BRAIN BOX

We can put up to 40 channels right in the palm of your subscriber's hand.

With a simple 12-button keyboard he can select the channel of his choice and see his selection on an LED display. He can program up to 10 channels in the memory system and recall them at the touch of a button.

The sealed-touch keyboard solves the problems of mechanical contacts, and a crystal-controlled frequency synthesizer eliminates fine-tuning circuitry and converter drift.

There's an on/off remote option — and more important to you — there's a hard-security option that gives up to three channels of tiered, premium programming.

And the hand-held remote control unit is rugged. It can survive drops and jolts that could send it to the repair shop. Even the tough detachable control cord can be easily replaced by the subscriber. There's less need for service calls.

Our box is an easy way to expand your service and revenue. All you have to do is use our brains.

To find out how, contact your area salesman or call toll free (800) 351-6010 within the continental United States, except Texas. From Alaska, Hawaii or Texas, dial (915) 544-9550. Ask for Ray Pawley.

solve CB noise problems, we make specially shielded cable for this special level of interference.

Call Times and you can also get low-loss drop cable to reach those remote subscribers. Or the kind with special mechanical strength to eliminate outages. Or cable in beige to blend with home interiors. Or miniature coax for apartment house wiring where space is a critical concern.

And by calling Times, you can ask for technical advice. And get it, free. But it all figures. If our cables weren't so good, and if we weren't so helpful, someone else might be number one.

Library of Congress Catalogue Card No. 67-118025

A few years back, we introduced the first Wavetek sweep/signal generator designed specifically for the CATV industry. That was the Model 1801A—a 1- to 500-MHz instrument with an optional range of 450 to 950 MHz, 75-ohm calibrated output, built-in RF detector, and crystal-controlled birdy-marker system. It also has a simo-sweep function to test operating systems with minimum subscriber interference.

Since then, we've brought out a few other CATV instruments. Like the Model 1850/1860—an economical transmitter/receiver combination for continuous monitoring of CATV system performance. It features carrier level readings, drop cable compensation and tuned RF trigger circuit. Frequency range is 5 to 350 MHz.

All sweepers offer the unique Wavetek "tilt" pilot carrier notch filter, and five IF markers for processor alignment.

The 1053/1063 Comparison Test Set provides tilt compensation on both the loss and gain ports and is adjustable to correlate "out" connector and cable differences. The set, complete with sweep and large screen scope, is less than $2,000.

For sheer economy vs. performance, there's never been anything like our Model 1051—a 1- to 400-MHz sweeper with calibrated output, built-in detector, and Type F connectors; plus a complete crystal-controlled birdy-marker system.

Our Model 1901B X-Y Display Oscilloscope has an easy-to-read 12-inch CRT and comes in both single and dual-trace versions. It's ideal for resolution of amplifier, response cable return loss, or general sweep testing.

Finally, we have a whole series of miniature, turret-type attenuators that operate over wide frequency ranges.

Now that we've gotten that out of our system, why not get some of our equipment into yours. Just write WAVETEK, P.O. Box 190, Beech Grove, IN, 46107. Phone (317) 783-3221. TWX 810-341-3266.

Our Model 9000 is a winner.

We knew our Digital Noise Reducer was something special—now it appears the industry does too. We are proud to accept this coveted Emmy for Engineering Achievement on behalf of our Model 9000 Digital Noise Reducer.

Thomson-CSF will continue in research and development toward ever more dramatic innovations in the electronic media industry.

The Model 9000 Digital Noise Reducer analyzes incoming video signals on an element-by-element basis, achieving a dynamic 12 db signal-to-noise improvement with up to 15 db available for special applications.

It provides significant operational value where low lighting or streaky chroma-noise makes picture quality poor. With our Model 9000 Digital Noise Reducer, a marginal noisy input color signal becomes a broadcast quality output signal. And no objectionable artifacts are introduced at normal settings.

Dramatic improvements have been accomplished in both studio and remote applications. 2" multi-generation video tape, U-Matic multi-generation, studio cameras, film-to-tape transfers, Electronic Film Production, microwave transmission, C.A.T.V., satellite transmission, off-air reception, Telecine film grain reduction and Electronic Journalism at low light levels are some examples of the Model 9000 Digital Noise Reducer's successful applications.

