Troubled young people and their worried parents bringing their problems to "Teen Age Trials" get such good advice they

Turn Over a New Leaf!

ABOUT two weeks ago I appeared on your 'Teen Age Trials' program with my daughter who wanted to marry a man seventeen years her senior," said a recent letter to producer Stanley Brady. "This man also had a six-year-old child. He refused to tell what he did for a livelihood.

"Thanks to your program and to Judge Marchetti's advice, the man in question seems to have vanished from the earth. My daughter, I am happy to say, is a very changed girl."

This letter is only one typical of many received by this KRCA series. Each week, when a teen-age panel and a well known judge guest on "Teen Age Trials," they express candid opinions on two problems. One is set forth in a letter to the show and the other is presented in person by a masked teen-ager accompanied by masked parent.

Stanley Brady

The advice offered is so amazingly sound that it is invariably followed. "We hit just about 1000 per cent," Brady disclosed.

An unusual facet of the program is that it grew out of Brady's own problems with his teen-age daughter (now happily married). He is convinced that he should do everything possible to help other parents and children.

Successful Drive

One of the greatest accomplishments of "Teen Age Trials" has been its drive to abolish sale of knives to teen-agers. Shortly after two young boys were attacked with knives, they were brought on the teleshow where moderator Paul Pierce explained the gravity of the situation and civic leaders agreed that preventive steps should be taken. Apparently there had been a law since 1951 prohibiting carrying of such instruments by teen-agers, but no law making it a misdemeanor to sell them. As a direct result of the campaign waged by "Teen Age Trials," the supervisors passed a bill prohibiting the sale of knives with blades three inches or longer to minors.

On another program the guests gave advice to a teen-age boy who made his own brass knuckles and black jacks and sold them at school. He was advised by both Judge Nye and the teen-age panel that he was off on the wrong track. In fact the judge stated that he was open to arrest.

▲ PARTICIPANTS: Sixteen-year-old girl and father. PROBLEM: Girl's best friend was girl of different faith. Parents afraid this association might lead to friendship and marriage to boy of another faith. GUESTS: Judge Burdette J. Daniels, Joe E. Brown, Rev. Clifton Moore, students from Polytechnic High School. ADVICE: So long as two people believe in love, truth, their fellowmen and God, their lives can be happy. RESULT: Daughter may continue with friend.

▲ PARTICIPANTS: (Moderator Paul Pierce, center), eighteen-year-old boy and mother. PROBLEM: Boy wanted to follow singing career. Family, unable to sustain boy in this, wanted him to give up singing and get job. GUESTS: Judge William B. Neeley, Connie Haines, students from Eagle Rock High School. ADVICE: Continue career, get part-time employment to relieve drain on family. RESULT: Boy now employed from 7:00 p.m. to 1:00 a.m. in gas station, career intact.

"As a result of our program, this boy is now active in the Y," Brady said proudly. "He's also in Boy Scouts and De Molay."

▲ PARTICIPANTS: Seventeen-year-old girl and mother. PROBLEM: Girl "in love" with man more than twice her age who said he was widower and wanted girl to marry him "in the east." Mother found out he was divorced, had a child, refused to say how he earned living, did not want wedding here. GUESTS: Judge Joseph Marchetti and students from Dorsey High School. ADVICE: To forget this man. No good could come from marriage with man who tells such untruths. RESULT: Told in accompanying story.

My Dad IS RILEY!

By Lorraine Bendix Munro

▲ LORRAINE AND BILL BENDIX, her popular father, strike a happy father-daughter pose as they dine out. NBC and KTTV's "Life of Riley" star rates high in Lorraine's book—and for many solid reasons.

course, this is mere child's play and to prove his point that we would all be healthier and happier in the great outdoors, he started seriously campaigning the cause of athletics about ten years ago with the purchase of a beautiful, professional archery set, complete with target and T-shirted, muscular instructor.

We were all herded out the back door and told to stand quietly while the instructor showed us what to do. Daddy stood smiling broadly. Oh yes, one other small item I neglected to mention—never in all this long line of his suggested activities has he joined in. He just stands to one side rubbing his hands together and nodding with satisfaction. But to return to the archery lesson. We were fitted out, head to toe, with all the necessary paraphernalia, shown the correct stance and use of the bow and arrow. After about an hour of this our arms were pretty tired but we were beginning to enjoy it. At this moment our instructor decided to show us what a really professional archer could do. He placed a mean looking steel-headed arrow into the bow and with ease shot it shaft deep into a palm tree! There was complete silence for a moment and then, Daddy, white as a sheet gasped, "Why . . . Why that thing could kill somebody." Needless to say, the instructor was shown politely out and the archery set stored in the garage. Daddy never could return things. Two years later, along with miscellaneous golf clubs, hockey sticks, tennis racquets and two pair of ice skates still

I SUPPOSE the first order of business is to explain that my Dad, William Bendix, and Chester A. Riley are one and the same, and I must admit that it's often pretty difficult even for me to differentiate between the two. Not to give the impression that dad is on the slow side—to the contrary, after twenty-five years of typical daughterly evasions I've come to know that he's a pretty shrewd fellow. But for spur-of-the-moment brainstorm and fits of organized chaos, he's Riley to a T.

Athletic???

To illustrate. Dad has always had a fervent admiration for anything athletic. As he says, "You only have one body, so keep it fit!" Now, none of us share his feelings to any degree. I like a good football game on television, mother enjoys a mild game of ping pong and my sister rides horseback. With Daddy, of with tags, the archery set was sent to a boys' club, minus the target which had been chewed to bits by our dog.

Master of the House

On the other side of the ledger, of course, is his seriously taken job as head of the house. I may be slightly prejudiced in my opinion but I would say that my Dad is the near perfect father. He has always been fairly strict but, just the same, both he and mother have been real friends. In their younger days they had been through some pretty miserable ordeals and recently enjoyed some wonderful times, but never have they let either affect their relationship with my sister and me. I know how easy it would have been for them to let us now rely on others for companionship and advice, especially in view of the fact that Dad works as hard as anyone I know. But even now that I am married to a wonderful man, Dick Munro, have a little girl and career of my own, they still take me to one side for an old fashioned heart-to-heart talk. One other thing that has been so important to both Stephanie and me is Dad's faculty for making us feel important as individuals. For years he has given me his scripts to read and has asked my opinion. I realize now the many ridiculous statements I must have made, but he never failed to convince me that he regarded them with interest and respect. He has worked hard but not primarily for himself, a fact proven by the many trips to Europe and luxuries forgone so that Stephanie and I could have the security he lacked as a young man.

Humor

Of all his qualities I think the one we as a family appreciate the most is his wonderful sense of humor. I will admit it's been a bit extreme at times but always effective. I remember a perfect example. One summer a few years ago Mother, Dad and I had just finished dressing for a formal party. The day had been blistering hot and we were all in rather a bad temper. The party was for business reasons, so there was no way of refusing. We walked around the pool waiting for friends to pick us up. No one spoke but there was a definite feeling of friction in the air. Finally with a deep sigh mother said, "Gosh, Bill, doesn't that water look wonderful? I certainly wish we had time for a swim." Well—that's all, brother! With one mighty push from a gleaming-eyed Dad in she went, dressed to the teeth, new hair-do and all. I foolishly reached down to give her a hand and naturally went flying in too. Then just to show that he was a good sport Daddy calmly jumped on the diving board and joined us with a clown-like swan dive. When our friends arrived a moment later, needless to say they were a bit shocked at our howling, dripping appearance, but drastic methods or not Dad had saved us all from a very tense situation and put us back in good spirits. We enjoyed the evening thoroughly.

There are so many other stories I could tell about Dad—his warmth, modesty and great gift to get all that's good out of life for his family and friends. I might even write a book on him one day. Of course, to Dad it would probably be a "revoltin' development." But somehow I think that people would enjoy knowing what it's like, leading "the Life of Riley" with my wonderful Dad, Riley himself.

THIS ANTIQUE PHONE is a fixture in the Bendix rumpus room. Bill's lovely wife, Tess, is smitten with antiques, a hobby Bill doesn't always share.

HE IS EQUALLY EFFECTIVE in his role as grandfather to his grand-daughter Terry. She is Lorraine's child and Bill is "real gone" where she is concerned.

The Man With Ideas

Jack Douglas is one man who refuses to believe that TV is only for the re-run of old movies. That's why his shows have been so original and provocative.

