The Ear Inspires the Pen

Julie Allan, Locksley Place, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: I am glad to commend a Ra-dio Lifer of "The Ear etcetera" upon his appreciation of Kenny Baker's voice, which has a very beautiful quality. With the proper sense of rhythm and expression, he just opens his mouth and sings.

Everyone, no doubt, has his season of wishful thinking, in regard to his favorite programs conflicting. As for instance, "Mr. X" and "The Mayor of the Town." One couldn't possibly miss Lionel Barrymore—"Love that man." Love that man!"

L miss "Information Please" which has been backed off the airwaves in conflict with "Lux Radio Theater."

Why, oh why is "Quiz of Two Cities" so noisy? It forces me to turn my radio dial to other programs.

Sylvia Howell, 10528 Jackson Avenue, South Gate, Calif.

Sirs: Just noticed a letter from a Radio Life reader regarding a story and photos of Stuart Hamblen and his Lucky Stars. Our family has been listening to these boys for many years and enjoy their informality and spontaneous fun, and of course. Cliff Stonehead's droll humor.

We would certainly like a story and pictures of the boys.

W. O. Williams, 1844 East 4th Street, Long Beach, Calif.

To me, there is only one question concerning Dick Brown: Can he sing? That is the only reason for his being on the radio. If he is a good singer and his sponsor thinks he is getting his money's worth, I say keep him on.

Mrs. L. Gravet, 12171/2 Onasso Street, Hermosa Beach, Calif.

Sirs: I send my copies of Radio Life to a boy in Alaska. I recently received a letter from him; he said he and the boys found them interesting. In fact, he said it brought to them something from home. I am sure other readers must do as I have done. At least, I hope so.

Mrs. Hannah R. Rice, 757 South Berendo Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: Just heard Dinah Shore's program, and think that Harry von Zell is tops. I always listen to his programs. He has a marvelous voice and is a good comedian. I can't understand why he hasn't a program of his own. He far excels many of the other comedians who have programs of their own. Sponsors, take note!

For the best Gags of the Week, heard over Radio and sent Radio Life, tickets will be sent winners for admission to radio broadcasts. Send your best gag selection to 1029 West Washington Boulevard, 15. Los Angeles.

Jimmy Morad, 223 N. Hicks Avenue, Los Angeles 33, Calif.

Heard on "Let Yourself Go:"

Milton Berle: This war changes even movies. Like for instance, I went to the show last week and saw "Since You Went Away" with Monte Woolley and Joseph Cotten. The show is 20 per cent Woolley and 70 per cent Cotton.

Earl Rasmussen, 314 E. Garvey, Wilmar, Calif.

Heard on "Breakfast at Sardi's":

Uncle Corny: Why did the dentist take all the windows out of his office?

Tom Breneman: Why did he?

Uncle Corny: Because he wanted to be a paneless dentist.

Heard on the "Hit Parade":

Harry Von Zell: Well, Martha, do you have to hurry home to change the baby?

Martha Raye: Change the baby? What's the matter with the one I have?

Mrs. George E. Scales, 1466 S. Norton Ave., Los Angeles, Calif.

Heard on the "Name of that Song" program:

Bride: Where have you been?

Groom: Well, dear, I'll tell you the truth. I've been shooting craps. Bride: Oh, (bursts out crying).

Groom: You are really going to hate me. I don't know how to cook them.

JO GILBERT FINDS HERSELF ONE OF BADIO'S BUSIEST actresses yet takes time out to "tinker", write music, and entertain hospitalized servicemen.

Gilding the "Lili"

O GILBERT'S friends call her "Lili Marlene." Upon seeing the glamorous, dark-haired Miss Gilbert, it isn't at all hard for the radio listener to picture her as the song's heroine, yet she is much more familiar as the leading lady of many an early morning drama.

Jo, a recruit from the stage, has gained prominence via the air—playing "Kit Calvert" and "Lily Devonne" on "Aunt Mary," and the feminine lead of the CBS series entitled "Press Club." She tried the stage several years ago, but was lured onto the air and in a short time has made a name for herself.

About that nickname, Jo told us that this is how it happened. It seems Miss Gilbert is very fond of slack suits. She would wear them everywhere until her friends began kidding her about never dressing un. She felt she had had enough of their joshing and donned a flat tam in matching color with every slack outfit. "See, I'm dressed now," she laughed. But her friends, determined to have the last word, wouldn't give up. "Ah, ha," they taunted, "who do you think you are, Lili Marlene?" And with her long dark hair, big black eyes and French beret she did look like their mental picture of the now-famous Lili.

"So you see," Jo said, smiling, "that's how it has been ever since. My 'new name' has been shortened until it sounds something like 'Lee-leee'."

Is Musical, Mechanical

Besides acting, Jo loves to tinker and to write music. The former is an ability, if you can call it that, to take apart her car, her clock, or her radio. The latter, she explains, might be a hangover from her early love of music. She is quite good at both, and recently built herself a radio out of spare parts.

Jo lives at the Studio Club in Hollywood. She was born in Chicago, but "adores" California. She can't resist spicy food, although, she explains, "I know it will make me sick."

