POWER OF THE LANZA VOICE IS SO INTENSE that he stands well-back from the microphone to avoid distortion. Below, he reaches for a tall tone with the backing of Ray Sinatra's orchestra.

Sunday, 5:00 p.m.
CBS-KNX

THROUGH my radio program, as through my films and concerts, I try to bring about my life-long goal—of making opera live for more people. But this is a gradual process and so I hope that my future and the future of 'popular' opera will grow together."

Mario Lanza, who can "sing like Caruso and sell records like Crosby," is currently thrilling Sunday afternoon listeners to one of the brightest summer shows on the airways. He's making musical comedy, popular ballads and opera live for a coast to coast audience who seem to be boosting his meteoric rise with the same overwhelming acclaim that greeted his films and concerts. And he's accomplishing all this as an eighteen-week summer replacement for the "Bergen-McCarthy" ainer.

New Caruso?

The "new Caruso," as many people believe him to be, bears a real-life career parallel to his famed predecessor, whom he so successfully emulates in the current film. In 1921, when Lanza's voice first issued from a New York city nursery, Caruso's golden tones were heard for the last time. Both men had an Italian music-loving heritage, and Lanza was to share Caruso's vocal coach, along with his tremendous voice range (Lanza, like Caruso, can sing either tenor or bass). Even Lanza's impetuous, bubbling personality has been likened to Caruso's—but just how far this parallel can be drawn remains to be seen. At the very least, Lanza is aiming for the same high pinnacle Caruso reached.

Like Caruso, Mario was the son of a poor family. His father, as six-day bike racer until he was incapacitated by World War I wounds, lived on a government pension which his mother augmented by working as a seamstress. Mario inherited a love for music from both his parents. Any spare money that could be scraped together went for records and concert tickets. "Caruso was Papa's favorite," and by the time Mario was ten he was thoroughly imbued with the plots and arias from scores of operas. At family gatherings, the teen-aged boy was often asked to "sing like Caruso."

Stage Name

It was from his mother's name—Maria Lanza—that Alfred Arnold Coccozza derived his stage monicker, Mario Lanza, as the first step in fulfilling his life-long ambition to become a singer. However, in Philadelphia's tough "Little Italy," where Mario grew up, it was safer to focus on athletics, so while training his voice, he also became Southern High School's star baseball, football and boxing champ. This and some post-graduate semi-professional baseball and football account for the sturdy Lanza physique, which he keeps in trim today, despite a propensity for pizza pie. The sports life he led so successfully did not deter Mario from the thing he really wanted. He used his earnings for lessons. And how he began his singing career is a story that, in his own words, "has all the elements of a class B musical."

"My grandfather thought I should exercise something besides my vocal chords, and got me a job as a piano mover in a music store."

It was while he was moving a piano into the Philadelphia Academy of Music that Mario encountered William K. Huff, director of Philadelphia Forum Concerts. Huff had heard Lanza sing and was enthusiastic about his talents. He advised Mario that Koussevitzky was in a nearby dressing room. "The walls are thin, why don't you give him an aria?"

Koussevitzky

Lanza recalls that he was half way through "Vesta La Giubba" when Koussevitzky burst into the room and demanded to know his name.

A summer of work with the noted impresario followed and Lanza managed to give one concert—a concert highly acclaimed by New York critics—before another "master" took charge of his career. He served three years in the United States Air Force and a great portion of that time with the "Winged Victory" troupe.

Another lucky break, after he was discharged, in 1945, brought Lanza to Sam Weiler, a New York business man with a fervent love for opera. Weiler, today Lanza's closest friend and manager, took him to Enrico Rosati, a famed vocal coach who,

His Radio Debut Is Part of a Life-Long Dream

(EDITOR'S NOTE: A few weeks ago, Hollywood was surprised when Mal Boyd, an energetic, clean-cut young man, announced he was giving up his lucrative and promising association in PRB (Pickford, Rogers, Boyd) to study for the Episcopalian ministry. A short time before Mal's announcement, he had asked TV-Radio Life's editor if she would be interested in a story about Buddy Rogers' comeback via TV. Mal had just barely turned in his yarn when news of his intentions was spread. Asked whether he still wanted his story to run, Mal replied, "I sort of planned it that way. When I wrote the story, I had made up my mind I was going to relinquish my showbusiness interests. I wanted to write it before my departure as an expression of my regard for both Mary Pickford and Buddy Rogers, and for our association which I shall never forget. It makes me very glad that you have liked the story well enough to include it in TV-Radio Life.")

BUDDY ROGERS' great show-business comeback in radio and TV, which contributed an item to trade history during the past couple of years, made a lot of people very happy. And it made me, standing on the sidelines, as happy as anybody.

Buddy was the top box-office movie star in Hollywood in 1930. "Wings" catapulted him to sudden fame and he scored, again and again, with top pictures. Then, he deserted pictures and achieved equal fame as a band leader. His marriage to Mary Pickford was international news, uniting "America's Sweetheart" with "America's Boy Friend." Shortly after Pearl Harbor, however, Buddy Rogers disappeared from public view. He joined Uncle Sam as a ferry pilot and came out of service, four years later, as a Lieutenant Commander in the Naval Reserve.

Groping for the right thing to do, and perhaps a trifle unsure of the public's response to him after so many years away, Buddy turned to movie production. As a partner in Triangle Productions and Comet Productions, he sat behind the desk and played producer on more than a half-dozen pictures.

Told By The Chap Who Helped Him Make It

It was at this stage in his career that I first met Buddy Rogers.

I remember our first meeting very well. I had been engaged to handle radio exploitation on "Sleep My Love," one of the films co-produced by Buddy and starring Claudette Colbert, Robert Cummings and Don Ameche. Working out my master plan for the campaign, I had come up with the idea of using Buddy Rogers, the co-producer, as a guest star on some top radio shows to help plug the film. His response, over the telephone, had shown interest and some reticence. But he was game. If any shows wanted him, he'd be happy to appear on them.

I was standing outside Earl Carroll's, on Sunset Boulevard, waiting for Buddy to appear for his first radio guest shot—on "Queen for a Day." I hadn't yet seen Buddy and I wasn't at all sure I could recognize him, so I was watching doubly hard.

Then, a Chrysler station-wagon slid up to the curb and the driver got out. It could only be Buddy Rogers. He was well-dressed, possessed great poise and his greying hair made him appear most distinguished. I greeted him, we went over the script together and, a few minutes later, he was called out onto the stage by Jack Bailey. The audience went wild.

I knew in that instant that Buddy Rogers was still a great public favorite. He needed only the right vehicle to come back.

A guest appearance with the late

Tom Breneman on "Breakfast in Hollywood" followed a few days later, at Breneman's Restaurant on Vine Street. Buddy was planning to leave within a few days on an extended tour of principal U. S. cities to meet the press and tell the public about "Sleep My Love." At the last minute, his press agent to accompany him on the trip couldn't make it. Buddy was looking for someone to fill the bill, and I volunteered. At that time I was running my own exploitation business in Hollywood, but arrangements were concluded whereby the office could manage without me for a few weeks . . . and I was accepted.

On Trip

We flew from city to city in Buddy's twin-engine Cessna plane, accompanied by a co-pilot who helped Buddy at the controls. The marathon was on, and it was really a marathon. Buddy appeared on radio shows every day in Dallas, Houston, Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Salt Lake, Denver, San Francisco . . . but you get the idea. One day in Detroit Buddy did eleven radio interviews in one day, plus, of course,

Mechanical Memory for TV Talent

▲ THE TELEPROMPTER WHICH IS SHOWN ATTACHED above to the camera, has saved many a performer, even some of the greatest stars, from the embarrassment of forgetting what comes next.

A STRANGE looking gadget which looks like an outsized suitcase and is called the Teleprompter, is currently being hailed by harassed video actors as the greatest boon to television since the invention of fluorescent lighting took the performers out from under the blistering ordeal of hot lights.

This robot prompter, which mechanically performs for TV actors the traditional duties of the little man in the below-stage box at the opera or the whispering voice in the wings at the theater, already has made the assorted crude devices and huge, hand-lettered cards as old fashioned as button shoes. With three top-flight video shows, vastly dissimilar in format, already using the newest gimmick, other programs have indicated considerable interest in joining the parade.

Gnawing Fear

Any veteran actor will tell you that no entertainment medium poses such difficult problems to the performers as television. Over and above the bedlam and confusion which exists in the studio, is the gnawing fear of being left alone in front of the cameras without the slightest idea of what happens next. This frightening mental hazard of going completely blank in the middle of a scene can bob up in the minds of the most experienced actor or the veriest tyro with but a single line to speak. The opera, the stage, the movies and radio all protect their performers from this natural occupational fear in one way or another. But, until the invention of the Teleprompter, television put most of its actors on their own without any insurance against fluffs or blowing-up sky-high. Even the greatest stage stars, in the stress of a performance have been known to go up in their lines at the most embarrassing times. There is no explanation for it. It just happens in much the same manner as it happens to all of us in our daily lives. Ever had to stop and look foolish when trying to recall your home address or telephone number? Or your mother's maiden name?