Make your picture a winner with our winner as so many TV stations and production houses already have. The Thomson-CSF Model 9000 Digital Noise Reducer.

How to get TV station quality even if you're not a TV station.

Introducing the Panasonic AK-920.

There are many ways of getting TV station quality from a Plumbicon® color camera. You can either own a TV station. Own a lot of money. Or better yet, own Panasonic's new Plumbicon color camera—the AK-920.

Not only does it give you TV station quality in the studio, it gives you TV station quality almost everywhere else. That's because it's fully self-contained, with the YI/Q encoder and the RS-170 sync generator built into the camera head.

But perhaps the best part about the AK-920 is the technology that has been put into it. Like a new color-trap circuit in the encoder and level-dependent circuit for reduced color noise, which is particularly important under low-light conditions. And for excellent edge detail and high frequency response, there's an adjustable horizontal aperture circuit built into the camera head.

And since the AK-920 is a Plumbicon camera, you get performance that's hard to beat. Like low noise, low dark current and lag, high sensitivity, as well as the capability to reproduce high brightness details without burn-in or blooming.

The result of all this very impressive technology is equally impressive performance. Like horizontal resolution of more than 500 lines at center. A S/N ratio of 48 dB with recommended illumination of 150 footcandles at F/4. And a +6 dB gain switch for minimum illumination of just 15 footcandles at F/1.8.

You also get precise stability of alignment as well as the reliability that you expect from Panasonic. Because the prismatic optical system, the three one-inch pickup tubes, and the deflection coils are mounted on an aluminum die-cast chassis.

Also included are removable camera head side panels for easy maintenance. A self-contained, multi-function viewfinder. Color bar generator. And focus-wobble and sawtooth-generator test circuits. Plus some rather impressive options. Starting with the AK-9220 remote control unit. To a 10:1 zoom lens with built-in 1.67X and 2.5X lens extenders for versatility in location shooting. To a vertical aperture corrector, AK-9620. To the AK-9720 cable equalizer for the RGB signals.

There are also three different versions to choose from. The AK-920ST with studio-grade Plumbicon tubes. The AK-920IT with industrial grade Plumbicon tubes. And the AK-920 without tubes.

So before you buy any color camera, audition the AK-920. It's Panasonic's way of giving you TV station quality, even if you're not a TV station.

For you,
the new breed of
video professional,
the new breed of
professional video from JVC.

If you're a video professional today, you're a tougher customer than ever. So JVC's rugged professional line delivers the quality and features you demand at prices you want to pay.

We know you've got a lean new attitude about the video equipment you buy, no matter how long you've been in the business. Or whether you're in broadcasting...a sophisticated corporate A/V operation...a top production house...or building your first video capability.

And that attitude is, with all the people vying for your video dollar, you want more state-of-the-art technology in equipment that costs you less to own and maintain.

JVC's attitude is basic too. We build in engineering innovations—we don't add them on later. And we do it first. Which means you enjoy better picture and sound quality, easier operation, and sophisticated features you may not even find in equipment selling for twice the price.

For instance:

You wanted faster performance and greater accuracy in 3/4-Inch video editing.

And JVC's new CR-8500LU Recorder/Editor System offers bi-directional fast/slow search from approximately 10 times to 1/20 time, with editing accuracy to ± 2 frames.

It's a new generation of 3/4-Inch VCR editing—the fastest, surest way to get the frame-by-frame accuracy you need.

But JVC's CR-8500LU is still priced well below its closest performing competition.

With a single unit, you can edit with full functions and broadcast quality. Even if you don't happen to have special technical knowledge.

With a complete editing system of two CR-8500LU units and the new RM-85U Control Unit, you can perform the most advanced editing feats at approximately 10 times actual speed, then stop on a single frame.

Here's how the CR-8500LU gives you that kind of precision:

- Frame to frame editing is made possible with the capstan servo/built-in rotary erase head/blanking switcher frame servo design. A design that also ensures true assemble and insert editing with no distortion at the edit points. Plus horizontal sync phase compensation to minimize timing error at the editing points.
- Variable speed auto-search lets you perform both high speed and low speed search. You can search at approximately 10 times in fast forward or reverse to find edit points faster. Or slow speed search at 2 times, 1 time, 1/5 time and 1/20 time. Or use the special auto-speed shift feature to automatically slow you down from 2 times, real time, 1/5 time, 1/20 time.
- Automatic pre-roll enables you to pre-roll tape between edits, with an automatic on/off switch. Which can come in especially handy during successive assemble edits using camera signals.

