My Dad, Art

By Jack Linkletter as told to Jack Holland

KRCA-AND KNXT'S ART LINKLETTER not only advises and helps Jack's career but he has his hands full as father to the rest of his large family. 10-year-old Robert Linkletter gets a few fatherly tips here. (Color cover photo by Art Lewis—CBS.)

I ADMIRE MY DAD very much, both as a performer and as a father.

As a father, he is tops. I've met a lot of people in this business and few men spend as much time with their kids as my Dad does with us. Every afternoon, for instance, he goes bicycling around the place with my brother and sisters, he puts on magic shows for us, he has taught my sister Dawn how to dance, he's coached Robert on how to play basketball, and, of course, he spends a lot of time with me working on my show for CBS radio.

Kind of Father

Dad is what I call a realistic father. He always had it rough before he found success. Since his fortunes have changed he has been able to give us kids security, but his main worry has always been not to spoil us. We have all had jobs to do around the place ever since I can remember—things like washing the cars each week and keeping them dusted for which we earned 50 cents a week. Those chores not only gave us responsibilities but they also helped to give us an appreciation of the value of money. Dawn is now 16, Robert is 12, Sharon, 9, and Diana, 7, and we have a good understanding of what it means to be sensible with the dollars we earn.

We kids have had our share of discipline, too. Dad and I have usually talked out any differences. Not that I haven't had my share of spankings. I have had a few, but the worst punishment was not being allowed to do something I wanted to do. Naturally, Dad talks well to us—it's his business to talk well. I have always felt free to go to him or to Mother about anything, and I know my sisters and my brother feel the same way.

The five of us have acted older than our age—primarily because we've been around adults so much of the time. I like older people even now more than I do kids my age. When my Dad and Mother have a party, though, they have quite a problem keeping the younger Linkletters from taking over in the conversation department. Dawn is especially overwhelming if she happens to be fascinated by an attractive man at the party. She's at that wide-eyed stage now where men are particularly interesting to her.

Interests

Dad is a man who is interested in many things. He never stops trying to get new ideas for his House Party CBS show or his NBC People Are Funny program. Many a night I have been awakened by his running downstairs to pound out on the typewriter an idea he has thought of in his sleep. Yet, for all his preoccupation with his work, he is not without a sense of humor. He can laugh at a good gag, whether it is on him or on someone else.

When I emceed the "Helen of Troy" premiere I saw Dad and Mother coming to the mike. I turned to Natalie Wood, who was co-emceeing, and said, over the air, "Look, Natalie, here comes that old has-been movie star." (Dad had been in one picture some years ago.) He grinned and cracked back with, "My son happens to be wearing the family tuxedo tonight. That's why I'm not dressed formally." He kind of fibbed there. I had on my own tux. Can you see me getting into Dad's suit?

The more I look at my mother and father the more I think marriage must be a fine state. They have set a wonderful example for me by their own happy marriage. They never argue, they are still very much in love, Dad calls her several times a day, so it's been a rosy picture to which I've been exposed. I like to kid Mother about it. When I come back from a date, I'll occasionally say to her, "She was a real nice girl. We may get married right away." Mother just smiles and says, "I've spoiled

My Son, Jack

By Art Linkletter as told to Jack Holland

MY SON, ARTHUR JACK, better known as Jack Linkletter, is actually responsible for my interviewing children as I do on my CBS-TV House Party show.

In my earlier days in radio in San Francisco, I had an interview-type show where I talked to people in the lobby of a hotel. Well, at home I had a tape recorder on which I'd record things that my very young son Jack said. For one, he had a difficult time saying certain words—such as elephant and breakfast. They'd turn out to be "elefunk" and "breakfast." One night during my radio show I told my audience that instead of the regular interviews I was going to put on a tape that I had made at home. I then aired some of Jack's comments and the response was tremendous. From this time on I did more and more interviews with kids on my shows—and with considerable success.

Jack started showing signs of liking show business from the time he was eight. I'll never forget one night, though, when I realized I had a ham on my hands. He was 11 at the time.

I was doing a chore at an electrical exposition in San Francisco but was scheduled, in addition, to make a speech at the Press Club. With the aid of a police escort to get me between the two points on time, I arrived at the club to find a band blaring out my theme song. Then on stage came 11-year-old Jack who said, "I'm Art Linkletter"—and he started introducing an act. I learned later that the guys in the club had put Jack up to the stunt but I've never forgotten how calm and collected he was at the whole affair.

He has remained just that cool and collected. For the last 10 years I've had him on House Party several times—and I have brought all my youngsters on the show on Thanksgiving. Jack still remains the one with the most ham, professionally speaking.

you, I guess. I've made marriage look too good to you."

I haven't had much time for dates, though, with my studies at SC where I'm majoring in tele-communications and with my work on my own show. I assure you I don't fool around in my courses. I'm taking a very varied list of subjects because I want to get a well-rounded education. Dad, you know, once studied to be an English professor, and he is a complete master of the language. There's not a word that he can't define for you. And I've yet to see him get involved in a sentence without knowing how to finish it perfectly. I only hope I can be as smart as he is.

I think his innate knowledge has helped him to be the fine artist he is on TV and radio—and it's one of the many reasons why I listen to the advice he gives me. Dad works with me on all my programs but there is one thing he continues to stress—be as sincere as possible and be interested in the people you interview. From him I have also gained a certain amount of confidence in myself. At least, when I go before the mike or the camera I know that I'm going to do the best I can. I don't worry about what will happen if I make any mistakes, and I hope people will like me. Beyond that, there isn't much I can do.

Dad loves to travel and he likes to pretend he enjoys vacations, but I've noticed that after about a week or so away from home he gets itchy to get back so he can dig his hands into the mail. Or to check on his business investments, of which he has many.

I don't know if I'll ever measure up to Dad as a star in this business, but I certainly hope I can measure up to him as a man.

My problem with Jack and all my kids has been to keep them on a level keel, Jack primarily because of his work. I have told him that having a famous name actually made it tougher for him to prove himself. When he was four or five in San Francisco I noticed him looking out the window one day apparently attracting the attention of people in the street. I sneaked up a tree and listened to what was going on. Jack was saying, "You know who I am? I'm Art Linkletter." I took him aside after that and told him that he was taking bows for someone else, that his real job was to get somewhere on his own.

I have repeatedly stressed to him that preparation is what counts. There are so many good talents in this business that an extra hour of preparation can mean the difference between being a mediocre performer and a big star. I never stop working and I'm always trying to improve. A tape recorder is going at our house almost all the time and there are mikes everywhere. I even get my kids into the act. I'll start telling them a story, I'll get it to an impossible situation, and then I'll make them pick it up at that point and continue the yarn. We also play word games. I feel word power is the best ammunition anyway. Not only do I keep in practice by such games at home but I make my kids use their imagination too.

Too Fast?

I'm frankly amazed by how well Jack has done in his career so far. My biggest worry is that he's going too far too fast. I feel there's not enough of a broad foundation to his work. I think he should be spending more time announcing, doing newscasts, things like that. Yet, at 16 he had his own radio show without all that background. I have kept him, however, from doing his own TV show. He was offered one recently, but I felt he should stay in radio a little longer.

Not long ago he got a taste of a new kind of job—emceeding the big premiere of "Helen of Troy." This was quite a challenge because he had never been to a premiere, hadn't even seen one in fact. On top of that, he didn't know who some of the stars were when he saw them. The day of the premiere the studio sent him a lot of information about the various stars who were to attend. He studied it all day and then said to me, "Dad, there's only one thing wrong—what do the stars look like?" He came through very nicely, though. I'm happy to say.

As a person, Jack has turned out to be a likable boy, not at all stuck up. I think the attitude he has towards the people with whom he works is all-important. I've had men on the crew tell me how much they like him, so apparently he has learned early that it's a wise guy who makes people think they're working with him and not for him.

I always make Jack prepare his own shows but then I go over the scripts with him and try to teach him what changes are necessary and where to cut. A performer has to be a good editor, too, in this business. After his shows we listen to the tape recording and I point out where he could have improved or what was good about it. We also analyze recordings of shows I do.

I am seeing to it that he gets as much more experience as possible. I'm shoving him into service clubs now. I send him out on remotes for my programs, and I even recommend him to handle some spots that I can't take on. Yet, I'm careful about what he does. I was asked recently to do a show for a big market. I couldn't make it, but after Jack and I talked it over I wouldn't let him do it either. I reasoned that since there were to be no other entertainers he wasn't quite ready yet to handle such a spot all by himself. He has no desire, either, to jump in over his head.

I'm very, very proud of that son of mine.

BROADCASTING KNX's Weather and You is Harry Geise (seated) who is a member of the staff of famed Dr. Irving P. Krick (standing).

Whither the Weather?