She is pretty enough to be in pictures and hopes to get a chance to do a character part in one some day. She is a great collector of things, among which are rare old books and gigantic albums of all types of music. She can't understand anyone not liking pets.

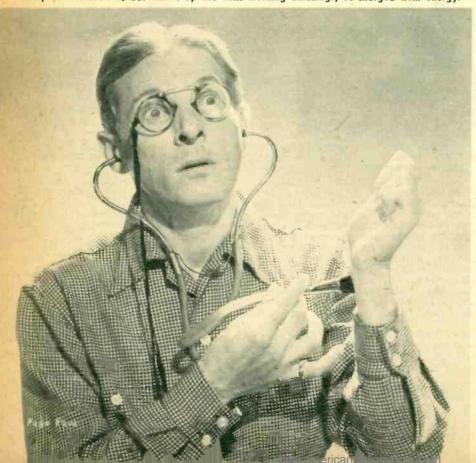

She introduces everyone to her constant companion, Sgt. Muttgomery. If you haven't met the Sergeant, he is her ten-year-old part terrier, part bulldog. Jo has had him since he was six weeks old and regards him as one of the dearest members of her family.

"You know," she said, "I think he is the only one who really likes my 'Lili' garb. He completely ignores me when I am 'dressed up.' Gosh, a girl has to please her dog!"

What You Don't Know About Danny By Lynn Roberts Danny Kaye Is Radio's New Sensation; In Person, He Fancies Himself a Cook, Plays Practical Jokes, Is a ShawerSinger, Fish-Eater and Feet-Massager

HE IS SELDOM TALKATIVE, often moody. His spirits are usually either very high or very low. He likes to keep on the go, frequently falls into bed in a state of complete exhaustion, but wakes up the next morning amazingly re-charged with energy.

Saturday. 5:00 p.m. CBS-KNX

HIS MONTH brought to radio-dialers what they've been waiting for—Danny Kaye! The sensation of Broadway in "Lady in the Dark" and "Let's Face It" and the delight of movie-goers in "Up In Arms" and the soon-to-be-released "Wonder Man," Danny Kaye has, at long last, come to radio as the versatile star of his own CBS Saturday night, high-budget variety show, directed by Dick Mack and featuring the music of Harry James and his orchestra.

Danny Kaye (his real name is David Daniel Kominski, but his brother made "Kaye" their legal family name twenty years ago) is six feet, one inch of hard muscle, topped by bright blue eyes and a thick thatch of yellow hair. After years of knocking about the world in vaudeville, he was discovered in 1939, at a rehearsal for a little theater revue, by the girl who is now his wife, Sylvia Fine. It is she who writes most of his special material.

When in Hollywood, Danny and Sylvia live in a house rented from the Chester Morrises. The house has a patio and a swimming pool (Danny calls it "the backyard"), where the comedian swims in warm weather. He took up golf just last year, but plays in the eighties. When he's filming a picture and has an hour's free time between scenes, he rushes to the nearby golf course to shoot a few holes.

In addition to golf, Kaye likes to bat a ball or play "catch" as often as possible to keep himself in trim for his strenuous song and laugh routines. He is not a meat-eater, doesn't like steak, prefers fowl. But he frequently goes on food binges

THIS PICTURE IS A GAG, but actually, Danny Kaye has always wanted to be a doctor and will drop anything to watch a job of difficult surgery.

DON'T LET DANNY KID YOU. He is no Popeye, perhaps, but he is six-feet-one-inch of hard muscle. He plays "catch" as often as possible to keep himself in trim for his strenuous song and laugh routines. When he is filming a picture, he rushes over to a nearby course to play golf between scenes.

during which he develops a sudden yen for specific kinds of dishes. He insists that his friends join him on these food sprees, and takes them to weird places for French, Italian or Chinese dishes. One time, he acquired a mania for milk and had to have two or three glasses every evening before going to bed.

Inconsistent About Clothes
He is the same way with clothes,
(Please turn to Page 26)

THE GREAT AMERICAN COWBOY. Danny loves sports clothes, never wears a hat and loathes overcoats. He smokes little, can't take more than a glass or two of beer but is fascinated by "drunks," following them on the streets to study their mannerisms. His two pet aversions are badly-informed "armchair generals" and laymen who insist on giving unsolicited theatrical advice.

**CRS-Ted Allan Photos**

NOW A HOLLYWOOD MOVIE STAR, Danny submits to photographer's request for glamor art. His latest film is "Wonder Man." He spent years knocking about the world in vaudeville before being discovered, in 1939, by the girl who is now his wife, Sylvia Fine. It is she who writes most of his special material.

LO, THE POOR INDIAN. Danny has given some of his best performances on the spur of the moment for his family and intimate Iriends, or for his household help. Sylvia says that much of his best material has been inspired by the antics he has performed in somebody's living room.

"Quick as a Flash"

That's What Contestants Have To Be to Think Up Answers, Press The Buzzer, and Stop the Show

Sundays. 3:00 p.m., KHJ-Mutnal Don Lee

HETHER YOU compare it to a day at the races, as emcee Ken Roberts does, or whether it's more like an afternoon at a bingo game or an evening at the theater, there's one thing about Mutual-Don Lee's "Quick as a Flash" quiz that's a boon to the contestants who brave its challenge. Every one of the six guests on each Sunday afternoon program has an equal chance at every question, and for once there's no reason for that woeful cry, "I knew every question but the one you asked ME."

