THE REAL FRANK REMLEY!

The Ear Inspires the Pen

Mrs. Virginia Powell, 501 North Ivar, Temple City, Calif.

Sirs: In your "Ear Inspires" I read the criticism of Walter O'Keefe's neglecting a young lady. Well, this is the first time I have felt that I must write in defense of any radio show, as they very rarely need defending. However, I am a real fan of radio shows and visit them as often as possible. Now I wish to say to that young lady who felt so left out because she couldn't afford a "fantastic hat" that I was chosen as a contestant on his show this past August, and the hat I was wearing was a light gray and orchid ring that sat clear back on my head almost covered by my hair. And I am not a Follies beauty, and I was in the next to the last row on the left and clear over by the wall, and consequently I was in a very bad spot to be chosen. But I think he looks for a slight show of hands. Some of those people look as if they would hit him in the face to attract attention. I had never been on the radio before in my life, and he immediately put me at ease. For my money, he is the most considerate, humorous . . . the best emcee in the business. I have the record of the program, and truly get a kick out of his ad-libs.

Ed Sterling, KGLU, Safford, Arizona

Sirs: It's been some time since I've been in correspondence or communication with Radio Life magazine. About a year ago, when I was a student at Los Angeles City College in the radio department, I hounded Evelyn Bigsby constantly for publicity on our college radio productions. Now I'm a staff announcer and recently promoted to promotion manager of station KGLU. You might be interested to know that Radio Life is well received here in Safford (population 5500) and being from L.A. myself and interested in radio (natch!) I pick up a copy of your mag each week at the local Rexall store which is always supplied. Being that KGLU carries the identical shows that KFI does, sans local originations, the magazine is very popular. By the way, listeners in eastern Arizona have only one station to listen to in the daytime! At night clear and steady signals are received from KNX and KFI, with tremendous reception from KFVB and KFAC, after 11 p.m. Quite a far cry from the selective listening you have on the coast.

Jenny Liville, 2927 Altura Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: "Nora Drake" is my favorite story. I would like to see a picture of her and the rest of the characters in the play. Also, I would like to know if the girl that plays "Nora" also sings the Toni commercial. Bill Collum, or is it Collins, the announcer, has a pleasing voice. Would it be asking for too much if I asked for a picture of him also?

Joan Tompkins

Joan Alexander

Bill Cullen

Julie Conway

Julie Conway sings the Toni commercials on both "Nora Drake" and "Crime Photographer." Joan Tompkins enacts "Nora," and Joan Alexander is second lead, "Peg Martinson." Bill Cullen announces the series. Herewith, the whole gang.

Viola Ward, Fortune, Calif.

Sirs: We like most of the programs, and Dennis Day made us perk up recently when he went Western in a big way. Dennis could be called amazing, too, as he did a fine job of singing like Sophie Tucker and all the others on one program. I am so glad we have a magazine that gives us so many interesting articles about the radio people, and I really enjoy the Flashbacks. In fact, we enjoy everything in the magazine, and feel sorry for you folks when the time is changed or new programs are put on to replace others, and some people complain to you when it takes a lot of time and work to do all you have to do to get the magazine so complete.

Judy Maxwell, 5381 West Alegria Avenue, Sierra Madre, Calif.

Sirs: I sympathize with Mrs. Bickels' reaction to "The Hawthorne Thing," though I do not agree with her. Hawthorne is a fairly heady diet for one used to the more polished radio fare, and necessitates a gradual education, a dawning on the consciousness, as it were, which cannot be acquired overnight. Any more than one can develop a taste for olives at first bite. But let her persevere and she will find it worth the effort.

May I disagree with Lois Callahan and her opinion of Gene Norman? I think most of his records are quite distressingly commercial; but far from being pompous or stuffed shirt, he has a very nice relaxed personality which puts his visitors at their ease, as those who have been on his "Selecta-Collecta" program can testify. And bless the man . . . he delivers such beautifully terse plugs for the product!

Florence Davidson, La Crescenta Piano Studio, La Crescenta, Calif.

Sirs: We have been ardent listeners of "The King's Men" for many years and are always delighted whenever they are on a program that permits more than one of their cleverly arranged songs. Having recently heard them on "All-Star Western Theater" (KFI), I thought it would be a good idea to "broadcast" about this program to others who would enjoy them. Bob Turner of Loma Linda, California, whose letter appeared recently in Radio Life, should find this program interesting. Hillbilly and blues singing do not agree with me very well! I also want to say I enjoyed your article on "The King's Men" a while back.

Rolland Morris, Los Angeles 26, Calif.

Sirs: For some time now, I have felt I just had to write and express my enthusiasm concerning the NBC "University Theatre" program. I have thus far shied from doing so because, as a radio actor, it seemed difficult to assume the role of the average listener writing in.

However, as a radio actor, I feel I possibly enjoy the show even more than most listeners! For certainly I can appreciate the artistry in all divisions of production that makes the show, in my opinion, the best radio since the war. For this and other reasons, I try never to miss "University Theatre." I class it far and above the highly-touted "Theater Guild," "Lux," "Ford Theatre," and their glossy kind. My heart is grateful to Mr. Andrew Love, the producer, who, it would seem, has closed his eyes to the "names," and cast his scripts liberally with those people in radio who rarely have the opportunity to show what they can do. The difference lies, I think, in the fact that he is willing and has the time to create good radio, searching for and working with the actor if necessary, instead of merely calling in a group that requires no more from a director than cues and cuts, and assembling the various components that please the sponsor.

It is little wonder that dramatic shows do not rank higher on the popularity lists. The radio listener is anything but the boob certain factions in the industry classify him. The same person who attends and enjoys the theatre, adult motion pictures, can certainly and does give time to listening to radio fare high in production and performance values, especially when it is uncluttered with personalities and the same familiar voices heard on any of a dozen other shows.

Ned Mauston, 1138 Screenland Drive, Burbank, Calif.

Sirs: Here is an idea for a program that would pay off for some sponsor. Parker Fennelly ("Titus Moody" on the Fred Allen show) as a news commentator, with asides in his homey way about every item. His rural, Vermontish voice is a natural for a take-offer on the day's news. The sponsor could be a mail order firm, or farm implement or nursery outfit. A sell-out.

Mrs. Mary Pennell, 9316 Elizabeth Avenue, South Gate, Calif.

Dink Trout

Sirs: Would you please print a picture of Dink Trout of the Dennis Day program? I think he is a fine actor, and I would like to see what he looks like.

Max Stern, Los Angeles 16, Calif.

Sirs: I don't like to ridicule anyone, but I can't help this. A Mrs. Bickels is a little disgusted, according to her letter, with our pal, "Hawthorne." May I say to Mrs. Bickels that if she does not like "Hawthorne" she does not have to listen to him? Personally, I think he is very funny sometimes. Where is "Escape"? It was one of the best mystery-horror shows on the radio. Mr. William Spier was, and still is, one of my favorite radio directors. I think your "Flashbacks" are very interesting; in fact, the first thing I look at when I get Radio Life. One more question: Who plays "Martha" on the Milton Berle show? We often wonder about that.

"Escape" is available no more, until the network, perchance, returns it. Producer Bill Spier, however, is now directing "Philip Morris Playhouse" for CBS Friday nights. Pert Kelton plays both "Tallulah Feeny" and "Martha" on the Milton Berle show.

J.M.D., Monrovia, Calif.

Sirs: Recently, I heard Art Baker on his "Notebook" announce that, beginning December 20, he would no longer be heard on KFI, but on another station, which for ethical reasons he could not mention. I have never been able to understand the ethics of this ethical situation, which forbids the mention of any station by another station. Can you explain it?

The "ethics" of the ethical situation are that one station simply considers it green death to give another station an out-and-out "plug." Unless a sponsor has specifically requested permission in his original contract to override this horror of horrors and mention other stations which carry his programs, you will find this general policy adhered to by all.

R. G. Humphrey, 2041 Darby Street, San Bernardino, Calif.

Sirs: I have read your fine article on Bob Kelley and Tom Hanlon, and liked it very much. But I have one question to ask: What's the matter with the swell sports announcers we have here in San Bernardino? I think that the football broadcasts by Dave Shaw and Leo Cross over station KRNO are as good as any in the Los Angeles area.