• Self-illuminated control buttons, allowing easy identification of the operation mode.

- Full logic control for direct mode change without pressing the stop button.
- Remote control of all operations, with the optional remote control unit RM-85U.
- Audio level control with meters, preventing over-level recording without audible distortion, with attenuator. Also, manual audio level controls let you adjust the audio recording level by checking the level meters.
- Auto/Manual selection for video recording level control, adjustable by the automatic gain control circuit or manually by referring to an independent video level meter.
- RF output to connect an external drop-out compensator.
- Patented color dubbing switch for stable color multi generation dupes.
- S.C./sync input connector allows connection of time base corrector and allows for two second pre-roll.
- Chroma level can be controlled manually for convenient connection to an external system.

- Built-in comb-filter for playback (switchable on-off).
- Servo-lock indicator to check the tape transport condition.

• Counter search mechanism, permitting Auto-Search of a particular section of the tape.

• Solid construction for easy maintenance: both side panels, top and bottom panels are detachable for easy access to the inside.

• Tracking control meter for maximum tracking adjustment.

• Heavy fan motor for better circulation.

All that with one editing unit. But when you combine two editing units with our new RM-85U automatic editing control unit, you'll enjoy all the benefits of a total-performance system.

Starting with the kind of control only JVC's RM-85U can give you:

- Independent LED time counters for player and recorder, read out edit points in minutes, seconds and frames.
- Edit-in and edit-out automatic control. Four built-in memories let you control edit-in and edit-out points of both the player and recorder. And once starting and ending points are determined, accurate editing is memory-controlled automatically.
- Edit shift control allows frame-to-frame edit point correction.

- Lap time indicated for each insert edit length by LED display.
- Edit preview mode available, for "rehearsals" of actual edits.
- Edit-in point search mechanism. After each edit, a Return button rewinds the tape automatically to the edit-in point, so it's easier to check edit conditions.
- Auto-shift search mechanism to step down the tape speed automatically, and ensure quick and accurate location of the editing point.
- Tape safety guard circuit. Because leaving the unit in the still-frame mode can eventually cause damage to tape or video heads, a tape safety guard circuit places the unit into the stop mode automatically.

You demanded more versatility in a moderate-priced, broadcast-quality camera. And JVC's value-packed CY-8800U goes with you from studio to location.

Our CY-8800U offers a lot more than picture quality and stability that compares favorably with units costing twice as much. Thanks to JVC's technology, the CY-8800U camera, utilizing three 3/4" magnetic focus, magnetic deflection Plumbicon* or Saticon tubes offer total flexibility. And a rugged die cast chassis in front and back to hold up under the toughest conditions.

With the Basic configuration, it's a compact ENG/EFP camera that's completely self-contained —no CCU required. It's easy to operate, ready to plug into our CR-4400LU/CR-4400U portable recorder, with optional cables available up to 66 feet.

With the Studio configuration it's a hard-working studio camera. Just add the RS-8800U remote Synchronizing unit and the large screen, top mounted viewfinder.

And as for big-ticket features, we've built in what the others would let you add on later.

- if it is left in the still-frame mode for more than 10 minutes.
- Selective editing modes—assemble editing, insert editing for audio channel-1, audio channel-2 or video.
- Versatile editing capability offering techniques like "edit-in/out," pre-roll, and automatic pre-roll.

You'll find that nothing in its price class performs anywhere near the CR-8500LU/RM-85U videocassette editing system. And that you'd have to spend a lot more on the competitive unit that offers many of the same features.

That's what we mean by giving video people more of what they want, for less than they expect to pay.

- A built-in 1.5 Inch adjustable electronic viewfinder for the convenience of the operator.
- A built-in battery warning system.
- A built-in tally light.
- A built-in VSI—video system indicator for precision F-stop control.
- A built-in color bar generator.
- A built-in +6dB, +12dB sensitivity switch for low light level applications.

