“AGFA XT 320[®] IS THE ONLY
HIGH SPEED STOCK
I WOULD EVER USE.”

DAVID WATKIN Director of Photography
1986 Academy Award For Best Cinematography.

Since “Out Of Africa” was almost entirely shot on AGFA 320, I have resorted to this film whenever its characteristic delicacy and wide tonal range is called for.

Bright sunlit exteriors are beautifully rendered because of the wide latitude, and the high speed is never a problem because one can use a .6ND filter. The highlights are always exquisite and always safe . . . you’ll never lose them! It is very important that this has been achieved without sacrificing the excellent blacks which are absolutely clean and intense.

This is also the only high-speed stock I would ever use.

The Year in Review

Early in the fall of 1987 the network executives at ABC-TV and CBS-TV received some much-needed good news. Previously both companies had said they expected to lose tens of millions of dollars for the year as the result of a weakened advertising market. (This would have been the first time in recent history that two of the three networks would have operated at a financial annual loss.)

Suddenly the picture brightened: the two networks experienced a much stronger than anticipated upfront season, followed by an equally unforeseen rebound in the fourth quarter ad market. All at once they were "back on their feet"!

The levels of profitability expected may have been modest in comparison with the heyday financial pictures the networks enjoyed in the mid-1980s, but they were still cause for rejoicing. The networks needed the boost badly in the face of the continuing erosion of their position by the growth of cable and home video.

By the beginning of 1987 the number of basic cable households had hit 42,200,000 (compared to 19,600,000 in 1980) and the number of U.S. videocassette recorder households was at 32,500,000 (compared to 1,850,000 in 1980). (For further details on the cable and home video markets see the separate sections in THE ALMANAC.)

Blaming these inroads on their standing along with the anticipation of financial losses (now reversed), the networks had continued throughout 1987 to seek compensation cuts from their affiliates and rollbacks in contract talks with news and technical unions. The "good news" was expected to hamper these "streamlining" efforts.

Meanwhile the networks prime time rating race of 1986-87 was won by NBC-TV for the second consecutive season. The score was NBC, 17.8; CBS, 15.8; ABC, 14.1. (Each rating point equals 874,000 households.)

NBC's average, its highest in nine years, was up 2 per cent over 1985-86; and its two-point victory over CBS was the largest winning margin by any network in eight seasons. CBS and ABC each declined by 5 per cent. The CBS season average was its lowest ever, and ABC's its lowest since the 1954-55 season.

According to the A.C. Nielsen Co., the top-ten shows for 1986-87, in order, were "The Cosby Show" (NBC); "Family Ties" (NBC); "Cheers" (NBC); "Murder, She Wrote" (CBS); "The Golden Girls" (NBC); "60 Minutes" (CBS); "Night Court" (NBC); "Growing Pains" (ABC); "Moonlighting" (ABC); and "Who's the Boss?" (ABC).

Not a single one of the new series introduced at the start of the season made it into the top ten. NBC's "Amen," which followed the popular "Golden Girls" on Saturday nights, was the leading newcomer, landing in 14th place. "Matlock," also NBC, was next in 16th place.

Nor was it a good year for the prime time soap operas; not one made the top ten. "Dallas" dropped to 11th; "Falcon Crest" was 24th; "Dynasty" No. 25; "Knots Landing" No. 28; and "The Colbys" No. 76.

Top-rated movie-made-for-TV of the season was NBC's "Rags to Riches." Most-watched mini-series: CBS' "I'll Take Manhattan." Top-rated theatrical movie: ABC's "Raiders of the Lost Ark" (Paramount).

For the new 1987-88 seasons ABC was to introduce six hours of new programs; CBS eight; and NBC four. This breaks down as follows: ABC, three hour-long dramas, one variety show and four sit-coms; CBS, seven hour-long dramas, two sit-coms; NBC, three hour-long dramas, two sit-coms.

In another kind of TV race, Lorimar-Telepictures edged out Universal TV as the production company with the greatest number of programming hours for the new season. The independent has seven and a half hours of shows on the networks in the new term while Universal will have seven. This is the first time in years that Universal has not led the count. Third company is New World TV (four and a half hours); followed by Warner Bros. TV and Columbia Embassy with four each for the season.

The television industry, in fact, is made up of one battlefield after another. There are now two different national rating services competing for attention: A.C. Nielsen has been challenged to combat by Audits of Great Britain (AGB), a British owned-and-operated service. Both companies will be using the new "people meters"—a methodology which utilizes electronic devices instead of written diaries.

As of the start of the 1987–88 season, CBS was the only network to have signed with AGB for one year's services (at a cost of $3 million). Meanwhile NBC had again signed with Nielsen, and ABC was expected to follow. A sticking point: Nielsen charges more money for its people meters than for the old system. Several major advertising agencies and syndicators have also contracted for the new AGB service.

If the two services came up with a different Number One show some weeks, the fur was expected to fly. It did at once.

A completely different kind of battle is expected during 1988 between the Federal Communications Commission and various citizens groups which are opposed to its decision to drop the "fairness doctrine." The issue is over a long-established principle of American broadcasting requiring that broadcasters deal with important controversies of the day and provide a "reasonable opportunity" for opposing viewpoints to be heard. With that doctrine no longer in effect, TV and radio stations are as free as newspapers to report only one side of an issue or to accept ads urging a viewpoint without having to provide free rebuttal time.

Most broadcasters see little chance for changes in the overall conduct of stations since the FCC doctrine was almost never enforced. Some citizen groups disagree, however, and plan to challenge the FCC action in the courts.

Freedom of choice—the control of one's own viewing habits—has been the major impact of home video on the leisure-time industry in America. Owners of videocassette recorders can view what they want when they want and are no longer subject to the programming schedules of the television networks and cable stations. The VCR owner is able to watch yesterday's motion pictures today (by renting or owning vintage Hollywood films, foreign features and television product, as well as films released theatrically as recently as six months ago) and today's television programming tomorrow—along with how-to tapes, music videos and home movies.

Time shifting, the ability of the viewer to tape a show for later viewing (as well as eliminating commercials—by editing them out or fast forwarding past them), is the most common usage of VCRs. One can watch one program while taping another, or tape with the tv set off and nobody home. One can select entertainment or instruction from the more than 50,000 prerecorded tapes now available from the more than 30,000 video specialty stores, supermarkets, hardware stores and libraries. There are more than 40 brands of VCRs with 150 models now available, offering electronic tuner-timers and such special effects as freeze-frame and forward-reverse picture scan as basic features and such extra options as wireless remote control, variable slow and fast motion and full stereo sound. Home video has had a revolutionary effect on the entertainment habits of the nation.

Video History

1923: Though the patent for a video-camera-like device was filed in Germany one hundred years ago, the first practical product was devised by Vladimir Zworykin, a Russian/American immigrant in 1923.

1938: A primitive video disk was on sale in Selfridges of London.

Post World War II: With the development in the early 1930s of an electronic television signal and the audio tape recorder, and their coming into broadcast use in the mid-1940s, it was not long before experiments (by Ampex and RCA in the US, and BBC and Decca in Great Britain) in recording television shows and playing them back were made in earnest. Freeing directors to edit or re-shoot, and attempting to loosen the stranglehold live television broadcasting imposed on the medium, the first recorders were longitudinal machines that looked like audio recorders and used large reels of tape at high speeds.

Early 1955: BBC went on the air with its VERA (Vision Electronic Recording Apparatus) with a head gap of 20 microns and a tape speed of 200 inches per second. A reel about 5 feet in diameter was needed for taping a half-hour program.

April 1956: An American company, Ampex, produced the first working video recorders for broadcast use, using four (quad) recording heads on a rotating drum, and two-inch wide magnetic tape which was reusable. They were first used over the air at CBS's Hollywood studios in November, 1956. (A more portable system using narrower tape and a helical scan system had been patented in Germany in 1953, but the prototypes were far too expensive and difficult to use; a tape could be used only once, and each time it was used the machine had to be cleaned of tape particles.)

1967: A Japanese company, Sony, introduced the first transportable video system which used reel-to-reel tape and recorded in black and white only.

- 1970: Home video arrived when the first video cassette systems were produced, in the Philips Video Cassette Recorder or VCR. (Philips had also developed and licensed the compact audio cassette.) Sony introduced its 3/4-inch U-Matic format intended for professional use in the film and television industries.
- 1972: Philips launched its N1500, the first video recorder with a tuner-timer, making domestic video recording a reality.
- Late 1975: Sony introduced the Betamax system, utilizing narrower 1/2-inch tape (the narrower tape size resulted in lowered costs of recording and recorders). An optional timer was included to enable a viewer to tape even when he was not at home and offered the capability of recording one program while watching another. The cost was approximately $2,200 for a recorder with TV set. Blank tape cost $20.
- 1976: Cartrivision, V-Cord, and VHS (Video Home System) introduced systems incompatible with Betamax machines. The first two fell by the wayside while VHS (backed by Matsushita Electronics Corporation) emerged as the challenger to Sony's Betamax by making it possible to record up to 2 hours of broadcast material for the first time. Magnavox came out with a video disk machine, strictly a playback system which used a disc similar in size and substance to a record album that is "read" by a laser beam. RCA manufactured a rival, incompatible videodisc system.
- 1977: The video software market was born when a small midwestern company called Magnetic Video Corporation licensed 50 feature-length films from 20th Century-Fox and released them for sale on Beta and VHS formats at retail prices of $49.95 to 79.95.
- 1983: Paramount Pictures paved the way for burgeoning cassette sales when it lowered the price of some of its strongest titles to $39.95 from $79.95. Other prerecorded cassette distributors soon followed suit.
- Jan. 1984: United States Supreme Court, after lengthy consideration of a suit brought by MCA Inc. and Walt Disney Productions against Sony, ruled that home taping of broadcast programming is not a violation of copyright laws, in effect legitimizing what viewers were already doing.
- May 1987: Super-VHS or S-VHS (with an expanded band width of up to 5.5 megahertz thus increasing the sharpness of picture image) made its debut at the Consumer Electronics Show in Chicago, with anticipated production scheduled for fall of 1987. Another innovation was the introduction of 5-inch CD Video singles at a $7-8 list price, that can hold up to 20 minutes of recorded music videos.

Facts and Statistics

- While the Japanese and Koreans dominate the hardware market of the video industry, American producers, distributors, and marketers and retailers fill the programming needs of the ever expanding industry.
- Estimates regarding the number of United States households that currently own a VCR are 40%. Media analyst Paul Kagan anticipates that by the early 1990s, 70% of US homes will have a VCR.
- Electronic Industries Association (EIA) figures show that 11,810 million VCRs were sold in to dealers 1986, while 10,750 million were sold in 1985. The EIA calculates that an estimated 75 million prerecorded video cassettes were sold in 1986.
- Prerecorded videocassettes doubled both in dollar sales ($8 billion) and unit sales (53 million) in 1985 and were expected to rise again in 1986 to 75 million units worth $2.3 billion; blank videocassette sales, after climbing 20% in 1985 to $925 million, were expected to pass the $1 billion mark in 1986 with 220 million units sent to dealers.

- Camcorder sales were expected to rise to 1,600,000 units in 1987 while sales of color video cameras fell to 113,000 units in 1986 and are expected to fall again to 85,000 units in 1987. (EIA)
 - A.C. Nielsen's annual VCR Tracking Report dated May, 1987 showed that prime-time TV shows accounted for 42% of VCR recording time. Daytime programs earned a 23% share.
 - Nielsen's report also revealed that 46% of off-TV recording was done while sets were off, and 72% of all recordings were of programs broadcast by network affiliates. 21% of VCR recording occurs on Sunday evening while playback is strongest on Saturday evening (20%) the survey showed.
 - A 1984 A.C. Nielsen survey revealed that the average user spends 6 to 9 hours a week recording and playing back programming off the air. Soap operas are the most frequently taped shows (accounting for 27.2% of the total recording time)
- followed by movies (17.1%), dramatic shows (14.5%), and comedy (8.9%).
- The May 1986 A.C. Nielsen report indicated that recording with the set turned off is responsible for the greatest portion of total VCR recording. Viewing and recording the same channel simultaneously accounts for less than one-third of total recording time. Approximately 15% of all recording is done while viewing one channel and recording a different channel.
 - While film companies are enjoying healthy growth from selling videocassettes, they are prohibited by law from garnering any of the rental revenues. The First Sale Doctrine states that once the cassette is sold to the retailer, the merchant can rent the cassette as many times as he can without giving back any royalties to the producers.
 - A 1987 membership survey by the Video Software Dealers Association revealed that in 1986 a videocassette of "A" theatrical quality rented 80 times on the average while copies of "B" pictures were rented 42 times and "C" pictures 31 times.
 - Price per prerecorded tape sold on the average for $29 in 1986 as compared to $37.23 in 1985. Rental price average dropped to $2.40 in 1986 from $2.66 in 1985.

The Home Video World Market

The Home Video World Market

AUSTRALIA

Estimates indicate that approximately 47.3% (although some estimates put that at 56%) of the households with television sets also have video cassette recorders, up 10.3% over the previous year (85% VHS; 15% Beta.)

The following figures showing the number of VCRs sold here each year since 1979 reveal the rapid penetration of the market:

1979	26,000
1980	72,000
1981	150,000
1982	350,000
1983	500,000
1984	685,000
1985	600,000

The average time spent viewing VCRs is 1 hour 52 minutes per week, and is divided equally between pre-recorded and recorded off-air material. VCRs cost between $A399 to more than $A1000, and cassette rentals average $A3 per night. There are currently approximately 4000 retail outlets.

Major video distributors total nine, while there are some 20 smaller outfits. Nearly all the majors have links to other Australian media groups as well as to leading world-wide film distributors.

