Why Do We Have Re-Runs On TV?

Are they just a nuisance—or could they be a blessing in disguise? TV-Radio Life made some inquiries and came up with some surprising answers.

By Bill Kelsay

EVER SINCE TIME there have been two sides to any question. And the question of re-runs on television is no exception.

In this instance, the interests lie with the sponsor and the viewer. The answer is simply that the sponsor has found it profitable to buy re-runs and the viewer has welcomed them.

Robert Greenberg, vice-president of MCA-TV, Ltd., one of the largest in the film syndication business, points to facts and figures to justify re-runs to the sponsor.

"Take Waterfront, for example," he says. "Surveys show that when Carnation bought it for a re-run, their cost per thousand viewers was only $1.83. That's pretty cheap for advertising in any medium.

"The whole concept of re-runs in the syndication market has proved so sound that many series plan to use each individual program at least twice. For four years straight, Coca-Cola bought the Kit Carson series on the basis of 26 new episodes each year, and 26 repeats. The fact that this policy was continued over a long period, and that the show consistently maintained a high rating, would certainly indicate re-runs are simply good advertising."

W. I. Clark, who heads up the American Broadcasting Company's Film Syndication in Hollywood, merely points to the A. C. Nielsen Company survey on the subject. This survey shows that often the re-runs pull a greater audience than the first runs! At less cost!

But How About You?

So much for the sponsor. What about you, the viewer?

There are millions of you who do not see a given program on its first showing. A very satisfactory rating of 20.0 actually means that 80 per cent of the potential audience did not see it. If it is repeated, the show is a first run as far as you are concerned, and it is more than probable you have seen dozens of such programs without realizing they were re-runs.

Further, it is obvious that an extremely small percentage of the viewing public sees all the programs in a continuing series. If you are an avid fan of Phil Silvers or Jack Benny or Disneyland you welcome a chance to see the program you missed because you went to the mountains or called on Aunt Minnie when it was first presented. By checking the logs in TV-Radio Life you know in advance just which episode is being re-run and can make your plans accordingly.

But even if you have seen the episode before, surveys indicate that you will watch it again—and generally enjoy it.

The men who guide television are predominantly the men who presided over radio—and they are learning that the two are dissimilar in a number of ways. They have carried over a policy of pitting one strong show against another, a policy which has annoyed the public immeasurably.

Policy Change

However, that policy shows signs now of wavering. Kraft Theater, for example, repeated "A Night to Remember" within one month of its first showing, and pulled a greater audience because of word-of-mouth advertising, which is the most effective form extant.

There has even been tentative talk of repeating the Spectaculars that have been especially well received.

If this comes to pass, it could mean that particularly good productions will be shown several times in order to draw the largest possible audience. Thus, you would not have to pass up one good show in order to see another.

KHJ-TV has shown the way on the local level with their Channel 9 Movie Theater and Adventure Movie Theater. A good movie, they reasoned, is not shown one time and one time only at a theater. Why should it be so on TV?

Proved Profitable

These two programs carry the same movie six nights running in the same time slot, which is an obvious blessing to the viewer. And it has proved profitable to KHJ-TV. A survey by the American Research Bureau showed that 76.2 per cent of the families reached had seen Movie Theater and 61.7 per cent had watched Adventure Theater within a four-week period. This is powerful persuasion to a potential sponsor.

It is not inconceivable that the high-budgeted shows eventually will follow their lead for two strong reasons. First, it would lower the cost per presentation, and secondly, the sponsor would reach the greatest potential audience by degrees rather than trying to gulp it all down at once.

This in turn would take off much of the pressure which would make for consistency in good entertainment.

Filmed syndication has already proved this with re-runs. Repeat shows make it possible to put more money into the quality of the product, sometimes to the extent that a program does not return any profit to its producers until the third or even the fourth run.

Television has turned out to be not as perishable a product as was at first believed. That is why you will be seeing more, not fewer, re-runs. That is why you will be seeing steadily improving entertainment.

Actually, re-runs mean a greater variety of viewing for you, with seven channels to choose from instead of only one.

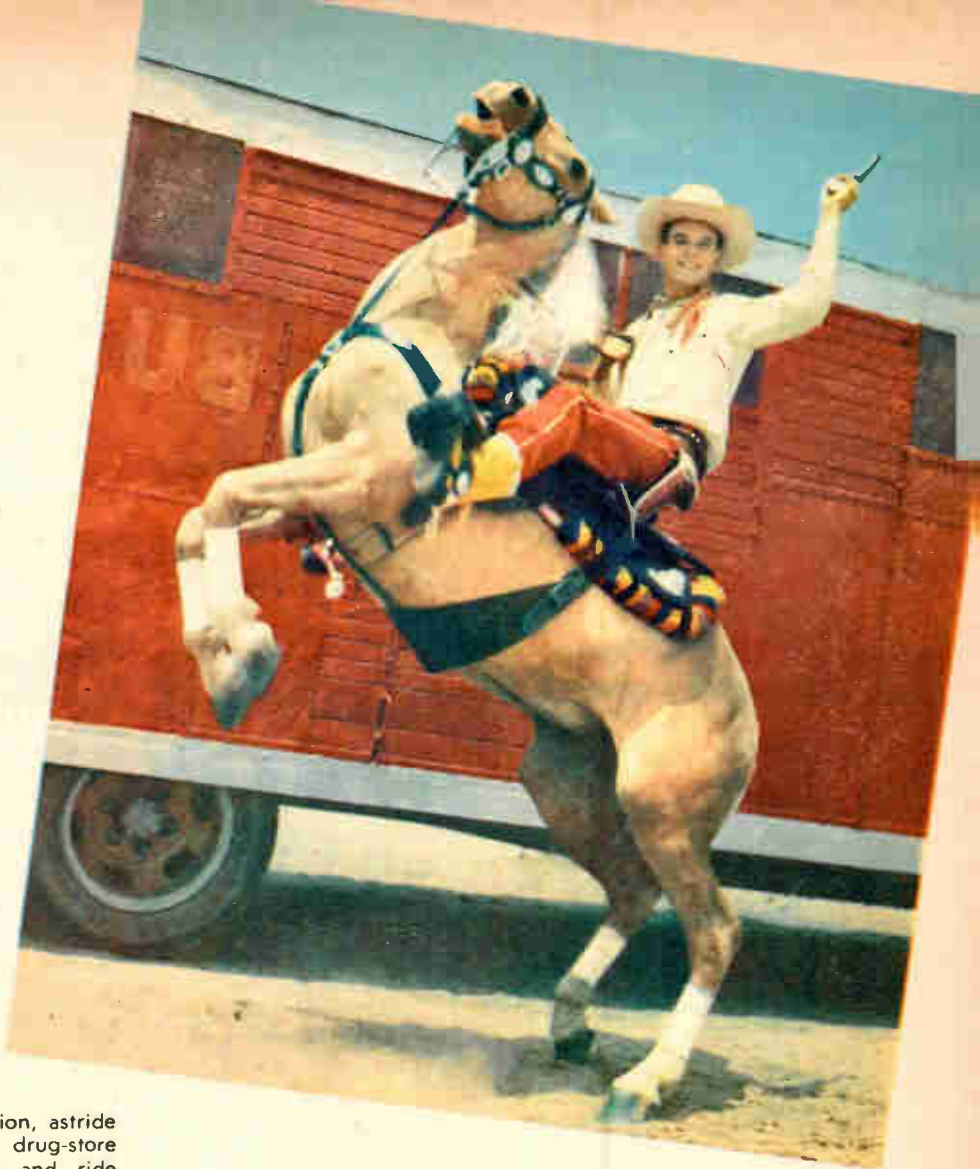

Meet Doug Carson,
KTLA's young cowboy
star sensation. His appeal is terrific and he's great at:

Riding...

Roping

Romancing

By Mildred Ross

DOUG CARSON, singing cowboy sensation, astride his favorite palomino Gold. Doug is no drug-store type cowboy. He learned to handle and ride horses when he was a small child.

