.

In addition to broadcast programs calling attention to the Metropolitan's campaign for funds, the National Broadcasting Company also is conducting a letterwriting contest on the subject, "What the Metropolitan Opera Broadcasts Mean to Me." The writers of the best 100-word letters on this topic will be offered their choice of weekly season tickets to the Metropolitan next season, or a trip to New York and seats for the opening night of the 1940-41 season. Six similar prizes will be awarded at the conclusion of the contest, which closes March 23rd.

New York

THE Mctropolitan Opera's special matinee cycle of "The Ring" began February 2nd with a performance of "Das Rheingold" admirably conducted by Erich Leinsdorf. Walter Olitzki's Alberich was a finely developed concept throughout, down to his last terrible curse. The other characters welded their several individualities into an ensemble of unusual power.

The eleventh week of the opera began February 5th with a performance of Gluck's "Orfeo ed Euridice", with Kerstin Thorborg and Jarmila Novotna in the title roles. Marita Farell was "Love" and Annamary Dickey "The Happy Spirit".

The performance of "Traviata" on the 7th of February was the best that had been offered in many seasons, due largely to the performances of the two artists, Jarmila Novotna and Giuseppe de Luca. Novotna, the Czecho-Slovak soprano, a newcomer at the Metropolitan this season, is an actress who neither overdoes her part nor misses any significant detail. In the part of Violetia she portrays the extremes of agony and sorrow without for a moment seeming to caricature the passions or belittle their greatness.

Giuseppe de Luca, the veteran baritone, again at the Metropolitan after an absence of five years, appeared on the stage in the role of Germont père, and received a thunderous welcome from the audience. His first five notes seemed to illuminate the immortal phrases of Verdi, giving them u deeper significance.

With Marjorie Lawrence giving her first Metropolitan performance of Sieglinde in "Die Walküre" and the other singers in fine fettle, the afternoon of February 8th was one of exceptional enjoyment. Well cast for the part, Miss Lawrence has the youth, fervor, femininity and beauty that go with the part, and her voice is better this year than ever before. Lauritz Melchior did some of his beat singing, in the role of Siegmund.

At the evening's performance of "La

At the evening's performance of "La Gioconda" the young audition winner, Leonard Warren, singing the role of Barnaba, proved himself the possessor of an exceptionally fine baritone voice. The cast was headed by Zinka Milanov in the title role.

was headed by Zinka Milanov in the title role.

On the afternoon of the 9th, a special performance of "Tristan und Isolde" was given for the benefit of the Smith College Club Scholarship.

A new "Butterfly" brightened the boards of the Metropolitan February 9th, when Licia Albaness made her debut in this role. She gave a sincere and convincing performance. Charles Kullman sang the part of Pinkerton with even greater ardor than usual. Richard Bonelli brought the character of Sharpless to life as few hefore him have done.

Giuseppe de Luca sang the role of Marcello in "Boheme" on the afternoon of February 10th and was tumultuously received by an audience that lavished its enthusiasm also on Bidu Sayao as Mimi. Annamary Dickey as Musetta, Armand Takatyan as Rodolfo, Ezio Pinza as Colline. George Cehanovsky as Schaunard, Louis D'Angelo as Benoit and Lodovico Oliviero as Paipignol completed the cast.

Monday, February 12th, marked the beginning of the twelfth week of the opers.

IE Mctropolitan Opera's special matinee cycle of "The Ring" began February 2nd with a performance of "Dase eingold" admirably conducted by Erich insdorf. Walter Olitzki's Alberich was finely developed concept throughout, who to his last terrible curse. The other tracters welded their several individuates into an ensemble of unusual power. A severe snowstorm seemed to have little effect on the ettendance at the performance at the performance at the performance of the special materials and Lodovico Oliviero as Parpignol completed the cast. Monday, February 12th, marked the beginning of the twelfth week of the opera and the third performance of the Matinee Wagner Cycle Series: "Siegfried" was the opera and the third performance of the matine of Mime nearly stole the show in the first and second acts by his fresh and unharded instruction of the part. formance of "Louise" on February 14th. Grace Moore sang the title role and Ettore Panizza conducted.

With Helen Trauble an Elizabeth who not only can sing the part sympathetically but knowe how to improve every detail of her performance, "Tanhäuser", on February 16th, received an enthusiastic response from its audience. It was Traubel's first essay of the role and she more than justified her hearers' high hopes. The "Song to the Evening Star", in the third act, sung by Herbert Janssen, was a vocal gem, the delivery of Tannhäuser's narrative magnificent. The Venus of Kerstin Thorborg is one of the most authentic portrayals of this role. Maxine Stellman interpreted the part of "A Young Shepherd" admirably.

"The Barber of Seville" was the opera of Friday, February 16th, in which Hilde Reggiani made her first appearance as Rosina. On the afternoon of February 17th, Marjorie Lawrence sang for the first time before Metropolitan audiences the part of Sieglinde in the opera "Die Walkdre", and proved herself well cast for the role. In the evening Mr. Papi conducted "Madame Butterfiy".

February 19th saw the completion of the "Ring" cycle, with the performance of "Götterdämmerung", in which Mme. Flagstad impressed anew with her interpretative ability, especially in the Waltraute scene of the first act. It goes without saying that she can summon such tone and temperament to her aid in the immolation scene as few sopranos of this or any other day have attained. In the revival of Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro" on February 20th, after twenty-two years' absence from the repertoire, the procedure of the original production of the work in Vienna in 1786 was closely followed. That this was made possible was due to the patient research and dramatic sense of the stage director, Dr. Herbert Graf. The aim throughout was to establish a natural unity between the action on the stage and the music. The production was handsomely costumed and mounted. Few productions at the Metropolitan have presented such a beautifully unified dramatic such standard as is not often attained, even at the Met.

Supporting Mr. Pinza were Elisabeth Rethberg, Bidu Sayao, Rise Stevens, Irra Petina, Marita Farell, Lucielle Browning, Maxine Stellman, John Browniee, Alessio De Paolis, Giordano Paltrinieri, Virgilio Lazzari and Louis D'Angelo.

Some of the New York critics objected to the buffoonery which may have been a little overdone at times. Neverthelees, the entire performance was one of the most satisfactory ever to be heard at the Metropolitan. The conductor was Ettore Panizza, who welded orchestra, artists and chorus into a fine unit that we trust will remain a part of the regular repertory of the Metropolitan for many years. The audience was highly pleased with the iwhole performance, as was attested by the jubilant cheering before the final curtain fat midnight. The net proceeds of this performance are to go to the Metropolitan Opera Association as a contribution from the Metropolitan Opera Campaign Fund.

On Washington's Birthday, "Parsifal"

from the Metropolitan Opera Guild to the Metropolitan Opera Campaign Fund.

On Washington's Birthday, "Parsifal" "was given a matinee performance for the benefit of the New York Diet Kitchen. Herbert Janssen made his first appearance in this opera as Amfortas. In the svening Licia Albanese was presented for the first time in the role of Mimi in "La Boheme". Hers is a small but agreeable voice and she showed the same intelligent attention to detail as was evident in her characterization of "Butterfly".

On Saturday afternoon, February 24th, Giovanni Martinelli, tenor, sang the title role of "Otello". Elisabeth Rethberg and Lawrence Tibbett were heard respectively in the parts of Desdemona and Iago. During the intermission Miss Grace Moore, soprano, announced that $372.335 of the $1,000,000 Metropolitan Opera Fund had been raised. Mr. Robert Miller, president of the San Francisco Opera Company, in making an appeal for the support of this fund, said that the interests of his company as well as of other companies in the large cities of the United States "are bound up in the successful continuation of the Metropolitan". Lawrence Tibbett, in his speech, emphasized that the Metropolitan is "one of the very few operas which knows no national restrictions".

The first performance of the Evening

The first performance of the Evening Ring Cycle, "Rheingold", was given Feb-ruary 24th to a sold-out house.

ruary 24th to a sold-out house.

The fourteenth week of the Metropolitan Opera had to offer the first appearance in New York, on Monday, February 26th, of Jarmila Novotna as Cherubino in "Le Nosse di Figaro". Madame Novotna's singing and acting in this part was delightful. She proved an admirable interpreter of Mozart, her characterization standing out as one of the highlights of the second performance of this opera. The reception accorded this second performance equaled that of the first.

On Wednesday of that week "Die Meistersinger", fifth of the matinee Wagner Cycle Series, was given, and, on the same evening, "Madame Butterfly". The "Tristan and Isolde" of Thursday evening was botable in that the part of King Marke was taken by Alexander Kipnis, his first appearance in that role.

The Polish baritone, Jerzy Czaplicki, made his New York debut in the Polish opera, "Halka", by Stanislaw Moniuszko, February 18th, when it was given in the Mecca Temple by the newly-formed Polish-American Opera Company. Ladis Kiepura sang the part of Jontek. The general manager of the opera company is Louis Kowalski.

The Ballet Russe of Monte Carlo, returning from its tour of the West, will begin a two weeks' engagement at the Metropolitan March 26th. A total of eight performances will be given. Three revivals will be Fokine's "Les Elfes", Leonide Massine's "Bogatyri" and the three-act version of "Coppelia".

Chicago

THE board of governors of the Chicago THE board of governors of the Chicago City Opera Company at a meeting February 3rd made certain definite plans for a seven-week season of opera in 1940. Jason F. Whitney was made chairman of the board of trustees. Henry Weber was appointed musical director and James C. Thompson, president of the Civic Opera Building, was made general manager. Coöperation by labor leaders was pledged: by James C. Petrillo for the musicians; by Frank C. Olsen and George F. Browne for the stage-hands; and by Ernest Charles and Leo Curley for the National Guild of Musical Artists. The immediate organization of a new and enlarged chorus of eighty or ninety singers was announced. It will be affiliated with the American Guild of Musical Artists, of which Lawrence Tibbett is president.

St. Paul

SMETANA'S "The Bartered Bride", staged February 14th by the St. Paul Civic Opera Company, was just the sort of zestful, tuneful production that warms the hearts of singers and audience alike. The Marie of Antoinette Bergquist, graceful and yet fiery, showed to advantage that singer's flexibility of voice and expressiveness of acting. William Lee, as the lover Hans, gave a brilliant performance. The two humorous roles, Keza, the marriage broker, and Wenzel, the fool, were played with excellent effect by Francis Gilsdorf and Reuben Holmquist. Portions most skillfully handled were the circus scene in the third act and the singing of the sextet in the second act. Much of the success of this operatic performance can be attributed to the animating spirit of Leo Kopp, its director.

