THE PEN

Mrs. P. K., Los Angeles

I would like to compliment you on your new magazine. In my estimation it is the finest television magazine on the market today.

I would also like to compliment, in print, KTLA for starting such a wonderful children's show, Popeye Cartoons, every evening at 7 p.m. My two youngsters thoroughly enjoy the program and the grand master-of-ceremonies Tom Hatten. His warm, friendly manner captivates the young and old alike in our family and his safety slogan contest has started all of us being more careful in our everyday activities.

D.D., Hollywood

May I add one more word to the recent pros and cons about Lawrence Welk.

I've had the pleasure of working with Lawrence on various occasions and can say, without reserve, he's one of the most genuine men in show-business. He's exactly in private life as he seems to be on TV: an enthusiastic friend to everyone he meets, honestly interested in all people, and tickled pink to knock himself out for their entertainment. Also, he's especially happy when he can chat, personally, with his fans. I've never known him to be rude or otherwise unkind to an admirer — it just isn't in him. His "warmth" on the air is no act, either. That's the way he is.

Please forgive my verbosity, but so much has been said about Welk, the music-maker, and almost nothing about Welk, the man, that I finally couldn't resist having my say.

We've been buying your magazine since 1949 and consider it the best buy for the money on the stands today. It sure gives the TV and radio fan the most for the least and we wouldn't miss an issue for anything!

M.G., Hollywood

I am adding my voice about the absence of one of Town Hall Party's most outstanding singers — Johnny O'Neill. The show is not the same without him.

Mrs. F. H., Van Nuys

I'm a native New Yorker who is more at home here in California. But there are a few New York shows I really miss, such as the Richard Willis TV show, Here's Looking At You. It is much superior to the Westmore monotonous lectures, or other giveaway-glamour shows because it gives real constructive information and advice regarding women's appearance and is very entertaining as well.

J. E. C., Inglewood

Will you please tell me what happened to Danny Thomas? Was his bringing in a wheel chair part of the play or did he really have an accident? He is one of my favorite programs . . . although we did like the old program better.

No, Danny wasn't acting when he used the wheel chair. He actually broke his ankle last summer, and had to use crutches for nine of his Fall and Winter programs.

S. M., Los Angeles

There should be more TV shows like Mayor of the Town. It is good wholesome fun. It has stories that really happen to people — not like some of those cornball mysteries.

Mrs. A. D. G., Long Beach

Why don't the names of actors appear on the screen long enough to read them? I defy anyone to do so except on a very few programs.

C. A., Huntington Park

I would like to know why people hate Elvis Presley so much. He isn't doing a thing that is hurting them. Just because us kids have found a way to let off a little steam, people are ready to condemn us.

E. S., Glendale

I do not often write to carp or criticize — in fact a little hobby of mine is writing letters of appreciation, but today I reached the end of my TV rope. I also saw plumbed the depths of poor taste. My set was tuned in to one of those "How Unlucky Can You Get for a New Washing Machine?" programs, and I nearly "frowed up."

Now when these personal experience programs started on TV, the original scripts often dramatized real-life happenings, showing the people they happened to, in such a way as to show new facets of Truth, Art, and Life. But recently a new crop of imitators has sprung up, and public taste is, I believe, offended and sickened by these ghoulish exploitations of private misfortunes. Don't think me uncharitable: I have been poor all my life. I too could use appliances, trips and hair-dos for free, but before I would give up my privacy I'd go out and earn these things, or do without. Our younger generation is soon going to reason: "Why work for things you want? Go on TV and cry and you'll get them for free!"

Mind you, I do not blame the people who appear on these tear-drenched clam-bakes. I pity them for being persuaded to expose their unhappy or unlucky lives on the air, by conscience-less advertisers and announcers.

Mrs. H. K., Garden Grove

Dear Criswell: please don't insult the intelligence of our teenagers by implying that the passing of the late and great James Dean will set off a deluge of suicides by the younger element! Anyone ignorant enough to suppose that suicide will solve anything would have done something else, just as stupid, whether James Dean had ever existed or not. To blame such an act on his death is, to me, the depths of morbidity. Suggesting such a thing on television only shows your lack of good taste.

On the other hand, Steve Allen deserves a toast for handling his analysis of the situation in such a serious, sincere manner. All the facts were there, but they didn't leave the viewer with a bad taste in his mouth — which is exactly what your implications did to our family.

Mrs. C. L. W., Torrance

How nice to discover a Channel (4) which has finally put something new on at the same time that Arthur Godfrey is on. I'm sure there are a few people who dislike him as much as I do.