HE CAN BUST a bronco, rope a calf and what's more even sing a pretty ditty. Make way, you old cow hands! The younger generation wants you to meet a tall, lean, handsome, smiling cow poke, Doug Carson.

The youthful star of KTLA's Circus is a veteran of the rodeo circuit. He made his professional debut at the age of four winning the hearts of his audience with his small-fry roping and trick riding. And the 20-year-old has been doing what comes naturally since. Actually he's following in his dad's footsteps. The senior Carson was an outstanding cowboy-rodeo star in his own right and he has a few broken ribs and many fond memories to prove it. Doug also inherits his love for horses from his father who runs a ranch in the Valley where he breeds fine palominos.

Doug was spotted on another television show by Klaus Landsberg, when he happened to be seeking a young Western type to headline KTLA's Circus show. After two appearances on the circuscast, Doug's changed from a probationer to permanent.

The mail response was overwhelming. This lanky, soft-spoken singing star caught the public's fancy at once. In the short time he's been on KTLA, the demand for personal appearances has increased tremendously. For the first time in his life he's getting letters from fans, particularly teen-agers, asking for his autographed picture, but it isn't going to his head. As a matter of fact Doug Carson is quite a level-headed lad.

The Utah youth has been calling San Fernando Valley his home since 1947. "I graduated from Van Nuys High School and attended the Valley Junior College," he explains in a quiet yet somewhat proud way. "I've always loved to sing and was active in the choral groups at school when I wasn't busy with football or track work-outs. I've had some voice training and have been a member of our church choir as far back as I can remember."

Church

Doug is very active in his Latter-Day Saints parish, where he conducts a Sunday School class, joins in the choir, participates in square dancing and other activities. His church and home have certainly influenced his thinking. When approached on the subject of romance he said without the slightest hesitation: "Although right now I'm busy concentrating on my career, I hope someday to marry a girl of my own faith, someone who is sweet and has had a proper upbringing. She must have an understanding of home life and have a musical background and share other things in common with me."

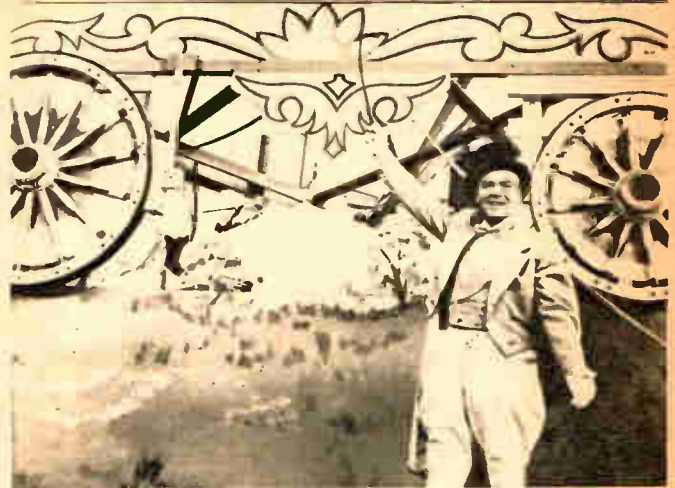

Pretty level thinking for a 20-year-old, don't you think? "Sometimes in show business it is harder to live one's religion but I'm determined to live mine," he concluded.

Dick Lane's Dream Comes True

Ever since he was a boy Dick wanted a job under the Big Tent. Now he's in his glory as ringmaster of KTLA's Circus.

By Jack Holland

KTLA HAS COME UP with a bonafide circus in its new show. And it certainly has a ringmaster of superior quality in the person of energetic Dick Lane.

I FINALLY made it—I got in a circus!"

And so Dick Lane enthusiastically began talking about his new KTLA assignment—Circus.

"I'd always wanted to be a barker in a circus." Dick beamed. "In my home town of Rice Lake, Wisconsin, I met the Ringling Brothers who grew up there. They lived upstairs over the SS Saloon. Those kids always had something going there, something on exhibit—things they'd catch like a muskrat or a raccoon and even a one-eared jackrabbit. My father and I used to drive into town from our home on the outskirts and I'd always stop to see these exhibits."

"In later years, when the Ringling Brothers started their circus empire, I must have written them 50 letters asking for a job. They didn't answer me at all.

Circus Dreams

"I still held on to my dreams of the big tent. My father owned a meat market and I used to drive the delivery cart. It was a two-wheel cart with a platform on which I stood. I used to think it was my chariot, and I thought this would be a great circus attraction. I pitched it everywhere—but had no sale.

"Of course, when I could get to any circus I was an awed observer, not so much with the mechanics but with the presentation of the show.

"The closest I ever came to working under the big tent was when I was with Texas Guinan. I did ring work for her and was the equestrian director for that portion of her show.

"I had given up all hopes of being in a circus and then Klaus Landsberg of KTLA came to me with his idea. I jumped at it. Here was a circus where everybody could see the entire show in its entirety. Nobody had to watch three rings at a time. Also, it was intriguing because actual circus people were doing the acts. It was a simon-pure, honest-to-goodness circus.

"Naturally, one of our main attractions has been Susie, the three-year-old elephant who is a delight. No one gets better care than she does. She'll do any trick because she has been trained with kindness. When she first arrived in town she was being fed pabulum. From that she graduated to oatmeal, then crushed alfalfa, and now she gets hay. Her favorite food, however, is gum drops.

"Then there are our wild animal acts—and, believe me, they're not for kidding. Most trainers are used to working with cats in a cage of at least 32 feet in diameter. We have only a 15-foot one. Several lion tamers have refused to get into the ring because it's so dangerous, and we have had a few narrow escapes. One Italian trainer had to get out in a hurry when the lions got fractious. Yet, there is no danger to the viewing audience. There is no escape hatch. The lions can't get out—but the trainers can, if they're lucky."

TV Career

With all Dick Lane does on TV, he considers Circus his easiest job. He has been on TV since August 19, 1942—and he's never once regretted giving up a very lucrative motion picture career as an actor to become TV's pioneer and most enthusiastic personality.

"The hardest job I have is actually Roller Derby," Dick went on. "But I enjoy it. I still get movie offers but I turn most of them down because I am too busy on TV. Besides, I don't feel right in taking a job away from some other actor who depends entirely on acting for his living.

"As far as I can see it, I'm in television to stay. I would like to do a filmed series for TV, something with general audience appeal, but so far I haven't had the right idea submitted. I do miss acting, of course, for that is, after all, the gratification for any actor.

"Doing the Circus was just right for me, since it came at a time when I felt I was falling into the pattern of pseudo sports announcing. I didn't get discouraged, though, because of the mail I got from viewers. Oddly enough, the amount of mail hasn't diminished at all. They all seem to like what I'm doing so I naturally enjoy doing anything that apparently pleases so many people.

"I read every letter sent to me and I answer all those that require an answer. The only ones I don't pay any attention to are those that bear no signature.

"I also get presents and Father's Day cards and birthday cards. How anyone has ever learned the date of my birthday, I'll never know, but more people seem to know it. I send most of the cards I receive to the children's hospitals where they work out projects with them."

With all of Dick's activity, you might think he would have to watch his health. Not this man.

"I've always been in good health. I've never thought of being ill, so I just keep going on and having a good time," he said. "I think when you're doing work you love it isn't hard. Maybe that's why I haven't been too concerned about not having more than one short vacation in 14 years. I'll get around to a long one some of these days."

Dick Lane better not bet too much on that. His fans and his sponsors don't like to see him off any of his shows, so he just stays on. He's practically glued to his job.

He Puts You In a Dreamy Mood

By Jon Bruce

RICHARD ELLSASSER is a young man who makes music with his hands and with his feet. Being an organist that seems logical.

The KRCA musician who sends out sweet notes around midnight has been gradually gaining in popularity — without benefit of any gimmicks or unusual costumes. He does have a candelabra on the organ, but this is merely a stage prop and is in no way an attempt to out-Liberace Liberace.

"Frankly, I didn't think anyone would be listening to me," Dick Ellsasser began, "at that hour, so I've been surprised by the amount of mail I've been getting. This is highly gratifying and has helped me to select the selections I play. For a while I had stayed pretty much to the popular kind of music, but I've been getting requests for classics recently, so am incorporating a few."

