ELVIS PRESLEY

... still controversial!

L.B. and M.D., Riverside

Why don't people leave Elvis alone? Those who imitate him shake twice as much, and laugh, and make fun of him. If you ask me, Elvis has the last laugh. He makes all the money.

D.B., and S.H., Upland

It is the general opinion of most people that all teenagers are Elvis Presley fans. However, many of the teenagers like ourselves think he is terrible. In fact, there are very few teenagers that like him.

Many women and girls think that Elvis is just "it." If their husbands and boyfriends started acting like Elvis, they'd be ashamed to be seen with them in public.

K.S.C., Redlands

I am grown up and enjoy Elvis Presley very much. He is as he is: a kid who wants to make a living, and has no intention of being sexy or vulgar.

Mrs. J.M., Canoga Park

I am wondering how many viewers feel as I do . . . that "live" TV shows such as Climax, Westinghouse Theatre, etc. are rather "phony" in the respect that so many times the voices of the actors are hollow . . . sound effects, such as gun shots, shouting, or fights are conspicuously unreal.

At times, even props fall into this category. I was thoroughly enjoying the Westinghouse presentation of "Guitar" until the camera shown directly on the "baby" being held by it's mother. Any small child could have quickly seen that this "baby" was nothing but a staring doll, and for me, it somehow put an air of fakeness into the remaining portion of the play.

I know that "live" TV is difficult, and perhaps I am being too critical, but this is how I feel.

JOHNNY O'NEILL

... want to see more of him

Mr. and Mrs. G., Hollywood

Why isn't Johnny O'Neill on TV more often? He should be a regular on Town Hall or Country America.

We think he is one of the top singers of western and folk songs. And we hope to hear and see more of him on our fall and winter shows.

JOANNIE O'BRIEN

... still a favorite

J.C., El Segundo

My favorite singer is Joannie O'Brien and I miss her very much now that she is no longer on the Bob Crosby show.

Good news for Joannie's fans: She was recently signed to a movie contract by MGM.

Annette Vaseloff, c/o Jim Brown Fan Club, P.O. Box 1211, Sherman Oaks, Calif.

I have a fan club for Jim Brown who is "Lieut. Rip Masters" on the Rin Tin Tin Series, and I would appreciate it if you would please plug it in your letters column.

J.E.V., El Cajon

Sponsors would get happier and more willing listeners to their commercials if the voices were gentler. When a man makes love to a woman — he doesn't scream his salesmanship.

A good example of a good commercial announcer is Lynn Taylor on Channel 10. She could sell anything with that gentle but convincing voice.

S.R., Indio

Why don't I see Ida Lupino on Climax and Playhouse 90 and other top dramatic shows. I think she is an actress in the fullest sense of the word.

There is no question of Miss Lupino's ability as a dramatic actress. Right now, however, she's pretty well tied up with her situation comedy series, Mr. Adams and Eve. However, many reruns of her dramatic shows and movies are also being seen now on the airwaves.

J.L., Glendale

My friends and I think Darlene Gillespie was just a doll at the end of the Disneyland program. What a very pretty gal she has grown up to be. Her voice is the most, too.

INQUISITION, Hollywood Style

Bans talk of liquor and sex, seeks frankly to be sensational yet adhere to good taste

By Evelyn Bigsby

I'M NOT seeking utterly sensational headlines. I'm seeking a way to be sensational without breaking every barrier." This is the frank admission of Hollywood reporter George Fisher, now TV'ing a weekly KRCA program, Hollywood Closeup, on which he devotes an entire half hour to unrehearsed guizzing of a star, director or other personality.

Immediately after Fisher took to the air he was accused of carbon copying Mike Wallace and Paul Coates and was berated for not displaying more originality. That his air fare is similar to these other shows he also candidly admits, but adds, "Ours is the only show in one straight category — Hollywood. I have never seen Paul Coates' program. I have seen Mike Wallace's."

Personal quiz programs are a trend, Fisher believes, because of the political hearings and because Hollywood itself has changed. Harking back to the Ke-fauver and other investigations, George said, "The whole thing of candid interviews started from the mad questions asked then. Everyone got interested in talking off beat and off the record." The public gobbled up this kind of interview, ratings for such viewing confirmed the fact that lookers like to see someone "on the stand."

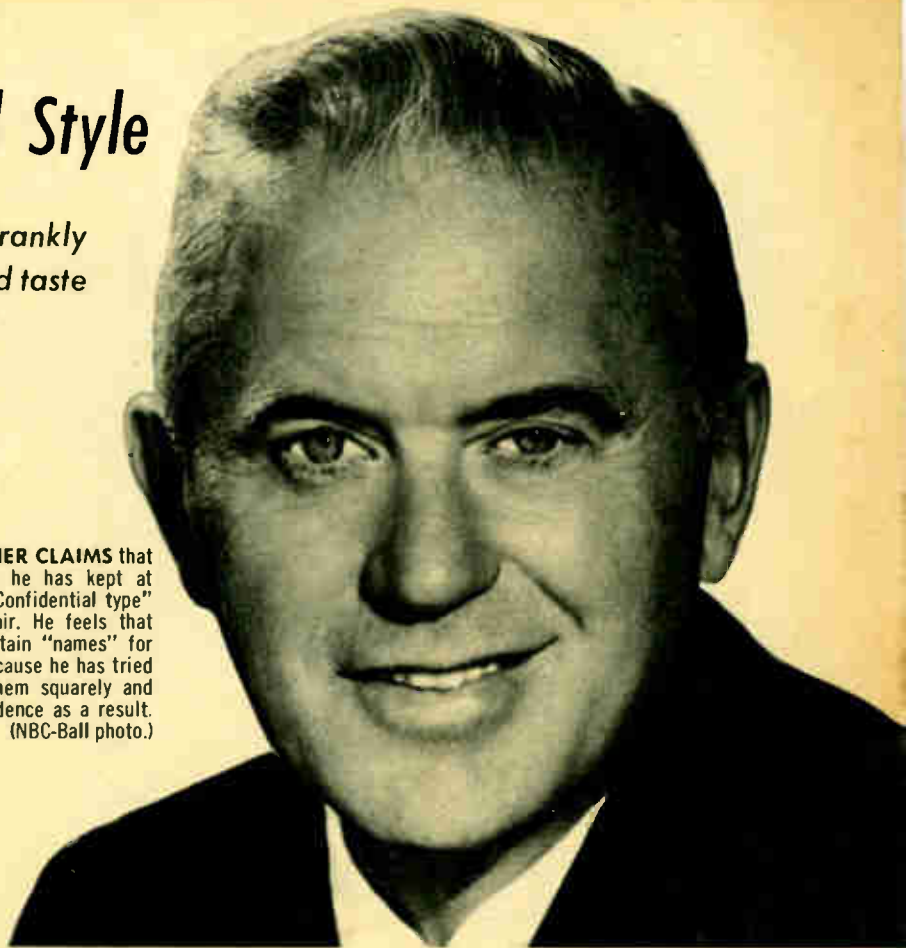

George, who has been covering Hollywood for 20 years, states that submission of stars to candid probing would not have been countenanced in the 30's and 40's. Then the studios had scores of stars under contract, with tight operations controlling every aspect of their lives. Today the majority of personalities are independent in their work and consequently in their private activities.

