How To Receive Distant Stations On Your Receiver

TV STATIONS

Various factors influence the reception of TV Signals. Of prime importance is a good receiver. A good antenna installation will improve reception immensely. A good rotor will increase the signals of stations located in various directions from the receiver. TV Boosters are also a great help in receiving distant stations. With the 4 items mentioned, it is possible to receive consistently good reception of stations located about 100 miles from the receiver. Weak but viewable signals (with snow) are heard from stations regularly up to 200 miles distant. Freak conditions prevail at times in the ionosphere, which cause TV signals to skip, and stations located 1000 miles or more from the receiver are received at these times. The best time to look for these freak signals is during the summer months especially around an hour or two before sunset and even during severe thunderstorms. At times the signals are as strong as local stations and are receivable on a built-in or "rabbit ears" antenna.

FM STATIONS

Since the FM frequencies are located between Channel 6 and 7 of the TV Band, the same conditions as explained above regarding TV freak reception and regular reception applies to FM Stations, except that most educational FM Stations are extremely low powered, and do not carry as far as the regular commercial FM Stations.

AM STATIONS

It has been said that no matter how far away or how low the power of an AM Station, under the proper conditions it can be heard anywhere in the world. That may be stretching it a bit, but we have personally tuned in Australian stations of 2000 watts power on the AM frequencies using a very inexpensive receiver, in a congested area of Indianapolis. Also WIRE, a 5000 watt Indianapolis station has received letters reporting reception of its DX and regular programs from listeners in Australia, which is just about as far away as you can get.

Of prime importance is a good receiver. We prefer a communications type receiver for our distant listening. Such a receiver may be obtained for less than $50.00 at your local Electronics store. It offers good separation of stations, and is powerful enough to bring in stations coast to coast, even with just a small cloth covered wire antenna stretched out on the floor. Most of the newer auto radios are very sensitive and selective. We have picked up good clear signals from Cuba, Mexico, etc, right downtown in Indianapolis. Of course the more expensive Communication Receivers offer better station separation, and are more powerful, have better tone, and offer other features which make them worth the extra expense to the confirmed and experienced DX listener. A location free from interference and a good antenna are a big help in getting distant or unusual stations.

Freak reception is noticeable on the AM Radio stations, but not as pronounced as in FM or TV reception, however there is a definite difference in reception from hour to hour, day to day, and season to season. Winter is the best time of year and generally speaking, a clear, cold night is the very best time of all, since thunderstorms, and lightning cause static.

During daylight hours, your reception is usually limited to stations within 200-300 miles, depending upon the power of the station. You will note that many stations operate during the daytime only. At about sunset, when these stations are signing off, is a good time to pick up some unusual stations. Here in Indianapolis, we can frequently pick up WVMI, Biloxi, Miss., WDCL, Tarpon Springs, Fla., etc., as they sign off at sunset. It is interesting to stay on one frequency an entire day. During daylight, you will hear a station, then after it signs off, you may hear another station to the west of you sign off 15 minutes later, then another, farther west. During the early evening a Cuban station may come in strong. Later in the evening a station in Canada, followed by a station in Mexico. After midnight, a station on the west coast may be heard clearly after most of the other stations have signed off. Perhaps a Texas or New York station may operate 24 hours a day, and come in about 3 am. Just before daybreak, the eastern stations will begin to come on the air, first a Virginia or Carolina Station, followed 15 minutes later by a Kentucky or Tennessee station and so on until the daytime only station that you hear all day long returns to the air. In a 24 hour period you may hear as many as 20 or 25 stations on the same frequency fairly regularly. Due to freak atmospheric conditions, directional receiving and transmitting antennas, along with various stations testing new equipment (usually between 1 am and 4 am local time) it is possible to receive every station listed in this publication. If you do, though you will be the first one.

Should you desire to follow DX listening as a hobby, (DX is the hobby of receiving distant stations) there are several good DX Clubs which can give you information and hints on the pursuit of the elusive stations, and information on how to receive verifications from the various stations. Write to

Jones North American AM-FM Radio - TV Station Listings is published quarterly by The Vane A. Jones Co. 3749 N. Keystone Ave., Indianapolis, 18, Indiana, USA

Price 50¢ per copy. Subscription 2 years $3.50; 1 year $2.00. Bulk prices available by request.

More than 3000 changes in information are incorporated in this issue. Many new stations have come on the air since our last issue. There are now well over 6,000 Stations listed herein. Due to the large numbers of changes expected in each issue, along with the many new stations scheduled to begin operation, we have come to a crossroads in our publication much sooner than we had anticipated. It is our intention to please our users! There are several paths we can take from now on. We had intended a regular article on how to get better use from your receivers. We had intended an article each month on a new product for your guidance in purchasing equipment. We had intended to print a list of the major changes since last issue. As you can see, there is scarcely room for 1 more station in this issue. We must either reduce the size of type, eliminate some of the stations (Cuba, Mexico, etc.) or we can increase the size of the publication. 68 pages would have allowed the above features, but 72 pages may be required for the following issue, etc. If we increase the size, we must either sell some advertising, or increase the cost of the book to 75¢ or possibly $1.00. Also we have had several requests for Short Wave information. Should we include the Short Wave stations in our regular editions, or should we publish a separate Short Wave issue annually? You the readers will determine the course we take. On page 63 you will find a ballot. It is on the back of the subscription blank on page 64. Will you please mail it in as soon as possible?

In order to allow time for your votes, the next issue, Spring 1959 will be out in March of 1959. As you can see there was no Fall 1958 issue. Subscribers will receive 4 or 8 issues, regardless of the dating on each issue. Thanks again for your interesting comments and suggestions. Keep them coming. It is the only way we are guided in bringing you the information you want regarding North American Broadcasting.

NEW PRODUCTS REVIEW

Due to the lack of space in this issue of "Jones North American AM-FM Radio-TV Station Listings" we have omitted our regular feature, 'New Products Review'.

Manufacturers of products useful to Radio & TV listeners and viewers are invited to submit new products for testing and reporting from a non-technical users viewpoint. Before shipping products for testing, please contact the publisher as space is limited, and we prefer to review new products recently placed on the market.

HELP WANTED

The Vane A. Jones Company is contemplating the publication of a list of Short Wave Stations. Should we decide to publish such a list we will need correspondents in various parts of the world, who can monitor Short Wave Broadcasts, and report on program schedules, reception of stations etc. If you feel qualified for such a task, and are interested in furnishing such information on a regular basis, please write us, with complete information regarding your qualifications, samples of the material you can furnish, and the amount of remuneration you would expect if the information was furnished quarterly and published as a part of "Jones North American AM-FM Radio-TV Station Listings".
