THE YEAR IN REVIEW

BY TRACY STEVENS

With few exceptions, 2001 was a difficult year for the television industry. Low ratings and a flagging economy spelled disaster for ad sales long before the tragic events of September 11th. In the aftermath, with the soaring cost of round-the-clock news coverage, lost advertising revenue, and the delay of the fall prime-time season, the third and fourth quarters were shaping up to be the worst in recent memory. As bad as the financial picture was, the events of the year were of great interest to media observers, bringing television's role in American life into sharper relief.

The advertising downturn resulted in a combined third-quarter drop of $880 million or 29% (vs. 2000) for ABC, CBS and NBC with equally dire predictions for the fourth-quarter. 2001 looks even worse when compared to 2000, which was a bumper year. Due in large part to political spending, the summer Olympics and last-ditch advertising efforts from the dot.com sector, broadcast TV posted a 17.2% revenue gain to a record $33.3 billion in 2000. Cable and satellite revenue was even more impressive with a 29% gain to $57 billion. In 2002, broadcasters will get help from the winter Olympics and from political advertising, as well as a likely wave of spending from the embattled airline and tourism industries. Nonetheless, the turnaround will be a slow one.

As a result of the drops in revenue, the broadcast networks, studios and cable channels are cutting costs. E!, Discovery and WWF have laid off as many as 10% of their employees, while "non-essential" costs are being eliminated at other companies. The networks and cable channels are expected to review development deals and programming costs across the board. Somewhat ahead of the curve by necessity, NBC laid off 10% of its work force, cut production of original movies and mini-series, and stopped buying big-ticket theatrical features in 2000.

Among the least hard-hit by the broader economic downturn have been Telemundo and Univision. Hispanic TV has seen double-digit growth for 2001, with Univision posting a 6% gain and Telemundo showing a spectacular 30% gain. Experts cite two reasons for the robust performance: first, the Hispanic population has grown by 58% between 1990 and 2000 and second, the recent census made potential advertisers more acutely aware of the estimated $500 billion in spending power of the 35 million Hispanic viewers in the U.S. Univision is so bullish on the long-term prospects of Spanish-language television that it will launch Telefuturo, a second full-time broadcast network in January, 2002. Currently, Hispanic TV accounts for 14% of all television viewing but generates only 3% of advertising revenue, suggesting that there is considerable room for growth.

NBC is also seeing dollar signs. In October, the peacock signed a deal to acquire the number two Spanish-language network, Telemundo, for $2.7 billion, including debt. The agreement is subject to FCC and FTC review and is unlikely to close until late 2002.

NBC will gain several duopolies in important Hispanic markets, including New York, Chicago, Miami and Dallas, and three stations in Los Angeles. NBC will be able to repurpose news and sporting events making the most of programming synergies while capitalizing on an underserved population and the fastest growing segment of the overall industry. NBC Chairman Bob Wright was quick to point out that the acquisition of Telemundo would not affect their interest in exercising an option to acquire the majority of Paxson in 2002. NBC's plans for Paxson are still on hold while the 35% cap on broadcast station ownership is in effect.

NBC is also poised to take advantage of its 40% stake in ValueVision. Unlike CBS and ABC, both of which are part of media conglomerates (Viacom and Disney, respectively), with parent company GE, NBC had no opportunities for media synergies and until now, could only repackage its content to CNBC and MSNBC. ValueVision, which has recast itself as ShopNBC, is launching a new format that is a blend of entertainment and home shopping. New programs include "The Yahoo Shopping Hour," a ten-show deal with fishing outfitter Bass Pro Shops, a reality-based program with Harrah's Entertainment and a talk show with Star Jones. After the write-off of the NBCi venture, the network is hoping that this latest move toward diversification will pay off. Aiming at a convergence of entertainment, advertising and shopping, NBC will look for original programming that can generate merchandising tie-ins with ShopNBC.

After placing third in the 2000-01 season, NBC is off to a strong start for 2001-02. Although the dearth of successful reality programming hurt their ratings in the previous season, as the public's taste for such fare wanes, NBC is in a good position. While other networks relied upon the often unpleasant, backstabbing antics of the all-too-real programs, NBC continued to develop dramas and sitcoms in light of their unsuccessful bids at the reality craze and the failure of the NFL. With ER back on top after the November sweeps, NBC is vying with CBS for the number one spot.

CBS was successful in 2000-01, edging out ABC for the highest ratings largely due to "Survivor." The reality program set records for its time slot as viewers nationwide tuned in to watch contestants vote each other out of the running for the $1 million prize. The network's stable of shows including "Everybody Loves Raymond," "60 Minutes" and "Jag" appeals to a demographic somewhat older than that of its rivals, resulting in CBS' top-rated programs generating lower ad revenue than less popular but "younger" shows from other networks. However, CBS is countering with shows like "Survivor," "CSI," and "The Guardian" aimed at boosting ratings and leveling the field. CBS has also lured viewers with high-profile events such as the Country Music Awards and a Michael Jackson special, making the most of the youthful appeals of Viacom entities MTV, VH-1, CMT and the Infinity Radio Stations.

Over at ABC the news is not as good. With "Who Wants to Be A Millionaire" as the cornerstone of its programming, ABC is seeing their ratings in freefall. The network came in second last year behind CBS but so far in the 2001-02 season, it appears that the network will drop to fourth for the year. "Who Wants to be a Millionaire" was averaging 17 million viewers per episode in November last year. This year, it's at 10.7 million, a drop of 37%, according to Nielsen. Such erosion puts ABC in the position of having to offer "make goods" to advertisers, the free commercial time due when a show attracts a smaller audience than promised. Other ABC programs have also lost momentum: the ratings for "Dharma and Greg" are down 30% compared to last year while "Once and Again" has dipped 25%.

Even if ABC can retool its prime-time lineup with mid-season replacements (the much anticipated Matt Damon-Ben Affleck series "The Runner" has been pulled in the wake of the terrorist attacks), ABC has to face the end of the NFL season in January and the beginning of NBC's run with the winter Olympics. Perhaps the clearest example of where the network stands could be found on November 8th, 2001 when a speech by George Bush fell on a critical ratings night. NBC did not pull "Friends" and CBS chose to air "Survivor." ABC pre-empted their programming but no sacrifice was involved: the President's speech scored a bigger audience than the network has been getting for "Whose Line Is It Anyway?" in the same time slot.

For 2001-02, ABC's loss is Fox's gain. The network has made its way into the top three behind NBC and CBS, edging out beleaguered ABC. Still aiming at the number one spot in the prized 18-49 demographic, Fox's new programs "24," "Undeclared" and "Temptation Island 2" still won't be quite enough to put the network over the top. Fighting it out for fourth and fifth place are the WB and UPN. In April, 2001, "Buffy the Vampire Slayer" defected to UPN from the WB, marking the first time that a series switched networks for a better deal and raising the stakes between the rivals. The WB claims that it is on track to post a profitable fourth quarter and has picked up wins three out of five nights when the two nets go head-to-head. UPN notes that they are ahead of the WB in total viewers, 5.1 million to 4.2 million, in the 2001-02 season to date. And as for the much-hyped Tuesday night show-down, the WB points out that its "Smallville" is performing better than UPN's much-contested "Buffy the Vampire Slayer."

