Bob Proctor, Chief Engineer

We provide complete Concept-to-Production services for Audio-Video-Data products, including Regulatory Compliance, as an outsourcing option for clients who need fast Time-to-Market, earlier ROI, and the best in system performance and reliability. Our in-house engineering staff, and substantial cadre of consulting engineers are able to bring many years of experience, from many fields and disciplines, to bear on any given project. When combined with a tightly controlled and supervised project management plan, IMT is able to offer on-time and in-budget performance. Beyond just product development, IMT also generates a Bill Of Materials very early in the project so that long lead items can be ordered and scheduled for initial production as soon as the product is cleared from Regulatory Testing, avoiding any lag time in supplying products to the market.

From ESPN to the BBC, Orban products are at work in radio and television stations around the world. Designing audio products for the challenges of broadcasting has kept Orban busy, and successful, for over thirty years.
In fact, Bob Orban founded the company because he wasn't happy with the sound of albums being heard on the new stereo FM stations. So he developed the OPTIMOD solution that combines several processing structures into a single box to maximize loudness and still meet government broadcast regulations.

The business of communications law and policy today is to attempt to envision and help shape the social consequences of the current revolution in communications technology. To foster the benefits the new technology promises — and to avoid the dangers it may pose — represents the greatest challenge ever to confront communications law and those who make and practice it.

For more than 25 years, I have represented people who don't always have the resources to take on litigation against the big powerful institutions of our society: big corporations, insurance companies and governments. I have the experience, the brains, the chutzpa, the resource and the desire to fight on your behalf. I have represented people in many of California's counties. Initially, the firm set out to apply these principles in the context of representing municipally owned and cooperative utility systems that found themselves at odds with private utility companies. In that arena, we found that therepresentation of municipal and cooperative systems - which are often subject to strict limitations on their legal budgets - required methods and approaches that would give clients the greatest return on their legal dollar. The firm has since broadened this approach to include representation in telecommunications and transportation.

BIA Digital Partners is a private investment firm, making both debt and equity investments in middle market companies serving the media and entertainment, telecommunications, and information and business services industries. The firm was originally formed in direct response to the lack of junior capital available for small to medium-sized communications companies. While larger companies can access the public markets, smaller firms have fewer options for a middle or junior layer of capital.

To make the New Evangelization a reality is to become pilgrims on a journey or pilgrimage with Jesus Christ- much like the journey of Jesus meeting the disciples along the road to Emmaus. The journey or pilgrimage includes moments for adeepening of our faith, increasing our participation in the sacramental life of the Church, and leads finally to our destination of being Christian witnesses.

SDBA is affiliated with the National Association of Broadcasters (NAB) which conducts public service programs throughout the country, and supports a variety of community activities to promote the exciting field of radio/TV broadcasting. These PSA activities promote a drug-free society, the environment and education, among many others. Like its national counter-part, SDBA conducts a wide variety of programming to meet the needs of its myriad listeners. From the state-wide United Way television marathons or local heart-fund broadcasts from shopping malls, to public affairs programming of candidates to state legislature or city-wide election results, are all part of the continuous broadcast efforts of SDBA members to inform, educate and familiarize radio/TV listeners to current issues or pending legislation. But radio/TV programming also entertains. SDBA is proud of its broadcasting efforts, and is pleased to have in its membership the South Dakota Public Television Network, along with dozens of FM radio stations which dedicate much of its broadcast schedule to music and entertainment.

 We are the umbrella federation for U.S. unions, with 57 unions representing more than 12 million working men and women. We work to ensure that all people who work receive the rewards of their work-decent paychecks and benefits, safe jobs, respect and fair treatment. We work to make the voices of working people heard in the White House, on Capitol Hill, in state capitals across the country and in corporate boardrooms. We provide an independent voice for working families and ways for working people to be actively engaged in politics and legislation. We also hold corporations accountable for their treatment of employees and ensure the voice of working people is heard in the financial system. We also work with federations of unions in other countries toward global social and economic fairness.

 Performing artists live to perform. But their talents, their skill and the beauty they create won't necessarily pay the rent, put food on the table or guarantee the necessities of life. Without forceful advocacy and defense of their rights, artists may be vulnerable to exploitation or illegal discrimination. They need protection. They can find it by joining AGMA, the American Guild of Musical Artists.

Created in 1949 to regulate investor-owned public utilities, the Delaware Public Service Commission (PSC) works to ensure safe, reliable and reasonably priced cable, electric, natural gas, wastewater, water and telecommunications services for Delaware consumers. For those services that are moving toward competitive markets, the Commission makes rules to level the playing field between competing providers, and resolves disputes between these providers. The PSC also assists consumers in resolving disputes with their service providers.

The Public Utilities Regulatory Authority (PURA) is statutorily charged with regulating the rates and services of Connecticut investor owned electricity, natural gas, water and telecommunication companies and is the franchising authority for the state's cable television companies. In the industries that are still wholly regulated, PURA balances the public's right to safe, adequate and reliable utility service at reasonable rates with the provider's right to a reasonable return on its investment. PURA also keeps watch over competitive utility services to promote equity among the competitors while customers reap the price and quality benefits of competition and are protected from unfair business practices.