So if a Corinne Calvet and a Paul Gregory want to appear on George Fisher's TV show, they do. And, swears Fisher, the only preface to such an appearance is a friendly chat to dig out a variety of aspects or angle about which to have the subject talk.

To date no star has asked to go on George's program, "but neither has any one refused." Fisher is quick to point out. He firmly believes the reason for this is that he has been trusted as a reporter. "With faith in me they will talk glibly," he feels.

"Of course I have some taboos," he

GEORGE FISHER CLAIMS that over the years he has kept at least one big "Confidential type" story off the air. He feels that he can now obtain "names" for his TV show because he has tried to deal with them squarely and has their confidence as a result. (NBC-Ball photo.)

continued. "Any star knows that I will not open the subject of his or her "ex" or probe the romance that died. Sex and drinking are two topics I won't ask questions about. I don't want to air anything in bad taste or vulgarity of any kind."

Caution

This may be George's creed, but there are those who think that despite it one or two of his guests may have come dangerously close to its violation. Asked what he would do if one of his guests flagrantly breached good taste on the air, Fisher confessed that his plan was to "talk right over them and blot out their remarks." Naturally the show would be cut off the air as fast as possible.

Being off the air is nothing new to George Fisher. In fact at one period of his career he was off for two years. It was two decades ago when George was substituting for Winchell while the latter made a movie. Fisher was tipped to a story that the Duke of Windsor was to be named Roving World Czar for motion pictures at a salary of $100,000 a year. The story was documented and approved. Fisher broadcast it. The news made headlines in every large newspaper around the world. But it cost Fisher a new $1500 a week contract, mostly, according to him, because the story had not been released through "channels." "I also cost the Duke a lousy $100,000 a year," George jibed.

A top brass refused to speak for months because Fisher misnamed a picture's director. "I said Emil Ludwig instead of Leo McCarey," George explained.

Foes to Friends

"I've been bashed and threatened with bashings," he continued, "at least a dozen times. And threatened with suits, but none of these ever reached court. I had a run-in once with Johnny Weismuller, who grabbed me and said, 'I think I'm gonna let you have it!' I had run-ins with Humphrey Bogart and Errol Flynn. But all my trouble was usually with good guys and we always wound up buddies. And all of these things happened many years ago.

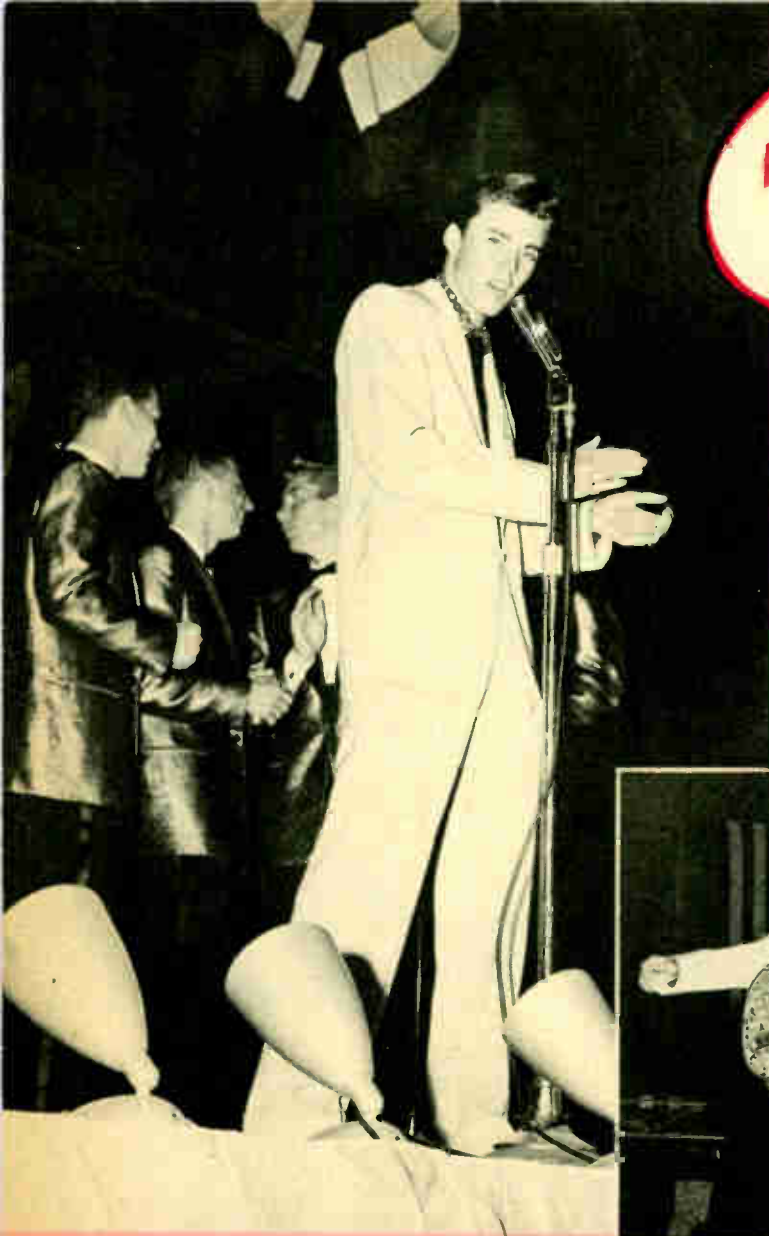

"Winchell was murder. Fidler was murder. I really wasn't tough." George mused. "Sometimes I had everybody mad at me, but if they hadn't done what they had, I wouldn't have said what I did."

