Wage-sarbers. In the election of 1940 the American Federation of Labor has followed its tra-ditional non-partian policy. We have presented the labor records of candidates for public office and granted to each voter the right to decide for himself just what the right to decide for himself just what his action should be in the light of his own best interest. There is no attempt made to influence any voter beyond his own judgment. We have considered it our duty to compile these seconds of past performance of candidates and to present them for the consideration of our mem-bers in making their decisions. That is in line with our conception of service to our members and triends, while honoring their rights as citizens to exercise the right to vote for whom they wish. An improved "Klystron," a generator that sends electrical power through the air was demonstrated recently before en-gineer protessors at laboratories of like Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co., in Bloomfield, N. J. The generator was halled as bringing the wireless trans-mission of electricity a step nearer to practical application, such as providing power for illumination and domeetic uses in homes. Visitors were given flashlights to which was attached a short wire an-tenna, and as the generator poured out its micro waves, focused through space with the aid of a six-foot horn, the bulbs were lighted as though they had storage bat-teries in them.

Advantages claimed are speed of manu-facture, light-weight and decreased air resistance.

The Smoot-Holman Co., Inglewood, Calif., announces development of thermo-statically-controlled equipment which ap-plies infra-red radiation to orchards and ground crops, preventing damage from freezing and speeding growth. The pro-cess consists of infra-red reflectors strung on overhead wires and controlled by a central distribution panel. It doesn't heat the air but provides irradiation which keeps the sap flowing in leaves, stems and branches.

Discovery of an electrostatic process of scovering iron ore from low-grade ore re

Pointing out that under present methods of recov-ery commercial iron ore must contain at least fifty per cent iron to justify its transportation and use, G. W. Penney, re-search scientist, said experiments with the new process "indicated that an np-preciable percentage of iron still remain-ing in discarded ore can be economically separated."

HE outdoor band season comes to a close with extensive plans afoot for improved acoustical facilities, enlarged seating capacity and more effective means of promotion. Just as extensive, if less outspoken, are plans which point to even greater improvement of the ensembles both as musical and as entertaining units. With sincere musicians within the bands and enthusiastic citizens behind them, the purposes may be said already to be as good as accomplished.

Los Angeles

LOCAL 47 in Los Angeles determined to do something constructive about put-ting men back to work.

A committee from that local composed of J. K. Wallace, president; J. W. Gillette, international studio representative, and Harold William Roberts, special repre-sentative, approached the Los Angeles Board of Supervisors requesting an appropriation for a Los Angeles County Band. They based their plea on a Call-fornia state law which provides for a three mill per hundred dollars assessed valuation in each of the fifty-eight counties for the purpose of furnishing free music. After much negotiation an exploitation fund was granted and a whirlwind campaign was set in motion to make Los Angeles citizens music con-scious. A week of musical activity named "Professional Musicians' Week" provided "Professional Musicians' Week" provided "Professional Musicians' Week" provided an adequate vehicle for publicity. The entire seven days were given over to band concerts in the various parks, climazed by a gigantic music parade. Paul White-man was master of ceremonies. Not so easy to estimate, as an or of the campaign, is the changed attitude toward musicians. "Musicians' Week" toward musicians. "Musicians' Week" has revealed to the community the high status occupied by the musician which is comparable with that of doctor, lawyer or teacher. It has directed mass opinion toward the value to the community of the 7,000 persons engaged in music as a livelihood, and to their significance in the management and operation of all com-munity activities. The final program, bringing to a close four months of summer concerts, was given September 10th and gave prominent place to American composers, such as John Philip Sousa, Victor Herbert and Herbert L. Clarke. The first movement of Schubert's "Unfinished" Symphony was also on the program.

This was the twenty-eighth consecutive concert season for the band, and indica-tions are that it will increase even more in capability and prestige as the years go by.

This is not to be wondered at. For, aside from symphonic and chamber music groups, at least six bands have played in the Park. When one considers that this has been a regular feature of the musical life of Reading for the past twelve years, one forms some idea of the benefit accruing to musicians through the work which George W. Snyder inaugu-rated in 1938, and Frank L. of 1940 started out as an experiment, but results have convinced citizens of Reading that hereafter it must be considered an integral part of their civic life. The band shell in City Park is well fitted to handle programs of great diversification. Its equipment includes a grand piano, a Hammond organ, a director's podium, 100 uniform orchestra chairs, fifty stands equipped with light and an amplification system which next year is to be further improved improved.

The fame of the programs given during the season spread through Pennsylvania and indeed beyond that state's borders. On August 26th, for instance, Paul S. Althouse, Metropolitan tenor, and Orsola Pucclarelli, Reading soprano, were so ists. With their assistance and that were solo Willy Richter, pianist, the band and the Penn Wheelmen Chorus of sighty voices gave a program of high quality and wide variety.

Such musical achievement has meant work—and a great deal of it—for those in charge of affairs. There have been many details concerning seating arrange-ments, rehearsals, advertising, program-ming, of which the public has remained bilssfully unaware. Symphony Orchestras

E who pride ourselves on buying tickets early in the season and on arriving at the opposit and on arriving at the concerts promptly may find food for thought in contemplation of the effort put forth and perhaps even hardships endured, in order that concert-goers may fully enjoy these evenings of music. The men sitting on the platform, for instance, deftly fingering their instruments—what have they contributed to the ticket-holders' enjoyment? For one thing it has taken each of them ten years, with from three to five hours in each golden day of youth set aside for practice, just to train himself for the position he holds. And this he has had to accomplish before he could even be considered a likely applicant for the job of symphony orchestra member. Then, when after infinite patience and perseverance he has rounded up a job, his hours

Inite patience and perseverance he has rounded up a job, his hours of practice jump to six or eight and be-come such periods of concentration and perspiration as the average office worker can scarcely comprehend. Then again, what does the man fash-ing the small stick before his men do to make concert hours pleasurable? To take a specific example, John Barbirolli of the New York Philharmonic Symphony Or-chestra not only stands for four, five, six hours rehearsing his men, and works days on end at making transcriptions, but also has devoted five hours a day all the long summer to reading through n huge accumulation of submitted mam-scripts for possible selection. And, for each chosen for presentation, he has estimated the exact playing length, has gone over it phrase by phrase, consulting into historical data. He has labored over each composition as an inventor labors over a new contrivance, finding the very essence of meaning in it, that he may reveal this meaning to audiences. And the composers—that slient throns, ghostly in our midst—what have they done, through days of labor and nights of anguish, to give spirit and life to these programs? Their blographies stand as proof of their driving toil, their throes of creation. All this so that Mr. Concert-Goer might

This symphony which was composed in 1855, when the composer was only seventeen lay forgotten in the archives of the Paris Conservatoire for almost eight years, when D. C. Parker, a biographer of the composer, called it to the attention of Felix Weingartner. It was performed here by the Columbia Broad-casting Symphony in 1938. The work has a vivacious first movement, a more sedate second, and an energetic funde. A minuet forms the third movement. Another novelty on the program was Mr. Barbi-rolli's own arrangement of a Purcell Chaconne. The music was originally secored for two violins, a viola da gamba and a basso continuo. The program opened with the initial performance of Mr. Ormandy's transcrip-tion of a Handel Concerto in D major. Four "Songs for Women's Voices with Accompaniment of Two Horns and Harp" by Johannes Brahms were sung by the Women's Glee Club of the University of Pennsylvania, Harl McDonald, director. These songs were written by Brahms for the Ladies' Choir of Hamburg of which he was director. At that time he wrote to Clara Schuman: "I tell you that one of my most endearing memories is this ladies' choir. Only think of its nicely graduated arrangements, like a funnel. First the full choir of forty: then a smaller one, for which I arranged three-part folk-songs which I made them prac-tice; and then a still smaller one, which only sang me songs for solo voices and presented me with red ribbons". On his departure, the members of the choir pre-sented Brahms with a silver ink-stand. Reading, Pa. FOUR Symphony concerts with four eminent guest artists is forecast for the Reading Symphony Orchestra. The artists will be Giovanni Martinelli, Rosa-lyn Tureck, Mischa Mischakoff and Edna Phillips. Andre Polah, who is directly responsible for the revival of interest in musical art in Syracuse, will conduct. The first concert, at which Giovanni Martinelli will sing, will take place on December 1st. birth of Peter Ilyich Tchaikovsky was ored in the second pair of concerts given October 17th and 19th. Josef Fuchs given October 1 (in and 19(ii. Josef Fuche was the soloist playing that master's Violin Concerto in D major. The all-Tchaikovsky program included the Over-ture-Fantasia, "Romeo and Juliet", and the Sixth Symphony, the "Pathetique"; the latter has been given in fourteen of the contextury input theme concerned the orchestra's twenty-three seasons. The first of six "Twilight Concerts", one bour in length and devoted to lighter, symphonic works, was given October 20th. Rudolph Ringwall, associate conductor, directed.