The first TV program to realize the inherent worth of the new machine was the CBS-TV daytime serial, "The First Hundred Years," and now it is used on the Arthur Godfrey Show, "Howdy Doody" and John Conte Show. On this show the actors were required to learn new lines each day, Monday through Friday—truly a

This Week In TV

In & Out of Focus (General Comment)

Looks Like

KTLA's "Magazine of the Week" is back, after a well-earned vacation, and is again seen Sunday night at 10:30 on Channel 5. . . . Doye O'Dell's big birthday party at KTLA marked the popular cowboy's second anniversary. The doings also came as a complete surprise to Doye, with not even the press being tipped as to what would be going on. . . . Ronson Art Metal Works (Ronson lighters, to you) are sponsors of a new and elaborate comedy-variety TV show, "Ronson's Star of the Family," in which Peter Lind Hayes and wife Mary Healy—darlings of theater, movies and TV audiences—will be starred, with important names of the entertainment world on hand. The CBS-TV offering will be showing up on KTSB one of these nights.

Another system of color TV has reared its lovely head and is being currently tested, with FCC approval, on a Philadelphia station, WPTZ. The Philco system is supposedly completely different from either NBC-TV's or CBS-TV's. . . . Theater TV is under the gun two-fold. Congress and an independent organization called "Fair Television Practices Committee" are both sniping at any tying up of special events for merely those of a mind to turn out to the theater to see their TV. . . . Dinah Shore is to have a TV show, coming from Hollywood, this fall. NBC is the net. . . . There will soon be a weekly bowling telecast to be seen on KTTV's Channel 11.

The pace finally caught up with Jerry Lewis (who, to our eyes, at least, has more than once supplied all the comedy of the Dean Martin-Jerry Lewis turns!) and the toothy funnyman has been forced to cancel out the duo's road act for at least a month. He returns to Hollywood to enjoy what will probably be one of the most expensive rests of show business. . . . Walter Winchell will be seen punching across his bits for Jergens this fall when the broadcast becomes a simulcast. . . . The granddaddy of Western radio sportscasters, Sam Balter, moved his renowned "Sportsbook" program into television last week. He's now on five nights a week at 6:45 on KLAC-TV.

Rumors Are Flying

That there will be more Kefauver hearings on TV in New York this fall. The link between East and West may be in by that time, too. . . . That Senator Kefauver will appear as a TV regular next season, hosting a dramatic series based on his book, “Crime in America.” . . . Joan Crawford is slated to appear on TV, touting her self-designed and fashion-consulted brand of wearing apparel. Unmentionables, except on TV! . . . NBC-TV still has no definite plans for its sleeper comic, Jerry Lester. . . . Frank Sinatra will be opposite Milton Berle on their respective TV channels this fall. We have to choose between swooning and laughing?

The Russells, Andy and Della, are shopping for a new husband-and-wife format for TV. . . . Sponsorship for Sam Levenson is lagging. CBS-TV picks up the tab regularly—and happily, but it is nice to have a commercial host. . . . A TV program dramatizing original plays, with Joan Bennett as femcee and once-in-a-while star, is in the works. . . . “Perry Mason” may take form on TV before long.

Stop, Listen, Look (Shows You May Like)

“Faith Baldwin Theater Of Romance”

Saturday, 12:30 p.m. (All.)
ABC-TV, KECA-TV, Channel 7

Any reader of Faith Baldwin's deathless and highly romantic prose is going to get just what he expects in her televised series. Romantic traumas, plenty of suffering on the part of the lovers, and a happy ending. The I-saw-you-last-night-and-got-that-old-feeling theme is as good as ever, and when well cast and cameraed, turns out as pretty good entertainment. The dialog is always amazingly good, and this isn't easy when either requited or unrequited love serves unflinchingly as the theme of a half hour.

While we wouldn't deliberately stay home from the beach to catch the show, we have a healthy respect for the production units behind this mush. As long as that is their product, they make the very best of televised mush.

Authoress Faith Baldwin narrates the dramas adapted from her stories, lending the last fine touch.

“Man Against Crime”

Friday, 8:30 p.m.
CBS-TV, KTVL, Channel 2

Robert Preston has taken over for Ralph Bellamy on this half-hour mystery rough-'n'-tumble. He plays “Pat Barnett,” the former private eye “Mike Barnett's” brother. It's a good trick, when a star goes on vacation, to run his substitute in on the play by means of a brand-new character who keeps everybody happy.

“Pat” continues to prove there are no perfect crimes, meeting fantastically menacing types and overcoming hazards by the dozens weekly. The show is lively and suspenseful and well performed, and if mystery is your dish you can't ask for more. We like it—a lot.

"Mr. Wizard"

Sunday, 4:00 p.m.
NBC-TV, KNBH, Channel 4

Don "Mr. Wizard" Herbert demonstrates to a small pal, "Willie" (Bruce Lindgren), what makes the world go round. He may merely take a clock apart to find the tick. He may extend this to show the necessity for the international date line and time zones across the country, and the workings of pendulums. Or he may start with something simple like salt, a balloon, or a tape measure. Whatever the topic of the day's explanation, the Junior in any watching household isn't the only one to benefit.

Rare and wonderful things are the basis of our everyday life, and Herbert presents them for small fry in a manner blessedly free of that sickening "and-so-you-see-sonny" manner that many times robs the factual of any appeal.

Join Junior at the set-side some Sunday and see how much you can still learn!

"General Electric Guest House"

Sunday, 9:00 p.m.
CBS-TV, KTSN, Channel 2

With panelists and guest performers reading like a roll call at an equity meeting, it's little wonder that G.E.'s quiz show is tops in its category. Durward Kirby, emcee, handles his chores admirably, without concentrating on having his personality dominate the program.

Thespians Wendy Barrie, William Gaxton, Barry Nelson and author Maurice Zolotow comprised the panel of experts. The performers were singer Maggie Whiting, Eadie and Wright, duo pianists. Roland Young, dancer Dorothy Jarnac, and, from the Broadway stage, Marsha Henderson and Jack Manning. Clues for the panelists were provided by the talent's respective performances. This guessing game smacks of radio's "Information Please," with emphasis on show-business questions. Special mention goes to Dorothy Jarnac for her clever pantomime and to Roland Young, who delivered the late Robert Benchley's "Treasurer's Report" with proper uncertainty and bewilderment.

"Guest House," in combining informality, intelligence and entertainment, is far above the preponderance of quiz shows.

sticking by Lorraine and the boys in her band for the full hour during which they "entertain." The one good thing were the strains from that beautiful first trumpet.

The band may be all right (we had listened to "The Voice of Firestone" the evening before, so comparison stood in the way of an evaluation!); Miss Cugat is better-than-average good looking; and the stage was well set and lighted. But, in our opinion, this sixty minutes could offer much, much more in the way of "talent."

The comedian fell far short of being amusing, and the personable leader herself cannot, to our way of thinking, be called a singer. Furthermore, she detracts from her performance by supplanting poise with sinuous wriggings and meaningful glances. The visiting talent, notwithstanding the glowing introductions, seemed mediocre.

Only that trumpet stood out. Our enjoyment of his passages remained unalloyed, for by the end of the first half hour our eyes were closed to the travesty on showmanship passing before us on the television screen.

Ina Ray Hutton certainly started something! If Miss Cugat wants our looking, she had better revamp that show and slow down the free-wheeling demonstration.

Lovers of Latin rhythms will find the hour right up their alley. Plenty of fresh tunes, well played, provide a refreshing departure from many of the below-the-border formats through which the same tired tunes by the same tired Latins are paraded.

After all, the name Cugat is synonymous with this sort of thing—and Lorraine displays capabilities for carrying the banner right along. We hope she does.

"I Want to Get Married"

Tuesday, 9:00 p.m.
KTTV, Channel 11

"I Want to Get Married" is, in our opinion, based on the kind of sensationalistic premise that, in actual production, can't help but have a falsely contrived air about it.

Personally, we feel that the idea of parading people's matrimonial aspirations in front of a video camera is bad taste to begin with and, unless handled with utmost discretion, is rendered extremely shoddy. We felt uncomfortably sorry for the contestants on the first program, although our sympathy was lost as the show wore on and the feeling that this had not gone unrehearsed began to permeate our air.

Before a panel of "experts" which consisted of Bill Welsh, MGM actress Lisa Farriday and Stanley Gordon, four would-be marriageables discussed the problems barring their respective paths to wedded bliss.