Twenty years in Hollywood have mellowed George Fisher. Today he says, "I'd be unhappy if anyone else were hurt by what I said, but I wouldn't give a hoot and a holler for myself."

One interesting bit about Fisher's new TV show is that it raised his stock at Christ Memorial Church in North Hollywood. Apparently he made such a good appearance on TV that the Sunday following his first program he was appointed head usher. "This next Sunday," he reported, "I'm lay chancellor."

AUGUST

THAT CHANGED
Ricky Nelson's
LIFE

RICK NELSON as he appeared in person at the Ohio State Fair.

By Ted Hilgenstuhler

ONE of anything never makes a whole. One man never makes a nation. One step never makes a staircase. One day never makes a lifetime.

But there are milestones in life. Days and events that we can look back upon and realize their crucial importance. There was such a day and such an event in the life of Ricky Nelson, the latest idol among America's teenagers.

The day had long been planned for. The event was inevitable. It was a day that changed Rick Nelson's life. The day he became a man — at least as far as being an entertainer was concerned.

Outwardly and inwardly, the day could have ruined young Rick. But it didn't. And this is why:

On August 23-24 of this year, Rick

Nelson and the Four Preps were signed to play a two-day engagement at the Ohio State Fair in Columbus, Ohio. It all came about after the 17-year-old star recorded his first two songs for the Verve label: "I'm Walkin'," and "Teenager's Romance." Almost overnight, and after thorough exposure on his father's ABC-TV show, the records made Rick Nelson one of the top rock 'n roll artists in the country.

Probably even more important — as it should be at 17 — it gave the lanky singer a feeling of independence. His mother and father, Ozzie and Harriet Nelson, of course, have been headliners in show business for a score of years.

Family Background

The Nelson family — including sons David, 20, and Ricky — has started its sixth consecutive year in The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet over the ABC-TV network. The radio version of the same program made its debut over CBS on October 8, 1944 — 13 years ago.

Ozzie Nelson, with wife Harriet as his vocalist, had one of the top dance bands in America during the 1930's. In 1941, Ozzie and Harriet joined Red Skelton's coast-to-coast radio show. They not only furnished the music but became popular as comedians in their own right when they participated in Skelton's skits. As a result, this led to the biggest venture of their professional lives: their own radio program.

Up until 1949, professional boy actors portrayed the roles of the sons, "Ricky," and "David." However, during that year, the boys stepped in to play their own true-life parts. David was 12 and Ricky was 8 at that time. They've been doing it week after week, year after year, ever since then.

ON THE SAME BILL WITH RICK — and a great favorite wherever she appears — 18-year-old Molly Bee.

After his phenomenal success with his recordings — and his obvious appeal to the young teenage girls — it was inevitable that Ricky Nelson would soon have “to go out on his own.”

The crucial day was going to be August 23, 1957. Rick was going to be on the stage — all alone. His mother and father, and brother weren't even going to take the trip to Ohio. Understandably, Ricky was a little on edge over his appearance.

Before leaving, he admitted he was “a little nervous about it.” He wondered how the audience would react to him. This time he didn't have his show-biz savvy Mom and Dad along to guide him. The only ones who went along on the trip to Columbus were The Four Preps, and Rick's press agent.

The Big Day

The issue was simple: if Rick flopped that first night, it might develop a complex which he would never recover from. It's been known to happen to many ascending stars. If he succeeded and the crowd accepted him as a “single,” then the horizons and pay checks for the future would be unlimited.

“One thing that helped me a lot,” Rick recalls, “was the crowd that was waiting at the station. Mostly girls. I guess they heard I was coming over the radio when the dee jays in Columbus played some of my records.”

“Even at the hotel, they kept hanging around. I stayed out late that night just walking around the hotel. I can't go to bed too early. Just can't sleep. I guess I was a little nervous too.”

That was Thursday. The following morning, Ricky and his troupe rode out to the fair grounds outside Columbus. The moment when he would have to be standing out there alone on that stage was coming closer and closer.

“I wasn't scared at all during the day. We rehearsed in the auditorium. And waited for showtime. The main thing that had me worried was that everything around me would be all right. You know — things like the lights, and the p.a. system, and a million and one other details.

“Standing in the wings, just before they announced my name, I do remember being a little frightened. But then, as soon as I got on stage, and started to sing — then I was all right. Then I knew that I could make it myself.”

Records and Records

For the rest of the story — the record speaks for itself:

Rock 'n Roller Rick Nelson packed 'em at the Ohio State Fair — 15,000 people at each of the four shows he put on.

The next stop was the Minneapolis Fair — where young Rick put on three shows during a one-day stand, with capacity houses of 23,000 attending each performance.

Back in his home state, and still on the Fair Circuit, the youngest in the Nelson family broke a 13-year attendance record at the Santa Clara County Fair.

Back in Hollywood now — completing his school work and continuing his film work in his father's TV series — young Rick looks back at the events of this past summer with definite nostalgia.

“It wasn't really too difficult,” he smiles now. “The younger people just seem to like the kind of music I sing. They made it easy for me.”

The night of August 23 could have had a disastrous effect.

It could have ended a career.

Instead it began another one in the adventurous life of Rick Nelson.

AS SOON AS RICK NELSON ARRIVED at the Columbus airport, he was mobbed by young teenagers. It was a confidence builder which he needed for the following crucial day.

A PACKED HOUSE AT COLUMBUS watching Rick and the Four Preps rock 'n roll.

Why Peggy Lee Shied Away From TV For So Long

now she's back in the full swing of things, and is currently one of the busiest stars in the TV industry.

In September she starred on the Paul Gregory spectacular "Crescendo." Then on October 18 she guested "live" on Frank Sinatra's first show. The silver-haired blonde and the slim, sexy Sinatra have been friends and admirers of each other for a long time. Peggy has also appeared in two filmed segments of Sinatra's new show, to be seen during this season. They also co-ordinated their talents on Peggy's Capitol album, "The Man I Love."

Despite her all-around success as both a singer and a composer, Peggy's big ambition at the present time is to be a dramatic actress.

TV Guesting a Gamble

"Strange isn't it," she laughs, "but most actresses want to become singers, and most singers want to become actresses. I'll never give up the singing, of course, but I would like to find some good dramatic parts to do."

She's also looking for the right TV series. She was scheduled to do two different ones — but for various, complicated reasons, they both fell through.

