INSPIRE THE PEN

Jean Calvin, LaVerne

Would you please print that we would like to have anyone interested in joining Betty White's fan club to write to me, Jeanie Calvin, Box 93, LaVerne, Calif.

I will give them the information about joining the club. I am the new membership chairman of Bets Pets.

WANNA JOIN HER CLUB?

GUTTY?

P. N. G., Yucaipa

It seems to me that Ed Sullivan is the only one that has the guts to have Elvis Presley appear on his show.

T. M., Norwalk

I think Elvis Presley sounds like a walrus caught in an avalanche.

Mrs. A. O., Los Angeles

When Do You Trust Your Wife and all the other big money quiz shows first came out, the TV audience was led to believe that anyone could apply and if they had an interesting story to tell they would be selected to appear on the show. Now it seems the movie stars, both past and present and the old "has-beens" are monopolizing all the big money quiz programs.

Aren't the movie star's earnings high enough from other sources? I'm sure that Vincent Price, Cornel Wilde, Errol Flynn and all the others have sufficient incomes to live in luxury without monopolizing quiz shows which originally were meant for us, the public.

Mrs. G. V. D., Lynwood

I agree that Father Knows Best is the best family show. Each member of the family seems to exactly fit their part.

Mrs. F. K. B., Los Angeles

Wanted to let you know how much we enjoy the new show, Mr. Adams and Eve. I think Howard Duff and Ida Lupino are a wonderful couple.

No Name, Inglewood

It is my opinion that Channel 11 and Ed Reimers should be soundly reprimanded for using very bad taste in reporting - if that's what they call it - on the incident of the Pacoima tragedy.

Three glaring errors stand out:

(1) The photographing of the search for bodies and parts of same. Bad enough in itself for TV, especially so with groups of smiling, chatting men in foreground.

(2) Ed Reimers "interviewing" of a little boy, obviously in shock, and trying to push him to remember details that the poor boy could better have forgotten. Would Mr. Reimers' have allowed this to be done to his son?

(3) The announcing of names of men whom they "thought" had been in the planes, and were killed.

Since when does news reporting have to be done on such a low, rubber-necking scale? Couldn't pertinent news have been plugged over the station without pictures? Couldn't much, much more good have been done by the reporter's breaking in and warning sight-seers to stay away?

There are some people who rush to see an accident or a fire and thereby impede the progress of fire and hospital help. Let us hope that Channel 11's viewers are for the most part not in this low-level class of individuals.

I'm omitting my name because I came home from work and found my daughter, 10, (in the home of a friend who was caring for her) watching this program. It made me ill. Needless to say I took my daughter home.

Looks like the TV stations can't win. They report the news - and the public dislikes. They don't report the news and the public dislikes it more. Granted, it was not a pleasant thing, but what difference is there between a TV station and a newspaper?

LOSES SHOW . . . GAINS FRIEND

A. H., Whittier

I was so disappointed to hear that Jack Webb's Noah's Ark is to leave the TV. We need good clean, entertaining shows without murder, shooting and gang stuff.

Mrs. G. C., Malibu

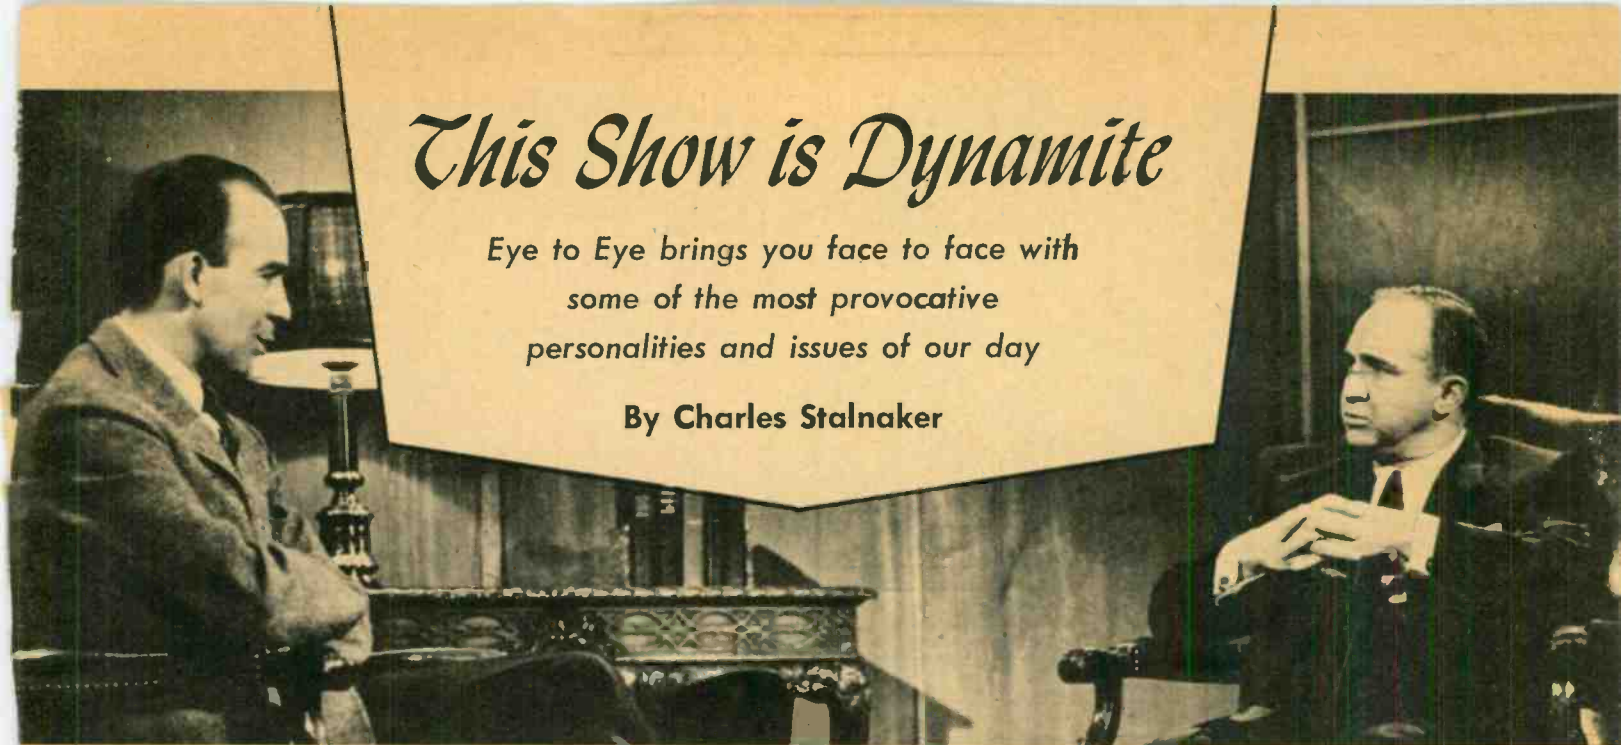

Since reading that Noah's Ark and My Friend Flicka programs are to be taken off the air, I've been boiling mad - and so have many of my friends. Both these programs are fine, clean shows and highly entertaining to both children and adults.

BILL STOUT INTERVIEWING THE COLORFUL MICKEY COHEN

A STORM in the form of a television show has hit the video tube in Southern California. Called Eye To Eye, it emanates from KNXT — Channel 2 and is the brainchild of newscaster Bill Stout with the approval of station manager Clark George.