Nothing is the matter with the sports announcers in San Bernardino, so far as we know, nor with the other qualified sports announcers on the many large and small stations in this area. However, our Bob Kelley and Tom Hanlon stories were representative, until we can perhaps start a sports announcer series, and your two favorites will be added to that tentative list.

California Broadcasting Co.

"Johnny Murray Talks It Over" is one of KFI's most popular late afternoon programs. You know why? Each afternoon, Monday through Friday, at 4:15 P.M. Johnny reviews the magazines you read in your home these cool evenings.

Every month Johnny goes over at least 175 magazines, digesting the articles and stories into easily listenable radio entertainment.

Johnny Murray

Johnny is an avid reader and you'll like the way he tells what he considers good reading. He's built up his audience from the more than 2500 "Johnny Murray Talks It Over" broadcasts in Southern California since 1939.

Give "Johnny Murray Talks It Over" a trial on KFI at 4:15 any Monday through Friday afternoon. It's a cinch you'll become another of Johnny's vast audience.

KFI — AM — FM — TV

If you're the stay-up-late type of radio listener, you're probably hunting around for a good newscast around 11:00 P.M. every night. Of course there may be other newscasts on the air at that time, but only KFI has Ted Meyers.

And there is a story in itself, for Ted Meyers has the smoothest type of delivery on the radio today. There's nothing glamorous about a newscast, of course, but when you hear "Eleventh Hour News" any Monday through Friday night on KFI, you get the feeling that Ted is talking only to you. He has a smooth, clear, concise delivery when he brings you the latest headlines from the KFI newsroom.

Catch "Eleventh Hour News" any Monday through Friday for your late evening panorama of the news of the day—on KFI, 640 on your dial.

If Phil's Ever in a Jam

There Frankie Am. Because It's Been "Just a Perfect Friendship" Between Remley and Harris Since They Met as Kids on a Boat to Honolulu

By Judy Maguire

MEET THE SOURCE of all those "Remley" gags, Himself, the original. Frank (played on the air by actor Elliott Lewis) is not only a very charming and salty character, but a real gone guy.

THERE'S ONE PERSON missing from this "folks at home" scene, and that is Frank's wife, "Stub," who has been Phil Harris's secretary, and with the band, almost as long as her guitar-toting hubby.

NOW, LET me cheat a couple of years on my age, can you?" whispers Frank Remley, the guitar player who has been Phil Harris's best friend so many years that he is now a radio character played by Elliott Lewis, mentioned regularly by Jack Benny, and considered a trademark in comedy.

Frank, the "man with three home towns," (Valley City and Fargo, North Dakota, and Moorehead, Minnesota), carefully states that his birth date was October 23, 1906.

One summer while he was still in high school, Frank and two other boys, Ernie Johnson and Ray Whisenand, made a trip to California. They found a room near Westlake Park and wrote flourishing letters home about their excellent jobs and financial opportunities. "But what we were really doing," Frank chuckles, "was bumming around the dance halls at Ocean Park and going to the beach. Spending all our money and having a wonderful time."

Ernie's folks sent him the cash to come home when the spree ended, but Frank and Ray were too humiliated to wire for help. They got up fifty dollars between them and decided to ride the rails; spent one dollar apiece to reach Pomona, and when a passenger train came along they jumped on the back.

In Barstow and Yermo, California; Salt Lake City; Livingston and Custer, Montana; and Manden, North Dakota; the police found the boys and threw them off freight and passenger trains with monotonous regularity. Frank and Ray carried their disappearing resources in their shoes, and begged potatoes, onions and bread along the way.

When they finally reached Valley City and tried to claim the clothes they'd sent on ahead of them, the boys looked so disreputable they had to get someone else to cash a check for them. The next day Frank went to the depot again, washed and presentable. "And who came up, hitting me for two bucks," he chortles, "but Slim, one of the hoboes we traveled with on the road."

Frank decided he was "crazy about California," and when he graduated he came back and got a job as a bookkeeper in a bank at Sixth and Main Streets in Los Angeles. "But they couldn't find me much," he admits, "because, even though I was left-handed, I'd always wanted to play a banjo. I'd started taking lessons, and I'd sneak off to the 'smoking room' to practice."

Meets Phil

Even though Frankie still couldn't play it very well, an agent "liked the looks" of the banjo, so he asked Frankie to take a small band to Honolulu. That was how Remley met Harris! Phil was on the same boat, with the first jazz orchestra ever to visit the island.

"I always liked to laugh at Phil, and he liked to have someone to laugh at him," reminisces Frankie about the beginning of their great friendship.

Before he made the trip, Frank had met a girl named Helen Hobart at a party. Frank had brought his banjo, played it, and "we went kind

"Juvenile Jury" Policy Includes Visiting European Dignitaries—All Under Twelve!

LAST winter Jack Barry, emcee and originator of "Juvenile Jury," decided that the "jurors" could well apply their sharp-wittedness and discernment to the fostering of good will among children of other countries. Tomorrow's citizens of the world will be these same juveniles, and any possible bit of common understanding engendered by companionship will be a valuable step.

The first representative on the international panel was Cherry Ward, a nine-year-old English girl, selected from among 5,000 London school children to appear on the program. Last January, following an exciting flight across the Atlantic via American Overseas Airline Flagship, Cherry and her mother arrived to be guests of young Peggy Bruder of Brooklyn, permanent panel member of the program. Cherry, petite, graceful and blonde, was the daughter of an ex-RAF officer who died soon after the war. When not adding quick perceptions to "Juvenile Jury" shows, Cherry found time to see skyscrapers, shop and generally sample the life of the young New York

American. Abundance of food, including two eggs for breakfast, ranked as top attractions for the blonde moppet, with ice-cream soda and fruit juices a close second. Like little girls of all lands, Cherry was enthusiastic about all the pretty new clothes she found, but food still remained her top choice. After spending her first day in Brooklyn, Cherry's comment was, "It's a quaint place!"

Doll from Paris

Another nine-year-old envoy, France's Isabelle Vecher, visited the program last June, following the success of Cherry's visit. This blue-eyed young lady was sent on her journey to America with the good wishes of President Auriol, who presented her with bon-voyage flowers. Isabelle's first visit, directly from her landing from an Air France Comet, was to an ice-cream and hot-dog parlor, where she took time out only

No. 78 of a Series

Clark Dennis

He'll Never Sing the Blues, but Clark Has Hit the Top of the Heap With His Own Style

By Jane Pelgram

Thursday, 6:30 p.m.
ABC-KECA, KFMB

A CAPITOL record, "Peg O' My Heart," featuring the romantic tenor voice of Clark Dennis, pulled that young man from relative obscurity among the ranks into neck-and-neck popularity with some of today's leading baritones. Or so legend would lead us to believe.

Insofar as the public is concerned, it is true the Irish lass, "Peg," did lead the singer of her praises into their hearts. But in the music world Clark Dennis has always been a hot item.

A Musician's Musician

Many other singers when asked during an interview whom they admire, or whose phrasing and style they particularly enjoy, promptly acclaim "Clark Dennis." And practically every step forward during his career has resulted from Clark being approached by the big-time outfits he has joined.

The first break of this sort occurred when Clark, still quite young, had driven fifty miles to hear the old Ben Pollack crew. For several years Clark had been dabbling in music, first singing on WFDF in the old home town of Flint, Michigan, later on the West Coast with Raymond Paige and the late Orville Knapp's band. Clark had heard Pollack on the coast and thought he was great.

"I was back in Michigan, working for a spark-plug outfit at the suggestion of my father, who thought anyone who got into the music world was out of his mind. His idea of the way to live meant starting in some outfit's stock room, and twenty years later winding up as their president. So there I was, working in the stockroom of AC Spark Plugs.

"One day I picked up a newspaper and saw that Pollack was playing in Chicago, only fifty miles away. That night I 'borrowed' my father's car, picked up a gang of fellows and away we went. When I saw Pollack he wanted to know if I could still sing 'that good California style.' I sang a song with the band, and somehow found myself with another job, at the great salary of twenty-five bucks a week.

