

WHITE'S RADIO LOG

An up-to-date Broadcasting Directory of North American AM, FM and TV Stations. Including a Special Section on World-Wide Shortwave Stations

This is the third and last part of White's Radio Log, which until now has been published in three parts twice each year. In this issue of White's Radio Log, we have included the following listings: U.S. AM Stations by Call Letters, U.S. FM Stations by Call Letters, Canadian AM Stations by Call Letters, Canadian FM Stations by Call Letters, Major Broadcast Stations in Mexico and the Caribbean, and the World-Wide Shortwave Stations section.

Beginning with the next issue of RADIO-TV EXPERIMENTER, White's Radio Log will feature an entirely new format in order to enable the Editors to offer readers one of the most complete Logs ever. Here's what's in store.

First off, there will be increased coverage of World-Wide Shortwave Stations plus an all-new section on emergency broadcast services—police, fire, etc.—for major metropolitan areas throughout the U.S. Secondly, this expanded format will mean that a specific section of the Log will now appear in consecutive issues of RADIO-TV EXPERIMENTER throughout the year. Therefore, readers will want to save an entire year's issues of RADIO-TV EXPERIMENTER in order to have a complete volume of White's Radio Log. An updated, completely revised version of the first listing will appear in the first issue of the new year.

When collected, the entire volume of White's Radio Log will give you complete listings with up-to-the-minute station-change data not offered by any other magazine or book. And regardless of your listening interests—SW, BCB, FM, TV, or DX—you'll find the new, expanded White's an unbeatable reference.

lot of hams leave their rigs turned on all the time so they'll hear anyone who pops up.

Bigger And Better. Sounds like a dream, but hams have actually been granted some new operating frequencies and permitted higher-power operation than before. And don't groan when I tell you all this has happened in the 160-Meter band—those frequencies can be more useful than you think.

It's also a cheery feeling to realize that hams still have some friends among officialdom in our government. In this case, the U.S. Coast Guard gave us a helping hand by approving additional ham operating privileges in the 160-Meter band. The Coast Guard operates the LORAN (LOng RAnge Navigation) stations along our coasts used by ships and ocean-hopping aircraft. Since these stations operate on 160 Meters, hams have been restricted to use of certain frequencies in the band. Simultaneously, they've also been required to use rather low power levels, both to prevent interference with the LORAN stations.

Because of installation of some new LORAN stations, plus a new engineering study of the whole LORAN setup, we hams now are permitted use of some frequencies in the band that formerly were denied us. Further, on most frequencies, we're allowed to use increased power levels, in some cases up to a full kilowatt. Each state is treated individually in the rules, which fill a full-page table in the FCC rule book. States near the coasts are restricted more than those some distance inland, as a general rule.

Right now, with sunspots at a relatively high level, 160 isn't much to work. But a few years from now, when a drop in sunspot numbers mean 10, 15, and sometimes 20 Meters will be much less useful, you can have a real ball on 160.

The rule change should also shake loose some new gear from the commercial manufacturers. Most store-bought rigs and receivers now available don't even include the 160-Meter band. But with the increased activity and power levels now permissible, equipment makers will likely produce some that does. Older gear, which conservative types have hung on to, does cover 160 and will doubtless take on additional value because of this band.

Hot News For Hams. "We interrupt this broadcast to bring you a bulletin from our newsroom." Long the standard opening for a hot flash aired by a radio or TV station, the phrase is also applicable to ham radio's own broadcast news service. You can make use of it every day to get the latest scoop you may not learn of elsewhere for several days or weeks.

How? Just tune in one of the many bulletin broadcasts from W1AW, the high-powered amateur radio station in Newington, Conn. operated by the American Radio Relay League. Brief, up-to-the-minute news items of interest to hams all over the world are transmitted nightly on all ham bands from 160 through 2 Meters. The transmissions are made simultaneously with a 1000-watt rig on each band.

Transmissions are made at different times during the evening on CW, fone, and teletype. The CW is sent at 18 wpm, which makes it excellent practice material if you're getting ready to take the General Class exam. If you can copy W1AW, you'll have no trouble at all passing the 13-wpm test in front of a strict examiner.

If this speed is still too fast for you, don't despair—there's an easy way to beat the game. Just use a two-speed tape recorder. Record the W1AW transmission on the high speed, then play it back at the low speed! Tricky, eh?

Big Brother Again. Through the convenience offered by modern technology, another nail has been driven in the coffin of Laudable example of an avid FM operator is Walt Smith, WA9BHV, of Indianapolis, Ind. In addition to a goodly mixture of commercial and home-brew equipment, Walt's shack also sports an impressive array of mikes. Who would guess that Mike was once a railroad telegrapher?

of debonair sophistication, a leading man in his world and mine.

As I tucked my hand into his, and he opened the door, his mellow voice called to mother, "I'm taking our little boy for a walk, my dear . . . We'll be back shortly."