The intent of the program is as emcee Stout, reporter extraordinaire, puts it "to interest the entire public with interviews on provocative personalities that are in the public's eye from day to day. We do not intend to raise controversial public questions, but questions that have to do with the individual personality who is being interviewed. Sometimes when I ask them intentional leading and pointed questions the people begin to squirm and become uneasy. I might add that I do not put them on a spot because of my personal feeling, but from the unbiased position of a news reporter."

The Reporter

Bill Stout is well qualified to emcee this show since he began his reporting career at the age of 19. He has seen lots of experience in this field, both here in this country and abroad. He has toured Europe, ferreting out magazine articles from every country therein. Returning to this country, he got the assignment as night radio editor for the Associated Press in Minneapolis. Three years later, he joined the American Broadcasting Company. After two years with ABC, he joined the Columbia Broadcasting System where he has been reporting ever since.

While at CBS, Stout has broadcast and edited Ten O'Clock Wire and is probably most familiar with Southern Californians for his Special Assignment portion of The Big News and KNXT's award-winning Focus on Delinquency, public affairs series. This experience well qualifies Bill for the controversial Eye to Eye series.

BILL STOUT as he might look when he has a personality in a precarious position.

This half-hour show intends to show all sides of a personality possible in the prescribed length of time. Naturally, this involves a good deal of search in order to get all salient facts about the person to be interviewed.

KNXT has a thorough researcher in Sheldon Karlan. When the guest is decided upon, Sheldon goes to work getting all the information he can possibly find for Bill. After the information is assembled, Stout goes to work editing the material, keeping all the provocative data intact to pass on to his viewers. Sometimes the questions asked the guest personality and the ensuing discussion get pretty hot, but as Bill puts it, "The guest and I do not go into the show agreeing on the approach beforehand. This would not only be lowering the integrity of the show, but it would also be doubting the television audience's intelligence as well.

Evidently the integrity of the show as well as the personality has been proven to the public's satisfaction, since the mail and telephone response has been of extraordinary high approval. According to Bill, "We received telephone calls on our first show before it went off the air. Four days after this, he had received 83 pieces of mail. All were in approval of the show except two, one of which was anonymous. I don't count this as a disapproval since anyone who does not have the courage to sign his name to something should not be counted anyway."

Liability

After seeing this show, the audience might wonder if there is any danger of the station's or Bill Stout's being sued for libel by someone who is inadvertently referred to on this program.

"It is not the station's intention to expose or slander anyone, so this is avoided," Bill states. "If I see that the discussion is getting involved and might lead to some embarrassing answers for me as well as the station, I simply channel the talk along other lines. As for the guest, he signs a document before he goes on the air, releasing the station from any legal action he might see fit to take."

Regardless of such precaution, Eye to Eye is a hot number to try to handle. It will probably blister a few hands during its TV stay — all of which serves to intrigue and, it is hoped, inform its viewers.

CLIFFIE STONE'S NEW FIND ...

Tommy Sands

Genial Cliffie is a real starmaker deluxe. What else can you call a man who has zoomed Tennessee Ernie Ford, Molly Bee and Joanie O'Brien to success? Now watch this Tommy Sands.

By Jack Holland

RECENTLY, when young 19-year-old Tommy Sands registered a socko hit on Kraft Theater in "The Singing Idol," there was one man who was very proud of the kid's success and who could easily say, "I told you so." That man was Cliffie Stone.

To many, Cliffie is the genial gentleman who has a very entertaining Hometown Jamboree on KTLA. But to others he is a man who has built Tennessee Ernie Ford, Molly Bee, Joanie O'Brien (although he doesn't manage her now) to success. Tommy Sands is his most recent "find" and is a guy who is a cinch to be a big name. Already the boy has had offers from every major motion picture studio after his work in "The Singing Idol," TV companies are after him, and Capitol Records has him under contract with his latest recording being "Teen Age Crush." Not long ago Tommy also appeared on Ernie Ford's NBC-TV night-time show, which did much towards drawing more attention to him.

Discovered Tommy

Cliffie found Tommy in a most unusual way. One day his phone rang and a voice on the other end said quietly, "Mr. Stone? I'm Tommy Sands. I'd like to audition for you." Cliffie was used to this sort of thing. Hundreds of hopefuls have called him and he has tried to see as many as possible. He asked Tommy what he had done and the boy listed a few credits and said he had been on Victor records. Cliffie checked, discovered the discs Tommy had made a couple of years ago, listened to them, found they were not good because the boy's voice hadn't changed yet, but still he called Tommy to come down to Harmony Park ballroom, where he does his TV show.

"The minute I saw Tommy I liked his looks, his attitude, and, above all, the respect he showed for others," Cliffie said. "I put him on later in the evening and the response was quite favorable. I called him back the next week and again he did some songs for us. The following Saturday I put him on the TV show and the audience seemed to like him. The big splash came when I had Tommy sing 'I Almost Lost My Mind' one evening on TV. This was a song Pat Boone had made very popular, and, with all due respect to Pat, whom I admire, I think Tommy sang it better. This did it! He was a smash."

Shortly after that, Tommy got the call from NBC-TV's Kraft Theater to do "The Singing Idol," a show that had a little resemblance to the life of Elvis Presley, although it wasn't based on the Pelvis' life. Tommy was in!

"I kept watching Tommy," Cliffie went on. "I waited for him to pull something, for this respect to die out, but this kid had no gimmick. He was real, honest, a great boy. He's a sensitive, thoughtful, kind kid and he is going to go far."

"I enjoy finding new talent. I would say that in over eight years I have auditioned about 500 kids a year. So out of this number I have only found really four who became stars, but I still insist that there is more promising undiscovered talent lying around than there are stars in the business. And these youngsters have no place to show what they can do except in country field like mine. After all, though, it is from the country field that most of our big stars came from."

Talent Scout

"I have an advantage, I admit, over most talent scouts. I can stand on the bandstand and watch the faces of the audience while a kid is performing. They tell me, to a great extent, whether or not he has something. Naturally, I rely on my own instinct too. But our audience is a great test because we're a family show. Parents bring their children to the ballroom, the same ages watch the television program. So when a piece of talent goes over with this kind of audience, it's a good yardstick."

"I'm working on Tommy the same way as I did with Ernie and Molly Bee. When he first joined me he wanted to sing the songs that were most popular, but I got him to singing hymns, western music, rock and roll, popular ballads, and he even did commercials on our radio show."

Cliffie and Tennessee Ernie Ford started out together — so it wasn't that Cliffie "auditioned" Ernie. They have always been close friends. Equally important, they respect each other and have the same basic interests. Their lives parallel too since both had the same kind of childhood and both were raised in religious homes.

As for Molly Bee, Cliffie has been like a father to her ever since her father died a few years ago. She turns to him for advice as well as for business matters, although he prefers not to mix into the private lives of any of his clients unless he is specifically asked to.

It is significant to note that Cliffie has no signed contracts with any of his people. As he put it, "A contract is only something both sides can point to and say, 'This is something you didn't do.' I wouldn't want an artist who stuck to me only because of a contract. Some artists have to have a signed and sealed document, but I don't like to deal with such people.

"I'm more of a counselor and friend than I am a manager anyway. Besides, I like to keep on doing my show. It gives me a certain independence. I don't have to depend on what any of my clients do to earn my living — and this is best."

Cliffie has his own way of seeing if a young person has talent and much of his knowledge of what makes for success stems from his two years with Capitol Records as head of their Country Record Department.

"I look for background, where the kid was raised, the kind of family life, things he or she wants to do and be as much as I do for a voice or a personality," Cliffie commented. "After all, though, each young person has a different quality so it's wrong to make any hard and fast rules. There is no secret key for finding a talent that can lead to a lasting — and I do mean a lasting — success."

