"Dragnet" continues as top programming on both radio and TV at our house. The dual consistent good performances on the two media show the sound creative endeavors of Jack Webb.

Aunt Ruth and Uncle Larry, Upland

This chap, Jimmy Weldon, will go far. He has a comfortable and natural way of putting his TV show over.

Katherine Van Dyke, Pasadena

Please, please, please change "Medic's" time spot. As a reasonably intelligent critic and a former doctor's wife. I wholeheartedly endorse this show. It does what few novels, plays or movies have ever done—depicts accurately and artfully the very real drama being enacted in any hospital or doctor's office during any twenty-four hour period you care to pick.

Also, as any normal viewer, I enjoy warm, clever comedy as in "Lucy." Don't let millions of people have to make a choice on these two shows!

Stephanie Gates, Los Angeles

Why do so many people pick on Liberace? I see nothing wrong with his singing or his dancing and I love to listen to him play the piano.

Gloria Small, Colton

I just wanted to write and say I think the Frankie Laine Show is really great. I've always been crazy over Frankie but now, oh brother! I'm really gone.

We never missed one of his shows and thought it was one of the best. I think it's a shame to take him off. He is one of the nicest personalities on TV and no one can sing like he does. Let's have more like Tennessee Ernie on TV.

R. A., Burbank.

Why oh why do "Lucy" and "Medic" have to be on the same time? If "Lucy" can't be on a Friday night when children can stay up later, then why can't she be on earlier on school nights? Her time, 9:00 p.m. is a little late for young grammar school students.

"Medic" is such a good educational program, it seems a shame that so many parents will miss it because the children wait all week to see "Lucy."

Maybe if folks will write in and protest, we'll have the same results as "Juke Box Jury" had a year or so ago.

Thanks for a swell magazine.

Steve Allen--

He's Loaded (With Talent)

With all of the things Steven Allen does, it's a wonder he ever had time to be the TV star he is now. This is a man who is sitting firmly on success's doorstep.

By Jack Holland

IT WAS A hectic session at the Henry Hudson Theatre in New York. It was here that rehearsals were underway for the nightly telecast of "Tonight," starring Steve Allen. Cameras were rolling all over the place, a personable young singer was rehearsing, a group of five Latin vocalists were knocking their lovely heads off with a hot rendition of "Hernando's Hideaway," and in the midst of the confusion in strolled the star, Steve Allen, as composed and as serene as an Englishman drinking tea.

Immediately he was pounced upon by several people, all giving him instructions for the night's show or asking him questions about the show. Without ever raising his voice or getting even mildly ruffled, Steve answered the questions and then sat down at his desk to check the set-up for the show.

It was in this bedlam that Steve was pinned down for a chat. This likeable boy, who is really a Southern California product in that he got his start here, is practically the toast of New York now, what with "Tonight," not so far seen on the coast, and his excellent jobs on some of NBC's "spectaculars."

What He Wants

"Ever since I left Hollywood," Steve commented, "I've been trying to do a show like 'Tonight.' CBS talked about it once but could never find the time, so NBC started it a few months back. Basically, it's the same kind of show I did in Hollywood—and if I had to limit myself to one program, this is the kind I'd like to do. It's been so important to me that I've had to turn down several movie offers and Broadway offers. I had a chance to do a part in 'Brigadoon'—the picture. But I could do it only if the TV show came from Hollywood. For a while I thought of paying for the relay cost to New York, which would have amounted to about $3000 a week but when the experts began to figure out things, the cost reached about $9000, so I had to skip the movie. I was also offered parts in such Broadway hits as 'Seven Year Itch,' 'Oh Men, Oh Women,' 'Reclining Figure,' and 'The Pajama Game' and had to turn them down. So you can see that this is a rather important show to me.

"I had to drop my participation on 'What's My Line?' because of the 'spectaculars' I've been doing. I originally signed to do ten out of twenty shows but now I don't want to do that many. I think I'll do just one a month. Some people seem surprised to find me on these 'spectac-

➡ STEVE ALLEN HAS BECOME a much sought-after personality as a result of his work on Max Liebman's (center) "spectaculars" for NBC. Max pauses for a chat with Steve and the lovely Mrs. Allen (Jayne Meadows.)

➡ JAYNE AND STEVE gag it up for a domestic shot. Steve is hardly the domestic type but he's doing very nicely in the marriage department. Jayne has only one fault to find with him—he relaxes too darned easily.

ulars' but I'm not doing anything in them that I haven't done before—except dancing."

Breaks

Steve Allen's success has come through a series of breaks. For a while in Hollywood he was doing a comedy show for Mutual but that fell by the wayside and then he was offered a nightly radio show for CBS.

"This was a break in disguise," Steve said with a grin. "At first I didn't want to do it since I thought it was just a disc jockey thing and it seemed like a comedown. But I took it anyway. I needed the money. And things improved when I was able to get rid of the record gimmick to an extent and when I got an audience in to see the show.

"From then on, things progressed nicely. I was with CBS for two years and then I went to NBC. I also appeared in a play on Broadway that had only four performances but I was lucky enough to get some good reviews. Since then I've been gnashing my teeth over the movies and plays I've had to turn down.

"Now that I'm really settled in New York, I must admit that I would like to work from Hollywood a good portion of the year. When 'Tonight' goes network I may be able to work on the coast. The production facilities are so much better there. The theatre where we do the 'spectaculars' is awful. It's like a hangar for the Graf Spee. If I've gotten any laughs I never knew it since the audience is so far away from the stage. Comedies just don't go over in a place that size—with the audience about two hundred yards from you."

Steve is so busy now he has little time to spend at home with his wife, Jayne. But she's going to do a show on Broadway so, as Steve puts it, "We can at least be able to spend some time together since our hours will be about the same.

Expert Relaxer

"Jayne always wonders why I don't fall to pieces with my schedule, but she's beginning to realize I have no problem relaxing. My composure is actual and not pretended—which may mean that something is wrong with me. Getting enough sleep is my problem. I have to get nine hours. If I don't, I don't know what my name is.

"This sounds like I'm not too easy to live with. Maybe I'm not but I like to think I am. I don't believe I get upset or annoyed any more than anyone else. When the pressure gets too hectic for me I just go to sleep—or try to.

"But actually doing so much is good—in a way, I hurdle from one project to another and find that my work gets departmentalized. But not through any effort of mine. It's just a case of people ordering me from place to place."

In addition to Steve's TV work he's also a composer and a writer of note. He's been selling stories to several national magazines, most of which are of a serious theme. And he's been trying to finish a novel for two years. He's been working on a book about famous comics called "Funny Men." Then there is his musical ability. He plays the piano well and also can dish out the notes on the tuba and the trumpet. He has an album coming out soon for Coral Records in which he plays the piano with the orchestra. On one side he'll do old ballads and on the other he'll do some of his own compositions. The title in case you want to buy it—"Music for Tonight." His latest record release is "Do You Remember Me?" with Merv Griffin on the vocal.