Dick speaks with a slight accent, which he attributes to his Alsace-Lorraine heritage. However, only his father was born in Europe. Dick is a Cleveland native.

Impressive Career

Some people assume that the music master has devoted his talents to pop tunes. Nothing could be further from the truth. He is a renowned concert organist, has played with many symphonies, and has appeared all over Europe. He started playing the organ when he was nine, so his background, to say the least, is extensive.

"Two years ago Christmas I did a show for NBC here and I was asked then about doing a regular program locally," Dick went on. "However, there was no time slot available. I stayed here for a while and then recently I decided to return to New York. I had put my house up for sale when one day Doug Livingston at NBC called to ask if I'd consider doing a TV show here. I reminded him of all of our past talks and delays and said I was leaving for New York.

"When do you plan to leave?" he asked.

"On Tuesday," I replied.

"Do me a favor," he said. "Wait till Wednesday."

"So I did. The next day I was called in for a conference and I walked out with a contract. Incidentally, I didn't sell my house."

In addition to Dick's TV work and his concerts, he has also recorded 43 albums, the latest being an MGM release. In the early part of this year he was in Europe conducting and playing in Hamburg, Berlin, Stuttgart, Frankfurt, Paris, and London.

"I arrived in London in the middle of a strike of musicians and engineers," Dick recalled with a smile. "Since I was the only American artist available I was asked one night to do some shows—two TV and one radio program, to be exact. I agreed—but I didn't know what I was getting into.

"I was due at the TV station at 5:15 for rehearsal. When I arrived I was informed that nothing could be done then because it was tea time, so I was taken upstairs for tea and crumpets. When I returned to the studio about six, I was told that I simply must go to a cocktail party in my honor—so again I went upstairs. I finally got downstairs fifteen minutes before time to go on the air.

RICHARD ELLSASSER may not be the first to get you in a restful mood with organ music, but he's making the midnight hour a pleasant one with his remarkable artistry on KRCA.

"That would seem like a bit of a hassle, but that's TV—it is far more strenuous than concert work, mainly because of the amount of preparation necessary. I have to learn so many songs just to fill out a week's program on KRCA. I had hardly any popular repertoire before I began this show."

Dick does manage to relax at his very charming two-bedroom home on top of a hill in Hollywood. He is unmarried, so he spends his free moments doing what most musicians do—listening to his hi-fi, his records, and playing his concert grand piano or one of the two organs he owns.

He's an artistic guy—and not the active outdoor type.

"Whenever I try to fix anything at the house or do anything constructive, I always gash myself or get banged up," he laughed. "It's much safer for me at the organ."

"I guess I'm not too ambitious about such activity. Even sports don't intrigue me too much. I think I might like football if I could only follow the ball, but I can't ever see who has it."

Richard Ellsasser needn't worry about football. After all, what football player can make such beautiful music?

Money Mrs. Mesta receives from CBS Television for her story will be donated to subsidize the foreign college students she has brought to the United States.

London Telepic

A $2,000,000 budget has been allotted by Guild Films for their Jack London series which starts shooting in Hawaii.

The new series will be shot entirely on location at various Pacific islands. First story to go before the cameras is "Captain Grief," based on London's famous yarn. Cast includes Maxwell Reed, Tudor Owen, George E. Stone, Larry Gelbman, Michael Whalen, Bob Wilkie and Helen Wesscott.

Dell's Back

Remember the fabulous Dell O'Dell, the famous magician who had a program on KTLA? The vivacious conjurer of tricks is back with her own show at Harout's Ivar Theater in Hollywood. Dell announced her return to the stage by presenting TV-Radio Life with a darling white bunny and an invitation to a special press preview.

Miss O'Dell's magic is fantastically amusing. There's fun for the entire family at the Ivar Theater where the lady with the magic wand holds forth.

M. S. Telethon

KNXT, in cooperation with the Multiple Sclerosis Society, televises the charity telethon on Sunday, July 29, from 7:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Under the auspices of the Jack Rourke organization, this is the third M.S. telethon to be aired on Channel 2. Remember to watch and remember to give.

It Could Be You

Monday-Friday, 9:30 a.m.
NBC-TV (Channel 4—KRCA)

It Could Be You is a show full of surprises. It's a Ralph Edwards package and as such is a composite of the fun and sentiment incorporated in all the Edwards' properties.

"You" is a lively, refreshing daytime strip emceed by warm, friendly, capable Bill Leyden. Working primarily with women's clubs, the program's writers-researchers dig up innocuous and amusing facts about certain club members. "You" uses every audience-participation gimmick in the book plus some new imaginative ideas. Watching the payoff on a surprised club woman is most entertaining.

It Could Be You has close audience identification and it is one daytime entry that should be around for quite a spell. M.R.

Church and TV

KTTV's Great Churches of the Golden West series celebrated its 250th telecast last week. Speaking from the pulpit of St. Paul Presbyterian Church, Reverend Clifton E. Moore spoke about the church and television.

He explained that the thinking about televising sermons has changed in the past five years. At one time the clergy feared that church attendance would drop if the layman could take care of his church-going by watching a sermon on television.

Without exception the opposite has proven to be true. It's been the experience that attendance has increased in those churches covered by a Great Churches of the Golden West telecast.

Chucko's Personal Appearance

Chucko, the clown, will make a personal appearance at the TV-Radio Life magazine booth at the Do-It-Yourself Show at the Pan-Pacific Auditorium on Monday, July 23, at 7:30 p.m.

I was shocked to read that Medic has been dropped by its sponsors, "allegedly because of the controversy over the Caesarean birth episode."

This is the most disgusting thing I have ever heard. I pray that other and more courageous of their convictions sponsors will pick up the tab on this fine, informative and educational program.

Mrs. I. J. H., Ontario

We are a service family and were delighted recently when we received orders back to our home in Southern California. Only one thing was missing, however—our entire family was very disappointed to discover that we had left Captain Kangaroo on the East Coast.

With the exception of Ding Dong School and the Little Schoolhouse (neither of which can be compared to Captain Kangaroo) there is nothing in daytime TV for children in this section of the country.

I would like to know what can I, as an individual, possibly do to see that this fine program is brought back to our home, short of moving back to the East Coast?

I taught school for three years in California before I had a family, and, speaking as a teacher, I cannot over-emphasize the merits of Captain Kangaroo.

Letters such as these to publications and the individual stations are the best way for the public to let TV officials know what they want.

J. T. J., Arcadia

Is someone crazy or losing their mind to let Medic leave our television sets? For heaven's sake, don't take Medic away! It's the best program I've ever seen or ever hope to see. And I can think of hundreds more who feel the same way.

Mrs. C. P. P., South Pasadena

I certainly think all the disc jockeys—and newspaper columnists, also—are acting like little boys who are envious and jealous because someone—meaning Elvis Presley—has something they haven't got. And, I'll bet Elvis cries all the way to the bank about it.

Now I happen to like Elvis and think he is a very good entertainer. He is not guilty of half the mean things written about him because I saw him at the Shrine Auditorium recently and enjoyed his show very much.

Mrs. L. T. L., Los Angeles

In objecting to ads on radio and TV we must remember that the firm that advertises pays for the program we see or hear and so long as we have this system we must accept the ads.

Mrs. N. E. St., El Monte

A recent correspondent was absolutely right voicing a protest about Julie London appearing on Juke Box Jury in the extremely low-cut dress. Surely there is a better way to be charming than by such personal display.

W. G., Long Beach

You are to be congratulated in your new policy of giving some space to the FM station programs in the Los Angeles area.

I am sure that the people will respond to boost your magazine for this much-needed service.

Thank you for your response. That's exactly why we have included the FM programs—to be of service to our readers.

Mrs. F. J. O., Artesia

I noticed in your article on TV summer shows that Ina Ray Hutton was coming back on TV. I can't seem to find her show listed. I wonder if you could tell me when she is coming on TV?