"When I got home next morning with my big news, no one was very happy. It seems that my father, who was a doctor, had a call in the middle of the night, and since I had his car, he had been forced to take a cab miles into the country to visit a patient. He took my old Ford jalopy and sold it to make up his enormous cab fare, and away I went to starve in Chicago on twenty-five a week."

In Chicago Clark had his second opportunity to join another aggregation still listed among the greats. But when Clark tells the story, he's more concerned with its romantic aspect than with the fact it was another step forward.

Romance

"I had gone out to a club in Chicago to knock a few golf balls around, and ran into Jimmy Dorsey and the girl vocalist, Jane Vance, from the Whiteman band. That very afternoon I told Jimmy I was going to marry the girl. Dorsey told me I'd marry her over his dead body, then promptly warned Janie . . . "Don't marry that guy, Janie, whatever you do. He's a tenor!"

But Jane Vance liked this appealing tenor voice. Not only did she immediately take an air check of Clark's singing and send it to her boss and good friend Paul Whiteman, she became Mrs. Dennis the following Christmas when she and Clark were touring with the King of Jazz. Paul Whiteman, a day after hearing Clark's air check, had contacted and hired him.

No less a personage than Sidney Strotz, now West Coast Vice President of the National Broadcasting Company, was the next to spot the Clark voice. This resulted in a two-

JACK WEBB, alias "Pat Novak for Hire," alias "Johnny Modero, Pier 23," alias (currently) "Jeff Regan, Private Investigator," is about as honest a radio star as you could hope to find.

"I'm limited," he admits frankly. "One thing I've always tried to do is to keep only one role at a time. If I didn't, it would be just like hearing me on Wednesday, and then again on Saturday."

Probably no one will take more exception to these opinions than Jack's public, a breed vast and loyal to the spellbinding Webb voice and dramatic mannerisms. But, Jack adds:

"I look at it this way. Bogart didn't do so badly, did he? Why not build toward something? Now, everybody in this business has his attitude. Elliott Lewis has his. Paul Frees has his. So, I make an effort to be good at detective roles. When I say I'm limited, I mean 'straight voice' . . . heavies, cops once in a while, bartenders and private eyes.

"No, I don't plan to stick with this idea forever. But I certainly won't try to pretend I can play any character or dialect or trick-voice thing you can name. Because too many times I've seen a new guy come in to work the show, and he looks nervous and he falls apart; and I look at his AFRA card and it says he plays everything from Ethiopians to Chinamen, straight down the line. So I don't think it hurts to specialize, and I don't think it makes you typed . . . unless you insist on being an Indian and won't play anything but Indians."

Man With a Plan

Jack has also been doing picture

January 23, 1949

work, and has finished "Hollow Triumph" and "He Walked by Night." While on the "Night" set, he made a good friend of Police Sergeant Marty Wynn, one of the technical advisers on the picture.

"Why don't you do a real cop series some time?" Wynn wanted to know. "These private-eye shows are a gag. The private eye today is just a peeper for the force. He's not licensed to handle cases, and even if he nails somebody he has to call in to us for help.

"You could get all the adventure and all the thrill and all the romance you have in a 'Regan' or 'Novak' in a genuine cop. And every man on the force would be tickled to death to have such a program."

Wynn further promised Jack that if his idea could be developed, he could make available to him enough authentic police material to keep the program going for a number of years. "You know," Jack reflects, "it's not a half-bad suggestion, and we're working on it pretty hard."

Jack helped develop another good show this summer, which still might be in the "pending" stage. It was called "Escape with Music," and featured Jack as a character called "Joshua" who left his tiresome surroundings each day and traveled in imagination to adventure in every sort of locale. It was an excellently done little program, carried off well by Jack's low, flat delivery and the late Al Sack's picturesque melody, but with Al's untimely and regrettable death, negotiations came to an indecisive halt.

So, until these "tentatives" become reality, Jack is concentrating on more definite plans. From "Novak," "Modero" and "Regan," he next moves into video, with a character who might be called "Joe Friday." Bill Rousseau and Jack are working the show together now. Jack thinks that mysteries are best told on television by film at the present, for the sake of finished production. And he thinks that whodunits, no matter what they are, will have a long life on the home screen.

"As long as people like mysteries," he says, "you might as well give them what they want."

news and comments

For Love o' Mike (General Comment)

Name Change

In this issue you'll find a story on the delightful Lucille Ball and her delightful program, "My Favorite Husband." Since we did the interview with the one and only Ball, the program has snagged a well-deserved sponsor. About the same time, the leading characters, "Liz" and "George," underwent a name change from "Cugat" to "Cooper." So if you chance upon a "Cugat" here and there in our story, you'll know that it was due to the well-known forces beyond our control. We know no reason for the name change—in fact, under the original story's "Mr. and Mrs. Cugat" title, the book was a best-seller. Way in the back of our mind, though, seems to us that the authoress was sued at one time by a man who claimed that there was only one Cugat in the country and it was himself—Xavier. At any rate, the rumba king has nothing to do with our story.

We Still Want Webb

Without a show to stand on—that's the situation of Radio and TV Life and one of its favorite actors, Jack "Pat Novak · Johnny Modero · Jeff Regan" Webb. The story on him in this issue was written when he was still employed by the "Lion's Eye Detective Agency" over at CBS. That show ("Jeff Regan") has gone off, we're sorry to say, and there is no news about its return at present. Webb fans can still hear him, however, on "Favorite Story," "This Is Your F.B.I.," "The Amazing Mr. Malone" and "Hollywood Star Theater" from time to time.

Rumors Are Flying

New time spot rumored for the Horace Heidt show after his first thirteen weeks at bucking the Champ. . . . Now it's CBS that's after Bing and his show. . . . Ginny Simms, off the air for over two years, will return to radio in a five-a-week, fifteen-minute musical stanza, a la Jack Smith. . . . The Peter Potters (Beryl Davis) are expecting a little disc jockey (or canary) come August. . . . Daytime radio to take an upswing in Chicago, due to night-time emphasis on television. . . . NBC interested in Henry Morgan again—we're happy to say. . . . Mickey Rooney auditioning a program at NBC in New York. . . . CBS planning six hour-long documentaries for 1949. First will be on mental health and is due early in February.

Looks Like

Jack Benny's show will be boasting top name stars throughout the season—and this is one program that really showcases them at their best. . . . Mutual dropping several of its sustaining shows—Erskine Johnson's "Hollywood Story," "Lone Wolf" have already gone; "Leave It to the Girls" and two more to leave this week. . . . Comedian Jack Kirkwood signed on with Bob Hope. His own show on ABC still in the offing, however. . . . K. T. Stevens, stage actress and daughter of movie producer Sam Wood, takes over the role of big sister "Lois" on the "Junior Miss" program. Beautiful blonde comedienne Peggy Knudsen goes to New York for stage work. . . . Mutual-Don Lee's "American Forum of the Air" celebrates its twenty-first air anniversary this week. It's the oldest broadcast forum in radio. . . . Broadway producer Vinton Freedley takes over Ralph Bellamy's post as emcee of "Theater, U.S.A." . . . Evelyn Knight will star on Broadway in a musical, "Miss Liberty," the result of a distinguished collaboration between playwright Robert E. Sherwood and Irving Berlin. . . . Lassie is the proud parent of six more pups. . . . Paul Baron will be the musical director of the Maurice Chevalier audience-participation show from Paris. . . . Jack Benny will record two shows later this month or next and have himself a two-week rest. . . . The Ed Gardner guesting on the Jimmy Durante show was deemed so successful that the two have planned several more joint appearances. . . . Another guesting that struck fire was Abe Burrows' on a new Crosby taping. Abe will be heard on several more Bing shows. . . . Incidentally, Bing's fifteen-minute-a-day disc-jockey show has already started in the East and will be heard here later in the year.

Screen Directors' Show

Another good dramatic offering is now available to Sunday dialers. It's the Screen Directors' program, heard on KFI at 5:30 p.m. The show is not sponsored, merely has a brief reminder that the work of the screen director is what makes movies and movie stars. Initial offering was "Stagecoach," a radio adaptation of a beautifully directed picture. John Ford, the man who made it, was on hand to introduce the story and the cast. The original film was an expertly timed chase, with movement, pace, climax, anti-climax and snapper all woven together by the hand of an artist. The radio version, depending on sound instead of sight, lost the melodramatic sweep of the original, but still made exciting listening. Original members of the cast, John Wayne and Claire Trevor, turned in good radio performances. To us, however, the real surprise was Ward Bond, who took advantage of his every line as the drunken doctor.

