The CALL LETTER is published monthly as the only official publication of the Northwest Vintage Radio Society which is a non-profit historical society incorporated in the state of Oregon. The Call Letter is available only as part of the NWVRS membership. NWVRS is not responsible for any buying and selling transactions incurred, or for any other use of the contents of this publication.

ATMOSPHERICA B. TP

REQUISCAT IN PACE

The panel was MICARTA, And the baseboard made of pine. Dials were KURZ-KASCH verniers, Tuning HAMMERLUND straight-line.

CARTER supplied the rheostats, AMER-TRAN, the audio needs. NA-ALDS held the CUNNINGHAMS, FAHNSTOCKS, the battery leads.

SANGAMO condensers, a few Resistors made by LYNCH. Threaded tubes of BAKELITE Made winding coils a cinch.

BELDEN wire for hook-up, KELLOGG jacks for phones. A FARRAND inductor speaker To catch those dulcet tones.

Add an old VICTROLA cabinet, And this collection came to be The MASTERPIECE of my young life, Old HYBRID number three.

PROSIT!

Our N-double U-V-R-S----A boon to old sets in distress. Many radios decrepit, Would still be---excepit, Our nostalgia saved them--I guess.  Tom James

ANTIQUE ELECTRONIC SUPPLY

Antique Electronic Supply of Tempe, Arizona specializes in parts and supplies for restoring antique radios. Started in 1982 by George H. Fathauer, retired electronic engineer, and his Son George A. Fathauer, the business opened in a 1450 square foot office/warehouse, and offered sales and service of antique radios, under the name Antique Radio and Tube Co.

The real specialty was tubes. Virtually every receiving tube ever used in the U.S. could be purchased there. Soon people from all over the country were contacting them for hard-to-find tubes. The result was formation of a mailorder division under the name Antique Electronic Supply.

A process of evolution has since taken the Fathauers away from radio sales and service to a full-time committment to catalog sales of tubes, parts, books and supplies for radio restoration. The firm now employs five people in a new 4500 square foot office/warehouse.

Last year over 70,000 vacuum tubes were sold to radio collectors, hams, TV repair shops, audiophiles and musicians. The annual 24 page catalog features a full color cover, and lists transformers, capacitors, resistors, power supplies, kits, crystal radio parts, knobs, old style wire, books and chemicals, as well as the tubes. Many of the catalog items have been custom manufactured, or "reproduced" specifically for the early radios.

The 1988 catalog (with a full color picture of the A.K. Model 5) may be obtained by writing to Antique Electronic Supply, 688 W. First St., Tempe, Arizona 85281, or call 602-894-9503.

The catalog is also in the NWVRS library.

Radio Waves at the 20s

By Dick Karman

Do you remember the 1920s? Those were the roaring years. Prohibition, Sacco and Vanzetti, The Scopes Trial, Al Capone, and Black Tuesday kept them hopping.

Warren Harding was elected president in 1921. He had an unhappy two years in office. He bemoaned the responsibilities of the presidency and spoke harshly of, not his enemies, but his friends. On July 24th, 1923, after only 27 months in office, Harding died. Vice President Calvin Coolidge took over the office and remained in it through the balance of the twenties.

Common terms included teapot dome, Flappers, Speakeasies, Mickey Mouse, and "Makin' Whoopee". New on the market were the yo-yo, Kleenex tissues, dry ice, the Whippet, two-sided phonograph records, the 16 mm movie, and safety auto glass. On the music scene were Bye Bye Blackbird ('26), Five Foot Two, Eyes of Blue ('25), Happy Days Are Here Again ('29), Tea for two ('24), Ain't We Got Fun ('21), Yes We Have No Bananas ('21), Only a Rose ('25), California Here I Come ('24), and Tip Toe Through the Tulips ('29).

Women were in the public eye. Flappers dictated the styles. Small hats and straight lines. Fashions had skirts moving from ankle-length to nearly above the knee. Waistlines moved to almost below the hips. The first Miss America contest was held in 1921. Amelia Earhart was the first woman to fly across the Atlantic (1928). Aimee Semple McPherson ran off with her radio announcer in 1926.

Radio came of age. WEAF carried the first sponsored radio program in 1922. In 1923 WEAF and WJAR, joined by wire, became the first network. The Republican National Convention was first heard in 1924. Sparks-Withington radio began in 1925; the National Broadcasting Company in 1926. Bing Crosby and Ted Husing entered radio in 1927. The Philadelphia Storage Battery Company marketed it's first radio set in 1928. By 1929 radio sales reached $842,545,000, and over 625 stations were on the air.

If you enjoy remembering and yearn to hear the popular sounds of those years again, listen to the Mighty Memory Mobile on KVIX radio 1290 every Sunday. They have worked their way through the twenties in the last few weeks, they will be looking back at the thirties, forties and fifties in the weeks to come.

Radio Notes

Edwards To Retire

Douglas Edwards, a news caster since the days of vintage radio announced in February that he would retire April 1st. Mr. Edwards began with WSB radio in 1936 and made the giant step to CBS in 1942. Edwards had the privilege to work with greats like Edward R Murrow and Paul White. We wish him well in his retirement and thank him for the nearly 50 years of news that he has given us.

Charles Crowder Dies

Mr. Charles Crowder, radio writer of such shows as Tales of the Weird and Unknown, and Strange Adventures, passed away on February 20th at the age of eighty. His observations during his travels in the 40s provided much of the material he used in his radio shows. He is survived by his wife Mozelle and daughters Carol and Charlene.
