The Ear Inspires the Pen

Mrs. Beatrice B. Holland, 809 South Rosemead Blvd., San Gabriel, Calif.

Sirs: Here's a hearty "thank you" for Leora Fuller and Virginia Hunt, the children's Sunday Story Lady and Music Illustrator of KPCC. These young ladies are working hard to give children worthwhile entertainment.

Here's a secret, they are good to look at, too!

Mrs. L. Checkan, R. 1, Box 105, Redondo Beach, Calif.

Sirs: There is no more appropriate time to write this letter than today, the 5000th performance anniversary of the "Johnson Family."

First, let's take the cover of your May 26th number. The finest actor on the air, Jimmy Scribner, and the rankest insult ever printed underneath his name, "Not the Whole Show." "Page 32." So I turn to page thirty-two. In the first place, WHY stick a man of Jimmy Scribner's calibre back on page thirty-two? Next, the article itself. Can it be that Radio Life has an axe to grind against Jimmy? Can it be that the person writing the article has used this way of "getting even" with Scribner?

To quote the article: "Today, the 'Johnson Family', widely thought of as a one-man show, is no longer that. While it's true that Scribner portrays all the characters . . . Jimmy is far from being the whole show."

WELL—WELL—Is this an outright scheme to enrage the fans who LOVE the "Johnson Family" and who think it not one of the BUT THE most CLEVER show on the air? Or is it a cheap way to get pictures of the announcer, soundmen, etc. into the magazine? Do you think the listeners are nit-wits?

EVERY SHOW ON THE RADIO has soundmen, announcers, writers, etc. No show can be a one-man-show. Why rob Jimmy Scribner of the GLORY that is his, for his superb acting, marvelous voice, clever situations, unbelievable concentration and priceless humor. Why HIS show is a marvel. It runs "Amos 'n' Andy" (whom I adore) out of the picture for this type of show and THEY have a full half-hour.

Why don't you do a "smart" article on Dud Williamson—"Not the Whole Show," or "Twenty Questions"—"Not the Whole Show."

I NEVER read such a stupid piece of TRIPE as the article on Jimmy Scribner and I hope that thousands of fans write and write and write until you either publicly apologize for this insult OR do a new article on Jimmy giving him the CREDIT due and not hinting that the success of his show is due to the announcer, soundmen, etc.

Do you think the listeners are FOOLS? WE KNOW these workmen are on EVERY show. YOU are the FOOLS.

Jimmy Scribner, Mutual Broadcasting Studios, Hollywood, Calif.

Sirs: Working over a hot typewriter every night, batting out a "Johnson Family" script makes me a bit weary of pounding a keyboard. Therefore, it is a pleasure for me to sit down and write you a note of thanks in long hand.

The note of thanks is for the wonderful article on "Jimmy Scribner" that you had in the May 26th issue of Radio Life. In all my years in radio, I think your article told more about the origination of "The Johnson Family" than any other articles that have been printed about me and my work.

It made me especially happy to have mention made of all my co-workers on the show. They are a great bunch and I feel very fortunate in being surrounded by such fine artists and technicians.

I have heard from many "Johnson Family" fans and they were pleased with your story and enjoyed getting a color reproduction of "Papa."

Again, many thanks.

THE "AUNT MARY" FAMILY

Seated: Lisa Fenner, Lefty Larkin, Aunt Mary, Peggy Douglas, Del Shipley; Standing: Lance Fenner, Lily du Vonne, Bill Meade, Kit Meade.

Mrs. E. Bradbury, 3045 Crenshaw Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: One of our favorite serial stories is "Aunt Mary," KFI, 3:30 p.m. daily. We would like to know something about the new voice, "Lance." We would like to have a family picture of "Aunt Mary's" family to put in our radio album.

We think it's grand to know that so many radio veterans are getting parts in so many radio shows. They should get every break.

For reader Bradbury's radio album, and for other "Aunt Mary" fans, here's a family portrait of those who are heard on the popular dramatic series.

Dick Dunlop, 9044 Grossmont Blvd., La Mesa, Calif.

Sirs: In regard to a letter in the "Ear Inspires" of June 23rd, I suggest the reader listen to and enjoy "Fairy Land," a presentation of KGB, in San Diego. As children's fairy stories go, this is one of the best. It is aired Saturdays at 11:00 a.m. on KGB (1360 on the dial), and is put on by local talented boys and girls ranging in age from thirteen to fifteen years. It is written and directed by Pat Deauville Bennet, who has been do-

Irene Meyer, 1236 So. Lake Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: Please do something about the "crime wave." Even "Curtain Time" and "Famous Radio Players" now bring us crime stories. Is there nothing else to glorify in this beautiful world than crime?

Radio writers seem to think the listeners get tired of romance, dote on crime—and, reader Meyer and others excluded, it seems they do. Note high rating of "The Whistler," just for instance.

Sirs: I wonder if you would consider appeasing my one gripe? And that is, include in your magazine contents a list of all contests. I hear them once on the air, and sometimes at the moment can't make a notation. Then later fail to recall which program made the offer. I'm sure that not only the listener, but the sponsor as well would be happy to have you include a monthly list of contests and gimmicks.

There is a magazine on the market devoted exclusively to contests, news of which fills ONE WHOLE MAGAZINE a month! In our program folder we mark contests and offers with an asterisk. If more fans like you write in, we'll run a feature on radio contests.

TOPS IN RADIO PROGRAMMING ON THURSDAY EVENING IS THE SUMMER SESSION OF THE "KRAFT MUSIC HALL". ALWAYS A FAVORITE, THE WEEKLY SHOW NOW PRESENTS EDWARD EVERETT HORTON, EDDY DUCHIN, THE KING COLE TRIO AND LUSCIOUS SONGSTRESS MILENA MILLER. DON'T FORGET TO LISTEN!

Magic Piano Fingers

Famed Eddy Duchin was born in Cambridge, Mass., on April 1, 1909. He became Leo Reichman's pianist in 1929 and inaugurated his own band two years later. Duchin's first radio show was with Ed Wynn and his present stint with the Music Hall started shortly after his release from the Navy.