On the "Quick as a Flash" program, each contestant sits at a table with a buzzer right before him. Any time he thinks he has the right answer to any one of the questions being enacted by the dramatic cast or orchestrated by musicmaster Ray Bloch and his men, all he has to do is press the buzzer and the show is stopped while he takes his chance at answering for prize money. Each contestant can take part in every question, no matter how many times he wins. Of course, if he tries an answer and it's wrong, he drops out of the running on that particular question, the dramatization continues and the other contestants try their skill and wit.

"QUICK AS A FLASH" emcee, Ken Roberts, starts firing a puzzler. Questions are enacted by a dramatic cast or orchestrated by Ray Bloch and his musicians.

EMCEE KEN ROBERTS shows fair contestant how to work the buzzer and tells her rules of broadcast Every one of the six guests has an equal chance at the questions, may participate as often as he wishes.

Winners Spurred

It's interesting to note that a victory on one of the early races gives a contestant courage to try the succeeding games. One victory seems to breed courage. For three successive weeks, during last October, winners in the first event have gone on to win the next two. Incidentally, in all three cases, the contestants were evidence that an important part or every "Quick as a Flash" guest lineup is from the ranks of servicemen and women. These three three-time winners were all in uniform—one was a sailor, one a soldier and one a marine.

There's another distinctive touch to "Quick as a Flash" that has earned it the tag of "radio's class quiz." On race number five, the "Sponsor's Handicap," whodunit questions are featured and guest stars are invited to play the leading roles in the dramatizations that furnish clues to (Please turn to Page 26)

New Program

"Music for the Missus," emceed by Jim Barry and sponsored by Von's Markets is a new Monday through Friday feature on KECA at 10:15 a.m. that should be of interest to the ladies. Asking the listeners what tune was popular when she was courted and what her husband said when he proposed, the show will pick winning answers, which will be dramatized during the boardcast. Prize for the best answer will be a recording of the dramatic spot, which will be presented to the winning lady.

KFWB's Contribution

In case you've bought this issue of Radio Life on or before January 17, you might like to know that on this day KFWB is endorsing an all-out super war effort in which it is canceling all commercials in order to recruit nurses, sell bonds, get blood donors, and further consummation of the war. Idea for the one hundred per cent project is that of Manager Harry Maizlish. Stars will appear on behalf of the various appeals and Arch Oboler will direct a dramatic broadcast.

Jarvis' Poll

Woody Herman's orchestra has been chosen as most popular music group in radio's third annual popularity contest, it was announced last week by Al Jarvis, originator of KFWB's "Make Believe Ballroom" who conducted the balloting.

David Street was winner in the male vocalist division, Helen Forrest in the female vocalist group, and the King Cole Trio in the novelty group classification.

Jarvis made the announcement of the winners as he left for New York to present the orchestra award to Woody Herman on the stage of the Paramount Theater in the metropolis. Simultaneously he revealed that at Herman's request, the plaque awarded annually to the poll winner will be inscribed with the name of Major Glenn Miller, repoiled missing in action. Miller placed fourth in the voting, but as a mark of respect to the missing orchestra leader, Herman conceded first place to him.

Second place in the orchestra division went to Spade Cooley and third to Freddy Martin. Bing Crosby wonsecond place in the male vocalist competition, with Dick Haymes ranking third. Frank Sinatra was fifth, trailing Andy Russell. Emma Lou Welch and Billy Anderson rated second and third, respectively, in the female vocalist group.

Second place in the novelty group competition went to Juan Rolando, with Six Hits and a Miss third.

Idea of the annual popularity contest originated with Jarvis. Votes cost ten cents each, all proceeds going to the Children's Hospital.

Highlights of 1944

Ted Collins, producer and newscaster of CBS's "Kate Smith Speaks," has made his annual selection of the ten best news stories of 1944. According to Collins, they are: 1) "D" Day; 2) Roosevelt's fourth term election; 3) Allied victories in France; 4) MacArthur's invasion of the Philippines; 5) the big Nazi counter-attack; 6) Russian Army's sweep through the Balkans; 7) B-29 raids on Tokyo; 8) the defeat of the Japanese fleet in the Pacific by the U. S. Navy; 9) German robot bomb and rocket campaign; 10) assasination plot on Hitler.

Goes to Washington

Newscaster John B. Hughes has gone to Washington to cover the opening sessions of Congress and the Presidentian inauguration.

His "News and Views," a nightly feature over KFWB, will be heard regularly during his absence, as Hughes will transcribe his talks and airmail them to the station for broadcasting. Before returning, he will visit military posts and war production plants in many parts of the country, gathering information for his broadcasts. He will also make a number of lecture appearances during his trip.

The Easy Way

By the time you read this, Gloria Blondell's most expensive lifetime ambition may have been realized—without costing her a penny.

The femme star of "Hollywood Mystery Time" confessed at a rehearsal the other day that she has always wanted a mink coat but has never been able to afford it. So the script writer is going to give her a mink coat in one of his forthcoming scripts. The trouble is, when the broadcast is finished, so is the coat!