By Jack Holland

JACK DOUGLAS recently presented a new show on KCOP called "Kingdom of the Sea." Once more he reiterated his faith in what television can accomplish—and once more he gave to the public something challenging, informative, and entertaining.

Jack has never been content to sit back and let others explore new fields. He has come a long way on the TV scene—but he has now hit his stride, and of all the producers he is probably the one most worth watching.

Sea Show

"'Kingdom of the Sea' is the first show I deliberately set out to create," Jack stated firmly. "With 'I Search For Adventure' well launched both locally and on a syndicated basis and with 'Golden Voyage' on its way, I wanted to try my hand at something else. We had covered the land pretty well with the other two shows, Disney had taken care of the fantasy part, and the world of the sky was still too much theory, so there was only one place left to go—the world of the sea. This was the birth of 'Kingdom of the Sea,' the first program devoted entirely to the sea. We are going to cover every phase of this marine life—from the pearl divers and skin divers to the mysteries of the inhabitants of the deep.

"Most of the show consists of film but we also had a giant and somewhat foresighted aquarium built for the 'live' segments of the program. The aquarium has three sides of steel and one side of herculite glass which was built for us by the Pittsburgh Glass Company.

"Colonel John D. Craig was a natural choice to star in this new show. He was the only person ever to appear on 'I Search For Adventure' more than twice—and he has made seven appearances. He has a tremendous background in adventure. He was one of the first men ever to exploit and develop underwater photography in black and white and in color and he has written several popular books on adventure. He, with some good looking male and female skin divers, will illustrate the high points of the film for the program.

"I have great confidence in this show—so much so that I think 'I Search For Adventure' will have a fight on its hands.

"I don't plan to concentrate less on 'Search,' that's for sure. My weekends are still very much taken up with screening all the adventure films I receive from all parts of the world. Most of my TV activities will now be centered on this adventure type of show since I believe that is the new trend on television. Look at the increasing number of people who are traveling these days, look at the popularity of travelogue films and lectures.

"I hope to be to TV in the field of real life adventure what Disney has been to fantasy. And I know that's a big statement to make."

Jack then put on the boxing gloves and issued a direct challenge to TV and its future.

Challenge To TV

"TV misses in that it keeps its cameras inside too much," he said firmly. "It wasn't invented just for panel games and quiz shows. It has to get outside, to show life as it is. We simply haven't learned how to use TV yet. It can be far greater than it is.

"It's not the advertisers' fault that TV hasn't as yet gone as far as it should. They can only buy what the industry makes. As things stand now, television, at least in my opinion, is primarily a miniature motion picture theatre in the home. It's not meant to be an adjunct or a sidearm of the movies. As the motion picture industry has found that it must furnish a broader scope of entertainment than that on TV, so TV must find a type of entertainment that can't be duplicated or bettered by the movies."

It is natural that Jack's emphasis has been on adventure since he is vitally interested in travel and in the exciting things that some men and women do in real life. But there is more to his shows than this—there is an avid search for something new, something different, something previously overlooked by TV.

And yet at home Jack lives a quiet life with his wife and two sons. He gets his adventure here by reading mystery books.

"I can think of no greater luxury than propping myself up in bed and reading Erle Stanley Gardner's mysteries and munching away on a candy bar," Jack laughed. "Of course, my family and I watch a lot of TV and 'Disneyland' is our top favorite. Disney is nothing short of a genius. We also like Paul Coates, 'U.S. Steel Hour,' and 'Lassie.' As for my children's TV fare, I've begun monitoring their programs. It's incredible what some stations put on the air for children to see! Why isn't some discretion, some sense used?"

Jack Douglas is the kind of man TV needs—a man with vision, someone who never settles for the obvious and the routine. How the networks could use him!

This Week in TV

In & Out of Focus (General Comment)

Color Credit

The fine color photos in this week's issue of TV-Radio Life were snapped by Elmer Holloway of NBC and Bud Grable. Elmer took the one of Bill Bendix on the cover, while Bud was responsible for the lovely shot of "Lassie" on page 45.

More than ever before, TV-Radio Life is becoming color-conscious.

Mental Health TV-airings

The "March of Medicine's" recent airing "We, the Mentally Ill," which originated from St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Washington, D.C. may be the forerunner of a new trend in television series.

"Medic," which delves into both physical and mental problems had a national rating of 27.9 in the national ARB ratings for April. "Medic" has gained rating-wise since the show's inception. Obviously there is an audience for shows dealing with health problems.

There are several series on tap dealing with psychiatric problems. "Point of Crisis," a dramatic series based on psychiatric and mental health problems will be filmed at the Hal Roach Studios with the full endorsement and co-operation of the American Psychiatric Association, whose members include more than 8,000 practicing psychiatrists. The A.P.A. has made available to Hal Roach technical advice from eminent consultants and access to factual material and to hospitals and clinics.

TV producer Frank Cooper is working on another series "This Is Psychiatry," but has stated that he is not in a position at present to reveal too much about the series.

The format is nebulous at present except for the fact that it will be a documentary-drama series. Mr. Cooper feels certain however that a TV series dealing with mental problems has an insured audience and shows of this nature could become a growing trend.

It's also been reported that Jack Barry will co-produce "Conflict," with the help of the National Association for Mental Health.

It appears as though psychology is going to become an important part of the television scene. KNXT's Dr. Herman Harvey becomes a pioneer in this field. His "Psychology on TV" bowed on Channel 2 last September.

Housewife Contest

Cliffie Stone is searching for "The Most Talented Housewife In Southern California" on his "Hometown Jamboree" television show seen over KTLA each Saturday at 7:00 p.m. Winner of the search will receive a household full of furniture.

Stone will present the first contestant this Saturday. The jovial emcee expects to audition over 600 housewives during the next six weeks and will pick thirteen contestants to vie for the "Most Talented Housewife In Southern California" crown.

The finalists will be brought back to "Hometown Jamboree" on the fourteenth week to be presented with $2,500 worth of furniture including a TV set, kitchen range, refrigerator, living room, dining room and bedroom furniture and furniture for the patio.

Due to last-minute and unforeseen circumstances in New York, band leader Art Mooney will be unable to come to Hollywood next week as planned for the debut of his new "Art Mooney's Talent Train," on KCOP, scheduled for Friday, May 27. The show, therefore, will be postponed to a later date.

Academy Award Directors Head Telefilm Series

The trend of major motion picture studios entering the television field has recently been established with Warners, 20th Century-Fox and Paramount joining the ranks. The newest wrinkle, however, in the ever-changing TV scene is the agreement reached between Hal Roach Jr., and the eminent Screen Directors' Guild. Roach, the pioneer of telefilms in 1947, will produce a TV anthology series consisting of individual teleplays, each directed by top bracket film directors.

The guild's share of the profits of the show will go toward supporting their various charities.

BY EVELYN BIGSBY

I WAS A KID AGAIN THE OTHER DAY. For an hour and a half I trudged over the thick dirt roads at Disneyland Park, darted in and out of the picturesque buildings, clambered into the engineer's compartment of a miniature steam locomotive, hoisted myself into a tiny stagecoach, wound upward on the stairway in Fantasyland's castle and looked out over the teaming acreage where nearly 1000 men were hurrying to put the finishing touches on Walt Disney's dream come true. It was a fascinating experience.

I CLANGED THE BELL ON A MINIATURE old-time trolley car, walked the gangplank onto the gleaming white paddle-boat which will ply the Rivers of America. In the warehouse I tweaked the ears of the make-believe rhinos which will infest the tropical waters of Adventureland and will "threaten" passengers on their exciting cruise.

TWO MONTHS TO GET THE PARK READY for visitors doesn't seem like much time, but things are moving at a merry clip and knowing how Disney works, we may all rest assured that the press preview will come off in grand style on Sunday, July 17, with the general opening to follow. In the acreage adjoining the castle some men were even taking the ponies around the riding rings so that they'll be accustomed to their routines.

DURING MY VISIT I WAS TOLD that admission price had just been set. For adults, $1.00 plus tax; children under twelve, 50 cents. This ticket will admit the person to all parts of the park, but will not include any of the special rides which will be features of each "land." For example, in Tomorrowland there will be the Autopia car ride, a speed boat ride and a rocket ride to the moon. In Frontierland there will be stagecoach, buckboard, conestoga and river boat rides; in Fantasyland there'll be the Peter Pan, Tea Party, Alice in Wonderland, Snow White and other rides. I was assured that all of these would be nominally priced and that parking would also be inexpensive. There will be snake trains to convey passengers from and to the parking lot, also a small railroad which will encircle the grounds; for both of these fares will be charged. Meals will be moderately priced and food will vary from the Buffeteria to Delmonico's.

