The Ear Inspires the Pen.

Peter Schwab, 918 So. Orange Grove Ave.,
Los Angeles.

Sirs: I have been a loyal Radio Life reader ever since I arrived in California about two years ago from Havana, Cuba. I am 14 years old and love to listen to the radio. Some of my favorite programs are: Henry Aldrich, the Inner Sanctum, Take It Or Leave It, Lux Radio Theater, Adventures of the Thin Man, Kate Smith, etc. My favorite column in your magazine is Coming Out of the Ether by Bernie Smith. I also enjoy Rambling in Rhythm by Charles Emge. I enjoy the new way you list your logs better than the old way. I'd like to see some pictures about Abie's Irish Rose. I think Knox Manning's voice on I Was There is too loud, otherwise the program is very interesting. What program is going to be on in the Fibber McGee and Molly spot this summer? I can't understand how Radio Life can continue to have such a low price and yet have such swell pictures and stories. One of the new programs I like very much is The Whistler. At least it doesn't have anything about Nazis. What happened to the program, When Presses Roar? I sell papers for that same company and I can't imagine that the company is broke.

(Meredith Willson and John Nesbitt have taken over the Fibber McGee spot for the summer with a show that is refreshingly different. I think When Presses Roar would still be on the air if people like you made your wishes known to the station which carried the show.)

Janie Bollin, 2743 West 8th St., Los Angeles

Sirs: I should say you would be a "good bet" for something far more powerful than aspirin tablets to enable you to handle, so graciously, the many and varied peevish and criticisms heaped upon you. I daresay you lay aside many complimentary letters to give printing space to grievances. Some of your readers seem to think that you have complete charge of the airlines—selecting voices, charting programs, etc. I should think it would be impossible for an editor to always forecast accurately, when the announcers frequently have to say, "The program scheduled for this period will not be heard today . . ." Prof. Puzzlewit's quiz is never a let-down for me. His programs are instructive and it was with a pang of regret I heard on June 21st that it was his last. Hope he will return in the autumn. Our superb programs come to us practically free and, if a voice does not appeal, we have the privilege of tuning out or to another station. Want to thank you for the "Midnight to Dawn" page. I do not work the "swing shift," but have a foolish way of turning night into day and find the special log most convenient.

NEXT WEEK

Don't miss next week's Radio Life with a dazzling cover portrait of blonde and beautiful Betty Rhodes, the KHJ-Mutual star of "Tune Up America," and an exciting array of exclusive pictorial features and never-before-told stories about your favorite personalities. Also watch for Radio Life's forthcoming rotogravure issue with a brilliant, three-page picture feature on Dinah Shore during one of her army camp appearances. Also pictures of your favorite daytime serial stars and a full-page portrait of John Nesbitt.

Mrs. Priscilla Currens Warren, 2406 Merton Ave., Los Angeles.

Sirs: Please let me correct your spelling of Atoine. The name is Josephine Antoine. (Radio Life, June 28-July 4.) To those of us from Boulder, Colo., hearing Josephine is an added thrill because we feel her beautiful personality. She is an everyday-ish person, but you will look long and far before you find an equally gracious and sincere character. Rising to the top in her musical career has been a normal climb for Josephine Antoine. She has kept her many friends and is getting countless new ones.

Mrs. Abigail Johnson, 1518 West Gage Ave., Los Angeles.

Sirs: Kindly tell us where we may purchase the book, "Laughing Insurance," by Joan Davis which you mentioned in your Radio Life of June 7. We like your magazine very much, as it is complete and concise, and Radio Lifelines by Evelyn Bigsby is tops with us. We also like your covers, and have saved every one of them for a long, long time.

(Sometimes Radio Life prints items about stars without checking the source. Apparently the source for the above item on Miss Davis was unreliable. We understand that the person responsible for sending out the yarn is noted for "dreaming up" items on his clients which have no foundation. According to Miss Davis she has written no such book. Rest asured that Radio Life will in the future be more careful of the origination point for news about Miss Davis.)

Merlin Peterson, Olive View Sanatorium, Olive View, Calif.

Sirs: I have been a loyal Radio Life fan for several months now and think that Radio Life magazine is, not one of the finest, but the finest radio magazine on the market today. Your features, pictures, articles, etc., are very interesting and enlightening to the radio fan. Will you please tell me the name of the organist on the "Vic and Sade" program? Along with Bob Mitchell, I think he or she is one of the finest I've ever heard.

(William Meeder is the organist on the Vic and Sade airshow.)

ON OUR COVER

Radio Life's cover girl this week is a lovely little (5-ft. 99-pounds) lass by the name of Yvonne Marie Ja Mais who grew up in Savannah, Ga., to do big things on the ether lanes as Connie Haines. Yvonne became Connie when she auditioned for Harry James several years ago. The trumpet man liked the voice but couldn't see Yvonne, etc., on a ballroom marquee—so he hired the young lady with the right to change her name. That's how she became Connie Haines. Now the Blue Network's most valuable singing property in Hollywood, Connie came to our sunny shores via Tommy Dorsey's rhythm crew when it played an engagement at the Palladium some months ago. When Trombone Tommy left these parts Connie stayed to win a prominent vocal berth on Frances Scully's "Your Blind Date" and other Blue coast-to-coast shows. Right now she's walking as well as singing on air as the star canary of Meredith Willson's new summer show with John Nesbitt on Tuesdays. For a footnote to this breezy brief on Miss Connie we might add that in all of our meanderings along Ether Avenue we've met no sweeter personality than this gal with the sweet swingin' singin' style. Oh, yes—she can also be heard on those new Capitol Records.

Add Crosbyana

Bing Crosby's ad lib remarks in rehearsal of a Thursday at Kraft Music Hall are often so choice that they are incorporated into the script. All of them someday will make their way into somebody's choice volume of Crosbyana.

This was one we caught the other day when he tossed it at Lieut. Robert Buchan (pictured in June 28 Radio Life) who participated in the sinking of the Jap aircraft carrier, Ryukaku.

Invited Navy Cross Winner Lieutenant Buchan:

"Would you like to fly with me sometime?"

Replied the Groaner:

"Well, that's wonderful. But frankly, I get dizzy on half of a chorus of 'Skylark.'"

The only reason you heard it on the broadcast was that an "open" mike was on Crosby when he ad-libbed the remark to his guest, Lieut. Buchan, during rehearsal. Producer Cal Kuhl, the Music Hall producing genius, heard Crosby's retort perfect quite by accident in the monitor booth and immediately ordered his script writer to incorporate the repartee in the program.

That'll give you a good idea of the informality that holds sway at Crosby-time of a Thursday at NBC. KFI, 8 p.m. Thurs.

Air Force's Radio

Although plans are not yet being made public in the general sense of the term, Radio Life learned last weekend that the West Coast Air Force Training Center at nearby Santa Ana is in the throes of completing one of the most complete broadcasting setups ever created by a branch of America's fighting arm.

Not only is a modern, well-equipped radio studio being built on the Santa Ana flying reservation, but many key radio personalities are being recruited for active duty as uniformed members of the Air Force Training Center radio staff. All of these men are being assigned to special duty as radio specialists in the public relations department.

Already in uniform at Santa Ana are such familiar radio names as Melville Ruick, long-time announcer of the Lux Theatre airshows; Eddie Dun-stedter, famous CBS organist and composer; and Ben Gage, ex-announcer of the Ransom Sherman and Bob Hope programs. Slated to join this trio any day now is Hal Gibney of the NBC announcing staff.

Private Gage, who was transferred from Camp Haan several months ago, has already been heard in several special events broadcasts over the networks. Captain Ruick, who served in World War I as a flyer, recently performed a notable air stunt on an Army Hour pickup from the Air Force Glider school at Indio where he interviewed cadets who are learning to operate Army gliders. Captain Dunstedter is responsible for the formation of a 35-piece Army Air Force Band which will be heard on many future programs emanating from the Santa Ana base.

Tip-off to the calibre of broadcasts which one may expect to hear from Santa Ana in the days ahead was given July 1 when CBS aired an airshow titled "Soldiers With Wings" from the Air Force Center. Bing Crosby acted as master of ceremonies and all of the aforementioned men participated in the broadcast.

These Santa Ana-originating programs are to be part of a grand-scale recruiting campaign by which the Army Air Force expects to pay huge dividends in attracting young Americans to a career in the U. S. Army Air Force.

War-Inspired Music

Out of the globe-girdling conflict now raging there may come some of the greatest art contributions in the history of humankind, but probably none in the musical sphere will surpass the widely-heralded Seventh Symphony of Dmitri Shostakovich, Russia's brilliant young composer, which will be given its first Western Hemisphere performance by the NBC Symphony Orchestra on July 19.

Only this last weekend did Niles Trammell, president of NBC, reveal to Radio Life the details surrounding the arrival in this country of the 36-year-old Russian composer's sensational work.

Inspired by the Soviet repulse of Nazi hordes at the gates of Leningrad and rushed safely to the United States by airplane and motor car through enemy battlefronts, Shostakovich's Seventh Symphony is now being rehearsed by the NBC Symphony Orchestra, which, under the baton of Arturo Toscanini, will present the new work in its entirety from 1:15 to 3 p.m. on Sunday, July 19.