Friend in Need

For the second time, Larry Keating recently stepped in for his friend, Fleetwood Lawton, when the NBC commentator was confined to his home with a severe cold:

Latest bulletins were rushed from NBC's newsroom to Lawton's home by messenger. There, he and his wife compiled and edited them, after which the newsman dictated his script, which was then rushed to the broadcasting studio in time to reach Keating a few minutes before air time, with the telephone line between Lawton's home and Radio City left open in case an important last-minute bulletin should come in.

New Way To Do It

After eleven years of married life, Dud Williamson and his wife are going on their honeymoon.

Williamson, emcee and originator of the KHJ-Mutual Don Lee quiz show, "What's the Name of That Song," has been so busy with his radio programs that he has had to postpone his honeymoon. However, he and the "Mrs." are making up for lost time while on a week's visit in San Francisco. When the couple left to go to the railroad depot, they found a "Just Married" sign attached to their car by KHJ pranksters.

P.S. Their five-year-old daughter, Lane, refused to accompany them so that their honeymoon would be more convincing.

Dagwood's Duds

For last week's airing of CBS' "Blondie," Arthur "Dagwood" Lake sported a brand new bow-tie and shirt! His original outfit, which he bought five years ago to dress for his radio role, had finally frayed to shreds.

Well, Whaddayuh Know!

When Abbott and Costello guested recently on Erskine Johnson's CBS program, they recalled the last time they had done a guest stint for "Skinnay," when the popular radio-newspaper columnist had a much less pretentious airshow, sans orchestra and dramatic cast. So when Bud and Louwalked into the studio for their appearance on the new elaborate Erskine Johnson program, the comic took one look at the crowded stage and exclaimed, "What a layout, Johnson's You've got more people on the stage for your program, than our show has in its audience!"

Old Friends.

William L. Shirer, noted newscaster who is heard regularly over the Columbia network on Sunday evening, met in Paris a good many of his own countrymen. Failing to secure a room in the packed Hotel Scribe, Mr. Shirer went to the Ritz. Soon, after he was quartered in the hotel there came a great influx of Americans and a great commotion at the same time. Mrs. Clare Booth Luce had arrived, bag and baggage, with her sixteen congressmen

NBC's "Comedy Theater" host, Harold Lloyd is now in New York where for three weeks outstanding East coast talent has been spotlighted.

Incidentally, this will be the first time Lloyd and Allen have ever worked together.

Harold Llyod

Wouldn't it be something—a motion picture, starring these two great comedians. Well, who can tell, from this radio show could develop something like that. Let's all hope NBC's "Pacific Story" on KFI Sunday night at 11:15 will feature General Mao Pang Chu, head of China's air forces.

Preceded by a dramatic presentation of documentary records showing the rise of Chinese aviation from zero to a present strong arm of the United Nations, General Mao will speak for approximately five minutes.

The appearance of General Mao on the "Pacific Story" was arranged through the War Department.

The broadcast is entitled "China's

The broadcast is entitled "China's Air Force" and in addition to the usual large cast, it will feature narrator Gayne Whitman and music specially written and directed by Thomas Peluso.

"Everything for the Boys" (NBC-KFI Tuesday 9:00 p.m.) singer, Helen Forrest has a friend who received a letter from her soldier sweetheart from "somewhere in the South Pacific."

Upon opening the envelop she found, instead of the letter she expected, just a thin strip of paper bearing the brief message:

"Your boy friend still loves you, but he talks too much, (signed) Censor."

Arturo Toscanini returns to the NBC Symphony Orchestra podium on Sunday, (Jan. 21), via KFI from 2 to 3 p.m., launching his second group of programs on the winter series of the "General Motors Symphony of the Air." An all-Russian bill featuring compositions by Tschaikowsky and Kabalevsky, based on important literary works, marks the maestro's return.

UKIE'S SONG

Leo "Ukie" Sherin, an old colleague of Bing Crosby on "Kraft Music Hall" last season, cornered "Der Bingle" at a rehearsal last week. "Don't tell me you've turned into a song-plugger, Ukie," moaned "The Groaner." But with urging and the able assistance of Conductor John Scott Trotter "Ukie's" song was played. It's interest-ing: "Don't Forget Tonight, Tomorrow", music by Jay Milton, lyrics by Sherin.

* * DANCING GIRL

It's too bad the radio audience can't see the nimble dance routines Gloria Blondell executes between lines at the mike during "Holly-wood Mystery Time," heard over the Blue. During each free moment the young actress does a couple of toe or tap steps that would make many a professional dancer turn green with envy.

* * ONLY COMEDY

Ish Kabibble, bang haired comic of the Kay Kyser "College of Musical Knowl-edge," gives up his trumpet playing stint on the show after sixteen years of toot-ing and hereafter will confine his activities exclusively to the comedy depart. ment, portraying the role of "Ish" which he made famous.

ABBOTT'S ALLERGY

Bud Abbott, partner of rotund Lou Costello, of the Abbott and Costello airer, has one of the oddest allergies of anyone in radio. Bud is extremely sensitive to horse hair - can't even get within yards of an equine without sneezing violently.

