FILM PRESERVATION CAMPAIGN

Over half of the movies made before 1950 have deteriorated beyond repair. Even films as recent as those of the 1960s and 1970s are showing signs of erosion that will become irreparable if we don't act now. That's why AMC created the annual Film Preservation Campaign.

Don't let your favorite movies become just a memory. Support AMC's Film Preservation Campaign.

Dear Subscriber:

This edition of the Television & Cable Factbook marks the 50th year of its publication. It has been my privilege to assist in its preparation since 1945. The first Factbook actually wasn't called the Factbook—it was called simply Supplement No. 1, issued Sept. 1, 1945, accompanying the first edition of our first newsletter, Television Digest with FM Reports. The publisher was Martin Codel.

That Supplement comprised all of 2 pages. It consisted of a listing of the nation's 6 licensed TV stations and the 3 construction permits authorized. The licensed stations operated as many as 2 hours a day—occasionally. Supplement No. 1 is reproduced on pages v & vi. The number of TV receivers in the hands of the public was about 5,000—all monochrome sets built before World War II. Today there are over 260 million receivers in use in the U.S.—the majority color sets. Elsewhere in the world in 1945, there were a few thousand sets in England—and that was about it. Today, there are more than 600 million receivers outside the U.S.

The first edition of what was to become the Factbook Cable Volume was called Supplement No. 79, issued May 10, 1952. It consisted of just 4 pages. It listed 70 cable systems; they served some 14,000 subscribers. Today, about 58.3 million U.S. homes are linked to cable.

Now, the Factbook comprises 3 volumes totalling approximately 4,800 pages. The Stations Volume runs 2,000 pages, covering more than 1,500 TV stations. The Cable Volume has 2,200 pages, providing details on approximately 11,200 systems. The Services Volume covers over 600 pages.

The astonishing growth of these industries is a story of people, of leadership. I have had the rare opportunity to know most of the pioneers and those who built on the foundations laid by the pioneers, and to report their work. There were literally thousands of such people, prominent among them David Sarnoff of RCA and NBC, William Paley of CBS, Leonard Goldenson of ABC, FM inventor Edwin Armstrong, tube inventor Lee DeForest, big-picture-tube advocate Allen DuMont, cable pioneers Martin Malarkey, Bill Daniels, Milton Shapp and Irving Kahn, FCC chairmen such as Paul Porter and Wayne Coy, Colorado Senator Edwin Johnson and Rhode Island Senator John Pastore, lawyers such as Harry Plotkin, engineers such as Andrew Ring.

The expansion of this Factbook is likewise a story of people—our talented colleagues with a passion for accuracy, a devotion to detail.

The development of television and related industries is one of incredible technical and economic advance. I bought my first TV set in 1946—a 10-inch Admiral, black-&-white of course—for $440, about 20% of my year's salary. What kind of set could you buy for that now? Suppose Cadillacs followed the same trend—how much would one cost today?

Celebrate these 50 years with us—and prepare for the next 50!

Sincerely,

Albert Warren,
Editor & Publisher

Note: The change in the number of systems operating each year is determined by three factors: (1) New systems which began operation during the year. (2) Older systems coming to the attention of Television & Cable Factbook for the first time and therefore included in the total for the first time. (3) The splitting or combining of systems by operators.

Commercial Television License and CP Holders as of Sept. 1, 1945

This directory is compiled from questionnaires sent to all principals and from FCC docket sources. Channel assignments pend changes under the new FCC allocations. Changes and current applications and decisions will be reported regularly in supplements to Television Digest & FM Reports. Dagger (†) indicates station has no AM broadcasting affiliation.

Glossary of Cable Terms

Derived in part from the National Cable Television Association's Glossary.

Access Channels—Channels set aside by the cable operator for use by the public, educational institutions, municipal government or for lease on a non-discriminatory basis.

ACE—See CableACE.

ADI (Area of Dominant Influence)—The Arbitron definition of a viewing market for ratings & sales purposes. An ADI market is composed of all counties in which the home market stations receive a majority of their viewing.

Addressability—The capability of controlling the operation of individual cable subscriber terminals by sending commands from a central computer. See also Two-Way.

Aerial Plant—Cable that is suspended in the air generally on telephone or utility poles.