Jack Rourke, "Master of Matrimony," solved the dilemma of a lovely professional model who needed a job, by making her his permanent assistant on the show. The glamour gal seemed to us to be the most flagrant example of pre-show coaching. One obstacle to marriage in her life was, as we said, the job that she didn't have—she was newly arrived in the city; another "block" was the existence of a two-and-a-half-year-old daughter by a previous marriage. She candidly admitted her search for a kind and sympathetic mate who would also like her daughter. She questioned the panel as to whether or not she should let her dates know, on first meeting, of her daughter. The "experts" advised her that any date was basically interested in her, had asked her out, not her daughter, and the fact of her daughter's existence should be mentioned only in the most normal course of individual datings.

A seventy-year-old "Bernarr Macfadden" type bachelor told the only amusing story of what we thought the rather soggy whole. He regaled the panel with the tale of how he had lost his childhood sweetheart to a musician. Seems he wanted to learn to play the musical saw and thus offer his rival some competition, but he spent so much time practicing on the saw that he lost his gal. He was straightforward in stating that he was looking for a well-to-do woman to marry, and needed a suit of clothes to further his pursuit. He received an order for the suit.

Another middle-aged woman believed that a course of beauty treatments, which she was awarded, would help her to get married, and a Hollywood photographer, Danny Rowser, felt that dancing lessons would be a definite help in pressing his search for a mate. Accordingly, he was given a course of lessons.

Actually, the basic premise of Master of Matrimony Rourke is not to get the contestants married off, but to help them remove obstacles which they themselves believe prevent this. A not-at-all unworthy object, but in this case, we'd say furthered only by bad taste and bad format. However, the fine showmanship which Rourke and others have exhibited in the past should come to the fore before too many more programs have been screened, so that both the show's contestants and its viewers may look forward to unusual and rewarding entertainment.

"Bachelor's Haven"

Monday, 7 p.m.
KTSL Channel 2

This choice time is turned over to what seemed to us to be merely a poor "Leave It to the Girls" in reverse.

A certain premise is raised from time to time, and the men oppose the women in deciding such world-shaking posers as "Are women getting lazier?" or "Do women like men who treat 'em rough and make 'em like it?" The panel dig into these, everyone seemingly talking at the same time and dealing in trivia in keeping with the original discussion suggestion. Unbelievably enough, prizes or something are sent to the writers who contribute the used topics of the evening.

The first night we saw the "show," Kay Aldridge, a lovely-looking New York stage personality, was on hand, with Hazel Brooks of the movies abetting the feminine side of the questions. Tom Conway, a well-known actor, and Paul Coates, a top newspaper columnist, undertook to hold up the masculine viewpoint. Through it all, moderator Johnny Jacobs (a television personality we would like to see more) attempted to keep the contenders from one another's throats. It wasn't hard. In fact it was so easy that he had plenty of time to fill in the lapses with the only interesting gab of the whole thirty minutes.

Mind you, all this is merely our opinion. We may have had an off night. Of course it seemed to us it was the show that had its off night!

In any event, we'll still take "The Girls" show!

WITH VIRGINIA WEST

Looking just a bit into the future for things to come on Channel Seven, we'd like you to be watching for "Say It With Acting," which starts on KECA-TV, August 17, from 7:30 to 8:00 p.m. . . . "Say It With Acting," which moves to ABC-TV from another network, features Bud Collyer and Maggi McNellis as co-emcees, and guests from the Broadway stage, in a play on the familiar parlor game of charades. The Brown Shoe Company show will be seen weekly on Friday nights until August 31st, when it will be seen on alternate Fridays with the Green Giant Company's popular "Life with Linkletter" series which returns to the air on that date. . . . Remember, that's Channel Seven any Friday evening at 7:30.

All you daytime TV viewers are no doubt happy to see personable Johnny Downs back on KECA-TV every Monday thru Friday afternoon at 1:30. The genial singer and dancer is filling the hour-long matinee spot while Ross Mulholland is off for the summer. . . . Mary McAdoo's novel idea of a stay-at-home summer camp for the youngsters has proved a success, with mothers, and the boys and girls, too. In "Camp Security," Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 2:30, guest instructors have taught fascinating classes in a variety of camp-type subjects from basketry to dog training. . . . Judging by the amount of mail received by KECA-TV's cooking expert, Grace Lawson, there's no lapse in the universal interest in food during this summer weather. Miss Lawson's daily mail count averages between 700 and 800 . . . but hit a one-day high recently when 1,234 letters and postcards were received. "Adventures in Food" is seen on Channel 7 every Monday thru Friday from noon to 1:30 p.m.

Be sure to see "Stop the Music" on Wednesday night at 8. . . . Funnyman Phil Silvers is doing a bang-up job as emcee of that musical variety show, while Bert Parks takes a summer hiatus.

Handy Hints

By Dorothy Gardiner and Dick Garton, stars of KTLA's "Handy Hints," Monday through Friday, 6:45 p.m.

Each week we pick the best Handy Hint sent directly to TV-Radio Life, 6361 Selma Avenue, Hollywood 28, and use it, with your name and address, in this column as well as on the air over KTLA, Friday evening at 6:45. A lovely gift will be sent to everyone whose hint is used here as KTLA-TV-Radio Life Hint of the week.

Here is this week's winner: Mrs. Harry Bougeno, Jr., 10106 Burl Ave., Inglewood 2, Calif.

Her hint is:

If you have small children who aren't tall enough to reach the wash basin, make a small bench about nine inches from the ground. They can use the bench to stand on so they can reach the basin. If you put arms on the bench about twelve inches from the ground and make it so that it will fit over one of your breakfast chairs, it will also serve as a junior chair, thus eliminating another piece of furniture. It can be painted and decorated with a few decals to make it more attractive.

THIS IS A TIME-SAVER FOR YOU BUSY HOUSEWIVES. It's a clothespin jar nailed halfway up on your clothesline post. Use a three-pound glass shortening jar and nail the lid to the post. Fill jar with your clothespins and screw to lid. There you have your pins all clean, out of your way, yet still handy when needed.

NEED A TRELIS FOR A POTTED PLANT? If so, one can easily be made out of a wire coat hanger. Form a figure eight and straighten out the hook, which is inserted into the ground far enough to give it balance.

THE NEXT TIME YOU WANT TO PAINT FLOWER POTS, tie a string or cord around a stick and put cord up through the hole in the bottom of the flower pot. Then tie it to the clothesline, paint the pots and let them hang until dry.

TRY USING PLASTIC MATERIAL OR OILCLOTH FOR YOUR CUPBOARD SHELVES; you'll find it's a lot easier just to take a damp cloth and wipe it clean than to have to replace each time with shelf paper. In fact, if you have an old plastic tablecloth, just cut it up to fit the shelves.

Radiomites

Joe Mazucca must be in possession of Aladdin's Lamp. Golly, he's going to India with the Ed McConnell TV show, where Mr. Ferrin, the show's producer, is going to shoot some scenes. And while abroad, Joe will make a side trip to Italy to see his grandparents for the very first time. If you watch this show or hear the Ed McConnell radio show, Joe is the boy who doubles in the African and Indian boy roles. How lucky can you get?

Little Billy Chapin has been in pictures since he was twenty days old. Gee, how old is that? And now, at six, Billy has been signed to play "Kevin" in "Three Wishes for Jamie" and has already left for San Francisco with his mother, where the show will play for six weeks. On September 17, it will open at the Shubert Theater in New York. Brother Michael, who is so proud of Billy, couldn't go along, because his third starring picture, "Saddle Pals," is already under way at Republic.

"That Williamson Penny" on "Stars Over Hollywood" last week featured little Sheila James as "Sue," the same role she played last summer when this show was regularly on the air. But her older sister on the "Stars Over Hollywood" show was played by Dorothy Sparks, who is Penny Singleton's real-life daughter. This was Dorothy's radio debut and she did very well.

Jeri James, who is Sheila's little sister, makes her third appearance on the Burns and Allen TV show, August 16. Butch Cavell, by the way, is a regular on this show.

Peter Votrian, a regular on Fantastick Studios Ink, is now "Ronald" in "Alias Jane Doe," a CBS summer show which stars Lurene Tuttle. We're going to hear a lot about Peter, because with all his talent he simply can't miss.

Hundreds of little boys were interviewed for the boy lead in Abbott and Costello's independent production, "Jack and the Beanstalk," and ten-year-old David Stollery was the winner. David is a good-looking blond boy with a lot of TV behind him. Congratulations, David.

Carol Coombs and Karen Kester are new names in this column, and like all the rest of the new names that come in from time to time they are welcome. Carol and Kester will be heard as the voices of some of the mermaids in the Walt Disney picture "Peter Pan."

LOTS OF SUDS IN HARD WATER!

BEST FOR AUTOMATIC WASHERS!

NO MORE GRAY WASHES!