VERSATILE POWELL

Dick Powell dropped in early recently at an orchestra rehearsal for his NBC "Bandwagon Show" and spent the better part of half an hour playing the saxophone, clarinet and trumpet, upon all of which he is adept.

REDUCER

Charles Correll (Andy of Amos 'n' Andy) lost a wonderful cook recently, but he wasn't as upset as you'd expect. During the interval until he found another cook, he lost two inches from his waistline.

SNERD'S DOUBLE

A small crocheted replica of Mortimer Snerd, complete in every detail, was the unusual Christmas present "Isn't sent Edgar Bergen by a fan. "Isn't one of him enough?" cracked Charlie McCarthy.

WITTY LLOYD

Harold Lloyd, host of the NBC "Comedy Theater," improves on the gag now making the Hollywood rounds, "Who was that lady I saw you out wit last night." Adds Harold, "I didn't outwit her, she outmitted me."

GAGSTER GOODWIN

Bill Goodwin was having trouble with the laundry shrinking all his shirts—especially the collars, which would come back several sizes smaller. Just for a gag one day, he shoved a huge St. Bernard collar in the laundry bag with a note attached which read, "Shrink this if you can!"

Back came a small fox terrier collar with the reply, "We can!"

George Burns and Gracie Allen were recently singled cut for honor when their air show /as voted the best of 1944 in the New York World-Telegram radio poll.

What You Don't Know About Danny

attaching himself to one outfit and wearing it to shreds. He loves sports clothes, never wears a hat and loathes overcoats. He hates veils and earrings on women, so Sylvia has given them up. In return, he eschews bow-tles for her sake. He buys expensive suits and neckties, likes "Tweed" toilet-water, sleeps in striped silk pajamas.

He loves to go to the opera and the ballet, and is a serious student of the theater. He is constantly gathering material for his satires from varied sources, and is fascinated by "drunks," following them on the streets to study their mannerisms. Someday, however, Danny Kaye hopes to do some serious acting.

He always wanted to be a doctor, will drop anything to watch a case of difficult surgery, and prides himself on his ability to massage feet!

Danny has most of his money invested in bonds, and lives on a relatively small allowance. He and Sylvia borrow from one another when they run short, and on one occasion last winter, Sylvia couldn't imagine why he never seemed to have even enough money to go to the movies. Then, one day, she discovered he had saved two hundred dollars in an old shoe to buy her a garnet necklace. He loves to give presents at odd times, rather than the customary occasions.

Are Opposites

He and his wife are complete opposites, and they think that is what makes them so happy. She is eventempered, he's volatile. She is analytical, Danny goes by instinct. She likes steak, Danny goes for lobster. She walks, Danny runs. She talks, Danny listens. But they laugh at the same things and like the same people.

The Kayes are admittedly bad letter-writers, but they indulge in longdistance calls to their many friends in the middle of the night when the lines are clear.

Danny fancies himself a great cook, and frequently takes over the kitchen with great flourish. He and Sylvia tune in to the radio regularly for newscasts, and are great fans of the platter-spinners, believing that radio doesn't fully recognize the latter's importance.

Danny abhors gambling, smokes little and can't take more than a glass or two of beer. His two pet aversions are badly-informed "armchair generals," and laymen who insist on giving unsolicited theatrical advice.

Is Shower-Singer

A shower-singer, mostly operatic, he takes great delight in singing, note for note, famous coloratura cadenzas. Gifted with an infallible ear, he convulses musicians with his ability deliberately to sing a quarter tone flat or sharp. He loves the sound and rhythm of foreign languages and can double-talk them perfectly although he doesn't understand a word of them. He has given some of his best performances on the spur of the moment for his family and intimate friends, or for his household help. Sylvia says that much of his best material has been inspired by the things he has done spontantously in somebody's living room.

The comedian knocks himself out doing camp shows and benefit performances. Recently, two years of it landed him in the hospital three times. He likes to keep on the go, but makes sure he gets his sleep when he is working on a film. He often falls into bed in a state of complete exhaustion, but wakes up in the morning amazingly re-charged with energy.

He is seldom talkative, often moody. His spirits are usually either very high or very low. He loves to play practical jokes on his friends, with the aid of the studio makeup department. Disguised as an odd character, he rings his friends' doorbells, posing as a long-lost uncle, a Russian refugee or an escaped lunatic. Once, in the guise of an undesirable hobo, he knocked on the back door of his own house and scared the cook so badly that she shrieked for Mrs. Kaye.

His friends and family are fast learning, however, that when a bedraggled, blood-smeared tramp appears on their doorstep, it's only "Danny again!"

Guests Impressive

The guest lineup for this climactic part of the program reads like a "crime and detection" roster. Starting with Jay Joyston, the famous "Mr. District Attorney" on the first "Quick as a Flash" broadcast back in July, the series has featured such other equally famous "detectives" as Lon Clark, alias "Nick Carter," who dramatized an actual crime which took place in New York a few years ago; Mr. Keen, the "Tracer of Lost Persons," who portrayed a story about a man who wanted to lose himself; Santos Ortega, a former "Bulldog Drummond" expert in mystery; Victor Jory, from "Dangerously Yours," doing a bit about a modern Casanova who had a different kind of triangle to worry him; "Mr. and Mrs. North," "The Crime Doctor"; David Harding, radio's "Counterspy" in a typical spy ring murder; "Raymond" from "Inner Sanctum"; John Archer, known more familiarly as the Shadow," who "knows;" and Ed Begley, radio's "Charlie Chan," who dealt with a pair of Gestapo agents for the benefit of the contestants.

