MIKE WALLACE

... Not an Expose

J.B., L.A.

We haven't watched a Mike Wallace show, but the printed remarks make it sound like a TV expose. Sid Caesar is a most unfunny bore. The best hour-long show on TV is Cheyenne and Conflict. Every week of the year and every play is well done and exciting.

Our TV censor returns the sound automatically in two minutes, so we never see nor hear any offensive commercials.

To make rating systems fair, they should be in different homes every week or month.

M.S., Long Beach

I think Playhouse 90 is a wonderful program and I consider it and Climax, Thursday night "musts".

I liked "It Could Be you" until I went to see the program in person once and was disappointed to see how it is worked. Those people aren't surprised at all. They ought to be actors, because they put on such a surprised act when they are picked from the audience and then if you could see how they let only those particular people into the studio first and put them in special seats. Just the fact that they are allowed in before anyone else is reason enough to believe that they know the "surprise" beforehand. I still watch it on t.v. because I like Bill Leyden very much and enjoy the reunion quiz, even if it is rigged.

JACKIE COOPER AND MANDY

... Refreshing, Including Cleo

The C. Family, Bloomington

First of all, we like Dick Lane and Roller Derby better than anything else on television, and we are only sorry that we can't see Roller Derby more often than just once a week. Here are our other favorites: Bob Crosby Show, Cheyenne, Gunsmoke, Perry Como, Wells Fargo, and the People's Choice—in that order.

Also, we disagree with Mrs. W. of Los Angeles, Jackie Cooper and Mandy aren't disgusting. We find them very refreshing.

We are very sorry to hear that the Bob Crosby Show is going off the air. It has long been a favorite with us.

POLLY BERGEN

... Highly Praised

Mrs. N.M., Riverside

Helen Morgan's star could not have shown any brighter than Polly Bergen's own did the night she portrayed Helen on Playhouse 90. This girl is a wonderful actress and singer. For that matter the whole cast was marvelous and we're so grateful for these fine shows.

Gunsmoke is a never miss at our house. Wonderful adult-western stories and the casting is perfect.

Mrs. N.M., Alhambra

I hope others did as I did tonight and wrote ABC-TV and asked for a different spot commercial right after the signing off of the Billy Graham N.Y. Crusade. I think a beer ad was hardly appropos at that time—about as much so as was Mickey Cohen in the family living room. Why can't TV stations use a little better taste?

D.F., Alhambra

Just like to say that we enjoyed Treasure Hunt last season. Hope to see it in September. Jan Murray is a very good emcee.

Perennially Popular

Fred Waring, whose "hair has turned to silver" is loved as much today as he was 25 years ago.

By Jean Corlis

SMILING FRED WARING reveals the charm that has endeared him to music lovers through the years.

THREE GENERATIONS of Americans have a sentimental attachment for the music of Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians. What, then, is the reason for his long-time success?

"I believe," said Mr. Waring, "that it is because we sing the favorite music of all people . . . music that people know and love, ranging from folk through standards. We make all the words completely understandable by singing all the sounds within each syllable, a system of our own we call 'tone syllables'."

As a summer replacement for the CBS-TV-KNXT Garry Moore Show, Fred Waring and the Pennsylvanians Orchestra and Glee Club are telecasting from the grounds of the beautiful Shawnee Inn and Country Club, near Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., where Waring makes his home and conducts his school. Background of the program is the club's golf course, the Shawnee Inn and its pool. Half-hour Monday through Thursday shows have a completely relaxed almost ad-lib format; hour-and-a-half show on Friday requires more planning and less informality.

Waring's use of chorus and glee club has always been his trademark, and he is using members of the Fred Waring

Youth Workshop in this summer show. The school, which attracts hundreds of professional choral leaders and teachers each year, has revolutionized teaching methods for ensemble choral groups.

"One of the most important things I hope to do on the show," stated Waring, "is to give counsel to beginners, actually run auditions, and tell these youngsters frankly whether or not in the opinion of my staff and myself they should attempt to break into professional show business."

His Start

Fred Waring got his start in his high school days when he sang in the school glee club and with the choral group. He also organized the local Boy Scout drum and bugle corps. When he first started out his greatest thrill was the response to the sound of voices and the wonderful response of audiences.

When Waring began organizing his first band, and for the most of his career since that time, his group was picked on the basis of personality. "We felt that most of them would be with us for many years," said Waring, "and this proved to be the case. Since television, however, the turnover among our younger members is tremendous. Now, because of increased costs in training we must be more selective in choosing our people, and due to the pressure of TV rehearsals we must be sure that they are able, quick-study people."

With such a large group the question of temperament is always a problem. How does one keep such a big group happy — temperamentally speaking?

"In the old days," responded Waring, "people were happy if they worked all the time, perfecting their art, their talent. Today, they're only happy when they achieve the big-money brackets immediately. I think there's been a tremendous drop-off in style because young people aren't willing to work a little longer to perfect themselves."

Waring's featured vocalists and soloists play an important part in this summer show as they have in the past. Ninety per cent of the music the Waring group has performed and still performs is songs. As Fred Waring expresses it, "I like songs because they can be sung." Instrumental music has its place, but songs reach the heart.

Waring does not do his own arranging. He sketches out the numbers, then hands them over to the experts and explains the effects he wants to achieve.

From his long experience in satisfying public tastes, Fred Waring feels that the important element in providing entertainment is judgment. "There's plenty of entertainment around, songs are being written. It's a matter of judging that material which you feel will appeal to your audiences."

We asked Waring what he felt had been some of his most successful numbers. "Some of our best numbers, of course, haven't been recorded, simply because they have been things we have done in concert, or going even further back, when we were a dance band. Some of it has been captured in our new Capitol Records album. Personally, I would list off my hand, 'All The Things You Are,' 'Way Back Home,' 'Battle Hymn of the Republic,' etc. In short, people's favorites."

And that's why Maestro Waring is still riding the crest of the wave year after year — he gives people the songs they want, the songs that touch the heart.

What's Hugh O'Brian Really After?

The star of ABC-TV's Wyatt Earp has a real goal in mind for his future, and it explains much of the mystery surrounding this very hot young star.

By Jack Holland

HUGH ISN'T STICKING ONLY TO WYATT EARP and his guns. He's out to conquer new fields, even the bongo drums. He gives 'out with the "tones" in between scenes for his ABC-TV show.

WYATT EARP has proved a gold mine to Hugh O'Brian. It has also given him an entirely new life.

Before Hugh went to work for his popular ABC-TV show he was a fairly good name in town. He was a highly creditable actor. And his future looked quite promising. But now, with Wyatt Earp firmly established on the TV horizon as a smash, Hugh is walking around in clover so thick and so high he can hardly see above it. The guy is in!

So what has this success done to Hugh? What changes has it made in him?

Marriage

For one thing — it hasn't changed his marital status. He's still single. However, never has he been more in a mood to take unto himself a wife. There is even a young lady he met on the Jackie Gleason show who could make him trade his bachelor role for that of a husband — maybe.

"Her name is Dorothy Bracken," Hugh said sincerely, "and I'm very fond of her. I see her whenever I go to New York. Yet, I'm not thinking of any marriage for the present and I'm certain she isn't either.

"Maybe I shouldn't say I'm not thinking of any marriage — that could give the wrong idea. I think of marriage itself all the time. I know I'm ready for it now, perhaps for the first time. But I still want to be realistic enough to think of a few things.