Tommy Sands has that indefinable something that augurs well for a brilliant future — or so Cliffie believes. And once you talk to him, as I did, you ride right along with Cliffie. This kid has it.

Tommy

Tommy was still up in the clouds over his success on Kraft — and still amazed he had ever been chosen for the part. That's the nice thing about this boy — as Cliffie pointed out, he can't believe it's all happened to him and he is so grateful he can hardly put what he feels into words.

"When Kraft was planning to do this show, they called Colonel Parker, Elvis Presley's manager, and asked for Elvis, but he couldn't do it, so Colonel Parker recommended me for the spot," Tommy said. "I had worked with him in 1952, 1953, 1954, and 1955 on some show and he remembered me. I am very grateful to him.

"I've been lucky to know two such fine men as Colonel Parker and Cliffie Stone. Cliffie is a great guy, the greatest. I don't know what I'd do without him."

Cliffie has only managed Tommy for a little over seven months, so you can see how fast this boy has gone up that ladder. But the night he did "The Singing Idol" Tommy wasn't at all sure he'd ever be around for another show.

"I was so nervous before that show went on," he admitted. "I thought I was going to have a breakdown. I felt so small and so inexperienced to be playing the lead in a production like this. When they were counting off the last ten seconds before air time I got in a real panic because I couldn't even remember my first line. But once the show was on, I relaxed and everything ran smoothly."

While Tommy emphasized the rock and roll beat in this particular show, he is actually more of a pop singer. He loves ballads, but he'll do whatever is in demand — calypso, rock and roll, anything. His "Teen Age Crush" record backed by "Hep-de-Hootie" is, obviously, a rock and roll number. In its first few weeks on sale, it sold over 500,000 records.

After Tommy finished "The Singing Idol" he was asked to make an appearance in a Chicago record store and autograph his record. At first, he and Capitol Records were afraid he might not draw anyone — that the appearance would be a dud, but over 3,000 kids stormed the place and even broke the store windows down trying to get inside to see him.

Tommy is interested in all phases of the entertainment business — acting as well as singing. He once acted in little theater groups in his home town of Houston, Texas. He left Houston two years ago and now lives with his mother in Hollywood. As for any romantic inclinations — nothing.

"Just say I'm looking around," Tommy laughed.

Right now a girl would have to take second place to Tommy's passionate interest in horses. His ambition is to own a ranch and raise thoroughbreds. He once owned his own horse when he lived in Shreveport, Louisiana, and he's never gotten over his love of riding.

Unfortunately, he isn't able to ride a horse to work here in Hollywood. It would be of help since he has no car. He walks to almost all his appointments just because he likes to.

"I walk about six or seven miles a day," he said.

Tommy is an avid student of other singers too, but he has four favorites — Tennessee Ernie Ford, Frank Sinatra, Nat "King" Cole, and Elvis Presley.

"These boys send me," he said. "No one can touch Ernie on hymns; Elvis is great for the down-to-earth American blues; Frank is best for the jump song; and Nat for the ballads. Boy! What they can teach a guy!"

Cliffie Stone has hardly ever been wrong about a new talent and he thinks Tommy Sands is the hottest bet he's seen in a long time. Nobody feels like arguing with Cliffie about that one.

Co-stars and co-pilots Ken Tobey and Craig Hill have no complaints because

THEY PLAY SECOND FIDDLE

TO A Whirlybird

WHEN two relatively unknown actors are chosen to star in a new syndicated series—that's news.

But when the same two men have to play second fiddle to a Whirlybird — that's a story!

And that's exactly what has happened of late to Kenneth Tobey and Craig Hill, the co-stars and co-pilots of the new KHJ-TV series called Whirlybirds.

"Actually," they both explain, "we're not the stars. The Whirlybird is. We're just co-featured."

Offhand, it seems a bit ridiculous to have a helicopter featured in a TV series. But not when the Tobey-Hill team explains the soundness of such an idea.

"This Whirlybird can fly anywhere and do anything. What could be more natural for an exciting TV series? And if you'll check your daily newspapers, you'll see that a helicopter makes page one several times a week on some kind of a mission."

On Location

Both actors actually made the pilot film for this Desilu production over a year ago. Now syndicated from coast-to-coast, with Channel 9 showing it in the Los Angeles market, the Whirlybird crew is up at four in the morning to go out on location.

"We shoot some material at the studio," the boys explain, "but most of it is on location. After all, a plane doesn't have much room to maneuver in a studio."

For both men, Whirlybirds is their first big TV assignment.

Red-head Ken Tobey, a San Franciscan by birth and a former political science major at the University of California, is a veteran of numerous Broadway plays and motion pictures. His "big break" came in 1950 when he was selected to play the leading role in Howard Hawks' production of "The Thing."

A bachelor until he was 31, Tobey married band vocalist Penny Parker in 1950.

Buddies

In contrast, his co-pilot, Craig Hill, is still a bachelor in private life. A native of Los Angeles, and a former law student at the University of Southern California, Craig labored as a landscaper, truck driver, shipping clerk and door-to-door vacuum cleaner salesman before getting his "big break" as Jeanne Crain's boyfriend in "Cheaper by the Dozen."

"Actually, I didn't want the Whirlybird part the day my agent told me to go down to try out. I was doing too many other things in movies and TV. But I went and tried out, anyhow. Now I'm glad it happened. I guess I just didn't realize then how important this role was."

Unknown to each other before they did the pilot together, Hill and Tobey have become buddies.

"We don't care if we only get second billing to a bird," they explain. "At least there are no arguments. Who can outtalk a whirling propeller!"

THEY'RE OFF! ...AT THE HARNESS RACES

THIS IS THE FOURTH AND FINAL WEEK of the exciting harness races, the feature race of which is telecast by KNXT, Channel 2, every Saturday afternoon. Under the modern day setting of beautiful Santa Anita Park in Arcadia, these horses are truly poetry in motion.

THE "LIVE" CALLING of the Western Harness Feature Race on KNXT is ably handled by veteran race announcer Roy Shudt.

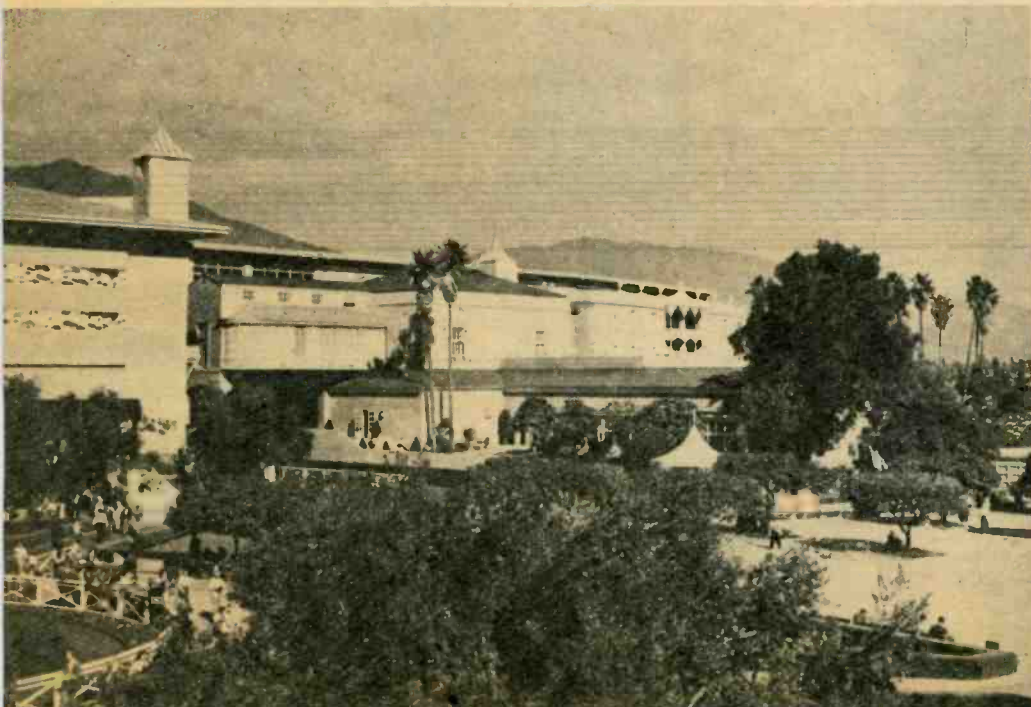

ACTOR JAMES CAGNEY whispers a few words of encouragement to Dottie's Pick, one of the all time greats in harness racing.

