The Cinderella of Radio

Cinderella Sue Raney of the Jack Carson radio show is sweet and sixteen, too. Frankie Laine was her Prince Charming. And Bing is her King.

CINDERELLA SUE, they call her. And for good reasons. Her real name is Sue Clausen. Radio fans from coast to coast know her as Sue Raney, the popular vocalist on Jack Carson's CBS-Radio program.

Sweet Sue is just that. And sweet 16, too. Although her well-trained voice may sound more mature, that's her right age. Sweet 16.

In person, away from the mike, there are some moments when she acts and talks like a teen-ager; at other moments she has the poise, perception and maturity of a grown-up.

First—listen to her story. In Sue's case, the press agent's tag of the "Cinderella of Radio" is well-deserved.

In her own high-pitched, gleeful words:

"Gee, sometimes I have to pinch myself. It seems sort of impossible that I'm actually standing in front of Mr. Carson at the CBS studio in Columbia Square."

"In some ways, I'm just completing an ambition that my folks started a long time ago. I was born in Wichita, Kansas," she began. (At this point, the vocal, even the facial expressions of a teen-ager vanish, and she adjusts herself to the business-like attitude of a professional giving out the facts, figures and dates of a short-lived, but eventful life.)

"My parents started out for California, but somehow never made it. They only got as far as Albuquerque."

That's where Sue went to school and even started her own radio show at the age of 12.

Three years ago, she and her mother, Mildred, came to Hollywood "just to see what it was like. It may not sound real," Sue said, "but one day we were standing in line for a radio show when a lady behind us started to chat pleasantly and said she was a song writer. My mother said I was a singer. A little later, I had my first audition—believe it or not—in a corner of the main building at Columbia Square—the same place where I do the Carson show now."

Not too much happened after that first unusual audition, except that Sue was able to sing for a Mrs. Frank Fench—who happens to be Frankie Laine's mother-in-law.

Her Prince Charming

Mrs. Fench advised Sue to go back to Albuquerque and "gain more experience." Three years later, it was Frankie Laine himself who proved to be the Prince Charming in Cinderella Sue's life. He heard and liked Sue's voice and recommended her to Mitch Miller of Columbia Records. Miller, in turn, suggested to CBS radio that Sue might be just the girl they were looking for on the Jack Carson radio show.

On Thanksgiving Day, 1955 (a day that Sue will always be thankful for), she was called in to audition on the Carson show. Everyone liked her version of "Embraceable You," even an accomplished musician such as orchestra leader Roy Chamberlain: "She knocked me over. She's got a natural way of phrasing. Her voice is in Doris Day's range. With time and experience she could turn out to be a truly great singer."

Sue's story isn't all a Hollywood fairy tale, however. With success has come the burdening reality of obligation. Because Sue's family has always been "so close," (Mr. and Mrs. Clausen have three other children, Gary, 17, Carol, 19, and Candy, 8 months old) her father decided to leave his business in Albuquerque and moved his entire family to California.

As a temporary "breadwinner," it's a big responsibility for young Sue to shoulder. However, the whole Clausen family seem to be much happier for it.

Sue herself has two big ambitions: to appear at Las Vegas and become a "real good actress."

On the lighter side, attending the Hollywood Professional School in between rehearsals and shows, she says she "doesn't have time for boys."

Her biggest thrill since coming to Hollywood was meeting Gary Crosby. Not only because Gary himself is very nice, but that "was the closest I've been to my real idol—Bing Crosby."

(Yes, sweet Sue is still 16. And El Bingo is still the King.)

SUE RANEY, 16-year-old featured singer on CBS Radio's Jack Carson Show thinks her "boss-man" Jack Carson is just about the "greatest."

BILL BRENNAN, producer of CBS Radio's Jack Carson Show, shows young Sue how to use her hands while singing. She has the ability to be a truly great singer; she's getting the experience now from the best men in the business. (CBS-Holmes photos.)

The FORT KNOX of the Welk Band

The men in the Lawrence Welk organization aren't just a bunch of guys playing sweet music. They're also smart businessmen — as the Champagne Club concretely proves.

By Jack Holland

▲ IN KEEPING the Champagne Club going for the men in the KABC-TV Welk band, Myron has plenty of book work to do. He is the acting president, treasurer, general manager.

◀ LAWRENCE gets a look at the Club's records which Myron keeps. The men invest so much money each week in stocks—and have so far realized a nice return. It's a rare venture in the band business.

MOST MUSICIANS are well aware of the vicissitudes of the band business. But few of them do much about those vague tomorrows.

However, Myron Floren, Lawrence Welk's ace accordionist, is a man of action. Because he felt the men in the KABC-TV band should have some security, he dreamed up a little idea called The Champagne Club. Lawrence and the rest of the musicians in the Welk clan are members.

The Plan

The plan began as a joint effort between Myron and Clarence Willard, who is no longer with the Welk organization. They went to Lawrence with their plan and he gave his consent. Their idea was simply this: to get each of the men in the band to invest $5 to $20 a week with the total to be invested in stocks. Bob Higgins, a former musician now with the Daniel Reeves brokerage company, still handles the money the Welkmen give him and invests it as he sees fit in Investment Trust of Boston. In the past year, about $8000 has been invested with the stocks now worth approximately $12,000.

