The Ear Inspires the Pen

Olivia Sheets, 8929 West 24th, Los Angeles 34, Calif.

Sirs: I'm just itching to answer Mrs. Walter Blaine's (of Windsor, Canada) letter in May 2 issue. . . . About people who line up for radio shows . . . can't tell me that producers or emcees put the same people on all the time. Sure I line up, mostly in the "no ticket" line, like so many others do. That doesn't make me, or any other person, a professional contestant. I'm sure if Mrs. Blaine went for tickets around eight in the "morn," she could get some. Radio personnel are most accommodating and courteous, at least to people who respect their feelings too. Nice there's something we agree on. I too find Radio Life an excellent little magazine.

Mrs. Jerry McCall, 811 West Olympic Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: I read this department first just to see "audience reaction." Am I burned up at Mrs. Walter Blaine of Canada who ended her letter with "Or are they (people who attend broadcasts) just slumming?" . . . We've stood hours in the no-ticket line only to have the door closed with sometimes only a few people ahead of us . . . other times hundreds did not get in. But I don't think it's because of other people, I think it's because we didn't get in the "no ticket" line soon enough.

Brent Story, 2715 Woodhaven Drive, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: I'd like to call your attention to a swell show on KIEV every Sunday at 6:00 p.m. It's a disc-jockey show starring two talented teenagers, Wally George and Jimmy Ogg. They bubble with enthusiasm and all my family tunes in each week. I believe they are both sixteen years old. This excellent show brings the sparkle of youth to radio dialers. Besides providing an excellent program of music and fun, Wally and Jim interview guest stars such as Bob Crosby and Danny Thomas. I really enjoy this refreshing show and so I thought I'd pass the word along to you. Please print a picture of the boys, as I am anxious to see what they look like.

J.E. Bassett, 6519 Rugby Avenue, Huntington Park, Calif.

Sirs: Won't you please put "Pepper Young's Family" into your magazine one of these times? You had "Ma Perkins" a short time ago, and I was so glad to see who they were.

The story's on our "Spotlight on Series" list, though a few other requests are in advance of it.

Marjorie Gillies, 3650 Revere Avenue, Los Angeles 26, Calif.

Sirs: To me, the mark of a good show is its consistent quality of good entertainment. Some we listen to faithfully (or because they get to be a habit) always hoping. Sometimes they ring the bell, and again our ears are outraged by dull thuds.

Some truly cohesive shows of the past year have been: Bing's "Flop Parade" with Dinah Shore; Henry Morgan's "Scientific Brothers" with Arnold Stang; and more recently "Studio One" with "A Farewell to Arms" starring Madeleine Carroll and Fletcher Markle, a truly beautiful presentation.

To get to my never-fail kids (they never disappoint me), the Bergen, McCarthy, Snerd group and Ozzie and Harriet — did you hear the coconut caper? It couldn't have been funnier. Manufactured situation-types (as Abe Burrows would say) are as limp as Dali's watches. Real-life happenings in comedy or drama make the newest, freshest scripts on radio today. For more performances that jell, I patiently wait. I can hear some poor harried writers groan, of course, "Why doesn't she try writing a few?"

Mrs. Annabel Clay, 834 Isthmus Court, Mission Beach, Calif.

Sirs: I should like to repeat what you have heard many times. Radio Life is great. It is a wonderful radio magazine and I wouldn't be without it. In fact, I refer to it as my "happy reading habit." I not only read it through, I use it every day and it is so easy to use. What I want, I find with little effort.

Every once in awhile I hear the name of Mark Finley. I believe he is connected with Mutual in some capacity. Perhaps I should know more, but I don't, so I'm asking. I used to know a Mark Finley when he was a high-school student and I'm just curious. Could you please tell me where he went to school?

Mark Finley is Public Relations Director for the Mutual Broadcasting System. He graduated from Phoenix, Arizona, high school in 1926, and later attended the University of Arizona. Mark has two brothers, detective Samuel La-Rue Finley and dentist Dr. Herbert Finley, so perhaps those added facts will help you place him.

June Y. Lee, 1401 North Seward Avenue, Hollywood, Calif.

Sirs: Quite a number of people have been wondering about the "Sly Guy," actually Ray Wencil, who was on the Al Pearce show. We've been hoping to hear from him on a program of his own. I think someone's passing up a good comedian.

We've met a blind alley on Hay Wencil. How about our readers? Can they, perhaps, advise Miss Lee of Mr. Wencil's whereabouts?

Bert Pearl, emcee of "The Happy Gang" (KHJ), Toronto, Canada.

Sirs: It has been amazing the number of our fans down your way who have sent us a copy of the very nice item on our "Happy Gang" which was contained in "Your Cue" column, April 4 issue. We were certainly mighty happy to get your swell article, as I can tell you we were awaiting with fear and trepidation, believe me, the opinion of the critics below the border. While the mail response from our American friends has been most encouraging, we were naturally just a little anxious to know how we would rate with the critics. But, thanks to you, now we can breathe again. Speaking for the rest of the Gang as well as for myself, many thanks indeed for your very kind mention of our show, and we just hope we will continue to rate such favorable write-ups.

Eric Lumer, c/o BM/FRVY, London, W.C.1.

Sirs: I am a young, intelligent, but rather lonely Englishman. I am unmarried. Life in London today is bleak and dismal. Would any of your readers, I wonder, care to cheer up a lonely young Englishman, stricken with post-war gloom? I would like to hear from all folks in your grand country who are prepared to be a "pen friend." I should be awfully obliged if you could squeeze this little note into your columns. My uncle spent many years in your part of the world and has told me many things about its people and glorious scenery.

Mrs. Albert M. Raub, 2128 Stanbridge Avenue, Los Altos Terrace, Long Beach 4, Calif.

Sirs: Is Lou Crosby Bing's brother? No relation at all. Bing's brothers are Everett, Larry, and bandleader Bob.

About Your Letters

All letters to the Ear Inspires the Pen Department should include name and full address of the sender. Name and/or address will be withheld on writer's request. Opinions expressed in the letters printed are those of the senders and do not necessarily reflect the opinion of Radio Life.

Mrs. Jane Sutherland, 320 Park Avenue, Long Beach, Calif.

Sirs: I think your magazine has struck a new low when you print letters that try to tear down anyone's reputation and the things he or she has worked so hard to achieve.

I don't suppose Sinatra is perfect, but who is? There may be better voices but a lot of people like and enjoy his singing. Why don't you print some of the nice letters about him that you receive? Recently noticed where Frank made Who's Who, but no mention in your magazine. What about all the awards he has received for his work in connection with "tolerance," or maybe your magazine just isn't interested in fair play.

Mary Frieman, 933 West 50th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: In your issue of May 2 I read with great interest Dave Johnston's letter regarding Frank Sinatra's singing qualities (?) and the high pedestal Mrs. Briggs had put him on. I quite agree with Mr. J. He is absolutely correct and there are many others who agree . . . those in the musical circles and with true musical backgrounds. Frank Sinatra has nothing. No voice, no expression, bad phrasing, no personality and is altogether "blah." 'Tis true, everyone to his own taste . . . but please, Mrs. Briggs, do not put F.S. at the top of the list.