Philadelphia

THE Philadelphia Opera Company, for its fifth production this season, pre-sented on March 12th Johann Strauss's "Die Fledermaus", Sylvan Levin conduct-ing. The new English translation of Vernon Hammond, the company's assistant music director, was used.

Washington

Washington

WHEN Mozart operas were presented by the University of Washington a short while ago, the enthusiasm was so great that ten performances are being given instead of the two that were originally planned. The theatre is by no means resting on past achievements, however. Right now it is busy preparing Stravinsky's "L'Histoire du soldat" for performance in March and after that it will go to work on the "Barber of Seville" for an April showing. "Fledermaus" will come in May. The director is Ernst E. Gebert.

Atlanta, Georgia

THE San Carlo Opera Company, trailing clouds of glory gathered from its appearances in Chicago, New York and other northern centers, hove into Atlanta, February 6th to present three operas there. "Aida" was given on Tuesday, February 6th, "Madame Butterfiy" on the afternoon of the 7th and "Carmen" on the evening of the same day. Hizi Koyke was the "Butterfiy" and Coe Glade the "Carmen".

St. Louis

A SPECIAL treat for St. Louis citizens A will be Marjorie Lawrence's first sing-ing of the role of Carmen, April 24th, with the St. Louis Opera Association.

THE opera, "Jewel Merchants", by Louis Cheslock, was presented February 26th by the Peabody Conservatory of Music.

RISE STEVENS has been engaged for the title role of the English production A the title role of the English production of "Rosenkavalier" to be given this autumn by the San Francisco Opera Company. It will be under the direction of Erich Leinsdorf. Miss Stevens will also sing the role of Amneris in "Aida" given in the original Italian.

The San Carlo Opera Company began its season of two weeks in San Francisco February 19th, giving in that city eighteen performances.

London

TOR the productions of "Beggar's Opera", given this season by the Glyndebourne Productions, Ltd., John Christie, the founder, engaged as producer one of the best Shakespearean actors, Mr. John Gielgud, and assembled a company of already famous singers. But the reports of the London newspapers bewail the fact that this opera "has suffered a war-change". Compared with the production of 1920 which ran for three years, it is "modernized", the orchestra has lost its viol da gamba and harpsichord, the flavor of the days of Addison and Steele is replaced by the stodginess of the industrial era. All in all, damaging comments are rife, comments which we hope will be proved out-of-date after curative measures have been taken. COR the productions of "Beggar's Opera",

Between The Lines

René Maison, tenor, and Risé Stevens, soprano, both of the Metropolitan, will make a series of appearances at the Teatro Colon, Buenos Afres, during the coming opera season in Argentina. Kurt Baum, Czecho-Slovak tenor, who recently made his American debut in Chicago, has also been engaged.

The new opera-buffa, "Florentine May", by Ernest Stramiello, with text by Armand Romano, will receive its world premiere March 31st when the Cosmopolitan Light Opera Company produces it at the Guild Theatre, New York. Pompilio Malatesta, the Metropolitan bass, will have the leading role. leading role.

It now seems almost certain that Erich Witte is in a French prison camp in Algeria. The Italian ship, on which the Metropolitan tenor was sailing to this country some months ago, was stopped by a French boat. Mr. Witte has not been heard from since that time.

Innumerable are the ways in which cpera is being "popularized" of late, and not the least of these is the "new type of opera" on which Ernest Krenek and Emmett Lavery are at work. Its purpose is avowedly the creation of "a new type of opera which may bring this form of music within the reach of a vast new audience

Mr. Krenek further explains that his theme is the problem of "what can man cling to in a changing world".

To bring American opera to the attention of the public at large a committee of patrons headed by Mrs. Frederick Steinway has arranged for a concert called "An Evening of American Premieres" to be given March 17th, in New York. One entire opera, "Beauty and the Beast" by Vittorio Giannini will be given and excerpts from two others, namely "Ramuntcho", by Deems Taylor and "Thorwaid" by William B. Dinsmore. Although Mr. Giannini's opera was broadcast in November, 1938, it never before has been heard in a concert or stage setting. It is a typical fairy opera, treating the familiar folk tale in fanciful fashion. The setting of "Ramuntcho" is the public square of a Basque village during a fiesta. The work by Dinsmore is set in medieval Denmark. All three operas will be conducted by Josef Blant.

EMBELLISHMENTS by Jan Hart

POCO A POCO—In case you didn't know: Nero never fiddled while Rome burned because there weren't any fiddles in those days. Instead, he ascended the tower and sang "The Destruction of Troy", accompanying himself on the lyre... The Egyptians never knew how to use the bow on their strings... Our modern staff of five lines was adopted about 1650... It was Pythagoras who gave music a scientific basis. The clarinet was perfected in 1690 by Johann Christopher Dunner. It was the last instrument to enter the classical orchestra... Before Bach's time, the thumb was seldom used in plano playing. The orchestra at the court of Louis XIV consisted of twenty-four violins, six hauthois and six flutes. Most violinists are composers most composers are poor conductors.

TRANSITION—Francis Hopkinson (1737-91) was probably the first American composer. . . The melody of "Yankee Doodle" came from English sources, as did the melody of "The Star-Spangled Banner", the latter being taken from an old drinking song. . "Dixie" was composed by Dan Emmett as a minstral's song in New York. . . . Hart Pease Danks wrote hymns as well as "Sliver Threads Among the Gold". . . The first Negro dance known to the public was the Cakewalk, done to "Whistling Rufus", "Smokey Mokes", etc.

DYNAMICS—Because its standard music has increased to forty per cent of its gross sales during 1939, Robbins Music Corp. will stress the development of the standard music division. . . The York String Quartet is doing much research these days, attempting to unearth works of the masters that have never been recorded before. . . Ernie Watson is again writing the music for the Charlie McCarthy puppet show at the World's Fairs. . Howard Barlow has been signed to a new contract as an exclusive Columbia recording artist. . Jack Teagarden's hot trombone playing has won top honors in every popularity poli held by the various musical magazines. . During his twelve months of broadcasting, Jan Savitt received more requests for "Its a Wonderful World" than for any other number in his repertoire. . A good bet any time: Any Frank Turner arrangement. . . Two good bets: Sam Diehl's original compositions, "Riff-Raff Rondo", and "No More Bach Talk".

REFLECTIONS—An answer to a maiden's prayer: Sleepy Hall's orchestra, which features strings nightly at the Hotel Biltmore (New York), using three violins (with a viola double) and ONLY two brasses. It sounds swell, Sleepy! ... Many thanks to you, Clarence Stout, for your very nice letter from Vincennes. Did you know we are fellow Hoosiers? Yes-siree. And speaking of Hoosiers, there are certainly plenty of them floating around here in New York, and goin' places, too. Shucks, ya can't keep a good Hoosier down, can you? And here's hopin' the "Sundown on the Prairie" never sets. ... Hm, that reminds me, I wrote a Hoosier song once, entitled, "Dear Old Indiana (I'm Comin' Back To You)", but according to the reactions of the publishers I should have just sneaked home quietly without writing a song about it.

SOTTO VOCE—One of the most famous among the Greek trumpeters was Herodorus of Megara, who won the trumpet prize at the Olympic Games contests ten times in succession. But then, even as today, sometimes, it appears that loudness rather than tone quality was the predominating requirement of a good trumpeter; hence, the players would often injure themselves in their efforts and burst a bloodwessel or something. Such a catastrophe happened to Herodorus—he blew and he blew, and finally he blew up. From then on, Socrates sayeth: Thou who bloweth and bloweth eventually bloweth upeth. Moral: Sotto Voca.

RECORD NOTES—Every radio station in the country is now airing recorded programs. . . Alec Templeton's new album of musical caricatures will be released this month. . . An innovation in recorded music has been released by General Records—an album entitled, "New Orleans' Memories" wherein Jelly Roll Morton, veteran pianist and blues singer, takes the listener on a tour of New Orleans at the turn of the century. . . Six scenes from Disney's "Pinoochio" film have been released by Victor in album form. These scenes have been recorded exactly as in the picture. . . . Raymond Scott's new dance orchestra has just recorded "Just a Gigolo" and "Huckleberry Duck" paired with "The Peanut Vendor" and "Business Men's Bounce". Incidentally, did you know that Raymond Scott is a brother of Mark Warnow?

WING, in its various strongholds, is being challenged of late by "Name Acts" including anything from sweet-sob-sisters to sleight-of-hand performers. Swing Street itself (52nd between Fifth and Sixth Avenues, New York), is making overtures to such attractions. The challenge, however, is being met in two ways. The first of these is that time-tried method, improvement from within. The bands have become better as units for entertainment—better emotionstirrers, better toe-ticklers. Second, bands have begun to include their own "varieties". An "Oh, Johnny" songstress of the Tucker unit, or an eccentric dancer of the Buddy Rogers entourage doesn't just happen.

They are evidence that band leaders are trimming their sails to meet the wayward winds of public demand and their efforts are getting the success they deserve.

BOOKS OF THE DAY

= HOPE STODDARD =

THE WELL TEMPERED LISTENER, by Deems Taylor. 333 pages. $2.50. Simon and Schuster.

Often we have imagined making a visit Often we have imagined making a visit into the past and meeting the great ones assembled there. Going up to Wagner we would ask him whether, given the same personality he before possessed, he would choose to live again in this tempestuous world. We would inquire of Bach if, during his days here, he was always as content as his biographers and his music indicate. We would ask Brahms why he did not marry and ask Haydn why he did. We would try to learn where Mozart did not marry and ask Haydn why he did. We would try to learn where Mozart found the material for his gay music and where Schubert found his for his rapturous love melodies. The answers to these questions would give the same satisfaction one experiences in finally tasting a fruit one has before only fingered, or in walking through a village one has heretofore seen only in travelogues.

walking through a village one has heretofore seen only in travelogues.

