The Ear Inspires the Pen.

Vernon Blake, 1834 S. Bonnie Brae St., Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: In your column, "Pre-casts and Pre-views" I noticed that the "Victory Theater" was listed for 6 p. m. Monday, July 20. This is correct. But, on looking through the daily log I saw that for 6 p. m. Monday, July 20, there was written "unscheduled." Surely there must be an explanation for this error.

I like your Radio Life Album of Stars page but I believe that there should be more popular stars there. Lately I have known but a few of the pictured 'stars.' How about some pictures of Phil Baker, Joan Davis, Fanny Brice, Fred Waring, Robert Ripley, Cab Calloway, etc.?

Hope I read my letter and your explanation to the 'unscheduled' error in the next issue of Radio Life Magazine.

(Owing to conditions beyond our control in the radio industry, programs are sometimes scheduled and announced at an hour so close to our editorial deadlines as to make the correlation of references very sketchy. We anticipate, however, that the revision of our deadlines resulting from our new format will enable us to do away with errors of this sort.)

Mary Knowles, 1230 E. Seneca St., Tucson, Ariz.

Sirs: Use a picture of "EL TORO," on your picture page . . . understand he is doing his stuff on KPAS, Pasadena. He has been a favorite on Arizona air for a couple years and from write-ups I have seen he is doing all right on the coast . . . would like to see him get the break he deserves.

A friend sent me Radio Life a few months back and haven't missed a copy since. It is a swell publication.

Patients at La Vina Sanatorium, La Vina, Calif.

Sirs: What's happened to Saturday night as a radio night? Now they've taken the only good program off—"Hobby Lobby." We like mystery programs up here—not Kay Kyser or Barn Dance.

(We suggest that the La Vina folks and other mystery lovers, listen to The Whistler, KNX, 8:30 p. m. And, before curling up with a good book on Saturday nights, how about Columbia Workshop, Soldiers With Wings, Olmsted's Story Drama, and The Adventures of Cosmo Jones?)

ON OUR COVER

Helen Wood, Radio Life's cover girl this week, is a Southern girl who knows the real meaning of the word, "charm." She plays the part of Elaine Dascom in the NBC-KFI dramatic series, "Those We Love." Helen's always wanted to be an actress, ever since she made her histrionic debut on the stage, at the tender age of 5, in a kindergarten play. Upon completion of her junior year in high school at Clarksville, Tenn., Helen came west with her mother to visit Hollywood during the summer vacation. After getting a contract from Sam Goldwyn, Helen went home to think over her idea of a professional career. She decided to take a fling at fame, and after playing several good roles she was stricken with illness. Since her illness Helen has concentrated on radio. She calls her co-starring role opposite Charles Boyer on "Woodbury Playhouse" her most exciting role of all time. The dark-haired Southern beauty is five feet, six inches tall, and weighs 123 pounds, if you're interested in figures. Oh, yes, and she's one of radio's most popular "dates" again, since being Reno-vated recently.

Herbert Williams, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: Why don't you change the name of Radio Life to "The Adventures of Clete Roberts?" What is your cut on all the free publicity, or are you cousins?

(The Editor is deeply grateful to Mr. Williams for pointing out the astounding presence of Clete Roberts publicity in Radio Life, and helping to uncover a plot which would, indeed, have culminated in the very change of name which he so astutely suggests. Our copyreader, who is not only a cousin but also the grandfather of Clete Roberts, has for many months been engaged in a subtle process of altering names so as to make Roberts the hero of every story, every column, every paragraph. We can now safely promise that Mr. Williams and other sensitive souls will be troubled no further by Clete Roberts publicity. (Copyreader's note: Clete Roberts, one of the year's most energetic and able newscasters and special events broadcasters, is heard twice daily, Monday through Friday, at 12:45 and 3:30 p.m.) Thanks again, Reader Williams.)

Misses Marion and Barbara Kersting, 260 S. Kingsley Dr., Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: We agree wholeheartedly that Mr. Mitchell is the best organist/pianist we have ever heard, but no body ever mentions Bob Mitchell's Boychoir.

We enjoyed the story of the Boychoir in March 1-7 issue. We think "A Day With the Boychoir" would make a very interesting story, since so many people we know enjoy the Boychoir. We would like to see more up-to-date pictures than were in the March issues. We believe that the choir is just as much one of Bob Mitchell's achievements as playing the piano or organ.

We like hearing the choir sing on "Nobody's Children" and wish they had a program of their own.

Margaret Osborne, 1805 S. Normandie, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: Three big cheers to you for your seething words on Carole Landis' lack of clothes, gives me a chance to spout off about Gale Robbins having her picture taken in a slip for the cover of July 5 issue and words of praise to Connie Haines for being 'dressed' on the July 12 cover.

Your comments are always interesting and our whole family enjoys Radio Life, a grand little magazine

Blanche Loughran, 2453 Folsom St., Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: I subscribed to Radio Life for my mother. Now the whole family enjoys it. I get it at the end of the week to cut up for my scrap book.

Each week you print an interesting article on some personality (Bill Henry, July 5-11 for example). Please don't print the continuation on the next page backing the beginning pages 11-12. It doesn't work a bit well in my scrap book.

(Our circulation manager says "Fine! We'll sell 'em two copies!" But we'll do what we can for you, anyway.)

William A. Boegeman, 2720 Newell St., Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: Is there any radio station in this vicinity that gives the official Washington standard time like KFI used to do at 9 a. m.?

(KMTR now offers this service which is heard at 12 noon.)

BILL STERN, NBC's ace sportcaster, tells Army Hour listeners what goes on inside an Army bomber "somewhere in the East."

Radio Circles the Globe To Bring You The ARMY HOUR

By EVELYN BIGSBY

LIEUT.-GENERAL HUGH A. DRUM, commander of the First Army, talks to his chief in Washington, Lieut.-General Lesley J. McNair, Commanding General of the Ground Forces, U. S. A. Meanwhile, NBC staff men iron out details from Chungking to London, with a half dozen way points.

THIS is The Army Hour! A military operation of the United States Army! Thrilling are the words—more nerve tingling is the thought, that here we are in this country, fighting our enemies with everything which we have, and that includes a solid hour of wireless wizardry!

"This is The Army Hour!", announces a firm, omnipotent voice. And directly, from the four corners of the earth, are brought pick-ups so startling in their scope and revelation that the listener is left filled with awe for radio and with admiration for a government which employs radio's resources as a weapon, both of domestic morale-building and Axis undermining.

Cairo comes in; the program shifts to West Point, where cadets are parading; Bill Stern is picked up as he roars along in an army bomber "somewhere in the East"; Los Angeles comes in and the world hears Brig. General James H. Doolittle tell of his exploits over Tokyo, followed seconds later by the hero's son, at school in the mid-west, asking Dad to take him along next time.