At the concerts of October 24th and 26th, the Fantastic Symphony of Hector Berlioz appeared upon the programs of the Cleveland Orchestra for the first time in eight seasons. The symphony, which is in five movements, is actually which is in five movements, is actually an autobiographical sketch of the com-poser presented with the grateful imper-sonality that music alone can achieve. The "motif" scheme is used, and one fragment of melody, representing Henri-etta Smithson for whom Berlioz pos-sessed an almost insane passion, appears again and again. Beethoven's First Symphony was also heard on the same program, and "The School for Scandal", by the American composer, Samuel Bar-ber, was given its first performance in Cleveland. Leonard Rose, first cellist of the Cleveland Orchstra, was soloist in the concerts of October 31st and Novem-ber 2nd. He played the Cello Concerto in D minor by Edouard Lalo. Chicago

Chicago A HALF CENTURY of musical history was brought to a climax October 10th when Dr. Frederick Stock raised his baton to open the fiftieth senson of con-certs by the Chicago Symphony Orches-tra. It was fifty years and on October 18th, 1890, that Theodore Thomas, founder of the orchestra, stood before his newly formed organization to ensul the first sesson of concerts, and ever since then each year it has given a full schedule of performances. performances

The orchestra's plans for the year are unusually stable. Only one alteration has been announced. Sergei Rachmaninoff's been announced. Sergel Rachmaninows "The Bells" which was to have been played on October 24th and 25th con-ducted by the composer, has been post-poned to March 13th and 14th, such post-ponement being necessary because of some revisions to be made by Mr. Rachman-inow inoff.

"Festival Fanfare" by Dr. Stock, the conductor, opened the season. "In this work", he tells us, "the orchestra really 'goes to town'. There is everything in this composition but the cash register. Our orchestra is the only one in this country which has what is called a schellenbaum; it is a jingle or bell tree used extensively in Europe with military bands. The one used here was a present to Theodore Thomas from the great French composer, Saint-Saens. Thomas

Before his departure Saint-Saens made a present to Thomas of a great many scores which had not yet been played in this country. And that is why the shellenbaum heard at the opening concert October 10th is something more than just an ornamental jingle. The program also included Bee-thoven's Symphony No. 3, Strauss' Tone Poem, "Till Eulenespiegel's Merry Tone Poem, "Till Eulenespiegel's Merry Pranks" and Rimsky-Korsakov's "Capric-cio Espagnol". On October 18th Darius Milhaud's latest symphonic work, conducted by the com poser, was given its premiere perform-ance. This was the first of several works written expressly for the orchestra's fiftieth aniversary season and conducted by the composers. Berlioz's "King Lear" overture, and Debussy's "Iberla" and numbers by Honegger and Ravel were also on the program.

Racine, Wis.

THE Racine Symphony Orchestra, composed of forty-eight musicians, opened its ninth season, October 22, 1940, with a concert at the Main Street Theatre. Carneval Overture, Opus 92, by A. Dvordk, was the opening number. the composition an underlying theme can be heard, played first by the strings, then by the woodwinds, and finally by the brass. The moods continually change change 1. The from the happy to the sorrowful orchestra's second offering was "London Suite" by E. Coates.

Making his first appearance on the program, the guest artist, Percy Grainger, executed, with brilliancy and expressive ness, the piano passages of the three movements of the "Grieg Concerto in A minor". After the intermission he played several plano solos and then, with the orchestra's string section, his "Handel in the Strand", so named because it seems to suggest that composer walking down the Strand to the strains of English popular music.

Mr. Grainger then directed the orches-tra in two of his own compositions, "Harvest Hymn", his latest work, and the imaginative "Shepherd's Hey". Con-"Virginia, a Southern Rhapsody". At the next concert, on December 1st, James Melton, tenor, will be the guest artist.

The orchestra owes much of its success to the capable work of its conductor, Frederick Schulte.

Minneapolis

Minneapolis THE 1940-1941 season of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra under the in-spired direction of Dimitri Mitropoulos presents an unusually distinguished group of guest artists. The opening con-cert of the season on November 1st, was orchestral with works by Monart, De-bussy, Ravel and Mahler making up the program. November 3th started off the guest series auspiciously with Frits Kreisler assisting on an all-Beethoven program, playing the Concerto for Violin, in D Major, Other numbers were Over-ture to Ballet, "Prometheus" and Sym-phony No. 4 in B-flat major. Joanna Graudan, planist, wife of the orchestra's distinguished solo cellist, played Chopin's Concerto for Piano No. 2, in F minor, in the concert of November

Mr. Steinberg's inter-mentation was at once careful and subrited pretation was at once careful and spirited. His ability to acquaint the orchestra members with his slightest intent was appar-ent. These abilities were brought even more into prominence in the playing of excerpts from Berlios' "Romeo and Juliet" and compositions by Frank Lisst. PARADOXES of wartime are a part of the London musical scene. Concertgoers mutter darkly as they disperse on an air-raid warning, not because of dropping bombs, but because they are losing their place in line. A radio concert is be-ing listened to in the lobby of the hotel. A bomb smashes through the root and az-plodes in a nearby room. Employees of the hotel scurry here and there cleaning away the debris while the guests quietly continue to listen to the music. Farly continue to listen to the music. PERA, no longer the exclusive entertainment of the rich who patronized it as one of their many charities and emblazoned it with ermine and sables, has had a new birth in America. It is now the art and entertainment of the great American public. The Metropolitan is really an institution of the people, by the people, and for the people, and may it never perish! We all know how near it came to closing last spring. We also know how it was saved by contributions from the general public which amounted to more than $1,000,000. The entire house has been recarpeted, and a new tableau curtain, an exact dupli-cate of the now famous gold curtain which was installed in 1903, has been purchased. dedicated.

New York

New York AFTER twenty-four years of dormancy, Verdi's "Un Ballo in Maschera" will be presented as the opening work of the Metropolitan season, December 2nd. Un-like the original presentation, the revival will be given exactly as Verdi intended. since it is no longer subject to contempo-rary interpretations, being totally free of nationalism.

nationalism. Composed in 1858, the opera is based on a play dealing with the assassination of King Gustavus III of Sweden at a masked ball in 1792. While it was in rehearsal, an attempt was made on the life of Napoleon III in France; so the opera's performance was forbidden by Roman censors, who were fearful that-Italian Nationalists might connect the assassina-tion in the play with the Napoleon con-spiracy. tion in spiracy.

Novotna. Because of the present war, American Opera is enriched by the talents of European refugees, and also by those of many native American singers. Among those recently imported from abroad are: Germaine Lubin. leading soprano of the Paris Grand Opera; Stella Roman, a Rumanian dramatic soprano; Elsa Zebran-ska, meszo-soprano and contraito; Joel Berglund, Swedish baritone: Alexander Sted, Hungarian baritone; and Salvatore Baccaloni. American talent is represented by such gifted newcomers as Eleanor Steber, soprano of Wheeling, W. Va.; Arthur Kent, New York baritone, and Emery Darcy, tenor of Chicago. Revivals Bruna Castagna. Although to most Americans Bruno Walter spells "good symphonic conduct-ing", they-will get a chance to view an-other facet of Mr. Walter's talents when he takes over the baton at the "Met" this season to conduct Beethoven's "Fidelio", .Mozart's "Don Giovanni" and Smetana's "The Bartered Bride".

Smetana's "The Bartered Bride". A revival of the latter had been planned last year, but it was feit that the Czech folk opera would not be well received if sung in its usual German form. This year it will be given in the more accept-able English. The title role will be filled by engaging the Czech soprano, Jarmila Novotna.

Revival GodD news to Lily Pons and also to her public is the announcement of the revival of Donisett's opera, "The Daugh-ter of the Regiment", for in spite of her initiant "Lucia" and "Lakme" it will be a welcome change to hear America's out. This seems to be the season for revival, many with the already mentioned "Bride" of along with the already mentioned Bride" on "The Daughter of the Regiment", fluck's "Alceate". This historic oper has never been performed at the "Met" or at any other American house as far fluck's famous manifesto of his revolu-tionary ideas of music drama, and at the time in that artform. This production build be colorful, for its art director will be brilliant stage designer, Richard avenue.