Two Clubs

"We now have two clubs," Myron explained to me. "One is the original 'A' Club. There are 17 members in that one. Recently, we began the 'B' Club, which was inaugurated to take care of new members of the band who wanted to join the plan. It would have cost the new men about $400 to get into the 'A' Club because of the amount of money already invested, so we all voted to originate the 'B' outfit which would only cost the usual $5 a week to join. There are 21 members in that group, but some of the boys in the 'A' Club also bought into the 'B' one. Ralph Portner, for instance, who emcees our KABC radio show, belongs to both.

"In the beginning, each of us invested $50 in the club, which gave us about $1000 as a starter. We were lucky the first year since the market went up a lot.

"Originally, Clarence Willard would do the collecting each week, but when he left, the job seemed to fall to me. I have no trouble getting the money from the boys. They usually hand it to me the very day it's due. And they all seem very happy with the arrangement. We do have a charter, by-laws, and officers, but I'm not sure what all the details of the organization are. I guess I'm president. At least, I sign my name on the Champagne Club checks, with 'Pres.' under my signature.

"Once a year we all get together, with our wives, for a party at which Bob Higgins gives us the report. It's a good deal of fun—especially when we find we have made some decided profit on our investment.

"I keep all the records of the amount of money given me and the investments made. It's quite a job, but it has been very interesting since I'm learning a good deal about the stock market now. I feel like something of an authority. I'm presently preparing a graph to show how much our stock is worth currently and how much each man has in it.

"The club is run entirely by the men, however, with Lawrence's being just a member like anyone else."

The Welk organization recently welcomed two new men into the fold—Buddy Merrill, guitarist, who is only 19, and Larry Dean, singer. Buddy hasn't joined the club yet because of his age, so Lawrence has a trust fund started for him. Larry should be a member by the time you read this.

"When it comes to the types of investments to make," Myron concluded, "we leave all such decisions up to Bob Higgins. Being a musician himself he's going to see that we're well taken care of.

Gamble?

"Some people may consider the stock market a bit of a gamble for a group of men, but we look upon it as a savings and as a business. Anyone can sell out when he wants to—at current market prices—but few have left the club. Those who have managed to come out with a profit.

"We're all reading the stock market reports now regularly," Myron added, laughing. "They've replaced horse racing as our main interest."

As far as can be checked, the Welk group is the only organization of musicians to begin such an investment for tomorrow. It's a deal that not only ties the men together with a mutual interest but also provides them with the security necessary to all. Their music makes money for their future.

Good News

Best TV news of the week is the announcement that See It Now returns to a regular monthly schedule starting October 7. A lot of great viewing went down the drain because audiences couldn't remember "See's" irregular schedule during the current season.

Musical Father of the Year

Lawrence Welk, on our cover this week, has been sweeping the nation the past few months with his popularity. This week, however, he received one honor which he is particularly proud of.

On Thursday he flew to New York to accept the award at the Waldorf Astoria as the "Musical Father of the Year." He was chosen for the honor by the highly regarded National Fathers Day Committee.

ARLENE FRANCIS of NBC-KRCA's Home show not only presented the "Lulu" awards of the Los Angeles Advertising Women last week, but the attractive TV star also received an honorary "Lulu" herself. Looking on is Helen Murray Hall, Manager of Advertising and Promotion for NBC Hollywood, and the LAAW chairman of the Frances Holmes Achievement Awards.

Ina Ray Back

Ina Ray Hutton, the blonde bombshell who was such a great success locally for so many years, is coming back to TV. The format of her show will be essentially the same, featuring all girls, particularly her All-Girl Orchestra.

Starting date: July 4, on NBC-TV, Channel 4, from 10:00 to 10:30, following This Is Your Life.

A great break for Ina, who has been out of the picture, so to speak, for 10 these many months. We have a hunch she'll click nationally as she did locally.

Petticoat Fever

Alice Lon's fan mail is loaded with queries about her pretty petticoats, which peek beneath her dance frock whenever she dances with Welk. Alice's mother has been making these fluffy petticoats for her daughter but since so much interest has been created in them the lovely Lon is thinking of marketing them.

Truman Virus

Margaret Truman had to withdraw from the George Gobel Show (Saturday, June 2) and Matinee (Friday, June 8) due to a virus infection.

Second Glances (Critical Comment)

View With Alarm

Robert Montgomery's presentation of "All Expenses Paid" was one of the saddest bits of nothing ever televised on his series. Weekly dramatic shows cannot be expected to turn out top teledramas consistently, but when a flimsy, obvious story line is stretched into an hour-long boring teleplay viewers have a right to cast critical glances. How "All Expenses Paid" ever passed the story editor is somewhat of a mystery.

Ear, Eye Inspire the Pen

J. G., Los Angeles

I will pay $100 to anyone who can prove he has seen a TV program (of at least 30 minutes' duration) on which nobody used the word "wonderful" or the expression "as a matter of fact." Commercials included, but no news commentators, weather reports or cartoons. Furnish date, time and channel and I'll see that they give the public what they expect.

TV-Radio Life assumes this is a tongue-in-cheek offer, or else J. G. is as rich as Croesus.

Mrs. D. H., Hermosa Beach

I feel that it's time for the television stations to consider more carefully the advertising they accept. Every station should investigate the products and firms they advertise for, and they should be able to guarantee to their viewers that they won't be misled.

I particularly dislike most of the commercials presented by used car dealers. They are filled with overstatements, and it seems to me that they only spend their time out doing each other instead of giving good service. If a station would guarantee this type of advertising, their viewers would be much more inclined to listen to it. It would be better for all concerned.

I want to be able to trust TV commercials.