"Music writing requires the least expenditure of time these days," Steve laughed. "It's like wiggling your ears. Ninety-five percent of the stuff today is easy to write. Like the last one I did called 'What Happened to the Hair on the Man I Loved?' that Pearl Bailey did."

Steve then turned very serious as he said, "I've been a lucky guy. I still can't believe all this has happened to me."

It has happened to him because Steve Allen is a man who deserves everything that has come to him.

The Roy Rogers Radio Show Has Undergone Some Remodeling to Attract More Adult Listeners

▲ STRIKING A HAPPY NOTE are the co-stars of the series. Dale's tune is always keyed to the story line of the program.

BACK IN JANUARY when it was determined that General Mills was planning to discontinue sponsorship of the Roy Rogers radio program and Dodge agreed to pick up the tab for the show, orders came for a completely different presentation. Adult appeal, rather than strictly juvenile, was desired. Who could turn the trick?

Ralph Rose, veteran radio writer, was called and asked to submit an idea. He immediately concocted a situation comedy with Roy, Dale and their five children on their ranch.

At the meeting into which Ralph's idea was tossed there was marked pleasure until somebody suddenly thought of a very important point: what will happen to Roy Rogers' multi-million dollar merchandising enterprise if he and Dale are taken off their horses and scriptually made to follow a pedestrian life?

Very important point—so vital that

Ralph Rose scrapped his carefully composed situation comedy and sat down to figure out a mystery type program in which Roy, placed each week in a different locale, solved a whodunit and topped it off by duetting with Dale a song tying into the plot.

"Eureka! We've found it!" everyone said. Then loomed the next problem. It was January 10 and in ten days Roy and Dale were leaving for a three-month personal appearance tour. How could Rose, even with help, whip up eleven scripts and get them taped in ten days?

Big Task

No one knows how they did it, but Ralph and Charles Smith, taken on as assistant writer, performed the task, then sat back to await results.

Immediately the show's rating, which had been stuck around a 3.0, pushed up to a 6.0 and when summertime arrived and Jack Benny removed his competition, it climbed to 8.0. Nielsen rated the Roy Rogers Show seventh of all radio programs during July and August.

It is a foregone conclusion that more listeners are harking to Roy and Dale and it is not too much to guess that the added audience is grown-up. Proof of this came when Dale brought in a song called "Christian Cowboy" and asked Ralph to write a show around it. After she had sung it on the program she received 7,000 fan letters from adults.

One interesting change—a physical one accompanying the scriptural—was the studio set-up for taping the show. Previously, Roy and Dale had always taped at a table. The engineer always placed two chairs at the table and suspended a boom mike. Ralph thought it might inject more action into the lines if Roy and Dale were to stand while doing the show, so he asked the engineer for a standing mike only.

Other Changes

First time Roy came in to the studio he must have known it was different, but he didn't peep. It wasn't until the third session that he asked where the table and chairs had vanished and why. When Ralph explained, Roy agreed that he'd be glad to get on his two feet and stay there to make the program better.

Another "first" was Roy's singing of "Old Man River." He had never tried anything like this before—nothing so ambitious—but the story line called for it and Ralph, accordingly, cabled Rogers in London to ask if he would do it. "I will if you think I'm able," came back the answer. Since then Roy has never hesitated about singing any number.

"Changing Roy and Dale from a cowboy series to a mystery was like changing from one boat to another in midstream without dunking anybody," Ralph observed smilingly. The happy writer now has a new title for the show. It's one coined by writer Don Quinn, who, when hearing Rose describe the new idea for the Roy Rogers Show, came up with the name. "Dragsaddle."

Jovial Jack McElroy is back on the video-lanes with "Conglomerama" on Channel 13. Lovely Marilyn Hare helps Jack with the fun and festivities.

Talented writer-producer-creator Cy Howard joins NBC after fifteen years with CBS.

Quote of the week: Harry Morgan of "December Bride"—"The rich may not know how to live but they sure know where." M.R.

Tribute

If some of you "This Is Your Life" viewers are wondering why the late Alfred Paschall still receives producer credits on the show, it's Ralph Edwards way of paying tribute to his late friend and producer who did so much in helping with the creation of "Life." And two seats are reserved for Paschall's parents for each telecast, whether or not they attend.

Lucille Pieti, Theme Girl

Lucille Pieti has been named "Theme Girl" by the Los Angeles Advertising Club for their Annual Safety Campaign during December.

Lucille, a bright young TV star, is also one of the country's few lady automotive engineers. She has a Bachelor of Science Degree in Mechanical Engineering from Wayne University in Detroit. As a technical consultant, she has talked to millions of TV listeners these past few months on "That's My Boy." On behalf of the sponsor, Plymouth, she has explained in simple terms how automobiles are conceived, designed and produced.

Saturday Block

NBC is strengthening their Saturday morning block of telecasts with the addition of "Tom Corbett, Space Cadet." It joins the special two-hour grouping for children—"Happy Felton's Spotlight Gang," "The Paul Winchell and Jerry Mahoney Show," and "Funny Boners."

Stars of the "Tom Corbett" series are Frankie Thomas, in the title role of the Earthman; Al Markim as "Astro," a Venusian; Pat Farris, as "Dr. Dale" and Jack Grimes as "T. J. Thistle." Noted science-fiction writer, Dr. Wily Ley serves as science editor.

Destination Santa

There's been a slight mix-up but the post office department is certainly trying to do its best to perpetuate the Santa Claus theory. KRCA received a letter addressed thus: Santa Claus, North Pole. Period, end of address. Affixed to the letter was an S and H Green trading stamp. The writer of the "letter"—a second or third grader—asked for a bike and a doll carriage. Well, KRCA, what are you going to do about it?

Knows When To Quit

Celeste Holm secured a release from her "Honestly, Celeste" series this week. Celeste is a smart girl, had she continued with her present format Holm would not be seen in many homes much longer. "Honestly, Celeste" was one of the most hoaxed-up formats we've seen in a long time and not at all suitable to her talents. Bravo for Celeste for knowing when it was time to quit. "Your Favorite Playhouse," half-hour telefilm dramas replaces Celeste.

Cecil Waxed

"Cecil the Seasick Serpent" and his pals are finally going to be available on records. Decca and puppet creator Bob Clampett signed a contract to record Cecil and his pals for a children's record series.

Jan Murray, Sick Bay

Jan Murray, emcee of "Dollar a Second" collapsed last week just before his show. Jan joined the "complete physical exhaustion club" which includes such esteemed comedians as Milton Berle and Red Buttons.

It might be purely coincidental, but these three performers belong to the "live" television crowd. Haven't as yet heard of a film comic collapsing, have you?

Second Glances (Critical Comment)

Point With Pride

. . . to Marian Richman's excellent performance on "Dragnet." We should see her more often in serious dramatic roles.

. . . to "Ford Theater's" production of "Charlie C Company," starring Edmond O'Brien. Even the complex theme of a chaplain-soldier who regains his faith in God was given a certain amount of believability in the short space of twenty-six minutes. "Ford Theater" can get pretty corny, sentimental, and even meaningless at times, but this one was differently one of the better shows which Screen Gems periodically produces.