John Ford, the eminent screen director, made one of his rare public appearances, introducing the story and joining the cast for a bow at the end. George Marshall, head of the Screen Directors' Guild, was also on hand for the sendoff.

In coming weeks, movie scripts and stars are listed as coming attractions. Few of the upcoming shows, however, seem to be very good examples of the work of the creative screen director. In selecting material for this public-relations job, the directors should take care to spotlight the real

Formerly a Sunday afternoon highlight, David Harding, Counterspy, has won immediate favor with the fans in his new two-a-week spot on the KECA-ABC dial . . . Tuesday and Thursday at 7 p.m. The new sponsor of the series, Pepsi-Cola Company, selected that time as popular with the greatest number of people, giving the public a program that will entertain and interest them, and that will at the same time serve a useful purpose. As old friends know, "Counterspy" is constantly in touch with important events of the times, and has long led in the battle against the enemies of the nation at home and abroad. . . . Here you see Don McLaughlin, well known New York actor, who has been heard in the role of David Harding, chief of the Counterspies, for many years.

In moving to the new Tuesday-Thursday nights at 7, dial spot, Counterspy joins forces with that other champion of justice . . . the exciting adventures of "The Lone Ranger" which are aired at 7 on Monday and Wednesday nights. . . . This makes 7 on KECA the time for adventure every Monday thru Thursday night.

A gal who has succeeded in her chief ambition . . . to have a radio program of her own . . . is Jo Stafford, whose rich, vibrant voice and individual singing style have earned her tremendous popularity. . . . Jo, aided and abetted by Paul Weston and his orchestra, is heard on ABC-KECA every Thursday evening at 6:30. . . . By the way, members of the Weston band have been accused of pilfering pencils from the ABC studio offices . . . just to keep their boss in good humor. Weston, you see, uses a pencil for a baton, and in hitting the music stand he breaks them at a rapid rate. . . . Have you caught the entertaining little five-minute "Meet the Stars" show which follows Jo Stafford at 6:55? Listen some time. You'll like it. . . . Still thinking of Thursday nights, you now hear "Theatre U.S.A." at 8, and that hit drama series, "Mr. President," starring Edward Arnold, is now at 9 o'clock . . . with the Greater Los Angeles Press Club's "Press Conference" at 8:30. The "Mr. President" series has been selected by the Tenth District PTA radio committee as the outstanding documentary radio program series for 1948, and Mr. Arnold received the award from this group on Thursday's broadcast.

which offers both food information and entertainment. The food information . . . which I assure you is highly entertaining to all who love to eat . . . and who doesn't . . . is given by Adelle Davis, prominent consulting nutritionist and author of several important books on that subject. . . . Miss Davis answers questions on foods and clears up many popular misconceptions concerning foods. . . . On the musical side of the show are Elsie Mae Emerson, organist, Bob Armstrong, pianist, and Terry Gilkyson, who writes and sings his own folk songs. Jim Doyle is announcer-emcee, and the whole lively half-hour is the brainchild of producer John Hiestand. . . . That's KECA on Sunday afternoons at one. . . . Be sure to listen. . . . So popular has the KECA show, "One for the Book," proved that the series, master-minded by Frank Morris, is now heard Monday thru Friday nights at 10:30, as well as in the afternoon period of 1:30. . . . Jim Hawthorne and his zany opus, now called "Hawthorne's Adventures," has joined the Saturday night lineup on ABC-KECA at 8:30. . . . artists in their profession. In this respect alone, the opening show was fortunate in securing the highly respected Mr. Ford.

Alan Young Show

NBC's Alan Young teed off his series of Tuesday nighters (5:30, KFI) last week, with a mixture of delightful nonsense and . . . just nonsense. The weak spots in the scripting can be tightened up in time, and should be easy to forget if Alan goes along as he did in this first show's good spots.

Louise Erickson, formerly of "A Date With Judy," takes the femme role, with Jim Backus, Hal March and Ken Christy, all stalwarts of comedy, in supporting roles. Director Helen Mack's wonderfully light comedy direction brought out the best in all of them, particularly during the hilarious sketch that flashed back over Alan's early life. Young himself is much better at rambling patter than at delivering pat, contrived gags, and if that is apparent to listeners, it surely will be to both the comedian and the production powers.

George Wyle's music was so good as to be scarcely noticed. Sadly enough for the poor orchestra leader, that is an excellent criterion of suitability. The "Regalaires," we think, sounded exactly like the other half dozen or so singing groups on the air, and their numbers served merely as interruptions in the show.

As far as we are concerned, the new program is happy listening, and our one hearing has already formed a Tuesday night habit. We will take care, however, to turn our attention elsewhere during commercials for sponsor Tums. Tums may be great for the stomach or what-have-you, but their touting is death on the ears. Even Alan Young's bright personality floating dialward can't negate anything that dull.

Playbacks (Critical Comment)

Frances Scully

Early this month novelist-playwright John Marshall visited Frances Scully's "Star Gazing," heard over KECA four days each week (Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday) at 4:00 p.m.

We have heard a load of Frances's informal interviews with the stars and enjoyed them thoroughly. Knowing that John Marshall is a man who himself puts words in other people's mouths (his latest writings are a story and screen play written for Rosalind Russell, called "You Can't Judge a Lady"; and "The Beautiful Insect," a play he is polishing for fall production) we were eager to hear how he'd deliver lines into a mike.

On voice merit alone, Mr. Marshall is a wasted thespian. Seldom have we heard more intriguing masculine tones.

But it is with regret that we report we have seldom heard lines more obviously read. Mr. Marshall's timing, emphasis, enunciation and interpretation were all perfect . . . too perfect. He read from his script, a good script, full of entertaining information, but it seems that a light session of chatter should come out as a light session of chatter, not like Laurence Olivier reading Lord Byron's pennings.

Even Miss Scully, whose sociability and off-mike font of interesting light chatter are both unlimited, could well throw away the rigid scripts while she's on the air. With her poise and experience, she doesn't need them.

We Point With Pride

. . . To Jane Darwell's repetition of her Academy Award-winning performance as "Ma Joad" in the NBC "University of the Air" production of "Grapes of Wrath." Wally Maher and Ted Von Eltz of the supporting cast also deserve special mention. We heartily approve of the manner in which complete cast credits are given on the broadcast.

. . . To Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne in the Terence Rattigan comedy, "O, Mistress Mine," on "Theater Guild on the Air." First radio appearance of the distinguished team was a memorable event, both performances and play being the intelligent, light comedy sort of thing almost never heard on the air.

. . . To those charming Southerners that turn up from time to time on the New York audience-participation show, "Give and Take."

. . . To an auspicious radio and Metropolitan Opera debut—Italo Tajo, the Italian opera star, who sang the title role on Saturday's "Marriage of Figaro." Audience reaction was as enthusiastic and joyous as if they were watching a hit musical.

. . . To KFWB's Frank Bull for his fight on behalf of the beloved landmark, the Hollywoodland (or Ollywoodland) sign. Hope he succeeds in restoring it to its former glory.

On Mike (About Studio Happenings)

Another Lucky Strike

Another member of "Your Lucky Strike" talent hunt, CBS daytime series emceed by Don Ameche, has gotten a break in show business. She's Terrea Lea, blonde folk singer from Missouri. Miss Lea started an engagement at Hollywood's famed Bar of Music this week. The feminine counterpart of Burl Ives, the singer has spent her life studying and collecting folk music.

Off Mike (Personalities)

Radio Life Salesmanship

People have gotten radio jobs, movie roles, met long-lost friends and made new ones through Radio and

TV Life articles, they tell us. Now, we hear, a recent Radio Life article sold a house to a man who wasn't in the market from another man who hadn't thought of selling! Seems that Lou Holtzer, producer of ABC's "California Caravan," was showing a visiting friend a scrap-book on his show. They came to a layout on a swimming party tossed for the cast by their organizer, Milton Charles. "That's a house I'd like to have," declared the friend. Holtzer called Charles, arranged a meeting, and an hour later the house had changed hands.