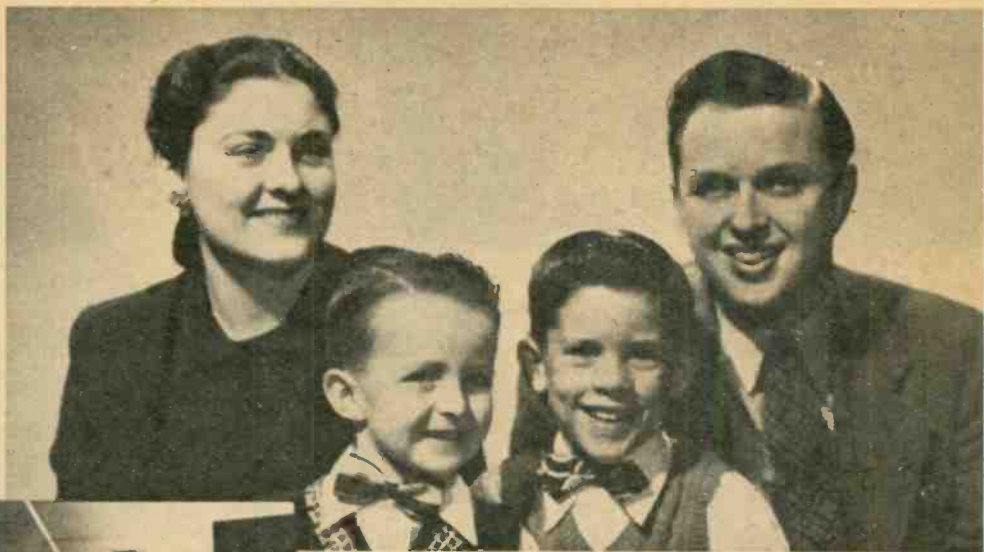

KNXT SPORTS DIRECTOR GIL STRATTON, recent Emmy award winner as the top sports-caster in Southern California, handles the color on the Saturday telecasts.

EVEN THOSE WHO DON'T BET at the race track — or lose — still figure they're winners for spending a pleasant day in this delightful atmosphere. Of course it's even nicer — if you can take home some winnings.

BILL STEWART: THE DEEJAY WHO REALLY KNOWS MUSIC

THE BILL STEWART FAMILY: Hubby Bill, wife Dusty, and their sons, Dick and Jim, taken several years ago. Working nights at KMPC, Bill gets a chance to spend much of his time at home during the day.

THERE ARE MANY DISC JOCKEYS on radio today who admit that they are not experts on music; they say their main job is to sell the products and spin the records. KMPC's Bill Stewart is one of the exceptions—he knows his music, and also sells the product. Above, he presents Rosemary Clooney, "the apple of his eye," with an appropriate apple.

AS A SERGEANT with the Armed Forces Radio Services, Bill (on the left) became acquainted with the top recording stars in the nation. Below, he chats at the Hollywood Bowl with a man in the pin-striped suit whose voice and face is fairly familiar to a few people: Frank Sinatra, by name.

POPULAR DANNY KAYE AND BILL check over some of the songs Bill has scheduled for his KMPC program. Also unlike some deejays, Bill picks his own music so he knows what he's talking about.

AS PART OF EXTRA-CURRICULAR ACTIVITIES, Stewart has handled the Miss Santa Barbara contest preparatory to the final selection of Miss America.

MILANI MARKS MILESTONE

When Channel 7's Chef (Giuseppe Leopoldo) Milani recently celebrated his 65th birthday anniversary, the main event was, appropriately enough, a gala luncheon of the Hollywood Ad Club. Here a Blossom Roomful of friends gathered to honor the Italian who came to this country and learned the art of cooking from Monsieur Bennett at Palmer House. Milani opened his first restaurant in Chicago when he was only 19.

During World War II, Milani supervised the planning and did most of the cooking and buying of meals for more than 3 million servicemen at Hollywood Canteen. Largest dinner he has ever cooked was for 10,000 guests honoring Gov. Charles Martin of Oregon.

Milani entered radio in 1928, since then has appeared on this medium and TV for more than 3900 hours.

Lifelines

BY EVELYN BIGSBY

TELEVISION GAVE THE MOVIES a wonderful coast-to-coast ride the other night when the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences held its 29th Annual Oscar Awards. But the sponsor, Oldsmobile, did not "inflict" his message on the packed house at RKO Pantages Hollywood Theater, where the western portion of the ceremonies was televised by NBC.

THOSE OF US WHO SAT IN the theater had our commercials blacked out because last year the attendees objected to the way the sponsor's plugs were handled. In fact, as I remember, they paid very little attention to the commercials, buzzing and creating such a disturbance that some of the TV folk were almost embarrassed. So perhaps it was better that when our monitor screens went blank this year that Jerry Lewis clowned around with the orchestra and cut up a few other time-consuming capers. For one crack he said that those interested could see the Olds spots the next afternoon between 4 and 5 o'clock in one of the Paramount projection rooms!

SEEING THESE AWARDS "LIVE" is always a thrill and now that the TV Academy has finally come around to forgetting about its dinner in conjunction with its Emmy telecast, I hope the next step will be to lens the television awards from a theater. There's a gala air to the entire set-up for which no other place can substitute.

WITHOUT EXCEPTION, THE FEMININE stars participating looked lovely — its was merely a matter of degree. Chiffon was by far the most popular material for the dresses and champagne the most favored shade. Deborah Kerr chose it and so did Elizabeth Taylor, especially luscious looking in her Grecian type gown with small tiara atop her black hair. Janet Gaynor's creation was a dusty pink, most becoming to her short, greying hair, Marge Champion was in white. Julie London wore a long white formal splashed with big pink roses. Anna Magnani, whose ovation was huge, was in steel grey with matching fur. Everyone was in best bib and tucker. If you've never seen the set-up on the street outside the theater, you've missed a part of Hollywood. Cars creeping up to the entrance to disgorge the lucky ticket holders, bleachers jammed on both sides of the approach and across the street. Klieg lights, police officers, cameramen going wild with their wealth of material. While the photographers were ganging up on their biggest game, Yul Brynner, someone spied one husky chap standing alone with his wife on the sidelines. It was last year's winner, Ernest Borgnine, and his missus!

BETTY WHITE FANS CAN NOW COUNT on May 3 as date for her new show's debut. It'll be seen on ABC-TV, Fridays, 9:30 p.m. and presuming it stays on into Fall (and it should, because we've had reports that the films already shot are very clever) Betty and her co-star, Bill Williams, will fall heirs to the time slot after Frank Sinatra. The network is waiting for Bill to recover from the bruises he suffered in his recent auto accident before shooting special art for the TV-Radio Life story already in the works. Name of show is Date With the Angels, a married couple comedy.