Deems Taylor reveals this same penchant for research into more intimate nooks and corners of the lives of the great, with this advantage: being a composer himself and in constant touch with musicians of this era, he obtains more readily information such as most of us get only through a researcher's delving or a reporter's questioning. His findings thus exhude an enviable freshness. He states, for example, in speaking of conscience-ridden composers—"I happen to know the intensity of remorse that he (Sergef Rachmaninoff) feels over having composed the C sharp minor Prelude. It really hurts him to hear it. I once heard him say, piteously, to John McCormack, the great tenor, 'John, ichy do they play that piece? Dot iss bod music!'" Then, in writing of other artistic personalities, here is another quotation: "One (memory) is of a late party at Neysa McMein's studio, back in 1923. I think it was, when Jascha (Heifetz), about four in the morning, played as I have seldom heard him or anyone else play in concert. I told him so, and he explained. 'I was using the Strad tonight, and she's never played so well as since I bought the Guarnerius.
You know, she's jealous!—and half believed it." Such stray wisps are worth netting in the strands of memory.

Mr. Taylor cleverly maneuvers to keep our eyes fastened on the page just as he maneuvers, on the radio, to keep our ears pricked up and our hands off the dial, tactics thoroughly justified, since he thereby invelgles us into absorbing an astonishing amount of information, such as, for instance, why D-sharp is out of tune, scientifically at least, with E flat; why women don't get into major orchestras; what makes a critic a critic; and which is more important, the tune or who wrote it, the fact that you like it, or its pedigree.

Based on a series of radio take, the Mr. Taylor cleverly maneuvers to keep or its pedigree.

Based on a series of radio talks, the book is roughly divided into three sections, "The Makers" (of music), "The Givers" and "The Hearers". Yet it switches tangent-wise from one facet of music to another. Wandering through the mazes of music like an Alice in Wonderland, Deems Taylor manages to hit on more truths per page than many a more systematic researcher bent on consistency.

IN THE NAME OF WIND-INSTRUMENT PLAYING, by M. Grupp. 100 pages. $3.75. M. Grupp Studios.

$3.75. M. Grupp Studios.

Strange that it has taken the musicopedagogical world so long to find out what psychological text books have for years been demonstrating to youngsters in school, namely that one plays a musical instrument, not with the hands nor with the mouth, but with the mind. In other words, that passage that just won't come out right has not lagging fingers nor a lazy tongue to blame, but rather a tie-up in the thinking processes. Mr. Grupp has an amazing grasp of what these tie-ups are and the ability to trace them, in the case of fearful players, of moody players, of over-confident players. He shows how complexes must be corrected before the lips and tongue can respond, how one must "practice with the brain instrument." The mind, in short, is the real player.

In learning, then, to play on this instrument, the mind, elimination of fear and worry are the most important factors, and these, to be fought, must be brought to the open. The author tells how to lay all ghosts haunting the minds of wind-instruments players such as the "I-can't-play-a-solo" complex, the "missednote" paralysis, the "the-leader's-looking-at-me" phobla, the "my-mouthpiece's-all-wrong" fantasy. The error of over-confidence is likewise given due notice, since the student in the grasp of it is apt to neglect his practice, often with dire

Once the mind is a good functioning entity, the tools on which it works—the tongue, lips, mouthpiece and instrument—are considered with scientific exactness are considered with scientific exactness in their proper roles as extensions of the mind. General health is discussed, together with daily habits bearing on it. Care of the wind instruments themselves—keys, pipes, slides—is considered.

Since one can take it as an incontrovertible fact that many a skilled wind-instrument player today is out of a job not because he cannot manipulate his instrument, but simply because he cannot manipulate his thinking processes, then the value of this volume becomes apparent. Wind instrument players—granting no gross malformation in tongue and lips, nor lack of musical sense—can become successful. The instrument need not lie on the shelf collecting dust. The player need not resign himself to unimportant engagements nor to playing "for his own amusement". Truly, success stands waiting. That wayward instrument, the mind, has only to be made flexible to the will, through systematically practiced control. The present volume tells how this may be accomplished. present volu ccomplished.

HOW TO MAKE DOUBLE-REEDS, by Joe Artley. 39 pages, $1.00. H. and A. Selmer, Inc.

Young players on the oboe, English horn and bassoon—and there have been thousands added to this group within the past few years—get better results, as their instructors have been quick to notice, if they make their own reeds. This book is a clear and concise text book for those they make their own reeds. This book is a clear and concise text book for those who want to master this craft. It has illustrations, most of them actual photographs, for each of the steps and each of the tools employed. The text is clear and concise, so worded that the young reader can follow it without outside instruction.

Separate treatment is given in the first three sections of the book for the making of oboe, English horn and bassoon reeds. The fourth section contains useful hints on the care of reeds and how to "doctor" them to produce the best results. Fifty-three drawings not only illustrate the various operations in making the reeds but eliminate all doubt as to the position of the hands, showing the correct way of holding the tools and the proper formation of the cane and reed.

Since literature in this field is scarce indeed, and since it is apparent that mak-ing his own reeds gains for a player the means of meeting his individual requiremeans of meeting his individual require-ments, this book will be a welcome addi-tion in the libraries not only of oboe, English horn and bassoon players but also of saxophonists who "double" on any of these instruments.

BOLERO - THE LIFE OF MAURICE RAVEL, by Madeliene B. Goss. $3.00. Henry Holt and Company.

Significant it is that the author has chosen to call this volume after one of the composer's less profound, if more popular, works. For a similar tendency is apparent in the subject matter of the book itself. Popularized a bit, simplified a bit, itself. Popularized a bit, simplified a bit, made a bit more plausible, Ravel's life is laid before us in such a way that he who runs may read, a procedure excellent for those with limited time or energy, but a little disappointing for those who prefer to wrest underlying truths from psychological delineation. logical delineation

Perhaps Ravel has too recently dearted this life for any biographer to Perhaps Ravel has too recently departed this life for any biographer to be able to turn on him the searchlight of unblased scrutiny. They still must consider him, if not subject to the laws of the land, at least under the jurisdiction of rules of propriety and custom. This particular author, at any rate, seems unable to free herself from a sense that she would be violating his privacy, were she to touch on any but the externals of his life. his life Serviceable the book undoubtedly is, for its conscientious assembling of the facts of Ravel's existence, documentary evidence that future biographers will seize on avidly. If music lovers must still await the work of one who will feel impelled to say more than can be confined within the phrases of a Bolero, textual or musical, they are nevertheless grateful that they can read now this clear and straightforward account of the life of this great composer.

Judge Condemns Bank
THE practice of paying near-starvation

Judge John D. Martin of Jackson, Tenn.,

The judge declared that a bank directorate was "guilty of dereliction of duty" when it failed to pay a "living wage" to a man responsible for thousands of dollars.
He sentenced L. C. Christopher, former cashier of the Peoples State Bank, Sardis, him $600.00. Christopher had pleaded guilty.

Christopher told the court he took the money piecemeal for himself and his wife to live. He said he was paid $60.00 a month and received $4.25 expense money for his automobile, which cost him $20.00 a month on bank business.
"If a bank cannot pay a living wage to a man of such responsibility, it should either close or consolidate with a larger institution," Judge Martin held.

The Pedestrian's Bill of Rights

The Pedestrian's Bill of Rights

PEDESTRIANS, those defenseless souls who scurry through the jungle of city streets at the mercy of auto and truck, might extract some consolation from the knowledge that their plight has been a matter of concern to civic authorities for hundreds of years.

Exactly 271 years ago the city fathers of New York met in solemn conference and decided that the pedestrian also has a right to live and that something should be done to assure him that right. And so the ordinance of 1668, one of New York's first traffic regulations, was passed:

"The cartmen are permitted to ride

"The cartmen are permitted to ride on their carts, on condition of driving slowly, and forfeiting their horse and cart in case of injury to any person; and in case any person should be killed, the life of the cartman to be under the lapse of the law."

Reflections of Yesteryear

Experiences In this life true friends are few. One needs only to be in need to find this

In needs only to be in need to find this true.

Sometimes even true friends may differ on what is best, for all concerned.

We may be individuals of FREE thought, and may differ in our opinions on religious, political or national affairs, but in the case of any particular friends, group, or groups, interested in one unterther, as ONE organization, all should help each other. What some may lack, others may have.... Hence the cooperation of all, will insure the Benefit of All.

MISUNDERSTANDING has often caused caused dissension between honest persons, and much misery and suffering to persons not describing it.

Since Civilization began . . . we are told: "One way of setting things right is to seek the truth." This seems very easy. Yet oftentimes, it is quite difficult.

Because, the truth is so important.
Again we are told: "In seeking the truth few of us ever get beyond arguments. Sometimes those arguments do bring out the truth. But, at other times, they end in detours. In this case we are apt to become confused in choosing the right road. When this happens, the mind starts asking questions; and only by seeking the truth—and finding it—vill we be set right—and upon the right road.

All right-thinking men . . . in time will find out what road to take. Because, YESTERYEAR EXPERIENCES have taught them what they know today. I think that each man looking for good and meaning good is seeking the same thing. The only difference, if any. IS IN WORDS. Therefore, although each man may seek the same ends in his own way . . . if each is SINCERE . . . the law of nature is such . . . that, eventually the two will clasp hands in UNITY.

HAROLD NEWMAN

Harold Newman, charter member and one of the organizers of Local 766, Austin, Minn., passed away in that city on February 14th at the age of forty years as the result of a heart attack.

Further details are lacking at this time.

GEORGE W. STEWART

The death, January 25, 1940, of George W. Stewart, eighty-nine, noted baritone and trombone player, ends the remarkable career of one of America's greatest musicians and managers. Born in Granville, N. Y., on January 11, 1851, his parents moved to Washington, then to Darnestown, Md., finally settling in Cambridge, N. Y., where Mr. Stewart was buried in the family plot.

Coming to Boston in 1872. Stewart be-the family plot.

Coming to Boston in 1872, Stewart became the baritone player of the famous Germania Band, and shortly after, its manager. Prior to the formation of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, which he helped organize in 1881, he had played the series of intermittent symphony concerts given by the combined forces of the Harvard Orchestra, the Philharmonic, and the Germania Band, conducted by Carl Zerrahn.

After several years in the Boston Symphony, Stewart, and the late Emil Mollenhauer, violinist, resigned in order to organize their own touring Boston Festival Orchestra, and later the Boston Band, with Mollenhauer as conductor of both, and Stewart as manager. As a pair they possessed incomparable talent and business acumen. ness acumen. The overflow demands on the Boston Symphony had grown to such huge proportions it was no longer able to play the numerous spring festivals which were starting principally in New England and in other parts of the country. The Boston Festival Orchestra was more than an orchestra; it was an institution with twenty-five annual spring tours from 1889 to 1913 to its credit. The first years of the orchestra were devoted chiefly to the many music festivals in New England, but its intelligent and earnest work soon attracted the attention of choral societies in other sections. Inquiries looking to the engaging of the orchestra were received from Memphis, Chattanooga, Detroit, Knoxville, Birmingham, Spartanburg, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Indianapolis, Toledo, St. Paul, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Quebec, Toronto, St. John and Halifax. The first tour was an important factor in placing the orchestra squarely before the public.