B. K., West Covina

The Johnny Otis show is great. Too bad they're on only for a half hour. George Putnam is a real good reporter and a wonderful person.

Johnny presents a full hour show beginning this week.

Mrs. P., Santa Ana

it was the best show he has ever done.

Your gripe about scheduling of good fare in the same times is one of the oldest and most frequently voiced. Fundamentally it is a problem of just so much prime time for which the demand is enormous. Figure out a way to make a 34-hour day and the dilemma might be solved or lightened.

Evelyn Engelhardt, 10673 Sherman Place, Sun Valley

There has been a fan club started for Miss Michaels, the fashion coordinator on the Gene Norman Teen-Age show. Anyone wishing to be a member write me.

Mark, San Diego

In response to the Medic situation, I would like to say that just because one denomination does not want its members to see the episode on Caesarian section, it does not seem right that the rest of us should miss this episode which is another chapter in the beautiful story of birth. When Lucille Ball was expecting, CBS very well handled the situation and I'm sure that NBC could very well handle Medic without being offensive to anyone or any religion.

By now you probably know that without much advance notice (too late for our logs) NBC decided to screen an edited version of the disputed telefilm. There has been very little comment on the showing.

Cathy Coulson, Anaheim

If W.F.C. of Ontario doesn't get to see the Shirley Temple picture on TV, I suggest a trip to Disneyland here in Anaheim. The reason for this suggestion is that the Show Business store at Disneyland has the costume Shirley Temple wore in one of her very first pictures, "Wee Willy Winkie."

Mrs. F. A. F.

Now watching Matinee Theater, Channel 4. Never miss one. Why is it not on an ARB rating? Should be there.

We presume you mean, why isn't the program in the top 25 list which we print. Probably because there isn't the audience at that time of day as there is later. In April, Matinee Theater polled a 5.2 average.

Lifelines

BY EVELYN BIGSBY

DICK WHITTINGHILL AND ALL his many friends are really tickled over the terrific part he landed in last week's Dragnet, and Lifeline takes special pride in the deal because she had a part in bringing about the break. At least that's what Dick claims.

IT SEEMS THAT WHEN I DID AN intimate-type story on Jack Webb a while back, one of the details of Jack's routine disclosed was that he is a regular listener to Whittinghill's KMPC program. Dick himself didn't know this until he read my story. Then, pleased as punch, he wired Webb to express appreciation. Shortly after, they met at Palm Springs and were mutually impressed. Jack saw possibilities of casting Dick in a Dragnet film and sure enough, called him a month or two ago to cinch the promise. The response to Whittinghill's acting has been so favorable that it would be no surprise to see him make a decided and rapid ascent in this direction. I'm proud to have had just a small part in his fresh success.

THE FACT THAT A RALPH EDWARDS luncheon in the American Room was interrupted by a visitor one day last week was of extra significance in light of the controversy over Rev. Tanimoto's appearance a year ago on This Is Your Life. The visitor was the mayor (or governor) of Hiroshima, who came to tell Ralph how much he and his people appreciated Edwards's interest.

THE LUNCHEON WAS FOR EAMONN ANDREWS, one of England's top TV personalities. In London, where What's My Line? is ace high, Andrews is the equivalent of our John Daly. He also carries on multitudinous TV duties elsewhere on BBC, not the least of which is emceeing the British version of This Is Your Life. This is why Ralph Edwards hosted the luncheon in Eamonn's honor.

ODDLY ENOUGH, EAMONN, also a reporter and fight announcer, was tricked into being subject for Edwards's first This Is Your Life telecast in England. Athlete Stanley Matthews was originally scheduled for the big reminiscent treatment, unknowingly, of course, but a London newspaper spilled the beans 36 hours before the show was to go on the air.

IN THE REMAINING DAY AND A HALF before airtime, Ralph's staff reconstructed Eamonn's life, brought his mother in by plane from Dublin, and contrived to take the TV performer so by surprise that all he could exclaim when he realized it was his life to be done was a big "Blimey!"

EAMONN TOOK OVER HIS EMCEE chores the following week. He realizes that This Is Your Life is a sentimental program and insists that the British, despite protests and opinions to the contrary, are extremely sentimental people. The show now rates about third or fourth in BBC popularity.

NATURALLY, EAMONN WAS INTERESTED in witnessing a Hollywood version of the program. He was also intrigued with our version of What's My Line? on which he was a guest. "But your panel is much more social than ours," he declared. "There is much more competition between our members. Each panelist tries to out-guess and outsmart the others."

BANDSTAND REVUE POLL

The following list was compiled by KTLA from a survey of disc jockeys and record sales and were presented as the "top twenty-five" songs on Bandstand Revue, 9 p.m., Sunday, May 27, by regulars Leighton Noble and his band, Anita Gordon, the McDonald Sisters, the Mercer Brothers, Rush Adams, Frances Irvin and top recording artists.

SIXTH ANNIVERSARY

Peter Potter celebrated the sixth anniversary of his Juke Box Jury show last week. Potter, one of the first disc jockeys to enter television, started "Jury" in 1950 over station KNXT. He is currently seen on KRCA, Channel 4, every Friday at 10:00 p.m.

During the past six years Potter estimates he has had over 2,000 different celebrities on the "Jury" show. This list includes almost every name personality in show business plus many producers and directors in the motion picture and record business. When he started "Jury," Potter had a weekly six-seat panel which has since been whittled to four to be more effective.