"I have finally attained security and it's given me a kind of peace of mind I have never known before. I have always wanted to be able to give my wife real security, freedom from worry and concern. But even though I can offer this to a girl now I'm still cautious. I've seen a lot of happy and a lot of unhappy marriages so I don't think I should marry until I feel that I can't do without a girl, that my life won't be complete without her, until I want only one person. I see nothing wrong with wanting to be that certain, that sure.

"I do have security now beyond the Wyatt Earp show. I have real estate investments, oil royalties, two speculative tracks in Lancaster and Las Vegas, I'm going to build an apartment house, I own 10 percent of the merchandising from the show, I invested the first year's profits from the show in blue chip stocks. I also have an album coming out in September on the ABC-Paramount label.

P. A. Tours

"Then there are my personal appearance tours. I now have my own company that produces these tours, such as the ones I recently completed. They have really been great successes, I am happy to say. For instance, in Durham, Connecticut, which has a population of 1800, 9600 people showed up. On these appearances I have done one thing that takes a lot of time and is very different — I really go out to meet the people. After the performances I come out on the stage, do some quick draws and then go to the exit where I shake hands with everyone. I know I'd never lose any one of those people as fans because they all would have a more personal feeling about me. I can still remember the night Glenn Ford came to a rehearsal some years ago of 'Mourning Becomes Electra' which I did with The Stagelights. I have felt ever since that he was a friend of mine, just because he was there and I met him and talked to him. It's partly because of this feeling that I have that my fan club is called the Hugh O'Brian Friend Club instead of the Hugh O'Brian Fan Club.

"The club has 52 publicity or membership chairmen now — one for each of the 48 states and one in London, Canada, Alaska, and Hawaii. Irene Jackson is the president. I am frank to admit that I have encouraged the formation of these clubs and I assure you I find it more than stimulating and rewarding to work actively with the members."

Hugh's blueprint for the future does not center on just the Wyatt Earp show. This boy looks ahead. That is one reason why he has been doing such a variety of things on TV recently — such as his singing and dancing stint on the Ed Sullivan Show and his work on the Jackie Gleason Show of a few weeks ago.

"I want to prove I can do other things," Hugh said. "I have to think ahead to the time when Earp won't be on TV. I'm aiming for one purpose — to be recognized by my fellow actors as one of the best actors in the business. That is my artistic desire. My economic desire is to make a fine living in the business I love.

Too Money Conscious?

"Speaking of economics, I don't think money is too important to me, as some have inferred. If this were so, I'd never have left Universal-International where I had the security of a contract. But I left because I felt I wasn't getting anywhere. It's more important to me to think of where I'll be in my career five years from now than it is to be concerned with how much money I'll have.

"I'm realistic about finances — I think. I'm not teeing off now on big cars and gold-plated swimming pools. I'm careful about investments and yet I enjoy myself. I realize I have to have fun along with the hard work. I may be overly cautious or conservative about how my money is spent, but, if so, that is because I come from a conservative background. It's the way I was raised. And I'd rather be overly-conscientious than not conscientious enough about money. This is a precarious business. You have to make certain that you put to work what you earn. A career is like your health. You have to take care of it, and I feel I do in that I don't stint at all on the money I spend towards the management of my career. I need the best people around me because I have a big business. And I'm willing to pay for the best."

There is no doubt that Hugh O'Brian is big business these days. And he's smart enough and shrewd enough to see that it stays that way. Hugh O'Brian is a big star now because that's the way he wanted it and he has a way of reaching the goals at which he aims.

It would be extremely unwise to ever sell this man short. He's playing nobody's fool.

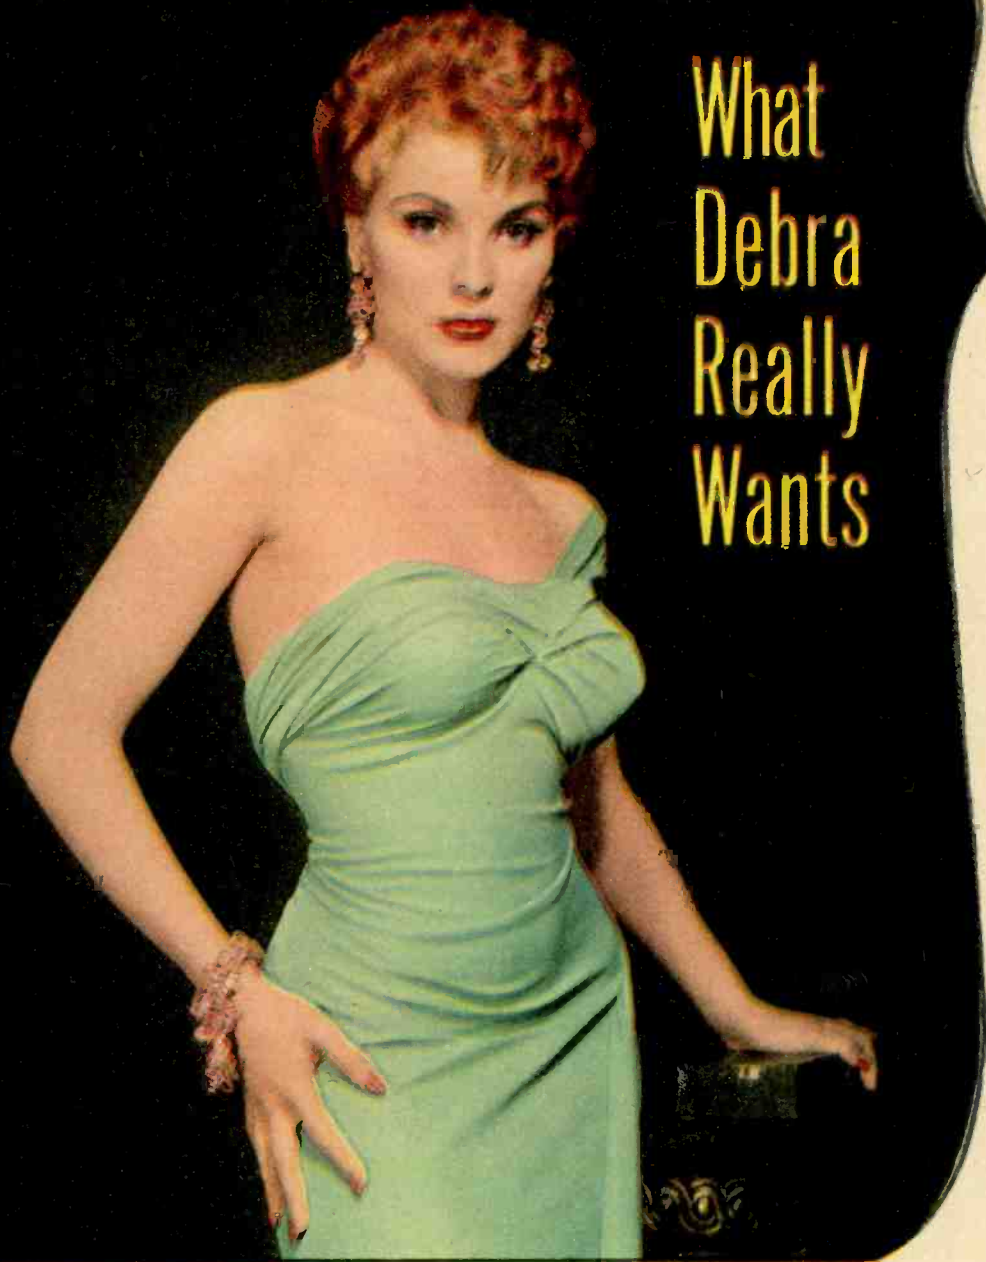

SINGING HAS ALSO come into his life. In addition to his acting he is taking singing and dancing lessons. The results of his vocal efforts will be seen soon in the release of his new ABC-Paramount album.