Funny Fuss-Budget

Noted comedian, Edward Everett Horton, who emcees the Music Hall began his career as a business man but found that not to his liking. He turned to acting and toured with a small road company before making his film debut in 1921. Since then, Horton has been featured in more than 50 films. Unmarried, he lives with his 85 year old mother in San Fernando Valley.

O MANY times, during Radio Life's chats with the famous folk of radio, we've discovered their flair in fields of endeavor other than acting. Surprising perhaps, but true, is the fact that many successful ether stars are astoundingly adept in other directions as well.

Art is the favorite avocation of many, and here, in the first of our "Jack of All Trades—Master of One" series, we bring you pictorial proof that your pet microphone personalities are magnanimously gifted people. Radio Life herewith extends to you an invitation to visit the art gallery of the stars. Surprised?

↑ JEAN HERSHOLT did this self-portrait in 1932. The actor has had little instruction in art, studied it briefly during his school years in Copenhagen.

Going Gage's Way

▲ "THIS IS A TRUE PICTURE OF ME," smiles Ben. "Nothing I like better than lounging—sometimes pronounced loafing." But we think it's a rare picture that finds all 6 feet 4 inches of Ben stretched out on a comfy sofa.

HANDSOME, blond, blue-eyed and big (6'4") Ben Gage opened the front door of his cozy Palisades home and greeted us with a hearty hello. "You caught me drying the luncheon dishes," he explained with a smile. "Esther and I just returned from four days in Palm Springs—the housekeeper is on vacation, and we're tidying up at the last minute."

The kitchen wasn't visible from the doorway, but the sound of trickling water was audible enough for us all to hear it at the same time. As we flew down the stairs at Ben's heels, (the living room, dining room and kitchen are situated in the lower half of the house) we had a quick glimpse of flowered wallpaper, chintz chairs and a smattering of antiques. The kitchen was painted in bright yellow and blue with pert dishes as decorations upon the wall, and clean, shiny ones on the sink. In evidence upon the stove sat a half-filled pot of coffee. "Maxwell, that is," pointed out Ben (free advt.)

Ben and His Lovely Bride, Esther, Are in the Swim of Things as Mr. G. Resumes His Popular Air Chores

"Come on out and see our back yard. I'll show you a surprise," he enthused.

"Fine," we agreed, "but what about that summer show Meredith Willson and you are doing?"

"Swell, simply swell," he answered. "It's a pleasure working with Meredith. And I'd be crazy if I didn't say it's a pleasure to be back on the air again."

It has been four long years since the announcer-singer worked in commercial radio (as announcer for Bob Hope.) The aforementioned years were spent as Sgt. Ben Gage of the U. S. Army. You may remember having Ben as emcee of the Santa Ana Air Force Show.

"About that back yard," urged Ben, "would you like to see it?"

Pool, Of Course

Beyond the pleasant tree-covered patio sat the oval-shaped cool swimming pool. We took a good look, expecting to find Ben's lovely actress-wife, Esther Williams, somewhere in its briny deep. But it wasn't very deep nor did we glimpse Esther. That came later.

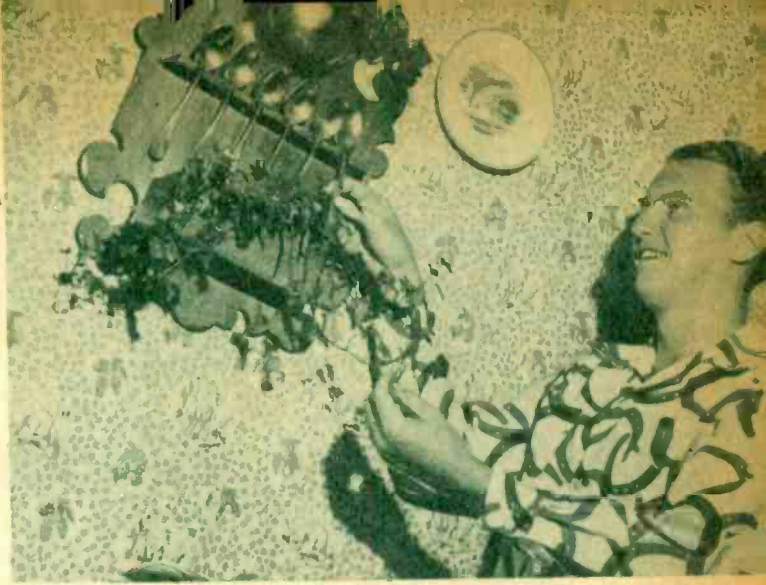

"This," proudly smiled Ben, "is the first lawn we've had. Isn't it nice?" We had to admit that the budding grass made the flowered back yard look more elegant.

"Did you tell them that you put the filtering system in the pool, darlin'?" questioned a soft voice behind us.

"Hello, darlin'," Ben greeted his pretty wife with a kiss on her pert nose.

"It's probably time I joined you," laughed Esther, "to tell you the things he won't."

"Such as what?" we primed.

"Oh, that he is building the little bathhouse by the pool. He says that's where he's going to study his vocal lessons. And if you noticed the beautiful record cabinet in the dining room and the little what-not shelf on the wall, you'll know why I'm so proud of him. He made them, himself."

For the kind compliments, Mrs. Gage received another kiss.

"THE ONLY ORANGE ON THE TREE," grins Mrs. G. "and my husband made it grow all by himself."

Life is still very much in the honeymoon stage at the Gages' house. Ben and Esther love entertaining their families and friends with informal get-togethers, but they don't relish big parties or nightclub life. "The easy-going atmosphere of Palm Springs is our speed," explained Mr. G.

"Or here at home," offered Mrs. G.

"Do you swim a great deal?" we asked, glancing at a picture of Ben and Esther in their pool. "Oh, yes," they chorused, "twenty laps before breakfast every day."

"Is Ben a good swimmer?"

"Simply wonderful," retorted Esther. "He's just wonderful, anyhow."

BEN IS BUILDING A COMBINATION guest house and practice room to accommodate guests—and Esther. "So I won't have to hear him practice," she laughs.

*Les Paul's Cadillac Sits Out in the Street,
The Garage Is Now a $10,000 Recording Studio*

*W*HEN we chatted with Jack Smith during his recent Hollywood stay, one thing about which he was most enthused was Les Paul's home recording studio. "You oughta do a story about it!" the singing Smith insisted, and so, we figured we could do no less than to go out and have a look for ourselves.

