Broadcasters to Aid in National Job Hunt

THE full weight of the tremendous radio facilities of the country is to be thrown behind the government's campaign to eliminate unemployment and restore normal conditions, by carrying to the people the messages of the President's Emergency Committee for Employment.

The committee is headed by Col. Arthur Woods of New York, who in 1921, led the government's fight against the unemployment caused by the deflation of after-war industry. The facilities of the National Broadcasting and Columbia nation-wide networks have already been placed at the disposal of the committee by the heads of those companies and a large number of stations not affiliated with either system have evidenced their desire to aid.

It is remembered by members of the president's committee who also served in 1921-22 that the earlier fight was conducted without the aid of radio, then in its infancy. They are, however, eager to avail themselves of this additional facility of communicating with the general public, which then could be reached only through the newspapers.

Use of the radio as part of the campaign against unemployment does not contemplate the delivery of any messages of the "let's go to work" or "everything's all right" type. For the best part of a year, the country has been flooded with optimistic statements that business was on the upgrade. It is now realized that saying something does not make it so, and the committee's plans for broadcasting involve explanations of how various communities have met their individual unemployment situation so that other communities may use that experience in mapping out their own programs of relief.

The seriousness of the present situation, which will grow progressively worse as cold weather moves south unless something is done, is not minimized by Colonel Woods. In fact, it is planned to tell the people just how severe the emergency is, both for the purpose of influencing business men to provide as much employment as they possibly can and to show how necessary it is that those who are fortunate enough to be working shall contribute generously to community chest and other methods of relieving the distress of those who have no jobs.

The big use of radio, according to members of the committee, will be the carrying of these messages to 122,000,000 people of the country, spurring on the work of relief and at the same time reassuring the unemployed that actual, practical steps are being taken to get work for them.

MICROPHONE GOSSIP

Nita Mitchell, the singer of those "Low-Down Blues" on the Golden State Blue Monday Jamboree, has had a varied experience on the stage and in night clubs a'l over the country. She was a featured performer for a season in one of the famous Texas Guinan's Night Clubs in New York City. Nita is small in stature but mighty when it comes to crooning a blues song. She has black hair, brown eyes and a very vivid personality.

To the various oil companys of California goes the credit for bringing many of the outstanding broadcasts of western radio. All of the important major sport events are brought to the homes of the sport-loving public by the Associated Oil Company over KPO with Don Thompson, one of the nation's brilliant athletes presenting the events in his colorful and graphic word paintings. The Standard Oil Company has fostered leading musical events, making it possible for the western audiences to enjoy music, such as symphony orchestras and the Standard School of Music, aimed to promote a better understanding of the best in music. The Shell Oil Company features "Dobbsie" and his gang in a daily broadcast from KPO 8 to 9 o'clock in a program that has as its reason for being an instrument with which to bring to the shut-ins, the convalescents, the weary, and the unfortunate, cheer and hope and to help them over the rough spots on the road of life.

Madame Fritzl Rehbach, well-known concert pianist heard over KJBS every Sunday afternoon, is American born, although having studied for many years abroad at the Royal Conservatory and the Hochschule at Leipzig.

* * *

Ray Tellier, drummer in Walter Rudolph's orchestra at KTAB, is one of those people with whom you'd like to spend hours just listening to them tell of places they've been. He is a vagabond, to be sure. He has traveled in Australia, India, Egypt, Italy, France and England. Ray has always been interested in dance bands. In 1919 he started a four-piece band which "grew and grew." In 1922 his band opened the Rose

Room of the Palace Hotel. Later they were at the Winter Garden and during the last few years he has directed and managed orchestras at Russian River during the vacation season.

Josef Hofmann, world famous pianist, who is star of the Atwater Kent Radio Hour November 16, was born in 1876, and made his first appearance as a concert artist at the age of six years. Hence he has been almost constantly before the public as an artist for forty-eight years. During that time he has grown from an infant prodigy into one of the few universally recognized geniuses of musical expression. Unlike most child wonders, he has matured actually under the eyes of the public to hitherto unscaled heights of artistic achievement.

Billie Landers, the colorful KJR and Northwest Broadcasting System blues singer, has added another rôle to her career. She is singing in the Metropolitan Theater with the Bainbridge Players daily. Billie is getting a "big hand" for her work. The Bainbridge Players, from Minneapolis, Minn., are playing an extended engagement in Seattle.

Bill Simmons and his California Cowboys, KROW, are back from Hollywood, where they made four new Victor records which will be on sale very shortly. All four songs were written by Bill himself, with the aid of Chuck Darling, his harmonica player.