P.S.: Stanley is great, too!

Mrs. J. B. F., Buena Park

I want to get a plug in for my favorite show on TV which is Wyatt Earp. I think it is tops. Is Hugh O'Brian married?

No, Hugh is currently one of Hollywood's most talked-about bachelors.

Mrs. T. Clark, Los Angeles

May I ask three questions:

(1) Did anything happen to "Katie" the parrot on Handy Hints?

(2) Has Roberta Linn left the Orrin Tucker show for good? I hope not.

(3) What became of the excellent "Shadow Dancers" on the panel shows?

The answers:

(1) We understand "Katie" the parrot has gone into a well-earned retirement.

(2) Roberta Linn has left the Orrin Tucker show for good and is currently devoting full time to night club appearances. Since then, the show has been dropped by KTLA.

(3) The "Shadow Dancers" was a production number which was replaced.

SO YOU wanna be a girl vocalist with a big-name band? If so, you might be interested in some of the "facts of life" concerning one Kay Cee Jones, female thrush featured on Spade Cooley's KTLA program.

As numerous stories have emphasized, and as every girl singer will reiterate, it's not all glamour and glory. There's a lot of hard work involved—both day and night.

However, once the goal has been achieved—and even during the struggling years—the career of a girl vocalist does have its rewarding moments.

Take Miss Jones for example. Originally she came from a little town that no one ever heard of: Childress, Texas. Although she has no noticeable southern accent, like all Texans, she's rather boastful of her native state:

"Did you hear the latest about Texas and the recent presidential election?" she remarks, with a slight Texas gleam in her eye. "According to a story I heard, they haven't finished counting the official electoral vote down there yet. When they are—Adlai could still win!"

Hips That Say Hello

Now not every girl can be fortunate enough to be born and raised in Texas. And every girl is not born to be built like Marilyn Monroe, Jayne Mansfield and the rest of that shapely, busty crowd who say hello with their hips everytime they approach a camera.

Kay Cee is pretty but not beautiful. And she's short—only five feet tall weighing a tiny, but well-proportioned 98 pounds.

In conjunction with our KTLA contest on "Do You Wanna Be A Girl Vocalist," this week we salute Miss Kay Cee Jones, the little gal on the Spade Cooley Show who sings anything from Horse Opera to Grand Opera.

KAY CEE JONES

From Horse Opera to Grand Opera

But she has the one prerequisite which any prospective girl singer needs: talent. As one critic describes her: "she sings everything from horse opera to grand opera. One minute she is roaring up with songs of the 20's and the next she is doing the very intimate chanteuse style. She has a very versatile voice; a fresh voice with an ear-catching style."

Versatility

Kay's voice is not the only "versatility" she possesses. Although she has only been in Hollywood for two short but eventful years, she has already proven herself a success on TV, with recordings (now under contract with Decca); with nightclub appearances (at the Biltmore Bowl and the Bar of Music), and with an endless list of casual dates.

It's the last item—"casuals"—which takes up most of her time these days.

"About two or three times a week, at least, I do these special shows. And sometimes at a very nice fee—such as the one day I spent at the Shamrock Hotel in Houston performing for the 'Wildcatters,' a group of oil men. That one-shot paid me over a thousand dollars. A few jobs like that every week, and I don't think I'd have to worry much about money," she smiles.

"Most of the days are petty routine for me. Getting up at 7:30 a.m. That's right: 7:30. I always wake up at that hour. I just can't sleep any longer, even if I have nothing on my schedule that particular morning.

"Of course, I have to devote as much time as any mother to my two sons, six-year-old Chris and five-year-old Eric. Then there's the usual amount of phone calls to my agent and manager, and a guest appearance on a deejay show. My Fridays and Saturdays I usually devote to working on Spade's TV show.

"At night, during the week, when I'm not doing a casual, I guess I'll have to admit I'm a TV bug. I sit there for hours watching one program after the other."

As long as there are girls like Kay Cee on the screen—TV viewing shouldn't be too hard to take, for anyone.

BOB CROSBY'S Happy Trio

THEY CALL Carol Richards, Paula Kelly, and Joanie O'Brien the Bob Crosby kittens. That doesn't mean they're cats. The answer is simply that the men in Bob's band are the Bob Cats — so the gals are the kittens. Simple, isn't it?

The three girls present something of a unique set-up. They're all singers, they're all ambitious, they're all working on the same show. You'd expect the fur to fly a little and jealousy to be running rampant. So what do you see when you walk in on a rehearsal of this CBS-TV show? The ladies are laughing it up, acting like long-lost chums, and being completely friendly.