- A built-in auto white balance.
- A built-in fast warm-up capability.
- A built-in electrical color temperature adjustment for different applications (variable from 3000°K to 10,000°K).
- A built-in filter system (neutral density) for variable light levels.
- A built-in level switch (+50%, 0, -50%) provides 1/2 F stop adjustment, letting you fine tune for added contrast.
- A built-in time lapse meter to show total hours of camera use.
- A built-in intercom system for studio applications.
- An RGB output, and NTSC encoding (Y, I, Q).

- A built-in Gamma control to fine tune gamma level.
- An AC Adaptor—standard.
- Lightweight—17.4 lbs.—portability.
- Optional 12-to-1 zoom lens with automatic iris and power zoom.

- Built-in horizontal and vertical contour correction circuits.
- Signal-to-noise ratio of 49dB, F .4/3000 lux.
- Resolution of 500 lines at center.
- Return video in the viewfinder.
- A built-in -G circuit for registration.
- Minimum illumination F 1.9/300 lux (+6dB switch on).
- A comfortable hand grip to stop and start the recorder. With a switch to operate iris control and a switch for return video.
- A built-in CCU.

And that adds up to a lot more features than you'd find in similarly-priced cameras.

You needed studio quality recording in the field.

And JVC's field-tested CR-4400LU

Portable Videocassette Recorder with automatic editing lets you bring your recording/editing capability wherever you need to shoot.

If you spend time on location in either ENG or EFP applications, you need a portable video system that can shoot, edit, and give you something to show in no time flat. Without awkward equipment hassles.

JVC's CR-4400LU is the one to take along when you can't bring a studio.

Because it's the lightweight machine with heavyweight features

- Weighs in under 27 lbs. So you can take it anywhere, and assemble edit on the spot. You enjoy total flexibility. Complete freedom. Fast results.
- AEF (Automatic Editing Function) gives you clean assemble edits.
- Built-in, full color recording and playback circuitry. No need to buy an adaptor.
- Low-power consumption that lets you operate on a miserly 13.5 watts, for longer battery life. A multi-purpose meter checks battery, audio, video and servo levels for precise control of all functions.
- Flexibility to record with the CY-8800U or other high quality color cameras.

So if you need a field-tested recording system with the features you want at a price you can afford, check out our CR-4400LU Portable Videocassette Recorder.

REDUNDANT FET AMPLIFIERS

The SCI Model SCF-306 Series Redundant GaAs FET Low Noise Amplifier Assembly provides amplification of RF signals in the 3.7 to 4.2 GHz frequency range. The assembly consists of two GaAs FET amplifiers, a low loss transfer switch, and a transfer switch control module. The entire system is mounted on a single plate designed for mounting near the antenna. Interface connector pins provide system status information for remote monitoring.

The two LNA's are in a redundant configuration. Either LNA may be "on line", that is when the amplifier is connected between the RF IN and RF OUT ports of the transfer switch. The other LNA is "off line" and operating. The input and output RF ports of the off line LNA are terminated at the test ports of the transfer switch. The off line LNA may be tested or replaced without affecting the normal operation of the on line LNA.

SATELLITE VIDEO RECEIVERS

Scientific Communications offers standard 3.7 - 4.2 GHz FET amplifier models at guaranteed noise figures from 1.3 to 3.5 dB at 25°C. Waveguide input (CPR - 229G flange) and type "N" output are standard on all 50 dB gain units. Other options include 115 VAC or 15 - 28 VDC (positive or negative) operation, other gain values from 20 to 60 dB and fault monitor circuitry. All models employ specially designed bias networks for maximum power handling capability and optimum gain stability over wide ambient ranges.

SCI FET amplifiers are housed in weatherproof enclosures and utilize power connectors for installation convenience. An internal IC voltage regulator prevents gain changes due to input voltage variations, permits operation over an input voltage range of 15 - 28 VDC and rejects hum and noise on the DC input lines. The amplifiers also feature short circuit, overvoltage and reverse voltage protection. Waveguide inputs are pressurizable and all waveguide units are supportable by the input flange if desired.

GaAs FET AMPLIFIERS

The SR-4000 and SR-5000 Satellite Video Receivers provide quality picture and sound reception of satellite television transmissions. They have been specifically designed to cost/performance criteria for CATV earth stations.