HOLLAND'S TUNNEL

DUG BY JACK HOLLAND

Getting a Few Things Off the Chest: I like KHJ's news wheel but if I hear that boring and dull Kijafa commercial with that bird once more I'll be tempted never to listen to the show again. Can't the agency or whoever handles the spot get a new blurb? That one is the utmost in inane and unimaginative commercials... Cheers to Gil Stratton and Tom Harmon for their aggressive stand on the asinine fines and punishment handed to the Bruins by the PCC. Even those who haven't liked UCLA have resented these high-handed, dictatorial tactics, especially since it's common knowledge that the Bruins' case is no different from that of other universities. The PCC, a group made up of men who should be teaching kindergarten, have created a lot of publicity for themselves but not the kind they expected. As Gil suggested, if you feel this is unfair punishment, write to Victor Schmidt at the General Petroleum Building in Los Angeles. And let's hope that other sportscasters on TV and radio light into those PCC characters the way Tom and Gil have done!

I hope you caught Roddy McDowall and Kim Stanley's recent performance in "Days of Our Youth." Here were two tremendous jobs. Roddy McDowall again proved what a sensitive and mature actor he is. It was one of the finest bits of acting ever seen on TV — and only makes one wonder all over again why it is that Hollywood refuses to give full recognition to this kid's talents. Why does he have to stay in New York to be given the opportunities he so richly deserves?

On the night following the McDowall-Stanley show, Studio One delivered a complete nothing, as far as this tunnel is concerned. A thing called "Star-Spangled Soldier" was supposed to be hilarious but wound up being only embarrassing. Eddie Mayehoff couldn't decide whether to play Eddie Mayehoff or Mister Magoo—and it wasn't long before no one cared. This "comedy" was like tasting flat champagne.

Note to Lou Cook (and we like your program) and to Mel Baldwin and other deejays who want something different: Murray Arnold has a new album out called "Overheard in a Cocktail Lounge" that is really smooth listening—and also interesting music. It's on the American label and is a honey. Murray, incidentally, is doing a series of singing commercials at Mark Stevens Company with Casey Adams—all for Heinz Pork and Beans.

From the Mail Bag: When this tunnel commented on the Patti Page show recently at the Cocoanut Grove, it also referred to the loud blasting of the Russ Morgan orchestra. A reply has come in which states: "I would like you to know that Russ Morgan and his orchestra were playing Miss Page's own arrangements, and during the show, were conducted by Miss Page's own arranger-conductor. This, obviously was the way she wished her music to be presented, and at no time did she object to the rendition." The letter then answered my comment about the dull fare anticipated for summer shows with: "May I please advise you that CBS will present a new show entitled The Russ Morgan Show with Helen O'Connell as vocalist." This begins July 7, 9:30 to 10:00 p.m. Shirley Gray, secretary to Russ Morgan, signed the letter.

Arlene Francis was on top of the Federal Building in Los Angeles at 5 a.m.—getting ready for one of her NBC Home shows. This is the iron woman of TV, a truly remarkable and fabulous personality. And certainly one of the most gracious and charming women you could ever want to meet. How she does so much (she's up at 3:30 a.m. to start work) without collapsing is amazing. I asked her if she ever got temperamental and made demands and she just laughed and said, "Oh yes, every once in a while I make loud noises, but everyone just grins at me and says, 'Sure,' and before I know what has happened I'm doing what I said I wouldn't do. Nobody takes me seriously." This Miss Francis is a real star. Ask any of her gang what they think of her and they'll give you some of the biggest raves you've ever heard!

"A Bell for Adano" is the story of U.S. Army Major Victor Joppolo, assigned during World War II to the reconstruction of the badly bombed seacoast town of Adano in Sicily, after the Allies had regained it. As a sort of unofficial mayor, he moves into the town hall and learns, first of all, that although the food and water supply had been cut off, the townspeople are most despondent over the loss of the town hall and learns, first of all, Mussolini had made into rifle barrels.

With the help of the town priest and an assortment of would-be assistants among the local fishing gentry, Joppolo soon gets the mule carts rolling into town again with food and water, wins the trust of the townspeople and the affections of Tina, the leading fisherman's daughter. But when the Division General passes through Adano and his jeep is obstructed by a mule cart, he has it turned over, the mule shot, and the carts banned again from the town, to the dismay and hunger of the people.

Joppolo, faced with problems more human than military, countermands the general's orders and the carts roll again. But Joppolo's associate, Captain Purvis, fearful that he might also be blamed if the General finds out, writes a report revealing Joppolo's insubordination. The Major's friends do their best to hide the report and delay its forwarding, but finally it goes to the General's headquarters.

Meanwhile, Joppolo, now in love with Tina, contacts the Navy about clearing the waters of mines for Adano's fishing fleet, and learns from the Navy that he may also be able to get a bell for Adano.

The bell arrives at the same time as does Joppolo's reprimand from the General with orders for his immediate transfer—just as the townspeople present him with a surprise portrait of himself in gratitude for making the town of Adano happy again. Joppolo packs, says goodbye to Tina, and as the bell begins ringing and ringing in the tower, to the delight of the crowd, he proudly stops to listen to his bell, then leaves Adano.

DAVID ROSE orchestrated and conducts the musical score which was written by ARTHUR SCHWARTZ and HOWARD DIETZ. SCHWARTZ also produces the program.

CIG CONFLICT

Unlike most TV personalities, Ed Reimers found out this week that sometimes it does not pay to have too many sponsors.

All KTTV fans are familiar with Ed—as are the millions of viewers who have watched him do commercials on network programs.