Winnamac Avenue in those days was lined on both sides with apartment houses, as I suppose it is now, and the architecture of them all was pretty much the same—red brick fronts, white stone steps, square living room windows, and sun porches paneled with glass storm windows. In just about every one of those glassed-in porches sparkled a lighted Christmas tree, glittering with ornaments, festooned with strings of popcorn, cranberries, gleaming metal floss.

As I trudged along at my father's side, his rubbers and my overshoes squeaking on the crusted snow, my eyes feasted on that procession of pretty trees, and at the gaily-wrapped packages around the bases of some of them—presents that would bring joy to the children and grownups who lived in those apartments.

I didn't mind the cold, even though it must have been close to zero. The air was so crisp and clear, and the stars gleamed like little Christmas tree lights all across the heavens. It was the most precious night of all the year, and I was home, far from the impersonal atmosphere and strict discipline of the school, and I was walking with the man who seemed to me the greatest in all the world—my father.

We came to the windy corner at Argyle Avenue and Sheridan Road. Father hadn't spoken much, perhaps because his pint-size boy seemed as strange to him as he did to me. Once or twice he asked if I was warm, and I nodded my head. Sometimes he pointed with gloved hand to a particularly beautiful Christmas tree.

There was a brightly-lighted candy store on that corner, and across the way rows of lights in a tall building were spangled against the deep blue sky. There, by the lamp post, standing by a metal tripod which held a kettle for donations from passersby, was a rather forlorn-looking Santa Claus. He wasn't plump and ruddy cheeked, as the pictures always show, but appeared gaunt and thin. His red suit with white trimmings hung from bony shoulders and seemed scant protection from the penetrating cold. But he kept bravely ringing the little brass bell and looking hopefully at people who were hurrying by.

Father paused and dropped some coins into the kettle. I still remember the clinking sound and the pride I felt at his generous gesture. He had a way of doing things with what theatrical people call flair.

I heard the muffled voice of the Santa Claus say, "Merry Christmas, and may God be with you."

After hesitating for a moment, father reached for my mitten hand and we started north on Sheridan Road, my short legs pumping along to keep up with his longer strides. About the middle of the block, he stopped and looked back.

"What is it, papa?" I asked.

"That voice," I heard him mutter. He went on as if talking to himself. "No, it can't be him . . . Floyd Sampson is dead . . . At least, that's what I heard."

"Who is Floyd Sampson?"

He looked down at me with an indulgent smile. "Who is Floyd Sampson? You never heard of him, my boy? Why, Floyd was just about the most popular jazz pianist who ever wowed an audience. Started doing a single in vaudeville, then plush night clubs, and wound up on radio. Top billing! Big spender! Too soft-hearted for his own good. Why, Floyd was up in lights when I was scratching for walk-on parts."

"Was he a friend of yours, papa?"

I felt his hand pat my head, as he turned and led me slowly back down the street. "A friend? I guess you could say he proved himself that. There was the time up in North Dakota—Bismarck, I think it was—when the Orpheum closed, and the management couldn't pay us off. It was just about the Christmas season, cold as it is tonight. I was hungry and stone broke. Sampson was on his way up then, headliner on our bill. I didn't know him very well, but I looked up to him like a tin god."

"You said he was on the radio."

"That came later, sonny boy. Radio was just beginning to put vaudeville out of business, and Floyd didn't begin broadcasting till later. Well, to go on with my story, that warm-hearted big shot saw I was up against it, and got me a room at his hotel—best place in town—and the next morning he staked me to money for meals and a ticket back to Chicago, where I had friends and

Subways And Sleeping

In the NRC's studies, sleeping subjects are exposed to prerecorded sounds in the "nuisance" noise region below the 85-dB level—the point above which hearing loss can be sustained and measured. An electroencephalograph is used to record the sleeping subject's brain waves, since this instrument is an excellent indicator of a subject's depth of sleep and hence of the degree to which noise can disturb this condition.

The EEG signals are recorded on magnetic tape rather than on the standard electroencephalograph chart. The tape is slowed down during the recording period. During the playback, the tape is run through at 50 to 100 times the recording speed and the EEG signals can be analyzed and recorded by a sound level recorder which retains the gross features indicating the depth of sleep. This procedure permits an investigator to take an 8-hour EEG recording and scan it for meaningful data in less than 10 minutes.

Because of the great contraction of time, not all the information on the original recording is retained. However, the continuity in time is retained and this provides a good picture of the progression of a person's sleep.

In scanning the tape recording, the investigator tries to determine when EEG signals change in ways that are characteristic of alterations in the sleep pattern. When the signals are fed to a speaker, changes in sleeping conditions are readily audible.

By studying the extent to which these rhythms can be interrupted by different types and intensities of sound, researchers hope to find new clues concerning the effect of noise on sleepers—effects which the subject is probably not aware of.