The affable, but sharp-thinking songbird also pointed out that "when you guest on a TV show, you're really taking a gamble. It's more of a strain too, than having your own weekly series.

"I suppose it's like a baseball player who plays nine innings every single day of the season. In comparison, there's the pinch-hitter who is asked — not too much different from the guest on a high-budgeted TV show — to step up to bat in the ninth inning with the bases loaded."

So far, Peggy has been coming through in the clutch every time.

PV HAS BEEN in the big time for the past ten years. So has Peggy Lee. But only recently have the two decided to get together.

Seated in the white-carpeted parlor of her lovely Beverly Hills home, the famous vocalist with the voice as soft-as-silk and the hair to match, explained why she has shied away from TV for so long.

"First, of all I wanted to make sure I was doing the right thing. With more people watching on TV in one hour — than I could play before in person for ten years — it's really a frightening thing to think of.

"Unlike nightclubs or theaters, TV is mainly family entertainment.

"My movie, nightclub work and recording dates kept me too busy and I just didn't feel I was ready for TV. Money, of course, was another factor. I just couldn't turn down the nightclub offers I was getting."

Busy Peggy

During the past year — now happily married to actor Dewey Martin — Peggy has been relaxing more than usual. But

ENTERING a TV-Radio Life contest is stimulating; winning it is exciting; receiving the prize is thrilling! Those are the sentiments of twelve-year-old Marlene Weathers of Manhattan Beach, whose entry in the TV-Radio Life Red, White and Blue Contest was awarded first prize. In the judges' opinion, Marlene's decoration of our country's birthday cake and coloring of KABC-TV's Chucko, the Clown, was best in a field of more than 12,000.

The prize: An all-expense-paid trip via Transcontinental Airlines for Marlene and her parents to Philadelphia and Washington, D.C., where they spent happy, inspiring hours visiting national shrines, public buildings and scenic points. Accompanying them was KABC-TV's Chucko who added an extra bit of intrigue. In the early morning hours as the plane neared its eastern destination, Chucko began putting on his show make-up. Passengers who'd dozed off thinking of him as plain-faced and suited Mr. Runyon rubbed their eyes in amazement when they discovered the man was really a clown.

Lifelines

BY EVELYN BIGSBY

BING CROSBY CAME BACK FROM his brief Palm Springs honeymoon to report to CBS-Radio for Ford Road Show tapings. He showed up on time (9:30 a.m.) in rather subdued shirt (tucked in) and slacks, was flip and quick with the jest and appeared to sing better than ever. The fellows on the show had rigged up a damask-covered table with pink roses and champagne in honor of the bridegroom. Too bad Bing's half-hour (radio) Sunday show made the work load too heavy and he had to bow out. He's already booked for a Dec. 20 TV stint with Sinatra and will do his Christmas Eve "Bing Sings" on CBS-Radio, by now a tradition.

FRANK SINATRA IS RIDING HIGH on TV and none is more ecstatic than ABC. But it should be pointed out that some viewers have voiced exception to patter and songs used on the opening program, claiming that you just can't use the same words on TV as you do in Las Vegas or even in movies. "This kind of 'typing' is not good for even an actor, let alone an idol," complained one critic.

NO USE TO CONSUME SPACE on the Bob Hope cancellation by Timex, because everyone is agreed that it was a ridiculously unwarranted move and, as one personality said, "akin to recalling MacArthur." Hope is one of our TV greats and because he can always pull a huge audience, well worth every cent he gets. When will sponsors realize that lookers don't fall over dead when a plug gets goofed?

READER HARLIN DID A NICE PIECE of research and came up with a list of 23 straight Westerns, 18 miscellaneous type, and 3 "modern" Westerns. "Even the good ones," he concluded, "can't hope to hold up to the public's taste on such a colossal serving as all of these. It seems a shame to ruin such a good stand-by product, too. Why couldn't some of them be held back and shown in place of summer replacements next year which are headaches anyway?"

Incidentally, a former staff member of TV-RL has the lead in the upcoming Death Valley Days titled "California's First Schoolmarm." It's Chuck Stalnaker's first TV role and he gets to kiss his leading lady.

CATCHING UP: The 20th Century program Winstan Churchill was great and please remember this the next time some sour puss argues that "there's nothing decent on TV." . . . FM station KGLA took a survey at the recent county fair and discovered that out of 10,215 registrations at its booth, 37 per cent were FM homes, 63 per cent were AM Radio homes. . . . Last week, 10 years after his Walking Man Contest on Truth or Consequences made possible the raising of $1,639,000 for the American Heart Association, Ralph Edwards was given the group's highest award, a golden heart. Ralph's push was responsible for helping a small research group become a nation-wide public health organization.

HERE'S HOPING THAT THE Emmy-showered Playhouse 90 will yet distinguish itself this season. On top of the Manolete fiasco came turning over the time to the Mike Todd flop and this is a far cry from last year's solid stuff.

NBC PRESIDENT BOB SARNOFF has some good thoughts in his October news letter. The critics, he said, have labeled the new TV season a dud. Sarnoff comes out in the open to question something about which I've often pondered: Whether

SINDLER & SON

THERE'S A BIT of the old ham in Irving Sindler, property master of ABC-TV's Frank Sinatra Show.

By one means or another, Sindler, a portly 200-pounder with grey-blond hair and a rasping fog-horn voice, manages to slip his name into all Sinatra TV dramas.

He does it by signs and always with the legend "Sindler & Son." One time the sign will hang from an exterior wall of a New York Brownstone house and read "Sindler & Son, Music Lessons Upstairs." On another occasion it will carry the message "Sindler & Son, Agents for Agricultural Implements," and adorn a farm calendar (monthless and yearless for use anytime).

Sindler's imagination never lets down. He has slapped his name on ice cream wagons, doll manufacturing concerns, laundry shops, stock broker windows and hunting advertisements of all types.

For Sindler this is all by way of tradition. He has been working this gambit in every motion picture he has worked on since Mary Pickford's "Little Annie Rooney." The first was a sign that read "I. Sindler, Buttons, Buckles & Braids," a replica of his brother's business on New York's Eastside.

Sindler's ways have become such Hollywood custom by now that no producer, director or star would dream of reversing the pattern. It is said that when Sindler aces his name into a TV or motion picture (a la Director Alfred Hitchcock's incognito movie appearances) the production is thereafter whammy-free and an odds-on cinch to show a handsome profit.