Tunnel

DUG BY JACK HOLLAND

TELEVISION and this town in general owe a good sized debt to Ralph Edwards. And why? Because this man has lived a life that is exemplary for all, a life of unselfishness, of sincere devotion to his job and to his fellow workers, a life based on the highest of principles. He is someone all can point to with pride. Few people know of all the good Ralph does, of his little acts of kindness, the people he has kept on his payroll even though he no longer has needed their services. Those close to him remember one period of many months when Ralph himself had no job and yet he kept every single one of his employees on salary, paid their salaries out of his own pocket until he got another job, and until they got jobs too. Some have said This Is Your Life is too hammy, too sentimental, too emotional, but it's a show Ralph has always believed in. It points up the good in people and there are too few productions like this, too few men or women interested in recognizing and honoring good. Ralph Edwards has long deserved recognition for the fine life he has lived and is living. This is our little pat on the back.

Several have commented recently, "Why, I was surprised seeing Bob Cummings play a gunman on that GE Theater show. I didn't know he could play serious roles." Here is one of the dangers of having a successful TV show, such as Bob has. After seeing him as Bob Collins on The Bob Cummings Show there is a tendency to think of him only as a comedian. And yet don't forget that Bob began his career in pictures playing serious roles. He is a fine dramatic actor. He won an Emmy a couple of years back as the best actor for his performance in "12 Angry Men." He was very smart to do this GE show. Let's hope he does more serious things.

This tunnel thinks Walt Disney and Disneyland are great so it bothers us to hear so many kids complaining about the number of repeats on Disneyland. Frankly, these youngsters have a point. There are far too many on the show and this is a fine way to lose audience. I realize that films such as Walt puts out are very, very expensive, but there is a definite obligation he owes to his loyal and devoted audience.

Methinks Teddy Nadler is staying on The $64,000 Challenge just too long. I have heard several people complain about this. However, the problem is — who is going to get him off? Granted, he is a fascinating contestant, an amazing man, but any show can slide into a rut if one person remains too long. Charles Van Doren was able to maintain his popularity on 21 for several weeks because of his own delightful and charming personality. But how often do you find a man like this on a quiz show? Nadler just doesn't have that same appeal — at least in this columnist's opinion.

Roddy McDowall on Matinee Theater again April 4, having appeared first on March 28. Roddy seldom does any shows on the west coast, New York being his home now, but Matinee offered him two scripts that intrigued him enough to make the trip out here. He unfortunately won't remain long since he's due to start work soon on an Alcoa Aluminum Hour show in New York. It would be good to see him stay around these parts for a few months at least because he'd be kept busy enough doing TV. "You can't hardly get talent like his any more."

There's a good deal of talk about town about Luana Patten's attitude these days. The general idea is that she's being given the wrong advice. Those who know her would like to remind her that she's just getting started on a new career as an adult actress, that she should be grateful for the breaks. She was happy, however, at Disney's, where she made "Johnny Tremain." She's a good talent and a cute girl and she can go far — if she watches her step.

HE WAS born March 25, 1957, at 11:41 a.m., weighed seven pounds fifteen ounces and his name is Justin (I want him to learn early how to defend himself). He was delivered by Dr. Forrest Boyd, who seems to have a knack for delivering first class male and wife, Josephine was out working in the fields again in two hours. I'll be up and around, myself in a couple of weeks.

"Roughly Speaking." (5) April 7, 7:30. I think no one has ever had quite as much trouble in a film as Rosalind Russell has in this one. She is born into a wealthy family and they go broke. She grows up, marries bank clerk Donald Woods, has four kids, all of whom get polio, and then they go broke. Woods divorces her for some reason or other and she marries wealthy playboy Jack Carson, whose father keeps him broke. They try an airplane venture, find a million dollars backing, the depression comes and everybody's broke. Finally, the war comes and everyone gets into it. I don't know the ending but it will probably have her corporal coming home a private . . . they broke him, of course.

"Story of Vernon and Irene Castle." (9) Beginning April 9, 9:00. 1938, I think. This designed for entertainment movie starring Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers probably doesn't have too much to do with the actual lives of the famous dance team but I can promise you lots of dancing and singing . . . everyone has the hoof and mouth disease. (The foregoing was an insert joke used in this column every six months.)

"Suez." (11) March 7, 9:00. Tyrone Power is Ferdinand de Lesseps and de Lesseps built the Suez Canal and now who's responsible for that sticky business over there. Sticking to the facts, for the most part, so I'm assured, this biography delineates de Lesseps' struggles against the usual insurmountable obstacles. The distaff side is represented by Annabella, as the daughter of a French officer, and Loretta Young, as the Empress Eugenie, who helped Ferdinand. All I can say is, some guys would rather dig ditches than get an honest job.

Pick OF THE Pix

BY AUBREY DAHL

"Four Ways Out." (2) April 9, 11:00. An Italian picture of recent vintage, I believe. Four men pull a robbery and go their separate ways in an effort to escape. One goes to his wife, another winds up on a ledge for some reason, but the cleverest of the bunch goes to Gina Lollobrigida's apartment. She's his sweetheart, you see, which is why it occurred to him. I wish I could think fast like that.

"Boomerang." (11) April 10, 7:00. I reviewed this excellent movie once before, but it was cancelled and is now scheduled again. You can watch the first half, if you like, but then get over to the Hollywood Repertory Theatre, to see "Hill 33," a play by my brother, Barding, which is being directed by his brother, Aubrey. It opens on the 10th and it's magnificent. "Boomerang?" Oh, it was directed by Elia Kazan.

"The Chaser." (11) April 9, 10:15. Just a little beer, buddy . . . I'm making boilers.

"On Camera"

Meet The Press,
Sunday, 6 p.m.
NBC-TV, Ch. 4

In view of the heavy mortality of television shows, it is interesting at times to re-appraise certain programs that have withstood the rigors of the rating ax.

Meet the Press has perhaps become as permanent an institution as possible in the "come and go" traffic of a whimsical medium is largely dedicated and geared to the selling of products rather than offering quality entertainment.

There is an astringent sharpness to this program of bright minds at work as top newsmen probe and prod headline-makers. The headline-maker who many times exists behind a facade of the printed word and is flanked with public relations experts, becomes a different personality in a no-holds-barred verbal scrimmage. In a medium all too often given to dignifying human banality, Meet the Press offers a stimulating candor, a boldness in questioning that has become muted in too many of us because of social proprieties which forbid the asking of a question disturbing to its recipient. Without mincing words, the questions of Meet the Press are incisive and penetrating. And the hedged and guarded answer to such interrogation has tough sledding.

Seeing top newsmen at work, one becomes aware that the professional reporter is something else again than depicted by many scriptwriters. Although the American newspaperman has become almost as highly a romanticized stereotype as the cowboy, it is time that he be re-evaluated in terms of reality. That such will, no doubt, soon come to pass may be attributed to television in bringing before the public the true picture of these professionals at work. It becomes increasingly hard for audiences to swallow the general tripe purporting to show a newspaperman at work when they can view the real thing. The reporter is in need of a Jack Webb.

In Meet the Press the knowledge of the reportorial panel is in refreshing contrast to the type knowledge dispensed on the quiz shows. That is, the knowledge is a purposeful tool with relationship and connection to the surrounding world rather than encased in a glass booth as a competitive game with a jack-pot payoff. There will always be audiences to watch a high-stake gambling game whether it be in Las Vegas, Monte Carlo, or in a living room before a television screen, but whatever the ratings may proclaim, there does seem to be a more significant purpose for human knowledge and intelligence.

All in all, Meet the Press offers much to be grateful for.