One of Ed's latest and best assignments was as Edgar Bergen's "George Fenneman" on the highly rated Do You Trust Your Wife? program. Unfortunately for the handsome announcer, L and M cigarettes decided to pick up part of the tab for the program.

Ordinarily this would have been good news for all concerned—except unlucky Ed. He is already doing the Camel commercials on the Phil Silvers show, Crusader, and during the Yankee ball games in New York.

Because of the conflict of cigarettes—Ed will no longer be seen on Do You Trust Your Wife? after June 1.

Pick of the Pix

By Aubrey Dahl

Oh, whatever happened to the good old fifth run movies on TV I used to have so much fun with? Sometimes I get so tired of these good old first runs, I could eat the Pantages Theatre . . . although, of course, I'd spit out the orchestra pit.

"The Champion." (13) June 5, 8:30. 1949. Channel 13 has scored another coup with this picture, one of the best fight stories ever filmed.

Adapted from the Ring Lardner opus about a heel who becomes champ, the movie adds a few necessary developments but never gives a good and clear reason why the fighter is the no-good he is. Kirk Douglas plays the pug in convincing fashion as he struggles his way up from obscurity as an amateurish prelim boy to a position where he is able to indulge more fully his passion for women and the double cross, while Ruth Roman, looking very beautiful, is his true love and Marilyn Maxwell, looking very blonde, plays the representative of tinselled glamour. Others in the cast include Arthur Kennedy as the bum's lame brother and Paul Stewart as his manager, both of whom do excellent jobs.

"Sahara." (11) June 3, 6:00. 1943. A war-adventure movie in the fine tradition of "Gunga Din," and "The Lost Patrol," "Sahara" is the story of how an American tank, commanded by Humphrey Bogart, makes a perilous journey across the North African desert to join the main force after being cut off during a major battle. Along the way, the small force picks up an Italian soldier, J. Carroll Naish, a French soldier, Rex Ingram, and a Nazi soldier, Kurt Kruger. These, along with Americans Lloyd Bridges and Dan Duryea, are finally forced to hole up in an abandoned fort. They are without water and ready to give up when they discover a small drip of water in an underground cave. They accumulate a few helmetfuls and are about to move on when they are attacked by a large contingent of Germans, also without water. How they are able to outwit the Nazis with a dramatic ruse and how Bogart deals with the personality and ideological clashes within his own small party make for one of the most exciting pictures of the war.

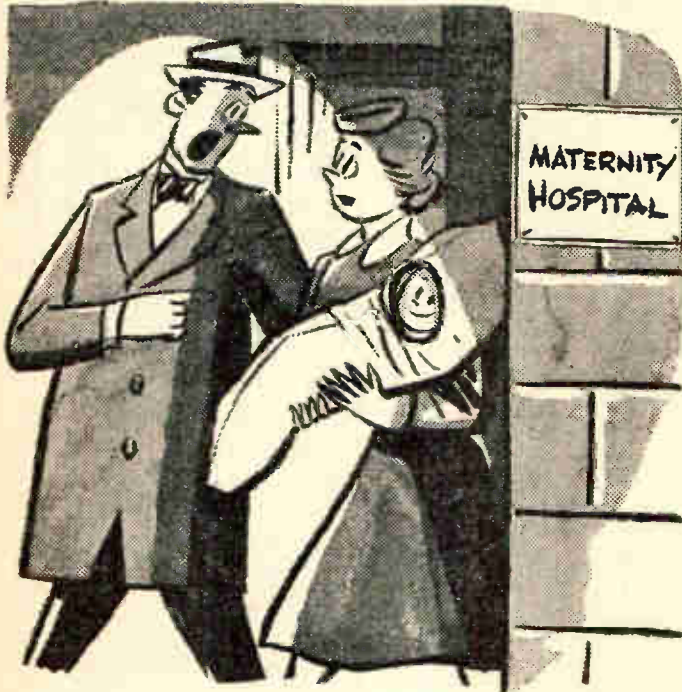

"Tight Little Island" (7) June 3, 7:30. 1949. This touching tragedy outlines the rigors undergone by the whole populace of a small Scottish island when they are faced with a fearsome calamity . . . there is no more scotch left on the island. Doves of men take to their beds in sickness and sorrow and the women can do nothing but weep. Then a ship carrying fifty thousand gallons of the elixir runs aground just off the coast and the citizenry bands together to save it. They are balked in their attempts, however, by a bumbling commander of the Home Guard, Basil Radford, who means to save the cargo for the government.

"House of Seven Gables." (5) June 3, 7:30. 1940. Adapted from a "classic" by Nathaniel Hawthorne, this one tells the tale of the Pyncheon family and the curse it labors under. The thing takes effect when bad brother George Sanders charges good brother Vincent Price with the murder of their father and Vince goes to jail for a long time while his fiancée, Margaret Lindsay, waits for him. He finally gets out, the lovers are reunited and George gets his.

"Pennies From Heaven." (11) June 5, 7:30. 1936. This early Bing Crosby comedy begins with a condemned man going to the electric chair. He pauses en route to tell Bing what a good singer he is and to ask him to look after his little girl, Edith Fellows. This Bing does, even to romancing a social worker, Madge Evans, and convincing bankers to help him finance a dine and dance joint. Well, Crosby always said he'd appear on TV only on film.

