SERVICES for the RADIO INDUSTRY

● SURVEYS

What newspaper radio editors think of press departments; press agents . . . A study of children's programs on the air . . . these are but two of the informative surveys which appeared in The Billboard recently. Others will follow.

● FUTURE LIST

A complete compilation of the important holidays and special events published in The Billboard every month . . . an invaluable aid in program planning.

● RADIO REVIEWS

Honest, unbiased and accurate. Written by men who know radio.

● INTERPRETIVE NEWS

Not alone what is happening in Radio, but the news behind the news! That's the additional treatment The Billboard gives the developments in the radio industry.

● SUPPLEMENTARY NEWS

Radio is show business and for a thorough understanding of trends and occurrences in radio, the radio showman must know what is happening in other branches of the business. The Billboard is the only trade paper that gives thorough, honest and straightforward coverage of all the happenings in all branches of the show business.

200 PAGES PACKED WITH AUDIENCE BUILDING TIME SELLING IDEAS THAT HAVE BEEN THOROUGHLY TESTED

THE FIRST BOOK: Two years ago publication of the first 1001 TESTED PROGRAMS AND MERCHANDISING IDEAS book—180 pages of practicable, usable material—was published. That book has been purchased by station managers, sales managers and program directors, as well as radio directors of advertising agencies, in the United States, Canada, England, France, Australia, India, Cuba, Puerto Rico, Latin American countries, Brazil, Chile, Argentina, Venezuela, Ecuador and other countries. In many cases initial orders were followed by a second order.

THE SECOND BOOK: THE SECOND 1001 TESTED PROGRAMS AND MERCHANDISING IDEAS will soon be off the press. A bigger, more valuable, more complete volume in every way. The programs will be those that have been developed since the first book went to press. Almost 200 pages packed with time sales building and program ideas—ideas that have proved their audience popularity; IDEAS THAT ARE MAKING MONEY FOR THE STATIONS AND THEIR CLIENTS.

THE SECOND 1001 TESTED PROGRAMS AND MERCHANDISING IDEAS WILL BE EVEN MORE COMPLETE. . . . AND IT WILL BRING YOUR PROGRAM AND TIME SALES IDEA FILE UP-TO-DATE. IN ADDITION YOU WILL RECEIVE QUARTERLY AT LEAST FIFTY ADDITIONAL IDEAS, SO THAT THE PRICE OF THE BOOK WILL BRING YOU A YEAR'S SERVICE OF THE MOST VALUABLE KIND. . . . A SERVICE THAT WOULD ORDINARILY COST MORE THAN THE PRICE OF THE BOOK EACH QUARTER.

LIMITED EDITION: Because the field for such a book is small, the edition will be limited to orders received by the time we go to press. For that reason it is urgent that you place your order at once. There will be no second edition. PLACE YOUR ORDER TO-DAY AND PLEASE USE THE COUPON BELOW.

RADIO--a history

1912--1937

from the Radio Division, Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C. 1912-1930.

From 1930 to 1937 by Radio Daily staff.

1912. F. A. Kolster, of the Bureau of Standards, invented and developed the Kolster decremeter, which is used to make direct measurements of wave length and logarithmic decrement. This instrument has been used by the radio service of the Department of Commerce since it was invented.

In February the Marconi Co. procured the patents of Bellini and Tosi, including those for the wireless direction finder.

On February 9 the Australian Commonwealth station was opened.

On April 15 the steamship "Titanic," on her maiden voyage, struck an iceberg and sank, but owing to the prompt wireless call for assistance the lives of more than 700 of her passengers were saved.

The International Radiotelegraphic Conference opened in London on June 4 and approved important regulations to have uniformity of practice in wireless telegraph services. On July 5 the International Radiotelegraphic Convention was signed at London.

July 23: Act approved by the United States Government extending act of June 24, 1910, to cover cargo vessels and requiring auxiliary source of power, efficient communication between the radio room and the bridge, and two or more skilled radio operators in charge of the apparatus on certain passenger-carrying vessels.

