Ernie Fowler, "Club Eleven," 2031 Shendoah, Los Angeles 34, Calif.

Sirs: Several months ago, my folks purchased a television set, so my friends and I decided to start a club, which we call "Club Eleven," (as there are eleven members). We have our meetings three nights a week at my house. Our favorite program is "Pantomime Quiz." My mother saw Sandra's picture in Radio Life, at the store, and brought it home. We club members voted money out of the treasury so we could each carry Sandra's picture in our wallet, even though we do not think the picture does her justice. We would like some information about Sandra, if you could oblige. Her age, and if she is married.

Bad news, fellas. Twenty-one-year-old Sandra Spence is married to Los Angeles businessman Jack Spence, and they are the parents of two-year-old Sandra Martens Jr.

A Reader, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: I was very sorry to hear that "The Man Called X" was leaving the air. This program was at the top of my list of favorite programs, and I haven't missed a single program of

Mr. Marshall's in the past three years. And now it is to be replaced by a program I can't say much of at all, "Lum and Abner." Will "The Man Called X" ever come back on the air? If any radio star deserves orchids extended to him, Herbert Marshall should definitely get one. His acting in pictures and radio is excellent, and I wish to say "Thanks, Mr. Marshall, for a swell performance as 'The Man Called X.'"

Mrs. Delno E. Hall, P.O. Box 782, Arcadia, Calif.

Sirs: I listened to the last program of "Sound Off" with regret. It has always been one of my favorite programs. I cannot understand why it has been pushed around so much and finally is leaving the air entirely. I have seen this program twice and have listened to it every week. It seems to me it is far above the average, well directed, good artists, out of the ordinary and for a good purpose. Mark Warnow and Mr. Herbert are "tops" and Arno Tanney and the chorus are in a class by themselves.

We second your emotion, and hope you'll continue to be a rooter for "Sound Off's" return by writing request letters.

Jean Farris, Pismo Beach, Calif.

Sirs: I am an enthusiastic quiz-show listener, but if they are ever killed, here are several assassins:

- (1) The contestant who spouts, "I came in with nothing"—etc., etc.
- (2) Prolonged preliminary interviewing of contestants by emcees. Get to the questions. The private lives and observations of Mrs. Doaks don't send us.
- (3) Emcees who parrot, "Come in closer." After the umpteenth time, my blood is boiling so loud I can't hear anything.
- (4) Femcees who spasmodically avoid "r's." La-de-da and no "r's" . . . phooey!
- (5) Emcees with double entendre. Suggestiveness no longer disgusts us, it bores us stiff. Keep it clean and keep your audience.

Sirs: I heard Radio Life's staff on "Battersea Goes to Breakfast," and enjoyed it very much. I understand that you folks have quite a job trying to please everyone. I like the Ear Inspires the Pen column. It shows that people are alert to what is going on. One of my favorite programs is KNX's "You Are There." I also like KHJ's "Life Begins at Eighty."

About Your Letters

All letters to the Ear Inspires the Pen Department should include name and full address of the sender. Name and/or address will be withheld on writer's request. Opinions expressed in the letters printed are those of the senders and do not necessarily reflect the opinion of Radio Life.

Lily La Rocco, 1255 North Gordon Street, Hollywood 38, Calif.

Sirs: I am writing with regard to Ken Carson, one of the best singers on the air today. When he sings his Lustre Creme Shampoo commercials, it makes you feel as if you could eat it, like ice cream.

I have written over 100 cards and letters to different radio stations for his benefit, and working at a movie studio myself, have had all the girls write cards also. I even wrote to the Lustre Creme Shampoo's agency in Chicago, Illinois, about giving him his own program, as he is worthy of one and his voice can't be beat. Why can't Ken Carson get a good break, and show listeners he has what it takes to put any program over? He has the voice, looks and personality all in one. I'll keep my fingers crossed, and maybe my wishes will come true. Who knows? Good luck, Ken. I'll always be rootin' for yuh, pal.

Bill Matthews, 2418 Redondo Blvd., Los Angeles 16, Calif.

Sirs: On bended knees I ask you, why must we here on the Coast always have to pay (so far as radio is concerned) when people back east go on Daylight Saving Time? Upon looking through this week's issue of Radio Life, I find that all the best evening programs on the air are much later than usual. It makes it difficult for anyone to stay up every night until ten o'clock to hear the really good programs.

Sirs: "Noah Webster Says" is of outstanding entertainment value, and at the same time, educational. Too bad it has to be heard so late in the evening. "Everybody Wins" is absolutely littered with commercials, which give this family "Commercial Hangover."

Harold J. Hebert, 140 Virginia Avenue, Pico, Calif.

Sirs: Quiz giveaways are not going to fade out, notwithstanding the wishes of Fred Allen, et al, to the contrary. It's easy to understand Fred's animosity, if you'll first read the Hooper dope on what a big giveaway did to Fred's rating, in the October issue of American Mercury, (page 433). But what is needed, really, is a new type of quiz show, with a courageous emcee (Henry Morgan would be the ideal, if he'd take the job), and title the show "Dolts Don't Win." 'Twould cop a number one Hooper in less than three weeks and no fooling.

Sirs: I am a mystery fan, although I love and understand opera and the classics and have attended operas since childhood. But regarding the famous mystery programs, they are all now broadcast around 6:00 p.m. What an utterly asinine hour for such programs. At that time, I am either in the kitchen preparing meals, eating dinner, or trying to keep it hot for the delayed persons. It is a foregone conclusion that one cannot concentrate on those programs, and cook and prepare meals at the same time. Furthermore, I have only one radio, and it is in the front room. Just why they must be broadcast around 6:00 or 7:00 p.m. I do not quite understand.

Delores Feeney, Director, Jack Smith's Fan Club Guild, 1827 South Bronson, Los Angeles 6, Calif.

Sirs: On behalf of Jack Smith's Fan Club Guild, and certainly all Jack Smith fan clubs, I'd like to express our thanks to your magazine for the article, "Singing Columbus," which appeared in the September 26 Radio Life. Several articles on Jack have been printed in your magazine . . . all good ones . . . the kind we Smith fans like to see. We only hope there'll be more in the near future. They're all for a wonderful guy!

Vida McConnell, 2120 Cortada Street, El Monte, Calif.

Sirs: Would you please publish the title of the music that is played at the halfway point in the "Red Ryder" program?

That melody is an original composition, written especially for the series by Robert Armbruster, and has no title. The opening and closing theme is titled "The Dying Cowboy."