In cable, the biggest news of the year is "repurposing." The industry's favorite new buzzword helps media companies make the most of their programming dollars through vertically integrated distribution. With the benefits of repurposing in mind, Disney paid $5.3 billion for the Fox Family Channel, which will officially become ABC Family in 2002, adding to the Disney Channel, ABC Network and SoapNet and giving Disney another distribution platform for its content. AOL Time Warner has general entertainment outlets through the WB, TBS and TNT. Viacom owns CBS, UPN and TNN, GE has NBC, Pax and ValueVision, and News Corp. owns Fox and fX. The parent companies plan to air their programs as many times and on as many broadcast and cable outlets as possible, offering numerous viewing windows and getting the most out of every production dollar spent. Currently, ABC repurposes "Once and Again" on Lifetime and their daytime dramas on SoapNet, NBC shows "The Weakest Link" on Pax and "Law & Order: SVU" on USA. The WB airs "Charmed" on TNT and Fox shows "24" on fX.

As more daytime and prime-time programs are repurposed, network affiliates are concerned that it will reduce viewership of their stations. In the past, CBS agreed not to repurpose any of their programs in exchange for help from the affiliates paying for NFL rights. That deal has now ended and CBS plans to enter the fray. Hoping for repurposing hits that raise cable ratings and program pricing for the syndication market, mega-media companies will continue to develop synergies that will allow them to extract every penny they can from their content. The standards for hits are also very different in the basic cable market. While the larger networks like Lifetime (rated number one), USA, TNT, TBS and fX measure ratings in the millions, the smaller cable outlets like The Food Network, The Cartoon Network and A&E need only a few hundred thousand viewers to get advertisers' attention. They are able to command a particular audience, which translates into niche markets for ad sales.

Cable subscriber growth has been slowed by satellite rivals #2 EchoStar and #1 DirecTV's 20% of the multichannel video market. EchoStar has agreed to buy Hughes Electronics, DirecTV's parent, from General Motors. The $25.8 billion deal, which faces regulatory approval, would create one of the largest multichannel TV providers in the U.S. and further increase competition with cable system operators. Despite this, cable operators are relieved that EchoStar's Chairman Charlie Ergen was able to grab the deal out from under News Corp.'s Rupert Murdoch, who cable operators feared would make some of his company's sports rights exclusive to DBS. The EchoStar-DirecTV deal will be subject to considerable scrutiny. EchoStar will now control most of the Ku-Band and the entire Ka-Band digital spectrum, and the number of video providers in most markets will shrink from three—two DBS services and a cable system—to only two. The FCC's Ken Ferree stated, "There appear to be serious concentration issues in having all the prime [DBS] slots held by one entity." Other objections are likely to come from programmers concerned that the DBS monopoly will have too much leverage over networks, particularly in light of Disney's attack on the AOL-Time Warner merger in 2000.

While satellite continues to grow, the problems plaguing the rollout of Digital Television continue. As station engineers scramble to meet DTV build-out deadlines and replicate their current analog footprints with a digital signal, the FCC agreed on November 8th, 2001 to relax some of the rules governing the transition. Principally, they said they would consider waiving the construction deadline for stations suffering from extreme financial hardship and gave permission for stations to initially offer a weaker digital signal. The National Association of Broadcasters had been pushing for an industry-wide waiver delaying the build-out deadline until it became clear that lawmakers would not yield to the pressure, considering that broadcasters paid nothing for the digital spectrum valued at more than $70 billion. And, while the 8-VSB standard has been approved, questions remain regarding DTV/cable interoperability, cable carriage requirements for broadcasters' digital channels, and disputes over set-top box standards. While some lawmakers cling to the hope that transmission will be all digital by 2006, it is likely that both analog and digital signals will be in use well past that deadline.

As for HDTV, although most consumers still can't receive the programming, broadcast, cable and satellite networks produce almost 500 hours a week of sports and entertainment in HDTV. Both Showtime and HBO offer 24-hour movie channels in HDTV and ABC, CBS and NBC all offer a combination of daytime and prime-time programming in high definition. However, since most TV homes rely on cable for their television and few cable systems carry any HDTV, the programming does not reach its intended audience. A few ABC- and CBS-owned TV stations broadcast HDTV over their digital TV channels, but the signal does not propagate well and only a small number of homes have HD receivers that are able to pick up the signals. Those with satellite TV have better access to high definition programming through the new HDNet carried on DirecTV and premium cable programming on DBS.

Whether by broadcast, cable or satellite, Americans relied on TV for coverage of the September 11th attacks with an estimated 80 million viewers watching national broadcast and news networks on the night of the attacks. By comparison, the 2001 Superbowl had 86 million viewers.

Amid numerous mistaken reports citing everything from car bombs at the Pentagon to falsely identifying hijackers, local and national news transmitted the terror in sometimes overwhelming detail. MSNBC and ABC both elected to omit footage of people jumping from the Twin Towers while CNN, Fox, NBC and CBS all aired the horror, albeit only once or twice. Nine New York City stations lost their transmission facilities at the World Trade Center and had to move to temporary or permanent sites, while many programs taped in New York were off the air for as long as two weeks. The broadcast networks became 24-hour news outlets while non-news cable networks picked up news feeds or suspended programming with notes onscreen explaining their deference to the disaster. Under normal circumstances, the spike in viewers would mean higher advertising revenues. In this case, since the news was broadcast for days without commercials to subsidize operating costs, the numbers netted no gains to the networks. Analysts' estimates vary, but the ad-free news coverage of the week of September 11th is expected to have collectively cost ABC, CBS, NBC and Fox several hundred million dollars.

Cooperation between network executives and the Pentagon was at an all-time high in the weeks following the attack as national security concerns prompted news outlets to await official word before showing footage of bombing raids and troop movements. National Security Advisor Condoleezza Rice spoke with news chiefs at CNN, ABC, NBC, CBS and Fox, urging them to exercise caution when airing tapes from Al Qaeda and Osama bin Laden in case they contained coded orders to operatives. Due to the national state of mourning, the new season launch, the Emmys and Latin Grammys were all postponed and films with questionable content such as "Independence Day" and "The X-Files Movie" were pulled from schedules. However, the sensitivity to content gave way to a push for ratings when, on November 15th, ABC's "Primetime Thursday" played the air traffic control tapes containing voices and sounds from the cockpit of United Flight 93, which crashed in Pennsylvania after a struggle with hijackers. Media critics lambasted the network for repugnant sensationalism masquerading as news, claiming that there was no news value in the content of the tapes, since transcribed accounts had conveyed that information through the print media weeks ago.

In a year marked by a severe economic downturn and the worst act of terrorism in history, television has never been more important. In 2001, it played its two roles well as both the primary source of information for a frightened nation and a haven of entertainment as a diversion to the news. Despite falling revenues and technological troubles, television continues to play an ever-greater role in the fabric of American life, reflecting the best and worst that we, as newsmakers and consumers, have to offer.

TELEVISION STATIONS

Stations are presented alphabetically by state, city and call letters. Stations are listed in the state and city in which they are licensed to broadcast. While most broadcasters maintain offices in the market they service, many stations are operated by corporations headquartered in other locales. In such cases, broadcast markets are indicated within the parentheses. Satellite stations' listings will refer the reader to the parent station's listing. Where applicable, station managers' names can be found at the end of each entry.

CORPORATE HISTORIES OF THE NETWORKS

ABC, INC.

(AMERICAN BROADCASTING SYSTEM, INC.)

ABC's predecessor, the Radio Corporation of America (RCA) owned two radio networks, the Blue and the Red. In 1941, the FCC decreed that the same company could not own two networks, so RCA incorporated the Blue under the name of American Broadcasting System and established it as an independent subsidiary. RCA then sold this network to Edward J. Noble, and in 1944, the name was changed to the American Broadcasting Company. ABC's first television broadcast was on April 19, 1948 with "On the Corner." Later in the year, ABC scored two "firsts": the live broadcast of an opera (Verdi's "Otello") from the Metropolitan Opera House in New York and a TV documentary, "The Marshall Plan." ABC merged with United Paramount Theatres in 1952. This merger was engineered by Leonard H. Goldenson, then the president of UPT. The new company was called American Broadcasting-Paramount Theatres, Inc. During the 1950s, ABC began to operate at a profit although it had to struggle fiercely to acquire new affiliates. In 1954, ABC made a deal with Walt Disney to acquire a 35% interest in Disneyland and all TV programs produced by Disney. The following year, ABC signed an exclusive rights contract with Warner Bros. for TV programming.