We found Les, "major domo" of the Les Paul Trio, just where we expected to find him—at the rear of the house in his studio. "It used to be the garage," he grinned. "I threw my Cadillac out. It sits in the street now."

Paul started construction on his "miniature NBC" on June 10, 1945. "By June 10th of this year, we had it technically completed, at a cost of about ten thousand dollars," he reported. "All that remains to be done now is some painting and the installation of air conditioning."

WHEN RECORDING WITH his ensemble in his home studio, Les strums his instrument and mans the control board at one and the same time. He and his musical cohorts built this entire studio themselves.

NBC—Earl Zeigler Photos

Paul and his music-loving pals did all the work on the studio themselves. "We did all the building, and even made all of our machinery," the musician informed us. "We rented a machine shop and worked there at night after the regular employees had gone home. My back yard was piled with lumber, and at one point, we even brought in a cement mixer.

We Want Sherman!

We were just sitting down to the pleasurable task of reporting wonderful Ransom Sherman's guest appearance on Bill Leyden's program last Tuesday, when what should we find in the morning mail but a neat bit of reporting by Richard F. Van Wickle, who had already done it for us! Take it, Mr. Van Wickle:

In a recent Radio Life article, "Voices We'd Like to Hear," one of those mentioned was Ransom Sherman, former proprietor of "Crestfallen Manor." Perhaps Radio Life's wish will come true. Bill Leyden's "Music Hall" (KMPC, 10-12 a.m., Monday through Friday) last Tuesday featured Ransom Sherman in his first air appearance in several years. He was well equipped (e-quipped, that is) with his usual stock of wit, to wit, "How to Play Bridge," "How to Prepare for a Vacation Trip" and "The Art of Playing a Flute." The latter was well demonstrated with a portion of a transcription of a "Crestfallen Manor" broadcast. He was his usual irrepressible self, and to our interest, it was revealed that he has just completed work on one motion picture with Hedy Lamarr, and is now working on another, both of which will be released shortly. This should be good news for all the old Ransom Sherman fans, for his new pictures might be instrumental in bringing him back to the air.

Shy Guy Talks

The other afternoon, while walking down Sunset Boulevard toward the Columbia Network studios, we suddenly spied a handsome young man coming rapidly toward us, smiling broadly, his bright red curly hair waving in the breeze. Not immediately recognizing him, we continued to walk—a little slower than before—because what female doesn't want a handsome carrot-top to speak?

"Excuse me, but you're from Radio Life magazine, aren't you?" was the young man's first remark. We immediately became friendly after we were so promptly identified.

"My name's Bob Shanley—I'm the guy who's taking Nelson Eddy's place on the 'Summer Electric Hour,'" Bob smiled at us. "You see, my wife—that's Jean McFarland who used to work for the agency handling the show—has described you to me so well that I recognized you and I just wanted to say 'Hi,'" he finished.

Deciding this young man was not to get away so quickly, we immediately started tossing a barrage of questions at him—but suddenly found

Adding to its already exciting list of "whodunits," ABC now brings you the adventures of two more of mystery fiction's most famous characters... Philo Vance and Sam Spade!

The "Philo Vance" series, based on the detective stories of the famed author, S. S. Van Dine, gives you Jackson Beck, prominent radio actor and newsreel commentator, in the title role. Guaranteed to keep listeners on the edge of their radio receivers, scripts from the Van Dine works are adapted by Kenny Lyons... So stay right on KECA following that ABC thrill special, "Retribution," any Tuesday night at 9:30, and hear the new "Philo Vance" adventures.

Jackson Beck

at 8:30 on KECA) estimates that in those six years he has asked 3,813 questions... It must be that even his subconscious thoughts are on his work, for John Nelson, emcee of ABC's "Bride and Groom" show, has developed the habit of "doodling" hearts on any nearby piece of paper, while talking on the phone!... A last-minute change moved Frances Scully's "Star Gazing" show to 11:45 a.m. Monday thru Friday on KECA... and leaves that popular pair, "Ethel and Albert," at their regular time, 11:15 a.m.

... You'll Come Back to 790 ...

What do you do on Tuesday nights at 8? There's a good hour of varied listening on KECA at that time... Of course, it's only one of MANY such hours, but we'd like to call your attention to it particularly. Starting at 8, there's the quarter-hour with those whimsical storekeepers, Lum and Abner, who, by the way, are having their problems as hotel proprietors just now. You'll find an unusually hilarious sequence when Abner, in his role as town marshal, accuses Lum of being involved with a gang of jewel thieves... Then at 8:15 p.m., the tenor tones of Kenny Baker entertain you with ballads, old and new. Baker, it is rumored about Hollywood, will be heard on ABC's "Glamour Manor" five days a week, come fall... And completing the hour is that thrill-chiller, "Dark Venture," at 8:30. Adroitly handled plots with a psychological approach in the solution of the mysteries, "Dark Venture" rates high on the list of successful "whodunits."

... You'll Come Back to 790 ...

MUSIC STUFF: Paul Whiteman, ABC's Director of Music, goes to Toronto to conduct a special concert in that Canadian city on July 31st... Gene Norman (emcee of the Sunday night "Serenade" on KECA, at 9:30) presents a special program for the men at Birmingham Hospital on the 27th, on which Stan Kenton and his band will entertain... Dr. Serge Koussevitzky conducts the second program in the Bach-Mozart series on Saturday, August 3, over KECA-ABC from 5:30 until 6:30 p.m.

... You'll Come Back to 790 ...

"The Adventures of Sam Spade," Dashiell Hammett's own favorite character, slipped in on ABC-KECA as summer replacement for "The Woody Herman Show," on Friday nights at 8 o'clock. Howard Duff is cast in the role of Sam Spade, hard boiled "Private Eye," and Lurene Tuttle plays his secretary, Effie, who is equally well known to readers of Hammett stories. William Spier produces. Of him the author says, "Between us, Spier and I have probably killed as many people and solved as many mysteries as any two men in our fields."

out that he's indeed a shy guy and doesn't like to talk about himself.

We did find out, however, that Bob Shanley is a native of Cromwell, Connecticut—born on July 21, 1916. He is the youngest of a family of nine, is the only singer in the bunch—and is the only red-head.