Affiliate—A TV station which carries, by contractual agreement, network programming. Also, the cable system to which a program service transmits its programming, usually by satellite.

A la Carte—A structure for offering traditionally basic or expanded basic programming on an individual fee basis.

Alphanumeric Keyboard—A keyboard which allows communications with a computer in letters & numbers.

Amplifier—A device that boosts the strength of an electronic signal. Amplifiers are spaced at regular intervals throughout a cable system to maintain the signal strength.

Antenna Service—See Limited Basic.

Arbitron—A rating service which provided statistical information on viewing habits & demographics.

Assignment of License—FCC designation for change of licensee name of television, low power TV, translator and/or microwave operator licenses.

Aural Cable—The origination of radio programming on an FM channel leased from an existing cable system available to cable subscribers only.

Average Daily Circulation—The estimated average number of different television households reached by a particular station on an average day basis. (See Description of Station Directory).

Average Weekly Circulation—The estimated number of different television households viewing a particular station during an average week. (See Description of Station Directory).

Bandwidth—The portion of the radio spectrum needed to transmit pictures, sound or both. U.S. TV stations use a bandwidth of six million cycles per second (6 Megahertz).

Basic Cable—Usually the minimum amount of cable TV service available to a subscriber for a standard installation & monthly fee. It generally includes over-the-air broadcast signals & local originations.

Bi-directional—Two way cable communications.

Bird—Colloquial for communications satellite.

Broadband Communications System—Frequently used as a synonym for cable TV. It can describe any technology capable of delivering multiple channels and services.

C-band—Frequencies in the 4 and 6 GHz regions used in satellite earth station feeds in many television station configurations.

CableACE (Award for Cablecasting Excellence)—The cable TV industry's highest award for original, made-for-cable programming both locally & nationally.

Cablecasting—The use of a cable system or a satellite programming service to provide certain types of programming.

Cable Penetration—The percentage of TV homes subscribing to cable TV.

Cable Television—A communications system that distributes broadcast TV signals plus satellite signals, original programming & other material by means of a coaxial cable and/or optical fiber.

Cable TV Households—An occupied dwelling unit with one or more television sets currently receiving cable television service.

Cash Flow—Cash flow is defined as operating income minus interest expense and it basically indicates the amount of cash available before taxes, capital expenditures and debt retirement.

CARS (Cable Television Relay Services)—A microwave system used to relay TV, FM radio, cablecasting & other signals to a terminal for distribution over cable.

CATA (Community Antenna TV Assn.)—A national trade association generally representing smaller cable TV operators.

CG (Character Generator)—A device which electronically displays letters & numbers on the TV screen.

Channel Capacity—The maximum number of channels that a system can carry simultaneously.

Churn—The percentage of cable TV subscribers that add or delete program services, or cable service entirely.

Coaxial Cable—The actual line of transmission for carrying TV signals. Its principal conductor is either a pure copper or copper coated wire, surrounded by insulation & then encased in aluminum or copper.

Common Carrier—The generic name for any medium which carries messages prepared by others for a fee and is required by law to offer its services on a non-discriminatory basis. Also, common carriers are regulated by federal and state agencies and exercise no control over message content.

Compression—The act of reducing the amount of bandwidth needed to carry audio and/or video signals. Either analog or digital compression is technically possible.

COMSAT (Communications Satellite Corporation)—A privately owned common carrier operating under a congressional mandate to provide commercial communications satellite services.

Converter—A device that associated with a TV set can increase the channel load of the TV set.

DBS (Direct Broadcast Satellite)—A system in which signals are transmitted directly from a satellite to a home receiving dish. DBS refers specifically to high-power transmissions in bands specified by the FCC, rather than C-band which home satellite dishes receive.

Descrambler—An electronic circuit that restores a scrambled video signal to its original form.

Demographics—The breakdown by age, sex, income levels, education, race, etc. of TV viewers.

Dish—The installation, also called an earth station, for receiving and/or transmitting electronic signals between the earth and communications satellites.

Distant Signal—A TV channel from another market imported and carried by a cable TV system.

DMA (Designated Market Area)—The Nielsen definition of a viewing market for rating & sales purposes. A DMA market is composed of all counties in which commercial stations assigned to the market achieve the largest share of audience.