Fred Beck says:

"What would YOU do if you found out your best friend was an octopus eater?"

One time my friend Matt Weinstock, Mirror-News columnist, invited me to tag along with him to dinner at the home of a bachelor movie director who has a Japanese girl cook.

We ate dinner flat on the floor suki-yaki style.

When dinner was over Mr. Weinstock burped softly and said: "The octopus was superb."

"Octopus!" I screamed. "What octopus?"

Weinstock chuckled. "Heh-heh-heh-heh." And all the time I (Beck) thought it was boiled New England dinner a la Ming Toy.

Months passed and I forgot about the octopus. Again Weinstock invited me to dinner even if I am only a disc jockey and this time we took Hilda and Neill. (Wives. Mine has a boy's name - Neill.) This time it was a sort of Russian Chuck Wagon dinner at Franya's house and this time the octopus, boiled, was served whole. Big octopus. Dinner for eight. Each person got a drum stick.

As a boy I had hopes of becoming a river boat gambler and I practiced sleight-of-hand - and thus I was able to cut up my octopus and sort of slip it surreptitiously into Neill's purse. When we got home I found her octopus in my coat pocket . . . but the main thing is, now I KNEW. My best friend - an octopus eater.

Okay - let him have his octopus. I'll stick with things that everybody likes, such as KoldKist Fresh Frozen Cooked Foods and Meat Products.

Now let me tell you how to serve something real good - Swiss Steak a la KoldKist.

Chop an onion, green pepper and brown it in a tbs. of cooking oil . . . and we're now out of space - so - just drop me a line care of TV-RADIO LIFE and we'll send you the recipe plus other very good KoldKist recipes.

Meanwhile get ready - buy several packages of KoldKist Beef Steaks and hold them in your freezer. All the best markets in the vicinity carry KoldKist. 'S' wonderful.

and became engaged. Each person responding to the ad (they ranged in age from 21 to 90) filled out a simple card with large type, then was photographed, card and all, by a mechanism similar to ones used in markets for cashing checks. There will be another questionnaire sent out to selected ones from this first group. This will have 32 questions and will be on punch cards. Thus the way will be paved for UNIVAC to play Cupid.

JUST FOR FUN, ART INSISTED, he picked two persons from the audience to demonstrate "the old fashioned way of getting acquainted." The man was 40, but looked younger, the girl was 23. He was sitting right behind her when Art made his selection. After some quizzing it turned out that they had a tremendous amount of interests in common, including both having had their previous marriages annulled. Wouldn't it be strange if UNIVAC picked them as ideal mates?

VIVACIOUS ELEANOR HEMPEL, back on the KTTV lanes, is especially thrilled about the widened appeal of her program which is now for the entire family. One segment covers even pre-natal care. She's starting an Indian lore section and will wear authentic costumes from Southwest Museum . . . Dale Evans Rogers' latest book, "To My Son," has the same warmth of her others and you'll like it . . . Alice Lon was telling me how cordial Mrs. Eisenhower was when the Welk gang played for the Inaugural balls. Seeing the little singer approach the receiving line, Mamie reached out, grasped the rather awe-struck Alice's hand and exclaimed, "Oh, you're just like an old friend. I watch you all the time." Alice confessed, "If I'd come back home without meeting the Chief and his First Lady my three youngsters wouldn't have let me in the front door!"

Record Notes

by Andy Mansfield

TO those of you familiar with our radio shows on KFI (TURN BACK THE CLOCK, Mon. thru Fri, 8:45 a.m. — and AMERICA'S POPULAR MUSIC, Sat. 9:30 p.m.) it might come as a shock to know that our favorite music at home is in quiet mood. Perhaps that is why Decca's new instrumental series, "Music At Midnight" struck a very responsive chord. Here, on seven long-play records, is the quiet music heard around midnight in the world's great entertainment spots, and featuring famous keyboard artists with rhythm or orchestra backing.

"LONDON AT MIDNIGHT" features Skitch Henderson and his Orchestra in English favorites "Foggy Day," "Limehouse Blues," "Sleepy Lagoon," "The Very Thought Of You," and others equally popular in Londontown. . . For "PARIS AT MIDNIGHT" Skitch alters the personnel to include musette or accordian, lush strings and typical French-styled arrangements of "La Vie En Rose," "Valentine," "Paris In Spring," "Padam" and others as beautiful as any masterpiece in the Louvre.

"ROME AT MIDNIGHT" spotlights that technical piano stylings of Carmen Cavallara against the quiet strings of Domenico Savino. These lovely interpretations of not-too-often-recorded — but beautiful Italian ballads are the high spots of the series. . . In decided contrast are the sambas, cha chas and cariocas from "RIO AT MIDNIGHT" by pianist Dante Varela and his orchestra. In carnival spirit, the melodies of "Amor," "Baia," "Noche de Ronda" are given exciting interpretations by this musical favorite of Rio. . . In our own country, "MANHATTAN AT MIDNIGHT" displays the completely original piano stylings of Ellis Larkins for "Manhattan Serenade," "Penthouse Serenade," "Lullaby Of Broadway" and a dozen other Big Town favorites. . . "HOLLYWOOD AT MIDNIGHT" features the fine pianistic touch of Andre Previn in selections from top film classics. . . My favorite is "NEW ORLEANS AT MIDNIGHT" and the solid rhythms of Marvin Ash and his Dixie Blue Blowers. Not raucous jazz, but songs of the Crescent City in quiet but steady rocking beat. . . a la Bourbon Street.

| Jack Point, the Jester | ALFRED DRAKE |
| Phoebe | CELESTE HOLM |
| The Colonel | BILL HAYES |
| Elsie | BARBARA COOK |

The two-act operetta, termed the most ambitious of the joint efforts of composer Arthur Seymour Sullivan and librettist William Schwench Gilbert, is the story of a young colonel imprisoned for sorcery through the machinations of a conniving relative who hopes to inherit the colonel's estate. The scene is the tower of London, the time 400 years ago.

"The Yeoman of the Guard" first was presented in London's Savoy Theater on October 3, 1888 and has been revived repeatedly since then, in most parts of the English speaking world.

Franz Allers conducts the 90-minute colorcast. Paul Godkin is the choreographer. Scenery is by Paul Barnes and costumes by Noel Taylor.

Label Talk

BY TERREA LEA

LAST week I told you I would announce a new product in this week's column that carries a value of 200 Label Bank Premium Points. So... here it is. Label Bank is proud to announce a special arrangement with VITRON FOOD PRODUCTS INC., to bring you VITRON, the quality Vitamin and Mineral Food Supplement, at tremendous savings! This well known Food Supplement is being withdrawn from normal distribution channels to be made available through Label Bank exclusively. The top of the large Vitron box will carry a value of 200 points.

You know, many people apparently eat well but are deficient in essential food factors such as vitamins and minerals. This causes them to be listless and have a tendency to tire easily. If you select the improper foods, prefer candy to milk and eat only the foods you like rather than the ones that are good for you, chances are you need a food supplement. And of course it's very possible that you aren't getting the vitamins and minerals you need in the so-called "good food" you eat.

Vitamins and minerals are used daily by the body to convert food to energy and tissue. Excess intake of a single vitamin automatically increases the demand of the body for all other vitamins. The answer is VITRON, a more complete, better balanced nutritionally, with a higher potency than any product now sold through conventional retail channels!

Label Bank can offer this wonderful product to you direct and save you money as well as give you 200 points for the box top. If you are interested in finding out more about Vitron call the Label Bank office at WE 8-2438 or write to Label Bank, 72 No. La Brea Ave., Hollywood 38, Calif., and request that information. It will be sent to you and you can compare the formula with the one you are now using and perhaps decide to try a month's supply.