This is no act. They've worked together for several years, and they are all presidents of their own mutual admiration society.

Joanie had to change her clothes for a number she was to rehearse, Paula was going through a song with the Modernaires, of which she is an integral part, so Carol, who had a few minutes off, was picked to do all revelation bit.

"Maybe it sounds odd," she began, "but I can honestly say we've never had a disagreement. We like each other and we have respect for one another's talent. And we're just as friendly away from the studio.

"Not that we get much of a chance for any socializing since we're all very busy, but we do get together whenever we can.

Pals

"We have more than just our work in common. We all have children. I have two girls, Judy and Jean, Joanie has a boy named Rusty, and Paula has three children — Martha, P. J., and Julie Ann. Consequently, we spend a good deal of our time discussing what our young juniors might have done recently.

"Paula and I are more inclined to discuss our children at great length than is Joanie because Joanie's boy is still pretty young. Besides, since Paula and I have girls, boys kind of stump us. However, we think all of us have unusually nice children — with mine comparing favorably with the others."

Carol was called on stage to rehearse a commercial. It was interesting to watch her work with Paula and Joanie, all of whom seemed to be thoroughly enjoying themselves gagging up a plug.

The key to their happy association seems to be their unselfish attitudes. Neither is trying to outdo or outperform the others. And, in addition, all have their own important interests away from the show.

Carol Richards, Paula Kelly, and Joanie O'Brien are three personable ladies who blast the old idea that women can't get along together for very long. No hair pulling here!

Interests

Paula has a new hobby—raising different breeds of collies. Her week-ends are spent going to dog shows and in caring for her two prize male collies. Carol has been devoting most of her time to the house she recently bought at Lake Arrowhead. She has really flipped over the mountain resort. In fact, last summer she was commuting every day from the lake to the CBS studio. She has become a very good water skier, incidentally.

"Paula is just about the finest person I ever met," Carol went on, after she had returned from doing the commercial. "She's been a great mother, and she has combined a career and a home beautifully. She's married, you know, to Hal Dickinson of the Modernaires. All in all, she is an amazing person.

"I also have a tremendous affection for Joanie. She's like a sister to me. Her career is very important to her now and I can certainly understand the drive she is going through. I went through that same intense, devoted period myself. And yet, she is not self-centered and she is always happy when someone else gets a break. When I recently signed my new record contract she was so happy you'd have thought she had gotten the break.

"We are all happy to see one another get ahead, though, and I mean that sincerely.

"We do give each other advice on some occasions about our gowns. And when three women can tell each other honestly what they think about clothes, you can be sure they're on a friendly basis."

It is not unusual for the three to gather around and suggest that one of them wear a different outfit or a different color. When such instances do occur, the intention is quite un-feminine—it is only to make that person look better. Carol, Paula, and Joanie aren't at all concerned about who looks best. They have a much healthier outlook about their jobs than to indulge in catty trivia.

"We don't worry much about wardrobe anyway," Carol smiled, "since we have a big wardrobe and most of it is pretty flattering."

Characteristics

Of the three, Carol is probably the most physically active. She is more of an extrovert than Joanie too, primarily because of the way she grew up. Carol, as did Paula, came from a large family whereas Joanie is an only child.

"Joanie is inclined to be a little shy," Carol explained, "but she has a really great sense of humor. If she is given the right opportunity, she will develop into a fine comedienne one of these days.

"One of Paula's greatest characteristics is her enthusiasm, but she has come by this naturally since she has been in show business all of her life.

"We're all career girls, of that we make no excuses, but our careers aren't the only things in our lives. Far from it. Paula has placed her work in the proper spot in her life. I have also tried to place mine in its right perspective. I have gone through the period of meeting the demands of my business without too much trouble and I think I know where I'm going now. Joanie loves her work, but has found great stability and security in motherhood, just as Paula and I have."

Carol, at the moment, is single and with no plans for any change in that status. She dates different men but she is in no hurry to get married.

"It's rather distressing," she said with a smile, "that I'm not more interested in romance. Maybe some time—who knows—I'll feel different."

Bob Crosby called his trio back to work and when I left they were diving into a fast number for the show.

The kittens were purring beautifully.

ENGINEER BILL

IN FULL trainman's regalia, Bill Stulla takes Channel 9's Cartoon Express out every weekday at 6:00 p.m. The thrill of railroading, of riding and driving the huge giants, is woven into each telecast, which spotlights a carload of cute cartoons.