Chicago PROBABLY one of the most concrete proofs of America's existing and grow-ing interest in opera was exhibited by the vision context held and conducted by Olovanni Cardelli over station WAAF. For weeks during the summer, operas were previewed via recordings on two-bour programs, and listeners were re-rested to vote for their favorites. As a

THERE is a revolutionary idea in pianos based on the latest principle of sound amplification. The new Electronic "Minipiano" has no sounding board. The pure tone of the strings is electrically amplified producing a tone similar to the tone of a concert grand. Like a radio, the new Electronic "Minipiano" has a volume control dial. The volume can be softened to a whisper, or amplified to several times that of the biggest grand piano. Henrietta Schumann used three ELEC-TRONIC "MINIPIANOS" in the Radio City Music Hall. Interesting to note is the fact that the closing quis brought in as many as 1,000 replies, which was at least twice the amount expected by the management.

The contest had its share of sidelights, some amusing, some pathetic—witness an entry sent in which called for a special judge to decipher. It was accompanied by a note asking that the misspelling be excused. The entry was in Braille, and the note read, "I am blind."

Mr. Cardelli recently made the an-nouncement, relative to the formation of the Opera Theatre Group, of plans to present at The Civic Theatre works of little-known composers and neglected works of well-known composers. The Typical of most operatic composers, Verdi balked at this censorship, and re-fused to allow his music to be subject to a different libretto. Because of this "act-ing up" on his part trouble seemed im-minent. Difficulties were flaally smoothed out by placing the action of the play in Boston, because at that time the assassi-nation of a mere Governor of-provincial Boston meant little or nothing to Eu-ropean authorities. And so it' was that on February 17, 1859, after being made absolutely "nationalist proof", the opera was given its first public performance. It was presented at the Metropolitan from 1889 to 1890 when it was given four times.

1889 to 1890 when it was given four times. The singers who will grace this year's revival have not yet been announced, but speculation has it that Riccardo will be sung either by Jussi Bjoerling or Giovanni Martinelli: Renator, by Alexander Ssed, Norwegian baritone, who will take over all Lawrence Tibbett's roles until the American baritone regains his health. Tom will probably be using by Leon Rothier, Amelia by History, stries will commence on October 20th with Cimarosa's "Il Matrimonio Segreto", starring Giacomo Rimini and Virginia Haskins, who appeared last season in "La Serva Padrona". The Opera Theatre Group is a product of the fertile imagina-tions of Mr. Rimini, Mr. Cardelli and the manager, Harry Zelzer.

The newly reorganized Chicago Com-pany, which opened its season November 2nd, has engaged Fritz Reiner, who will make his debut as conductor of "Der Rosenkavaller" by Richard Strauss. Al-though Mr. Reiner is better known here for his symphonic conducting, his early training was gained in opera. He started at the Opera Comique of Budapest in 1909, going from there to the Dresden Royal Opera, and finally coming to this country.

Artur Rodzinski will conduct one operatible season. "Selome" operations Artur Rodzinski will conduct one opera this season, "Salome", on November 21st, which is to benefit Passavant Hospital. It will cast soprano Mariorie Lawrence in the title role. Others in the cast will be Karin Branzell Beredios, Rene Maison as Herod and Fred Destal, a new-comer, as Jokanaan. When he signs the Strauss version, Mr. Maison will be re-versing roles, because when "Horodiade" was revived in 1931, he sang the role of John to the Herod of John Charles Thomas, The Salome at that performance was Mary McCormick and the Herodias, Maria Olszewska.

Back when I was playing clarinet and sax with Paul Whiteman, I started making reeds by hand. Later, while playing at NBC, Chicago, and at Warner Bros. Studio in Hollywood, I began to supply other players with my reeds. Finally, I designed my own machines

During the past 17 years I've made millions of reeds. Not until recently did I arrive at a cut and finish that was so near perfect I was proud to mark it with my own signature.

My Big Stock of Cane

Out here on the Coast, I've got a battery of the most modern reedmaking machines in the world. Before ahipments from France stopped, I staked every cent I had on big imports of the finest cane in France. It rolled in on me in big shipments like the one shown in the snapshot above

I've gone through all of this cane and placed the choice, prime quality cane in my private

Last August I sent some of my reeds to Selmer and asked their reed experts to test them. Those finicky guys actually raved about them so much that Selmer immediately arranged to distribute my reeds nationally through their dealers. If you'll take just one look at the glassy-sm finish and beautifully-clean cut of a Roy J. Maier reed, you'll know it's perfectly made. Playing a dozen will prove to you how consistently good a reed can be. After a few weeks, you'll realize how long a reed can stay good when it's made like mine is-with the maximum volume of wood in the heart of tip.

EMBELLISHMENTS by Jan Hart

MEDITATION—October with its awe-inspiring contrasts of hues and colors has gone, and now 'tis bleak November, and we feel chilly and hibernatish for we are not essentially a winter bug. Dreary month, November, but for a saving race. Thanksgiving Day. We have often wondered why President Lincoln appointed the last Thursday in November as Thanksgiving Day instead of in October right after the have the completely over, but since he did we wish President Roosevelt would leave it that way from now on . . . If we are ever reborn we hope we're forthnate enough to have the U. S. A. for our birthplace again. . . Wonder what ucky sponsor will get that swell new show "Behind the Mike" on WJZ Sundays at 5:30 P. M. (EST). We hear several are dickering. . Our favorites: Planists—Horowitz and Gleeeking. The former fires us with ambition; the latter soothes our weary soul. . Announcer—Graham McNamee, because of his friendly and unaffected manner of speaking. Money.

because of his friendly and unaffected manner of speaking.
Fuiton McGrath's new composition "Reminiscing". Art Perry's rendition of "Molly Malone".
WANDERING NOTES—Those British (God bless 'em) will have their music in spite of intensified warfare in the air. There has been no appreciable interference with London's musical life, a foreign correspondent tells us, other than the annoying sound-effects caused by the Nazi bombs. No matter what is going on in the air, the patrons of the National Gallery concerts are punctual for the program. . . What a trill it must be for the English refugees here and the homefolks in England when they talk to each other on those two-way radio hook-ups. . . The music season in Finland will revolve around Sibelius, whose seventy-fifth birthday is on December 8. . . A great deal of research is being done today in collecting and recording the old folksongs of Russia, and musicologists are working to preserve this joyous music for the future, as Russian folk music has suffered a great decline due to the changes in the mode of living. Their music is no longer spontaneous, but organized. The songs are topical, and the joyous old folk-tunes have been discarded along with the old customs and feativities. (Ah me, this changing world! One grows sad thinking about it, or is it that one is simply growing old.)
VARIATIONS—The "most difficult plano composition ever written" is professedly a piece called "Rudepoema", by Brazil's distinguished composer, Heitor Villa-Lobos. It is dedicated to Artur Rubinstein. . . The plano industry has swung strongly myard at an increase of twenty-two per cent over last year and sixty per cent over his next number. . . American composers should be printed as an integral part of programs, states Julius Bloom, associate director of the Brooklyn Academy of Music. But we disagree, for we enjoy most of all the informal "encore hour", when we know not what cometh and wit breathlessly for the performer's announcement of programs, state

It is acclaimed as one of the most magnificent productions ever turned out by the Hollywood studios. TRILLS AND TURNS—The New Center of Music in Philadelphia, Joseph Levine, musical director, invites American composers to submit scores to the center for per-formance by that organization's orchestra. Works may be for various combinations as well as full orchestra. Entries should be addressed to Mr. Levine, 229 South 22nd St., Phila..., Antonia Brico has been holding auditions for her annual scholar-hip in conducting.... The New York Music School Settlement was organized in 1894 by Emily Wagner and was the original music settlement school in this state. The founder feit that "music was as vital as food" for the little East-Siders. MODULATIONS—What's this about Bing Crosby buying the Boston Bees? (Buzz-buzz).... Fred Waring has been unanimously elected by The Lambs Club to serve another year as Shepherd. ... Meredith Wilson flew to New York from the West Coast to attend the premiere of Charlie Chaplin's film of films "The Great Dictator", for which he orchestrated and scored the musical background..... Gray Gordon is the only celebrity to have two days set aside in his honor during one meson by the New York World's Fair... On his new program from the West Coast... Tommy Dorsey plans to give amateur song writers a real chance to crash through... Hai Kemp has introduced a new five-four rhythm called the "American Bolero".... Dick Henry, for years the head of European bookings in the William Morris Agency. Is now devoting his time exclusively to the club department.... Have you heard Dinah Shore sing Jack Lyons' new tune, "Yes, My Darling Daughter"? If not, don't miss it. It's a must! RECORD NOTES—Columbia has released the first in a new series of Hot Jazz miss it. It's a must! RECORD NOTES—Columbia has released the first in a new series of Hot Jazz Classics, re-issues of the original recordings that made jazz history. Louis Armstrong, Bessie Smith, Bix Beiderbecke and Fletcher Henderson are presented in four-record collections of their best-known works, plus many single discs of old-timers. . . Lanny Ross is now recording for Victor's Black Label. "Drummer Boy" as "Okehed" by Gene Krupa and his orchestra is really sumpthin, and what Gene doesn't do with those drums. Hildegarde, the erer-song-bird, has completed an album of Vernon Duke tunes for Decca with the composer and Leo Kahn at the planos. Poetry on records is in great demand these days. Don't miss Igor Stravinsky's "Le Sacre du Printemps", with the composer conducting the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra. It's a Columbia album.