For several weeks now, Maestro Toscanini has been studying a preliminary copy of the score preparatory to the beginning of actual rehearsals. The four movements of the symphony, which has been given a subtitle—"The Music of Our Times"—cover 231 pages of music. However, including the separate instrumental parts, more than 3,000 different pages have been distributed to members of the NBC Symphony Orchestra.

The arrival of the Shostakovich score and parts in this country brought to light a thrilling story of how 35-millimeter microfilm prints were made of the Symphony before it was rushed via airplane from Kuibyshev to Teheran, Iran. An automobile whisked the valuable shipment to Cairo where the journey to U. S. soil was completed via Clipper.

According to NBC President Trammell, the acquisition of the Western Hemisphere premiere rights by the network was achieved through negotiations with Shostakovich and Voks (Society of Cultural Relations) immediately following the Moscow debut of the Seventh Symphony last March 29. Both the composer and the society readily agreed to grant the first radio performance to NBC "in order to cement closer cultural ties between the United States and Russia."

Musical observers have hailed the Seventh Symphony as setting into music the fight of freedom-loving people against Axis barbarism. The work is hailed as a living history, an eloquent sermon and a belligerent challenge to threatening and invading hordes.

It was Shostakovich, himself, who recently attributed the Seventh Symphony to "the events of 1941—war!"

"This does not mean," he declared in a recent Russian broadcast, "that it gives a naturalistic imitation of the war.

"My seventh symphony is devoted to the ordinary Soviet citizens who have become heroes of this patriotic war. That is the fundamental theme."

In telling how he came to write his brilliant new work, the young composer had the following to say under his byline in a recent article carried by the official newspaper, Pravda:

"The bloody Hitlerite hordes were pressing toward my native city (Leningrad) and it was bombarded from the air and shelled by enemy artillery. All Leningrad residents rallied as one man and, together with the valiant Red Army, vowed to stop the arrogant foe. It was in such days that I worked on the symphony. I worked long hours, intensely and swiftly. I wanted to create the story of our days, our life, our people, who are becoming heroes and victors, who fight for the cause of triumph over the enemy."

Dedicated by its composer to "our common struggle against Fascism, to our future victory, to my native city, Leningrad," the Seventh Symphony lasts approximately 90 minutes, and is in four movements: Allegretto, Moderato Allegretto, Adagio, and Allegro Non Troppo.

It is interesting that this sensational new composition will be enhanced by the direction of the world's greatest conductor, Toscanini, who also was a victim of Fascist oppression.

Honors to Hughes

A fortnight ago in a little alcove off New Rochelle, N. Y., the original Chinese junk Amoy lay at its moorings. Aboard ship a festive crowd sat at a long dinner table heaped high with oriental delicacies. Diplomats, radio personalities and noted Chinese artists were numbered among those present.

Honor guest at the banquet table was a distinguished-looking, chunky, moustached young man of the microphone by the name of John B. Hughes, from Hollywood.

Occasion for the festive event was the desire of the Chinese government to pay a sincere tribute to Hughes, the Mutual news analyst and authority on Far Eastern affairs, for his long-standing friendship for the cause of the courageous peoples of China in their fight against the evil forces of Japan.

Hughes, on a tour of the nation's war industries, was presented with a famous Chinese painting by Dr. Tsune-Chi Yu, China's consul general in New York, as well as a scroll for his aid to the United China Relief campaign. Miss Lee Ya-Ching, one of China's most famous women flyers, is shown elsewhere on this page as she presented the scroll to Hughes.

Bradley Weds

One of Radio Life's favorite people, the golden-voiced Truman Bradley, walked the middle aisle last week in a smart simple church wedding with Phyllis Ruth, the film actress, after a romance that began more than a year ago here in Hollywood.

Announcer of the Red Skelton, Dinah Shore and Freddy Martin programs, Bradley and the diminutive young blonde actress have been keeping "steady company" for many months without indulging in the usual Hollywood fanfare of publicity.

Radio Life's roving reporter had the pleasure of watching this romance blossom in the Radio City studios this past season. Miss Ruth always accompanied the Skelton announcer to the program on Tuesday evening and watched the show from the sponsor's booth above the studio stage.

Repeat by Whiteman

It may have been done before but we can't recall when a public performance such as the recent Gershwin concert at the Los Angeles Philharmonic was ever given a "repeat" performance on the airlines.

But then this has been a season for tradition-shattering incidents on the ether waves, and perhaps you weren't even a little surprised to dial NBC on July 4 at 5 p.m. to find an hour-long musical show that had so much ear-caressing music that you couldn't tear yourself away from the loudspeaker in the living room.

Conducted by Paul Whiteman, the rotund, rosy-cheeked maestro who first focused the spotlight of fame on the now immortal Gershwin, the "Homage to Gershwin" was by far the finest musical program aired out of Hollywood this year.

Whiteman can still take bows as the King of Jazz after batoning that star-studded show. The Great Gershwin never heard a greater performance from Paul Whiteman than the one Mr. W. staged for the nation's ether fans last Saturday evening.

It is an almost impossible task to review a program as moving, as inspirational, and as packed with good listening values as "Homage to Gershwin."

Bing Crosby and Dinah Shore, blending their vocal shadings in selections from "Porgy and Bess," were sensational as they sang together for the first time on the air. Edward Arnold's reading of "A Eulogy to George Gershwin" was a fitting prelude to the musical program itself, and the King's Men, Buddy Weed, Whiteman's piano stylist, and Harry James were at their best on their respective treatments of Gershwin tunes.

The exceptional arrangements you heard on the show were contributed by such great musical minds as Felix Mills, Victor Young, Ferde Grofe, Ralph Hallenbeck, James Mundy, Gordon Jenkins and Marlin Skiles.

Dave Elton, astute NBC producer who rarely gets a fanfare from the public, was responsible for the superb, evenly-matched tempos of the show. Oh, yes, and that Gilbert Allen Choir will be heard of more often, in our opinion, after the job it did with smart backgrounds to the vocal solos.

Re Janet Blair

NBC's Hollywood press department—usually a stickler for details—tripped last week when it mailed out a publicity release concerning the appearance of the Edgar Bergen troupe on the "Victory Parade" broadcast of July 5.

The publicity release said in part: "It is rumored that Charlie McCarthy postponed his air vacation by this one broadcast (having ended his regular series the week previous for Chase & Sanborn) in order to meet for the first time the comely Janet Blair, she of the terrific build-up, contours and Columbia picture contract."

Radio Life's editor does not take exception to the phrase, "she of the terrific build-up, contours, etc." but the line about McCarthy postponing his vacation so that he might meet Miss Blair for the first time is most incorrect.

Incorrect because Radio Life's roving reporter was on hand the last week in January, 1942, when the same aforementioned Janet Blair accompanied Edgar Bergen and Charles McCarthy and Company on an overnight jaunt by rail to Stockton Field for a special broadcast for the men of the Air Corps. Little-publicized then and yet to be seen in a major film, the vivacious Miss Blair from Altoona, Pa., not only sang the Army Air Corps song on the broadcast, but she became without benefit of plebiscite the sweetheart of Stockton Field.

DEANNA DURBIN, left, Dinah Shore and George Raft held an informal bull session before appearing on the special shortwave broadcast, "Command Performance, U. S. A.," which is transcribed for overseas servicemen each week in Hollywood. It was Deanna's first air appearance in some time.

In Radio Life's issue of February 1, 1942, the "Angel from Altoona" appeared in several photographs which Radio Life shot during the trial of Sgt. McCarthy at Stockton Field. And if McCarthy's a gentleman he'll recall that Miss Blair's beauty unnerved him so that he kept knocking his hat off every time he'd turn around to steal a glance at the young starlet during rehearsals for the broadcast in the Stockton Field hangar. We can still remember Charlie losing his Air Corps hat for the third time, and yelling out: "You'll have to either get me a sharp tack and a hammer, boys, or get that beautiful creature out of me sight!"

Red Goes Boom

Radio Life's staff, having observed from a Johnny-On-the-Spot vantage point for the past few months the activities of one Red Skelton, was shocked but not surprised last week when the carrot-thatched comedian collapsed on his movie set and was taken to St. Vincent's Hospital.

Skelton, whose meteoric rise to popularity heights via the Raleigh cigarette show last season was one of the most exciting chapters in radio history, was suffering from nervous exhaustion, doctors said after sending the "I Dood It" star through an exhaustive checkup.

And no wonder. We can remember that amazing schedule of Red's at the studio with a Sunday night preview each week, a regular broadcast each week—both of which he followed with knock-down-drag-out after-show entertainment, two and three army camp appearances a day for weeks on end, with very little rest. Why, it's a miracle how Red ever got through his radio series on two legs.

Radio—yes, and movies, too—adds up a man-killing pace in wartime. And we hope Red eases up a little this summer between pictures. For his own good and for the benefit of millions of listeners who are looking forward to his new series in the fall.