For example, the major VCR wholesalers include CBS-Fox, Warner Video, and RCA/Columbia/Hoyts (later is a leading theatre circuit) as well as CIC Video (film distributor with links to Paramount), Syme Video (media conglomerate with ties to Disney), and PBV (TV station owners with ties to MGM and United Artists). Other distributors are Thorn-EMJ Video, Video Classics and Roadshow.

CANADA

Canada had a VCR population of approximately 2,000,000 early in 1986, which represents an estimated 28% of television homes. As of then some 1,237,151 machines had been imported into the country (Canada does not manufacture videocassette recorders) compared with 1,265,084 at the end of 1984 and 136,969 during 1981.

Estimates indicate that cassette sales for 1985 were way above—as much as one and one-half times—the theatrical motion picture gross revenue, which was about $380,000,000 (Canadian) for the year.

Other data recently compiled by A.C. Nielsen of Canada:
About 72% VCRs are VHS format.
Films are the most prevalent programs recorded.
More than 50% of the usage occurs while the TV set is off, and the same percentage eliminates commercials while recording.
More than 20% of households watch more TV since purchase of a VCR.
Nearly 75% of households sampled cited recording of programs that would otherwise be missed as the chief reason for use.

EGYPT

Number of production companies for recording and distributing tapes: 1987—220; 1986—167.

Number of fully registered video clubs selling and renting video tapes: 1987—1980, 1986—1725. In addition, more than 2000 small shops and magazines also sell and rent video tapes to viewers.

Number of VCR owners: Over five million (still growing).
The Censorship Dept., which is headed by Mrs. Naiema Hamdy, and connected to the Ministry of Culture, is in charge of viewing, rating and granting the approval on general release to all and any local and/or foreign production on tapes.

General: There's no doubt that video is spreading rapidly in Egypt and is beginning to have a serious effect on theatrical film business. The Indian public enjoys watching films in its own homes at inexpensive prices with all members of the family on hand and the ability to invite friends and neighbors if they wish. Going to a movie theatre is annoying to them for many reasons, including crowded streets, the cost of transportation, and the lack of parking areas.

AHMED SAMI

GREAT BRITAIN

The home video market in the UK continued to grow apace during 1987 with an estimated 55% of the nation's householders owning or renting a VCR. In fact, nowhere in Europe is there a software market as large or a growth so spectacular as Britain.

Distributors' sales from January to March 1987, as reported by the British Videogram Association (BVA), was nearly £31,500,000, an increase of 29% on the same quarter the previous year. More people in Britain than ever before, some 10.09 million, have video recorders in their homes. These householders now rent an estimated 5.9 video tapes a week and buy an additional 148,000 pre-recorded videocassettes. Estimated consumer expenditure on rental is £375 million for a full year.

More people (330 million) rent videos in a year than attend all football league fixtures (40 million), play squash (130 million), read paperback books (50 million), or buy record albums (101 million). In fact, it's probably the second most popular home leisure pastime after television viewing itself. Nevertheless, the BVA warns that to assure long term software growth it is essential that a higher proportion of VCR householders is persuaded to adopt or to resume the habit of regularly renting and purchasing pre-recorded tapes. There is a need to continued promotion to attract back their viewers when the initial novelty of owning a video and renting tapes wears off.

The average hire charge for a cassette rental has now gone up to £1.26 a night. Pre-recorded video tape purchases have also risen to an estimated 117,000 per week.

Leading distributors of pre-recorded tapes include Warner, CIC, Cannon, RCA/Columbia, CBS/Fox, Rank, Entertainment in Video, Walt Disney, Virgin, Heron, MGM/UA and Guild.

Piracy of videocassettes has diminished since the foundation of the Video Copyright Society—set up jointly by the BBC, the Independent Television Companies' Association and the Society of Film Distributors' Federation Against Copyright Theft. This has come about most notably since the penalties were greatly increased when the Copyright Act was amended in 1983. Now the industry wants the Act amended to make it an offence to export copies of film and television programmes without authority.

As with cinemas and "free" television, the video business is dependent on good entertainment. Given this, there is no reason why home viewing should not continue to expand despite the expansion of cable, pay TV and satellite broadcasting.

WILLIAM PAY

GREECE

Home video invaded Greek homes, cafes, and other places in 1983. More and more videocassettes are produced every year to supply the numerous video clubs operating in the country.

Number of Videocassettes: It is estimated that more than 2500 titles are produced legally locally. The number of pirated ones is great.

Price of a Videocassette: The price to wholesalers of a videocassette is about drs. 6,000—8,000. It is rented by video clubs for drs. 150—250 per day, but the competition is so keen that some minor dealers are renting them for drs. 50.

Videocassette Piracy: There is an extensive traffic of illegal video cassette operators who import masters illegally and/or duplicate imported titles or local ones and sell their inferior copies cheaper to regional places. Even good pictures which have not as yet been theatrically released in Athens are out in the market as videocassettes. As there is not a law against this piracy, an organization was established by several producers to protect their interests. It is called Protection Society of Video Cassette Producers (EPPIVE), which acts according to a decision of the Supreme Court by which the illegal reproduction of a videocassette is considered a forgery and the culprits are sentenced to imprisonment and/or heavy fines.

Hardware and Software Dealers: There are many dealers selling hardware and software equipment in Athens, operating or acting as agents of Akai, Asa, Bauer, Blaupunkt, Grundig, Hitachi, Lowe, Panasonic, Mitsubishi, Magnasonic, Philips, Siemens, Telefunken, Salora, etc.

Producers, Wholesalers, Agents: There are more than one hundred videocassette producers in Greece, and it is impossible to mention them all here. RENA VELISSARIOU

HOLLAND

Population: 14,615,000

Number of VCRs: 1,600,000. This means that some 35% of Dutch families own a VCR.

Number of Distributors: some 40 of which only 20 are truly active. The most important are Esselte-CIC (Paramount, Universal, MGM and Cannon), Warner Home Video (WB and UA), RCA-Columbia, CBS-Fox, RCV (Orion).

Number of Rental Shops: around 1000.

Rental Price: from Dfl. 3.50 to Dfl. 15. per day. Estimated number of rentals per year: 36,500,000.

Video Sales: Not yet very important but a growing market (1986: some Dfl. 10,000,000. mainly dealing in B-pictures, soft pornography and documentaries).

Sales Prices: Dfl. 75. for soft pornography and B-pix. For documentaries between Dfl. 29.50 and Dfl. 39.50. Blank tapes sell for around Dfl. 12.50 (3 hours)

Total Video Turnover: Dfl. 190,000,000. generated by some 3,500 titles.

Window: 6 months from first theatrical release.

Video Systems: 70% VHS, 15% Betamax, 15% V2000. The VHS system is rapidly becoming more and more important. Purchase price of VHS recorders start now at about Dfl. 750 and go up to Dfl. 1,500.

Trade Associations: Producers & Importers: Nederlandse Vereniging van Producenten en Importeurs van Beeld en Geluidsdragers (NVPI), Albertus Perkrast 36, 1217 NT Hilversum. Rental Shops: Nederlandse Vereniging van Detail Ondernemingen (NVDO) Twijnstraat 46, 3511 ZL Utrecht.

Piracy: Still very important and estimated at some Dfl. 80,000,000 per year. The government is finally going to prepare new legislation which will enable more severe punishment for copyright-infringement. VIDEO VELLIG (Video Safe) is the venture which is constantly alert on copyright-infringement. Members are the NVPI (Video distributors), Buma-Stemra (Mechanical Copyright Organization), NBB (Filmdistributors, Exhibitors and Producers Organization), NOS (Television Organization) and the MPA.

Top 10 of 1986: 1) Police Academy II; 2) Beverly Hills Cop; 3) Rambo (Part II); 4) Gremlins; 5) Romancing the Stone; 6) A View to a Kill; 7) Ghostbusters; 8) Terminator; 9) Missing in Action; 10) Woman in Red.

General: Needless to say that video is hurting the cinema trade. For a family of 4 it is obviously much cheaper to rent a film for Dfl. 15 than to go to a cinema which would cost Dfl. 40. (plus transportation).

Purchase of a recorder is relatively high by those with a good income, mostly by those living in the west of the Netherlands (the most prosperous provinces), those who look often to TV, and by members of the most important TV organizations: A.V.R.O, T.R.O.S. and V.O.O. 70% of the owners of a recorder rent a print of pictures for instance with video companies. There are many stores in many cities and villages. TV programs are often copied (recorded) by 86% of the owners of a recorder.

Because it is so popular to rent a motion picture with a video store price Dfl. 3.50 to Dfl. 15. (a Dutch guilder is about $0.40), for one day, competition with motion pictures is very serious. As a rule the "performances" in homes are often attended by those not possessing a recorder. Attention to TV programs is not influenced: owners of a recorder look more frequently to these programs. Night films on TV are often recorded enabling viewers to see such pictures later at normal hours.

Younger and more educated people are visiting cinemas more than older and less educated people. Younger people don't want to stay home. They prefer to go to a cinema making their own choice: action pictures in general.

Going less to cinemas than in the past has its motives. The owning of a video recorder is an important one. Also: the decision to buy a recorder is also influenced by efforts to reduce expenses—the cost, for instance, of visiting a cinema.

Philips, Blaupunkt and Grundig (West Germany), Sharp, Japanese video recorders (Sony, Akai, Hitachi), practically all VHS systems, are sold here.

PHILIP DE SCHAAP

INDIA

With the expansion of TV networks throughout the country an increasing number of VCRs have made their appearance in Indian homes. A rough estimate puts the total number of VCRs in the country around 1,000,000. There are well over 40,000 video libraries renting out cassettes. Besides, there are about 50,000 video parlours in the country. The number is still growing as video is making its appearance in the small towns and villages. In the absence of legitimate cassettes, they have been screening only pirated prints, thus depriving the national exchequer and the film industry of millions of rupees. In addition, there are over 5,000 video coaches and 20,000 hotel rooms having closed circuit TV. Many metropolitan cities have now started having closed circuit TV in buildings and housing societies and the numbers are growing. Clubs, schools, hospitals and other institutions also have regular screenings of films on video.

Widespread video piracy has undoubtedly affected the film industry's export earnings. For example: UK, which had nearly a hundred cinema halls showing Indian films, now practically has none. Similar is the case in Canada and USA. In India, however, the situation is different. The number of feature films produced in 1986 though less than the previous year is still fairly high. But box office receipts have registered a decline. In Bombay alone there are nearly 3,000 illegal video parlours—as against 150 cinema houses—which screen Hindi films openly, thus depriving the film industry of a sizeable revenue.

Through the film industry's concerted efforts the government has now passed a law against video piracy. Any person who exhibits or permits the exhibition of a video film in any place without proper certification is liable for imprisonment for a period of three years and a fine which may extend to Rs. 100,000. Taking advantage of the stringent laws the producers are now selling the video rights of their films; thus a new source of revenue has been opened to them.

A New Delhi-based company is all set to franchise 10,000 video theatres all over the country. The plan envisages the construction of compact 300-seat theatres in towns and villages where there are no additional cinema halls. With the total capital outlay of less than half a million rupees per theatre, a population of 50,000 is enough to sustain such a theatre.

The government owned TV network Doordarshan has increased its revenue from advertisements and sponsored programs from Rs. 550 million in 1985 to Rs. 650 million in 1986. Many of the programs are 13-part to 104-part serials. Most are shot on video tape, giving rise to video studios in the major cities.

JAPAN

The Latin word video, to see, has been adopted for use in our modern world as a term which covers a rather large field in the electronics sector including videocassette recorders (VCRs) or video tape recorders (VTRs), and the compact disks (CDs) using laser beam technology. The Japanese, who are the most skillful people in the world in adapting ideas and improving on them, are the world leaders in video manufacturing. At present they make 90% of the world VCRs or VTRs produced, have close to 90% of the most lucrative American market, and perhaps 99% of the Japanese market, which includes 38.5 million households.

Today not one American company makes videocassette recorders, so last year's sales of $5.9 billion were 90% Japanese with 10% of sales divided between South Korean and European producers. However, from the beginning of 1987 Japanese exports dropped some 25% in the U.S. due to trade friction, more CD sales, and the high value of the yen despite Japan's Trade Ministry requesting a 15% increase in the previous 18 months exported to America (of which over 3 million were unsold). When one considers that Japan exported some 27,690,000 worldwide last year, the importance of US sales is clear. In consequence Japanese makers have announced plans to produce more units inside America and Europe.

Video has an important relationship with television as well as with the movie industry in the past decade in two ways: from legal sales of cassettes or solid discs of movies, and the adverse factor, illegal pirating of copyrighted material or sale to the public, which hurts both producers and exhibitors and is rampant in many countries.

Consumer use in Japan is considerable as one can see from these figures: the 50 video software-related industries in the past year reported total revenues of yen 163.7 billion (U.S. $1 = yen 147), a 26% gain. Cassette sales of yen 40 billion were dwarfed by disc sales of yen 93.5 billion, rentals yen 10.4 billion, software yen 8.8 billion while copyright income was a mere yen 289 million. Taken on a per item basis, disc sales were 15.6 million, cassettes 4.5 million and cassette rentals 950,886. The above figures, of course, do not include export sales. In terms of yen the largest sales (yen 11.6 billion) were for cassettes or discs featuring imported feature films, followed by Japanese movies (yen 9.1 billion), and animations (yen 6.2 billion), showing increases of 29.6%, 23.1% and 11%. Soft pornography cassettes increased only 5.3% to yen 2 billion. These figures exclude CIC-Victor and Warner Home Video which are not members of the Japan Video Association.