Tuesday night is date night on KFI. First, you have "A Date With Judy" at 6:30 p.m. By the time you've figured out Judy's adolescent philosophy of love and Oogie, Bob Hope will be on tickling your funnybones for a full half-hour in his brand new show beginning at 7:00 p.m. Doris Day and Billy Farrell are the featured vocalists, Les Brown's band and announcer Hy Averback.

Nephew Benny's Uncle Richard

A Short Chronicle of Dick Haynes, Who Differs From the Singer of Similar Name In Spelling as Well as in Personality!

THE CORN IS GREEN," if it's off the cob of tall, merry "Haynes at the Reins," variously identified to his listeners as "The Ghost of Joe Miller," "The Favorite of Old Jokes at Home" and/or Nephew Benny's Uncle Richard.

Dick Haynes (pul-leez, not to be confused with Haymes) clatters around the KLAC microphone every morning from six to nine. To keep his show galloping while he's "At the Reins," he heists himself into a shebang of personalities and indulges in remarkable conversations.

As "Ima Fowl," he's the little red hen who's laid so many eggs she's eggs-asperated. As "Gumdrop Gus," he's strictly the "duh" guy from Hunger. As "Alesandro," he has a "si señor" accent. As "The Talking Dog," he barks a mean joke, such as the one about the pup who got into an accident and who yapped, as they sewed up his side, "Well, well. A stitch in time saves canine." As "Sir Chester Drawers" he's sort of a Southern Englishman. And as "Nephew Benny," he's an imitation of his real little nephew, Benny, who lives in Texas, attends seventh grade and wants to grow up and be on the radio just like his Uncle Richard.

Who's Whom

With all these characters involved, it's slight wonder that folks might be further baffled by the lively legend of "Is Dick Haynes Dick Haymes? Or is Dick Haymes Dick Haynes?"

As if their names weren't enough: Dick Haynes went to school with Harry James, with whose band Dick Haymes later sang. Both Haynes and Haymes are tenor-baritones, although Dick Haynes seldom sings now. Dick Haymes has a brother named Bob, and so does Dick Haynes. "And my brother Bob sings, and so does his, you might add, since the Bobs are bobbing up. Also, my mother's name is Margaret, and his mother's name is Margaret." When Dick Haymes became a father, Dick Haynes received the congratulations. Dick Haynes gets Dick Haymes's fan mail, and vice versa. "I think I have a letter in my

Fencing Is the Ticket to Agility Plus Coordination. So Says Pianist Paulena Carter, Continuing Our Series on Sports

Wednesday, 6:30 p.m.
ABC-KECA, KFMB

DAINTY Paulena Carter, of ABC's "Meredith Willson Show," practices her piano nearly four hours a day. That, anyone would agree, could lead to stodginess.

But not in the book of this gay and uninhibited girl, who has been playing with symphony orchestras since she was seven (she is now eighteen).

Paulena has always been as active as she is artistic. She goes with her parents up to Oregon every summer, for swimming and fishing in the Rogue River; she delights in a brisk horseback ride; and now, any remaining inertia in her makeup should be vanquished forever. Because this deceptively Dresden-like creature has taken up "the fastest sport there is," the international art of fencing, under the personal instructorship of Aldo Nadi, the world's foremost fencer and undefeated champion.

Paul Gallico writes, in the preface to Nadi's book, "On Fencing": "The oldest of all sports. Men have lived by the sword, and died by the sword, since the dawn of history."

Benefits Galore

Certainly a lovely advertisement for this ancient and swashbuckling art is Paulena, who admits that since becoming a fencer herself she has developed agility and muscular coordination and learned to walk almost perfectly. "No person who fences has bad posture," she affirms. "It's awfully good for anyone and wonderful for the figure. If you're a fencer your body control is about as perfect as it can be in a human being."

Paulena started her fencing lessons a year ago. The equipment she had to get at that time was durable, and totalled about thirty dollars: An Italian foil, recommended as the best type for feminine fencers; a cotton or twill jacket, heavily padded in front; long slacks, which would push up and be tight about her ankles, but allow for freedom of movement; special fencing gloves, with a strap for the blade to go through; tennis shoes, and a fencer's mask. Blades, which are constantly breaking, are her only recurrent expense.

Winning Radio Life Tour

Barbara Ford Was the Winsome Winner Of the Radio Life Contest on "What Radio Life Means to Me." Follow Her On Her Star-Packed Tour of Programs

WHEN pretty Barbara Ford of Compton wrote "Radio Life means to me: An evening's good reading and a week's good listening" and sent it in to our recent contest, she conceded to herself that she might be lucky enough to win second or third prize. Radio Life judges felt differently about it—they unanimously decided that Barbara was the first-place winner.

On these pages you can see Barbara in the process of collecting her prize, a Grand Tour of Hollywood's Radio Row. Barbara, a native of Los Angeles, had seen few radio broadcasts and had never been inside the gates of a movie studio until the day of her tour. Barbara is married (Mrs. Ken Ford is her married name) and the mother of a two-year-old daughter, Chris. She listens to the radio a great deal and knows as much about programs and personalities as a Radio Row-er.

The attractive Barbara showed Radio Life as good a time as she seemed to be having. As one station member put it: "She can come over and win our contests any time!"

This week, Radio Life starts another contest on November 15. Barbara will be rooting for all of you to enter in hopes you may be the lucky one. For particulars of the new contest, see the news section, this issue, Page 9.

KECA mike memos

By VIRGINIA WEST

Like to meet famous movie stars, educators, politicians, foreign dignitaries, and hear them chat informally about their careers . . . about the places they've seen and the interesting things they've done? Then you'll find "Bob Elson on the Century," aired on ABC-KECA every Monday thru Friday morning at 7:30, just your dish. Elson, who has interviewed everybody from Indian potatoes to Mickey Mouse, is a sportscaster of national note. However, he lets the celebrities do the bulk of the talking on his railroad program, putting himself in the position of the fellow in Century's club car who talks just enough to prime the conversational pump.

Bob Elson

"Bob Elson on the Century" is just one of KECA's daily lineup of outstanding listening. There's the quarter-hour of melody and mirth, the Zeke Manners show, which follows at 7:45, and that coast-to-coast favorite of years standing, the Breakfast Club . . . not to mention "Welcome Travelers," and the new "Kay Kyser's College of Fun and Knowledge." Another recent addition to the morning fare is that quiz show with the psychological twist, "What Makes You Tick?" Below you'll see John K. M. McCaffery, former magazine editor, who heads the entertaining and informative Monday thru Friday quarter-hour. Born in Moscow . . . Idaho . . . McCaffery has been an editor at Doubleday Doran, fiction editor for American Magazine and editor in charge of special events at MGM. He gained his enviable reputation on the air as a great ad libber and quick thinker on "Author Meets the Critics." . . . Lend an ear to his KECA-ABC show any morning at 10:15.

