The ADI Market Atlas

The Area of Dominant Influence is a geographic market design that defines each television market exclusive of the others, based on measurable viewing patterns. Each market's ADI consists of all counties in which the home market stations receive a preponderance of viewing, and every county in the U.S. (excluding Hawaii and part of Alaska) is allocated exclusively to only one ADI—there is no overlap. The estimated television households are therefore additive, and the total of all ADI's represents the total television households in the U.S.

The ADI is a standard market definition. As a television buying tool it is a geographic and demographic means for maximum efficiency. As a station tool it has numerous applications for more effective sales efforts, and for programing and promotion planning.

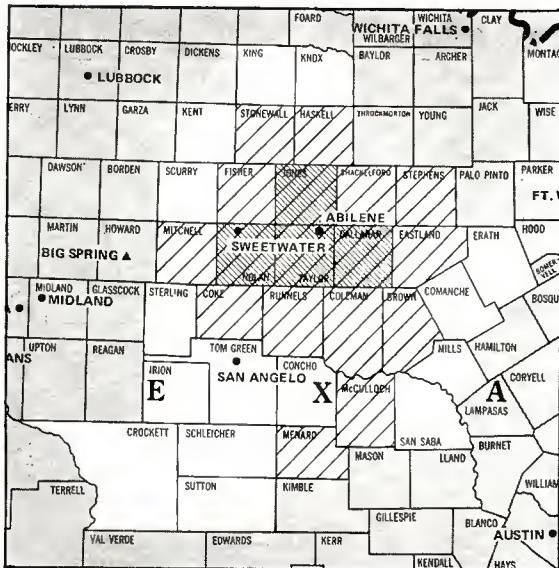

Following, in alphabetical order, are Arbitron Television's 211 ADI markets for 1977, with coverage maps for each; county-by-county breakdowns of TV households; and totals of women, men, teens and children in the ADI audience. Other data include the market's stations, and their cities of license, channel numbers and network affiliations. (Networks in parentheses indicate secondary affiliations.)

Coverage maps show total survey areas in white, the ADI's themselves in light crosshatching, and Arbitron Metro Rating Areas in heavier cross-hatching. The survey areas consist of all counties in which the home market stations are viewed to any significant extent, including via cable. The Metro Areas, save for an occasional deviation caused by geographical or historical factors, conform to the U.S. Census Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas.

Arbitron has also designated several "supplementary markets"—TV-station home counties where the stations of a different market receive the preponderance of viewing. Supplementary markets therefore do not meet Arbitron's criteria for having an ADI of their own; they are listed in this atlas next to the ADI of which they are a part. (Note—The survey area of a supplementary market usually differs from that of the neighboring ADI market.)

A complete list of the supplementary markets appears on page B-9, and a cross-reference list for cities in a multi-city ADI on B-79.

Supplementary markets

The following supplementary markets have no ADI. Reports for these non-ADI markets may be produced in the November, February and/or May surveys. Data on each market is listed in the surrounding atlas adjacent to the ADI in which it falls. TV household estimates for supplementary markets are nonadditive, since these markets are composed of counties which are a part of other markets' ADI's.

TV Markets by Nielsen Retail Index Territory

Nielsen Retail Index territory groupings are another standard way of reporting sales data. The following table ranks TV markets within each Nielsen Territory. This provides a yardstick for determining the number of spot markets needed to achieve a given coverage of a territory. For example, if the national media are not delivering sufficient advertising weight in New England, the planner will find that three TV markets (Boston, Hartford and Providence) contain more than 80% of the New England territory households. Or, he can use the table to get a better idea of how and what TV markets are needed to cover all of New England. Data is from a special Nielsen Station Index tabulation based on a September 1977 estimate.

How Network Delivery Varies by Market

National advertisers use spot television to increase network advertising weight in specific markets to achieve a predetermined level. These market goals are derived from the advertising budget and the market's share of the brand's projected sales. Thus, a spot schedule is usually indicated where a market has an unusually high brand-sales potential, or where the network weight delivered for the brand is below the national average used in planning, or both.

The first factor, market brand potential, varies by product and is difficult to generalize. The second factor, local-market network audiences, must be generalized because planning is based upon next season's anticipated network performance. The prevalence of network "package" buys, which tend to deliver average audience levels, supports the use of average data.

The following tabulation, chosen especially for the BROADCASTING Yearbook, shows Arbitron Television's Areas of Dominant Influence (ADI) in terms of percent of the total number of U.S. TV households. Also given, in like percentage terms, are the network audiences in each ADI market during prime-time hours. It is this market audience figure, when compared to the market's share of population, that indicates whether the network commitment will perform above or below the national plan average in that market.

The figures are based on Arbitron Television's May 1977 Network Program Group Analysis.

Television Billings 1948-1976

Figures for the years 1949 through 1967 are net time sales by stations and networks after all frequency and promotional discounts but before deduction of commissions to agencies and representatives. Figures for 1968 through 1976 were computed under a new formula and represent total amounts paid by advertisers for the use of broadcast facilities. They include commissions paid to advertising agencies and representatives and payments for broadcast time and programs, materials, facilities and services supplied by broadcast stations and networks in connection with the sale of time. Figures are based on FCC data.

Prior to 1971, data reflects factory sales by U.S. manufacturers plus those products imported directly by distributors or dealers for resale. Import statistics are based on average value as published by the U.S. Department of Commerce, which is F.O.B., and therefore excludes U.S. import duties, freight chartered from the foreign country to the U.S., and insurance.

*Data from 1971 on reflects products produced or purchased by U.S. manufacturers plus those products imported directly by distributors or dealers for resale. Import statistics are adjusted to U.S. factory values, including U.S. import duties, freight charged from the foreign country to the U.S., and insurance.

Radio and Television Audiences

Radio and television were in more U.S. homes than ever before as 1978 approached.

Radio. The Radio Advertising Bureau estimated that 72.9 million U.S. homes, 98.6%, were radio-equipped as of Jan. 1, 1977.

Radio Sets. The number of working-order radio sets in the U.S. totaled 425 million in January 1977, according to estimates by the Radio Advertising Bureau. RAB estimated that 310 million of these were home and personal radio sets and 115 million were out-of-home receivers.

Television. A total of 72.9 million homes, or 98% of all U.S. homes (excluding Alaska and Hawaii) were TV equipped as of September 1977, according to A. C. Nielsen Company.

Color TV. Homes equipped with color TV sets totaled 56.85 million, or 78% of all TV homes, as of September 1977, according to A. C. Nielsen Company estimates.

Viewing and Listening. The extent to which radio and television sets were used is indicated in the tables that follow. The television figures were furnished by the Nielsen company and its Nielsen Television Index (NTI). The radio data came from RAB and other sources as noted.

AMERICAN RADIO IS BMI TERRITORY

BMI, the world's largest music licensing organization continues to provide American radio with most of the music it programs. In fact, nearly 60% of the music Americans listen to was written and published by many of the 47,000 writers and publishers who have entrusted their performing rights to BMI.

The American broadcasting industry first gained access to the broad variety of music it programs today when BMI was formed in 1940. Because BMI recognized long neglected creators of popular, country and western, rhythm and blues, jazz, concert, Latin and gospel, Americans can turn their dials to all kinds of music.

Today, and for most of its 38 year-long past, BMI writers and publishers provide America with most of its hits, and radio with most of its music.