But mysteries aren't the only questions included in the contests in this five-way handicap. So that the general information of every contestant will be given an even break, Roberts has set up four popular question categories, and each week he names each one for a famous track—the Belmont, Saratoga, etc. The first "race" concerns a major news event, the second a musical question, and here Conductor Bloch takes over the clues, the third race is based on a famous_historical event, the fourth is set to the plot of a popular motion picture or book, and the fifth is our exciting crime drama.

Ideal Quizzer

Because he has been a quiz master for many years on many radio programs, Ken Roberts looked upon "Quick as a Flash" as the perfected quiz show. There is the spirit of competition equitably developed, there's good muslc, fun, suspense, and of course, wonderful radio drama in each question enacted by a cast of five or six persons. And then, there is the famous guest from other radio mystery shows for the climax event.

"And right there," Roberts pointed out when the series first began, "was a point we never took into consideration. One of our very first guests came up to me after the show was over and ruefully explained that he knew the answer several minutes before the winner of the event rang the buzzer. Naturally, I asked him why he didn't signal that he was ready with the answer. And what do you suppose he said? Well, believe it or not, he told me he was enjoying the dramatization so much he hated to end it by solving the problem. He just listened so long it cost him the $10 prize.

"And then, there was the poor girl who flashed the buzzer on one of the other events, and then was so startled by the noise that she forgot the answer and had to forfeit her chance at that prize."

Smart "Cookie"

Tuesday, 8:30 p.m. NBC-KF1

Evelyn Bigsby

O "COOKIE" FAIRCHILD, Sunday is just another work day. With his arranger, he toils at home setting up the music for the Tuesday Ginny Simms' show, of which he is musical director. Parked on the piano bench, he improvises hour after hour as his deft arranger translates the musical sounds into little black notes on huge sheets of yellow paper. Monday, "Cookie" supervises the musical backgrounds during the show's first rehearsal; Tuesday, he works with the orchestra from late morning until mid-afternoon; does two broadcasts. Friday afternoon he devotes to a conference with Ginny and Producer Cal Kuhl

Universal Studios, to composing, and to cutting records. "In between," he observed facetiously, "I loll at Palm' Springs or go to the races!" Seldom it is that he finds himself in his favorite pose: a book, a pair of soft slippers, a pipe, and a crackling fire, for Edgar Fairchild, a short, compactly-built, nervously ambitious man, is seldom relaxed. "My wife and little girl have a picture of me at home in case they forget what I look like," "Cookie" remarked jocosely, then continued soberly, "There are very few pleasures in life your home, your family, and your work. Yes, I count my work as a pleasure. I'm unhappy if I'm inactive.'

How Nickname Started

Edgar (who has borne the nickname, "Cookie," since he was two days old and who received the catchy appellation when his five-year-old brother looked at Baby Edgar and exclaimed, "Why, his eyes look like cookies") began bustling around a keyboard when he was five years old. By that time, his big brother was an unwilling plano pupil, but "Cookie," the ardent musician, was picking out his brother's pieces on a toy piano. Sizing up the situation, the music teacher informed the Fair-

childs, "You're teaching the wrong

Today, the brother is a smart business man and "Cookie" is a smart musician. "When I was fourteen I played Rubenstein's Concerto with the New York orchestra," he recalls. "When I was fifteen, I played Beethoven. When I was sixteen, I played Tschaikovsky."

Turns to Popular

For several years, "Cookie" was strictly a highbrow concert pianist. It wasn't until he became Recording Manager and Education Director for Ampico that he was forced to take cognizance of another kind of music —popular. "I engaged in an intensive campaign—and my only campaign—to familiarize myself with the kind of music played in night clubs and dance halls," he remembers. "I haunted the places to find out what was cooking in this other new world. Today, ninety-eight per cent of my work is in the popular field. But my classical background is still there and comes in mighty handy, especially in arranging the background spots for Ginny's program. Since we switched to the Purple Heart format, the orchestra is more important than ever.

the whole show, we're inactive only eight minutes of the thirty."

Fairchild throws his ample musical background into balancing the music on the program because Ginny sings but three numbers and they are always taken from three categories—there's a sentimental, nostalgic number which was popular a quarter of a century ago and which is placed on the program because many of the listeners are in the age bracket of fathers and mothers of men in service featured on the broadcast. "I Love You Truly" is an example of this type of song. Then, there's always a currently popular number of the more restrained kind, for instance, the jolly "Trolley Song." And last, there's always an inspira-tional song like "American Prayer" or "In God We Trust."

"The music on this show is as broad and as flexible as you'll find anywhere," remarked the batoneer, summarizing.

How He Composes

Hard-hitting Fairchild views his work very matter-of-factly and dismisses the intricacies of composing by saying, "I see something on paper and it suggests a tune. I play it on the piano and boom! That's it. Just give me three notes and I'll write a ten-minute composition with them. Just as English is the language of the reporter, music is my language."