With each succeeding tour its popularity increased, until within a few years practically all of the major spring festival associations, and many smaller ones, of the entire eastern half of the United States and Canada arranged their dates to conform to the schedule of the Boston Festival Orchestra, about the only exceptions being Cincinnati, Worcester, and the Maine Festivals at Portland and Bangor. The current leading lights of the day appeared. A few were Sembrich, Gadsky, Schumann-Heink, Nordica, Farrar, Campanari, Amato, Gogorza, Edward Johnson, and Herbert Witherspoon, singers, Others were great soloids of the piano, cello, and violin: Fannie Bloomfield, Zeisler, Joseffy, Harold Bauer, Victor Herbert, Gerardy, and Alwin Schroeder, Ysaye, Henri Marteau. Maud Powell and Kreisler.

On the early tours Stewart gave Victor Herbert his first chance to conduct, sharing the honors with Tschaikowsky, the renowned Russian composer. Witherspoon advanced to the position of general manager of the Metropolitan Opera Company, death overtaking him after only a few weeks. He has been most ably succeeded by Edward Johnson, the present incumbent. Many indeed are the names of famous musicians who owe their fame and fortune to the foresight and great musical judgment of George W. Stewart, was Another great discovery of Stewart was the late Walter Smith, celebrated trum-peter, who was a fixture in both the band and orchestra.

The Boston Band also became an insti-ution. During Stewart's regime it had layed thousands of engagements of every onceivable description, notably, class ays, commencements, and dedications at anny of the Massachusetts universities, s well as many summer concerts on the doston Common, and throughout the city. played the Boston Common, and throughout the city. Numerous as were his accomplishments, Mr. Stewart's greatest achievements, those that advertised the musical fame of Boston, and brought glory to himself, were his appointments as music commissioner of the two World's Fairs at St. Louis, in 1904, and San Francisco, in 1915. Indeed it is a far cry from a seventeen-year-old village band boy first playing with Robinson's Floating Palace, Washburn's Sensations, and Green's Mocking Bird Minstrels, to the highest possible position any band or orchestra musician could attain.

As a member of the American Federa-tion of Musicians he probably paid as much money, or more, to its players than any other manager, or employer.

Stewart suffered a shock on January 1934, and although he partially recover and again became mentally alert, he neventered his beloved office after that. January 18, 1939, he had another shockness regaining consciousness.

A sister, Miss Rose Stewart, eminent soprano, pupil of Mathilde Marchesi, and classmate of Emma Eames and Nellie Melba, survives.

