INSPIRE
THE PEN

J. F., Los Angeles

Well now, the old saying: women are too nose-y. Well, can we help it anyway? Last week we took a vote of 32 families in our neighborhood and here are the ten favorite shows:

1. Disneyland
2. Perry Como
3. Cheyenne
4. Mickey Mouse Club
5. Ed Sullivan
6. DuPont Theatre
7. Father Knows Best
8. Schlitz Playhouse
9. Captain Grief
10. Lawrence Welk

J. G., El Cajon

Had I lived in the days of Cochise and wanted to go from Texas to Oklahoma, I sure would have gone by way of Arizona just in hopes of being captured by Michael (Cochise) Ansara. I should be so lucky. He's so exciting I just swoon each time his handsome face is flashed on my TV screen.

ANOTHER CUPID?

M. L., Studio City

What does Jack Benny have on CBS that causes them to give him so much time on the station? Or are they just trying to bore the public to death? He ain't got nuthin. If he's funny, then Ed Sullivan is a riot.

His format hasn't changed since his first show on radio 30 years ago.

E. A., Alhambra

Read with interest a letter regarding announcers George Saunders, Yokum, etc., and their manner of presenting commercials. I agree with the writer—but in all fairness why not get to the root of the evil. The "boys" do their job as dictated by the sponsor and the advertising agency, not in a manner in which they would like to present their commercials. They are all fine gentlemen with families and are highly respected—so let's correct this erroneous statement about the announcers.

A. P., Santa Ana

We think one of the best programs on the air is the Bob Crosby show. Our favorite singers are Bob Crosby and Joanie O'Brien.

Mrs. W., Los Angeles

Until recently, my neighbors and myself have enjoyed the Jackie Cooper show very much, especially Cleo and her voice. Then the mush between Jackie and that Mandy became so disgusting, the youngsters would not look at it. We want more Cleo and less mush.

J. G. F., Surfside

In the opinion of all of us, Steve Allen has the best show on TV and he got no place on the Emmy awards. While Sid Caesar, who is a loudmouth (and his sidekicks) walked away with everything.

The voting, we think, is all a big clique.

SHE'S BACK . . .
PUBLIC DEMAND

NOT EMMY . . .
BUT STILL TOPS

M. M. T., Norwalk

My family and I have just watched Miss Hempel's new program and we are certainly glad to have her back in our home.

I'm glad, too, that enough of us gals got busy with pen and ink and proved that we do want good viewing for your youngsters and ourselves, too. If more of us would write a note expressing our appreciation to stations, sponsors, and the stars for outstanding programs, we could assure ourselves of increasingly better television in the future.

Mrs. C. W. P., Riverside

We would like very much to have Betty White back on TV, as we never missed her program. We like Life with Elizabeth but liked her other programs better.

Miss White is back with another situation comedy program on ABC-TV on Friday night.

WHITTINGHILL . . . TOO NAUGHTY

BETTY'S BACK TOO

A Huntington Park Housewife

I feel I must state my disgust for the shady remarks and the occasional vulgar pictures Dick Whittinghill shows on his afternoon show on Channel 11. Too bad he has to be on that channel. Martin and Reimers both bring such nice programs for us mothers who rest or iron while the children sleep.

J. H., Mar Vista

Anyone who will even compare Elvis Presley with Bing Crosby is deaf or just has no taste at all. As far as Elvis having a voice, I would like very much to know when he is going to use it. Bing will still be popular when Elvis is forgotten, which will be soon.

Miss M. J. W., Evansville, Indiana

We would like to compliment Lawrence Welk and his wonderful band. In our estimation he has the best show on TV. But we would like to hear Jim Roberts sing more songs on the program, as we really like his singing very much.

Paul Coates' appearance on NBC-TV Tonight is a "step forward and backward" for him. Paul's a pro at the question-and-answer business but this is the story about

The Question

... THAT COATES
CAN'T ANSWER

PROFESSIONALLY speaking, Paul Coates leads two lives. As a newspaper and TV reporter, he's a pro at asking questions. As a personality in his own right, he does all right at answering them, too.

Except one — which we shall come to shortly.

The strange paradox of his TV career, as he himself expresses it, is that his current activities are "a step forward and a step backward."

The "step forward" is obvious to anyone who has followed Paul's life during the past five years. The Mirror-News columnist started his TV career on Bachelor's Haven. Since that time, he has become a local and national figure with his Confidential File programs, and his latest venture on NBC-TV's Tonight telecast.

In his Hollywood office, located just across the street from the Hollywood High School on Sunset Boulevard, Paul recalls the days he did a program called Table at Ciro's.

TV At Its Lowest

"You can quote me," the outspoken, sharp-tongued columnist declares, "that that was TV at its very lowest. Strictly the fan stuff approach — which I hate. There's nothing duller to me than sitting around gabbing with a bunch of stars about their latest picture, their newest recording, their future plans, and all that idle chatter. I didn't care about it, and I'm sure the public didn't either."

In those days, however, Paul was still a boot in the TV business. "When that red light on the TV camera came on, I thought it was an Exit sign," he says.

So Mr. Controversy was a victim of circumstances when he first began. As he progressed, however, he was able to assert himself. He began to do the things he wanted to do. "Stories with guts to them," as he describes them.

"I have never been stopped from doing anything I ever wanted to do. There have been a few times when I've cancelled ideas for shows myself. But that was only because there wasn't as good a story there as we originally thought."

Even on his NBC-TV segment of Tonight, Paul retains some autonomy. There have been some interviews, such as the one with George Stevens out at Warner Brothers and with Mercedes McCambridge, which he has refused to do. Not because he had anything against these people, but simply because he thought the interviews would turn out to be "strictly fan stuff."

Because he conducts interviews sitting around a table at the local bistros, the Tonight telecast represents a "step backward" to the old Table at Ciro's days. "The one essential difference now," Paul elaborates, "is that I do the interview only because it is humorous, or important, or has a human interest angle. And not because the person happens to be a celebrity."

Unanswerable Question

With his column writing, Confidential File, the Tonight show — and a new KTTV program which he couldn't discuss at the time of the interview — Paul undoubtedly leads a hectic life. Any one of these jobs would be enough to keep an average person plenty busy — and also financially secure.

