Sirs: May I, too, be permitted to raise my voice from the wilderness, and say that I note, with great interest, the steadily increasing comment regarding organ music, and heartily agree with all the real music lovers.

To my mind, there is no finer music in existence than a great pipe organ, and, when played by Paul Carson, especially, it is the ultimate.

Alvina Chamberlain, 1133 South Elden, Apt. 2, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: Don't you think Fibber McGee's closet has been used on the air long enough? Why not lock that door for a while, and in a few years, revive that act? I do enjoy their program, but rope in "Mrs. Weary-bottom" or anyone for a change to that closet.

One does not mind their commercials, for they are very cunning and tricky.

Janice Harmon, 5264 Ellenwood Place, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs I have just finished reading another Radio Lifer's criticism of Bob Hope. I felt that I wanted to put in my two cents worth, too. Bob Hope has traveled all over, overseas, risking his life that the fellows on the front might have something to remember while they're fighting, and here in the States, he has also visited various hospitals. He has helped many fellows get back on their feet again. I think he deserves much credit and honor. As for his "childish" jokes, I would have to go a long way to find anyone that has better ones, or can tell them any better than he. I think as long as the fellows in the service like him and his jokes, he's okay!

Mrs. Harold Hoffman, 1046 South Alvarado Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: "Gags of the Week" in Radio Life is a fine feature, as it is so easy to clip the column and send the jokes to the boys overseas. Then they can continue to enjoy their favorite Actually, we don't have to say anything about the facial contortionist on our cover this week. For you all recognize "the teeth" —Cass Daley. comedy programs to a certain extent, just as they did back home. Naturally, they can't all hear the programs broadcast overseas.

My criticisms of the "soap operas" are: they drag too much, repeat, and are so "tragic" that they don't spread much cheer in a world that needs to laugh.

Is there any chance of "Easy Aces" returning to the air? I did look forward to that program.

It is understood that Goodman Ace who wrote and starred in "Easy Aces," and has for a record number of years, desired a vacation and the program was temporarily discontinued. It is likely that it will return sometime in the future.

Cowboys Are Made, Not Born

JDON'T MUCH go for fancy boots," smiled Ozie Waters when asked about the Western wardrobe he owns. But, because they're customary, the tall, mellow-voiced cowboy warbler owns "a couple pair" as a part of the six one-hundred dollar suits of Western garb he has acquired in his years of entertaining. His most prized accessory is a specially-made, hand-tooled gun belt.

Waters wasn't born a cowboy, but rather a farm lad in Fulton, Missouri. With the advent of World War I, he "joined the Navy to see the world," and landed in Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. While stationed there, he made his first radio appearance on the island station, KGU, twanging a guitar and singing in his soft, pleasing voice the gentle ballads of America's Old West. Honolulu audiences liked his programs so much that, after his tour of duty in the Navy had ended, he was called back to KGU for a series of commercial shows.

With Rangers

Later, returning to the States, he joined the staff of KMBC, Kansas City, where he appeared for six years with the Texas Rangers. After that, he became headman of such aggregations as the "Ranger Review" and other programs specializing in Western and hillbilly music.

Waters came to Los Angeles three years ago, has appeared on several series of daily programs and in Columbia and United Artists Western movies. Currently, he is heard daily with his own show on KNX and on KMPC, in addition to being featured on the Columbia network programs, "Sunset Mounties" and "Hollywood Barn Dance."

Record-collectors can soon purchase his Rodeo-label waxings of "My Dreams Are Getting Better All The Time" and "Sincerely Yours," a Smiley Burnette tune. He and Burnette recently completed a coastal entertainment tour of Army camps.

Waters also has authored a number of tunes, among them, "There'll Be A Rodeo in Tokyo and A Roundup in Old Berlin" which made the "cowboy hit parade" recently.

Lives In Valley

Ozie lives in an English-type ranch house in the San Fernando Valley with his wife, Evangeline, and his two little girls, six-year-old Darlene and four-year-old Melody Kathleen. "You can guess what nationality I am," the cowboy-singer put in with a grin at this point.

He likes being busy, but whenever he has some spare moments away from the microphone and movie camera, Ozie likes to ride, fish, or play poker.

"Fishing's my hobby," he declared, "and my luck's not so bad. But when it comes to poker," he laughed, "my luck's not so good!"

MR. AMAZING

By Evelyn Bigsby

*Creator, Perpetuator, Owner Of "Truth or Consequences" Is
As Unusual as His Radio Show*

Saturday, 8 p.m.
NBC-KFI

WHY COULDN'T I have thought up something easy like 'Information, Please?', Ralph Edwards bemoaned facetiously. The originator, perpetuator, and sole owner of "Truth or Consequences" was explaining the intricate preparation which his show required. "Some of our stunts take a whole month to set up. We even have a consulting attorney as part of our staff. He determines such matters as whether we can enter a lady's house without invading her privacy. We've never been sued in the four and a half years we've been on the air, perhaps because of the infinite detail with which we approach each 'Truth or Consequences' show."