Milton Charles is now looking for a house. We suggest he follow our picture layouts.

Alumni Day Hit

A member of the Hollywood High class of '40 dropped by the other day to tell us that Jack Smith scored the hit of his career with his appearance at the high school's annual Alumni Day. Jack sang and emceed the show for students and old grads. Seems that the buoyant Smith personality so overwhelmed the teen-age girls that they gave him the Sinatra treatment during his rendition of "My Darling." Jack stopped in amazement and exclaimed, "Gee, I wish my wife had come along to see this—she'll never believe me!"

Smith further revealed that he's a member of the graduating class of '47. He left Hollywood in 1933 to join a group of singers that took over the Bing Crosby Rhythm Boys spot with Gus Arnheim, so he never did get around to graduating. Last year the school gave him his diploma, making him a legitimate member of the '47 class. Couldn't happen to a nicer guy!

"Marge" Found

When Goodman Ace and Jane returned to the air on CBS after a four-year absence, old-time fans of the show were delighted—but there was one element missing in their enjoyment. "Marge," the level-headed, good-tempered friend of the family, was no longer in the cast. For years her distinctive laugh had echoed merrily throughout the fifteen-minute nightly series. Several fans wrote to ask us what happened to the actress who played the part. We just found out. She's Mary Hunter, now a successful Broadway producer-director, and a member of the board of the New Stages company. She's directed two Broadway hits in the past year. We gather that she's not returning to radio-acting.

Contino Back Home

Back home again in Southern California last week was accordion star Dick Contino, who recently won the grand finals in competition on the Horace Heidt show. Right now, we've heard, the gifted Dick and maestro Heidt are having a disagreement over business matters. As we don't yet have a complete picture of the difficulties, we have decided to reserve judgment and trust that our readers will do the same. Were we to express any feeling whatsoever, it would probably be one of understanding toward struggling talent and unhappiness that both Heidt and Dick are suffering through the latter's not being on the air.

KFWB Wins New Accolade

The Los Angeles Tenth District of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, Inc., recently bestowed upon KFWB its annual award in the category, "that radio station which made outstanding contribution during 1948 to the welfare of the family."

The award was given for KFWB's providing replicas of the Freedom Train Documents for display in the schools, also for the broadcasts on the United Nations at good listening time.

Recently the Hollywood Ad Club invited TV toppers from the active channels to address the Club re their respective opinions on the number one problem television faces in 1949. As always, Pat Bishop opened the meeting with a summary of the latest news, broadcast especially for the Ad Club. We quote directly from Dave Nowinson's script, read by Pat, merely because it comes under the heading of one of life's pleasures:

"In Hollywood today the '49ers are looking at television and wondering when it will start earning a living. Pulling the trigger on this shotgun wedding of all the arts—including vaudeville, parlor games and the stereoscope—are Hal Bock of KNBH, purveyors of mighty test patterns; Klaus Landsberg of KTLA, which has a corner on Hollywood and Vine; Harry Witt of KTTV, which offers the 'Toast of the Town,' complete with ham and assorted eggs; Haan Tyler of KFI-TV, which mines treasures of literature and eager advertisers; Carlton Winckler of KTSL, the Music Hall-mark of video; Don Forbes of KLAC-

By JUNE D. PRAY

School bells are ringing again, and not just for our children! Because there are thousands and thousands of us who desire further education, NBC last summer assumed the role of little red schoolhouse in launching a vast adult-education project.

Believing that the only solution to the public demand for further education and a general broadening of horizons must lie in taking higher education from the campuses into the homes of those desiring it, NBC and the University of Louisville experimented first with a literary series built around the world's great novels and the "University Theatre" program—heard locally on KFI Sundays at 11:30 a.m. Listeners registered with the University for a home-study course which involved not only the network broadcast but also supplementary guidance broadcasts, assigned reading, regular reports, and an examination at the end of the course. Two kinds of certificates are awarded—one for students not interested in college credits, and the other, involving more concentrated study, for those desiring credits. Washington State College and KHQ, Spokane, participated in this literature series, as did several other universities, and the results of the first experiments are now being studied by other schools.

The second phase of this ambitious project starts Saturday, February 5 (KFI, 4:30 p.m.), in cooperation with the University of Southern California's College of Music. A seventeen-week concert series entitled "Pioneers of Music" presented by leading orchestras throughout the nation will be the core of a home-study course in the evolution of music from 1600 to the present. Additional courses in the fields of economics, politics, and current affairs will be available later with other universities participating.

It is much too early yet to tell the degree of acceptance this plan will achieve, both from universities and from the public. However, such a vast project as this, of so frankly a public-service nature, certainly deserves our break an ankle, but Phil's occurred in a fall several weeks ago. However, he gallantly hobbles into the station seven nights weekly to put his excellent five P.M. newscast on the air. That ankle cast is now well autographed with KMPC signatures.

If you care for nostalgic echoes of early California days and Mexican music, dial 710 for KMPC's latest program feature, "Olvera Fiesta," each Monday at 8:30 P.M. Show originates from the oldest hacienda in Los Angeles—erected in 1850—which now houses La Golondrina Casa. Owner Senora Consuelo Castillo de Bonzo recalls early California history—the La Golondrina orchestra offers typical Mexican and Spanish selections—and Rodriguez heads up emcee activities. Leo Carrillo, Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz, John Anson Ford and Ed Ainsworth helped launch the initial broadcast.

Program notes: An analysis of your beauty problems will be made each Saturday morning at 10:30 A.M. when Don Rito and Renard present their "Invitation to Beauty." Prizes are awarded for best letters received from listeners. . . . Documentary stories from the files of the Federal Bureau of Investigation with introductions by Richard B. Hood, head of the Los Angeles branch, are now aired each Sunday at 8:15 P.M. . . . If you have income tax problems—and who doesn't at this time—we now offer a series on this subject each Saturday at 7:15 P.M. with Harold V. Mather explaining. . . . If you care to go to the mountains for skiing any weekend—not that it is particularly necessary in sunny California right now—Larry Smith covers the snow situation from Yosemite to Mexico each Friday evening at 7:30 on his newscast. . . . "The Woman's Voice," Jeanne Gray, is conducting a contest to select the outstanding woman of 1948. Have you sent your ballot in as yet? . . . KMPC offered twenty-five continuous program hours to the Community Chest last week in order to promote additional funds for the organization's use. Stars of radio, screen and nightclubs gladly donated their time to guest-appear on KMPC for the drive.

Attention Housewives! Chef Milani is on the air each morning at 9:30 to give you information on how to prepare "A Dinner for Four, A Dollar, No More." A different contest is begun every two weeks in which listeners may compete for such prizes as fur coats, diamond rings, furniture, watches, merchandise prizes and over $50.00 in grocery orders. For additional details on contests, tune in at 9:30 A.M. to hear Chef Milani and announcer Bill Stewart. The Chef, incidentally, has a nationwide reputation in the culinary field, having been prominent in such circles in many of the country's largest cities.

TV, home of the mighty one-man concert hall; and Richard Goggin of ABC, which offers another Test of the Town.

"The big problem facing all of these televisioners is where to find for amateur programs a Simon-poor amateur who is content to remain Simon-poor. Too many of these mercenary jerks are forgetting the prestige of being seen in the best taverns, and are starting to ask for money!"

The participants in the television round table enjoyed Pat's quips as heartily as did the attending audience, but after general laughs all around, went on to make some very positive statements. At earlier Ad Club round-table sessions among these same gentlemen, we have heard some tall hedging and generalizing, but not so the other day!

Hal Bock of KNBH came out flat-footedly with the statement that video is being hampered by the cost of talent now, and that KNBH would take an aggressive lead to bring in new talent and fresh faces. (In our opinion, some of today's biggest established radio stars are wise in their refusal to let their AM shows be simultaneously televised. In most cases the show would be dull as dishwater, what with stark white scripts showing in every hand, lack of costume, and in many cases, lack of ability, more than enough to spoil the most cherished of illusions surrounding "our favorites.")