FEW STARS ARE AS AWARE of the importance of fans to a successful career as is Hugh O'Brian. He's seen here with some of his youthful admirers as he explains a few facts about a gun.

AT HOME HUGH LIVES like any other bachelor — carefree and apparently happy. He lives in a modest apartment. This is one star who will not squander his money to create any "impression."

What Debra Really Wants

Debra Paget has one frustration and she doesn't quite know what to do about it. Somebody ought to take some action fast.

By Jack Holland

Debra has had a couple of chances of late in movies that have encouraged her — notably her roles at Paramount in “The Ten Commandments” and “Omar Khayyam.” But at her home studio of 20th Century-Fox she is still thought of as the girl who made such a resounding hit in “Broken Arrow,” the original movie. Debra was a very young girl in that one.

Elvis

“I did work with Elvis Presley in ‘Love Me Tender’ at 20th,” Debra said, “but my part was pretty much routine. I guess it was this picture that started those rumors about Elvis and me. When I went east recently, you’d have thought he and I were married if you paid any attention to all the reports. And Mexico had us eloping. I assure one and all that Elvis and I are good friends and that is all.”

Romantically, Debra has always been a source of interest and amazement since she seldom has had dates. She lives with her family which consists of her highly personable mother, Maggie, her father, her sister Teala and her husband and children, Debra’s younger sister. Debra’s other sister, Leslie, recently got married. But Debra? No romance.

“I seem to fall in and out of love,” Debra grinned, “but there is nothing serious in my life at all. I am not in any hurry to get involved either. I have enough to think of now with my work.”

For a film actress, Debra is surprising in that she prefers doing live television. Her role in a recent Climax was especially exciting to her.

“There’s more enthusiasm in live TV and better use made of time,” Debra said. There’s none of this business of dragging things out as there is in film.”

She has done everything possible to assure one and all that she has become a young lady, that she has left behind her the little girl. There are certain things about her that should prove this convincingly. It does appear that somebody had better put on his glasses and take another good, long look at her. Believe us, she’s grown up!

DEBRA PAGET is no longer the dreamy-eyed little ingenue as this picture amply proves. She’s now on KTTV’s Premiere Performance. (Paramount Pictures Photo — Bud Fraker).

DEBRA PAGET is one of Hollywood’s loveliest and most glamorous young stars. The charmer who acts now as hostess on KTTV’s premiere Performance, a show featuring 20th Century-Fox movies to which Debra is also under contract, lives just the way she feels stars should live. The accent is on glamour.

There is her jewel-studded Cadillac. There are her ultra zingy gowns. There is her home which is a colorful affair with fish nets and sequined figures on walls, an Oriental garden in the living room, the white rugs. There are her pet monkey and chimpanzee and her beautiful multi-colored parrot which wanders around the back yard. There are her sexy gowns and her copper hair. Everything is with the accent on the different, the unusual, the exotic.

But glamour isn’t all Debra is after. She has that. What she is really hoping for is that someone will wake up and look at her and realize she is grown up now.

Her Desire

At which point we could only say, “How could anyone doubt that?”

“I do feel that TV has been more aware of the fact that I’m no longer a little girl,” Debra remarked. “At least when I did Climax, Matinee Theater, and a couple of other shows I wasn’t given the pig-tails-down-my-back business. TV seems to regard me more as a grown-up actress.” It was also TV that gave her the chance to do some of her sensational dances.

LOS ANGELES' NEWEST FM STATION, KMLA, went on the air July 1 with programs pegged "as adult, with special emphasis on quality and easy listening music."

NEW STATION JOINS FM BAND AT 100.3 MEGACYCLES

A NEW station joined the Frequency Modulation band several weeks ago when KMLA began broadcasting at 100.3 megacycles.

Technically speaking, it is the first station in the country to use the new phase linier antenna making it possible to radiate a full sixty kilowatts of power from its six elements in perfect phase relation.

Adult Programming

The stations programming is aimed at the adult listener with special emphasis on quality and easy listening music played exclusively from LP's. A rigid policy regulating the type, length and number of commercials will be strictly enforced.

Special programs, in stereophonic sound, are in the planning stage. These programs will be broadcast in conjunction with another FM station, KCBH, of equal power and identical location of transmitting facilities.

News is featured on the hour every hour, except during the stereophonic broadcasts. KMLA has leased the services of United Press to insure top coverage of local, regional and national news.

Heading up the KMLA operation is J. B. Kiefer who is a veteran Southern California broadcaster. Mr. Kiefer has been in radio since 1924 and has been associated with several local stations in an executive capacity. He was co-founder of the Southern California Network which later became a part of the Mutual Network. Prior to becoming president of Musicast, the parent organization of KMLA, Mr. Kiefer was vice-president of the Southern California Advertising Agencies Association.

As president of Musicast, he saw the company grow, during the past seven years, into its present position as the largest operation in the United States using FM as its method of transmitting music to industrial, commercial and professional locations.

Experienced Staff

Backing up the KMLA slogan, "You never heard it so good" is a staff of experienced engineers and on-the-air personalities that can be typified by announcers George Sanders and Harling and vice-president in charge of engineering, William Tomberlin.

George Sanders has been a popular disc jockey and emcee over West Coast radio and TV since 1945. His Hollywood interview show, "Sanders Meanders," is syndicated and presented over 243 independent radio stations in this country and Canada.

Program Director-Announcer Harling has been associated with radio for the past twelve years. He served as a Naval Communications Officer during World War II and the Korean War. He brings to KMLA experience garnered from stations in Iowa, Florida, Michigan, New Orleans and California. He has also been active in theatrical production in Palm Beach, New Orleans and Hollywood.

Vice-president William Tomberlin has the distinction of engineering the first automatic station in the West and also the first FM transmitted background music service.

These men are part of a station that, in the words of President J. B. Kiefer, "intends to rightfully share . . . with listeners the better things in life; to bring back once again the intended meaning of 'public interest, convenience and necessity'."—D.V.

RADIO PLAYS IMPORTANT PART IN DESERT LIFE

HORACE GREELEY'S sage remark, "Go West, young man" is not thought of too highly by some people. Particularly those long-time residents who view with alarm the ever-increasing population in Southern California and wonder where all these humans will find living space. The city dweller who mutters under his breath "why don't they go back where they come from" should be grateful for the vast desert regions, long thought fit only for Arabs and deluxe resort areas built for the purpose of pampering high-income-bracket people. For the desert is fast absorbing thousands of folk from every corner of the land.

One such place is Ridgecrest in the heart of the Mojave desert 165 miles north and east of Los Angeles. In but another demonstration of man's pioneering spirit, Ridgecrest and the surrounding communities reflect the will of a people to wrest from their surroundings the bounty nature offers. Auto racing on the dry lake beds, uranium, gemstones, dude ranches, clear air—all these attract increasing thousands to the desert. Real estate developments such as Yucca Valley, Apple Valley, Hesperia and China Lake acres have property priced for every pocketbook.