August 13: Act approved by the United States Government licensing radio operators and transmitting stations.

During this year the Governments of France and the United States experimented between the Eiffel Tower station and Washington by wireless to procure data for comparing the velocity of electromagnetic waves with that of light.

On October 11 the "Volturno" was burned in mid-Atlantic, and in response to the wireless appeal 10 vessels came to the rescue, 521 lives being saved.

November 12: Safety at Sea Conference held in London. At this conference the use of radio received appropriate consideration.

On November 24 the first practical trials with wireless apparatus on trains were made on a train belonging to the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad.

The station at Macquerie Island was the means of keeping Doctor Mauson, the Australian explorer, in touch with the outer world. Radio dispatches were published in a small journal which was established, called the Adelle Blizzard.

High-powered transoceanic stations were completed at Carnarvon, Wales, Belman, Honolulu, and San Francisco during the autumn of 1914. The Honolulu-San Francisco stations were opened to public service September 24. The Tuckerton-Eilvese and Sayville-Nauen stations were in operation about this time.

Most of these stations made use of the latest developments in the art, using undamped and long waves as produced by the Poulsen arc and the radio-frequency alternator.

On October 6 E. H. Armstrong was issued a patent covering the regenerative circuit also known as the feed-back and the self-heterodyne circuit.

During 1914 and 1915 the United States Navy duplexed its principal shore stations in order that these stations could communicate with ships and with each other simultaneously.

1915. During this year F. A. Kolster, of the Bureau of Standards, developed a radio compass said to be more effective than that which was being used.

April 1: Service was established between the station at Wahiawa, Oahu, Hawaii, and the United States naval station at Tutuila, Samoa Islands, a distance of 2,400 miles.

On May 12, in Battery Park, New York City, the mayor unveiled the monument in memory of wireless operators who had lost their lives at the post of duty.

On July 27 wireless communication between the United States and Japan was effected. Two terminal stations were located at San Francisco and Funabashi, near Tokyo, and the messages were relayed through Honolulu.

On July 28 the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., working in conjunction with the Western Electric Co., succeeded in telephoning the wireless across the American Continent from Arlington to Hawaii, a distance of nearly 5,000 miles.

On October 26 the wireless telephone experiments were continued, communication being effected across the Atlantic from Arlington to the Eiffel Tower, Paris.

During this year ship service was greatly improved through the installation of new equipment, embodying features of great practical value, by various operating companies. Efficient emergency radio transmitters came into wider use owing considerably to the efforts of the radio service of the Department of Commerce and its refusal to pass inefficient equipment.

1916. During the course of a severe blizzard in the United States during February wireless telegraphy was extensively used for train dispatching, as the telegraph wires were down.

The determination of the difference in longitude between Paris and Washington with the aid of radio which had been in progress since October, 1913, was completed during May, the result, expressed in terms of time, being 5 hours 17 minutes 35.67 seconds, and has a probable accuracy of the order of 0.01 second.

The initiation of the newly established trans-Pacific wireless service between the United States and Japan was celebrated on November 5 by an interchange of messages between the Mikado and President Wilson.

1917. June 2 marked the "coming of age" of wireless telegraphy in England; that is, that 21 years had elapsed since the registration of patent 12039 in 1896.

1918. The trend of progress toward continuous-wave communication as distinct from that by damped waves was very marked during this year, a particular impetus being given by the continued development of the electron tube as an efficient receiver and generator of undamped oscillations. Steady improvement was also evident in the arc form of generator which was installed in many new high-power stations.

Wireless telephony also progressed to a marked extent, particularly in the direction of reliability and increase of range, due mainly to the development of valve generators and receivers.

In the equipment of aircraft with wireless great progress was made, both in radiotelegraphy and radiotelephony.

In April a high-power station was opened at Stavanger, Norway, for the use of the Norwegian Government. The station communicates with the United States.

In the Argentine the erection of a station destined for direct communication with the North American Continent was commenced in the vicinity of Buenos Aires.