Downstream—The flow of signals from the cable system headend through the distribution network to the subscriber.

Drop Cable—The small-diameter cable feeding into the subscriber's home.

Dual Cable—Two independent distribution systems operating side-by-side providing double the channel capacity of a single cable.

Earth Station—A structure, referred to as a "dish," used for receiving and/or transmitting signals to or from a satellite.

Exclusivity—The contractual right to be the sole exhibitor of a program in a particular area during a particular time.

Expanded Basic—More than one cable service offered to the subscriber at a charge in addition to the basic cable service.

FM Cable Service—The offering of FM radio signals over a cable system; the cable must be connected to the subscriber's FM receiver.

Fiber Optics—The use of very thin & pliable cylinders of glass or plastic to carry light waves in wide bands of frequencies. Can be used to replace or supplement coaxial cable.

Franchise—The contractual agreement between a cable operator and a governmental body which defines the rights and responsibilities of each in the construction and operation of a cable TV system.

Franchising Authority—The governmental body responsible for specifying the terms of a franchise, awarding it and regulating its operation. While the franchising authority is usually a local city or county body, some areas are regulated on the state level.

Governmental Cablecasting—An opportunity for federal, state and local officials to disseminate information to their constituents via cable TV. This can be achieved by periodically submitting videocassettes to the cable operator, sending abridged newsletters for display on a system's alphanumeric channel or participating in interview programs on access channels.

Grade A Service (Contour)—Satisfactory broadcast television service expected at least 90% of the time for at least 70% of the receiving locations.

Grade B Service (Contour)—Satisfactory broadcast television service expected at least 90% of the time for at least 50% of the receiving locations within the contour, in the absence of interfering co-channel and adjacent-channel signals.

Grandfathering—The situation that exists when a law is passed after a cable system has begun operating, and the system may be exempt from the law.

Headend—The electronic control center of the cable system. This is the site of the receiving antenna and the signal processing equipment.