In the Fall of 1962, ABC introduced color programming for the fall season which was expanded in 1966 to include full color broadcasting. In 1965, AB-PT's name was changed to American Broadcasting Companies, Inc. The 1960s also introduced blockbuster theatrical movies to TV with spectacular ratings results when "The Bridge on the River Kwai" was viewed (in 1966) by 60 million Americans. In 1967, the ABC evening news was expanded from 15 minutes to a half-hour, and Joey Bishop inaugurated ABC's late-night talk show programming.

In 1972, ABC was able to operate at a profit for the first time in ten years. In the 1976-77 season, ABC had its first win in the ratings race. In 1976, Barbara Walters joined ABC, becoming the first anchorwoman in television history. The mini-series "Roots" appeared on ABC in 1977 and became the highest-rated program of all time. This helped immensely in the ratings race, and credit must go in large part to Fred Silverman who, two years before, had joined the company as president of ABC International. He left in 1978 to go to NBC.

The decade of the Eighties was a turbulent one for the networks as cable and home video began whittling away their audiences. In 1985, ABC agreed to be purchased by Capital Cities Communications. The merged company's name was changed to Capital Cities/ABC, Inc. ABC held second place in the ratings from 1979 to 1983, when it dropped to third position. It was unable to rise from third until 1987-88 when it displaced CBS in second place, primarily because of the World Series and the Superbowl. It remained second in 1988-89 and 1989-90. In the latter season, ABC had the distinction of broadcasting the most talked-about new series of the period, "Twin Peaks," and the highest-rated new series, "America's Funniest Home Videos."

Daniel B. Burke replaced Frederick J. Pierce as president and chief operating officer. There were also sweeping reductions in personnel in the interests of economy and streamlining. Budget cuts notwithstanding, Capital Cities/ABC chairman Thomas Murphy pledged ABC would not scrimp on programming.

Profits at the end of 1990 rose about $70 million. Of the three networks, ABC won the ratings battle in news coverage of the war in the Persian Gulf. For two seasons in a row the network could boast having the only new series in the top ten: "America's Funniest People" (1990-91) and "Home Improvement" (1991-92). Capital Cities/ABC is a partner in ESPN, the highly successful cable TV sports channel, and two other cable TV services—Arts & Entertainment and Lifetime. ABC was the only network in the 1992-93 season to gain ground, moving into second place behind CBS, from its previous third place standing. During the season, Robert A. Iger became the new network president. The network was the first to sign a deal with a cable operator (in this case Continental Cablevision) allowing its stations to be carried on cable without paying a fee. In 1994, the company signed an affiliation deal with E.W.Scripps Company to switch several of their stations over to ABC.

The big event of 1995 was the $19 billion acquisition of Capital Cities/ABC by the Walt Disney Company, said to be the second largest corporate takeover in history. In 1997, Ted Harbert resigned as entertainment chairman of ABC after 20 years with the network. At the end of the 1996-97 season, "Roseanne," one of ABC's sitcom staples, was discontinued after nine years on the air. The producers of ABC's "Home Improvement" sued the program's distributor, Walt Disney, alleging that a $3 million-per-episode renewal was in essence a sweetheart deal benefitting Disney. A lawsuit against the ABC news program Prime Time Live by the supermarket chain Food Lion for trespass, fraud and breach of fiduciary duty was decided in favor of the supermarket by a North Carolina jury. Producers for the evening news magazine got themselves hired undercover as clerks by the chain in order to expose the sales of spoiled food and unsanitary food handling practices by Food Lion, which did not dispute the findings of the investigative report, but instead claimed that the practice of sending in undercover reporters constituted fraud.

ABC's ratings soared when it broke the news in January 1998 that sex allegations were made by intern Monica Lewinsky against President Clinton. Apparently continuing a trend started by the O.J. Simpson trial and elevated by the death of Princess Diana in September 1997, news proved very successful in attracting viewers. Despite its brief victory in the ratings war, the network was scheduled to go through a complete transformation for the 1998-99 season, after losing its number two slot among 18-49 year olds to Fox. For the new season, the network was to introduce remakes of old shows such as "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" and "Fantasy Island," have "Sports Night" for male viewers, and air about 20 made-for-TV movies and mini-series.

ABC finished third in the 1998-1999 ratings war, despite their relentless self-promotion and critical acclaim for new shows like "Sports Night." With the 1999 departure of the embattled Jamie Tarses, it remained to be seen whether ABC's next programmer would be able to resurrect the network's ratings.

ABC's only blue-chip program was Monday Night Football, for which Disney paid the NFL $9.2 billion through the year 2005. In July, 1999, in an effort to reduce programming expenses, Disney combined ABC with Disney's television-production studio in order to slot more shows made by Disney onto ABC's prime-time schedule.

In the 1999-2000 season, ABC hit the jackpot with its American spin-off of the British "Who Wants to Be A Millionaire." For the season ending May 24, "Millionaire" took the top three spots in the ratings with its Tuesday, Thursday and Sunday programs, garnering a 29-, 26- and 25-share respectively.

In the 2000-2001 season, "Millionaire's" popularity waned somewhat. Through November 5th, 2000, the show was averaging a 20 share, a significant drop. ABC depended on the show to anchor its programming and generate revenue. With spring upfront ad sales estimated at $1.2 billion, about half of ABC's revenue, ABC executives and advertisers had their fingers crossed.

After surging to number 1 in the 1999-2000 season with "Who Wants To Be A Millionaire," ABC has seen its audience drop off, causing the network to fall to number 4 (behind NBC, CBS, and FOX) in overall ratings for the 2001-02 season.

Adding to the network's woes in 2001, ABC was reeling from the worst ad market in years. Buffeted by the Sept. 11 attacks, ABC, CBS and NBC collectively suffered a record loss of $880 million in advertising revenues for the third quarter, a slide of 28.6% from the same period in 2000.

ABC was stung by a number of high-profile disappointments in the fall 2001 season, including "Bob Patterson" and "What About Joan" which were cancelled. ABC is reallocating budget resources in order to develop about a dozen comedies, some of which may help the network recover its viewership in the spring of 2002. Also cancelled after only two weeks on the air was "America.01," the ABC News magazine devoted to covering the changes in the country after Sept. 11. The newsmagazine, which premiered on Nov. 2, was created in order to fill the gap left by reality show "The Mole," which was put on hiatus because of low ratings.

CBS

(COLUMBIA BROADCASTING SYSTEM, INC.)

CBS began in 1927 as a radio network with 16 stations, United Independent Broadcasters, Inc., founded by Arthur Judson, a concert tour manager and backed by Louis Sterling, president of the Columbia Phonograph Company. Later other investors were invited in, the most prominent of whom was William S. Paley. On September 26, 1928, at the age of 27, Paley became president of the firm whose name was changed to the Columbia Broadcasting System. Paley introduced many innovations to radio broadcasting, the most significant of which was the signing of an agreement in 1931 with Paramount Pictures whereby film stars were heard on radio for the first time. This laid the groundwork for the CBS policy in television from the outset to feature shows built around stars (Ed Sullivan, Lucille Ball, Arthur Godfrey, Jack Benny, Burns & Allen, Garry Moore, etc.).