"Pennies from Heaven." (11) Yes, but where did it come from in the cases of Stanford, S.C., Cal, Oregon and Helwit U.?

of Television and Radio, has tried to sell its classical music program to potential sponsors. However, the sponsors wouldn't bite and the station has decided to experiment with western, pop and jazz offerings. KPLA initiates their new programming this week throughout their Monday through Saturday broadcasts. The new format may have more appeal to sponsors, but will the long-hairs like it?

KWIZ Safety Minded

In an unprecedented drive on auto accidents, radio station KWIZ in Santa Ana has gained the cooperation of ambulance services throughout the area in reporting accidents to the station.

When an ambulance company gets the call to roll to an accident the dispatcher calls KWIZ and the "beeped" conversation goes on the air. After the ambulance has delivered the victims to the hospital the drivers call and give a report on the names, addresses and extent of injuries to the people involved. A brief description of the accident scene is given and then a tag hitting at safety on the highways is added to the report.

All programs are interrupted for these announcements no matter what is going on. The on-the-spot reports of these accidents seem to make drivers conscious of danger especially if they hear the report while driving in their cars.

Fred Allen Tribute

NBC's Biographies in Sound presents a tribute to the late Fred Allen (Tuesday, May 29, 9:05 p.m.). The program will be narrated by Allen's long-time friend, Jack Haley.

Cardinal Spellman, Pat Weaver, Herman Wouk, Goodman Ace, Mort Green, George Foster, John Crosby, Jack Benny, Jimmy Durante and Tallulah Bankhead are but a few of the voices to be heard on this award-winning program.

Contest

KBIG is sponsoring a "Miss Catalina" beauty contest. Girls from 18 to 28, married or single, living in Southern California, are eligible to compete for prizes headed by a one week all-expense vacation for two at Acapulco, Mexico. Semi-finalists compete at Hollywood Moulin Rouge restaurant Monday evening, June 11, and finalists at Avalon Casino Theater, Saturday, June 23. Winner is eligible for "Miss California" contest. Entry blanks may be obtained by writing to KBIG, 6520 Sunset Blvd., Hollywood 28—or calling MO 3-3206.

Give them a faith to live by

Worship with them this week

When you worship with the children every week, they see you... the biggest, smartest, most important people in their world, asking God for help, thanking Him for blessings.

Soon it becomes clear... here they can always find the strength they need, always find the happiness they want.

A TV-Radio Life exclusive:

Startling Facts Behind the UCLA Ruling and the Current PCC Football Probe and How It Will Affect Television

By Dick Tufeld

"Gee, imagine what Coach Sanders thinks of me now."

George Stephenson, a clerk at the county recorder's office in San Diego, was talking. George Stephenson, who had wittingly or unwittingly unleashed the biggest bombshell ever exploded over Pacific Coast Conference football. He had ignited the fuse a few weeks ago when, in answer to questions put by Oakland Tribune reporter Ed Schoenfelt, Stephenson admitted that as a football player at UCLA he had received "under-the-table" money—$40 a month in excess to that allowed by Conference code.

Dick Tufeld

At Westwood, they tried to ignore Stephenson's startling charge. UCLA wouldn't talk about it or consent to taped interviews.

"Much ado about nothing" chronicled the L. A. Times sports pages. But Westwood knew better. Coming on the heels of the University of Washington's "slush fund" revelations, UCLA knew the powder keg had been ignited.

Explosions followed quickly. Washington was fined $52,000 and banned from Rose Bowl competition for two years. UCLA was assessed $93,000, made ineligible for the next three Rose Bowl games, and (the crushing blow) all Bruin athletes were deprived of a year's eligibility unless they could prove their innocence in financial matters. Over this last point, students became incensed and sports writers outraged. This, however, was what UCLA had hoped would happen, and had deliberately sought to achieve.

All Schools Guilty?

TV-Radio Life readers should recall the Bruin athletic faculty representative, Dr. Joseph Kaplan, had amazed the entire Conference meeting at Vancouver by suggesting that all members of UCLA's freshman and varsity football teams be declared ineligible "forever."

Dr. Kaplan had a plot and purpose. Westwood students could hardly believe that their own faculty representative had instigated the eligibility ruling.

The move by Dr. Kaplan, however, was a master stroke and served its purpose well. The UCLA logic was:

All schools are guilty of recruiting and athletic code violations; not just in the PCC, but throughout the country. UCLA and Washington are no more guilty than California or Stanford or Oregon or, believe it or not, Idaho. Payments to athletes over the allowable $75 is common practice and common knowledge.

The feeling in Westwood: "Why should UCLA take the blame when everyone else is just as guilty?" Such are the reasons behind the Kaplan proposal, the year's eligibility loss by Bruin athletes and the anguished cries by Westwood alumni groups.

Angered by the hypocrisy of other schools in punishing UCLA for their own crimes, the Bruin Bench alumni group decided to open up their books and prove that every school in the conference shares Bruin guilt.

Thus, the commissioner's office would be forced by UCLA strategy to investigate ALL conference members: USC, California, Stanford and all others.

That the Bruin scheme worked is a matter of record. I hope the investigations point up the real villain: not the schools, not the youngsters, not even the overzealous alumni groups, but the outdated rules. So inoperable are these rules that they decree athletes live on less money than is required for a normal standard of living.

With a complete survey undoubtedly forthcoming, and the obvious conclusion that schools are guilty, I presume that the punitive action against UCLA will be, to some extent, properly rescinded, and the youngsters given back their eligibility.

But even more important, these archaic PCC rules will have to be discarded. And if the commissioner's office still refuses to accept and deal with fact, it might well mean the end of the conference. The Southern schools (SC, UCLA, California and Stanford) have long felt the northern institutions represented a weakness in the conference, and it is well within the realm of possibility that SC and UCLA would seize the opportunity to bolt the PCC.