The U.S. Naval Ordnance Test Station at China Lake, immediately adjoining Ridgecrest, employs 13,000 people. With Ridgecrest's 7000 population, plus another 15,000 in the surrounding towns of Trona, Johannesburg and Argus, a radio station was a necessity. KRCK, 1000 watt station operating on 1360 kc, serves this bustling desert area with all the color, flavor and timeliness of the big-time metropolitan stations. Owned by Victor M. Farel, a man who believes in the potential and future of the desert, and managed by Bob Hamilton and his lovely wife, Jan, the station serves as a focal point for news and activities of the community. F.O.

MANAGER OF KRCK in Ridgecrest is Bob Hamilton.

LOOKS DECEIVED: They've been shooting the two "honeymoon" episodes of Danny Thomas' fall series up in Las Vegas where the blistering heat just about wilted everybody down to a grease spot. Regardless, Danny, his two TV children, Marjorie Lord (who'll be the new "Mrs. Williams") and a small four-year-old doll named Angela Courtright, who'll play "Mrs. Williams" daughter, ground out two films. In one of them Danny carried his bride over the threshold of her new home.

FOR THIS SEQUENCE MISS LORD was dressed prettily in a chiffon number, looking quite partified. Shooting was finished around noon and without changing she walked across the patio at the hotel to get a bite of luncheon. As she breezed past two ladies who were sunning themselves she overheard one of them mutter: "Look at that dame! She's just getting in for the night!"

GOOD OBSERVATIONS on the shift of TV activities from New York to Hollywood were made by Mr. and Mrs. Keith Brown (Eleanor Corrigan), former Hollywoodites now laboring in Manhattan. Keith, formerly of MCA, and Eleanor who was with Press Info. at CBS-KNX, are visiting our area. He is an expert in casting and talent handling; she is with Benton and Bowles agency. Both said that New York, which has been experiencing a gradual exodus of TV talent and personnel for some time, finally began to admit openly only a couple of months ago that the East had missed the TV boat. In addition to the usual reasons given — lack of space, lack of film techniques and so on — another cause for the shift was pointed out. Apparently the big New York dramatic shows underwent a slow-but-sure rise in budgets for obtaining talent. Finally the pay became so good that it was possible to bait "name" Hollywood stars in place of just good solid N.Y. actors with no great marquee value. The name stars were willing to go to New York to appear on TV, writing off their traveling expenses. Ultimately this procedure brought about some of the swing westward where most of the stars live. We can thank Playhouse 90, Climax, Matinee and similar programs for this outcome.

THE NIGHTWATCH AT KNX — Mel Baldwin, newsman Rod Voigt, and an engineer — has had its share of news breaks between 11:30 p.m. and 5:30 a.m. Most recent was the Mexican earthquake on which KNX was receiving firsthand wire service reports of damage but very little information on the Acapulco situation. After setting up communications with a U.P. correspondent in Mexico City, KNX utilized phonotape to record interviews with passengers after the first plane from Acapulco arrived in Mexico City. "This was the first news pertaining to Acapulco that we received," said Baldwin. "We were ahead of our own news wires when we put the news on KNX at 7:05 a.m. Sunday, July 28."

FAST ACTION AND SOLID reporting like this are to be commended and they further put to shame the AFTRA national executive secretary's reference to radio as being in a "dull and dreary state." Southern California Broadcasters have registered a protest against the AFTRA rep's remarks. A stand well taken!

HOLLAND'S

Tunnel

DUG BY JACK HOLLAND

NEW YORK . . . At a press conference held here by Robert Sarnoff, president of the National Broadcasting Company, plans for the fall season were announced and one of the most interesting things is that the word "spectacular" is out. Now it's being called "special."

About these "specials," for which NBC is going all-out, there seems to be a rather significant effort to better the TV fare for the average viewer. There are programs that are obviously designed for the intelligentsia, those that may add to the intellectual health of the public. The "specials," however, embrace a wide variety of subjects — everything from opera to a Jerry Lewis show. And a "special" can be a half-hour, hour, 90 minutes, or two-hour program — anything that is not on the regular weekly schedule.

There will be 14 separate series of specials but regular shows will not be pre-empted more than twice to accommodate these extra-curricular efforts. Children will be considered too in the line-up since shows designed for them, such as "Pied Piper of Hamelin" and "Pinocchio," will go on at an early evening hour so that the youngsters can see them. This should please most parents.

Altogether, 100 specials will be presented in the coming season, a 15 percent increase over the past season. $40,000,000 worth of billings is represented. There will also be 67 percent more use of color than before.

It is the aim of NBC-TV to show every type of program from 7:30 to 11 p.m. each day in the week — and it's an ambitious schedule. Some of the interesting new surprises to be seen are Omnibus now at NBC, Bob Cummings Show on Tuesday at 9:30 instead of its former CBS slot on Thursday, and a Texaco Command Appearance, sponsored by the American Theatre Wing. The latter will present the highlights in the career of a noted performer, proceeds to go to the training of young actors, writers, etc. The first performer to be so honored is Ed Wynn.

Robert Saudek, producer of Omnibus, said that the proceeds from his show would go to a worthy cause too — to making NBC and himself richer. The new year for Omnibus sounds exciting and it is good to see it back again.

A run-down of some of the shows being planned and reported by the producers themselves shows Hallmark of Fame with two Maurice Evans shows — "Dial M For Murder" and a comedy by Shakespeare; Pete Salomon, director of Special Projects, will present on Project 20 "The Innocent Years," dealing with the years 1900-1914 and "Back in the Thirties," a story on a small town doctor and his everyday life, a children's news program, a panoramic look at the U.S. called "Leaves of Grass" and six programs on the history of musical comedy, the latter two to be done a year from now.

The so-called "Wise Men" series, or Conversations, will present film shows on Picasso, Igor Stravinsky, Ruth St. Denis and Ted Shawn, and David Ben Gurion.

Sam Sharkey, producer of the news division, has sent Chet Huntley to Tunis for an interview with the new president of that country. He is also planning a series on inside Poland, plus a show dealing with segregation outside our country.

Henry Jaffe discussed the Shirley Temple series, the Las Vegas shows (and from the look of this, KNXT'S Fabulous Las Vegas, though not a hit, must have stirred up interest), the Texaco Command Appearance.

Samuel Chotzinoff will again produce operas in English — an original French opera called "Dialogue of the Carmelites" leading off.

Barry Wood of Wide, Wide World says his show will emphasize theme and will do less pick-ups, the first to be "Challenge of Space."

Among other highlights are the shows of Bob Hope, Jerry Lewis, Dean Martin, Mary Martin in "Annie Get Your Gun," Standard Oil anniversary program, General Motors two-hour special, and important sports programs.

That's the big news from New York now — at least from an NBC standpoint. It's muggy here but not too bad. The next time you hear from this department it will be from Paris.

I extolled Channel 2 last week for a movie on their agenda, so I guess it's all right this week to say the way they have edited "The Jackie Robinson Story" makes it seem that all Jackie had to do was play good ball to make the big time. Gone from the original movie are all the incidents that made Jackie's task so difficult and dangerous and gave the picture bite and truth. Why edit the unpleasantness?

"A Bell For Adano." (2) Aug. 10, 10:00. 1945. John Hersey's Pulitzer Prizewinning play has been adapted to the screen with care and fidelity and emerges as a moving tribute to the American military and the occupied Italians it must govern. John Hodiak is Major Joppolo, military governor of a small Italian city, who must cope with a civilian morale that has touched bottom as a result of the disappearance of their town bell. How the major comes to understand and solve their problem is the core of the picture and the many character vignettes along the way to the climax help to underline the premise . . . to the victor belong the responsibilities as well as the spoils. Hodiak does very well in the central role, and good support is given by William Bendix, Roman Bohnen, Fortunio Bonanova and Marcel Dalio, while the only false note is struck by Gene Tierney, as a peasant girl.