The young baritone is a veteran of World War II, having been in the army nearly four years. He was called for service in Irving Berlin's "This Is the Army," almost immediately after his induction in 1942. He remained in the cast for the duration of that show, appearing in every section of the country as well as touring Scotland, Ireland, England, Africa, Italy, Egypt, Persia, India and throughout the entire South Pacific.

Discharged from the army late in 1945, he came to Hollywood early this year. Soon after his arrival he got his big "break" when he was called to substitute for Nelson Eddy when the latter suddenly became ill. Shanley made such a good impression he was immediately signed for the summer series.

We also found out that he's never taken a professional singing lesson in his life! An amazing fact, since he's now substituting for one of the world's most famous singing stars. Bob secures recordings of the top vocalists, studies their technique and delivery closely, and teaches himself. He practices five or six hours daily.

that went like this: "Besides being lovely to look at and listen to, Alice Frost ('Pam' of the Norths,' NBC, 8:00 p.m., Wednesdays) is a versatile inventor. The blonde star has perfected an improved shoe-rack and combination shoulder-pad under blouse." We can't get it off our mind—gentlemen, what is a combination shoulder-pad and shoe-rack?

NBC Feud?

Music note of the week: The juke box in the drug store across the street from the National Broadcasting Company studios lists as number twenty-three Tommy Dorsey's "I Don't Know Why." Number twenty-four is Kay Kyser's "I Know!"

Party For Mutt

We know a dog who had a birthday party. There weren't any other dogs among the guests, only people like us. We had a wonderful evening chewing the fat (with the blessings of Mutt) and chatting with our friends.

Mutt, who was christened "Mutt-gomery something or other" thirteen years ago by his mistress, Jo Gilbert, celebrated what is the equivalent of our ninety-first year (we should live so long). He's frisky as the often-referred-to pup.

Pretty blonde Barbara Fuller was there with her cute mom, Georgia, who is visiting from Noo Yawk. Our own scribe, Joan Hammer, was a hit in the pretty blue dress she had whipped up. And hostess Jozie still holds our title of the wittiest woman in radio.

But the real star of the evening was little black Mutt. He's crazy about parties, and especially his own. And this one was a real bow-wow. Gifts came in all sizes, shapes and flavors. This you may find hard to believe, but Mutt has mastered opening his own presents. Being the little gentleman that he is, he properly woofs his thanks over each one.

Looking at our calendar this morning we find that only 357 more days separate us from celebrating Mutt's fourteenth birthday. If every party were such fun, we think society should go to the dogs.

Another Doggie Story

Josephi, clever millinery artist, almost swooned when he guested on a recent MBS "Lady Be Beautiful" show. The cause of his alarm wasn't a hat—but a dog.

Accompanied by one of his prized dachshunds, Josephi tied him to a piano bench until he finished the show. June "The Girl Friend" Foray happened to be rehearsing in the next studio and saw a chance to joke with her famous dog-barking technique. Slipping up in back of Hollywood's greatest millinery artist, she emitted two gruffs to end all gruffuffs.

Wheeling to see what had happened to his prize pet's vocal chords, Josephi did a double-take, then gasped in nervous relief. "Thought he had a sore throat," he explained weakly.

Back to School

Last Monday afternoon we dropped in on a Radio Institute lecture conducted by our old friend, Les Radditz of NBC. We wanted to learn all about the Institute and Les complied with our request by putting us to work as helpers. "Best way to learn," he assured us, "gets you in the proper mood." We still think he gave us the greater portion of folders to lug to the first floor.

Struggling into a vacant seat, we quizzed a student next to us about the Institute. It seemed that this was the fourth week of a six-week summer course which is yearly conducted at NBC in cooperation with UCLA under the guidance of Jennings Pierce of NBC. Eight different courses are offered and a maximum of four is required. Such subjects as broadcasting, sales promotion, publicity, announcing, radio writing, news and special events and a history of broadcasting are offered for discussion by experienced men in those fields. Between 100 and 120 students are registered in the five-day-a-week courses.

The subject under consideration on Monday was publicity, and who, we wondered, was better qualified to conduct the class than Les, young head of the NBC Press Department. In reciprocation for making us work so hard, we had intended heckling Mr. R., but, alas, we became so interested in his explanation of "what is publicity" that we forgot. In fact, we had to admit (begrudgingly, of course) that Les' speech was not only instructive but highly enjoyable.

Trouper Re-debuts

One of Radio Life's favorite performers, Andy Mansfield, came back to the air the other day (KWKW, 1:35 p.m.) after too long an absence (almost eighteen months) but he didn't have time to get nervous about facing dat ole debbil mike again.

Seems a brush fire burned out the telephone lines between KWKW's studio and transmitter and Andy had to hurry over San Gabriel way to "the middle of a wheat field" to do his first program from KWKW's transmitter.

It's Good News

We swoon for Cavallero! The news that Carmen's headed for the coast and should be here around the middle of August was greeted in Radio Life with an audible sigh. He'll take a two-week vacation, discuss a new picture with the biggies at Warners and, we hope, settle down long enough for an interview.

Quick Tour

Sigmund Romberg wasn't kidding when he told us he loved conducting for live audiences. Last week he flew to Philadelphia to conduct the Robin Hood Dell orchestra on Thursday. Friday he flew to New York to conduct the Saturday concert of the New York Philharmonic, and by Tuesday he was back in Hollywood for his radio broadcast.

Also on the Romberg schedule is an appearance at the opening of his "New Moon" at the Greek Theater on August fifth.

Tennis Star

In case you're wondering how Tommy Cook, young tennis-playing radio actor who portrays "Alexander" on the "Blondie" series and "Randolph" on "Date With Judy," is making out with his favorite sport, here's the latest. Last week Tommy reached the finals in the thirty-first annual tennis tournament at the Coronado Hotel in San Diego, Calif. He defeated the ranking junior class entrant but—lost in the finals to tennis champ Wells Peck. Aw-w-w!

On the Nose

Johnny Murray, who "Talks It Over" on his daily KNX ailer, had this advice to offer. If you are rushing to catch the 8:15 train and you pass a clock in the jeweler's store reading 8:18, don't stop. It probably isn't running.