Mrs. Ella Morrow, 7424 La Jolla Blvd., La Jolla, Calif.

Sirs: I was gratified to see at last someone has had the courage to give his honest opinion regarding Frank Sinatra's voice. I agree with him 100 per cent. Frankie just hasn't got a voice and, may I add, neither have a great many more of today's top-salaried singers. The men moan and the women shout. It is too pathetic to think of all the fine voices begging for a place in radio and then have to listen instead to these so-called singers.

Miss Flora A. Griswold, 1000½ West 23rd Street, Los Angeles 7, Calif.

Sirs: I was overjoyed to read Dave Johnston's letter in Radio Life (May 2) because when I read Mrs. Briggs's rhapsody on Frank Sinatra my reaction was the same as his. I wanted to say something then, but decided not to for fear maybe I was at fault in not appreciating him.

When you think of the wonderful talent available and then consider some of the awful caterwauling one often hears on radio you just wonder and wonder why.

Mrs. A. H. Perkins, Jr., 840 West Huntington Drive, Arcadia, Calif.

Sirs: Could eulogize long and loud the merits of your Radio Life, but suffice it to say I couldn't be without it and have sold many friends. It's so accurate and dependable. But how about television? Wouldn't it be wonderful if in one swell magazine such as Radio Life we could get dependable television news as well as radio? And by the day such as radio? Yours for an even bigger and brighter future in television.

Our television editor, Jane Pelgram, wonders how come you've missed her weekly column and her monthly video-FM logs? At present, television programs do not vary enough to merit the kind of listings we give radio, but we are naturally expanding in pace with the industry.

Esther Orum, 11929 Venice Boulevard, Los Angeles 34, Calif.

Sirs: Thank you for the write-up on John Nesbitt. I think the Fred Waring show should win if a poll were taken. Radio Life is and always will be a grand magazine.

"Stop the Music"

▲ BERT PARKS, EMCEE, stops the music as a listener at home attempts to identify correctly the tune being played.

Is a Signal for at-Home Listeners to Halt Everything and Concentrate on Those Songs. That Lucky Telephone Call May Be for You!

Sunday, 5:00 p.m.
ABC-KECA, KFMB

IF YOU have a telephone, like music, and harbor any interest in getting your hands on a jackpot of prizes to end all jackpots, then "Stop the Music," with its manifold chances to play a game, is your meat.

For a whole sixty minutes, each Sunday afternoon, this nationwide musical quiz goes on. Harry Salter's band, with Kay Armen and Dick Brown vocalizing, entertains with tunes old and new. First-time listeners, unaware of the game aspect of the show, may be surprised at the shout, in a familiar voice, of "Stop the music!" The voice is that of Bert Parks, able emcee who also handles a Friday night money-dealing hope chest called "Break the Bank," over the same network.

His cry of "stop the music" occurs at any time during either an orchestra selection or any of Kay's and Dick's vocals, and is the signal that an at-home's phone is going to ring. The lucky resident in Pittsburgh,

Portland or Pismo Beach (or any one of the other thousands of towns across the country) who answers this phone call is going to be asked by musical-quizzer Parks, "Do you know the name of the selection our orchestra was playing when we stopped the music?"

Should Mr. Listener know and correctly identify the tune, he is not only rewarded by a fine prize (usually a radio-phonograph, refrigerator, or gas stove), but he is also offered a swipe at the "Mystery Tune." This "Mystery Tune" is played for him by the orchestra and should he guess this one, the jackpot of trips, bonds, a car, house-trailer, a coat of paint for his home, and myriads of other equally desirable acquisitions comes his way.

Audience Joins

If the recipient of the lucky telephone call was careless enough not to have been listening to the show, or just plain couldn't guess what the interrupted song was, he still gets some pretty fair swag by way of consolation. Then the chance to guess the tune is passed to a contestant from the studio audience.

Failure to guess even the simplest of tunes can and does happen. One day Bert Parks almost fainted upon introducing himself to the man whose phone number had been blindly chosen. The phone's owner told Bert he was a member of the San Francisco Philharmonic. Then friend musician went blithely ahead and missed his guess at a tune.

The pinch-hitting studio audience member must content himself with guessing the interrupted tune and receiving the resultant prize. He doesn't get a crack at the "Mystery Tune." Should this audience member think he'd have done better staying home from the show and lurking near his phone, he's figuring against the half-dozen-odd heads that got this show up in the fairest manner possible for all concerned.

Chances of being picked from the audience, to take up where a wrong guesser (via the phone) left off, are greater than the chances of having your phone number picked out of the racks and racks of telephone directories behind the scenes at the show. So, to balance this disparity, no jackpot chance for the visitors at the show.

The phone work is kept within the confines of pure chance by having a blindfolded guest pick a telephone directory from the rack that holds every known directory issued by the telephone companies. The book is opened at random, and the still blindfolded guest puts his finger on a number and accompanying name. This happens ten or twelve times during each week's show. Listeners don't have to write in, they don't have to send ten thousand box tops, they don't have to do anything but have a listed phone and a liking for jolly, fast-paced entertainment. The element of chance can land a call any place, and the yell from Bert Parks that starts Lady Luck on her nationwide Sunday flight is "stop the music!"

▶ CAB CALLOWAY tells Bert Parks that he volunteered the services of his band as an added prize for the person identifying the "mystery tune."

◀ GORDON JENKINS (left) and Tom Adair find the sun porch a pleasant sort of office for many composing sessions. Adair songs include "In the Blue of Evening" and "There's No You." Jenkins signs to "San Fernando Valley" and Benny Goodman's theme "Goodbye." His "Manhattan Tower" will be made into a musical by the two of them this summer. (Hoff photo.)

the profession with some risks and disappointments. He was unable to sight-read when, at sixteen, he took a piano-playing job at the St. Louis Opera House. By valiant concentration, he was able to memorize every note in the complicated orchestrations and give perfect keyboard accompaniment.

"Terrible" Player

His chance two years later to join St. Louis station KMOX's orchestra demanded an audition for the musician's union, which meant reading music. "Union representative Ben Rader clucked in sympathy as Jenkins faltered through one page of music after another and finally rested his head against the piano, almost ready to sob and certain he had failed." Miraculously, he was in. Years later, when Jenkins met Rader, the union man chuckled: "Say Gordie, remember when you were a kid and auditioned for me? You were terrible. If I hadn't heard you play before I'd have sworn that day you couldn't even read music."

Jenkins has been his own instructor. At twenty-two, he became the youngest big-time arranger in the country (for Isham Jones, whose theme, "Blue Prelude," he wrote). He created his first great hit, "You Have Taken My Heart," with Johnny Mercer in 1933. Then, he smashed his hand against broken glass while he was conducting Broadway's "The Show Is On," and when he recovered from a serious laceration and resulting infection which nearly cost him his life, his contract was gone. He left New York and came to Hollywood to join Paramount as a twenty-six-year-old musical executive. After two years of picture work he joined radio's show, "Men With Wings"; by 1938 he was chief conductor and arranger for West Coast NBC, handling Jack Carson's "Signal Oil Carnival" and "Little Old Hollywood" (where he first met Adair).