"The Mail Story"

Following the drama-documentary format, "The Mail Story" is a series based on authentic cases from the closed files of the Bureau of the Chief Inspector Post Office.

On a recent episode a disgruntled employee, who had been discharged after forty years of service with a shoe manufacturing firm, hid a package of dies which the firm needed in its manufacturing process. The missing package, allegedly lost in transit, necessitated the closing of the plant. Postal officials were called in to investigate the case and after a thorough check they apprehended the guilty man.

"Mail Story" will not go down in television annals as great dramatic fare. The series is obviously produced on a limited budget. But for straight documentation of postal inspector cases, "Mail Story" is informative and entertaining. M.R.

"Committed"

Sunday, 9 p.m.
KNXT, Channel 2

Alan Ladd finally made his TV debut on General Electric's show in an item called "Committed." Ladd was good, giving strength and force to a somewhat obvious role.

There was only one thing wrong with this play. It was designed for superficial thrills and suspense. The plot was so complicated and so confusing that after a while you gave up trying to decipher the whole thing and just waited for the next person to fire a gun. There were some exciting moments, to be sure, but the net result was a little too pat for comfort.

It does seem that Ladd should have used his TV debut to try something entirely different. Of course, he may have felt that it was better to stick to a formula, but this is the very mistake most stars make when they try television for the first time. There is enough formula stuff on the channels, so it would be nice if the movie personalities who invade the medium would strike out and head for a new path.

Others in the cast did the best possible with characters that were noted for their lack of originality. Whit Bissell, John Howard, and Frank Ferguson worked hard to make everything look new and different, but the script was against them.

Ladd will be a welcome addition to TV, but let's hope that next time he's more selective in his material. J.H.

Colorful Comments

The last Max Liebman spectacular pointed up a glaring mistake in the current trend of color telecasts.

The lavish ice show, starring Sonja Henie doing most of her expected routines, must have been breathtaking in color, but in black and white it was fuzzy, flat, and visually uninteresting.

Liebman also deserves credit for again attempting something new by breaking his show into two parts with the ice spectacle in the last half. Maybe doing two separate shows is the answer to the problem of the spectacular. These extravaganzas might not seem so ponderous if a format like this were occasionally used.

Lifelines

BY EVELYN BIGSBY

ONE OF THE MOST ENJOYABLE TV segments this year was Bing Crosby's guest shot on Edward R. Murrow's "Person to Person." Only improvement might have been presence of Crosby's three at-college sons. After the program, so Ed Sullivan reported, Mary Margaret McBride, who shared the half hour with Bingle, blew her top because she thought Bing's loquaciousness had caused her own time to be curtailed. I think Mr. Murrow was really loading his program to have both Crosby and Miss McBride on at the same time. Bing alone would have provided a full half hour of top entertainment. With both him and Miss McBride guesting, it might have been more interesting to have saved Crosby until last. Here's a vote for a repeat performance on The Groaner. Why not his Pebble Beach place, where, he said, most of his trophies are "at home."

LATEST ON THE COLORCASTING situation: KTLA emblazoned our color receivers the other night with a tint version of "Western Varieties" which looked pretty good. (Am sure Klaus Landsberg wouldn't dream of ruining his fine technical reputation by a shoddy colorcast.) No doubt he was warming up for New Year's Day when he'll be the only outlet tint-lensing the parade: I think NBC is making a serious error in letting both parade and game go black and white. (Dropping of the football classic's colorcasting is the latest decision.)

WHAT GOES ON? NBC-TV SENT OUT a press release, received Tuesday afternoon (the day prior to "This Is Your Life") announcing name and details of William Wellman's upcoming "surprise" guest. Wellman could have been tipped off but thoroughly. Luckily he wasn't!

IT WAS A PLEASURE TO SIT in on Paul Pierce's "Teen Age Trials" panel on KRCA. Board of Supervisors is taking action on selling of knives to juveniles. Action was prompted by a specific program which Paul and his panel presented a few months ago.

JOHNNY GRANT WAS WIPING off his TV make-up while mine was being put on. As he swiped at his face with a towel he told me about his sixth tour to entertain servicemen in the Pacific area. Bob Hope gave Johnny carte blanche in his (Hope's) gag file. Johnny also plans to tape a print of "White Christmas," which will be wonderful but may make the fellows pretty homesick.

I THINK ONE OF THE FINEST ideas is that of using Lionel Barrymore's 1953 Christmas tape of "Christmas Carol" for this December 19 CBS program. It will be heard on "Hallmark."

ANOTHER TRADITIONAL MUST is "Amos 'n' Andy's" interpretation of The Lord's Prayer, which they'll do also on December 19. The other day I had luncheon with the "little" girl to whom the prayer is painstakingly explained. In the script her name is "Arbadella." In real life her name is Barbara Jean Wong. She's Chinese, pretty, petite, a native of Hollywood, married, mother of a two-year-old daughter, Robin. Barbara has played Arbadella since 1940. One Christmas after her graduation from U.S.C. when she was attending Columbia University, she came all the way back home to discharge her customary duties.

SHE'S BEEN IN SHOWBUSINESS since she was three. When five, Barbara made a hit on "Uncle Whoa Bill's" show and for several years she was half the act of Billy and Betty. She appeared on Bing's show (did commercials) has had roles on "Lux," "Hallmark," Burns and Allen, "One Man's Family," "Fibber and Molly." Her TV credits include "Halls of Ivy," "Comedy Hour," "Boston Blackie," but she had never played the part of a Chinese girl until recently. Barbara eagerly awaits the annual call of "Amos 'n' Andy's" secretary, Miss Zuma, to tell her she is to be "Arbadella" again on the CBS radio program. She hopes her voice will remain young enough to perform the role until, perhaps, her own Robin can step into it.

HOLIDAY NOTES: Spring Byington, that zany mother-in-law, will spend Christmas with her two daughters and three grandchildren . . . "Uncle Archie" and tribe head for Apple Valley . . . Jack Latham is winging to Mexico City . . . Gil Stratton and family anticipate some exciting skiing in the Sierras . . . Gale Storm and Lee Bonnell will entertain their parents in the Bonnells' new Royal Oaks home . . . Lucy and Desi will have their parents spend Christmas Day with them in their new Palm Springs home. That clever Lucy plans to keep peace and goodwill in her own menage by serving both turkey, U.S.A. brand, and roast suckling pig, Cuban style.

Happy holidays to all!

SAFE, SANE

June Havoc believes the safest place for youngsters on New Year's Eve is at home, so each year she gives a party that night that's strictly for the junior set. This year her guest of honor will be young Danny Richards, Jr., who portrays her kid brother on her "Willy" TV series, and they'll be toasting the New Year with milk, soft drinks and a kingly feast.

LUCY ON FIRE

Lucille Ball is sporting a bandaged nose a la Jimmy Durante.

During the filming of a soon-due episode, Lucy donned a putty nose as part of a characterization. And during the ensuing histrionics, the false nose caught fire. Before it could be doused, the famous Ball proboscis was painfully toasted.