The war aided advances in long-range forecasting. Now CBS-Radio is airing predictions and other timely data to help the ordinary citizen in his plans.

By Evelyn Bigsby

A TWIST on Mark Twain's remark, "Everybody talks about the weather, but nobody does anything about it," might be "Everybody talks about the weather and some people are doing something about it." Without doubt, there has never been a time when more interest has been evidenced in rain, shine, temperature and wind.

This situation has brought about flourishing businesses in which consultants serve an impressive array of "customers." People who farm aren't the only ones who want to know what is going to happen with the weather. For a long time the motion picture companies have been crucially interested in whether the near-future weather was favorable for shooting. The airlines, too, have need of this information, so much so that both they and most motion picture companies have their own consultants.

Public utilities want to be warned of extreme cold snaps which might destroy their lines. Bathing suit manufacturers want long-range forecasts to figure out their production schedules; ice-cream-cone and beverage firms rise or fall by the weather and so depend on accurate information.

Yes, indeed, everybody's talking about the weather and the one who's doing something about it now is Harry Geise, staff member of Dr. Irving P. Krick Associates, who started a daily five-minute broadcast (The Weather and You) recently on CBS-KNX. Geise is one of 150 weather-minded persons working under the Krick banner, headquartered in Denver, Colo.

Is Well Known

Dr. Krick, himself, is not a stranger to Southern California, for he was associated with Cal-Tech for many seasons and left only a few years ago to set up his forecasting service. One of Dr. Krick's best-known accomplishments has been the modification of the weather by cloud seeding, a method of producing rain.

Harry Geise, who actually delivers the five-minute weathercasts, looks upon Krick as "the man who has done more for private meteorology than any other living person." Apparently the government weathercasts had always been the backbone of our forecasting system until World War II when the country found it had a great dearth of private weathermen. Now private meteorologists have come into their own and are allowed to express their opinions.

According to Geise, Air Force work in World War II paved the way for today's advances. Weather types were broken down into eight or ten principal forms and it was found that these patterns repeated themselves. This enables the forecaster to project weeks and even months in advance.

The Krick Associates were responsible for forecasting that heavy rains causing floods in Northern California and Oregon would shift southward in January. They predicted that four inches of rain would fall here in one day (five fell). Last year, in July, they forecast that our temperatures in September would climb over 100. (As you recall, heat exceeded this mark by some ten degrees.)

Geise claims that a warning clue to our January storm in Los Angeles was the record-breaking flights experienced by all the airlines coming from Hawaii to the Pacific coast, and the tough trip in the opposite direction. An enormous amount of water was collecting over the Western seaboard.

Background

Geise started fooling around with the weather in 1937 when he was 17 years old, in Chicago. He met Dr. Krick in January, 1941. The year before, on Armistice Day, Geise's interest in the weather had been deepened when there was a three-day holiday, during which the temperature suddenly dropped from 62 to 11 and the Midwest experienced the greatest storm in its history.

Geise watched the barometer falling like a streak of lightning, got on the phone and pleaded with the newspapers to warn citizens. The papers refused to co-operate in any way. Two hundred and thirty-two people died in the storm. However, as a result of his alertness, Station

WLS hired Geise as a researcher and shortly after, he became the first private meteorologist in the United States to be on radio.

During the war he set up storm warnings for the Ordnance Department and was weatherman for the Marine Corps for three years. After the war, in 1947, Geise joined Dr. Krick at Cal-Tech for two years. "Then TV came along and I had to take a crack at it." He returned to Chicago and made his first coast-to-coast appearance on Don McNeill's TV Breakfast Club.

Geise is eager to point out that a private meteorologist may be able to present a more up-to-the-minute report than that produced by the official U. S. Weather Bureau, due to the time element involved in the worldwide collection of weather information. It seems that throughout the world there is a very fine, but very slow-moving and ponderous weather data system which collects information twenty minutes after the hour, every six hours. Data is transmitted by teletype and thence translated to weather maps which must be analyzed before press, radio and TV weathermen may release their opinions. (Red China is the only country in the world not co-operating in this universal weather clearance.)

This huge undertaking usually consumes five hours, but for the KNX Weather and You program, special maps are being made forty minutes before the show goes on the air, with five states only being plotted, which makes it possible for Geise to give out the latest information. As Director of Public Media for the Krick Associates, he hopes to keep all of his weather information up to the second in contrast to the three to nine hours old material originating from other sources.

"They (people) are crying for new material, and brother, we've got it!" he exclaimed eagerly.

He doesn't claim always to have the answer. "If I don't know, I'll say so," he stressed. "On the other hand, if I do know, and say so, you can count on it. If good old Harry says the roof's gonna blow off, it's gonna!"

His Honor, the Mayor

Thomas Mitchell admits he's more than stage struck about his role of Mayor in the KTTV series.

By Mildred Ross

THOMAS MITCHELL is a homebody who lives in Beverly Hills, a prolific reader, student of Shakespeare and an ardent baseball fan.

I DON'T HAVE to reach outside of Mitchell to enact the Mayor of the Town," enthusiastically commented Thomas Mitchell.

"It took me almost 50 years of playing different characters before I was able to play myself. As Mayor Russell in KTTV's Mayor of the Town series, I feel temperamentally suited for the role: I do darn near everything the Mayor does, and I just draw from my own experiences and adjust to the scene. Regardless of the author, whether it's Ibsen or Shakespeare putting down the emotion, the closer it comes to your own experiences the truer job of acting the performer gives.

"Although I am married and the Mayor is not, he simulates a family life through his nephew, Butch, and his housekeeper, Marilly. He meets problems of everyday living in much the same way I like to meet my own.

"Facing problems is completely a matter of mood and circumstances, but if a fellow is balanced he faces his problems objectively and finds a solution. I must admit in my younger days I was more excitable than I am today. But I've never considered myself temperamental either in my professional or private life. The Mayor and I have a lot in common with the way we face our problems . . . it's calmly most always. I do not lead an esoteric kind of life and I have the same kind of problems other people have.

"The Mayor is a rather helpful sort and so am I within understandable limitations. Personally I am not exposed to as many personal problems of people as is Mayor Russell. The very nature of his office makes him aware of a multitude of these problems. As citizen Mitchell I certainly have an inclination to help friends in trouble if it is at all within my ken.

"I understand the Mayor's civic duties and I have a deep appreciation for the average citizen's civic responsibility. Although I have never held public office, members of my family have served their community as lawyers and legislators. The Mayor enjoys people or he wouldn't be in public office. I enjoy people, too, or I wouldn't be an actor trying to please them.

"I think I can best explain my intense interest in the role of Mayor because I feel it is not a part to be acted or characterized, but one to be lived just as other duty-called citizens take up this responsibility in every town, everywhere in this land."

At Home

Actor Mitchell and his wife Anne live in Beverly Hills. They have a gardener but do most of the other household chores themselves. And "Tommy" as his wife affectionately calls Mitchell, pitches in and helps wherever necessary, but drying the dishes is his forte. Mitchell is easy to cook for—he even cooks a bit himself and his favorite dish is pork and beans.

Mitchell's weakness is his 15-year-old granddaughter, Pamela. He literally dotes on her but insists that he doesn't spoil her because she's unspoilable. He bought the apple of his eye a quarter-horse, Geronimo, which she rides beautifully. The pets in the Mitchell household itself include a French poodle, Siamese cat, parakeet, cockateel and goldfish.

Mitchell is interested in practically everything, especially things in the field of arts. Leisure hours are devoted to television, (George Putnam and the late movies are always a "must" and watching almost every sportscast, particularly baseball) enormous amounts of reading with emphasis on Shakespeare, long walks which include window shopping in Beverly Hills and endless hours conversing with good company. Although he doesn't do any painting himself, Mitchell considers himself a part-time art collector and has some wonderful Picassos, Rembrandts and Utrillos.

His interest in the theater extends far back into his childhood and the inspiration probably stemmed from the four generations of actors on his mother's side of the family. In his long career, Mitchell has acquired many accolades . . . the Oscar for his role of an alcoholic doctor in "Stage Coach" . . . the Tony and Donaldson awards for "Hazel Flagg" . . . the Emmy as the outstanding TV actor for 1952 . . . and an award by the newspapers of Dublin for his talents as the best of America's character actors.

Thomas Mitchell is certainly a kind of a mayor a lot of towns would like to have. So would he like to go into politics? "No," he replied, "if I had to run for mayor I don't think I would be so fascinated with the part."

Ear, Eye Inspire the Pen

I would like to compliment the writers of the show, Lassie. I think it is wonderful to see such a talented dog work with people as Lassie does. I especially like the way Jeff (Tommy Rettig) works with Lassie as though they really belong to each other.