Tom Adair, who is gregarious and widely interested in the world in contrast to Jenkins's introspectiveness and slight irascibility, has been writing songs for about eight years. He was a civil service clerk in the Los Angeles Water Department when he met pianist Matt Dennis and wrote "Everything Happens to Me" and "Let's Get Away From It All." He and Dennis worked together with Jenkins on the "Hollywood Tintypes" for "Little Old Hollywood" in 1940.

In April, 1941, Tom was drafted. He spent nine months in Infantry and four years more in Army radio

"By the Beautiful Sea"

Which Crashes Almost to the Doorway of a Malibu Home, Gordon Jenkins and Lyricist Tom Adair Have Written Marvels of Melody

By Judy Maguire

THE GUYS a genius" is a praise scattered somewhat recklessly toward the many gifted folks in show business. So, any individual, not to say a team of two individuals, who could really merit this extravagance might be cautious about accepting it, or a scribe about bestowing it.

Cliches notwithstanding, composer Gordon Jenkins and lyricist Tom Adair are the accomplisheers of great miracles in music. On a week-to-week deadline, for the flicker of radio presentation, they have careened out more than eighty-four original melody productions from five to twelve minutes' length during the past two years.

These range in content from "Football," "Hop-Along Hank," "Love Is Here to Stay," "The Lost Chord," "Shadrack," and "South America, Take It Away," to "Apple Blossom Festival," "Home," "Bill of Rights," "Abraham Lincoln," "The Freedom Train," "Senior Prom," and "Lumber," to name a few.

"The American Poem," their largest radio work, is fourteen minutes long. From this remarkable exhibit, almost any operetta, notably a city, industrial or holiday sequence, could be taken, and made into a full Broadway musicale with costuming, scenery and some plot. Single like achievements by Jerome Kern and Dorothy Fields, Richard Rodgers and Lawrence Hart, Arthur Schwartz and Howard Dietz, George and Ira Gershwin, have enjoyed New York and road runs of many months and often years. Gordon Jenkins and Tom Adair have put a new hit performance on the boards every seven days!

Now, it might be coloring it to claim that Jenkins and Adair can whip out this sort of thing with no anxiety or effort. It is true they have had most of their operettas composed and ready to go after three days of working "mornings only," under such stressing conditions as views of the sea from adjustable beach chairs while sunbathing in the Jenkins Malibu-home patio. If this appears to constitute "the easy life" it might be fair to add that it's the well-earned one.

Gordon Jenkins, who could be described authentically as a "musician's musician," has established himself in

Virginia Bruce Realizes an Ambition as She Portrays "Susan Read" on "Rexall Theater," Listeners Welcome Her Lovely Voice to Air

By Joan Buchanan

Sunday, 4:30 p.m.
NBC-KFI, KFSB

THE PICTURE of color that fair-haired Virginia Bruce makes as she sits talking in her sunlit soft green room is so pleasantly dazzling that an interviewer has a time remembering his usual questions.

Her eyes are the gray-blue, her skin the clear white of a natural blonde — a particularly impressive sight in Hollywood. On this occasion she wore a brown linen dress, gold sandals and an entrancing smile. Her celebrated ladylike beauty is in sudden contrast to her frankly down-to-earth self.

Can it be that this glamorous charmer's favorite screen role was that of a drunk? That her favorite home hobby is making curtains? That her eyes and hands are trained in doing the finest petit point? That her spare time is spent around the stables with her race horses?

All these points came up and were verified in our chat with Miss Bruce. The occasion was her signing for the role of nurse and confidante "Susan Read," co-starring with Pat "Dan Carson" O'Brien in "Rexall Summer Theater." "I just never have enough time to do all the things I like," she smiled. "Radio I love best of all. I've wanted to do a regular program for so long." The actress can't remember offhand whether she and O'Brien have ever worked together before. "I've been in pictures for so long," she explained, "that I honestly can't remember all the things I've done." She recalls that her favorite cinema part was that of the drunken Follies girl in "The Great Ziegfeld." "It was a small part but different from anything I had ever done—and I was always rather proud that I did it in one take," she smiled.

Beauty Brought Fame

Born in Minneapolis, raised in Fargo, North Dakota, Virginia landed in the movies, mostly because she was too beautiful to stay out of 'em. On a trip to Hollywood she was offered a contract by a director. The teenage visitor accepted and found herself included in one of those complicated financial setups for which Hollywood is famous. The director had sold her contract to a movie studio—her share was exactly twenty-five dollars a week! Her first part was with Maurice Chevalier in "The Love Parade," her latest is "Night Has a Thousand Eyes." Between those two titles lies her triumph over her originally inauspicious beginning and more starring roles than she can remember.

With a good many guest appearances in radio to her credit, the actress up till now has picked as her favorite an emotional part she did on "Suspense" with Richard Whorf. "Hysterical, scary," she describes it, "got to work behind a screen and on filter . . . very exciting," she confesses.

The actress's two young children,

The Southwest

By Commander Scott

(Prepared Exclusively for Radio Life)

MRS-KIJ, KFXM, KGR, KVOE*

TODAY WE ARE GOING to visit just a few of the many interesting places to be found in the Southwest during the summer months, because they are afraid that that section will be too hot. So many stories have been told about pioneers and miners suffering terribly and finally dying of thirst in the desert, that there are many people who today avoid the entire area. This whole outlook I am glad to say is quite definitely incorrect for two good reasons. First of all there is a constant stream of vehicles along the highways, and now there are so many settlements with air-conditioned restaurants and hotels that it's impossible ever to be far from habitation.

Secondly, most of the truly spectacular scenic wonderlands are high in the mountains and far removed from the hot desert areas. Do you know, for instance, that the largest forest of virgin timber in America today is to be found in Northern Arizona and Southern Utah?

Well Spent

Day after Radio Life announced its price rise, one of the magazine's readers wrote:

With a penny I am thrifty,
Parting with it causes strife;
But my coin purse flies right open,
When you ask for more, Radio Life.

Thank you, Mr. Schoener. Hope you reflect the sentiments of all our other readers.

Unsafe, Insane

An experiment in chemistry will be performed in a special series of station-break announcements which KECA has produced and will air during the long Fourth of July week-end. Brainchild of the station's program manager, Rollo Hunter, the startling but graphic announcements were written and produced by Frank Morris.

To do its part in helping make everyone, and motorists in particular, conscious of the ever-growing rate of highway accidents, the special safety announcements will let listeners hear the pouring of two ingredients of tragedy . . . alcohol and gasoline . . . and the auto crash which too often follows their mixture.

Such a series is of paramount public service. Close to 400 persons were killed accidentally over the recent Memorial Day week-end. If traffic fatalities aren't curbed, Fourth of July must still be labeled "unsafe and insane."

Your Cue (Shows You May Like)

"Country Journal"

Even if you are a confirmed city-dweller, you'll find charm in CBS's "Country Journal," KNX, 1:30 p.m. Saturday. Valuable as a farm information program, it has an appeal far wider than its original intention.

So many subjects and personalities are covered in these broadcasts that it is difficult to list typical items. Most interesting to us have been the interviews with editors of country newspapers. To a man, the newspapermen have proved to be charming, humorous and intelligent. Each editor has included in his talk the reasons his particular area is noteworthy. The Richmond, Virginia, editor of the Southern Planter lauded the Chesapeake Bay seafood, America's best; others have pointed with pride to their scenic resorts, local celebrities, biggest crops, etc.