Ina Ray Hutton and her All-Girl Orchestra are now seen on Channel 4, 10 p.m., each Wednesday. We also have a special feature coming up on her. Watch for it in the near future.

Mrs. J. E. K., Bell Gardens

I get furious when someone comments on wrestling. I belong to a Mothers' club and go to St. Gertrude's Church and I love wrestling.

I suggest to those who don't that they tune in another channel.

HOLLAND'S TUNNEL

DUG BY JACK HOLLAND

A couple of tunnels ago, a remark was made here that Sonny Fox of the $64,000 Challenge wasn't too sharp an emcee. It didn't take long for his fans to rise up in protest. As one reader wrote: "He is uniformly kind, gentle, and never has he in the slightest way mocked or held up to ridicule a contestant because of their difference in mannerism from our restricted little center. He is kind and gentle and the people are very much at ease with him."

Perhaps the same reaction will greet my views about Zsa Zsa Gabor. I realize she is now the darling of the sophisticates, the possessor of a newly discovered wit, but after seeing her on a recent Juke Box Jury I found her neither witty, clever, nor interesting. She is so carried away by her own personality and her alleged humor that she is, at least to this department, becoming dull. Frankly, does anyone really care about her views on her diamonds or of her knowledge of romantic manners? Is this really such very, very witty stuff? Or is it just unvarnished conceit?

Certainly, she must be on Juke Box Jury for some reason—it is difficult to know what. She can't be on because she knows music! But apparently it's no longer important to have any musical know-how to guest on Juke Box

Jury. Of the panelists who appeared with Zsa Zsa, only Nelson Eddy laid any claims to knowing enough about the records to be able to judge them.

While on annoyances, the Metropolitan Savings radio commercial in which some actor hams it up a la Shakespeare is probably the most strained attempt at humor to be heard on the air. This is really stretching!

Of the new shows being "pre-viewed," the Casey Tibbs and Brandon DeWilde offering may have a chance, even though it wasn't anything terrific. It does have enough family appeal to attract viewers and Casey is an interesting new personality, so it could click. The only point is—is there enough material in this premise to sustain a regular series?

Frankie Laine was about to take off for New York to begin his summer CBS-TV series when I caught up with him. Before going into a discussion of the new Laine ventures I got a listen to his new Columbia release, "Make Me a Child Again" with "The Thief" on the flip side—and both sound like hits.

When Frankie was asked if he wanted a regular TV series again of his own, such as he had on film last year, he definitely said he would have no more of film.

"That series proved one thing—that I want to do live shows," Frankie said with humor. "I seem to be the kind of guy who has to work before a live audience. As for my doing another kind of series of my own, I can't honestly say whether I'd like that or not. There are pros and cons on the subject. I think a series would restrict me too much and would limit me in some of the things I'd like to do. My own show, however, could make all the other projects I have in mind bigger—and it could also blow them all up.

"I'm glad to be doing these eight weeks on CBS-TV again beginning August 1, though. Last year when I did the show I was very gratified by the amount of mail we received and by the enthusiastic response. At the present, CBS and I are talking about a couple of deals—but no one knows what the outcome will be.

"Frankly, I'm interested in doing more dramatic things now. I've done some pictures for Columbia that were very exciting to me. The last was 'He Laughed Last,' and I only sing two songs in that. It was Dick Quine, a director at the studio, who convinced Columbia I should be given a chance to act.

"But to go back to the series again—I think any star is bound to get into a pattern doing a series. If he's successful he's afraid to branch out and try something new. If he's not a success then he's not going to stay on TV for long. In the early days of TV you could experiment more. Now you can't. Not with that villainous shadow called ratings hanging over you all the time.

"For the present, then, I intend

HANK WEAVER SHOW

3:00-4:45 P.M. Monday thru Friday

KABC 790 RADIO

RADIO

BY EVELYN BIGSBY

ON MONDAY, JULY 16, Danny Thomas and his crew started filming their fall series minus Jean Hagen, wife and mother in the "Williams" family.

CONTROVERSY RAGED THROUGH SPRING and early summer over treatment of Jean's absence from the Make Room for Daddy program. As you probably know, Jean, weary of the same role week in and out, received the release for which she asked to freelance in TV and movies.

EMOTIONAL REACTION OF Danny's fans bore heavy weight in deciding whether a new "Mrs. Williams" should be written into the script right away or another solution hit upon. From the prolific mail the program received, the show realized that fans didn't want another woman to step into Jean's shoes now.

THE WAY PRODUCER-DIRECTOR Sheldon Leonard explains it, "We feel it would be slightly dishonest to cast a new wife with, say, brown hair and different measurements and present her immediately as Danny's wife, ignoring Jean Hagen's role of the last three seasons."

SAID DANNY, "WE DO NOT WANT to offend the sensibilities of our audience by implying widowship for me and injecting romance into my TV life immediately. There will be no girl friends for me on the early shows next fall." In other words, while there will be no sack cloth and ashes, the passage of a year and a half between last season's close and start of the fall series will be implied gradually.

SPEAKING OF JEAN'S DEPARTURE from the program, Danny continued, "This turn of events, while it looked troublesome at first, is a great relief, trouble-wise."

APPARENTLY THE SHOW WRITERS had just about exhausted all story possibilities for Danny, his wife and the two children. I understand that at the tag end of this past season, one story line was so unsatisfactory that a whole show was scrapped on Monday and an entirely new one whipped up for shooting starting the next day. No fault of the scripters—just a case of the "situation" well going dry. As Danny and his aides now see it, after a little while he will start bringing a girl home now and then to get the children's reactions. This entirely new set of premises should liven up proceedings considerably.

SHERRY AND RUSTY WILL necessarily carry a much heavier load under these circumstances and have been so informed. Fatter parts and more work. Sherry is especially keen about passing judgment on her daddy's lady friends. Danny claims, "We're all excited about the new stories this new format opens up. It gives all of us and the show a shot in the arm."

INCIDENTALLY, the show will be moving to Monday evenings starting September 10.

FANS' FEELINGS ABOUT the Yogi take-off on Steve Allen's show: poor taste. . . . People think Penny Carroll cute but gesturing and acting too much like Roberta Linn. . . . Mae West was an interested viewer of the intriguing movie, "The Body Is a Shell." She's rumored considering a Bridey Murphy-type show. . . . When I lunched last week with Wally Cox ("Mr. Peepers"), autograph hounds were hot after his signature. He told me that "Peepers" is to go on radio, with Tony Randall playing his old part of "Wes." Wally himself is all tied up with his new NBC-TV filmed series, Hiram Holiday.

GLEN LOGAN OF THE ELECTRIC LEAGUE answered my SOS for some facts and figures after the FCC came out with its feelers on shifting TV channels from VHF to UHF. There are now (as of June 1, 1956) 2,071,365 sets in Los Angeles County (this is the number distributed by 22 major manufacturers). They represent an investment of between $600,000,000 and $800,000,000.

IT IS ESTIMATED THAT MOST OF these sets could be converted to receive UHF at a cost of between $50 and $100 for an adapter. New sets would probably be slightly higher in price. A couple of years ago when the League was coping with a rumor of a shift from VHF to UHF, it tried to survey the situation to find out how many sets had been converted. Nearest estimate was about 10,000, though there was no way of knowing how many adapters had been installed by local repairmen. Logan's guess is that the government won't make the switch. Too major.

simply to make several guest appearances on shows, such as the one I did not long ago on Climax!"

Frankie, of course, is always on the lookout for a new song since singing is naturally the big love of his life. It was interesting to learn that he, with Mitch Miller of Columbia Records, hardly every chooses a number because of its melody.

"If the lyrics have something interesting to say, I'll go for it," Frankie stated. "After all, the melodic line in a song can always be changed and I usually improvise as I sing anyway. Not that I do this intentionally. It's just that as I sing, something comes over me and I start changing the pattern. No one has ever objected so far."

Give Frankie's CBS show a look. It was one of the brighter spots last summer.

Label Talk

By TERREA LEA

Well, it looks like summer is really here. And with the coming of such beautiful weather we all like to spend as much time out of doors as possible. This means the beach and outdoor sports. It also means getting home late many afternoons and having to prepare a quick dinner.