"Kid Galahad." (5) Aug. 11, 7:30. 1937. Fight manager Edward G. Robinson attempts to guide pure minded heavy-weight Wayne Morris to the title while Humphrey Bogart tries to muscle in. The other characters in the traditional fight story are Bette Davis, as a lady of easy virtue who falls for the champ and Jane Bryan as a pure minded lass who does likewise.

Pick OF THE Pix

BY AUBREY DAHL

"Hellzapoppin'." (9) Beginning Aug. 12, 9:00. 1941. Olsen and Johnson's stage hit, which depended a great deal on audience participation for its success, has been transferred to the screen with all of the gags, pratfalls and buffonery but without the feeling one had in watching the theatre version that one could get involved in the melee. Diverting for one, however.

"Cockeyed Miracle." (11) Aug. 14, 10:15. 1946. Old sea captain Frank Morgan dies leaving his estate in turmoil, goes to heaven where he sees his father, Keenan Wynn, who died at the age of thirty-six . . . and this disparity in age and station make for some farcial situations, you can bet. Anyway, Father straightens things out with a few storms and such and all the right people marry each other.

"Satan Met a Lady." (5) Aug. 12, 7:30. 1936. Dashiell Hammett's "Maltese Falcon" was first made in 1931 with Ricardo Cortez and then this one came along with Warren William as Sam Spade (although the name is changed and the falcon becomes a ram's horn) and now I'm waiting for the best version with Bogart, directed by John Huston.

"Cry Havoc." (11) Aug. 12, 10:15. Bust out all over, June.

TRIP TIPS

By Jack McElroy

Attention: hunters, fishermen and those that really like to getaway-from-it-all. Our suggestion this week is a trip to the Sulphur Creek Ranch near Boise, Idaho.

They have a special package from Los Angeles that leaves Thursday a.m. and returns Monday. Included are: air transportation (incidentally, this is the only way to get into the ranch) in twin-engine chartered planes, a stay at the very modern lodge which has all the luxuries and a three-day float trip down the Salmon river. You will travel in a rubber boat guided by experienced rivermen.

This is one of the most magnificent remote areas left in America. The fishing from now until October is unexcelled. Four- or five-pound trout is the average, and 40-pound salmon are not unusual. Beginning September 15th are the elk and deer hunts in one of the last great big game areas.

Both the hunting and fishing trips, all expense included, run approximately 300 dollars. The flight takes approximately 4 hours from Los Angeles.

Catalina Island is now enjoying the height of their season and the best deals we have heard of to go over are offered by the Holiday Club.

They have a special arrangement whereby a person who is a member of the club can go over for two days, spend one night, transportation by boat included, for $8.95.

The deluxe tour is for three days and two nights including your choice of the best hotels, two breakfasts and two dinners, the speed boat ride, the terrace drive, bird park tour, glass bottom boat and cocktails at a leading restaurant plus round trip on the boat comes to the unbelievably small sum of $31.95 per person.

These trips, if booked by a vacationer individually would probably run almost double the amount and when you consider membership in the club costs only two dollars it's a great buy. If you are interested in joining, the number is MICHIGAN 9273.

If you don't have time for either Idaho or Catalina Island tune in on Channel 4 and take a vacation with us via television on "Weekend" Friday evenings, or "Vacation Time" Saturday afternoons.

"I wouldn't think of frying a PARAKEET"

HERE, for the first time, is the true inside story of the discovery of cooking!

One million and 7/8 years ago our forefathers lived on roots and berries and nuts.

In those days people kept chickens as house pets, just as we today keep parakeets—and in those days nobody would any more think of eating a chicken than we, today would think of serving a parakeet, southern fried.

One day before the beginning of written history a lady left her electric steam iron going while she chatted with her Friendly Sparkletts Service Man—her house caught fire and burned down—and there in the embers was history's first fried chicken. It smelled delicious so the lady nibbled a piece and cooking was discovered. Everybody and his dog started setting fire to his house (and the dogs set fire to their dog houses)—and cooked chicken became the rage.

But aha! That was cooking the hard way—burning down the house just to cook a chicken.

Cooking became gradually easier through the years and reached its apex of easiness when Ed Jarvis, a kindly man, invented Frozen Cooked Foods... also known as KoldKist Fresh Frozen Cooked Foods and Meat Products. There are 11 delicious specialties in the KoldKist line now.

Each and every one of our 11 KoldKist items is tasty and satisfying—but right now your best bet could be the Chili Size Twin Dinner because for a limited time it's being offered at a special reduction by most leading markets... two wonderful dinners packaged together, yours for less than $1.00 for the two.

Workers of the World Arise!

Arrange your uprising for 7:45 AM. You have nothing to lose but your nightie. And you have everything to gain. There's Harry Babbitt, for example ... a singer type chap with a fresh way of presenting music, weather and humorous stuff. Harry Babbitt, the housewife's balm! The toiler's shield! The maiden's dream! Actually, he's none of those. His approach to the mayhem of the A.M. merely makes early morning up-getting and out-going less revolting than need be. Be cocksure at cockcrow. Get the Babbitt habit on

WINNER

Prize-winning recipe received by Kold Kist is Sirloin Tips with Dumplings. Submitted by Mrs. Gene Eaton of San Diego. Here is her "formula":

SIRLOIN TIPS WITH DUMPLINGS

1 package Sirloin Tips with Mushrooms

½ cup Water

2 cups biscuit mix

¾ cup milk

½ small onion finely chopped

½ cup chopped green pepper

Heat Sirloin Tips with ½ cup water in a covered sauce pan until piping hot.

Add milk to biscuit mix and stir. Then add chopped onion and chopped pepper and mix into dough.

When Sirloin Tips are thoroughly heated, drop dumplings by spoonfuls onto Sirloin Tips. Cover pan and let steam for 15 to 20 minutes.

Will serve 3 to 4.

Summer is balloon time. After blowing one up and bouncing it for a while it is fun to think up other stunts to do with these colorful spheres. Here are a bunch of tricks and stunts with balloons that will provide fun and amusement for grownups and kids alike.

Color Changing Balloon: Balloon of one color is inserted into balloon of contrasting color. (This is easy to do if you put a blunt pencil or stick inside the inner balloon.) Inflate by blowing into the inner balloon. Tie inner balloon slightly so there is an air space between the two. When outside balloon is touched with a pin, there is a loud pop and balloon seems to change color.

Party Game: Room or patio is divided by a string which serves as a net. Balloon is hit with open hands back and forth by opposing sides. If balloon touches floor, opposing side scores.

Sound Effect: A small unwrapped sugar cube is placed inside inflated balloon and neck of balloon is tied. By rolling the sugar cube rapidly around the inside of the balloon you can imitate the sounds of machine guns, airplane motors and thunder.

Symphony in Squeaks: If fingers pull on opposite sides of balloon's mouth, the escaping air will produce a musical note. By varying tension, it is possible to play simple tunes. Try "Yankee Doodle" and "School Days" first.

Spirit Inflating Balloon: Mouth of balloon is attached to a bottle containing some seltzer powder. Have a small quantity of water in the end of the balloon. Tilt the balloon so water runs into bottle. The gas produced will inflate the balloon. By experimenting with water and powder you can discover the right quantity of each for the size balloon you are using. Warning: Do not take the seltzer powder from the medicine chest without your parents' permission.