FUTURE DATES

Roy Rogers and Dale Evans will be atop the "Go West, Young Man!" float in the Rose Parade. . . "Rin Tin Tin" reverts to the radiolanes January 2 on Mutual. . . Rosemary Clooney's guesting cycle is a family affair. Husband Jose Ferrer, sisters Gail and Betty and brother Nick are all scheduled for guest appearances on the Clooney show.

Ear, Eye Inspire the Pen

Sara Monez, San Francisco.

To began with, I like your magazine very much. It is very good, but I don't quite agree with everything that is published in the magazine. But then everyone has their own opinions. So, in my opinion the following are the top ten shows in my rating of TV shows.

1. "Disneyland"
2. "Mr. District Attorney"
3. Sid Caesar Show
4. "Person to Person"
5. "Death Valley Days"
6. George Gobel Show
7. "Dear Phoebe"
8. Jack Benny Show
9. "Medic"
10. "The Hit Parade"

KTTV, Channel 11, Los Angeles.

In reply to an Ear, Eye Inspire letter which stated it was too bad "I Led Three Lives" was not on a major local outlet. We are a major channel. As a matter of fact, newest ARB figures show that we've increased our lead over KRCA and narrowed the gap between KNXT and ourselves. In brief: we are the second station in Southern California in ratings.

Lester E. Hemmings, Santa Monica

Did you ever wish that television would give us a feature picture showing Shirley Temple as a child? There's one around, believe it or not.

A TV programmer can be excused for giving less than mad attention to the details of ancient western movies. Those "oaters" so far released by major movie studios—aside from a couple showing Ann Sheridan and Rita Hayworth in their prairie quail days—offer practically nothing except as a vehicle for keeping commercials from freezing together in the late night air. The goodies, mostly, are still in the vaults.

But there are exceptions, and KRCA

(4) has one. Do they know it? Announced rather languidly recently as "The Law of Vengeance," with Randolph Scott and Esther Ralston," this picture turned out to be a retitled 1933 Paramount release originally and aptly called "To the Last Man." In the cast were not only Randolph Scott and Esther Ralston (once a great star, space-hoppers), but Barton MacLane, Jack LaRue, Noah Beery, Buster Crabbe and Gail Patrick. And, oh yes, Shirley Temple. Without screen credit, to be sure, Shirley nevertheless walked, talked, and was part of the "plot." The identification is positive. Interested viewers might amaze KRCA (4) by "demanding" a re-run of this picture, now called, remember, "The Law of Vengeance."

Incidentally, this was Shirley Temple's next-to-first part in any motion picture. The very first was "Red Haired Alibi," in 1932. Next was the above Paramount western. The Educational "Baby Burlesque" series followed, and stardom came with "Stand Up and Cheer."

PICK of the PIX

By AUBREY DAHL

Republic Pictures sold a block of its old movies to television the other day. I don't know for how much, or what movies, or who's in them, or when they'll be shown, but I thought you'd like to know I'm keeping my ear to the ground for the latest happenings in the movie-television world. That's where the dirt is, you know.

"Johnny Come Lately." (5) Dec. 19, 7:30. This is one of those arch little dramas, about an itinerant printer, James Cagney, who wanders into town, becomes editor of the newspaper, runs into political chicanery, and engages in a battle with the entrenched regime. He enlists the aid of the town's madame, Marjorie Main, who runs a frisky parlor, called Gashouse Mary's, and falls in love with the newspaper owner's daughter, Marjorie Lord. (He meets her in the newspaper office, however), and, finally, after setting things straight, leaves town as he entered... an itinerant printer. This is the prestige picture on TV this week, inasmuch as Channel 9 has come up with "Northwest Stampede." (9) Beginning Dec. 21, 9:00. Rodeo champ James Craig inherits his father's ranch and returns to find the place being run by a lady foreman, Joan Leslie. He wants to sell, she doesn't, he wants to round up an outlaw stallion, she tries to keep him from winning a rodeo, and, well, the ad says, "The White Outlaw's On A Rampage." (The Ram page in this magazine will be found in the sports section.) "THRILL To The Northwest's Wildest Rodeo! GASP as He Tramples a Snarling, Fear-Crazed Wolfpack." (Never saw a rodeo trample a wolfpack, before). With Jack Oakie, Chill Wills, and the dog, "Flame." Oh, you'll sulphur through this one.

"The Judge." (2) Dec. 21, 11:30. This unpretentious but highly interesting little picture has been shown on TV a couple of times before and I'd like to compliment those responsible for making it. It is obviously an experimental picture, and thus, obviously, has some faults, but it tells its story with suspense, intelligence and humor. A criminal lawyer, upset by his wife's infidelity and the thought that he has saved many guilty criminals from punishment, forces one of his freed clients to play Russian Roulette... if the client dies, it is a sign that the lawyer has been wrong; if he lives, the lawyer will feel justified. Milburn Stone does the job of his life as the lawyer, and Katherine De Mille, Paul Guilfoyle and Norman Budd are all fine.

"Night Comes Too Soon." (4) Dec. 21, 11:20. But not the end of this column, eh?

HOLLAND'S TUNNEL

DUG BY JACK HOLLAND

Another situation comedy has gone down the drain—this time it's Celeste Holm's show, "Honestly, Celeste." Having talked to Celeste before she began her TV effort and knowing how many hopes she had for its success and how confident she was of the show, it's difficult to understand just what could have gone wrong. Most of the programs I saw were on the forced and hectic side and did all too little to display to any advantage Celeste's talent. There is a place on TV for Holm, and she will undoubtedly find it. TV audiences are becoming more selective and won't settle for just any old show any more. The competition is too terrific. Any new show these days has to be so solid that it can take a beating in the beginning and still go on to become a hit. The mediocre numbers simply can't keep up with the pace.

There have been reports too that Jack Webb is about through with "Dragnet," that he plans to quit while he's ahead. Whether or not he goes through with his plan to drop the popular NBC show, he is wise in not wanting to hang on until the public inevitably wants something different. No one need worry about Jack's future. He is a smart enough man to find something to replace "Dragnet." He has proved that a show done with intelligence and good taste can click on TV—and any subsequent efforts of his will be marked with the same integrity. There's little doubt that "Pete Kelly's Blues" is his main interest now. Keep your eye on Webb. He may have some interesting announcements to make.

Watching Jimmy Durante perform on the last Max Liebman show proved again that here is one of the really great showmen. His rendition of "September Song" was a moving and touching highlight of the program and proved what has always seemed obvious—Durante could do more things of a dramatic nature and do them well. In line with this, there is talk of his doing a serious show. Durante has the heart, the warmth, the sincerity to play dramatic things as well as comedy. He has made a fabulous career for himself as a comic, so it will be more than interesting to see what he does in a serious role. Just watch him clobber an audience when he drops the mask of the buffoon for a brief spell.