... Always Good Listening on 790 ...

Have you discovered KECA's terrific new news lineup which starts with Edwin C. Hill and his "Human Side of the News" at 6 p.m.? Your search for well balanced dinnertime news and commentary is over. Hill is followed by "Headline Edition," which returns to the air after several weeks absence. Next comes Hank Weaver with his "Main Street to Malibu" stories of Southern California. Try KECA's 6 to 6:30 listening any Monday thru Friday, and we think you'll tune in every weekday. . . . Globe-trotting Commander A. W. Scott, whose "Romance of the Highways" is heard on KECA-ABC every Sunday morning at 10:15, is just back from conducting a goodwill cavalcade by bus from Bakersfield to Vancouver, Canada.

... Always Good Listening on 790 ...

You've probably wondered, as I have, how Harry Salter, music chief on ABC's "Stop the Music" show, manages to find those "mystery melodies." . . .

John K. M. McCaffery

Well, Salter admits the "mystery melodies" are his biggest headache. Selecting the preliminary numbers to be played and sung is his responsibility, too, but those don't bother him! . . . "There are four requisites for mystery melodies," Salter told a reporter recently. "First, the tune must be a popular one. Second, the title should be obscure. Third, it must have a teasing quality, something that will make you say, 'Oh, I've heard that somewhere.' And the last requisite is that the tune be easily hummed or whistled." . . . Most tunes that meet these requirements, he admits, are old numbers which have been brought down to us with many different parodies. . . . "Stop the Music" is aired over KECA every Sunday night at 6, as everyone knows. . . . Incidentally, the people who are called by phone to identify the tunes have NO FOREWARNING. . . .

The calls are made while the show is on the air. . . . So, if your phone number happens to be one of the lucky ones selected . . . you'll not know it until your phone rings, while "Stop the Music" is on the air!

remake of Grace Moore's hit movie, "One Night of Love." . . . Marie Wilson may open a "comedy school" in Hollywood—now, what may that be? . . . Bing Crosby will televise on film when video hits its stride—about two years hence, he figures. . . . CBS and maybe NBC will use their summer replacement time to play recorded hit shows from the previous seasons. Thus, shows will keep their same time segment while the cast is on vacation.

Looks Like

Lionel Barrymore is putting his famous "Christmas Carol" on records for the holiday trade. . . . Bill Goodwin will repeat the role he did in "The Jolson Story" for the sequel. . . . "Manhattan Merry-Go-Round" is celebrating its seventeenth year on the air this week—doesn't seem like a year over fifty. . . . Packager Raymond R. Morgan and producer Bill Robson have flown to Paris to ask Maurice Chevalier to be their Brene-man on the planned Parisian audience-participation series. . . . Gene Norman to book name bands into the Brene-man eatery starting in December. The name will be switched to The Holiday. . . . "What's My Name?" a casualty on ABC. . . . Ransome Sherman is seen in Sonja Henie's new movie, "The Countess of Monte Cristo." . . . Sheilah Graham has been given the nod for a coast-to-coast stint on Mutual. . . . "Musical Digest" (Karl Wecker)

Welcome addition to the circle of record radio programs which deal in literate music is Dr. Karl Wecker, director of our Hollywood Bowl. Dr. Wecker joined KGFJ's "Musical Digest" last week as commentator during a portion of the program. The program is heard Sunday through Saturday from 6:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. Dr. Wecker serves as commentator Monday through Saturday from 7:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m.

Local listeners may recall that Dr. Wecker was heard in like capacity on a similar series before his Hollywood Bowl tenure. His introduction to each selection is pleasant, informative and authoritative. Details of composition and composers are dealt with in a manner palpably that of a musically astute person, not someone assuming the cloak of a musicologist for the sake of a radio script. As always, the selections played on each program are of the highest order.

Playbacks (Critical Comment)

We Point With Pride

To Joan Lorrington's thrilling performance as "Mildred" in "Of Human Bondage" on "The Ford Theatre." The audience could not refrain from spontaneous applause in the midst of her highest emotional scene and there were distinct cries of "Bravo!" at curtain-close of the also superior production.

To the Hallowe'en script of "Ozzie and Harriet." Unpretentious, but good, clean, spooky fun.

To CBS's marvelously coordinated hour of entertainment and celebrity messages saluting Governors Dewey and Warren on pre-election night.

To the "People Are Funny" spot that featured that famed Hallowe'en spook, Boris Karloff, and a lady who thought she was kissing her own husband!

We View With Alarm

... Our own reaction to "NBC's University Theatre." The plays and talent are the best. Andrew Love is an experienced director. The series has been selected as a dramatic educational aid to students of English and American literature. But somehow, (and it's possibly the adaptations or dialogue), each program leaves us with a feeling that something worthwhile has not quite been carried off.

... The set of circumstances, fault of the sponsor's product, which undermines a good show. We heard recently of a case wherein the quality of the product was so low that people who liked and listened to the program bought it once and then refused to buy it again. Thus, the well-liked show failed to sell the almost unsalable product, the sponsor dropped it and the show went off—still popular and highly Hooper-rated!

Documentary: "Hollywood Story"

Most constructive step in a long time directed toward interpreting the Hollywood film industry to its customers was CBS's hour-long documentary, "Hollywood Story," heard Wednesday, November 3 on KNX. With Sam Goldwyn's "Best Years of Our Lives" as its subject, the broadcast traced the development of the picture from an idea in Goldwyn's mind to the first release. In between came the matters of writing, adaptation, "licking the story," casting, censorship, production, etc. All phases were necessarily interpreted very broadly.

Those expecting an "expose" or a whiplash criticism must have been disappointed. Only barbs directed—and they were mild ones—were aimed at the Breen Code, exploitation and lackadaisical taste of the filmgoer. Throughout, the documentary made fascinating listening and probably did a fine job in informing the average movie patron of the gigantic task of production.

From a Hollywood standpoint, however, one fact stands out with glaring incongruity—the broadcast was not written and produced in Hollywood. It came from New York. With more directness and simplicity than a Hollywoodian, the New Yorkers involved could doubtless view the problem as a whole and interpret it to the moviegoer who has never set foot inside a studio. Nevertheless, the documentary contained several slips that a Hollywood writer could not have made. He would not have listed Greta Garbo with the Pickford-Chaplin age—their respective eras were a decade apart. He would not have written (or cast) the strident lines of Hollywood cafe crowd with loud New York character actors—the collective voice of the Hollywood hanger-on is the bored, dull drone of the pseudo-cynic.