The SR-4000 is a fully agile, synthesized 24 channel selectable model. The transponder number is selected by thumbwheel switches on the front panel with LED readout of the selected transponder number.

The SR-5000 is the fixed channel version with provision for transponder selection by a crystal change and retuning.

Both units are compact with module interchangeability between unit types except for synthesizer/L.O. source modules. They each have phase-locked loop demodulators to provide excellent FM threshold performance.

The compact design of these units allows two complete receivers to be mounted in a standard 19 inch rack only 3 1/2 inches high. This feature minimizes the rack space required for multiple receivers when several satellite transponders are to be utilized.

A unique feature of these receivers is the availability of a second subcarrier demodulator. This feature is pre-wired on all units so that the addition of a printed circuit card can provide a second subcarrier for audio, slow scan TV or other software which may be offered by the programming originators.

The SCI receivers were specially engineered to provide simple methods for testing in an operational environment. A meter and selector switch on the front panel permit the monitoring of critical voltages and the IF monitor output is available at the front panel to facilitate C/N testing. An AGC/MGC switch and a manual gain adjustment are located on the front panel to further facilitate testing. The rear panel contains an auxiliary video output to allow monitoring of video performance without disrupting programming and an extra pair of audio outputs to facilitate audio monitoring.

When it comes to Multi-Pay TV Security... VITEK Cable Traps are not in the picture.

First, second, third or any premium channel... the picture from the head-end is what your subscriber is paying for... and that's what he gets... with no possible signal impairment!

It's easy to tell the difference between Negative and Positive Security Scramblers and decoders are active and positive devices which are in-line with the premium channel.

VITEK's Multi-Channel Traps are passive, negative devices which are only connected to the taps of subscribers who don't want the premium channel.

So they either get the whole picture they paid for, or none at all. In fact, there is no security system that can deliver a clearer picture.

VITEK's on-the-pole, single-channel, negative traps have established their superiority over other types of security devices in long-term stability and reliability. You get the same cable configuration, construction features and reliability with our Multi-Channel Traps.

And now the Best Pay-TV Security Devices may also be the least expensive means of securing premium channels.

Increased Pay Penetration

According to the latest figures* (Paul Kagan), average pay penetration of houses passed has increased from 12.7% to 15% and average pay penetration of basic subscribers has increased from 27% to 31%. . . in just six months from Dec. '77 thru June '78.

Basic/Pay Combination Trend

Cable operators constructing new systems in major markets are offering basic and pay services in combination from the very start, and in more and more instances are offering multi-pay/multi-tiered service as well.

You know that the more you have to offer, the better chance you have for a sale.

*July 5, 1978 edition of Paul Kagan Associates Pay TV Newsletter.

This is true in franchise negotiations as well as marketing your services to basic subscribers.

And it makes sense that if you're getting into multi-tiered pay service, it pays to trap more than one channel initially for the small added cost. You'd be surprised at how economical it really is.

So from a different point of view... VITEK's Cable Traps are very much in the picture after all.

Call or write today for up-to-date information. VITEK Electronics, Inc., 4 Gladys Court, Edison, NJ 08817 (201) 287-3200.

Parentheses () denote loss. ¹National and regional spot and local spot sales are for time only. Excluded are revenues from programs, talent, materials, facilities and services sold in connection with the sale of time. ²Before commissions to agencies, representatives and brokers. Not comparable with pre-1969 figures. ³Does not include 26 satellites that filed combined reports with their parent stations. ⁴Total time sales less commissions to advertising agencies, representatives and brokers, plus sales of programs, materials, facilities and services, plus other broadcast revenue. ⁵Before Federal Income tax. ⁶A significant portion of the reported 1973 local time sales for this market came from a shift in the way one station allocated sales between national and local categories. Had this station used the same allocation procedures in 1972, the San Francisco-Oakland market figures, for that year would have been (approximately): national/regional, $40.3 million; local, $24.9 million.

*One or more stations did not report data for the full year. Data withheld to maintain confidentiality of individual station figures.