NO impossible claims... REAL washing results!

KISS WASHDAY TROUBLES GOODBYE - USE WHITE KING'S new

1-2

WASHES BETTER
EASIER ON MY HANDS!

Everybody's talking about it...praising it! White King's amazing new "1-2" washing method! The revolutionary NEW method that solves hard-water and automatic washing problems. The "1-2" method that helps rid clothes of spots, stains and chemical deposits which soap-substitutes may have left in them...that banishes gray washes...restores the original whiteness and color-brightness to your clothes! Just try this new "1-2" method in your washing machine! When your eyes behold the difference...your lips are sure to say... "I prefer White King's one-two washing way!"

Yes! It's true - WHERE WATER IS HARD - the way to do is use the TWO!

- 1 SOFTEN the water with WHITE KING WATER SOFTENER until the water feels slippery to the touch!
- 2 ADD enough WHITE KING SOAP to make a good 2 inches of standing suds!

NOW wash your clothes. The continuous use of the White King "1-2" washing method helps get rid of the chemicals, spots and stains which soap substitutes leave in your clothes. It helps restore the natural softness and original colors of your washables. It saves much of the soap you have been using.

WARNING! Some clothes are so gray and stained from the use of soap substitutes that they need to be RECONDITIONED, and we recommend a special washing as follows: Put clothes through one wash period, using 1 to 1½ measuring cups of White King Water Softener according to the capacity of your washer...but use no soap. Wring or spin clothes from this water. Then wash again, using both White King Water Softener and White King Soap according to the "1-2" method given above.

(CLOTHES NEED TO BE RECONDITIONED ONLY ONCE)

Menuette

by KHJ's Norma Young

Salad Plate

(For that very hot day)

- 2 lbs. asparagus, fresh-cooked whole stalks
- 6 medium-sized beets, cooked
- ½ c French dressing
- 6 hard-cooked eggs
- 1 cucumber
- Lettuce cups
- Stuffed olives

Method:

Cut beets in thin slices. Spread asparagus and beets in shallow dish, pour French dressing over them and let stand in refrigerator for 1 hour.

Remove shells from hard-cooked eggs, cut eggs in half lengthwise, remove yolks and press these through a sieve.

Add seasonings: salt, pepper, dry mustard, half as much melted butter as egg yolks and vinegar to taste. Blend well, then refill egg whites with this mixture.

Cover with wax paper and keep in refrigerator for several hours.

Arrange lettuce on luncheon plates, dividing into three sections. Place marinated asparagus spears on one section. Place alternating slices of beets and cucumbers in another section and two deviled-egg halves in third. Garnish with stuffed olives.

Note: If TV-Radio Life readers have any cooking or household problems, call Norma Young, between hours 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. HUDSON 2-2133.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 11—"Stars Over Hollywood," KNX, 10:00 a.m. (30 min.). Dane Clark stars in "All Aboard for Reno."

birthday of Jimmie Mobley, who is this theater's very capable emcee.

The "Quiz Kids" have adopted an eight-year-old French war orphan. This child has never known a normal life, but if all goes as planned he will have a real American Christmas right here with the "Quiz Kids." Isn't that nice? I've been thinking way back in my brain of some plan where all the radiomites could get together and adopt a war orphan too. If the "Quiz Kids" can be "foster parents," why can't we? I'm going to contact the Foster Parents' Plan for War Children, Inc., and then I'll call a meeting for all those radiomites who are interested.

Bumped into Joel Nester on "Red Cross," Jimmie Bates on "Aunt Mary," Michael Miller on the audition record of the new Irene Dunne-Fred MacMurray show, and Anne Whitfield on "Make-Believe Town."

Well, so long kids, see you in a couple of weeks, and remember, when there's news in your bean, call NORMA JEAN.

Radio in Review

For Love o' Mike (General Comment)

Looks Like

"Sunset Boulevard," with movie stars Gloria Swanson and William Holden in the leads, will be the first radio offering of "Lux" when it returns September 17 to begin the fall season. . . . George Pembroke, radio and TV "character" actor, has landed a role in an upcoming Gene Autry film. . . . Meredith Willson is the latest entertainer to turn disc jockey. He will spin platters and chatter for NBC, from here for four weeks, and possibly take the show back East when he returns there. . . . Guy Della Cioppa is CBS's new head of network programming. . . . "When a Girl Marries" is now heard on ABC. . . . Gerald Mohr will soon star in the TV version of "Philip Marlowe" as well as the airer.

ABC has radio series in the works for both Marlene Dietrich and Loretta Young. . . . For Miss Dietrich it has a starring role in a dramatic airshow featuring an international chanteuse, who gets into romantic and mysterious adventures in exotic capitals. For Miss Young it's a mike drama that will have her play the "Farmer's Daughter" type of character she created in the movies. . . . Newsmen Harry Flannery, on leave from editorship of The Catholic Digest in St. Paul, will pinchhit for Mutual's Frank Edwards's airshow. . . . "Private Files of Rex Saunders," the Rex Harrison starrer on NBC, is being dropped by its sponsor, and NBC may cancel the series.

Larry Dobkin has bowed out of the "Rocky Jordan" airer because of conflicting film commitments. . . . Versatile Rebel Randall, Armed Forces Radio's "Dear Voice," has written a movie script, "Family Plan," being considered by major studios. . . . Dick Crenna, twenty-four-year-old veteran radio actor, heard currently on "Our Miss Brooks" and "The Great Gildersleeve," has been signed to a film career by Twentieth Century-Fox. . . . Meredith Willson is spending a month at his Mandeville Canyon home before heading for Europe and the first "Big Show" of the fall series. . . . Jack Bailey and his "Queen for a Day" crew are set for a tour of statewide service camps. . . . "One Man's Family" starts doing live broadcasts this week after the taped airshows scheduled for cast vacations.

"Hour of St. Francis" is rated in second spot on Catholic Broadcasters Association poll, with "The Catholic Hour" in lead spot. . . . Loretta Young will star in two of the "Theatre Guild of the Air" shows next season. . . . ABC will broadcast the August 15 Rams-Redskins charity game. . . . CBS's Paul Masterson has expanded his Saturday afternoon show to forty-five minutes. . . . Bill Baldwin, announcer on Mario Lanza's show, is taking a summer course in Italian from the star. As Baldwin explains it, "When it comes to opera, I'm lost, so Mario is coaching me on pronouncing titles." . . . Spade Cooley, Doye O'Dell and Cindy Walker are busy taping Armed Forces Radio Service shows for the "Hollywood Roundup" feature.

Peggy Webber pre-recorded some "Dr. Paul" shows before leaving for a month's vacation in Japan. . . . Armed Forces Radio Service is sending records of Mala Powers's poetry readings overseas. . . . "Suspense," CBS's famed mystery series, undergoes a format change next season. Dramatizations will be based on actual cases adapted from law-enforcement files, newspapers and other official sources. Auto-Lite continues sponsorship, with Elliott Lewis as script editor, director and producer.

"Father Knows Best"

Robert Young of NBC's "Father Knows Best" airshow will journey to Detroit to serve as master of ceremonies for the annual Fisher Body Company Scholarship Awards program, August 14. It will be a treat for Young, father of four daughters, for he will present eight scholarships to boys who have submitted the best car models to Fisher. This event ties in with his extensive campaigning for highway safety among teen-agers.

NBC's Silver Jubilee

NBC's news department, as part of the net's jubilee celebration, is planning a series of twenty-five half-hour documentary broadcasts, each of which will deal with the major news events of one year. In addition to the front-page coverage, there will be items on the plays, books and films of the year, celebrities' doings, human-interest yarns and other material catching the nostalgic flavor of the period.

Narcotics Rebroadcast

"The Truth About Narcotics," a dramatic analysis of the nation's dope problem featuring Malcolm Johnson, Pulitzer Prize-winning crime reporter of International News Service, will be rebroadcast by NBC on three successive Saturday evenings, August 11, 18 and 25 at 4:30 p.m. This came as a result of the many letters NBC has received urging another airing of the narcotics series. NBC correspondents around the world contributed information for the survey of dope from the poppy fields to big-city "pushers." Fritz Littlejohn of the NBC News and Special Events Department spent six weeks talking with police and narcotics control officials in nine major American cities. The three programs include testimony of addicts, doctors and top-ranking federal officials. Joseph Meyers produced the series under supervision of Henry Cassidy, director of NBC's Radio News and Special Events Department. The Senate Crime Investigating Committee has requested a transcript of the series to aid its study of America's narcotics racket.