Klaus Landsberg of KTLA offered an equally lively discussion topic by announcing that video is ready to take the place of radio, and that KTLA is practically ready to inaugurate daytime fare. He added that film fare is much better than coaxial-cable transmission, and that the Coast's efforts at programming not only match the East's . . . they surpass them. KFI-TV's Haan Tyler stressed the need for shows that can go on without endless hours of rehearsal, and endless dollars entailed in paying technicians as a result. Too bad he didn't mention a recent KFI experiment. The station had chartered a phone service, paraded some talent, and just by way of checking to see how many people were interestedly viewing the show, asked for phone votes. Inside of two hours, 1,100 calls were recorded. That doesn't count the people who would dial the given number a couple of times, get a busy signal, and with a muttered "Oh, nuts!" give up trying.

Harry Witt of KTTV talked of the advantages of sharing ownership with a newspaper (L.A. Times). KLAC-TV's Don Forbes indicated that his station would continue to concentrate on sports. Well they might. They just concluded a pact with the Los Angeles Angels for their entire year's games. The station will revamp its entire schedule with the season's opening. ABC's Richard Goggin (KECA-TV is not yet on the air) stated that at five-a-week appearances are fatal to performers . . . that tele needs constant change.

The International Touch

long enough to remark, quite traditionally, "Ooh, la, la!"

A resident of Paris, Isabelle is the daughter of a French civil-service employee who served with the French underground during the war. Her outstanding knowledge of English was a great factor in winning her the trip over other Paris school children who competed for the honor.

Juvenile Understanding

It's a small world, as far as children's problems are concerned, and both little girls quickly oriented themselves to the program. Their friendliness, Cherry's sense of humor, Isabelle's Gallic gaiety matched the mirth and patter of the regular jurors, Peggy Bruder, Dickie Orlan, Charlie Hankinson, Robin Morgan and Johnny McBride.

After the success of the two young visitors, Barry continued his search for children from China, South Africa, India, South America and other points of the globe where children might have enough knowledge of English to exchange international viewpoints with "Juvenile Jury" and continue to prove the emcee's point that his American jurors have problems and beliefs that are markedly similar to those of their across-the-seas cousins.

commendation. It will be interesting to watch its progress. And incidentally, the network broadcasts which form its basis have been fine programs, even when listened to purely for their entertainment value. "University Theatre" is one of the best examples of radio drama on the air today, and we look forward with pleasure to the music series.

By the way, in case it has slipped your mind, don't neglect sending for our listening guide. Mail 5c and a large addressed envelope to "Dialagnosis," 1170 So. Hill Street, for our recommendations and up-to-date schedules.

(Radio and Television Life is happy to devote this weekly space to the Tenth District P.T.A. Opinions expressed in this column are its own and not necessarily those held by the Editorial Department of Radio and Television Life.)

RY-KRISP KID

During a recent CBS "Talent Scouts" rehearsal, Arthur Godfrey roamed backstage to see how maestro Archie Bleyer looked over the television monitor. Studying the long and lean leader, Godfrey mused: "That's the way I looked forty pounds ago."

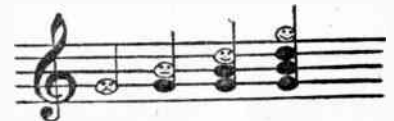

RECORD NOTES TO YOU

BY ANDY MANSFIELD

"Remember That Music," KFI, 9:30 p.m., Friday

CLASSIC ALBUM OF THE WEEK: Debussy's lovely Nocturnes, "Nuages, Fetes, Sirenes" is masterfully presented by Sidney Beer and the National Symphony Orchestra with the Luton Choral Society. The six twelve-inch sides on full-frequency-range English Decca should stand as tops by this modern composer. Outstanding is "Sirenes" with voices blended with strings to paint a lovely marine setting in leody. . . . POP ALBUM OF THE WEEK: Recorded directly from the sound track of the film, "Words And Music," MGM has eight sides featuring members of the picture's huge cast in songs by Rogers and Hart . . . June Allyson, Mickey Rooney, Judy Garland, Lena Horne, Betty Garrett, Ann Sothern; all are fine and to pick one outstanding side was impossible. . . .

CHILDREN'S ALBUM: Capitol should have another topper in this department with its eight sides comprising the story and music of Walt Disney's "So Dear to My Heart." Bobby Driscoll, Luana Patten, Beulah Bondi and John Beal contribute to this beautiful, deeply-moving story of American boyhood that will truly be so dear to your heart. . . . MALE VOCAL honors go to Tony Martin for his two sides comprising "Tenement Symphony" in this stirring depiction of the sights and sounds of the Manhattan wilderness. Truly, these heart-throbbing vignettes of the Big Town are brought to life by Martin in one of his best RCA-Victor waxings. . . . NOVELTY: Remember the Mexican folk song "Las Chapaneas" ("Clap Hands")? Andy and Della Russell do a bang-up job with special lyrics, only the tune is now called "Rosita and Joe." . . . Reverse side "Is It Yes?" is a fast-paced samba equally as good. . . . Si, amigo, don't miss thees one with the Rus-Sells' Olvera Street accent. I theenk. (Capitol) . . . DANCE BAND: "How High the Moon" (MGM) features this up-tempoed opus by Ziggy Elman's band in solid jump style with the Elman trumpet riding clear and high above the band's steady beat. . . . Reverse side, "The Night Is Young," is in more moderate tempo and softer arrangement, but the Elman trumpet is again at its best for solo honors. . . . VOCAL GROUP: Decca's Andrews Sisters have a pair of goodies in the vocal adaptation of the old band novelty "Jolly Coppersmith"—only now it's called "More Beer!" . . . and the oldie "Let a Smile Be Your Umbrella." (P.S. Watch for Claude Thornhill's debut on RCA-Victor as well as other biggies . . . AM)

NELSON PROJECT

Frank Nelson, comedy voice of many top radio shows and "Herb Woodley" on NBC's "Blondie" series, has organized his own stock company of radio actors. Plans now are for the group to make a tour around the country next summer doing one-act plays. "Just another means of preparing ourselves for television," Frank adds.

APPROVED

While he was recently in Hollywood, Arthur Godfrey dropped into the control booth to watch Jack Carson do his CBS show. Watching Dave Willcock work with Carson, Godfrey exclaimed, "There's the greatest stooge I've ever seen!"

GREASE MONKEYS
 Maurice Hart, KFWB's "Start the Day Right" man, and Neely Plumb, orchestra leader and composer, have joined in a business venture. Hart and Plumb are now partners in a Union Oil gas station in Encino, California, and they plan a big "Hollywood Style" opening late in January, with many stars of radio and screen in attendance.

GAL WITH A GOAL
 Be it French lessons, ballet, or music, CBS's "Junior Miss," Barbara Whiting, throws herself into it with a vengeance. Her present zest is for tennis, and she's spending as much free time as possible on the Beverly Hills Hotel courts. Her ambition—to trim tennis enthusiast Harry Ackerman, director of network programs,
 Hollywood.

Men of Music: Clark Dennis

year stint with Don McNeill's Breakfast Club, and contracts with Coca-Cola Refreshment Club and "Duffy's Tavern" followed.

"Peg" Bows In

It was a letter from the President of the United States himself that occasioned Clark's move into the Army. For two years he toured with an all-GI show, covering the entire Pacific area.

Upon his discharge in 1946 Clark dug back into radio, making guest appearances on network shows. Once more he was heard, liked and signed, by no less great and astute a singer than Johnny Mercer, who got the Dennis name on Capitol Records' dotted line. About this time "Peg O' My Heart" was cut, and the fancy of America's disc-buying public was captured.

And still Clark went on connecting with men in the business. This time it was the agency bigwigs who chose him, from a parade of single-shot guest vocalists, as a permanent member of "The Revere All-Star Revue," then heard on KHJ, and starring blonde Marion Hutton. When Marion joined another show, and the sponsor moved the Revere program to ABC with Jo Stafford as its star, they asked Mr. Dennis to continue on.

Clark manages to do frequent personal appearances and an air show, cut records, and still find time for treks far and wide to listen to his favorite musicians, because he has a tremendous vitality and a never-ending love of music. All music.