Ray Bolger is now spearheading a drive for added blood donors during the Christmas holiday period. He is working for the American National Red Cross. The slogan for the campaign is "Give A Life For Christmas." Ray volunteered his services when he learned that our nation's hospitalized children and adults face a critical blood shortage during the coming month. As Bolger said, "Christmas is the time to give—yet it is sad that most people forget that death and disease go on, and fail to give the most important gift of all—a life. I am asking every American to put the Blood Donor Center on his Christmas shopping list. Give a pint today and know that you are giving someone his life for Christmas." This is indeed a worthy campaign, one that should have the hearty support of all.

Betty White will be without her show as of December 31. It's amazing that Betty should be in this position, considering her many talents and her great popularity. She is as popular across the nation as she has been here in Hollywood. Why is it that with all the tripe on TV someone of Betty's ability is in a precarious spot? However, with Don Fedderson in charge of her career it's doubtful that he will waste any time in lining up something important for Betty. There is always room for people like Miss White.

Candid Impressions: Donald O'Connor proves over and over again that he is just about the best young performer on TV. He's also sensational in his next picture, "There's No Business Like Show Business." . . . Joyce Bryant is the sexiest, hottest singer these old eyes have ever seen. The lady, now at the Coconut Grove, has been making TV appearances of late, but no channel could hold her and her gyrations and earthy style without a fuse being blown. . . . Ken Murray has lined up some of the most important personalities in the world today for his "Where Were You?" show which is catching on nicely at KTTV. If you haven't seen it yet, don't waste any more time doing so. . . . Some of the guests on Peter Potter's "Juke Box Jury" ought to remember that they're present to judge records—not to try to be personality kids with the haw-haw humor. Some of those who have tried to be funny have been laying the most stupendous eggs recently.

COPYCATS

George Gobel's cracks are being repeated everywhere now. Even other TV personalities are "borrowing" his stuff. On one show, George said, "Be careful passing a school bus on the left. One of the children may be driving." The same joke, practically word for word, was used as a sign-off a few days later on the same network's "Spend A Million" show.

For Love o' Mike (General Comment)

Radio Ramblings

Veteran Fred Shields takes over the interview duties on "KFI Calling." . . . Voices of some of the most illustrious literary and theatrical talent of the day will be heard on NBC, December 19, when the net's news department presents "Meet Ernest Hemingway." . . . Announcer Gene Baker is Granada Hills' new honorary mayor.

Ben Grauer has been inked to emcee NBC's new "Where Have You Been?" travel-quiz show. . . . Joe Hesel and Curt Gowdy are set to describe the annual Cotton Bowl classic. . . . Helen Hayes finally got around to playing "Lady Macbeth" for the first time in her many years in the theater on the recent "Hallmark" presentation "The Immortal Sarah." M.R.

John Vandercook

John W. Vandercook, top ABC-KABC commentator, was in town last week covering the CIO convention. The CIO incidentally happens to be his sponsor.

Vandercook, writer-traveler-newsman, is an outspoken individual who doesn't lack very definite opinions. When queried about the controversial Joe McCarthy, he replied: "Joe McCarthy has only one talent. He is News. If he sneezes, it's news and you can expect him to do some sneezing for a while.

"But McCarthy is without force or meaning. He is an incompetent demagogue. He has no political platform and keeps whipping a dead horse—domestic communism. His investigating committees have never produced enough evidence to convict anyone of communism," Vandercook said.

"McCarthy is an eccentric sick figure; he's fast becoming a Washington character, marked by the deterioration of his personality. Wisconsin will not return him to office in 1958," he said.

The newsman has experienced a lifetime of travel and study and experience in many fields. He's been actor, roving newspaperman, feature editor for a metropolitan daily, collector of primitive carvings and ace photographer. All of his many experiences and his varied interests contribute to his writings and to his ABC news commentaries.

His books include "Empress of the Dusk" and "Black Majesty," and his writings have also appeared in national magazines.

During World War II he covered Europe and North Africa. He was present when the Buchenwald concentration camp was liberated.

Vandercook is a prolific reader and finds time to do little else but keep up with his books and periodicals. For relaxation he likes to putter around the house, a rambling old-fashioned structure built by his great-grandfather in 1823, or romp with his two children.

"Hallmark Hall of Fame"

Helen Hayes' appearance in "The Immortal Sarah" was one of the outstanding "Hallmark" presentations of the current radio season.

The portrayal of Sarah Siddons by Miss Hayes was particularly fitting. Last year she won the Sarah Siddons Award for the "Best Performance By An Actress."

Producer-director Bill Froug and writers Morton Fine and David Friedman are credited with a top-notch production. Edward Arnold, Hallmark's new host, adds dignity and warmth to his narrator-host role. M.R.

Ear, Eye Inspire the Pen

Name and address withheld.

Isn't it time that something was done about the Liberace mimics on television? I can't see anything funny in this making fun of Liberace—a more wonderful man never lived and to see Victor Borge making a big monkey out of himself trying to mimic Liberace was very disgusting. I just wish it would stop, it isn't one bit funny. What is wrong wearing a happy smile—there is nothing but good manners and fine characteristics to Liberace so leave him alone.

I enjoy your magazine weekly and have taken it several years. Thanks for putting it in the grocery stores.

Mrs. M. McGill, Los Angeles.

"Life With Father" is so consistently good and so enjoyable for every member of the family, no matter what their age. The background sets, costumes and acting is always good and it never strains to be overly-clever with impossible situations. It seems very authentic and gives the impression that it's well thought out and carefully directed. There never is any objectionable material.

Loretta Killingsworth, Hollywood.

There are so many grand television programs that deserve credit and among my favorites are "Medic," "Dragnet" and Calo Pet Exchange. For the best in newscasting my vote goes to that very fine reporter Jack Latham. His presentation of the news tops them all and I am happy to know that there are so many other viewers who share this opinion.

Thanks to TV-Radio Life for giving its readers such wonderful reading. I have been a TV-Radio Life fan for several years and I am enclosing a check for a renewal of my subscription which recently ran out.

C. D., Los Angeles.

I have a lovely 21-inch RCA television, and enjoy many programs very much, but like most others, I have a complaint that I have been wanting to write to you for a long time. And it's about those bull or bass fiddles in so many of the bands. I don't like their thump, thump, thump, and do they have to appear right out in front?

I live in an apartment and other tenants complain that is all they can hear, even when I turn the music down low. I usually have to turn the program off, and get some play that doesn't please me near as well.

Kate C. Young, Hermosa Beach.

I finally broke down and purchased a TV set with much misgiving. Tonight I saw a performance that came near justifying the extravagance: "Studio One" performance of "Short Cut" with Jackie Gleason and a superlative cast. Mr. Gleason is not only a great comedian and a producer of unusual and highly satisfying orchestral records, but now a top flight dramatic actor as well.

Yes, I think I'll keep the set as long as there are "Studio One," "Halls of Ivy," "Medic" and Imogene Coca.

Mrs. E. Morrow, La Jolla.

It is amazing to many viewers how many entertainers with no special talent appear on network shows and yet other really talented artists are only seen locally.