Next week I hope to have another exciting announcement to make concerning some grocery products I know all of you are using nearly every day. So until then... bye for now.

NEW SHOW...

"I know something about you... Want to hear about it?" is the provocative question asked by Randal Daniels, founder and dean of The Institute of Successful Living, on a new show entitled "The Miracle of Your Mind," which is aired on KNX Radio, Sunday night, April 6, at 10:45 P.M. Randal Daniels is a well-known traveler, writer, and lecturer who has spent a lifetime exploring the human mind as well as poking into the cultures of people in strange and distant places, both east and west, and from the Northern Lights of the Arctic to the land of the Southern Cross.

EVER WONDERED how Bob Kelley "re-creates" those baseball games on KMPC? Here Ol' Kel makes it "Called Strike One," by striking stick against regular baseball glove.

THE KMPC MIKE picks up "thud" of ball striking mitt. Pad underneath when hit sounds like a chest protector being struck by a baseball. The "crack" of a base hit is made by simply striking the regular baseball bat on the right.

STEVE BAILEY, Kelley's co-announcer for "re-enacted" major league games, gets set to slam out a "base hit." Barbara Moore is in the background at the Western Union Teletype machine.

WHAT THE

Mickey Mouse Club

DID TO THEM

By Jack Holland

ABC-TV's Mickey Mouse Club, which comes forth from the enterprising Walt Disney Studios, has generally been considered a wallowing success. But few are aware of what it has done to two of the youngsters on the show — Annette Funicello and Tim Considine.

Annette Funicello

Annette, as any alert young boy or girl knows, is the dark-haired beauty who has zoomed to tremendous popularity. Tim is the 16-year-old boy who got most of his attention from young fans through his work in Spin and Marty and in the Hardy Boys.

Annette has probably felt the impact of the show more than Tim. It has completely changed her life.

"You'd think that finding such success would make Annette a very confident, assured person," one who knows her well said, "but instead it has made her retire more within herself. The reason for this is obvious. Wherever she goes she is mobbed by her young fans. Now when she wants to go to a movie she goes with her mother to a drive-in where the chances of her being recognized are less. She wants to participate in teen-age activities — she's 14 — but she can't because immediately the others look upon her as different, as an idol. It's no easy life, believe me."

Annette loves being with kids but she is a little afraid of them now because of the way they badger her. She's overawed by her fame but she is not impressed with herself. She'd rather go to a public school but she finds this impossible because of all the fuss. She simply has no average life.

There is also the matter of Annette's phone at home where she lives with her parents.

"I have clocked the number of calls Annette gets during a day," her mother has said, "and, believe it or not, it runs to about 200. Her father owns a garage, I do a lot of social work, but we hardly ever get a chance to receive any calls ourselves. I simply don't know how the youngsters get our number. We have changed it twice and still they call."

Annette's mother has had to resort to one policy to keep her daughter from having to answer calls all day — she just says that Annette is out of town.

The adoration that is lavished on Annette is carried, at times, to some unusual extremes.

She has a cousin who lives near her and whose name is also Funicello. One night a teen-ager in a hopped-up car drove past the house and fired a steel-tipped arrow into the house. On the edge of the tip was a note saying simply, "White Buffalo." The kid apparently thought this was Annette's home. What the "white buffalo" meant no one knows for sure — except, possibly, sharp teen-agers.

There is another oddity about Annette's extreme popularity. On several occasions there have been reports that Annette or some of the other Mouseketeers have been killed or injured in an accident. Annette even got a card from a girl expressing her sympathy over the death of her father. Her father, of course, had not died and yet the rumors had circulated. Most of such reports come from the East, primarily in Boston, and the Disney studio has repeatedly had to deny the rumors to wire services, magazines, and fans.

When Annette isn't being besieged by her fans she lives the kind of life most 14-year-old girls enjoy. She loves perfume and buys most of the brands herself, her favorite scent being White Shoulders. She has little time for any special interests, her work taking up most of her time.

Tim Considine

Tim Considine has been equally popular with the kids as the result of Spin and Marty in which he co-starred with David Stollery and The Hardy Boys, but not with the same intensity as that accorded Annette. Tim came to the Mickey Mouse Club an established actor, having appeared in several pictures, notably "The Clown" with Red Skelton. The Mickey Mouse Club was Annette's first professional job as an actress.

Tim comes from an acting family, his mother being the former Carmen Pantages. He is practically a veteran in the business so he didn't learn anything about his work from the Club. Rather, he put a lot of his experience into it and helped to teach others. Because of his background he is always very confident in his work, and he is a clear-thinking kid who knows exactly where he's going.

Tim's primary interest now is in sports car racing. He recently got his driver's license and he bought an Italian sports car. His hero was a racing driver who was killed last year in an European racing accident, so those close to Tim feel he has dedicated himself to being as great a racer as his idol. He attends all races and he has raced his car on the various tracks. Yet, when he drives around town he is considered a careful and good driver.

Tim, whose popularity is mainly with the girls, has girl friends like any normal teen-ager but it is his car that receives the most attention. He lives with his mother in a large apartment overlooking the Sunset Strip. He attends Notre Dame High School in the valley, is a good athlete, and his favorite sport is track — more specifically, running.

Annette Funicello and Tim Considine got the impetus to a smash career in the Mickey Mouse Club. Their futures are really glowing.

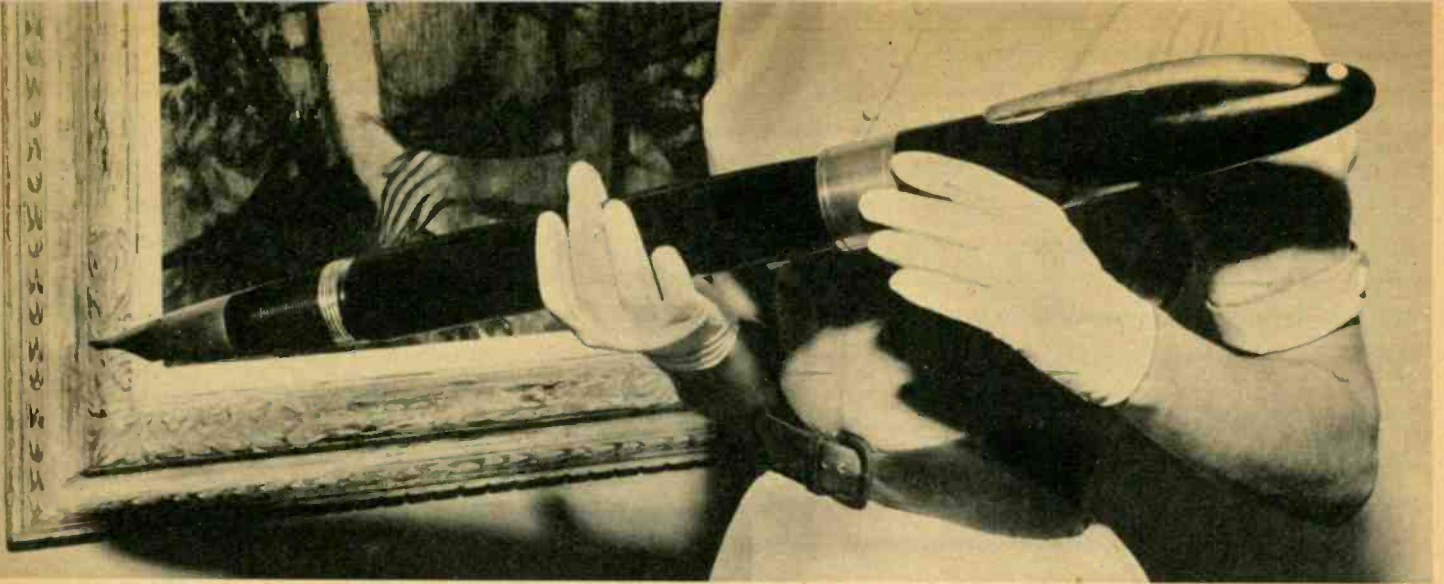

Annette Funicello and Tim Considine are the two special favorites of the fans of this ABC-TV show. There are moments when they wonder if being so popular is all it is cracked up to be.