On July 31 the United States Government took over all wireless land stations in the United States, with the exception of certain high-power stations, which remained under the control of commercial companies.

On September 22 messages transmitted from Carnarvon were received in Sydney, 12,000 miles away. Cable confirmations of these messages were sent forward at the same time, but were received some hours later than the corresponding radiotelegrams.

At the end of the year a high-power station, erected by the United States Government, was opened at Croix d'Hins, near Bordeaux.

1919. The successful trans-Atlantic flights of Alcock and Brown, of the American "NC4" and of the British dirigible "R34" during the summer of the year focused attention upon the application of radio for aviation purposes and its great value for aerial navigation.

In February a Spanish decree was issued to the effect that all sailing vessels of 500 tons or over and carrying 50 or more passengers must be equipped with wireless apparatus.

On June 30, 1919, there were 2,312 ship stations of the United States, having increased from 1,478 on June 30, 1918. At this time new ship stations were increasing at the rate of 100 a month. This increase was due to the great number of vessels built during the war period.

During the year the Radio Corporation took over the radio interests of the American Marconi Co.

The war-time ban on private and experimental wireless stations was removed.

1920. The steady development of continuous-wave wireless work was continued during the year and some further progress made in the commercial application of tube apparatus.

1921. Experiments were carried out in France with successful results in the application of Baudot and similar high-speed telegraph apparatus to radio work.

The progress made in amateur and experimental wireless is exemplified by the attempts made in February and December of this year to effect communication on short-wave lengths between the wireless amateurs of the United States and Great Britain. The first attempt was unsuccessful, but during the second test signals from many American amateur stations were heard both by British radio amateurs and by the representative of the American Radio Relay League who was sent over for the tests. The signals were also heard in Holland.

The American Radio Relay League held its first annual convention in Chicago, August 30-September 3, at which many thousands of amateurs of the United States were present.

The first licenses for broadcasting stations in the United States were issued in September of this year.

New York radio central station opened on Long Island.

1922. During this year broadcasting stations increased rapidly in keeping with the great interest taken in the art.

First Annual Radio Conference held in Washington, D. C., February 27.

On June 7 E. H. Armstrong read a paper before the Institute of Radio Engineers on some recent developments by him of regenerative circuits. Professor Armstrong was granted a patent for the superregenerative circuit.

Experiments in radiotelephony from ship to shore were conducted during this year. In tests from the steamship "America" it was proved possible to communicate with land telephone stations more than 400 miles distant from the ship.

1923. On March 2 L. A. Hazeltine, of Stevens Institute of Technology, presented a paper before the Radio Club of America on tuned radiofrequency amplification with neutralization of capacity coupling. Professor Hazeltine was granted a patent for the nonradiating neutrodyne receiver.

On March 4 the Cleveland, Ohio (KDPM), station of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. successfully repeated short waves from the East Pittsburgh, Pa. (KDKA), station for the first time in history.

Second Annual Radio Conference held in Washington, D. C., March 20.

The Marconi Co. made a tender, which was accepted, for the erection of a transmitting station in Australia of a power of 1,000 kilowatts with 20 steel masts, 800 feet high. Corresponding stations were to be provided in England and Canada. The receiving arrangements would permit simultaneous reception from five stations.

The construction of a large radio station in a valley between the Herzogstand and the Stein, two of the foothills in the Bavarian Alps, was undertaken. The aerial will be suspended by wire cables stretched between the tops of the two hills, the aerial wires being suspended from these cables.

The increase in traffic on some of the large liners of the Atlantic route led to the installation of apparatus for high-speed automatic transmission and reception on several lines.

Successful tests on wireless-controlled airplanes were carried out at the Etampes Aerodrome in France. Flights were made without a pilot. Flights were also made with a pilot using a gyroscope stabilizer and special steering motors which could be controlled from the ground.

The International Commission for Aerial Navigation agreed, as a general principle, that all aircraft engaged in public transport must carry radio apparatus.