"Double or Nothing"—Travels

Radio's popular daytime quiz show, "Double or Nothing," has accepted the invitation of USO Camp Shows Inc. and will make a three-week flying trip to military installations in the European Theater of Operations beginning August 10 to tape broadcasts for U. S. release. Headed by quizmaster Walter O'Keefe, a ten-man troupe will tape "Double or Nothing" airshows daily while touring the ETO, half-hour programs being flown back to New York City for release coast-to-coast on NBC. Members of the armed forces and civilians employed by the U. S. Army overseas will also be given an opportunity to compete for the cash prizes by their appearances on the quiz sessions. "Double or Nothing" expects to tape broadcasts and entertain in England, France, Austria and Germany during the three-week jaunt through Europe.

"The Sheriff"

Saturday, 8:30 p.m.
ABC-KECA, KFMB

Adventure via the mike, tailored especially for teen-age listeners and yet not offensive to adult set-siders who go in for action radio drama, is wrapped up in ABC's "The Sheriff," which takes care of the later half of this net's Saturday night story hour which begins with "The Lone Ranger." "The Sheriff" is built around the idea that the old-time Western law enforcer who has gone modern today has some interesting escapades to relate.

Each story line sticks rather closely to the scientific approach used in solving the crime. One broadcast entitled "Throw Another Corpse on the Fire" concerned the operations of a criminally inclined firebug. Danny, the guilty man, was involved in a love affair with his best friend's wife, and tried to pin the crime on him. The script followed in an elementary way the steps taken by "Sheriff Chase" to trace the murderer who had set fire to a couple of business houses. Just enough, but not too much, was made of the love intrigue, and this part of the story was in good taste so as not to mislead young listeners and still retain enough realism to be credible. Youngsters would probably find no trouble following the plot, as it is kept simple and is set in a small-town sheriff's territory.

Adults would be able to discover with little effort all the weak points in the solution of the crime and no doubt turn thumbs down on the radio story. Youngsters, however, would be able to keep one step ahead of the sheriff at times, but that would only create interest in the action drama for them, because they like to solve puzzles of any kind. "The Sheriff" is not up to the finer dramatic productions aired for adult audiences, but then that is not to be expected under its banner of appealing to younger fans. They will like it as far as regular adventure stories go, because it's interesting and has plenty of fast, understandable action . . . and what's more parents won't frown on it, either.

"Musical Merry-Go-Round"

Saturday, 8:00 p.m.
KFI-KFSD

Eloise McElhone, a femcee frequently heard over a number of radio shows, does very nicely as hostess on this week-end platter party. There is much that can be done to give appeal to musical radio, as offered by the disc jockey. Eloise McElhone seemed to use care in selecting her records, which at times were far off the hit-parade beaten path, but were refreshing to hear.

This is a platter show which aims to offer "music America loves best with everything from the classics to the comics." A recent program included a Hugo Winterhalter arrangement of "Wind of the Seas," a number which, although not spectacular in any fashion, caught the flavor of the islands. A new slow-paced Perry Como love ballad, "Cara Cara, Bella Bella," was also put on the turntable. In keeping with the sentimental-type "night" tunes on the musical agenda, April Stevens's rendition of "That Dreamy Melody" was also played. A record entitled "What Is God?" contrasted with the other platters played the same evening, but was a welcome listening item. It featured Don McNeill of "Breakfast Club" renown reciting and Fran Allison, of "Aunt Fanny" fame, doing the lyrics.

Many platters put on by Eloise McElhone need a little explaining or background coverage and that is ably taken care of by the lady disc jockey in this case. She adds chatter about the composers, type of tunes played and the music men responsible for the arrangements without in any way detracting from the listening pleasure of the songs themselves.

Maybe you won't hear your favorite melody every Saturday night on the "Musical Merry-Go-Round" (not, by the way, to be confused with "Manhattan Merry-Go-Round") but you will hear some of the better new tunes in arrangements which might well make them your top choice for repeat spinings.

Subs for Godfrey

Monday, 8:30 p.m.
CBS-KXN

Arthur Godfrey, one of the first men to be caught by color TV and the radio man with one of the largest followings in mike history, left his "Talent Scouts" in charge of Hoosier humorist Herb Shriner when he went off vacationing. Herb Shriner, judging from his last week's airshow, stepped into Godfrey's shoes without any fuss or bother and with a fist full of folksy laugh lines.

It was the same slow-timed jokes and casual approach to the serious which have made the feller from Indiana an appealing comic on radio, TV and the Broadway stage, that emanated from the mike last week. He had no trouble getting the laughs with his talk about Congress, taxes, and mostly about the folks "back there in Indiana." Hot weather prompted his priceless remarks about swimming conditions in the Hoosier state, where, he said, "We had to boil water before we could swim in it . . . and the only swimming hole was the mirage at the end of town that was really a sort of gravel pit" . . . and about the vacation resorts where "the girls were looking for husbands—and, of course the husbands were looking for girls."

Once Herb Shriner got started with his jokes he seemed reluctant to bring on the talent scouts and their talent, but he did manage to point the spotlight on four contestants. He followed Godfrey's format in handling the scouts and the hopefuls, by kidding them a little and twisting their serious statements into funny ones. Two opera singers, a violinist and a young feminine ventriloquist were in the entertainment line-up. As usual, they performed with varying degrees of capabilities, but at all times put on a good show.

Some may prefer Godfrey to Shriner when it comes to comics, but that is not the question to be settled here or on this replacement series with the "Talent Scouts." It's a sure thing that whichever one of these casual jokesters takes to the mike, you are assured plenty of laughs.

"Martin Kane, Private Eye"

Sunday, 3:00 p.m.
NBC-KFI

This pipe-smoking master of mystery, as portrayed by Lloyd Nolan, easily ranks among radio's more polished private policemen. His are the capers that make a listener appreciate a nicely turned murder, because he always gets his man (or woman) and in a logically suspenseful manner.

A woman psychiatrist, who had a somewhat unbalanced, though not insane, man patient, was one of "Kane's" recent customers. She called "Kane" in to protect her from the patient, whom she wished to cure of his fixations. In the process of being cured, the man had fallen in love with his doctor and refused to take "no" for an answer.

The plight of this woman doctor was not as unplausible as it appears on first reading, and scripters struck a nice balance between believable characterization and imagination, in portraying both the doctor and her furiously smitten patient. The suitor considered "Kane" a rival for the doctor's attentions, which brought about some humorous byplay. But when the patient was murdered, "Kane" dropped his light-hearted bantering about playing bodyguard to an attractive and admired medico, and got down to cases.

"Kane" uncovered the existence of another wife that the patient just happened to have, a wife who, it appeared, was just as jealous as her mate and who had murdered her husband and almost succeeded in killing his doctor, too. "Kane" drew the case to a fine conclusion and, with humor intact, began thinking about taking psychoanalysis for himself, naturally from an attractive doctor.

Nolan's fine acting and an unexaggerated plot are but two of the features of "Martin Kane, Private Eye" that make it one of our favorite listening habits.

"Marines Pass in Review"

Saturday, 9:00 p.m.
KECA

People often forget or are unaware of the fact that men in the armed forces do more than march, shoot guns and salute officers. It takes a program like "Marines Pass in Review" to make listeners aware that the men in uniform are very busy making music and generally putting on a good show.

This particular airshow is backed by the Camp Pendleton Marine band, which can put any group of pop performers in the shadow any day. The musical arrangements are very fine, plus the fact that they have a vitality and sparkle to them. When the Marines from Camp Pendleton take to the bandstand on this broadcast there is nothing haphazard about their presentations. Such songs as "Hullabaloo" and "The Tenth Regiment March" were included in one night's selections. Vocalizing was done on "I Apologize" by Sergeant Jack Daley, and a male chorus offered an interpretation of Jerome Kern's "Old Man River."

matic and narrative episodes picturing the military activities of the U. S. Marines. A recent airshow spotlighted the helicopter operations presented for the members of the press recently during a mock enemy invasion at Camp Pendleton. All the realism and military strategy used during the actual event were captured on tape for the listening audience. Each program includes some of the history of the men who make up one of the toughest arms of the nation's military force, as well as timely facts on recruitment and advantages of this particular branch of the service.

There are few spots on your radio dial where you can get as much vigorous music and narrative-dramatic fare as you can on "Marines Pass in Review," and at the same time be informed on one facet of the nation's defense.

Playbacks (Critical Comment)

We Point With Pride

To Ed Begley's fine portrayal of the narrator in the "American Portraits" broadcast dealing with "Stonewall" Jackson.

"Philo Vance"

Tuesday and Thursday, 6:30 p.m. ABC-KECA

It may be his hectic two-cases-a-week schedule, but we believe "Philo Vance" is lagging far behind his fellow private-eye artists in dramatic impact and suspense.

"Vance" is supposedly the sophisticated, analytical type detective whose outward boredom with such trivialities as murders actually covers a heart of gold and a brilliantly calculating mind. Such a make-up alone necessitates a plausible crime and solution thereof to spell any sort of good mystery drama. But, if recent shows are an example, even "Vance's" methodically clicking mind can't quite grasp the myriad weird machinations of plot and counterplot that have come his way.