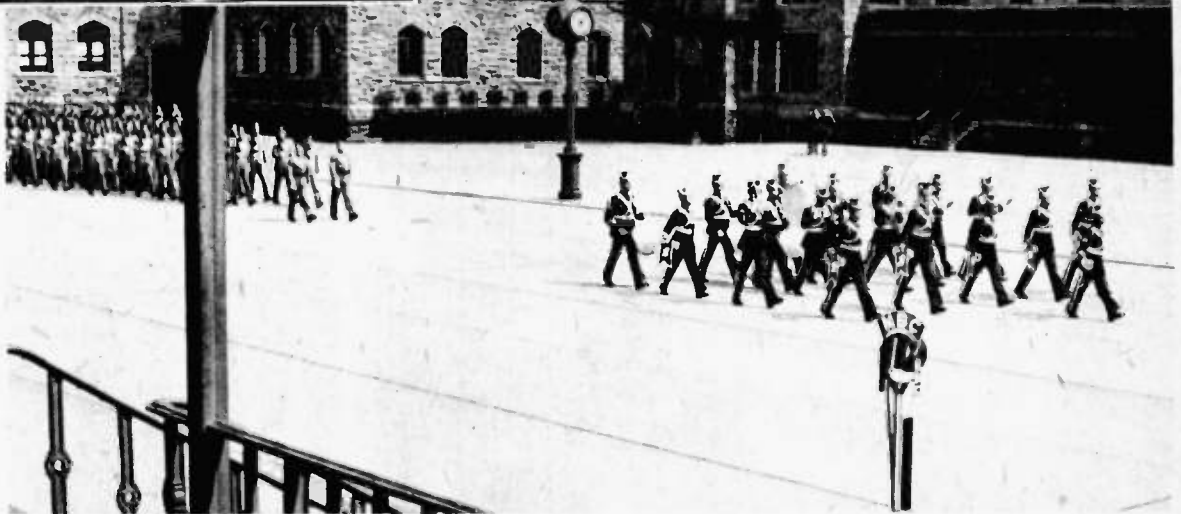

General MacArthur talks from Australia; Chungking is cut in for a report; a camp cook down in the south tells how the army is fed.

It's Mother's Day and men in the armed forces send in their messages from north, south, east, and west. Finally comes a voice which says simply: "Hello, Mother. This is Joe. I've been in a lot of fights, but this one is the biggest yet." That's Private Joe Louis, speaking on The Army Hour and bringing tears to many eyes as Mr. and Mrs. Citizen realize the drama behind radio as a "military operation."

This is live stuff—this foreign pick-up business

CADET FIRST CAPTAIN CARL HINKLE is interviewed by Cliff Engle. Hinkle, former all-American football star, talks from the West Point room once occupied by General Pershing and later by General Douglas MacArthur.

WEST POINT CADETS in full regalia for a recent Army Hour broadcast. Marching in review, their trim uniforms reflecting the discipline and honor of the military academy, the cadets supplied one of the highlights of an Army Hour broadcast.

—and because radio listeners know that it is live, the program packs an extra wallop.

To a person listening in at home or in the car, it seems almost as if a magic carpet is whisking him hither and yon.

But to a radio engineer, there is no magic behind the foreign pick-ups. What there is, is a tremendous amount of careful planning and technical detail, set in motion when the War Department and NBC send out duplicate instructions to their representatives at points intended for broadcasts where final arrangements are worked out. No details are spared in these preliminary wires of instructions, which are very frequently two and three pages long and which tell the pick-up points explicitly what to do. Almost every possible emergency is foreseen. For instance, most of the points are in locations where it is possible for them to get a "go-ahead" from New York, but if there is ever a possibility of this cue circuit failing, detailed advice is given that particular point in regard to starting on a time basis.

This situation has occurred several times.

When General Brerton and General Wavell spoke from New Delhi, India, a special two-way circuit from New York to India, via London, was arranged. However, both the War Department and NBC advised their contacts in India that if they did not hear New York, they should start at such and such a minute and second. At the time of the broadcast, NBC engineers literally screamed their lungs out and it was not until 30 seconds before New Delhi was scheduled to start that New York was heard there. Everything went off without a hitch.

The Army Hour owes much of its success to the generous cooperation of foreign broadcasting organizations and radio engineers, who have arranged for transmissions often at inconvenient times. To pick up Moscow, Radio-center, a special transmitter was used by the Soviet Broadcasting organization. BBC has made many elaborate technical setups from points within the British Isles. The U. S. Army Signal Corps strung miles of landlines on temporary poles in Puerto Rico, so as to make possible a special air raid demonstration from a field there. The Chinese government has opened its station at Chungking at 6 a. m. to accommodate Army

Hour listeners, and the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has likewise made available personnel and equipment for pick-ups originating in the Dominion.

One of the best jobs done by way of West Coast pick-up is credited to Joy Storm of Hollywood's Radio City Special Events department. Joy came in from Long Beach to describe the take-off of a bombing plane being delivered to the RAF.

Joy went through a series of headaches and lost many pounds worrying when two days before the show came and absolutely nothing was ready. There were phone calls and huddles. "Then late Saturday night," says Joy, the script came through on the teletype wire, busting all our engineering and technical plans. It involved not only interviews, but an actual plane taking off and landing, dismissal orders from control tower, and talk back and forth between pilot and control tower. By this time I'm into Sunday morning with four new grey hairs. On the day of the broadcast, we have a special telephone line set up so New York can advise us of any last-minute changes. Fortunately there weren't any . . . New York had specified plenty of plane noise during the show.

WYLLIS COOPER, Army Hour author (standing) and Arthur Feldman of NBC's Special Events Division. They are speaking from New York studios by shortwave to Chungking to iron out pre-broadcast details of a pick-up from the Chinese capital.

PRIVATE JOE LOUIS tells his mother "hello" on Mother's Day. Coming on the air simply as Joe, but betraying his identity otherwise during his greetings, Louis made one of the Army Hour's most poignant pick-ups.

"When we went on the air, we had six bombers continuously diving at the control tower, another plane was idling near a mike on the field, and at a given point in the show, we caught the take-off of a bomber directly 'on mike', just as its wheels were getting loose of the ground.

"After any show I always feel a letdown, and I didn't know how our insert had gone over until I got a wire from Art Feldman, Special Events man in New York. It said: 'War Department thought Long Beach, far and away, best pick-up of all on The Army Hour.'"

That was Joy Storm's contribution. He did an important job, but he was only one of a dozen special events men standing by for an Army Hour pick-up—just one of the hundreds of men who, every Sunday at 12:30 p.m., give their best efforts to put over this gigantic, powerful, thrill-packed "military operation of the United States Army

COLONEL J. H. WEIKERT, Capt. Donald Thurman, and Cadet Vincente Lim give Army Hour listeners an account of flight training at the U. S. Military Academy field. Lim is son of Brig.-General V. P. Lim, first Filipino graduate of West Point and the one who commanded troops on Bataan.

Radio Life Discovers Her!
Arch Oboler Calls Her:

Radio's Most Versatile Actress

★ ★ ★ MERCEDES McCAMBRIDGE

MERCEDES, as she is in real life, Mrs. Bill Fifeild, with the Fifeild heir, John Lawrence. Mercedes doesn't need to act to portray the role of an exemplary wife and mother.

AS ARCH OBOLER so aptly stated in the adjoining column, there are few women on the air lanes, who can be called actresses in the true sense of the word. One of them is a radiant faced, strikingly attractive young lady of 26 summers, who hails from the fertile plains of Illinois. She is Mercedes McCambridge, better known along Hollywood's Ether Avenue as "Mercy"—the girl who can transform deadly, dull dialogue into a living thing via the microphone. Although Miss McCambridge is in constant demand at the broadcasting studios, performing an array of roles that range in dramatic exercise from the sinister character of a native island girl to that of a Boston sub-deb, few pictures of this versatile lady have appeared in print.

RADIO LIFE, basing its opinion, not only upon her air performances, but also on the fact that Mr. Oboler recently called her "radio's most versatile actress," nominates Miss McCambridge as the most important dramatic discovery of the season. On these pages, Miss McCambridge, who, in private life, is the wife of William Fifeild, is shown in character studies of the many types of roles which she plays on the air.