Realistic Edna May

If Edna May Oliver has anything to say about it—and she gives out with the impression that she is a woman who knows her own mind—there'll be a goodly hunk of realism in the "Private Life of Josephine Tuttle" on NBC airplanes this summer.

The famous dead-pan character actress who gave a swell account of herself on broadcast No. 1 July 5 is more than a realist. She's a super-realist.

Posing for a series of pictures for Radio Life last week, Miss Oliver flatly refused to take her eyes off the script in one of the photographs.

"But Miss Oliver," remonstrated our photographer, "the picture won't show your eyes."

Miss Oliver's retort was worthy of Josephine Tuttle.

"What's the difference," she said. "The picture wouldn't look real. How could I read the script and look at you?"

KFI, 8:30 p.m. Sun.

Macs in the Hall

Those handsome creators of the "bounce rhythm," the Merry Macs, are going to be heard regularly on the Kraft Music Hall this summer, it was learned by Radio Life at press time this week.

Originally scheduled to make a two-month-long personal appearance in the east and middle west, the famous vocal combine has cancelled all of its theatre engagements but one, and arrived back in Hollywood this week to make an appearance on the Crosby show last Thursday (July 8).

The McMichael brothers and their beautiful blend girl, Mary Lou Cook, scored such a sensational success on a guest appearance in the Hall several weeks ago that the sponsors of the Thursday serenade via NBC made overtures to them when they bounced into town last week for a week's date at the Los Angelus Orpheum theatre.

is proving to be entertaining fare these Saturday nights after a wobbly beginning.

Reason No. 1 for what we feel is a notable improvement in "Swop Night" is the sparkling emcee job being done by Lew Valentine since H. Allen Smith decided to concentrate his talents on free lance writing.

Valentine, who was the original Doctor I. Q. of the airlines, has had a career wacky enough to be worthy of the odd job of trading somebody's grand piano for someone else's kangaroo on the 30-minute merry-go-round.

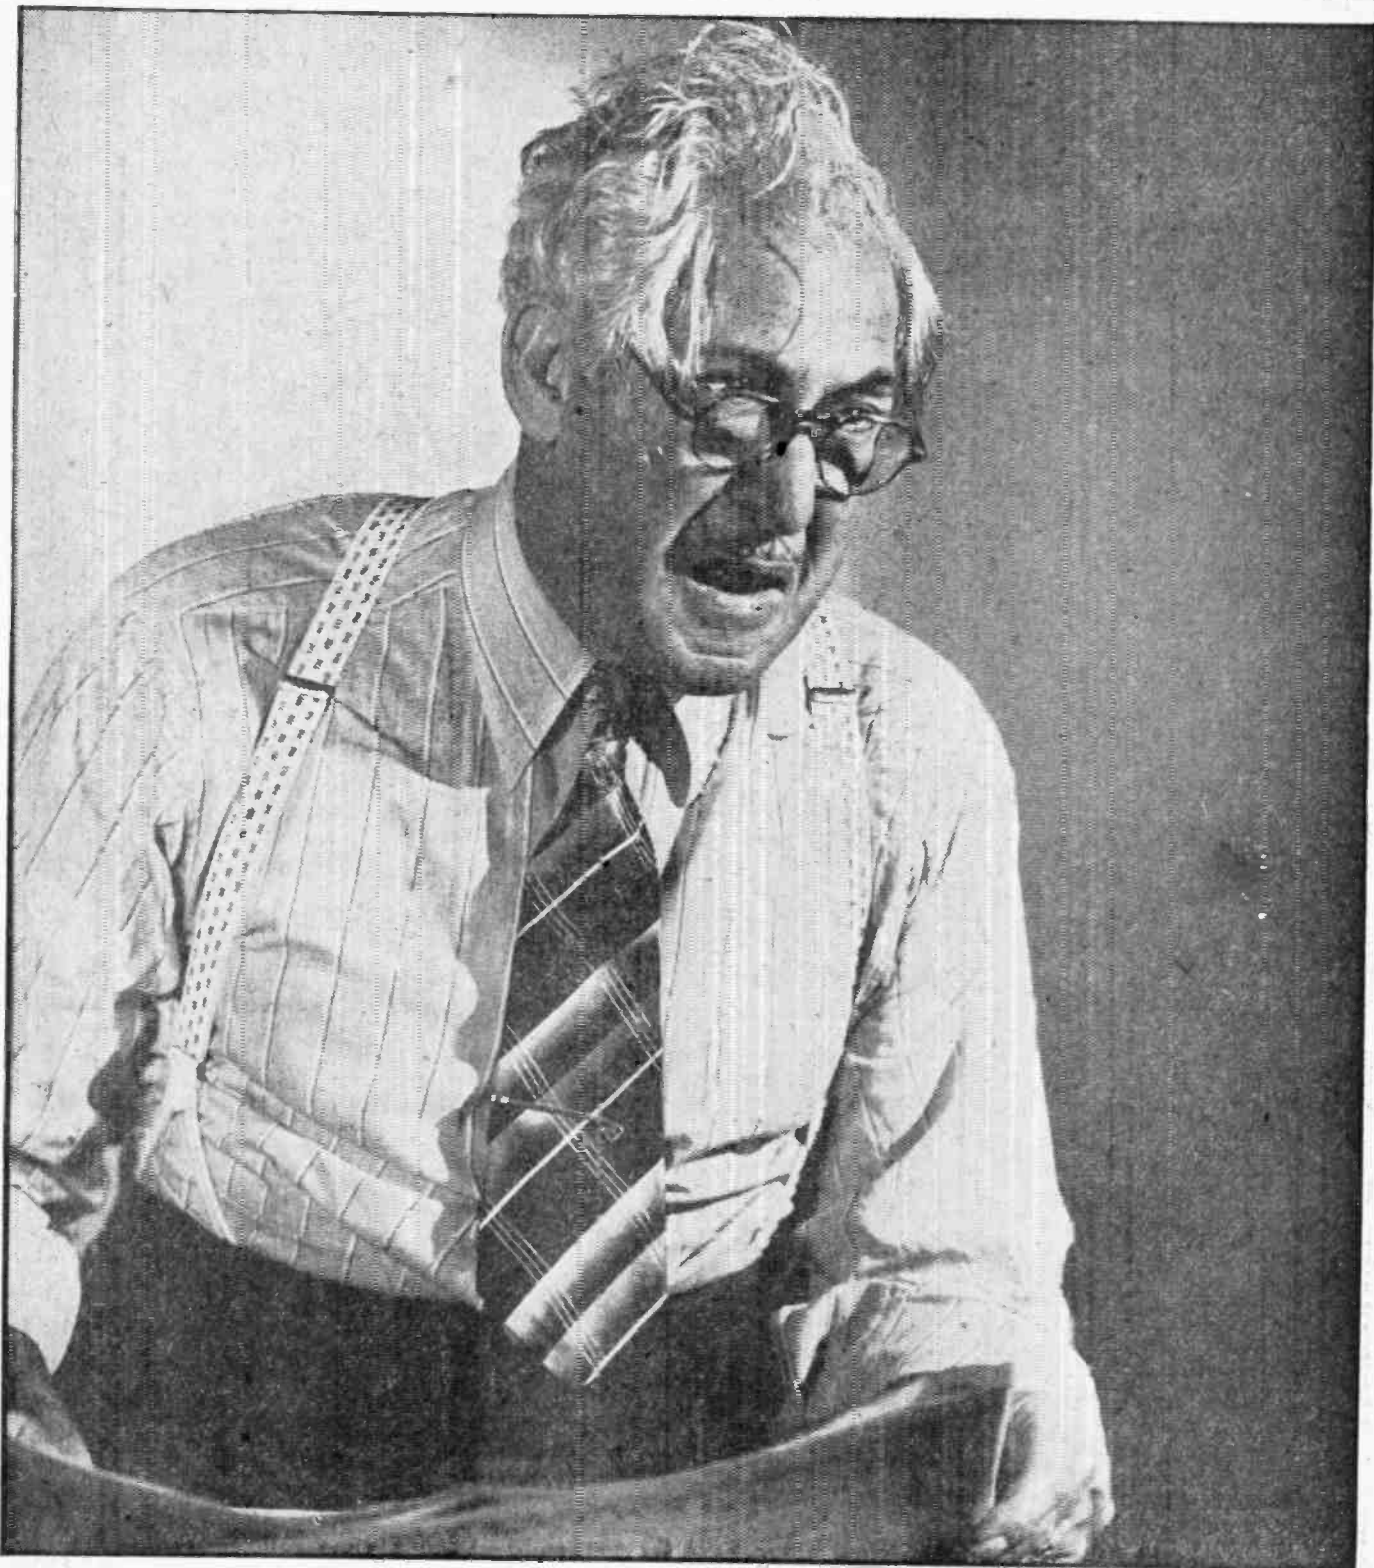

When he was only nine years old, Lew brought home a theatrical trade magazine. "A fine thing for a Valentine," sniffed his mother, who gingerly tossed the rag away, but not without the uneasy suspicion that Thespis had reared his ugly head in the conservative Valentine family.