A case in point was the very intricate murder of an airline pilot who had been running around with another man's wife. The pilot was also supposedly interested in a girl who was in turn interested in another pilot. Net result: suspects were the husband of the straying wife, although his knowledge of his wife's indiscretions was never explained; the other pilot, whose character was so dimly drawn that his motivations were muddled; and, for another unaccountable reason, the girl in whom the pilot had been interested. Confusing? We thought so too, and even "Vance" couldn't convince us that he knew what was going on, or why.

"Vance" did manage to come up with the murderer, by a not very ingenious trick of proving that the murderer's familiarity with the room in which the crime was committed indicated that he was the killer. But we confess, even though we know now who dun it, for the life of us we can't understand the murderer's motivations or why "Vance" bothered with the whole case.

We'll tune in on "Philo" again, soon, and see if he's doing any better in the detecting racket. Better characterization, more exciting and plausibly projected cases are what we'll be looking for next time, and we hope "Philo" comes up with them, because he seems to be a good character, and we hate to see him waste his talents via mediocre scripting.

Welcome Home

Residents of Nashville, Tennessee, proved their loyalty to one of their favorite sons despite a driving rainstorm. When Phil Harris paid a homecoming visit to his home town recently, he kept a crowd of nearly 10,000 persons laughing and cheering, despite a summer downpour.

The city's mayor, Ben West, issued a proclamation

FORGERS BEWARE

Mary Margaret McBride, ABC's columnist of the air, has at least six different types of penmanship she uses in answering letters, and admits that on one occasion a check was returned by the bank because officials insisted the signature was not in her handwriting.

SIDNEY JOINS SDPH

The Screen Director's Playhouse, heard on NBC every Thursday at 7:00 p.m., has taken unto itself a permanent figurehead, fast-rising screen director George Sidney, who will be heard each week as moderator-emcee.

designating Friday, July 28, as "Phil Harris Day" throughout the city. And Nashvillians did celebrate. All of the festivities were for the benefit of the Kiwanis youth funds, and Harris headlined an all-star show as part of the giant affair.

A commission as a "Tennessee Colonel," presented by Governor Gordon Browning, was among honors heaped upon the popular comedian during his visit home.

In thanking the crowd for their hospitality, Harris remarked, "Coming here was the happiest note of my life. I've never received such a wonderful reception."

"Horse-Doctor"

Don MacLaughlin, "Dr. Jim Brent" on NBC's popular daytime drama "The Road of Life," is possibly the only man in broadcasting who got his start by neighing like a horse. His first network radio role was cut out of the script during rehearsal and MacLaughlin was assigned to help the sound-effects man by making like a nag.

But that incident marked the first and last exhibit of his equine ability. From that beginning he went on to become one of today's most successful radio actors.

Prior to his first mikeside appearance, however, MacLaughlin had chalked up another distinction—he had actually taken a slow boat to China! MacLaughlin was born in Webster, Iowa, but because of his father's precarious health his family moved frequently during his childhood. He spent many of his growing summers at various jobs—as a timekeeper in a dial-telephone company, as an illustrator, as a designer of miniature golf courses, and once as a butcher.

He majored in English and dramatics while at the University of Arizona and graduated to teach high school in his Iowa home town during the depression days. He then headed for New York, where he spent another year as a clerk in a theatrical booking office. This, too, was unsatisfying so Don decided to visit a cousin in Singapore. He signed on as a seaman on a slow freighter.

A couple of years later he returned to New York, also by slow freighter, and married Mary Prugh, a young miss who worked on a newspaper.

While an undergraduate at college, Don had made a successful radio debut on the Tucson NBC affiliate, so he decided to try his acting future further. His first radio audition was for a job as an announcer on a local New York station. The audition consisted of reading a newscast. When it was over, Don learned that he had actually been on the air all the time. "That blessed experience," he says, "kept me from ever developing mike fright."

Next came a season of one-night stands touring with Little Jack Little's band, as road manager. After that, the young actor joined a group which did a great deal of unpaid work, for "experience." He and Kenny Delmar, best known as "Senator Clagnorn," were members of a radio stock company which evolved from this search for experience.

Then followed a year of radio work in San Francisco, from which Don managed to land a solid part in an NBC serial. Besides his role in "The Road of Life," which he has enacted for the past four years, MacLaughlin plays the lead in NBC's weekly "Counter-Spy" dramas, and has had leading roles in fourteen major network series to date.

MacLaughlin's most loyal audience now includes his wife, and three children, Douglas, twelve, Jeannette, nine, and Britton, six.

Corset History Aired

Mary Margaret McBride, who has had many an interesting personality on her ABC programs, found herself delving into the history of the corset when she had historian Earl Newton as a guest. Mr. Newton, editor of the American Heritage Magazine, informed Mary Margaret that Cleopatra was not the first woman to resort to the corset effect.

"The Minoan women wore corsets centuries earlier, but they established the custom of having them from the waist-down because they wore no clothing at all above the waist," he said.

"Then came the days when they were made with wrought iron by the same craftsmen who built the medieval torture-instruments. Some women might suggest that there isn't much difference between a corset and a torture instrument," Newton concluded.

Mary Margaret feels that many women from personal experiences can agree with the above statement.

Modern Romances

Peter Martin, script supervisor for "Modern Romances" (KECA, 12:30 p.m., Monday through Friday) avoids soap-opera situations in "romance" scripts. "People have enough to depress them without listening to misery and despair on the airwaves," claims Peter. "That's why I ask my writers to avoid soap-opera situations and draw on down-to-earth problems that people face every day and solve sensibly without tearing their hair out or carrying on in a vale of tears."

The staff of "romance" writers includes Vera Oldham, Michael Sklar and Don Witty, who use no "formulas." Don Witty has emerged as a very versatile writer on the lighter side of life. Vera Oldham and Michael Sklar have done exceptional scripts, according to Martin, in relating the realistic and credible experiences in real-life dramas. Their characters are drawn from people who hold ordinary working jobs as well as people whose backgrounds are more unusual. Their problems and the decisions they make are similar to those we all have in day-to-day living; or their amusing experiences pleasantly remind us of our own or those of friends.

The stories dramatized on the daytime dramatic series are narrated by Helen Gregory. As story editor she presents them as a friend would tell of their experiences, and they are enacted by top-flight radio actors. Bill Marshall is director of "Modern Romances" program and George Henninger scores the original dramatic music.

DAVIS REPORTS FROM EUROPE

Noted ABC commentator Elmer Davis will fly to Europe on a fact-finding and reporting trip, during which time he will visit the Atlantic Pact countries and report on the state of defenses of the Western world.

NEXT WEEK

Our cover feature story next week definitely proves that three is not a crowd, especially when the trio includes KNBH's popular stars Monty Margetts, Stu Wilson and Bill Stulla, as you will read.

Walter Brennan is bringing us the delight of "You Can't Take It With You" on radio, and our interview with this colorful and talented actor turned up some delightful reading, too. KLAC's lovely Betty White also provides us with a charming profile, next week.

A yarn about one of radio's most unusual families, "The Whistler's Children," and one on "Setatives," giving you some pertinent pointers on caring for your TV sets, plus a story about KTSL's tele-news men and the second installment of Buddy Rogers's engrossing comeback tale are features you won't want to miss in next week's magazine.

The latest news, reviews and pictures plus COMPLETE video and radio logs, all guaranteed to bring you an evening's good reading and a week's good looking and listening are, as always, included in your copy of TV-Radio Life, available at your market checkstand. More (forty pages) for the money (10 cents) than any other TV-radio publication.

back-breaking schedule. Seeking to give aid, comfort and peace-of-mind insurance to the harried actors, as well as to insure uniform good performances, the producers of the pioneer detergent drama experimented with the Teleprompter and found it worked. Since the program went on the air last December, one of the problems that has vanished into thin air is the problem of fluffs, missed cues and anxiety-ridden actors. The thing works and works well.

Basically, the Teleprompter, four of which are used on a program, is a rectangular box about two-and-a-half feet high and a foot-and-a-half wide. The entire script, printed in inch-high letters by a special type-writer, unwinds electrically on two rollers, the pace being controlled by an operator seated at a master machine in an unused corner of the studio. This operator, following the dialogue through earphones, regulates the speed of the script through the other machines by a series of buttons, much like working an electric train set.

At Eye Level

Just off the studio set itself, the other three Teleprompters are placed in the most strategic locations for the actors. Set at eye level, all actors in the scene can see at least one script without having to turn their heads or make it apparent to the audience that the lines are being read. Two of the machines are mobile, being carried by an operator around his neck by means of a leather strap. The other machine is stationary, placed usually at the side of the center video camera. By using the mobile machines, the problem of setting them up for a subsequent scene is vastly simplified, the operator or carrier merely moving to the outskirts of the new set.