Ever since the night he had to "scramble like an egg" at a party and immediately hatched the idea for his consequences radio program, Edwards has been coming up with fifty per cent of the plans for his broadcasts. His assisting staff comprises a production manager named Al Paschall, whose duty is to line up all the props; four idea men who work with Edwards; and two secretaries to handle the mail.

Twenty-One Types

"There are supposed to be seven

◀ RALPH EDWARDS, 32-year-old guiding genius of NBC's "Truth or Consequences," is a graduate of the University of California, is good business man, even-tempered, generous, big eater.

basic types of jokes," Edwards pointed out. "We've discovered twenty-one basic ideas for consequences. Every time we find another basic idea, we throw a party, for we're on the air for another year!"

Only four or five types, however, are used on any one show. For example, the curtain opener might be a game or slapstick type of consequence, or the "planting" of the situation for a "remote" pickup to be made later in the program. The second consequence might involve an "idea" act, like the recent one in which a small boy, chosen from the studio audience, was told he was to enact a dramatic skit with a charming Hollywood radio actress, who turned out to be six-year-old Norma Nilsson. The third consequence is usually an amusing reprise on the previous week's hit consequence; and the fourth is the big frame-up in which a celebrity introduces the surprise element.

How Show Planned

Every Tuesday Edwards conducts an "idea meeting" at which he and his aides show up with six consequences apiece, all of them different types. Out of this maze of material, a show is formatted, usually a month in advance of the program date. Unused ideas are listed on a back-log list, which now fills two bulging books totaling three or four thousand consequences never used. "The real hot ideas," continued Edwards, "are typed into a special list to be wedged in at the earliest possible moment. Sometimes months elapse, though, before we get to use even a sizzling idea. There's one we have that was originally planned for Jimmy Cagney. It didn't come off, so we switched to Hedy Lamarr, then John Garfield, and right now it's on the books for Dick Powell."

Getting the ideas and balancing them properly are only two items which Edwards must supervise. Each stunt must be studied to be certain that the contestant will react naturally AND be funny and Edwards must be prepared for the consequence to take any switch.

Ralph, fortunately, is not a worrier. When everything humanly possible has been done to guarantee a smooth show, he approaches his emcee duties with almost fatalistic calm. It's up to him to spot contestants who fill the bill for the already prepared consequences. A few weeks ago he was within thirty seconds of air time before he located just the right couple on whom to "inflict" a circus as a consequence. Edwards, who planned to send performers and animals from the big top out to the home of a Los Angeles couple, persistently searched through the rows of studio attendants until he located Mr. and Mrs. Kane of North Hollywood, who met his specifications for the excitingly bewildering consequence. "And I made their question plenty hard so they'd miss and have to pay the consequence," he laughed. "You'd be surprised," he continued, "how many times it's thirty seconds before air time when I finally spot the likeliest contestants. Some of my best have been chosen when we were practically on the air."

First A Showman

Edwards doesn't fancy himself a comedian. Formerly a top New York announcer with as many as forty-five assignments a week, he's more interested in attacking his duties from the showmanship angle. "We approach our program with the idea that we're giving radio a third dimension," he observed. "We never make our listeners step-children to the studio audience. I don't care how many imitators we have, as long as they are true to our standards. I have a strong feeling, because of my family upbringing and perhaps because I went to Sunday School, that we should have no 'off color stuff.' We go so far as to be careful about using the word 'dancing,' so that none of our listeners will take offense. Maybe a simple way of putting it would be to say we try to live up to our letters—letters which thank us for bringing the front parlor back into its own."

Edwards, according to associates and our own observation, doesn't display any nervousness while "Truth or Consequences" is on the air. It seems almost incredible that such a dynamic person should never

*Radio Life Has a Front-Row Seat
As Margaret O'Brien and Dame May Whitty Co-Star on CBS "Suspense"*

◀ DAME MAY WHITTY studied her script intently during the entire afternoon before airtime, little Margaret O'Brien (who memorizes her radio scripts) sat quietly on a high bench at the microphone during the rehearsals and broadcast. When complimented on her performance, she said "thank you" in a barely audible voice.

Thursday, 9:00 p.m.
CBS-KX

IF THIS ISN'T a good show," said producer William Spier, before the March 15th broadcast of "Suspense," "it will be my fault, because I'm working with two of the best actresses there are."

His stars of the evening were Margaret O'Brien and Dame May Whitty. There is seventy-five years difference in their ages. Margaret, who became eight years old last January, was born the year that Dame May Whitty gave her memorable portrayal of the frightened old lady who was murdered by Robert Montgomery in "Night Must Fall." Margaret came to the attention of Producer Spier particularly for her work in the unforgettable Halloween sequence of "Meet Me In St. Louis."