Well, I have a solution. Kold Kist Frozen Foods. The Kold Kist labels are now worth points at Label Bank and you just can't find a better frozen food. Here are the products now honored at Label Bank. Kold Kist Beef Steak, Sirloin Tips with Mushrooms, Beef Stew, Creamed Chili Con Carne with Beans, Roast Beef Dinners, Chili Size Twin Dinner, Beef Cutlets, and Twin Steaks. They are all listed with their point values in the new label list. So send to Label Bank for that new list and the new catalog. And start to shop and save.

I want to remind you folks of that big Do-it-Yourself Show that starts July 19 and runs through July 29 at the Pan-Pacific Auditorium. The doors open at 1:00 daily and close at 11:00. Of special interest to the women is a fashion show each day at 2:00 and 8:00. And for the men, "Neptuna," that fabulous amphibian trailer. For land or water. Go on out there and see how you can do it yourself. And don't forget the Food-O-Rama held in conjunction with the show. You'll see and sample all sorts of wonderful foods. You can also pick up a Label Bank list or catalog because we are going to have a booth. I'll be there part of the time so come on up and say hello.

You'll have a chance to win some passes to this show, too, if you're at the Label Bank market appearance July 23 at Metrick's Market at 2008 W. Compton in Compton. That's on a Monday night at 8:00. I'll also have 50 giant bags of groceries and some prizes. So try to be there.

Hope you are listening to the radio program Monday through Friday on KABC at 10:30 p.m. And I hope you're watching the television show Monday through Friday on KRCA at 11:25 a.m.

Be sure to send for that new catalog, folks, and start to shop and save with Label Bank. I'll be back next week with more Label Talk. Until then, 'bye for now.

Selecting a President

Told with humor and imagination, KNXT's public service program presents a fascinating history of national political conventions.

By BILL KELSAY

Did you know the convention system of selecting a presidential candidate originated with the Anti-Masonic Party in 1831? Did you know Lincoln's managers packed the galleries with supporters by issuing duplicate tickets to the convention? Did you know President Cleveland patted six-year-old Franklin D. Roosevelt on the head and said, "I hope you'll never grow up to be President?"

These are but a few of the sidelights in KNXT's public service presentation, Selecting a President, which tells with humor and imagination the processes of national party conventions, how they were evolved, how they operate and why.

After viewing several of the ten-part filmed series produced by the Educational Television and Radio Center, Bill Whitley, director of public affairs for KNXT, was undeniably enthusiastic.

Nostalgic

"A wave of nostalgia and remembrance swept over me when I saw clips of Wendell Wilkie during the 1940 convention," he said. "I was completely fascinated by the whole thing, for this program has been thoroughly researched and competently produced. It is something that no one station could have done satisfactorily, and certainly is more enlightening than any one or a dozen political commentators' observations could ever be.

"There are no professional actors in this drama. Everything is real. The history of conventions is told from the first one — the early stories through rare documents and newspapers, progressing to the days of newsreel film, with the pictures becoming gradually more and more technically perfect.

"Every facet of the conventions is told absorbingly — the smoke-filled rooms, the behind-the-scenes machinations, the functions of candidates' managers, the men who have spent their lives making presidents — everything that goes into the tremendously fascinating business of selecting a President.

"Must" Viewing

"Anyone who will be watching the national conventions in August should find this 'must' viewing — and that includes about 90 per cent of the population."

Presented under the auspices of the University of California Extension, Selecting a President has as its mentor Malcolm Moos, Ph.D., who received his doctorate at UCLA and who is now professor of political science at Johns Hopkins University. Locally, Dr. Ivan Hinderaker, UCLA associate professor of political science, appears to introduce each telecast.

Now being seen at 3:30 Sunday afternoon on Channel 2, Selecting a President is timed to run through and conclude the week after the Republican convention closes in San Francisco.

According to Whitley, KNXT last year donated 20 per cent of its air time to the public interest. This would amount to something over a million and a half dollars in time charges alone. This public affairs program "discovered" USC's Dr. Baxter, and Whitley feels Selecting a President is on a par with the Shakespearean authority in educational and entertainment values.

And that's a pretty tough par to match.

Second prize consists of an overnight vacation trip to San Francisco for two via California Central Airlines with accommodations at the famous Bellevue Hotel. 27 other valuable prizes include a Blue Flame Log Lighter for your fireplace, gasoline from any Urichs Station where you buy for less, Pig 'n Whistle candy, famous for its freshness, and delicious Kold Kist products.

Santa Ana Newscaster Tells Big City Yokels What's Wrong With Their News Reporting

Pat Michaels is getting to be a local newscaster with a national reputation. As the news director of radio station KWIZ, Santa Ana, he is in constant demand as a featured speaker through the West (the latest being the Oregon State Broadcaster convention in Eugene, Oregon), and the subject of nationwide articles (the latest being an eight-page spread in Sonsor magazine).

Michaels' work in the fast-growing, near 500,000-person population Orange County area can best be told by the recent Pulse Survey of radio listening habits. Although practically all Los Angeles radio stations blanket Orange County, the Santa Ana man's newscasts, which are heard hourly, are far in the lead of all Los Angeles outlets.

Who is this broadcasting phenomenon? He is a 32-year-old, blond, good-looking reporter who has been working with radio news since the age of 18. He has covered foreign assignments for major networks and became well-known for his reports as a war correspondent in Korea. However, unlike most newscasters, Michaels is not a stranger to a typewriter. He has written thousands of by-line newspaper pieces and more than 150 articles for national magazines.

The usual friction that exists between newspaper and radio reporters has never existed between Michaels and editorial scribes. As a matter of fact, he gets along so well that he heads up the Santa Ana bureau of Orange County News Service, a teletype wire service that feeds copy to five Orange County community newspapers—and his by-line appears more frequently in those newspapers than most of the reporters on each publication's staff.

Michaels' newscast technique relies heavily on exclusive, imagination-capturing stories. He devotes some 80 percent of each newscast to items of a purely local or regional nature, and counts to a large extent on getting accurate news to his audience with blinding speed.

As far as the Los Angeles area is concerned, Michaels believes he has a clear field in this type of radio news reporting. "Nobody hereabouts does it," he says. "They don't provide fast news and they concentrate too heavily on national and international copy. They give a lengthy run-down on what's happening in Algeria. To some, Algeria is important. But by-and-large, the listening audience is more concerned with a new local sales tax law that will affect them immediately.

As for TV, Michaels looks at area television newscasting pretty caustically. "It isn't news they're selling, but history," he says. "How many items can you remember from last night's TV newscast that weren't reported on in yesterday's newspapers? None, and for TV to use the excuse that their newscasts aren't aimed at people who read newspapers is ridiculous in the light of Los Angeles newspaper circulation figures. People don't buy newspapers just to read the comics."

Michaels can speak with authority about the television news. Before he left WDSU-TV in New Orleans, after a stint as news director, his newscast set a still-standing national record for Pulse survey honors—a whopping 53.9.

All of Michaels' 13 daily newscasts are sponsored, with a waiting line for some of the more choice times during the day. This fact, in itself, has caused broadcasters in Oregon and throughout the country to turn eyes toward Michaels and see if maybe he isn't giving his audience something they want and thus re-attracting an audience to radio.

Ear, Eye Inspire

M. C., Los Angeles

I'm not much of a writer but I have just seen Victor Borge and I must say his show was just wonderful. He makes long-hair music enjoyable and I wish other programs could capture some of his wonderful technique.

P. Z., Los Angeles

I used to watch Home on KRCA every morning at 11 a.m. How do they think we can watch it now when a wife and mother's busiest time is in the morning when she is getting her husband off to work and her children off to school?

Here's hoping they change.

Home is seen at 8 o'clock in the morning "live." That has been the major complaint from West Coast viewers: that we only see "kines" of the "live" East Coast shows. Now that Home is "live"—and our reader has a legitimate gripe concerning the hour—the networks still have complaints. Looks like they can't win either way—that three-hour time differential is just too big an obstacle.