SOME DAY, Pauls says, he may retire and raise horses.

ON NBC-TV'S TONIGHT telecast, Paul tries to be just as controversial as on his own Confidential File program. Here he interviews Harry Klassman at a poker-playing club in Gardena.

This situation leads to the one question which Paul cannot satisfactorily answer:

"Why are you pushing so much, Paul? What's your goal?"

"I really don't know," he answers. "Maybe it's because I don't want to ever lead a dull life. Maybe it's the 'ham' in me. Maybe it's something deeper."

Paul's main "outlet" from his business activities — besides his wife and family, of course — revolves around his horses.

"I started with one three years ago. Now we have four — and one burro. I even moved to the Valley so I could have a place to keep them.

"That guy who sold me that first horse for $150 was a real horse-trader," he laughs. "I think I got gypped. But at least he got me interested in raising horses.

"I don't know — I might quit the business tomorrow and devote my life to raising horses. It could happen," he ponders.

But we wouldn't bet on it — at any odds.

Julie London and Bobby Troup

...WHY WE'RE
OF MARRIAGE

There are many reasons why a top recording star and a top TV star can march to the altar with such confidence. You can't scare them off any marriage plans.

By Jack Holland

THE HAPPY, BEAMING COUPLE. Julie and Bobby have gone together three years and will be married in the very near future.

BOBBY TROUP, he with the happy face and the wide grin, and Julie London are due to take a march to the altar shortly after you read this. In fact, they may have already taken the trip. Such is the bright climax of a romance that began three years ago.

Bobby and Julie have been married before. Each has two children from those marriages. So they are not entering into this new life together with the wide-eyed wonderment of a couple of wet-behind-the-ears kids. They know what demands marriage makes and they are prepared to meet those demands.

Careers

Interestingly enough, both Bobby's and Julie's careers began to zoom shortly after they started going together. Bobby had had a couple of big song hits in the years past in "Daddy" and "Route 66," and he was playing in various restaurants and salons with a jazz combo. But it wasn't until his KABC-TV show, Stars of Jazz, got going that he was able to display his many real talents. That show not only won TV-Radio Life's Distinguished Achievement Award but it also won an Emmy as the best local show on TV.

Julie, who had been married to Jack Webb, wasn't doing much with her career until Bobby encouraged her to make records. He liked her husky, sexy singing voice and he kept after her until she decided to try her luck. Her first record was a smash hit and she became a top recording artist. Her three albums for Liberty Records are "Julie Is Her Name," "Calendar Girl," and "Lonely Girl," all of which have been sensational sellers. Her next one is "About the Blues." She credits Bobby with most of her success.

"Julie's career has gone ahead faster," Bobby said, and then with a grin, added, "But she's prettier."

Bobby was rather elated, though, about his own recent efforts as a song writer. He has been writing several numbers for pictures, the last being the main song for "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?"

With their careers so closely tied to their romance and marriage, it's logical to wonder if that same emphasis on their work might hurt their marriage. About this Bobby and Julie have no worries.

"I think our careers will help our marriage," Julie remarked in her soft, dreamy manner. "We will be better able to understand each other's problems, for one thing."

Personalities

"Besides," added Bobby, "we have three years of going together as a groundwork — and you can learn a lot about one another in three years. Actually, we're very much alike — personality-wise. Of course, I'm moodier than Julie and more affectionate and demonstrative." Bobby laughed, "But I'm more affectionate than anyone else anyway. And I'm certainly more talkative than Julie."

"Oh, no, you're not," Julie put in. "I do all right in that department."

"About our careers," Bobby commented, "I don't think it hurts to discuss our work a lot with each other. Naturally, we hope to reach a happy balance where career doesn't take over too much, but we're not worrying about this phase of our marriage at all.

"We have learned what the pitfalls in marriage are because of our past experiences. To me, the biggest thing to watch out for is taking each other for granted. That's sure death."

"Learning tolerance is an important lesson too in marriage," said Julie. "Being with Bobby has helped me in one way already — he has helped to give me a measure of self-confidence, of assurance. Not that I have much of it now but at least more than I used to have. I still get panicky whenever I have to perform but I don't collapse like a bowl of jello."

Children

The discussion switched to Bobby's and Julie's youngsters. Whenever Bobby mentioned his two — Cynthia, 14, and Ronnie Hare, 12 — his eyes looked like neon lights flashing on and off. His daughter and son live with their mother but Bobby sees them often. Julie also has two — Stacy, 7, and Lisa, 4. The four kids get along just great — so Julie and Bobby said.

"I love kids," Bobby exclaimed. "I'm a pushover for them."

"He's too easy with my youngsters, that's for sure," Julie remarked. "He doesn't lay down the law to them the way I do. Bobby's son and daughter are no problem at all because they're old enough to be past the stage of being idiotic like mine are," she laughed.

The children will definitely be no problem in this marriage. The only problem is that Bobby acts more like a kid with them than they do.

As it is with any couple, Bobby and Julie have had their arguments and will probably continue to have them. When asked how they settled such problems, Julie laughed, "Arguments are settled by either Bobby's winning or by my winning."

To which Bobby quipped, "She's always wrong."

And Julie came right back with, "Maybe, but I always win." She paused for a moment and then said, "You know, I used to be as moody as Bobby is, but I decided finally not to give in to it. I was either way up or way down — and I got tired of the whole thing. Bobby and I would really be in trouble if we were both moody! I guess I just mellowed a little with age."

BOBBY TROUP OF KABC-TV's STARS OF JAZZ is the genuine doting father. He loves all kids, especially his own — Cynthia and Ronnie Hare. He is also very devoted to Julie's two girls.

"I'm quite sensitive, though, and so is Bobby. But if I get hurt or mad, I just keep it all inside. I'm not sure this is always good."

There are many things Bobby and Julie have in common. One is their interest in sports. Bobby loves golf, tennis, swimming, while Julie is a rabid Rams rooster. She likes to read too — all kinds of books, especially mysteries.