From the year 1985 a new factor has appeared in Japan, about which little has been written though it may affect the movie industry beneficially or adversely. Marubeni, one of Japan's largest companies, has pledged to sell 100 one-man video theatres in the Tokyo metropolitan area and already has 15 operating near supermarkets or train stations, while the Tohokushinsha has opened two 99-seat video theatres on the seventh floor of a leading department store. The laser equipment usually comes from Sony, which has equipped 37 such theatres, because both picture resolution and sound is enhanced in comparison to cassettes. The entire system cost comes to $100,000 with construction charges about the same for a 100-seat theatre employing one person who acts as cashier, operator and popcorn seller, plus daily janitorial service. Admission, varying on age and quality of feature, runs $3.10 to $9.35. Some of the earlier video theatres used cassettes.

Jusco Co. reports monthly attendance at their 60-seat Chiba Video Theatre at 5,600 which shows that they are already a threat to nearby legitimate movie theatres. Cinematic Japan Co. already has more than 30 operating in the Tokyo area, Seibu Saison 5 in addition to its affiliate Seiyu with 7.

Since film attendance in Japan rose 3.6% to 160,758,000 in 1986 despite the effect of VTRs added to households, there have been no diatribes by cinema importers, distributors, producers and exhibitors in the press complaining of lost revenues due to black market or legal cassettes or compact discs. The Motion Picture Assoc. of America has set up teams to patrol video rental stores to warn them to refrain from sales of pirated tapes or discs of American films. Since there are over 4,000 regulated shops and an estimated 8,000 not regulated and selling pirated tapes, this is quite a task. What action has been taken by the authorities was limited to piracies of domestic Japanese software. At present 50% of tapes sold are pirated, resulting in losses of over $530 million to copyright holders. The Ministry of Education has submitted an amendment to the present copyright law which imposes a penalty on "display of pirated cassettes."

While Japan has flooded the world with video exports, the public's use has been nowhere near the enthusiasm engendered in America, and to a lesser extent, Europe. The answer to this lies in the Japanese character and customs. It is true that increasing numbers of Japanese have been resorting to setting a timer to tape TV shows they are liable to miss and want to view later, and there are smaller numbers who tape the shows to send to family members working outside Japan and wish to keep up with what goes on in their homeland.

Going to the movies in Japan is either a habit or compulsion for youngsters, a "ceremony" for others and a chance to get out of the home. In general, the average Japanese would hesitate to pay out a goodly sum to purchase a cassette or solid disc for showing at home for his family, though admittedly the male members of the household might invest in soft pornography. A Japanese home is not meant for entertaining outsiders so there is no question of inviting neighbors or friends to a viewing. Entertaining is done outside the home and in no way consists of running a VTR for outsiders.

Of course, one cannot say with certainty that in the future these customs may not change and there may be a revolution in the use of VTRs or CDs such as took place in America or Europe. Thus, if there is blame to be handed out regarding competition with movies it still goes to TV.

What then will be done by the cinema industry, especially the exhibitors, if there is an explosive spread of video theatres in the future? Will they fight them or come to some sort of compromise, or even join them? Thus far there appears to be no opposition to them but that could change if box office profits fall and they begin to hurt the movie theatres or any other branch of the industry. Since they normally use imported features, producers and importers from abroad seem not worried.

Japan is foremost in the world in production and export of video tape recorders (VTRs) which now have a diffusion rate in households in the world's major market countries reaching 30% (compared to 40% in Japan's urban areas and 31% nationwide), a phenomena which took only 20 years since introduction of black-and-white in 1964 by Sony and development of a color model in 1966, followed by introduction of its Betamax in 1975 for home use.

Here again is the example of how the Japanese lifted the technological know how and research of foreign companies such as RCA and Zenith in America, and Philips of Holland, estimated at costing as much as a billion dollars, and developed them to the advantage of Japanese business in the case of the CDs. The history of VTRs shows the same trends.

What Philips and the Japanese companies are working on now includes an erasable disc, a further improvement—which may control the future.

As for the cassettes themselves used inside VTRs, global demand at present is estimated at 385 million a year of which the U.S.-Canadian market take 131 million, West Europe 108 million, Japan 80 million, and other countries 66 million.

Japanese companies are said to be producing some 1.75 million VTRs in West Europe, in addition to exporting there some 2.2 million under voluntary quotas. What is left in the market goes largely to Philips.

In the past year video software industries rose from 38 to 50 with billings rising to yen 130 billion. When any discussion of VTRs is made, it is necessary to mention the battle between Sony's Betamax system and the rival VHS systems which are incompatible in that the cassettes are not interchangeable on the other equipment. That battle has resulted in defeat by Sony with only an estimated 12% of the market with 88% for VHS (Video Home System) developed by Victor of Japan.

Sony replied to this by introducing the 8mm single-unit video system, whose recording time is 120 minutes, which VTR makers are already copying. It was also Sony who, when the large American companies decided against putting CDs in production because of the huge capital outlay despite the fact that they had paid for research, went into CD production, along with, on a much smaller scale, Philips of Holland.

In 1970 Sony discovered that Philips of Holland, as well as RCA and Zenith, both American, had spent hundreds of millions of dollars on research and development of a laser diode disc to record, and spent four years unsuccessfully trying to develop a system. In 1978 Philips, after the American companies had written off videocassettes as risky because of the expense, came to them with their technological data in order to prevent a second Betamax-VHS video tape problem by producing two incompatible competing systems.

This move was regarded by some as foolish since Sony then picked the ball up and carried it from there, in 1982 producing their first CD system with picture for $800. Other firms followed and now Japan has gone on to dominate not only the American market but also a lion's share of the world market to such an extent that the average person thinks it was Sony and not Philips who invented it. Sony still dominates the US market for CDs with Matsushita Electronics second. Philips has a good piece of the European market, and a very small bit of the Japanese market with Zenith dropping out before production, while RCA only produces some esoteric disk systems for the US government. A third American company MCA sold its factories to Pioneer Electronics of Japan. Apparently no other American companies are interested in trying to buck the Japanese who produced 245,000 CDs last year and expect to produce over 500,000 this year, practically for the North American market. Philips has a subsidiary, Marantz Japan, making CDs in Japan.

In Japan a CD system now costs about $600 (though reports state that they are sold as low as $300 overseas) and the sale of discs (close to 2,000 different titles) increased nine-fold to $212 million as coffee shops, bars and some 300 households purchased movies or other types of programs at prices ranging from $28.95 to $58.35 depending on how many discs (1, 2, or 3) were needed for the complete show, since long features require a 2-sided disk and a single-side disk. It is not clear whether the so-called video theatres in Japan are allowed these cheap prices or must pay more, but probably the latter case is true.

A random sampling by the Video Software Promotion Council indicated 27.9% of Japanese households used VTRs daily, 32% once in 2-3 days, and 25.4% once a week. Over 50% of units used were rental cassettes or discs, with 64.1% of foreign origin.

The quasi-governmental NHK radio and TV network differs a bit from commercial surveys, stating that 37% of Japan's 38.5 million households now have VTRs or CDs and diffusion in the Tokyo and Osaka regions is at a 40% rate and in rural districts 31%, terming it "the video revolution in Japan."

Toho-Towa established Towa Video to deal exclusively in cassette sales, contracting for Cannon's Over the Top series, joining Nikkatsu Video Films, Shochiku CBS/Fox Video, Toei Video, Herald Enterprises, Shochiku-Fuji, et al.

PAKISTAN

Video has reached almost all well-to-do houses throughout the country. The younger generation and cinemas are the hardest hit by video because there is no censorship of video films, which are smuggled in from different countries in large quantity. Indian films have the biggest viewership, as their official import has been banned in Pakistan for the last 30 years. Among the movie fans, hardly 1% goes to cinema; the remaining 99% watch video films.

The Government is making laws to regulate video cassette shops (VCS) in the country. Registration of these shops will be made obligatory. The existing copyright act will also be given sharper teeth to prevent the people from "indulging in illegal and immoral practices."

The government has rejected proposals to ban video businesses to protect the national film industry. There are about 42,000 VCR shops in Pakistan. Each of these shops has at an average 10 VCRs or VCPs for renting out to viewers, who pay between Rs. 50 and Rs. 100 rent for 24 hours. Every VCS has between 500 and 1,000 video prints of Indian and foreign films. Almost the same number (400,000) of VCRs are owned privately. There is a license fee of Rs. 200 for domestic use of VCR and Rs. 400 for commercial use per year. Earlier custom used to charge 80% duty on the import of VCR/VCP; it was reduced to a flat Rs. 3,000 per VCR in the last budget.

Following the government decision to extend legal cover to VCRs, investment interest for putting up facilities to assemble and manufacture VCRs in this country seems to have picked up momentum. Philips Electrical Industries of Pakistan Ltd. has already been granted permission for assembly of 80,000 VCRs per annum in addition to the 25,000 units already sanctioned to Philips. As against this, the official estimates have placed the present demand for VCRs at 40,000 sets which is projected to increase to around 60,000 by 1988. The industrial Investment Schedule for the Sixth Plan has earmarked an investment of Rs. 24 million for the establishment of new industrial plants for assembly and manufacture of VCRs. But for one reason or another a single VCR set (assembled or manufactured in Pakistan) has come in the market so far.

For the last five years, illegal exhibition of the latest Indian and foreign films (uncensored) on VCRs has remained the biggest obstacle to Pakistan cinemas. Also to be considered is the high cost of cinema tickets (Rs. 12 and Rs. 10 for a balcony seat), strict censorship, poor maintenance of cinema houses, transportation problems, etc., whereas video prints of latest Indian and foreign films are freely available for Rs. 5 and Rs. 10 for 24 hours.

In thickly populated areas of cities like Karachi, Hyderabad, Lahore, Peshawar, Quetta etc., LEADS are supplied to houses on monthly subscription of Rs. 75 or so for one picture a day and two on holidays. Elderly people prefer to enjoy Indian films produced between the 1950s and 1960s, as they are "clean" and can be seen with family members, and pictures made in Pakistan (also "clean"). Films produced in India in the 1970s and 1980s are (self) censored with remote control by the heads of families, as they have vulgar and sexy scenes.

Pakistan also exports video prints of her feature films through the National Film Development Corporation to various countries where people from Pakistan and India work, earning a foreign exchange of Rs. 3,279,475 through the export of 169 video prints during 1983-84 and 1984-85.

Pakistan also sells popular TV plays in video to a number of countries, including India (unofficially).

SPAIN

With a population of 38 million, there are 2 million VCRs in Spanish households. About 60% of those are VHS format while the remaining 40% includes Beta and the Philips 2000 systems.

There are 3,000 retail video outlets and the average rental is approximately $2 for one or two nights. VCRs cost between $800 and $1,200.

All the major American distributors are in the Spanish market and American videos dominate about 80% of the market. Virtually all home video films are released in Spanish-dubbed versions and feature films dominate the market with a small percentage for pornography and music videos.

SRI LANKA

Home video in Sri Lanka is great business. There are more than 400 video rental outlets in the city of Colombo alone. An ad hoc survey into the home video business shows that there are more than 2,500 video outlets in the country's main cities. There are about ten bona fide importers of video films on the island and most of them have their main centers of business in the city of Colombo from where they rent and distribute. The average rental system calls for an initial deposit of Rs.500 (U.S. $18.00) to Rs.1,000 ($36.00) and a daily charge of Rs.25 to Rs.50 ($1.00 to $2.00). Many of the small video rental centers which deal in pirated copies of Western (European and American), Eastern (Hong Kong, Japanese, Singaporean and Taiwan) and Indian films, rent the tapes for almost 50% below the rental charged by legitimate shops. These same pirated video shows make much money from sex films, which are in big demand. There are also illegal mini-cinemas specially catering to sex film viewers. Video cinemas are not licensed by law and are carrying on illegally by bribing local police and local administrative councils. During the past three to five years, these mini-cinemas have mushroomed in every corner of the country, catering to 30 to 100 customers at a time, running 5 to 10 shows daily from 10 am to midnight.

There are approximately 180 mini-video cinemas in the city of Colombo and an average of 10-15 mini-cinemas each in other major towns in the country.

Sri Lanka is one of the key video pirating centers in the world, next to Singapore, Hong Kong and Bombay. Almost any film released in the world is available in Sri Lanka within a week of its release.

Recent surveys by the Sri Lanka police found that local and foreign pornography are freely available and shown in video mini-cinemas and very often these centers are raided and charged in courts and the exhibitor gets away by paying a fine ranging from Rs.1,000 to Rs.3,000 ($37 to $75), only losing the pornographic film and videocassette player which is normally confiscated by the court of law.

Pirated copies of video films are also made from TV dramas and Sinhalese and Tamil films, exported to Middle Eastern countries where nearly 800,000 Sri Lankans work as engineers, doctors, nurses, technicians, construction workers, drivers and housemaids.

The effect of video on the film industry is enormous. Recently a Presidential Committee on the Film Industry recommended a total ban on exhibition of Sinhalese, Tamil and Hindi feature films on television, to revive the ailing Sinhala film industry. The Committee wants the Government to impose at least a three year ban on exhibiting local films on TV. Among the 76 recommendations proposed are the elimination of mini video cinemas and punishment for offenders under the Public Performance Act. The Committee has identified video as the main cause for the film industry's declining income and current crisis.

The Motion Picture Association of America has decided to take legal action against video pirates in Sri Lanka arguing that the National Film Corporation should be delegated the responsibility of initiating action against pirates in consultation with the Registrar of Patents and Trade Marks, Rupavahini, ITN, film producers and exhibitors and the police.

There are approximately 3,000 mini video cinemas in the country compared to 400 permanent cinema theatres.