Says
Arch Oboler
Of Miss
McCambridge:

THERE are not many good actresses in radio. The fault lies with the medium of radio itself. Because of the fact that rehearsals are limited and producers use the time largely for mechanical and musical effects, there is little opportunity for the development of any acting intelligence.

Consequently, when ability such as Mercedes McCambridge has comes along, producers and directors spread the happy news from control-room to control-room.

For Miss McCambridge has the rare quality of quickly analyzing the part she is to play, and approaching each role with the analytical approach which makes for freshness of characterization.

She, with Lurene Tuttle here on the coast, and Ann Shepherd in New York, are part of a small select company of ingenues who are of radio and who can, in the true sense of the word, be called actresses.

MERCEDES as a scullery maid has just looked in on some high doings in the parlor. Here she registers nonplussed amazement and unrestrained curiosity.

PLAYING RADIO LIFE'S EDITOR for a day, Mercedes puzzles over a dangling participle, finds acting easier than writing about it. "To easily act is more fun," she assures, splitting an infinitive.

MERCEDES overacts as a little theater student, interpreting joy with gestures. Here is the standard dramatic pose, with back to the wall and arm and chin upraised.

SUITABLE FOR A COVER of 'Horror Stories' is the terror-stricken pose which Mercedes adopts here. Only thing missing is the gloating villain waiting to plunge the knife. Still it's another evidence of her versatility.

PURE CORN TO THE HAIR RIBBONS and striped cotton dress is Mercedes as the farmer's daughter, engaging in that well-known rural pastime, "he loves me, he loves me not."

BUT MERCEDES can also play a typical college girl, troubled with day dreams while still trying to concentrate on her history book. Her costume includes the ubiquitous sweater.

JOAN EDWARDS

Another of Paul Whiteman's illustrious proteges who has gone on to become one of radio's most successful performers is the crisp-looking young lady above, Joan Edwards. Joan, she of the melodious voice and the nimble fingers, is one of the major reasons why "Your Hit Parade" over CBS-KNX on Saturday evenings is one of the air's top-ranking shows. Miss Edwards, a brunette beauty, is a girl who, when unable to find a radio job as a pianist when she left college, studied voice. The combination proved a springboard to fame for her.

Back to First Love

As Radio Life prepared to send this issue to press, we received word which gladdened our hearts and which we speed on to you believing it will have the same effect on our readers.

Don Ameche is coming back to the Chase and Sanborn Show—back to his first love, radio, back to heckle and sing for his wooden-headed little rascal-friend, Charlie McCarthy just as he did from May, 1937 until December, 1939.

Don Ameche

This is indeed good news, for we regard Ameche as a suave emcee who has been keenly missed during the past two and a half years. We understand that Jack Carson, star of the late "Signal Carnival," was also a contender for the berth. Although we have nothing against Jack, except, indirectly, the material which he tried helplessly but valiantly to put over as "entertainment" on the "Carnival," Radio Life feels that Ameche was the only logical choice for the coffee chore. Don can do a slick spiel, can sing, is expert at dialect, and will be an excellent romantic lead for dramatic spots with Charlie's femme guest-lovelies. His presence will be more important than ever, now that Abbott and Costello have left the Chase and Sanborn Hour to head their own variety broadcast.

A New Column

The new feature "Tel-E-Types" which starts in Radio Life this week, takes you behind the scenes of radio news reporting, and will be presented in much the same way as the teletype machines in all major network newsrooms operate. We think it will give you an inside glimpse of what goes on before your favorite radio reporter or news commentator hits the air.

At first glance, you may find some of the phraseology puzzling, but you will be more than repaid when you solve the cross-word puzzle and jigsaw combinations with which experienced radio editors have to work when they comb through the press dispatches on the teletype wires.

The column will be written by Bill Ratigan who is known to those "in the know" as the best radio news writer in the business. He has been, and still is, associated with some of the greatest commentators in radio, and is highly regarded as "the man behind the microphone."

Among other things a former newspaper reporter and publicity man, Ratigan has travelled over most of the world and has intimate acquaintance with most of the places from which World War No. 2 news bulletins emanate. He reads and writes six languages and, being Irish, even speaks English fairly well.

Just for the record, Bill Ratigan has assisted in setting up three network news departments, and is an expert on short wave radio listening posts and foreign pickups. He spent five years in college and came out with a couple of degrees and honorable mention for All-America quarterback. His writing ranges from "Spicy Detective Stories" for the pulp magazines to radio's "First Nighter" and from horse and soap operas to a take-off on a Gilbert and Sullivan operetta.

Now that you have read this far, suppose you turn to Page 13 of this issue and find out why we think "Tel-E-Types" will hold your interest.

On Guard, Quiz Kids!

Don't say we didn't warn you Quiz Kids that Norma Nilsson will be on her way to Chicago this month for an audition for your program. Norma is Radio Life's own discovery and because we like to see fair competition, we're tipping you off. You'd better hold on to your honors tightly, for if this babyish-looking little sprite of 4½ years makes the Quiz Kids show she will have your medals in her dimpled hands.

Norma Nilsson

Norma, daughter of Dr. Arthur Nilsson and Mrs. Nilsson, 7867 Melrose Avenue, was heard on KECA's "Tune Out Time." She is the youngster with the rarest of all musical gifts, "perfect pitch" and can identify exactly any musical note when she hears it.

Norma also plays the classics and is stepping earnestly into the fields of composing. She speaks Swedish as well as English—and has an uncanny alertness of the world and events around her.

So, while Radio Life is mighty proud of its protege, just to balance the scales fairly, we want to give you Quiz Kids a chance to prepare for this intellectual whirlwind of ours who looks like a seraph.

KECA, KFSD, 8:30 p.m. Sun.

Kay Returns

Kay Kyser returned to Hollywood a week ago Sunday after a four and a half months' trip during which he visited some 35 army camps, travelled 25,000 miles with his aggregation, played war bond appearances on his "bond wagon" to more than a million people, and sold more than $10,000,000 worth of bonds.

No wonder he was tired to death and had lost so much weight (20 pounds) that his clothes hung on him.

What Kay and his entertainers did, the records they broke, make a story in themselves. But that's not the story your Radio Life reporter uncovered when she interviewed the "Professor" Wednesday afternoon as he rehearsed his "College of Musical Knowledge" at Radio City's Studio B.

We didn't know Kay Kyser before he left on his trip, but those who heard him talking to us and did know him before, said he has come back to Hollywood a different man—that they had never seen or heard anything like the intensity or arousement Kay displayed.

For a solid hour he talked, spiritedly, with great emotion, of what he had seen in the camps and in civilian life during his gruelling trip. He talked of people's indifference to the war, their pettiness in avoiding sacrifice, their selfishness in political bickering, their refusal to think. With these he contrasted the spirit of our armed forces.

To us, the most important thing Kay said concerned radio and other entertainers. He believes that here is one bunch of people who have the confidence of Mr. and Mrs. America; he believes that when a Kate Smith speaks, Mr. and Mrs. America take heed; he believes that it is up to the nation's radio entertainers to make the American people aware—to make them think.

Thus, the war has thrust upon the stars of the airlines the most important and significant job that these people have yet been called upon to perform.

"Nothing is more important now than winning this war," Kay Kyser exclaimed earnestly. "Nothing—not even love, or family, or time or your work! We radio folks certainly have our job cut out for us!" KFI, 7 p.m. Wed.

We Sing Again

Announcement of a sponsor for "United We Sing," came close on Radio Life's plaint that a show of its fine calibre should be dropped from KNX for want of a sponsor, when it was known there was constant shopping by sponsors for morale-building shows.