Dennis is as much a jazzman as he is a classicist. In one breath he'll praise Eileen Farrell's beautiful soprano voice, or Jan Peerce. In the next he'll rhapsodize over Louis Armstrong's guttural musical tones. His record collection ranges from McKinney's Cotton Pickers, the Mound City Blue Blowers and old Crosby Bobcats classics to the twelve-inch albums of Ravel, Debussy and Delius. In a big pop band Clark is equally satisfied by the sharp sing of a brass section and the lyric flow of the strings.

But with all that love and knowledge of music, and in spite of making the big time during an age of baritones, this singer (who has been termed by other musicians "such a good tenor that he makes you forget he's a tenor!") can never hope to sing his own favorite type of music.

Clark will state flatly, whether for publication or not, "Ethel Waters, in her prime, was the best singer of all people of all times. She said the words, made the sounds, and lent an animation as no one else can. Certainly no one today!"

"I guess I really like the blues best, anyway. Real great blues paint the best pictures and tell the best stories of all, for me."

And who ever heard of a tenor singing "real great blues"?

of nuts over each other," he explains. "She said she missed me when I went to Honolulu." They were married after he came home. "Stub" (Frank nicknamed her that "because she's so stubborn") has been Phil's secretary for fourteen years. She traveled right with the band, making hotel bookings and train reservations and handling Phil's mail and public relations, up to the time that the gang signed for the Benny show and settled in Hollywood. The Remleys have Frankie, Jr. (six and a half) now, "and brother, what a character!" exclaims his father. "He's a little dandy."

Frankie and Phil didn't meet again for several months after Honolulu, however. When the Remleys heard that Phil was coming to Loew's Theatre as a drummer with Glen Oswell's band, they got seats for the first show. "That must have been about 1925," Frank calculates. "I was with Don Alvin's orchestra at the Green Mill. I remember Phil came out there with a girl one night, and they entered a dancing contest. The prize was a big satin pillow, and we all clapped for Phil under our music stands and he won. You couldn't hold him after that . . . he was convinced he was the world's greatest dancer."

In '26, Frankie and Phil had a chance to go to Australia with Carroll Lofner and Chuck Mall, as the only four Americans in an all-Australian band. The boys had agreed to furnish trio numbers, and as the boat came in sight of Sidney they suddenly remembered they hadn't even tried to sing together. Frankie had been in a trio once before, with Jess Kirkpatrick and Bernie Taliaferro, and with his "past experience" they organized five or six hasty little specialties.

"We were 'The Melodious Three,'" he recalls. "Big shots. Phil looked like Baby Peggy, of course, in those days. We wore those tight suits and sang with megaphones and that 'over the shoulder' business.

"So we just knew we were going to kill everybody when we got back here," he continues. "But Phil went with Henry Halstead's band, and I couldn't, because Lew Ayres was playing banjo for them. So the trio broke up, and I went to work at Harry Miller's on Seventh Street."

Frankie played with Vincent Rose at the Montmartre, and with the bands of Jackie Taylor and Prof

Moore for about six months. Then Phil came back to town, looking for a job. "And I'm not kidding . . . he was!" So Phil and Carroll Lofner (of the Australia excursion) became the Lofner-Harris partnership, hired Frankie again and went to Balboa. "By then, Phil was really singing!" enthuses Frankie.

Phil Makes Name

When Lofner and Harris split into two separate orchestras, Phil was booked at the St. Francis in San Francisco, and stayed there two and a half years. Phil was doing a lot of Bert Williams numbers and becoming very popular with them, and his next offer was from the Coconut Grove. For a full year Harris and his co-singer, Leah Ray, jammed the Grove every night, during the run of the Olympics. "That was where Phil really made a name for himself," believes Frankie.

Phil Harris and Company went into radio on NBC's "Melody Cruise" for Cutex, one of the first traveling air musicals. After that, Phil with Leah Ray made personal appearances for three months, but he was lonesome for Frankie. When he received Phil's wire, "Come on back and let's reorganize the band," Frankie loaded his bags into the car and made the trip from New York in five and a half days.

They were booked at the New Orleans Hotel when Jack Benny telephoned asking them to join the show in two weeks. "We took off for California," Frankie relates. "Oh man, were we a happy bunch of guys! Jack's always been my favorite comedian, you know. I used to go to the theater when I was a young fellow, just to sit there and laugh at him."

The Frank Remley gag began on the Benny show nearly thirteen years ago, when Jack used to say something to Phil about "Frankie, your guitar player." When they built some lines around it and decided to make a "Remley" character part of Phil's own show, Frank himself requested that Elliott Lewis play the role. Frank and Phil have voices which are extremely similar; also, Frank read for the part, and by his own insistence, "wasn't good enough." Frank taught Elliott to play the guitar, too.

"And you know," he says elatedly, "he's left-handed, just like me!"

Anna Roosevelt Has Joined Her Famous Mother in Broadcasting Ideas on Just About Everything

By William Tusher

Monday, Wednesday, Friday, 11:15 a.m.
ABC-KECA, KFMB

A NNA ROOSEVELT, who recently started a thrice-weekly daytime commentary with her mother, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, has her father's capacity for making converts of skeptics. This talent springs from several factors. One is her genuine warmth of personality. Another is that twinkling-eyed smile with which her father withered critics, and a third is her sincere desire to attain friendship with those who regard her askance.

Anna Roosevelt feels that there is no excuse for people getting off on the wrong foot. She is prone to decide that the fault is with her rather than the other party, and she is both quick and eager to clear up misunderstandings.

Anna, who usually does her portion of the "Eleanor and Anna Roosevelt" program from Hollywood, does not live in a never-never land in which she deludes herself into thinking that everybody is wild about her. Being a Roosevelt is too decisive an identity to produce such a phenomenon.

When she senses antagonism—whatever the person's station in life, or in radio particularly—she makes it a point to get to know the individual better, and to reconcile the differences, if possible. Usually, it's possible, because the tension invariably is a product of the imagination.

She has revealed, in her short time on ABC, a willingness and a talent for seeing many sides of an issue. Her broadcasts to date have betrayed a very human, very intelligent person with a proper respect for the little things in life. She can discuss in the same breath, and with unquestionable sincerity, her views on the threatened return of short skirts and the dangers of continued discord in the United Nations.

Practical Experience

One of the reasons Anna's insight
(Please Turn to Page 39)

ANNA ROOSEVELT (BOETTIGER) brings in the morning milk from the service porch of her apartment. Although she had visited here "a hundred times" before her recent move to Los Angeles, Anna had never become acquainted with the city and immediately set about to see things. One of the first places of interest was the Farmers Market, where her son, John, got a haircut.

VETERAN RADIO PRODUCER JOHN MASTERSON, right, was one who thought up idea for new Roosevelt program. Rather, knowing both Eleanor and Anna Roosevelt, he patterned a show to fit their individualities. "We plan to talk about everything under the sun," Mrs. Boettiger stated of the new series. (ABC photos. Color cover by Lee Green-ABC.)

GUEST EDDIE CANTOR ENLIVENED one Roosevelt broadcast. Anna seems to enjoy the new venture and pitches into the work of writing her own portions of the script. She is not a great radio fan, but does listen to news, commentary, and good music. Regularly, she reads Time, Newsweek; almost regularly, Life, Collier's, the Post, New Yorker.

▼ SCRIPTERS BOB CARROLL, JR. and Madeline Pugh, together with producer Jess Oppenheimer, get together with Lucille on final script going-over. The star is particularly happy that her show deals in character and situation humor rather than gag routines.

Enter Lucille

Pretty as a Newly-Minted Penny and Down To Earth as Well Is Lucille Ball, of the Movies and CBS's "My Favorite Husband."

By Joan Buchanan

*Friday, 9:00 p.m.
CBS-KNX, ASDJ*

D ID SHE always want to be a comedienne? That's a logical lead-off question for Lucille Ball. Her answer — "Mmmm-hmmm!" Meaning, "more than anything."

"And it all springs from a feeling of inferiority," she asserts. "At the age of twelve or thirteen when an adolescent is either too ugly, gangly or unhappy to make an impression or it doesn't come easily, he does or says something funny. . . . People laugh, and he feels more acceptable. That's the beginning." Though Lucille sounds autobiographical in making this statement, it is humanly impossible to imagine her being "ugly, gangly, unhappy." She's so sparkly in appearance, so forthright in personality that rather than attempt a description we'll just repeat the simple fact that she's as vivid and lovely as we've seen her in Technicolor movies.