Don Lerch, director of the program, features important farm information, with additional news covered by specialists in the particular field. A recent example was the description of the U. S. farmer's fight to eradicate the Japanese beetle pest. The Department of Agriculture supplied recent information on the menace, an entomologist forecast areas due for damage and a research expert gave instructions on how the pest was to be dealt with.

Rural clubs, including the famed Four-H group, are interviewed and their special projects are aired. On the-spot broadcasts are cut in from areas where important events are occurring—even the most confirmed city-dweller would be interested in the coverage of the horticultural happenings at the recent Newark Rose Festival. Particularly valuable (considering the season) was the recent outlining of farm-policy planks in the platforms of various GOP candidates preceding last week's convention.

KECA mike memos

By VIRGINIA WEST

With the prevalence this season of those handy little portable radios for your patio, backyard . . . the mountains or the beach, Sunday shows are still important to the fans, even if summer is here. With this in mind, you'll still find most of your favorites at their regular times on ABC-KECA . . . David Harding, Counterspy, for example, goes his exciting way bringing evildoers to justice at his usual 2:30 time as a sustainer during the summer, but with Schutter Candy Company renewed for another 52 weeks, beginning Sept. 12 . . . "Stop the Music," that newcomer which has already attracted such a tremendous and enthusiastic audience, keeps many fans close by their radios . . . and their phones from 5 to 6 these Sundays. . . . By the way, though unlisted phone numbers are usually hard to get, the ABC mailroom has been flooded with thousands of post cards from all parts of the country, revealing the numbers. . . . Here's Bert Parks, the affable young man who emcees "Stop the Music."

Anita Colby will be substitute commentator for vacationing-in-Europe Louella Parsons on July 4 and 11 . . . (KECA at 6:15 p. m.) . . . "The Greatest Story Ever Told" takes a 10-week vacation, starting this week. This drama series based on the teachings of Christ, and presented in modern idiom, resumes on Sept. 12.

. . . Bill Spargrove and the News . . . KECA, 7:30 a.m. . . .

In the renewal column this week are those two popular morning airers, "Welcome Travelers" and "Breakfast in Hollywood" . . . a quarter-hour section of both to be bankrolled by Procter and Gamble for another 52 weeks. . . . Incidentally, Garry Moore, who replaced the late Tom Breneman as emcee on "Breakfast in Hollywood," will also take over the editorial duties on "Tom Breneman's Magazine" in September when announcement of the new title for the monthly magazine is made . . . Tom's widow, Billie Breneman, is serving as editor for the July and August issues. . . . Tom Moore, emcee of ABC's "Ladies Be Seated," (KECA at 3, Monday thru Friday) is convinced that women are distrustful by nature. He says when he distributes six dollars to each of two contestants at the start of his popular quiz game, "Famous Faces," four times out of five the ladies count the bills before allowing Tom to proceed!

. . . Bill Spargrove and the News . . . KECA, 7:30 a. m. . . .

PERSONALS: Ned Wever, who portrays the colorful detective, "Bulldog Drummond," on KECA every Saturday night at 7, is a Princeton grad. He began his dramatic career in that school's famous "Triangle Club." Since graduation he's appeared in some 30 Broadway plays, in such radio shows as "The Thin Man," "Inner Sanctum," etc., and has been winning high praise from the critics for his "Bulldog Drummond" role for the last four years. . . . Arlene Francis lays claim to being one of the true feminine pioneers of the airwaves. . . . The quick-witted Miss Francis has been adding her talents to radio since 1933, in many top network shows. . . . Now she's star of "What's My Name" on ABC-KECA at 9:30, Saturday nights.

. . . Bill Spargrove and the News . . . KECA, 7:30 a. m.

Youngsters and grownups at the four corners of the world now hear ABC's "Abbott and Costello Kid Show," via AFRS.

. . . It is estimated a new audience of 93 million English-speaking listeners abroad has been added. . . . Many schools, high schools and colleges have requested, and will receive, copies of ABC's "Mr. President" scripts for use in classrooms when schools convene again. . . . Both of those favorites of the youngfry, Jack Armstrong and Sky King, will return in September. . . . A thumbnail show which is a favorite with children, and their parents, too, is KECA's "Animal World Court," heard Mondays thru Fridays at 6:05 p.m. . . . Many "deserving" pets have found homes thru the show.

Radio in Review

Morton Downey

Proceeding on the theory that at 11:15 p.m. there are many listeners who can't stand disc jockeys and are sated with news, NBC is presenting Morton Downey on KFI, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. To no one's surprise it happens to be the pleasant late-evening segment on the dial.

The old master of the sentimental ballad and the whistling break is as potent as ever when it comes to soothing song. His lyrics are still charged with quiet emotion, and youngsters could take a lesson from him on how to sing a slow ballad without dragging it to extinction.

Morton features the songs he does best—all on the order of "The Very Thought of You," "Why Do I Love You?" etc. His whistling is the most melodious on the air, Jolson and Crosby notwithstanding. Along with Jolson, Downey is one of the few old-timers whose voice is as good and whose style is as interesting as the day he made his first hit.

In keeping with the hour, the program is soothing in every department. Talk is at a minimum—Downey and announcer Joe King both read their lines in a sleepytime voice that is guaranteed not to charge you out of your seat. Carmen Mastren's orchestra follows the Downey vocals like a quiet whisper. A celeste and a nice non-electric guitar furnish exactly the right mood in the orchestrations. A male quartet is held to one number a broadcast and is comparatively unobtrusive considering it is a quartet.

The Coca-Cola commercials are short, extremely quiet and even enjoyable. As shows go, this one may be more or less obscure—but what a lesson it could teach to the bulk of big-timers worrying about their budgets and their audiences!

Playbacks (Critical Comment)

We Point With Pride . . .

. . . To Vivian Della Chiesa's guest appearance on "Your Song and Mine." With all the light music programs on the air, we wonder why this long-time radio favorite doesn't have a show of her own?

. . . To Jeff Chandler's amazing portrayal of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" on CBS's "Tell It Again" Sunday, June 20.

. . . To Everett Sloan's hilarious comedy as the frustrated judge on "Mr. Ace and Jane." We wish he could be written into the script each week.

. . . To Danny Thomas's return to the characterizations and routines that made him famous. His show was always fun—now it's funny!

. . . To the "Steve Allen Show" and Steve himself who Saturday, June 19, burlesqued radio with a fine flair. We particularly liked his imitation of Bob Hope and his ready-to-laugh audience.

... To Nelson Pringle's humanizing of the convention news, and to the coverage station KFVB is giving with the services of only a small staff—special mention is due Clete Roberts and George Lewin.

... To Bebe Daniels's fine sub job for Louella Parsons—and isn't it grand to hear our former stars before the public once again?

... To Dr. Robert Gordon Sproul's nominating speech for Governor Warren during last week's convention excitement.

We View With Alarm . . .

The news that the excellent actor who played "Jocko" on "Pat Novak" when it aired from San Francisco is now a clothing salesman. Undoubtedly there are actors who would make better clothing salesmen—but this particular gentleman deserves a place on the air. And a good place, too.