J. C., North Hollywood

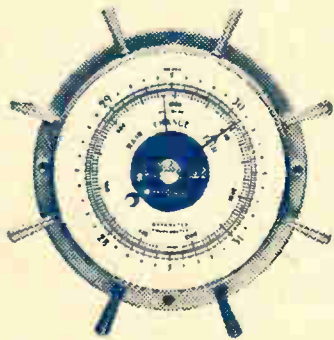

I was very happy to read your recent article about Roberta Linn. I have known and enjoyed Roberta's great singing and performing for over three years now. I am sure it is up to the caliber of all Roberta's hard work. Hard work is Roberta's motto for success.

M. E. Altadena

Please print my thanks to Mr. and Mrs. W. D. of Alhambra, whose good letter of fine criticism I heartily second and thank them for all of it. I wish they would write to these actors, their producers and their backers, advertising concerns. Frankly I think Art Linkletter is cheaply disgusting on many of his programs with children and with his adult audience, but he seems so smart aleck and sure of his present standing in TV I doubt if he'd take honest critical opinions. Arlene Francis, too.

CBS RADIO

C. J., Pomona

I am sorry I find it necessary to criticize a program, for as a general rule I can stand the breaks and commercials, but this new afternoon Film Festival has overdone it.

Just for my own satisfaction I timed this program's breaks. When I started there was a break at 1:00, another at 1:17 and another at 25 minutes after 1:00. If it takes this many breaks in a half hour to show a movie, personally I shall stop watching, for it aggravates me to just get started watching a movie and then have it stopped before you can even understand what is going on.

Mrs. G. R., Los Angeles

I say ditto to the complaint about yellow tooth decay and here's how that commercial affects me:

You wonder where good taste went When Blurbsmiths yodel about "yellowment."

Incidentally, wouldn't it be nice if all broadcasters could learn how to pronounce the name of their own city? Since the correct pronunciation, "Los Anjelus," was officially determined, why all the idiotic pronunciations?

D. D. McG., Sydney, Australia

I don't like the snide way in which Lord Carlton addresses the American public as "swine and gangsters" which is a direct quotation from him. I am visiting relatives in Pasadena from Sydney, Australia. The American people have been very good to me and I don't like the way in which he addresses them.

Mrs. E. J. H., Arlington

We always have loved Bing and that million dollar throat of his, but for anyone to say that his talent would get the family into show business is a most fantastic statement. Bob himself is such a nice person, he is an inspiration by himself to come into your home every day. Plus all of the nice talented people that he has including Cathy and Gary.

L. I., Compton

I was wondering if you would give us a line or two to help us out. We have all been crowned Queen For A Day. We have all appreciate it very much if you would tell about us and our project for the year. We are the Original Queen For A Day Club and this year's project is the Children's Hospital. Any Queen who wishes membership can contact President Claribel Anderson, 609 W. Manchester, Inglewood, Calif. or Editor Lovergne Irwin, 12821 S. Butler Ave., Compton, if they would like a copy of the Queen For A Day Journal.

Mrs. T., Monterey Park

Those singing commercials such as Viceroy Cigarettes. After listening to that nitwit commercial I wouldn't even try them. And that Fletcher Jones "sweet" commercial, breaking in the middle of the interesting play, i.e., N.O.P.D. I could break his neck. Why not have your commercial before and after? I am sure you might win a few TV friends, at least.

Mrs. J. M. B., Balboa Island

True Bob has a nice friendly personality and a very average band, but as far as his talent for singing, as far as I'm concerned he just doesn't have it.

I've never heard anyone who could crucify a song the way he does. For example, "Sixteen Tons"—it's positively nauseating. He seems to think singing is a matter of rolling his eyes, raising and lowering his eyebrows and puffing his cheeks in and out like a bullfrog.

Mrs. W. P., Burbank

The most disgusting thing I have seen on television was when Eddie Albert was on Juke Box Jury recently. During the whole program he sprawled all over the place (he needed a bed) and chewed gum as hard as his jaws would chew. That on television really looks terrible.

Bob Crosby Admirer, Spring Valley

We all feel that Bob is a good showman, on his own merits, not because he is Bing's brother. His daughter is a beautiful girl and will make a fine performer, not because of Bing, but on her own. As for Gary, time and the public will tell.

Mrs. J. K., Bell, Calif.: Can you please tell me where Bob and Ray are? Also what happened to "Richard Boone" on the Meet Millie show.

Bob and Ray are heard on NBC's Monitor program, also on KLL, Monday through Friday, at 5:05 p.m. Ross Ford, who played the Meet Millie role you mentioned, is now free lancing. Of course Millie is no longer on the air, as you probably now know.

Mrs. C. S., North Hollywood: Someone said Orrin Tucker took Roberta Linn away from Lawrence Welk, which is not true. She was away long before Tucker appeared on the scene.

You are correct in your observation. Roberta is also very busy right now with night-club appearances. Incidentally, she is of French-Irish descent.

Mrs. H. M. K., Los Angeles: I have never expected to be as disappointed as I was when I read your review of "The Day Lincoln Was Shot." It was all the things you mentioned and they were well put. However, I felt it a tremendous insult to leave out the name of Paul Gregory. But a greater disappointment was the fact that there was no mention of the music. Only a person without a soul could review that wonderful production and not make mention of the wonderful, wonderful guitar in the background. The only criticism I could offer, there wasn't enough of that beautiful and wonderful sound. Who did it?

Recorded music was used for some portions of the program. The guitarists were Robert Bain and Laurindo Almeida, aka improvisers.

Mrs. T. C., Culver City: Bob Crosby was playing clarinet and had his own band as brother Bing was rising to stardom. The only reason he did not become so popular at that time is because people did not understand Dixieland or jazz, as even today some types of music are not understood. Bing was good in his time, but his time has run out. To me, Bob has one of the greatest musical shows on TV.

Mrs. J. McC., El Segundo: Bob Crosby could hold his own against Bing any day and as for his not having any talent, has more talent and personality than anyone on TV. Cathy, his daughter, has talent also and she is getting by without her dad's help, same with Gary.

Mrs. G. C. S., Ontario: It just happens that Bob Crosby's show is one of the only two I watch during the daytime hours, and I do it because I love the show and every member of the cast; not because of any connection Bing may have. I consider Bing Crosby one of the greatest singers of all time, and have a great many of his recordings. And I'll confess I tuned Bob in the FIRST time because of my liking for his brother. But Bob's show is a fine one and fully able to stand on its own merits.

While Ed Sullivan scouts new talent in Tokyo, Eve Arden femcees his April 29 telecast.

Fem packager Mary Markham planes to New York to organize Endorsement, Inc., which lines up stars for sponsor pitches.

Rumors are flying that a $1 million give-away—20 Steps to a Million Dollars—will be launched on CBS with Monty Hall, Canadian comic, emceeing the show. Wonder how far this kind of programming can go? M.R.

Point With Pride

. . . to NBC's Baseball Spectacular which was broad enough in scope to have appeal for the entire family. Film clips of Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig added a touch of nostalgia and the appearance of today's baseball greats, Yogi Barra, Roy Campanella, Willie Mays and others certainly gave viewers that "take me out to the ball game" spirit. Switches from coast to coast with a 3000-mile ball pitch added a novel note. Eddie Fisher, Molly Berg (in an amusing and typical Mrs. Goldberg sketch), Roy Rogers and Trigger and Leo Durocher were skillfully integrated in the spec. Allan Handley (who admits knowing nothing about the game until he received the Spec assignment) and emcee Art Linkletter can take bows for their jointly produced Baseball Spec.

$64,000 Challenge

Sunday, 10:00 p.m.
CBS-TV (KNXT)

The $64,000 Challenge is an intensified counterpart of $64,000 Question. It has all the gimmicks used in the latter show plus some.

Briefly, the contestants in $64,000 Question who have reached a certain plateau comprise a panel of champions who are challenged by other experts in their respective fields. It's a play-off between champ and challenger with affable Bill (Sonny) Fox emceeing the proceedings.

Challenge uses two isolation booths and builds interest and suspense as the program progresses. Bill Fox has a relaxed and friendly manner and if it's quiz shows you like The $64,000 Challenge will undoubtedly rate high on your viewing schedule. M.R.

Medic Expurgated

Several weeks ago NBC pulled a scheduled Medic episode, "Glorious Red Gallagher," which told the story of a veteran nurse's devotion to her profession and the comfort she extended to a young mother-to-be who was to experience Caesarean birth. A member of the Catholic clergy opposed the film because it showed the Caesarean operation. This forced a revised version, eliminating the operation sequence which ran about two minutes. It was televised April 16.