Protests of enthusiastic listeners lauding the American spirit of the show, decrying its passing, are answered by the Morris Stamping and Manufacturing Company which, in cooperation with the United States Treasury Department, will sponsor "United We Sing" each Sunday, beginning August 9, for a half-hour.

The sponsors will also have as guests each week, representatives from other defense industries as guest singers or orchestral entertainers.

Congratulations to a discriminating sponsor and a quality-wise network for keeping a worthwhile job of morale building on the air! It takes singing together as well as working together to keep up America's spirit these days. KNX, 4:30 p.m. Sun.

Radio and Opera

Radio listeners and their sponsors may well be classified as human respirators for the dying arts of America, if the Texas Company's announcement of its new NBC contract for presenting the Metropolitan Opera is any indicator of which way the wind is blowing. Radio listeners have proven they enjoy the taste of the richer dishes of the arts—a little point of appetite that may be significant to future radio programs and fields not yet touched by radio.

With the signing of the new Texas contract, the Met will be heard over 170 stations of the Blue network in 16 operas, beginning Saturday, Nov. 28 and running until Saturday, March 13, 1943, opening the third season of the Texas Company's sponsorship and, as in 1941, having an increase in stations and listening audience over the previous year.

That contract could mean that microphones replacing high hats and loud speakers nosing out box seats are turning the dying gasps of opera to good, healthy breathing. For it is not long ago, near enough in fact to make tenors and sopranos shudder at the memory, that there were fearsome whispers of a possibility that a great musical tradition might be broken—due to lack of support.

But with the tenderloin of the 400 being turned into hamburgers for the 4,000,000 and more—, business is looking up, thanks to the radio meat-grinder.

Jolson Signs

Rumors circulating along radio row the past few weeks were confirmed Friday by announcement that Al Jolson had been cinched for a new Colgate sponsored variety show to hit the NBC airlines Saturday night, Oct. 3. The mammy singer hasn't headed an ether program since his Shell Chateau series some four years ago.

Probably aligned with the comedian will be Eve Arden, saucy comedienne; Parkyakarkus; Hildegard, the chanteuse, and Ray Block's 21-piece orchestra.

The Jolson broadcast is just one of many which will enliven fall and winter listening. To radio fans, it presages a season of lavish air production which this magazine will describe in detail in a forthcoming issue.

More Shows

Radio Life has it on good authority that Consolidated Aircraft, Vega, Lockheed, and Vultee are all in the market for radio programs this fall. All seem to be looking for variety type shows. Consolidated is said to be considering a big money production with high salaried stars. If any of the deals jell, radio can notch up another significant recoup since war gave many sponsors priority jitters. General Motors led the way with its prestige-building program, "Cheers from the Camps." Next, Ford signed the veteran newsman, Earl Godwin, for a year's newspot seven nights a week on the Blue network. The tie-up was said to involve more than a million dollars.

Other big businesses are inclined to follow suit in keeping their names before the public during the war. It's strictly a goodwill gesture, as these concerns have nothing else to sell but goodwill. Those in the know advance the theory that several large companies which have been receiving adverse publicity on account of their profits from government war contracts are turning to radio as a means of mollifying the public. Whatever the motive, it means bigger and better listening for the dial twisters.

Sticks to His Guns

Harry W. Flannery still believes the war will be over in the final months of 1943.

We wondered about that since he had first made that prediction to Radio Life several months ago. Since then there has been the Jap invasion of the Aleutians, the fall of Burma, the remarkable drive of Nazi Marshal Rommel in Egypt and the amazing Nazi drive against the Russians.

Flannery's opinion was interesting since he was one of the last foreign correspondents to see the Nazi military machine in action. He had come back to the United States less than two months before Pearl Harbor, after having succeeded William L. Shirer as European representative of the Columbia Broadcasting System. Since then he has written about that period in Europe in one of the nation's current best sellers, "Assignment to Berlin." He is now news analyst for the Columbia Broadcasting System on the West Coast.

Harry W. Flannery

"If these recent events haven't given you reason to modify your statement of some months ago," we asked, "why do you continue to feel we can win by the end of 1943? What about the Nazi drive toward the oil of the Caucasus, for instance?"

"Of course," he said, "no one can be certain of anything in this war. So much depends on so many other things. If the Nazis do get the oil of the Caucasus before the winter comes as an ally of the Soviet and before we are able to open a second front, the war may last many, many years. The Nazis already have the food of the Ukraine and the Don. They have occupied a section of the country that produces more wheat than Germany, Poland and Hungary together. They have conquered a region producing three times as much coal as Germany, a high grade anthracite low in ash and high in heat units. They have a land that produces 9 million tons of ore a year, an ore that yields 65 per cent iron.

"I said in my book that a German economic expert told me that Germany could not last two more winters economically. That was before the Nazis took the Ukraine and the Don. That situation is already changed."

We interjected a comment. "And they may also get the oil of the Caucasus."

"Yes," Flannery said, "the oil they must have to keep their mechanized war going. And what's more—little has been said about this—they also may get the largest deposits of high-grade manganese in the world on the other side of the Caucasus. There's enough manganese there, necessary for steel, for several mechanized wars.

"But the Germans haven't gained these riches yet. They have almost a thousand miles to go to the richest oil fields at Baku. They are confronted by some of the most formidable mountains in the world and by a fighting Russian army that is still mostly intact. Until the Nazis cross the Caucasus or get around it, there is still reason for hope. That will take at least weeks and before then our monster raids on the Channel Coast and on the industrial regions of Germany may have enabled us to begin the Second Front that will change the whole picture.

"Germany may yet fall sometime next year, and before then when the Japs attack Siberia, we may be getting in the first real air punches against the Japs. In the meantime, we here in the United States must concentrate on the war effort in every way, in the rubber campaign, the collection of grease, scrap iron and every other such material, in the purchase of War Bonds, in the work in our factories. The harder we work and the more sacrifices we make now, the shorter the war will be.

Scooping the Future

Special Delivery to Radio Life comes word that Gracie Fields, famous English stage and screen star, will soon take the spotlight at CBS-KNX. The Yorkshire songs that have made her beloved in every corner of England will be featured in the new program. According to CBS executives at this printing, the only thing holding up actual plans for the program and time of presentation is "one of those little discussions over money, nothing much, just a few thousand dollars." But such discussions usually end in settlement and it's a pretty sure thing that the popular entertainer will soon be heard over a music-dramatic program at CBS.

'Dick' Mintier on Special 'Dance Tonite' Broadcast

The thousands of Southern Californians who enjoy their cold glasses of beer on a hot summer day, will welcome the announcement from Warner Bros. Station KFVB, that this week they are to be told some of the secrets that go into the brewing of fine beer—and many of the other things about beer and ale that heretofore have been the knowledge only of those who work inside the brewery walls.

Friday evening, August 14th, at 8:45 o'clock, the genial Sales Manager and Advertising Manager of Los Angeles Brewing Company, will be interviewed over Station KFVB.

The man who will answer all the sixty-four-dollar questions, is Mr. Robert Mintier, who usually answers to the name of "Dick." If anyone is an authority on the subject of beer, it should be Dick Mintier, as he has been a part of the Eastside organization for more than a quarter of a century.

Do you know that beer was brewed and drunk by the ancient Egyptians?

Do you know what part hops plays in the brewing of beer?

Do you know the difference between draught beer and bottled beer?

Do you know what great French scientist made it possible for you to get the beer you drink today?

Listen to Mr. Mintier, Friday evening, and you'll know all the answers.