That John Brown, who is so terrific on so many shows, may not be doing radio work this summer because of ill health.

That symphony music is still not much of a paying proposition in the U.S.—the co-op sponsorship of the Boston Symphony has been termed a "financial fiasco."

The fact that Vic Damone's imitation of Frank Sinatra is now almost note-perfect. (If you doubt us, play some of Vic's enjoyable pre-radio recordings.)

Feature Story

Monday through Friday a.m.'s, at 10:30, Pasadena's KWKW carries a program called "Feature Story," with Virginia Kay of the Pasadena Independent as femcee, adviser and hostess.

Virginia answers choices from her mailbag, makes suggestions about where and what to buy, or suggests sources of information to questions which she can't deal with on the air. Also, Virginia almost daily receives a guest. It is with one of these guests we deal . . . for she suggested a lesson in how not to be shy.

"Grandma" Adeline Reynolds (best known, probably, for her portrayal of Barry Fitzgerald's mother in "Going My Way") brought a sincerity to the microphone that resulted in one of the least self-conscious, and resultantly most charming, appearances we've heard in many a day.

It was easy for hostess Virginia Kay to draw "Grandma" Reynolds out about her early life on an Iowa farm, then in the business world, and about her ultimate registry at the University of California at Berkeley when she was sixty-four years old. She graduated at seventy, with thirty-four excess credits in languages.

Adeline went cheerfully on to tell how her role of "Hepzibah" in an Assistance League Playhouse production, "Landslide," won attention and an ultimate contract for her in pictures. This amazing elderly woman, who was named "Sweetheart of the Seabees" in Alaska, is now busying herself with tap-dancing, swimming, fencing and flying lessons. Her happy philosophy of "Learn to love each thing you do before you go on to the next one, so that you will be ready for new things" just about epitomizes a selflessness that could serve as a good lesson to lesser beings of greater importance who really need to learn about guest appearances—before they go on to anything else.

WHO'S WHO'S WHO

CBS's Danny Thomas will be listed among America's famous folk when the next issue of "Who's Who" comes off the presses late this year.

Convention News

Last week while listening to the Republican Convention, we learned (courtesy of freshman Senator Cain of Washington) that the Democrats are "disillusioned, cynical and power-mad," while the Republicans are "idealistic, unselfish and imaginative." We expect that shortly we'll learn exactly the opposite from the Democratic Convention.

Sandra Gould will assume Lurene Tuttle's "secretarial duties" as "Effie" on Columbia's "Adventures of Sam Spade," during the next three weeks. Lurene has left Hollywood for a vacation in the High Sierras.

RECORD NOTES TO YOU

BY ANDY MANSFIELD

- 1 note—fair
- 2 notes—pleasing
- 3 notes—very good
- Chord in G—tops

KWAW. 3:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

ALBUM OF THE WEEK: Some of the cleanest ivory manipulation heard in many a day, plus a distinctly different keyboard styling is offered by Andre Previn in eight delightful sides of piano with top rhythm backing. . . . As examples of the faultless Previn technique "Should I" and "Hallelujah" are marvelous, while "Mad About the Boy" and "I Didn't Know What Time It Was" are tonal-expression pianofied. . . . A chord in G for Previn! (RCA-Victor.)

INSTRUMENTAL OF THE WEEK: Up to the usual high Paul Weston standard is the eight-sided "Music for Romance" album. . . . Standards of yesterday, such as "Sleepy Time Gal," "Poor Butterfly" and "Time on My Hands," featuring the Weston strings in lush arrangements, again prove the master orchestrator knows what the public likes—and here 'tis . . . a three-noter. (Capitol.)

RE-ISSUE OF THE WEEK: They just don't come any better than the brisk tempoed "Oh, Lady Be Good" and the slower "Blue and Sentimental" as waxed some years ago by Count Basie and his boys. . . . Welcome back to the record files, you top-drawer three-noter! (Decca.)

GIRL VOCAL OF THE WEEK: Aably assisted by Earl Hagen's Orchestra and the Jeff Alexander Chorus, Frances Langford has six lovely color-songs in "Rainbow Rhapsody." . . . Tunes are all standards and well suited to the Langford stylings, especially "Blue Moon." . . . Easily a pleasing two-noter. (Mercury.)

NOVELTY OF THE WEEK: Nine-year-old Toni Harper's first release, "Candy Store Blues," could well be studied by many an adult singer, for this dynamic little prodigy has an amazing style and quality not unlike the early days of Ella F. and Billie H. . . . "Dolly's Lullaby" on reverse quite childish, holding disc down to two notes. (Columbia.)

F.M. and Television Tips

By JANE PELGRAM

Question of the week—with only two local TV outlets, operating on a limited number of hours, what disposition is planned for all the television films to be made by the more than fifty firms that are organized, to date, for the purpose of filming and distributing video film? If a backlog is planned, with much of the film to be released profitably in a couple of years when the cry for more! more! goes up . . . won't the hair-do's, clothes and cars look a bit antiquated? We won't object . . . one of our favorite movie houses is the old Silent Movie, but the avid clientele of that house by no means matches the horde of faithfuls who head for the big downtown theaters and their brand-new flicks.

A good word came out from one of these new video firms. The organization headed by Joseph Cotten, movie star, last week finished the first in a series of fifteen-minute video shows on film for a cost of $2,000, which is claimed to be $5,000 under the current market.

But it won't be long before a third station in the Los Angeles-Hollywood area will be going on all eight. It was announced last week by Robert Hinckley, American Broadcasting Company vice-president, that KECA-TV will be "on the air" by November 1, one month earlier than originally scheduled.

And movie-making David O. Selznick is following the lead of Paramount with plans for immediate activity in video.

Robert L. Redd, bright young man long associated with radio, has substantial proof of television's drawing power and sales appeal in Southern California. Last Sunday Bob organized a program starring screen and radio personalities, and featured it on Mike Stokey's KTLA "Pantomime Quiz Time." Purpose was to plug the Memorial Medical Center, and was the first time a civic venture has been promoted through commercial television entertainment. The reaction far exceeded Redd's expectations.

Since Sunday, literally hundreds of calls and wires offering assistance have swamped him. Included were five sponsors of local programs who called to offer time for Memorial Medical Center plugs on their own radio programs.

The teams were made up of Jack

Carson, Kay Kyser, Constance Moore and Lee Bowman competing with Tom Lewis, Dr. Webster Marxer, chairman of the Memorial Medical Center board; Major C. C. Mosely, leading California aviation executive; and Leonard Firestone, prominent tire executive.

The Page Cavanaugh Trio will soon be featured in its own video show over KTLA when they debut their "Hollywood Showcase" talent parade program. That should be sumpin'. The boys know all about talent.

KTSL (Don Lee television, formerly W6XAO), switched Wednesday and Thursday night headliners so that now, on Wednesday night, it presents "Do You Remember?" a nostalgia-inducing peek into the old days . . . in quiz form. On Thursday nights the station carries an excellent variety bill, almost hidden by the title "Music Hall." It is this single reporter's opinion that not a nightclub bill in the whole wide city can touch the acts we saw at KTSL's "Music Hall." Both shows are at 8:30 p.m.