Glossary of Terms

- Homes passed—The total number of homes passed by a cable system, thus having the potential of being served promptly.
- Hubs—Local distribution centers where signals are taken from a master feed and transmitted over cable to subscribers.
- Independent—A cable TV system individually owned and operated, not affiliated with a multiple-system operator. Also, a TV station not affiliated with a major network.
- Institutional Loop—The upstream transmission of signals from schools, libraries, etc., to the cable headend where the signals are added to the downstream distribution to subscribers. It also can be a separate, closed system interconnecting governmental agencies for sending and receiving voice and data.
- Interactive—A sophisticated two-way system which has the capability of connecting more than two points. Warner Amex's Qube system in Columbus, Ohio was the country's first interactive system.
- Interconnect—The transmission of cable signals or advertising from one cable system to another so that programming and information may be shared.
- Ku-band—Frequencies in the 12 GHz band used for business and DBS satellite services.
- Leased Channels—Any channel made available by the operator for a fee.
- Limited Basic—The minimum service available on some systems, usually consisting of local broadcast signals and originations.
- Local Franchising Authority—Entity granted authority to regulate cable rates in a specified service area according to provisions in the FCC cable rules.
- Local Origination Programming (LO)—Programming developed, leased or purchased by a cable TV system for the community it serves.
- Local Signals—Over-the-air broadcast signals available within the community, usually carried on a cable system's minimum service level of programming.
- Low Power TV (LPTV)—A secondary television service licensed at a low power. Some LPTV stations provide original programming; some are affiliates of national or regional networks; others operate as translators for full-power TV stations.
- MATV (Master Antenna Television System)—See SMATV.
- MDS (Multipoint Distribution Service)—A private service utilizing a very high frequency to transmit one TV signal. Its most common function is to broadcast pay TV.
- Microwave—A transmitting system that relays signals from one tower to another, linking cable systems or other services.
- Miles of Plant—The total miles, to the nearest tenth, of coaxial and/or fiber optic cable in use to provide cable in each system's service area.
- Minimum Channel Capacity—The minimum number of 6 MHz channels that can be carried on a particular cable system simultaneously.
- MMDS (Multichannel Multipoint Distribution Service)—An MDS service with the capability of transmitting more than one TV signal. Also known as wireless cable.
- MSO (Multiple System Operator)—A company that owns and operates more than one cable system. Also called "group operator".
- Multiplexing—Practice of cable programmers such as HBO and Showtime of providing multiple channels of different programming simultaneously.
- Must Carry—Negotiated agreement under terms specified in the Cable Act of 1992 by which a broadcast station is entitled to carriage of its signal by a cable system.
- Narrowcasting—The delivery of specialized programming to a specific audience.
- NCTA (National Cable Television Association)—The major trade association for the cable TV industry. See index for complete listing.
- Network—An entity that offers programming on a regular basis for 15 hours or more per week to either regional or national affiliates under contract. A network may be either broadcast or cable TV oriented; both are usually delivered via satellite.
- Nielsen—A rating service which provides statistical information on viewing habits and demographics.
- Non-compete Covenant—Agreement, often included with consideration in a television and/or microwave license or facility sale, by which seller is restrained from owning or operating other media outlets in direct competition with that being sold.
- Non-duplication Rules—Restrictions placed on cable TV systems prohibiting them from importing distant programming which is simultaneously available from local TV stations.
- Off-air—Refers to programming received at the cable system headend from over-the-air broadcast signals.
- Operating Income—The operating income is the difference between the revenues and direct operating expenses, before interest, depreciation and income taxes.
- Ordinance—The enabling legislation passed by a local government to establish guidelines for the franchising process.
- Pay-Per-View—Cable programming for which subscribers pay on a one-time basis for individual programs, such as prize fights, Broadway and movie premieres.
- Pay Programming—Movies, sports and other programs available to the cable subscriber for a charge in addition to the basic fee.
- Pay Units—A total count of the number of individual pay subscriptions sold by a cable operator for one (1) or more pay programming services.
- Penetration—The ratio of the number of cable subscribers (or pay TV subscribers) to the total number of households passed by the system (or basic subscribers).
- Pole Attachments—The cable TV hookups to telephone or utility poles.
- Principal City Service—Satisfactory broadcast television service expected at least 90% of the time for at least 90% of the receiving locations.
- Pro forma—"As a matter of form." Indicates a sale or transfer which results in no change in control.
- Retransmission Consent—Negotiated agreement under terms specified in the Cable Act of 1992 by which a broadcast station is entitled to some consideration in exchange for carriage of its signal by a cable system.
- RFP (Request for Proposals)—The document issued by the franchising authority for the applicant's use. It usually states proposed guidelines, outlines minimum requirements for each applicant and specifies application deadlines.
- Satellite—A device in orbit that receives and transmits signals.
- Security System—The capability of providing interactive services such as emergency rescue, burglar and fire alarm protection.
- Shop-at-Home—Programs allowing subscribers to view products and order them by cable or telephone, including catalogs, shopping, shows, etc.
- Significantly Viewed—Television stations achieving a 3% share of weekly viewing hours (2% for independent stations), and a net weekly circulation of 25% (5% for independent stations) in a given community.
- SMATV (Satellite Master Antenna Television System)—A system that serves a concentration of TV sets such as an apartment building, hotel, etc., utilizing a central antenna or antennas to pick up signals.
- Submarine Installation—The laying of cable underwater, as opposed to aerial suspension on poles.
- Subscriber—A person who pays cable system operators for the reception of programs and other electronic services.
- Syndicated Exclusivity—An FCC rule requiring cable systems to black out portions of distant signals in order to protect syndicated programming which local TV broadcasters have under an exclusive contract.
- Teletext—A system of storing and displaying graphic material on the TV screen.
- Television Households—An occupied dwelling unit with one or more television sets.
- Tiered Programming—More than one cable service offered to the subscriber at a charge in addition to the basic cable service. Also known as expanded basic.
- Total Households—All occupied dwelling units in a given area.
- Transfer of Control—FCC designation for sales or transfers of television, low power TV, translator and/or microwave operator licenses involving shifts in ownership percentages, organizational changes or changes other than those involving licensee name changes.
- Translator—A small transmitter that picks up a distant TV signal, converts it to another channel to avoid interference and retransmits it into areas the original TV station could not reach.
- Transponder—The part of the satellite that receives and transmits a signal.
- TV Market Ranking—The 35-mile radius zone surrounding a community with an operating commercial station found in the markets listed in sections 76.51 & 76.53 of the FCC cable rules.
- TV Penetration—Percentage of Television Households in Total Households.
- Two-Way—A term used to describe a cable system that enables signals to pass in both directions between the headend and the subscriber.
- Underground Installation—The burying of cable underground, as opposed to aerial suspension on poles.
- Upstream—The flow of signals from the subscriber or remote origination point to the headend.
- VCR (Videocassette Recorder)—A device used to record and playback images on magnetic tape, packaged in a cassette.
- Wireless Cable—See MMDS.