Admirals vs. Sound Men

The boys in blue who manned the Monitor and Merrimac, may have thought they had a battle on their hands in fighting each other in the famous sea epic. But the sound technicians, working together in reproducing the naval fight for a recent "Cavalcade of America" broadcast, declare they were completely worn out after producing the noises of the warfare. It took three technicians and a half-stage of equipment where only two sound effects men are usually required for the whole production.

Morale Builder

A few weeks ago Harry Flannery, noted KNX-CBS news commentator, delivered a down-to-earth realistic talk about the war to workers at the North American Aviation plant in Southern California. He contrasted conditions in Germany's air plants to those in the United States.

The North American workers were so impressed that the U. S. Maritime Commission is now negotiating with Flannery for a series of talks with aircraft and shipyard workers on working conditions under German war production contrasted to conditions under the democracies.

Kibitzing the WAR

Since the dawn of history, all mankind has been divided into two classes: those who do things and those who stand around and tell them how. Today in America we have military leaders and strategists trained and qualified through years of experience. As kibitzers, we shouldn't take our own advice too seriously.

Radio Life Lines

By EVELYN BIGSBY

IRONIC TWIST: Some weeks ago, we wrote a little story about one of the Sportsmen Quartet from the Rudy Vallee show. It told about Thurl Ravenscroft, the basso, who had more than 100 solo hours in the air and tried to enlist in the Air Corps, but was turned down because of a defect in one eye. He was going to be operated on to correct the trouble.

Ravenscroft underwent an expensive and painful operation and was given an O. K. by his doctors. Then he began to prepare for his technical examination, studying furiously. He wound up letter perfect for his exam, but—the strenuous application affected his eye again!

KUDOS FOR WILLSON: Although he has conducted for the San Francisco Symphony and for Los Angeles Philharmonic, Meredith Willson has yet to baton in the Hollywood Bowl. It won't be long now, though, for the affable NBC composer will direct "Symphonies Under the Stars" on Tuesday night, August 11. The King's Men, those perfect harmonizers from the Fibber McGee and Molly show, are also appearing that night. John Nesbitt, co-starred with Willson on the McGee summer show, marks an innovation in Bowl history when he puts in his sixpence by doing a commentary on Meredith's original tone poem, "Jervis Bay." Looks like a big night for radio, all around.

ENCORE ON WILLSON: The other night, Meredith toiled over some orchestral arrangements for six solid hours. Weary, unshaven, and dishevelled, he borrowed the housekeeper's jalopy for a quick run for some ice cream. Meredith clattered up to a drive-in and gave his order: "A pint of vanilla, please."

The car-hop took the order, then retreated to a distance from which she could take inventory of the shabby car and its equally down-at-the-heels occupant. As the result of her survey, she came back to Willson and announced apprehensively: "A pint of vanilla will cost 35 cents. Do you still want it?"

Meredith did a burn while the order was put up. Then, he says, the Mason City, Iowa, in him came out. When the car-hop handed over the ice cream he airily tossed her a dollar bill, waved aside the change, and went clattering triumphantly down the boulevard toward home.

WHATNOT DEPT: Understand that Ford Motor Company has employed U.P. and International News services for its new commentator, Earl Godwin, making Ford one of few radio sponsors to employ all three. . . . Rex Corey, formerly of KMPC, is now a staff organist at Radio City. . . . Harry Flannery was beaming last week when notified that his new book, "Assignment to Berlin", was a best seller in San Francisco, Atlanta, Los Angeles, and Washington, D. C. . . . Saw Kay St. Germain (Mrs. Jack Carson) sorting out her publicity pictures at NBC. She's very busy with her nine-months-old son and with singing frequently for the boys in camp. Wish she'd come back to the air, for she's our idea of a songstress. . . . Dog-tired from their radio job and finishing a new flicker, Fibber and Molly left this week for Lake Henshaw. They said they were just "gonna set and fish." Glad Jimmy Cash has had his contract renewed. Like his singing, too.

WASN'T SASS: Stu Wilson of KHJ once sat down at a round table quiz and asked a contestant his name. "Stu Wilson", the man answered. Repeating the question and specifying that he wanted the contestant's name, Wilson got it again—"Stu Wilson". Seems the other fellow was Stu Wilson, also an actor, radio announcer, and emcee.

HOW'S THAT AGAIN? Chet (Lum) Lauck's wife, Harriet, is recovering from a broken ankle. One of the Laucks' racing colts, Hayrack, has an injured foreleg. When a friend phoned to inquire about Harriet, Chet misunderstood and answered: "Oh, she's doing swell. I could race her right now, but I think I'll turn her out to pasture first!"

Balloons Bust

The balloon barrage that fell during Woody Herman's opening at the Hollywood Palladium sounded for all the world like a bombing attack, with the audience popping them as they came down to get the war stamps inside. The lucky, and long-armed, who got the $5 and $1 stamps, had them autographed by Woody. "The Band That Plays the Blues" is heard every night over the Columbia Broadcasting System directly from the ballroom.

Homesickness at home is a real puzzler but that's what happened to Norma Young, KHJ's homemaker, who announced she was glad her vacation was over so she could get back "home" to KHJ.

Previously reported as interned in Manila by Japanese, Royal Arch Gunnison, former Mutual Broadcasting Correspondent, and his wife are now safe according to official Red Cross Report.

It was recently "present time in Ireland" when cigaret lighters from Betty Rhodes, KHJ singer, arrived.
They were Betty's "thank you" for being named Hollywood Colleen by Northern Ireland fighting men.

Nine Stars for Waring
 Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians' service flag has nine stars — but those stars actually represent a loss of 15% of the outfit's artistic manpower. By our figures, he has only 51 left.

Waxman Is Candidate

Radio friends of Al S. Waxman are rallying to his support in his "Waxman for Assembly" campaign in the 40th district. A life-long Democrat, the candidate is the publisher of the Eastside Journal.

John Dalton, president of the Typographical Union, is among the prominent individual supporters of the campaign. Included in the organizations backing him is the 40th Assembly District Democratic Council.

The candidate is a typical family man, and resides with his wife and two children at 1911 Michigan avenue.

PRAIRIE OYSTERS:

Have you ever asked a Nebraskan about the home state oysters? The kind they raise up there are really something. They have a pedigree you would never believe.

Chef Milani

The history of their strange fish goes back to the days when frozen food was just a future dream, and what did arrive in the way of imported fish was pretty much of a nightmare. One of the native sons with a yen for oysters and a hearty fear of ptomaine cooked up this recipe as a substitute.

First find yourself a hen and persuade her to lay an egg. Then take the yolk of the egg and "sluice" it in vinegar, Worcestershire, and a drop of Tabasco.

And that, friends, is a prairie oyster!

A VERSATILE ECONOMIZER:

If we were to tell you about a food that can be used in many ways and is easy on the budget, what would you say? Something like "Bless the Chef"—we hope.

Well, we will take our chances because this is a food you really should know about. It's Wilson's Certified Oleomargarine! Made from the best of refined oils, you can be assured of its high quality. Its delicate flavor is due to the fact that it is churned in fresh milk. And Vitamin A—you know Vitamin A; it's the one so many of us are deficient in—it has been added to make this margarine even more healthful.

Besides all this, Wilson's Certified Oleomargarine is really one of the less expensive foods. We also mentioned that it is a food that can be used in many ways. On the table it makes a delicious spread; in cooking it is excellent as a shortening, frying fat, or a seasoning.

Well, do we rate that "Bless the Chef?"—Thank you!