All through prep school and during two years at the University of Texas, Lew participated in campus dramas. And then he took a fling at crooning.

When he should have been entering his junior year at college, Lew dropped into a Houston radio station to audition his buh-buh-booming voice. Two days later he had a steady job, spreading the gospel of a corner drug store, answering the station's two telephones and announcing a dozen different programs.

Since then every day has been Valentine's day for Lew. He became program director at a San Antonio station; he was the original Dr. I. Q., and formerly was vice-president of a Chicago advertising agency.

EARLE ROSS, ACTOR

Guy's Record Stint

Guy Lombardo sets the dancing mood for another week of recorded dance programs via KFWB on July 13. Other "Dance Tonight" bands include: Charlie Spivak, Tues., Kay Kyser, Wed., Claude Thornhill, Thurs., Bob Crosby, Fri., and Woody Herman on Saturday.

The King's Men

The King's Men, Fibber McGee's favorite quartet, are going all-out in their melodic contributions to the war effort as evidenced by their schedule last week which included appearances on an air force broadcast at Santa Ana, the Treasury Hour and a special spot on "Command Performance," the transcribed show sent overseas.

Summer Chore

Crane Wilbur, producer-editor of "Big Town", has cancelled plans for a summer fishing trip in the High Sierra mountains in order to write "Laws of Sing Sing" for Warner Bros. studio. The Rinso producer started work on the Burbank lot July 6, following the final "Big Town" show of the season on Thursday evening, July 2.

Man With Maps

What does a radio actor do between rehearsals for his broadcast? Well, we can't vouch for all of the Radio City thespians but Donald Woods, the handsome leading man to Nan Grey on "Those We Love" might be an interesting example of what some actors are doing between emoting periods these days.

When we walked into NBC Studio B the other night to watch Francis X. Bushman, Nan Grey, Richard Cromwell, Ann Todd, Virginia Sale, etc., go through their paces on the first "Those We Love" script-rehearsal, Woods was over in a corner of the studio with a batch of maps strewn out in front of him. He was entirely oblivious to all going on about him as the producer was not yet ready for him to read lines, and he was entirely oblivious to all that was going on about him in the studio, as he leaned over the maps making notations here and there and checking certain areas off with a list he had in front of him.

How do you clear up a mystery like that without disturbing the subject? Well, usually there's somebody around who can tell you what's what. In this case the intelligent man-about-the-studio proved to be Carroll Nye, one-time screen idol and former radio newscaster. Now a one-man office of facts and figures on leading radio shows at the Young and Rubicam Agency in Hollywood, Nye explained that Woods is West Los Angeles' leading air raid warden. A young man who takes his responsibilities seriously, Actor Woods was charting out his area for the force of 750 men and 400 women volunteers he has working under him in the Westwood area.

Cromwell's Return

Richard Cromwell, screen and radio player, who created the role of Kit in the airplane dramatic series, "Those We Love," started his theatrical career as a star when he was given the title role in the "talkie" version of "Tol'able David," a part which brought fame to Richard Barthelmess in silent pictures. "Those We Love" returns to the air Wednesday, July 1.

"Step Down!"

"Crime Doctor," the CBS program that made the phrase, "Step down!" a national catch-line, set the tempo of its 100th program milestone last week to the "tramp, tramp, tramp, tramp" of criminals coming up for parole... and while a "jury" of 12 persons selected from the studio audience was acting as a parole board for the case of a prisoner whose career in crime was being dramatized, we thumbed through our little black book in search of some interesting statistics on the series.

These are a few facts and figures on the program which might prove interesting to Radio Life readers who have followed the series:

- Only six juries of the 200 who have handed down their decisions on the show have been unanimous in their decision. (Two juries are chosen each Sunday night as the program gives a repeat performance for the West Coast, which accounts for the 200 juries who have served.) 136 have voted for acquittal, while 64 have sent the culprits back to jail.

- On 22 occasions, the findings of those judging the early show's dramatization of the case of a criminal, have disagreed with those on the later session. Script and cast are identical at each broadcast.

- Women jurors invariably vote for the release of a handsome male prisoner, while men do the same when such pretty actresses as Barbara Weeks or Elspeth Eric tell their sordid stories.

- Max Marcin, author of the dramatizations, and Jack Johnstone, the program's director, recently decided to try an experiment in the interest of parole experimentation. They instructed Paul Stewart, who was acquitted 7-7 on the first show, to get really nasty during his second performance. He did, and wound up with an 8-4 verdict—for acquittal.

THOUGHTS WHILE STROLLING ALONG ETHER AVENUE—

● Wonder what Thomas L. Smith, chairman of the board of Standard Brands, Inc. (sponsor of the Chase & Sanborn broadcast), thought when he realized that the $282,000 his concern paid Edgar Bergen for his radio work during 1941 was almost four times the payment he (Smith) received as Standard Brands headman during the same period. Yes, and I wonder what Charlie (I'm no dummy!) McCarthy was thinking when he recalled what a tough time he had all year trying to get Bergen to up the ante on his 75 cents a week allowance.

● Wotta actress is this lively lady, Isabel Randolph of the Fibber McGee-Molly cast! She "stole" one of the highlight sequences in "Take a Letter Darling" from Rosalind Russell and Fred MacMurray—and Paramount didn't even list her in the cast of characters. Unless that's a tricky new way to launch a new sensation and was done in order to arouse the public's curiosity in a comparative newcomer to the screen, somebody should have his head examined over in Paramount's front office. You know Isabel Randolph as the flittery, fluttery Mrs. Uppington on the airplanes, but she's this reporter's nomination for one of the screen's greatest new bets for this and any other screen season. And what a swell gal in person!

● I continue to be amazed at the way Carole Landis dresses in public. Except for a recent appearance on Vick Knight's swiftly-paced "Command Performance" shortwave broadcast for the soldiers—when she wore slacks—I've never seen the blonde, buxom actress in anything but clothes that make her out to be anything but the "nice girl" she really is. Must remember to ask her the next time she's within chatting distance what her views are on attracting attention, or men, or whatever she's trying to attract with those low-cut tight-fitting gowns she swishes through broadcasts and parties in these days and nights. Of all the lovely ladies of the radio and screen who acted as "dates" for the War Heroes in the Cocoanut Grove of the Ambassador Hotel the other Sabbath, Miss Landis was the only Hollywoodite who looked like she was trying to grab the attention and spotlight from the American and British War Heroes. Pictorial evidence of what we're thinking about is presented herewith.

● Say, but that Jack Haley is great behind the footlights. Never cared much for his work on the air or via the celluloid, but he's a wow on the stage. It's worth the price of a third row seat on the aisle to see Haley's capers in "Show Time" at the Biltmore Theatre. And the wee bit o' Scotch lassie, Ella Logan, is another whose vocal talents are ideally suited to the stage—but which fail to register in a notable way on screen and in the air. Thank goodness, vaudeville is back!

● The brief, forceful, honest words spoken on CBS' "The Nature of the Enemy" broadcast several weeks ago by the honorable Jan Masaryk, Vice-Premier and Foreign Minister of the Czech government in exile, still ring in my ears: "This series of programs is trying to show you the type of beast who rules my country today. I say this with no apologies: Americans—don't be fools! Make sure they don't rule your country tomorrow!"... Now there is a program with a message—that "Nature of the Enemy" show. More scripts on the air like this Charles Vanda-produced series and Americans will never again underestimate the enemy. We shall be able to understand him, know him, anticipate his moods and realize his ability and his cruelty, as the author of this new series so aptly put the words into the mouth of a CBS commentator who ended program No. 1 with these words.

● Wonder if the radio listeners have caught on to the fact that a fellow by the name of Richard Brooks, who authors and acts a Tuesday evening mystery program titled "The Inevitable Mr. Sand," has a show that's packed with entertainment values. The Blue Network has sandwiched Brooks and his extremely clever vehicle into the 6:30 p.m. spot as a feature of its two-hour-long Tuesday night mystery extravaganza, and boy, the excitement Author-Actor Brooks poured into the airplanes from his first two scripts is enough to make this reporter predict that after listening to "Mr. Sand" nobody will care if Orson Welles never returns to the air.

● Keep wondering about Bert Silen, the NBC radio war reporter whom we reported as "missing" several columns ago. And thinking of Silen and the radio war correspondents reminds me of a story NBC commentator Alex Dreier tells of one of Hitler's lesser stooges who gave American correspondents a few bright moments one afternoon last year. Seems that Adolf's stooge's job was to leap to his feet at odd times during the dictator's speeches, scream "Thank God for our Fuehrer," and then sit down. He bobbed up so often, and in so many different places, that the Americans came to recognize him and took to calling him "Joe" among themselves. According to Dreier, the day of an important speech came and the correspondents filed into the press gallery where they were to take notes on the speech before broadcasting. Looking down over the railing which separated the correspondents from the floor of the opera house where Hitler was speaking, the boys immediately spotted "Joe," warming up for his job. With one accord the Americans leaned over the rail and yelled in unison: "Hiya, Joe!" "Joe" looked up. "Hiya, fellas," he screamed before going back to thanking-God-for-der-Fuehrer.

