"Northwest Passage" a Thing of the Past

• I believe your program Northwest Passage is totally out of place. The one-time rivalry between French and English is now past. Our duty is to see that it remains such. This program can only seed resentment and distrust in the minds of our children. Let begones be bygones. — G.A., St. Boniface, Man.

Appreciates Bert Whiteman

• To Bert Whiteman: It was indeed a pleasure to hear you again (Songs of Bert Whiteman, July 16, 23, 31) and I hope you'll be singing for us much more frequently.

I have mourned the passing of the Prairie Schooner. . . — Miss C.A. Kinistino, Sask.

A Difference of Opinion

• I wish to congratulate Mrs. R.N. of Dummer, Sask., for her so true letter (Mailbag, Aug. 11-17). The first paragraph contains the words of so many, many people. With regards to the second paragraph, I'm with her all the way and this is one year I'll sure be glad to see the summer end. She also forgot to list that miserable picture called Dennis the Menace. . . Tommy Ambrose and Burns and Allen.

Pictures . . . that could be repeated and enjoyed by people are never brought back . . . Singalong Jubilee is another good one, and of course Country Hoedown, Sea Hunt and Danny Thomas. . . I realize it is very hard to please the public on all entertainment, but there are some programs that most people just detest, yet they just keep coming back—like Festival.—Mrs. R.B., Regina, Sask.

• I dislike the singing programs very much as well as baseball, hockey, football and wrestling . . . I'm aware that many others do like them and I have a respect for those people. . . Radio presents a bit of a problem to me. Some radio items I like clash with TV items and so I have to make a choice there, sometimes regretfully passing up one or the other.

However it seems to me that both TV and radio are much better this summer than usual, and am very glad to have Movie Matinee and Tea Zone. Radio has many short programs I like such as The Archers, Tommy Tweed and the like.—P.G., Winnipeg, Man.

• I wish you to know how much I appreciate the beautiful sounds that emanate from the program Singalong Jubilee (CBC-TV Monday). It is a delight to hear the blending and rich quality of lovely voices. . . The Younger Set (CBWT, Wednesday) is like a refreshing breeze to me with wonderful talent appearing each time. . . CBC programming is not rotten (Mrs. R.N., Mailbag, Aug. 11-17), there is very little wrong with it.

—K.M., Winnipeg, Man.

As these readers point out, it is difficult to please everyone. All of these programs mentioned have received both favourable and unfavourable comments and the CBC appreciates such comments, as they assist us to plan future programming.

Unintentional International Flavour

• On July 27 you televised the Shirley Harmer show, A Summer Night, from Toronto, using the theme of summer camps. The program was well prepared, all the singers, including the boys, were good, and the whole program pleasing to the eye and the ear. With one exception—and this must have slipped past the producer—who, I feel sure, wished to retain the Canadian atmosphere throughout.

Would you please explain why the bugle calls used on this show were American, and not Canadian? . . . These lapses jarred my ears, as no doubt they did on many another old soldier. I know the calls so well, having been a trumpeter in the Yeomanry of the Territorial Army before the First World War. . . .—R.R.T., St. James, Man.

Camera Men Extolled

• I should like to pay tribute to a group of men who do not appear to receive much appreciation or even recognition from the general public. I refer to the camera men of CBWT. In my opinion their excellent photography surpasses any we receive from any other source. I should also like to offer my appreciation of the fine quality and refinement of the live programs regularly broadcast from CBWT.—Mrs. E.B., Winnipeg.

Will Miss Perry

• Looking over the programs that are returning this fall, I was sure disappointed not to see The Perry Como Show mentioned. To me that was the one show I looked forward to each week. We lost three wonderful shows before which were never replaced: Guy Lombardo, Lawrence Welk and Mantovani. . . . Of the shows that are coming back I would say The Garry Moore Show, Don Messer's Jubilee and The Defenders are the best.—Mrs. C.C., Sask.

On Our Cover . . .

Yes, Yes Nanette

For years, the televising audience has laughed at the antics of Nanette Fabray, singer, dancer, and comedienne. Now appearing in her own show with Wendell Corey over CBC stations, Nanette is cast as a typical housewife in an endless series of comic situations Monday evenings.