Multitudes of musicians all over the country will mourn the passing of George W. Stewart, because he was kind, helpful and always ready and willing to assist the other fellow through the thorny paths. His word was his bond.

~~~~~~~~ Symphony Orchestra Recordings

MISUNDERSTANDING has arisen in connection with the wage scale and working conditions adopted by the International Executive Board for phonograph symphonic recordings. The wage scale is as follows:

For two hours recording, not to exceed forty minutes' playing time in each hour, per man

For each additional one-half hour or fraction of one-half hour (not to exceed twenty minutes' playing time, per man Contractor to receive double price.

The intermission for symphonic recordings to be divided by the contractor so as not to inter-rupt proper recording of symphonic works.

The misunderstanding is in connection with the overtime. In several instances, no intermission has been granted during overtime periods, some of which have run as high as two hours.

Inasmuch as during the first two hours of recording the playing time must not exceed forty minutes in each hour, it naturally must follow that in overtime periods the same conditions apply. Therefore in an overtime period of one-half hour, the playing time must not exceed twenty minutes, or in any full hour of overtime, the playing time must not exceed forty minutes.

On overtime as well as during the original two hours, the intermissions on symphonic recordings are to be divided by the contractor so as not to interrupt proper recording of symphonic works.

All members must be governed accordingly.

"Fortune" Boosts Unions

CORTUNE" is admittedly the magazine of big business. It sells for one dollar for a single issue, and the yearly subscription price is ten dollars. When a magazine in this category states that the only salvation of the worker is through a union, one feels the millennium drawing nearer.

After reviewing the various efforts of the American worker to secure a measure of economic justice, and doing with a commendable effort to be fair, "Fortune" makes

"Only by joining up and taking it over can the rank-and-filer make the union a true expression of his individual and collective will, and that is precisely why all those who believe in a democratically industrialized nation must wish to see the day when every U. S. worker will be a union man.

"Alfred Marshall used to complain that half the world's best brains are submerged, unconsulted, in the working class; but a union can be just as brainy as management and be just as scientific. And it can

"It may be years before the American working class is able or is allowed thus to collaborate with a equally scientific management, but both sides may well hurry, for there is lots of work to do."

It would be difficult to find a stronger endorsement

National Music Week

NATIONAL MUSIC WEEK FOR 1940 will be celebrated during the week of May 5 to 11 inclusive. During the past twenty years America has become increasingly music conscious, and the activities of National Music Week have played no small part in bringing about this condition. Our local unions have always cooperated in a most constructive manner. It is to be assumed that the celebration of the 1940 National Music Week will be one of the most comprehensive in history.

Fines Imposed on Members of Other Locals

IN every case where a local union finds members of traveling orchestras or of other locals guilty and imposes fines upon them, the notices of such fines must be sent to the office of the International Secretary. This also applies to individual transfer members who have been fined after due trial for violation of the National laws.

Under the laws of the Federation the National Secretary must send notices of such fines to the members grant them, as is provided under the law, thirty days in which to make payment. Members have the right of appeal within this thirty-day period; therefore if locals send notices of such fines and the members fail to appeal or pay the fines within thirty days after notice from the local, the members are not erased from membership nor do they lose any privileges. THEY CAN ONLY BE ERASED FROM MEMBERSHIP UPON NOTICE FROM THE NATIONAL SECRETARY.

All locals are therefore notified that, in order to properly expedite the business of the Federation and insure the proper adjudication of cases, they should immediately notify the Secretary's office of all fines imposed upon any but their own members immediately after such action has been taken by the local.

Philip Scheidemann

(From the Washington Post)

THERE was grim irony in the fact that Philip Scheidemann, the last of the great figures of German Socialism of pre-war days, died at the very moment when the self-styled "Socialist Fatherland" of Russia was embarking on the rape of Finland.

To his credit be it said that Scheidemann never had any illusions about the Russian system which claimed, like that of his own movement, to stem from the writings and teachings of Karl Marx. In his reasoned opinion, Communism was "Asiatic." And he performed a great service in preventing it from getting a foothold in Germany in the period immediately following the World War.

Although Hitler was later to claim that he and he alone had saved Germany from Bolshevism, the historic fact is that this task had already been performed a decade and a half earlier by Scheidemann, Ebert and their col-laborators. Their ultimate reward was proscription, death and, as in the case of Scheidemann, exile.

He fought the crushing peace terms of the Allies. He fought Hitler, who used those terms to come to power. He fought Communism, now the ally of the Nazis. He lost every battle, except that for his personal integrity.

Music the Necessity

In time of peace, Music is the joy of nations; In time of war it is the safety valve. Music is an expression of love, the tone of grief, A solace for solitude, an antidote for aching hearts. The pressure of mental strains finds relief in Music. The tear-stained melodies of the Slav. The song-told tragedies of Italy, Olde England's merry madrigals, The love-given joy of the French, Make our lives happier and our sorrows easier to bear. While we economize in other necessities, We must be lavish with Music. Take away Music and the soul of the universe is dead!

When the Fire Engines Go By

FEW of us ever get over that juvenile urge to follow the fire engines. It's a thrill to hear the sirens, and see the great red wagons clang by.

But that thrill wouldn't last long if the fire engines led you to your house, and you found it in flames. And the surge of excitement would die an early death if the fire razed the factory or the store in which you worked.

Every fire, great or small, brings trouble to someone.

And a high percentage of fires leave stark tracedy in their Every fire, great or small, brings trouble to someone. And a high percentage of fires leave stark tragedy in their wake—loss of life, loss of employment, loss of possessions which never can be replaced. There are no mitigating qualities in fire. It is the great destroyer.

More than that, the effects of fire are exceedingly widespread. A fire of which you never heard may deprive you of an opportunity for doing business. It may raise your taxes and your insurance rate. It may adversely affect your future life and income.

Here in America fire destroys some $300,000,000 worth of property directly each year. The indirect loss worth of property directly each year. The indirect loss is estimated at close to $2,000,000. There can be no excess for that wester me shibit. Nine fires out of ten are the result of human ignorance, human carelessness, human thoughtlessness. Nine fires out of ten could have been prevented-had someone not failed to take the simple precautions that will checkmate most fires.

Think of this next time you see fire engines go by or smoke and flames rising from a home or a building. Then ask yourself if fire prevention is worth while.

"Workers of the World-Unite!"

By Dr. CHARLES STELZLE

MOSCOW and Berlin have joined hands. Hands that are cold and bloody with the slaughter of millions of workers. Hands that have ruthlessly dispersed those who believe in freedom, forcing them into concentration camps. Hands that have forged the shackles which even now are being rivetted upon the workers in other lands.

"Workers of the world-unitel"

This is the slogan which Stalin has given Hitler, who had already crushed the workers in Austria and Czechoslovakia. And then they combined to smash the workers in Poland, and Stalin is finishing the job in Finland.

"Workers of the world-unitel"

And then Dr. Robert Ley, Director of the German Labor Front, who has just announced this slogan, declares that the Germans are superior to all other workers and that Germany has been given the "divine right" to rule over them.

"Workers of the world-unitel"

And then Hitler wipes organized labor off the face of Germany, and Stalin betrays every workers' organization which he cannot control, and liquidates those who were its leaders.

"Workers of the world-unitel"

The slogan has a hollow sound, coming from Stalin and Hitler. Men and women in every land where freedom of speech and liberty of action still exist are voicing their contempt for the hypocrisy and deceit of which the would-be leaders of the workers are guilty. And only the fear of complete annihilation by the armed forces in the lands where tyranny prevails prevents the uprising of the common people who inwardly oppose the dominance of brutality in their midst.

The workers of the world will unite. But the basis of their unity will be freedom and equality of opportunity. They resent the alleged superiority of any one race of workers above another, if each is given an equal chance to demonstrate its ability. They believe in the progress of the workers of the "world"—not in the dominance of a nation or nations of bosses over all workers. They believe in a real "unity"—a unity based upon the brother-bood of all men hood of all men.

"Workers of the world-unite!"

The Long Arm of the Law

THERE recently appeared on page two of The Inter-NATIONAL MUSICIAN the picture of an orchestra which was playing in premises held to be unfair to the American Federation of Musicians.

The members of this orchestra denied membership for the purpose of escaping the penalties for this violation. They thought they were getting away with something. However, in this case, as in practically every other case that has come to the attention of the Federation in the past few years, these members were identified and erased from membership in their home locals.

Members should think twice—yes, even ten times twice—before they lend themselves to such practices, as twice—before they lend themselves to such practices, as they are sure to be discovered sooner or later. Many a musician has spoiled his career by foolishly thinking he could "get away with it." It is far better to stay out of work for a few weeks than to work under non-union conditions, with the probability of not being paid even what is promised and eventually becoming suspended or expelled with a loss of many weeks' work prior to being able to meet the conditions of reinstatement.

Billions for Security

URING the past four years the people of this country have purchased close to $27,000,000,000 worth of ordinary life insurance. That gigantic total does not include annuities or group insurance.

That amount of money is too stupendous for the ordinary mind to encompass. It would pay more than half of our record-breaking national debt. It would provide every family in the country with a brand new automobile of excellent quality. It would build 5,000,000 first-class homes. It would provide 9,000,000 young people with college educations.

That gives you some idea of what $27,000,000,000 means. And it gives you an idea, too, of America's thrift, foresight and purchasing power. Life insurance is of greatest benefit to the man of ordinary means—it offers a security that can be achieved in no other way. Every policy sold has a definite and favorable bearing on the future of this country.

The Union Labor Life Insurance Company, which is wholly and solely owned and controlled by organized labor, is one of the safert insurance companies in America. aŋ

The moon rose over Miami,
Like a disc of shining gold
While from those night-wind whispers,
We just caught a helva cold.

UPON the occasion of our fourth visitation to that Floridian playground of Miami, we discovered an attraction never before contacted. It was being featured as "Nafeatured as "Na-ture's Meteorologi-cal Transformation Laboratory." Em-erging from the train the newsboys' cacophany chorus was shouting-

From what dire ordeal had we escaped! Palm Beach suits everywhere in evidence. Bathing beauties displaying their physical pulchritude up and down the beach. The rich racing automobiles up and down the boulevards, or lolling upout the deck of near-by yachts.

The day passed. Music and laughter filled the air. The sun descended in a sea of crimson glory. Night donned her sable garments. Fair Luna did her usual Miamian stunt. The stars hung their glittering canopy across an over-arching sky. With heavy bed covering all discarded—

"From the cool cisterns of the midnight air.

Our spirit drank repose."

After a peaceful sauntering through dreamland, the morning came—with early breezes bearing aloft another message, which, again in the language of Horatio did seem to "bode some strange eruption to our state."

"BIG COLD WAVE HEADING FROM THE NORTH'

FROM THE NORTH"

And come it did!
Far be it from us to gloat over misfortune; to idly philosophize about calamity; or mock discomfort with chortling glee. Of course we were constantly regaled with mournful infringement on that California copyright—"So unusual for this time of year!"
And yet—the Miami press did not dishonor its high calling by any attempt at fact perversion. From its newsy columns we learned—

"MIAMI SCHOOLS CLOSED ON ACCOUNT OF COLD!"

"FLORIDA FRUIT CROP DAMAGED TO THE EXTENT OF MILLIONS"

"COAL SHORTAGE THREATENED THROUGHOUT THE SOUTH!"

On a decidedly shivery morning, H. ond Bliss, first-page columnist for the iami Herald, opened his daily contribuon with the following paragraph:

Zero, Zero hour. Into the trenches, into the basement dives the mercury. As the guns hammer away. Ice. Ice on the wings, shattering and crashing and demolishing. Smashing crops. Freezing. As free burn and the smudge pots smoke—smoke acreen against the descending enemy, Jack Frost. Bombing away with frigidity, with death to fruits and vegetables and tender leaves. This is Florida.

In reading that honest confession, an inner fire seemed to burn—

We ne'er-the-less say good-bye with regret, And heading for the land of winter birth, Next time we chance to come this way That we will surely get our money's worth.