"And I hate gardening," Bobby cracked. Julie responded with, "That's definitely one thing we have in common."

"But we both like hot weather and the sun," said Bobby as he put his arm around Julie. "And we like dancing."

And it was quite obvious that they more than liked each other. Julie may be more reserved and withdrawn than Bobby, her feelings may not race around on the surface, but it is easy to see that she has found real happiness with him.

As for Bobby, he was walking along so lightly his feet barely touched the ground and his head was way up there in the clouds. On him it all looked good.

AT THE LAST CHRISTMAS PARADE, Julie and Bobby rode in a TV-Radio Life car. In spite of unhappy previous marriages, the two are confident their marriage will be the perfect union.

with the launching of

A Pat Boone "Preview" This Week

PAT BOONE, who will have his own TV show next season, takes over the reins of NBC-KRCA's Chevy Show June 2. Co-starring will be Shirley MaLaine, who has already impressed viewers with her sparkling talent as dancer, singer, and actress.

THE NEW PRESIDENT of the Radio Television Recording Advertising Charities is actor Ben Alexander, popular actor of the Dragnet series. This week he received gavel from outgoing prexy, Walter A. Tibbals.

THIS PAST WEEK Channel 13 viewers of Wanderlust saw Abe Schiller, the unofficial ambassador of Las Vegas, catch, cook, and serve some fresh bass from Lake Mead. Here's the way the scene looked to cameraman Guy Adenis, with Abe on the serving end, and producer-narrator Bill Burrud and lovely Diana Tutini on the receiving end.

MIKE WALLACE TAKES
in this exclusive interview

MIKE WALLACE, star of his new ABC-TV show, does not expect his guests to dodge any questions he fires at them — no matter how controversial. Likewise, he himself is not afraid to answer questions — as this interview shows.

MIKE WALLACE makes a living interviewing people. So do we. When the "irresistible force" (Wallace) met the "immovable object" (us), the following questions and answers were the result:

1. If you were interviewing Mike Wallace — what do you think would be the most provocative question you could ask?

1. "Why have you focused your talents on the medium of controversy?"

2. Can you think, off hand, of some questions prepared by your staff, which you yourself have not used, because you thought it was too controversial or personal?

2. To my knowledge we have never deleted a question because it was too controversial. We have on numerous occasions decided against using a personal question because it didn't prove anything and in the context of the show seemed pointless.

3. Elsa Maxwell has commented: "Before the show Mr. Wallace offered to send one of his staff to discuss our questions and answers." Do you follow this procedure with all your guests?

3. We endeavor to follow it with every guest. It is a process of ascertaining how subjects react to certain kinds of questioning and it gives us a real opportunity to find out specifically what people may not want to talk about. One of the most important premises of the show is not to embarrass people but to get a story and if it can be gotten only by embarrassing someone, we do without the story.

4. As we understand it (the program has only been seen a short time on the West Coast) all your guests seem satisfied after appearing on your program.

Can you think of any, particularly on your network show, who have been unhappy with you or the program as a result of their appearance?

4. So far, none.

5. Have you had some guests you wanted on the program — but who refused to appear? If so, why did they refuse?

5. Douglas MacArthur — Lauren Bacall: wanted money. Dave Beck: things too hot. Marlene Dietrich: just plain "no." Walter Winchell: too busy. Alger Hiss: a matter of principle. Whittaker Chambers: wants to forget the whole thing.

6. We have read a great deal about your New York originated "Nightbeat" program. Is there any difference between that and your present ABC-TV network program?

6. A local newscast and reviews on Broadway shows are incorporated into the local show... however, the interview segment follows exactly the same format.

7. Do you meet and talk with the person you interview before you go on the air? If so, to what extent?

7. My researcher does all the pre-interviewing. I see the guest usually 10 to 15 minutes before the show and use this time only to clear up any doubt that might exist in my mind about the propriety and importance of certain questions. Generally we do not discuss the show at all, merely say hello to each other.

8. Do you have any other TV plans? Do you intend to come to the West Coast at any time?

8. We are working on a program for the Fall — its premise is controversy. And I plan to bring INTERVIEW to the West Coast at least once a month.

9. Have you ever asked a question which you've been sorry for? That is — because once you asked it, you realized it wasn't apropos, or too personal — or perhaps because the answer you got put you on the spot, rather than the guest?

9. Looking back on the shows I can't think of any question specifically that I was sorry about asking. Here I'll quote what Faye Emerson said about the show: "There are no indiscreet questions — only indiscreet answers."

TOM HANLON CELEBRATES 20th ANNIVERSARY

TOM INTERVIEWING JACK DEMPSEY for CBS-KNX in 1939 — radio, of course.

THE CHRISTMAS AFTER V-J DAY. Tom, who'd done an outstanding job gathering gifts for servicemen during the war tackled the task of getting presents for men still stationed on Guam. Response came in tons.

TOM HANLON, host of the nightly KNX musical program, Merry-Go-Round, and popular sports broadcaster will celebrate his 20th anniversary with KNX-CBS on June 1, 1957.

Hanlon, born in Ft. Scott, Kansas, Nov. 7, 1907, received his education in Springfield, Missouri. His interest in sports began when he was an active participant in high school athletics, winding up as an All-Missouri tackle.

Instead of following a sports career in college, Tom was bitten by the movie bug and came to Hollywood in 1928. Soon he was hired for a series of films featuring the "Collegians" at Universal Pictures, appearing in 30 two-reelers and two feature films before turning to radio.

After a brief stint as master-of-ceremonies at the Coconut Grove, Hanlon joined KNX-CBS Radio in 1937 and the following year began his Merry-Go-Round series. In addition to this five-a-week show, Tom is heard every Saturday on the popular SportsScene broadcasts.

For the past 11 years Tom has been associated with auto racing drivers, mechanics, car manufacturers — as well as being behind the mike at auto events all over the country. His knowledge of the men and their machines makes him highly qualified to handle such sports broadcasts.

During the past six years he's handled several broadcasts of the Memorial Day 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Speedway for the west coast.

He was married in Hollywood in 1935. The Hanlons have three children, Tom Jr., 20; Mary Kathleen, 13; and Michael James, 8.