This boon to harried video performers was invented by Fred Barton, a young actor, who, as a member of the cast of the Broadway hit, "Mr. Roberts," noticed that a common complaint that inevitably cropped up in a discussion of the hazards of video acting was the unbelievable fear of fluffing, going blank and generally messing up a performance. Surely, he reasoned, there must be a better way to safeguard a costly performance than by the use of huge cards, which never could contain everything necessary anyway. Toying with one idea after another, Fred suddenly hit on the idea of the entire script being unfurled on rollers, paced to the speed of the actors' delivery. He built one or two experimental machines, worked out the bugs, eventually got what he wanted.

The large cast of "The First Hundred Years," many of whom are veterans of stage, screen and stock company grinds, readily admit that the Teleprompter has done wonders for their performances. "It's not that we rely on it exclusively," said Robert Armstrong, former featured player on Broadway and Hollywood, "in fact, we memorize our lines carefully each day. But we always know the thing is there when we want it, which is only once or twice a week at most. You know," chuckled Armstrong, "it gives me the wonderful sensation of having money in the bank. It's there when I need it."

Lanza: Summer's High Note

after Mario's first lesson remarked: "I have waited thirty-four years for you to come along! Now you are going to work so hard you'll wish we had never met."

The results of that hard work were evident in the twelve minutes of applause which greeted Mario's Hollywood Bowl debut, some fifteen months later. The applause fell on the ears of Louis B. Mayer, who was in the audience, and he quickly arranged a command performance for the studios' top producers which launched Mario on a film career to the tune of Mayer's extravagant comment: "You're going to be a singing Clark Gable!"

"Fame Is the Spur"

Mario hopes to be more than that. His ever-growing talents have brought him fame in films, concerts, and now radio, "where I am gratefully able to reach an even greater number of people." In his broadcasts, as in the other mediums, he says he's "bringing in more and more opera, spicing each show with a touch of it. But not to the exclusion of other types of music."

With his guest vocalists and Ray Sinatra's orchestra, Lanza manages the usual press interviews and meetings with exhibitors. But the quality of his work never faltered. No matter how tired he became, he kept right on slugging to make his trip as much of a success as he possibly could. My admiration for him couldn't have been exceeded. He was a real trouper.

After the trip, and a long rest, I organized a radio package show built around Buddy as star. The principals involved, including Buddy and myself, flew to San Francisco to "cut" the audition record at NBC there. Mary Pickford accompanied us, and made a guest appearance on the program. There was intense interest in the show, and sales prospects were hot, when Horace Heidt was signed to headline an almost identical format. Heidt had been working a long time on a talent format, and neither party had any way of knowing what the other was doing! Call it fate, or bad luck, or the breaks; but my plans for Buddy came to a standstill.

I lined up a couple of isolated dramatic guest appearances for Buddy on "Stars Over Hollywood" and "Skippy's Hollywood Theatre," but I had no over-all plan in mind.

A year must have passed, and I became interested in TV (as who didn't?) and plans were made to produce a video show with Benay Venuta. But she was suddenly unable to go on with the project and we had no idea who could take her place. I remember, in the middle of our conversations, that I telephoned Buddy to thank him for a Christmas present which he had left for me at the Goldwyn Studios. He said, "If any radio or TV guest appearances come up that I might be able to do, please call me."

I said I would, and hung up. At the same time the phone touched the cradle of the receiver, the light dawned. I dialed Buddy's number back. Would he consider a regular series on TV, considering the infancy of the medium? He suggested we talk about it the next day at his office.

to run a weekly gamut of musical types, and invariably includes a liberal helping of opera.

At present, Lanza's family, his lovely wife, the former Betty Hicks (sister of an army pal), whom he married in 1945, and their two daughters, Colleen, 2, and Elissa, eight months, are preparing for their role in Mario's operatic career—a trip to Italy, where they will live for the next six months, while Lanza sings with La Scala, Milan—and after that, he heads for the Met—"to make opera's future my future."

FROM Southern kin, among whom the rebel cry was familiar, Rebel Randall took her showbusiness monicker. The green-eyed beauty has most recently been supplying fighting spirit for more than two million Americans stationed in foreign countries. Her "Juke Box USA" is Armed Forces Radio Services' most popular program and Rebel is in the unique position of being both the GI's favorite entertainer and pin-up girl.

More important to this warm-hearted beauty, who has three brothers of her own in Korea, is that the more than a thousand letters she receives from GI's every month reflect the fact that she symbolizes home to them and that through her they actually feel closer to their own wives, sisters, mothers and sweethearts.

Into her daily disc jockey sessions, heard by an estimated ninety million people around the world, Rebel spins the essence of home that is so vitally treasured by fighting men in Korea and those sitting out the so-called "police action" on such remote powder kegs as China and Berlin. Her fervent hope is that she can continue to do so "as long as there is an American fighting man overseas."

Morale Builder

As far as the production staff at AFRS is concerned, she will. They are as pleased with Rebel's morale-building show as are the men on the receiving end. When they signed Rebel to her initial series, in September, 1950, as a sequel to the earlier "GI Jill" programs, the AFRS staff, in the words of "Juke Box USA's" writer-producer, Rudi Burns, knew that Rebel possessed that "indefinable inner warmth" they were looking for.

The lovely miss, who hails from Chicago, is not only unusually comely, but has talents equal to her beauty. She's been seen and heard in over thirty-two films; admired as a cover girl on dozens of magazines; celebrated on billboards and illustrated in "Esquire" annals as the typical American beauty. Her collection of beauty titles would give royalty an inferiority complex.

A scholarship in the Max Reinhardt Workshop brought Rebel to Hollywood from Chicago where, in school years, her beauty had already begun to register. Classmates at Foreman high school could look out the window at her likeness gracing a Coca-Cola billboard, and she was a top model in that city. Fashion-plate jobs made her seek a model-type name, since she didn't favor her real one, Alaine Brandes. The Randall portion of her name came from a chance encounter in a telephone directory.

In Hollywood, Rebel developed a list of radio credits as long as her well-turned arm; did a personal appearance tour with Bob Hope, and gave movie camera men pause for thought. She ventured into TV via an East coast videoing entitled "Auction-Aire." One glimpse of her on their screens caused fans to label Rebel "the most beautiful girl in television."

Brains and Beauty

Rebel's brains match her looks—she paints and writes in her spare time. Three of her paintings are in a local exhibit and "The Lying Lion" and "Daffy Daffodil" are two children's books she penned.

All this could not be apparent to her GI fans, but her great sincerity is. And she has had some touching experiences which prove it. AFRS pipes her shows to all military bases and hospitals in and outside of the country and to all her listeners she has become known by a title given her by one of her earliest listeners—"Dear Voice" is the salutation most often used in letters sent her.

A group of eight or nine GI's will request a pin-up picture and as always, Rebel will answer them personally. Often they will answer her in turn, only instead of eight or nine signatures, the writers will explain that a few of their buddies are no longer with them.

"That sort of thing is what brings this war home to me," she explains.

"Seoul City Sue," who was captured recently, and the newer "Minnie Pearl" are "the other side's" versions of Rebel Randall with which they try to jam AFRS' broadcasts—another proof of the potent power behind Rebel's popular discing which is felt even by the Communists.

Deep Responsibility

Rebel feels a deep responsibility toward her audiences, especially when she receives stateside letters

I Defend Singing Commercials!

One Man's Jangle Is

IT TAKES a man in the singing commercial business like Jud Conlon, director of "The Rhythmaires," to justify the clang, clatter and bombast that frequently accompany musical plugs. Jud is truly the father of many sponsor's melodious messages. He takes the jingles, for beer, toothpaste, cigarettes, drinks, bread, or transportation, sets them to music and then labors over an arrangement that will be music to the sponsor's ears.

Why singing commercials, anyway? Jud put it very simply when he said, "They pay off . . . singing the jingle keeps money jangling in the sponsor's pocket. It's the only reason you can get Crosby, Groucho Marx, 'Life With Riley,' or any of your favorites on radio or TV. We don't have subsidized radio like they do in Britain, and somebody has to pay the bill . . . so the man behind the man at the mike or camera can not go unnoticed or unheard."

Businessman's Minstrel

As a minstrel for the American businessman, Jud faces only one problem when he notes the sharps and flats for pitches . . . that is, "Will it sell?" Sometimes the business men admit they know little about music and only say, "we want it pretty" . . . "we want more girls' voices" . . . or "we want it high at the end." Singing commercials may jar your ear drums or your mental processes, but that's what pleases the man with the bankroll. A music man, like Jud, who has long ago lost count of his own musical arrangements for some of the hit tunes of our time, believes in selling by singing because, "it's more alive than hearing a monotonous moaning of a male voice drooning out the glorious attributes of a certain drug store specialty." But what about the people who find these tuneful rhymes irritating? "One man's jangle may be another man's joy. If the listener remembers the jingle, he'll remember the product . . . and maybe he'll go away humming the commercial."