* * *

Lou Marcasic is another of the additions to the KMTR studio orchestra. Marcasic is expert on saxophones, clarinet, bass clarinet and oboe, which combination is not usual, and his musical experience is not usual either. He opened with Max Fisher as the first orchestra at the Coconut Grove, with the late Art Hickman at the Biltmore, when the beautiful ballroom opened; played with Max Fisher for Ziegfeld's Follies in New York, with Gus Arnheim at the Coconut Grove, and always in his spare moments is found at Paramount or RKO motion picture studios in the recording band on the set.

YOUR BIG GAME TICKET

Your home is the stadium. Draw up your favorite easy chair, spin the dial, tune in, and the game is on!

The Remler Cameo is your season's ticket to all of the games, including the "Big Game." The cheers of the rooters, the thrill of the bands, and the excitement of the game itself play by play, are all yours without the wild scramble, the milling mobs, and the difficulties of parking.

Visit your nearest dealer, ask for a demonstration of the Remler Cameo and have one of these superlatively toned receivers—made by the second oldest manufacturers of quality radios—installed in your home in time for the Stanford-California and the U. S. C.-Notre Dame games.

THE beautiful strains of a violin wafted softly and melodiously through the loudspeaker.

"A real artist—one of the West's greatest," said Dobbsie as the last notes of "California Lullaby" died away.

Hugh Barrett Dobbs and the writer were sitting before the radio in Dobbsie's comfortable Burlingame home listening to the Monday evening broadcast of Rudy Seiger and his Shell Symphonists. Seiger had just concluded playing a violin solo number of his own composition—one of the more than fifty he has written in recent years.

Then came the Shell Symphonists under Seiger's baton playing the lilting tune of Lacombe's "Spring Morning Serenade," followed by selections from Verdi's "Othello." And so it was throughout the hour. The whole gauntlet of music, from the classics to the ballads, was paraded before us. "Which," remarked Dobbsie, "is one of the secrets of Seiger's tremendous popularity with the radio audience. He doesn't play to any special group of listeners, but selects his program so that it will appeal to everyone. It is not high-brow, neither is it low-brow. Seiger seems to sense his audience's likes and dislikes and has managed to strike a happy medium.

"But don't take this to mean that this alone is the reason for Seiger's success," Dobbsie added. "Seiger's ability as a violinist, as a director, his personality, the musicians he has gathered about him, all contribute their bit toward making the Shell Symphonists one of the greatest musical aggregations of its kind in the United States.

"Every man in Seiger's organization is a musician of the highest type, every one a soloist of real ability. J. Chandler Smith, the pianist, for example, ranks as one of the West's real geniuses on his chosen instrument. He has been with Seiger for more than fifteen years, interrupted only by a year in Europe, which he spent studying under the masters of that country. Rudolf Kirs, the cellist, is noted for his remarkable tone and has played in symphonies throughout the world. Arthur Storch, all-soloist bass player of the Shell Symphonists, toured the world with Sousa. Edward Bergenholtz, who plays the French horn, has been under Seiger's baton for nearly fifteen years, and besides his ability as a soloist, composer and arranger, is musical director of the Oakland high schools. These are just a few of the members of Seiger's group which go to make it the all-star aggregation it is," Dobbsie concluded.

Seiger's place in the musical life of the West is unique. He is distinctly a product of the West, born, raised and educated in San Francisco.

His first teachings on the violin were from his father, himself a violinist of rare ability who had played before audiences the world over. Later young Seiger studied under August Hinrichs, Guilo Minetti and William Hoffman. At the age of 17 years he had become one of the city's finest violin masters and was chosen to direct the Grand Opera House orchestra during the reign there of the famous Richard Mansfield.

Then came several years during which Rudy and his orchestra became the rage of San Francisco's gay musical life, interrupted only by the great fire in 1906. It was shortly thereafter that Seiger was offered the post he now holds at the Fairmont Hotel.

Rudy's first radio audience was back in 1919 and consisted of a half dozen sailors aboard one of Uncle Sam's warships anchored in San Francisco Bay. The broadcast originated from a tiny room atop the Fairmont Hotel, where one of the Coast's first experimental transmitting stations had been erected. Up to that time no one had ever thought of broadcasting anything but phonograph records, or, perhaps, announcing in a sing-song voice "Hel-lo-o-o, Hel-lo-o-o. This is station 9X1 speaking. Can you hear me?" On this particular evening something had happened to the phonograph. Someone thought of Rudy and his violin, conveniently handy downstairs. And so it was that Rudy Seiger, as far as can be learned, was the first in the West to broadcast "in person" over the air.