YOU'LL HAVE TO LEAVE YOUR PETS at home, but cameras will be welcome. I think grown-ups and youngsters alike will have the time of their young lives at this amazing amusement center.

LOU GEHRIG'S GREATEST DAY on "You Are There" turned out more inspirational than depressing, which was as it should be. . . . That wonderful Danny Thomas show about his non-graduation from high school was based on fact. . . . Gary Crosby starts his own half-hour CBS Radiopus on Sunday, June 26. . . . Actress Shirley Mitchell is being showered June 11 in anticipation of her second child. . . . Gene Pursell, formerly of Lawrence Welk's organization, is now living on a forty-acre farm five miles west of Portsmouth, Iowa. In an interview with a Des Moines newspaper he is quoted as saying "I like Iowa better" (than California.) And his wife added, "I never liked it away from here and I am most happy to be back again." We should all be glad for the Pursells that they are contented now, but their quotes make me rather unhappy inasmuch as Welk did so much for Gene and the public accepted him so generously. Gene admitted to the newspaper that he had paid spot cash for the farm with money he had made and saved in California and showbiz. Gratitude?

WHEN WEEKLY VARIETY RELEASED the information that ABC-TV's network sales in the past twelve weeks—$34,000,000, to be exact—were more than the total sales for the entire year of 1954, I thought time was past due for me to seek a few words with Earl J. Hudson, vice-president in charge of the Western Division of ABC Division of AB-PT (American Broadcasting-Paramount Television).

FOR SOME MONTHS WE have all been watching eagerly while Danny Thomas won awards and "Disneyland" not only lugged off its share of Emmies but kept climbing up and up on the rating charts. Then recently ABC-TV got the Pabst Blue Ribbon Fights for next fall, announced an affiliation with Warner Bros. to produce a one-hour weekly TV show on Tuesday evenings and hinted that other big things were in the offing.

COULD IT BE THAT THE NUMBER 3 network was really going to town to give NBC and CBS some stiff competition? When did the tide really turn for ABC? What are the goals?

WELL, I FOUND OUT THAT WE MAY WIND up with three strong networks. At least this is a completely reasonable possibility, according to Mr. Hudson, who pointed out that prime time on the other skeins has been difficult to obtain, thus creating a hardship for certain would-be sponsors desirous of using television to boost sales. A strong third network makes Class A time open for these businesses, a situation which, according to Hudson, "has a fine economic connotation." He added that "the time is over-ripe for three large networks." What a break for the viewer!

ANSWERING MY CURIOSITY ABOUT the long-range planning entering into the now-rapid rise of ABC-TV, Hudson went on to explain that when the AB-PT merger took place about five years ago, exploration began at once on TV as a basis for expanding the joint operation. "Disneyland," which might conceivably have landed on another network had it not been for certain issues which couldn't be ironed out, simply speeded up the network's overall schedule. "It was the first of our major efforts to be finalized," according to Hudson. Now, as we all know, Disney is coming onto ABC-TV this fall with his fabulous "Mickey Mouse Club," and if you think that this is going to be kiddie fare, watch for my upcoming first-hand report on this gigantic television series, which someone has said makes "Disneyland" take a back seat.

WITH EVIDENT RELISH, HUDSON ILLUSTRATED the misgivings of others in the TV business when Leonard Goldenson, head of AB-PT, had just completed the pact with Disney. On the same plane Goldenson was flying across the country was the head of another network who observed, "Leonard, you are really a fine young chap, but you've bitten off more with 'Disneyland' than you can chew or swallow." Today there isn't a network alive which wouldn't grab at the chance to get what Walt Disney brought to ABC, with an alliance which has not only been swallowed and digested but has provoked another whopping TV venture.

"THE WARNER BROTHERS PRODUCTION on ABC will be an entirely different type program from 'Disneyland,'" Hudson explained. Asked about a rumored bigtime program to be pitched opposite Ed Sullivan at 8:00 o'clock Sundays, Hudson replied, "It's too far ahead of Christmas to open the package." Pressed as to whether it would be variety, if there were a program, he said, "a dramatic program would be a more logical possibility on Sunday night." (Subsequently it has been rumored that feature films might be the fare.) While doing everything possible to strengthen programming in blocks on certain nights, ABC-TV is also aiming for "good strong anchors spread through the week."

THERE'S A FEELING OF YOUTHFUL exuberance at the Number Three network. No ceiling has been placed on 1955 sales. Sky's the limit. Rules aren't stuffy. "We absolutely don't know how to spell 'traditional,'" Hudson stated. While interested persons, both trade and laymen, watch developments at ABC, Robert Kintner, the president of ABC, Goldenson, and their men are doing what Hudson himself best described when he quoted: "They" said it couldn't be done, but they, poor fools, went ahead and did it."

CBS-TV HAS TURNED NAME-DROPPER with the gala line-up set for the June 9 "Shower of Stars." How's this for talent: Edgar Bergen, Harry James, Betty Grable, Marilyn Maxwell, Jack Oakie, Red Skelton, Ethel Merman. PLUS a personality who has been signed but which the network so far hasn't revealed because of certain unpredictable circumstances. Maybe the name won't be mentioned until the person is on camera! I'm sure you know who he is!

CASH 'N CARRY

You've heard of boys trying to convince their girl friends to go to some Inspiration Point and "watch the scenery." This week on "Corliss Archer," (KRCA, Thursday, 7 p.m.) Irene Anders as "Barbara" literally takes matters into her own hands and carries her boy friend herself.

Miss Anders, a pretty, green-eyed, twenty-three year old honest-to-goodness native of California (San Francisco), has been featured in the Corliss Archer series many times, including not only the film and "live" programs, but also the CBS and ABC radio versions.

NAFBRAT

The National Association For Better Radio and Television ate a mouthful and heard an earful at their annual dinner last week at the Women's University Club.

Speakers Dr. Frank Baxter (of "Now and Then" and "Shakespeare on TV" fame), Dr. Heinz Haber (technical consultant on the new Walt Disney Series of science-fact programs), and William Mooring, editor of Televiews, expressed their viewpoints on TV.

Dr. Haber stressed that TV can have a great effect on influencing young men to enter science as a career; Mr. Mooring pressed for an effectual TV code to control programs; and Dr. Baxter extolled the virtues of TV in his usual verbose and entertaining manner.

By and large, the NAFBRAT speakers seemed happy with the way TV is going these days, especially on such as "Medic" and the improved half-hour and hour-long dramatic shows.

TENNESSEE ERNIE

Judging from his performance on "Tennessee" Ernie Ford's TV show last week, Governor Frank G. Clement of Tennessee is not only the youngest governor of the forty-eight states, but probably the fastest and smoothest talking.

The Governor appeared on the morning NBC-TV show to present Ernie with the Ralph Peer Award for "outstanding contribution to folk humor." The trophy read: "Given to Tennessee Ernie Ford whose country music genius and 'peapicker' philosophy have endeared him in the hearts of millions as America's outstanding folk-song artist in 1954."

At a "typical Tennessee breakfast" after the show Ernie exclaimed with the snap of his fingers, "Anytime the Governor wants to quit politics he can get into show business, just like that."

It was a great day for "peapicker" Ford, who now proudly calls himself "Colonel" Ernie Ford, after being given the honorary title by the Governor.

CHANGING SCENE

It's been a game of who is what and where on the summer shows scene. Last Friday Johnny Carson was slated to make his CBS network bow on June 30. Everything was ready to roll but shortly before five that afternoon a last minute change switched Johnny's debut to June 2. After all the confusion Carson decided that there was one thing of which he was certain: "One thing we hope to do on the show," he mused, "is not to be lousy."

ETERNITY WARD

A moppet recently interviewed during the children's portion of the "Bill Stulla Show," week-days at 3:30 p.m., over KHJ-TV, told emcee Stulla that her big sister had to bring her to the show because . . . "mama is in the hospital."

"I'm sorry to hear that," Bill sympathized with his young guest, "we all hope that she will be out and well again real soon."

"Oh, she will," said the youngster, "She just went to get a baby—she's in the eternity ward."