Are comedians and comedienues different from other people? Lucille thinks they are, somewhat. "All comedians think in a fay way, to begin with. They're constantly striving for betterment. They never relax." Studying inflections, constant observation of people and "the timing department" ("think each line before you speak") are three primary rules that Lucille lays down for herself. "And it's one profession in which adversity pays off!" she adds.

Miss Misfortune

The star can take an authoritative stand on this. Her early career days were dogged with misfortune. Her parents, Fred and Desiree Ball, engineer and concert pianist respectively, started their daughter at her music lessons when she was five, then enrolled her in the Chautauqua School of Music. At fifteen, Lucille entered the John Murray Anderson Dramatic School in New York. At the end of the first year she was told that she was wasting money, that she should apply her energies in some other field. She tried the musical stage, via the chorus in the third road company of "Rio Rita." She was fired from that and three ensuing chorus jobs before the shows were out of rehearsal. Her "first real job on Broadway" was jerking sodas in a drug store.

Things picked up for Lucille when a modeling job in a wholesale dress company led to her becoming a model for the exclusive couturier, Hattie Carnegie. An automobile accident in Central Park put an end to that—and nearly put an end to Lucille. It was three years and eight months before she could walk again, reversing the doctor's prediction that it couldn't be done. Back to work, Lucille gained fame as a leading photographer's model and was featured in slick ads and billboards from coast to coast. Hollywood scouts brought her to the film capital and she was signed to a contract. She wired her family—mother, grandfather and sister—to join her in California. The next morning the studio dissolved its contract list. The family arrived in Hollywood to find Lucille an extra at Paramount.

A bit part in the movie "Roberta" changed her luck (as we recall it, Lucille merely modeled an evening gown and looked so enchanting that audiences sighed audibly). The bit led to a contract that led to her sparkling career and a happy marriage—she met her husband, Desi Arnaz, when both were cast in the movie "Too Many Girls."

"Stage Door" was her first good-sized comedy chance—"Eve Arden,

▲ SHE USED TO STUDY MUSIC, SO SHE DEMONSTRATES to the musicians on "My Favorite Husband" that she can step in any time they need a drummer. Jack Carson and I started out together in that." Lucille and Eve have had parallel careers, in a sense. Starting in "Stage Door," they both (at different times) appeared in radio with Jack Haley, Phil Baker and Groucho Marx shows, and at present both have comedy programs on CBS—as has the other RKO alumnus, Jack Carson.

Lucille picked "My Favorite Husband" as a radio vehicle because "It was the only husband-and-wife comedy where the people were in love with each other—my kind of love," she smiles. Though it's her first starring air series, she's been a notable radio guest throughout her career. She holds the record for repeat guestings on the Bing Crosby show. At this writing, she has either done or is committed to do three roles on "Ford Theater" and four appearances with Bob Hope, in addition to her own program. She was happy to return to "Ford Theater" recently as star of Damon Runyon's story "The Big Street," a recreation of her favorite role from her favorite film. The heroine, you may recall, is a Broadway star who becomes a hopeless cripple—a grim echo of the fate that once awaited Lucille. The star and story were chosen by Walter Winchell as the inaugural broadcast for this season's Damon Runyon Cancer Fund, because it was Runyon's favorite.

In Love With Lessons

She enjoys activity, and in addition to her non-stop professional work she keeps up an unending program of lessons, study and hobbies. "Survey of English literature, Spanish lessons, tennis lessons, swimming lessons, fishing, square dancing and anything centered around the house—painting, cooking, home care," are among the topics she rattles off when asked how she spends her rare spare time. "The more I do, the more

Something to Say

into home-life problems has registered so well with the housewives who comprise the vast majority of her listeners is the fact that she is able to draw heavily from her own experience as a mother.

Although one son, Curtis, has been in Europe with his grandmother, and a daughter, Sistie, is married, Anna has her hands full domestically with her youngest and most energetic charge, John Roosevelt Boettiger, nine years of bubbling, active boyhood.

That John is a healthy, vigorous unspoiled youngster is immediately evident. There is no trace of caste in his make-up. He is utterly unaware, in his association with other children, that he is a grandson of one of the country's most colorful presidents.

He enjoys the respect and camaraderie of the other boys in the Los Angeles neighborhood where his mother has rented a two-bedroom apartment alive with mementos inherited by Anna from her father. Johnny's friends are constantly streaming in and out of his apartment, giving Anna the same trials and tribulations, tinged with joy, that any other American mother experiences under a name less part of American legend than Roosevelt.

Scarcely a part-time parent, she is never too busy for Johnny. She eats as many meals a day with him as possible. She sends him off to school, prods him on his homework, goes to ball games and movies with him and his friends, and even digs into her purse for the wherewithal with which Johnny, like any other American kid, rushes to the newsstands in order to buy the latest comic books.

Basic Agreement

When Anna announced before the program got under way that differences of opinion with her mother would not be ruled out on the air, she meant just that. However, if anyone expects the differences to cut deeply and give comfort to divide-and-conquerers, they have a disappointment in store. Anna has too great an affection and too deep a respect for her mother ever to produce such a bombshell.

Differences, although they may prove firm and real, will be ironed out calmly and adultly. There will not be even an intellectual approximation of hair-pulling. The chief reason is that fundamentally mother and daughter look at life through the same philosophical glasses.

Specific disagreements, however, have not been rare. Many a lusty argument has raged around the Roosevelt dinner table, and Anna, like the other Roosevelts, has a mind of her own. Even while agreeing, she might prefer to do it in her own way and with her own reasons. On the air the former First Lady is prepared to feel the full impact of her daughter's mind and independence.

Anna's last protracted radio engagement was a six-week series for Best and Company on a New York station in 1933. Several mornings a week she commented on the woman's view of the news.

She did not appear on the air again until early this year when she participated in a discussion of free enterprise and socialism under the banner of "America's Town Meeting" in a broadcast from Phoenix.

Anna's remaining pedigree is mainly literary—with politics running second best. Before assuming the publishing reins of the Arizona Times, in Phoenix, Anna was the paper's associate editor.

Earlier, Anna was associate editor of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer. She held down this job from December, 1936, until November, 1943. She wrote a weekly column for Liberty Magazine in 1933 and 1934, and while living in the White House during the same years she wrote two children's books, "Scamper" and "Scamper's Christmas." They are out of print now, but they were published—by Macmillan.

"They were written day by day in the White House," Anna said, "and they were passed on by my own children night by night, chapter by chapter. They gave to a young child of from five to seven a view of what was interesting in Washington through the eyes of a rabbit, Scamper."

Anna still was an editorial beaver in 1931 and 1932 when she edited a short-lived MacFadden publication, "Babies—Just Babies." This chore represented an earlier collaboration between mother and daughter. Mrs. Roosevelt was a contributing editor.

In politics, too, Anna's labors leaned toward the editorial side. In a year and a half during which FDR's only daughter did volunteer work at State Democratic headquarters in New York, she edited the monthly magazine of the women's division, "The Democratic Woman's Digest."

Her comments on food and fashions are not passed off as expert views, but as one woman's opinions. She is not finicky about what she eats or what she wears. She insists merely that both be neat and wholesome.

Among her most prized possessions is the green upholstered swivel chair on which FDR used to sit in the second floor of the White House while writing his speeches.

This chair is now in Anna Roosevelt's study, and she sits on it—even as her father did—when she writes drafts of her radio scripts.

Enter Lucille

"I have time to go," is her explanation. "I get wound up and do everything at once."

She admits, however, that it's her husband, Desi Arnaz, who grabs cooking honors in their home. "After a day's work, he can come home and spend four and a half hours in the kitchen cooking spaghetti and meat balls for a dinner party!"

Only drawback to the business of being a comedienne, Lucille reveals, is that people are apt to expect her to be the gaily amusing, anything-for-a-laugh gal they've seen on the screen and heard on the air. When she senses that funny remarks and whimsical antics are expected from her as a matter of course, she grows very quiet. And with unsympathetic people, she just grows quieter . . . and quieter . . . and quieter . . .