gree or other have felt the same Labradorean touch. From Cape Cod to San Diego, from Palm Beach to Portland, Ore., teeth have chattered, chilis have chased each other up and down the spine, ears have been frosted, and while Miami visitors were hovering over the lighted gas jet, northerners have bent their backs nearly double in shoveling snow. The versatility of Nature is one of the nation's enduring charms.

The Miami Herald carried a story with double column head to the effect that "It is so cold in Norway the farmers equip their cows with overcoats to keep them warm." We have a guess as to what Florida would do in a similar situation. She would have cow races to keep the bovines comfortable and then sell the milk to occupants in the grandstand at 10 cents for a big glass or 5 cents for a smaller one. If Benjamin Franklin, who wrote a treatise on "Thrift," were back on earth once more, he would probably move to the southeast peninsula commonwealth, revise his book, and publish an Everglades edition.

One of the institutions of Miami which is compelled to function in animated and effective fashion for twelve months in the year is Local 655, A. F. of M. Headquarters are maintained in property owned by the Local at 542 North Miami Avenue. From this focal point organization chords of vibration extend to over 500 active members and over 600 transfer members. If any one thinks that these officers have little to do he should drop around there most any day of the week. To this mecca of hoped-for relief members bring their troubles. Those who have not time to come keep the telephone busy. If all cannot be accommodated by day, a night apapointment is arranged. Pressing problems are handled in an intelligent manner and the Local keeps the boat on an even keel. The Local administration staff is represented in the following personnel: President, Roy W. Singer: Vice-President, Joe. Sheehan; Secretary-Treasurer, Louis J. Nett; Executive Board: David A. Frank, Mickey Cherep, Walter L. Singleton, George L. Jones and Earl Barr Hansen; Sergeant-at-Arms, John F. Gordon.

One of the great delights of a Miami winter visitation is the opportunity to hear Ceasar La Monica's fine band of twenty-eight pieces in one of the city parks. To our thinking it is just as marvelous to note the manner in which La Monica conducts all programs without a note of music in front of him as is the same feat exemplified in handling an orchestral score by Toscanini. This season chestral score by Toscanini. This season the eminent Arthur Pryor is appearing as guest conductor and the crowds are large and enthusiastic.

Among Federation members who found business at Miami Board Meetings, we mention Brother Herman Steinichen, sec-retary of Local 148, Atlanta, Ga., and also doing good service as secretary of the Southern States' Federation Conference.

Sixty-nine new hotels have been con-structed in Miami during the past year. An orchestra in each hotel would ring the curtain down on an old kind of depression.

while in Florida we heard that President G. Pipitone of Local 174, New Orleans, was in poor health. Since returning, a letter of inquiry brings the good news from Secretary Robert Aguilera that Brother Pipitone is rapidly improving.

What makes the Florida grapefruit, massive, juicy and sweet, undergo such reduction in size at the northern end of the transportation line?

All forms of gambling have been com-pletely suppressed in Miami. We read it in the papers.

The bathing beauty claims all seasons

Miami had 110,000 population by the census of 1930. Indications are that she is more than holding her own.

After all, the experience was well worth while, teaching a timely lesson in geographical versatility, as well as helping to a philosophical adjustment to all sorts and conditions in life. So—

When winter reigns in the Everglades
And the wind blows chill and cold,
The folks who come from the ice-bound North
Wonder if they have been sold.

They think of the furnace gloss back home, and an evercont try in bureas it sulv.

They pile the blankets on thick at night And hopefully dream of tomorrow.

But winter soon proves a fickle jade And her farcwell song doth sing; 80 folks who come from away up North, Decide to remain till spring.

Unless Racine and Oshkosh have decided to swap Local numbers we think the citation number is an error, for ever since the days of our friend Henry Schulte we think of Racine as Local 42. At any rate the delegates will find the way and an interesting conference is bound to materialize.

The congressional bill to commission The congressional bill to commission military band masters has passed the house and efforts will now be solidified on a movement to secure the same result in the Senato. victorious consummation.

In a recent issue of "Over Federation Field" we reproduced a United Press item noting the exploits and eccentricities of one Frank (Val) Barbara as an alleged musical performer in New Orleans. Secretary Robert Aguilers of Local 174 writes us that this son of misdirected genius is outside the Federation fold and impervious to all missionary efforts to bring him within. If the vigorous proselyters of this Queen City of the Southland cannot do the job then "Val" must be a hopeless Ca50.

OW that officials are getting behind vaudeville for the good of the towns they represent, this type of entertainment is reclaiming its former dignity, with a consequent improvement in billings and increased enthusiasm of audiences. In Troy, New York, for instance, advertisements have been inserted in the local papers urging citizens to "Help Troy move forward! Bring back clean vaudeville! Put more Trojans to work. Increase business by bringing more people into Troy!" To cities that have been on an all-picture diet for years, such rousing challenges sound mighty good.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., at the insistence of Mayor Marvin, is running a successful advertising campaign for the return of vaudeville. Already the results are apparent in the fact that it is operating a vaudeville house, the Strand, which had closed because of its inability to get strong films. Now, with a thirty-five-cent top, this theatre has put in five-act vaudeville shows on a three-day weekly basis.
Business is so good that the house can afford to book such a top-notcher as Ted Lewis.

One of the smallest vaudilimers in the United States is the Rialto of Flint, Michigan, seating six hundred. Putting on seven and eight stage shows daily, it pays as high as $2,500 a week for name acts. The Dead End Kids and the Philharmonics (four of them) were guaranteed this amount during their week's stay there, the week of February 19th. In this pint-size theatre the first stage show goes on at nine o'clock in the morning, and the last sometime before eleven at night, but the house remains open even after that, in fact until six in the morning, running straight pictures.

A full week of vaudeville at the Wyandotte Theatre, Wyandotte, Michigan, in the middle of February, marked the return of name vaudeville to this house. The booking was the vaudeville act of the Dead End Kids.

The New York World's Fair will have its variety, revue this summer. Staged in the Hall of Music, it will be a sixty-minute affair and will change every four weeks.

Top-Flight Bands

Nick Lucas opened with his band in Kalamazoo, January 25th, for a tour of Michigan at the head of a vaudeville unit. His is one of the bands which the Butterfield Circuit has been using, with a view to running bands more frequently. Seven houses in Michigan can furnish a unit twenty-one days, divided as follows: Ann Arbor, two days; Kalamazoo, three days; Grand Rapids, three days; Lansing, four days; Flint, three days; Jackson, three days, and Saginaw, three days. In the latter part of February, Duke Ellington filled three dates on the circuit, with Vincent Lopez filling three more. Don Bestor played the entire circuit, starting February 25th.

A "COMMAND PERFORMANCE" of "Life With Father" came intact to Washington Sunday, January 28th, as part of the President's Birthday Celebration. With five dollars tops and boxes up to one hundred dollars, the single showing grossed $6,000. Since the cast donated its services and the theatre management contributed the house and services, the only costs were for transportation and presentation labor.

"Mamba's Daughters", which followed "Hot Mikado" the week ending January 27th, drew enthusiastic notices from the press, but was overshadowed by two movie premieres the same week, "Abe Lincoln in Illinois" and "Gone with the Wind". However, "Mamba" got a fair $12,000.

THE leading show on Broadway, over $32,000. In its ninth, ending February 3rd, with business a bit offish on the "Streets of Paris" at the Majestic brought in a fair-to-middlin' $17,000 for each of its last two weeks in New York. Off on the road after that.

One of the season's crack musicals, "Too Many Girls", at the Imperial, raked in $26,000 in its fourteenth week. The following week, ending February 3rd, it kept its course sky-high, with $25,000 to show. Its rating for the week ending February 10th was $25,500 and the next week $26,000. It looks as though it would stay the summer.

At the end of its third week, February 3rd, all but disabled by a weak press, "Vanities", at the St. James, checked out. Its second week rated it only $7,500.

"Pins and Needles", intimate revue at the Windsor, looks as if it were good for another summer. In the four weeks that "THE FIFTH COLUMN", which arrived I at the Forrest late in January for a two-week stay, netted for the first week a very fair $13,000. The second week, ending February 10th, in spite of panning by the critics, it did good business to the tune of $11,500. "Streets of Paris" slid in at the Forrest, February 12th, with a special matinee on Lincoln's Birthday. Trade zoomed so well toward the close of the week (the receipts were $24,400) that it was decided to hold it over three weeks. "Kiss the Boys Goodbye" grossed $9,500 in its second week at the Locust and ended its third and final week, February 3rd, with $8,000, good for scale but not good enough to keep it another week. "Little Foxes" opened at this theatre on February 12th, putting up a good showing alongside "Streets of Paris". Brought in a fine $17,100.

CONCLUDING ARTICLE

SINCE I released my first guide book, entitled, "In the Name of Wind-Instrument Playing," I have received, from received, from many who ob-tained it, a vast number of letters stating that the results attained are insurpassable. I will confess that according to these reports its bene reports its bene-ficial effects are

M. GRUPP

According to these reports its beneficial effects are far greater than those that even I expected. According on my second guide which is a follow-up to the first. Therefore, much work has been added to my daily routine of teaching, consultations, etc., and as much as I regret it, it now becomes impossible for me to find sufficient time to continue my monthly articles in this worthy journal. However, whenever I have the chance I will take the opportunity to submit an occasional article.

Of course, it is unnecessary for me to say that it was a privilege and a pleasure to have had the opportunity of conveying my messages concerning wind-instrument playing to such a great number of readers. Throughout this one year during which time my articles have been published in this journal, many wind-instrumentalists have informed me that they have derived great benefit from them. I assure you that this satisfaction has been highly valued by me.

During the course of this year, I also, on several occasions, had the pleasure of coming in personal contact with the Editor of The International Musician, Mr. Birnbach, our able A. F. of M. Secretary. I should like here to take this opportunity to say a few words about this remarkable human machine. He is a well-built, pleasant-to-talk-to person, with eyes that read the individual through-and-through; he is exceptionally energetic, keen-minded, quick, cool-headed and strong-willed, and his given word surpasses the most ironbound legal contract.

Knowing that a vast number of windinstrumentalists are afflicted with the mouthplece complex. I have chosen for my concluding article the subject of "The Right Mouthpiece."

The Right Mouthpiece

The Right Mouthpiece

The Right Mouthpiece

Since there are no two human beings who have identical fingerprints, so are there no two individuals whose organs and muscles are built exactly alike. Moreover, there are no two humans whose organs and muscles function exactly alike and whose physical playing apparatuses function identically.

Therefore, it is understandable that there are no two wind-instrumentalists who employ exactly the same degree of air pressure, quantity of breath while playing, or same lip tensities, or whose lips vibrate in exactly the same manner. For this reason unless a mouthpiece is fitted to a player's individuality, it will not properly satisfy his requirements.

For instance, two trumpeters may attempt to play a passage with identical ease, tempo, quality, volume of tone, and so forth. Let us suppose that they are successful in playing it exactly alike in every way. Then it is a fact that each would have accomplished this with different pressures and amounts of breath, tensities of the lip muscles, and degrees of lip vibrations.

Suppose, for example, that one of the trumpeters is playing in such a way that he must use a half-pint of breath in order to play the passage correctly. The other's playing requires a pint of breath in order to play the identical passage in the same manner. One may definitely presume that since they employ different quantities of breath, both players cannot use a mouthpiece built with identical proportions.

The first's mouthpiece, if made with the proper dimensions to fit his particular degree of breath control, will not fit the second's, for the latter is naturally built to use a greater quantity of breath while playing than does the former.

By likening the dimensions of a mouth-place to those of a bottle, I can illustrate clearly the above paragraph. Is it pos-sible for a half-pint bottle to hold a pint of water? Or for a pint bottle to be filled to the top with a half-pint of water? Of course not.

Remember! This instance applies solely to the different individual breath controls. There also must be taken into consideration, when choosing a mouthpiece, the different degrees of tenderness or toughness of the lip muscles and flesh, which vary with every human being. Also the individual controls of the lip muscles, lip formation, lip whentions tongue acticular formation, lip vibrations, tongue articula-tions, and so forth, which function differ-ently with each wind-instrumentalist.

Therefore, the wind-instrumentalist who desires to choose the right mouthpiece should take pains to select one with dimensions that are well suited to his own natural requirements.

performances and two matinees, the week ending January 27th. There was an extra matinee given January 26th (not counted in total) at which cast and theatre hands donated their services, fetching $811.50 for Finnish relief.