Sinatra has whimsically gone along with all this and laid down the edict to his TV company, Hobart Productions, that Sindler's name must show up in all 23 dramas of his 1957-58 series. Sinatra would also include the 13 musicals, but his musical sets here are too clean, stylized and sophisticated to carry the humor that far. On this score Sindler poutingly agrees, although he has his name inscribed and ready to go on pin heads and cuff-links if Sinatra should have a change of heart.

People ask "why always 'Sindler & Son', why not just 'Irving Sindler' or 'I. Sindler'?" Well, that's exactly the way things used to be, until 1935 when Irving's son Harold was born. And like any other doting parent of the old school Sindler made the obvious switch.

Sindler, now 60, started in motion pictures 35 years ago. His collection of personal props gathered over the many years now numbers more than 25,000 gadgets, gismos and whatsits. They fill six huge property cases, each weighing 1000 pounds. They are padlocked and handsomely adorned with large wooden "IS" initials to keep inexperienced hands from prying.

SINDLER & SON is evidenced here by ABC-TV star Frank Sinatra and the property master of his weekly series, Irving Sindler.

"RAMS IN ACTION"

Although the confines of that huge concrete oval on Figueroa Street, better known as the Los Angeles Coliseum, has been the scene of many an explosive football game, there never has been a full scale atomic explosion staged there to date. However, football filberts of the area are agreeing that perhaps the closest thing to just such an occasion will come off this next Sunday when the high flying San Francisco 49ers and the Rampant Los Angeles Rams knock heads on Bill Nicholas' greensward at 1:35.

Looking at the 49ers one must start with the head man — their able quarterback — the passing wizard who'll toss them from any position including standing on his head — veteran Y. A. Tittle. Led by this canny chieftan the 49ers "go for broke" every time they get their mitts on the swineskin. The Compton Comet — 49er Hustlin' Hugh McElhenny, as if he hasn't caused enough heart attacks amongst Ram fans in years past, is having one of his greatest years. And you all know what happens when this character gets that ball under his arm — "Katy Bar the Door."

On the other hand — how about Sid Gillman's dandies? What about that Tommy Wilson — having another fabulous year — Ron Waller — the only player in the league to have his own built in "hydromatic" — "Tank" Younger — who like many things improves with aging — and that Leon Clark — or Les Richter — two as lovable little cherubs that have ever pulled on a Ram jersey over their burly shoulders — wrap them all up and toss in that grandest pro of them all — the Old Dutchman Norm Van Brocklin — you've got an assortment of cats that's going to give any club in the league one whole of a time on any given afternoon of NFL jousting.

You call it — do you like the 49ers — or will it be the Rams continuing their magnificent comeback trail. Call 'em any way you like, but be sure you call 'em in plenty of time to be in your seat at 1:35 kickoff time because this is the one nobody is going to want to miss. It is going to be terrific.

If you can't get into the Coliseum for the game — your best bet, of course, will be KMPC — 710 on your dial — when the voice of the Rams, Bob Kelley, ably assisted by Bill Brundige, will call all this exciting action for you under the sponsorship of Falstaff Brewing Co., Volvo Motor Car Co., H. A. Hair Arranger and Jim Clinton Clothes.

"Aggie" Debut Reset

"Meet Aggie," the new KTTV series which was to begin this month, has been postponed until December. John Shawlee, the star of the series, is featured, in color, on page 49 of this issue of TV-Radio Life.

Fred Beck says:

HERE'S ONE for the Garden Club Girls . . . and for ol' "Garden Guide Gillespie."

Norvel Gillespie, radio's beloved Garden Guide, is now heard on another station, and I just hope he can still get us because he should be interested in this:

Ed Jarvis, a kindly man indeed and the head man at KoldKist Fresh Frozen Cooked Foods and Meat Products, received a letter from a Mrs. Clayton.

This good woman (let it be presumed) passes along a rapturous idea. As luncheon hostess to her garden club she served our delicious KoldKist Creamed Chicken in little individual flower pots! (Five-cent size.)

She topped each pot of yummy creamed chicken with crumbled Melba Toast crumbs to represent sandy, loamy soil. And then she stuck a stalk of celery in each pot. Get the picture?

Mrs. Clayton didn't say what she did to prevent leakage through the holes in the bottoms of the flower pots. A small slice of boiled ham in the bottom of each pot would do — or you could plug the hole with an olive.

According to the letter the garden club girls were delighted with KoldKist Creamed Chicken a la Flower Pot. Our tip to you is serve it any way you like and the result will be happy because the ingredients in KoldKist Creamed Chicken are so very good. Each package contains a minimum of a full pound — usually at most markets at about 59 cents.

DUG BY JACK HOLLAND

Some sponsors are like spoiled little brats — and Bob Hope's Timex sponsor — or ex-sponsor — is about as spoiled as they come. From all reliable sources, this outfit has canceled out Hope all because a rival watch company got in a plug on the first Sinatra show on which Bob was guest star. Certainly somebody goofed but was this Hope's fault? And was the result so earth-shaking and catastrophic? Will thousands of people turn in their Timex watches and buy the rival company's instead? This whole business of sponsors refusing to let their stars appear as guests on a show with competing sponsorship is getting out of hand. The public is not that concerned about who sponsors what on these guest shots. And it's about time that these companies stop acting like jerks with their cogs missing. As for myself, I wouldn't buy any product from any sponsor who acts in this childish, assinine manner. Timex — please note.

While we're on sponsors and the like, there is one commercial on radio that takes the prize for trying to be just too chi-chi. That's the Ford "Around the World in 80 Days" take-off sung by Tony Bennett. This is a real clinker and should be put quietly away to rest. For that matter, most car commercials this time of the year are pretty cloying. Each new model is ushered in with so much fanfare you'd think they were announcing the creation of a new planet.

Thanks to the Beverly Hilton Hotel, I was provided with a TV set in order to watch "The Prince and the Pauper" on the DuPont Show of the Month. In case this sounds odd, I had been at the Hilton for Lawrence Welk's party launching his new cars and after the party there wasn't sufficient time to

MRS. A. M. GORDON, of Bell Gardens, writes to say that she has been "expecting some sort of comment" from me on Queen Elizabeth's visit to our country. I have nothing to say, Mrs. Gordon, inasmuch as Elizabeth snubbed my invite to a little beer bash at my diggings the other night. At least, the Prince could have come . . . he certainly would have been an added fillip to the occasion.