Murray went on to explain that most dummy clocks and watches used by jewelers for advertising purposes almost always point to 8:18. This setting is used because it is most pleasing to the eyes, allowing for the most symmetrical arrangement of the hands.

Now that the studio's done, we have to revamp the yard and repair all the damage done to it.

$10,000 Hobby

"I spent practically every minute of my time working on the thing," Les recalled. "Even gave up some of my radio work! But the results have been satisfying. I've developed a number of improvements that make for better waxing jobs. We have an advantage over the professional recording companies in that we're not held back by any red-tape. We're on our own, and this is just a hobby with us.

"My main purpose in building it," he continued, "is to criticize my own work. Others are using it for the same reason. We made it to strive for perfection."

A number of Paul's acquaintances have been making use of the backyard studio, including some top-name performers such as Pat O'Brien, Curt Massey, Meredith Willson, Pee-Wee Hunt, the King's Men, and of course, our enthusiastic friend, Mr. Smith.

"Bing was out looking it over the other day," Les added. "We're hoping he'll cut some sides here sometime." Crosby and the Paul ensemble have recently waxed a disc for Decca.

"One thing that is a surprise to some is the size of my studio," Paul went on to relate. "It probably measures about 16x25 or 30, with a 10-foot ceiling. That's small, but we've had as many as fifteen people in here recording at one time. It's pretty much the opinion that a large studio is necessary for good recordings. I disagree. I think that the outdoors is best of all, and next to that, a small room to keep the music in close."

Now that the studio is in operation, Paul and his trio (Cal Gooden, rhythm guitar; Bobby Myer, bass; Hal Deam, piano) rehearse and record there almost constantly—"far into the night," smiled Les. "It's soundproof, so the neighbors can't kick."

The trio leaves its "miniature NBC" only long enough for Decca discing assignments and frequent radio stints (The three were featured weekly on NBC's "Burns and Allen" show this past season, guested several times on CBS' Jack Smith show during its West coast stay, and also had their own program on NBC).

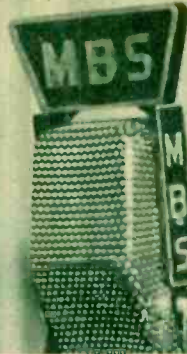

With Waring

Les Paul (real name, Polfuss) is fair-haired, blue-eyed, light-complexioned. He was born in Waukesha, Wisconsin, and started playing the guitar at the age of fourteen, when he also made his first radio appearance on station WRJN, Racine. Success on Wisconsin stations eventually took him to Chicago, and further fame.

The Les Paul Trio (with Les on the electric guitar) was brought into prominence when he signed with

Two Scripters, 400 Miles Apart, Blend Talents to Write "Sherlock Holmes" Summer Replacement Series

Monday, 8:30 p.m.
MBS-KHJ-KGB-KFXM-KVOE

WHEN Anthony Boucher and Denis Green sit down to write another "Case Book of Gregory Hood" script, they use exactly the same technique that made their "Sherlock Holmes" broadcasts so successful—except that Gregory Hood is entirely a product of their own imaginations; for Sherlock Holmes, Conan Doyle gets the credit.

Their partnership is one of the few in radio where half of the team lives in one city and the other half 400-odd miles away. Denis is a Brentwood resident; Boucher works in San Francisco, coming to Hollywood only for an occasional peep at one of the broadcasts. He does all the plotting for the scripts after Green and Ned Tollinger, producer of the program, have discussed story ideas with him. Then he turns the three-to-four-page synopsis over to Denis, who dialogues it into a half hour show.

This system, which they perfected with Sherlock Holmes and continue with "Gregory Hood," they find works out ideally. Another thing they believe makes for better scripts is the fact that each contributes a different type of writing technique.

A Holmes Fanatic

Boucher is definitely what the trade calls a mystery man. He writes detective stories under various pseudonyms, including A. P. White and

H. H. Holmes. He has created at least two famous detective characters of his own, Sister Ursula and Nick Noble. He has edited an anthology, "Great American Detective Stories." He's a dyed-in-the-wool Conan Doyle fan—a member of the pious "Baker Street Irregulars," famed Holmes fanatics, he also wrote the recently published book of the same title. He can quote Doyle chapter and verse and frequently does.

Green, on the other hand, is a "non-mystery man." His previous radio programs, including the Reader's Digest program, the Parker Family, "Famous Jury Trials," and "Manhattan at Midnight," had nothing mysterious about them. Green has also read all the Conan Doyle stories, but he hasn't lost any sleep over them. He is definitely not a Holmes addict; he can take him or leave him alone. As a child he met Conan Doyle, who was a friend of his father's. For that same experi-

(Please Turn to Page 35)

ONE-HALF THE show's writing team is Anthony Boucher, author of many detective stories and great Conan Doyle fan. Boucher lives in San Francisco, locale for the series, knows it like a book.

DENIS GREEN is co-scripter of the "Gregory Hood" programs. His extensive writing experience in radio includes "Reader's Digest", "Parker Family", and "Famous Jury Trials". Green lives in Brentwood.

◀ BARON OF THE BARRYMORES, the lion-like Lionel is not partial to interviewers. But Radio Life's readers have been asking for another story on "the grand old man". And so . . .

We Beard Lionel In His Den

▶ "THE MAYOR" COMES to life in your living room when Barrymore takes to the microphone in CBS' Studio C, with a full thermos of coffee within his reach.

Saturday, 7:30 p.m.
CBS-KNX

THE LAST time Radio Life undertook bringing you a story about Lionel Barrymore, we were warned away from talking to "the grand old man" personally, with dire admonitions of the veteran actor's penchant for profanity, an acknowledged trait of the theater's "royal family." "He is liable to say anything!" we were dissuaded. "He would embarrass you."

So, treasuring our youthful, womanly innocence as our dearest possession, we accepted the safe suggestion that we talk, instead, with some of Barrymore's intimates. The rumored causticity of Lionel's tongue they smilingly confirmed, "but," they added with worshipful sincerity, "it is his sweetness that will get you."

Therefore, when we recently found ourselves with a new assignment to interview the fabulous Mr. B., we tucked our notebook resolutely under our arm and headed directly for CBS' "Mayor of the Town" rehearsal to beard the caustic Lionel in his den—come what may.