Tom's hobbies are sports, music, and food, the latter hobby in part accounting for his six-foot-one-inch 260 pound frame. But he's reducing — when he came to Hollywood, he weighed 340 pounds.

MARKET OPENING... CALIFORNIA STYLE

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA has long been famous for its premieres. In recent years, the tremendous markets in this area have copied the Hollywood approach, making gala occasions of their openings. The new Ralphs' market in Redondo Beach was no exception recently.

ON HAND AT RALPHS' opening to entertain the folks with some of her favorite stories is Arlene Harris, formerly with Ina Ray Hutton, now featured on KNXT's Panorama Pacific.

AS WITH THOUSANDS of other shoppers, Arlene makes sure she has TV-Radio Life on her shopping list. Giving Miss Harris special attention is Edgar B. Phillips, supervisor of the new Redondo Beach market.

THE ROW'S MOST SPIRITED discussions last week pro'd and con'd the Mike Wallace-Mickey Cohen-Chief Parker fireworks. Lifeliner talked to many persons about this embrangement. Most of these felt that Cohen should not have been put on the program in the first place. Some were of the opinion that Mike Wallace is pushing too hard to make news, that he overreached and made headlines. Majority felt that Chief Parker had real reason to be up in arms.

MANY ASKED WHY CHANNEL 7 telecast the program locally via hot "kine" three hours after the live show in New York. As I understand it, Channel 7 had nothing to say about the matter. It took the program off the line and was obliged to run it and also feed it to other stations of the regional network at the regularly scheduled time. To run it or not would be a New York decision.

ONE INTERESTING ASPECT of the controversy is how much Cohen's remarks impinged on Chief Parker's reputation. As one viewer pointed out, "Chief Parker, as the result of this affair, has become a national figure, known all over the country. What Cohen said in effect was that Parker was an honest man." My book on libel points out that the question of libel is one thing, the question of being injured by it and collecting punitive damages, another.

NATURALLY THE MATTER OF CENSORSHIP has again risen. There is a strong feeling that the only way to prevent another occurrence of such a telecast is to dispense with live interviews, to use film and edit it, instead. Those opposed to this point out that such a procedure would pull all the excitement out of this type of TV. I'll go along with this, but say that sensation-seeking interviewers booking a guy like Mickey Cohen and pushing this set-up to full advantage should not be allowed the privilege of live TV.

SAW JACK WEBB AT THE PREVIEW of his newest motion picture, "The D.I." He is expecting Noah's Ark" to come back on TV by means of re-runs. He also whispered that if he could get Bob Crosby for the title role, he was ready to telefilm Pete Kelly's Blues. Ben Alexander said he and Jack were flexing to shoot 78 more Dragnets. The public just won't let this series stop. Along this same factual line, I saw a preview of KABC-TV's new series, Traffic Court. Excellent. It's my opinion that the viewer's self-identification with this show, which is a re-creation of traffic court, will make it compelling viewing.

ED MURROW IS REALLY LINING up some goodies for his Person to Person! May 31 he has J. C. Penney (founder of the world's largest department store chain) and wife Caroline, plus singing star Lisa Kirk. A posey to KHJ-TV and its line-up of advertisers for arranging to donate all the commercial time on the Memorial Day Padre-Angel double-header to the Big Brothers of Los Angeles.

TALK PERSISTS THAT SOME KIND of toll-TV is practically on the doorstep... To program heads overlooking organ music as a good bet: George Wright drew about 3,500 high-paid admissions to his Shrine concert... Allan Jones Sr. is displaying his two handsome and talented offspring, Allan Jr. and Gail, at the Statler's Terrace Room. They have plans for a TV show, Keeping Up with the Joneses, in which Mrs. Jones (Irene Hervey) would also appear... Was surprised to learn that the girl musician, Sandra Maczel, recently called to appear in a dope case, was known to local viewers as violinist Saundra Berkova... Newest pair of tune-smiths is KFI's Ed Grigg and friend Bill Thompson, who've written and had recorded their song, "Waitin'."

LAST WEEK Evelyn Bigsby referred to part of an editorial KPOL's Lew Irwin had given on his radio show about Sinatra's magazine story. The fact that this up and coming young man tackles such subjects proves that he is a local newscaster who thinks beyond the confines of the obvious and the purely local.

"I don't care too much about local news," Lew has stated. "All that matters to me is that it's good news. There are some items, however, I won't even run on my show because they're in bad taste.

"Probably the most interesting story I covered was the 'Who is Robert Rich?' thing. Rich, you know, is the 'author' of the Oscar-winning 'The Brave One,' but no one knows who Rich is. I got a tip he was one of the Hollywood 10, those writers who stood by the 5th Amendment when asked if they had Communistic leanings. I called each of the Hollywood 10 but not one would admit he was the writer. It was some job tracking down these ten because they were scattered over various parts of the globe.

"As I see it, the responsibility of newscasters is to go after news, to find it. Too many just tear off lines from a teletype or news bulletin and read them.

"I do feel the networks have failed in their responsibility to the public in that they rely too much on a few commentators. Presenting an interpretation of news is not enough.

"Of all the people I have interviewed, politicians are the most difficult because they know how to be interviewed and are cagey with their answers." Keep your eye on Lew Irwin. He's on his way.

What gives with Dick Lane at KTLA? From all that can be gathered, Dick is left with only three shows — Roller Derby, Wrestling, and Bowling. This, if so, is rather strange treatment of a man who has stuck with this one station for so many years. Is this loyalty? Or is this the first step of a deal to ease Dick out? Frankly, Dick is too good an actor to worry about these shows or this treatment. He should have left his TV commitments a long time back and gone ahead with more acting. It just seems to this department, though, a most peculiar way to "reward" a performer who has stuck with the station from the very early days, who lent his talents at a time when most people were avoiding TV like the plague.

In a recent issue it was stated here that Screen Gems had not sold 11 of its pilots made for new TV series. Now comes word that this isn't so. Seems that the Columbia subsidiary has sold The Web, Johnny Nighthawk, George Sanders Mystery Theater, Ranch Party, and Casey Jones. Further, I am told, Screen Gems will have 30 more hours a week on TV than they have ever had — so guess the company won't have to open up an apple stand on the street corner.