Noted Sportscaster

THIS IS one of those "candid" Radio Life's cameraman sneaked on me during one of my broadcasts of a recent "home game" series over KFAC from Gilmore.
—All Pictures by Hollywood Pictorial.

THAT OLD WHEEZE about "Take Me Out to the Ball Game" is no idle phrase in Hollywood where the favorite pastime of the Hollywood stars is watching the Hollywood Stars. If that sounds a little egotistical or complicated, allow me to hasten to explain that the Hollywood Star baseball club has the complete, down-to-the-last-strike support of scores of radio and screen luminaries who are frequenting Gilmore Field this season. I've found from my 12 years of sportscasting the games via local air-waves that the most rabid baseball fans, with few exceptions, are the radio comedy stars. Regulars in the box seats when the Hollywood Stars are performing under the arc lights include such familiar personalities as those radio stars you see pictured on this page.

I CAN ALWAYS spot George Burns and Jack Benny from my radio booth. Both rabid fans and close friends, they are often accompanied by Mary Livingstone and Gracie Allen.

JIM AND MARIAN JORDAN (Fibber McGee and Molly) like to sit almost directly above home plate in the second tier of the stands. This couple really knows its baseball, and they can usually tell you a player's batting and fielding average without referring to a chart of statistics. Jim doesn't show his emotions over a spectacular play, but his comely wife has trouble controlling herself.

BING CROSBY and Bill Frawley often attend the games together. Both own stock in the Hollywood Stars club, and I can always judge the gate receipts from the expressions on their faces.

The Pride of the McNultys

★ RADIO LIFE STAROGRAPHY ★

Legal Name:	Eugene Denis McNulty	Height:	Five feet, nine inches
Birthplace:	New York, N. Y.	Weight:	150 pounds
Birthday:	May 21, 1917	Coloring:	Brown hair, brown eyes

By JOHN WHITEHEAD

THE MOST surprised person in Hollywood over the success of Dennis Day is Eugene D. McNulty.

Who is Eugene D. McNulty? Well, he's Dennis Day. And if that sounds confusing to you, my dear clients, relax while you peruse these paragraphs, for our young hero, Eugene D. McNulty—I mean Dennis Day—is not a confusing young man except for being continually surprised at the way you have taken him to your hearts.

This is somewhat of an open letter to the readers of Radio Life who from time to time have requested an article on the popular young Irish tenor who has been scoring a potent double for the past three seasons on Jack Benny's NBC sortie for Jell-O.

By a "potent double" we, of course, refer to Denny's (that's what his friends call him) singing and acting stint on the Benny sabbath Bronx cheer to Fred Allen.

Dennis Day, the Pride of the McNultys, is what is often called a Hollywood Phenomenon. An "H. P." is a rarity in the radio capital. The tag stands for a young fellow under 30 summers who has tasted the fruits of fame and fortune—yes, and all the adulation that goes with that fleeting thing called fame—without allowing his head to be turned.

The true facts of the case are that Dennis is such a shy guy when it comes to talking about himself that we had to gather our material for this page from a dozen different sources around town after Dennis had skipped out for a summer tour of eastern theaters.

Our campaign to unearth previously untold facts about Dennis Day carried us finally to a third story suite in the Warner Bros. theater building where we inquired for a Sandy Oliver, referred to us as Dennis Day's arranger.

Sandy turned out to be a gay,

By CHARLES EMGE

THE BOYS ARE GOOD

The big feature of "San Quentin on the Air" program heard over KHJ is the San Quentin Orchestra, under the direction of Inmate Conductor Major John A. Hendricks, one time boy church organist and later in charge of the 4th Regimental Band of the Missouri National Guard, and several A. E. F. bands in France during World War No. 1.

The San Quentin Orchestra is no "village-band" style outfit composed of inmates who have been willing away their "time" learning to toot away at battered instruments. It is a thoroughly up-to-date orchestra of the familiar radio ensemble type, composed largely of musicians who have, in happier days, held jobs in some of the country's biggest and best name outfits.

For instance, there is Don Short, of the sax section, well-remembered by Los Angeles musicians as a handsome kid whose end of the bandstand (he worked here on all the better jobs) was always cluttered with the girls. Don moved right into radio when radio moved into Hollywood. He played for Rudy Vallee, for Lanny Ross, and, to our recollection, with Lennie Hayton when Lennie had the Bing Crosby program.

REAVIS VALUABLE ADDITION

A valuable, and comparatively recent, addition to the San Quentin Orchestra, according to the San Quentin "News," is John Francis Reavis, the unhappy kid who made a name for himself in midwest orchestras but just couldn't connect with a good job here on the Coast. Things went haywire for him; he landed on "skidrow" (L. A.'s notorious E. Fifth street). The rest of that tragedy can be recalled from the lurid newspaper accounts. If not recalled, so much the better.

You think we are showing too much sentimental sympathy for a "killer"? Maybe—but we can't forget the statement of the woman orchestra leader here for whom Jack worked his only good job of the Coast (at a San Francisco hotel). She said: "Jack was a good boy. This couldn't have happened in a world where society was properly organized. The whole world is to blame—not just Jack!"

NOW PLAYING HARP

Jack got a really nice write-up in the Special Radio Edition of the San Quentin "News." One of the things that surprised us was the fact that although this writer knew him as a trombone player—and a darned good one—he is playing harp in the prison orchestra.

TOP-NOTCH MUSICIANS

We could, had we the space, give the interesting musical backgrounds of many more of the San Quentin bandsmen, almost all of whom played with name bands at one time or another. That particular unit that plays the broadcasts is composed almost entirely of young men—just kids as you see with most of the "outside" bands.

Many have standing offers of employment awaiting them in famous name bands when their present "Contract" expires.

To this writer the most interesting thing in music is the people who make it. That is why we are regular listeners to "San Quentin on the Air," to us one of radio's most interesting and dramatic (in the real-life sense) programs. Their theme song alone, which shows that these momentarily defeated but not discouraged boys have not lost their sense of humor, puts a real wallop in the show. It is one of our favorite old songs—Time On My Hands.

BITS ABOUT BANDSMEN

Benny Goodman returns to Hollywood in August for a picture date for Producer Charles R. Rogers. . . . Art Whiting and his Swing Sixters doing a swell job as alternate band at the Palladium. Incidentally, that dignified looking but very hot tenor man with Art (the one the gals say looks like Basil Rathbone) has just completed his course at U. S. C. and will shortly become a civilian instructor in meteorology (Johnny—please check spelling) to our embryo aviators. . . . That alternate band spot at the Palladium is really a tough one to fill. Just imagine six guys and a gal walking on the stand right after a strictly terrific outfit of 19 people like that Les Brown unit. . . . Sorry we can't give you the names of Les' great tenor man and equally great clarinet player, who are new to us, but we did spot Billy Butterfield in the trumpet section. He appeared here first with Bob Crosby (his "discoverer") at the old Palomar. . . . Dave Marshall, whose band appeared recently at "The Louisiana," has answered the call to the colors. . . . He was followed at the spot by Billy MacDonald, whose band was bombed out of a good job at Lau Yee Chau restaurant in Honolulu on a well-remembered Dec. 7.

Coming out of the Ether

By BERNIE SMITH

(Frayed and Broken, Our Columnist Returns)

If anybody mentions vacations to me, there's likely to be some bloodshed. I've just returned from mine and I think I set a new all-time low for vacations. In fact, to even term the past two weeks a "vacation" is to play fast and loose with the word.

Six days out of the 14 I squirmed in a dentist's chair. Six additional days I devoted to poking my tongue in three excavations where once wisdom teeth blossomed. I could just as easily have passec the time poking my whole arm in those excavations, clear up to the elbow. Brother, I may have lost three wisdom teeth, but I gained more wisdom than you could put in two piles. For instance, I'll know better than to have three of them extracted in the same year, from now on—let alone the same week!

And the guy who draws "Dick Tracy" in the funny papers didn't add to my holiday, either. He made me so mad I could punch him in the eye. In the current Tracy adventure, the amazing detective runs across a gang of crooks who wreck trains, blow up buildings, mistreat dogs, and commit similar gruesome crimes, merely for the sake of recording the sounds for national use by radio stations.

When the series first started, I imagined the author was taking a not-so-subtle slap at radio, from a newspaper publisher's standpoint. And I saw red. Now, as the adventure progresses, I see that it is all a simple story and that Tracy bears no grudge against radio. The artist is merely reaching a long way for his plot . . . a very long way.

If you follow the Tracy strip, and hundreds of thousands do, please be advised that radio uses no such tactics to obtain its recorded sound effects. You can make a better train crash in the studio with a handful of glass and a couple of tin cans, and you can blow up a building more effectively in the studio with a thunder-sheet, a couple of rocks and an actor or two to scream.

At any rate, Dick Tracy's adventures the past two weeks didn't make my vacation any more enjoyable.

One bright spot, though, was Harry Flannery's book, "Assignment to Berlin." Published by Alfred Knopf, the book is an account of Flannery's adventures in the Nazi headquarters as Berlin correspondent for CBS, following the term spent by Bill Shirer there.