STOP AND GO SIGNALS

To pace "The Johnson Family" program properly, Mutual producer J. C. Lewis has had to invent a series of unusual signal lights to attract Jimmy Scribner's attention.

Scribner, who also writes the show, enacts 23 different characters on it. He gets so engrossed in talking to himself that he cannot be signaled through the usual studio hand-arm-mouth methods. So producer J. C. has devised a light box to put on the table before Jimmy at each broadcast, signaling as follows:

Red (danger), "You're bellowing." White (o.k.), "Level and timing just right." Green and white, "slow it down, you're too fast." Red, green and white, "Ad lib to suit for thirty seconds."

GOT CUE

A slight pause in Mutual's "Superman" adventures recently was not for purposes of station identification. Organist Johnny Gart had been awaiting a visit of the stork to his wife, and the news came right in the middle of the broadcast. Johnny was playing a musical bridge when Bud "Superman" Collyer rocked his arms cradle fashion, then put right thumb and forefinger together in the okay sign to indicate the baby had arrived and all was well. The new daddy took his fingers off the keys for a few seconds, as the full import of the charade hit him, and then continued his blood-and-thunder music, smiling broadly.

WOMAN WITH WINGS

First passenger for Brooke "Red Ryder" Temple, when he soloed with his newly acquired pilot's license, was his thirteen-year-old daughter, Brooke Jr. Far from being frightened, the young lady's most urgent question was: "Can I drive it?" A ribbon-winning horsewoman, she wanted to fly over the family ranch and look at her horse, Blooley.

"Dr. Von Morgan" has written such outstanding economic works as "Wall Street—How to Get There by Subway" and "The Importance of the Piggy Bank: Teach Your Pig to Save Money."

PROVISION

A trust fund has been set up for NBC's collie-dog star, "Lassie," by his owner-trainer, Rudd Weatherwax. "It might sound a little silly," says Rudd, "but if anything should happen to me I want to be sure Lassie is well taken care of."

HARDLY TOUGH FOR DUFF

Star Howard Duff of Columbia's "Adventures of Sam Spade" now has 174 fan clubs, each with from thirty to sixty fervent members. "Duff's Fluffs" and "Tarps" are two of the organizations—(the latter stands for "Teens Are Rare People.")

STILL GAINING POUNDS

"Too Fat Polka," recorded by CBS's Arthur Godfrey, has now passed the one-million sales mark and is still going strong. Godfrey's newest record, "Slap 'er Down Agin, Paw," has just been released by Columbia.

Lovely to Look at—and Listen to Susan and Christopher, listen attentively to their mother's air appearances. Christopher, only six, wonders "Did you really cry?" Her answer, "Sometimes I really did." To us she added, "If an actress cried every time she was supposed to, she'd be a wreck!" Daughter Susan is the possessor of an excellent singing voice and her mother displayed parental pride in telling us that Susan sings in school presentations.

Horses Are Winners

As the mother of two, with much time (and a happy inclination) to spend on a big home, the actress is unable to attend the out-of-town race meetings with her well-known racers, Lady Bruce and Lady Morvich. The two fillies, which she owns in conjunction with director John Huston, both have distinct claims to fame. Lady Morvich paid the highest odds ever recorded at Del Mar, $214.00. Owner Bruce didn't bet on her that time, incidentally. The other filly, Lady Bruce, has garnered three wins, one place and two fourths out of six starts!

Another active sport that the actress would like to find more time for is golf. Her mother was once state champion of North Dakota and daughter Virginia has inherited her aptitude.

"It's really Chris who makes things hectic around here," she confided laughingly as sounds of an electric train came from upstairs. "We both had a fine time this morning just screaming at each other!"

"By the Beautiful Sea"

and song writing. (For his Second War Loan Campaign ballad, "Everybody Every Pay Day," he won a special commendation from the Treasury Department). He "mustered out" into script jobs on "Duffy's Tavern" and "Glamour Manor," and happily ran into his "old pal" Jenkins at the Hollywood Derby just at the time a librettist was wanted for the "Auto-Lite Operas" on the Dick Haymes show.

Before their sunbathing sessions start, Tom Adair writes his lyrics in his suburban Pacific Palisades home. When he drives on down the coast to Malibu, he has with him an almost tight pattern to suggest the music Jenkins will create. Each has eloquence for the other's ability. "Tom writes such rhythmic lyrics that it's a cinch," says Jenkins. "I can give Gordie the words off a soup can and it comes out like velvet," says Adair.

This summer will find the two of them working on a vision . . . their own Broadway stage show inspired and titled by Jenkins's "Manhattan Tower." They have a fierce defense of New York theater and its tradition . . . the element in which their creation should find full expression. When their production is a realization, America might see a new Broadway Gilbert and Sullivan in thirty-eight-year-old Gordon Jenkins and thirty-four-year-old Tom Adair. At this time of their already phenomenal careers, it is a great privilege for radio and Radio Life to know them both.

CALAMITY

Pretty Virginia Bruce was in a hassle on the opening NBC broadcast of "Dan Carson's Story." The show has a dress rehearsal, short break and broadcast in rapid succession; and Virginia arrived early in a cotton house dress and gold sandals, intending to change to a smart afternoon frock which awaited her in her dressing room. Just before airtime, she rushed in to switch, and discovered that her cleaner had neglected to sew the buttons back on her dressy dress. Virginia, really very embarrassed, asked announcer Bill Forman to explain the situation to the audience. He did, and Miss Bruce rated a particularly large round of applause when she appeared . . . looking so lovely in her house dress that it didn't matter anyway.

CROWDED
 Spike Jones, in the last eleven months of one-night stands, has covered 26,000 miles, played in 125 cities and performed before more than 1,000,000 people, not including his CBS radio audiences.

★ HEY YOU!
 Radioite Everett Sloane was happy to donate his New York apartment, when movie and CBS "Studio One" producer Fletcher Markle decided it was ideal for a scene in his new film, "Jigsaw." Shooting went off smoothly until the company came to a minor bit involving a slightly wolfish delivery boy. Several "delivery boys" went through the part, but Markle was not happy with results. Suddenly Sloane arrived home. Check. Everett was soon knocking on the door of his own apartment as the perfect delivery-boy type.

"NEW FACES OF 1948" (in the Burns and Allen time) include: Eleanor Jones (left), Marilyn Day, Joy Presson, June Carroll; Leonard Sillman, producer (top), Frank Milton, Gene Martin, George Hall. Show, like its stage successor, is full of acts, sketches and melody.

"Hiatus Hi-Jinks"

It's Footlight-Time on Summertime. And Radio's Vacation-Delegation Is Happily Set for the Show

A CONSERVATION project is underway in radio. The industry is making reconnaissance of its natural resources in stars and shows, and the crop which is being sown this summer should make richer listening ground for the seasons ahead. A low budget is allotted, and quality will count.