Balloon Suspension: Rub balloon briskly on woolen cloth to charge it with static electricity. It will mysteriously stick to ceiling or wall and often remain for days.

Julius tells me that he became a parlor magician and in no time at all his friends disappeared.

SKIPPER FRANK

On Camera" by Bill Weber

Just to keep the record straight right from the beginning, the singing Jimmy Dean of this show is not in any way to be confused with the late James Dean, the actor.

The stronghold of the singing Jimmy Dean lies behind the barricade of country music, a barricade indeed if the listener to country music finds himself in more or less foreign territory. Though definitely anything but an expert on country music, it strikes me as pretty much as a modern derivative for what was once known as hillbilly music.

However one feels about the music that is Dean's stock in trade, one also has the feeling that it is perhaps a stepping stone into a larger area for the gangling Dean, a warm-up for bigger and better things to come.

The show, then, centers around the personality of Dean. And an intriguing one it is. Every newcomer to the entertainment world goes through that phase of comparison with older and more established performers—not so much an actual comparison, but as a yardstick to orient the public, a convenient handle for getting over the unknown in terms of the known. Fortunately entertainers subjected to this process survive on their own merits with little thought of comparison by the public in later years.

All of which is by way of venturing my own reaction to Dean in comparing him with known entertainment personalities. While registering very much on his own, there were overtones, pleasing ones, of both Bing Crosby and Arthur Godfrey.

In the singing department Dean is reminiscent of Crosby in the relaxed casualness in putting over a song, the effortless, imperturbable ease in performing, the entertainment personality you like without quite being able to analyze why.

The Godfrey echoes came across in the intimate, small-talk chit-chat in delivering a sales pitch for the sponsor's product, an easygoing candor that constitutes an art in selling to teenagers or grandparents.

Whatever your own reactions to Dean, it is a safe bet to say that his future on television will be a rosy one extending far beyond his present status as a singer of country music.

AROUND THE BASEBALL CIRCLE

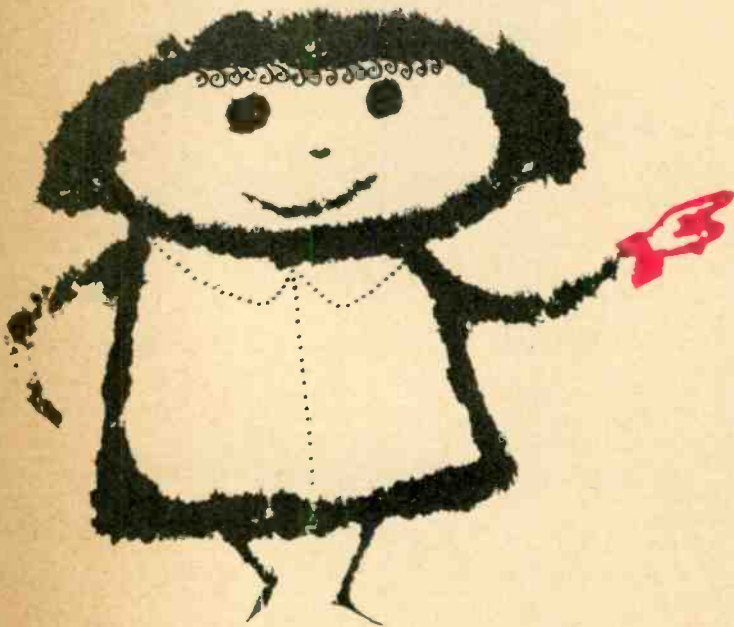

WHAT HAS PRETTY JOAN NAPIONTEK got to do with baseball? (Who cares — she's pretty to look at anyhow.) Actually, she's posing with "Big Mike" — the giant 40-inch lens which is used on KHJ-TV's telecasts of the L.A. Angel baseball games. Some cameras have all the luck: free passes to the ball games, and Joan, too.

TO ADD MORE PULCHRITUDE to the baseball scene — Julie Reding, Miss Hollywood Stars of 1957 chats with KTTV announcer Bill Welsh and Hollywood Stars pitcher, Ben Wade, during pre-game warmup.

Kathryn Murray is Vice-President of a multi-million dollar business, the-mother of twin daughters and hostess of a weekly television show. To top it off she has five grandchildren.

Grandmother in Dancing Shoes

By Dave Vowell

VIVACIOUS Kathryn Murray, hostess of KRCA-NBC-TV's weekly Arthur Murray Party is a grandmother five times over; a busy housewife and, according to her husband, an excellent baker.

As testimony to her baking prowess, Arthur keeps a cookie jar filled with her latest efforts on his desk to dispense to visitors. So far they have all agreed that you would have to get up awfully early in the morning to top them.

In fact, you'd have to get up awfully early just to be up before the energetic Mrs. Murray. She's an early riser and it's in those early hours that she does her baking. Her house work done, the rest of her time, with the exception of Sunday, is given to management of the Arthur Murray Dance Studios in her capacity of Vice President and to preparation for her Tuesday night NBC duties.

But Kathryn didn't begin her monumental work schedule until her twin daughters, Phyllis and Jane, had reached their teens. The Murray family today includes her daughters, their husbands and their children, Kathryn, Martha, Meg Adair, Phillip and Peter.

The Arthur Murray Party first appeared on Television in 1950 and Kathryn stepped right into it as easily as she assumed the vice-presidency of the multi-million dollar dance studio business.

"She Can Do Anything"

Mr. Murray comments that it was his decision for Kathryn to emcee the show

PERT AND PETITE Kathryn Murray dons her dancing shoes Tuesday nights to hostess the Arthur Murray Party on KRCA-NBC-TV.

MR. AND MRS. MURRAY enjoying a rare moment: dancing together on the Arthur Murray Party.

because "she can do anything and do it well."

The idea for the show was based on the premise that "most people like to dance and would like to become better dancers. A show based on dancing has wide appeal," Arthur says, "and the party spirit of the program differentiates it from a 'variety show.' Our guest stars do more than a mere walk-on. They enter into the party spirit of the program. This is brought about through such things as dance competition between stars. The dance contest has been the only innovation in the format since the show started."

Still commenting on the show itself, Mr. Murray states that "all the dancers on the show are teachers, currently teaching at studios. Most of the teachers were students who have graduated into the teaching ranks. They are not professional stage dancers.

Summer Hiring Is Easy

"The reason," Arthur says, "that we have not continued the show into the winter for the past two seasons is that we have found that it is much easier to hire the talent we want during the summer."

Off camera and when the Murrays are not at one of their studios working out new dance steps or involved in the preparation of the next show, they both find time to relax with hobbies: Mrs. M. with baking and cooking and Mr. M. with a camera.

"But," Mr. Murray reports, "we don't dance very often for pleasure. First of all, because we don't go out very much. And when we do, the men want to dance with Kathryn and the women want to dance with me, so we don't get to dance together."

HE WANTS TO LIVE
ON

Laffs

BEFORE WARM-UP. Wendell Niles, It Could Be You announcer, takes mike into studio audience which looks pretty serious. (NBC-Carroll photos.)

THE OLD SAW, "Always a bridesmaid, never a bride," can be switched to apply to veteran TV-radio man Wendell Niles. "Always an announcer, never a comedian" summarizes his plight.