George Stephenson, in his concern over what Red Sanders thinks about him, may have a surprise coming. A realistic re-evaluation of the athletic code, and an end to conference hypocrisy could well be the end result. In which case, we can just imagine how the Bruin mentor would feel.

What About TV?

What about the effect of these rulings on television? A negative decision from the conference fathers could spell disaster for local TV football viewers. As matters now stand, UCLA and Washington are both prohibited from NCAA televised events. However, due to present TV commitments this ruling has been waived for 1956 and the scheduled SC-UCLA game, will be televised.

But unless the penalty ruling is revised, 1957 and 1958 will find UCLA blanked off our TV screens. What is more, further investigations of PCC schools could take all conference institutions off the TV screens for a period of time. However, don't count on this last point, for if the situation ever becomes that acute I doubt if the PCC will even exist in its present form.

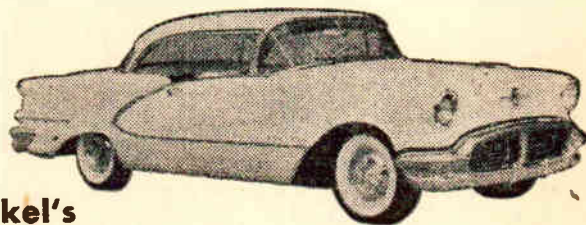

(Dick Tufeld conducts the highest rated local sports show on television, "Sports Page," every Wednesday at approximately 7:45 p.m., immediately following the "Wednesday Night Fights" over KABC-TV, Channel 7. Tufeld also reports sports news Monday through Friday at 11 p.m. on the same station.)

CLOSE-UP OF A TOP

TV Pitch Girl

She gets to wear pretty clothes and demonstrates handsome cars, but here are some details not evident on TV.

By Evelyn Bigsby

ONE OF THE questions most asked charmer Mary Costa, who acts as commercial hostess on the CBS-KNXT Chrysler program, comes from other women. The question: "How do you manage to get in and out of cars so gracefully?"

Actually, Mary performs this necessary part of her selling chore in a perfectly natural manner. She has never taken lessons or direction in this art and thinks that all one needs to remember is to keep the weight on the legs or thighs for a little longer than most women do. "Too many hurry to sit down," Mary pointed out.

When Mary was first asked to audition for the Shower of Stars and Climax! top saleslady spot, she had two incorrect notions. One was that she didn't have a ghost of a chance to land the job from much more experienced competing actresses, and the other was that doing a TV commercial was pretty elementary and not at all time-consuming.

Mary thinks one reason she did get the plum assignment was her recital of three full minutes of commercial copy without any sort of prompting. Actually she wasn't aware that big cards are often used to cue the spiel-

ers. When a young fellow rushed up and flaunted a placard in front of her as she began her audition, Mary was so thrown she forgot her lines and begged the chap to "go away before I ruin everything." Incidentally, some of the actresses who tried out for the hostess spot now occupied by the lovely Costa have since appeared in emoting roles on the program.

She Learned

Mary's second notion about the chore being something to whip through was dispelled after her first week on the program. She goes to script reading on Monday, starts worrying about what she'll wear on Tuesday, rehearses on Wednesday from 3 to 9 p.m., and does the show on Thursday. Her three-year exclusive contract with Chrysler also calls on her services for auto show and other appearances.

In between times she has to shop for show clothes, not to mention personal wardrobe, take voice and language lessons and keep house for husband Frank Tashlin, motion picture writer-director-producer.

Clothes aren't too great a problem for size 10 Mary because she is very fond of them. Picking out the best things to wear for TV is something else besides choosing what's attractive. There is the matter of lighting on a material like satin which can be very difficult; there is the problem of some fabrics creating a too-bulky impression; there is the studio background to consider; and always the worry about wearing just a little too much sparkle or giving the appearance of being too "busy." Finally, Mary always must know in advance what kind of car she will be demonstrating (sports, town, etc.) and must select apparel to match. Usually her outfits are medium dressy to sports but once she wore a $1500 evening gown when the new car models were introduced. All her show clothes are arranged through a costume consultant and are paid from a clothes budget allowable to Mary. Now and then she buys one of the dresses for her own wardrobe.

A shapely girl of 22, Mary came to California about five years ago after Mrs. Leland Atherton Irish had heard her sing at a party here, while Mary was visiting Los Angeles. She and her mother went back to Nashville, Tennessee, to pack up and move to Hollywood for good. Mary, who has been a talented vocalist since she was six, is studying seriously with Mario Chamlee in hopes of cracking "The Met" someday. Her voice, a lyric soprano with three octave range, was heard not long ago when Jack Benny did a Shower of Stars show.

Personal Life

Besides having a nicely arranged figure and lovely voice, Mary possesses naturally blonde hair (her

◀ MARY IS A POPULAR PERFORMER with show crewmen, who recently made up a large placard enumerating all the splendid things she does to make TV life pleasant backstage. It's tagged, "We Love You!"

(Italian father was fair), creamy complexion, and personality with spark. She likes to eat spaghetti twice a week, doesn't worry about dieting, loves to swim and ride bicycle, collects old operatic records and listens constantly to all kinds of music, seldom loses her good humor but now and then gets depressed and then turns to her records for comfort. She doesn't smoke or drink, has had coffee "only about ten times" in her life, likes to wear blue, pink or white, dislikes purple, wants to sing Violetta in Traviata. She and husband Tashlin live on Benedict Canyon Drive in Beverly Hills.