Because the program was heard here by transcription, several obvious mis-steps were apparent. The outdated theater-studio divorce problem was posed to some length—this divorce ruling has already been settled and the studios are making ready to sell their theaters. Dr. Gallup's Audience Research Index, by which timid movie-makers chart the public's taste in titles and subject matter, was given embarrassing emphasis, considering that it was the day after the Gallup poll met disaster from the election.

Many of the touches, however, were comically true to Hollywood life. The unidentified voice of the oracle exclaiming, "The public won't go for a picture where the hero has a beard!" sounded so authentic we laughed out loud.

In an effort to get a true Hollywood viewpoint on the program, we asked a long-time studio worker what he thought of it. "It was a good show," he replied, "but they always miss the heart of the matter, don't they?"

Almost Thumbs Down

Agnes Moorehead almost turned down "Sorry Wrong Number," when it first was submitted to her as a vehicle for her appearance on "Suspense."

"I thought it was too morbid and that listeners would turn it off," she confesses, "but I was finally argued into it, for which I'm very grateful."

"Aggie" does "Sorry," the world's most famous radio play, for the fifth time on "Suspense" Thursday, November 18.

Without usurping the prerogative of our good friend Andy Mansfield, whose record column, "Notes to You," appears in each issue of Radio Life, we'd like to give in to a growing urge and make a comparison between a couple of contemporary singing stars who've hitched their wagons to old tunes and blues, with great success.

The two are Kay Starr, currently being heard over KECA, 7:30 p.m. Mondays, and Frankie Laine. Frankie has no radio show at present, but through personal appearances and records has put in about as much time with listeners as some of the other regulars.

Miss Starr has skimmed melodically through dozens of satisfying old tunes, without once presuming to re-render a classic identified with any one per-

DIALAGNOSIS

By JUNE D. PRAY

It is with anticipation of a great deal of pleasure and, we hope, a great deal of usefulness, that the Tenth District P.-T.A. inaugurates this series of columns addressed to a triple audience—its own membership, Radio Life readers, and the radio industry. In them we shall express our views on radio, both policy and programs, and our thanks go to Radio Life for its cooperation. We want broadcasters to understand our policies, and we want to encourage discrimination in selection of programs on the part of producers, sponsors, and listeners.

We begin by tossing both a bouquet and a brickbat in the direction of CBS. For eighteen years they have performed an outstanding service with their series, "American School of the Air." But despite its many awards and its nationwide recognition as the finest example of education by radio, this fall it was omitted from CBS schedules. A feeble explanation stated that this type of program had become "outmoded"! We're rather inclined to believe that education can never be outmoded, and that such a beautifully and intelligently done series could not outlive its usefulness. All 190,000 of us—members of the Tenth District P.-T.A.—want "American School of the Air" back on our logs. It was a public service program of the finest kind and did much to make the CBS franchise, granted by the people, a valid one. We request all readers who feel as we do about this program to join us in bombarding CBS with letters asking for its return. Write to William S. Paley, Chairman of the Board, Columbia Broadcasting System, New York. Send a copy to Davidson Taylor, Vice-President in Charge of Public Affairs, CBS, New York. Let there be no doubt in their minds that this is one program that should be on the air. We'll report on it further.

York. Let there be no doubt in their minds that this is one program that should be on the air. We'll report on it further.

Now a pat on the back to the Los Angeles Board of Education and Station KFAC for the series, "Radioways to Learning," heard at 1:15 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. Designed for the elementary grades, two programs a week are devoted to children's books, two to music, and one to health. They're completely delightful, designed for use both at home and in classroom, and do a fine job of stimulating interest in their subjects. While we're in a letter-writing mood, let's get off a note to the Board of Education and to KFAC expressing our appreciation for these programs. Let's be sure this series is kept on the air for many years to come.

Our interest is not by any means confined to educational programs, as will be apparent in the columns to come. The Tenth District P.-T.A. plans some interesting surveys this fall—one on the number of hours devoted to children's listening in this area, station by station—but more about them later. See you next week.

(Radio Life is happy to devote this weekly space to the Tenth District P.-T.A. Opinions expressed in this column are its own and not necessarily those held by the Editorial Department of Radio Life.)

sonality. Mr. Laine, on the other hand, is turning best sellers out like hotcakes, but we think that he has badly distorted some of the best of other people's.

We didn't personally object to what he did to "Kiss Me Again," long identified with Fritzie Scheff . . . but "Why Was I Born to Be So Black and Blue" started a slow burn (as we appreciatively remembered the Teagarden and Spanier treatments) that hit 212 Fahrenheit with the Laine record of "Singin' the Blues." Perhaps Frankie Laine doesn't realize this last has long been not only a jazz classic and strictly an instrumental, but identified with Bix himself.

So . . . maybe a lot of people like the old standards of jazz sung in pop style, and we have the privilege of not listening if we can't take it? True enough, but unburdening is such a pleasure!

TELEVISION TIPS

By JANE PELGRAM

The morning after the election, some of the local commentators on video and radio broke out their medium-sized headline type to announce that AM radio had beat TV to the punch on the returns, and that the networks have nothing to worry about from the television stations. The very words "network" and "station" negate any significance in those weighty statements.

The "networks" have spent twenty years building up a maze of cross-country wiring that would clearly carry the squeak of a mouse. The scarcely year-old television industry is not connected to the source of the political tabulating. That makes them "stations," and these stations were a bare two hours behind the nets in their presentation. Television set owners had the added privilege of seeing, by means of film shown later, what went on at the various interest centers of the whole election shenanigans. True, they didn't see it for twenty-four or forty-eight hours, but it would have been a cold day before they saw it at all on radio.

Each of the local TV outlets handled its presentation a little differently. All outdid themselves in staying on the air longer than usual.

KFI-TV employed several clever TV ideas. A deal had been afoot to have Jim Hawthorne, comical disc jockey (from ABC), and Ike Carpenter, Hawthorne's orchestra leader and straight man, join the fun and liven things up. It was the nix from Mr. Anthony himself that kiboshed this buffoonery with the balloting. KFI-TV was on from 6:00 p.m. Tuesday to 3:45 a.m. Wednesday.

KTSL added the interviewing of politicians and a visit to its ally, the Los Angeles Examiner, to the evening's totes. While this distracted from speedy figure-getting, "seeing people we have all heard frequently, like Ed Jorgenson and Harry Flannery, proved an interesting angle. KTSL beamed from 7:00 p.m. Tuesday until 4:23 a.m. Wednesday.