Parentheses () denote loss. ¹National and regional spot and local spot sales are for time only. Excluded are revenues from programs, talent, materials, facilities and services sold in connection with the sale of time. ²Before commissions to agencies, representatives and brokers. Because stations are not consistent in the way they classify national/regional versus local sales, year to year comparisons in these categories should be made with caution. ³Does not include 25 satellites that filed combined reports with their parent stations. ⁴Total time sales less commissions to advertising agencies, representatives and brokers, plus sales of programs, materials, facilities and services, plus other broadcast revenue. ⁵Before Federal income tax. ⁶A significant portion of the reported 1973 local time sales for this market came from a shift in the way one station allocated sales between national and local categories. Had this station used the same allocation procedures in 1972, the San Francisco-Oakland market figures for that year would have been (approximately): national/regional, $40.3 million; local, $24.9 million. ⁷Excludes five commercial stations that obtained most of their revenues from contributions rather than from time sales. ⁸One or more stations did not report data for the full year. ⁹Data withheld to maintain confidentiality of individual station figures.

Parenteses () denote loss. ¹National and regional spot and local spot sales are for time only. Excluded are revenues from programs, talent, materials, facilities and services sold in connection with the sale of time. ²Before commissions to agencies, representatives and brokers. Because stations are not consistent in the way they classify national/regional versus local sales, year to year comparisons in these categories should be made with caution. ³Does not include 24 satellites that filed combined reports with their parent stations. ⁴Total time sales less commissions to advertising agencies, representatives and brokers, plus sales of programs, materials, facilities and services, plus other broadcast revenue. ⁵Before Federal income tax. ⁶Excludes sales made by five commercial stations that obtained revenues from contributions: National and Regional-$1,077,882 and Local-$2,393,218.

*One or more stations did not report data for the full year. Data withheld to maintain confidentiality of individual station figures.

Parenttheses () denote loss. ¹National and regional spot and local spot sales are for time only. Excluded are revenues from programs, talent, materials, facilities and services sold in connection with the sale of time. ²Before commissions to agencies, representatives and brokers. Because stations are not consistent in the way they classify national/regional versus local sales, year to year comparisons in these categories should be made with caution. ³Does not include 21 satellites that filed combined reports with their parent stations. ⁴Total time sales less commissions to advertising agencies, representatives and brokers, plus sales of programs, materials, facilities and services, plus other broadcast revenue. ⁵Before Federal income tax. *Excludes sales made by four commercial stations that obtained revenues from contributions: National and Regional—$1,414,738 and Local—$1,047,834. * One or more stations did not report data for the full year.  Data withheld to maintain confidentiality of individual station figures.

Parenttheses () denote loss. ¹ National and regional spot and local spot sales are for time only. Excluded are revenues from programs, talent, materials, facilities and services sold in connection with the sale of time. ² Before commissions to agencies, representatives and brokers. Because stations are not consistent in the way they classify national/regional versus local sales, year to year comparisons in these categories should be made with caution. ³ Does not include 27 satellites that filed combined reports with their parent stations. ⁴ Total time sales less commissions to advertising agencies, representatives and brokers, plus sales of programs, materials, facilities and services, plus other broadcast revenue. ⁵ Before Federal income tax. ⁶ Excludes sales made by 16 commercial stations that obtained substantial revenues from contributions: National and Regional—$4,092,537 and Local—$3,363,906. * One or more stations did not report data for the full year.  Data withheld to maintain confidentiality of individual station figures.

Note: The change in the number of systems operating each year is determined by three factors: (1) New systems which began operation during the year. (2) Older systems coming to the attention of Television Factbook for the first time and therefore included in the total for the first time. (3) The splitting or combining of systems by operators.

Ownership of Cable Systems

CATV, Color, Multi-Set and UHF Penetration by U.S. Markets

ARBITRON TELEVISION CENSUS

Fall 1978

Household Estimates for the 212 Arbitron ADI Marketing Areas

This edition of the Arbitron Television Census contains estimates of CATV, Color TV, Multi-Set and UHF households penetration as reported in Arbitron's November 1978 Television Market Reports.

CATV estimates are based on information gathered from cable systems, trade publications, television stations, state CATV regulatory agencies, and other accepted industry sources—updated to October 1, 1978. Estimates for Color TV and Multi-Set households are derived from telephone placement calls to families selected for participation in the Arbitron November 1978 survey. UHF estimates are based on in-tab households for that survey.