At Five He Picked Out Tunes on Tov Piano; Today Is Top Maestro Who Sings Off-Key

THE FIRST HOLLYWOOD CELEBRITIES TO INAUGURATE the "Hall of Fame's" eight-week local series included bazooka-man Bob Burns, singer Gloria De Haven, and dancer George Murphy who got a laugh from "Pops" Whiteman's ribbing Burns. The impressive cast was augmented by the appearance of Carlos Ramirez and the King Sisters.

PETITE GLORIA DE HAVEN OFFERS
MAESTRO WHITEMAN the first presented to the "Hall" on its first anniversary.

Sunday. 3 p.m.. Blue-KECA

IFTEEN HUNDRED PEO-PLE sat in the darkened Earl Carroll Theater Restaurant and concentrated on the great silver lame curtain. A hush had fallen over the audience and a feeling of expectancy filled the air. Then the moment they had been awaiting came-from the recess of the vast stage a three-foot high by three-foot wide birthday cake was wheeled into view. A cherus of "ah's" and "oh's" greeted the appearance of the threetiered, blue and white slash of frosting. The giant curtain parted and a lone man stepped forward to receive the plaudits of the crowd. He smiled, bowed, and seemed genuinely touched by the cheering audience.

Thus had Hollywood come to celebrate the first anniversary of radio's most impressive program and to honor its maestro, the Dean of Modern American Music, Paul Whiteman.

The "Hall of Fame" came to the entertainment capital and the capital went all out for the "Hall of Fame." No glaring klieg lights or blatant music heralded the event, but Hollywood put its heart into that massive birthday cake.

The first creamy tier bore the blue frosted words "Happy Birthday. Paul!" the second tier proclaimed "First Anniversary," while the st tier completed the greeting, "Philco Radio Hall of Fame—Blue Network." Atop the tremendous cake was a frosted shrine which was the resting place of a single candle. And around the candle devilishly peeked a caricature of "Pops" Whiteman.

Since its initial performance a little over a year ago, the Blue Network's Hall of Fame has brought the oest of the united talents of the show world to its listeners. Today the show world's great and near-great had come to pay tribute to the Hall and Maestro Whiteman.

Chosen to inaugurate the first gala one-hour, all-star program from riollywood was a list of its most capable citizens. Because his nimble feet and easy-going charm have made him a favorite of the boards, the flickers, and the kilocycles, George Murphy was the first of a series of emcees to start the Hall of Fame off on its eight weeks stay here. Murphy, attired in a light gray suit, tapped his way into the huge audience's heart by humming and dancing throughout the afternoon's festivities.

Other Performers

brand of American humor plus his faithful bazooka. Other performers were Carlos Ramirez, Gloria De Haven, the inimitable Kino Sisters, and announcer Jimmy Wallington.

Over four hundred Philco dealers and their wives and four hundred members of the press attended the Hall's opening performance. The massive guest list was headed by an equally impressive array of stars including Harold Lloyd and family, Andy Devine, Sterling Holloway, John Payne, and Fay McKenzie.

ton, commentator with the precisely clipped English accent. A short time ago when his 8.2 rating made him the most widely-heard commentator on the Coast, Lawton admitted that he goes to bed about 11 o'clock and gets up at 2:15 a.m. By 3 o'clock he's ensconced at KFI weeding out the news bulletins and settling down to write the script for his 6:45 broadcast, followed immediately by another released at 7:15 a.m.

Nor is there much sleep when, off the air, he returns to the charming home maintained by Mrs. Lawton (Virginia McGee, an Oklahoma girl) and stows away fried eggs, bacon, tomato, and tea. Every week he receives more than two hundred letters which he conscientiously answers. "Only if I'm lucky do I get a couple hours' sleep," Lawton yawningly told your Radio Life reporter.

For he must consume a light lunch, wind up his correspondence, and bee-line it for NBC to start preparation for his evening broadcast.

Between 9:30 and 10:30 in the evening, the Lawtons enjoy "their hour"—meaning they eat a leisurely supper and chat about the day's activities.

It's an inexorable grind, and even Saturday evenings are what Lawton terms "merely technically free," for news has a way of barging into the smuggest plans and a man like Lawton must always be ready for this exigency.

Trip Is Vacation

That's why trips, such as the recent one he made to the South Pacific, seem almost like a vacation, albeit he travelled 30,000 miles on an observation tour which occupied two months and during which he cut eighty fifteen-minute, on-the-spot re-

RECORDING TORPEDO defense practice aboard escort carrier in the Pacific. "If I look pained", said Lawton, "it's because I was trying to talk over gunfire".

cordings with the aid of a Sound-

"I was so run down when I left here that I was taking longer and longer each day to write my scripts," Lawton remarked. "I was a victim of accumulative fatigue and it required three or four hours to write what I can now do in an hour and a half."

Discussing the extensive swing in the Pacific, Lawton declared it was fruitless from a political and diplomatic angle, but that otherwise it was a revelation. There were not more than 500 Japs on the entire Island of Halamahara at the time he visited there and concerning them he observed: "If you drag them into a phone booth, they will fight. Otherwise, they do not have the will to fight."

Of the Japs on New Guinea at the time of his visitation he remarked: "They are a fugitive group of starving, diseased men trying to rejoin their equally demoralized forces."