KTLC was high with eighteen hours of continuous telecasts. It started at 3:00 p.m. Tuesday, wound up at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday. The station took to the streets with video pickup equipment for portions of the telecast, and blessedly managed to pick interviewees less dazzled by their own chance at appearing on video than they were interested in giving a coherent, rational answer.

Prospective set buyers harboring any worry about events of this scope being dull on television should be satisfied. For the still wavering, think of what you did while you were listening to the speedier returns on radio. Probably stared all evening into the faces of a group of dear friends. We love our friends, sure, but give us a jolly, jiggling video screen that carries a person in and out of studios, newspapers, out onto the street and behind scenes everywhere when something like an election is cooking!

An announcement was made of FCC approval on sale of KLAC and KLAC-TV as a package. Likeliest purchaser is Warner Bros., who have "no comment" on the prospect. It is known that Warners underwrote the expenses of getting KLAC-TV on the air in jig time, which indicates more than a friendly interest. Oilman Ed Pauley is a possible opposition bidder. . . . Der Bingle definitely intends doing television, by means of film, for his present sponsor, Philco. In Mr. Crosby's opinion, however, video won't hit its full entertainment stride for about two more years. Unless maybe it's all baseball, huh, Bing?

KLAC-TV wisely utilizes the natural animation and glee of children at competitive play to spark a show that might come off as pretty dull stuff were adults participating. Wednesday

LIFELINES

BY EVELYN BIGSBY

THE RADIO LIFE STAFF received its election returns in the office, clustered around a Philco television set from Mr. Ed McDaniel's fine store across the street on Cahuenga Boulevard. We had anticipated a sort of "this is the first time" flavor for the evening — some of the folks remembered how early radio owners hovered over their sets years ago and invited their neighbors in to share returns on the wonderful new invention. With video, all the stations came in well, but we thought that KFI had the most legible charts and that its map of the United States, on which elephants or donkeys were pinned as results became conclusive, was a clever visual treatment augmenting ear-wearying columns of figures. Occasional breaks using Bob Mitchell's wizardry on the Hammond organ stepped up the telecast as a whole.

WE HAVE FEW CRITICISMS of the manner in which video handled its job. All the stations tried for variety, but some of the contrivances did seem to reach too far afield. Better charts and tally boards would have been worth their weight in listeners, but our main disappointment was the way television trailed plain old AM radio in smashing through with griddle-hot returns. Some die-hards in the office snapped on the regular radio while the television set was going full blast and got figures that video didn't announce for at least an hour. Anyway, "we were there" when the first real election returns came in on television. So some day we can tell our grandchildren. Also, when next election night swings around, we will have some basis for comparison. In 1952 we expect to see the anxious candidates walking the floor, we expect to see the defeated candidate actually sending the wire "conceding the election," and we expect to see the next President of the United States at the exact moment he is told the wham-bang news.

BEFORE GETTING OFF the video subject, is KTSL overlooking that swell gal, Norma Young? She should be a natural for a TV show, maybe once a week, and we bet the ladies would love to attend.

AS IF THEY DIDN'T have enough to do, advance men for Horace Heidt have more than to screen talent. They also scout two baby-sitters—one for Horace Heidt Jr. and the other for Roger Knox, baby son of the xylophone player.

WE LIKED THIS ONE: a network chap who had sung the praises of Hawthorne to his uninitiated wife returned home one evening to find her frenziedly fiddling with the dials on their radio. She was pretty upset and explained that she was trying desperately to locate the much-touted Hawthorne but that four other stations kept interfering. The hubble broke the news: That was no interference. Just a typical Hawthorne record routine.

Television Tips

night's "Hail the Champ" guests are chosen from mail returns . . . the kids tell why they want to be champ. One wanted to sit on Roy Rogers' horse, another wanted to visit the Trojan bench at the USC-Notre Dame game. Once in the studio the five boys and five girls, generally aged from seven to ten, are divided into teams and compete for the championship in not very complex but very lively games such as sack races, egg races, balancing feats, etc. Winners of each feat go onto the "Champ course," an adolescent obstacle course. Everyone, all evening long, has prizes lavished on him. Shirts, cameras, record albums, balls, bats—all kinds of fine items. The show doesn't prove a thing . . . unless maybe that director Boonshaft and cameramen John De Moss and Arch Griffin are enjoying it as much as the kids. They must be, to manipulate people and cameras in such a fashion that the fun spirit isn't lacking for a second.

Emcee Herb Allen serves as "head coach."

KLAC-TV Football, Channel 13; Saturday, November 20, U.S.C. vs. U.C.L.A. The old rivals are televised by KLAC during the afternoon game.

KFI-TV Football, Channel 9; Thursday, November 18, Los Angeles Rams vs. New York Giants. Game played in New York, telecast by film between 8:00 and 9:00 p.m. here.

KLAC POWER UP

Don Fedderson, general manager of KLAC and KLAC-TV, announced this week that KLAC's new 5,000 watt transmitter, located near the Los Angeles General Hospital, will be in operation very soon.

Increasing the power from 1,000 to 5,000 watts will improve the service and quality of the 570-kc signal, the management feels. The latest in equipment has been used, in addition to a 430-foot transmitter tower.

WHERE IT HURTS

When Jeff Heath, star outfielder of the Boston Braves, broke his ankle in a game with the Brooklyn Dodgers, "Mutual Newsreel" reporter John Bosman conducted a phone interview with the ball-player as he lay in the hospital. Heath concluded the interview by thanking Bosman. "Forget it," replied Bosman. "This was a tough assignment for me." "How come?" wondered Heath. "Because I'm a Dodger fan," explained Bosman, "and you murdered us this season."

ALARMIST

"Mother! You're on the radio!" cried Jean Leslie's young son, when he turned to KNX one recent Sunday morning. It developed that the youngster had heard Roy Rowan, who also announces "Find That Clue" (on which Jean is a panel-member), and who was just finishing his copy for another KNX show, "Behind the Lens."

WRITTEN WORDS

CBS newsmen Eric Sevareid, author of "Not So Wild a Dream," breaks into print in more ways than one of late. His home is featured in the November issue of House and Garden, and a transcription of a Sevareid broadcast made from London in 1945 is included in Carl Sandburg's newest book, "Remembrance Rock."