The glass of milk Bill holds plays an important part in drawing his young audience into participation. Children in the studio and at home wait with poised glasses for Bill to flash the red and green signals as they drink and pause with an eye on the lights. Anyone who "drinks" a red light is subject to a penalty!

Currently celebrating his 20th year on the air, Stulla has a fling with elders on Parlor Party every weekday afternoon.

"PARENTS OF A STRANGER"

ON January 20, KNXT's Telephone Time presented a poignant story of an actual case history from Los Angeles' own John Tracy Clinic. Titled "Parents of a Stranger," the drama opened viewers' eyes to effects of a child's deafness — not only on the child but the entire family group. Appearing briefly in the film's conclusion was Mrs. Spencer Tracy, the clinic's guiding light. Talking at much greater length at the press affair following the preview, she explained that three-fourths of the parents of deaf children seeking aid at the clinic have problems in accepting a child's deafness. More than this, they experience difficulty in their own relationships to one another and with other children in the family. "Parents of a Stranger" did an outstanding service in showing how these problems can be handled.

TWINS WITH FIRST SOCIAL SECURITY CARDS. Tracy clinic takes 25 small students, has 65 families utilizing facilities, has 1000 world-wide correspondence enrollments, is supported wholly by voluntary contributions.

WALT DISNEY'S TREMENDOUS production, Our Friend the Atom, will, he hopes, be used not only on ABC television but even in our schools. This he told interested press members at a studio preview affair. I also learned that the film was shot in color, but was still in work print stages when our screening took place. The black and white version is so informative but at the same time entertaining that it's hard to envision anything but color topping it. I hear that the mouse trap scene in color is really something. Traps are bright red, very contrasty to the white ping pong balls.

THE BILL GOODWIN SHOW probably holds the record as fastest on-again-off-again program here in Los Angeles. One day on KFI, and Bill's breezy hour was yanked when irate and disappointed housewives called the station to protest that the new program had displaced their favorite soap operas. That's the trouble with these soapers. The ladies get on real chummy terms with all the characters and if they miss them for even a day they feel as if they've been deprived of the companionship of real persons.

THIS IS ACTUALLY TOO BAD, because NBC is attempting to give listeners a pretty nice show with Bill's sprightly banter, the antics of comedian-mimic Dave Ketchum, Roberta Linn's solid warbling, Ernie Felice and his Hi-Fi's and a daily guest. I understand that NBC also was on the receiving line of phone calls from frustrated ladies who had gotten a taste of the first Goodwin show and preferred it to the sudsy fare. Maybe KFI was a little hasty in yanking Bill and his gang. Or why didn't they compromise: run a half hour of each kind of show!

ON THE WEAR AND TEAR OF CONVENTIONS: "Back in 1940 I thought nothing of grabbing only a couple hours' sleep every night during the conventions. Then in the morning I'd get on the convention floor and carry a 30-pound pack around on my back. I'm still tired from the 1956 conventions!"

ON THE NEWS IN 1957: "During our lifetime I believe we can look for the big news of the world to come from Washington. It will come from there in 1957, though the Near East will still be a hot spot."

ON COLOR TV FOR ABC: "I believe that we will go into color when there are enough sets in use - I'd say 5,000,000."

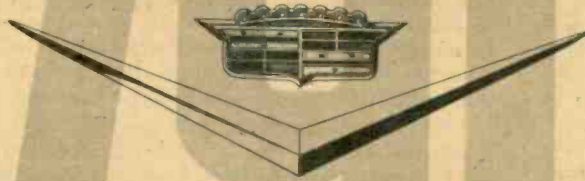

ON NEW PROGRAMMING FOR ABC: "The script is ready for a kinescoping of a new program called 'This Is Us' - not too grammatical but a colorful title. It will be an hour program built around Americana and will have a different theme each week. It will be done live, but we will use film clips if they strengthen the presentation. I will be emcee."

ON HIS STATUS ON What's My Line?: (An ABC competitor on CBS) - "Yes, I have a contract for my work on this program. When the contract ends, it will be up to ABC to say whether or not I will continue."

ON DELAYED KINESCOPIES for the West Coast: "By the end of the year we will have two Ampex tape machines which can take shows right off the line as they're being done and play them back later that same evening. One of the machines will be here in Hollywood." Hooray!

KABC 790 RADIO

KRCA has a very interesting new show on called The Sea, which is a scientific show with scientists and film and yet designed for entertainment as well as for information. It is hosted by the noted author, critic, and painter, Stephen Longstreet.