SWITZERLAND

In Switzerland in 1987, there were some 750 videoshops which mostly work on a rental basis, while the outright sale of videocassettes is mainly done by the major distributors and by mail order. As Switzerland is trilingual, the turnover of videocassettes is divided: 60% German, 26% French and 6% Italian; only 6% are spoken in English. By genre, 58% of the hired or sold movies on cassettes are action dramas or thrillers (2-3% horror), 28% are family programs and 14% erotic films. Among the evergreens is the whole Disney family catalogue. Still selling and renting at a steady clip are film musicals.

According to estimated statistics of the Swiss Videogram Association, by the end of 1987 some 680,000 VCRs will be in Swiss homes, which corresponds to 27.2% of all TV owners. The gross turnover of the official importers is estimated to amount to 40,000,000 SFr, while 5,000,000 SFr. is grossed by "pirates" operating on the gray market, concentrating mainly on porno films.

Swiss Government is preparing a new law which should control piracy. Swiss Videogram Assn., Swiss Motion Picture Distributors and the Motion Picture Export Assn. of America started a battle against the abuses but, so far, legal basis to convict pirates has been missing. After introduction of the new law, disregard of copyrights would be severely punished, in extreme cases with up to three years in jail. Now, the top fine is 5,000 SFr.

New laws would also provide a legal basis for prohibiting violent tv-movies (the so called "Brutaloes") and a revised one would put limits on the spread of pornography. All these new propositions have yet to undergo discussion in the Federal Parliament.

Almost 100% of the recorders sold are the Japanese type Video Home System (VHS). The European device, Video 2000, a co-production of Philips and Grundig, has completely vanished, as well as Sony's Beta-System.

Governmental subsidy: January 1, 1986, the Federal Department of Culture, Federal Bureau of Cultural Promotion decided to extend subsidies on video productions, too, i.e. this authority grants contributions not only for national film productions but also for VHS- and U-matic video films which have artistic qualities.

Government Departments: Bundesamt fuer Kulturpflege, Sektion Film, Thunstrasse 20. 3000 BERNE 6.

Associations: Schweizerischer Video-Verband, Schwarztorstrasse 7, P.O. Box 2485, 3001 BERNE.

GABRIELLA BROGGI

USSR

While there are no published official statistics on the USSR's video industry, it is estimated there are approximately 500,000 videocassette records in the country, all in VHS format. The Soviet Union exports about 300 video features to 80 countries but restricts the import of videos to about 10-12 per year. Video trade organizations include: VNITIK (All-Union Institute Theory and History of Cinema); NIKFI (Research Institute for Film Equipment & Technology); VGIK (All-Union Institute of Cinematography) and LIKI (Leningrad Institute of Film Engineers).

WEST GERMANY

With a predicted growth rate of between 5 and 10% the video industry once again grew, with a volume of 360,000,000 marks ($178,000,000) in 1986 compared with 345,000,000 marks ($138,000,000) in 1985 for pre-recorded videocassettes.

42 million blank cassettes were sold in 1985 as compared with 36 million in 1984.

VHS systems dominate the hardware market with about 90% penetration with Beta, Philips and 8m making up the rest. 90% of videocassette business is in rental while 1 million prerecorded videocassettes were sold in 1985.

The estimated percentage of VCRs in homes is 26% of West Germany's 25,000,000 households though some of those homes have more than one VCR.

There are approximately 3,500 retail outlets.

STATISTICS

HISTORICAL DATES

- FIRST OVER-THE-AIR TOLL-TV EXPERIMENTS: 1950, Skiatron system tested over WOR-TV in New York City. 1951, Telemeter system tested over KTLA-TV, Los Angeles; Zenith tested its system over its own experimental station in Chicago.
- FEBRUARY 10, 1955: Federal Communications Commission started proceedings to determine whether it should authorize TV stations to transmit programs paid for on a subscription basis. Study involved 92 docket volumes reflecting the views of over 25,000 persons on legal, technical and policy questions.
- MAY 23, 1957: FCC concluded it had authority to authorize use of TV broadcast frequencies for subscription operations if it found it were in the public interest to do so. Did not define whether this service should be classified as "broadcasting" or some other.
- OCTOBER 17, 1957: FCC adopted its first report on the proceedings and declared it would consider applications to conduct trial pay-TV operations over TV stations provided certain conditions were met.
- MARCH 24, 1959: FCC issued third report saying it was ready to consider any pay-TV application by a commercial TV station conforming with requirements, among which were limitation of three-year trial authorizations to markets where there were at least four commercial TV stations (including the pay-TV one), and one trial system allowed per market.
- JUNE 22, 1960: Hartford Phonevision Co. (later RKO General Phonevision Co.), a licensee of WHCT (Channel 18), Hartford, CT, applied for authority to conduct a three-year trial subscription-TV operation. Application granted February 23, 1961. Operations began June 29, 1962, and concluded in January, 1969.
- JULY 3, 1967: FCC's subscription TV committee submitted a fourth report proposing an over-the-air subscription TV service. Rules were designed to integrate subscription TV into the total TV system so good programming would continue to be available over regular TV stations.
- DECEMBER 12, 1968: FCC formally established over-the-air subscription TV as a regular broadcast service.

Statistics for 1981 (supplied by FCC)*

Operating revenues totaled over $3.5 billion, a 60 per cent increase over 1980 revenues. Total operating expenses were $2.4 billion, leaving an operating income of $1.2 billion or a 33.4 per cent operating margin before expenses of depreciation/amortization, interest and taxes.

Net income before taxes was approximately $40 million and the cable industry's total assets had a book value of $7.91 billion (up 78 per cent from 1980).

Pay cable services yielded revenues of $1.17 billion or 32.6% of total revenues. The percentage of total revenues attributable to pay cable operations increased by 6.9 per cent in 1981.

The national average monthly subscriber rate for basic service was $7.94 in 1981, ranging from an average low of $6.50 in Vermont to a high of $20.01 in Alaska. The national average cable television installation fee was $18.32, ranging from $11.45 in Rhode Island to $40.00 in the Virgin Islands. That national average monthly rate for pay cable TV was $9.56, ranging from $6.00 in the Virgin Islands to $12.93 in Alaska.

In 1981, pay cable services were offered by 2,406 financial entities comprising 9,264 communities in nearly every state. California, New York and Pennsylvania were the leading states in terms of pay cable revenues.

Approximately 12,000 communities with over 23 million subscribers (households) were served by cable television in 1981. These 12,000 communities were consolidated into 3,600 financial entities for reporting purposes. A financial entity is defined as one or more cable TV community systems which report to the Commission as one business entity—upon meeting certain ownership and technological requirements.

Recent Statistics

By 1987 there were 20,000 communities being served by cable television with over 41.5 million subscribers. This represents almost 48 per cent of U.S. TV households.

Cable systems totalled 7,800 by 1987 serving 20,000 communities. Texas has the most systems (540) and California the most subscribers (3.9 million).

Industry revenues in 1986 totalled $4.5 million.

The national average monthly subscriber rate for basic service rose to $11 in 1987 from less than $8 in 1981.

Over 1600 systems accept advertising on their local origination channels with rates from $2 to $250 per 30-second spot. Most cable systems derive less than 5 per cent of their gross revenues from advertising.

Cable systems are required by law (as of March, 1972) to offer a minimum 20-channel capacity. This is the average now although many offer more.

Pay cable (Home Box Office, Showtime, etc.) now operates on about 7,000 systems, reaching 32 million subscribers in all 50 states.

Almost 32 per cent of all cable systems have ties with broadcast interests; over 20 per cent with program producers; and some 18 per cent with newspapers. Many systems have many cross-ownership ties.

*The FCC ceased compiling financial data on the cable TV industry after 1981.

Catholic Conference (U.S.), Department of Communication

Suite #1300, 1011 First Ave., New York, NY 10022; (212) 644-1898.

SECRETARY OF COMMUNICATION

Richard H. Hirsch

The Department of Communication of the U.S. Catholic Conference (the public policy agency of the Catholic Bishops of America) addresses the Church's apostolate in and through the print and electronic media. It provides advice and technical assistance on more than 100 radio and 50 network television programs a year.

The Department also publishes a weekly guide to current films and television programs that appear in 100 plus papers of the Catholic Press in the United States. In this activity the Department reviews all current nationally-released 35mm films, and provides information about resources for film utilization and education (16mm films, books, magazines, festivals). The critical reviews are addressed to the moral, as well as the aesthetic, dimensions of motion pictures, and are the result of a consensus based on the reactions of the Department's professional staff and Board of Consultants. All films reviewed are also classified according to the Department's rating system. In addition, this weekly service carries information and evaluative studies on trends and issues pertinent to television, with an emphasis on educational material.

The Department also plays a liaison role for the USCC with the film and broadcasting industries, national media, and religious agencies and organizations. It is a member of OCIC and UNDA, the international Catholic organizations for film and broadcasting, respectively. Consultation and information services are also provided for the Pontifical Commission for Social Communications and the communication offices of national episcopal offices throughout the world.

With staff assistance, the episcopal members of the Communication Committee administer funds raised through the Catholic Communication Campaign, an annual collection. These funds are used to support a variety of media programs, projects, and studies in this country and the Third World.

British Year in Review

JUDGED by record advertising revenues, 1987 was proving another boom year for British commercial television. For instance, revenue for July at £98.5 million was 17 per cent up on the previous year. But both ITV (Independent Television companies) and the BBC (British Broadcasting Corporation)—funded by an annual tax on owners of TV sets—were beginning to show signs of struggling to hold their audiences.

As a consequence, there has been much debate on the need to improve the quality and variety of programming. It is a trend that has led to increased access for independent producers to the programming schedules of both networks. The BBC plans 12 per cent independent production within three years while the government wants a 25 per cent quota written into the new Broadcasting Bill next year. The ITV made the following statement:

"The ITV companies wish to extend the work of independent producers to enhance their programme service. This independent production will be made on videotape or film, in studios or on location. It is intended that films suitable for both television and cinema showing will form part of the overall total of independent production."

"Between now and the end of 1989, a build up to 175 to 225 hours of new networked material and 200 to 400 hours of new regionally shown material, per calendar year, will be commissioned."

The future organization of broadcasting in the UK continued to be a major subject for debate. It included satellite broadcasting and terrestrial television:

There was an offer of a 15 year contract for 3 new Direct Broadcasting by Satellite (DBS) channels. The contract, with the BSB Consortium, was signed and the first UK DBS Service due to start broadcasting by Christmas 1989, a year earlier than previously expected;

A new Broadcasting Act was passed early in 1987, enabling the IBA to offer to extended existing ITV contracts to 1992.

During the previous year, Thames Television, TV-am and Yorkshire Television were successfully floated on the Stock Exchange or Unlisted Securities Market. All of these companies now have a single class of voting shares. The nonvoting shares of Anglia, Border, Central Scottish, TVS and Ulster were also enfranchised during the year. In 1986 the IBA gave its agreement for contractors to take part in the Super Channel project, providing a satellite-to-cable service, outside the IBA's jurisdiction, aimed at cable services in Western Europe. It includes a European news service provided by ITN. The IBA also gave its approval for Thames Television, which had decided not to participate in Super Channel, to acquire a holding in the Luxembourg-based SES company which plans to launch the multi-channel medium powered Astra satellite.

On the non-commercial front, the BBC continues to maintain its high standard of programmes. As an example, the BBC's "Eastenders" series at times draws upwards of 23 million viewers compared to ITV's "Coronation Street" audience of 19 million. At the same time, the vast majority of overseas material on British television originates in the USA. ITV's and Channel 4's quota of overseas material is 14 per cent of total programme output. This comprises theatrical motion pictures, TV films and series. Estimates of the prices paid by local contractors and the BBC for American TV shows are around $13,000 for half-hour episodes to between $50,000 and $3 million for a feature film.

A not uncommon problem with some films was the incidence of bad language. It is accepted by the IBA and by the companies that bad language is probably the one element in films which cause the most offense to viewers although it may be considered unexceptionable in the cinema, even in films certificated as suitable for young people. It has often been necessary therefore to edit out some of the stronger language in films, even those scheduled to be shown late in the evening.

While the CEA (Cinematograph Exhibitors Association) maintains its three year TV holdback and a one year cable TV holdback, it has conceded that there will be an automatic exclusion (in addition to that for short and foreign films) which will apply to any cinema film made for an audited production cost not exceeding £1.25 million.

It is a decision prompted by the increasing involvement of the BBC and ITV Programme Contractors to produce material, sometimes in co-operation with the independent production sector, which is indistinguishable from feature films. More and more production companies make both films and television programmes.

Also, it is claimed, this CEA holdback or "window" before a cinema film is seen on television or video, is in the interests of all concerned. This theory is based on the publicity value, for all media, of a high profile cinema release before any other distribution but also to the maximization of revenue from each market in turn. This is essential for the preservation of a healthy production sector which the television and video industries need as much as the cinema.

The growth of home videos continues apace with an estimated 55 per cent of the nation's householders owning or renting a VCR. In fact, nowhere in Europe is there a software market as large or a growth so spectacular as Britain.

Despite this opposition, over 90 per cent of the UK population each week watch something shown on the ITV channel or Channel 4 spending at least half their viewing time with one or other of these services. Many individual programmes regularly attract audience upwards of ten million while audiences of over 15 million are not uncommon.

Couple all this with the appeal of the BBC programmes and it all makes for a substantial market, for broadcasters, producers, distributors and advertisers.

INDEPENDENT BROADCASTING AUTHORITY

70 Brompton Road, London, SW3 1EY. Tel: 01-584 7011.

The Authority was created by Parliament in 1954 as the Independent Television Authority, to provide a comprehensive television service additional to that of the BBC. Under the terms of the Sound Broadcasting Act, 1972, the Authority was renamed the Independent Broadcasting Authority and its functions were extended to cover the provision of Independent Local Radio.