TV network producers are missing a good bet by not signing handsome young Merrill Moore, Capitol recording artist, who is a very talented pianist and singer. Merrill has that "little extra" that makes just an entertainer a "star." Merrill Moore is seen five afternoons a week on San Diego's Channel 10 with that great group of musicians "The Roy Hogsden Band."

RECORD Notes to You

By ANDY MANSFIELD

(KFI, Monday thru Friday, 8:45 a.m.)
(Saturday, 9:30 p.m.)

Hello, Kiddies . . . This is your old jazz hepcat, Santa Claus, writing you from the record cabinet of my wind-up phonograph. From what I hear, your moms and pops should get a big boot out of some mellow Hi-Fi re-issues of yesterday on long-play records that were hot stuff when mater and pater were girl-and-boyng.

If they've told you about Beiderbecke, there's Volume 2 of this hot cornet man with his Wolverines. The Sioux City Six and Rhythm Jugglers on Riverside. Same label has another new one featuring Red Nichols and Miff Mole. (They were a little before your time, but what a twosome in brass they were!) Maybe Pop was a player-piano pumper, so Riverside's Ragtime Piano Rolls Volume 3 ought to provide the necessary nostalgia. George Lewis and his Jazz Band fill another LP with some mighty purty New Orleans music, vintage 1951-53—but then, maybe that's too modern for him.

EmArcy is another label which boasts a raft of long-play re-issues for those parents in the younger bracket who whispered sweet nothings while dancing to the music of Count Basie and Earl Hines. For them on Christmas morning, the one called "Jazz Royalty" should increase your allowances. Maybe they told you about Phil Napoleon's Emperors of Jazz—a small combo that sounds nothing like Shorty Rogers, but completely fills two volumes of Dixieland Classics. There's another by Francis Spanier that they used to call Muggsy; and a tenor sax man named Coleman Hawkins whose solos could be identified by the melody—and there's even one called "Holiday In Trombone."

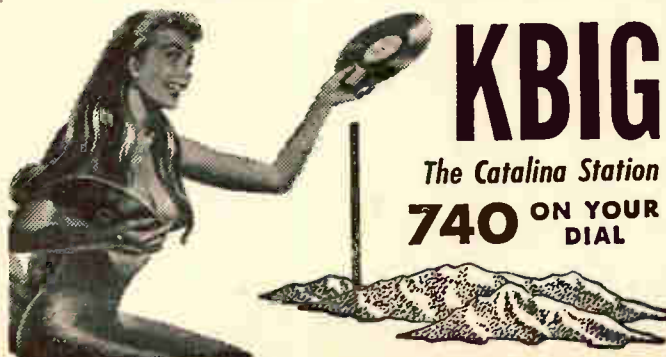

Of course, now, he could be modern to the point that he wants something that's just been recorded (you know your Dad beter than I do) so there's a new one on the Jazz Man label by a couple of youngsters named Joseph Venuti, a hot fiddler, and a guitarist named Tony Romano. Boy, how these lads do cut up! . . . and so does an ivory massager named Marvin Ash, who has just waxed a whole LP of early ragtime music. So kids, give the old folks a break and buy 'em their kind of music on records for Christmas. Who knows? Maybe sometime it'll replace Rhythm and Blues! S.C.

JIM'S CORNER

By JIM HEALY

On Bob Kelley's Parade of Sports over KMPC every night at six, we've had considerable success with our telephone interviews. That is, we pick up a phone and call George Halas in Chicago, or Woody Hayes in Cleveland or Vince Martinez in New York—whenever and wherever a hot sports story breaks. The telephone conversations are recorded—then played back on Old Kel's Parade of Sports.

You'd be surprised the affect a telephone has on a usually hush-mouthed sports star. If he's interviewed by a newspaper scribe, or if he's in a radio studio for an in-person interview, he's apt to be overly diplomatic and reluctant to give a straight answer.

There is something about a telephone, however, which relaxes a man—the result being we often get rather surprisingly blunt answers from our interviewees.

I am thinking in particular of the Rose Bowl game coming up New Year's day between the Trojans and Ohio State. Trojan assistant coach Nick Pappas was one of those we interviewed via telephone about the Pasadena classic. You might like to tune in on a few of his remarks:

"How would I compare Ohio State with Notre Dame and UCLA? Well, the Buckeyes have a combination of the strong points of both the Irish and Bruins. Ohio State has as explosive an offense as Notre Dame, but at the same time as tough a defense as UCLA.

"The Buckeyes' line is probably even bigger than the Bruins', and it is certainly as deep. Meanwhile, they have far more backfield talent than UCLA. Ohio State possesses four top backs, and I am not too sure but what right half Bobby Watkins won't give us just as much trouble as All-American Hopalong Cassidy."

With the pro draft coming up next month, I next asked Pappas to name the top professional prospects on the USC team:

"Halfback Lindon Crow is definitely a fine one. Crow might have a better chance defensively than offensively. Tackle Ed Fouch is another, so is Mario DaRae."

Getting back to the subject of the Rose Bowl, we mentioned to the Trojan assistant that USC had a great deal of trouble with split-T teams in the past. Ohio State employs the split-T. We recalled particularly the Notre Dame club of 1953 which split-Teed the Trojans to death by a score of 48-14.

"We've learned a few lessons about that formation," Pappas replied. "We've had a chance to get a little experience against it. And you'll notice we contained Notre Dame's split-T pretty well a few weeks ago. Ohio State will give us trouble. But we certainly know more about defending it than we did a year ago."

How much do the Buckeyes pass-

"Only as much as they have to," the Trojan coach replied. "They prefer to stick to the ground. But when their rushing game isn't going, quarterback Davey Leggett has had great success through the air—particularly with his pass-run options."

Sometimes you can learn interesting things over the telephone.

P.S.—On the subject of football, KHJ and KHJ-TV will cover the championship pro game between the Cleveland Browns and Detroit Lions on December 26.

"The World's Greatest Pitchman"

That's what they call Richard Lewellen, Channel 13's new movie emcee

By Ted

Hilgenstuhler

▲ FROM COAST to coast millions of TV viewers have seen Richard Lewellen do his "pitch" for Charles Antell Formula No. 9.

SEEING is believing. That's what they say. And in the case of Richard Lewellen, Channel 13's new movie emcee, that's the way it would have to be.

Why? Because when you just hear the story—even from the lips of the twenty-seven-year-old, dark-haired handsome "boy wonder"—it seems unbelievable.

There's another saying—that the printed word doesn't lie. Well, let's try it. Here's the fantastic "success story" of "Rick Lewellen"—sometimes called "The World's Great Pitchman." See if you believe it.

He's had a rather unusual youth—which we won't get too Freudian about. Suffice it to say that three times he ran away from home; each time he was brought back by his father, Vern Clark Lewellen. Mr. Lewellen, incidentally, was not only an all-pro left halfback and captain of the University of Nebraska team that beat Knute Rockne's "Four Horsemen," but he is also a very successful lawyer who is now manager of the Green Bay Packers' football team.