Mr. Longstreet is certainly not in need of any TV job. He has sold 40 books (the latest being Lion at Morning, Jazz Old and New, The Promoters, and he is now working on a novel based on the life of Utrillo), 92 TV shows, 58 motion pictures (among them The Greatest Show on Earth and the Jolson Story). So why would a man of such prominence be willing to do a local TV show where the remuneration could not be very impressive?

"I think I just got tired of writing," the very interesting and colorful Stephen Longstreet said. "I don't have to work any more since my annuities keep me eating, and I want to have fun. Well, I'm having great fun doing The Sea. I honestly believe there will be no more big-selling novels, that the theater is dying, and that the motion picture industry will eventually concentrate on just a few super epics a year. The future, as I see it, is in TV, as horrible as some of the shows are, and I want to be in it. There is even talk now of my talking over a couple of NBC network shows too."

Steve began his career in New York as an actor and then he became staff artist for the New Yorker, getting nine dollars a drawing. He later added joke writing to art because he got $15 for a joke. Then one day Bennet Cerf of Random House asked him to write a novel. He offered him $2000 for it.

"I walked into his office some time later with a 1200 page novel weighing nine pounds," Steve recalled. "Bennett simply sighed, 'There goes my $2000. So he picked out a hunk of the book at random and said, 'We'll publish this.' It was titled 'Decade' and was an immediate best seller."

HOLLAND'S Tunnel

DUG BY JACK HOLLAND

The Sea isn't Steve's first attempt at doing a TV show. He had worked at other stations in various capacities and had also done things on Feitelson's show, which is also seen on KRCA.

"We're against The $64,000 Question now and we're going to find out how long people can watch photographic memories. There's a funny bit about this. Simon and Shuster wanted Billy Pearson of Question fame to write his autobiography but he didn't want to do it, so I'm writing it for him."

Longstreet has a carefully arranged schedule for his days. He writes from nine to twelve in the morning. From one to five he paints. He takes a nap from five to six. From seven to eleven he watches TV and then reads from eleven to three to review books for his syndicated column. He sleeps from about three to eight-thirty.

Here is a fascinating, colorful man who has traveled all over the world, who has interviewed Hitler twice and George Bernard Shaw. It's good to see people of this calibre joining the TV fold. The Sea ought to get a lot of viewers because of him.

Odds and Ends: Phil Krasne and Jack Gross previewed a couple of their O'Henry Playhouse shows which are to be seen here shortly and they look very promising. Keep an eye on them. Phil and Jack also are starting a new series called African Patrol which will be shot entirely in Africa — and this is really something! . . . Bows to Monty Margetts and Connie Cameron for a couple of fine performances on recent Dragnets. It's good to see Monty active again.

ROLL 'EM.

"The Clock." (11) Feb. 1, 10:40. 1944. Pictures of this type are often referred to as "warmly appealing," and I think in this case the term is apt. Robert Walker is a soldier on 48 hour leave who meets Judy Garland under the clock in Penn Station and begins a whirlwind courtship (I wouldn't want you to think that was an original phrase . . . I lifted it somewhere) that ends up in marriage just a few hours before the leave is up. Directed by Vincente Minelli, the film is a bit mawkish at times, as is to be expected in a wartime picture about a wartime romance, but it tells a simple, humorous tale.

"Once Upon a Honeymoon." (9) Beginning Jan. 29, 9:00. 1942. It is 1938 and Cary Grant is an American correspondent in Europe assigned to cover the impending hostilities. He meets Ginger Rogers, a stripper, but before they can get together, Ginger marries Baron Walter Slezak. It seems that Slezak moves out of a country just as the Nazi legions move in and Cary sets out to prove that Walter is a Hitler henchman, an effort that enables the movie to take a panoramic approach to world events of the time and show a succession of victories, depressions, sufferings and defeats, and still almost managing to be a gay, romantic comedy. As one reviewer of the time put it, the picture has "comedy, tragedy, farce, satire, pantimime, action, sentiment, romance and drama." Enough?

"A Guy Named Joe." (11) Feb. 1, 8:00. 1943. "Recent" movies on TV mean a lot of World War II films and here's another one. Spencer Tracy is a fighter pilot who is killed and comes back in ectoplasmic form to watch the development of a romance between old flame Irene Dunne and old buddy Van Johnson. There is a lot of well camouflaged philosophical blather about man's role in war, and even some time honored bromides by Lionel Barrymore, as an old dead pilot who has learned a few things, but the movie is still quite entertaining and, at times, rather humorous.