HOLLAND'S TUNNEL

DUG BY JACK HOLLAND

It was quite an affair! KTTV, which, Reavis Winckler at the helm, comes up with some of the brightest promotional stunts in the business, threw a humdinger of a party to debut its new show, "Uncommon Valor," about which more later. The invitations were enticing — nobody knew where he was going or what was up. The destination was a secret. So the press boarded some buses at KTTV and were driven to a military base. It turned out to be the E1 Toro Marine Base near Santa Ana. And here the fun began. The Base itself is one of the most remarkable operations this columnist has ever seen—and the show put on by some of the Marines was a knockout. The demonstration of the new "vertical envelopment" plan for battle was an eye-opener. About twelve helicopters deposited, in the matter of minutes, forty-eight men in a "battle area." The Marines then took command of the section. In a remarkably short time the helicopters were back delivering supplies to these men. The whole operation was to show—and effectively so—how quickly the Marines could land in a crucial area in an actual battle.

After the demonstration and after some words about the show, "Uncommon Valor," the press were taken by bus again to the Irvine Country Club for dinner and to see one of the "Uncommon Valor" films. On the way, we got into a conversation with Lt. Col. Stadler of the Marines who said he felt this new series, based on the exploits of the Marines in World War II, was a remarkable effort. As he put it, "We got kind of tired of seeing how John Wayne and Errol Flynn won wars in the movies for the Marines and of seeing all the boners pulled, so maybe now people will really know how the Marines operated."

After dinner, Richard Moore of KTTV made some highly amusing remarks (what an emcee this man could be!) about the cost of the party and that he didn't want to infer that just because KTTV had spent so much money this meant the press had to give the show good reviews. There was loud laughter at this. And then he introduced General Holland ("Howlin' Mad") Smith of the Marines who acts as host for the series.

Finally, we saw the show. And even if KTTV had just taken us to the corner drug store for a coke or if it had made us pay our way to help "defray" their expenses we'd still have come back raving about "Uncommon Valor." This show, which begins this coming Wednesday at nine p.m., is sensational. The episode the press saw dealt with the battle of Tarawa. A different one will be shown for the opener. The actual Marine films of the campaign plus the use of some captured Japanese films were mightily impressive. Watching them you got a tremendous thrill and you were proud to be an American. This is no flag-waving series. This is no blatant propaganda. This is simply a bit of our history. And if it makes you feel like waving flags later, what's wrong with that? Bill Karn is the producer-writer of the series and his efforts are worthy of the highest plaudits.

"Uncommon Valor" is on the order of the great "Victory at Sea," only it emphasizes the land exploits of the Marines whereas "Victory at Sea" naturally played up the sea battles. This is a show that is most heartily recommended. It is not to be missed. It makes television look really adult.

In fact, it is so good you could even understand why Dick Moore introduced and gave a plug to Mr. Tuttle of Holmes-Tuttle for having the foresight to sponsor such a show!

Odds and Ends: Lorraine Bendix Munro, who wrote our delightful story on Bill Bendix, has been appointed to the board of directors of the Writers Guild of America. She has sold several TV scripts and this is indeed an honor for the young lady. . . . Since Elizabeth Patterson returned from New York and her Milton Berle stint she has been kept hopping on TV. She has gone from one TV show to another, one of her latest being in "Science Fiction Theatre." . . . The networks aren't having any too easy a time scheduling summer replacement shows, which doesn't sound too good for the season. It is fondly to be hoped that this year the summer programs don't turn out to be the kinds which will easily under the heat. . . . Loretta Young, while improved, is still in the hospital. She has been gaining some much-needed weight but she's been a much sicker person than most people realized. Knowing Loretta, though, she'll bounce back in a hurry with more of her indefatigable energy and enthusiasm. . . . Xavier Cugat and Abbe Lane did what was expected of them at the Coconut Grove—turned on a plenty hot show. Watching Abbe's gyrations and listening to her tempestuous numbers makes you wonder if TV could ever handle her. She'd certainly create a rip-roaring controversy if she ever transferred her antics to a 21-inch screen. The men, at least, would never want to leave their sets when she was on!

At hand is a letter from "Not Miss or Mrs., but just plain old me, Mary A. Clinton," who, while generally complimentary, concludes with the phrase, "Although I'm one of the older women, I still have a sense of humor and believe one may be too sot in one's ways." Now, listen here, plain Mary A. Clinton, I have no sense of humor at all when it comes to this sort of thing, and if you know of more than one way to be a sot, I demand that you let me know.

"Project Moonbase," (13) May 31, 8:30. It's 1970, see, and the U.S. of A. has a space station floating around the earth on a ten times a day schedule, when it is decided to attempt to establish a base on the moon. Get it? Now, in charge of this awesome enterprise is a cute, little trick, name of Donna Martell, who just happens to have attained the rank of colonel in the space corps. Oh, boy . . . Well, anyway, she combats saboteurs, sasses her boss, General Hayden Rorke, and then gets to the moon and . . . I understand the producers of this film originally intended it as a TV series and then thought they had such a great idea, they decided to expand it into a feature film. And what's more, they seem to have been serious about it. In itself, I think that's a little serious.

"Woman On The Run." (5) May 29, 7:30. Ann Sheridan's artist husband inadvertently witnesses a murder and then is forced to flee both police and killer, while wife Ann also tries to catch him with some pills he needs to stay alive. Their marriage has been a little shaky and when reporter Dennis O'Keefe joins Ann in the search, it is logical to assume a romance. Dennis, however, behaves rather menacingly toward a dancer who has a sketch of him and is later found dead and by the time the smashing climax comes in a San Francisco amusement park, you can't be too sure of anyone. This is a trenchant little thriller, first released in 1950, that boasts a couple of pretty fair performances by the principals, good direction by Norman Foster and some distinctive dialogue by Alan Campbell.

"The Horse's Mouth." (2) June 1, 12 Midnight. A young reporter goes on vacation and discovers that the inhabitants of an isolated island off the coast of Britain seem to have advance information about the weather and various other happenings in the vicinity. He ferrets out the fact (or fiction, if you will) that an ancient oracle is providing the information in exchange for a little peace and quiet. The reporter manages to finagle tips on the races, which he prints in the paper, bringing about the destruction of the sport as the tips keep coming in and everyone bets on the winner. This sad situation is finally corrected when the oracle shuts up, something I wish he hadn't done before the Hollywood Park meeting opened. A rather humorous, unpretentious British comedy, with Robert Beatty.

"Over The Moon." (13) June 2, 11:00. Merle Oberon is a quiet romantic who moons over a copy of "Ecstatic Romances," and thinks she has a chance for the real thing when her uncle dies and leaves her ninety million dollars. She runs off to roam the Continent with a quartet of sycophants (crazy pachyderms) (joke), leaving the village doctor, Rex Harrison, to brood over the fact that he won't marry her because of the money. The dialogue is fairly literate and amusing and everything ends happily in the Swiss Alps. I am not like Rex. I would marry a girl with ninety million dollars.

Please consider that you have read something humorous here . . . chuckle . . . turn the page.

What Would You Have Done—If You Were Rev. Tanimoto on “This Is Your Life”?

When the Japanese minister met the pilot of the plane which dropped the Atomic Bomb on him and his people, it brought up the important question: “How private can TV get?” When can the little guy say “No!”

When Capt. Lewis Young came forward and shook hands with Rev. Dr. Kiyoshi Tanimoto it was undoubtedly one of the most suspenseful moments even seen on television.

It happened on the night of May 11 on Ralph Edwards's “This Is Your Life” telecast. Dr. Tanimoto, the subject for the evening, was in this country with a group of Japanese girls who had been injured in the blast on Hiroshima during World War II and who are now being treated in New York. Dr. Tanimoto was himself a victim of the blast on that momentous day.

Capt. Lewis, who piloted the plane which dropped the bomb, was choked up and visibly shaken when he shook hands. It was a crucial emotional experience for him, and he hesitated to look his former enemy in the face.

The sad-eyed, courageous Rev. Tanimoto was equally taken back at their meeting. The sympathy of the audience was definitely focused on the Japanese minister.

For the first time, on any large scale, the program and particularly this one incident was questioned by many viewers. They claimed that Rev. Tanimoto was subjected to personal discomfiture, that it was in poor taste and preyed on his private emotions.

How Private Can You Get?

Others claimed it “was the most dramatic thing ever seen on TV.” Of course, the question is up to each individual viewer to decide.