"Rick" ran away from home for one main reason; he wanted to be in show business. His family never could see it, and still can't.

Unsuccessful

He made his first trip to Los Angeles to try to "land in pictures" at the age of seventeen. (How he got here—as a cook on a train who couldn't cook and who didn't get paid, and who finally left the railroad racket, broke, at Union Station—is a funny story, too long to narrate here.) The nearest "Rick" got to an actress or producer in Hollywood was to rub elbows with them as a waiter at practically every big-name restaurant in town.

After a short cruise to Cuba and Panama—where he ran the first English language radio station—the next important phase in Lewellen's life found him back in New York.

Ever since man instituted the art of "selling," the "medicine man" and the "pitchman," who sells everything from horse shoes to horses, has been a familiar sight to millions. One afternoon, while strolling along 58th Street in New York, Lewellen had a similar experience.

Unlike millions of others, however, "Rick" was determined to capitalize on it. Believe-it-or-not, he decided that this was the way to get into "show business." Be a "modern medicine man" and become famous from coast to coast? Sounds whacky? Maybe it does, but not to Richard Lewellen, who made the impossible come true.

Success, at Last

His first step was to ask the boss of the 58th Street "pitch house" for a job. By coincidence, several of the old-timers were quitting, so "Rick" was hired.

Naturally nervous at first, he was a flop as a product-pusher. Soon, however, he gained confidence, wrote his own material, and before long he was known as the only successful newcomer in the "pitchman" business in fifteen years. He made the grand tour throughout Canada and the United States; with each performance his style improved and his pockets bulged.

Then came his second biggest break: TV and the now famous Charles Antell's Formula No. 9. The company grossed over ten million dollars its first year.

Next came his "pitch" for Rybutol (increasing sales thirty per cent) and subsequent five-minute and half-hour "shows" for Charles Antell.

Strange as it may seem, "Rick" was in Los Angeles only a few years ago selling products on a parking lot on Spring Street!

Today—not too much older, but a lot wiser and still full of ambition—he can be seen daily on his KCOP show. Officials at the "Lucky 13" channel, after viewing his previous work, felt certain that if anyone in the world could sell products on the air, "Rick" would be—and is—the boy to do it.

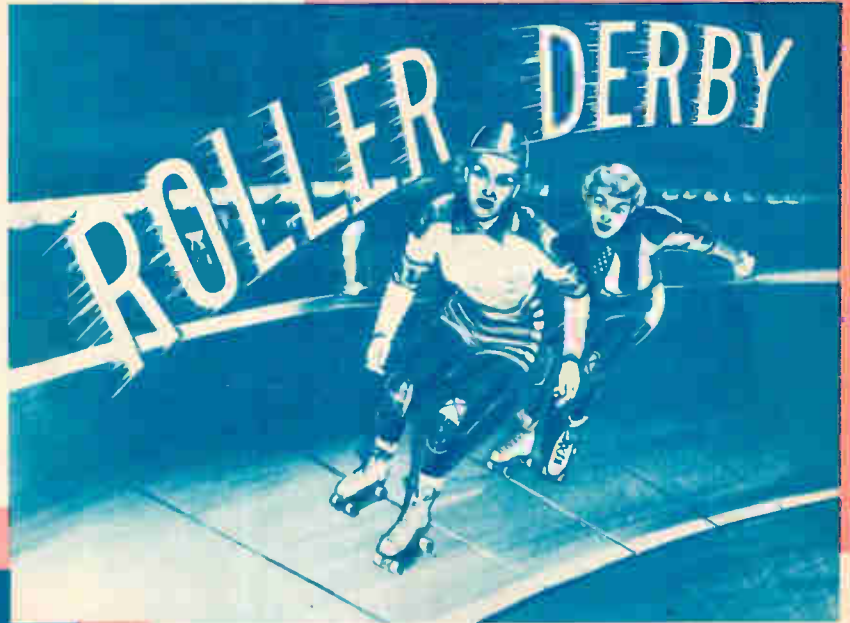

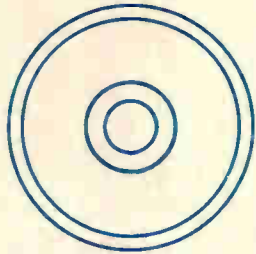

His big ambition: to be a producer on TV and in the motion picture field.

Whether he will be successful as a producer, only time will tell. One thing is certain, however. When he produces a show, he certainly shouldn't have any problem in selling it!

How You Can Skate On

If you, or anyone you know, has dreamed of becoming a Roller Derby Skater, here's instruction on how to do it.

MILLIONS of people have watched Roller Derby on TV. And thousands of people have undoubtedly wondered how they could become Roller Derby skaters.

Until recently, it's been pretty difficult for enthusiasts to break into the pro ranks. Now, mainly through the efforts of Elmer "Elbows" Anderson, there are some definite steps that can be taken to become a Roller Derby skater.

Since May 1, 1954, Anderson and four of his assistants, Billy Bogash, Jack Wilson, Punky Gardner and Roger Schroeder, have been operating the Western Skating Institute at 2811 Leeward Avenue in Los Angeles. Furnished with a bank-track, such as the type used in actual competition, the Institute is the first school of its type for prospective Roller Derbyists. Eventually, "Elbows" hopes to establish fifty schools similar to this one from coast to coast.

Cadillacs to Hot Rods

Everyday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., young and old drive up in cars ranging from Cadillacs to hot rods, don their skates, and go whirling around the wooden track. Many of the "students" enroll merely for the exercise; roller skating is absolutely one of the best ways to keep in good physical condition.

A good portion of the skaters, particularly the younger generation, have definite ambitions to be Roller Derby players. Because of the Western Skating Institute they are able to achieve their ambition.

"As an example," the famed "Elbows" explained, "there are fifteen former students who are competing in the Roller Derby now. Since we started, over seventy-five have actually put on a uniform and skated in regular competition.

"That's the number one problem that Roller Derby has today," Anderson continued. "We want to make the sport accessible to as many people as possible. This school, which charges a small fee of one dollar an hour for instruction, and five dollars for seven hours, is the best way to achieve that purpose."

Here's How

Here are the steps anyone can take to become a Roller Derby skater:

1. A medical examination is required in order to insure that the beginner is in good physical condition—Roller Derby is certainly one of the most gruelling sports in America today.

2. Contact the Western Skating Institute. This can be done by calling DUnkirk 4-7111. Full particulars will be given to you when you call.

3. Get on the bank-track and skate and skate and skate.

4. In time, you and your coaches will know if you have the ability to become a successful Roller Derby participant.

"Twenty years from now, Roller Derby will be one of the major sports in the nation," Anderson believes.

If "Elbows" dreams come true, he will certainly be able to look back at the first skating school and say: "That's where it all began."

TV's HER

Dish

By Mildred Ross

TELEVISION has brought hidden facets of Jo Stafford's personality into commendable focus. To say that the lovely and gracious vocalist is visually as well as aurally pleasing would be quite an understatement.

Jo looks queenly in her lovely gowns and her new hair-do is so becoming that viewers frequently phone the station to inquire where she has her hair done.