The General Electric Co. developed a tube capable of delivering 20 kilowatts of high-frequency energy to an aerial. Using six of these tubes in parallel with 15,000 volts on the anode, a current of 310 amperes in an Alexanderson multiple-tuned aerial was obtained. A tube of the magnetron type was developed by the same company capable of giving 1,000 kilowatts at 20,000 cycles with an efficiency of 70 per cent.

Great progress was made during the year in the development of vacuum tubes.

Short waves were used to greater advantage than heretofore.

The McMillan expedition to the polar regions had radio as their only means of direct communication. Using low power and short waves, their vessel, "Bowdoin," communicated with several stations in the United States while they were frozen in thousands of miles away. Broadcasting concerts from United States stations were heard during the long dark nights of the Arctic Zone.

During the year foreign countries became interested in radiotelephone broadcasting. Broadcasting in the United States heard in England. British programs were also heard in the United States.

On December 31, East Pittsburgh, Pa. (KDKA), transmitted a program to Great Britain on a short wave.

1924. The high-power station at Monte-Grande, Argentina, was opened in January for direct communication with New York, Paris, and Berlin. The service will be extended to Great Britain when a corresponding transmitting station is available. The power of the station is 800 kilowatts, the aerial being carried on 10 masts, each 690 feet high. The receiving station is at Villa Eliza, 30 kilometers from Buenos Aires, the actual control being effected from a central office in Buenos Aires.

On February 5 a radio program broadcasted in the United States from the East Pittsburgh, Pa. (KDKA), station of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. was received and rebroadcast in England for the benefit of English stations.

On February 23 a concert broadcast by the same station and relayed from London, England, was heard clearly in Calcutta, India.

In July an agreement was concluded between the British Government and the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Co. (Ltd.) for the construction of a wireless station on the beam system, capable of communicating with Canada and of being extended to India, South Africa, and Australia, the transmitting station to have an input of at least 20 kilowatts and the receiving station to have an aerial designed to focus the received waves within an angle of 30°.

The short-wave direction system of radiotelegraphy and the results obtained in tests made on it were described in a lecture before the royal Society of Arts, in July by Senatore Marconi.

During the period from August 5 to September 24 the East Pittsburgh, Pa. (KDKA), station maintained communication with the ship "Arctic" while on its expedition to the Arctic regions. Upon the ship's return it was reported that messages sent on short waves by the East Pittsburgh station were received at Cape Sabine within 11° of the North Pole. This is the farthest north radio messages have been received.

Third National Radio Conference held in Washington, D. C., October 6.

On October 11 signals from the East Pittsburgh station were successfully repeated from a station in Cape Town, Africa.

An expedition from the United States, under the leadership of Hamilton Rice, which will explore the Amazon and Orinoco Rivers in Brazil and Venezuela, in the interest of geographical sciences in general, will have radio as their only means of communication.

A wireless lighthouse has been set up on an island in the Firth of Forth, Scotland. Wireless waves are concentrated by reflectors into a beam which can be sent 100 miles, giving ships their position in a fog.

1925. Considerable progress was made during 1925 in working with short waves. Several transoceanic stations are working foreign stations at great distances on wave lengths varying from 22 to 103 meters.

In an experiment between the Hastings (Nebr.) station and the East Pittsburgh (Pa.) station the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. demonstrated that a 64-meter wave could be picked up, and by placing it on a short transmission line to the transmitting station, increasing the strength of the signals to their original power or greater; if necessary, the amplified wave could be transmitted onward. This experiment shows that repeater stations can be constructed in different parts of the world and be fairly certain of transmitting a strong signal.

A number of short-wave transmissions were made by East Pittsburgh (KDKA) transmitting to South Africa and Australia.

During July programs were broadcast to the American naval fleet in Australian waters.

The practical use of the telephone and radio for the transmission of photographs was more clearly demonstrated during the year.

Broadcasting programs from airplanes was done in a few instances.