"Pride of the Marines." (5) Jan. 27, 7:30. 1945. And still another war story, this one a straightforward account of the life of marine hero Al Schmid, as portrayed by John Garfield. Before Pearl Harbor, he's a happy go lucky kid determined to remain a bachelor, but after an act of heroism on Guadalcanal causes blindness, he becomes an embittered man who refuses to have anything to do with anyone, including his old girl friend, Eleanor Parker (who is not so old). It is only at the end that the beautiful Miss Parker is able to convince him that she needs him fully as much as he needs her.

"Diamond Wizard." (2) Feb. 1, 11:00. 1954. This isn't a war movie. Federal agent Dennis O'Keefe (who also directed this British made movie) is sent to London to recover a million dollar loot and there runs into a situation in which a British gang is manufacturing synthetic diamonds to exchange with the American gang for the loot of greenbacks. Dennis runs them down.

"The End." (15) Feb. 29, 3:00 a.m. How's this for a finish?

Fred Beck says:

"It Is Not Easy to Make One Jelly Bean."

The sun was beginning to sink but I had my eye on it. I was on the porch of my beach shack at the time.

"Honey," I called to my wife, "I'm hungry. Bake me a cooky."

"Can't," she said.

"Why not? You don't have a raisin maybe?"

"You just don't bake one cooky," was her abrupt rejoinder.

I was about to pursue the argument further when my neighbor Mr. Hewitt came moving majestically down the beach. He's a wealthy retired jelly bean manufacturer.

He joined me on the porch.

"Mr. Hewitt, sir," I said, in tones of fake respect I reserve for addressing millionaires, "Tell me, would it be possible to cook a jelly bean?"

"You mean ONE?" he asked.

"Precisely."

"Theoretically yes."

"How, sir?"

"Well, lezzee. You take maybe a drop of corn syrup and a pinch of sugar and a drop of water, and maybe we should cook this in a test tube on a Bunsen burner."

"Go right ahead," I said.

"We will need a bean-shaped mould. And when cooked until rubbery we spin it in a copper revolving pan. Then we would have to polish it utilizing spermacetic wax and a small amount of carnauba wax. And that's it — a jelly bean."

"Fine," I said, "I knew it could be done."

Suddenly Mr. Hewitt shrieked a mighty shriek.

"Whazzamatter?" I asked in alarm.

"We forgot the flavoring and the coloring!" With shaking hand he reached for the brandy as the sinking sun sank.

Atoms Are For Peace Only!

DR. HEINZ HABER and Walt Disney confer on the many details connected with the production of "Our Friend the Atom."

IN THE FALL of 1945 a frightful flash burned the word "atom" into the mind of man. The atom entered the scene of our modern world as a most frightening power of destruction, more fearful and devastating than man ever thought possible. In the years to follow the dreadful hydrogen bomb radioactive ashes, and continued threat of the military atom, was developed, and its towering mushroom cloud shook the very conscience of mankind. The world trembles before the terrifying results of scientific curiosity. Thus far the atomic age seems to hold only the promise of evermore destructive weapons, evermore worldwide dangers from fall-out and

In a way, mankind has gone through the same problem before. For untold centuries man has been using fire. With all other forms of life he shared a deep, innate fear of fire and its destructive powers. But man has long since learned to harness fire, to put its benefits to use, but to avoid its dangers. In fact, it was the harnessed flame of fire that led him out of the jungle and enabled him to create his modern civilization.

Mankind now faces the very same problem all over again—only on a frightfully larger scale. The fire of the atom can wipe all life from the face of this planet, if man doesn't find the wisdom to keep it on the leash. By the same token, however, the fire of the atom holds much greater promises than did the caveman's torch. As yet the fear of atomic war casts a dark shadow that obscures the many benefits the atom has in store for all mankind. But science has the means of turning the power of the atom into useful channels. The benefits of the atom are ours just for the asking, if we only make the wish of the world come true—the wish that atoms should be used for peace only!

This is the moral of the story that lies behind Walt Disney's Disneyland show, "Our Friend the Atom," which will be seen on the evening of January 23, 1957, over ABC-TV. The show presents the great minds of the past who have created our modern atomic science. In this history the atom is likened to the small vessel from the Arabian Nights that contained a mighty Genie. He comes forth to the beckoning of mankind granting us the fulfillment of three wishes . . .

With our first wish we receive the tremendous power of the atom. It can be harnessed in the famous power reactor, a device to release atomic energy in controlled, useful quantities. The energy becomes available in the form of heat, and this heat in turn can be used to run machines. The atom is already used to propel submarines; large, atom-powered merchant ships are on the drawing board, and we can expect the take-off of the first atomic airplane in the near future. These atom-driven vehicles can circle the world many times without ever stopping for refueling.