Wendell's ambition is to make people laugh. He has always been fast with the ad lib ever since he fronted a band in college days, went on to play night-clubs around the world, stepped into bigtime radio and finally television. His natural flair for the funny has been heightened by professional association with Bob Hope, Edgar Bergen, Burns and Allen, Milton Berle and Jerry Lewis. For one brief summer Wendell and Don Pringle essayed a radio comedy show, which though short-lived (the sponsor became hard up for product — it was wartime) merely served to whet Wendell's appetite for more comedy.

Today, as announcer on NBC-KRCA's It Could Be You, Wendell has his wish only partially fulfilled. He serves as warm-up man before the program and infrequently when an important guest spot fails to jell at the eleventh hour, is rushed on stage in an impromptu but invariably funny routine which never fails to pull chuckles and guffaws.

A warm-up is not easy to do — not at 9 o'clock in the morning. Audiences then are pretty cold and tough, so staging even a mildly rousing warm-up becomes a fine art. Wendell's humor is exceedingly casual, as befits the time of day and his ear is in fine tune to the temperament of his audience.

MINUTES LATER. Niles humor has everybody feeling bappy. People's responsiveness to Wendell's jokes makes him crave his own comedy show more than ever.

Sample Gags

For example, he may start by asking the folks to cooperate. "If we have a bad audience they'll think the show is coming from CBS," may kick off proceedings. Or he may inquire, "How many people have never been here before?" Then immediately follow this with "How many are here for the first time?" This is always good for a laugh trap to catch sleepy-eyed guests. He may point out "a level headed guy" — (some chap with crew cut) or describe a new drink made with carrot juice instead of tomato and called Yellow Mary ("you can see better").

From the vast gag files in the Niles noggin, Wendell draws joke after joke until everybody in the studio is feeling pretty chipper and it is time to go on the air.

Ever hopeful for a comedy break, Wendell already has a show format. "I know I can go on as a straight comic," he insists. "Just let me have those people!"

As one enthusiastic fan said to Wendell, "Man, you oughta happen!"

WHO SAYS THIS JOB is tough? KABC-TV's Al Jarvis spends his days auditioning such girls as Nancy Young of El Camino Jr. College for his new talent show. Nancy was a recent daily winner, thereby having a chance at part in Columbia's "Pal Joey."

KABC-TV'S AL JARVIS, who is also on KFVB, is something like that river — he just keeps rollin' along.

Not that he's as old as the stream picturesquely described in Jerome Kern's song. But he's about as dependable. And he certainly is something special to a lot of hopeful young talent.

Right now, Al is embarked on another talent hunt — and it's the sort of work that most men would be anxious to get. The "poor guy" has to conduct regular auditions of young girls, all of whom appear in bathing suits. The ones chosen then go on his new TV talent show which is being conducted for the benefit of motion picture studios. Al hopes to discover some likely young talent for movies. Linda Williams was his first lucky girl. She won a part in MGM's "Jailhouse Rock" with Elvis Presley.

MGM and Columbia

• "That was for the MGM contest," Al stated recently. "The judges, in addition to the TV audience, were Pandro Berman, the producer, Elvis, Richard Thorpe, the director, and Leonard Murphy, the casting director.

"Linda was an interesting case. She proved that certain specified measurements aren't all that count — that personality and talent are important. Of all the girls presented on this contest she had the smallest measurements.

"Our second contest was for Columbia's 'Pal Joey,' with Frank Sinatra and Rita Hayworth, who star in the picture, George Sidney, the director, and Jonie Tapps as the judges."

Al's on the Hunt Again

There's nothing Al Jarvis enjoys more than discovering new talent. He's now centering his attention on giving lovely young ladies a chance at movie fame.

Each of the girls who hopes to get on Al's TV show must bring photographs of herself and her measurements to the auditions. One girl was really ambitious — she presented Al with a couple of pictures of herself in the "altogether."

"We couldn't use her," Al succinctly said "She was a professional."

You would think that such a program as Al's would have been met with enthusiastic response by the studios, but such wasn't the case. He ran into considerable apathy.

"If it hadn't been for Les Petersen at MGM, I might not have been able to get that studio's cooperation," Al went on. "Les was great. He still remembered a job my show did for MGM's picture, 'Blackboard Jungle.' When it was first released it wasn't doing so well and I plugged it over and over on my TV dance program. I felt it was a good picture and the emphasis given on the show helped it a good deal here — or so I was told."

The idea for Al's present talent show came from his wife.

"She said that since I had discovered talent for other fields of show business that I should try one for pictures," Al explained. "For a while I thought that since our show was purely local this might be against us, but instead it was a help. A talent search that is nationwide automatically commits a studio to transportation and living expenses for the winners. With my show the winners all live here.

Find Talent

"Talent shows are a big thrill to me. It's pretty wonderful to feel that you've helped to discover someone new, but actually talent is never discovered by anyone. It will always out — it will show itself. People like Erin O'Brien, for instance, would have made it no matter who gave her the first chance. It's true I was the first to see what talent she had and that I was the first to introduce her to the studios. But she would have made it anyway — on her own. When I took her to one studio, I said that she could be signed at a pretty good price then, but that if the studio waited a couple of years her price would be doubled. The answer I got was: 'We'd rather wait and pay more when she is in demand.' That is just what happened in her case too.

"Of all the girls I see now for the show I was amazed by one thing — by the fact that so many girls of 13 or 14 are so mature and well-poised. For a while I thought of setting 16 as the age limit but I decided against that after seeing the girls who auditioned."

Al has discovered many top names, among them being Nat "King" Cole, Frankie Laine, Betty White, Gogi Grant. And he is always introduced on his show as the man who discovered many of today's stars. That introduction was changed recently.

Fess Parker happened to be on Al's show once and Al asked him how he got his first chance.

"I can tell you how I didn't get my first chance," Fess said with a smile. "It was on your show — and you turned me down."

Al had forgotten the incident so Fess reminded him of the time he appeared on Al's program and sang a western ditty. Al bluntly told him to learn another song.

"I'm now introduced as Al Jarvis, who discovered so and so — and turned down Fess Parker," Al said with a laugh.

THE AUDIENCE "RATES" the contestants and helps decide what girl gets the movie nod. Al, with KABC pages, takes the calls.

Everyone knows what KNXT's
Panorama Pacific gang does from 7 to 9 and now here's the story on what they do

From Nine to Five

By Dave Vowell

EIGHT HOURS a day is enough for most people but not for the cast of "Panorama Pacific" seen weekday mornings on KNXT-CBS Television.

The show is on the air from 7 to 9 A.M. — which means that everyone connected with the show must get up on the right side of the bed, and awfully early too.

But then, after sitting across the breakfast table with viewers from Seattle to San Diego, the show's over and the cast separates: Red Rowe is in the construction business; Helen Parrish has four children, the Cub Scouts, Little League and the PTA to look forward to; Arlene Harris busies herself with social work and Bud Herrmann goes to his office at International Records.

Since "Fare For Ladies" left the air in July, Red Rowe has had his afternoons free for the first time in 15 years. He uses the time to turn the construction business into what he calls a "family fun thing."

His lovely wife, Irene, is an interior decorator and Red has some definite ideas about how a home should look, too. So the two of them "cook up some ideas" and take them to an architect, then select a contractor, buy a lot and build a house. It sounds pretty simple the way Red tells it but it's still enough to keep his "free afternoons" pretty busy.

Helen Parrish, Mrs. John Guedel at home, finds that most of her off-camera time is taken up with home making duties like all other mothers. She has two boys, Choddy, 10, and Johnny, 11, and two daughters, Molly, 6½, and Heide, 8½. In between family outings to visit their new home being built in Palm Springs, she manages to squeeze in time to take part in Cub Scout, Little League and PTA activities.