Ralph Edwards is not only one of TV-Radio Life's most admired and respected stars, but he is one in whom we have found great integrity and sensibility. We know that, as on all his past shows, he planned and performed this one in the best of faith. Through the co-operation of Norman Cousins of the “Saturday Review of Literature” and other persons, “This Is Your Life” took every possible step not only to surprise Dr. Tanimoto but to put on a good and a powerful show. Any program on the effects of atomic warfare naturally involves the deepest of human emotions.

However, this telecast did bring up one very important issue: how far can TV go? What safeguards does an individual (and that includes everyone) have on his private life?

Perhaps you have noticed that when Ralph Edwards is about to unfold a particularly spectacular life he asks permission of the person involved.

In the case of Rev. Tanimoto it has been pointed out, however, that the show itself was a complete surprise.

Page Thirty

He seemed to be unfamiliar and naturally he didn't know who was going to be the next person to walk between the curtains to greet him.

Face to Face

Then came the man who helped to drop death, destruction and despair upon his people. It was a tense moment for him—and everyone else.

Perhaps, if Rev. Tanimoto had had something to say about it he would have protested, “Please, not this. I will meet him alone if he wishes, but not before millions of people.” But before those TV cameras, Rev. Tanimoto was as helpless as he was the day of the atomic bomb.

What if YOU had been Rev. Tanimoto? What would you have done? What chance does the “little guy” have under such circumstances? In TV today, the network, a station, a producer, a director or a sponsor can say, “I don't like this! Cut it out!” And out it goes. But what about the Joe and Jane Does? When can they stand up for their rights and say, “No, you can't do this to me! My private life and feelings are private.” These are some of the questions TV-Radio Life has bumped into while investigating this potent program.

Another criticism of the hand-shaking came from a viewer who thought it was wrong to make an Oriental lose face by showing such emotion. It was pointed out, however, that actually when the minister embraced Christianity he gave up such Oriental concepts.

For the record, Capt. Young was eager to appear on the program as soon as he heard that Rev. Tanimoto's life was to be done. Also for the record it should be known that Rev. Tanimoto was aware that there was such a person as Capt. Young. In fact, the minister carries with him the Saturday Review story and before the program, while showing it to a friend, he was asked if he had any bad feelings toward the captain for helping drop the A-bomb. “No, it was his job,” Rev. Tanimoto replied.

Various Opinions

Most of the persons whom TV-Radio Life asked for an opinion thought that the handshake was all right and that the pilot was sincere in his emotional reaction. They were in favor of him discussing the bombing and greeting the minister. The gesture was good for people of different groups . . . it was good for the people who don't take the A-bomb too seriously . . . good for the pilot and the minister to shake hands in peace, because as individuals they were not responsible for the bombing. Some felt that it would be wrong not to have given voice to the victims of war. Those especially in favor of the telecast were realistic and said that facing facts was part of life and things unpleasant in this world should be acknowledged rather than ignored.

But when these same persons were asked what they would do if they were faced someday with the same problem confronting Rev. Tanimoto, they didn't know. Probably the answer is nothing. Absolutely nothing. They'd do exactly as the minister did . . . stand up and “take it,” grin and bear it, like it or not.

How would you react? How did you react to this program?

"Eye Witness" Looks Ahead For Top Stories in New Approach to TV Journalism

This week it's the jet flight from N. Y. to L. A. Next week: who knows? But Gil Martyn and his KTLA are thinking today about tomorrow's news.

There are times when "Eye Witness," KTLA's interesting and different newscast, anticipates headlines in order to bring their viewers up-to-the-minute events. Last week, as we went to press, we learned that "Eye Witness" had scheduled an interview with First Lieutenant John M. Conroy for Sunday, May 22. Lieutenant Conroy is slated to make the first Los Angeles to New York and return flight in a North American F-86 Sabre Jet at sunrise, Saturday, May 21. With the exception of stop-gaps for refueling Conroy's objective is Floyd Bennett Field in New York and return to Los Angeles by sunset the same day. The Van Nuys pilot anticipates making the round trip in about eleven hours.

"Eye Witness" is out for a scoop, which they undoubtedly will have. All this is part of their format of going a step beyond telecasting routine headlines. News chief Gil Martyn and his two leg men, Dick Keusink and Marvin Petal, believe in making the news stories of the day come alive by presenting eye witnesses to round out the news reports.

Gil and his staff do a tremendous behind-the-scenes job of tracking down people connected with news events. It isn't as easy a task as it may appear on the surface. Sometimes grueling hours a day are spent tracking down witnesses. They may vary from someone who chanced upon a sordid crime to someone who has merely officiated at the dedication of a new wing of a children's hospital.

Gil at Work

As a result of many reportorial years, Gil has established invaluable contacts for obtaining information. He has gained both the confidence and cooperation of the police, fire and sheriff offices, Civil Air Patrol, California Highway Patrol, the FBI, wire services and publications.

However, this chore has its restrictions. Bold headlines sell newspapers but the TV station repels tabloid-news tactics and avoids sensationalism. "Eye Witness" must exercise discrimination or else it will invite trouble from the FCC.

Yet, such drawbacks don't seem to faze the man with printer's ink in his veins. Smiling broadly, Gil said: "It's the satisfaction a newsmen gets from his job. Certainly there's no glamor attached to it. We strive to deliver clear, concise, honest reports. Interviewing an eye witness who was on-the-spot at an accident is certainly far more vivid reporting than merely reading the cold headlines. I believe this is the first time our type of journalism has been attempted in a television series."

"Eye Witness" interviews are conducted by KTLA staff announcers. The program is unrehearsed and the announcers, working from lead sheets, must be trigger-minded to circumvent any libelous statements an eye witness might make. The interviews are brief yet encompass the basic information.

Variety

The wide variety of newsworthy events and people appearing on each show are selected with an eye to satisfying every viewer's interest. On a recent telecast a dancer at a burlesque house told viewers what it was like to have an "admirer" in the audience, who was carrying the gun with which he later—that evening on the stage—killed himself. Another interviewee, Bill Veeck, one of the most publicized figures in baseball, told of his efforts to bring major league baseball to Los Angeles.

The program has caught the public's fancy because it humanizes the news. To keep abreast of things the only deadline "Eye Witness" recognizes is airtime.

Whittinghill Wit Wins Watches

Fun-loving Dick Whittinghill sparks his KRCA movie host chores with amusing and unusual gimmicks. We stopped at the studio recently to interview the dee-jay (KMPC), movie host and the imaginative Dick enlisted our aide in some pre-movie shenanigans.

Interview

Whittinghill acted as happy as a bumble bee about the interview he was going to have with a TV-Radio Life staffer. As he praised the magazine he turned to the staffer, who was sitting on the set and abruptly shoed her away. Off camera, the director gestured wildly to Dick that he had shoed away his interviewer. Then the ham came out in both the movie host and the allegedly hurt staffer while he apologized and she forgave. All this for a lead-in to a movie. You never can tell what Dick's going to do on his Channel 4 show and that's what the viewers like about him.

Once our shenanigans were over and the film got rolling Dick gave us his attention. That is if you overlook interruptions for commercials.

We learned that Whittinghill, who has to get up at 4:30 in the morning to do his KMPC stint from six until ten, gets many letters commenting on his informal manner on both his radio and TV programs. Some fans write and say that, even when they've seen a movie before, they leave it on while doing their housework and rush over to the set to watch his "comedy relief" or special treatment he gives the commercials.

From Montana

There's no doubt about it, Dick's gift of gab, his easy and friendly manner have contributed greatly to eliminating cut and dry methods of introducing movies. But despite his apparent success at clowning Dick has a serious acting bug. As he started to tell us all about it we were interrupted because it was time for him to do another commercial. We sneaked off while Dick was selling his sponsor's wares in the inimitable Whittinghill manner, vowing to come back at a more suitable but probably less amusing time.

People who hail from the State of Montana are particular fans of Whittinghill the Wit. Although he's nicely settled in Southern California, the stocky, dynamic deejay still has a great affinity and love for the "Treasure State," where he was born and reared.

TV Boys Teach Movie Men New Tricks in "Timetable"

Over California Studios way where Gross-Krasne film such TV offerings as "Big Town," "Lone Wolf," and others, Mark Stevens is producing, directing, and starring in a motion picture called "Timetable." So what else is new, you might ask?

Mark Stevens, as you may know, is the star and director of "Big Town." He has also done many other TV shows, among which was "Martin Kane." So THIS is new—he is producing this picture with some significant television contributions.