Mrs. O. S., Los Angeles

Three cheers for men like Edward R. Murrow, Chet Huntley and Drew Pearson. They are tops.

L. R., Goleta

As Tom Duggan on TV chaws, there is less yawning at TV bores.

J. A., Los Angeles

We watched the Duggan show a few times only. Listening to someone being insulting is neither entertaining nor constructive.

Set in Vienna in 1895 "Rosalinda" tells how the domestic bliss of the Eisensteins has been intruded upon by an amorous operatic tenor, Alfredo, who has persisted in serenading Mrs. Eisenstein. Properly indignant, Mr. Eisenstein has assaulted the interloper, been arrested and drawn an eight-day prison sentence. He postpones his appearance at the jail to enjoy a last fling at a big party at Prince Orlofsky's house. The minute he is away, Alfredo returns to serenade Rosalinda, weakens her will with an irresistible high C and, in a chill of hypochondria, puts on Eisenstein's robe to warm himself. Here, the director of the jail appears and arrests Alfredo on the understandable assumption that the man in Eisenstein's robe must be Eisenstein. Explanations being awkward and ungallant, Alfredo submits to prison. Rid of the men-folk, Rosalinda skips off to Prince Orlofsky's ball. It is a fete, indeed, with half of Vienna there, among them Eisenstein and — in one of Mrs. Eisenstein's gowns — their maid Adele. Eisenstein, in disguise, meets Rosalinda, disguised as a Hungarian countess, and is beguiled by her charm. The third act finds everyone in jail, but things are put right at last.

REGRET

One of the great regrets for Jim Brown of The Adventures of Rin Tin Tin fame is that his role of deputy to Gary Cooper in "High Noon" was eliminated from the film. Jim says that the producers decided to eliminate his part after seeing the rough cut because it tended to take away sympathy for Cooper's characterization.

OFF THE TOP

Michael O'Shea disclosed on Peter Potter's Juke Box Jury that he was an old friend of singer Perry Como. "He gave me a haircut once," O'Shea mused. "Gee. I wish he was here now, it's getting a little long again."

Pick of the Pix

By Aubrey Dahl

John Lyle, Jr. of San Diego, writes, "On the cover of June 30, what is Wyatt Earp supposed to be doing? I think you misspelled the whole works. It should read 'Watt A. Twerp.' Your jokes aren't very funny, either." But yours are. "It is a known fact there that everybody asks for money . . . I have about twenty five thousand of my own that I'm afraid to go around telling. Otherwise everybody would think that I'm completely crazy." I don't. Send me the twenty five thousand. "I hope you don't think this criticism is unfair. I get some of it myself." Very generous of you to give some to me. Send me the twenty five thousand. "I'm just a little bit afraid to go to Hollywood, I'm afraid they'll put me in the movies." Just so they put you where you belong, John . . . and when they do, send me the twenty five thousand.

"Lady From Shanghai." (11) July 24, 7:30. I guess Orson Welles just wanted to make a picture that would show off his then wife, Rita Hayworth, to the best possible advantage. She has seldom been better photographed than in this film, a bizarre tale about an Irish sailor who ships on a yacht with a lawyer, Everett Sloane, and wife Rita, becomes enmeshed in a murder insurance scheme and winds up on trial for his life. There are quite a few quaint scenes of man's inhuman frailties, and although the movie is no masterpiece, becoming, in fact, tedious at times, there are flashes of brilliance that make it almost worthwhile and are attributable, no doubt, to Orson.

"Born To Kill." (9) Beginning July 24, 9:00, 1947. Laurence Tierney is a homicidal maniac who kills people who cross him. He kills a girl who jilts him, a buddy who tries to help him and a couple of other people and . . . Claire Trevor and Walter Slezak quake at his approach and . . . I don't think this is a wholesome picture.

"She Married Her Boss." (11) July 22, 6:00. Claudette Colbert marries the boss Melvyn Douglas after six years of loving him and then discovers that he doesn't appreciate her efforts at being a wife and housekeeper, so she kicks over the traces by getting drunk in a store window and he finally comes to his senses. A light comedy done in heavy fashion.

"Odd Man Out." (7) July 22, 7:30. One of the best suspense movies ever made but you'd hardly know it from this sliced up version. With James Mason and directed by Carol Reed.

"Curse of the Cat People." (9) July 21, 7:00. A sequel to the excellent "The Cat People," this doesn't come off. A little girl dreams up a ghost for a playmate, played by Simone Simon, and her parents have a deuce of a time convincing her she's neurotic. She, like most children, considers it quite normal to play with ghosts. Simone finally goes away. With a name like hers, there was bound to be a sequel.

"Mr. Denning Drives North." (2) July 25, 5:00. Well, let's see . . . Richard Denning plays Mr. North in the "Mr. and Mrs. North" series, so I could make a funny joke about his south side or something. Only trouble is, he isn't in this picture . . . John Mills is and it grinds exceedingly slow.

"That Way With Women." (5) July 22, 7:30. Originally scheduled for this slot was an excellent film, entitled, "Three Strangers," with Peter Lorre and Sydney Greenstreet. I wrote a smash review for it and I hope they play it soon. This one stars Dane Clark and Martha Vickers, and is about a fellow who's that way with women. Who isn't? "Three Strangers" was my lead review, you see, and I'd seen that one. I ain't seen this one.

End of column.

NO MINING

Clint "Cheyenne" Walker has just sold his self-built "sleeper truck" he's been using for uranium mining expeditions. He says his heavy filming schedule won't give him time for prospecting.

For Love o' Mike (General Comment)

Radio Ramblings

George Walsh, KNX staff announcer, takes over Ralph Story's early-morning show until Ralph's permanent replacement Bob Crane joins the staff in early September. . . . Mickey Katz returns to the KABC lanes in a new series starting July 29. . . . Veteran reporter Walter Kiernan joins the ABC news staff covering the presidential conventions.

Capitol has placed a rush order on its first record by Larry Adler. The disc, recorded in Paris, has some gay French tunes. . . . Nat "King" Cole has signed a three-year contract with the Sands in Las Vegas. . . . Three-score and Five, a survey of senior citizens, their problems and prospects, bows on NBC July 25 with 78-year-old H. V. Kaltenborn narrating.

Friendship Test

Nelson McIninch, he's the fellow who gives you the early-morning farm news on KNX, is testing the friendship of Gordon Monfort of Crow Publications, and Don Anderson of the Sunkist Oranges company.

McIninch had to find someone to substitute for him before he could take his three-week vacation. Normally this would be a very simple matter, but in Nelson's case it becomes somewhat of a problem. His first daily broadcast goes on the air at 5:30 in the morning.

And nobody but a good friend, a real good friend, would be interested in subbing for a fellow at 5:30 in the morning. Monfort and Anderson have agreed to split his shows between them, covering the early-morning 5:30 broadcast and the Farm Reporter program at 12:15 p.m.

Wonder if they'll still be his friends at the end of three weeks?

NBC Kills Weekday

NBC's announcement that they were dropping Weekday at the end of the month came as somewhat of a surprise to radio listeners who have been enjoying the diversified format Weekday has offered.

In querying NBC as to why they were cancelling the program they state: "Weekday didn't live up to the expected ratings. It was felt that the daytime radio audience was leaning more toward music. And that's what NBC will give them in its new upcoming program, NBC Bandstand, beginning July 30."

Bandstand, a two-hour "live" musical program, will feature one of the top names of the entertainment world as emcee. Among the name bands being considered for the program are those of the Dorsey Brothers, Benny Goodman, Guy Lombardo, Freddy Martin, Sammy Kaye, Les Brown, Xavier Cugat, Harry James, Ray Anthony and Louis Armstrong. NBC advises that further details will be announced shortly.

Repeat Performance

"The Exile's Return," third of KNX's Minority Report series, dealing with the Japanese-American community in Los Angeles, is being repeated by urgent request from hundreds of persons who missed its original broadcast, as well as many who wanted to hear it again. Date: Saturday, July 21, 9 p.m.