Flannery, now heard on KNX each weekday at 5:30, writes as though he were holding intimate personal conversation with you. He bends over backward to avoid using big and technical words. His style is breezy and interesting. And his choice of subject matter is perfect. It's just like being on the scene yourself.

Don't expect a military account of the war when you read this book, (and I hope you do). Instead, expect an interesting volume of description of the people, the food, the clothing, the entertainment, the psychology and life in general in Germany of 1940-41. It's something different!

Waxman in Race

Al S. Waxman, veteran newspaperman and Los Angeles civic leader, has announced his candidacy for Assemblyman from the newly-created 40th District by filing his nominating petition with the registrar of voters.

A resident of Los Angeles for 23 years, Waxman is well known in Los Angeles radio, political and civic circles as the publisher of the Eastside Journal. His campaigns against one-man street cars, for adequate old-age pensions, for a junior college on the East Side, and for many other important issues have won him admiration from many citizens.

Although he has participated in many elections as a "worker seeking honest, clean, efficient government," only once before has Waxman been a candidate for public office.

Dennis Day

genial gal whose real name is Margaret but who prefers the more informal Sandy in her job as a Jill-of-all-trades in the Hollywood office of the Harms Music Publishing Co.

"Talk about Denny?" she echoed our question as we walked into the office, "Why, that's a pleasure. There's nobody I'd rather talk about."

We were familiar with Day's background . . . how he left a promising law career at Manhattan College in New York where he was the No. 2 honor man in his class to try his luck at the thing he loved best . . . how Mary Livingstone happened to hear a program of his on a New York radio station one night while she was vacationing in the east, and how she influenced Jack Benny to sign the "fresh young kid" from New York to a contract on the Jell-O series, a contract which has now run into its third successive stanza. So we immediately got down to family talk.

"In order to know Denny you have to know his family," continued the young lady opposite me, "and it's quite a family."

"Denny is the third oldest in a family of five boys and a girl, and the only member of the family who has ever attempted to do anything professionally."

Dennis, it seems, has always been the wit of the McNulty family circle, although his mother and father, Molly and Patrick McNulty, are a typical, fun-loving Catholic Irish couple from old Erin.

Frank, next to the youngest of the McNulty clan, is, according to Miss Sandy, a promising young dental student who is regarded as the music critic of the family.

"Dennis calls Frank immediately after his broadcasts to get a frank criticism of his performance," said Miss Oliver, "and even when he's out of the city he doesn't hesitate to dial Frank long distance after a program."

A closely-knit family, the McNultys are famous for their informal, at-home musical evenings which they stage almost weekly for their close friends.

Always on hand for these Irish evenings at the McNultys' are Bill and Mary Gargan, Dennis' closest friends in Hollywood; Bill Thompson, the Old

Joins Air Corps

William Conrad, young producer of the KMPC mystery drama, Hermit's Cave, is now training to become a pilot in the army Air Corps.

During the year he has been in charge of the production, Hermit's Cave has become one of the southland's most popular features.

Robert O. Reynolds, manager of KMPC, this week praised Conrad's ability and attributed much of the success of Hermit's Cave to the efforts of this talented young actor and director.

William Forman, program director of KMPC, will take up Conrad's production duties on the thriller.

The Man the Navy Didn't Want

Chet Huntley Is Grounded For the Duration Because His Uncle Sam Thinks He's Indispensable at CBS

By EVELYN BIGSBY

CHET HUNTLEY, all rigged out for a dive in a navy bomber. Ace special events man for CBS, Chet resembles Leslie Howard, is 30-ish, six feet 2, 160 pounds, an excellent horseman, crack marksman (especially with a Colt 45 six-shooter), yachtsman, photographer, and an actor. Although he doesn't mention it, he turned down a leading man's contract at one of the major studios, preferring to concentrate on setting up and covering special event broadcasts.

SIX YEARS AGO, the town of Coos Bay, Ore., was licked off the map by a forest fire's fierce flames; stores and homes were seared; 3500 inhabitants fled to the ocean and nearby creeks to save their skins.

Among the first outsiders to make an entrance into the abandoned crisp which had been a thriving settlement was Chet Huntley, radio special events man. Driving through still unsubdued heat which blistered the paint from his car, Chet set up shop in the deserted town and arranged a half-hour broadcast.

Graphically he described the desolation of Coos Bay; sympathetically he interviewed the destitute stragglers who wandered back into town. At the end of a 30 minute broadcast, Chet and his engineers were applauding their enterprise when a discovery changed gratification to dismay—they learned that they had been on the air only seven minutes, that for the remaining 22 minutes, thanks to their wire being burned out, they had been throwing their vivid description to the wild winds.

"No need to get excited," comments Chet Huntley in telling the story. "That's just the life of a special events man!"

What is a special event?

A few years ago it was burying a man alive with a microphone and bringing his voice up through six feet of ground to put it on the air; it was raking a bed of hot coals and describing an Indian fakir skimming his way over them; it was planting a tiny microphone in a man's silk hat, equipping his cane with antennae, and waiting while he joined the Easter parade to inform a breathless world what was being worn and by whom.

Radio of yesterday called these special events. They were really stunts. Radio today stresses newsworthiness as the chief requirement of a special event.

"To put it understandably," explains Chet, "a special event to us here at CBS-KNX is what a feature story is to a newspaper."

This dictate does not, by any means, bar excitement. One of Chet's most thrilling experiences was on Navy Day last October, when he swooped down in a bomber over a target boat lying off North Island in San Diego Bay. The dive was made to show listeners what a finished navy pilot can do at the stick of a dive bomber.

It took four rehearsals to locate the target boat close enough to shore and fly the bomber low enough, so that microphones set at the shore-line were able to pick up the sound.

"We didn't have enough gas left to try a fifth time," relates Chet, "but my pilot, Lieut. J. B. Bowen, Jr., promised he'd make the dive heard."

"We started diving from 14,000 feet, zooming down at 475 miles an hour. Customarily, the pilots level off at 1500 feet, but Lieut. Bowen kept right on going, and didn't pull the stick back until we were a scant 800 feet from the target boat. Suffice it to say, we were heard!"

Chet didn't black-out as many do, but he admits things were dark grey for about 20 seconds. "When I raised my head from between my knees, where it went automatically when we finished the dive, I caught my reflection in the windsheld. With my helmet, goggles, and wobbly noggin, I looked like a bewildered seal."

Three years ago when three Russian flyers headed out over the North Pole, every radio man as far east as Denver was praying that the Soviet birdmen would land in his back yard.

"You pray," says Chet, "but you really don't see how, with half a continent for them to land on, they will come down near you!"

But that's precisely what the Russians obliged with, for Mr. Huntley. He was camping out, day and night, near Portland, when the Russian plane was set down half a mile away. Let Chet tell the story.

"We grabbed our portable equipment and raced to the landing spot. The pilots were just crawling out when we arrived. Within half an hour, we had located a house from which we could get a line, dragged the Russians to it, produced the Russian consul, and put all four on a transcontinental hook-up."

Describing the premiere take-off of the B19 as a special event. Huntley was equally as interested in watching Donald Douglas.

"Douglas is rather an impassive fellow," states Chet, "but he betrayed his nervousness when he mis-read his stop-watch. It took the ship 18 seconds to leave the ground, but Douglas looked at his watch and exclaimed:

HUNTLEY AND LORD HALIFAX at the Vultee plant in Downey, where the English visitor christened the Vultee Vengeance.

'Eight seconds to take off!'

At North American, when the army took over during the strike, Chet broadcast from the top of a truck while he dodged tear gas. At Vultee, he escorted the British visitor, Lord Halifax, who christened the Vultee Vengeance. During a course of inspecting the plant, Huntley observed that Halifax was a very religious man who abstained from swearing. So it delighted Chet immeasurably when Halifax spoke: "When this Vultee Vengeance meets a German aircraft somewhere in the channel for the first time, it will—ahem—ahem—"

"Give 'em hell!" supplied an enthusiastic workman.

Lord Halifax recovered: "My friend has said more in one word than I can say." Then His Lordship promptly sat down.

Huntley's most recent radio scoop was putting Brigadier General James H. Doolittle on the air from his Shangri-La, the North American plant. "Doolittle's grin is worth a million dollars," avers Chet.

Huntley also interviewed Captain Steadman, Commander of the S. S. America, when the 35,000-ton ship docked in Los Angeles harbor. "The vessel was interesting because it was heralded as the largest ever built in the Western hemisphere," states Huntley, "but Captain Steadman was newsworthy also, as he has figured in three of the most heroic maritime rescues of modern times."

The war has increased special events activities three fold. Huntley is kept on the constant go with trips to Japanese detention camps, visits to flying fields, with rubber drive programs, with war relief events.

Recently Huntley was ready to enter the navy. He was to have a commission as lieutenant. Then came this word from the navy itself: "We'd like to have a man like you with us. But you are much more valuable to the war effort if you stay right on where you are, handling special events for Columbia Broadcasting System!"