In the first place, the crew who worked for him on "Big Town" is on this film. Stanley Silverman and Eddie Rissien are also very much in the "Timetable" picture, Silverman as story editor and dialogue director and Rissien as associate producer. They not only do their respective chores but they help Mark considerably by their frank comments about his work as an actor and help oversee certain directorial segments. The other point of interest about "Timetable" is that it is using many television actors for roles. King Calder, who was Lt. Grey in "Martin Kane" and who has appeared in almost every major TV show, is making his movie debut in this.

"BANDSTAND REVUE POLL"

The following list was compiled by KTLA, from a survey of disc jockeys and record sales and were presented as the "top twenty-five" songs on "Bandstand Revue" on Sunday night, May 22, from 9 to 10 p.m., by regulars Leighton Noble and his band, Anita Gordon, the McDonald Sisters, the Mercer Brothers, Rush Adams, and top recording artists.

1. UNCHAINED MELODY
2. CHERRY PINK MAMBO
3. BALLAD OF DAVY CROCKETT
4. WHATEVER LOLA WANTS
5. LEARNIN' THE BLUES
6. DANCE WITH ME, HENRY
7. HEY, MR. BANJO
8. THE BREEZE AND I
9. PLAY ME HEARTS AND FLOWERS
10. HONEY BABE
11. THE BERRY TREE
12. A BLOSSOM FELL
13. HEART
14. TWO HEARTS, TWO KISSES
15. HOW IMPORTANT CAN IT BE
16. MOST OF ALL
17. DON'T BE ANGRY
18. IS THIS THE END OF THE LINE?
19. DARLING, JE VOUS AIME BEAU-COUP
20. BOOM, BOOM, BOOMERANG
21. LOVE ME OR LEAVE ME
22. IT'S A SIN TO TELL A LIE
23. TWEEDLE DEE
24. IF I MAY
25. STRANGE LADY IN TOWN

"I wanted to use TV performers, along with those actors with no experience to get new faces in the picture," Mark commented. "This is a documentary type movie and I felt new people would be better than established actors."

King Calder is entirely happy with the assignment. He frankly prefers film to television. As King commented, "How long has this thing called movies been going on?"

Working in TV, as well as in movies, gives Mark Stevens real know-how when it comes to producing a picture. He is using some of the things he has learned in television too.

"It's actually easier to do a TV show, though, than it is to do a picture," he said. "After all, on 'Martin Kane' we had five days rehearsal. You can't do that much rehearsing for a picture. Some people think that there's too much pressure, doing live TV especially, but I never noticed that. Of course, I'm not even bothered by the work involved in producing, directing, and writing a movie. Maybe I'm easy-going because I realize I can't afford to get upset. Too many people are depending on me. Once a director starts blowing everybody does.

Senseless 'Takes'

"When you do TV you learn how to make full use of time and of a shooting schedule. You learn economy of shots—and you learn how to get the most out of actors without dissipating their talents and energy by senseless 'takes.' We're doing 'Timetable' on a twenty-one day schedule, which is considered very short in some circles, but it's plenty long for me. I have learned—I hope—to shoot only those scenes which will appear on the screen. I don't want to do all kinds of 'takes' on one scene and then leave the picture up to the film cutter. I'm not resorting to these measures just because I have a limited budget. If I had a million dollars I'd still film it in the same way. Even in film TV there's not the time for endless 'takes,' so why shouldn't the same principle work for a movie?"

Not Big Shot

Mark is also helping in designing sets and wardrobe and he works with Walter Scharf, who is doing the musical score.

It isn't that Mark wants to be the Big Shot. In fact, right now he's trying to get an okay to leave his name off some of the credits. He is only interested in doing a good job. He must be okay because he took on the direction of "Big Town" at the sponsor's specific request.

"Timetable" is only further proof that what some people thought impossible is now not only possible but is a reality—movies and TV are learning that they not only can work together but they have to if either is to survive.

TRAIN TALK

by
"Engineer"
Bill Stulla

Boy, I guess I hadn't better keep you in suspense any longer. You remember that last week I asked "If Engines Have Ears?" Why sure they do, "Engineers." (I'll bet you knew that all along.)

You know, on last week's show we sure gave Large Mo a real workout, as a matter of fact we were "Rapping The Sack" with him every night. Whoa; there I go again, perhaps before I start rattling off railroad terms I should explain them. On an operating railroad if they tell an engineer to Rap The Sack, it means that he is to give his locomotive full throttle or at least to make more speed.

Here is a question for you. Have you ever had a "Shiner?" Now before you start to wonder, I don't mean a black eye, this is a very important railroad term and I'll tell you what it means next week.

This Saturday, May 28th we will be staying in our Channel Nine Roundhouse. Since this is Memorial Day Weekend and many of our junior engineers will be going out of town we will be seeing you again on June 4th at Kory's Market, 120 West Avalon Blvd. in Wilmington. With two weeks between our appearances I know that we will have some very special gifts for each of you. So, if you live in the Wilmington area I'm hoping to be able to meet you in person on June 4th.

Many of my friends have been writing in suggesting contests that we can hold to give away the complete model layout and I hope to be able to give you all the details next week, so until then:

"Happy High Ballin"
from
"Engineer Bill."

SOAPY PROBLEMS

It's rumored that "Lux Radio Theatre" is being cancelled after the June 7 broadcast. After twenty-one years of broadcasting it will be a disappointment to many if the sponsor does not renew. But for the past several years "Lux" cancellations have been a rumor, perhaps this is just another one. Out of the rumor category, is "Lux Video Theatre" which is slated to continue.

Ear, Eye Inspire the Pen

Mrs. Bertha Van Ryn

I'm writing to express some opinions about "Pay-Television." The idea seems fine but, in everything I have read about it, the prices mentioned as being considered are $1.00 or $1.50 for a program. I don't believe those responsible realize how important a dollar still is to most people. My husband is an engineer and has definitely an above average income; however, I don't feel that we would often care enough about a program to spend a dollar. On the other hand, we would be much more tempted if the price were 25c. By the same token, there would be many, many other people who feel the same way. I'm afraid even 50c would be too much for us.

No set prices have been established. However, it is our opinion the top price will be a dollar, while the majority of programs (if approved by the FCC) will range from ten to twenty-five cents. It is unlikely that the public would pay much more for any type of program.

F. M., North Hollywood

You are the best dime buy by far! A letter in the recent Eye, Ear column made me thoroughly irate. A certain person had written in saying that she objected to the loud and inappropriate music on certain programs. She suggested that the musicians should be paid to be quiet. I agree that on some shows it is too loud, but this is the fault of the audio engineer, not the musicians. As for being inappropriate, does she realize that practically all of these shows use "canned" or prerecorded music? (That music was not intended for use on the air.) "Live" music is made according to the individual play and the composer has the script to follow. Also, higher-ups have the final say. So, if, Mrs. X, you want good, soft, appropriate music, don't bludgeon the musicians, but appeal to the sponsors to let their shows have live music, with real musicians on the scene. There are 1500-odd musicians in L.A., of whom less than half make their living in music. Thanks for letting me speak my piece.

Mrs. P. Kroes, San Dimas

RE: Rhythm & Blues . . . So how do I feel? Sometimes I wonder why people are so concerned with things like this. If they must be against the younger set dancing to R & B, what do they want—checkers?

I am the mother of two small boys—I'm 26 and I like many R & B records—no doubt 10 years ago I'd have been "bopping" like mad to this real crazy beat.

If these people who find so many suggestive lyrics in R & B records would look back a few years—how about "Body & Soul" or maybe "Take Me, I'm yours if you'll take Me"—they will find the same double meanings as far back as they care to.

The kids want to dance—they like the beat. My teenage brother, I'm certain, isn't too interested in the words as long as they "click" and have a "real cool beat". Let the worriers look for meanings, but let the kids "bop" to their Rhythm and Blues.

Remember the shouting about the Charleston? . . . Big Apple? What next?

Mrs. D. P., Hemet

We enjoy your magazine very much and think it's the best that can be had. But there is one complaint I have—Why did "One Man's Family" go off the air? I think it was the best serial on TV. More wholesome and more real than most of them. It has been on radio for so long. I hope it will be back soon on TV. Hope more will protest so it will go on again.

Irene Berry, Arcadia

I want to put in three cheers for "Meet Millie." There are many dandy programs on television, but for real hearty laughs this program takes the cake.

The actors on this program are superb. It is so good to be able to sit down and enjoy a clean, wholesome program. All the happenings on the show could happen to you. There is an old saying that no one is indispensable—but I think these actors on "Meet Millie" are.