Letters about the recent defense here of Ingrid Bergman and other stars still come in with half agreeing and half disagreeing. The trouble is that those who disagree do so violently. Some even quote the Bible. Well, to those the Bible can also be quoted: "He that is without sin among you let him first cast a stone at her." (John 8:7)

Bill Bendix's very attractive daughter, Lorraine, is pretty much of a miracle case. She has just gone from 295 pounds to 121 as the result of an amazing operation. She has a new life facing her, one filled with promise and hope after spending years of overweight and little hope. The Bendix family is a very happy one these days. Few people know how seriously ill Lorraine was and to be beginning a new life is a wonderful thing!

I FEEL constrained to mention that if there is no place for Sid Caesar and the art of satire on television, it will never be the entertainment medium it should be to further the development of a great and growing nation secure in its ability to laugh at itself. I realize this means nothing to the world of advertising, or the lovers of Lawrence Welk and his oompah jazz band (whose ratings toppled Caesar) but it means something to me and the five million people (at last count) who watched Caesar every week.

"Elizabeth and Essex." (5) June 2, 7:30. 1930. Adapted from the Maxwell Anderson play, "Elizabeth and Essex," this Warner Brothers spectacular stars Bette Davis, as the virgin queen, and Errol Flynn, as the popular military leader whose aspirations to the throne caused his downfall. The scene between them in which Essex refuses to bargain for his life is a powerful one in a picture with enough sweep and panoply to satisfy any lover of historical fiction.

"Sitting Pretty." (11) June 2, 9:00. 1947. Remember when Clifton Webb made a career of playing Lynn Belvedere, the self styled genius who could handle any situation? Well, this is the original of that series, an amusing comedy in which Mr. Belvedere becomes a baby sitter in the household of Robert Young and Maureen O'Hara, and becomes a controversial figure in the community with his unusual methods of bringing up children. He resolves everything with his usual aplomb, of course, and therein lies the pleasure of watching the picture.

"A Midsummer Night's Dream." (2) June 7, 4:30. 1935. One of the noted pictures of its time, this Max Reinhardt production cost a fortune and stars James Cagney, Olivia De Havilland, Mickey Rooney, Joe E. Brown and Dick Powell, to name a few. The author is William Shakespeare. It is a comedy. I didn't see it. It comes highly recommended. I'm going to watch it if I can bring myself to turn on the set at 4:30 in the afternoon.

Pick OF THE Pix

BY AUBREY DAHL

"Naughty Marietta." (11) June 7, 8:00. This is an adaptation of the immortal operetta and it stars... it stars... are you holding your breath? Jeannette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy. I'm sure I need say no more.

"Humoresque." (2) June 1, 10:00. 1946. Here is an interesting, albeit sometimes overly dramatic story about a boy from the slums who is patronized by a dipsomaniac society matron and rises to the heights of the concert world as a violinist. The woman loves him, of course, but must surrender him to the arts, which, in this case, is a throbbing version of Wagner's Liebestod arranged for the violin. John Garfield does a good job faking on the violin and Joan Crawford suffers.

"Trader Horn." (11) June 4, 10:15. 1931. This well remembered picture certainly must have been one of the first to be filmed in Africa and its authenticity shows in shots of the wild life, animal and human, that menace our heroes, Harry Carey, Duncan Renaldo and Edwina Booth, whose misadventures during the filming caused her to suffer a serious illness. The plot is extravagant... something about a white goddess... but I'm sure you'll find it absorbing.

"Tall in the Saddle." (9) Beginning June 4, 9:00. The life story of Johnny Longden, starring John Wayne as the famous jockey.

Mrs. V. D., Van Nuys

I'm glad I'm not alone in feeling the loss of the Noah's Ark program - I've been reading some of the comments from other readers of TV-Radio Life. You didn't have to be a lover of animals to enjoy Noah but it did help to make the program a very real bit. The situations were good and the dialog at times most enchanting. When a good program like this comes along, what happens to the sponsors? It would be wonderful if this grand program could be brought back.

Mrs. G. W. S., Lennox

What under the sun is the matter with the camera-men lately? One would think that none of the performers have any bodies. I am so sick and tired of looking down the throats of singers and seeing their tonsils and tongues and all the muscles jerking and wiggling and the bags under their eyes and all the other little lines, etc., on their faces and throats. Why, oh why, can't we see the whole figure? One quick close-up to see the face might be O.K., but we NEVER get to see what the girls are wearing. Of course, from the bust line up it is nothing so it would be nice to see the rest of their dresses.

D. K., Pomona

I am a devoted TV fan, but as a college student with considerable homework I find that I have to budget my TV watching time. This is where your fine magazine really comes to my rescue. I look forward to it each week, and then go through the logs and check the programs I want to see. As a part time viewer I find I have to be discriminating and limit my watching to what I consider worthwhile. Naturally, others might not consider some of my choices worth the sacrifice. With the help of your "TV Tips of the Week," plus the fine synopsis of each program given in the daily logs I can build my schedule in order to get in some TV watching and study my school-work as well.

Mrs. C. E. P., Los Angeles

I couldn't resist making some comment on Mrs. N. B.'s, Temple City, remark about Lawrence Welk's programs being turned into burlesque shows. Welk has one of the most entertaining programs on TV - not only does he have wonderful musicians in his band, but the members of his organization also have much talent in the acting field. It is anything but burlesque.

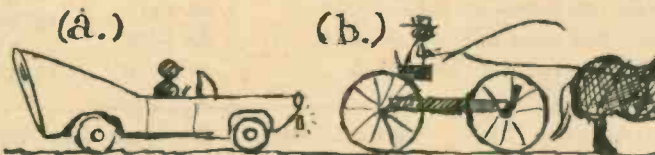

Mrs. M. R., Los Angeles

Many of my friends join me in making a sincere and strong protest against the change of time for broadcasting "What's My Line?" That is one of the best, if not THE best panel program on TV, and why designate such a late hour for the broadcast of this most interesting and entertaining program!

Fred Beck says:

"Which one has the pony?"