Rembrandt Honored

Radio Nederland of Hilversum, The Netherlands, produced a four-program transcription honoring the 350th anniversary of the old master, Rembrandt van Rijn. The Netherlands Information Service is distributing the program to the various radio stations. Locally, KLON, KUSC and KPPC (all FM stations) have received the transcription which they will undoubtedly program in the near future.

Virgil Pinkley traveled 32,000 miles throughout the Far East and returned with a special report on:

Broadcasting — Oriental Style

By Mildred Ross

During Virgil Pinkley's recent trip to the Far East, the editor-publisher of the Mirror-News and radio commentator, paused long enough in his busy travels to make some observations for our readers. In this exclusive report he answers some pertinent questions on radio and television in the Far East.

Virgil Pinkley

What kind of programming do the Asiatics prefer?

Disc jockeys and jazz music are popular in the Far East. Their programs are patterned after ours. In the Japanese television field, Somo wrestling is the most popular video pastime with baseball being a close runner up. Generally the wrestling matches are sponsored by breweries and those wrestlers in the champion class are guaranteed rice and beer for the rest of their lives.

The sport is so popular in Japan that whenever there's a match held in an arena holding 20,000 people, 60,000 fans are sure to show up at the gate.

Do TV-radio fan magazines exist in the Far East?

Fan magazines are very popular in Hongkong and throughout Japan. The publications are similar to ours. However, a single magazine will combine stories on radio, TV and motion picture personalities in one book.

Has radio built personalities such as Godfrey in the Far East? If so, who are they?

No one has the rating or following that our personalities have because the broadcasting hours are far fewer than those of our stations. Not only are the stations on the air a limited time but the sets are inferior to ours. They are domestic products and there's no comparison to the sets we manufacture.

Do the people in the Far East depend on radio as much as we do for news dissemination?

Far more depend on radio than we can appreciate. The illiteracy rate is very high. For example in Indonesia only 6% of the population can read or write.

There are many rural and mountainous areas (in the Far East) and thousands of islands. Transmitting written material to these areas is impossible. The people living in these remote areas rely almost totally on radio for their information. Mass communication is also attained by motion pictures but the need for many more documentary and cartoon films is acute.

Does radio operate on a network basis similar to what we have in our country or at an independent station level?

Most countries in the Far East have networks operating under government supervision. Japan has the Nippon Hoso Kyokai network which is patterned after the BBC and the CBC. The NHK has extensive coverage—some of its broadcasts are picked up in such far off places as Brazil. Japan and the Philippines are the most active broadcasters in this area of the world.

Japan is one of the most literate countries in the world; they have a higher rate of literacy than the United States. Compulsory education is enforced for all children between the ages of 5 and 14, and what's more they attend classes six days a week for a fuller school year than students of our own country.

Thailand has government owned stations; Australia government regulated-owned and also privately owned radio as well as television stations in Sydney and Melbourne. Telecasting time is limited now but will be extended next fall.

Does the Voice of America have any influence in the Far East?

It is a tremendous undertaking and you can imagine what a task the Voice of America has when there are 225 dialects spoken in India alone. The natives of these countries are not interested in learning about Daniel Boone or the Fourth of July when they are hungry and cold. We should broadcast from within the countries we are trying to teach, learn to understand their psychology, religion and history for more effective Voice broadcasts.

There is certainly room for improvement; however, some good is done for some people.

Did World War II change the radio picture?

Radio was used widely overseas during the war and the natives bought radio sets on a grand scale. The increased use of radios has whet their appetites for more knowledge.

YOUR PARTY LINE." one radio listener wrote KABC's Jack Rourke. "is a life line—a line that is strung from heart to heart. It's a shining line of kindness; a line to say hello on and to tell a few troubles on when the shadows come closer and one is so alone."

Yes, there are heartaches on the Party Line. The hearts that ache belong to rich and poor, to old and young, to the hale and to a person like Whispering Hope.

Hope is one of the top "stars" on Party Line. When she calls Jack and talks, her faint words are accompanied by her labored breathing in an oxygen tent. To Jack came the rewarding opinion of Whispering Hope's doctor's wife, who said, "You've done more for her in one week than anybody has before."

There's Marietta, who started to cry on the Party Line when she finally managed to get through to the studio. Really, she was sobbing from happiness, but Jack judged her elderly and lonely, encouraged a flood of calls from Party Liners who have now taken Marietta under their wing. "She'll be set from now on." Jack observed comfortably.

On his Party Line Jack has had an unofficial estimate of as many as 5000 calls in a two-hour period. Out of this "cast of thousands," as Jack calls it, "ten or fifteen stars have been developed." There are Snow-drift from Carson City who drives a dog sled; The Eagle, who is a flier; The Rock, a character actor; The Joker; Ozzie Nelson who goes under his own name; The Poet, who sounds like Orson Welles.

Jack's huge phone family started out quite innocently one night last fall. He had his disc jockey show on KABC, just happened to mention between records that it would be interesting to know who was listening and what state they were born in.

Deluge

In a flick, the telephone started ringing and within 40 minutes Jack had a caller from every state of the 48 except New Hampshire. Finally, a plaintive-sounding man punched in to complete the round-up. He was plaintive because he'd had to wait seemingly forever to get through.

Records on Jack's show are now

Bachelor Big Steve
"plays it straight."

Snowdrift and new wife, Sierra Pat.

Pensketch, clever artist.

"Eddie," the Jungle

few and far between. His conversations with fans calling in constitute the program. To abide by the FCC rules, which require that no live phone conversation be broadcast, Jack's conversation with the Party Liners is taped in the control booth and played back within a second of the taping.

Jack's callers pay their own phone bills. Only once has someone tried to call collect. "I don't screen the calls," Jack stated. "Any one person can say 'go to h—' and kill the whole show." It's hoped this doesn't happen, for the transgressor would be heartily hated by the thousands to whom Party Line has brought such fun and friendship.

The friendship aspect of the Line has gone so far that now there is a daytime Party Line—a group of Jack's fans who do good deeds and cement relationships between members of the group. You can imagine what demolition of their Party Line on the air would mean to these people. Understandably, Jack begs his audience to behave, a feat which they've pulled off quite handsomely so far while the maestro and his backers keep their digits crossed. Charlie Cooper, the engineer, also keeps his quick hand on the dial.

Snowdrift

One personal heartache in which all the Party Liners had interest was Snowdrift's single "blessedness." The way things worked around, another Party Liner, Sierra Pat, decided to accept Snowdrift's marriage overtures. Now in Carson City where Snowdrift lives, forty plus, with his 20 dogs, the wedding bells have chimed.
July 20, 1956

Hours of Jack's program have played havoc with some fans' routines. One Long Beach couple told him they went to bed nightly at 7:30, setting the alarm for midnight to tune in the two-hour show without too much loss of sleep.

"You're ruining my routine," another listener reported not too grouchily. "I have to get up at seven and I'm still listening at 2 a.m."

Jack himself usually gets up at 11 a.m. As he hustles about Hollywood, eating his breakfast when others are having luncheon, he often carries his briefcase crammed to the edges with letters from his Party Liners. Some of the financial heartache he felt in trying to get the show on the air and line up sponsors is now abating. He hopes to regain the $5000 he sunk into the program that was supposed to be a disc session but didn't quite turn out that way.

"I've become a much better, nicer guy through this show," he says objectively.

The Whistler Revealed

He's chilled you and thrilled you for more than a decade — now see what the "man who walks by night" is like in real life.

By Bill Kelsay

THE MAN of mystery, Bill Forman, as you have seen him and not recognized him as a celebrity.

YOU'VE SEEN HIM hundreds of times—the distinguished-looking gentleman in TV commercials, the bit player in innumerable movies, supporting actor in television dramas.

You've heard his voice for a dozen years as the announcer on such top-rated radio shows as Kay Kyser, Edgar Bergen, Hit Parade, Phil Harris, Father Knows Best, Sherlock Holmes and others.

And the chances are you never recognized him as one of the most famous characters in radio and television—the man who walks by night, The Whistler.

The Whistler on KABC-TV is a sort of omniscient character who probes the minds of evil-doers, observes them, laughs at their foibles as they are caught up within a whirlpool of inescapable justice. His is the voice of malignant Fate.