Special Lyrics

Lt. Mary Lohr, one of the last nine U. S. Army nurses evacuated from Bataan and Corregidor, who appeared on "We, The People" recently, reports that the troops helped to keep up their morale during the siege by composing special songs, most of them expressing the hope that a relief convoy would get through the Japanese blockade. The favorite song, set to the music of Stephen Foster's "Camptown Races", had the following lyrics:

"When's that convoy comin' in,
Franklin, Franklin?
When's that convoy comin' through,
Franklin D., ol' Man?
We work and sweat all day
It's jack without no pay
When's that convoy comin' through
Franklin D., Ol' Man?"
And verses on ad infinitum.

INTERVIEW WITH A HERO: Last Monday it was my privilege to meet one of this war's heroes, Aviation Chief Machinist's Mate Harold F. Dixon. Our introduction took place at Columbia Square, where he was appearing that morning on Nelson Pringle's program and that same evening on "I Was There."

It was Dixon and his two companions, Radioman Gene Aldrich and Ordnanceman Anthony Pastula, who stayed alive for 34 days on a rubber life-raft in the south Pacific, after their bomber was forced down. To the wisdom and courage of Dixon, Aldrich and Pastula owe their lives, their ultimate landing on one of the Cook Islands, and their return to civilization and the service.

I had been told that Dixon was a shy, soft-spoken sort of fellow who might be difficult to interview, so it was a delightful surprise when he smiled and said: "I consider myself public domain now. I think what we did should be made known, as the story of such an experience is a big morale-builder."

Although Dixon's story has been publicized nationally, your Gal Friday had a few questions to ask for Radio Life readers. One concerned the men's physical condition when they landed on the island after their month-long struggle with the sea.

"Breaking your exclusive diet of raw fish, albatross, and shark's liver with blood must have been a problem," I suggested.

"Quite the contrary," the hero said. "The only foods used on the island are coconuts, fish, bananas, and taro, which resembles the stuff poi is made from. The natives keep a few chickens, too. The big hurricane, that was breaking when we finally made shore, frightened the fish out to sea and sent the chickens squawking into the hills. While the islanders went looking for a couple of fowl to make us broth, we made our first meal on the pulp of coconut trees."

Mrs. Dixon, who stood by at CBS while her husband chatted, said he came home a "vitamin-conscious man." Maybe that's why he looks so well now and has brought his weight back up to 175 pounds. His skin, which was burned almost to a crisp when he landed on the island, is still very brown. He said the natives did their best to relieve the three men by rubbing them with coconut oil, but that, too, was an excruciating routine, almost as bad as suffering without attention.

One of the queerest quirks of the whole story is Mrs. Dixon's. She and her daughter were first apprised of something being wrong by a friend's wire: "Too bad about Harry." Shortly after, the navy reported Dixon was missing. Then later, the navy sent Mrs. D. the clothes of "Harold F. Dixon, deceased." Just about the time she received them, her stark naked husband was dragging himself up the beach at Cook Islands!

Much has been written of Dixon's religious experiences with his two companions on the raft. "It was the only lift of each day," he commented in referring to their 'prayer-meetings.' The other two always asked me to tell them Bible stories. I was pretty rusty on some of my data, and I guess my versions of Moses, David, and the woman who turned to salt were strictly original and really fantastic," Dixon confessed. "But I can say this. I came out of that experience a Christian!"

Our hero was allotted an extremely dramatic spot on the "I Was There" show, in which highlights of the 34 days were re-created and special emphasis was placed on the very thing Dixon pointed out during his Radio Life interview: "We didn't cry when we saw the plight we were in after our plane sank. We didn't have time or energy to cry. We needed everything we had to lick our situation, and we set about deliberately to run our four by eight rubber raft just like a regular boat."

Yes, indeed, it was a privilege to talk to Chief Dixon. But for you unable to meet him, he vivified his thrilling story on the air. Fronting the CBS-KNX microphone, his trim uniform bearing the decoration of the Navy Cross for extraordinary heroism, Chief Dixon concluded his radio portion: "We experienced the worst the sea can offer, but with the help of the Supreme Being, came through alive. I know what that means. I was there!"

Chief Dixon, Radio Life salutes you!

WEDDING BELLS: "One Man's Family" concluded its June broadcasts with the wedding of Clifford and Irene Franklin. Practically the entire script was devoted to a wedding ceremony, so impressive that the first thing Monday morning, your Radio Lifeline sought an interview with Carlton E. Morse, "One Man's Family" author.

CHIEF DIXON

We thought Sunday was the first time the complete marriage ceremony had ever been aired, but Mr. Morse says he has used it twice before, when Claudia and Nicky were married and when Hazel became Mrs. Herbert. That was old-timer Francis X. Bushman, doing such an effective role as the minister last Sunday. The girl who sang the "ceremony" was Peggy Turnley, who was trained in San Francisco but is being tested by several local musical producers.

It's rather interesting that a 16-year-old, Naomi Stevens, plays the part of Irene Franklin. Mr. Morse used her on one or two "I Love a Mystery" programs and when he was ready to write the character of Irene into the Family scripts, believed she was just the one to carry the role of the frail, sweet girl in love with Clifford. Noted for his unerring casting, Mr. Morse seems to have picked the right one again by choosing Naomi for Irene's Timer on the Fibber McGee and Molly show, who pals around with Dennis; Frances Scully, the Blue Network commentator and her mother and father who are long-time friends of the McNulty's; and other good Irish Catholics in the radio capital.

When he is in Hollywood during the radio season with Jack Benny and Mary Livingstone, Dennis spends several hours each day with the indispensable Miss Oliver who acts as a one-woman secretary, arranger, coach and good friend to the dark-haired young tenor who only last May 21 celebrated his 25th birthday.

Although famous around Hollywood for calling up his friends and business associates on the telephone and speaking in a disguised voice or in one of the many foreign languages he speaks so well, Dennis is one of the most serious young musicians in radio. Despite the fact that critics already rank him in the upper strata of radio's finest singers, this likeable Irish lad continues to study with fine vocal teachers in an effort to improve himself.

"And how about romance?" we asked Miss Sandy as we prepared to say adieu, "what kind of a girl is Dennis looking for?"

"That's out of my department," winked Miss Sandy, "but I do think Denny's looking for the right girl. She'll be a Catholic, with an Irish twinkle in her eyes, probably brunette in coloring and with the same lovable sense of humor that keeps Mrs. McNulty perennially youthful."

"Oh, yes," added our friendly informant, "and she'll have to be as mad about horses as my boy Denny is!"

Willson's Idea

Meredith Willson drove into a Hollywood filling station this week and helped along a movement that may go far to relieve the rubber shortage in the United States. He asked the attendant to remove all available rubber from the car except the tires. The result was 10 pounds of excellent scrap from floor coverings and running boards.

Meredith has asked all his friends to do the same. If the movement spreads ultimately to the 5,700,000 cars throughout the country, the U. S. will get 285,000 tons—approximately 20 per cent of the total amount required!

part. "She's just one of these out-of-this-world ingenues," he says.

BRIDE'S BISCUITS?: Speaking of weddings, Agnes White bobs up at KFI with a very cleverly titled new series, "How to Win and Keep a Husband—Healthy and Happy." Agnes' "California Homes" program moves into a new time-slot this week, Monday-Friday at 2:30 p. m. She'll devote Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays to the winning and keeping a husband subject.

How important foods and nutrition now are may be judged from Agnes' remark: "If you learned to cook before 1932, you really have to learn all over again today. Things have changed that much!"

WHATNOT DEPT.: Chet Huntley, CBS special events man, has one phobia: he's frightened in a crowd, whether it's a football mob or one on a dance floor. . . Bill Henry, NBC commentator, spends all evening reading news magazines and papers, but turns to the New Yorker just before dousing his light. . . Patrick Walsh, popular control room engineer at KPAS, and Bernice Bursha, private secretary to the personnel head at Douglas Aircraft, have set August 23 as their wedding day.

"SWEETHEART TO THE RESCUE": Did you notice how upset Walter White became the day Mary Pickford guest-appeared on "Nobody's Children"? No one can blame Walter, for he was losing his sponsor with that program, when Mary Pickford drew him aside. While the show was in progress on the air, she offered to foot expenses to keep "Nobody's Children" going for another three weeks. Her gracious offer was so unexpected that Walter was doubly touched and everyone in the studio ended up almost in tears. Happily they were the glad kind!

GETTING NOSEY: "What does a dancing master say when he comes home from a hard day at the office?" Don Norman asked Mrs. Arthur Murray, wife of the famed terpsichorean teacher, during a Mutual broadcast. "If you really want to know, was Mrs. Murray's reply, "he says, 'My feet hurt.'"

SHADOWS

MARY MARTIN

All Pictures by Hollywood Pictorial

1 Mary Martin is a pretty (and) good example of why Hollywood is being called by many visitors "the most war-conscious city in America." Mary was one of the first stars to put into active practice a policy of using her bicycle for transportation on short trips rather than her car. On these pages Radio Life's roving cameraman "shadows" the vivacious NBC songstress during a typical Mary Martin day. This is the first of a new series of picture features which reveal how the stars act away from the microphone.