CBS was in TV as early as 1931 when it began regularly scheduled TV programming over experimental station W2XAB in New York City. In 1941, CBS began weekly broadcasts of black-and-white TV programming over WCBS-TV in New York. By 1948, it had 30 affiliated stations.

In 1951, CBS broadcast the first live coast-to-coast TV transmission between New York and San Francisco. 1951 was also the year that Bill Gordon designed the CBS Eye which was destined to become one of the most famous logos in the world.

In 1952 CBS opened Television City in Hollywood—the industry's first self-contained TV production facility. "Playhouse 90" made its debut in 1956, but the big event of the decade was the 1951 debut of "I Love Lucy", a series regarded as the progenitor of the situation comedy. In the field of soap operas, CBS was both leader and winner, virtually monopolizing that market from 1951 to 1956. In 1951, it introduced "Search for Tomorrow," which was to become the longest-running show in that genre. This was followed by "Love of Life" (1951) and "The Guiding Light" (1952), both overnight hits.

In the late '50s and through the '60s and '70s, CBS reigned as king of prime-time ratings, maintaining its long-running lead with such successes as "Gunsmoke" (1957), "The Defenders" (1961), "The Beverly Hillbillies" (1962), "All in the Family" (1972) and "Dallas" (1978). Also helping was "60 Minutes" the news-oriented show which, by 1995, had remained in the Top Ten prime time shows for 18 consecutive seasons.

CBS began the turbulent 80s with a new president, Thomas Wyman (replacing John D. Backe).

In 1985, Ted Turner made an unfriendly bid for CBS, forcing the network to buy up 21% of its own stock to thwart the takeover. Laurence A. Tisch, a former theatre chain executive, had become the major stockholder in CBS when, in 1986, he instigated sweeping changes in the interests of cost-cutting and efficiency. 700 jobs were eliminated at the CBS Broadcast Group. Tisch also removed Wyman as president, named himself chief executive officer and induced founder William Paley to return to active duty as acting chairman of the board. It was quite a jolt to the company when, in 1985-86, it slipped to second place and stayed there through the following season.

In 1987-88, CBS came in third for the first time in TV history. In 1988, Tisch shuffled executive ranks again, naming Howard Stringer, previously president of CBS News, president of the Broadcasting Group. The networks new management team sought to devise a strategy to pull the network out of its decline in the prime-time ratings. Jeff Sagansky, former head of Tri-Star Pictures, was brought in as president of the entertainment division in 1990.

Starting in 1991-92, CBS became the number one network for three years in a row based on the success of such shows as "60 Minutes" (the number one show for both '91-'92 and '92-'93), "Murphy Brown," "Murder She Wrote," and "Northern Exposure." CBS was hit hard by Fox's 1994 purchase of twelve stations from New World Communications, losing eight affiliates.

However, the following summer, Westinghouse Electric Corp. acquired the final independent network for $5.4 billion creating the largest collection of TV and radio stations in America. The 1994-95 season was a low point for the network as it plunged from number one to number three. By season's end, CBS had the dubious distinction of being the first of the three majors to fall into 4th place, coming in below Fox for the last week before the debut of the 1995-96 season. In late 1995, the venerable news program "60 Minutes" and CBS came under fire for refusing to air a controversial segment on the tobacco industry. Critics of CBS alleged that the network capitulated to the threat of legal action, rather than actual litigation. During this season the network placed third again. In 1997 CBS station group president Peter Lund was replaced by CBS radio president, Mel Karmazin.

Continuing the unpleasant trend of the previous several years, CBS continued to lose viewers in all age group except the 60+. In the middle of 1998, Mel Karmazin made public the restructuring of CBS. Because of the network's failure to turn a profit the radio and billboard companies which account for 60% of CBS' profits, were to be transferred to Infinity, thereby making the TV operations easier to sell, if need be. Infinity Broadcasting was sold by Karmazin to CBS in 1996 after trying to buy the Eye's radio stations himself.

Two years later, the company was several times its former size, and had the cash to grow even more as a result of the CBS deal. Although the CBS president denied considering a TV sale, others have admitted that the sale has not been ruled out. Because of the network's questionable future, president & CEO of CBS TV, Leslie Moonves, was pressured to deliver successful prime-time programming for the 1998-99 season. With the end of expensive shows such as "Cybill" and "Murphy Brown," Karmazin announced that the fall's lineup was considerably less costly than the previous year's. And, with shows such as "King of Queens" and "L.A. Docs" scheduled for the fall, analysts foresaw the possible resurrection of CBS.

In 1999, CBS merged with Viacom. Viacom paid $37 billion in stock for the network, making the combined company the third largest media group in the U.S. Mel Karmazin became the President & COO of Viacom under Chairman, Sumner Redstone.

CBS came in first in the 1998-99 ratings war, but still had a viewing demographic older than the 18-49-year-old group prized by advertisers. Many of its new shows, however, did attract a younger audience.

CBS renewed its contract for men's NCAA basketball, securing the lucrative franchise through 2013.

In the 1999-2000 season, CBS edged out NBC for second place in the ratings war.

CBS was number one in overall ratings for the 2000-2001 season and was ahead in November sweeps for 2001-2002. However, like the rest of the networks, CBS was affected by the September 11th attacks. Without placing an exact number on advertising losses, Viacom President and Chief Operating Officer Mel Karmazin said that the attacks resulted in a "considerable increase in costs at CBS News." He also said that the network would lose additional revenue from the cancellation of NFL games, rescheduling the Emmy Awards twice, and the delay of the fall season.

CBS continues to have the oldest demographic of the networks but has attracted younger viewers and the all important advertising dollars that come with them by way of "Survivor," its very popular reality show.

FOX BROADCASTING COMPANY

Fox Broadcasting, a subsidiary of Rupert Murdoch's News Company and owner of Twentieth Century Fox, began broadcasting with the late night "Late Show with Joan Rivers" on October 9, 1986. The next year, on April 5, 1987, the fledgling network began prime-time broadcasts on Sunday nights only. The initial line-up consisted of "Married With Children" and "The Tracey Ullman Show," which featured animated interludes of a dysfunctional cartoon family named the Simpsons. Three new shows were added in the following weeks, including "21 Jump Street," which helped launch the career of actor Johnny Depp. In July of that year, Fox launched a Saturday night prime-time line-up. From 1989 to 1993, the network steadily added programming and expanded its prime time coverage to a full seven nights a week.

Originally the network aimed its programming at a young urban demographic. Particular attention was given to African-American-oriented programming, with comedy series such as "Roc," "Martin," "Living Single" and "In Living Color" (a weekly comedy-variety show which showcased not only the talents of Keenan Ivory Wayans and his brother Damon Wayans, but also comedian Jim Carrey). The youth market got its first soap opera with "Beverly Hills 90210," and its successful spin-off "Melrose Place." Fox consistently programmed "risky" shows, even in the face of boycotts, most notably aimed at "Married With Children" and "Beverly Hills 90210." The network, feeling strong about its programming, slotted "The Simpsons" against NBC's top-rated sitcom "The Cosby Show" in 1991.

The network was also actively pursuing sports programming. In 1993, Fox won the rights to NFL football for four years, including the rights to 1997's Super Bowl XXXI. In 1994, Fox acquired the rights to broadcast NHL hockey and in 1995, Fox signed an agreement with Major League Baseball to broadcast weekly games, the 1996, 1998 and 2000 World Series, and 1997 and 1999 All Star Games.

1994 saw the creation of FX Networks. In June, FX, a general entertainment basic cable network was launched, featuring marquee sports events, series and films. In October, fXM (Movies From Fox) was initiated to show Twentieth Century Fox films unedited and commercial free.