O an ear carefully attuned, top-flight band music can be said to be going through a most interesting metamorphosis. Its cacophonous sounds are decidedly lessening and a smoother, softer. warmer note has invaded the whole. There is even an inclusion of the dreamy dance and the dulcet refrain. Perhaps the boom and blare of war, the clash and crash of armament industries are noise enough for jitterbugs; perhaps the times are proving to our youth that hysterical activity is no release from care, but only a closer confinement in the network of nerves; perhaps we all just want relaxation. Whatever the reason, melodies of romance and soft lights are replacing hard, glittering staccatos. Easier on the ears.

NOTHER turn of the entertainment kaleidoscope and the scene shifts again into its accustomed Autumn pattern. The World's Fair amusement area closes with "nominal to handsome" profits and the realization that these are to be attributed largely to such superb attractions as the American Jubilee. On a thousand greater and lesser White Ways throughout the United States lights gleam in the early evenings, matinee and night audiences pick up, and managers breathe their special prayers of thanksgiving that political processions and party demonstrations are no more.

Vaudeville's Advance

Vaudeville's Advance. MEANWHILE vaudeville continues its isteady advance. In the East there is a considerable scattering of houses of ther billing stage shows for the first time or increasing their allotment. In Bridgeport, Connecticut, the two largest one houses in town are using occasional stage attractions for the first time in several years. One of these, the Palace, staged a South American revue featuring Russ Andre's orchestra the week of October 12th; the other, the Majestic, held models, several dance teams, singers and Gus Meyers' orchestra. Washington

"UZANNA AND THE ELDERS", first tryout of the season, battled harsh notices to a fairly good $14.000, the week ending October 19th at the National. "Ladies in Retirement" followed, with "Pygmalion" arriving October 28th.

Baltimore

THE legitimate season got off with a bang in Baltimore, with "Life With Father" at the Maryland starring Dorothy Gish and Louis Calhern. The comedy drew solid capacity and $18,300 for the week ending September 28th. "New Pins and Needles" at the Ford ran into Jewish Holidays and drew only $6,300 for the week ending October 5th.

Buffalo

Buffalo "PHILADELPHIA STORY", starring Katherine Hepburn, ran on a snag, the week ending October 12th, when the local Children's Aid Society refused to allow Leonore Lonergan, who has played the role of Dinah for two years, to remain in the cast. The part was played by Hope Bulkeley, understudy. Critics commented the follow day upon the probable disrup-tion of the legitimate season there due to the local interpretation of the Child Labor Law.

Detroit

WTHE MAN WHO CAME TO DINNER" "THE MAN WHO CAME TO DINNER" wound up October 19th, at the Cass, with receipts for the last four weeks registering successively $14,000, $9,000, $8,000 and $9,000. The World Series hurt the matinees, but there was some alight compensation, in that the bail games brought more visitors to town. On Octo-ber 28th, Katherine Hepburn came into the Cass with her "Philadelphia Story". "Unfaithfully Yours" opened the long-darkened Wilson Theatre, and rated a $7,500 add-up for the week ending Octo-ber 19th.

All this augurs well for the road shows which are booked to follow. The company has been out for six years, and John Barton has played the Jeeter Lester role for four years, with a record of never having missed a performance.

Indianapolis

THE English Theatre opened its legiti-mate season October 2nd with a nice turnout to welcome Gertrude Lawrence in "The Skylark". The play stayed for four night performances and a Saturday mati-nee, and crossed the finish line at $11,700. Next in was Tallulah Bankhead, October 17th, in "The Little Foxes".

"Meet the People" at the Grand is try-ing to stick until just before Christmas and then move to New York for a Christ-mas Day opening. For the first two weeks of its stay in Chicago, it held to a steady $11,000, and the third week, ending Oc-tober 19th, umphed to $12,000.

St. Louis

St. Louis "TOBACCO ROAD", that hardy peren-nial, was back in St. Louis at the American for the seventh time in two years. It closed its two-week stay October 5th with takes of $8,500 and $7,600 cuc-cessively. Gertrude Lawrence in "The Skylark" played at the American from October 14th to 19th, competing with political rallies and even so racing through with a spanking $16,000. Perhaps the critics' high praise had something to do with it.

Los Angeles

Los Angeles "QUIET, PLEASE" went into the Bilt-more October 14th for a three-week session in order to be groomed for Broad-way. Notices were favorable but the tak-ings for the first five days were a rather pale $6,000.

America needs patriots to preserve our liberties and transmit them to the generations yet unborn, men who truly love their country and their fellow-men. —CLABENCE DARBOW.

Radio Lines

THE attention of all members of the Federation is called to the following law, which has been adopted by the International Executive Board, effective immediately:

"Members cannot negotiate or secure employment through an agent or secure and play for employers who by paying for, or through any other method, secure control over a radio line or lines."

Members will hold themselves governed accordingly.

Radio Lines and Remote Control Broadcasts

THE enactment of the above law and the story on page one mark another milestone in the progress of the American Federation of Musicians. Throughout the length and breadth of the jurisdiction of the Federation we have continually heard complaints that orchestras were prohibited from broadcasting by remote control by reason of the control of the lines, and the proprietors for the same reason were unable to secure the lines necessary to properly publicize their establishments. With the new policy of no discrimination and with the control removed from the hands of a few, these conditions no longer exist. Henceforth it will be a matter of fair competition, a policy that will benefit many and remove all possible unfair discrimination.

Our Writers

THE policy of this publication stands for unqualified free speech; therefore the writers and columnists of THE INTERNATIONAL MUSICIAN are granted the widest leeway in the expression of their views. It should always be remembered that any statement made or any viewpoint reflected by the various writers is not neces-sarily the viewpoint of THE INTERNATIONAL MUSICIAN and does not necessarily reflect a policy of the American Federation of Musicians.

WPA Music Projects

IN a report released on October 23rd by the Federal Works Agency, containing a condensed summary of work completed by the WPA from July 1, 1935, to July 1, 1940, there is much that is of interest to the professional musician. During this period music teachers on the Art Project have provided free of charge to the under-privileged 170,875 music lessons. Four thousand six hundred and sixty-eight concerts, the majority of which have been symphonic in nature, have been given by orchestras of from twenty to one hundred musicians. The total attendance at these concerts is estimated to have been 3,957,910.

This is truly an impressive record and one that demon-strates the great value of the WPA Music Project in not only providing employment opportunities for professional musicians but also in carrying the greatest of arts to mil-lions of people who otherwise might not have had the opportunity of enjoying it.

Television

WE have decided to eliminate our Television page, at least for the time being. Television has de-veloped to the point where it is a practical science, hindered only by its costliness. When commercial tele vision becomes possible, it will develop as rapidly as did radio from 1925 to 1935.

Whether or not it will provide the promised employment opportunities for our members remains to be seen. It is certain that unless some new invention provides a less costly method of chain telecasting, talent will have to be engaged in many cities instead of in two or three as is the case in broadcasting.

We have pioneered in the news of this new science and now that it is more or less an accomplished fact our space can be used to better advantage with articles having greater appeal to the readers of THE INTERNATIONAL MUSICIAN.

Important Labor Victories

ABOR has good reason to rejoice over sweeping deci-sions by the Oregon and California Supreme Courts, upholding union rights, including the vital right of peaceful picketing.

An important feature of the California decision was upholding of union shop contracts as legal and the court's declaration that, "An employer has no constitutional right to conduct his business as a closed, non-union shop.

Both decisions are of national significance and inter-est, probably heralding similar decisions elsewhere, as they were based fundamentally on recent United States Supreme Court rulings upholding peaceful picketing. The Oregon decision was especially important, as the anti-union law it killed was advocated nationally by unionhating interests and led to attempts to pass similar laws in other states. The few that were passed were not as drastic as the Oregon monstrosity.