Later the experimental station was improved and went on the air as a full-fledged broadcaster under the call letters of KDN. Here again Seiger led his field by being the first on the Coast to direct an orchestra before a microphone. From then on Seiger appeared frequently as orchestra director or soloist on the air.

In 1925 radio started to come into its own and a few far-sighted advertising men began to see the possibilities of radio in their business. One of the most enthusiastic among them was E. H. Sanders, advertising manager of Shell Oil Company, who, seeing a bit farther than the rest, determined that an outstanding personality and real talent were the two factors needed to make a "commercial" type program pay its sponsors dividends. Rudy Seiger filled these requirements, but upon being approached on the subject of "prostituting his art," as he felt about it then, steadfastly refused to go on the air as an advertising medium. But Sanders, foreseeing Seiger's tremendous possibilities, was not to be rebuked. Not quite two years later Seiger signed the contract which brought into being the organization which has since become one of radio's most popular musical aggregations—Rudy Seiger and his Shell Symphonists.

Today the far-sightedness of E. H. Sanders stands rewarded. Seiger himself has risen to the place of the best loved and most popular directors and soloists on the air. His fan mail is the puzzle and despair of almost every radio artist in San Francisco. Rudy's letters from his admirers have required the combined efforts of himself and a secretary for several hours each day. And this is just a bit unusual for an artist of Seiger's type who does not make any special "play" for letters from listeners. The usual artist of the air who proves a "hit" with the radio audience finds himself at first deluged with fan mail, which gradually dwindles off until he considers himself fortunate to receive several postcards a day. But not Rudy! His mail has maintained its first "splurge" proportions. Neither their number nor their enthusiasm has lessened. All of which makes it a bit difficult for other less fortun-nate stars of the air to explain to their station director or sponsor the reason for their mail decrease, which is the medium by which an artist's popularity is judged.

That Seiger is responsive to the tribute paid him by his great radio audience is seen in the beautiful melody of "Song of the Air," which he composed and dedicated to the radio fans of the West. Among his other compositions, all published and meeting with great popularity, are "Zamboanga," "Argentine Love," "Tango D'Oro," "California Lullaby," "Rainbow Lane," "Lido" and "The Arrogant Youth." There are dozens of others, published and unpublished, which Seiger frequently incorporates into his broadcast programs. He is a member of the famous Bohemian Club of San Francisco and has already written three musical plays which were produced at that exclusive club's yearly Hi-Jinks among the redwoods of the Russian River.

A rather amusing story is told of his early efforts as a musical composer:

A woman who ran a candy store, but spent her spare moments in composing poetry, came to Rudy one day with the offer that if he would set one of her poems to music she would give him a hundred dollars. Yes, Rudy would be glad to do it, whereupon the young musician proceeded to spend every night for a week writing a melody to fit the poem. But upon presenting his finished manuscript, he was sadly but firmly informed that there was no money forthcoming, but he might take the hundred dollars out in trade if he wished. And Rudy did! "Many's the time I got sick eating all that candy," Rudy reminisces, "but I was determined to get my money's worth out of that music!"

Rudy Seiger and his Shell Symphonists are presented every Monday evening from 8 to 9 o'clock, Pacific standard time, over the Pacific Coast network of the National Broadcasting Company, which includes stations KPO, San Francisco; KHQ, Spokane; KOMO, Seattle; KFI, Los Angeles, and KSL, Salt Lake City.

PERSONAL PICKUPS

BY GYPSY

Mrs. M. B., Oakland, Calif.—An invitation to the Memory Lane broadcast will be mailed you if you will address your request to the Hostess, National Broadcasting Co., San Francisco, Calif.

* * *

E. A., San Francisco, Calif.—Cecil Wright's (KFRC) accent is his very own. He was born in Hot Springs, Arkansas, went later to Tulsa, Oklahoma, and came to the Coast a year or so ago. He is the fifth in a family of ten children, is 23 years old, 5 feet 10½ inches tall, weighs 174 pounds, has brown, freckled sort of eyes and black hair. Single.

* * *

Dottie, Loomis, Cal.—The "Ne'er Do Well" must remain the "Ne'er Do Well" to his listeners. So sorry, Dottie, but you see, I have given him my solemn word not to divulge his identity until he cares to make it known and—well, it wouldn't be good sportsmanship, you know.