The General Electric Co., the Radio Corporation of America, and the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. conducted experiments in broadcasting, using as high as 50 kilowatts.

The Department of Commerce placed in commission a "radio test car" which is equipped with an assortment of radio instruments used in conducting tests and investigations.

The Fourth National Radio Conference was held in Washington, D. C., November 9, 1925.

The Radio Corporation of America began the operation of a high-powered broadcasting station at Bound Brook, N. J., for transmission of programs to Europe. This station is equipped so as to use as high as 50 kilowatts.

One of the large electrical companies conducted experiments to determine the characteristics and peculiarities inherent in the piezo crystals. Several stations are now using this quartz crystal to maintain a constant frequency which eliminates to a great extent the "beat notes" resulting from two stations heterodyning at an audio-frequency. The radio-inspection service of this department has been supplied with these crystals to insure accuracy in frequency or wave-length measurements.

1926. During this year directional or beam transmission developed to a point where it may now be considered as practical for commercial usage.

The use of quartz plates for maintaining constant frequency or radio transmitters advanced considerably during the year.

Successful radiotelephone experiments were conducted between New York and London. This service will be used commercially in the near future. With the development of transmitting pictures by radio it is now practical to transmit weather maps to vessels at sea.

The single-dial receiver came into greater use for reception of programs from broadcasting stations.

Commercial pictoradiogram services are now in operation between New York and London and between San Francisco and Hawaii.

On July 8 the Attorney General of the United States rendered a decision to the effect that the Secretary of Commerce has no jurisdiction as to the wave length, with the exception of the band between 600 and 1,600 meters reserved for Government stations, or the power used by commercial stations, including broadcasting stations.

Radiotelephone was used for the first time in directing the filming of a naval scene, off the coast of California, for a photoplay.

During the year successful development of a wireless system for controlling fog signals from unattended lighthouses and beacons marked a great advance on the automatic or semiautomatic systems for starting and stopping acetylene fog-signal gun by wireless impulses.

Successful experiments of synchronizing two or more stations in order that simultaneous operation on the same wave length without interference may be accomplished were conducted by the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. during the year.

1927. Transatlantic radiophone service opened to the public on January 7.

Radio act of 1927 passed February 23, creating the Federal Radio Commission.

On April 7 the experimental radio station of the Bell Telephone laboratory at Whippany, N. J. (3XN), was successfully used in a public demonstration of television; the facial expression and voice of Secretary of Commerce Hoover could be seen and heard in New York distinctly and at the same time.

Radio was used by the airplane "America" on June 29 for the first time by an airplane in crossing the Atlantic Ocean from the United States to France.

International Radio Telegraph Conference held at Washington, D. C., October 4 to November 25.

As a result of experiments conducted during the past two years on methods of synchronization broadcasting stations WBZ at Springfield, Mass., and WBZA at Boston, Mass., owned by the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co., are now being regularly operated simultaneously in absolute synchronism, the wave length of the transmitter at the Boston station being automatically controlled by the Springfield transmitter so that any variation at Springfield will create a similar variation at Boston, assuring absolute synchronism at all times during the operation of these stations.

Experiments are now being conducted for the synchronization of two or more transmitters by radio control instead of by wire as in the case of the two stations referred to.

The U. S. S. "Kittery," experimenting with a radio compass during hurricane weather, found that the intensity of static may be useful in detecting and locating storms at a considerable distance.

The experimental station of the General Electric Co. at Schenectady, N. Y., call signal 2XAG, in experiments used a vacuum tube of 100,000 watts power.

The Department of Commerce began the installation of directional radio-beacons for use in aviation. Two-way communication experiments between plane and ground carried on with considerable success.

1928. January: Commander A. Hoyt Taylor, United States Navy, was awarded the Morris Liebman memorial medal by the Institute of Radio Engineers for research in short-wave phenomena during the previous year.

February 8: A successful television demonstration was carried on during the night between station 2KZ in London, England, and amateur station 2CVJ in Hartsdale, N. Y.