ANNETTE HAS NO POOL at her home but she goes next door to her friend's and gets in some swimming.

DAVID STOLLERY, Annette Funicello and Tim Considine are three of the most popular members of the Mickey Mouse Club. David and Tim made Spin and Marty a choice favorite while Annette has had deserved praise heaped on her for her work.

TV viewers saw Nancy Hadley's legs, teeth, feet . . .
all the different parts of Nancy Hadley's lovely face and figure . . . but never ALL of her until she discovered:

THESE HANDS were used on a Sheaffer pen TV commercial — and helped to launch a successful TV career.

HOW A Pair of Hands

CAN START A TV CAREER

GALK to a hundred different actresses in Hollywood. Find out exactly how — and why — they got their first break. And chances are you'll come up with a hundred different answers.

Pretty Nancy Hadley, one of TV's busiest actresses these days, is a case in point.

Now some girls have certain physical characteristics which initially attract a producer's or director's eye. Such as a Marilyn Monroe or Jayne Mansfield or Diana Dors. They have a certain aptitude . . . well, not exactly "aptitude" . . . a certain . . . how can you say it? . . . well, a certain way of wearing sweaters . . . and wiggling hips, which at least gets them through the front door.

Others have a wholesome countenance with the "girl-next-door-look."

Sorry, Fellows

Now Nancy Hadley, who was Miss Los Angeles in 1952, also possesses many of these "attributes."

Oddly enough, it was "her hands" (sorry fellows) which literally and figuratively "opened the TV door" for her.

Originally from Huntington Park, Nancy did some modeling and appeared with various small theater groups after she graduated from high school. But her big goal was to do some acting, particularly on TV.

"One day, about three years ago," she recalls, "I applied for a job for the Sheaffer pen company. They wanted a girl to model some of their pens for TV commercials. I was glad to get the job. But I was a little disappointed when the commercials finally came out. All people could see of me was my hands, covered by a pair of white gloves."

For three years now these Sheaffer commercials have been seen on TV stations throughout the United States. Although Nancy didn't get any "name" or "face" credit, it at least gave her some TV experience.

"As a result," she laughs, "they started to use 'other parts' of me. My teeth for tooth paste aids. My legs for modeling golf shorts. My feet for corn plasters. An oil company even used all of me in a commercial — except they chopped my head off."

Same Sponsor

Pretty soon, like a jig-saw puzzle, Nancy "pulled herself together" and landed various acting jobs.

Just by coincidence her first steady role came as "Marilee Dorf" on the CBS-TV show, The Brothers. On 14 different programs viewers have seen her as Bob Sweeney's girl friend.

And who were the sponsors of this series? None other than the Sheaffer company, the same people who gave her her first break.

"As a further coincidence, my father in the TV series, Oliver Blake, was one of the judges in the Miss California contest of 1952, in which I was one of the five finalists," Nancy remarks.

After being seen piece by piece for so many years, Nancy has 37 different TV credits to her name, including all of the top dramatic shows such as Ford, Schlitz, Cavalcade of America, and various Desilu productions.

Now in her early 20's, she has a further ambition:

"It took a long time for me to convince people that I could be useful, all in one piece. Now I'm being typed as a teen-ager in everything. I'd like to do more grown-up parts."

Nancy Hadley is one female who wants people to think she's older than she actually is. Now that's a switch!

YES, NANCY HADLEY DOES HAVE A FACE — and a very pretty one, too. (Frederick photo.)

BAXTER WARD

After two years on the L.A. news beat, KCOP newscaster Baxter Ward admits the competition is "murder," and makes him work harder than he ever has in his life. He's also free to admit that he likes to specialize in

Crooks, Scandal, and Clever Copy

By Ted Hilgenstuhler

GV-Radio Life did the very first feature story on KCOP newscaster Baxter Ward when he came to town fresh from a brewery in Baltimore. He didn't smell of the place—he just worked there.

Young, slightly built, and exceptionally articulate, Baxter has been competing with the old pros in town ever since his first telecast of June 6, 1955.

What have been his impressions of "our town," at least from a news angle? What are some of his opinions, now that he knows them, of other newscasters? Has he achieved what he wanted to?

"My first impression of Los Angeles," Baxter begins, "is the same one I have now. It's big. Too big—for one newsman. Being spread out over so great an area, it's geographically impossible to do a complete reporting job every day. Especially when you have a small staff such as the one we have at KCOP."

Besides himself, Baxter has an assistant news editor who helps him with some of the writing and the editing of the news. And then there's his one-man task force in the field, the chief (and only) cameraman Earl Stevens.

"Really a remarkable guy," Baxter explains. "He's more than just a cameraman. He has a keen reporter's sense. Believe me, this helps me in my work. If Earl comes back after a day's shooting and doesn't have at least four good stories, I'm disappointed and out he goes again. He seldom has to make two trips," Baxter chuckles.

Scandal Digger

As far as the competition from other newscasters is concerned, glib Mr. Ward readily admits, "It's been murder. The six other newscasters in town really do a bang-up job. I know. I run into them all the time. To keep up with them, I've never worked harder in my entire life," he moans.

"Keeping up with them," is putting it modestly. Slowly but surely Baxter, with his easy-going style, and his emphasis on local stories and human interest features, now ranks with the best in town. And that's according to the ratings, to the public, and to men in his own profession!

While Baxter has concentrated on a lighter treatment of the news, "foolishment," as the boys in the trade call it, he has not been afraid to tackle some exceptionally controversial subjects.

He's frank to admit that it's a part of his job "to dig up scandal."

"Most of the boys do their news straight. I try to break away from that pattern and do it differently from anyone else. I try to come up with a fresh angle on a story and concentrate on the copy. Especially on local stories."

However, while clever copy and a new twist to a story may give Baxter a great deal of personal satisfaction, he is convinced, as all good newsmen should be, that "the best stories are those which fulfill a real public service."

Frank, Honest Approach

He's had "on the air" battles with several city councilmen. "I'd like to see all those guys whom I've exposed on my program locked up and in jail. They deserve it. They're crooks."

"Right now I have information on three different councilmen which I can't use on the air because it would be a violation of FCC policy. It's illegal to have a station take sides in a political controversy. Otherwise, I would use the material," Baxter explains.

One of his biggest current fights is the misuse of the Policemen and Firemen's Pension Fund. "Because the commission in charge of the fund has not made proper investments, similar to those made in other cities throughout the United States, the fund has lost 82 million dollars. They have this measure on the April 2 ballot—but it still doesn't correct the condition and I'm still fighting for the proper investment of those funds."

Because of his outspoken attitude, especially in local affairs, the affable and slightly shy Mr. Ward has been threatened with several law suits—but as yet hasn't been dragged into court. In fairness to both sides, Baxter also admits he's "forever making retractions."

After nearly two years on the local scene, Baxter summarizes his efforts: "It isn't much—but I wish it were more!"

BAXTER WARD says his chief cameraman Earl Stevens is "the best in town. He uses more than his camera; he uses his head, too."