* * *

G. M., San Jose, Cal.—Gwynf Jones (NBC) worked for nineteen years in the coal mines of his native Treherbert, South Wales. As a lad he loved to sing but never in his wildest dreams did he picture himself the successful, sought-after tenor that he is today. About seven years ago he came to California and in six short months he was broadcasting to vast radio audiences. The "Microphone Magician" has been more than gratifying in conjuring up substantial, material prizes and bringing complete happiness to this eager, modest Welshman who is ever on the alert to advance himself, to give his all. Mr. Jones speaks several languages. He is never without a pocket dictionary and his rhetorical proclivities would embarrass many a college graduate.

* * *

J. E., Sacramento, Cal.—Irving Kennedy (NBC) is 5 feet 9½ inches tall, weighs about 160 pounds, has blue eyes, tannish-colored hair and is one of the most bewildering contradictions imaginable. He intended becoming an attorney but forgot all about law after he played his first professional engagement. Likes to fish, hunt, fly and motor. Insists he is afraid of girls. Of course, nobody believes him.

* * *

C. L. P., Oakland, Calif.—Virginia Spencer (KYA) possesses a clear-featured, quiet beauty. Her eyes are grey and wide, her hair is long, of a dusky hue, she is 5 feet 5 inches tall and weighs about 120 pounds. An Oakland girl, convent trained, in her twenties. She has individuality, an interesting mind and an instinct for clothes. Never seems to be hurried, is never lacking in poise and moves about in a fascinating, rhythmic manner as from one key to another in an effortless, smooth modulation.

* * *

Miss F. L., Medford, Ore.—Paul Roberts (KFI) is 5 feet 8 inches tall, weighs 180 pounds, has brown eyes, brown hair, is unmarried, goes in for candlelight improvisations, drama and cooking. A complex personality of that expensive tailored appearance so dear to the ladies; affectionately termed the Beau Brummel of radio.

* * *

Ex-Gob, Los Angeles, Calif.—The Shell Ship of Joy is a phantom ship that sails the ether waves. Of course I know, Mike, that only the President of the United States can make an Army or Naval officer, but even a phantom ship must have a skipper and in this case Hugh Barrett Dobbs takes the title of "Captain."

* * *

E. A., Oakland, Calif.—Tom Hutchinson is buried deep in executive work up at NBC these days, and has very little time to broadcast. He does however, play a favorite role once in a blue moon so do not despair. You haven't lost him altogether.

PHILCO

SCORES AGAIN

Baby Grand Radio

PHILCO production methods and Philco Balanced-Unit construction combine to produce in the new Philco Baby Grand a radio of outstanding worth.

Announced only a few weeks ago, this great set has won thousands and the roll of satisfied owners increases daily. Its power and range, its sensitivity and selectivity, its pure and accurate reproduction of tone, amaze all who hear it, even those who have learned to expect superlative performance from any Philco.

It is not a "baby" or "midget" set; it is a full size, seven-tube radio, in a small case. It has genuine electro-dynamic speaker, station recording dial, push-pull audio amplification. It is so light, so compact, you can carry it home under your arm; so efficient you will rely on it in preference to bulkier and more costly sets built by others.

The OPEN CIRCUIT

This department is open to all. Send in your letters. All letters of general interest will be published.

Woodland, Calif., November 1, 1930.

Gentlemen:

Whenever I read about or hear persons criticising different radio stations for the programs they broadcast, I want to ask them if they have ever had the pleasure of visiting any station during the broadcasting of a program. I have, and I feel that somehow the things they say or write would never be said or printed if they could witness with their own eyes how hard the artists and everyone connected with the stations work to give us the entertainment they do, expecting from their public only a few kind words of appreciation, not criticism. Whenever I find that I cannot express appreciation in my letters, they are left unwritten.

Don't you feel that the old adage, "Bigger and Better than Ever," can honestly be applied to your present BROADCAST WEEKLY? I do.

Sincerely,

D. H.

One appreciates the fact that unsponsored programs must "give way" in order that campaign speeches, club luncheons, conventions, etc., may go on the air, but it is hard for those of us who are drama enthusiasts to understand why some sponsor does not back "the play" and win our everlasting gratitude and loyalty.

I know several women who hasten through their housework, then anxiously feed their "brood" and get them off to school so that they may sit down in undisturbed quiet and enjoy the "Radio Guild" scheduled to be on the air Wednesdays from 1 to 2 p. m.—therefore, it is like being dashed with very cold and unwelcome water to find this hour of splendid talent sidetracked for a period of dry speech-making.

Last week "The Silver Flute," due Saturday afternoon at 4:30, was sacrificed, also "The Story Teller" at 9 p. m. Thursday, from our own NBC studio. I defy any station to put on the air a finer, more perfectly handled bit of entertainment than the narrative offered by "The Story Teller" week before last, entitled "Shadows" and written by Helen Norris of Medford, Oregon.