The hustle and bustle of television doesn't perturb the serene Stafford. Over a low-calorie luncheon she confidentially admitted that she never has had buck fever before the television cameras but she had more than her share of nerves when she used to warble on radio.

"Television is an amazing medium," she said. "I went into it expecting the worst because so many of my friends had told me what a strain television was on the nervous system. But I find that there's too much to do in television and not enough time to indulge in worrying. I get a certain elation from TV, which I never got in radio, that helps my performance.

"Of course, working with my husband (Paul Weston), who's musical director on the show, offers a great feeling of security. But don't get the idea that Paul caters to me because he doesn't. Quite naturally we have our honest differences of opinion, but personalities do not enter into the decisions made regarding the show. It's a give and take proposition. You should see our program huddles. The productivity of these sessions varies. Sometimes we format one show during a session and other times three. If we weren't such perfectionists, undoubtedly our programming would not be such a painstaking task."

Difference

However the effort behind the Jo Stafford show is well worth it. Jo's television program has made a great deal of difference in her mail pull. "It has increased tremendously over those old radio days," she smiled. "The letters used to be brief. Some of them were simply requests for an autographed picture of myself. Now, however the letters are lengthy. Whether they compliment or criticize the show it's all done in a warm, friendly vein."

One of the friendliest reactions to Jo's telecast comes from her two-year-old son, Timmy, who's such an ardent viewer of Mama's program that he bursts into tears at the conclusion of her show. As a matter of fact, Timmy associates the CBS-TV-camera-eye trademark with her show, and whenever he sees the CBS eye, regardless of the day or hour, he automatically expects to see his mother on the screen.

Despite Jo's busy TV routine, she devotes a great deal of time to Timmy. She will not make any appointments on Wednesdays or Sundays when Timmy's nurse is off. These are the days Jo and Timmy have all to themselves and Jo doesn't permit anything to interfere with this arrangement.

Being a successful television entertainer has not fired Jo with ambition to become a motion picture star. However, if a tailor-made role were offered her, she might consider a movie on a one-deal basis. She is happy with the excitement of television. Expressing her sentiments she coyly says: "Television and I were meant for each other."

Close Calls on TV

▲ DESIGNER-COSTUMER KATE DRAIN LAWSON, prevented a close call on chorine Mary Menzies' costume. Just before going on stage, the slender strap of Mary's dance dress broke and Miss Lawson hastily but securely fastened it. For added protection, Miss Lawson contemplates a large rose for the precarious costume.

PITY THE POOR director of a live television show! He has a nerve-wracking, hazardous job that most of us wouldn't touch with a twelve-foot pole.

Fortunately most viewers feel kindly disposed toward performers who miss cues. There are a few, however, who sit smugly back and scoff at the fluffs they see on their home screens.

Remotes

Yet viewers are not always aware of close calls on TV. Jim Jordan, director of the Bob Hope and other NBC comedy shows, has had more than his share of close calls on TV. Last season he was directing a Hope show from San Francisco's Presidio. "Remotes are trying enough under any circumstances," Jim explained, "but unexpected events can certainly snafu things. We were all set for our outdoor telecast when it started to rain and the stage and props had to be moved indoors into the armory. It took two hundred men to move all the equipment. No sooner were we indoors and I got ready to block my show when the rain stopped and the sun came out in all her glory. I forgot about blocking my show and had the crew move everything outside again.

"Twenty minutes later when the sun disappeared behind the clouds and the fog started to roll in again.

December 17, 1954

Candidate for Ulcers? You'd Be If You Were a "Live" TV producer Often Getting Your Production on Camera by the Skin of Your Teeth

By Donna Scott

I threw up my hands in despair. It was close to curtain time and we had no choice but to risk doing the show outdoors, fog or no fog. Somehow, Divine Providence intervened and five minutes before air time the sun came out. The cameras readied into position for a panoramic shot of San Francisco. A perfect shot of the bay, the lights on the bridge and the sun setting behind a destroyer, was brought into focus. It was a magnificent opening but the viewers never knew what headaches we had on that remote. I'll never forget them.

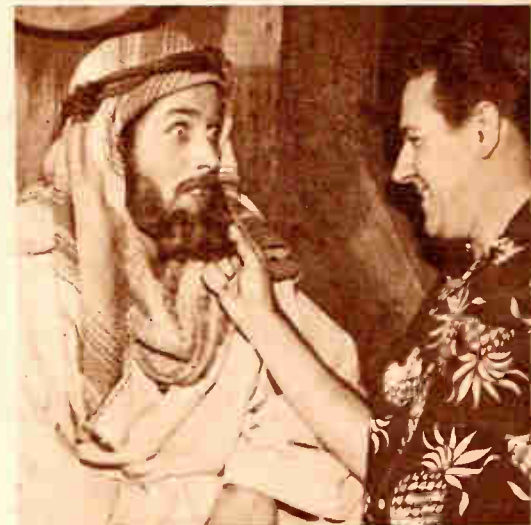

"A less harrowing experience but more frequently a close call is the show that runs short. On one occasion a show ran six minutes long during "the dress" and I asked the musical director to speed up the music. He did, and the show ended two minutes short.

"Scene changes during commercials are fast and furious. Sometimes a complete set has to be changed in three seconds. The stage is full of swarming stagehands but somehow they miraculously get off just as the commercial ends and the music is on the upbeat for the next number.

"Once a dancer, who had worked himself to a frazzle, hurried off stage and down to his dressing room. After removing his trousers, he suddenly remembered that he was due on stage again in thirty seconds. He rushed for the stage and was caught sans trousers just as he was leaving the wings. And that was a mighty close call," Jim concluded.

Late Actors

Albert McCleery, producer-director of "Hallmark Hall of Fame" and other dramatic shows, also has interesting anecdotes to relate about close calls on TV. "An actor was late in making his entrance," he explained, "and a group of supporting players were kept busy scrubbing a statue until he made his entrance. By that time, the paint was worn rather thin," McCleery smiled.

▲ MAKE-UP MAN Fred Williams checks beard of John Barrymore, Jr., on a recent "Hallmark Hall of Fame" show. The beard had dropped off during dress rehearsal and got loose during the live show. (NBC-photos.)

"In another play, an actor slipped off the set two-and-a half minutes before air time. He had gone to call his girl friend to tell her to be sure to catch him on TV. He had the second speech in the opening scene and he slid into his chair just as the camera was moving into focus. It's incidents like this that cause directors to have grey hair.

"When working with professional actors, mistakes, if any, are seldom noticed. If a line should be dropped it's usually picked up by a member of the cast so effectively that half the time no one is aware that anything wrong has happened. Discipline during dress rehearsal is so rigid that the likelihood of errors occurring is practically nil. However, to err is human and that's one of the things that keeps live television from getting into a rut," smiled McCleery.

Both Jordan and McCleery agreed that it's the close calls that help to make live television exciting and challenging. Jordan proudly says, "Don't pity my occupational setbacks. Live TV is never dull and that's why I like it."