ODDS AND ENDS:

When Louis XVI and his queen, Marie Antoinette planned their escape from France and the fury of the Revolutionary mobs, they bought a special carriage for the occasion. This carriage was a sort of kitchen on wheels. It was built with a cupboard for food, a place for a silver dinner service, and a wine cellar. Incidentally it also held a clothespress, and there was still room for six members of the family and their servants.

If you are looking for something new to do with your summer fruits, this may give you an idea. During the sixteenth century the ladies of quality wore hairdresses that measured a foot-and-a-half high. The decorations for these coiffures included such items as cherries, strawberries, and pears.

At a Roman dinner party in the old days it was very necessary to put your best foot forward. The custom of the times was that the guest must pass over the threshold with the right foot. And then when he was seated, his feet were moistened with perfume. The eating part of the banquet seems to have been the least of their worries. They always "took it easy" and reclined on couches throughout the whole affair.

Recipes of the Week

Here are your recipes in a convenient form. The complete section will fit your Radio Life Recipe Binder . . . or cut the recipes individually to paste on your recipe file card.

Sunday Dinner for Eight Persons

- Pineapple Square Cocktail—Muscatel Wine
- Albers' Pitted Olives Stuffed with Anchovies
- Chicken with Noodles
- Italian Zucchini Florentine
- Romaine Salad—Oil and Lemon Dressing
- Fresh Mixed Fruit
- Eggplant in Casserole
- Blue Cheese Wafers
- Monarch Coffee

Recipe for Chicken and Noodles

- 2 large fowls, 5 pounds each
- 1 pound mushrooms
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon Seasonettes
- 1 cup buttered bread crumbs
- 1 1/2 pounds egg noodles
- 6 tablespoons butter
- 2 cups chicken broth
- 2 cups milk

Place chicken, cut in pieces, in a large pot and cover with water. Let come to a boil, skimming well. Cook gently until done. Remove the chicken from the broth and take all chicken from the bones. Put one layer of egg noodles, previously cooked until tender, into a large buttered casserole, 1 layer of chicken meat and one layer of mushrooms, previously sliced and sauted in butter. Repeat the layers with remaining amounts. Season the broth, which has been strained, with Seasonettes and salt. Add the butter and scalded milk. Mix well and pour over filled casserole. Cover with bread crumbs and bake uncovered at 350 degrees for 25 minutes, or until browned.

Dollar Dinner for Four

- Breast of Lamb French Style
- Fresh Limas Sauted in Wilson's Certified Oleomargarine
- Sliced Tomatoes
- Bread and Butter
- Fresh Peaches
- Coffee

Recipe for Breast of Lamb—French Style

- 3 pounds breast of lamb
- 3 eggs
- 1 teaspoon Seasonettes
- 1/4 pound Wilson's Certified Oleomargarine
- Salt and pepper

Cut breast of lamb into three inch pieces and parboil for five minutes. Then drain and wash in cold water. Season the lamb with salt and pepper. Beat three eggs, season with 1/4 teaspoon of Seasonettes. Put 1/4 pound of Wilson's Certified Oleomargarine into a thick frying pan. When melted, dip the lamb breast in the beaten egg and fry until golden in color on both sides. Now place the pieces of lamb breast in a baking pan and cover. Put to bake in an oven at 275 degrees. Bake for one hour, or until meat is done.

FRED ALLEN, apprehended by "Mr. District Attorney", on a charge of disturbing the peace of mind of other radio comedians, submits reluctantly to fingerprinting. The gentleman with the firm grip on Allen's arm is Jay Jostyn, who plays the "D.A." The young lady with the ink roller and the Mona Lisa smile is Vicki Vola, who's heard as Miss Miller in the racket-busting series.

Fiction as Strange as the Truth

District Attorney's Prophetic Parallels Amaze Listeners

United States. Through ballot after ballot, they refused to consider any other candidate.

Finally, after Wendell L. Willkie had won the nomination, the reason for their faithful support of Dewey came out.

"Too bad our man didn't win," commented one of the trio. "He'd make a wonderful president. You don't often find a man as fearless and capable as he is. Why, I wouldn't think of missing his radio program, every Wednesday night!"

The three men had stuck with New York's district attorney throughout the balloting because they thought he was the "Mr. District Attorney" they heard each Wednesday night on the air over NBC!

Though it is significant that it is probably the only program in radio history that has been in the running for the United States presidency, even more significant is the job that "Mr. District Attorney" has done in changing the public's thinking habits in regard to law enforcement officers. Time was when people were likely to compare criminals with Robin Hood, while the police and prosecutors were likened to the bungling, bribe-grasping Sheriff of Nottingham.

Thanks to Jay Jostyn's capable acting as "Mr. District Attorney," people have come to recognize the district attorney as a prosecutor rather than a persecutor, and the criminal as a vicious, hunted animal, rather than a romantic and somewhat unconventional figure.

Significant, too, is the job that the show has been doing in making the public more aware of their obligations to the country and to themselves in the nation's war effort.

Many radio programs that deal

AT the 1940 Republican National Convention in Philadelphia, three delegates were steadfast in their determination to nominate Thomas E. Dewey, crusading New York district attorney, for the presidency of the with enemy spies present the Nazi agents as curtly authoritative men with accents a yard wide. Ed Byron, producer of "Mr. District Attorney," expressed his views as to how enemy undercover men ought to be played, at a recent rehearsal.

"A guy doesn't have to trail a yard of pumpernickel behind him to be a Nazi spy!" Byron insisted. "Why, if a fellow came up to you on the street and started talking to you in a Weber and Fields accent, you wouldn't give him the time of day, would you? No, if we're going to be at all realistic about this, we can't have these guys running around with signs on their chests saying 'I am a spy.'"

It might be well to date that little speech by Byron, and to point out certain circumstances surrounding it. Byron expressed those views on the afternoon of Wednesday, June 17. The script in question concerned the landing of enemy agents from Nazi submarines which surfaced off the eastern coast of the United States.

Ten days later, on Saturday, June 27, the FBI announced that it had rounded up eight spy-saboteurs who had been delivered to points off the Atlantic coast by U-boats!

Beating the police to the punch is no novelty for "Mr. District Attorney." A few months back, he cleaned out a phony sanitarium on the eve of a real-life raid on a similar institution. Another time, he cracked down on a band of gasoline hijackers, just a few days before police in an eastern community found out about a gang fooling around with fuel in their own bailiwick.

All of this, of course, comes under the heading of coincidence, but it is indicative of just how close to the ground Byron's ear is. He strives to keep the show timely, and in doing so, he often finds that "Mr. District Attorney" is clearing up a case on the air at just about the same time that police are clearing up a similar case in actual life.

Both timely and valuable are the war messages presented on the show. Byron is irked by the fact that it has taken most of us a long time to get over the idea that because Hitler has a moustache like Charlie Chaplin's, he's funny too, and he makes every effort to convince listeners to "Mr. District Attorney" that they are up against a shrewd, resourceful enemy with a large assortment of tricks, both legitimate and dirty, up his sleeve.

"It's not going to do us any good to try to fool the public into believing that we're fighting a bunch of dummies," he insists. "They're shrewd, and tough, and in real life they don't get caught half as fast as we catch them on this show . . . and you know the trouble we have!"

Due to this realistic view on the war and the sincere, authentic portrays given by the cast, "Mr. District Attorney" has been able to get across useful sermons to the public, without seeming to preach. Gasoline hijacking, tire bootlegging, and draft dodging have been commented upon. Tying in with the "Loose lips sink ships" campaign, "Mr. District Attorney" solved "The Case of the Whispered Word," in which a young seaman gave his life rather than yield valuable information to his Nazi captor.