HERSHOLT FILMS

Motion pictures taken by Jean Hersholt, Columbia's "Dr. Christian," during his recent visit to Europe, will soon be available for sixteen-millimeter showings. The films feature King Frederick of Denmark, Louella Parsons and Edgar Bergen (visitors in Europe at the time) and ex-Hollywoodites Lars Hanson and Victor Seastrom.

pocket right now," Dick interrupts this narrative. "Yep, here 'tis. Usually do."

With professional pride, both gentlemen have clung to their original handles. "Why not?" Dick demands fiercely. "I've had mine just as long as he's had his." To save extra confusion, Dick rhymes the names of most of his shows. (He can make up jingles chop-chop.) One of his most popular shows in Beaumont, Texas, was called "Meet the Trains With Dick Haynes"; and plus his "At the Reins" and "Studio Frolic" hostings at KLAC, he has had a KFVD feature, "Haynes Entertains."

Dick co-stars in blackface with Jimmy Scribner on the new television show, "Mississippi Minstrels," where he's known as "Happy Haynes." In the Al Jarvis "Make Believe Ballroom" movie now in production at Columbia, he plays an announcer and disc jockey.

But it's on his morning show that Dick puts forth the most unabashed exertion and humor. And seems to have the most fans. One morning he received 4400 letters on a single giveaway. Among his constant listeners are Claude Jarman Jr., who calls him "Cornin' in the Mornin'"; Mickey Rooney, who frequently shows up as a guest, and Betty Garrett, who suggested a new character for one of Dick's impersonations, "Bernie La Toast."

Dick runs his own turntables (four of them), answers the phone, shouts at the engineer to keep him awake, makes an accounting log, gives the correct time every three minutes, plays music "on the brighter side," and reads the 6 and 7 a.m. newscasts. He admits he's never prepared, but is looking through old Whiz Bangs and his fantastic collection of jokes for new gags between every record. "I get up every morning ahead of my ulcers," he adds.

He has been married for twelve years "to a very sweet girl named Bobbie. Everybody loves her . . . you meet Bobbie, you wouldn't talk to me. Yeah, she's the reason I work so hard."

Control Yourself!

portant requirements in the amateur, she found. "You can't approach fencing with a lackadaisical attitude."

She quickly overcame any nervousness about the sport. "It's not at all dangerous," she smiles. "There's never a serious accident of any kind when you follow the rules. The blades are tipped, and it is very incorrect to fence without a mask."

The combat procedures of fencing are too involved for a skimming summary here. But as a novice, Paulena is mastering the basic positions and motions, which later evolve into hundreds of combination parries and attacks.

To precede fencing, Paulena stands with her right foot pointed toward her opponent, and her left foot parallel to it. She salutes, bringing her sword (which has been pointed straight at the ceiling) down in front of her right eye and away to the right of her, making a whistling sound with it and almost, but not quite, hitting the floor. (Touching floor with sword is a faux pas.)

She puts on her mask and assumes the "On Guard" pose; her left arm up and arched out behind her "like a scorpion's tail," her right arm bent and relaxed, her feet still at right angles but apart about one and a half steps-length, her knees bent and her body straight. Her head must not tilt backward, even though it is held high.

Set? Go!

Then the official fencing may begin. A bout for women is four touches (men's bout is five) on the valid targets of the body. "Too-shay," incidentally, is a pronunciation part movie and part French, and the accepted version is "touch." A correct touche is made with the tip of the sword on the body target, the length of the weapon bent and curving downward.

A novice should be ready for competition after two or three years of fencing with a teacher and other students. The Local, Pacific and National Division tournaments are anticipated events in fencing, and of course the Olympic and World championships are the shining goal. Paulena's instructor, Aldo Nadi, has defended and kept his title twenty-four times.

"But you go into fencing more for experience than for winning," says Paulena. "And of course, no matter how badly you are beaten, you must always salute, remove your mask, shake hands and smile."

A SPORTY SHOWING

After a very successful personal appearance tour this summer, The Sportsmen have returned to one of their biggest radio seasons to date.

Along with Jack Benny in the two Sunday Lucky Strike spots, the quartet will be with Eddie Cantor for its fifth year and Judy Canova for the fourth, and will also continue to sing with Phil Harris and Alice Faye in their new series for Rexall.

THE SHOW COMES FIRST

The "show must go on" tradition got a workout at NBC's "Great Gildersleeve" broadcast recently when veteran actor Richard LeGrand, hurrying to morning rehearsal, tripped and fell, fracturing his right collar bone. He received emergency treatment, did both East and West repeat shows . . . then returned to the hospital!

RECORD NOTES TO YOU

BY ANDY MANSFIELD

ALBUM OF THE WEEK: Camarata conducts the Kingsway Symphony Orchestra in four superb twelve-inch sides comprising "Camarata Concert" . . . "Selecting four of the most famous arias, "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice" (Samson and Delilah), "One Fine Day" (Madame Butterfly), "They Call Me Mimi" and "Musetta's Waltz" (La Boheme) and presenting them instrumentally, Camarata deftly weaves the melodies of opera in such expert fashion that they lose none of their beauty. . . . In fact, the solo instruments replacing the voices seem to bring forth new charm in this marvelously recorded Chord in G item (London). . . . RECORD OF THE WEEK: Remember the poem we learned in school that starts "Over the river and through the wood, to grandmother's house we go"? Harry Simeone has set this old favorite to music as presented by Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians on two sides of a twelve-inch unbreakable Decca. . . . As usual, Waring's interpretation of "Grandma's Thanksgiving" is flawless, both instrumentally and vocally. . . . For a little trip back to long ago, may we recommend this unusual three-noter? . . . RHYTHM: Phil Green and his orchestra have an interesting experiment on an eight-sided London album called "Rythm on Reeds." . . . Ellington's "Mood Indigo," "Creole Love Call" and "Caravan" are especially effective in the whispy Green combo of flute, oboe, clarinet, accordion, guitar, bass and drums. . . . Sound unusual? Refreshingly so . . . and it's that quiet rhythm on reeds that rates the three-note touch. . . .

GIRL VOCAL: At long last Evelyn Knight has a song that might be the much-needed boost for her particular brand of song-styling—the rhythmic hand-clapping "A Little Bird Told Me," ably assisted by the Stardusters vocal group and rhythm. Reverse "Brush Those Tears From Your Eyes" also smacks of the open range, but don't sell Evvie short on this pair of Decca double-noters. . . . MALE VOCAL: Frank Sinatra has two on the quiet-but-deep side in "Autumn in New York" and "Once Upon a Moonlight Night"—and the Voice does right well by 'em. . . . Stordahl's lush accompaniment showcases Sinatra's lyrics to great advantage—it's Frankle's best in many a moon and a Columbia triple-noter. . . . NOVELTY: Doris Day and Buddy Clark walked away with "That Certain Party" . . . it's cute—the chillun had lots of fun making it—and this double-noter might easily duplicate their "Love Somebody" for Columbia.