Theme for the 1948 summer revue then, could appropriately be Vacation Varieties. As the curtain goes up on the summer season, a new liveliness and wholesomeness seem to pervade the scene. "R.F.D. America," the farm folks' own quiz show, has been retained by Ford and moved into an important Sunday time on NBC. "Life Begins at Eighty" is Jack "Juvenile Jury" Barry's new idea for oldsters. "Let's Talk Hollywood," co-emceed by George Murphy and Eddie Bracken, is a tested series paneling another side of the show business which is motion pictures. We like the looks and possibilities of "Comedy Writers' Show" on Sundays. Leonard Sillman's "New Faces of 1948" is enhanced by the reputation of its fore-runner stage production, a delightful format, good writing and cast. What a thrill to hear Dorothy Kirsten singing with Nelson Eddy on "Kraft Music Hall"; the music of Carmen Cavallaro and Dick Jurgens on summer nights! "Mr. Ace and Jane" are already our favorite 9:00 p.m. listening Friday nights. And also proving that radio knows some of its old ones were its best ones is the welcome return of Arlene Francis and "What's My Name."

There's lots more on the schedule. Keep it for a week-to-week check with Precasts. Radio may have many more surprises.

▲ NELSON EDDY and Dorothy Kirsten co-star in this summer's "Kraft Music Hall" 6:00 p.m. NBC Thursdays, as the one and only Al Jolson relaxes.

▼ YOU'LL "MEET CORLISS Archer" in one of radio's best time spots this vacation season, as star Janet Waldo takes over for Bob Hope on NBC, Tuesdays, 7:00 p.m.

▼ "SUSPENSE!" fills the 6:00 p.m. Thursday slot on KNX left by Dick Haymes, Martha Tilton and the Jenkins-Adair operettas. Tony Leader is producer.

▼ "WHAT MAKES YOU TICK?" is the psychological problem of analyst John K. M. McCaffrey Sunday on KHJ at 2:30 p.m. until Win Elliott returns with "Quick as a Flash."

▲ CARMEN CAVALLARO, "Poet of the Piano," will play a thirteen-week engagement on NBC Tuesdays at 5:30 p.m. while "A Date With Judy" vacations.

▲ "SEALTEST PRESENTS Ray Noble With Ilene Woods" while Jack Carson, Eve Arden and the "Village Store" folks do a fade from Thursdays on NBC.

▲ BARITONE EARL Wrightson sings and hosts on the summer "Family Hour," KNX, 3:00 p.m., with Dudley King's orchestra and chorus, until return of Al Goodman and singing star.

▶ CONSISTENT in giveaways is John Reed King, whose ABC quiz, "Go for the House," offers a furnished home and a lot to contestants. Show fills for Groucho Marx's "You Bet Your Life."

◀ JAMES HILTON, novelist of "Random Harvest," "Lost Horizon" and "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," is summer director-host on the "Hallmark Players," replacing "Radio Reader's Digest of the Air" over CBS.

▼ TEX McCRARY AND HIS WIFE, JINX FALKENBURG, again bring their deft New Yorkese series of interviews and observations back as summer lill for NBC's "Duffy's Tavern."

▲ GLORIA BLONDELL'S purse reflected one of the busiest and most diversified lives in Hollywood. Gloria, "Greg Hood's" secretary on Mutual's "Casebook of Gregory Hood," acknowledged—a checkbook, some notes to herself, two golf tees, a fishhook, a mirror, cigarettes, two sets of car keys, some loose pennies, two or three used matches, hairpins, a theater stub, a purple pencil, a pen, a red and black pencil, and two old receipts. No lipstick, no powder puff, no comb.

▲ THERE MUST BE SOMETHING about singers that tends to neatness, for Benay Venuta's good-looking fitted leather bag had a place for everything and everything in its place. What wasn't provided for by the fittings of the bag itself, Benay carried in separate zippered containers. Emcee of Mutual's "Keep Up With the Kids," Benay had a model purse for any youngster.

▼ SISTERS' MINDS RUN IN THE SAME CHANNEL, as proven by Mutual's Lyttle Sisters, starred on "California Melodies." Darlene, left rear, had nothing not duplicated by her sisters; all Sally had different was a box of Anacin; Dottie had two pairs of glasses and two bobby pins. Sue came up with a raffle ticket, a pair of dice, a broken wrist watch. Inventoried, contents of the four purses included two lighters and two book matches, four mirrors, three nail files, a shoebrush and a nail brush; three pens and three pencils; three sets of keys, five combs, two packages of gum, four lipsticks, two handkerchiefs and one packet of Kleenex, two compacts, four wallets, two change purses. ▼ PRINCIPAL DIFFERENCE BETWEEN what a mother and daughter carry lies in the fact that mom's had time to accumulate more. Connie Crowder and Jane Webb, who play mother and daughter respectively in Mutual's "Those Websters," dumped out the contents of their purses. In Connie's was a pencil sharpener, flashlight, shoebrush, lipstick, bankbook, billfold, date book, notebook, cigarette case, matches, compact, business papers, handkerchief, pencil, house keys, sewing kit, change purse, car keys, and comb. Jane had only two letters to be mailed, glasses, address book, handkerchief, billfold, matches, bankbook, notebook, two pencils, one pen, keys, cigarette case, lipstick, and a book.

The "Night Editor's" Own Story

Hal Burdick Left His Real Editorial Desk for A Fictional One That's Piled High With Success And Even Higher With Work. But Hal Loves It

By Jane Pelgram

Monday-Friday, 9:45 p.m.
CBS-KNX, KSDJ

FOR THE past twelve years, one of the most warmly received spinners of radio yarns has been Hal Burdick, the popular "Night Editor." Last May Hal once more moved his fictional newspaper desk into range of local listeners. After the home edition has been put to bed, and the newsroom crew is waiting for the press run to start, Hal invites listeners to pull up a chair and settle back, while he starts to spin another of his fascinating short stories.

Now, we knew Mr. Burdick was really an old newspaperman. Stories and articles on him have revealed that he started working as a newsboy when he was nine, and for the following fifteen vivid and exciting years progressed to newspaper reporter, feature editor, and finally city editor of the Seattle Times.

And from all the stories we'd heard about "night editors," they seemed to be pretty hard-bitten fellows, not particularly approachable by any but their newsroom cohorts. It was with this alarming picture in mind that we visited the CBS studio to meet Hal Burdick and turn the tables by getting a story from him!

The wildest flight of imagination couldn't dream up a more erroneous picture of radio's "Night Editor" than by visualizing him as a tough, editor-type meanie. Hal is six feet of unassuming, friendly charm. He enjoys people, is just as interested as he is interesting, and blessedly remembers the days when he was on the quizzing end. As a consequence of this last he precludes the questioning that might overlook facts pertinent to the Burdick story by entertainingly and interestingly telling about his family, his radio stories, his home in Palo Alto, and even about Mike R. O'Phone and Mr. Martin! The latter two are respectively a stout-hearted little Irish-terrier-tinged mutt and a huge red cat. Hal cheerfully admits to having swiped stories from their antics.

Original Tales

All the "Night Editor" stories are originals. As Hal explained it, "Just about anything can suggest a story, and after all the years of newspaper writing I had it's not too hard to round out the yarns. For instance, I once told the story of an old retired seafarer. His life had been the sea, and he wasn't too happy in a snug little cottage. But the people taking care of him thought that best, so there he was. Early one morning, however, he couldn't stand it any more, so he stole out of the house and plodded down to the docks, getting there just in time to stumble across a gang who were robbing a boat. Single-handed, and pretty old, he was no match for the ruffians, so he summoned help by his loud yelling and clacking.