But it was a quirk of kindly fate that brought the role of The Whistler to Bill Forman.

'Casual Assignment'

"It was probably the most casual assignment I ever had," he says. "I was having lunch at Brittingham's one day with J. Donald Wilson. He was doing the Raffles show, on which I played a Norwegian, and had just started writing and producing The Whistler.

"We weren't talking about anything in particular—just conversation—when he stopped suddenly as if he had had an idea.

"As it turned out, he had—and I've been The Whistler ever since."

That was in 1942, when Forman was the announcer on four big-time shows, and The Whistler was just another job until one night he was asked to pass out the door prizes for a local high school rally. The stage was darkened, he stood in one eerie spotlight and announced himself.

"Those kids went wild!" he exclaims. "I kept looking over my shoulder to see if Frank Sinatra had walked in. That's how much squealing and yelling they were doing.

"I was a celebrity—and didn't know it!"

The incident caused him to look upon his assignment with a bit more respect, but has never turned him to any dedication to the character.

As The Whistler, Bill Forman is a rather languid individual with no intention of raising a finger to the face of destiny.

As himself, Bill Forman is one of the most energetic men who ever came to Hollywood.

Long-time Habit

It seems to be a habit with him, a habit that dates back to his youth when he won a combination baseball and scholastic scholarship to Wesleyan University. Wesleyan is in Middletown, Conn., where Bill's father was a Methodist minister.

Those were depression years, and a minister's income has never been bountiful. So young Forman took to waiting tables, working in the library and numerous other jobs. Finally, he organized a band.

"Frankly," he says, "I have a tin ear. I'm no musician, but I could rattle out the beat on the drums. It worked out pretty well, too. After four years of college I had paid my own way—and made a $30 net profit."

During vacations he played summer stock at the Wharf Playhouse on the Cape, taking the lead in their production of "Outward Bound" when he was only 15. The summer after his sophomore year in college, producer John Golden saw him and asked if he would like a part in one of his New York plays.

"Like it!" Forman recalls explosively. "Good gosh, yes, I'd like it! I was walking on clouds.

"The only trouble was the clouds turned into a series of resounding flops. I appeared in six flops in one year, which ought to be some kind of a record."

There is notoriously little money in plays that fail, so he wound up acting on radio soap operas in the morning and walking the boards at night.

"After a year of that, I realized I had been making better money at college," he admits. "So I went back to school."

Comes West

Forman came west in 1941 from Station WGAR in Cleveland where he was special events and sports announcer. He took the job as program director for KMPC, which was then in Beverly Hills, but a year later he resigned to do free-lance announcing and acting.

Today, he successfully juggles a show-business career with commercial interests in one of the large paint companies and a thriving automobile agency.

"I like to keep busy," he comments.

Mystery is Forman's hobby, as well as his business. Specialized mystery. He has the complete works of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, which he reads and re-reads continually. And, he confesses, the only television programs he watches religiously are the Sherlock Holmes series.

He also has a collection of more than 200 cook books in his Westwood home.

"I use them, too," he insists. "I love to cook. I can do any kind of cooking except baking, and for some reason that escapes me.

"I can even take one of those fool-proof, ready-mix concoctions, put it in the oven—and nothing!"

But when it comes to meats and sauces, Forman considers himself an expert chef and connoisseur.

And when it comes to the ingredients for a full and busy life, Bill Forman knows how to mix those, too.

For a man of mystery, there's nothing mysterious about how he spends his time.

What Ralph Edwards Knows About You

It Could Be You is a new premise for daytime TV, but it will bear the Ralph Edwards stamp. That alone is a guarantee of a solid show—and one packed with surprises.

By Jon Bruce

RALPH EDWARDS AND BILL LEYDEN gag up things with some handcuffs just to prove how closely they are working together on Ralph's new NBC-KRCA daytime show, It Could Be You. Bill is the emcee.

RALPH EDWARDS is not a man to sit still. It doesn't matter to him that he has such popular shows as This Is Your Life and Truth or Consequences going. He has to keep thinking ahead to new shows.

And now he has what looks like a blockbuster for daytime TV in a number called It Could Be You. Starring Bill Leyden, Ralph has something up his sleeve here!

The NBC-KRCA show recently debuted, but before it was launched, Ralph and Bill let TV-Radio Life in on a few background details of importance.

Had Idea for Years

Ralph, looking as contented as only a successful man with a hot new brainchild can, said, "I've been brewing this idea for some time—in fact, ever since there's been a This Is Your Life and Truth or Consequences. One of the biggest emotions on both of these shows is surprise, so I always planned to do something that was built entirely on surprise. It Could Be You was it.

"I purposely kept the idea in the background for several years but now I felt the time was right to launch it. Daytime TV is taking over a big solid hunk of TV programming, with major networks concentrating more and more on shows for these hours. Yet, there is a great challenge here and to meet that challenge you have to have a great staff and a great emcee. We think we have both.

"It's a difficult thing to find the right emcee. The main source of TV emcees has been from radio. Bill Leyden has been a favorite of my kids—and of mine—for some time now and the more I watched him the more I was sure he had radio background. When we finally got together and compared notes, we found that our careers almost paralleled each other's since we both had a lot of radio experience behind us."

Bill had been doing all right at KTTV with his shows, but recently he left to join the NBC ranks. Within 48 hours he found himself not only with an NBC contract but with a deal to emcee It Could Be You.

"Everyone had his eye on Bill," Ralph continued. "So I was lucky to get him. I checked to see if he was free and everything moved fast from then on.

"A good emcee has to take a show and mould it. That's what Bill will do. I'm not a good stand-up comic, but give me a contestant and I can play a straight man all right. Bill is the same—he is at his best when he is on an audience participation show. After all, he was a radio announcer and as such he has gone through all the nerves, the frights, the sudden catastrophes, the unexpected. He has had to learn to think fast, which is an important part of an emcee's job."

Bill Leyden

"I was almost teethered on radio," Bill put in. "I started in the field when I was just out of my teens. In fact, I went from page and mail boy at NBC in Chicago to announcing. Everything has happened to me a drunk who walked in on my show one day talking to a man on the street for a broadcast and suddenly finding him using foul language. I had to learn my trade—or I'd have been out."

"You also learned how to time your shows too," Ralph commented. "Emcees on audience participation programs also have to have a built-in timing device so they can cut a show or lengthen it at a moment's notice. TV demands even more of the training of a pro than radio, and certainly Bill's instinctive wit and know-how will be of value."

"But you've taught me something," Bill said. "The innate taste you show on This Is Your Life has been a great lesson. You've shown me how to avoid getting maudlin, how to lighten a heavy dramatic situation in an interview with a person. Yet, Ralph, I know you'll agree that an emcee is no good unless he is sold on the show. When I read the first script I knew it was going to be a hit. It was something I knew I would like doing because it was exciting and fun."

Both Ralph and Bill have one sterling characteristic that more emcees should adopt—they listen to their contestants. So many just rattle on without hearing a word the people say, all of which makes some of the questions the emcees ask sound slightly ridiculous.

Daytime TV

"To go back to daytime TV for a minute," Ralph remarked seriously. "I feel we haven't even touched some of the fine ideas that can be used in the daytime hours. It Could Be You, then, is a release of a great frustration for me in that I can place at least a few of the ideas I have had for a long time. I feel it can step up all of daytime programming."

"Actually, It Could Be You looks like a difficult show. People are going to wonder how we can suddenly tell personal and unknown facts about those who are just sitting in the audience watching the show. Well, we've been used to sleuthing; we have had experience doing the impossible, so we're not overwhelmed by the demands. Our information comes partly by mail, partly by station managers, some from clubs and organizations."

Ralph intends to avoid the hoke and the sloppy sentiment on It Could Be You and to stress a maximum amount of fun. He also refuses to award any contestant a valuable prize unless that person has done something to warrant it.

"The gist of this show is that we know about you," Ralph concluded. "And we're going to surprise a lot of people. Who knows—we might even throw you one any day?"