"Easy Virtue" playing for three nights and a matinee brought in only $4,500. But then there was snow and rain slowing down the wicket Saturday night, February 10th.

The biggest legitimate business of the season was done February 16th and 17th when Maurice Evans' "Hamlet" brought in a spanking $10,000 for three performances. More than a score of buses filled with students from Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky colleges were parked around the theatre at the matinee of the 17th.

Cleveland

Cleveland

"TASY VIRTUE" did rather thin business in Cleveland, for the week ending February 17th, not helped any by recent personal appearances of Constance Bennett in vaudeville at that city's RKO Palace. The $6,800 grossed in eight performances was even lower than the belownormal figure of "Man Who Killed Lincoln". Helen Hayes "Ladies and Gentlemen" opened there February 19th, with $10,000 in advance mail orders already counted up.

Detroit

A WARM welcome to John Barrymore at the Cass, capacity houses and $22,000 were three items on the bill-offare of "My Dear Children" for the week ending January 27th. The next week the theatre was dark, and then flared into brisk business with George White's "Scandals" which went into ten performances and closed on the 11th of February with a bright $28,000 to show for the week.
On the 12th Helen Hayes arrived in "Ladies and Gentlemen" and drew her usual crowds. A busy week brought receipts to a very good $20,000. this not counting the special matines on Thursday for Finnish relief. On the 19th "Easy Virtue" came in for a six-day run.

Indianapolis

A FINE $9,300 was the add-up for "Ladles and Gentlemen", Helen Hayes' vehicle, for three evening performances and a matinee week ending February 10th. On the 13th Maurice Evans in "Hamlet" came into the English for two performances, both sold out. On February 22nd "Hot

It has been many a day since such superb singing has been heard on the light opera stage as that of the Negroes with the "Hot Mikado" company. But to call this version simply "hot" is a gross understatement. It sizzles, no less. However, it's the sort of sizzling that warms the cockles of the heart.

It is of course first of all buriesque, ut buriesque not in any way trying to be sensibilities, since it is a spontaneus taking-over into a different genre of work inherently jolly itself.

This transition was most delightful, moreover, when it was least like the original, mince copy-cat tactics are altogether unnecessary when players bubble over with dramatic sense.

"The Man Who Came to Dinner" at the Harris took in $18,000 for the week ending February 3rd. (The week before that it had totaled $17,000.) It held to a briliant $18,000 for the week ending February 10th, and the following week touched the tape at $18,500, which made it the town's chief money-maker.

Two shows checked out of the city January 27th, George White's "Scandals" (Erlanger) after a lavish five-week stretch and "Easy Virtue" (Selwyn) after three discouraging performances. The "Scandals" had a sowie $24,000 to count up in its final week. For the three sad setups of the Constance Bennett vehicle there was less than $7,000 to show. The Erlanger was immediately refilled (29th) with "Three after Three". The Selwyn waited until February 4th before relighting with "Thanks for my Wife".

"Three after Three" got lukewarm comments from the critics but managed to heave-ho to a good $17,000 for the week

"Three after Three" got lukewarm comments from the critics but managed to heave-ho to a good $17,000 for the week ending February 3rd. The second week it slipped to $14,000, a total it held to for the third week, ending February 17th.

"Thanks for my Wife" with weak press reports managed just $5,000 for the week ending February 10th. The following week it held to this figure. With an upturn expected from beneficial word-of-mouth comment the producers decided to continue it at least four more weeks.

"Hot Mikado", in its fifth and final week

"Hot Mikado", in its fifth and final week at the Auditorium (ending February 10th) managed a fair $11,000. The two previous weeks had each rung up $12,000.

The next week "Mamba's Daughters" at Ford's had glowing tributes from the critics and a good demand for the upper floors, but wound up with no more than $9,700. "Leave it to Me" went into Ford's on the 5th of February but from the very first it was thumbs down. The week's figure was only $11,600. "Life with Father", following it, had one of the most promising mail order and advance sales in the history of the house, pounding to a smash of $16,600 for week ending February 17th. For the week ending February 25th "Tobacco Road" was at Ford's, with the Maryland housing the Columbia Opera Company, directed by Armand Bagarozy.

New Orleans

New Orleans

Arine Cornell played on February 10th in this city to capacity, thus bringing up the total to $25,400 for seven performances that week in towns around about, i. c., San Antonio, Fort Worth and Dallas.

St. Louis

BOLSTERED up by the publicity of Constance Bennett's jewel theft, "Easy Virtue" at the American finished the week (ending February 3rd) with a good box office take of $10,500. On the 11th of February the American relighted with Bill Robinson in "The Hot Mikado". With the bouse completely sold out, they whirled a wicked wicket to the tune of $24,000. George White's "Scandals" moved in on February 18th.

Miami

THE policy of out-of-door operetta was started February 9th when Fortune Gallo, in association with the Shuberts, presented "Blossom Time", as the first of a series of "operettas under the stars". Eileen Herrick was Kitzi Kranz and George Lowther, Carl Binder, her suitor. Top honors were carried off by Everett Marshall, Nancy McCord, Ruby Mercer and Victor Mercer. The Fokine Ballet opened the first and second acts with a series of colorful tableaux. The operetta drew 7.000 customers into the stadium, an all-time record for a show of this type.

Kansas City

TWO sell-out performances of Maurico Evans' "Hamlet" at the Music Hall, February 3rd, added up to a mighty $7,600. A three-day session of Eva LeGallene's "Hedda Gabbler", opening February 8th, brought disappointing trade, what with critics' cracks and sleety snows. It grossed a poor $5,000. George White's "Scandals" came in early in March.

Lincoln

EVA LEGALLIENE'S "Hedda Gabbler" at the Liberty drew $1,008 for one performance, February 16th. Gross represented a slight profit for the theatre.

"Thanks for my Wife", starring Alan Dinehart, Glenda Farrell and Lyle Talbot, drew in but a light $2,500 in four nights and one matinee, the week ending January 27th. In St. Paul the same attraction on a one. nighter pulled $3,500.

San Francisco

FOR the week ending January 27th, "I Married an Angel" at the Curran, in its second and final stanza, crossed the finish line with $11,000. "Hamlet" garnered in the same week a neat $20,000.

Los Angeles

TOWARD the end of January theatre interest shifted from the downtown area to the Hollywood section. "Meet the People" originally tried out at the Assistance League Playhouse" moved, on February 1st, to the Hollywood Playhouse. "No Time for Comedy" by Katharine Cornell wound up at the Bilimore (Los Angeles) with $18.500 for the week ending January 27th. Taming of the Audience

Taming of the Audience

WHILE the Lunts are putting on performances of "The Taming of the Shrew" all over the United States, they are also doing their bit toward taming audiences. Time has this to tell of them. "At the opening of "The Taming of the Shrew" in Los Angeles, Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne gave late-comer the works. As each laggard group came down the aisle, Lunt and Fontanne stopped dead in their lines, she to bow graciously, he to cry 'Welcome!' Once he said: 'For the benefit of those who have just come in, I'll play the scene again.' And he did so."

ARRANGING"

By PAUL HILL

Note: Mr. Joe Bishop, who has been conducting this column is on the road with an orchestra and therefore unable to devote his time to writing.

uring Mr. Bishop's absence the column will be written and by Paul Hill, well known arranger, composer and teacher. During Mr.

SINCE we are going to devote this column to a discussion of the various aspects of arranging, I have an idea that most of our readers would prefer that this discussion concern itself, primarily, with arranging as applied to the modern dance orchestra. This preference is well justified, in view of the fact that this branch of arranging is in greater demand today than ever before, being the most important factor in the success of our dance orchestras.

What is Arranging?

Arranging merely consists of the "writing out" of one's musical ideas. For instance, one hears in his mind (or imagines), a certain melody, let's say—"Swanee River"—played as a solo by some instrument and accompanied by a rhythmic harmonic background. Or, he may imagine it played by a combination of instruments in harmony or unison; or, he may hear a group of instruments playing in harmony, while another instrument plays a counter-melody to it. These are his ideas on how to arrange that melody for orchestra. After these ideas have been written out and played by the orchestra, this is called his arrangement of "Swanee River."

Of course, he has to be familiar with chords and the principles of harmonic progression, in order to write out his idea so that it sounds intelligible to those who are to hear it played. Taken for granted that he knows these things, what other factors enter into the process of writing out an arrangement?

Well, there is the question of "which" tones of the harmony to use when distributing it for three instruments; which for four; or five. Then, how should the tones be written, in open or close position? How to voice the various chords—and many other considerations. Through my experience in teaching I have become familiar with many of the questions that confront the budding arranger. We will select and discuss one of these problems in this column each month, in the hope that it will solve a problem with which you, also, may be confronted in your arranging.

How's Your Voicing?—Three Part Voicing

When voicing seventh chords for a trio of instruments as, for instance, three saxes,

When voicing seventh chords for a trio of instruments as, for instance, three saxes, three brass, etc., have you ever been bothered about what note to leave out? (As you know, there are four tones in a 7th chord. When you're writing for only three instruments, one of the tones of the chord has to be omitted. Which one to omit?)

In voicing a 7th chord for trio, we want to be careful never to omit the third or the seventh. These are the two most important intervals of the chord and therefore, should be present at all times. Why? If we omit the third, one will not be able to distinguish whether its a major or a minor 7th chord. If we omit the seventh, it loses the character of a 7th chord and becomes just a plain chord. So, we're left with the choice of omitting either the fifth or the root in the trio. Just which of these we will omit depends upon what note of the chord is in the melody. Naturally, if the fifth is in the melody, and, since we must have the third and seventh in the harmony parts, we omit the root. And, conversely, if the root is in the melody, we leave out the fifth in the harmony parts. For example:

The chords in these illustrations would sound equally well when distributed to three saxes or three brass in the order shown. We'll go into mixtures of saxes the three saxes or three and brass in a later issue.

But, what determines which note we omit when the third or seventh of the chord is in the melody? (Here, we seem to have the choice of omitting either the fifth or the root.) Just which of these tones will be omitted depends upon the smoothness of progression with the chord before and after.

For illustration: In Bar "A" a "G7th" chord with third on top is required between the first and fourth chord. Which form (2) or (3), should be used here?

In Bar "B"—A "G7th" with 7th on top is required between the first and fourth chord. Which form (5) or (6) should be used here?

In Bar "A." form (2) is preferable to (3) since, if form (3) were used, the instrument playing the lowest part in the trio would have to take quite a jump from the "F" in (3) to the "B" in the fourth chord. Whereas, if form (2) is used, the progression is smoother.

In Bar "B," form (5) is preferable to (6) for the same reason. From this, it is obvious that we select the form of a chord that makes the smoothest connection with the chord before and after it.

-How About Four Part Voicing?

Deciding on what note to add to a chord in order to obtain four part harmony (as in four-way melody or background writing), has been the cause of many a sleep less night for many a novice. But, it's really very simple. Here is one of the ways in which it is done. Of course, this is the simplest:

- In adapting the tonic or subdominant chords to four-way harmony, we add the tone lying above the fifth of the chord (called the sixth).
- In adapting any of the other chords of the key for this manner of writing, we merely add the seventh to the chord.

The following illustrations can be applied to combinations of four saxes (two altos and two tenors; or, two altos, tenor and baritone), or, four brass (consisting of two trumpets and two trombones, or, three trumpets and one trombone).

I WANT YOU TO MEET AN EGYPTIAN 'MUMMY

A PERSONIFICATION OF IRTH. MELODY AND RHYTHM

By JACK REBOCK

EBSTER'S definition of an Egyptian Mummy is: a body embalmed in the ancient Egyptian manner. Who am I to contradict Webster? I wouldn't dare. However, I unhesitatingly say there's a decided difference between the Egyptian Mummy My explanation differs from defined and the one I have reference to Yes sir! Noab's in that this Egyptian 'Mummy' is not a dead-head. On the contrary, 'she' is very much alive—an Oriental beauty, a 'stand-out' in the Egyptian Ballet, a 'come-on' in the Hall of the Mountain King.

Scheherazade had good ideas. Remember Arabian Nights?

Egyptian 'Mummy' is smart, too-if you know what I mean. And you do know! Play around with 'her'. You'll like her attractive 'features', her compelling 'measures' and the rhythm in her different 'movements'. These qualities are all the more accentuated by the song in her heart—the melody. Swing into an atmosphere of the Orient with this Egyptian 'Mummy'. Throw away your incense burner. won't need it. We're all endowed with a power of imagination. Here's an opportunity to use it. Be careful! Delilah scalped Samson and weakened him, you know, Don't let that happen to you-even if it's imaginary.

The Enduro Reed is being adopted widespread by many of the famous radio artists and the big name bands. The successful performance of this new permanent reed is due to the material of which it is made, namely "Tonalin", a new secret formula.

it is made, namely "Tonalin", a new secret formula.