The above diagram represents (a) a horse-and-buggy... and (b) a late model car. Compare them. Some difference, eh? Yes - although both have served the same basic purpose.

But note the difference. No chrome on the horse. No perspiration on the car. The buggy doesn't have tail fins and the car doesn't have a tail. No flies on the car. No glove compartment on the horse.

A lot of changes have taken place in 50 years. Compare the kitchen of '07 with the kitchen of '57. The '07 kitchen was spacious and it had to be because there had to be room for a flour bin and maybe a butter churn. Ma in '07 even did a little light butchering and she bought her lobsters on the hoof. They were allowed to romp on the floor before being put to pot.

The 1957 kitchen is neater and smaller. The reason for this is that much of the labor of cooking is in the package. The work has been done by food packagers and all that labor is positively in the package even though you can't see it.

Home kitchens will get even smaller as the food processors take on more and more of the kitchen chorin... and right now your best preview of things to come is contained in a package of any one of our 11 amazingly good items of KoldKist Cooked Frozen Foods and Meat Products.

The line includes Chop Suey (YEAH MANDARIN!) - it includes Chili and Beans (OLE!) - many more - and to get a real foretaste of what goes on in the kitchen of the future we heartily recommend for tonight's dinner - KoldKist Sirloin Tips and Mushrooms with Sauce. Just thaw and heat in a double boiler and serve. Delicious on rice.

Mrs. R. S., Los Angeles

The pose of Esther Williams on your front page of May 18 issue is an insult to anyone's sense of decency. You must share some of the blame for allowing this spectacle to louse up your magazine, a weekly that is supposed to appeal to all members of the family. Apparently this mother of three children has lost all sense of propriety.

Editor's Note: Because Esther Williams has always been noted as a swimmer, and has always appeared as such, we certainly did not think her picture was objectionable.

Label Talk

BY TERREA LEA

MOST of the time I devote this column to Label Bank and the many fine products you can buy that have labels and package parts you can exchange for beautiful premiums at Label Bank. But this time I'd like to tell you a bit about a certain television program and some of the people on it.

The show is called "CHUCK 'N LUCK." It is on KTLA... Channel 5 Monday thru Friday from 12:00 noon to 1:00. It's an audience participation show and believe me we have a wonderful time. There are all kinds of games and prizes (including bags of Label Bank products). And those who come down to the show get a chance to have lunch. Patman's Franks, potato chips, sweet rolls, coffee (with Foremost Evaporated Milk) and various other things good to eat.

A show must have a master of ceremonies, of course, and we think we have one of the greatest... Eddie Cletro. Everyone loves Eddie from the oldest Grandmother of the Day to the small fry who are celebrating their birthdays. Jerry Scoggin's Trio gives out with some great music and of course Jerry is always there with the jokes.

A puppy is given every day and Marge Peterson of Bowmar Kennels is there to present the pup as well as a beautiful gift to the person bringing the most people every day. There's also a grand prize at the end of the week for the person bringing the most all during the week.

Wally Ramsay is the producer and man behind the gun. Or perhaps I should say "behind the whistle," for he's the one who blasts out at the start and finish of the sawing contest, the nail driving contest, etc. And he naturally wouldn't get anything done if it wasn't for Russ, our director and the crew who really put the show on the air.

So how about you coming down sometime? Get a bunch of friends together and get there around 11:15. I promise you'll have a lot of fun and you just may go home with some nice prizes. Remember, that's "CHUCK 'N LUCK" every day from noon to 1:00 on Channel 5. That's at Sunset and Van Ness in Hollywood in case you want to come down.

Oh yes... I also do a bit of singing on the show and mention Label Bank a dozen or so times too. So give us a listen and come on down. More Label Talk next week...until then...bye for now.

AROUND THE BASEBALL CIRCLE ...WITH THE TWO B'S

COACH ANDY HYLE points out some of the Angel's new men and fills Bill and Lyle in on their backgrounds so far this season, PCL baseball has gotten off to a good start. We hope it continues.

ONCE AGAIN THIS YEAR, THE TWO B'S OF LOCAL BASEBALL —Bill Brundige and Lyle Bond are back again on KHJ-TV, Channel 9 for the week-end and holiday games of the Los Angeles Angels. Aren't they the strangest pair of Angels you've ever seen? What will they dress like if the Brooklyn Bums come to Los Angeles?

ONE OF THE REAL SUGGERS on the Angel roster this year is the former major league, Monte Irwin — whom Bill and Lyle are chatting with during batting practice before a Channel 9 telecast. Monty showing the boys something he seldom has to do — bunt!

Bill Edwards may not be a familiar name to all but he's certainly about the most often seen personality because he is

TV's Master Salesman

BILL EDWARDS knows all the tricks of the trade when it comes to pitching commercials but his job isn't as easy as it looks.

WHEN BILL ISN'T IN THERE SELLING he likes to take off for a skin diving session at which he is most proficient. (Photo—Ragnar Van Leyden)

BILL EDWARDS is something of a paradox in the TV industry. You hear a great deal from him but very little about him. This is because Bill narrates and appears in many of the important commercials seen on television.

Despite his relative anonymity Bill's career is one of TV's top success stories. His yearly earnings approach the $100,000 mark, a far higher yield than that of many famous television personalities.

While Bill would never classify himself as an actor, he actually is one of the most versatile performers in existence. For instance, he is a gas station attendant in the Chevron commercials, a factory worker for Weber's Bread, a hair dresser for Sof-Set, a shoe salesman for CallenKamp's, a sportsman for Hamm's Beer and a banker for First Federal Savings and Loan Co.

Though most of his TV appearances are filmed in advance, he announces in person the "Brave Eagle" and "Life of Riley" shows on Channel 2. Also, every Friday he is flown to San Francisco to do the "Hey Mulligan" program on KGO-TV.

The bulk of his income is from filmed commercials because he is paid every time one of them is used. His Hamm's Beer films are a prime example. Two and a half years ago Bill worked a day and a half to produce 18 of these beer spots which have the attractive "Land of the Sky Blue Water" theme. To date these films alone have earned him more than $40,000 in residual pay.