"Golden Boy." (5) Nov. 10, 10:30. 1939. First off, I'd like to commend KTLA for showing "Treasure of the Sierra Madre" in its entirety the other evening. They had to cancel a scheduled show to do it and the result was indeed a rewarding movie experience. "Golden Boy" is William Holden's first picture and you will see a tousle headed youth with vitality, charm and looks but little of the present skill of today's competent professional. The by now familiar plot deals with a young violinist who turns to boxing in order to make money, destroying his father's dream in the process, and becoming involved with his manager's "girl friend" in a frantic love affair that ends in tragedy. Lee Cobb, in a fine portrayal as the father, Barbara Stanwyck, as the girl friend and Adolphe Menjou, as the manager lend excellent support in this first class production of one of Clifford Odets' more commercially successful efforts.

"Captain From Castile." (2) Nov. 9, 10:00. 1947. This sprawling, episodic, entertaining extravaganza has a cast of billions, including Tyrone Power, Jean Peters, Lee Cobb, Cesar Romero, Alan Mowbray, Thomas Gomez and John Sutton, and deals primarily with the Spanish Inquisition and the invasion of the Western Hemisphere by Cortez's conquistadores. It has hundreds of incidents, several plots, much action, lots of gore, some history, a little love, a few laughs, one or two good bits of acting and a final cumulative effect that is rousing, to say the least. The music is so stirring that U.S.C. now uses it to inspire their athletes. I guess the football team is tone deaf.

"The Purple Heart." (11) Nov. 9, 9:00. 1944. Made dur-get back to the house to see the show — hence, the Hilton's rescue. This production was a disappointment. The direction was — to put it kindly, abominable. Incredible boners were allowed — such as the badly faked lashing scene. Then, to make matters even worse, a few minutes later, Christopher Plummer, who had been registering great pain while being whipped, turns his back to the camera and there wasn't a mark on him! There is no excuse for this kind of thing. The cast looked uncomfortable and confused and Johnny Washbrook was so disguised you'd never have known who he was. Best performances were those of Plummer, Rex Thompson, and Johnny, but this show was, to me, a disjointed, uneven affair that fell flat. Johnny managed to come off very well although obviously some of his better scenes had been slashed to ribbons, giving him very little opportunity.

Be sure to catch Father Knows Best on November 13. This is a sheer delight — with Greer Garson a real surprise with her superb clowning. Screen Gems and NBC-TV have a real good one here.

Odds and Ends: Hear tell that Jerry Bloom at Revue is looking for a big guy over six feet tall, with a deep voice and a BIG physique to play a cowboy in a show. Thought all such fellows were already playing cowboys . . . One reader wanted to know why Neville Brand wasn't on TV more. He's on an upcoming Playhouse 90 so watch for him . . . Seems the FCC is really checking into these fake faith healers and religious quacks on TV and radio. It's about TIME! . . . Robert Cummings and Dinah Shore looked as though they were having a ball on Dinah's last show. It was a riot — especially the scene where Bob, Dinah and Gale Storm fell over backwards off a bench. This was definitely not in the script but it brought the biggest laugh of the evening . . . Little Johnny

Pick OF THE Pix

BY AUBREY DAHL

ing the war years when the desired effect was to make the American people blistering mad at the enemy, this film presents the Japanese as a bunch of sub-human beasts. Tokyo has been bombed and the Army and Navy is fighting over whose fault it is that the Americans were able to accomplish it. Eight American flyers, headed by Dana Andrews, Richard Conte and Farley Granger, or on trial for this "atrocious" but refuse to tell even under the most heinous torture, the base from which they took off. I'm not against this type of picture, you understand . . . the stakes were high and propaganda has its undeniable value.

"The Invisible Man." (5) Nov. 12, 9:00. 1933. Claude Rains stars in this famous H. G. Wells story of the scientist who hit upon the formula for making himself invisible and then led a life of horror and fear trying to become apparent again. In the light of today's horror monstrosities, such a simple tale might be considered too naive to be truly frightening, but I'm telling you that when I first saw it and the invisible man unwrapped the bandages from his nonexistent head, my flesh crawled all the way to the exit. A true terror film and one of the best ever made.

"Stand By For Action." (11) Nov. 14, 8:00. 1942. Another war film about the activating of a new destroyer, its part in rescue operations at sea and its battle with a Japanese battleship. With Robert Taylor and Charles Laughton.

"Marriage is a Private Affair." (11) Nov. 11, 10:30. That's an engaging thought.

Holland's Tunnel

Crawford continues to impress as one of our finer juvenile actors. The kid has great sensitivity...

Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy open at the Coconut Grove November 6 — and there is a good reason for Bergen's return to the night club field. "I felt I was losing touch with the people after being on TV and radio so long," he said, "so I'm returning to the club field to get back in touch with my audience, to see what they want these days, to get a stimulus from them. I am convinced that people are turning more and more to live shows now — and by live I mean those in the clubs and the theatre. Everything is too canned, too automatic these days. So possibly the trend towards the legitimate brand of show business is a revolt against the set conveniences and perfection of the canned field."

At any rate, this should be a Grove event worth catching.

Alerted to the plight of an airliner attempting to land at International Airport last week with damaged landing gear, KTTV's remote truck left studios at 8:45 a.m. on what would ordinarily be a 25-minute run. Because of heavy traffic caused by curious throngs headed toward the airport, the remote truck did not reach the airport until 9:45, and it was 9:55 as they rolled up to the runway. At 10:04 they were on the air interviewing the pilot and passengers — a fast 9 minutes from arrival to on-the-air. Passengers were taken to the hospital for check-up and the remote truck followed them there — with more interviews at 10:30 — then back to the airport and further reports at 10:58. At 12:20 they were back on the air from the station with a recap.

GOBEL HEADS DRIVE

With the traditional wholehearted support of the industry, hundreds of voluntary workers are currently lending a hand to "Lonesome" George Gobel, Chairman of RTRA's 1957-58 Drive to reach and top a goal of $250,000.

RTRA - Radio-Television-Recording and Advertising Charities - the channeling organization for charity gifts from members of the entertainment and advertising agencies, distributes its funds to eight national charities: Community Chest, American Cancer Society, American Heart Assn., YMCA Los Angeles, United Cerebral Palsy, Red Cross, City of Hope and the Sister Kenny Foundation.