THIS GIVES SOME IDEA OF WHAT THE ANNOUNCER has to describe, in such a manner that we less skilled can imagine what has taken place. Study the picture of this off-tackle smash with Rams ball carrier Fred Gehrke shaking off the Cardinals' man to go nine yards. Now try to describe it quickly and concisely. (Vic Stein photo.)

JACK ZILLY, former Notre Dame star now with the Los Angeles Rams, takes a pass from Bob Waterfield, also of the Rams. A play like this is the signal for close attention and fast talk on Mr. Hanlon's part.

If the Word "Scrimmage" Sounds, to You, More Like Dress Material Than a Football Term, Don't Even Try To Listen to a Football Game Until You Have Followed All These Timely Tips From Tom Hanlon on . . .

"How to Listen to A Football Game"

One Sunday night more than twenty years ago, a Springfield, Missouri, high-school football player hitched a ride to church on a truck. The vehicle was delivering someone's brand new De Forest crystal set, and the hitchhiker's future was sealed after a single peep under the wraps of this wondrous wireless.

From that day on, Tom Hanlon thought day and night of radio. He listened with earphones all night long and practiced announcing all day. He had already been chosen All-Missouri High School Tackle by coaches and newspaper sports editors state-wide, but pursuing even this beloved career went by the boards for a crack at radio.

Today Tom Hanlon is firmly entrenched in etherdom, and is better known to the world that follows football than he would have been had he made the game his profession. His five-day-a-week KNX sportscast at 5:15 p.m. is brodered by a rowdy midnight hour of music, fun and prizes. Each air show has an almost violent following that allows no mention of another sportscaster or record player in the same breath with their favorite, Hanlon!

Too, for several years Tom has assisted in those booths high atop the Rams' games. Hanlon is one of the few men we know who can talk about football and line weights in one breath, about home permanents in another. Whenever you hear Rexall airing the Rams' games, you'll also hear Hanlon helping Kelley make football breathe.

Can you think of anyone we could have better asked . . . "Uh, can you give us a few ideas on how to listen to a football game?"

Monday-Saturday, 5:15 p.m.
CBS-KNX

FIRST of all, any radio listener with regard for his blood pressure should take into consideration that an announcer's first duty is to follow the ball. He doesn't have time to satisfy all the alums who are pulling for the old home team. Naturally he talks about the team that's carrying the ball. A good shellacking to the old home-town team isn't the fault of the sportscaster, so either listen dispassionately to him or forget him. I know a lot of my fellow broadcasters, who have received almost threatening letters, will thank me for that mention!

"I think one of the most important things, whether it be for casual listening or for the avid fan-to-be, is boning up on football terms. If someone sufficiently sports-minded lives at your house, you're set. Sports fans are always delighted to help another person out. And right now the woods are full of giveaway pamphlets that tell game schedules, team line-ups, old scores . . . all manner of information. A lot of oil stations have these sports booklets.

RADIO STARS, like everyone else, never become too busy or too famous to drop everything and talk about or pose with their cherished pets.

A thousand-dollar-an-hour rehearsal can stop, lines can be forgotten and important sponsors can wait when a headliner gets on the subject of his dog, his bird, his horse, or even his fish. To prove this, some of the NBC personalities gladly shared the lens with little companions of theirs. Some are unusual, some are not, but woe to the careless soul who challenges a fond owner's belief that his pet isn't "a very smart fellow."

H UMPHREY BOGART, Bette Davis, Gregory Peck, Ginger Rogers, Barbara Stanwyck and Robert Taylor—how star-studded can a radio series get? "The Family Hour of Stars," comedy-drama program which replaced the musical "Family Hour," has all these luminaries in its line-up.

By utilizing filmdom's top stars and radio's most important writers, the program is bringing good theater into homes across the nation. Scripts, for the most part, are original material, but familiar dramas identified with the starring personalities will be adapted for radio.

First two shows of the series revealed the scale of entertainment charted by the program powers. Gregory Peck starred in the initial offering, "John Jones, Vice President," a light romantic comedy with Betty Lou Gerson, top radio actress. Second program had Robert Taylor in "The Long Way Home," a moving mystery-drama. A bonus star, in the person of Ray Milland, was signed during the third week of airing.

Musical accompaniment for "The Family Hour of Stars" is provided by Carmen Dragon and his orchestra. Truman Bradley is the announcer, Ken Burton producer, and Jack Johnstone director. Our cover girl, Bette Davis, will appear on the show on Sunday, November 14.

"I Take My Pen in Hand"

By Frank Hemingway

An Open Letter From Hemingway to His Fans

Monday-Friday, 4:15 p.m.
Saturday, 6:00 p.m.
MBS-KHJ, KFXM, KGB

I ALWAYS like those nice, plushy novels that open with a description of the lady heroine, gowned in a purple peignoir, leisurely reading her morning mail, while she breakfasts in bed. After a light breakfast of melon-on-ice, fresh mushrooms on toast, fried trout, ham-and-eggs, a strawberry waffle, hot rolls and (Folger's) coffee, she takes her pen in hand, and replies to those epistles on her delicately perfumed stationery.

Now, I don't want you folks to think that I do not enjoy reading my letters as much as the lady in the purple peignoir. But as that inexorable fiend, my alarm clock, insistently tears me out of bed six mornings a week at five o'clock (Daylight Saving Time) before any decent rooster is aroused from his slumber, I have little time for answering my fan mail in supine comfort. But, the more that pile of unanswered mail grew, the more I stayed awake nights worrying about it. But before I could become a complete victim of insomnia, Radio Life came to the rescue with the welcome suggestion that I write this open letter, answering your most-often-asked questions at one time.

So I am taking my pen in hand to answer in all seriousness the questions that you ask me. And as I am what I am because of my good friend and collaborator, writer Lee Wood, here is the question I'm going to lead off with.

(1) Why do you have a writer?

You'd be surprised how many people ask that. The truth of the matter is that it is standard broadcast procedure for newscasters to have writers. Commentators who give their views of the news often write their own scripts. But newscasters have writers, not because they are born lazy, as you may think, but as my own writer, Lee Wood, puts it, "to insure complete objectivity which is essential for straight news." All kidding aside, writing a newscast is like editing a newspaper. And I am mighty proud of the fact that Lee Wood is one of the topnotch radio newswriters in the game, and that he never gives me a "staple job." He actually writes the whole program, does not simply use the stories verbatim as they come over the wires.