It is worthy of note that the Oregon victory was won united action of all labor, the A. F. of L., CIO and unaffiliated railroad unions joining in the two-year fight to have the law held unconstitutional.

Both Benefit

"HERE has always been much written and spoken about the benefits to foreign-born persons of becom-ing United States citizens. Not so much has been said about the benefits America has derived from its foreign-born citizens, who have been contributing greatly to the nation's progress since its very beginning.

The New York Times recently emphasized this in commenting on the admission to citizenship of Professor Albert Einstein, the celebrated physicist.

"We hope," said the Times, "that American citizens, native-born or otherwise, realize that our country is a beneficiary as well as a benefactor when it welcomes new-comers of intelligence and integrity who are able and eager to contribute their share to our national life."

Professor Einstein, the Times further comments, "came, like many others, bringing gifts. We are the richer in having him for a fellow-citizen."

Such truths pointed out by the Times call for wide circulation, in these days when public feeling may some-times lead to blanket suspicion and distrust of the foreignborn.

The Dangerous Walker

"DANGEROUS walking" is inseparable from the auto-accident situation.

Authentic information indicates that fifty-five per cent of all pedestrian deaths are due in some measure to the fault of the pedestrian. In these cases, the walker isn't the innocent victim he is usually pictured, but definitely contributes to his own doom.

The National Safety Council suggests five simple and practical things the pedestrian can do to keep the Dark Angel at a safe distance:

First, obey traffic signals the same as good drivers do. Second, learn the laws and ordinances in effect in state and city to regulate traffic from the pedestrian's point of view-his rights and his duties.

Third, having done this, the pedestrian is in a posi-tion to demand a better acceptance by drivers of their obligations.

Fourth, take a greater interest in traffic problems, and especially in the placement and operation of traffic signals and pedestrian islands.

Fifth, it will be found through these studies that major reductions in the number and severity of accidents to pedestrians can be easily achieved.

The man on foot must contribute his share to the cause of safety, as well as the man at the wheel. Many pedestrians believe they should be allowed to commit almost any traffic error. The sad results of that notion are found in the deily accident figures.

Union men and women everywhere are alert to the need of promoting the demand for union label goods and services.

We Owe Them Much

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

IN 1492, when Columbus set sail from Spain on his first voyage of discovery which finally resulted in the finding of America, Spain inaugurated its country-wide persecution of the Jews, brutally driving them out of the country by the hundred thousands. It has gen-erally been supposed that Columbus was financed by Isabella, the Queen of Spain, who was said to have sold her jewels for this purpose. But research has revealed that Columbus was backed by \blacksquare group of Hebrews, so that actually it was Jews and not "Jewels" that made possible the discovery of our country. Not only were there Jewish members among the company which sailed under Columbus, but the maps and tables he used were prepared by a member of the same faith.

prepared by a member of the same faith. And when the United States was engaged in the Revo-lutionary War, and George Washington was hard-pressed financially, it was Haym Solomon, a Polish Jew, who saved the day with his contributions. This was not the first nor the only contribution made by Jews in helping to build a democracy. Indeed, when they had the privi-lege of setting up their own form of government thousands of years ago, it was based entirely upon democratic principles. They demanded absolute justice for all men. It was a government by and for the whole people. history of our country is crowded with accomplishments which show the loyalty and devotion of Jews who, as Americans, enriched our country in the field of education, science, medicine, philanthropy, music, literature, and in many other constructive and cultural directions.

The Jews are sometimes criticized because they held so tenaciously to their religion. It was the only thing everything else having been taken from them—but it was their most precious possession, and their finest con-tribution to civilization. This was something which they would not surrender in spite of a martyrdom which cost literally millions of lives. It was a religion, too, which became the basis of the Christian religion, as found in the Old Testament, which was written by Jews, and which was appropriated in its entirety by Christians when their own Bible was made.

In spite of the contributions made by Jews to America and to other nations which fought for and won democracy and the privileges which go with it, they are today the most bitterly persecuted people throughout the world, because of an insane hatred fostered by unscupulous rulers and political leaders, or by those who are misin-formed regarding the accomplishments of the Jews throughout their history. As Americans we should oppose every attempt to villify or make scapegoats of a whole people, especially one which has made such notable contributions to civilization and to democracy as have the Jews.

Why Not Everywhere?

THE Federated Trades Assembly of Duluth, Minne-sota, A. F. of L. central body, has been sponsoring a series of meetings with Duluth clergymen. It invites them to participate in a discussion of labor prob-lems—how they affect the unions and how they affect the general public. This seems a good idea, worth trying in other cities. As the Duluth Labor World says: "Much good can come from such mersions. A better

ETUBLE These is stubble only where harvest has been. But a constraint of the second Keller.

Among the guests from outside juris-dictions we noted Mr. and Mrs. Percy Snow of Waukegan, Ill.; President George Murk and Secretary Stanley Ballard of Minneapolis, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ringuis of St. Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Max Lewis and Mr. and Mrs. George C. Ctibor of Winona. Mr. and Mrs. George C. Ctioor of Winona. Field Man W. H. Hooper of Elkhart was an attendant and gave an interesting resume of various happenings in his ter-ritory. The Spring Conference was accorded to New London.

New London. The Eau Claire Local No. 345, known as the "Chippewa Valley Musicians' Association," did a masterful job of entertaining the Conference. The Local official personnel is as follows: President, Jack Pingel: Vice-President, Ohble Erickson; Secretary-Treasurer. Palmer Anderson; Sergeant-at-Arms, Larry Farwell; Delegate to Trade and Labor Assembly, Martin O'Brien, Jr.

Labor Assembly, Martin O'Brien, Jr. In the first one-third of his opening year as International President of the American F ederation of Musicians. Brother James C. Petrillo has been ac-corded some notable distinctions. While constantly engaged in the discharge of duty he has been featured as a celebrily in the Saturday Evening Post galaxy of fame. The author of the Post article did a fine piece of work. Those who have missed should consult the issue of Octo-ber 12, 1940. No harmful acid touches are applied. It was an artistic descrip-tion of what natural resources, firm de-termination to overcome handicaps, and a liberal endowment of that modernistic grace known as intestinal fortitude, can accomplish while crossing the plains and climbing the uplands of our American system of life—a story which caunot be too often repeated at a time when jangling over Again!" We congratulate President Petrillo; also Mr. Bruce Dennis, by whom the pen-picture was painted.

We reproduce the following obituary notice from the Chicago Intermezzo:

notice from the Chicago Intermezzo: Mrs. Gwendolyn Bowyer Norrie, one of the heat known, most popular theatre or-ganists in the days of silent movies, diel September 2nd in El Segundo Rest Home. El Segundo, Calif, death thus terminating an illuess which had run for several years, the last ten months of which were spent in the Rest Home. The cause of death was a cerebral hemorrhage due to arterlosclerosis and chronic Interstillal nephritis. She sus-tained a stroke a few days before she passed away.

tained a stroke a few days before she passed away. Gwendolyn Norrle was born Februnry 28, 1889, in Algona, Iowa, but had epent the greater part of her professional life in Chi-cago where she was known to, and esteemed by, most of the theatre musicians of this juriadiction. A few years ago she moved to California where she lived with her sister, Mrs. Marjorle Berls. She had many friends in this district and these have learned with genuine sorrow of her passing. Her re-mains were cremated, in accordance with her wishes. Surviving are her daughter, Muriel Norrle Swanson: her mother, Mrs. Nellie G. Bowyer: two sisters, Marjorle Berls and Genevieve Field, and one brother, Andrew Bowyer.

Minew Bowyer. Mrs. Norrie had many friends in Iowa. Her spirit was as blithesome as the prairie atmosphere in which she was born and passed her earlier girlhood years. Music was an inborn predilection. Its cultivation was a passion which reached from early youth until failing health circumvented such activities. Her talent was widely recognized. She gave her best to the art with which she was iden-tified. In the hour of her translation a rare soul passed from the scenes of earth.

Our valued friend W. A. Barrington-Sargent of Boston always has a band the public likes to hear. After delighting vast multitudes on Boston Common through the summer the educational authorities arranged for a series of morning concerts in the various public schools of the city. Perhaps this is another idea well worth advancing along. advancing along.