CORPORATE STRUCTURE

The Canadian Broadcasting Corp. (CBC) is a publicly-owned corporation established on November 2, 1936 by an Act of the Parliament of Canada to provide a national radio and television broadcasting service in the country's two official languages, English & French. Under this legislation, the CBC is responsible to Parliament, to which it reports each year on its operations through the Minister of Communications.

The CBC is financed mainly by public funds voted annually by Parliament. Supplementary revenue is obtained from commercial advertising on CBC Television. CBC Radio is virtually free of commercial advertising.

The CBC operates an English television network, a French television network, English and French AM radio and FM stereo networks; the National Satellite Channel which delivers to Canadians the proceedings of the House of Commons via satellite & cable. As well, CBC operates NewsWorld—a 24-hour national satellite-delivered English language news and information specialty service. The CBC Northern Service, broadcasting in English, French and seven native languages and dialects, serves the special radio and television needs of Dene, Indian, Inuit, Metis and non-native groups in the Yukon, the Northwest Territories and Northern Quebec. Radio Canada International is Canada's voice abroad. Broadcasting on short-wave, RCI's information programming reflects

Canada's political, economic, social and cultural spectrum to an international audience. RCI also produces programs for use by leading broadcasters in the world's major radio markets.

CBC transmission methods include leased channels on the Canadian space satellite Anik, plus more than 100,000 kilometers of microwave and landline connections.

Public Broadcasting Service (PBS) is the national membership organization of 176 public television licensees, which operate 346 stations. It serves as the national distributor of public television programming, obtaining its programs from member stations, American independent producers & distributors, and foreign TV systems, producers and distributors; PBS is not a production entity. The member stations support the private, non-profit corporation's service-oriented functions through annual programming and membership assessments. PBS services include: Program acquisition, distribution and scheduling; education services; video marketing; national program promotion; development & fundraising support; broadcast & technical operations; engineering & technology development; and audience research. PBS is governed by a 35-member Board of Directors, which includes 15 lay directors representing stations' governing boards and 13 professional directors from station management, elected by PBS member stations to three-year terms; six general directors, elected by the lay & professional directors to three-year terms; and the PBS President.

Created in 1963 under provisions of the Communications Satellite Act of 1962, COMSAT is the U.S. representative to the International Telecommunications Satellite Organization (INTELSAT) and to the International Maritime Satellite Organization (INMARSAT). Comsat Corporation is an international communications, information and entertainment-distribution services company. It provides voice, video and data services to customers worldwide by fixed and mobile technologies and is the largest owner and user of the global INTELSAT and Inmarsat communications satellite networks. Comsat Corporation also furnishes systems integration, technical consulting and information systems; offers on-demand entertainment and information services to the hospitality industry, and owns the NBA Denver Nuggets.

Comsat International Ventures

Robert Dupuis, Vice President & General Manager

Comsat International Ventures forms domestic and international ventures with telecommunications authorities and telecommunications companies to provide a variety of services ranging from international business communications via satellite to domestic and regional VSAT service, to both regional and multinational corporations.

Comsat Laboratories

John V. Evans, President
Comsat Laboratories is world-renowned for its research and development to advance satellite communications technology. Capabilities and products of the Labs are available to both commercial and government enterprises.