The Broadcasting Act 1980 provided for the setting up of the Channel Four Television Company as a subsidiary of the IBA; it started broadcasting in England, Scotland and Northern Ireland on November 2, 1982. A separate Welsh Fourth Channel Authority was also established by this Act; broadcasting on November 1, 1982. The Broadcasting Act 1981 has consolidated a number of Acts relating to the IBA.

The Authority selects and appoints the ITV & ILR programme companies; supervises the programmes provided by the contractors—and the Channel Four Television Company—and their scheduling; controls advertising, and builds, owns and operates transmitting stations. Fifteen ITV programme companies provide programmes in 14 regions of the United Kingdom (two companies operate in London). As a part of its review of the ITV system, the Authority, in December 1980, offered a contract to broadcast a new national breakfast-time television service, which started in February 1983, to TV-AM. In addition, changes were made to some ITV companies.

By July 1985, 44 Independent Local Radio contractors were providing a programme service in areas of the United Kingdom (two companies operating in London).

Both ITV and ILR are financed mainly by the sale of advertising time.

The Members of the Authority are appointed by the Home Secretary and consist of a Chairman and Deputy Chairman and ten other members, of whom three make the interests of Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland, respectively, their special care.

ARGENTINA

Television had its debut in this country in 1951 with only one channel (7) in Buenos Aires. Since then it has been joined by Channels 9, 11 and 13 (in 1960-61), all of which are state-owned and managed except for channel 9. There are now 37 channels in the provinces, which have 191 repeating stations.

Licensed to Alejandro Romay in 1984 the private Channel 9 consistently enjoys higher ratings than the other three outlets in Buenos Aires. Of the 37 provincial stations 30 are privately owned. The PAL-M color system has been used since 1980.

Cable outlets now total 148, three of which operate in the northern and western suburbs of Buenos Aires within the metropolitan area.

AUSTRALIA

Industry make-up is a mixture of government and private enterprises. Australia has three commercial networks: The Seven Network (owned by the Fairfax Group); The Nine Network (Consolidated Press Holdings); and Network 10 (News Ltd. and others). Government-owned networks are Australian Broadcasting Corp., and Special Broadcasting Service. The latter two feature "cultural" programming with SBS often showing foreign-language films. Total number of commercial stations is 50; ABC has 274 stations including regional transmitters and translators; SBS covers nine territories. The three commercial networks are allowed to own only two stations apiece, no matter whether the stations are in Melbourne and Sydney or smaller places. Stations in smaller cities broadcast programs as they please, rather than all at the same time as the networks do in the United States.

Viewing Patterns: Total TV households: 4,896,000; families viewing (aggregate): 4,792,000; families viewing (percentage): 97.9%. Average viewing time per week of all age groups is 18 hours, 26 minutes.

A further law stipulates that all foreign films shown on TV be dubbed, and that no station may transmit more than 7 1/2 hours of foreign films for each 72 hours of weekly transmission time. Stations which transmit less than 12 hours per day have a corresponding lower quota. Seven sound studios, four in Rio de Janeiro and three in São Paulo take care of the dubbing of all American and some Italian. Argentine and Mexican films that come into the country.

CHINA (Communist)

Peking TV, opened in 1969, consists of three networks, one purely local and the other two broadcasting by micro-wave to the rest of the country. Color broadcasts began in 1973. Shanghai, China's largest city, has two channels on the air for about 9 hours daily with some 50% of the programs listed as entertainment, 20% movies, news or documentaries, and 20% sports or children's programs, in addition to educational and foreign language-instruction programs. Chinese officials blame the Cultural Revolution for the slow growth of TV and say that after the Gang of Four was ousted in the following decade TV stations were opened in all 29 of China's provinces and private set ownership rose to 52 million tuned to 70 stations and 130 relays. With some 7 million sets being added annually, China is producing 800 TV dramas a year. Twenty percent of all households now have TV sets and by 1990 this number will be doubled.

The biggest impact on Chinese audiences was the Walt Disney Company release of a 2-year cycle of films to be shown weekly under an agreement to share revenues from commercials.

In the past 5 years China has sold 10,000 hours of TV programs to 150 countries. China will get the free $35 million Beijing TV and the new free $40 million in return for 40 and 35 minutes daily free advertising time for the Faber-Castle organization daily.

CCTV began use of International Telecommunications Satellite Organization facilities to reach parts of China where reception is poor to non-existent but only until they set up their own satellite service for which they are setting up 50 ground stations. Some 62% of the country is covered already as far as reception is concerned.

Some 93.3% of city homes have TV sets but the figure is only 11.5% for rural homes, due to poor reception. CCTV broadcasts 30 hours weekly, programming news, instruction, cartoons, variety and drama. Audience estimated at 800 million.

China now manufactures some 7.1 million sets annually and it is estimated that the number of sets will soon reach 67 million, including sets open to the public audience. Total number of nation-wide stations (including micro-wave relay stations) is over 40. Black-and-white sets sell for the equivalent of $370 and color sets for about $1,335 and there is a waiting list for the former. Domestic and imported films are broadcast from time to time, including American feature films occasionally.

Central Broadcasting Administration, Hsin Men, Peking, now offers nation-wide TV commercials at rates ranging from about $625 for a 15-second spot to a full minute for $1,800.

CHINA (Taiwan)

Television began in 1962 by the Educational Television Station which later became the private China Television Service in 1971. There are now three networks: Taiwan Television Enterprise (1962), China Television Company (1969) and China Television Service. All three act as private corporations deriving revenues from commercials. These three stations have 24 transmitters with total broadcasts of about 265 hours weekly for some 5.3 million set owners who pay about $1.50 annually for a license. About 80% of the programs are domestic, with most of the imports from the U.S.A. Over one-third of the sets are color. Taiwan has two communication satellite stations. A new rule states that commercials must not exceed 15% total broadcast time. Movie theatre owners complain that the three imported feature films shown weekly on television hurt their box office.

All three networks broadcast in color. TTV and CTV 6 broadcast 25 minutes weekdays and 12 hours weekends and holidays while CTS broadcasts 10.15 hours weekdays, 15 hours on Saturday and 17 hours Sunday or holidays. News takes an average of 21%, public service over 10%, culture and education 20%, entertainment 48%. TTV has 10 transmitters, CTV 6, and CTS 8, plus an equal number of relay stations. Sets number 5,609,000. Of the 20.4 billion yuan spent for advertising 29.07% went to television.

New rules call for no commercials during programs of less than 30 minutes and all commercials to secure government approval. In the future, 80% of all programs must originate in Taiwan with entertainment programs taking up no more than 55% of broadcast time and 45% or more devoted to educational, cultural or news types.

With relay stations it is estimated that 100% of the island's population of 18 million receives TV reception. About 12% of programs are imports, mostly from America, and these are broadcast in the original English with Chinese captions, which has served to develop knowledge of the English language among the populace.

TV showings of full-length Chinese-language, feature films imported from Hong Kong were stopped following retaliatory action by local cinema interests but the government may step in later and permit such showings, except on Sundays and holidays when the theatres reap their largest harvest. Inquiries should be addressed: Ministry of Communications, Taipei, Taiwan, Republic of China, or to: China Radio/TV Assoc. 6-144 Hsin Shen (South) Rd., Section 1, Taipei, Taiwan, Republic of China.

CONGO

Radio-TV de Congo, B.P. 2241, Brazzaville. One station, 6,000 sets.

EGYPT

Television in Egypt is attached to the Ministry of Information headed by Safwat Al Sherief. President of Egyptian TV is Mrs. Samia Sadek.

The Central station in Cairo transmits about 210 hours a week through three channels. The three channels cover most of Egypt including Aswan, Luxor, the New Valley, Sinai, and Saudi Arabia.

Egyptian TV follows the European technical transmission with an image of 825 scansions.

The TV receivers in use number over 20 million. The Arabic Department shoots a movie news review weekly and it is sent to 35 stations all over the world with which Arab TV-Ahmed Sami exchange cultural and documentary materials.

ETHIOPIA

Ethiopia Television, Post Office Box 544, Addis Ababa. Two stations: 48,000 sets.

FINLAND

Finland has a two-channel television system that differs considerably from the other countries. There is at present in Finland one radio and television operation licence which has been granted to the Finnish Broadcasting Company, Oy Yleisradio Ab. The existence of MTV, Oy Mainio-TV-Reklam Ab, which is a private commercial TV company, is acknowledged in the same licence.

The basis for official relations between the companies were laid down in more detail in the basic agreement concluded in 1976. Television broadcasting in Finland is under parliamentary control. The Administrative Council of the Finnish Broadcasting Company appointed by Parliament is the highest organ exercising program policy. It has two functions. The Administrative Council exercises program policy control over both companies. In addition, as its name implies, it is the highest administrative organ in the Finnish Broadcasting Company.

MTV has its own corresponding administrative council.

As a bilingual country Finland also has programmes in Swedish on both tv-channels.

Some 19 hours per week—out of the total of 75—are sold by Oy Yleisradio Ab to MTV. At the end of 1981 a one-year price agreement was signed, according to which MTV's levy to the Finnish Broadcasting Company is at least 191.2 million marks in 1982. MTV produces nearly 43% of its programmes.

Numbers of color sets is today about 0.9 million (57% of all sets).

FRANCE

Networks: France has three television networks, all state-operated, drawing funds from an annual tax on TV set owners and advertising. (Revenues from spot ads are limited to about 25% of the budget.)

The networks are TF-1, which was created first and led the field in audience numbers until the second channel, Antenne-2, overtook it in 1983. The third regional network is FR-3.

Networks are under the jurisdiction of the High Authority (HA) composed of nine members which has named their presents since 1982, before which the president of the republic made such selections.

Canal Plus has a concession to run for 12 years initially. Its largest investor (40%) is the government-controlled conglomerate Havas. Most of the rest of the shares are held by state companies.

Production Companies: Société Française de Production is the largest production facility in Europe. It is state-owned and has 2,500 employees. It receives no funds from the TV set fee, deriving 80% of its revenues from work for the state networks.

GHANA

Ghana Broadcasting Corporation, Broadcast House, Post Office Broad Box 1633, Accra. Five stations, 145,000 sets.

GREECE

TV is nationwide and the most popular entertainment in the Greek public. It harms all other kinds of recreation, particularly film theaters.

There are two TV Channels in Athens operated by the Greek Radiophonia Tileorassi ERT 1 and ERT 2. Both channels operate in color. TV, like sound broadcasting, is controlled by the state and responsibility for both services is invested in both the above state units.

ERT 1 has had a TV relay station in Thessaloniki telecasting the news from Northern Greece and another one in Patras covering the news bulletin from Southern Greece. Both Channels ERT 1 and ERT 2 have many relay towers all over the country.

By a new law recently passed by the Greek Parliament both Channels ERT 1 and ERT 2 will merge into one unit under the State's control. It will serve as an enterprise of public benefit open to all trends of the media.

Privatization of radio broadcasting—The year 1987 marks the passage of Greek Radio Broadcasting from the era of State monopoly to that of private enterprise. By the new Radio and TV Law it is permitted now to municipalities and other organizations to establish and operate private radio stations. Their programs may include local events, music art and live topics but not political news. For this purpose a Radio-Television Council will be established to control said private stations. The first private radio station, which started operating in 1987, is Radio-Athens owned by the Municipality of Athens. It is announced that the Municipalities of Thessaloniki and Piraeus and possibly of Patras will follow.

Both Channels ERT 1 and ERT 2 put on the air eight to ten hours of programs on weekdays and ten on Sundays and holidays, which are mostly video-taped. About 60% of this programming is covered by news, educational subjects, discussion panels, local movies and serials and the rest is by foreign films and series.

ERT 1 is a full member of E. B. U. and transmits all important international events via satellite.

It is estimated that more than one million B/W sets were sold in this country and the number of color ones is equally high.

The ERT 1 office and Studio is located at 436 Messogouin Str. Athens and its town office address is 16 Mourouzi Str. Athens.

The ERT 2 Channel's headquarters are 136 Messogouin and Katakaki Str. Athens.

TV Commercials: A great number of spots are sold daily by both channels to several advertising agencies. The price per minute varies according to the popularity of the program.

Agencies: There are several agencies acting on behalf of various foreign TV Companies: Hellas Television International, 96 Academias Str. Local TV production: Both Channels ERT 1 and ERT 2 produce several telepictures and series for local use and exportation to foreign TV Stations. ERT 1 is in addition subsidizing some Greek pictures which are shot as serials also. According to the provisions of the new law, an affiliated company of ERT 1 will be established to undertake local TV production.

are no longer unusual, and this all obviously means strong competition for motion picture houses with cinema business suffering. Young people, however, still like to go out on weekends rather than stay at home to watch TV with their parents.

Holland is very widely cabled, and cable systems reach some 70% of the population. This means in many instances a good reception of the 2 Dutch channels, 3 German, 2 Belgian, 2 English, 1-2 French stations, plus the commercial stations, Sky Channel and Super Channel. An abundant choice, one might say, and owners of programmable VCR's especially do not complain.

On top of this, the Pay TV station Filmet started operations in March 1985 and had some 60,000 subscribers in Holland at the end of 1986. Filmet is operated by Esselte Pay TV, a joint venture of United International Pictures and producer Rob Houwer. Their programs are distributed via the ECS-one Satellite and a subscription costs from Dfl. 22.75 to Dfl. 34.50 per month, depending on the number of features chosen (plus Dfl. 10. per month for the decoder).

The Nederlandse Omroep Stichting (NOS) in Hilversum is the central TV and radio organization and there are 8 main subdivision stations: a Roman Catholic one: KRO, 2 political (left) ones: VARA and VPRO, 2 Protestant: NCRV and EO and 3 neutrals: AVRO, TROS and VERONICA. AVRO, TROS and Veronica have the largest number of members.