Frank Latourette, producer of the Medic series, informed us: "There's nothing in the Catholic doctrine which opposes Caesarean births. St. Vincent's Hospital in our city has six percent of all its babies delivered by Caesarean section. However, the church felt that showing a Caesarean operation was an infringement on sex education which rightfully belonged in the home. We looked upon it merely as a surgical procedure as did the L. A. County Medical Association when they approved the 'Glorious Red Gallagher' script.

"Because of the deletion and revision in this story the Medical Association withdrew their seal of approval from 'Glorious Red Gallagher'; it was no longer the same script they had approved. The doctors were very disappointed in the changes we made."

Kate's Anniversary

When Kate Smith was an infant it was feared she would never talk, let alone sing. Until she was four she never spoke a word. Suddenly she began using her voice. To date, that voice of hers has helped gross $35,000,000 in show business.

On April 29 she'll celebrate her 25th year in broadcasting with a special guest appearance on the Ed Sullivan show. Commemorating the occasion, Kate will render "I Surrender, Dear," which she sang on her first broadcast, May 1, 1931.

PICK of the PIX

By Aubrey Dahl

What wedding? Oh, yes . . . Scene: Castle. Handsome, bearded fellow runs down aisle toward wedding ceremony. Bride is blonde, groom is prince, not groom. She is obviously being forced into marriage in order to secure crown for despot. (Expect to turn castle into railroad station.) Bearded fellow draws sword and yells, "I know a good reason why they should not forever be joined together. . . . Darling, I'm here. . . .

I finally got out of that dungeon where the prince had me thrun. . . . I have killed 74 soldiers of the guard, including a crew cut George Sanders, to get here. . . . Come, together we'll slash our way through this hostile crowd and . . . what? You don't want to? You're already married. . . . civil ceremony yesterday? Well, all I can say is I hope Rainier will be ale and you'll be arty."

"Mrs. Mike." (2) May 2, 11:00. 1950. Adapted from the novel of the same name, this one chronicles the story of a long-suffering Boston girl who marries a mountie and goes to live in the wilds of Canada. She has trouble adjusting, what with having babies, fighting diphtheria epidemics and coaxing Indians into being vaccinated, but she manages. Evelyn Keyes plays the title role and Dick Powell is the mountie. For those who like a good cry before their happy endings.

"A Woman's Secret." (9) Beginning May 1, 9:00. 1942. Maureen O'Hara has a voice like a nightingale but she loses it somehow and has to enjoy life through the triumphs of a discovery, Gloria Grahame, who also has a voice like a nightingale but the morals of a vulture. Maureen has a devil of a time getting this broad to tread the straight and narrow and in the end is forced to shoot her. Melvyn Douglas discovers the real story behind this incident, after three different versions have been presented, but I'm here to tell you I knew it was an accident all along. There, that ought to save you a week of tuning in to catch the ending.

"Hound of the Baskervilles." (5) April 29, 7:30. 1939. Guess what famous detective Basil Rathbone plays in this movie. Anyway, he tracks down the fiend who has trained a ferocious dog to attack his enemies on the misty moors of Devonshire, preferably late at night. Richard Greene is an intended victim and Wendy Barrie plays his young lady. One of the better S. H. mystery movies.

"A Night to Remember." (11) April 29, 6:00. 1942. Here is one of KTTV's first-run Columbia pictures. It has

HOLLAND'S TUNNEL

DUG BY JACK HOLLAND

When a bunch of guys get together, anything can happen—and usually does. Last week at the California Racket Club, the Ames Brothers took a night off from their engagement at the Cocoanut Grove and were given a testimonial dinner by various artists in show business. At the dais were Keefe Brasselle, emcee. Harry Ritz of the Ritz Brothers, Jackie Coogan, Slapsy Maxie Rosenbloom, Sid Kuller (one of the finest comedy writers in the business).

Jack LaRue, and KTTV's Paul Coates. Among the luminaries in the audience were Gil Henry and Ralph Story, both of CBS Radio. The affair got off to a peculiar start in that the Club greeted the Ames Brothers with a recording of the song, "A Woman in Love." This was great—except that the record played was made by the Four Aces. The jokes and cracks were fast and furious, with Slapsy Maxie staying on and on. Ritz, of course, slayed the crowd—and if the humor he displayed that night could have been captured (and cleaned up) on his few TV appearances, he'd be riding the crest on the medium.

Gil Henry arrived a little late since he had just come off the air, and Ralph Story was having to leave early in order to get a little sleep before arising at an unearthly hour to start his CBS morning show. Ralph said he was amazed at how many people seem to be up at 6:15 a.m. Once he played a John Charles Thomas record and right afterwards he got a call—from John Charles. When Ralph asked, bewildered, what the singer was doing up so early, Thomas replied, "Oh, my wife and I are always out gardening at this hour." Ralph, incidentally, was offered the emcee spot on both the $64,000 Question and $64,000 Challenge. He turned both down—and isn't sorry. Other things are brewing for him now.

Once again the powers that be in TV missed the boat. Two bright talents who got most of their attention as a result of their TV performances are Betty Lou Keim and Sal Minee.

Brian Aherne, as a mystery novelist, and his wife, Loretta Young, renting an apartment in Greenwich Village to obtain atmosphere for his next whodunit. The apartment was once a speakeasy and the night the couple moves in a murder is committed. The rest of the film is dedicated to the unmasking of the villain, lotsa laughs, lotsa thrills, lotsa dissa and datta, but very little real information.

"Africa Screams." (2) May 1, 5:00. You'd scream, too, if you had a veldt on your back.

Both have been grabbed for pictures, all of which brings up the point that a regular contract list of actors should be a must for TV networks. Why build these young kids to the point where they become well known and in demand and then pass them on willy-nilly to the studios?

Betty was at MGM making "Some-where I'll Find Him" with Barbara Stanwyck and James Cagney. She's only 17 but looks younger. Her TV credits include Kraft, Philco, Omnibus, Alcoa, Hallmark Hall of Fame.

"I love making movies as much as I do working on TV," Betty remarked. "At first I thought pictures would be scary but they're not. Miss Stanwyck, Mr. Cagney and Mr. Rowland were so helpful to me that they made the whole experience wonderful.

"Yet, I don't want to concentrate on movies exclusively, any more than I want to do all TV or stage. Actually, I've done more theater work than anything else, but I think TV is wonderful training for any aspiring young actor or actress. It certainly keeps you hopping and makes terrific demands on you.

"I do feel TV should sign young performers to contracts. They could be built up by being put into regular series, which is a valuable training ground. I did one series for 14 weeks and gained a lot from it.

"I can remember a TV show I did in the early days of television. The program preceding us was suddenly canceled and we had to ad lib 15 minutes of a half-hour show! This was really something! Then there was the Omnibus production I did. We rehearsed, using chairs for a car, and I assumed that when the production went on the air there would be a real car there. Imagine my surprise when I discovered that the chairs were to be used in the actual show itself. One thing is certain—TV is always full of surprises."

Sal Minee has already carved a big niche for himself in "Dino," a recent TV production, and in other shows. Right now he's about to be seen in two movies—Allied Artists' "Crime in the Streets," taken from a television show, and "Somebody Up There Likes Me." He's without a doubt one of the finest talents in the business today—a sensitive performer. He is still able to do more TV but you can look for that to change since the movies have discovered him. Think back on the stars today who got their chances on TV. How the networks would love to have people like Eva Marie Saint, for instance, under contract! But now either TV can't use them at all because of movie contracts or else their prices would be so high as to be prohibitive.

Whatever happened to all that talk recently about promising young talent being put under contract and being given the build-up?

"YOU'D THINK GRACE KELLY had left Prince Rainier for all the fuss the fans are making," said Danny Thomas. "Everybody is a self-appointed match-maker."

DANNY WAS REFERRING TO the unfortunate circumstance which has arisen in his TV marriage to "Mrs. Williams," portrayed by attractive Jean Hagen. Jean, who has played Danny's wife very capably ever since Make Room for Daddy flashed on KABC-TV's screen, recently came to an amicable parting of the ways with her TV family. She had grown pretty tired of being mama-typed and yearned to sink her teeth into more varied roles both on television and in pictures. Viewers generally won't be aware of her absence until September, when the new season starts. The shows being viewed now were shot several weeks ago before the "divorce."

Danny Thomas
Widower?

WELL, WHAT'S DANNY GOING TO DO? Is he resigning himself to the role of widower? Or is he taking unto himself a new TV wife? If he blithely sheds one spouse and picks up with another without explaining to the viewers, will they label him a fickle immoralist? Maybe he should select a new "Mrs. Williams," then kick off the new season with a heart-to-heart talk with his audience . . . tell them frankly what has happened . . . here is the new wife and mother of my TV children . . . am sure you'll understand . . . etc.