Jud added the sponsor's peculiar twist to his musical arranging soon after the war when he organized "The Rhythmaires." Before he became part of this vocal aggregation, he had raised his bass voice in tune with the well-known singers, "Six Hits and a Miss." No, he doesn't have a complete collection of all the singing commercials he has been responsible for, but hopes to put the more than 500 of them on platters someday. That would mean digging up arrangements he has done for such airshows as "Life of Riley," Groucho Marx, Phil Regan show, Bing Crosby, "Our Miss Brooks," Dennis Day, "The Blandings," and the Kay Kyser show.

Arrangements

Jud said there was little difference between arranging a jingle for radio or TV. For TV, musical accompaniment is never used as they are almost sure of visual help to sell the product. His toughest job was working out the plug for "Ice Cycles" into a singing commercial. Every time he would get "The Rhythmaires" going, he heard a soprano or tenor trying to say "cles" and it would come out anything but that. Each set of lyrics must have special

For Top-Draw Drama On Hollywood Theater Time*

IT WAS a toss-up whether we were discussing "Hollywood Theater Time" or the merits of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, during our interesting interview with Bob Finkel, alumnus of Carnegie and director of KECA-TV's "Hollywood Theater Time." Bob holds a drama degree from this outstanding university, which offers a fine arts curriculum, as well as its renowned engineering courses.

Television's role in the Kathy Fiscus tragedy inspired Bob to enter the television field. "I feel that my experiences in the various entertainment mediums, plus my academic training have been of invaluable assistance in my directing 'Hollywood Theater Time,'" earnestly informed Bob. "We have twelve hours to rehearse and prepare a weekly half-hour telecast. Ours is the only local dramatic show viewed on kinescope in New York, and we try not to let the Easterners find any faults with our productions."

Genius at Work

Bob is budget conscious and works out the minutest details prior to air time. His wife, Janie, and three-year-old daughter, Terry Lee, are obliging props. After rearranging his living room, he sets the stage and the family fill in as actors as he puts them through their paces. The salt and pepper shakers are commandeered whenever additional cast members are needed. Bob maps every camera shot and actors move with the assistance of his family "cast." He cheerfully exclaims that he enjoys this segment of preparation to the hilt because it's the one time he can boss the family and get away with it.

Bob also memorizes all the cue lines and action to save time. One glance at the script might mean the loss of several valuable seconds. The absence of a prompter in the wings insures memorized parts, as psychological crutch theory is taboo here.

Director's Problems

"Hollywood Theater Time" has encountered some unusual problems. An actor, who had the second lead, cancelled out the eve of the telecast. Finkel, with the help of the production crew, invented a "Tel-a-Cue"

PLAYING CHARADES on KTLA's "Movietown" video show is no cinch for the "Adams" and "Eves" who appear each week. It has even stumped an Academy Award winner. "Movietown" has given some of Hollywood's stars more than a chance to play a game, it has been their debut on TV and has in some cases led to a video show of their own.

Charades are played each week when genial Dick Lane emcees the parlor-room fun when he invites three "Eves" . . . either service women or three movie stars . . . and the three "Adams" . . . actors or service men . . . to the telecast. Top Hollywood names like the Andrews Sisters, Mel Torme, Ann Rutherford, Leo Carrillo and Stuart Erwin have put aside their dignity to get in the act.

Childhood Game

Charades, if you recall your childhood experiences or party frolics, consists in opposing teams acting out the title to a song, movie, play, book or such, while the other team attempts to guess what it is. On the show the "Adams" or "Eves" are asked to pantomime the charade for a "board of experts," who are situated in another studio. The experts see the sometimes desperately awkward antics of the players over a television set and via an ingenious sound device, the viewers can hear the board's guesses, but not a sound comes from the studio where the guests are enacting the charade. If the experts can guess the title of the book, song, etc. being enacted within three minutes, the sender of the charade receives a nominal gift, but if they don't guess it within the time limit, a valuable watch is on its way to the smart senders.

Back Stage

That's all there is to the game, but there's a lot more back of the telecasting of such fun fare. Its producer claims that "Movietown" has the most vocal viewing audience of any program—a viewing audience which sends in an average of 5,000 charades a week, ninety-nine percent of which are duplicates of others submitted that week or a previous week. This similarity in the charades submitted makes it increasingly hard to stump the experts, especially since each title must have a visual interpretation. At the beginning, the series was called, "An Invitation to Movietown, RSVP," then public usage made it "Movietown, RVSP," and after a flood of letters asking what RVSP meant, it was renamed simply, "Movietown." During its early history, all the video performances were set in the actual home of a movie star, but because of high production cost, lack of suitably located homes, and the complexities involved when movie people's contracts were at variance with television appearances, this format had to be discarded.

One of the experts, Carroll Carroll, laid an egg when he failed to guess the title, "Baby Me," which happened to be a song he wrote. Dick Lane was caught napping when he couldn't make sense of the act which spelled out "I Can Get It For You Wholesale," a movie which he had just finished.

In the producer's office there are miles of files which record each charade used, its date of entry, the name and address of the sender, and any duplicates received. Before any charade is used its origin is traced for accuracy. When varying quotations of MacArthur's, "I Shall Return" statement came pouring in, a mad scramble ensued to make sure it was not "I Will Return" or "I Am Going To Return."

When a toughie, "Amphitron 38" came up, the experts were baffled . . . the "Adams" and "Eves" frantic . . . but the viewers were enjoying it to the hilt.

machine for the substitute actor. The script was written on a giant type-writer and projected on a 3x5 foot screen. All parts were rearranged so that the substitute actor was constantly facing the screen, from which he read his unrehearsed lines. The telecast went off without a hitch and the audience was none the wiser.

In order to create an authentic setting, Bob had cobwebs sprayed on the set of "The Spectre." The script called for objects to mysteriously move about. This was accomplished by hands hidden from the camera's eye. However, viewers mistook the fine cobwebby sprays for strings pulling the objects. Sometimes effort is expended for naught.

Bob's weekly challenge of directing a different live dramatic show, varying in pace, has been prefaced by hard work in other entertainment mediums. As juvenile entertainer, Bobby Blue, he was billed as a tap dancer. Those were the days Dick Powell emceed, and the late Joe Penner headlined vaudeville acts. After Carnegie Tech, he directed at Rhode Island's famous Providence Playhouse. Giving vent to his frustrated acting desires, he frequently crossed the footlights to show actors how to read their lines. City-bred Bob read every available Western pulp magazine for his first Hollywood assignment, and turned out top-western scenarios for the "Range Buster" series. An assistant directorship on Republic's "Ice Capades" followed.

A new phase of activity presented itself when Bob was stationed in the China-Burma-India theater of operations with the famed Merrill's Ma-from families whose fighting men have asked that they send them musical-type greetings via Rebel's show. Often requests are from servicewomen overseas, who dedicate songs to their Korean and Japan-stationed pals.

On the personal side, Rebel, who is unmarried and lives with her mother and sister, in Hollywood, has become acquainted with a few especially "dear voices" of her own through her show. One in particular, a Marine Corps sergeant, has called her, from Kobe, Japan, every Saturday evening for the last two months. There's also an Air Force man whose letters, wisely addressed to Rebel's mother, have piqued the lovely brunette's curiosity about him.

Careerwise, Rebel hopes to augment her GI discing with network radio and TV shows through which she will deliver messages from overseas to stateside relatives. These programs, currently in negotiation, should bring the "Dear Voice" to our eyes and ears very soon.

rauders. In civies once more, he became associated with the Las Palmas Theater's "Lend an Ear" and "Glass Menagerie" productions.

In Person

Bob Finkel is full of enthusiasm, of slight, wiry stature, penetrating intelligent eyes and has smooth dark brown hair. He has a strong dislike for the negative, and like the old Army saying, he believes the impossible takes a little longer. One only has to look at his television accomplishments for proof of this theory.

treatment with accents and tonal qualities on specific syllables to get the message across and yet sound like music. In one TV beer commercial he used fourteen voices and no musical accompaniment, while for the same radio plug he got results by using six voices with an orchestration in the background.

When asked about a singing commercial for "TV-Radio Life" magazine, Jud said as he cocked his head to one side—humming all the while—"TV-Radio Life . . . hum, that would have to be something explosive . . . or you might do it with a jazz tune, or a musical impression of showbusiness sounds."

Jud has ambitions to take "The Rhythmairs" on a concert tour . . . go on writing fine arrangements for more of the same as he did in Disney's "Alice in Wonderland," and "Peter Pan" . . . and to match music and messages so they pay off for both the sponsor and himself.