RTRA's three-fold purpose is to make it simple to give, through its "Golden Ruler" plan; to assure maximum use of each charity dollar, and to avoid year-round solicitation through its "Give Once - For All" theme.

"Behind this year's drive is a very impressive group of voluntary division chairmen from all phases of the entertainment and advertising industries," says Burt Zinn, RTRA's Executive Director. "The caliber and enthusiasm of these people are so high that we fully expect to exceed our goal."

SKIPPER FRANK'S SCAM-O-GRAM

Hil:

The secret "pass word" for our Cartoon Carousel Club is "Pay Attention." More than just a slogan these two words comprise a magic formula that will make your journey through life a happy adventure.

Few people do "pay attention" and you can prove it with these two stunts:

BIG BARGAIN

Take a quarter from your pocket and borrow another quarter from a friend. Place both coins in the center of a table napkin, gather up the ends, and have them held. Tap the lower part of the cloth to make the coins rattle. The following dialog now takes place:

"How many quarters are you holding?"

"Two."

"Are you sure?"

"I'm positive." (If he isn't let him take a look inside.)

"If you are so sure will you give me 35c for the contents of the napkin?" If he answers "yes," ask him for the 35c. What he forgets, of course, is that one of the coins is his! Actually, he is buying your quarter for 35c. You'll be amazed at how many smart people fall for this.

COPPER COUNT

You need a shiny new penny and a magnifying glass for this one. Hand both items to someone and ask them to tell you how many letters can be found on the face of the penny. The figures in the date do not count as letters.

He'll probably say "19."

The correct answer is "22." If you use the magnifier and look carefully on the left side of Lincoln's bust, you'll find three tiny letters . . . the initials of the artist who made the engraving.

Dick and the Duchess
Saturday, 7:30 pm.,
KNXT, Ch. 2

After the heavy sledding of many domestic duos, Dick and the Duchess comes as a refreshing shot in the arm thanks to sharp performing by Patrick O'Neal and Hazel Court, and even more importantly, deft writing and direction.

One feels that the sole purpose of this show is to entertain, and this it does in abundance, for there is a spritly gaiety and saucy innuendo seldom seen in an American production. There is nothing perhaps startling new or profound in this show, but it smacks of good theater with an infectious spirit that picks up the viewer and carries him along.

This is, from what I could gather of the credits as they flashed by, a British-made production. In fact, one might say the wit is unmistakably British in the crisply turned phrase, the bon mot.

Casting is excellent, and it is a joy to watch the performer with but one scene or a few lines play a role to the hilt. It is such expertness of playing, indeed, that makes every part seem a juicy one.

Though I am not unaware that the general lament concerns the lack of excellent writers — and by writers I mean not the plot hacks, but the craftsmen skilled in the technical structure of dramatic writing, plus the gift of turning a phrase, with a relish and enjoyment of the nuance of the language — Dick and the Duchess is proof again that the writer is the prime element. The play's the thing, but the play is the writer.

Recent blasts by some of television's top playwrights that the blight of censorship and the advertiser's structures, are cramping his style indicate that rather than expanding the writer's role, television is clipping his wings. To what extent this may be true, I can't say, but television does face a monumental challenge in that today's literate audience is expanding at a more rapid rate than at any time in history. Whether or not television will keep up with its audience remains to be seen, but if it does keep pace it will be through the man of words.

Reiner and the Les Chanteurs de Paris do a musical "spoof" of Paris fashions. Show is set against a background of French and American songs.

Program told true story of a group of teen-agers who tried to avoid the draft by setting up their own government. Sgt. Friday shows them the value of the American way. Many schools have requested reprints of Friday's talk to the youngsters.

AROUND THE GRIDIRON WITH THE L. A. RAMS

BEFORE AND AFTER! On the left, Quarterback Norm Van Brocklin (11) discusses hand-off with backs Ron Waller (27), Tank Younger (35) and Tom Wilson (24). A quick snap from center, and everyone takes off. Van Brocklin fakes to half-back Waller, hands off to half-back Wilson (on the right), and then completes play by faking to fullback Younger.

ALSO CBS-TV's Sports Director, Gil gets some inside dope here from Coach Gillman and the ever-popular Elroy "Crazylegs" Hirsch. KNXT covers six away-from-home games of Rams this season, and seven other pro contests.

LES RICHTER'S (48) theme song might well be "I Get A Kick Out Of You," as he gets helping hand from KNXT's Gil Stratton. Richter was leading scorer for Rams in 1956.

Ben Hunter's Night Owls... just name it,
they've got it!

FACT, FICTION and FANTASY

By Jean Corlis

AT MIDNIGHT there's a great flapping of wings over KFI as Ben Hunter's Night Owls descend to roost on the telephone wires, each waiting his turn to be heard. Even with a midnight-to-dawn program, and a switchboard operator on duty to answer the calls, many a wise old owl is left beating his wings with frustration when he isn't able to get through to put in his ten cents worth.

"The Night Owls talk about everything under the sun, (or perhaps I should say, the moon), from where Noah's Ark came to rest and whether it is still hidden under the snow on a mountain top, to whether we could slow down the motion of the earth, or whether cats and rabbits mate," Ben volunteered when asked what people talk about in the middle of the night.

There are a few musical interludes and quite a few commercials which Ben makes as honest and painless as possible in order to get right back to the important business of The Other Side of the Day—the phone conversations. They're interesting, too, especially if you don't have to get up in the morning or don't require much sleep.

Many of the people who listen work until twelve and don't want to go to bed right away. Others are retired people, invalids, insomniacs and people who go to bed early, set their alarms for midnight and get up to listen to the program. All of them seem to have boundless enthusiasm—some of them for facts, and others for fancy.

"Because of circumstances many people do not have an opportunity for a free exchange of ideas with friends. The Other Side of the Day gives them this opportunity and a world of friends, many of whom they get to know personally later on," Ben said.

"When I started the show six years ago I used to play records and gab, then people started calling in. I began to realize that most of the people listening were alone and would like to talk to someone. I installed a beeper phone and gradually the conversations developed into a big thing."

One of Ben's most famous callers is "Doc" Vaughn, who has become something of an oracle because of his prodigious knowledge. "Doc was the owner of the first supermarket type of drug store in Los Angeles, back in World War I days," Ben explained. "Later he retired to Catalina Island where he became well known as an expert fisherman. He now lives in San Diego and lectures all over the country. His hobby, though, is to monitor The Other Side of the Day, and every Saturday morning, during the last half hour of the program he calls and answers many of the questions which have been unresolved during the week."