Comsat Video Enterprises

Charlie Lyons, President
Comsat Video Enterprises distributes in-room video entertainment, including advanced "on-demand" video services, to the hospitality industry, and operates nationwide television distribution and maintenance services. Comsat Video Enterprises owns a majority interest in On Command Video, the market leader in video-on-demand technology and programming, providing in-room entertainment and interactive guest services to the hospitality industry. It is the largest hotel video-on-demand system in the world. Comsat Video Enterprises also owns the Denver Nuggets, a franchise of the National Basketball Association.

Comsat World Systems

Betty Alewine, President
Comsat World Systems is the largest owner and user of INTELSAT, an international cooperative that owns and operates a global satellite system linking 180 nations for voice, data, audio and video services. Comsat World Systems provides high-quality commercial communications via the INTELSAT (International Telecommunications Satellite Organization) network between the United States and the rest of the world.

The company's services include digital and analog voice, data and video channels, private-line telephone, data and videoconferencing, video distribution (both broadcast and satellite newsgathering), international VSAT service, cable restoration and an on-line scheduling service.

The INTELSAT-K satellite, launched in 1992, responds to the needs of international broadcasters in North America, Europe and South America. It has sixteen 54 MHz transponders with greater power and coverage than its predecessors plus a number of switchable transponders.

The next generation of INTELSAT satellites (INTELSAT VII & VII-A series) began when the first of the new INTELSAT VII series was launched over the Pacific Ocean Region. The second satellite launched in June 1994 over the Atlantic Ocean Region; the third is due to launch September 1994. These satellites carry higher transponder power which will enable COMSAT to expand its digital services in both C-band and Ku-band to smaller, less expensive antennas.

The current INTELSAT network consists of twenty satellites in geosynchronous orbit over the Atlantic, Pacific & Indian Ocean Regions.

Comsat International Ventures looks beyond the U.S. for opportunities with foreign telecommunications companies and governments to provide private international, domestic (non-U.S.) long distance and cellular services.

Comsat Mobile Communications

Ronald Mario, President
Comsat Mobile Communications is the largest owner and user of Inmarsat, an international cooperative providing voice, data, fax and telex information services via satellite to aircraft, ocean vessels and international land mobile users. Comsat Mobile Communications is the world market leader. Recent introduction of smaller and less-expensive Inmarsat-M terminals makes briefcase-sized satellite phone communications available to thousands of customers, including journalists, diplomats and disaster relief organizations. Another digital service, Inmarsat-B, will reduce costs for high-speed data services, broadcast-quality audio and compressed video.

of people who use the Television & Cable Factbook are upper-level or mid-level managers.

The rest are clearly on the way up.

It surprised even us. Frankly, while we knew we had the best organized and the most widely used resource in the industry (Multichannel News survey), we lacked the specifics to back up our convictions. Then, a blind survey we conducted this past year showed that, on average, 4.31 different people use each Television & Cable Factbook more than 10.18 times each month. Put another way, 23,705 different decision-makers and influencers refer to this important tool over 241,000 times monthly! Over 63% are in upper-level management, and some 30% have mid-level management positions. Corporate managers, programmers, engineers, marketers and financial people had the job responsibilities that most often appeared in our study.

It's hard to imagine that an advertising message that will receive nearly 3 million impressions in the course of a year won't be seen by the people you want to sell your products and services. Where else can people get information and the names and numbers they need quickly, accurately, and in one place? Only the Television & Cable Factbook has

Grade A and B contour maps of every commercial station in the U.S. And if you think our Buyer's Guide isn't the first place they go to find the products they need each day, maybe you'd better ask some of the thousands of subscribers who write or call us each year to make sure their company is listed.

The Television & Cable Factbook is the primary source for information about the total industry. A single ad will be seen all year by the men and women who can say "Yes" when you ask them to buy.

If the Television & Cable Factbook isn't part of your advertising plan, it should be. Now is the time to be planning for next year's placement in the industry's most respected resource... with less waste circulation than any other publication in television and cable. For a media kit that contains rates, ad sizes, and details on the research we talked about, call or write Gene Edwards, Advertising Director. It's not too early to start planning for next year...while some good positions are still available!

Interconnects

An interconnect is the association of two or more cable systems for the purpose of distributing advertising or programming simultaneously. The methods of distribution fall into two general categories, hard and soft. Hard interconnects are linked by wire or microwave. Soft interconnects are not connected in such fashion but are programmed collectively through multiple headends.