While our program is a newscast and therefore must be entirely unbiased in its viewpoint, still, as most of you constant listeners already know, we like to be sure it IS news before we broadcast it as such. And we dearly love to debunk rumors and unverified news reports. And that leads me smack into the second most-asked question.

(2) Why do you take sides on important matters?

Answer—we don't! But being objective is a hard job. Especially during election years Democrats accuse all newsmen of being Republicans, and vice versa. The reason is obvious.

(Please Turn to Page 39)

▲ LEE WOOD, Frank Hemingway's writer, with sixty seconds to go to air-time, makes script corrections writing upside down with both hands. And it's not a gag—Lee IS ambidextrous, and can write upside down!

It is accepted newscast practice to give equal space to BOTH sides of a controversial issue. So, if we give ten lines of a newscast favorable to the Republicans we must give ten to the Democrats. The best test is when you get an equal number of letters saying you are partial to each side. Then you know you are hewing to the middle of the line. So remember, next time you listen to a newscast—your newspaper can and often does have political sympathies, one way or another, and can take issue on foreign or domestic affairs by "slanting" its stories. A newscaster cannot, and will not.

But now, on the lighter side, comes this most-often-asked question.

(3) Why do you use dialects?

Well, you know that old saying, once a ham, always a ham. Yeah—I started out as a Shakespearean actor. Did several seasons on the road with a stock company, too. Now and again still play a "heavy" or a character part in radio dramas. So, one day when news was dull and we had a long quotation from some Japanese statesman, I could not resist the temptation to use dialect. I feared the worst. But the people loved it. And my sponsors liked it so much, too, they gave me the "go" signal.

Other newscasts stress the importance of various news items. But we like to be sure that the items are told in an interesting manner. I think it is George Bernard Shaw who has a famous quip to the effect that the worst sin you can commit is to be a deadly bore. Well, we realize that even serious news, especially when the situation is highly complex, can sound pretty boring. So, we try to liven it with dialects, anecdotes, and other devices. That's probably why the kids like us—and we're awfully proud that they do! A special note of thanks to all you kids who have written me so many letters. I treasure them very highly, believe me.

(4) Why did you mispronounce the name of my town?

Well, maybe my face should be red. But say—how do you pronounce Los Angeles? Nearest we can come to the "right" pronunciation is the accepted pronunciation which phonetically sounds something like this: Loss An-je-less. But that's a far cry from the correct Spanish pronunciation, which is something like this: Lohs Ahng-hay-layss.

Not to evade the issue, the same sort of thing happens when your home town pops up in the news. Here in the West a person would have to know thousands of towns intimately to know how to pronounce them all correctly. But the listeners in the towns just can't understand how anyone could possibly mispronounce names like Hueneme, Hoquiam, or Clatskanie. Lee Wood and I both make every effort to find out the correct pronunciation in advance. We have five or six pronunciation guides, and the men in our newsroom have worked in many Western states. Even then, we sometimes find out we were wrong, and you write to tell us. But we try not to make the same mistake twice.

(5) Can you send me a copy of the script for—?

We get many requests for scripts, and usually the answer is "no." Each script has about 2,000 words, and there is only one copy—the copy I use to broadcast from. It would be a lot of work to send out all the scripts asked for. However, when something unusually appealing is presented and a number of requests are received, we make a special effort to comply. Last Christmas a little item about "a boy" received hundreds of unsolicited requests. By the way, here is a tip for you, when you are writing to me or anyone else to ask for an excerpt from a news broadcast, be sure to give date and time of broadcast. Often requests cannot be handled because they say "several weeks ago you mentioned"—and after two shows a day, six days a week, it is hard to remember just when we did use a specific story.

(6) Why do you offer premiums?

This is a question that should properly be answered by my sponsors or their advertising agency. But this is the way I feel about those premiums. There isn't much use of my sponsors spending hundreds of thousands of dollars to put me on the air over sixty-seven stations, twice a day, six days a week, unless I can help them sell their products. And if premiums are a help to them in selling their products, then I'm tickled to death to tell you about them.

White King made a gardener out of me, with their various ranunculus, gladiolus and iris bulb offers. And as for Folger's—just take a look at these pictures, and you'll be able to see that I "took my pen in hand" literally! And some pen it is, if you ask me!

the game, I'd suggest Spalding's Official Football Guide. This way you get all the rules of the game as you go along. And don't think those aren't important. They change . . . remember last year, when the Rams had a play that made their tackle, Hoffman, eligible to receive a pass? How many people realized that could be allowed?

"Now . . . how many football games have you seen or listened to?"

Your scribe, unable to calculate so rapidly, blurted out some ridiculous number in the thousands. Mr. Hanlon beamed approval of such enthusiasm, then made a point.

Fine Points

"Uh huh . . . apparently you like the game. But can you picture, clearly enough to define them absolutely, the difference between two such common plays as a 'touchback' and a 'safety'?"

Our triumphant answer, that a "touchback" scores no points while a "safety" scores two points, fooled nobody. To hide our shame we quickly suggested that Mr. Hanlon give us a simple layman's explanation of the two terms.

"Sure. The primary difference between the two plays is the impetus by which the ball is moved across the goal line. In a touchback the impetus is from the offensive, and may be the result of a misplaced attempt at a field goal, or it may be a bit of strategy.

"Now, on a 'safety.' Say U.C.L.A. (the offense) had the ball on the two-yard line, and their back took the ball, but was tackled by a Trojan of U.S.C. (the defending team) and thrown, by the force of the tackle, across the goal line. That could count two points for the defense, the Trojans. Got the picture?"

We nodded hurriedly and got back onto safer ground. "Well, Tom, how about charts of lineups and plays, and so on?"

"No . . . the day of the charts seems to be gone. Very few people I know keep a chart. It precludes eating popcorn with one hand and pounding friends on the head with the other," he grinned.

"Seriously, though, I wouldn't suggest charts for the simple reason that you soon find you're watching the paper more than paying attention to the game, and it takes quite some training to be able to do both."

Three Rules

"I guess the best tips I can give on football listening are the simple ones. . . . One: Don't wander through the house and try to listen to a game at the same time. Two: Listen to the announcer, and to the color announcing at the half. If you don't understand what's being said, ask someone who does know . . . or, that failing, get a good booklet of terms and rules, and brush up on the main ones. And last of all is what I said almost first of all. Don't get all excited and blame the announcer if the team of your choice isn't winning. You'll just get all upset and learn to loathe listening to football."