The "Suspense" story, written expressly for the distinctive talents of the two actresses by Mel Dinelli, was entitled "Cricket" and told the tale of a little girl who couldn't say goodbye to the dog who had given his life for her during the London blitz.

Little Miss O'Brien, who memorizes her radio scripts, astonishes air veterans with her ability to remember her lines, speak them smoothly without hesitation and with such feeling that onlookers are moved to tears. She worked with Spier and Dame May Whitty the day before the "Suspense" airing, received the final script revisions the night preceding the show, attended school the following morning, reported at the radio studio at noon with her lines learned.

In School, Now

Because of her professional activities, her schooling has been delayed and she is not yet able to read fluently enough to enact her radio roles from script, but she likes to hold the script when at the microphone and give the impression she is using it. She is now being tutored on the movie set, proudly carries her school notebook around with her. It is filled with neat, meticulous work on which she has been graded, almost without exception, "100." Some of the pages have red stars pasted on them.

Fall Listening

As we go to press, this news for fall listening has reached our ears. George Burns and Gracie Allen have signed a five-year contract with General Foods, to star on NBC's "Maxwell House" program, starting Thursday, September 20, replacing Frank Morgan.

KGFI To Hollywood

Station KGFI will come to Hollywood's radio row this summer, if current negotiations are completed. Now situated at 1417 South Figueroa in downtown Los Angeles, its new site will be in the heart of Radio City, near Hollywood and Vine.

Over There

If the Victory Committee gives them an okay, the Andrews Sisters will desert their Blue Network "Eight to the Bar Ranch" this summer to join their friend, "Cros" (Bing, of course), on his forthcoming overseas jaunt.

"We're ready and willing," chorused Patty, Maxene and LaVerne when Bing asked them to go with him. If they do go, the girls are sure to give their vocal chords a most strenuous workout with an incessant warbling of the ditty the boys over there want most to hear—"Rum and Coca Cola."

Two $64 Questions

The sixty-four dollar question on the Jack Carson show has everybody stumped. "Will Jack go into the army or won't he?—Will there be a show next fall or not?"

The actors ask the producer, the producer asks Carson, Carson shrugs his shoulders and noncommittally answers, "I dunno. Judging by my physical, I was a roaring success."

Meanwhile, blonde Shirley Mitchell sat in her corner of the CBS stage occupied with a sixty-four dollar question of her own. Capable Miss Mitchell is contemplating a vacation to New York this June and is very tempted to shop for a Broadway play. But realizing it would prevent her from returning to Hollywood for radio's fall season, she was giving it very serious thought. Having asked everyone's opinion and having received a variety of answers, Shirley retired to a quiet corner to think it out for herself.

When the producer rapped on his table, signaling that it was time to begin rehearsal, all the unanswered questions were forgotten. The cast members pulled up their chairs, plunged into their script and roared with laughter at each other's antics.

Suddenly a panic-stricken look came over Dave ("Tugwell") Willock's face. The secretary was motioning to him, pantomiming the news that he has a telephone call.

Dave kept hissing back, "Tell 'em I'm not casting today."

"What's with this casting business, Dave," Jack asked.

"Don't you know?" Willock grinned. "You're the producer."

It seems somebody circulated the rumor that Carson was producing a stage play and Willock was casting and directing the opus.

"I get at least seven thousand calls a week," Dave laughed sheepishly, "and I can't convince them it's only a nasty old rumor."

"Well, Shirley," a cast member pointed out, "there's your answer. Stay and star in the Carson-Willock production."

"Huh," retorted Shirley, "and be the Phantom Lady in the play that wasn't there!"

"Never Too Old"

Captain Henry Mark Mingay was a guest this week on Art Baker's "Never Too Old." The Captain told Baker he was one hundred years old, but upon investigating his April 21 marriage license, the emcee found the Captain to be a mere ninety-eight.

The Civil War veteran and his sixty-eight-year-old bride, Mrs. Aimee Hennessey had been friends for twelve years and decided to spend their last years with each other.

Confident of the happiness he would share in the future with his bride, Captain Mingay told listeners how it seemed to be "almost a centenarian," and in love. Yes! "Never too old!"

Real McCoy

The hat that Danny Thomas will henceforth wear in his role of Postman Jerry Dingle on the Fanny Brice show will be the real McCoy. Previously Danny has been wearing a hat furnished by the courtesy (and for a rental fee) of Western Costume. Yesterday, however, at a special service at the Hollywood post office, he was presented with the genuine article by the President, Lloyd L. Libscomb, of Angel City Branch No. 24 of the National Association of Letter Carriers, of which he is an honorary member.

Dream Come True

At 11:45 a.m. one Saturday morning Norris Darnell received a medical discharge from the army. At twelve noon he married his sweetheart, Ilma. Eight o'clock that same evening the couple appeared on NBC's "Truth or Consequences" as the contestants picked by emcee Ralph Edwards to receive a completely furnished home, free from rent worries for a whole year.