From his observations resulting from the Pacific tour (and also his visit to the European theater of war last year) Lawton received the conviction that the war with Japan will continue for at least a year after Germany is defeated.

Value of Records

The eighty SoundScriber discs which he recorded on the spot are invaluable proof of what radio can do to familiarlze the home front with actual battle conditions. Now being released over KFI Lawton's records describe bombing missions, hazardous rescues under fire, and even an appendectomy performed aboard a transport en route to Morotai. Wrote the patient to his mother back home: "Be sure to listen in on my appendicitis when it broadcasts over our local station."

In doing pioneer work with the SoundScriber, Lawton displayed the same aggressiveness and intelligence which have distinguished him ever since he was four and a half and could talk in English, Portugese, French, and Spanish . (he was born on the island of St. Vincent, the Portugese colony off the West Afri-can coast, where his French father was employed as a cable engineer). As the listener today tunes to Lawton's precise, carefully-drawn comments, it is easy to picture the commentator as a youth of sixteen at an English college, where he was the one chosen to read daily to the priests—books on travel, economics, history; or to see him shortly after, as a young student of Oxford, discussing world affairs with the picked brains of India, England, and other countries. Later, after his graduation, when he joined the staff of the Buenos Aires Standard, Lawton became the first regularly-scheduled radio commentator on world affairs in Argentina, later travelled and wrote in Chile, Brazil, Uruguay, and Peru before coming to the United States in 1935.

Home Is Here

Now an American citizen, Lawton and his wife have bought a home on Muirfield Road. The commentator waxes enthusiastic over the one room which is devoted to his files. Speaking of his material, he laughed: "I don't know how I manage to walk so jauntily when my brief case is so loaded down. I clean it out every month, but in a couple of weeks, it's ready to explode. I always carry my portable, too."

Now back in the harness, Lawton exhibits interest over another trip, because he'll catch up on his sleep. The thing that's puzzling him about his Pacific tour is the fact that he gained weight while he was hopping those 30,000 miles, but when he got back home, his waist measurement had dwindled from a 34 to a 29. "Actually smaller than my chest," Lawton gloated.

"Hall of Fame"

Hall of Fame has invaded Hollywood with plans to present the finest entertainment that the cinema capital has to offer. Such names as Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Orson Welles, Judy Garland, Alan Jones, Lum and Abner, Jerry Colonna, and Charles Winninger are being added weekly to the star-studden honor role.

Hollywood is not a novice in the procedure of the variety show. Some of the Hall's most memorable moments have emanated from California. Last fall radio went "spectacular" to pay tribute to a great American, Wilson. Motion picture's three hours of inspiring entertainment were capsule-paralleled in thirty-five minutes with the collaboration of one hundred and fifty people.

A cast of twenty-five, a fifty-piece orchestra, a choral section of forty, and the picture's original players combined their efforts in Hollywood to present in one afternoon an hour's blending of Eastern and Western entertainment.

Every Sunday afternoon a line of a thousand or more people, half of them service men and women, may be viewed outside of Earl Carroll's awaiting their turn to enter the portals through which "pass the most beautiful girls in the world." Once inside they find the proceedings more thrilling than a stage show—one can never tell who's coming next.

The Hall of Fame still lives up to its reputation of being a program that pleasantly combines an air of impressive dignity with an atmosphere of relaxed informality—as witnessed by the fact that after the show is over genial Paul Whiteman clears the deck and gives members of his audience a chance, literally, to tap their feet to his tunes.

"Gee," smiled Whiteman, affectionately tagged 'Pops', "imagine a thousand people and me on one little stage!"

Smart "Cookie"

Among "Cookie's" most recent compositions are the songs for Abbatt and Costello's "Here Come the Co-Eds" which includes the Hour of Charm All-Girl Orchestra in the cast.

Chunky, dark haired, swarthy-complexioned, the maestro is seldom to be seen in anything but leisure clothes, and one reason he likes Southern California, whither he came but two years ago from New York, is that he can wear comfortable garb without attracting attention. Blue is his favorite color, Iollowed closely by tans and grays. "Red's a favorite, too," he laughed. "My seven-year-old daughter, Joan, has red hair."

Although "Cookie's" career has never been anything but musical and includes vaudeville, an engagement in London's Cafe de Paris, and seven years on Cantor's radio program, he's happy that his wife, Hortense, has given up her concert singing to devote herself exclusively to being Mrs. Fairchild, mistress of the couple's Beverly Hills home. Ask Mrs. "Cookle," and she'll tell you that her talented mate is a nervous man who eats six times a day, who smokes a great deal, but shies from drinking.

"But I'm such a fiend for coffee that I even like bad coffee," "Cookie" vowed. "I can't sleep unless I've had a coffee night-cap and I always bring a big thermos bottle of hot coffee to the studio on Tuesdays. It invariably happens that I knock over the thermos while I'm directing, and scatter the pieces in every direction. Those cleaning men at NBC must hate me!"

Admittedly one of the best musicians in the business, when Fairchild was asked about his singing, he grimaced, "I have absolute pitch, but I can't sing on key. I guess I'm the only man in the business with such a wide vibratto that when I sing it sounds like a trio."