The 8 major companies are completely independent in their activities and buy a lot of product on the international market. There are some minor TV organizations like TELEAC, which broadcasts educational programs such as mathematical, languages and computer courses.

The yearly contribution is Dfl. 158 and this fee is for TV and radio combined. Commercial stations are still not allowed in Holland. There are commercials shown on both channels by STER, but programs are never interrupted by these commercials. Sky and Super Channels are only allowed on Dutch cable without Dutch subtitled programs and publicity aimed at Dutch audiences is prohibited.

Radio and TV fall under the Ministry of Welfare, Social Health and Culture (WVC) which is particularly severe on the subject of "hidden" advertising. It can in such cases give high fines to the radio station in question.

As an average, feature films are shown 2-3 nights per week and also regularly in the afternoons. There is a window of 40 months but it is possible to obtain exceptions to this rule. It is the Dutch Cinema Organization (NBB) which decides on this.

Many American and English films are shown as well as TV series. Popular series in 1986 were: "Hill Street Blues," "St. Elsewhere," "Knight Rider," "Miami Vice," "The Cosby Show," "The A-Team," "The Carsons" and "Heat in the Night." The quality of Dutch programs is good, and there are also quite good (political) talkshows.

Prices of colour TV sets start at Dfl. 750. and run up to Dfl. 1750. depending on the size of screens and things like remote control and Teletext. Most people pay cash for their sets.

Philips is the most important manufacturer in Holland, but the import of Japanese and German sets is also significant.

Magyar Televizio, 1810 Budapest serves over 3 million sets nationwide using 625-line Secam color, currently with two nationwide programs plus local station specials.

INDIA

At present, there are 14 full fledged TV stations which have independent production facilities. These are located at Delhi, Bombay, Calcutta, Madras, Jullundur, Srinagar, Lucknow, Cuttack, Hyderabad, UDK Delhi, Bangalore, Ahmedabad, Trivandrum and Gauhati. To augment program production, 10 more centers have been planned.

Apart from these, there are seven relay stations which were set up for the SITE (Satellite Instructional Television Experiment) program which ran for one year, from August 1975. They are in Jaipur, Hyderabad, Gulbarga, Muzaffarpur, Sambalpur, Raipur and Pij, near Ahmedabad. At present, programs for Hyderabad and Gulbarga in Telugu and Kannada are recorded at Hyderabad. Cuttack records programs in Oriya and feeds Sambalpur. Jaipur, Muzaffarpur and Raipur are supplied with pre-recorded tapes in Hindi by Delhi. At Pij recording is done at the SAC (Space Application Centre) studios and telecast for one hour daily. Altogether, these terrestrial stations cover 40% of the viewers formerly covered by the SITE program.

The launching of the Indian National Satellite System (INSAT-1B) in 1984 has completely changed the electronic media scene, opening up new possibilities in mass communication. Already Doordarshan puts its pro-

GUAM (U.S. Possession)

Guam Television operates one station with two channels for 17 hours daily, servicing an estimated 153,000 sets in the hands of Americans and natives. Owner is Pacific Broadcasting Corp., Agana. Some color is broadcast. The Department of Education, Agana, operates Channel 12, some 14 hours daily.

GUINEA

Radio-Diffusion Guinienne, B.P. 391, Conraky, 7.600 sets.

HOLLAND

The number of TV sets as of December 31, 1986 was some 4,641,000 which, with a population of 14,615,000, means that the market is practically saturated and that every Dutch family has a set. Two sets per family grams over 132 low power and 47 high power transmitters covering 70% of the population. The new expansion program covers 480 million people (260 million rural and 220 million urban). Probably nowhere else in the world has a government undertaken TV expansion on such a vast scale in so short a time.

New installations will cover all towns with a population of 100,000 or above. INSAT-IB has facilitated the national linkage with HPTs and LPTs relaying national programs from the Centre (Delhi), and serves the states with educational and area specific programs.

There are an well over 8,000,000 TV sets in the country, with a nightly audience of nearly 80,000,000, in comparison to 13,000,000 viewers that go to the cinema daily. About half the TV sets are concentrated in metro towns but with LPTs now beaming to cover over half the country's population, the growth rate of TV sets is expected to be a staggering three million annually in the next two years. As part of its plan to extend TV coverage to remote parts of the country, the Government will shortly begin the installation of very low power transmitters (VLPT) with a range of about 20 km. These are ideal for relaying programs to hilly areas, remote locations and isolated island that are sparsely populated.

Recently Doordarshan started a weekly telecast of national and international film classics for its late night viewers. In addition it also purchases unreleased "art" films which may otherwise remain in the cans. This has given a fillip to low budget "art" filmmakers.

INDONESIA

The government-owned RRI-TV, on the air since 1962, banned commercials in 1981, and in 1984 banned the showing of foreign-made TV series from 1985 on the grounds that the people preferred domestic-made fare. Up to the time of the ban a single American-made TV show daily had averaged an estimated 24 million viewers, a fact that tends to contradict the governmental view.

At present stations are operated on 2 channels in Jakarta, Bandung, Jogakarta, Semarang and Tjiribon, with some 203 relays. Broadcasting hours average about 40 hours weekly with some programs in color to sets estimated to number over 2 million. Programs are 50% entertainment, 25% educational, 25% public service, live 60% of the time, and 40% video-taped. With the departure of imported shows, the government will increase educational shows based on national culture. Indonesia is building 50 relays under its fourth 5-year plan since its 203 relays now reach only 27% of its population of 114 million. Inquiries to TV Republic Indonesia (TVRI), Yayasan Televisi, Senayan Jakarta. 10 stations; 4,800,000 sets.

IRAN

IRELAND

Telefís Eireann is the official name of the television service in Ireland. Television, like sound broadcasting, is run as an independent State Statutory body and responsibility for both services is vested in Radio Eireann, the Broadcasting Authority. This Authority, appointed by the Government, consists of nine members serving on a part-time basis under a chairman selected by the Government. The present chairman is T. Andrews.

The Minister for Posts and Telegraphs, who is responsible for the autonomously operated Authority, reserves to himself the duties of fixing and collecting license fees from domestic viewers, licenses transmitting stations, and has a veto on the appointment and conditions of the Authority's top executive. The Director-General, Kevin McCourt, is employed full-time.

The Television service began in 1962. It has five main high power transmitters and thirteen satellite "transposers," serving areas outside the range of the main transmitters. Its national coverage is estimated at 98 per cent of the population. The national technical standard is a 625 line one, but programs are also broadcast on a 405 line in the Eastern and North-western parts of the country.

The Authority, which has the responsibility of providing programs of suitable cultural and national content, transmits 44 hours per week, with occasional additional programs. In addition, educational programs for schools, two and a half hours per week, are broadcast for 33 weeks of the year on behalf of the Department of Education.

Of the 44 hours of weekly programs, 22 are of home origin. The balance are imported mainly from Great Britain and America.

There are about 350,000 receiving sets in operation, of which about 200,000 are able to receive programs from Great Britain's BBC-TV and Independent TV stations as well as Radio Telefís Eireann.

ISRAEL

Israel television broadcasts daily in Arabic and Hebrew. Arabic programs start at 6:00 p.m. and continue to 8:00 p.m. Programs include documentaries, round-ups, news, films, variety shows, discussions, games, etc. These programs include, as well, weekly interviews with individuals of the Arab Israeli population who can convey regards to their relatives in neighboring countries, such as Egypt, Syria, Lebanon, Jordan, through this medium.

At 8:00 the Hebrew programs begin, offering the same variety of broadcast as the Arabic programs. Hebrew broadcasts continue up to 11:30 or midnight. The majority of Hebrew programs are subtitled in Arabic, and foreign language broadcasts, including films, are subtitled in both Hebrew and Arabic. Similarly, most of the Arabic programs have Hebrew subtitles.

Besides the above mentioned programs, television broadcasts every morning (except Saturday) educational programs beginning at 8:00 and continuing to 4:00. This is followed by children's programs which continue to 6:30 and include films, puzzles, games, cartoons, etc.

ITALY

From its inception the Italian television industry was dominated by a public network agency—RAI—but toward the end of the 1970's its dominance was finally challenged by private broadcasting. Prime networks are Canale-5, Italia-1 and Rete 4. The first two are part of the Silvio Berlusconi conglomerate while the third is owned by the Mondadori publishing group.

Overseeing RAI is a parliamentary commission which elects 10 of its 16 directors. The others are elected by IRI (Institute for Reconstruction of Industry) which owns 99.55% of RAI, the rest being held by a publishing association. RAI gets its operating authority from the Ministry of Post and Telecommunications; its finances are reviewed by the Ministry of Finance. RAI is funded by license fees and advertising. (Ads are limited to 5% of airtime.)

RAI operates three TV networks: RAI-1, its main and most successful outlet; RAI-2, an alternate network; and RAI-3, whose viewers are few although it is the only one which does not carry advertising.

RAI has transmitters all over Italy and uses 21 regional offices. It has five production centers and provides the majority of its own programming, including that for a worldwide news service it operates.

Private TV companies are not subject to the same rule as RAI. For instance they carry up to 14-18% advertising in airtime.

Trends: TV in Italy has made tremendous advances in acquiring programming the last several years. It is reported public and private broadcasters have invested close to $500,000,000 in foreign films and TV programs to attract TV viewers.

IVORY COAST

JAPAN

Non-commercial TV broadcasting began in Tokyo Feb. 1, 1953, by the quasi-governmental Nippon Hoso Kyokai (NHK) followed seven months later by the first commercial TV broadcast of Nippon Television Network (NTV). Broadcast time for NHK, which began with only 866 set-owners paying a fee of Yen 200 monthly, was 4 hours a day compared to 6 hours by NTV, which was affiliated with the Yomiuri newspapers. By 1960 NHK possessed 60 stations and there were 47 commercial stations broadcasting, while the number of sets had increased to about 7 million, topping the 10 million mark two years later.

Although commercial networks as they are established in the U.S. are legally forbidden, there came a nationwide grouping of commercial stations with the Tokyo stations acting as pivotal points and providing tieups and programs. Thus in 1959, 16 commercial stations formed Japan News Network which soon spread to other programming areas, with JOKR in Tokyo, followed by three other such groupings centering on NTV, Nippon Educational Television (renamed Asahi National Broadcasting in 1977), and the Fuji TV key stations in Tokyo. It was then apparent that several newspapers with national sales systems, through capital tieups, were virtually in control of the national commercial networks.

Educational broadcasts were begun by NHK in 1959, followed three weeks later by Nippon Educational Television, which later dropped the "educational" pretense and became a regular broadcaster, as TV Tokyo (JOTX) did later, when it was found impossible to operate a private educational TV station in Japan for financial reasons.

The Tokyo Metropolitan area, which comprises almost 30% of Japan's population of 122.4 million, is served by Channel 1 NHK general network station, Channel 3 NHK educational network station, Channels 4, 6, 8 and 10 operated by NTV, TBS, Fuji, TV Asahi commercial network stations, respectively, and semi-independent TV Tokyo (JOTX) on channel 12 and TVK (UHF) 42 in Yokohama.

NHK's general programming lists 9 regional stations throughout the nation, 39 local stations and numerous relay stations in the VHF range to bring general programming to 3,492 outlets (2,851 UHF outlets). NHK educational facilities comprise 9 regional stations, 39 local stations, 2,207 relay stations for a total of 3,491 outlets of which 2,778 are UHF, including use of mini-satellite relays. It must be emphasized that in most cases (but not all) the general and educational services make use of the same facilities.

There are 42 companies operating both radio and TV stations and 63 operating only TV stations. In the VHF sector some 48 companies operate 486 stations; in UHF 55 companies operate 5,841 stations, plus 9 SHF stations.

These four "networks" operate in the 8 key areas of Japan—Tokyo, Osaka, Nagoya, Fukuoka, Sapporo, Hiroshima, Sendai, and Hokkaido—which are 4 commercial-station areas (plus NHK). Other stations located in less populous areas use a cross network arrangement by which programs from plural key stations are received. There is Asahi National Broadcasting with 18 stations, Fuji Telecasting with 27, Tokyo Broadcasting System with 25, and Nippon Television with 29 stations. In addition several independent stations have ties and non-commercial NHK covers 30 million of Japan's 37 million households.

While NHK collects monthly fees from 31,651,579 registered sets, the Home Ministry estimates the total number is 62,495,000 (including households with more than one), of which 9,423,000 are black and white and 53,072,000 are color. Some 98.5% of registered households possess one or more color sets for which they are assessed a flat $6.50 a month versus $4.25 for black-and-white sets. Thus, it is no surprise that NHK is by far the wealthiest broadcasting corporation in the world with 16,000 employees, which it has promised to reduce to 15,000, and a 23-story headquarters in Tokyo.

With 35.3% of the national advertising budget, TV is the leading advertising medium with designated prime time from 7:00 to 11:00 p.m. and ad spot buying rates determined on the gross rating point though, with a seller's market, card rates are often disregarded. Top rate for a 60-second network spot is $48,000 and a 54-minute program for a month about $1.4 million; generally contracts are for 6 months but recently 3-month contracts became available, there being waiting lists for sponsors. Sporting events, especially baseball, in non-prime time bring top prices due to good results. Though rules call for not more than 18% of broadcast time be devoted to commercials, this rule is only loosely followed. In addition some stations persist in intensifying audio volume for favored commercials.