"It's the perfect dream come true," sighed pretty Mrs. Darnell.

"The perfect dream," engineered by "T. or C.," enables all of America to join in the fun. The NBC program will find the couple an apartment or home in the Los Angeles vicinity, and pay a year's rent in advance. Buffalo will furnish linen, St. Louis will contribute rugs, Philadelphia is donating silver, there'll be dishes from Dallas. There will even be a "Home Sweet Home" sign, courtesy of Jasper, Alabama.

All surplus donations won't be wasted. Through the services of the USO, they will be used to furnish troop ships, camps, and USO headquarters.

At this writing, contributions have flooded the Darnells. The only catch is the Darnells haven't picked a home yet to house the ever-increasing gifts.

New Duds

Roy Rogers bought a new suit! It's a blue serge business suit! And it's the first time he has had one on in years.

Although his wardrobe contains a couple of hundred western outfits, he doesn't own an ordinary suit. But when he left on his present hospital-roped appearance tour, he included this extraordinary garb, along with three new ties—an inch stripe, a paisley, and one with a picture of Trigger, his performing horse, hand-painted on it.

Typical of the hero worship accorded "King of the Cowboys" is the remark made by the seven-year-old son of Art Rush, Rogers' agent, when the youngster heard that Roy had passed his pre-induction physical: "Gee, that's swell! I'll bet he'll be a general in a few weeks, and the war will be over!"

The Winnah!

Cass Daley, who has a reputation of being able to sing louder (and funnier) than anybody — as she does weekly on NBC's Frank Morgan "Maxwell House" show—finally found herself some competition the other day.

She was rehearsing her song for the program when workmen came to sandblast her home in North Hollywood in preparation for painting. The noise was uproarious and Cass' lungs had to give forth with their best in order to be heard.

Evidently they were successful, for about lunch-time the sandblasting stopped and one of the workers stuck his head inside the door. "Well, Miss Daley," he said slyly, "I think you're the winner!"

Imperfect Fit

Dorothy Thompson, now broadcasting from points on the European continent for Mutual-Don Lee wants to be caught in no official inspection in her uniform. "It makes me look as wide as I am tall," she laughingly remarked before her departure, adding that her husband, Maxim Kopf, artist, looked even worse in his. "Like something out of a musical comedy," said the commentator.

Double and Something

Most servicemen are eager to appear on quiz programs, but Victor Pelle is one soldier whose visit to "Double or Nothing" really paid off. It was Pelle's last day in uniform before receiving a medical discharge from the Army, and his blouse was emblazoned with the Purple Heart, the Presidential Citation, and the Infantry Combat Medal. John Reed King, quiz master of the Mutual-Don Lee series, chose him as one of the contestants, and not only did Pelle win $202 of the cash prizes, but mentioned that in civilian life he had been an orchestra leader. John Wellington, the producer, invited the lad to an audition the next day, and now the ex-soldier Victor Pelle conducts the "Double or Nothing" band every Friday night.

From Opera To "Kraft"

"An opera training is a long and tough grind," said Ernie Newton between rehearsals of the "Kraft Music Hall" program. As top tenor of the choral group which provides the background music for the popular airshow, Ernie was explaining to Radio Life how he and his four fellow-singers happened to choose their interesting and lucrative careers.

"Ten years ago, I landed in New York from Idaho, with stars in my eyes and the firm determination to become another Caruso," Newton declared, with a smile. "My teachers encouraged me — carried away no doubt by my enthusiasm—but after I had listened to a few Metropolitan opera tenors, I was ready to settle for concert singing. So we switched to light opera and ballad training and I got along a lot better. Ernie is a great favorite in radio circles because of his keen sense of humor, much appreciated by Bing Crosby, who caps Ernie's jokes with wisecracks of the purely "Der Bingle" variety.

Baritone singer on "Kraft," Burton Dole, says he escaped the life of a col-

NEXT WEEK

An interesting array of first-hand interviews will comprise next week's issue. None other than Helen Hayes was cornered by Radio Life for a special interview, obtained when she noted actress recently broadcast from Hollywood. Another Hayes, "Gabby," is also profiled. Dynamic Ethel Smith, who is taking Lawrence Tibbett's place on the "Hit Parade" this month, lunched with us and scintillated an illuminating interview which is titled, "As American As Her Name." Frances Langford, the favorite G-Eyeful, also embellishes an article. Others to be included in the line-up are Jack Edwards, popular young radio actor, and disc jockey, and interviewer, Ira Cook.

CONFERENCE

Thelma Kirchner, manager, and Rene' Bozarth, program director-news editor, of KGFJ, will attend sessions of the San Francisco United Nations Conference. Coverage of the conference will be handled through direct news releases from San Francisco to the KGFJ staff. Special programs, transcribed on the spot, will be air-expressed to the station.