"The robbers were apprehended, and the triumphant old fellow carried home. 'Carried,' because the old seafarer turned out to be a parrot. That story had been suggested by the bird next door from us, who was the walk-inkest, talkinkest parrot I ever saw!"

"Another time, when a deadline was near and I seemed devoid of ideas, our pup suggested to me the story of 'Mike, 12-F.' This 12-F dog had a fighting heart, but not much in the way of size and muscle, so had been refused by the service. One day after the war he was telling a new friend about it and learned that the other dog had been a war dog. Twelve-F Mike was tremendously admiring, but he felt bad, too. However, his turn came, for the war dog turned out to be blind, and Mike got to serve by taking this fine new friend on long walks and runs the 1-A war dog could never have made without the help of 12-F Mike.

"I'm a great deadline worker, and my poor family can always tell when the zero hour is approaching. I intend having things neatly in order, and all my notes lined up, but I never seem to start in time," Hal sighed... "I may as well face the fact that my best work is done in a big, disorganized rush. That's funny, too, because I really enjoy writing."

Story Into Serial

One of the earliest "Night Editor" stories, titled "Dr. Kate," dealt with the work and ideals of a young woman doctor. This narrative was so enthusiastically received that Hal was requested to get up a daily program built around the main character. He talked it over with wife Cornelia, and together they drew up the "Dr. Kate" strip starring Cornelia and written, produced and directed by Hal.

The ten-year-old show, on a local San Jose station, is now an hour-long daily, called "Dr. Kate Calling." Hal's "Night Editor" series started twelve years ago. In 1946 the couple tried to take the long, long vacation which busy, successful workers always Worried About Your Vacation?

Places like Bryce, Zion, the Grand Canyon, Taos and the Mesa Verde are covered with deep snow throughout most of the year and the climate even in mid-summer is really pleasant, with warm days and cool nights. So if by any chance you are one of those who have avoided the Southwest because you have thought of it as a hot barren area, please change your opinion and plan to go there this year. You will have a grand time and see many interesting things. It is entirely different from California or the Northwest that I described last week, so much so it might be another world, nevertheless it is just as delightful a vacationland.

First of all let's visit Salt Lake City, Utah, and then swing quickly down into Northern Arizona and New Mexico. Salt Lake City nestles at the foot of the Wasatch Mountains close to the shore of the Great Salt Lake. It is a beautiful city of wide streets dominated by the magnificent State Capitol building. There is so much to see around Salt Lake City that it is a delightful vacation center. The Salt Lake with its heavy salt content, the world's largest open-cut copper mine at Bingham, the huge smelters, the great Salt Flats, the beautiful Provo Canyon and the Timpanogos Caves—and not so many miles eastward, the amazing Dinosaur National Monument. These are just a few of the things you must see and will enjoy. But in the southern end of the state two national parks will call you: Zion and Bryce, two parks that although close together offer striking contrasts, and yet both are outstandingly beautiful and should be seen by everyone who loves unusual scenery.

Zion is a rugged canyon with steep colorful cliffs in a great variety of colors. There's the Great White Throne, a huge mass of white rock that dominates one end of the canyon, the narrows through which you can wander along a beautiful trail bordered with flowers, with the river singing a delightful accompaniment. Then you will be inspired by the Angel's Landing, the Three Marys, the Patriarch, the Checkerboard Mountain, the Grand Arch, the Weeping Rock, each one different, each one inspiring and strikingly beautiful and colorful. When you have seen Zion you may be tempted to skip Bryce, as many people are, but don't do it, because Bryce National Park will delight you. It's a huge horseshoe-shaped area filled with thousands upon thousands of fantastically shaped formations in gold, white, yellow and orange—formations that have been created by erosion and corrosion through the years—words could never describe the awe-inspiring beauty.

↑ EXCITING ROLE of "Della Street" on CBS's "Perry Mason" series is played by Joan Alexander.

Not so very far to the south is the north rim of the Grand Canyon, reached by a delightful highway that takes you through the Karbub Forest. The Grand Canyon is so well known as a scenic wonderland that I feel it needs no description. However, I would like to mention that the north and the south rim are both delightful but quite different, the north rim being 1,000 feet higher than the south. If you want an unusual diversion take a ride across the canyon on a mule, stopping overnight at the Phantom Ranch. It's a real experience. You can travel by highway from the north to the south rim crossing the Colorado River by the Navajo Bridge and on the way you are likely to see some buffalo (bison), because two large herds graze in this area. Also you will cross the northeastern end of the Painted Desert, which in many ways is more impressive than at the point where it is crossed by Highway 66.

Good Pivot Point

Flagstaff is another good headquarters for the vacationist, because near at hand are the Wupatki Ruins, the Sunset Crater, the San Francisco Peaks, Walnut Canyon, Ice Caves and magnificent Oak Creek Canyon.

Near Holbrook are the Petrified Forest and the Painted Desert and to the north is the Canyon de Chelly (Shay), one of the most interesting of the National Monuments. The canyon is unbelievably beautiful, lined on both sides with red cliffs that rise straight up from the canyon floor. A great many Navajo Indians still live there in hogans and in the cliff there are numerous cliff dwellings. And speaking of cliff dwellings, if you are interested in promise themselves, but the pull of show business proved too strong, and they returned to the air two years later.

The busy Burdicks have one son, the seventeen-year-old Hal Burdick, Jr., (nicknamed "Bud") who seems destined to carry on the Burdick tradition in show business. Just last year, "Bud" produced, cast and directed a production of "Arsenic and Old Lace" in the Palo Alto Community Playhouse.

"You know," Hal mused, "I just might draft Bud to help me with my series . . . now that I have five stories each week to do. I'll probably run out of ideas this time for sure!"

Hal's answer to a question regarding his "safety valve" against overwork, worry, and a real possibility of a paucity of plots, could serve as a lesson to more temperamental and thus less successful story writers.

"Sure I have a 'safety valve.' Whenever I think I can't possibly get up another story, and haven't any notion of what to write . . . I just sit down and start typing. It would be pretty silly to sit there and write unrelated words, so something always comes out.

"The biggest thing in the way of help to a writer is liking to write. I do, you know, but not all writers really enjoy it. Say, that gives me an idea for a story . . ."

cliff and cave dwellings be sure to visit the Mesa Verde National Park in southern Colorado.

Other old Indian pueblos are to be enjoyed all across northern New Mexico at Aztec, at Chaco Canyon and Bandelier, and a dozen other National Monuments will interest you in this area.

Santa Fe is another delightful center for the artist, those studying Indian lore and crafts and the vacationist. Taos to the north is always a magnet that draws the tourist, and I have never heard of anyone being disappointed in that huge pueblo that is still inhabited.

These are suggestions of some of the things to explore on your southwestern vacation, but don't for a moment think that I have mentioned even one tenth of all that nature offers in this amazing and interesting area of scenic wonders.

Incidentally don't forget if any Radio Life readers would like additional particulars on any of the places I have mentioned or about those hundreds of places I haven't mentioned, just drop me a line. Commander Scott, 175 East Green Street, Pasadena 1.