Although an agreement was once reached to restrict broadcasting hours to 16.5 a day to conserve energy, many commercial stations are broadcasting past the midnight deadline until the early morning hours and even NHK now broadcasts past the deadline. While TV is undoubtedly the most influential medium for both young and old, various polls disagree when attempts are made to determine the average daily time a Japanese watches the tube. NHK says the average Japanese spends 23 hours 19 minutes a week watching TV. Nielsen gives the Tokyo viewing time as 8 hours 12 minutes daily, taking into consideration the viewing by each household member. Favorite shows have veered from soap operas to various kinds of musical shows, especially quiz shows. Men prefer sports shows, including baseball, sumo wrestling, golf, and, recently, American-style football, though old-type samurai dramas are still popular with both sexes. The younger audience spends much time watching cartoons before graduating to teen-age singing shows, contests or quizzes. These imports, especially those from the U.S. tend to be grade B films or films made in America especially for TV. These are almost always dubbed into Japanese but a few are available in the original language on a different wavelength for the benefit of TV sets equipped with multiplex receivers.

Although a regular number of imported films are shown on prime time, about the only American TV series presently making it are "Miami Vice" and "Sledge Hammer," both of which are in the original English available with a multiplex attached to the set. Others regularly shown include "60 Minutes" (renamed "This Is Your World"), "The Cosby Show," "Soap," "Air Wolf," "Cagney & Lacey," "Little House on the Prairie," "Knight Rider," "Remington Steele," "Family Ties," "The A-Team," "Ben Casey," and a few others.

Cable TV is still in its infancy, serving only hotels, high class apartment houses and some people with poor TV reception. The Motion Picture Producers Association contracted with CATV operators obligating them to pay $143 per showing of feature films, later to increase as CATV expands. Satellite dish reception began in 1987 when NHK, after previous satellite failure, finally opened a 24-hour service without setting fees since there are so few dishes in operation. This is because the price is now about $1,300 for a parabola antenna and BS tuner. Japan Satellite Broadcasting, a private firm, says it will offer DBS service in 1990 when it puts its own satellite in orbit.

As for national advertising expenditures, Japanese TV took 35.3% of the total compared to 28.8% by newspapers. The TV share came to some $7.18 billion, up 2.6% over last year. Food and beverage advertisers comprised 27% of the total followed by autos, 15.4%, cosmetics, 10.3%, pharmaceuticals, 8.5%, service-entertainment, 7.4%, and department stores, 7%.

According to the Federation of Film Industries, of the 1,005 imported feature films shown on TV last year (compared to 433 domestic films) 724 were American, 69 Italian, 55 British, 23 French, 18 Chinese (Hong Kong), 10 Canadian, 9 Australian, and 5 Chinese (mainland).

A survey indicated imported feature films shown on TV cost more than domestic movies but are shown more often so tend to dominate the medium, so it must be assumed their frequency on TV reflects a response to demand, even taking into consideration the reluctance of Japanese movie studios to contribute to the prosperity of what they consider a dangerous competitor to their own industry.

As with the old TV programs purchased from abroad, Japanese buyers insist on rock bottom prices, the result being a formidable collection of full length feature films which, due to their age and caliber, are mostly trash. With few exceptions, they can only be characterized as mixed second- and third-rate. Despite that films are repeated year after year. Once dubbed into Japanese, some Japanese say, it does not make much difference if the film is good or not. Sellers abroad are advised when contracting to provide a special clause on re-runs without compensation.

NHK general stations average 19 hours daily, 37.3% devoted to news and commentaries, 21% to entertainment, 27% to culture, and 14% to education. Commercial stations average 20.3 hours with entertainment 40.6%, cultural 23.9%, news 16.4%, education 12.1%, sports 5.6% and announcements 6%. Of this broadcasting average over 17 hours consisted of sponsored programs and 3 hr. of sustaining programs. Although broadcasters claimed that advertising commercials (including a daily average of 241 spot announcements) took only 6% of total broadcasting time of each station on the average, anyone with a stop watch knows that this is not true. Over 60% of Japanese polled indicated an opinion that there were far too many commercials, while 50% objected to the ads shown in conjunction with kiddies' programs and thought such programs should carry no ads.

NHK claims the average viewer watches TV on an average of 171 minutes daily, of which 49 minutes are devoted to NHK programs and with 122 minutes devoted to commercial stations, a slight decrease from the year before but these figures are ridiculed by commercial broadcasters.

Sponsors of a 30-minute prime time show pay about $10,000 on a Tokyo station with other spots going for $4,500 per sponsor.

Production cost for a one-hour program is only $90,000, about one-fifth of the cost in the U.S. Payments for authoring a 30-minute script is $500 at NHK and as low as $200 at commercial stations. However, writers with a national reputation get much more.

A study of 107 commercial TV stations reveals that although the UHF outlets located in the periphery of the large cities are doing only moderately well as regards operating profits, the older-established VHF stations, particularly those affiliated with networks and in Tokyo or Osaka, enjoyed a good year.

Japan exports very few TV programs of its own but it is the world's largest exporter of TV sets and in addition sells TV equipment, complete broadcasting studios and nationwide setups abroad.

While a critic would rate Japanese TV in general as somewhat below the not very high American standard, and take umbrage at the great percentage of time taken by commercials on all stations except those of NHK, the average Japanese is satisfied with it. Lately, the government tried steps to prevent further intensification by stations of audio volume for commercials and limited them to 18% of total program time.

Quiz games have the highest average ratings followed by prime time cinema feature films. Then comes sports, samurai or home dramas, action dramas, kiddie and cartoon shows, musical, news, imported TV shows, and finally educational broadcasts.

The baseball craze is such that even high school championship games rate prime time coverage and get a huge audience.

There are no national cable TV systems but 38,221 cable TV stations feed to 4.3 million households where TV reception is poor or non-existent. In the cities, cable TV is piped to hotels (usually in English) and to some high-class apartment houses, and to a few private subscribers. In the suburbs some multi-storied housing complexes have their own cable TV. Very few dishes used for satellite reception now exist though the first private satellite broadcasting company promises it will be in full operation by 1990. Since 1985 NHK and private telecasters have had contracts to use Intelsat and a European satellite on a 24-hour basis but ordinarily they take only a few extra bits daily for inclusion on news broadcasts since they are not too interested in outside world news unless it affects Japan. In fact, this is also true as regards imported TV shows; they prefer their own, and imports are shown only on non-prime time and the late night hours. As for cinema features, usually each station shows one weekly on prime time. Most of the rest are late shows or late-late shows.

Addresses of the commercial networks can be found in the World TV Broadcasters list in this volume and additional information can be obtained from National Association of Commercial Broadcasters in Japan, Bungei Shinjusha Building, 3 Kioi-cho, Chiyoda-ku, Tokyo, All Japan TV Production Companies Assoc., Akasaka White House, 4-1-6 Akasaka, Minato-ku, Tokyo 107, or from Advertising Association of Broadcasters in Japan, 8-10 Nishi Ginza, Tokyo. PAKISTAN

Television came to Pakistan in November 1964, when the first station at Lahore went on the air. There were hardly 500 sets then. In May 1967, Pakistan Television Corporation Ltd., a public limited company was formed with an authorized capital of Rs. 5 crores and a paid-up capital of Rs. 3.19 crores. All shares of the corporation are held by the government of Pakistan. It now runs all five TV centers in the country. These stations are in Karachi, Lahore, Islamabad, Peshawar and Quetta and transmit five to eight hours of programmes, including canned foreign films.

Out of 97.13 million, 77.83 million or 82% of the population of Pakistan sees PTV color programs, transmitted by 5 full-fledged production centers and 25 transmitters. When started in 1964, only 9.32% of the population could view black-and-white PTV programs.

There are at present approximately 2 million licensed TV sets. The number of unlicensed sets is around 30% of the sets in the country. Average viewership per TV set is estimated at 8 persons.

The area under the umbrella of TV signals has steadily risen from 8,029 square kilometers in 1964 to around 280,588 square kilometers by mid-1986. 35.25% of the total area of the country excluding the disputed territory of Jammu and Kashmir.

The amount of broadcasting is about an average of 56 hours a week, excluding special transmissions. Most of the programs are telecast on the national network. The main sources of income of PTV are commercials and license fees of Rs. 200 per year per domestic and Rs. 400 per commercial set, which comes to around Rs. 30 crores (license fees only).

A major breakthrough in the field of TV communication occurred in the mid-1970s when Pakistan was linked with the outside world through satellites. On July 24, 1981 PTV for the first time showed an interview with the Pakistani ambassador to Britain (in London) which was taken live from Karachi via satellite. Now all Pakistani viewers can see live programs (if PTV wishes) from abroad, as all TV stations have been linked with the national microwave network. Most of the international events, such as Islamic foreign ministers' conferences, cricket matches, tennis, soccer, boxing, the President and Prime Minister of Pakistan's foreign visits, Mehfil-e-Qurat, Haj, important speeches at the United Nations, reports from the war fronts of Lebanon, Iran, Iraq, Afghanistan, etc. are telecast with the cooperation of ABC, CBS, NBC, etc. live through satellite. Some Middle Eastern programs, including those from India, Oman, Dubai, Saudi Arabia, and Abu Dhabi, etc. are clearly visible in parts of Pakistan with the help of boosters in high antenna. Indian (Amritsar) TV is clearly seen in Lahore and surrounding areas even without the help of boosters.

Surveys have shown that color TV has reached most well-to-do houses throughout Pakistan and black-and-white TVs have been installed in most average houses. PTV is run as a commercial service. Advertisements, which are shown in breaks and between programs, average 3.05% of broadcasting time. The 15% increase in the rate of commercials and Islamic laws have slightly affected the TV business.

News readers and announcers (women) have to wear full sleeve shirts and cover their head and start the bulletin with the name of Almighty Allah and "Assalam-o-Alaikum" (Hello).

Pakistan manufactured 145,000 TV sets in 1986. At present PTV extends technical cooperation to Uganda, United Arab Emirates and International Telecommunications (ITC).

Color programs were introduced on PTV on December 20, 1976. Today there are five full-fledged color centers in Karachi, Lahore, Islamabad, Peshawar, and Quetta.

There are estimated to be between 500,000 and 600,000 color sets throughout the country. The government charges an 80% duty on black-and-white and color TV sets brought into the country as personal baggage. However, there was no duty on locally manufactured black-and-white or color sets. However, a 10% duty was introduced in the new budget for 1986-87.

A number of PTV programs have won international awards, including the Japan Prize Contest at Sapporo in 1972, the Shiraz Film Festival in Iran in 1973, the Federal Republic of Germany in 1974, the Hollywood Festival of World TV in 1974, Golden Prague, the Asia Pacific Broadcasting Union in Manila in 1981, The Asia Pacific Broadcasting Union in Singapore in 1982, the Raduga Festival in Moscow in 1983, the "Transtel Prize" at the 8th Prix Futura in Berlin in 1983, the Seoul Prize at the International Television Programs Contest in Seoul in 1984 and in 1985.

PTV made a profit, of Rs. 145 million during 1983-84, a remarkable achievement. Since then it has been a profit-making corporation.

PTV has important plans to increase coverage even further with special emphasis on remote and less developed areas and to establish a second channel for educational television during the current financial year.

PHILIPPINES

Broadcasts began in 1953 by DZAQ-TV then owned by Alto Broadcasting. At present 40 stations are on the air for commercial broadcasting and one government station; most are located in Manila. The number of sets is estimated at over 4,000,000. ABS-CBN was replaced by KBS. Others are Associated Broadcasting, Inter-Island Broadcasting, Metropolitan Broadcasting, Philippines Broadcasting, Radio Mindanao Network, Republic Broadcasting and Southern Broadcasting. More provincial outlets are planned.

Commercial ad revenues have averaged 30.8% gains over the past 10 years and now 46% of all advertising money spent is for TV compared to 29% for newspaper ads.

POLAND

Some 9 million TV receivers are registered in Poland tuned in to one of two channels which broadcast in color on the SECAM system. Householders pay a license fee of 2,400 zlotys a year, which is the main source of revenue for the networks.

Poland has seven regional studios and 30% of the schedule is broadcast locally with the balance going out nationally. Most popular shows are news and current affairs, followed by features, documentaries, TV theatre, and music. (Theatrical feature films can be transmitted one year after original release.)

Foreign programs make up some 19% of the scheduling; they are acquired either through cash or barter deals. Advertising is permitted and foreign companies can buy time. There is no official censorship, but each station is responsible for what goes over the airways, both in programs and advertising.

As of yet there are no cable or pay-TV systems in Poland.

PUERTO RICO

Television started in 1954, and there are about 900,000 sets in Puerto Rico. Most public places, such as restaurants and clubs, have television sets for their patrons; the medium is available in local hotels upon request.

Even though most Puerto Ricans know English, and the number of persons who will acquire a working knowledge of English will increase considerably through intensification of English instruction in public schools and the migration of Puerto Rican families to the United States, and workers who come back from the States with more knowledge of English. Television programming is in English and Spanish. WKAQ-TV, owned and operated by the newspaper El Mundo, on channel 4, has 30% of its programming in English of which 10% have Spanish sub-titles. There are 10 private stations in all.

Kinescope versions of top North American television shows are shown on both stations.

Cable television is on the rise here. The largest operator is Cable TV of Puerto Rico. It is owned by Harris Cable of Los Angeles, which bought the San Juan franchise in 1976, starting with some 8,000 customers. Total subscribers now on the island are about 150,000.

Cable programming is also being expanded. At first the cable company offered only HBO and Virgin Islands stations. Receiving stations were built to bring in programs by satellite and by 1980 programs were being funneled from the states. Puerto Ricans now have a choice of 21 cable channels.

Cable TV charges its subscribers $11 a month for a basic package of 12 channels. HBO and Galavisión cost $9.95 each additionally. Cable currently reaches greater San Juan, Bayamon, Carolina, Trujillo Alto and Guaynabo, which have an estimated 300,000 homes.