Things are happening in the jurisidic-tion of Local No. 4. The Cleveland Musi-clan relates the following harrowing episode in which Brother Ed. Haug, a widely known Federationist, played a stellar, yet tragic, role:

The other evening after Ed. Haug and his good wife had retired for the night and were sleeping soundly, some midnight prowler forced one of the windows and stealthily entering the room in which they were fast asleep made off with a pair of Ed.'s trousers. In the morning when the sleepers awoke, greatly to their surprise to trousers were in sight. A careful sur-vey of the several rooms disclosed the fact that not only were missing the trousers to the suit he had worn the day before, but those to another suit which was hanging in a closet. No other articles of any descrip-tion were taken, strange as it may seem, so in our opinion it was evidently the work of some moron with a fetish for that particu-lar article of men'= clothing.

We feel certain that Ed. did not remain sans sculottes for any extended period but blossomed forth sartorially resplen-dent in short order. To us the reflection which lingers is how any one will under-take to discount that prosperity is here when even a musician can include in his visible assets two pairs of pantaloons. As though the above related happening had not created enough excitement for one brief period, the Cleveland paper also recorded the following:

recorded the following: One afternoon last week while Frank Huby was busily engaged in teaching the intrinet to a very bright and ialented young pupil, two pesky files seemed to delight in making life miserable for both Frank and his pupil by returning again and again to they had just been brushed away, and try store would they were unable to get a good whack at the troublenome creatures. The young man was studying the "Plight of the Bumble-Bee" at the time and was going and a sudden the clarinet stopped. Frank Whon somewhat recovered and able to talk the young man the frank had happened, and to his surprise saw his pupil pale as about, sputtering and gasping for breath. Whon somewhat recovered and able to talk the young man told Frank had swallowed about to catch a quick breath to continue playing, the fly disappeared down his throat. Lucklip for him it was not the "Bumble-bee". However, the young man is still of the some to have a did in any way to the "Bumble-bee" that to aid in any way to the "Bumble-bee" the young man is still of the sound to his piper lip and you the "Bumble-bee". However, the young man is still of the opinion that it is far casier and a more playing, the fly disappeared down his throat. Lucklip for him it was not the "Bumble-bee". However, the young man is still of the opinion that is far casier and a more playing the fly."

"Plight of the Fly." We have long felt that reed instrument players needed better protection from the pestilential plunderbund which hover about the locale of harmonious well-springs—especially in summertime—and which at the most inopportune moment love to insert a tantalizing proboscis or stinger into unprotected cuticle: or sud-denly starting on an exploratory rampage through the interior of the instrumental vacuum from whence the sound cometh. It is prohably only a question of time when clarinets, saxophones, oboes and bassoons will be equipped with automatic fly swatters, gas-masks and self-propelling interior renovation swabs which will enable the artist to keep his mind's eye on sharps and flats, et cetera, and divinely wallow in the composer's inspiration undisturbed.

The Illinois State Conference of the American Federation of Musicians was hold at Danville on Sunday, October 20. The day was ideal, the surroundings in-spirational and the Conference itself, characterized by earnestness and determ-ination to advance all mutual interests. The sessions were held at the American Legion Headquarters.

The following Locals were represented: Benid, Aurora, Bloomington, Champaign, Chicago, Danville, Decatur, East St. Louis, Jacksonville, Joliet, Lincoln, Mattoon, Springfield, Waukegan and Coal City—re-cently added to the Conference relation-ship.

President Percy Snow and Secretary G. W. Pritchard—both of Waukegan— functioned in the capacity named. Adam Ehrgott, Local No. 128, Jacksonville, is Vice-President.

Mayor Frank J. Myer delivered a cor-dial address of welcome, and Elmer Brown of the Public Service Department, himself a member of the Danville Local, did likewise.

did likewise. The general discussion included such topics as Social Security, "who pays the tax," how to secure a large attendance at Conference, and the best method of getting results under the Band-Tax Law. The Conference adopted by unanimous vote a resolution affirming the action of the Federation in defending its rights in the AGMA controversy now in litigation. Wave and means of improving the the the AGMA controversy now in litigation. Ways and means of improving the the-atrical situation was a subject placed in the hands of a special committee com-posed of D. Mark Slattery of Local No. 196, Champaign: Frank E. Leeder of Local No. 19, Springfield, and E. C. Wascher. Thus thirty-two delegates, representing fitteen Locals, eagerly and intelligently, discharged the duties of a busy day. The entertaining host--Local No. 90--did a fine job. While the Conference was in session the ladies were entertained with scenic rides and theater parties. At the noon hour delegates and visitors were given a wholesome and satisfying lunch. Danville, a beautiful city of forty thou-sand population in the heart of Illinois, is rich in historic tradition. Local No. 90 has a membership of eighty-five and is officered as follows: President, Thurman Frock; Vice-Presi-dent Paul Blat: Scenetary. Treesure

President Jack Pingel of the entertaining host. After the welcoming preliminaries the Conference got down to business. Each Local delegate was called upon to report conditions in his home locality. While there were problems—a notable feature of the general discussion was the note of determination and hopefulness which sounded a sustained morale and no loss of prestige anywhere along the line. An interesting address was given by Mr. Loren Olson of the Wisconsin Indus-trial Commission, explanatory of its work-ings, and which is comparatively a new feature in the line of social legislation in that commonwealth. The Social Security Act interrogation point of course cast a few shadows over the general discussion. The question of how on-coming war might affect musi-cians was not over-looked.

cians was not over-looked. This was the third Wisconsin Confer-ence we have attended. Of one thing we have been particularly impressed. While a "pleasant time is had by all,"—the dele-gates look upon these Conferences as gath-erings affording opportunity for an inter-change of ideas altogether helpful. The discussions are serious. As a result the Conferences grow in interest and increase in attendance.

The Conference elected the following officers: President, Volmer Dahistrand of Miwaukee; Vice-President, Erwin Soren-sen of Racine; Secretary, W. Clayton Dow of Racine; Treasurer, A. F. Vanderberg of Green Bay.

of Green Bay. The Conference session marked the termination of a long tenure as secretary for E. J. "Doc" Sartell of Janesville. He has been efficient and untiring; but he is musical director of a fine Field Artil-lery Band, and a military call to service was not to be ignored. As Brother Sar-tell's successor, the Conference unani-mously named Brother W. Clayton Dow of Racine, whose capabilities are beyond question and who will ably take up and carry on the work which Sartell was compelled to lay down.

The noon-day banquet was a notable affair—enjoyed by every one. Local Pres-ident Jack Pingel was master of cere-monies. Banquet music of a high order was furnished by the Federal Music Or-some well-chosen remarks. Many matters occupied the attention of those present, among which was that of diverting band funds in cities for payground purposes, which deprives bandsmen of a number of concerts during the Summer season. It was decided that legislation must be sought at the next season of the Legislature which will remedy this situation. Other matters of vital importance to the musicians were also discussed.

also discussed. The Conference was highly successful and it is the desire of the officers that those locals which have been invited and have not as yet sent delegates will at least send one representative to the next meeting. Missoula was chosen as the next Conference meeting place; the date will be announced later.

How About This?

FOR several weeks Sammy Kaye, the swing and sway bandleader, was pec-tered by an amateur songwriter and fi-nally, to get rid of him, agreed to look at his song. One glance was enough. The title of the song was: "Don't Draft Me, Draft My Wife—She's a Better Fighter".

Mortgage Goes Up in Smoke

THE Miami Federation of Musicians, Local 655, A. F. of M., clebrated its twenty-seventh anniversary with the burn-ing of the mortgage on its building located at 542 North Miami Avenue on Wednesday afternoon, October 2nd. The impressive ceremony was marked by speeches by the officers and the several city officials. It was followed by an in-formal reception with refreshments.

This adds another local to the rapidly growing number that owns its own build-ing with no encumbrance.

London Musicians Seek Jobs in Shelters

It is a story but little known, and its theme is an interesting one, written in a graphic and flowing style. The anthor, an eminent musician. is well qualified to write this anecdotal ssed away in South Bend on October th. At the time of his death he was a suber of the Executive Board of the ocal. No further details are available the time of this writing.

Further details on the death of Alvin A. Beesley, which was announced in the October issue, reveal that he passed away on September 26th at the age of sixty-seven as the result of a heart allment. The Beesley name was well known in the music world long before Alvin A. Beesley added to its renown. The son of Ebenezer and Barah Hancock Beesley, he was born April 26, 1873, in Sait Lake City. His father was director of the Tabernacle Choir from 1870 to 1885 and was the composer of many Mormon hymns. hymns.

Mr. Beesley was graduated from the high school here and then began the study of music under his father, under H. S. Krause and C. F. Stayner.