ROD AND REEL

lege professor by joining a male quartette at Michigan State College.

Charles "Chuck" Schrouder, bass singer, appeared on the KMH about ten years ago in a rhythm section. Since then, his fine voice has been heard on many other radio programs, as well as on "Kraft."

Dave Knight, baritone, is another professor turned singer. Born at Anadarko, Oklahoma, he taught in the Fine Arts Department at the University of Oklahoma. "I think popular American music is an extremely interesting phase in musical history," he observed, back stage, between rehearsals. "After all, the old masters were accused of introducing works too 'modern' for the public taste."

Phil Hanna, baritone and youngest member of the male section, has been under contract to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for some time. He is in "Anchors Aweigh" with Frank Sinatra. He is married and the father of little Lynne Hanna, now four years old, who insists she is going to be another Lily Pons.

All five heartily agree they'd just as soon be on the KMH stage as that of the "Met." Besides, it's much more fun.

Radio Roundup from KFI

On Monday evening, May 7th, at 9:30 p.m. over KFI the initial program in the Second Annual HOLLYWOOD BOWL AUDITIONS series will be presented. Under the joint sponsorship of the Radio Division of Earle

Claude Sweeten

C. Anthony, Inc., and the Hollywood Bowl Association, the half hour air programs feature talented young non-professional vocalists under the age of thirty in solo concert with the KFI orchestra directed by Claude Sweeten. Through preliminary hearings twenty-six vocalists have been selected to appear on the air and they will compete for the grand prize which consists of a professional appearance in the Hollywood Bowl in August under Leopold Stokowski. A panel of jurors composed of eminent names in the music world will hear the two vocalists appearing each Monday and choose the winner or winners to appear in the Bowl. The Auditions will be broadcast from Studio A at KFI and the public is invited to attend. Tickets may be obtained by writing or calling in person at the station.

If you're an early bird, as the saying goes, and on your feet at 6:15 a.m., we hope you are giving KFI's TOM OWENS a listen. He's a genial old codger with a happy outlook on life who chats to listeners from Monday through Saturday in a "homespun" philosophical vein that can't help but start a day off right. The interesting thing about TOM OWENS is that in reality he's a young fellow of thirty-five and you hear him frequently doing newscasts on this station . . . or we should say you did until a few days ago when he became Production Manager for KFI. His name is Russ Stewart and he's a Utah boy who left the Chief Announcer spot on KDYL, Salt Lake City, for the California sunshine and this station. Russ is six feet in height, has blue eyes, brown hair and a ruddy complexion. He's the father of three children and a "nut" on photography. For models in this hobby he frequently uses his pretty wife and the little ones. Knowing this about him we hope we've not spoiled the illusion for you when he appears as TOM OWENS but see for yourself if you would have guessed this old rocking-chair character to be the young man he is.

MARKSMAN

Within a week after our declaration of war on Germany—the first time—one of Uncle Sam's marines was Bob Burns, NBC's star and world-renowned bazaar king. Bob saw service in France for a year, was promoted to gunnery sergeant and in an AEF rifle competition won a gold medal, which none other than General Pershing pinned on his chest.

TWO EXTREMES

Mary Mason, pert actress on CBS' "The Aldrich Family" program, admits that the two extremes of her life lie in her pride in her lovely two-year-old daughter and a two-hundred-year-old Connecticut farmhouse which she owns.

THIRD SONG

Eight-year-old Lonny Lunde, of the Blue Network "Quiz Kids" has composed his third song, a romantic ballad titled "I Couldn't Help It." A song publisher wants to market the tune, if Lonny will "simplify" the arrangements.

NEW PLAY

Les Tremayne, co-star with Claudia Morgan in CBS "The Adventures of the Thin Man," is opening in a new play on Broadway. This is the twelfth anniversary of his debut on radio and also his birthday milestone.

COMPLETED THESIS

Roger Lyon, narrator on "Great Moments in Music," has completed his thesis for a Doctor of Philosophy degree from Columbia University.

APT-EPITAPH

"Gildersleeve," suggests this epitaph for Joseph: Here lies Goebbels, as usual.

VICIOUS COICL
Ed (Archie) Gardner of NBC's "Duffy's Tavern" is a perfectionist. He worked so hard perfecting his Friday-night malapropisms that he took up oil painting to relax. First thing he knew, he was staying up all night to finish a painting. Now he's taken up tennis to get his mind off painting.

Diggin' Discs

With JACK LAWSON

WOODY HERMAN, whose band almost unanimously has been selected as "The Band of the Year" in national popularity polls, has been contracted to record exclusively for Columbia. His first release will be a brand new tune called "Laura."

IRA COOK introduced Mel Torme's new tune, "Stranger In Town," on his Lucky Lager Dance Time show over KFAC. The song has been recorded by Martha Tilton for Capitol and Torme with his Mel-Tones for Decca.