THESE ARE SOME OF THE problems sifting through the minds of Danny and his cohorts. The fans, too, are putting in their sixpence. One lady from Atlanta, Georgia, suggested, "Kill her (Jean) off in a car accident. It happens every day. This would serve a double purpose. It would provide a reasonable excuse for marrying again—after an appropriate period of mourning, of course—and it would dramatically point up one of the nation's greatest curses, death on the highway."

IN SIMILAR VEIN ARE VIEWERS' suggestions that Wife No. 1 be injured in an auto accident, necessitating plastic surgery. Wrote a Chicago housewife, "The surgery would provide an entirely new face for Danny's wife. Then he can cast anyone in the role he wants to."

ONE OF THE MOST AMUSING IDEAS is that "Mrs. Williams" crack up from too much housework and be put away in a rest home. Danny had a comment on this: "I suppose this inspired idea comes from overworked housewives hoping to use our show as an object lesson for their husbands."

EVERY DAY THERE ARE NAMES added to a long list of actresses suggested for the role of Wife No. 2. Viewers have thought that Nanette unfortunate circumstance which has arisen in his TV marriage to "Mrs. Williams," portrayed by attractive Jean Hagen. Jean, who has played Danny's wife very capably ever since Make Room for Daddy flashed on KABC-TV's screen, recently came to an amicable parting of the ways with her TV family. She had grown pretty tired of being mama-typed and yearned to sink her teeth into more varied roles both on television and in pictures. Viewers generally won't be aware of her absence until September, when the new season starts. The shows being viewed now were shot several weeks ago before the "divorce."

FABRAY, GALE STORM, JOAN CAULFIELD, MARY MARTIN, MARGARET WHITING, MARGARET TRUMAN and BARBARA HALE would be nice for Danny. Currently, Barbara is the viewers' first pick. She was also Danny's choice before the series started, but couldn't make it because she was expecting.

SEVERAL AMBITIOUS LADIES have written Danny to suggest themselves as the ideal mate. One reckless Texan promised, "I'll cook, take dictation, sew and do any odd jobs you may desire in addition to acting on the show." A Brooklyn housewife with five youngsters pitched hard for the role, but cautiously added, "Please don't tell my husband I'm trying for the part. I want him to see me first on your TV show and surprise him!" How she figured to get to Hollywood minus fanfare and grind out several TV films without her husband's knowledge was not explained.

A WOMAN IN CLEVELAND dreamed up a neat way to dispose of "Mrs. Williams." She said, "Ship her off—on a slow tramp steamer." Of course this would only be a temporary "out." Eventually Danny's wife would have to show up, so such a solution would merely postpone the real decision.

DANNY CLAIMS THAT THE WISHES of you viewers will be taken into full account in handling his TV marriage problem. Lifelines will be happy to receive any suggestions from its readers and pass them along to the bereft "Mr. Williams."

P.S.: Don't suggest divorce. Consensus is ag'in it!

UNUSUAL TV PLAN ATTRACTS INTEREST

GROUP BUYING PLAN OFFERED BY LOCAL FIRM MEETS WITH ENTHUSIASTIC RESPONSE

Many of us have found that by cooperating with our neighbors and friends, by joining together as a group, we can accomplish more. Thus we find groups are able to purchase merchandise or services, at a lower price. We're all familiar with group insurance plans, cooperative buying, etc. With this thought in mind, one of the local TV service organizations announces a plan of particular interest to those people who own television sets.

By using the group purchasing power plan, and obtaining tubes, parts, etc., at maximum discount, the organization is able to pass along tremendous savings to its members. Here's how the plan works for members of Television Industries Protection Plan.

Let's suppose your TV picture tube burns out. To replace a 21" to 24" picture tube, could run well over $100.00. This could present a severe financial hardship to many a family, especially low income families. Yet, there's a simple answer to this problem! How?

By joining Television Industries Protection Plan for only $10.00 a year (on a 2 yr. basis), your picture tube, up to 24" is automatically warranted for 2 full years. The replacement of power transformer, tuner, small tubes and all parts can also be guaranteed for 2 full years at a slight additional cost. No more worries about big TV repair bills—you will never have to pay more than $3.50 for any home service call, including all parts necessary to repair your set in the home.

Already, more than 14,000 Southern California families belong to this excellent group plan. It will pay you to find out how this plan operates. Offered by a company who has been in business since 1949, you are assured of complete satisfaction at all times. A simple phone inquiry to RI. 9-0301—will bring you full information without obligation, or you may write to Television Industries, 4031 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles 5, Calif.

SYNOPSIS

"Dodsworth" tells the recognizably human story of an automobile tycoon, Sam Dodsworth, who at the urging of his socially ambitious wife, Fran, takes her on a luxury trip to Europe. An essentially shallow, snobbish, selfish woman, Fran Dodsworth is grimly determined to become a complete European and negate her provincial American origins. While doing so, she becomes prey to duplicitous "Continental types," interested only in her wealth. Sam, hurt and lonely, finds rewarding companionship in the company of beautiful and understanding Edith Cortright. His plans for a happy future are suddenly thwarted when Fran, jilted and panicky, tries to reclaim him for her own security.

Radio in Review

For Love o' Mike (General Comment)

Radio Ramblings

Lindsay does four more broadcasts with papa Crosby. . . . Beginning April 30, KABC makes several morning time program changes. . . . Radio Pioneers Club honored Amos 'n' Andy (Freeman Gosden and Charles Correll) for their pioneering in radio broadcasts of situation comedy.

KNX salutes the California National Guard all week long. Display of armored equipment will be on view in the forecourt of Columbia Square. . . . Festival, the summer series devoted to favorite classical music, with Milton Cross, returns to KABC on Saturdays as a replacement for the Metropolitan Opera series.

CBS covers the Kentucky Derby May 5. . . . Edgar Bergen has been cited by the National Father's Day Committee. . . . KFI celebrates 34 years of broadcasting this month. During this period the station has chalked up many "firsts."

KBIG resumes its summer fishing and boating report, Maritime News. . . . Have you heard June Foray and Stan Freberg's record, "The Quest for Bridey Hammerschlaugen?" It's a good one.

ABC handles the pooled radio broadcast on the H-Bomb test blast at Eniwetok, tentatively set for May 1. Bryson Rash handles commentary. . . . Last week, Art Linkletter had two Grace Kellys on his program—one from Compton, the other from Highland Park, and Prince Rainier, his dog.

Winter Comes South

William Winter breezed into our town last week. He's the ABC news analyst, heard Monday through Friday at 5:30 p.m. over KABC.

We found him to be a pleasant, articulate man (most competent newsmen are) who not only loves his work, but loves his adopted home town of San Francisco.

Oddly enough, he thinks it's the ideal city to live in to do the type of news show he does every night (and on Sunday night in San Francisco on TV).

"Most people think that New York and Washington, D. C., are the only two cities to be in if you want to have a ready access to news. I don't believe this is the truth," the mustached analyst explained during a TV-Radio Life interview.

"The West Coast is not only the Gateway to the Orient, but I also believe it is the news center of the coming era. Also, I think a news commentator loses his perspective by staying in New York. As for myself, I will listen to other newscasts, but never to other commentators. This way, I can never be swayed in forming my own opinions."

By remaining in San Francisco, Winter also feels that he gets a chance to know more important people on a personal basis. "Whenever a prominent name in the news comes to my home town, I get a chance to chat with him on a friendly and intimate basis. In New York or Washington I'd just be lost in the shuffle."

Being 3,000 miles away from the nation's capital doesn't affect his ability to be the firstest with the mostest. A recent and perfect example: Winter was the first commentator to come out on the air and say, without doubt, that President Eisenhower would run again. He made the announcement the night before Ike's famous press conference the following morning.

Winter was not working on a hunch, either, but on a definite "inside tip" from a source he does not wish to disclose.

After speaking before the California Bakers' Association in Los Angeles, Winter headed north again to go back to his full-time working schedule. He says he hasn't had a vacation since 1942 and probably won't ever take one again.

"After a few days of so-called 'relaxing' and not listening to a radio newscast or reading a newspaper, I thought I would go out of my mind. In my business there is always something to learn. I think most people get tired or bored with the sameness of things. Fortunately, that never happens to me."

Court Upholds KGFJ

Last week, Judge John J. Ford (L.A. Superior Court) upheld the demurrer of radio station KGFJ that ruled in effect that a broadcaster has control of its programming.

This was an outgrowth of a request for an injunction by Connor & Johnson, sponsors of a religious program, to prevent KGFJ from editing copy of Negro minister Maurice Dawkins. The station had sought to edit the script because it felt the minister's subject matter had gone beyond the original concept of the presentation.

Lonesome Gal Sues

Radio's Lonesome Gal (Jean King) is suing RCA-Victor Records (and a number of other corporations and individuals) for damages in excess of five million dollars.