Commercial announcing is an exacting profession, according to Bill. "I have to sell myself instantaneously so I'll have time to sell my product," he says. "This means my clothes, my haircut and everything about me must meet with everybody's approval. There've been times when the ad agency boys in New York have wanted to dress me in Ivy League suits. I've had to talk them out of it because I know Madison Avenue's standards for clothes aren't always acceptable to the farmer in Fresno. I have to try for a happy medium."

The right psychological approach is another important factor. "You have to impress the specific group which buys your type of product," he says. "Delivery of a cosmetic commercial naturally is slanted to impress women. To sell cigars you'd try to strike up a friendship with men."

Bill almost made a costly mistake in his psychological approach for the Hamm's Beer Spots. Knowing that the vast majority of beer drinkers are men, he had planned to assume a rugged, hearty personality. But his wife, Babs, set him straight by pointing out that women are the ones who actually go to the market and buy beer and have it refrigerated for hubby when he gets home from work. Bill quickly changed his beer personality to a soft-spoken, gentlemanly type.

Bill's favorite relaxation is skin diving at which he is expert. "It's a complete escape from my work," he says, "since you seldom run into a sponsor or ad agency executive at ten fathoms."

RED BUTTONS

... Is he through with TV?

The noted comedian has found a new world in motion pictures. And Hollywood has found a new star in Red. What will all this do to any possible television plans?

By Jack Holland

RED BUTTONS walked off the set of "Sayonara" at Warner Bros. wearing a smile that stretched from here to ear.

"Brother! This is the life!" Red exclaimed enthusiastically. "I'll take movies any day of the week. I'd always wanted to do a picture because, after all, movies, no matter how you try to ignore it, is the top medium. Now here I am—playing a straight dramatic role. If there's any comedy in my part it's an accident, and that's the best kind anyway," he added with a laugh.

This was a much happier Red Buttons than the guy who wound up three years of TV some time back. There was plenty of spirit in the redhead, loads of confidence, and—well, Red was just feeling darned good.

"Not only do I get a picture, but I get to work with Marlon Brando," Red continued. "This is the greatest guy—sympathetic, kind, decent. Every picture should have a Brando."

Before Red got the call from Warners to do "Sayonara," he had thought of movies. As he put it, "I had aspirations and apprehensions about doing a picture. And then it just came to me. I was in New York at the time waiting to go back on TV and was thinking of new formats when out of the blue this came to Red," he grinned.

That Red was a rather disillusioned fellow after three years of TV is no special secret. For a while he was TV's prime favorite. Then, for some unknown reason, he began to slip. At this point Red became known as the guy who hired and fired writers so fast nobody could keep up with him.

TV Mistakes?

"I wasn't firing any writers for any psychotic whim," Red said flatly, "although doing a weekly comedy series doesn't entitle you to be in the realm of normal people. Everybody, though, has a breaking point. I had mine. I found out sooner than most comedians how fast TV can use you up. Now, gradually, most of them are biting the dust."

"I had thought I was doing all right during those three years. I tried to get the best producer, the best writing, the best everything. But you just can't go on knocking your brains out."

"I can't speak for other comedians, but I feel that a comic on TV shouldn't be the whole cake. He should just be the icing."

Red isn't at all certain about going back on another TV series once "Sayonara" is finished.

"At the moment I have no desire to try a series again," Red said honestly. "That doesn't preclude any desires in the future. No one can plan too far ahead in this business. I'm just waiting for someone to come down now and give me a sign about what to do."

Loves Movies

on making pictures. I'd love to have a good lasting career in movies. As the result of working in "Sayonara," I'd definitely tell any young comedian to 'Go film, young man.' I can remember those three years of live TV and of spending Monday mornings watching kines of the last show. How I wished I could have gone back and done some things over. Well, in pictures you have the great advantage of retakes, of being able to perfect something. After coming out of my TV experiences this is like winning a prize.

"Yet, I have no regrets. It's all a part of living. It's all a great experience. And what I have done in the past few years is a lot better than the way I used to have to live. When I was starting out in the business I lived in rooms that were so small that if you opened the door you fell right in bed—and often the door knob fell in with you. One room I had was so small that if I opened the door too wide I'd fall right out the window."

So—is Red Buttons through with TV? The odds are that he is as far as any series is concerned. He's discovered he enjoys living too much.

His Illness Was a Lesson

George Putnam is a changed man in many ways since his recent critical illness. And he won't forget what it taught him.

GEORGE PUTNAM describes himself as a real "softy" when it comes to his role as father to young Jan. And who can blame him for succumbing to this girl's charms?

GINNY, GEORGE'S WIFE, and young Jan are two big reasons for the KTTV newscaster's changed outlook on life. The Putnam family expect a new addition this month. (KTTV Photos — Rothschild)

WHEN George Putnam returned to his KTTV news shows the first time after his very serious illness he merely said to his public, "As I was saying when I was so rudely interrupted some weeks ago, here is the top of the news."

George never once referred to his illness on his TV program. As he put it, "I don't think viewers really want to know all about how you're feeling—they have troubles enough of their own." And there is little argument with this!

But George was willing to discuss what his illness had taught him — away from his TV mike.

He had lost a good deal of weight since his seige with hepatitis and yellow jaundice. For a while his condition was extremely critical and there were days when George didn't care whether he lived or not. But he was feeling fine the day I saw him, some eight weeks after he had been taken ill. He was dieting strictly on plain lettuce, tomatoes, steak, tea with plenty of honey, and he was intent on taking care of himself. He had to be — that was one of the strict orders handed down to him by his doctor.

Thoughts

"In the hospital I had a chance to sit back and reassess my life and myself," the genial George explained. "I realized I had been beating myself over the head for years. It had been more than 20 years since I had had a vacation and I suddenly decided it was silly to work that hard. I have now determined to take four weeks off a year — regardless of what may happen.

"I learned that no one was indispensable — or indestructible. I'd been pushing myself too hard. Now I cannot do too much if I expect to go on being well. I also realized fully, perhaps for the first time, the responsibility I had towards my wife, Ginny, and my daughter, Jan. We're expecting another baby in June — and if it's a boy we'll call him Guy and if a girl she will be Jill. No man has the right, I learned, to forget that his health is a definite responsibility to his family."