March 7: A successful ship-to-shore television test was conducted from a London (England) station with the steamer "Berengaria."

March 28: Amendment to the radio act of 1927 approved.

June 27: A 2-way short-wave radio circuit was first used commercially for telephony between America and Europe. The short-wave circuit supplements the long-wave circuit which was opened for commercial service during 1927.

September 11: Station WGY, Schenectady, N. Y., was the first station to broadcast a play by television. The play, a 1-act drama, entitled "The Queen's Messenger," was broadcast during the afternoon and again in the evening.

November 1: 2-way telephone communication established between Sydney, Australia, and Schenectady, N. Y., a distance of 10,000 miles.

November 6: In broadcasting the returns of the presidential election the National Broadcasting Co. had 59 stations throughout the United States connected into a single network, and the Columbia Broadcasting System had 26 stations connected in another network.

November 26: The trans-atlantic radiophone service between North America and Europe was extended to another continent—Africa—by the establishment of service to Ceuta, Spanish Morocco.

December: Commander Richard Byrd, on a scientific expedition in the Antarctic, operated a radio station, located farther south than any station heretofore, to keep in touch with civilization. Programs of the short-wave relay broadcasting station of the East Pittsburgh (Pa.) station of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. were received by the station.

At one time during the political campaign 106 broadcasting stations in the United States were connected into a single network by means of approximately 25,000 miles of telephone circuits together with about 48,000 miles of telegraph circuits for program coordination and auxiliary communication.

During the year radio apparatus was used to detect mineral deposits in the United States.

Amateur and commercial stations were used to great advantage through lack of other means of communication during the Florida and Porto Rico storms.

The use of receiving sets operated by house current and dynamic loud speakers came into greater use during the year.

The General Electric Co. developed a vacuum tube, 5 inches in diameter and about 2 feet long. It is operated as a self-excited oscillator on a wave length of 6 meters and is capable of radiating from 10 to 15 kilowatts of high-frequency power—probably fifty times as much as any short-wave tube has heretofore been able to radiate.

1929. January 21: Conference held at Ottawa, Canada, for the purpose of allocating certain high-frequency channels for the use of Canada, Cuba, Mexico, Newfoundland, Central American countries, and the United States.

March 4: The inauguration of President Hoover and Vice President Curtis, in Washington, was carried to 118 radio broadcasting stations in all parts of the United States, making the occasion the largest chain broadcast which has ever occurred. More than 30,000 miles of wire telephone program circuit were employed. Several high-frequency stations also transmitted the ceremonies primarily for the benefit of listeners in foreign countries.

April 16: International Safety of Life at Sea Conference held at London, England (April 16 to May 31).

May 1: There was a demonstration of 2-way telephone communication between an airplane in flight and telephones connected to the ordinary land telephone lines. Reporters of the New York metropolitan press flying in an airplane of the Bell telephone laboratories over northern New Jersey conversed with the men at the city desks of their respective newspapers in New York.

May 6-7: A number of outstanding achievements in radio communication were made during the year in keeping the Byrd Antarctic Expedition in touch with civilization. On May 6 at 5 p. m., or 2 a. m. the next day at Greenland, the short-wave telephone station of the Byrd Expedition at Little America, Antarctic, communicated with the meteorological station of the University of Michigan at Mount Evans, Greenland, a distance of about 12,000 miles, on 34 meters. The signals were sufficiently strong at Little America that a loud speaker was used in receiving.

Programs during the year were regularly transmitted by a short-wave experimental station of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. at East Pittsburgh, Pa., on 25 meters to the Byrd Antarctic Expedition, a distance of approximately 11,000 miles.

Steamship "City of New York" (WFBT) of the Byrd Expedition relayed communications from a portable station regularly to the station of the New York Times located in New York City.

The plane "Stars and Stripes," flying at about 3,000 feet above Commander Byrd's base, Little America, transmitted messages on 34 meters, using 50 watts power, to the New York Times station.