The action charges infringement of Miss King's trademark, unfair competition and invasion of privacy. She alleges she spent large sums of money since 1947 publicizing her title as Lonesome Gal and that the defendants have been issuing recordings using the name Lonesome Gal, Lurlean Hunter, which takes unfair advantage of the name and reputation she has built up.

Until a few months ago Jean King had a program on KABC but resigned to avoid conflict with her producer-husband's schedule.

How They View the News

Two of Los Angeles' most popular newscasters give their definitions of what makes a good TV newsmen. On one point they agree emphatically.

By Bill Kelsay

▲ KABC-TV'S DICK TUFELD has popularized the personal interview and telephone conversation in bringing "news reactions" from people in headlines.

◀ KTLA'S GIL MARTYN has decided views on what makes a man qualified to express an editorial version of any phase of the news.

THE LOS ANGELES area is fortunate in its selection of the men who bring it the news. Invariably interviews with these men prove that they are strongly aware of their responsibilities and sincerely try to live up to them.

At KTLA, Gil Martyn states it succinctly:

"A newsmen is first, last and always a public servant. It is his responsibility at all times to make certain that the public be apprised of the news factually and clearly, with no distortion of facts."

Dick Tufeld of KABC-TV enlarges upon the same theme:

"The main thing in newscasting is to divorce your personal feelings. Often this is difficult, but essential. A newscaster on television must remember that he can shade the meaning of a statement merely by lifting an eyebrow or repeating a quoted line with a sneer.

"After all, we are human. We have personal feelings on items of news interest. We are just as anxious for our candidate to win the Presidency as is the man in the street. But our job is to present the facts as they happen. We are not in the position of critics.

"On the 11 p.m. show, when I interview personalities in person or by phone, I try to put myself in the position of the average guy. I try to ask the questions he would ask if he were in my place. For example, we recently had Mickey Cohen on one of our programs. My feeling was that the average viewer would like to know what a man like Cohen looks like, how he talks, what he says when he knows it isn't going into the public prints.

"The newspapers report the 'action,' we're after the 'reaction' of people in the news. I talked with Autherine Lucy by long-distance—not to ask her what had happened, but to find out her own personal feelings in this racial discrimination business.

"This is called 'feature' material in the news world. And here we must be careful not to editorialize. Commenting on the news and editorializing are different aspects altogether. At the moment I am a newscaster and therefore must be careful of what I say—and just as careful of what I don't say."

On that subject, editorializing, Martyn is probably even more adamant.

"Editorializing should be done only by a qualified newsmen," he states, emphasizing the word qualified.

"The run-of-the-mill newscaster is simply not qualified. To do an acceptable job of editorializing, you have to make an exhaustive study of a particular issue or situation. After you have thoroughly grasped all phases of it, pro and con, after you completely understand all sides of it, then you may feel justified in making editorial comments on the subject."

Martyn takes a pretty dim view of the newscaster who arrives at a conclusion and then foists that conclusion on his listeners without checking, rechecking and analyzing for himself every facet of the issue with an open mind.

To the question of local news, Martyn has obviously given more thought than the average man in the business. Most newscasters at air time weigh the value of the local news versus the national news, and if feasible put the first emphasis on the local happening.

Martyn goes a step further. He defines it.

"Local news must be viewed in the light of how it affects a geographical section," he declares. "And most important is the effect on the people in that area.

"In other words, it should be stressed in relation to its importance affecting the largest group of people in the media area at the time of its related importance."

Which sounds a bit pedantic, except that it indicates a man who has given much sober thought to the job he has undertaken.

As Martyn says, a newsmen is a "public servant," and as long as that view is shared by his co-workers, the safety of the democracy will be well guarded.

The Inside Story of ▲ "TELEVIDEO PICTURE TUBES are the greatest," says former heavyweight boxing champ, Max Baer. In this story you'll see what Max means.

▼ THESE ARE the Automatic Aluminizing Machines. The TV Tubes are aluminized under vacuum and aluminum pellets are vaporized to form a coating of aluminum on the inside.

Through the co-operation of the Televideo Corporation of America here are the complete facts on what has always been a "mystery" and unnecessary worry to TV set owners.

IN MANY WAYS, the picture tube in your TV set is like the weather. That is, everyone talks about it, but few people know or can do anything about it. The first thing that people worry about when "the TV acts up" is "the big tube in the middle."

"What happens when it goes out?" people ask. "How much will it cost me? How do I get it fixed? Where do I get a new one?"

Through the co-operation of Televideo Corporation of America, manufacturer of TV picture tubes and Deflection Yokes, we hope to answer these questions and give you further details on the inside story of your TV picture tube.

The cone-shaped picture tube which we are speaking of is the only "internal" component of the TV set that the viewers see. The top of the cone-glass (in a horizontal position) is the surface on which the actual TV picture appears.

As with most electronic devices, the rest of the "insides" are quite complicated: an exacting-chemical phosphor screen on the inside face of the tube; an aluminized inner coating, and an electron gun within the neck of the tube which includes units about the size of a thimble and tungsten wire finer than human hair. The mechanical details are not important to the layman, but these details are:

The average TV tube lasts from 1½ to four years. (As with all TV parts, this figure varies and depends largely on how it's treated.) Some tubes may last six or seven years; others only one.

The cost of getting a 'replacement' picture tube varies, depending on the size and make of the model set you own. A top-quality picture tube may be had to replace your old one for as low as $19 to as high as $150. The average 17 and 21-inch picture tube costs between $30 and $50.

April 27, 1956

Your TV Tube

How to Fix It

When your TV set goes black (literally and figuratively) where and how do you get it fixed?

It's very possible that you will call your TV serviceman who will then take your old tube out of your set and purchase a Televideo picture tube from a distributor of TV and radio parts, if you live anywhere in the eleven Western states.

One of the pioneers in its field in the West, Televideo is a local company located in downtown Los Angeles. In addition to being a strictly Southern California concern—catering to the needs of this particular area—Televideo also services the other ten Western states through one of the top wholesale TV and radio parts distributors in each area.

If your particular repairman is not one of the 5,000 or more dealers who regularly "replace" with a Televideo picture tube, you can request him to do so—it costs no more. (Only one out of every 128 Televideo tubes installed last year required 'call-back' replacements. According to reports from Televideo's distributors, this is a low in the tube industry.)

The Televideo plant is equipped to manufacture all TV picture tubes, duplicating the original that came in your new set—10 through 27 inches.

Color? "Not yet," officials tell us.

Around Plant

"We manufacture custom-built TV picture tubes on an assembly-line basis," Mr. Ed Braga, Tube Division manager, stated as he showed us around and explained the various stages in the complex operations.

The bulbs are first washed 'hospital clean.' A new picture screen of phosphor is then applied through a cushion of de-ionized water. After the screen is inspected and approved, either a graphite base or aluminum coating is introduced inside the tube, which acts as an electrical conductor and, in the case of aluminum, as a powerful light reflector. The next step is to seal-in the electron gun. A vacuum is then created within the bulb under very high temperature, in order to bake out any moisture or gasses which may still be in the tube.

April 27, 1956

Then, after being bombarded with high voltage, based and 'aged,' they are set aside for 24 hours as an extra precaution that the final test will be accurate. After testing and getting a 'picture' on each tube, they are then ready for packing and shipment to the distributor.

No 'Mystery'

Briefly, then, this is what happens from the time your TV tube gives out until it is replaced with a new one. It's really not the "big mystery" or exorbitant expense which many people have erroneously been led to believe.

Another unique feature of the Televideo plant is the Coil Division. This section produces Deflection Yokes. (Everyone's picture tube requires one.) This coil unit is located around the neck of the tube and deflects the electron beam, causing it to sweep across the face of the tube. Televideo is also manufacturing special yokes for manufacturers of military and commercial radar sets. Mr. Jaime Balugo, chief engineer, stated that Televideo is the only company on the West Coast winding these types of complicated coils.

We hope the next time you look your TV tube straight in the "eye" you'll understand, first, a little more of what's inside its "brain," and, second, that you won't worry yourself into a case of ulcers in the fear that it's going to konk out, spoil your TV fun, and drive the family to the poor house.

It's really not worth fretting over—as long as a company such as Televideo is located close by.

▲ AFTER THE "NECK" of the Tube is broken off, a new "Electron Gun" is sealed on.

MJB offers services to LA

Myron J. Bennett, the KRCA commentator who was barely edged out for the Governorship of Iowa, is now out of politics and in TV—but he's still available—and for free.

INSTEAD OF STICKING to politics, Myron J. Bennett says whatever he pleases on his Channel 4 program. (NBC-Smith photo.)

By
Ted Hilgenstuhler

MYRON J. BENNETT, Channel 4's homespun philosopher, is not in politics anymore and he's darn glad of it.