George was deeply touched by all the mail he received from his fans — over 1,000 a week. As he put it, "It's a wonderful thing to know that you're considered a part of so many fine families. I have as much admiration too for those people who lead a life of service — the nurses and the doctors, all those at the hospital who do such remarkable work with so much devotion."

He then turned his attention to the disease he had itself. And from all indications, the crusader was coming out in him.

"Hepatitis is a serious problem now," George said, "more so than we're led to believe. Its contagious nature should be responsible for many changes, or so informed authorities and I believe. For one thing, I think we have to look at our whole blood bank system. There is indeed a danger here of the disease being carried by blood donors. Also, those in the know feel that since the virus can be carried in a needle that is used for injections or in dentists' instruments that more thorough sterilization processes should be inaugurated. It would even be better for each person to insist on his own new needle. And certainly anyone who has had hepatitis should freely admit it whenever he goes to a doctor or to a dentist. These may seem like unnecessary precautions, but anyone who has had the disease won't think they are."

Still A Crusader

George would probably like to start a real campaign on this but he is going to leave the matter in the hands of medical authorities instead.

He is not, however, going to ignore other issues that arise on civic matters. While he won't dig up issues he'll never be afraid to meet any that arise. He firmly believes that, "It's the duty of any newsman to fight for anything that is for the public good."

Yet, George does not heartily approve of the fighting type of interview shows in which the questions asked someone are vicious and inclined to damage a person unnecessarily.

"I don't want to hurt anyone," George said, "and I don't believe in being sensational just for the sake of being sensational. The one kind of individual I'll always fight, though, is the corrupt public official who takes an oath of office and then steals from the public he is supposed to serve. In such cases TV can expose and can be a real public trust. That is its greatest service."

George Putnam may have been floored by his illness for a time, but it hasn't taken any fight out of him.

The Problems OF A Program Director

WHEN STATION MANAGER JACK HEINTZ (seated) negotiated for the sale of KCOP to a syndicate headed by Bing Crosby and Kenyon Brown, he made sure that a part of the agreement would install his program director, Al Flanagan (on the phone) as the new headman of Channel 13.

THERE couldn't be a simpler title for a more complicated job than Program Director. Next to the manager, he holds the most responsible position at a TV station.

For another of our behind-the-scenes stories, we at TV-Radio Life thought our readers would like to know what a typical day is like in the life of a program director. For that reason we chatted with Al Flanagan who has been the program director at KCOP, Channel 13 since 1954.

Flanagan's duties as program director have made him fully qualified for his new post. A program director is the station's manager's right-hand man. Somewhat similar to the relationship between the Commanding Officer of a ship and the Executive Officer.

"I suppose another way of expressing it," Flanagan declares, "is that the program director is the man who is charged with the responsibility of spending less money than the sales force brings in."

The working day of a TV executive really never ends. Officially, it starts at 8:30 in the morning, and ends at 5 p.m. However, many a night he must stick around to meet a client or watch a show. Even when he gets home, he can't help mixing a little pleasure with business when he sits around with friends and family and watches some TV shows.

"In my house," the tall, spectacled executive explains, "I have two TV sets. One is constantly tuned to Channel 13. The other is to literally keep my eye on what competition is doing."

Weekend Wicked

Even on weekends, there is no rest for the weary. In Flanagan's case — and each program director at each station has dozens of similar experiences — he particularly remembers the many Saturdays he had to spend at Oscar Levant's house. For a short spell the unpredictable Levant had his unpredictable musical panel program on Channel 13. "One thing I will say," Flanagan smiles today, "it was never dull trying to figure out what Oscar was going to do. Anything could have happened — and usually did."

This brings up one of the chief functions of a program director: he has to act as a combination father-friend-and-baby-sitter to the various personalities who perform on a station. As a result, a program director has to be part-time psychologist.

"It's really amazing how different people react under similar circumstances," Flanagan clarifies. "Once again as an example, let's say that two of our top stars — Tom Duggan and Bill Burud — come to me and want something. Maybe more money, or a better time slot for their programs, or something less important.

"Now Tom — he doesn't waste time. He'll come in the office and within a few seconds get right to the point. But Bill — he has a different method. He'll come in, sit around the office, talk about a thousand different things for maybe a half hour or more — and then finally get around to the main point.

"In each case, the approach is different, but the results are the same. The job gets done."

While handling personalities is a major part of a program director's function, it's by no means the only one.

Keep the Unhappy Happy

The first chore in the morning is the Discrepancy Report. If a sponsor is unhappy, or there have been technical problems, the program director has to find out who and what caused the trouble, and see to it that it's remedied.

Next, comes a sales meeting with Amos Baron and his staff.

Then, of course, there are daily meetings with the skipper or station manager himself.

"One of the biggest jobs for a program director, especially for local stations, is the purchasing of films.

And as far as "original or new ideas for programs" are concerned, Flanagan has some unusual facts to relate. Especially for people who constantly come up with a brainstorm which they think will make them a fortune overnight.

"At our station alone, I would say we get about 25 letters a week, suggesting a certain type of show. Of course, I and other TV executives, appreciate this interest on the part of the public.

"Unfortunately, however, Flanagan flatly declares, "I have never been able to use one of these ideas. And to my knowledge no station or network has ever started a new show based upon a suggestion submitted by a layman."

Why? The reason, as Flanagan explains it, is simple:

"New ideas, or formats, are important to a program director. But more important than the idea — is the person who brings it in. Can he deliver the product? — is the question I always ask myself. The greatest gimmick in the world is absolutely useless — unless it can be produced. That's why I'd buy a producer, any day, before I'd buy an idea."

Despite the hectic pace that he — and every other program director — goes through every day, easy-going, even-tempered Mr. Flanagan still maintains he "wouldn't have any other job in the world."

There are no particular requirements for being a program director (although many of them are former directors or announcers, such as Flanagan was). It does require an all-around knowledge of TV — both as a practical business and as a part of show business.

Oh yes — if you're allergic to ulcers — that also helps.