Also in 1994, Fox premiered "The X-Files," a fiction series dedicated to exploring the bizarre, the unusual and the paranormal, all with a slant aimed at conspiracy buffs. It took a season to achieve ratings success, but "The X-Files" has become one of the most popular series on Fox and is fast becoming the most imitated series on television. All of these programming decisions and experiments have paid off. In the 1994-95 broadcast season Nielsen ratings, Fox finished ahead of pioneer network CBS. Fox beat CBS yet again in November, 1995. On October 7, 1996, Fox launched the new Fox News Channel on cable.

With the appointment of Richard Cronin as president and CEO of the Fox Kids Broadcast network and Fox Family Channel, Fox will be targeting young viewers with "quirky" programs. In its effort to increase its viewership by attracting young people, Fox hopes to also increase the number of older adults watching along with the children. For the 1998-99 season, Fox moved up its prime-time slot on the Fox Family channel to begin at 6:00 p.m. instead of 8:00 p.m., and introduced four new dramas and two comedies, catering to the age group Fox is relying on to push up its ratings.

Fox continued to be the only network showing any real growth. Youth-oriented programming—the recipe for its past success—made up most of the 1999-2000 season.

In 2000, Doug Herzog resigned as Fox entertainment president and his duties were assumed by Sandy Grushnow. Fox cancelled the aging show "Beverly Hills 90210" for the 2000-2001 season, relying on David E. Kelley's "Boston Public" and a slate of new shows aimed at the key 18-35 demographic as well as a lock on Major League baseball for $2.5 billion, starting with the 2001 season.

News Corp. agreed to buy the Chris-Craft station group squeezing out UPN, and Rupert Murdoch has said that a Fox 2 network is under consideration. Whether or not a Fox 2 Network is unveiled, it is certain that there will be no more "Who Wants to Marry a Millionaire" specials after the Darva Conger-Rick Rockwell debacle that left the network shame-faced and reeling.

In the 2001 season, Fox placed in the top three, edging out ABC for the first time. Fox TV Chairman, Brian Mulligan, resigned unexpectedly in November. For 2001-2002, Fox continued to cater to its young demographic with returning shows and new programs aimed at hooking the teen and twenty-something audience. Fox also chose to pick up the controversial "Temptation Island" for a second season, drawing unfavorable reviews from media watchdogs and critics alike.

NBC, INC.

(NATIONAL BROADCASTING COMPANY, INC.)

NBC was an outgrowth of Radio Corp. of America, General Electric and Westinghouse. These three companies jointly launched a network in 1926 with 31 stations, 25 in a network called Red and 6 in a network called Blue. A year later, it was forced to sell the Blue network to ABC, keeping for itself the one known as Red. Television began for NBC in 1928, when on April 4, it acquired from the FCC a permit to operate an experimental station, W2XBS. Actual transmission from the Empire State Building did not begin until October 30, 1931. Eight years later, the network began broadcasting on a regular basis, beginning with the opening of the New York World's Fair on April 30, 1939.

NBC became a TV network on January 12, 1940, when two stations, WNBC-TV, New York, and WRGB-TV, Schenectady, New York, carried the first network programming. In June, 1941, the FCC granted NBC the first commercial TV license and a month later it had four advertisers signed up. After World War II, NBC scored two big "firsts." On June 19, 1946, Gillette became the first advertiser to sponsor a TV network show, the Joe Louis-Billy Conn boxing match. That same year, Bristol-Myers became the first sponsor of a network TV series, "Geographically Speaking." NBC can also claim to be the first to introduce coast-to-coast network TV coverage. On September 4, 1951, when the U.S.-Japanese peace treaty was signed in San Francisco, NBC cameras were on hand. In 1952, NBC pioneered early-morning programming when it introduced "The Today Show." NBC can also claim the first regularly scheduled network color series "The Marriage," launched in 1954. That same year it achieved the first west-to-east TV transmission with the telecast of the Tournament of Roses Parade in color.

At the start of the 1965-66 season, NBC declared it was the "only all-color network." In 1968, NBC introduced new forms of TV programming with "The Name of the Game," a series that incorporated feature-film elements into a 90-minute show. This then spawned the "NBC Mystery Movie."

In 1972, NBC broke new ground again when it introduced "The Tomorrow Show" shown from 1:00 a.m. to 2:00 a.m. This was a talk program and it demonstrated that in the early hours of the morning something more than re-runs and old movies could be shown. In 1974, another late-night show called "Weekend" was begun. The 1976 NBC telecast of "Gone with the Wind" drew the largest audience to that date for an entertainment program. In 1978, "Holocaust" attracted 107 million viewers and won 21 major awards. Such programs helped NBC in the ratings, but in 1976-77 it fell to third place, where it stayed until 1983-84.

Along with the other networks, NBC moved into a period of turmoil during the decade of the 80s, fighting off rising costs and competition from cable TV and home video. In 1986, General Electric Corporation purchased RCA (NBC's parent) for $6.28 billion; GE, it will be remembered, helped launch the radio network in 1926 which led to the development of NBC-TV.

This brought personnel changes led by the replacement of Grant A. Tinker as NBC chief executive officer by Robert Wright, although Wright was not given Tinker's chairman title; that being taken by John F. Welch of GE. Instead, Wright was named president as well as chief executive officer. Along with its competition, NBC started cutting staff and budgets in 1986. In 1984-85, NBC edged up to second place, and the following year it was ranked number one in prime-time viewing for the first time in the three decades of Nielsen ratings.

NBC held on to its first place standing for the following five seasons, through 1990-91. Long-time hit series in the five-year period included "The Golden Girls," "Cheers," and "The Cosby Show." Despite the network's number one standing, figures showed a steady decline in viewers. In May of 1991, Brandon Tartikoff, credited with pulling the network up from third place 11 years earlier, departed from NBC to become head of Paramount Pictures. When "The Cosby Show" ran its final first run episode on April 30, 1992, it became NBC's highest-rated series finale episode ever. The 1992 Summer Olympics also gave the network its widest ratings margin of all time. The 1994-95 season found NBC on top with its popular sitcom "Seinfeld" and the two most highly rated new series, "ER" and "Friends," both placing in the top ten. During the 1995-96 season, NBC was again ranked the number one network, with four of its Thursday night shows ranking in the overall top five. In the summer of 1996, NBC, in association with software giant Microsoft, launched a 24-hour cable and Internet news channel, MSNBC.

In October, 1997 the networks adopted an updated "voluntary" ratings system that uses the letters S, V, D, L, SV, which stand for sex, violence, suggestive dialogue, strong language and non-comedic fantasy violence in addition to the age rating. Only NBC and Black Entertainment Television refused to use the new system. Despite pressure from the White House, Congress and advocacy groups, the network had said that the ratings tread on its First Amendment right, and that there was no public outcry for the new system.

With its star show "Seinfeld" going off the air, NBC was faced in 1999 with the seemingly impossible task of finding a replacement. The network did manage to keep "ER," its other highly successful show, albeit at a draining cost of $13 million per episode. Keeping in line with the demand for news television, NBC's Dateline showed 6½ hrs. of programming about Princess Diana and her fatal accident.

In mid-1999, NBC had to ante up again to keep a hit show. The contract for "Friends" was renewed through 2002 at a cost of approximately $5 million per episode. In spite of NBC's attempts to rally after the loss of "Seinfeld," the network slipped to second place behind CBS in 1999. Ratings for the new prime-time shows do not look promising and it may take another hit of the magnitude of "Seinfeld" to bring "Must See TV" back into American homes.