Mrs. H. King, Redondo

I would like to say (and I'm sure many mothers would agree) that I think some of the westerns (in fact, most of them) shown on TV, have a very bad influence on children. In fact, I often wonder why people are surprised at the Juvenile Delinquency nowadays. Naturally, as children are mimics, they think it's smart to curse, shoot, knife, smoke and drink like they see on TV. (Note the children smoking and drinking nowadays.) There ought to be a law banning such westerns from the air.

Why can't we have westerns that are just good wholesome stories, and that teach children good things?

Also, I think some of the comedies for children are disgusting. Children are wise enough these days about sex without seeing men and women making and talking about love and girls on the screen. I have seen such disgusting shows on Capt. Jet's program for children. I am certainly disappointed in him.

G. Majors, Whittier

I disagree 100 per cent with the person who criticized the wonderful comedy, Private Secretary. The comedy is one of the better programs on TV and the program is suited just right for the wonderful Ann Sothern. It's one comedy that offers real humor, and not silly slapstick.

Pat, Inglewood

I have wanted to write for some time to tell you about your wonderful TV-RADIO LIFE. I enjoy it very much. I do not have a television, but find it is a godsend for the radio.

Notes to You

By ANDY MANSFIELD

(KFI, Monday thru Friday, 8:45 a.m.;
(Saturday, 9:30 p.m.)

This week's jazz LP's amply cover the scene from re-issues of the Bennie Moten Kansas City Orchestra of 1929 to an exciting new vocalist of today named Helen Merrill. This husky-voiced newcomer sings in the style of a Christy or a Connor, and displays amazing control and musicianship as she wends her way through the maze of modern accompaniment of a small combo with effortless ease. All seven selections on this Emarcy twelve-inch LP are extended versions of stand-dards, with Helen Merrill given free rein in her imaginative vocalizing.

Yank Lawson's Dixieland Band (Riverside) offers convincing proof that Dixie, at its best, remains as fresh, vigorous and skillful a form of jazz as ever. As we've pointed out before, good musicians can always make a band and Yank has rounded up names like Gowans, Russell, Johnson, Condon, Haggart, Spargo, Silloway, Stegmeyer and Marsala to guarantee the results. These previously unreleased waxings, made in 1944, are as great as the makers—and Yank's full piercing tone and driving trumpet has rarely been better than it is here.

Carmen MacRae (Bethlehem) hasn't been around too long, but long enough to establish herself as one of today's top jazz vocalists, equally at home with a ballad, rhythm or torch tune. The four songs Carmen waxed with the Tony Scott Quartet will remind you of the Wilson-Holiday sides of the late thirties. The others with the Mat Mathews Quartet are more on the modern side and feature Herbie Mann on tenor and flute, but enough for the accompaniment . . . listen to Carmen MacRae and applaud.

During the late twenties, when the jazz centers were firmly located in New York and Chicago, Bennie Moten's Orchestra remained equally firm in its own territory, and the Moten jazz empire was built in Kansas City. Aside from occasional recording trips to Chicago, the band rarely left home. Listen to Moten play "Terrific Stomp," "Kansas City Squabble," "Let's Get It" and other re-issues on this "X" LP and you get a clearer picture of true Kansas City styled jazz than has ever been presented. —A.M.

Bill Ballance Says:

Heard a singer on radio the other night whose voice was so awful that after he sang the Star Spangled Banner, he was arrested as an enemy agent.

I really should never kid about anyone's voice; one time when I sang on a TV show, I hit so many off-keys, I began getting fan mail from locksmiths!

Rather than engage our troops in an all-out war on Formosa, Spike Jones is being sent there to give a "concert."

There's a quartet now being organized for TV appearances in Washington, D. C., called "The Patent Applied Four."

(Hear Bill Ballance on CBS-KNX M-F, 9:15 p.m.; Mon. Midnight; M-F 3:45 p.m. and Sat. 6:30 p.m.; Tues. through Friday, 7:30 p.m.)

Catalina Island, the home of KBIG.

To quote the words of a popular song of a few years ago, Bob "woiks" there.

"I think the Island is an ideal place to live and work. After having spent three years in Bakersfield smack in the center of the hot desert, the ocean breezes are a wonderful thing," Bob comments.

"It's a wonderful place for my wife, Phyllis, and I to raise our family. We have a wonderful six-year old son, Eric and a two-months old daughter, Kris."

As all KBIG listeners know Bob is not only the "week-end disc jockey" at the Catalina station, but he conducts his own show, "Southland Salute," on Mondays from 7:00 to 7:25 p.m.

The thirty-year old deejay has been in radio and TV for ten years, and is a former musician, and was a Navy flyer during World War II. For the past two and a half years he has been a professional golfer. In addition to being an announcer on radio and TV stations in Bakersfield, he has also produced and directed broadcast, which makes him a valuable all-around man.

His family is quite sprinkled with talent His son worked for Columbia pictures two months ago in an Andy Clyde short. His wife is a fine singer. His parents were on the Keith circuit for years in the era of three-a-day vaudeville. And his father-in-law is Larry Fine, one of the famous "Three Stooges."

"But my new daughter," Bob beams, "is the most talented of all. She has the brightest smile of anyone, anywhere."

Entering the seventh week of the season the Pacific Coast League can hold up its head in justifiable pride. The quality of baseball being played so far is the best in Coast League history.

Pre-season promises by the league's new president, Clare Goodwin, aroused a lot of skepticism in the minds of fans throughout the league. Mr. Goodman claimed the league would be much stronger, the teams more colorful, ticket prices kept reasonable, fans treated better in every way. If the first six weeks of the '55 season are any criterion, Mr. Goodwin has kept his word down to the very last promise.

Judging from the Pacific Coast League action I have seen at Wrigley Field and Gilmore Field I wonder if Lefty O'Doul might not be correct when he claims that we on the coast are seeing major league brand of ball in some of the games played out here. Lefty says the American League is a three team league and that the rest of it would have a hard time showing up well here in the Pacific Coast League.

Clay Hopper, wise old mentor of the very capable Portland Beavers, goes along with Lefty and claims that four of the present teams in the Coast League could make a battle for fifth place in the American League right now. Whether these things are true or not doesn't matter; what does matter is that there is definitely reason for being proud of the baseball being played on the coast this year.

Yes sir, you get your money's worth at Pacific Coast League games this season and by strong attendance the fans themselves can hasten the arrival of major league ball in this area. Last year, the attendance fell off considerably. One of the main reasons for this was the continual caustic criticisms of the coast league by writers like Vincent X. Flaherty of the L.A. Examiner.

I think it was only natural that as baseball interest lagged out here the major league executives who had the power to bring major league ball to the coast became very skeptical. They reasoned that it was not good business to establish a major league club in an area where there was little baseball interest. So, in effect, Mr. Flaherty and those who criticized as he did, thwarted their own purpose. No, the only way to bring the majors to this area is to come out to the PCL games in droves and prove to the people who can accomplish it that baseball interest is at fever pitch on the west coast.

In keeping with this thought we inaugurated a new feature on our post game TV show on KHJ-TV. It is called "Kid's Forum" wherein the youngsters attending the ball game are introduced to the players and allowed to ask baseball questions. The kids love the idea of being on TV and chatting with their diamond heroes and lineup in droves hoping to get on the air and pow wow with the players. I must admit it becomes a little hectic when the enthusiasm of the small fry runs away with them and production-wise we might appear to be in a state of utter confusion but the kids eat it up and that's what counts in my book.

Hope to see lots of you out at the ball games but if not, check in with us on Channel 9 fifteen minutes before all games at Wrigley and Gilmore Fields when it's "Warmup Time" on Channel 9.

NEXT WEEK

Bob Cummings is our cover boy along with Gail Davis, Loretta Young and Ed Murrow.

Gail Davis reports she's on the lookout for a husband; Bob Cummings tells how he was "re-discovered"; the "two sides" of Edward R. Murrow are explored; you read about and see lovely Loretta Young in color; Sidney Skolsky is "Hollywood's Mighty Midget"; and boxing fans will be interested in our special sports feature on the Olympic Boxing bouts.

As always, TV-Radio Life carries the most complete and up-to-date weekly logs in Southern California.

How to Train

By Rudd B. Weatherwax

▲ THE THREE WHO HAVE made "Lassie" such a thoroughly delightful and entertaining show are Jan Clayton, one of the most charming and capable personalities on TV, Tommy Rettig, and, of course, Lassie who is striking a debonair pose.