A number of power companies in the United States are presently building atomic power stations for producing electric power. The atom is on its way to run our television sets and vacuum cleaners, to light our homes, and to toast our bread. For our power-hungry civilization the discovery of peaceful atomic energy came just in time. It has been estimated that as early as 1975 even the rich United States will reach a point where cheap coal from rich deposits will become scarce. By the end of this century the mighty atom will largely replace coal and oil as a source for electric power.

And with our second wish we receive the tools to produce more food and to cure diseases. The atomic reactor can offer more than just raw power; it can also produce the miraculous "tracer atoms." If ordinary materials like iron are put inside a reactor, they become "radioactive" like the famous elements uranium and radium; they give off a mild, invisible radiation. They can then be traced by the use of Geiger counters, and this makes them valuable tools in science and medicine. Materials can now be followed through the living body of plants, animals and humans, promising great progress in agriculture and medicine. Also, like natural radium, artificial radioactive rays are a great help in curing diseases, particularly certain forms of cancer. So the atom of the future will be a powerful weapon in our fight against hunger and disease.

There remains the third and last wish—the most important one of the three. It must be a wish that does not destroy the benefits of the first two, and so we shall wish for—peace! This, of course, he atom cannot give us; it lies in our own hands to make this last wish come true. We have received a wealth of atomic treasures that will be a boon to all mankind, if only we use them wisely.

Then the atom will become truly our friend.

In this exclusive feature to TV-Radio Life,
Dr. Heinz Habe discusses the peace-time uses for the atom that will be vividly shown on an important Disneyland program
this week.

• By Dr. Heinz Habe,
Chief Science Consultant for Walt Disney Productions.

THE DESTRUCTIVE BLAST of atomic energy can bring benefits to mankind as illustrated in Disney's "Our Friend the Atom" show on ABC-TV's Disneyland show — a must-see for all.

THE ATOMIC GENIE, symbol of useful nuclear energy, bestows more food for the world's ever-growing population in a scene from the Disneyland program this week.

What Are They Doing to Gobel?

What's behind the changes in the Gobel show? Is Georgie being given the wrong treatment or is he now a TV stalwart? This is the real story behind the rumors.

By Jon Bruce

GEORGE GOBEL was the reigning king of TV in 1954. Before he started his 1955 season, stories began appearing on the order of: "Can George Gobel Survive the Sophomore Year?" Well, he did. In 1956 the same skepticism reared itself again with more impetus because of the changes made in the show.

The changes were primarily the exit of Hal Kanter, who had guided George's early TV success, director Bud Yorkin, Peggy King, and Jeff Donnell.

Hal Kanter left on his own accord because he felt he had had it and wanted a change of pace — mainly in directing pictures. Consequently, he went on to new fields. Bud Yorkin got the Tennessee Ernie Ford Show. Peggy King was making so much money she would have unbalanced the budget if she had been re-hired for 1956. Jeff Donnell was a victim of a change of policy.

Changes

Al Lewis, who was recommended by Hal Kanter, took over the production reins and after looking at the kines of over 25 Gobel shows decided on a few changes. He wanted to be free to incorporate his own ideas, which he did, and one of those was to cut down on Alice's appearances. His argument: he didn't want his writers to be bound by a lot of husband-wife sketches and he felt the show would get in a rut that way. He thereupon had George talk of Alice in the monologues to keep the character alive, he was to have her appear in a few shows, and he further changed George's opening remarks by giving him a chance to do more illustration along with his banter, such as he did when he explained the satellites in a recent program.

There are those who have argued that these changes have not been for the better, that Gobel's show is not up to past standards. There have been those who have felt the writing was not up to par — and there has been a basis for a certain amount of argument here. And there have been some who felt that the guest star bit was wearing thin since too many of the guests just didn't deliver.

So was George being experimented with too much? Was he losing his audience? Did viewers resent Jeff Donnell's departure since they automatically like to identify certain characters with a show? Were guest stars no longer serving their purpose?

Questions

To take these questions one by one: as for George's being experimented too much with, to an extent this might be true but the better answer is that there has been an attempt not to let this show get into a rut, an attempt to keep it alive and growing. Viewers have resented Jeff's departure and with reason. They resented it so much when she was going to be off last season that she was then brought back. The same thing could happen again, but no one is too sure how gracefully it could be done considering Jeff's abrupt cancellation. On the matter of George's losing his audience, his ratings are around 24 and remain that way consistently. This is a good record and proves that he maintains a certain loyal audience, week after week.