Station KDKA, East Pittsburgh, Pa., during the past three years has been broadcasting on schedule to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police post at Bache Peninsula, Ellesmereland, northwest of Etah, Greenland, located in approximately 75° west, 78° 30' north (10½° from the North Pole). This, according to reports, is the farthest north that regular broadcast programs have been received.

June 1: On June 1 and December 1 the third and fourth trans-Atlantic radio-telephone circuits were put into operation between New York and London. This results in there being now in service one long-wave and three short-wave circuits. On the American side the short-wave transmitting station is located at Lawrenceville, N. J., and the receiving station at Netcong, N. J.

During the year further extensions of the trans-Atlantic telephone service were made by wire to other points and countries in Europe, including extensions to the cities of Milan, Turin, and Genoa in Italy, and to the entire telephone system of Czechoslovakia.

June 27: A demonstration of television in color was given by the Bell telephone laboratories. Much of the apparatus employed was essentially the same as that used in the 1-color demonstration of April, 1927. Three channels were used for the transmission of the signals, one for each of the fundamental colors—red, green, and blue. While transmission with this system may be by either wire or radio, transmission on the occasion of the demonstration of June 27 was by three pairs of wires.

September 19: The first meeting of technical consultative committee of the International Radiotelegraph Convention, Washington, 1927, was held at The Hague.

October: Work began on Department of Commerce (radio division) Grand Island, Nebr., Central Monitoring Station, secondary stations being placed in each radio district and on six radio-test cars.

November 18: An earthquake in the bed of the North Atlantic Ocean snapped 12 cables and from that time until the end of the year a greatly increased proportion of the trans-Atlantic communications were handled by radio.

December 8: Telephone service was inaugurated between land telephone lines and the S. S. "Leviathan." The shore transmitting and receiving stations are located on the New Jersey coast and each is connected by wire to the long-distance telephone operating building in New York. The radio link between the ship and shore utilizes high frequencies (short waves). Here connections between the telephone subscribers on land and those with whom they converse on the S. S. "Leviathan" are handled as in the cases of telephone calls to various foreign points, such as Cuba, Mexico, and Europe.

During the year there was continued growth in chain broadcasting. On September 1 about 34,000 miles of telephone circuit were in use for program transmission. One hundred and fifty-two broadcasting stations were provided with regular connections.

December 18: Radio act placing Federal Radio Commission on permanent basis approved.

Screen-grid tubes for radio receivers came into use during the year.

During the year the Riverhead, Long Island, receiving station of the Radio Corporation of America Communications (Inc.) picked up short-wave programs of foreign stations for rebroadcasting by regular broadcasting chains.

1930. April 3: Radiotelephone service between North America and South America was opened to the public. This service now interconnects 20,000,000 telephones in the United States as well as all telephones in Cuba and all the principal points in Mexico and Canada with the subscribers reached by the telephone networks in Argentina, Chile, and Uruguay. The connection is made by means of a short-wave radio circuit covering a distance of 5,300 miles. The transmitting station in North America is located near Lawrenceville, N. J., and the corresponding station in South America is located near Buenos Aires.

April 27: A radiotelephone conversation lasting 15 minutes was carried on between a train running at 84 miles an hour between Toronto and Montreal, Canada, and London, England. The system broadcasts the voice from train to carrier-current telegraph wires which parallel the track, and vice versa. From these wires it is carried to pick-up stations and then transferred to the telephone office at Kingston, Canada, where it is placed on regular long-distance telephone circuits. Connections from the train are made by an operator stationed on the train. Connections outside are made by placing calls with the long-distance telephone operator.

October 27: Regular commercial radiotelephone service between North America and Australia was inaugurated on this date. The service is provided through the linking together in England of the radiotelephone circuits from New York to London and from London to Sydney. A call over this system from Los Angeles by way of New York and London to Sydney covers a total distance estimated at about 21,000 miles.

During the year trans-Atlantic radiotelephone service was extended through the provision of connections to a number of additional points in Europe. These extensions