He was an organizer, three times served as president and for many years was director of the Salt Lake Local, American Federation of Musicians. He served as delegate to National Musicians' Convendire delegate to National Musicians' Conven-tions on numerous occasions and knew well both the late Samuel Gompers and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor. He also was a friend of Joseph N. Weber, honorary president of the American Federation of Musicians, and Joseph Petrillo, president. Mr. Beesley married Miss Ruby Pratt, a daughter of the pioneer leader, Orson Pratt, in May, 1894.

Fratt, in May, 1894.
As active in church as in musical affairs, Mr. Beesley began his service in this field as a young man when he filled a mission to Indian Torritory and to Kanass. He was ordained a High Priest by President Joseph F. Smith and was a member of the Ensign Stake High Council at the time of his death. From 1896 to 1908 he was senior president of the Thirtieth Quorum of Seventy. He was Sunday. School sin Salt Lake Stake from 1904 to 1907, stake president of Y. M. M. I. A. from 1907 to 1908; chorister of the stake from 1907 to 1908; chorister of the stake form 1904 to 1930. He was second bishop of the Twenty-second Ward, serving in that capacity from 1904 to 1930.

that capacity from 1904 to 1930. Mr. Beesley served as Sait Lake County commissioner from 1933 to 1935, heading the finance department. He was a director and member of the executive committee of the Hotel Utah, a member of the Sait Lake Chamber of Commerce, Rotary Chub, and was a charter member of the old Bait Lake Commercial Club and Har-mony Glee Club.

BOOKS OF THE DAY

= HOPE STODDARD == • MUSIC IN HISTORY, The Evolution of an Art, by Howard D. McKinney and W. R. Anderson 904 pages. $4.50. W. R. Anderson-

American Book Company. It was more than we could have hoped. that two expert musicologists should combine their talents to give us a complete record of music from the time the first cave dweller tuned an ear to the triad buzz of a mosquito and caught the rhythmical chant of ocean waves against his rocky door down to our own time when react emotionally and intellectually to the vast complexity of the symphony orchestra. The days of the past have been at best but visual representations. motion pictures minus the sound tracts, shadows moving on a Japanese screen Or if now and then a strident "They shall not pass" or a bombastic "I am the State" has pierced the stillness, it has quickly merged into the general background of echoing feet treading from generation to generation.

Here, however, through the medium of Messrs. McKinney and Anderson (authors of "Discovering Music", published 1934), the past speaks, and in a language neither foreign nor dead, but in the living language of music. Here, discovering the guage of music. Here, discovering the music the Greeks played, we learn of their reactions to their gods and their homes; finding the Roman conception of music was that it was of little value except for trumpet blasts with which to send soldiers to battle, we see why they lacked the very pulse of creative being, why Nero did no untoward thing in their eyes when he paid thousands of men to applaud his worse than mediocre performances. We find that the Christians decried beauty in sound and then found they needed it as they needed light and air. As we read, the heaven-haunting archi-tecture of the Middle Ages becomes mel-lowed into music as tenuous, as trium-phant as its stoney counterpart. Nor do sweet tones spread their radiance on those at prayer alone. We hear it in the fields, in the streets, in the courts. A shoe-maker sings as he hammers; a knight strums under his lady's window; a pli-grim chants his joy on reaching the Holy Land; a group of students execute the stantipes, a dance so difficult that, in the words of an early historian, it "served to restrain the youths from wicked thoughts". music the Greeks played, we learn of their thoughts", Through the skill of the authors, we see the straight, taut lines of the Middle period relax into the rounding curves of the Renaissance. We hear Madrigalists the their blithesome songs; harmony aing their blithesome songs; harmony based on the natural law of overtones comes into play; the lieder, simple, naive, yet noble, sound out their messages of loss yet noble, sound out their messages of love. In considering the developments in music during more modern times, the authors, even though they have the com-petition of some hundred or so other biog-raphers, still make the facts read like data dug up for the first time from the mines of history. This is partly accom-plished by their considering the musical outputs of the various composers, roman-tic, classic and modern, in their relation to all ages in music past and present— considering them as links, that is, in the massive chain of musical creation. Bach's use of the concerto form. Handel as a baroque figure, the "Mannheimers" and their shaping of orchestral style, Mosart's operatic background, music becoming "personal" under Beethoven, the inven-tion of the leitmotiv, Wagner as the cul-mination of an spoch, the nationalism of Sibelius—all such topics are considered as part of the amplification and broadening of music's scope down to our present day. Particularly illuminating throughout the volume is the constant correlation between the art of sounds and the arts of sight. We understand the Renaissance development in music better for the paral-lel drawn between it and sculpture, that of sight. We understand the Remainsance development in music better for the paral-lel drawn between it and sculpture, that of the Middle Ages, for comparisons be-tween it and architecture. The illustra-tions, which the volume presents lavishly, are many of them drawn from the pic-torial arts, masterpieces of the artists of these times. those time those times. So every age finds its varied voice, and, like a mountain crier, shouts its message from era to era. Reading the book we gain a conception embracing the histori-cal line and the interweaving motifs, a conception wherein life in every age de-scribed through the revelation of music becomes familiar and intimate, an ex-perience to enter into sympathetically and to savour fully.

the trill into the trombonist's bag of tricks. The Bach "tenor trumpet" has been enthusiastically received by "hot" trom-bonists who like to display their ver-satility and at the same time keep a step ahead of their colleagues. phony Orchestra of New York, conducted by Igor Stravinsky. Here is an excellent recording of a work by one of the great-est living composers played by the Phil-harmonic-Symphony Orchestra of New York and conducted by the composer; an authentic reading of the difficult modern score played with authority. It will de-light lovers of the ultra-modern in music.

"Bolero", Ravel. Two ten-inch records, four sides, complete with album, played by the All-American Youth Orchestra under the direction of Leopold Stokowski; an excellent recording of one of the works which caused critics to acclaim the All-American Youth Orchestra during its recent tour. Leopold Stokowski is a master in securing the utmost in effects and climaxes of Ravel music. This per-formance leaves little to be desired.

Franck's "Prelude, Chorale and Fugue". Two twelve-inch Columbia Master work recordings, four sides, complete with al-bum. Egon Petri, pianist, is so well-known to American artists that little more need be said than that he performs in his usual dynamic style, revealing the full poetry of this classic by the great French composer.

"Waterboy" and "Swing Low, Sweet Charlot", Columbia Record 35693. A splendid recording of two Negro Spirituals which have become classics to the American music lovers.

MIFF MOLE because it requires less effort and is therefore more practical. The ascending in pitch, and relaxing them when descending. The other depends mainly as much as possible in the facial muscles, tightening them when descending. The other depends mainly on breath control, with as little change as possible in the facial muscles. I prefer the latter style, because it requires less effort and is therefore more practical. The following description of this breath control method will show how it is achieved. When ascending in pitch, the back of the tongue is brought upward slightly, as in pronouncing the word "hay", and the lower jaw is brought forward a little, enabling the player's breath to be directed up naturally. When descending in pitch desired will directly govern the amount of change needed in the player's breath to be the amount of change needed in the player's breath to be interted as lowered and the jaw for various intervals.

It is also well to remember that when executing a slur such as the one from middle F to F above the staff, a light crescendo should be made. (See Example 1.)

As there is less vibration on the higher note, unless there is a slight increase of breath, this note will be played too softly, and may be missed completely. This holds true in regard to other intervals, and the greater the interval, the greater the increase of breath needed.

As this style of breath control slurring is developed, the trombonist will find that he is playing with greater ease and fluency and with less effort. If he practices correctly and consistently on this style, he will soon discover that he is unconsciously relying more and more on his breath control, and that he will need less change in his facial muscles than before.

his facial muscles than before. To demonstrate that what I have recommended is true and practical for any trombonist, I would suggest that he stand before a mirror and watch his reflection as he practices. He may find that he is exerting a lot of unnecessary effort which can be eliminated. For example, if he will play a Bb scale from low Bb to the Bb just above the staff, he will find that he needs little or no change in the facial muscles for this scale. (See Example 2.)

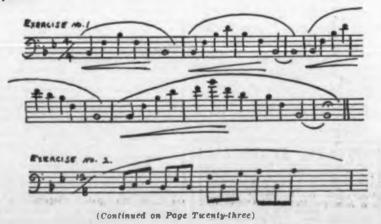

Then, if he will play just an octave slur from the same low Bb to the same Bb just above the staff, he will find that there is a tendency to change the position of the facial muscles in executing this slur. (See Example 3.)

EXAMPLE 3	/	-

Since he can accomplish the playing of these two Bb tones (an octave apart) with practically no change in his facial muscles, by playing the scale between them, he can also slur the interval of the octave with no more muscular change if he uses proper breath control.