In the early days of the war, NBC objected to use of spy stories, on the ground that they might serve to give our nation's enemies ideas as to methods of operation. The network finally accepted a story about Nazis financing their spying by forcing storekeepers with relatives in the conquered countries to buy stolen welfare food stamps from them. But it was on the express understanding that this consent was not to be considered a precedent. Audience mail, which piled in, indicated hearty public approval and paved the way for more, similar stories.

"Mr. District Attorney's" position among the top ten shows on the air indicates that the public wants the sort of straight-from-the-shoulder instruction and entertainment that the program offers. So while "Mr. D. A." missed out on the nomination for the United States presidency, he has taken full advantage of his opportunity to be of real service in the nation's war effort.

Accelerating Dialogue

Victor Borge, Danish comedian on the "Music Hall" program, who ad libbed most of his comedy routines in his European stage days, finds radio's requirements for written scripts in advance somewhat disconcerting, but not half so much as the program's producers. You see, Borge—who learned English only a year ago—speaks the language faster than he reads it. Each rehearsal, as the script gets more familiar, Victor picks up a few seconds, and sometimes he reads it over to himself just before show time. So the producers, worried over how long his script is going to run on the air, get him in a corner at the last minute and inquire anxiously: "Are you reading or talking tonight?"

Reasonable Facsimile

Following his broadcast last Tuesday, Tommy Riggs dropped into the Hollywood Brown Derby restaurant for a snack, and got the surprise of his life when a young couple brought in a little girl with the exact physical characteristics and wearing apparel of Tommy's conception of his imaginary niece, "Betty Lou." The youngster sat with her parents in the adjoining booth and fixed her big eyes on Tommy until the radio comedian began to get the uncanny feeling that he was seeing a ghost. That's all. The little girl didn't make any startling observations such as: "Where's Betty Lou?" or "Are you Tommy Riggs?"

ED BYRON, writer-director-producer of "Mr. District Attorney", still in his early 30's. He's a violent protagonist of the belief that radio can expose underground methods of the enemy within.

CHEESE IT! the cops! That's "Mr. District Attorney" in the lead, with Harrington, his chief special investigator, close behind, and a plain-clothesman not far behind him. Jay Jostyn is the "D.A.", while Len Doyle is heard as Harrington, a cop who rose from the ranks to become the prosecutor's right hand man.

Radio's Summer Bonanza--No. 2

Mischa, The Magnificent

*Second in a Series, Radio Life Reviews
Another "Find" Among the Vacation Shows*

GO THE plaintive strains of "The Volga Boatman," Mischa Auer strides onto the CBS-KNX stage to portray the title role of "Mischa, the Magnificent" in the network's new comedy series. "Greetings, my little cabbages," he cries. "I knew that the world had an opening for me. I was always finding myself in a hole!" The script finds Mischa writing his memoirs, and the show deals with his exciting past as a sportsman, gamester, raconteur, breaker of hearts, and lover of life. "I could never understand," he mourns, "how it came about that I, Mischa, who was born to the purple, always found myself in the red! And I such a musician! You've never heard of my great uncle, Serge Symphoneyh? What a voice! How well I remember when I was a little boy, hearing him trill a C above high C. He had a high register! I had to stand on a chair to get money out of it!"

As the sad, screwy Russian Mischa interprets so vividly on the screen, Auer now comes to radio with his first series which is affording deft summer comedy from Columbia Square. Paul Pierce produces the program and Paul West and Carl Hertzinger write the script. Tune in KNX Sunday, 6 to 6:30 p. m. for "Mischa, the Magnificent."

Mischa sits in his sumptuous study, tapping away on his Oliver as he writes his memoirs. The Girl enters and he cries: "Greetings, my little cabbage! Listen to the first few opening lines of my golden volume: 'I, Mischa, was born under the Sign of the Poet!' . . . Girl (interrupting): 'There's no Sign of the Poet!' . . . Mischa remonstrates: 'But there is! This was a Burma-Shave sign! And I was just a little shaver!'"

"The better half of my time was spent at famous gaming places of the world. One night, after being ruined, I was standing on Monte Carlo's Suicide Bridge when I realized how oddly destiny had shaped my end. As I lunged forward for the fatal leap, I found myself stuck in the railings, and again, I realized how oddly destiny had shaped my end!"

"I was the inspiration for my father's success as a musician," he writes. "Father had longed for years to become a trombone player, but he never mastered the art until I was born. On that day, he took one look at me and blew! As I grew, half my life might have been wasted on wine, women and song except for one thing . . . I was a lousy singer!"

Mischa decides to get some borsch. "Where is my beloved hat?" he demands. . . . "You fool," says The Girl. "You've got it on." . . . Mischa replies: "Don't worry. I'll find it myself." . . . The Girl: "Have you lost your head?" . . . Mischa: "If I lost my head, I wouldn't need the hat, which was given to me by the Czar." . . . "Really," remarks The Girl. "Did he present it personally?" . . . "No, indirectly," admits Mischa. "There was an in-between period when the Salvation Army had it."

"Next I completed a successful hunting season," Mischa recalls. "I was living on the County Buckingham Estate—or was it County Fallingham—Well, anyway, I was living on the county! We split it up in pairs—Lord Bodley went up to Chiswick's to shoot grouse with the Duke; Lord Wicket to Crumpton to shoot woodcock with the Duke's uncle; and I to Piccadilly to shoot craps with the Duchess!"

"You see before you the frayed remnants of Mischa, the Magnificent, who once wore royal raiment to suit his station!" . . . "Silks and satins?" asks The Girl. . . . "Yes," sighs Mischa. "And who once bought the finest wines to quench his thirst." . . . "Champagnes and sparkling burgundies?" inquires The Girl. . . . "Yes," mourns Mischa. "And who once wore the finest perfume to suit his personality." . . . "Matchia-belli?" asks The Girl. . . . "Yes . . . No! My personality!" cries Mischa.

HAL HODGE, emcee of "The Talent Parade", and the Ranch Girls. The music produced by this attractive quintette is as nice to hear as the girls are to look at. Their names are Eunice, Beulah and Lone Kettle, Nadine Ostlund and Viola Soule and they hail from the ranch country, 'way up thar by Verdugo City. "The Talent Parade" is a KFWB feature every Friday from 8:00 to 8:30 p. m.

KFWB Talent Parade Affords Amateur Opportunities

Southern California amateurs with ambitions to star in radio are making the most of the opportunity offered by The Talent Parade, currently on the air every Friday from 8:00 to 8:30 P. M. over KFWB. Hal Hodge, the M. C. on this entertaining show, is well known to radio in these parts, having made his debut in the days of battery-operated sets, 'way back in 1922 as a member of the "Silver Gate Trio" on Station KHJ.

Hal is especially well known to many radio fans who remember "Mid-Morning Matinee" and "They Shall Have Music" which were popular shows just a few years ago.

On "The Talent Parade," every opportunity is extended to amateurs to give them a chance to perform under ideal circumstances. Auditions are secured by writing to "The Talent Parade," Station KFWB, for an appointment. The sponsor is Bimini Hot Springs, Los Angeles.

Jerry Hausner, Hollywood actor who plays the role of the baby left on the hands of Lum and Abner in their radio serial, fell into a "baby bonanza" last week. He worked on six radio programs in six days without speaking a line—all called for baby cries. The seventh day he auditioned for another baby role, but got turned down because he wasn't the type!