MEL TORME, by the way, gets a rave build-up by Decca, which hails him as a "dynamic new find." He writes most of his own songs, arranges them and does the lead singing in a deep, husky voice that has real lowdown and hot quality to it. He's 19 years old and has a good start as singer and bandleader, with both radio and film contracts.

AXEL STORDAHL, arranger and director for Frank Sinatra, has done a good job with Frankie's latest two, "I Begged Her" and "What Makes the Sunset?" both from the picture, "Anchors Aweigh."

ABE LYMAN has recorded "Rum and Coca Cola," with vocal by Rose Blane, but the Andrews Sisters' disk eclipses this calypso.

HORACE HEIDT, that eminent Southern California property owner, keeps threatening to break up his band, but so far has done nothing about it. His latest two for Columbia are "More and More" and Lucky To Be Me."

BING CROSBY, too, comes up with "More and More," which is from Universal's "Can't Help Singing. By the time this tune hits its stride, the picture will be in fourth-run houses. Its plattermate is a lovely ballad, "Strange Music," based on Edward Grieg's "Wedding Day in Troldhaugen" and adapted for the operetta, "Song of Norway."

FRED ASTAIRE, Nebraska's gift to the entertainment business, has a pair of new ones under Decca banner—"This Heart of Mine" and "If Swing Goes, I Go Too," both from MGM's "Ziegfeld Follies," orchestral direction by Al Sack. The latter tune was penned by Fred himself.

ROY ELDRIDGE, young Chicago trumpet star, who has been hailed as one of the truly "great" hot trumpeters, presents his first in a series for Decca. "Twilight Time," one of the most-requested tunes today, features slow blues feeling, while "Fish Market" is a rockin' jump number concocted by Eldridge himself.

POPULAR FRANKIE Carle does "Carle Boogie" and "Saturday Night," with vocal by Phylliss Lynne for Columbia.

become angry, and that he is able to relax practically at will. Associates claim he is very even-tempered and calm. The other Friday night when a whole act had to be discarded less than twenty-four hours before airtime, it was Edwards who remarked, "Oh, well, we'll find something," and turned in for a good night's sleep.

Mrs. Edwards helps keep her brilliant husband on even keel, for she has a keen, critical layman's ear and although she has had no professional experience in radio, Ralph respects her advice. "I've never found Barbara to be wrong in her opinions about the show," he admitted.

Is Family Man

The Edwards family comprises Barbara, Ralph, and two youngsters, Christine, three years old, and Gary, seventeen months. Ralph's mother, two brothers, and their families live in Oakland. Edwards is a Colorado product, born Friday, July 13, 1913, moved to San Francisco when he was twelve, was graduated from the University of California in 1935. Edwards maintains a home at Poundridge, upper Westchester county, New York, and also owns a ranch at Strawberry, California, where he and Barbara like to hide out, rolled up in sleeping bags or riding the trails of the high Sierras. Ralph also admires American folksongs, dancing, buying extravagant presents for his family and friends, and reading dime murder mysteries. He consumed hundreds of pulp thriller stories when his show was in New York and he commuted daily between there and his country place. Now in Hollywood for pictures and hence originating his radio program from here, he has taken a beach home at Santa Monica where he can indulge one of his favorite pastimes, swimming.

But no matter how busy he is, he manages to scribble a line to his mother every day. She is the exception, for as far as others are concerned, Edwards doesn't write.

Conservative Dresser

In clothes he is very conservative—no contrasting slacks and jackets, no drape shape or ripe stripe. His friends consider him the least vain person they've ever known. His brown head now markedly balding at the age of thirty-two and for some time before, Edwards consistently refused to wear a "piece." Being required to don one for pictures, he also tried wearing it on the radio

BASEBALL

Flash results of inning-by-inning scores of baseball games, Pacific Coast as well as American and National League are being given throughout the day by KWKW at 1420 kc. This is said to be the first time on the Pacific Coast. Designed as a service to our men and women in Army and Navy hospitals in the greater Los Angeles district, the feature is also aimed at civilian ball fans. Starting at 11 o'clock in the morning when a five-minute program gives the starting batteries and weather conditions in both Eastern and Western ball parks, it carries on with inning-by-inning scores, given at approximately five-minute intervals.

show and now doesn't seem to mind it. The toupe takes ten years from his appearance, as Ralph is a handsome, athletic looking fellow, with trim figure, brown eyes that twinkle, and bushy brown eyebrows.

He's fond of Mexican food—the hotter the better—and likes to eat Chinese dishes after the show Saturday night. He's one who is able to stow away large quantities of food, yet keep his weight under control.

A versatile conversationalist, he refuses to discuss one thing—politics. He dismisses his views by making the succinct statement: "I voted!"

Admittedly a smart business man, he is cognizant of every phase of his program from engineering to dramatic acting, keeps regular office hours from 10 o'clock in the morning until late afternoon.