Although to some it may appear that the personable, middle-aged commentator jumped from the frying pan into the fire when he went from politics into television, Bennett himself says he'll never run for political office again.

Some of our readers may not be too familiar with MJB's political past, so here are the facts. It almost sounds like an unbelievable piece of fiction, but according to Bennett, it really happened:

After being discharged from the U. S. Army Air Force in World War II, the Illinois-born deejay started all over again with a radio show in Des Moines, Iowa. In five short years, he not only had a successful radio program and advertising agency going full force, but he was elected as a member of the Des Moines City Council and was made the Superintendent of Public Safety, a job which entailed being the Commissioner of Police, Fire, Health and Building. At one time he was also a Justice of the Peace.

MJB Speaks

Then—in 1950, as an Independent, he ran for the governorship of Iowa and was "defeated by less than 10,000 votes."

"I had a sound all-around platform," Bennett explains. "I wanted to legalize the sale of liquor in Iowa so that the State could get the revenue instead of the bootleggers. I campaigned mainly on 14 radio stations throughout Iowa.

"I gave the people the facts," Bennett continued. "Not only that, but on Sunday, for example, instead of filling the air with a bunch of political yak-yak, I played records for the people. I think that was smart campaigning. The results proved it. I had no official party backing and yet Bill Beardsley, the Republican, beat me out by only 10,000 votes.

"I wanted the Democratic nomination, but couldn't get the backing of the party because of a run-in I had with a local district attorney, who was appointed as a Federal judge, but who was later removed from office. That proved my point about him, but it didn't help me win the election. Splitting the vote as I did helped the Republicans to win out.

Farm Vote Hurt

"Not being able to get the farm vote also hurt me. I'm not a farmer and didn't understand their problems as well as I should have. But I did get the city vote.

"I also claim that there was dishonesty at the voting polls.

"No — as far as I'm concerned, I'm through with politics. Running for governor was only a part of the problems I had. As the Commissioner of Police in Des Moines I had even more headaches. The little guy could not buy a drink in a public place but all the so-called influential men in town got drunk continuously in their own private clubs. I told them I didn't write the laws — and would have liked to have changed them as I stated in my gubernatorial platform — but I was going to enforce the law as the Commissioner of Police! The big boys in town didn't like that. Naturally, I made a lot of enemies.

Plea to Poulson

"Eventually, I became disgusted with human nature. Why should one person have to take all that guff? That's why it's difficult to get good men to run for public office these days.

"And that's why I left Iowa to come to Hollywood and do a radio show. Later I signed to do a TV show with KRCA, Channel 4.

"Sure, I left a good deal in Iowa. But I'm a lot happier here in Hollywood.

"I still want to contribute my services to the community but I don't want any money for it. With my background, I'm certain I could be of some use to the people of Los Angeles."

How about it, Mayor Poulson?

Exciting Moments on Ford Theater

IT'S THE FAN MAIL which tells the tale. Of all the programs on the air, it is perhaps Screen Gems' Ford Theater series which illustrates this truism as well as if not better than any other.

Ford Theater always has been noted for the motion picture "name" stars who have appeared on its programs. An illustrious few of these have made more than one appearance. When this has happened it has been because of public demand through fan letters. "Won't you please let us have Claudette Colbert again? She was so wonderful in that dramatic airplane accident scene which she played in 'Magic Formula.'"

How can producers resist such pleas? So, viewers have demanded second appearances of such stars as Scott Brady, Irene Dunne, Lucy Marlow, Joan Bennett, Merle Oberon, Laraine Day, Rory Calhoun, Larry Parks, Teresa Wright, Joanne Dru, Edward G. Robinson and Thomas Mitchell.

◀ SCOTT BRADY delivered such a sock performance in "The Blue Ribbon" that he did a repeat in "Tin Can Skipper." And Scott was the man who once said he'd never do TV. (Columbia Pictures photo-Coburn, Jr.)

▼ EDWARD G. ROBINSON was such a hit in his first TV role on Ford Theater, "... And Son," that he was brought back for another dramatic portrayal in "Set of Values." Tommy Cook co-starred with him.

Label Talk

By TERREA LEA

For the past few weeks I have been telling you folks how you can save labels and turn them into premiums by joining Label Bank. Now I would like to tell how clubs and organizations may take advantage of this wonderful plan.

There are many organizations such as Boy and Girl Scout Troops, American Legions, P'nai B'rith, lodges and church groups that already belong to Label Bank. Their members save their labels from such products as Tom Sawyer Potato Chips, Austex Chili Products, Baker Boy, La Victoria and many other quality products. In return they receive premiums that they can either use for the club or turn into cash by holding a raffle or auction. There are many things in the catalogue a club could use such as a 48-cup West Bend coffee maker, Westinghouse radios, card tables and camping equipment. A club may also win cash from Label Bank.

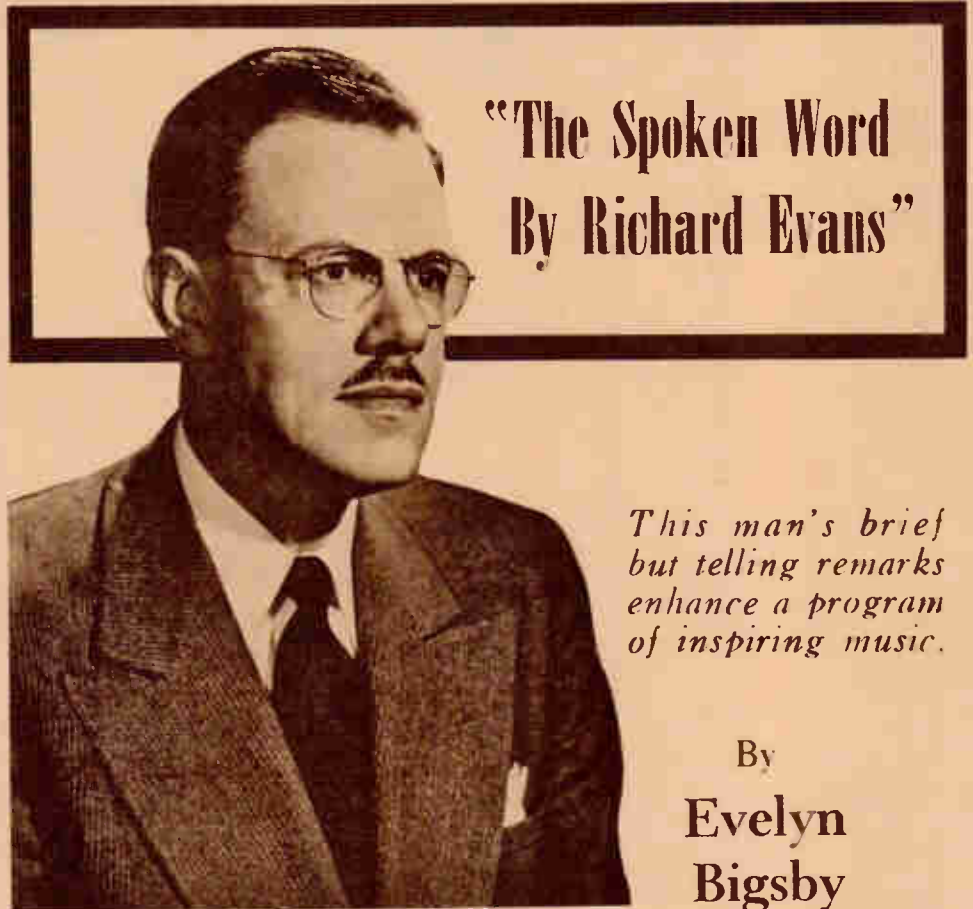

As you may know, each label is worth a certain number of points from 1 to 15. Label Bank awards $250.00 in cash each month to the four clubs having the greatest number of label points on deposit. First award is $100.00 . . . second $75.00 . . . third $50.00 and fourth $25.00. These Premium Points will accumulate for your club from month to month. Winning clubs lose their points and must start over. It's a wonderful way for you to increase your treasury, so why not get started right today? When time permits I will be happy to appear before your members and tell them about Label Bank myself. I'll also sing some songs if you like.

SPUNK PAYS OFF

Because he was so spunky when he had to have a leg amputated 20 years ago following an automobile accident, KABC-ABC-Radio sportscaster Bill Stern got his real break in the industry. Placed on the critical list, Stern had all but given up when a radio executive who had fired him the year before came to visit him, admired his courage, and offered him another announcing job. That provided the spark which started Bill on the road back, and he's been out in front as a top sportscaster ever since.

"The Spoken Word By Richard Evans"

This man's brief but telling remarks enhance a program of inspiring music.