CATV, Color TV and Multi-Set households are based on each market's ADI (Area of Dominant Influence).¹ UHF estimates are shown for both the ADI and Metro Rating Area as defined in Arbitron Television Market Reports. Since each ADI is geographically exclusive of another, the total of all ADI CATV, Color TV, Multi-Set and UHF households represents the total estimates for the United States (excluding Hawaii and the portions of Alaska outside of the Anchorage ADI).

Household estimates for CATV, Color TV, Multi-Set and UHF are also shown as a percentage of television households within each of the defined areas.

Data from Bureau of the Census and Market Statistics, Inc. are subject to defects and limitations such as sampling, processing, and recording errors. In addition, for those years between decennial Census dates, Census data are based upon a sample which is significantly smaller in most regions than that employed by Arbitron; and Market Statistics, Inc. utilizes published government figures in estimating individual counties.

Please Note: In the three metered markets (Chicago, Los Angeles, New York), estimates for Color TV, Multi-Set and UHF households are based on average daily in-tab meter households. CATV estimates are derived in the same manner for all markets, as described on this page.

¹The ADI is an exclusive geographic area consisting of all counties in which the home-market stations receive a preponderance of total viewing hours. The user should be aware of potential market re-definitions when making comparisons with estimates from previous surveys. Refer to the appropriate Arbitron Television Market Report for information regarding survey areas, sample sizes, methodology, etc. Also, see separate publication provided to all television report subscribers entitled Description of Methodology.

(Consult Network for Discounts, Specifications, etc.)

In order to serve the public interest in having NBC television programs available on a national basis and to maintain the network function as an effective national advertising medium, orders for NBC-TV Network facilities are subject to acceptability of the station line-up ordered.

In connection with administering orders for participating or multi-sponsored programs, NBC may designate for each such program individually the basis of station order acceptability.

Corporate structure: The Canadian Broadcasting Corp. is a Crown (that is, publicly owned) corporation established by an Act of the Canadian Parliament to provide the national broadcasting service in Canada. The CBC is financed mainly by public funds voted annually by Parliament. Supplementary revenue is obtained from commercial advertising on CBC television. CBC radio is almost completely non-commercial.

The CBC operates several national services: A French television network; an English television network; English & French AM radio and FM stereo networks. In the far north, CBC's northern radio service provides national network programming & special local & shortwave programs, some of which are in local languages. Northern television does not yet have the capacity for local production but national programs are supplemented by programs from other regions of Canada and with service broadcasts & film documentaries in the Inuktitut language. CBC's head office is in Ottawa.

CBC transmission methods include leased channels on the Canadian space satellite Anik. Anik I started operation in 1973 and was the world's first synchronous domestic communications satellite.

CBC radio service is within reach of 99.3% of the Canadian population, and CBC television is available to 98.3%. Most television programming is in color, and as of Jan. 1, 1977, 70% of Canadian households had color sets.

Public Broadcasting Service is the national membership organization of America's 165 public television licensees. It serves as both the distributor of national public television programming (obtaining all programs from the stations or independent producers; PBS is not a production facility) and as the licensee's national representative. The nonprofit organization is owned and operated by the licensees, which support its service-oriented functions through annual membership fees. Funding for maintenance of the technical program distribution facilities is provided under annual contract by the Corporation for Public Broadcasting. PBS services include national promotion, program acquisition and scheduling, legal services, development and fundraising support, engineering and technical studies, representation of the stations' interest before Congress and federal agencies, research and financial planning. PBS is governed by a 52-member Board of Directors, elected by the licensees for three-year terms, which includes 35 public representatives, 15 public TV station officials, plus the PBS president and vice chairman.

Television Translator Stations

As of September 1, 1978

VHF and UHF Channels

Dagger (†) preceding a listing indicates station(s) are licensed. Asterisk (*) preceding a listing indicates construction permit(s). Absence of symbols indicates application only. When a community has a translator licensed and another with a construction permit only, these symbols precede call letters.

Transmitter power output (TPO) is given at end of each listing; all translators are one watt (1-w), unless otherwise indicated.

Channel numbers are contained in call letters: For example, Ch. 3 is indicated for Clearwater, Alaska by K03AB; symbols ## indicate call letters not yet assigned. Call letters and location of station repeated are in parentheses.

This listing includes all existing & proposed translator stations, including those which are owned & operated by television stations.