Listeners have formed Night Owl Clubs, called "Roosts," with regular meetings and a publication called "The Limb." There are roosts all over the country and in such faraway places as Korea (soldier cooks in tent 9, Pusan); New Zealand and Tonga, Oceania.

"The roost in Tonga," Ben volunteered, "is at the Sacred Heart Mission, where the nuns and children listen to the program at eight o'clock in the evening. Sister Mary Julia presides at roost meetings and sends reports which are published in "The Limb." Though they aren't able to send delegates to the conventions which the Night Owls hold each year, the nuns send tapa cloth, native handwork, fans and table settings."

The conventions attracted as many as 32,000 fans in a three day period at Big Bear in 1956. This was a strain on Ben and he frankly told his fans he couldn't take it. This year the convention was limited to an afternoon at Long Beach but it brought out 6,000 fans from 13 states, and from Mexico and Canada.

The Night Owls have fun, and they do good deeds, too. A doctor from Tucson wrote in asking for help for a patient. "Larry, a young boy, had been accidentally shot in the spine by his brother," Ben said. "He had given up wanting to live. The doctor asked the Night Owls to write to him and they did. Within a week he was in a wheel chair. Lew Diamond sent him a harmonica and Judy Garland some games. A group in Pomona raised some money and brought him to Los Angeles for an operation. While it was not a success, it did give the boy a new interest in life and he now has lots of spirit."

For fun the Night Owls dream of an island, a Utopia outside of the territorial waters. It is to be a man-made island which floats, and can be added to as the population grows. Marine engineers have called in to say it's feasible; doctors have applied for the job as resident surgeon, and an economist has worked out a plan for a tax-free society with a high standard of living. One girl suggested a "Happy-Q" test so that only well-adjusted people could emigrate there.

No dream, however, are the tours. They've been to Hawaii, Mexico and Las Vegas and are planning others. On the first trip to Hawaii they chartered one plane and could have used four more. Ben goes along and they really have a ball.

Ben Hunter has certainly proved that the hours when most of us are asleep are teeming with ideas, fellowship and fun.

MEET

Aggie

She's pretty Joan Shawlee,
complete with wiles,
weapons...and an occasional dog.

JOAN SHAWLEE, star of KTTV's recently debuted Meet Aggie series, came back from a year in England and Italy with a deep tan, a collection of miscellaneous weapons and 26 half hour television shows.

"Every woman," Joan generalized, "would like, number one, to be a model and, number two, to be off on some wild adventure in Europe. As Aggie I'm both! Well, not really a model, but a fashion buyer for a big New York department store, and I get into some pretty interesting adventures on the continent, what with murders and things happening all around me."

And that's essentially the story line the KTTV series takes — that of a fashion buyer mad-capping it around Europe. With Joan Shawlee in the driver's seat it's a safe bet that Meet Aggie will have its share of hilarity along with the homicide.

In Italy Joan noted that the most popular show on TV was the Italian version of the $64,000 Question but while in England, she happily pointed out, her own series topped I Love Lucy for four consecutive weeks. What's her favorite spot in Italy aside from the Isle of Capri? Answer: "Rome!" Question: "Why?" Answer: "The men! They're so enthusiastic!"

ARE IMPOSSIBLE

DIRECTOR Vincent Donahue and star Ernie Kovacs discuss a bit of "funny business" during rehearsal.

ERNIE KOVACS is aided by two wardrobe department members, Ruth Hancock and Jim Linn, as he breaks his own rehearsal to be "live" host on the Playhouse 90 show which was on the air a week before his own "Topaze" stint.

AT THE INTERSECTION of Fairfax Avenue and Beverly Boulevard in Hollywood is a large, modern building: the West Coast studios of the CBS Television network where every day is a busy day except Thursday. Thursday is impossible.

On Thursday morning, in two gigantic sound studios, there gather the crew, cast and staff of two of television's top dramatic programs: Climax! and Playhouse 90. Each Thursday evening, two and a half hours of dramatic entertainment originate from studios 31 and 43, climaxing weeks of hectic rehearsal.

The Climax! crew alone accounts for 34 persons, not counting the cast, which varies from a low of seven for "Locked in Fear" to a high of 60 for "Error in Chemistry." A breakdown on the crew shows that there are two grips (handy men); three property men; five electricians; five make-up artists; four wardrobe men; three hair stylists; three drapery men; one set decorator; one property shopper and seven clerical workers to keep track of them all. The number in the crew is almost doubled for Playhouse 90 with 50 technicians required to put the show successfully on the air. Playhouse 90 casts have numbered as low as 12 for "The Ninth Day" and as high as 105 for "The Death of Manolete."

All of these people — actors, actresses, directors, prop men and other technicians — are grouped together in two studios on the ground floor on CBS Television City on Thursday night. They will have been there since nine o'clock that morning and every minute will have been scheduled. The show day activities for the Playhouse 90 presentation of Rod Serling's "The Dark Side of The Earth" roughly approximates the schedule for either show.

At 9 a.m. the cast assembles in the studio, where a complete and interrup-

MARGARET O'BRIEN and Dewey Martin enact a tender love scene before the cameras and 40 to 50 cast and crew members.

The behind-the-scenes story of what goes into the making of Climax! and Playhouse 90.

By Dave Vowell

WHEN THE STORY calls for horses, they are there. Two horses used in the Climax! production of "The Necessary Evil" are taken out for a lunch break by their trainer before they, too, are called back for the final dress rehearsal.

tion-free rehearsal is held. By 12:30 the run-through is complete and the director calls the principals aside for consultation. The cast breaks for a hurried and nervous lunch at 1:00. At 2:15, lunch over, the principals go into make-up and wardrobe; as the technicians finish with the stars, the rest of the cast moves in. Action pictures, for the record, of the stars are made at 3:15.

The cast and crew start the final dress rehearsal at 3:30, which is treated exactly as an on-the-air performance. By 5:00 the rehearsal is over and the director makes his comments to the entire cast and crew. A brief break for coffee and cigarettes takes place at 6:00. At 6:20, make-up gets retouched and costumes receive a last minute going over. The show is on the air at 6:30 and at 8:00 the whole thing is history. The video tape is reshowed for the West Coast at 9:30.

The show itself took an hour and a half to perform. It took two weeks, hundreds of man-hours and almost unbelievable organization to prepare. And it happens every Thursday.