One such effect is expected to show up as psychological damage caused by noise disrupting dreaming. Dreaming takes up about one-third of everyone's normal sleep time and is deemed essential to mental health. People deprived of dreams become nervous and irritable and within 10 days their personalities begin to change. ■

Canada's Dr. G.J. Thiessen, Head of Acoustics Section of NRC's Division of Applied Physics, examines brain pattern charts. Studies established need for sleeping in peace and quiet.

Are your home-town AM stations listed correctly in White's Radio Log? If you believe there is a correction called for in White's listings, please check first with your local station. For each callsign obtain the correct city location, frequency, and power. (Remember, even though your local paper may list a station as a "home-town" station, it may be officially licensed by the FCC for operation in the next city.) Get all the facts on a piece of paper (be very brief), include your name and address, and mail to White's Radio Log, RADIO-TV EXPERIMENTER, 229 Park Avenue South, New York, N.Y. 10003. Your help in contributing to the accuracy and completeness of White's Radio Log will be sincerely appreciated.

Are your home-town FM stations listed correctly in White's Radio Log? If you believe there is a correction called for in White's listings, please check first with your local station. For each callsign obtain the correct city location and frequency. (Remember, even though your local paper may list a station as a "home-town" station, it may be officially licensed by the FCC for operation in the next city). Get all the facts on a piece of paper (be very brief), include your name and address, and mail to White's Radio Log, RADIO-TV EXPERIMENTER, 229 Park Avenue South, New York, N.Y. 10003. Your help in contributing to the accuracy and completeness of White's Radio Log will be sincerely appreciated. See page 110.

World-Wide Shortwave Stations

On your mark, get your set, and go get 'em in our really big contest! This month's prize is—are you ready?—absolutely nothing! How 'bout that, gang—a contest with no prizes, only the satisfaction you'll get in seeing how good you and your shortwave gear are functioning as a team. We'll give you the scoring scoop in a minute, but now for the big quizzers; take it way Pert Barks:

1. We hope you heard the Voice of Hope, it's a broadcaster in South Korea. The station has been reported on 6170 kHz at about 0815 GMT with tests. You can get a QSL from: ROK Army Broadcasting Station, Voice of Hope, Seoul, Korea.

2. You thought it was expensive to go to Europe, didn't you? Well somebody set up a bootleg broadcasting station which proves how inexpensive the place is, the station even calls itself The Voice of Free.

France? Free—that's even better than inexpensive! Station has been heard at irregular times on 13700, 27000, and 27560 kHz.

3. Here's one you'll have to put some hours into, but it's worth it. The station is VLV at Mawson Base in Antarctica and we'll bet you a penny that you haven't logged that rare place yet! The station has been heard at varying times around 0100 GMT on 12255 kHz trying to contact other stations with messages. The signal is for the Byrds (sorry about that).

4. Another place you've never heard is a minute speck of island which some folks call Tristan da Cunha. Guess what, they're now broadcasting on 3290 kHz with an antenna smashing 40 watts. Transmissions are in English on Wednesdays, Fridays, and Sundays at 1900 to 2200 GMT. They want reception reports.

5. Hey, we haven't done the 2182 kHz bit in a while; it's about that time again! The frequency is the calling and emergency channel for boats and it teems with stations every night. How many can you log in 15 minutes?

6. Lithuania is a tiny nation which was rescued from the Nazis by the USSR, except the Red fuzz remained on to "protect" them against any other possible invasions from Germany, Saturn, Andora, Czechoslovakia and other hostile armies. This has been going on for about 25 years now and, as a result, the country has almost vanished as a separate identity on the radio bands. You can now try for Radio Vilnius on 17740 kHz at 2245 GMT.

7. Spy, anyone? It's one of those mysterious "numbers" stations which are believed to be transmitting coded messages to spies. This one's been reported on 5755 kHz about 0220 GMT with numbers in Spanish.

8. Good news for those of you who drool with envy whenever someone else logs the tiny kingdom of Nepal. They've put some new and very powerful transmitters on the air and the country is now being reported by a number of listeners. Look for them on 9590 kHz at 0630 and 1530 GMT.

Scoring: You get 10 points each for 1, 2, 3, 6, 7, and 8. Number 4 earns you a gigantic 20 points and number 5 gets you 1 point per station. Did you rack up 20 points? If you did, you didn't try very hard. Did you get 50 points? You tried hard, keep it up. Did you get 70 points? Nice going, old chap! You got more than 70 points? Impossible! We didn't even do that good—and we cheated a little. ■

Blue Chip Portable

Secure its leads by soldering each joint with a small, hot, and clean iron. An alligator clip makes a good heat sink.

Mount R5 between pins 8 and 10 on the underside of the board and then wire in the other components of the stage. Connect the 100- $\mu$ F capacitor C9 from pin 8 or pin 9 to ground and be sure to observe polarity.

The space available on the board should suffice if you are careful and use the recommended parts. Bring fleas out as tie points for all mounted parts and connect them to the perf board. Connect a battery and turn the unit on. If you have trouble with feedback, check your layout and wiring.

Total cost is about $15. This is a BC blaster you don't dare be without. ■