NBC had a tough year in 1999-2000, coming in third for the season. Perhaps worse than the ratings tumble were the embarrassing numbers during the Sydney Olympics. Various reasons for the poor viewership were cited, including the tape-delay that made it possible to get real-time Olympic results everywhere but NBC. In an effort to boost ratings, NBC executives demanded that Nielsen exclude the first half-hour of the Olympics' prime-time broadcast (7:00-7:30) from its calculations. That gambit did bring up numbers somewhat, but it's unlikely that the same tack will work during the primetime season which, with a few exceptions, looked dry.

In 2001-02, NBC faced the prospect of the Winter Olympics and the effect they would have on ratings. Elsewhere, NBC expanded the successful "Law and Order" franchise to include a third program, "Law and Order: Criminal Intent." Even with longtime hits like the original "Law and Order," "Friends," and "ER," NBC placed third in the 2000-01 ratings war. 2001 also saw the failure of NBC's attempt to become a force on the Internet with its NBC Internet (NBCi) venture. The company bought the 61% of NBCi it didn't already own and folded its operations. NBC now plans to court Hispanic viewers through its agreement to purchase Telemundo for $1.98 billion.

PAX TV

August 31st, 1998 marked the debut of PAX TV, the nation's seventh and newest broadcast network committed to airing family-friendly programming that includes original live-action series, daily entertainment and information shows, children's programming, as well as popular movies and off-network shows with proven audience appeal. PAX TV is a wholly-owned service of Paxson Communications Corp., a broadcasting company whose principal business is the ownership and operation of the largest broadcast television station group in the United States.

Paxson Communications Corp. was an outgrowth of Paxson Broadcasting founded in 1991 by Lowell W. "Bud" Paxson, the co-founder and past president of the Home Shopping Network, Inc., who had been involved in the radio and electronic retailing business for nearly 40 years. Paxson Broadcasting, a Florida-based radio group, initially purchased four radio stations in the fourth quarter of 1991 which were AM/FM combos in Jacksonville and Tampa. Over the course of several years, the Company assembled a substantial statewide radio broadcasting group, and as a result of agreements it had in place on radio stations prior to the 1993 FCC rule change permitting radio duopolies, the Company was among the first to exercise its options and expand its duopoly holdings.

By 1994, the company sought to replicate in television its success in radio. Paxson looked to acquire two types of television properties: underperforming, undermanaged network affiliates and independent stations in major markets which broadcast long-form paid programming. In April, 1994, the company purchased the equipment and acquired an option to buy its first television property, an independent TV station in Miami. Paxson took his company public in November, 1994, through a reverse merger with the American Network Group, Inc., and subsequently moved the new company, Paxson Communications Corp., to the American Stock Exchange. By December of that same year, Paxson had owned or operated four stations, airing a variety of infomercial and long-form programming which by January, 1995, became known as the Infomall TV Network ("IN TV"). By purchasing independent television stations, entering into time-brokerage agreements, affiliating with stations and extending its broadcast reach on cable via "must carry" requirements, Paxson created a national television broadcasting distribution infrastructure providing long-form programming.

In March, 1997, the Supreme Court upheld the "must carry" legislation, and as a result, all of the company's broadcast stations were suddenly viable as a network and would remain accessible to cable television audiences. In June 1997, the company sold its entire radio interest to Clear Channel Communications in a tax-advantaged transaction. Also in June, the company acquired The Travel Channel an interest in which was in turn sold to Discovery Communications, Inc. later that year.

The company announced in November, 1997 that it would launch the seventh broadcast television network, at that time branded as PAX NET, on August 31st the following year. The network would feature off-network runs of popular shows including the CBS hit series, "Touched By An Angel," "Dr. Quinn, Medicine Woman," and "Diagnosis Murder," in addition to a number of original programs and theatrical and made-for-television movies.

Between the November announcement of PAX NET and the August 31st launch of PAX TV, the company acquired additional television stations and expanded its distribution through cable agreements. The company also added popular off-network and original shows, and hired a number of executives and hundreds of new employees. In May, 1998, the company announced the appointment of former CBS president, Jeff Sagansky, to the post of president and CEO and the election of William E. Simon, Jr. to the position of vice chairman for Paxson Communications Corp. Paxson also announced that the Simon family would make an equity investment in the company, and one month later, announced the completion of its offering of $275 million of Preferred Stock.

With PAX TV maintaining positive ratings, Paxson Communications Corp. will continue to focus on enhancing the distribution of its network and the quality of PAX TV's programming.

In 1999, NBC bought a 32% stake in Paxson's stations, with an option to acquire control in 2002 for an additional $1.2 billion. Paxson stations, currently without any news programming, will likely carry NBC news as well as NBC programming in secondary timeslots.

In 2000, Paxson continued to do well with its off-network programming, including "Touched By An Angel," "Dr. Quinn, Medicine Woman" and other family-friendly fare. Paxson reported a 25% increase in viewership in the first three weeks of the 2000-2001 season, and plans to continue with its current slate of programming augmented with made-for-tv movies.

Pax continued to enjoy growth in 2001, with its 2001-02 season off to a good start, showing a 57% increase in viewership over the previous year.

RECENT PAX TV PROGRAMS

- 1998-99: Little Men, Flipper: The New Adventures, Neon Rider, It's a Miracle.
- 1999-00: Chicken Soup for the Soul, Little Men.
- 2000-01: Touched By An Angel, Dr. Quinn, Medicine Woman.
- 2001-02: The Weakest Link, The Ponderosa.

PUBLIC BROADCASTING SERVICE

In 1948, the FCC stopped issuing new television station licenses. American educators, fearful of the impact of unrestricted commercial broadcasting, pushed for the Commission to hold open channel slots for non-commercial, educational television broadcasts. In 1952, when the FCC freeze was lifted, 242 channels were reserved for educational television. America's first non-commercial educational television station was KUHT in Houston, started in 1953.

By 1962, 75 educational stations were broadcasting around the country. As these stations shared roughly the same programming interests, a loose distribution network evolved, allowing locally-produced programs like "Children's Corner" to be circulated among these stations. Most of the programming was produced on a shoestring budget. In 1962, the federal government authorized $32 million in matching funds for the construction of new educational television broadcasting facilities. In 1967, a blue ribbon panel urged local and state governments to increase their financial support of "public television" and recommended that the federal government participate in the production of programming. To this end, the first Public Broadcasting Act was passed. This law also created the Corporation for Public Broadcasting, a non-profit "steward" of the public funds committed to public broadcasting, and, not incidentally, a barrier against government interference in programming decisions.

In 1969, the Public Broadcasting Service's charter was signed, with its main intent the establishment of a nationwide program distribution service. 1969 saw the premiere of an hour-long, daily children's variety show, called "Sesame Street," which targeted pre-schoolers with fast-paced educational programming and featured live performers, cartoons and Muppets developed exclusively for the show by Jim Henson.

In 1970, PBS' first year as a "network," its programming included series as widely varied as "Washington Week in Review," "Civilisation," "The French Chef" and "Soul!" By 1973, PBS had more than 1 million individual subscribers. PBS and its member stations were responsible for bringing to U.S. audiences critically acclaimed BBC programming under the flag of "Masterpiece Theatre," which included such classics of television as "Upstairs Downstairs" and "I, Claudius." In 1976, PBS began broadcasting closed-captioned programming for the hearing impaired. In 1978, PBS became the first American network to distribute its programs by satellite.

Although some portion of PBS and its member stations' budgets are provided by federal and state government funding and corporate gifts, PBS and its member stations have continued to rely upon the contributions of individual viewers to stay afloat. In the late 1980s and early 1990s, PBS and the CPB suffered an enormous amount of criticism by government officials for an alleged "liberal" bias, and later in the 90s, for not being "self-sufficient." Although a notable few PBS series have achieved some financial success in other areas (primarily children's programming in the home video and product licensing fields), it is important to note that the production of most of the all-important local educational and public affairs programming never breaks even. In the face of continuing cuts in government funding, PBS programmers have accepted what may have been inevitable, the inclusion of commercial sponsorship (and actual commercials) in programming.