Arriving early, we found "the Mayor" had not yet put in his appearance so (with a sigh of relief over our temporary reprieve), we collapsed meekly in an inconspicuous corner to await his entrance. Conrad Binyon, "Butch" of the show, came in and surprised us by sitting down at the piano and delivering an ear-pleasing rendition of "Clair de Lune." Agnes ("Marilyn") Moorehead entertainingly related tales about her new film assignment in Metro's musical version of O'Neill's "Ah, Wilderness."

Barrymore Enters

Time was passing pleasantly when Mr. Barrymore came on-stage, installed himself in his chair at the microphone and, beneath furrowed brow, spouted a series of profane utterances.

This over, the great actor took script in hand, smiled benignly at all assembled and the rehearsal began. For the next hour, we watched with unwavering fascination while Barrymore and company performed, once through the script for "practice," and then immediately again for the preview audience. It was a tremendous treat. The most skilled of ad-lib actors, Barrymore and Moorehead vied for laughs—he with his "Mayor's" grumble and she with "Marilly's" whine. Obviously, both of these experienced performers thoroughly enjoy their weekly ether antics.

The performance at an end, we prepared for our own personal encounter with the baron of the Barrymores. He was still seated on-stage as we were ushered into his presence and deposited in a chair at the table beside him.

Barrymore grunted, scowled and squirmed uncomfortably in his chair. His manner indicated his disdain of publicity. We had already been primed not to introduce the subject of the actor's home life into the conversation nor to question him much concerning his extra-professional interest in music and art—all of which he regards (quite rightfully) as his own blankety-blank business.

Underway

Forewarnings notwithstanding, we were encouraged when Lionel eventually settled a somewhat kindly and reasonably interested gaze in our direction, extended a friendly freckled hand and asked with a slightly subdued "Dr. Gillespie" grunt, "Uuuuh-hhh-rrr-hhmmm... well-lill-LLLL now... what is it that you want?"

We explained—attempting to make it sound not too distasteful a task for the acid-tongued thesplan.

"Uuuuh-hhh-rrr-hhmmm," considered Mr. Barrymore, grunting and scowling again, and rubbing his hand across his chin the way he does in movies. "Well-lill-LLLL now, I wish I could help you. But I don't know what there is to say."

Gulping noisily, we plunged determinedly into prospective subject matter, gaining courage in the certainty that, of all people, a Barrymore must have something to say. One by one, we introduced what seemed to us likely topics for fluent conversation, as Barrymore surveyed us under gesticulating eyebrows and made replies graciously though not generously wordy nor ever without his "Gillespie grunt."

"Your airshow... Radio..." we suggested.

"Well-LLLL," he mused, uuuuh-hhh-rrr-hhmmm-ing again. "I don't know what there is to say about that. I wish I could think of something to tell you. You see, to me it's just coming to the studio, doing it, going home, and then coming back and doing it again. That's nothing to talk about."

"Working with Moorehead..."

"Yeah-hhhh," Barrymore nodded his head agreeably. "I enjoy working with her very much, very much indeed... She's fine, very fine..."

"Conrad Binyon's become quite musical..."

"Yeah-hhh," Barrymore, nodded in agreement again. "He's quite a boy, quite a boy."

"New radio talent..."

"No-oo-oo," this time Mr. Barrymore shook his head negatively, "haven't noticed any. But they keep coming along. Joe here," the actor indicated engineer Joe Cohen, "he'd know about that better'n me. How about it, Joe?"

"Your current movies..."

"Yeah-hhh," Barrymore rubbed his forehead, emitted another uuuuh-hhh-rrr-hhmmm. "Yeah-hh, I've been doing a lot of 'em. Let's see... there's... uh... one with Joe Cotten... what's that... Yeahhh, that's it. 'Duel in the Sun'... and there's... oh, can't think of the names... Yeah... another 'Dr. Kildare'... Yeah-hhh... there's a lot of 'em. But there's nothing to tell about my pictures. I wish I could think of something to say. I wish I could help you."

Trying to Help

Eyeing the late hour indicated by the clock, we expressed our understanding that the many fascinating tales of the Barrymore career could not easily be recalled and recounted in the allotted time of a brief interview.

"Naw-www-www," insisted Barrymore, "it isn't that! I just don't have anything to tell for this. There isn't anything. I wish there was..."

"What about silent pictures..." was our next attempt.

"Yeah-hhh," Barrymore grunted thoughtfully. "Yeah, I was in 'em. That's all, though. There's nothing to tell. I'm sorry. I wish I could think of something..."

We asked if he had heard the rumor that "The Royal Family" (the play based on the life of the Barrymores) was going to be set to music for a new Broadway production.

"No-oo-ooo, really? I don't see why!" exclaimed Barrymore. "How could music fit into that? I don't understand. There are so many good things they could do with music."

"How about 'Ah, Wilderness' set to music?" we asked.

"Uuuuh-hhh-rrr-hhmmm!" grunted Barrymore. "I don't understand that, either."

"Your music..." we ventured, seizing the opportunity to insert the verboten subject.

Barrymore acknowledged the pleasure and satisfaction he has received from hearing his compositions on the air. "But there's nothing to tell about that," he protested. "Yes... I've studied the oboe... and the various other instruments... and instrumentation... and all that... You have to, you know... But there's nothing to talk about..."

"Your art..."

"Oo-oh, I used to do a little, but I don't any more. I've done a little etching and things like that. I studied for four years in Paris, you know... But I don't do much with it any more. There's nothing to talk about there..."

"New York... The theater..." we persisted.

Hates New York

"Don't miss it in the least!" Barrymore grunted emphatically. "Don't have any desire whatsoever to go to New York again... Horrible town! Don't know why anyone wants to go there..."

"Your cat..." we inserted this new subject swiftly, hoping to strike a happier chord.

"Yeah-hhh," the actor affirmed. "Yeah, I still have my cat... I like cats... and dogs..."

Barrymore mused fondly on his favorite animal life for a moment, then said again kindly, "Well-lill, I wish I could think of something to tell you. I wish I could be of some help..."