As for the guest stars, the argument here is that to attract the fringe audience, those who aren't devoted Gobel listeners, you have to have big names who will have appeal. But there is a problem since many of the big names have already appeared on the show and there is only so much more that can be done in this field. Stars who appear with George have to be chosen for an off-beat appeal, as a contrast to Gobel. Not every name can fit in on this show.

This is admittedly a problem that has to be treated carefully.

There is also the argument that David O'Malley, George's manager, has too much to say and that George hasn't enough. The fact of the matter is that O'Malley is hardly ever around at rehearsals, he seldom takes active part in production except for deciding on such issues as who will appear as guest star. His main concern is protecting George and his future — and he's for his man 100 percent. It is O'Malley who brought George up to the present position he now has. It is O'Malley who got him on TV and got him starring roles in two pictures, "The Birds and the Bees" and "I Married a Woman," the last still to be released. It is O'Malley who has done everything to safeguard George's future — financially and professionally. Maybe he gets in people's hair at times, but his interest is George and not in getting every Tom, Dick and Harry to think he is the greatest person alive.

Apparently, George, then, is being treated all right. The ones who think he's not being treated right are possibly forgetting one important point — that TV is a man-eater. It gobbles up talent. It is proof that, with some, familiarity breeds contempt. And that George may appear to a few to be given the bum's rush only because they have seen him too often. No comic can come up with a riotous show every week — not even Georgie — so give him a few clinkers and the reports start that he is about to be kaput.

So — nobody is doing our boy harm except the fickleness of the public and TV's menacing devouring of talent.

What Every Young Girl Should Know . . .

— if she wants to be a successful TV director.

Matinee Theater's
Livia Granito is completely honest about what to expect.

By Bill Kelsay

TV DIRECTING isn't just a man's world—as Livia Granito proves. The young lady has more than proved she has talent.

LIVIA GRANITO, Matinee Theater's only woman director, shows Richard Crane and Karen Sharpe how she wants a love scene done.

IF YOU happen to be on the set of one of NBC Matinee Theater's productions, you might well think the dark-eyed, black-haired girl is one of the actresses—except that she is giving the orders.

She is Livia (pronounce it "Leave-ya") Granito, one of the ten directors who rotate assignments on Albert McCleery's gigantic color experiment in daytime programming.

After you talk with her awhile, you find she is as honest as she is attractive—honest to admit that a woman should not try to compete with a man on the same terms.

"There's no question that prejudice exists in business," she says. "But the prejudice encompasses only promotion. If a job is open, it almost automatically goes to a man—if there is one available.

"However, once you have the promotion, I have found the prejudice dissipates. Of course, at first you are watched a little more closely than your male counterpart would be, but once you have proven yourself, there are very definite advantages to being a woman.

"For one thing, the crew adopts a protective attitude that even extends to your personal comfort. On one show things were so rushed, I didn't have time for breakfast. There happened to be a kitchen scene in the story—with real bacon and eggs. One of the crew walked over and asked 'How do you want your eggs, Livia? Scrambled or sunny side up?'

"They were delicious," she adds with a grin.

New Medium

Television is still a new medium, and as such is freer of the old taboos against women, according to Livia.

"We don't have time for taboos," she explains. "We are constantly harried by time, which is why live television is a young people's field.

"More and more young women are finding positions of responsibility in the medium—the ones who can succeed and still be a woman. There are two types of women who never succeed in fields generally conceded to be men's work.

"One is the ostentatiously feminine girl. She tries to get ahead on sex appeal, and the men who are her bosses find her amusing. If she tries to be serious, they laugh at her. This is fatal.

"The other is the pushy, stereotyped, masculine girl. She tries to act like a man. She tries to dress like a man. And she even swears like a man. And regardless of who she is, it makes a man uncomfortable to hear a woman swear. It reminds him faster than anything else that she is a woman—and he is embarrassed."

But how does a woman get started in television production?

Again, Livia is honest. She readily admits that luck enters the picture, but she points out, too, that you can help the fickle lady look your way.

"In the first place, you aren't apt to get an assignment in television if you are working in a lawyer's office. The obvious thing is to get a job near the people who are doing the work you want to do, which more often than not means a job that pays less money than some others.

"Once you have the job, the next step is to learn all you can. My style of directing is frankly copied from Mr. McCleery. I observed his methods, analyzed his reasons for doing a scene one way rather than another.

"Gradually, of course, you assume your own style, but it is a melding of styles, actually. Anyone who is too proud to learn from the boss will go nowhere."

There is one thing about which Livia is completely honest.

"Most people think that my job as a television director is exciting and thrilling and glamorous.

"Well, let me tell you," she says, "it is!"