He considers his best consequence the one involving Yiff Niff, Yiff Niff, a purely fictional character, was advertised as a "famous European concert violinist making his American debut." As a build-up to this consequence, Edwards had New York plastered with billboards announcing Yiff Niff's debut in Town Hall and he even went so far as to take ads on the concert pages of the metropolitan dailies.

Yiff Niff, of course, was a person to be chosen from the "Truth or Consequences" studio audience. Ralph finally selected Mrs. Fries of New Jersey to play the role. She was a mild little lady who owned a chicken farm and who had never touched a violin. Mrs. Fries was sent to Town Hall, crowded to the gills with reviewers and musical critics. Milton Cross introduced Yiff Niff, and Mrs. Fries shied on stage to saw away on the fiddle for thirty seconds!

To salve the feelings of the tuxedoed experts, Edwards arranged a bona fide recital of a pianist and violinist to follow the consequence gag.

Why Acts Flop

"As a rule," Edwards summarized, "a consequence never flops unless the contestant freezes up." But if

Mutual-KHJ

EVERY Sunday night, when Mutual's "Music Depreciation" takes to the air, conductor Frank De Vol is introduced to his audience as the "happiest boy in radio." With these words, De Vol steps to the microphone, his shoulders sagging, his eyes sad, his mouth set in an expressionless scowl.

Far from being a negative personality, De Vol is an accomplished musician and a clever comic, but he accentuates his talents by "playing them down." His impressive musical accomplishments are presented to ether audiences under the guise of "Music Depreciation," title of his weekly half-hour of melody. He reveals his flair for comedy by subtle pantomiming.

De Vol, who was born in Moundsville, West Virginia, on September 20, 1911, started his musical career supplying tuneful accompaniment to old-time movies. At the age of nine, he played the violin and piano, and a few years later, had mastered

Blue-KECA

EVERY afternoon, five days a week, jolly, likable Perry Ward strolls across the Blue stage, perches himself upon the extreme edge, smiles a warm 'hello' to his delighted audience—and for half an hour ribs, heckles, and talks back to any of the good-natured feminine participants upon whom his roving blue eyes happen to fall.

He may offer her a pair of lovely sheer hose and when she has happily accepted, he'll drag out a bottle of leg makeup.

Or he'll call upon the woman who has been married the longest to step forward, and when she proudly does, he'll ask her if she had it to do all over again, whom would she accept, Van Johnson, Frank Sinatra, or her husband? Or he may dare to invade the sacred holiness of a woman's handbag—and does. What do the women do? They love it.

Free-For-All

The laughable "What's Doing, Ladies?" gives the aforementioned ladies a chance to meet emcee, Perry Ward and Mr. Ward a chance to meet the ladies. Then the fun begins. Said Mrs. Robert Shotwell of Los Angeles, "Perry can talk to me anyway he wants to—but if my husband tried it, well, that's different." In addition to gags, there are interviews, contests, prizes, gifts, auctions and barter.

But the highlight of the afternoon comes when inquisitive Perry chooses a victim, and to the merriment of the other ladies, explores the depths of her handbag. He finds everything—the family meal (link sausages), toothbrushes, pipes, hot water bottles, baby diapers, salamis, and other oddities. He is usually attracted to a bag by its size, whereupon, he holds it high in the air, exclaiming, "Stuffed like a Christmas turkey!" or he may prance up and down the aisle with the precious purse balanced upon his head. This featurette of the program tickles Perry. "You find the darndest things."

When asked how he spends his spare time, Perry hastily assured Radio Life he relished a weekend in the great outdoors with ten or twelve of his lodge members. "Boy, they look good to me," he grinned. His lovely wife, Irene, is his number one fan and critic. . . . "She comes up with a lot of swell ideas for the show." And he admitted with a twinkle in his eyes that he doesn't even mind going home to his wife and having her look through his wallet—it's sort of a relief.

the French horn, clarinet, saxophone, trumpet and flute, and had learned the basic principles of music arranging. His father was a violinist and a composer-arranger-conductor, and before Frank had completed his Bachelor of Arts course at the Ohio University, he left college to join his father's orchestra.

With Top Bands

After that, he toured the country as comic-musician-singer with several of the nation's top-flight bands—among them, George Olson, Horace Heidt, and Alvino Rey. In addition, he was doing musical arranging for other groups, including novelty tunes for Ben Bernie.

Today, besides starring on his own program, he is orchestra conductor on the Rudy Vallee show and musical director of the Don Lee network. Orchestra leaders still covet De Vol arrangements; in fact, Harry James tried for months to buy "the guy who does De Vol's arranging" until he discovered that De Vol did it himself!

The arranger-conductor works every day on his radio assignments, toiling at his piano in a small room off the kitchen in his Van Nuys home. He sometimes arises as early as five a.m. because he doesn't like to work later than eleven o'clock at night. His family has strict instructions not to disturb him when he's busy. "The kids just come in to kiss me goodnight," he explained, smiling.