In the wake of the government threat of fund cuts, PBS increased its effort to achieve financial independence. In 1997, PBS president Ervin Duggan announced that the network would use its recognizable brand to market products and services, such as educational videos and distance-learning programs. With this approach as well as using the internet to sell its products and investing in new programming, PBS had a total revenue for the 1997 fiscal year of $239 million, $15 million more than its target.

PBS got caught in a scandal in 1999 involving the sharing of its donor lists with partisan political groups. The GOP complained about the practice, which primarily involved list-sharing with the Democratic Party. PBS admitted that it called into question the independence and impartiality of the public network.

In 1999, Frank Cruz was appointed Chairman of the Corporation for Public Broadcasting.

PBS continues to be a target of Republicans who are opposed to government funding of educational, informational, and cultural programming. Nonetheless, CPB's funding has been approved at $340 million for 2001, $350 million for 2002, and $365 million for 2003.

UPN (UNITED PARAMOUNT NETWORK)

UPN began broadcasting on January 16, 1995 as a joint venture between United Television/Chris-Craft Industries, Inc. and Paramount Television/Viacom Inc. The fledgling network's first official hit was the newest entry in the long-lived Star Trek franchise, "Star Trek: Voyager." Paramount TV executive Lucy Salhany was named president of the network. UPN currently broadcasts two nights of prime-time programming weekly, a Saturday afternoon movie, and plans to add an afternoon children's programming block. In the 1995-96 season, UPN debuted 8 new prime-time series. Lucy Salhany, president and CEO of the fledgling UPN network, announced that she would not renew her contract when it expired in September of 1997.

Led by the newly appointed CEO, Dean Valentine, UPN's management team had the difficult task of giving the sagging network a face-lift. Not unlike the other networks, UPN had to struggle to keep its viewers in 1998. The network's audience, consisting largely of black viewers, was angered when in an effort to attract a broad Middle American audience, UPN cancelled most of the shows that appealed to black viewers. And, in what seemed like a second slap, the network premiered the sitcom "The Secret Diary of Desmond Pfeiffer," despite protests from black activists claiming that the show trivialized slavery. As explained by Mr. Valentine, it appeared that UPN's problem was with its specific programming, which does not attract the female or suburban viewer.

The 1999-2000 line-up features several sitcoms designed to appeal to black viewers, balanced by the WWF and a couple of one-hour action shows. The Network still has not found its programming niche and is struggling to identify and expand its core audience.

The 2000-2001 lineup seems of less significance this year as UPN owner Viacom is required to sell the UPN stations as part of its merger with CBS. Rupert Murdoch's News Corp. is buying Chris-Craft whose UPN affiliates will likely be turned into either a second Fox network or absorbed into the existing Fox family. In the meantime, UPN has changed its name to The Paramount Network to reflect its new, sole ownership.

In 2001, Tom Noonan, head of programming, left UPN. In a strange twist, the embattled head of UPN, Dean Valentine, will assume his duties. This decision comes at a time when Valentine is suing the network for $22 million over contract incentives.

UPN came in fifth, behind FOX and just ahead of the WB in the November sweeps.

WARNER BROTHERS TELEVISION

In the 1950s when other studios were setting their eyes on television, Jack Warner was not interested in doing the same. But in 1955, ABC managed to make a deal with Warner and create the studio's first pact. The agreement entailed a Tuesday-night one-hour drama program on ABC, called "Warner Brothers Presents." Three rotating series were featured: "King's Row," "Casablanca," and the TV Western that lasted for eight seasons, "Cheyenne." "Maverick," starring James Garner, was introduced in 1957. The western proved popular with both viewers and critics, finishing sixth in the 1958-59 season ratings and being awarded the Best Western Series for the 1958-59 season, giving Warner Bros. TV its first Emmy award.

Although WB produced and created its share of shows in the 1960s such as "Room for One More" (the first situation comedy produced by the studio), "The Bugs Bunny Show" (TV's first animated series), and "The F.B.I." (WB's most popular primetime show of the late 1960s), TV production began drying up. With the appointment in 1969 of Gerald Leider as president of WB TV, the studio went through a revival with such shows as "Alice," "Kung Fu," and "The Dukes of Hazzard." The studio also acquired the rights to "Chico and the Man" and "Welcome Back, Kotter" already successful sitcoms, and the dramatic mini-series depicting the lives of African slaves, "Roots."

In 1988 WB acquired Lorimar Television, absorbing the series "Dallas," "Knots Landing," "Falcon Crest," "Full House," "I'll Fly Away" and others. By 1989, Lorimar Television & Warner Bros. TV represented the biggest supplier of prime-time TV programming to the networks. With the start of a new decade, the Warner Bros. studio appeared to be in good shape. But, the end of the Financial Interest rules, which limited the broadcast networks' ownership in programming and their ability to also produce, put WB in a less-than-perfect position as supplier. With the fear of falling victim to the networks, newly empowered by the FCC decision, WB began considering a network of its own. The first effort resulted in PTEN, which presented series as a syndicated block offered to stations. In January, 1995 and in partnership with Tribune Broadcasting, the WB network took off.

The budding network will be reaching 90% of the country in the 1998-99 season, with five nights of prime-time programming. While CBS and ABC have lost audience members in the 18-49 demographic group, and Fox and NBC have experienced only slight growth, WB has continued on its upward swing and increased its viewership by this (most desirable) demographic group by 60%.

2000-2001 is looking brighter for WB with the likely demise of UPN. While WB doesn't cater to a black audience, it does fill the "youth" programming niche and its new programs are well-suited to continue the WB's stronghold among teen viewers.

The WB was still struggling along ahead of PAX TV and behind UPN for the 2001-02 season. With some new programs on air and more in the pipeline, the net is still trying to get its footing in the highly competitive teen and young adult demographic.

CANADIAN YEAR IN REVIEW

BY DEBORAH TIFFIN

At the end of 2000, the CRTC handed down 21 Category 1 (guaranteed carriage) and 260 Category 2 (must negotiate carriage) digital specialty channel licenses as expected. The diverse Category 1 lineup (16 English and 5 French) included a pair of "world firsts"; Women's Sports Network and PrideVision, a gay/lesbian themed service. While the announcement was welcomed, there were several issues of industry concern. For example, at the time of issuance, cable providers were limited to 9.9% ownership of specialty channels, and while many held equity in the new licensees, there was speculation that carriers would try to increase their holdings by seeking equity stakes as a condition of carriage. Issues such as these were to be the topic of discussion at CRTC hearings in the spring of 2001 where the issue of ownership of pay and specialty channels was to be reviewed. An additional area of concern to be addressed included the impact of media concentration inherent in situations such as the BCE/CTV takeover. In June some of the rules were rewritten by the CRTC, when it announced that cable companies were now permitted to gain controlling interests in analog specialty channels, subject to certain conditions. The ruling was a response to the formation of Bell Globemedia, the result of the precedent-setting BCE/CTV deal, which saw a satellite distributor (Bell ExpressVu) and a broadcaster (CTV) with a number of specialty channels (including TSN, Discovery Channel, Talk TV, and Outdoor Life Network) under the same corporate control. The new rules also addressed the situation inherent in Corus Entertainment's (a media company spun off from cable provider Shaw Communications) ownership of specialty channels CMT, YTV and Treehouse. No limit was put on the number of specialty channels a cablecaster could own, however the ruling stressed the need for equitable treatment of all specialty and pay services in all applicable terms. Some Category 2 digital licensees still felt, however, that the issue of pressure by cable companies to sell equity interest in return for carriage had still not been adequately addressed.