2 Since the acute rubber shortage Mary has learned to conserve those valuable tires on her bicycle. Her first stop before making a 15 minute trip to Beverly Hills from her home in Westwood was at the Shell service station. Above, the attendant checks the tire pressure.

5 One of Mary's few extravagances are hats. And her favorite millinery salon is that of John-Frederics in Beverly Hills. Not only does Mary like the models but she gets a kick out of driving her velocipede right into the fitting room from the street entrance on fashionable Wilshire Boulevard.

6 Unless it's Thursday and radio show day, Mary always takes time off to eat lunch promptly at 1 o'clock. She usually meets friend husband or a studio associate at the Beverly Hills Brown Derby for a salad. Here she is parking outside the Derby. Mary's was the only bicycle in sight when she arrived.

3 A "must" on her shopping excursion to Beverly Hills is always a brief call on a film agent by the name of Richard Halliday. He happens to be Mary's husband, and although they've been married for several years now, she always primps a little in the mirror before announcing herself. That shadow in the doorway is the bashful Mr. Halliday.

4 Like other Hollywood stars who trade there, Saks Fifth Avenue is a favorite shopping haunt of Mary's. When Radio Life's camera caught her above she was cautioning the parking lot attendant about "sliding" her tires when he parked the Martin vehicle. While this picture was being taken, Mary traded quips with the attendant, who remarked, "Gosh, she's democratic!"

7 What spare time she has these days Mary spends at the Beverly Hills USO center where she helps to entertain the visiting service men. Before heading back to Westwood Mary insisted upon stopping long enough at the USO headquarters to chat with the sailors shown with her above.

8 Mary's never too tired to do a little marketing before calling it a day. Above she picks out some grapefruit for the Halliday breakfast table. As far as we know Mary arrived safely home, but because of the tire situation Radio Life's cameraman ended his "shadowing" at the Beverly Hills city limits.

Consumer's Club

By CHEF MILANI

AMERICAN COOKING CLUB:

On May 1, 1732, America's oldest cooking and eating club was founded by a group of amateur fishermen. It was known as "Colony in Schuylkill."

The head was called Baron and the members were Leigmen. That is until the Declaration of Independence. After that the titles were changed to Governor and Citizens.

Chef Milani

All members took turns at being chef for the rest. Their skill in the culinary art was judged by their ability to flip a special frying pan with a five-foot handle. This pan was used to fry the day's catch. A dozen fish were placed in it with their tails toward the center. The trick was to flop them over without losing one.

On meeting day, or Fishing Day, as they called it, the member who was appointed chef had to prepare and serve a meal for the whole club. And any member who failed to give notice that he would attend was fined a beef steak and a bottle of wine.

SUGAR SAVERS:

Sugar seems to be an all-important question these days and one that's constantly coming up. We've already offered a few suggestions on how to conserve sugar in canning, but now it seems that unsweetened desserts are causing trouble.

Whenever you can, serve the dessert hot. You'll be surprised how much sweeter hot food tastes than cold. If you're doubtful, try a dish of cooked fruit that has been thoroughly chilled. Follow that up with a dish of the same fruit that is hot. We think you will be surprised with the results.

Salt is an ingredient that will emphasize the sweetness of a dessert. You see, salt brings out flavor as well as sweetness. And of course, that helps. So just add a tiny pinch of salt to the dessert, not enough to taste but enough to bring out the sweetness of the food.

Make desserts that don't need much sugar. Oh yes, there are lots of them. What about that good old stand-by, shortcake? You can make it with biscuit dough and sweeten it with any kind of fruit that's in season. Or if you like, try a fruit cobbler. You can make that with biscuit dough, too. Now add bread crumb puddings and custard to the list, and you have a good variety to start with.

MUGWUMP IN A HOLE:

Mugwump in a Hole is something you eat! We can prove it. It's an old Virginia dish that has been handed down from generation to generation. And to make the whole thing more confusing, it is the direct result of a political campaign.

Perhaps we'd better explain. In the campaign of 1884, many members of the Republican Party decided to change their politics. So they ceased to be Republicans—but they didn't become anything else. Theirs was the state of being "neither one thing nor another," like the mugwump that isn't a tadpole and hasn't become a frog.

So the Virginia recipe for using up leftovers of beef, mutton, veal, fowl, and the like, was christened Mugwump in a Hole in honor of the confused partisans of the Mugwump Party!

Sunday Dinner for Eight Persons

- Crab Flakes Cocktail
- Alber's Homecured Olives Celery Anchovies
- Lobster Newburg Stuffed Potatoes Zucchini Florentine
- Escarole Salad with Olive Oil and Wine Vinegar
- Delicate Fruit Mold
- Monarch Coffee

Recipe for Lobster Newburg

- 4 tbsps. butter, (sweet)
- 4 cups lobster meat
- ½ tsp. salt
- Dash of paprika
- 1 tsp. Seasonettes
- ½ teaspoon nutmeg
- 8 tbsps. sherry wine
- 8 egg yolks
- 2 cups cream
- 8 patty shells or toast

Melt butter in a double boiler, add lobster meat cut in inch squares and let cook 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Add Seasonettes, salt, a few dashes of paprika, nutmeg and sherry and cook for 3 minutes. Mix the egg yolks and cream. Remove double boiler from the fire and add cream and egg mixture and beat until smooth. Return to the fire and cook until the mixture begins to thicken. Important: If the eggs are cooked too much, they may curdle. Serve on patty shells or rounds of toast.

Dollar Dinner for Four

- Tenderoni in Casserole
- String Bean Salad
- Meat Balls Neapolitan
- Bread and Butter
- Gelatine
- Coffee

Tenderoni in Casserole—Meat Balls Neapolitan

- 1 lb. ground round beef, 85% lean
- 3 pkgs. of Tenderoni
- 1 No. 2½ can tomatoes
- 4 slices Wilson's Ol' Fashund Bacon
- 1 tsp. Seasonettes
- 1 tsp. salt—dash of pepper
- 6 slices day old bread
- 1 egg
- 1 onion
- 3 quarts water

Mix 1 pound ground round beef with 1 egg and 6 slices of day old bread, previously soaked in water and squeezed. Add ½ teaspoon Seasonettes, ½ teaspoon of salt and a dash of pepper. When well mixed, form into equal balls about the size of a walnut. Chop 4 slices of Wilson's Ol' Fashund Bacon, put to melt in a thick pot, and then add the meat balls and brown. Remove the meat balls and saute 1 finely chopped onion in the drippings. When the onion is a golden color, add the tomatoes and the meat balls. Season with ½ teaspoon Seasonettes, 1 teaspoon salt, cover and let simmer for one hour. While the sauce is simmering put 3 quarts water with 4 teaspoons of salt into a pot, and when boiling add 3 packages of Tenderoni and let cook for seven minutes. Then drain, put into a casserole and pour half of the sauce on top and mix well. Finally, add the rest of the sauce and serve with meat balls.

William L. Shirer has become one of the country's leading consultants for editorial writers seeking angles on news behind the news from Axis countries.

Frazier Hunt, noted journalist heard over KNX and CBS on his own news analysis program, plans to travel extensively about the United States this summer, visiting factories engaged in the war effort. His broadcasts are to originate in at least ten cities in the next two months.

Larry Robinson, who plays the role of a schoolboy on "We Love and Learn," spends his summers on a farm in Connecticut and commutes to his radio work by train, which absorbs at least four hours of each broadcasting day.

Gracie Allen has her own private way of kidding George Burns when he makes suggestions at rehearsals of the Burns and Allen show. She simply says to him—"you're right, George, you're so right!"

Joy Rides

Dick Joy, CBS-KNX announcer, has organized his own "save-your-car" movement. Joy has worked out a plan whereby five of his neighbors in Glendale take turns using their autos to transport the group to and from Hollywood each day.

CBS engineers are working to cut out "jamming" that has been marring Edward R. Murrow's Sunday afternoon broadcasts from London recently. They suspect Axis radio of deliberate efforts to kill the broadcasts.

Although "Those We Love," dramatic series replacing Eddie Cantor on NBC for the summer, is broadcast from Hollywood, the author, Agnes Ridgway, will remain in the East at her home on Long Island.

Norris (Tuffy) Goff, "Abner" of Lum and Abner, was a member of the Sigma Chi fraternity at the University of Arkansas. It was there that he met Chester (Lum) Lauck. Chet was a Sigma Chi, too.

Real Photos of Your Favorites

In response to hundreds of requests from readers, RADIO LIFE has made arrangements to supply original glossy print photographs of stars* and performers on all stations.

Every radio listener has wanted to own pictures of his favorite radio personalities. Many have special favorites among little-photographed performers whom they have never seen. Here is a chance for you to get pictures of these radio friends. Soap opera characters, band leaders, announcers, commentators, sportscasters, supporting players, name stars and new stars, all are available.

*In some cases, because of contracts, some stars are unable to procure a release of their pictures.

EXTRA TIME WILL BE REQUIRED WHEN PICTURES MUST BE SPECIALLY POSED.