I wish to make it plain that I am not suggesting that a trombonist should attempt to play with relaxed lips. Naurally there must be enough tightening of the lip and facial muscles to form a proper embouchure before beginning to produce a tone, but when once set in position, the mouthplece should not be moved on the lips, and the position of the facial muscles should be changed as little as possible while playing.

This style of playing has proven very advantagous to me. I have found that my endurance is greater, and that I play with much more ease and with much faster execution. This style can be developed by any trombonist who will practice con-sistently in the correct way. I have written the following exercises especially for such practice.

he Delegates of the Forty-fifth Annual Convention of the American Federa-tion of Musicians, assembled in Indi-anapolis, June 14, 1940:

To the Delegates of the Forty-fifth Annual Convention of the American Federa-tion of Musicians, assembled in Indi-anapolis, June 14, 1940: The initial purpose of the American Federation of Musicians and justification for its existence is cited at the outset of the President's Report. The duty of secur-ing for all its members a better economic position. The formulas and policy that have made it possible to do so over a period of forty years, constitutes the prin-ciple motif of the report and is ampha-sized throughout. To order the conduct of its members in pursuit of their calling; to establish and eregulations, designed in equity facilita-ing a continued improvement in competi-tive relationship of members thus assu-for the services rendered, are named as the primary duties of the Federation. However, we are warned when such regulations transcend the prescription of ethics and the establishment of equitable and impersonal economic regulations and develop into restrictions designed to cir-umscribe and limit the rights of certain my the seed of discord. That, to a mem-ber so discriminated against, all value and benefit of his membership in the Federa-tion has ceased. His continued affiliation and compliance with its restrictive regu-lations will continue only so long as cir-conclusion is reached that widespread dis-satisfaction engendered by placing ob-siderable number of our members pre-cudes the continued progress and efficacy or the Federation. The federation from its inception. He Federation was weak because locals fin-sisted upon preempting all local employ-ment to the total exclusion of members from other juriedictions. itself to these whimsical changes in public favor. President Weber mentions the vogue of the Traveling Military or Con-cert Band of the early days and outlines the difficulties it presented in organizing them. Their passing may well be the fate of the Traveling Band of today. That depends on public taste. The rising prestige of the Federation is traced in a recital of the recognition be-stowed on it and its chief executive by Presidents Theodore Roosevelt, Woodrow Wilson, Herbert Hoover and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

clans. Home locals champion the right of their own members to play in other jurisdic-tions but consistently oppose other mem-bers playing in their own jurisdictions. If all traveling bands were forced to return to their home jurisdiction many locals would suffer even keener competi-tive conditions than they now suffer from traveling bands.

tive conditions than they now suffer from traveling bands. He deplores the schism that exists be-tween the members traveling and the local members even though many local mem-bers complain of the competition pre-sented in their own jurisdiction by travel-ing bands, themselves join traveling bands and play in other jurisdictions. A tremendous amount of work is done in miscellaneous engagements not classed as traveling engagements being for less than one week. This in the main done by nearby local musicians. Economic improvement will lessen the clamor for employment opportunities and ease the complaint of out of town competi-tion. Locals should appeal to civic pride and

Locals should appeal to civic pride and loyalty to offset desire of public to employ out of town bands. In this way lies the correction of over emphasis placed on out of town bands by public and employers.

Finances

Finances The Federation's financial policy was not stable until the present system was evolved. It is one which is based upon the principle of making those pay for the upkeep of the organization who are em-ployed in music and enjoying the benefits created by the Federation. The main source of our funds is the 10% traveling band surcharge. 30% of which accrues to the Federation. The elimination of this system would face the Federation with insolvency. The system now used in collecting and

The system now used in collecting and controlling the distribution of this tax has proved to be almost perfect when the enormous volume of transactions are con-sidered. The per capita tax of the Federation per capita tax of the Federation

THE INTERNATIONAL MUSICIAN

An increase in this tax would not be advisable because of the thousands of members whose, musical employment is only fragmentary and therefore not pro-ductive of sufficient earnings to warrant a high per capita tax. Advice against taking the members' share of the 10% to enrich the local treas-uries is given.

Laws of an Organization

Laws of an Organization Certain recommendations regarding transcriptions and recordings are made. President Weber calls the attention of the delegates to the 50% radio tax law which remains in effect even though the circumstance for which it was designed has been eliminated. He suggests that a tax of 15% be levied in lieu of the 50% dax. a tax of 50% 'tax.

50% 'tax. In accordance with instructions of the last convention arrangements have been made with I. A. T. S. E. to consider modification of the present agreement which is scheduled to take place directly after the close of this convention.

W. P. A.

W. P. A. A resume of the activities of the Federa-tion in regard to WPA music projects is made. Reference is made to the splendid work done by Brothers Steeper, Sterne, Riccardi and Castronovo in Washington in the interest of the WPA music projects prior to the designation of Executive Offi-cer Parks as the Federation's represen-tative at that post.

Traveling Representatives

As in previous reports President Weber attests to the efficacy of these officers of the Federation in safeguarding its in-terests.

Locale

Locais President Weber calls attention to the practice of some locals which usurp the accepted administrative prerogatives of their local executive boards. To make every action of a local board subject to change or nullification by any meeting of a local is apt to place the affairs of the local in control of a hand full of oppositionists who, in no wise, represent the majority opinion of the membership. Me recommends that appeals from ac-tion of local boards be directed to the international Executive Board rather than to a media of the local.

Licenses

Licenses The policy of licensing agents and re-corders now being followed by the Fed-eration while not perfect has resulted in hetter compensation for our members and elimination to a large extent of the ex-ploitation suffered by our members prior to the adoption of this policy.

Chairman Eyclesheimer reports for the Committee on International Musician

INTERNATIONAL MUSICIAN To

the Officers and Delegates of the Amer-ican Federation of Musicians; in the Forty-fifth Annual Convention, assemhled bled: We, the Committee on the International Musician Journal, respectfully submit our report as follows: There can be no doubt that the appear-ance of the Journal and the increase in advertising has fully justified the action of the last convention in increasing the subscription price 10 cents per member a year. The size of the Journal has in-creased to the extent that we now have from thirty-two to forty-eight sheets monthly and the increase in subscriptions of $14.422.83 is a proof of its increasing popularity. We are of the opinion that this will steadily increase in the future. We note that our Editor ran into me-this will steadily increase in the future. We note that our Editor ran into me-chanical difficulties in the change of the type of paper but with the assistance of our international Executive Board, he overcame all of these obstacles and the accomplishment speaks for itself. It becomes the duty of the Committee as in the past years to once again censure a considerable number of locals for fail-ure to send in a corrected mailing list, some of them being in arrears for as much as seven years. We feel that something should be done to clear up this condition and we recommend that the existing lawa under Article VIII, Section 2, be strictly enforced. enforced

That is the productive of citizens in any democracy-and any democratic organization. Our allegiance is first to our government under of circumstances and those duly elected to circumstances and those duly elected to circumstances and those duly elected to circumstances which may arise from the to time, so long as that expression does not interfare with the orgenty con-duct. The American Federation of Musicans from the membership and loyal support of the membership in meeting problems which have presented themselves or solu-tion during the past few years. I know for a single organization which has been to mechanical change than the American federation of Musicans, and the manner for bible you have met these trials and problems is worthy of highest commen-tion.

dation In the months ahead the officers of the American Federation of Labor will expect whole-hearted support from the American Federation of Musicians and all of our affiliated organizations, in carrying out the instructions of the 1940 convention. Success is impossible of attainment with-out your support as a component part of our great American institution.

workers the exercise of their constitutional right of freedom of speech. The Oregon Court agreed with this contention and based its decision on the Thornhill case wherein the American Federation of Labor made a similar attack on the Ala-bama Anti-Picketing statute. The United States Supreme Court declared the Ala bama law invalid on that ground, and the Oregon Supreme Court followed the United States Court in the Thornkill case. In outlawing the Oregon lay Supreme Court of that State said: law- the Supreme Court of that State said: "By the decisions in the Thornhill and Carlson cases, it is now established that picketing as an incident to a labor dis-pute in at least in some of its phases an exercise of the right of freedom of speech.... "The Supreme Court has announced a broad construction of the guaranties of freedom of speech and the press, and applying this conception to laws atmed at picketing, has held that publicizing the facts of a labor dispute in a peaceful way through appropriate means, whether by pamphlet, by word of mouth or by hanner is within the liberty of communication which is secured to every person by the Fourteenth Amendment against abridge-ment by a state.... The prohibition of the statute under review clearly include picketing in bona fide labor contro-versies..... versies.