QATAR

Qatar TV Service (governmental), Ministry of Information, P.O. Box 1836 Doha, Qatar. Color since 1973. One station and relay: 120,100 sets.

SAMOA (AMERICAN)

Three TV stations serve some 42,000 sets on the American part of this Pacific island as well as a number of sets on the part administered by New Zealand. The station is also used daily for educational instructions to local schools. Address: Television of Samoa, Pago Pago. There are six channels.

SAUDI ARABIA

Established 1957, now 56 stations and 2 networks. General Directorate of TV, Ministry of Information, P.O. Box 570, Riyadh, Saudi Arabia; ARAMCO-TV, Box 96, Dhahran, Saudi Arabia. 3,600,000 sets.

SIERRA LEONE

Sierra Leone TV Service, New England, Private Mail Bag, Freetown. One station, 30,000 sets.

SINGAPORE

TV Singapore went on the air in 1963 and now serves an estimated 750,000 sets on four channels in four languages. One channel broadcasts 66 hours weekly the others 40 hours; of this total about 146 hours weekly are in color. Inquiries to Radio-TV Singapore, P.O. Box 1902, Singapore 11. For the fourth consecutive year Singapore Broadcasting Corp. profits dropped—from U.S. $4.36 million to $720,000 most recently.

SOUTH AFRICA

South African Broadcasting Corp., P.O. Box 8606, Johannesburg 2000, started broadcasts in 1976 and now has over 80 stations with four services broadcasting 7 languages over 3 channels to over 3 million sets. From 1978 advertising was accepted.

Associated South West African Broadcasting, P.O. Box 321, Windhoek, Namibia. South West Africa, an autonomous statutory body, broadcasts 6 hours daily from Windhoek.

SOUTH KOREA

Commercial TV broadcasting began in 1956, but the station burned three years later and it was not until 1961 when the government established the Korea Broadcasting Service (KBS-TV) network. The commercial network of Tongyang Broadcasting Co. (TBC) began in 1964 and was followed by the commercial Munhwa Broadcasting Co. (MBC) in 1969. The American Forces Korea Network (AFKN-TV) was also established to serve American troops, and now comprises 6 stations.

KBS, which is entirely government-owned and collects a monthly fee from each household with a TV set, is somewhat unique since it takes commercial advertising, unlike most governmental networks. Political opponents of the regime are rarely mentioned on broadcasts; this one-sided coverage had led to a boycott by some of the public who refuse to pay fees. KBS also holds a controlling 65% interest in the only other commercial broadcaster, Munhwa Broadcasting. Under the present regime, other stations were compelled by the government to merge with KBS, except for the Christian Broadcasting System which has been restricted since 1980 to broadcasting only religious programs. The government uses KBS profits from advertising revenues for education scholarships and expenses of newsmen traveling abroad.

KBS-TV has its key station in Seoul and 12 local stations, with other local stations, making a total of 33 TV stations, including those operated by MBC and the former TBC. Color broadcasting started in 1980. Almost 10 million sets are in operation, covering almost every household. If armed forces of USA are counted, the total stations number 33.

Korean broadcasts are limited to 6.5 hours of evening time and 4 hours mornings on weekdays, 11 hours on Saturday and 17 on Sunday. Monthly fees of about $1.00 are collected and advertisements are accepted.

On Saturdays and Sundays between 8 and 9 p.m. it is estimated that 60% or more of the population gather before their sets to view commercial station MBC's soap opera "Love and Truth" which is far beyond the average 30% viewing for such shows and above the 50% for previous "smash hits."

In 1981 the Republic of Korea "consolidated" all news media and took over the private stations, so daily listings read: KBS-1 TV (7 cities), KBS-2 TV (2), KBS-3 TV-UHF (6), MBC-TV (6). Korean Broadcasting Advertisement Corporation handles all TV and radio advertising.

SPAIN

The first time Televisión Española—(now Radio-Televisión Española, RTVE)—transmitted on a regular basis was October 29, 1956, on a scan system of 625 lines at 25 frames per second. That program lasted three hours with a range of 70 kilometres, broadcasting for about 400 sets. The First Channel (VHF) was followed by a Second Channel (UHF) in 1967, complementary at first, but then somewhat competitive and with a clearer trend towards "culture." Channel 1 covers now all of Spain, including the Balearic and Canary Islands. Channel 2 reaches 80% of national territory. According to the Director of Television, Channel 2 has a ceiling of 85% of territory, since the investment costs double when the 70% level of coverage is reached.

RTVE is now an autonomous agency under the Ministry of Culture, Paseo de la Castellana 109, Madrid 16. All programs are controlled by a Censorship Board. Drama, films and episodes of series are classified according to ratings: "general" (no sign on the screen), "older than 14" (a small lozenge), "older than 18" (two small lozenges).

The official number of sets is about 12,000,000.

The production of programs is entirely financed by advertising and tie-in merchandising, since the government withdrew its annual subsidy. Both channels carry ad spots. Due to nocturnal habits of Spaniards, the costliest time comes around 10:30 p.m. The ad spots appear on the screen at regular half-hour or one hour intervals, till 7 p.m. Later the spots rhythm accelerates, mainly during feature films in spite of audience and film directors' protests.

Staff and Studios: Director General of the Autonomous Agency RTVE (officially called "Ente," Italian style) is José María Calvino, the target of constant attacks from the right-wing opposition party. Director of TVE is Antonio López.

The ruling Socialist Party controls the TVE Council, a multi-partisan body which applies the 1981 Statute of Television. Home rule in Catalonia and the Basque provinces opened the door to regional independent TV centers. Even the Andalusian parliament asked for a Third Channel covering the south of Spain.

RTVE built in Madrid a 210 meter high tower ("Torrespaña") for news and live broadcasts. This "Towerspain" is now one of the landmarks of the capital.

TVE has ten news broadcasting stations in provinces. The Canary Islands set up their own programming. National Headquarters are at Prado del Rey, Madrid 24, with general offices and nine studios with total area of 3,000 square meters. Additional studios are in Barcelona.

Fixed, salaried personnel is about 2,300, with other estimated 5,000 contributing freelancers. An important group of steady contributors got permanent status by sentence of the Supreme Labor Court.

Programming Schedule and Contents. Channel 1 broadcasts 76 h 45' weekly, with accent on week-ends. Same happens with Channel 2, which broadcasts 46 h 45' weekly. Total of weekly broadcasting time: 123 h 30'. Special programs such as prize boxing bouts, sports championships, bullfights, royal and political messages, etc., move or remove normal programming.

Many broadcasting hours consist in theater movies (about seven features weekly) and filmed foreign production, including American series as "Flamingo Road," "Winds of War," "Masada," "The Martian Chronicles," etc. TVE broadcasts too many debate and panel shows, too many heavy music meetings, but lacks comedy fare. From 1982 the Ente has invested in prestige Spanish features, which first are being shown in theaters and then will be adapted to television as miniseries. Many of them have won awards at international film festivals.

Price range for half hour of screening time is $1,500-$2,000. One-hour series generally brings twice the half-hour price. Price range for feature films is $7,800-$17,000, dubbed into Spanish at Madrid studios. Only "Film Society" screenings (Channel 2) accept foreign prints with Spanish subtitles.

SRI LANKA

Project for expansion of television broadcasting by the Sri Lanka Rupavahini Corporation was concluded after successful negotiations with the Japanese government. The Japanese granted the government of Sri Lanka one billion four hundred and thirty million yen (¥: 1,430,000,000) for the purpose.

The Japanese government is exempted from customs duties, internal taxes and other fiscal levies which may be imposed in Sri Lanka regarding the supply of the products and services under the project. The total cost of the project is Rs. 184,927,000 ($6,604,535.60) of which Japanese grant works out to Rs. 143,000,000 ($510,7143.00) The amount of Rs. 700,000.00 ($250,000) needed for the construction of buildings at the two transmitting stations and the provision of infrastructure services at the Colombo building site was met from the funds of the Sri Lanka Rupavahini Corporation.

AsiaVision News Exchange has filled a much-needed gap in news dissemination with an Asian-oriented emphasis. Earlier countries of Asia did not see even a single frame of a great event taking place in any of their neighboring countries, but were given overdoses of Western news. Dr. Anandattisa de Alwis, Sri Lanka's Minister of State under whose charge the television networks of Rupavahini and ITN (Independent Television Network) function said: "Why are we prisoners of a system going on the same course of giving our people the same old stories given to us in the same old way?" He meant the same old Western-oriented stories that came from the colonial days which television in the Asian countries were giving as news for want of anything better or nothing at all. Most TV managers (news) in Asia state that AsiaVision news exchanges has proved the determination of developing countries to be self-reliant and establish a free flow news among themselves.

The State Ministry has banned the use of children in television commercials because "parents had complained that they were too poor to buy the products demanded by their children after watching such advertisements."

The Japanese find a perfect setting here for TV commercials. Last year a Japanese brewery made a Rs.4 million ($142,858.) commercial to plug their product in a 30 second package of "hard sell" which is to be telecast in Japan for a year.

SWITZERLAND

As of July 30, 1987, there were 2,500,000 TV sets (mostly color) in operation in Switzerland and 1318 transmitters and boosters on the air. The French language station schedules about 87 hours; the German language station about 78 hours; and the Italian language station about 66 hours of programming weekly (without Eurovision/European TV Programme exchanges).

Commerical TV was introduced on a limited basis on February 1, 1965. From November 1, 1985, 23 minutes weekly, only on workdays, were allowed; the cost per minute as of January 1, 1987, was 20,600 Swiss francs. On October 1, 1987, the cost of annual licenses was fixed at 184,800 Swiss francs for private sets. As of December, 1986, 92% of all Swiss households had color TV sets.

Swiss Italians are the more fervid TV fans, with a daily 2 hour and 24 minute presence in front of their TV sets; Swiss French total 2 hours and 10 minutes, while Swiss Germans switch on the set only 2 hours a day.

Swiss Italians only tune in a national channel 34% of the time their set is switched on; 66% of the time they watch foreign channels, mainly Italian ones. The Swiss channels are more favored by Swiss Germans and Swiss French: 41% each. For the remaining 59%, Swiss Germans tune in the channels of neighboring German, while the Swiss French watch French channels. With the expanding of cable TV watchers of Sky Channel and other British TV Stations are growing, although rather slowly. As of January 1, 1987, there were 1,700,000 subscribers.

Festivals. In 1983, during the International Film Festival Locarno (August) for the first time about 100 TV movies from a great number of European and overseas countries were shown in a special section called "TV-movies." The 1987 edition of the "TV-movies" offered a program of 122 films from 27 countries. 14 of which shared in a special award. The Eye of the Leopard, 1987 was its 5th anniversary. In its 5 years of existence, the section "TV-movies" has presented some 540 TV movies. —GABRIELLA BROGGI

TAHITI

Office of Radiodiff-Télévision Française, Papeete, operates four channels 34 hours weekly to serve the estimated 24,000 sets of this French possession. It is owned by the government and buys censored programs in Paris.

THAILAND

Thai Television Company (government-owned) opened its first station in 1955 and there are four stations (two using color) and 8 relays on a commercial basis. Stations are also operated under names of Bangkok Broadcasting & TV, Bangkok Entertainment Co. and Mass Communication Organization of Thailand, all located in Bangkok. Sets are estimated at 3,745,000, some color.

In 1980 a ban on broadcasts from 6:30 to 8:00 p.m., as a power-saving measure, allegedly improved "family relationships," so at present broadcasts are limited to 8 hours on weekdays, and 16 hours on weekends and holidays.

TURKEY

Turkish Radio Television Corp., P.O. Box 98, Kizilay-Ankara serves 5.7 million TV sets via 37 stations.

UNITED ARAB EMIRATES

Established 1969 by Thompson TV International and Abu Dhabi TV Service. In 1971 United Arab Emirates TV Service, P.O. Box 637 Abu Dhabi established separate facilities which now consist of three stations and three relays. Dubai Radio and Color TV, P.O. Box 1695, Dubai, now broadcasts on two channels from 1 station and 1 relay in Arabic, French and English. 110,000 sets.

VIETNAM

Since 1968 the Government Information Department of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam has operated one non-commercial station in Hanoi. Number of sets is about 2 million.

A second station was added in Saigon (now known as Ho Chi-Minh City) when South Vietnam was "liberated" and the divided country became one.

Hanoi has initiated use of a Russian satellite and 7 hours of color telecasts on weekdays and all day Saturday and Sunday, compared with the previous 4 hours a day in black and white.

WEST GERMANY

TV Households: Out of approximately 24,000,000 German households, 23,000,000 have at least one television set. Of these, about 16,000,000 have at least one color set. Some 23,000,000 households have at least one radio. Total TV set sales per year: about $2.2 billion.

TV Networks: Germany has no networks similar to those in the U.S. In fact, there are no privately-owned commercial TV stations; all telecommunication is state-owned. Basically, the two national TV outlets are: ARD, the national hookup of nine regional stations; and ZDF or second channel, a single nationally-beamed station based in Mainz near Frankfurt. ARD's nine stations each contribute to one joint national broadcasting operation, five regional channels and several radio channels. ARD has a budget of about $1,640-billion; ZDF $556,000,000. Commercials are aired on both stations in sharply limited timeslots. Stations are supported largely by $6.50 monthly license fees paid by TV set owners.

The Gift of Caring

"I never met a man I didn't like."

Words which typify the tradition upon which the Will Rogers Institute has prided itself for over 50 years.

Since 1936, the Institute has been caring for employees of the entertainment/communications industry by providing them with health services.

Our representatives can put you in touch with expert medical care and your first consultation with one of our nationwide pulmonary specialists is absolutely free.

Write or call - to learn more about the benefits we offer and you will see just how we embody the spirit of that great humanitarian and entertainer, Will Rogers.