THE ACTOR IS JOINED BY HIS PROGRAM CO-WORKERS, Conrad "Butch" Binyon and Agnes "Marilly" Moorehead. During our chat, Barrymore showed interest in Conrad's piano-playing, displayed bewilderment about Miss Moorehead's current motion picture, a musical version of O'Neill's "Ah, Wilderness".

◀ A MOST PHOTOGENIC MISS, Virginia should be a natural for either movies or the stage. Believe it or not, the lady prefers radio.

RADIO'S

Triple Threat
GIRL

By Peggy Carter

*Besides Looking Like an Angel,
Lovely Virginia Keith Can Sing,
Act and Is a Capable Announcer*

AS LOVELY and as modest a miss as we've ever encountered was actress Virginia Keith, who dropped by Radio Life's office last week.

In answer to our queries of her busy air life, Virginia assured us that there wasn't much excitement about which to write. "Not much excitement" included a past (Virginia is in her very early twenties) during which she's had the distinction of being one of radio's few women announcers, having acted upon every big-time show on the air and having enjoyed such a variety of experiences in her young life that it left us speechless.

Radio, her favorite medium of entertainment, is something for which she has worked a life-time. "I've always been fascinated by it," she explained, "but a few years ago, I could get nowhere with it. B. A., that is." (Before announcing).

To New Mexico

It seems that announcing turned the trick. Virginia had studied at the American Academy in New York following her winning first prize at an Iowa State Contest for dramatics. She felt happy, competent and sure that radio was the medium in which she worked best. But radio didn't reciprocate.

A friend told her about an opening on the announcing staff of KOB in Albuquerque, N. M. Virginia chanced it, auditioned, got the job and joined the station.

"It was grand training," she said, "because I worked right on the board. You learn radio that way."

When she came back to Hollywood several years later, the reception was warm. She has worked nearly every show emanating from the Coast and has even had a chance to sing on some. She'd like to combine the two.

"I love to sing and I love to act. And people always seem so amazed that I can do both."

Her greatest ether thrill was playing with Nelson Eddy on a "Lux Radio Theatre" airing. He has been her idol for years and her complete scrapbook would amaze even Mr. Eddy.

Virginia and her mother share a large house on Hollywood Boulevard. It was quite by accident that we learned Virginia had done the interior decorating. "I did it for fun, so I guess you'd call it a hobby."

She loves to dance, collect records, cook; she doesn't smoke, drink or like to keep house and (this is for the boys) she enjoys going out.

Looks Angelic

She claims she isn't even tempered, but looks to us as if she'd have the disposition of an angel. If looks are any criterion, she should be an angel. She is a golden blonde with light blue eyes and a creamy skin.

She told us about the time in Macon, Georgia when she felt like everything but a heavenly being. "I felt stupid," she laughed. "I had gone to visit my mother and stepfather, who were suddenly called out of town. As a joke, my picture was published in the paper with a caption reading, 'lonely actress has nobody to meet her.' When I stepped off of the train, hundreds of people were lined up and, of course, I had no idea they were waiting for me. What a surprise!"

When asked if she were looking forward to a summer vacation, she looked mildly surprised and asked us, "Why should I want to leave? I have nothing to run away from and besides, I love it here."

Thirty-Six Hours a Day

That's What Wally Maher Needs To Fill His Overcrowded Radio Schedule and Enjoy Life, Too

WANT to see how the radio industry in Hollywood operates?

If you do, just follow Wally Maher around for a week, and you'll visit nearly every major radio program originating in the entertainment capital.

Winner of Radio Life's honorable mention award for the outstanding supporting player of 1946, Wally is proving he really deserves the honor. Here's a sample of his weekly schedule:

Sunday: Rehearsals and two broadcasts of "Parkyakarkus."

Monday: Rehearsal for "This Is My Best."

Tuesday: Broadcast of "This Is My Best."

Wednesday: Rehearsals and preview of the Borden Show, starring Tommy Riggs and Betty Lou.

Thursday: Rehearsals for both the Borden Show and for Ann Sothern's "Maisie," and rehearsals and broadcast of the CBS mystery series, "Suspense."

Friday: Broadcasts of both the Borden Show and "Maisie."

Saturday: Rehearsals for "Parkyakarkus."

Of course, this schedule is merely Wally's regular itinerary. He's frequently called upon to play comedy roles on the Jack Benny show, with

Burns and Allen or with Rudy Vallee, and just as frequently he turns dramatic for parts on "Lux Radio Theatre," "One Man's Family" or "I Love a Mystery."

On top of his overcrowded schedule, Wally finds time to indulge in his favorite sports—boating, boxing and baseball.

Only One Ambition

Wally, a native of Cincinnati, Ohio, has been associated with acting in one way or another during almost all of his thirty-five years. His father was in vaudeville, and Wally's first and only ambition was to be an actor.

He is not likely to claim that his constant success as a radio actor is due to the terrific auditions he's had. In fact, he would probably tell you that he's succeeded despite those bad moments.

In 1929 Wally was playing a theatre in his home town, Cincinnati, when Edward Byron, veteran radio producer, spotted him. Searching for an actor to do a radio serial version of "All Quiet on the Western Front," for radio station WLW, Byron asked Maher to try out for the part of Paul Baumer.

Considering his many stage appearances, Maher decided the try-out would be duck soup. He sat down before the mike, picked up the script and watched for Byron's signal from the control booth. The signal came but the Maher voice didn't. There were a few incoherent gulps, but nothing else. The signals flashed imperatively and Wally tried hard to form the opening words. Again nothing happened until he managed to croak: "Will you turn this darn thing off!" That was the sum total of his audition.

But despite the bad start, he got the job.

Thus began a long association with WLW, with Maher acting, directing and producing dramatic shows and the popular "Crosley Follies." Several years later, terminating his contract with Crosley, Maher went to New York to fill several radio commitments on the "Camel Caravan," "Mr. District Attorney," "Gangbusters" and other network shows. However, Cincinnati's favorite Irishman found that he'd arrived too soon. It was still summer and his radio shows weren't scheduled until fall. He'd just acquired a bride, Carmillo (Molly), and, much to his chagrin, a depleted bank account.

Unusual Audition

After unsuccessfully making the rounds to find a job to tide him over, Maher wound up at St. Patrick's Cathedral for a brief impassioned plea and then walked uptown to NBC, where he was shortly enjoying the second outstanding audition of his life. According to Maher, he was asked to make like a baby ape and he did.