The most difficult commercial she has had to perform on the show was backing a car between two posts.

"And I had to keep right on talking and remembering my lines!" she exclaimed. There were no bent fenders. Once she did close the car door on her dress while she was doing her commercial and instead of moving about as she was supposed to do, Mary had to keep glued to the spot. Another time she bumped her head getting into a car. Still another frantic moment came just before air time when she heard the button of her petticoat pop. With the help of the wardrobe mistress she managed to roll the waist band of the offending skirt into such a tight knot that she was able to move about the stage without calamity.

In personal life Mary drives a Dodge, but she is fervently hoping to acquire a luscious blue Imperial. Of course she is recognized wherever she travels. Until she became hostess for the big Chrysler show, Mary had never done much driving. "I think," she confided, "that I drive better on the show than off."

The Stories Bill Stout Won't Touch!

The award-winning KNXT commentator has gained quite a reputation during the past two years for his various "crusading" special assignments. "Crummy characters" he loves to expose, but there are some subjects he won't handle.

By
Ted Hilgenstuhler

YOUNG, deep-voiced, hard-working, award-winning Bill Stout is literally a walking encyclopedia of what's going on inside Los Angeles.

In two short years, the provocative KNXT commentator, because of his Special Assignments on the KNXT news and documentaries such as "Focus on Delinquency," has gained an enviable reputation as an outspoken, but fair-minded TV reporter. He has innumerable and highly regarded awards to prove it—including those from the Radio and TV News Club, a Peabody, and TV-Radio Life's own Distinguished Achievement Award for 1955.

However, there are some stories that even outspoken Mr. Stout won't touch. He has his reasons:

"Some stories are simply too complicated, or just aren't good enough to give full treatment to," Bill began. He was talking in the presence of Sam Zelman, the director of news at KNXT, and a sort of unofficial "body-guard" just to make sure that although Mr. Stout seldom slips on the air, he wouldn't slip when it came to being quoted for publication.

Back to Bill:

"I handle one story a show. In a limited time period, naturally, I can't go into subjects that are too involved. For example, there's the fight of the Long Beach tidelands money—and the water hearings over the Feather River project and other major constructions. Each of these subjects, and countless others, would take a terrible amount of time to break down and do full justice to all sides of the question."

CBS Policy

Sam spoke:

"CBS has only one policy concerning the news: objectivity; fairness. We never point a finger at anyone without explaining it. Our policy does not permit giving just one side of the issue. Always both sides. Neither do we have any 'sacred cows.'" (People or events publicized and praised too lavishly merely because of selfish motives.)

While Sam and Bill—who must work hand in hand—agree on overall policy, they do have their differences. Bill is the go-getter; Sam, and the news editor (with whom Bill must always clear his copy), are the checkers, double-checkers. In his enthusiasm, Bill may have a tendency to make a story slightly one-sided. Sam is there to tell him to get quotes from "the other party."

There have been times—such as when crusading Stout wrote a whole script about a code for TV—when Sam nixed the entire program and made Bill do something else. He thought it was "too tradesy"—that is, limited mainly to the people in the TV and radio industry, rather than to the public as a whole.

Far more often than not, however, Bill's script goes over the air just the way he himself writes it. Although it may be difficult to believe from the qualitative and quantitative job of reporting he does night after night, Stout is strictly a one-man staff.

Being young and ambitious, he

quite understandably would like more time on the air to do his "special assignments." His ultimate goal: not New York (as one might expect), but Washington. That, to him, is the No. 1 town for news.

As yet, the self-assured, spectacled TV reporter has not been sued for slander—the dread of every commentator. Because of the "touchy subjects," it's not surprising that he's come close quite often.

"I have received some complaints from honest men who have said they have been damaged because of things I reported about dishonest men in the same line of business.

"I did a story one time on a land-filing racket outside of Las Vegas. Immediately, honest real estate operators objected.

"Then there's always the case of the guy who will deny what I know he told me. That happened one time with a two-bit politician from Culver City who gave me some facts over the phone—which I repeated on the air—and which he later tried to deny."

That's exactly the type of person Stout loves to lambaste on the air. He himself explains it best—and pretty much summarizes his basic approach to his type of TV reporting:

"As long as I know it's the truth, I always get a charge putting the hex on a real crummy character."

THE EASTER Fashion Contest recently conducted by Dorothy Gardiner on her KTLA Milady program and by TV-Radio Life was an extremely gratifying and successful experience. The tremendous response served to remind us that countless women still engage in that good old-fashioned craft of sewing and do so beautifully.

Paramount Pictures Academy Award winner Edith Head, who judged the contest, selected the wardrobe made by Mrs. A. T. Johnson of Hollywood as the most outstanding. Mrs. Johnson submitted two identical dresses made for her daughters (ages 6 and 13)—short sleeve, pink and white checked cotton gingham with white crochet trim, long torso and flare skirted.

"I selected Mrs. Johnson's entry," Miss Head explains, "because it was the best in design, execution and taste. It was the epitome of what a young girl would wear to church Easter Sunday." Edith Head added a few authoritative suggestions for achieving good taste in dressing, mainly careful selection—no large floral design or frills for the stout woman or one-color ensembles for the tall, slender girls because it makes her look like a bean pole. Simplicity in design is also important. The working woman should choose her wardrobe with an eye to her surroundings and not try to dress as a movie star.