He calls the room his "den," and keeps it in disorder. "My wife decides to clean it now and then," he laughed, "and it takes me weeks to get it back the way I want it."

De Vol is married to a former Cleveland dancer, Grayce Engle. They met in 1935 while she was filling an engagement at the Palace Theater in Canton, Ohio, where Frank was playing with the theater orchestra. They have two daughters, six-year-old Linda and four-year-old Donna. "Linda's the singer," Frank informed us, "and Donna's the comedienne." The family pet is a Sealyham named "Mousy."

De Vol measures five feet, ten and a half inches in height, tips the scale at 175 pounds. He likes to wear casual clothes, colored shirts, and an old porkpie hat that he's had for over five years.

Says "No" To Himself

The musical director has several positive ideas on how to enjoy life and make the most of leisure time, but his crowded working schedule lands him on the negative side of every aspiration.

He has a fine garage in which he never keeps his car because the building is stocked with fine garden tools which he never has time to use. He's accumulating an extensive library of best-selling books, ninety per cent of which he hasn't yet had time to read. He has a chicken house in his back yard, but no chickens because he couldn't manage the time to care for them.

His fifty-six-year old mother loves airplanes and is planning to take flying lessons, but Frank hasn't the time to join her in the sport.

He isn't a movie fan for the same reason, but once in a while, he finds himself at the theater boxoffice when the bill is a horror picture and his youngsters have made him go with them.

Neither Too Young Or Too Old!

Asked if that meant that they were exceptionally well done, Margaret explained, "No. A red star means I had to erase. When I don't have to erase, I can paste a flag on the paper." Several of her papers had flags on them, and on one, the teacher had written "Very good work."

Margaret sat quietly on a high-cushioned bench at a microphone during the "Suspense" rehearsals and broadcast. (The two stars worked sitting down at a table for the greater comfort of Dame May). Dame May Whitty studied her script intently during the entire afternoon before airtime. Margaret watched the other actors, worked herself to tears when, in the script, Dame May described to her the death of her dog. The child actress has several pets of her own including a dog named "Maggie."

"I have a dog and a horse and a bird and a turtle and—well five animals all together," she explained, her dark eyes lighting up as she flashed one of her sudden smiles. Her Irish, pixie-like face looked serious and intent most of the time, but brightened into a smile when she looked at her mother, who sat silently on the sidelines.

Whenever Margaret finished a sequence of the script, she looked to her mother for approval. Sometimes Mrs. O'Brien shook her head, more frequently she nodded and threw her daughter a kiss. Margaret's mother was a dancer, and has given her daughter dramatic instruction since infancy. "Margaret's ability to learn and to speak lines is no miracle," she pointed out. "It is the result of patient training that made her ready when the opportunity came."

The little actress, who is tiny for her age, talked in a soft, whispery voice, seemed shy, but extremely courteous with strangers, warm and affectionate with her mother. When complimented on her performance, she said "thank you" in a barely audible voice.

"I have to watch people," her mother smiled, "or they would spoil her. Everybody always wants to give her candy and gum and presents."

Took Role to Heart

In the script, at the end of the drama, the little girl in the story finds that her neighbor has a dog named "Cricket" too. Writer Dinelli intended the listener to be left wondering whether or not this dog was the same animal who had supposedly died in the bombing raid. Margaret was sure it was, and between rehearsals, earnestly explained how she had it all figured out. "You see," she said, "my dog (meaning 'Cricket,' the dog in the story) wasn't really burned up in the building, and this man found him and made him well again." When everyone agreed that that must have been the way it happened, Margaret grinned happily, then resumed her role with heartrending pathos, serene in the knowledge that the ending was a happy one.

At the conclusion of the first rehearsal, Margaret climbed down off her bench at the microphone, tore a sheet of paper from her school notebook, handed it to Dame May Whitty, and asked in her small voice, "May I have your autograph, please?"

Dame May smiled and wrote down the words, "My love and admiration to Margaret O'Brien—May Whitty." When she had finished, she turned to little Margaret and requested her autograph.

"Very well," replied Margaret primly, picking up the paper her co-star had signed and scrutinizing it gravely.

Then the youngster took a pencil and a sheet of paper and wrote in a careful, childish scrawl, "My love and admiration to May Whitty—Margaret O'Brien."

things don't go off as anticipated, it seems that Ralph never flares up. His co-workers often wonder if he'll ever get really mad and blow his top completely.

Oddly enough, Edwards, although a perfect host and an expert chef at the barbecue pit, is a retiring guest. Whenever he attends a party, he always sits back and encourages others to entertain rather than performing himself. To intimates he tells a story to perfection, but when it comes to getting up in front of a group, the "Truth or Consequences" genius is more often than not to be seen egging on his writer, Carl Manning, to sing one of his phony songs in jibberish opera.