THIS STORY is about basic training for your dog, the most important kind. Individual tricks such as sitting, rolling over and similar stunts can be learned later. They require time and space and can be taken up only after the "basic," which actually is as much a plan for training the owner as for training the dog.

The greatest kindness that can be shown any dog is to give him at least a fundamental training. I don't believe in "trick" dogs and the family dog does not need the extended training necessary to equip him for screen stardom, as in the case of Lassie.

This is what you will need in training your dog. First, patience. Next, a collar on your dog, a leash or piece of rope about 10 feet long, and a pocket full of tidbits to serve as a reward for learning his lessons well.

Your first problem with your new puppy will be housebreaking. Do not delay this. Get a large box which will be his headquarters in the house until he is broken. Whenever you can't watch him, put him in the box so that he cannot leave it. His keen sense of smell will cause him to be revolted if he makes a mess in his living quarters, so he will try to restrain himself as long as he can. Then, as soon as you take him from his box, lead him outside and keep him there until he does his duty. Then praise him and pet him and next time you bring him outside, bring him to the same spot.

Remember to take him outside the first thing every morning, immediately after each meal, and the last thing in the evening. If you stick to your schedule regularly you will find that your puppy will be housebroken in considerably less than a month. He will start to show restlessness when he wishes to perform his duty. At the first such sign, quickly put him outside, and praise him for his cooperation.

As your puppy grows up there are several potential bad habits that must be dealt with. One natural desire of all young dogs is to chew any and all objects. The best way to counteract this is to provide him with rubber balls or toys which become his own. When he switches his affections from his toy to your possession, scold him, hold his mouth together, and then give him his own plaything.

Jumping up on his human friends is another natural instinct. When he jumps up, grab his upraised front paws and hold them up in the air then step gently on his back paws. He soon will learn that jumping up is a game in which he comes off second best, and then he will discontinue it.

Barking rampages can be dealt with. Stop him immediately with a scolding voice. Hold his mouth closed with your hand and punish him with severe words. If a reprimanding voice doesn't do it, use a flat newspaper resoundingly, but gently, on him.

Likewise, when he chases an automobile or motorcycle, catch him the first time or two. Scold him and confine him. If this fails, tie him with a lengthy rope to a tree or pole, within sight of passing cars or bikes. When he takes off after one, he'll be jerked up suddenly when he reaches the end of his rope. A few experiences like this and he will decide it's more comfortable just to sit and watch the cars go by.

Another bad and dangerous habit is that of scavenging for food. If you notice your dog prowling into garbage cans in the alley, set a trap for him, a mousetrap just under the surface. When he goes for it he'll get a surprise that won't encourage him to return.

Regularity of training lessons is important. You must devote at least fifteen minutes a day to it. A lesson may last a half hour, never more. Do not let your pupil grow tired.

First lesson in your dog's training should be launched when he is between six and eight months of age. A vital factor in successful training is the voice. When you call on your dog to obey your direction, you are issuing a command. It should be given in a voice that is firm and full of authority. When you are praising or rewarding him, show your pleasure by the tone of your voice. And when you wish to punish him speak harshly as you exclaim "Naughty! Naughty!" or "No! No!"

Commands always should be given

May 27, 1955

Your Dog

Mr. Weatherwax, owner and trainer of the star of the CBS series, "Lassie," here gives a condensation of the chapters on dog training contained in his book, "The Story of Lassie, His Discovery and Training."

in the same tone of voice and with the same words. Your dog does not understand immediately the actual words you use, but he assimilates very quickly the meaning of your tone.

You must constantly encourage your dog by speaking to him, petting him, and, if you use my system, rewarding him with a tidbit when he does well. Such actions on your part will build up your dog's faith in you, and successful training cannot be accomplished without this.

Only one person should train a dog.

While conducting your lessons, work in quiet surroundings. Evening is generally the best time. Take your time, or don't try to hold "school." If your dog is not feeling well, give him a vacation. It's better not to try to train him when he isn't in the mood.

Don't smoke or drink while conducting your training. Dogs don't like tobacco and they don't care for the aroma of alcohol.

Don't try to teach him every trick in the book in one lesson. For the best results, stick to one trick until it is mastered. Tricks already learned, however, should be reviewed frequently, so that he won't forget them.

▲ BILL GARGAN LISTENING TO A PLAYBACK of his NBC starrer, "Barrie Craig, Confidential." Gargan is often amused by the inaccuracies dramatized in the early days of private-eye broadcast series. Invariably a detective would grab the murder weapon, thus placing his own finger prints on a gun or knife and then proceed to send it down to the lab.

The Private Eye Who Really Was...

▲ FLASHBACK OF THE GARGAN FAMILY taken ten years ago. Barrie, named after Sir James Barrie, Leslie Howard, named after the famed actor, and the lovely Mary Gargan jestingly cast scornful glances at the senior Gargan.

By Mildred Ross

BILL GARGAN is one actor who can boast that his private eye portrayals have a ring of authenticity. Long before Bill ever dreamed of becoming a thespian he was a sleuth for a nationally known detective agency.

"Both my sleuthing and acting happened accidentally," Bill admitted frankly. "My father had been a member of the secret service and he kept it so secret I never knew about it until long after his resignation. Dad's occupation, however, had nothing to do with my becoming a detective. While on the road selling I met someone who told me of an opening with a credit investigation company. I became an investigator simply because it paid more than my selling job. After learning the ropes with a small outfit I applied for a job with the William Burns Detective Agency. It was with this organization that I learned a lot about the ins and outs of sleuthing.

Some of the people I met were incongruous characters and completely unbelievable if written into any fiction piece.

"My on-the-spot experience has been of the utmost help in portraying my various detective roles. These roles include 'Martin Kane' which I created, 'Ellery Queen,' 'Ross Doland,' 'I Deal in Crime,' and my current assignment, 'Barrie Craig, Confidential.'"

Resentment

Like any normal, cocky young man Bill Gargan became resentful when after doing all the leg work on a case a more experienced detective was called in for the "kill." Because of this frustration he bent a willing ear when his actor-brother Edward Gargan told him of an opening in the Broadway musical "Rose Marie."

And so Gargan again changed his profession. The footlights fascinated the young ex-detective and after

"Rose Marie" he landed a job in "Aloma of the South Seas," in which he was disguised as a Tahitian. Gargan found his niche and from then on moved right in.

The high spots in his career were "Animal Kingdom" which starred the late Leslie Howard, after whom one of his sons is named. Gargan literally stole the show and as a result of his performance was elected by the Drama Critics as the Outstanding Actor of the year. He has also been nominated for an Oscar for the best supporting actor award for his role in "They Knew What They Wanted."

After more than a quarter of a century as an actor, Gargan is a man with ideas and he knows what he wants. He plans to combine his acting and detective experience and package a series based on the county medical examiner's reports.

This could be a combination of "Dragnet" and "Medic," both award winners. Is this bad?

What Makes a Good TV Musical?

"This Is Your Music" has been compared favorably with big network musical shows and many think it's the best of them all.

JACK DENOVE, producer of KNXT's "This Is Your Music," is TV's unusual man. He has taken a relatively limited budget, mixed it with generous portions of talent and creative imagination and has come up with a musical show that is the talk of the town.

Jack believes that music is essentially fantasy, and that if you put music into a realistic set it jars. He also feels that each show should have a theme built around a set of numbers taken from some chapter of musical history which lends the atmosphere and nostalgia of different places and people. The dances and vocal numbers should then be staged with imagination and yet with stylized simplicity. These pictures illustrate how Denove has made "This Is Your Music" a show to be pointed to with pride.

▲ ARRESTING SETS ARE A VITAL PART of any show and Ernest Fegte, Academy Award winner, makes sets that are the springboard for imagination rather than traps of realism. David Lichine and Rita Walsh captivate in "Mother Was a Lady" number.

LIGHT-HEARTED GAIETY is a primary feature of "This Is Your Music." Co-stars Joan Weldon and Byron Palmer play the part of school children in "School Days" number from "Childhood Songs" program.

◀ CHANGE OF PACE from fast moving numbers to scenes like this featuring Joan Weldon in "Brahm's Lullaby" is essence of any good production.

UNUSUAL and intriguing choreography add interest to all stand-out musicals. This is Erin Martin's interpretation of "Songs of the Weatherman."