"I had no idea how a baby ape should sound," Wally recalls. "I guess the crazy noises I made were okay, because I got the job—and money to keep Molly and me until fall came around!"

Since that time, radio has had no dull moments where Maher is concerned. He's played young men, old men, juveniles, comedians, straight men, tough guys, dopes, swindlers and even kids—his "Wilbur" characterization on the Tommy Riggs and Betty Lou show proving his versatility in adolescent parts.

Wally's association with Tommy Riggs began ten years ago while both were appearing on WLW programs. Tommy's act as Tommy and Betty Lou was a favorite with Cincinnati audiences. Searching for ways to enlarge and improve his radio stint, Tommy decided to add a character to his program. He heard Wally talking like a mean little kid one day and immediately persuaded him to become Betty Lou's "boy friend." The first program proved the wisdom of Tommy's reasoning.

When Wally came to Hollywood from New York, the first person he met at the Hollywood CBS studios was Tommy Riggs, who had come to the West Coast for a series for Swan soap. Tommy persuaded Wally to join him, and the pair was reunited for Tommy's very successful radio engagement.

The show ended a couple of years ago when Tommy gave up his ether work to enter the Navy. Upon his discharge early this year, Tommy returned to Hollywood and immediately started building his radio show. The first person he asked to join him was Wally Maher.

"Case Book of Gregory Hood" ence, which means little to Denis, Boucher might conceivably have sacrificed an arm.

Denis likes this combination of mystery man and non-mystery man. "You get a perspective you wouldn't get otherwise," he says. "It takes a detective story author to think detective plots, but on the other hand, mystery writers sometimes get so involved in complications that the story's over the head of the layman. This way, I rely on Boucher to give each script the works in suspense, and on myself to decide whether the solution's understandable."

Partnership New

Green and Boucher have been working together since a year ago this spring. They met in San Francisco, locale of the "Gregory Hood" series, when the "Sherlock Holmes" radio entourage was there on a bond show. Petri Wines, sponsors of the show, gave a party for the cast, and at the party the pair was introduced. The fact that Denis' wife, Mary, was at college with Boucher served as a springboard for a conversation that ended up in a radio writing partnership.

That attendance of Mary Green at the University of California at Berkeley is now paying off on the "Gregory Hood" program. The locale is San Francisco; the lead an importer turned amateur detective. Boucher, of course, knows San Francisco like a book, but Denis, who has never lived there although he has played San Francisco theaters as an actor, needs an occasional brushing up on local color. He finds his wife invaluable in jogging his memory.

When the "Gregory Hood" show was first conceived, Boucher and Green kicked the two principal characters, Hood and his friend Sandy Taylor, around mentally for several days, finally came up with a ten-page characterization of the two principals as they now stand. Next step was plotting the first two scripts, together with trips to San Francisco to refresh Denis on local color.

Get Local Color

Green and Boucher really did the rounds of the Bay City on these trips. They talked to old-time residents; to head-waiters in cafes; to Dr. Chung, "Mom" to the Flying Tigers; to everyone they could think of. Finally they went around to see Richard Gump, noted San Francisco importer, to get the inside story on the importing business for their hero. Imagine their surprise when they discovered that Gump, quite by accident, was practically a prototype of "Gregory Hood"—even to the point of being an amateur composer. Gump helps out whenever the pair gets stuck for a bit of importing "business" necessary to authenticate a script, and takes quite a personal interest in what amounts to his alter-ego.

While in San Francisco, they even had sound records made of the California street cable cars, which records are used on the program.

Listeners to both "Sherlock Holmes" and "Gregory Hood" often write in to inquire if the strange languages heard on the shows are authentic. The answer is definitely "yes." Green was a tea planter in India for five years and has lived in many other parts of the world. He also flew for the RAF for five years. He knows Hindustani, and the Hindustani in his scripts is the real thing.

Although "Gregory Hood," like "Sherlock Holmes," is an adventure-detective type of story, parallel between the two shows cannot be drawn too closely. For one thing, all Sherlock Holmes' scripts are based on an incident from Conan Doyle. They are definitely flavored with the times. In dialoguing, Green sticks fairly close to Doyle, except to cut down the length of the speeches.

Like most writers of his time, Doyle's dialogue was inordinately long, and radio requires exceptional brevity.

"Gregory Hood," being a creation of their own, allows more latitude. The stories are placed in current times; since Greg is their own man, there's no howling pack of Hood enthusiasts at their heels to run them off radio on a rail should they misinterpret The Master. Also, because of that "modern times" element, there's no need to worry lest radar, dial telephones, or automatic refrigeration creep in where it doesn't belong, and furthermore, "Gregory Hood" has a sense of humor.

Yet, even though Green and Boucher may find it a little less of a strain to write "Hood" than they did "Holmes," they're a shade glad it's only a summer replacement, and that they'll be back again with their old friend in the fall.

For even Green will admit that there's something about The Master that you can't resist.

He shook our hand warmly, and we expressed our gratitude for his graciousness ("Bearding the lion, indeed!" we thought to ourselves).

"Well-ll-lll," remarked Barrymore, rubbing his chin and looking quite wistful. "It's nice to be young. How I'd like to have your youth."

("The caustic Lionel, indeed!" We swallowed the lump in our throat.)

"Well-lll, I wish I could have helped you," Mr. Barrymore said again, with the "sweetness" his friends had told us was there. "I tell you!" he exclaimed eagerly, as we reluctantly brought the "interview" to a close. "I'll try to think of something. I will! I'll go home and try to think of something to tell you..."

Men of Music: Les Paul

Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians, with whom he was associated for three years until ill health forced him into temporary retirement.

Later, Les became musical director of Station WJJD, Chicago, later joined Ben Bernie, and then came to Hollywood. On December 21, 1942, he went into the Army, serving in the AFPS Division for almost two years.

The guitarist is married and has two husky little boys, four-year-old Les, Jr. (nicknamed "Rusty") and one-year-old Gene Paul.

Since building his home studio, Les related, he has received some flattering offers to go into the recording business professionally. "But," he smiled broadly, "I think I'll stick to my music."