When International Records, a long established religious and sacred music recording company, decided to go into the popular music field seven months ago they needed a man to head up that department.

Panorama Pacific's pianist-composer Bud Herrmann is the man. Since joining the company he has produced several LP albums, most notably an album called simply "Music of Victor Young," performed on an unusual instrument, the Bosendorfer piano, which has 97 keys. Aptly enough, the pianist is none other than Bud Herrmann, who begins work twice a day: once at Panorama Pacific and again at International Records.

Wolo, the genial puppet master, ends the show with a beginning. When the clock strikes nine, he goes right back to work making more puppets and props for the next days' performance.

"It takes hours and hours of work to obtain an effect that lasts but a few minutes on the screen," Wolo avers and because of that he and his star puppet Aloysius have become practically inseparable. Puppets to Wolo are a full time job.

Rounding out Panorama Pacific's early morning family of personalities is hostess Arlene Harris.

Arlene diverts her time into two categories: social work and shopping. As a member of Zeta Phi Eta, the National Professional Speech Fraternity, she works with children suffering from speech and hearing handicaps and also devotes much attention to the care of the elderly. On the other side of the ledger, she enjoys going shopping and, on the drop of a hat, will buy a hat or some other gift for a friend or relative.

Panorama Pacific cast members all agree that doing an early morning program has at least one great advantage: They have the rest of the day for themselves.

HELEN PARRISH becomes more than a little amused at Red Rowe's railroad engineering ability.

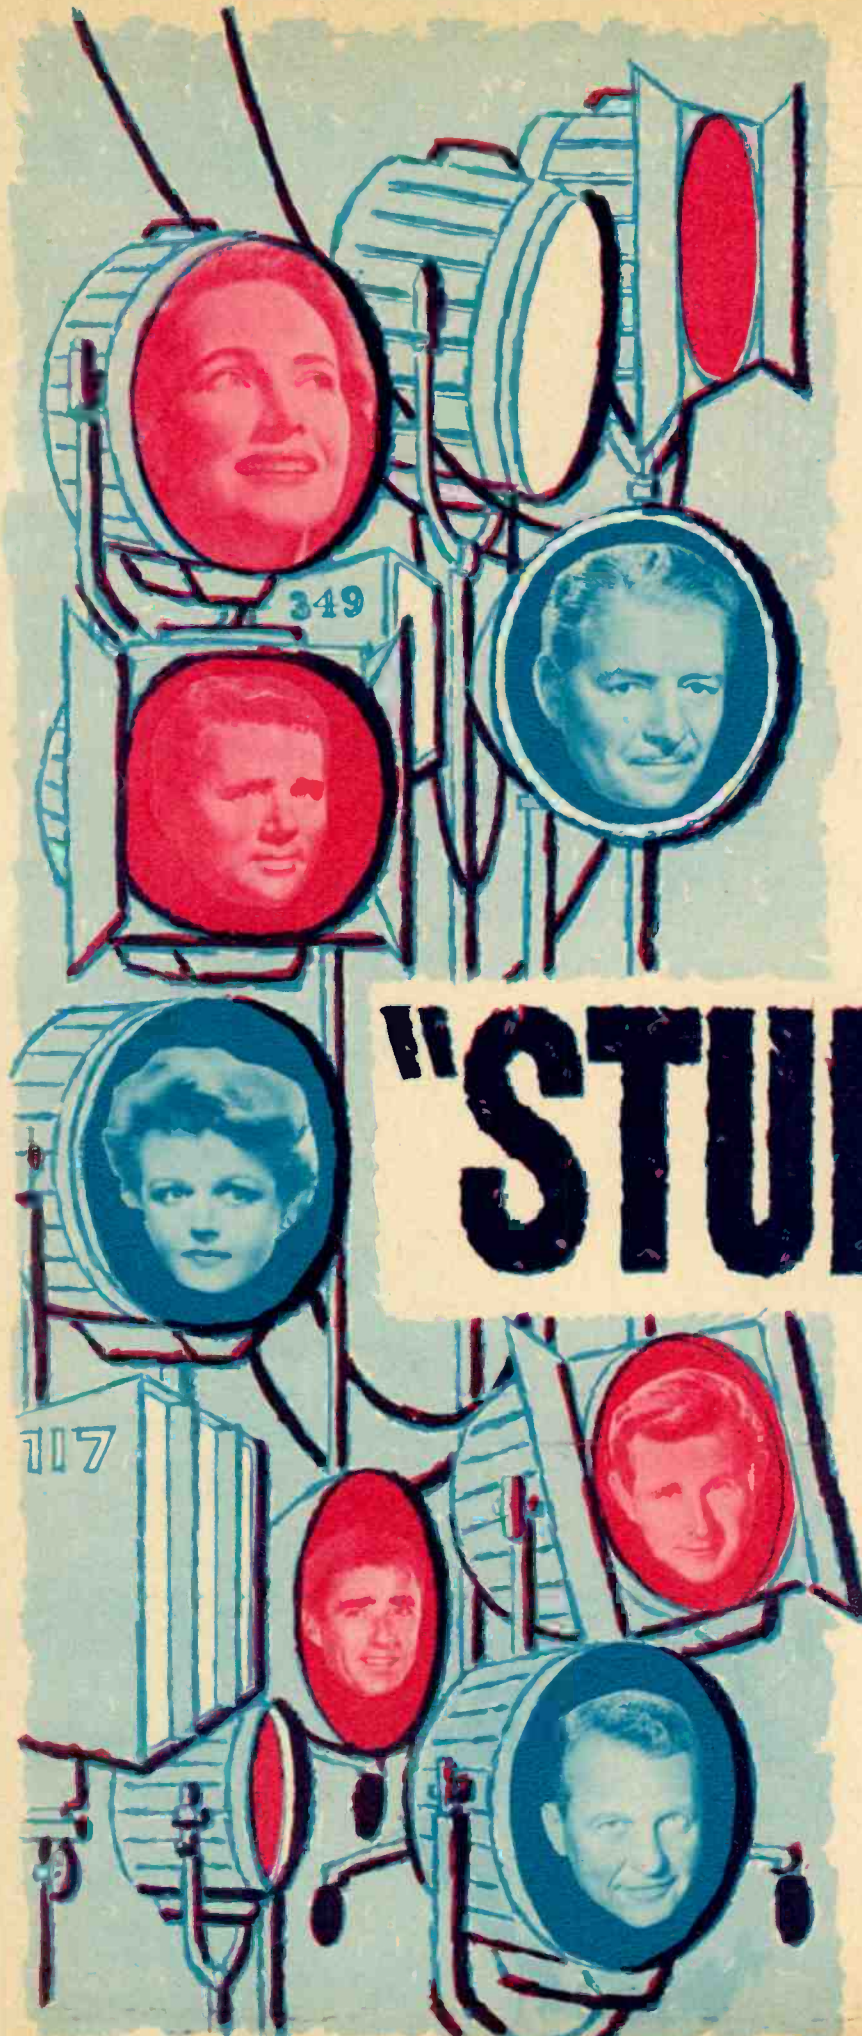

HERE'S Arlene Harris in a rare moment when she is not on the phone talking to Harry.

PROVIDER of music for the Pan-Pacific ramble is Bud Herrman, pianist-composer.

THE ONE with the big brown eyes is Aloysius. He's managed by puppeteer Wolo.