The opening of the Canadian Cable Television Association's conference in June saw Jim Shaw, CEO of Shaw Communications and the CCTA chairman, express the view that "programming and marketing costs would sink 50% of the new services" and speculate that "perhaps we shouldn't launch any" at a panel session opening the conference. While many agreed that it was likely some Category 2 services would eventually fail, and it was evident that most of the Category 2's would not be ready for fall launch, most felt Shaw's outlook to be overly pessimistic. It was noted the biggest challenge facing the new licensees was to offer "compelling brands that are easily identifiable". Two million Canadian homes could receive the new digital channels, including 600,000 Star Choice and 750,000 Bell ExpressVu subscribers (both satellite delivery services), and 250,000 Shaw, 200,000 Rogers and 100,000 Cogeco cable subscribers.

Alliance Atlantis Communications (AAC) television group's revenue in the first quarter of 2001 rose 62% to $62 million from $38.2 million due largely to increased production deliveries. AAC, with shows such as CSI: Crime Scene Investigation and Outer Limits, produced 34.5 hours in the period compared with 19.5 hours last year. AAC acquired Salter Street Films (Halifax) in a friendly cash and stock deal worth approximately $84 million, in February. One significant aspect of the deal was AAC's acquisition of the coveted Independent Film Channel Category 1 license, which was awarded to Salter Street, along with 20 Category 2 licenses. (The transfer of the license is subject to CRTC approval, and was placed in trust until the agency rules on the issue.)

Another valuable asset was the Salter Street film and video library, which will provide additional original programming for AAC's existing specialty channels Showcase, History Television and the Life Network. February also saw the acquisition, by AAC Fact, of the UK-based documentary producer Café Productions. Both AAC Fact and Café have strong ties to Discovery Channel (U.S.). Café expects their output to reach between 50 and 75 hours of original factual productions or co-productions in the coming year. AAC Fact also announced a strategic alliance with Lark International, a group of six U.S. PBS member stations, with the intent to co-fund more than 30 hours of documentary programming for PBS and distribution by AAC. In July, AAC garnered 26 Emmy nominations, for five programs, in an unprecedented showing by a Canadian company.

Corus Entertainment also enjoyed a profitable first quarter (ending Feb. 28, 2001), reporting a 225% increase in revenue to $134.7 million from $41.4 million last year. The company has seen $1 billion in deals since going public in September 1999. In addition to 40 radio stations, the company acquired Nelvana late last year and children's publishing companies Kids Can Press and Klutz Publishing. In March Corus added the Women's Television Network (subject to CRTC approval) after selling its 50% interest in The Family Channel to Astral Communications. The company has also expressed interest in acquiring Cinar Corp.'s assets, specifically their library of approximately 2000 half-hour programs and Cinar's 20% stake in Teletoon, in a bid that would provide more children's programming for specialty channels YTV, Treehouse and Teletoon, and bring its level of ownership in Teletoon to 60%. Corus also readied two Category 1 digital services for launch in September.

A deal to acquire Groupe TVA's regulated assets by Quebecor Media, for a price of $489 million was finalized in July, after a protracted dispute over valuation of the acquisition's benefit package. The TVA network enjoys a 30 to 40% share of the Quebec market with the licenses for Réseau TVA and the Montreal station CFTM-TV recently renewed, and a 30% interest in the Global Television Quebec station CKMI-TV; and is active in the production (with 100% ownership of the affiliate production company JPL Production) and distribution of television programming.

In August, the CRTC ruled on license renewals for broadcasters CTV and Global Television. One condition of license is a requirement of 8 hours of Canadian priority programming per week (as outlined in the TV policy put into effect September 2000). In what was viewed as a boost for independent producers, the broadcasters must commission a minimum of 75% of that programming from production houses in which the licensees own or control less than 30% of the equity. The requirement effectively excludes product from the broadcasters' affiliates (Landscape Entertainment / CTV and Fireworks Entertainment / Canwest Global). On the issue of convergence, the broadcasters must adhere to The Statement of Principles and Practices, which was created to contribute to the Broadcasting Act's objectives. In practice the ruling means that the broadcasters must form neutral monitoring committees to deal with complaints from employees and staff, and which will report annually to the CRTC. A proposal that would have seen print and broadcaster journalists under the same corporate umbrella from communicating was avoided, with both broadcasters suggesting self-governance on the issue of news coverage.

YEAR IN REVIEW

BY NIMRA HANIF

The rumour mill churning out news of a depression in the television industry is getting busier. A gradual but certain decline in advertising is a major source of worry for producers of television programmes. At ITV advertising revenue was reportedly down by 15 percent in October. By the end of 2001, the advertising revenue for Carlton Communications and Granada, ITV's main shareholders, could be down by eight to nine percent for the year, a figure not reported for over ten years. Borrowings, at a record high for cable companies like NTL and Telewest are another major factor affecting the revenues of the television industry. Telewest which was valued at 12.9 bn some years ago was recently found to be worth only 1.2 billion pounds with a debt of 4.8 billion. Figures like this could be a big deterrent for any media multinational wishing to buy the company. Reportedly, the American giants Viacom and AOL-Time Warner have already expressed their reluctance to acquire these debt-ridden institutions.

The Consumers' Association has repeatedly pointed out that the optimism of cable companies about viewer interests is misplaced and overrated. They say that multichannel television will not catch on and the maximum take-up that could be expected is 65 percent, much lower than the figures predicted by digital providers at the beginning of last year. This year the figure is at thirty percent and it will take another five years for it to reach 55 percent.

Production companies who will have to think more realistically about programme budgets are feeling the financial squeeze. Under its boss Michael Jackson (who is now on his way to the United States to join USA Networks Inc.), Channel Four had doubled its investment from 34 million pounds in 2000 to 68 million this year, but for 2002 this figure has been cut right back to 34 million pounds. ITV is also in a frenzy of implementing budget cuts, particularly bad news for them because their trademark is expensive, popular drama series. The independent broadcaster dilemma is deepened by the rigidity of the laws of mergers and acquisitions in Britain. By law British broadcasters are protected against takeover and also forbidden from uniting with each other for fear of creating monopolies. However, in the present climate, there is immense pressure on the government to relax these rules in order to allow cross-media ownership and audience shares. This would help the companies to cross-promote products to audiences and advertisers. The government will also have to be persuaded to either finance or coerce audiences into making the switch to digital and turn off the analogue signal. It remains to be seen whether the government will be in favour of either of these options. In fact, opponents of this deregulation see it as a sign of the dumbing down of the broadcasting industry where the motivation of the service and programme providers is economic, not social or cultural. Former culture secretary Chris Smith said in a recent newspaper interview, "The dangers to public service broadcasting come...from a desire to chase ratings, rather than quality...Partly, it's because of the rapid diversification of channels which means much more material has to be generated. Inevitably people head for the cheap end of production." His successor in the present government Tessa Jowell said in a speech to the RTS, "The test should be audience reach as much as audience share, and compulsive competition with commercial services should never be the scheduling principle."

The BBC remains the broadcaster that independent broadcasters love to hate. They can't help but resent its infallible status in these depressed times and its guaranteed license income of 2.37 billion pounds. The BBC has plans of further expansion and will make a bid to introduce at least four more channels. But there is a strong feeling among both consumers and the government that more television does not make for better television. At best, multichannel television is an expensive option for most viewers. The defenders of traditional British programming resent the institution of niche television and demand variety in the existing terrestrial networks.