By
Biggsby

I LISTEN to you on Sunday morning!" exclaimed Harry S. Truman when he met Richard Evans in Salt Lake City a few years ago. To all those who tune in the Tabernacle Choir, "the spoken word by Richard Evans" is a rewarding though brief segment of this inspirational program. Nicholas Murray Butler always used to listen, joining the throng of lawyers, doctors, supreme court justices preferring the magnificent music of the choir and organ, supplemented by Mr. Evans' crisp remarks.

When he was recently in Los Angeles to assist at the dedication of the $6,000,000 Mormon temple, Evans confessed to TV-Radio Life, "I play my words by ear. I try to pick a timely topic, so can't prepare too far in advance. Once in awhile I hit on a theme and the response is so fine I follow through again." Evans writes all his own copy, but the reason it comes out so naturally is that he talks it first into his dictaphone and then edits from his "spoken words."

Lightly he described his method of selecting a topic as "pressure and desperation," but actually it would seem that he is constantly absorbing ideas for his remarks and picks from this storehouse what best seems to fit the particular Sunday for which he is preparing. "I talk off ten minutes of material," he explained, "and try to cut to two and a half minutes.

The more I throw in the waste basket, the better. The polishing process is always painful."

Richard Evans, one of the twelve top men in the Mormon Church, feels that what he says on the air rings true. "What people get is sincerity. We urgently believe the things we say," he stated. Last of nine children, young Richard grew up in a home without a father. He saw his widowed mother cope with problems of life "in a prayerful way" and the imprint of this has never left him. Now a father of four sons, Evans is very proud of his eldest, a twenty-one-year-old now in Wales as a representative of the Church of Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Evans "grew up" as a commercial announcer at KSL, still has connections with the station, holds an interest in it, is on its board of directors. "Gradually the church has taken over more and more of my time," he admitted. He is much in demand as a speaker, both in the church and at civic affairs. Last January he was speaker for the annual meeting of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

Last summer he headed the successful European tour undertaken by the Tabernacle Choir. Response was tremendous—in London's Albert Hall, which seats between six and seven thousand, people were turned away.

Evans, who also produces the Sunday program, has missed the broadcast only six times in 27 years.

Seen On The TV Scene

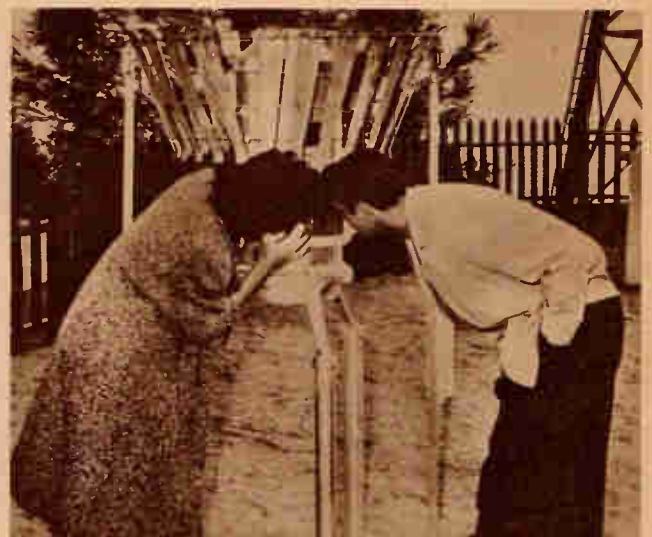

"THE TRANSMISSION TOWERS, which can be seen from below on a clear day, are tall and beautiful things."

(Editor's Note:) To find out exactly how their images ride over the air waves and onto screens of thousands of TV homes, two young performers recently visited Mt. Wilson. You'll recognize them as Anne Whitfield of One Man's Family and Cheyenne and Ron McNeil whom you've seen on Strictly Informal, Dragnet and the Orrin Tucker Show. The accompanying pictures were taken nineteen miles from Los Angeles, on top the mountain (5218 feet) where a nice building being readied for John Poole's KBIG (Channel 22) brings the transmitter count to 8.

"'NO ADMISSION TO THE PUBLIC' signs were everywhere. A kindly engineer explained that much high voltage, dangerous equipment make ban necessary."

"WE STOPPED AT the U. S. Weather Station where the grounds have several odd looking gadgets. It was fun poking around and peering into them."

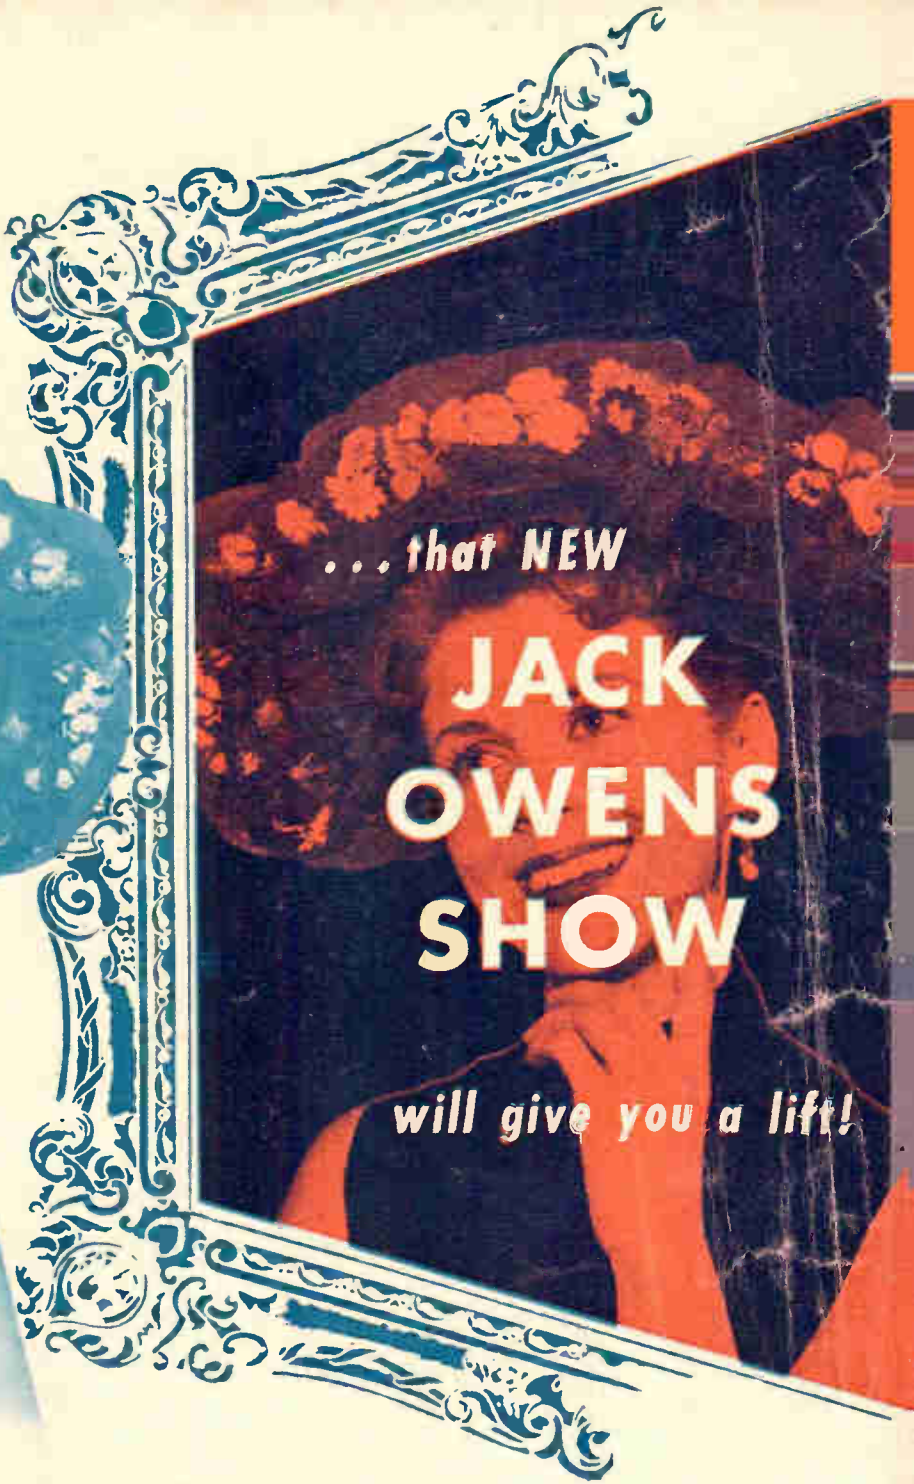

"AT KTLA, across the street from the Weather Station, Engineer Will Jewel called his boss, Klaus Landsberg, who gave us permission to tour Channel 5's transmitter."

"GIVEN THE CHANCE to listen in on the microwave cuing transmitter, we heard a director give instructions to crew. Studio and 'mountain' are in constant contact."