Hitch Your Wagon

One of Meredith Willson's liveliest stories concerns the former band leader, Vic Meyers, now lieutenant governor of Washington. Myers was a drummer in a Seattle symphony orchestra conducted by Willson when he got the idea of entering politics—principally as a publicity springboard for a contemplated orchestra of his own. He ran for mayor on a platform of "a pretty girl on every streetcar" and "flowerboxes around all fireplugs." He lost by a close margin, went into the race for lieutenant governor and won hands down

Betty's Hobby

Water skiing is a favorite sport of pert Betty Worth's, who plays a leading role in Columbia's "We Love and Learn." It all started when one of the scripts mentioned the sport and Betty became curious, bought some skis, and now is rapidly becoming an expert, although she claims she's swallowed a lake full of water in the process.

Cheers for Departing

Reporters evicted from Germany in the early days of the war have a warm recollection of William L. Shirer. Braving Nazi displeasure, it was always Bill who organized and led to the railway station a delegation to cheer the expelled newsman on his journey.

Last Act

The last official act of the Varsity Show Club of New York University before going on vacation was to vote songstress Jean Tennyson "The Girl With Whom They Would Like to Share Their Ration Card." The club presented Miss Tennyson with a scroll carrying this message.

True to Type

When Virginia Sale, character comedienne who plays the part of Martha in the new "Those We Love" broadcasts, visited the author of the series, Agnes Ridgway, in the East this summer, the author introduced the actress to all her friends as "Martha"—never as Miss Sale.

Boys Get Around

Versatility of Billy Mills' orchestra, heard on the Fibber McGee program, is evident from the assignments some of the musicians have taken while Mills vacations briefly. Three of them are playing with symphonies, one is recording with an orchestra of his own, two are playing in motion picture studio orchestras, and another is leading the string section of a big Los Angeles theater orchestra.

Coming out of the Ether

By BERNIE SMITH

I'm probably cracking my knuckles against the wrong jaw, but then that's a habit of mine. I get more black eyes that way.

However, I am convinced that radio is being gypped in this war. Broadcasting, in order to make no enemies at court, is being an apple-polisher without equal.

Bernie Smith

Any half-pint big shot in the government has but to hint that he wants air time, and radio breaks its neck to accommodate. Now that's all well and good. Radio owes plenty to the government and should do everything within reason to assist Uncle Sam in his hour of need. I'm all for it. Radio's been doing a magnificent job willingly and sincerely.

But here's where I figure radio is being gypped: Every other medium of public expression, (the magazines, the press and the newsreels), has men at the battlefield. You see countless pictures in the papers of men in action. You read countless stories by correspondents who are but a step behind the infantry in Egypt, Russia, Australia, Aleutian Islands, and every other theater of war. And when you go to the movies, you occasionally see actual dogfights between R.A.F. and Nazi planes, and you see ships sinking and armies locked in battle.

But do you hear any radio programs being broadcast from the scene of conflict? No. That's where I think radio is being gypped.

Why couldn't the Army and Navy or the Marines or the Air Force detail specially trained radio men to make recordings of the sound and the fury? No reason that I can see.

I don't expect programs to come from the battlefields as they would come from the NBC studios in Hollywood. There are too many complications involved in a live program, such as censorship and so forth. But those complications can be extremely and simply modified by making an on-the-spot transcription.

You know, people these days have become educated to radio. For the most part, they don't find the drama in newspapers and in many cases the truth. And they don't find the timeliness in magazines. They've just naturally come to look to radio for their news and human interest material. In fact, they look to radio to keep them abreast of the day's events.

Yet all radio gives them now is news, not even verified in many cases; a few lousy commentators and one or two good ones, and the same old propaganda that is beginning to wear a little thin around the edges.

Just think for a moment what one walloping good program could do for morale, for the sale of war bonds, for the U.S.O., for Army, Navy and Marine recruiting . . . one thumping good program from the battlefield!

These transcriptions could be made in every corner of the globe where American fighting men are upholding the ideals of democracy. They could be shipped to a headquarters in Washington for editing and censorship and booking on the air. There is no limit to what could be done with such a department of the Office of War Information.

And it would be in keeping with the terrible streamlined methods of modern warfare. Other nations do it. Why can't we?

As I said at the beginning of this remarkable little piece, I'm probably cracking my knuckles against the wrong jaw. But it's fun!

Astounding

Listening to "The Remarkable Miss Tuttle," starring Edna May Oliver, this week, a Hollywood wag had a brilliant idea. "Wouldn't things happen," he said, "if 'The Remarkable Miss Tuttle' could go on the same program with 'The Amazing Mister Smith!'" Amusing quirk is that both programs are products of Writers Martin Gosch and Howard Harris

Tommy Takes Time

Most radio stars make a hasty exit from the radio studio as soon as their programs are concluded, but Tommy Riggs stays on the stage of the CBS theatre in Hollywood, signing autograph books for the horde of fans who swarm up just as soon as he goes off the air. Most of the autograph seekers are service men who have been transferred from the Midwest to Southern California.

When Tommy Riggs is "Vocalizing" Betty Lou he unconsciously rolls his eyes upward and twists his sturdy frame in a manner that is typical of a coy girl of seven or eight. As Tommy Riggs, the comedian has the firm stance and posture of the athlete that he is.

No Rest Here

Kate Smith's first weekend at her Lake Placid home was the star's first day off in many months. In addition to doing her own Friday night Variety Hour and her morning talk show, Mondays through Fridays, during the spring, Kate and Ted Collins were on the air every Sunday with Columbia's patriotic "Spirit of '42" program, which called for Saturday rehearsals. Kate says she never has worked harder in her life than during the last season. Because of many activities in connection with the war effort, the star has maintained an almost superhuman schedule all winter.

Warden Woods

Donald Woods, who plays the star role of Dr. Foster in NBC's dramatic series, "Those We Love," is the same serious-minded, public spirited person in private life that he is on the air. At a recent rehearsal of the program he was proudly displaying his Air Raid Warden insignia to Ann Todd, the youngster who plays his daughter in the series.

Tenth Anniversary

Bill Days, tenor of the Sportsman Quartet on Rudy Vallee's program and the missus reached the tenth anniversary of their marriage this week, but they had to postpone the celebration "for the duration."

Ten years means it's a "tin" anniversary, and tin is under priorities.

"Unless," suggests Days hopefully, "our friends want to give us two fives for a ten, and stage a couple of wooden celebrations!"

Flannery Makes Good

Success story of the week—Harry W. Flannery, author and CBS commentator who didn't know a single Hollywood film executive and had never been inside a movie studio until a few days ago, begins a six week directorial chore on one of the major lots this month. He'll be technical director of a film about Europe in 1942.

Joan Davis, Rudy Vallee's comedienne, has been on the stage, screen, and radio since she was six years old. Her first broadcast was with Rudy.

A WAR MESSAGE

from the President of the United States

"The American people know that if we would raise the millions which we now need to pay for the war and at the same time prevent a disastrous rise in the cost of living, we shall have to double and more than double the scale of our savings.

"Every dime not vitally needed for absolute necessities should go into WAR BONDS and STAMPS to add to the striking power of our armed forces.

"If these purchases are to have a material effect in restraining price increases they must be made out of current income. "In almost every individual case they should be big enough to mean rigid self-denial, a substantial reduction for most of us in the scale of expenditure that is comfortable and easy for us.

"We cannot fight this war, we cannot exert our maximum effort, on a spend-as-usual basis.

"We cannot have all we want if our soldiers and sailors are to have all they need."

—Franklin D. Roosevelt