"Forward and center" drama fans and back me up on this!

(Signed) "CASEY."

Editor of BROADCAST WEEKLY:

Here's a "nosegay" to offset "R. H. J.'s" "brick." I certainly don't agree with him in regard to serials. I imagine he is hitting the KGO mystery serials. For anyone who enjoys mystery thrillers, a better program could not be found. How in the name of common sense can he compare these plays, excellent in plot and acting, with the cheap, poorly acted movie mystery serials? It's the height of stupidity!

However, I certainly agree with "G. L." in regard to the orchestra members' singing. It's terrible! Many a time I'd like to choke the soloist, if he can be called that, on the North American program.

A. E.

Hemet, Calif., November 3, 1930.

Dear Sir:

Why can't William Dore be put on some station we can hear down here in the day time or have him sing at night? We always enjoyed his programs when he was on KFI, but it is impossible to get KGO or the northern stations in the day time down here. They tell me it is to do with the sun's rays. So I have not had the pleasure of hearing him since he joined the NBC. Why not have him in the "Woman's Magazine of the Air," which we get from KFI, and then his old friends will hear him again.

Very truly yours,

H. B. S.

New JACKSON B

It's a kick!

WOW! What a boot. Twenty, thirty, forty yards it sails down the field between solid walls of madly cheering rooters. No thrill like football. Why miss a game this year? Take this handy little JACKSON BELL with you, and follow your favorites play by play wherever you are or go—at home, the club, or a-traveling. Scarcely than a football, plugs in any light socket, yet or power, with the eye of an eagle. Tone unminated dial, genuine Rola dynamic 5 Perryman tubes—4 of them screen-for $59.50. Say JACKSON BELL today. Also a beautiful Lowboy

PHYLLIDA ASHLEY and AILEEN FEALY, NBC

UNIQUE among the programs broadcast through the NBC's Pacific network is that presented each week by Phyllida Ashley and Aileen Fealy, recognized pianists who offer a striking two-piano performance.

Popular piano duos are not unusual among radio performers, but the Misses Ashley and Fealy offer only classical interpretations and every selection is played from memory.

The work of the two talented Western artists is known to thousands who follow the National Broadcasting Company network programs. Station KGO, at San Francisco and Oakland, billed the Misses Fealy and Ashley first and they were signed by the NBC last year. They rode to fame promptly.

No young pianist in the West has enjoyed a more meteoric rise to success than Miss Fealy, a San Franciscan. Critics declare she has all the attributes of a great artist playing with "a singing touch of great mellowness." Of her technique a New York Times critic said: "Her technique is clean cut and there is a general sanity and wholesomeness of the interpretation."

Music is Miss Fealy's heritage. An aunt, Mrs. S. F. Weeks, taught her first when she was but five years old. Mrs. Oscar Mansfeldt and Maria Carerras at New York are among other teachers.

A brilliant academic student, Miss Fealy was graduated from high school in San Francisco when she was but 15. Since then her time has been devoted to music exclusively.

The meeting of the two young artists occurred in San Francisco when both had returned to their home state after long periods of study and successful concert tours.

Miss Ashley's talent was stamped as meritorious when she was but five years old by none other than the famous Paderewski as he sat in a private car in the San Francisco railroad yards and heard her play.

On Paderewski's recommendation, Phyllida's parents gave her every musical advantage. Among her teachers were Fannie Bloomfield Zeisler and Sigismund Stojowski, the eminent Polish composer. She coached several seasons with Stojowski, known universally as the "only true exponent of Paderewski."

Miss Ashley made her concert debut at the outbreak of the World War in Aeolian Hall, New York City. Critics then paused long enough to prophesy a brilliant career for the California girl.

Appearing as soloist with the Los Angeles Philharmonic and San Francisco Symphony Orchestras are only two of the Western appearances Miss Fealy has made since returning from New York.

Miss Fealy and Miss Ashley are able to contribute generously of their talent, one to other, toward the development of a colorful ensemble, and their work on the air is attracting wide attention.

THE Federal Radio Commission has recently authorized the voluntary assignment of the license of station WISJ, Beloit, Wis., to the Wisconsin State Journal Broadcasting Company, and of the license of station KTUE, Houston, Texas, to the Harris County Broadcast Company.

GERMANY is experiencing considerable difficulty in controlling broadcast reception. It is indicated by reports of the German Postmaster General that 1029 prosecutions have been brought in the last year for the use of receiving apparatus without a license. Convictions, it is stated, were secured in 1024 cases, the fines imposed totaling about $5800.