The discovery and development of "Tonalin" is said to be one of the greatest advances ever made in the reed industry. This amazing new material, developed and owned exclusively by the Enduro Company, is ultra-vibrant, exceptionally durable and absolutely waterproof. It is compressed under 20,000 pounds pressure, yet is flexible and can be sandpapered, shaved or clipped as easily as the ordinary reed material. "Tonalin" will not absorb moisture and will retain its supervibrant qualities indefinitely. The fine tonal resonance and everlasting brilliance of the Enduro Reed is made possible by this new secret formula "Tonalin".

Mills Music Releases Important Piano-Accordion Band Series

The ever-growing field of plano accordion bands now has its meager library spriched by the astounding contributions from Mills Music, Inc.

A new Piano Accordion Band Series has just been released with arrangements by Pietro Deiro of six outstanding selections: "Star Dust", "Repasz Band", "Bugle Call Rag", "Fire Drill", "Girl of my Dreams", and "There's Something About a Soldier".

Arranged with six accordion parts and complete conductor's score, the series is

The first accordion part may be played as a solo.

New "Tone Master" Mouthpiece By Otto Link

A fitting climax to his first quarter century of service to the music trades will be found in Otto Link's current announcement of the new Link "Tone Master" bell-metal mouthpiece. Many years have passed since the name "Link" was first associated with production of reed instruments and mouthpleces, but each has been distinguished by some new creation, some worthwhile improvement, some outstanding contribution to the cause of better musicianship. Today a surprising number of the top-ranking and contest-winning saxophonists and clarinetists are equipped with Link mouthpieces. Dealers and jobbers everywhere have found the line in constant demand and profitable to handle.

The new "Tone Master" mouthpiece, to quote Mr. Link, "has everything!" It embodies many up-to-the-minute features—a new tone chamber design; a specially designed new type non-slip ligature which provides more accurate set for the reed and insures greater freedom for reed vibration, while carefully calculated proportions insure absolute accuracy and a maximum of lip comfort.

The popularity of these compositions on Alec Templeton's radio program was greatly responsible for the huge advance sale of these solos, which are now in their second printing. Factory Space
A strong advertising campaign, behind a product of merit, still seems to be the best formula for successful merchandising, and business development. Just a few short months ago, the French American Reeds Manufacturing Co., of which Mario Maccaferri is president, moved into its new home in this country, at 1658 Broadway, New York City. A new reed, designed by M. Maccaferri, was announced to the trade, and production started.

It is a truly remarkable tribute to his new product, that the "My Masterpiece" reed has made it necessary for M. Maccaferri to actually double the amount of his factory space, in order to take care of ever increasing business. The new reed is said to have been warmly welcomed by many

Victor Records "Dream Album" After Two Years

After Two Years

For more than two years, R. C. A. Victor has been trying to bring together Kirsten Flagstad and Lauritz Melchior on one set of records. This week, it was announced, they have done it.

The result, delayed by the exceptionally heavy singing schedules of both stars which allowed them to get together infrequently, is billed as the "dream album of all time", the most difficult, the costliest, the most technically perfect recorded music in the world—Flagstad and Melchior with Edwin McArthur and the San Francisco Opera Orchestra in the "Love Music" and Isolde's "Liebestod" from Tristan and Isolde, and the "Immolation" of Brunnhilde from Götterdämmerung.

Despite "literally thousands" of requests for this music from all over the country, Flagstad and Melchior were so exacting that two years were consumed before they, the recording engineers and Edwin McArthur were satisfied. The announcement of these recordings is especially significant since newspapers have published reports that Madame Flagstad would like to retire to a more private life soon. If this is true, these records might very well be her legacy to the American people.

"I feel I must leave something behind", she said. "Something that is part of me and something that says 'Here is Flagstad as she was; here is Flagstad who remembers and is thankful and glad."

"I am glad this recording was made in America. I am glad it was conducted by Edwin McArthur who is also an American and my friend and accompanist for years. For, next to my native Norway, America is my home—and here I have found my greatest inspiration and from here will take away my fondest memories."

"We hope to have contributed something of permanent value to the recorded library of musical literature", said Mr. Melchior. "For me, it will be a permanent remembrance of a great moment in my life. These are the most beautiful moments in all musical drama."

The Secretary submits the following report on the International Musician:
I am submitting herewith my report on The International Musician. As I previously explained to the Board, the cost viously explained to the Board, the cost of paper continues to rise.

On the coated paper, which will be used exclusively by The International Musician commencing with the February issue, the price was $4.90 per hundred at the time of the Convention. The paper which we bought and which was used in November and will be used again starting in February cost $5.15 per hundred. We have enough for the February and March issues. In attempting to place a future order on Monday of this week, the paper company would not quote us any price whatsqever, stating that we could expect to pay anything from $5.30 to $5.60 per hundred at the time of delivery.

On the flat bond paper used for letterheads, proceedings, etc., the price has increased so far from $5.30 to $5.65 per hundred. We can secure no quotations for future delivery.

I am therefore suggesting that our advertising rates be increased as follows: Basic rate will be $6.00 per column inch. On contracts the following discounts will be allowed.

Net rate reduced to $5.70 per inch. 360 inches. An additional 5% is allowed. Net rate reduced to $5.55 per inch. 120 inches. An additional 15% is allowed. Net rate reduced to $5.40 per inch. 180 inches. An additional 15% is allowed. Net rate reduced to $4.80 per inch. 360 inches. An additional 20% is allowed. On all the above net rates a 5% discount for cash if paid within fifteen (15) days.

This cash discount will constitute an increase of 70 cents per inch on those who buy single insertions or less than 36 inches per year. The increase on contracted rates will range from 66 cents per inch increase on a 36-inch contract down to 49 cents an inch increase for a 720-inch contract. I have consulted with an experienced advertising man who operates a large agency, and he feels that the increase is justified and should not materially affect the total amount of advertising sold by The International Munician.

At the same time, at the request of Superintendent O'Neal, I am laying before you the matter of a small hand-fed press. We print business cards for the officers and representatives of the Federation, as well as business cards and membership cards for a great number of locals. Mr. O'Neal states that the time lost in making up on the automatic press is a source of material loss to The International Musician.

He shopped around and found that he could buy a good second-hand press that sells for $600 for the sum of about $185. At his suggestion, I am requesting that you authorize me to expend this small amount in order to alleviate congestion in the press room.

As to our advertising, we have been successful in increasing the average monthly total by about 100 inches. Between 250 and 300 inches used to be an excellent month, now we consider a month with anything less than 350 inches poor.

However, this increase has made it necessary for us to run 32 pages more excellent month; now we consider a month with anything less than 350 inches poor.

However, this increase has made it necessary for us to run 32 pages more often than 24. The additional cost of eight pages is about $800. One hundred additional inches of advertising nets us about $400. This, therefore, is not entirely a profitable arrangement. I have not run a Band Concert page for three months. Every month that we leave out any item we immediately receive letters of protest from our local unions. This applies to everything from Name Bands to Symphony Orchestras.

I only cite these difficulties to show you that our problem may not be entirely solved. I cannot foretell the entire result until the end of the fiscal year. We have a better journal and, if it had not been for the rising cost of labor and material, would have undoubtedly been able to go through the year with a fair profit.

My opinion at the present time is that at the end of this fiscal year we will be on one side or the other only by a slender margin.

Respectfully submitted, FRED W. BIRNBACH, Secretary, A.F. of M.

Upon motion, the report is accepted and the recommendations contained therein are concurred in by the Board.

Indianapolis and Indiana have paid full homage to the memory of the beloved Hoosier poet, for in addition to the Riley Library and the Riley Hospital, visitors will wish to visit Riley's home on Lockerbie Street, which is maintained as a shrine and open to the public. His boyhood home at Greenfield, nineteen miles east of Indianapolis, has recently been restored and refurnished in the period of the poet's occupancy and is now open to the public.

A recently completed restoration of great historic interest is that of the home of Benjamin Harrison. 23rd president of the United States. The home at 1230 North Delaware Street has been restored and opened to the public through the efforts of the directors of Indianapolis' outstanding Music School, the Arthur Jordan Conservatory, which adjoins the Harrison Home on the south.

The Hubbard family still occupies the home.

Perry Stadium, home of the American Association Indians, is the finest minor league park in the United States and has the reputation of being the best equipped for night baseball. You will see this on your way to the Motor Speedway.

Individual sightseers will have special interests which will lead them to look up other spots and institutions. The list above, however, should be in every vistor's notebook as "must do" when in Indianapolis.

CENTERS IN AMERICA

Other cities will eventually follow the lead of San Francisco. Edward Johnson is now working on a plan for absorbing the new audience created for opera through which the Met would act as a clearing house for the entire country. Those cities which the Met has not been able to accommodate with its annual tours because of the distance and the expense involved, would be able to have opera presentation, the Met supplying a few of its leading singers, conductors, concertmasters and coaches. Local organizations would furnish the bulk of talent, orchestra and ballet. This would mean more permanent organizations in more cities, more epportunities for musicians.

Make no mistake about it, this country is going places musically. I know that musicians have had a tough time during the last few years getting adjusted to what is called technological advance; radio and sound pictures chiefly. But it i'm anything of a prophet, more and more opportunities for musicians will crop up while economic conditions advance as a result of these technological improvements. And for these reasons; we now have a nationwide audience for symphony and opera. Radio created an audience which did not exist before. Will this audience be eternally content to hear disembodied music; i. e., radio music? The increase in symphony orchestras is one answer. Unless I'm awfully mistaken, radio will turn out to be the best salesman for the real thing in music this country has ever had.

A new spray process of silvering is said to cut the time and cost of making mirrors. Mirrors made by the new process are brighter, longer-lasting, it is also said.

Steel so hard that it can cut glass has Steel so hard that it can cut glass has been produced in a new automatic electric steel-hardening furnace. The new hard steel is designed for the manufacture of dies. The makers say that more than two hundred such dies have been shaped from the metal without any appreciable distortion which would require supplementary machining or reshaping. It is estimated that potential economies of from forty to sixty per cent. in the manufacture of dies should result.

Trucks and automobiles of the Middle-Trucks and automobiles of the Middle-sex County government in London, Eng-land, will soon be operating on sludge gas—a by-product of the county sewage plant—to save gasoline. Middlesex County, a part of metropolitan London, is build-ing a $35,000 plan to make use of this by-product in motor vehicles possible. Similar use of sludge gas has been re-ported as common in Germany.

When the wearer of a new life preserver jacket finds himself in water, a patented distress signal light goes on automatically and burns continuously for over seventy-two hours. Electric current for the light is made by an inbuilt battery, consisting of a zinc tube with carbon rod center, which is inactive and non-deteriorating until in contact with water.

Dinner on an elevator is the latest in restaurant service. It is being tried at a New York restaurant. The customer writes his order on a slip of paper, drops it down a slot, and presses a button which sends a square tray, in the center of the table, down to the kitchen, where the food is put on it and the tray sent up again.

Radio Corporation of America has developed a system of relay transmission extending the range of television from fifty miles to a much greater distance. The new method of transmitting makes it possible for a station in New York City to reach receivers in cities as far distant as Boston and Washington. This, the corporation said, clears away a principal technical difficulty which hitherto has obstructed the development of television broadcasting.

Remote control has been installed on a fifty-ton storage battery locomotive used by the Kansas City Power and Light Company. The operator directs the unloading of four nine-car trains a day from a master control panel which starts stops and reverses the locomotive. He stands where he can see that each of the hopper cars is exactly in position for bottom dumping to a conveyor belt.

An eighteen-year-old Italian inventor is reported to have made an automobile capable of traveling one hundred and thirty-seven miles on one gallon of gasoline and with a top speed of thirty-seven miles an hour. The auto is a two-seater, weighing only two hundred and eighty pounds. It can easily be put in motion by a system of pedals, for use if gasoline runs out.