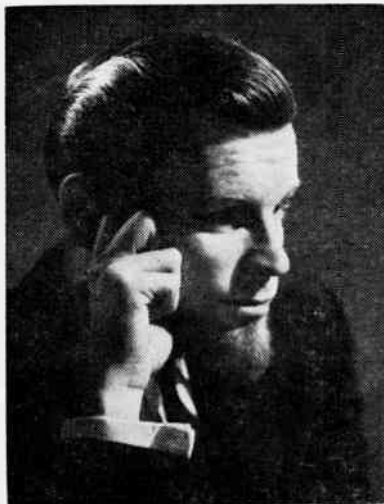

THE CBC's DOCUMENTARY series 20/20 will focus on food on the August 26 edition—not on food in general but on a delicacy native to the Canadian mid-west. The program is entitled The Fish with the Golden Eye.

A quarter of a century ago, Manitoba's central lakes produced over half a million pounds of goldeye, but last year, the province was able to harvest only 60,000 pounds of this increasingly rare commodity. This wandering breed of fish has been discovered as far north as Lake Clare in Alberta and into the east in Ontario's Severn River where they have become the object of scientific research in an effort to preserve and multiply the species. While the goldeye may be caught in Alberta, Ontario or Manitoba, the entire catch goes to Winnipeg for processing and distribution.

This program traces the now world famous smoked Lake Winnipeg Goldeye from the dinner plate back to its natural habitat, and through its processing for top restaurant consumption. Those who have relished the distinctive flavour will be particularly interested in learning why the fish is now in such scarce supply after a relatively brief history of epicurean success. The Goldeye story on the 20/20 series is produced at CBWT Winnipeg by Peter Kelly and narrated by Ron Hunka.

AN EVENING OF CANADIAN BALLET is presented on CBC-TV, Sunday evening, August 26, by the first established ballet company in Canada, the Royal Winnipeg Ballet. The three presentations from the contemporary repertoire of the Company are the creations of three Canadian choreographers—Brian MacDonald, Michel Conte, and James Clouser.

In Recurrence, created by James Clouser, we are told of the lonely journey of the young through adolescence, of the many difficult experiences which occur and recur. A drama of transition, the moving and sensitive study of a boy emerging into manhood. The dancing is modern, as contemporary as the movements of kids at a teen age dance. It is, however, influenced by the ritual patterns of traditional ballet. Sonja Taverner and Richard Rutherford are the principal dancers.

Brian MacDonald reveals his zest for the Old West in his sparkling ballet, Les Whoops de Doo, Sunday evening on CBC-TV.

The second ballet Un Et Un Font Deux, created by Michel Conte uses the classical framework of the pas de deux for the technique of modern dancers. It is a charmingly flirtatious story, located in a schoolroom with two pupils. James Clouser and Lynette Fry are the dancers.

Les Whoops de Doo, choreographed by Brian MacDonald, is a dance of fun and games, of broad comedy and cheerful satire. A brawling view of the mythical West where men were mobile dancers and women were always—women. A bold and bragging ballet where the discipline of classical dancing is allied with the abandon and energy of a good old prairie whoop-up. Principal dancers are Marilyn Young and David Shields. Orchestra under the direction of Eric Wild.

African Survival

"AFRICA STILL has the greatest and most fascinating assortment of wildlife ever assembled on one continent. Nowhere else can you see so many species of animals roaming at liberty in their natural habitat. But these wild herds, at one time seemingly inexhaustible, are now reduced to shattered remnants. What chance of survival have these great creatures that are left?"

With these words, Dr. Ian McTaggart Cowan sets the mood for this week's program in the Discovery series: Survival, to be telecast Saturday, August 25 at 10:30 p.m. on CBC-TV. The film was photographed in Africa by Chiels Margach, edited by Danny Tanaka and produced at CBC Vancouver by Tom Connochie.

The importance of saving the lives of the animals that are left, and helping in every way to undo what years of unchecked slaughter have done, has now become apparent. But in order to help, man must first acquire knowledge of their behaviour, and habitat and this he has been doing for the past ten years. Before that time no research programs with the necessary depth had been undertaken to provide the information needed to increase the size of herds and to re-establish the natural balance between animal and nature, and the interdependence of the animals themselves.

"The secret of the tremendous diversity of Animals in Africa lies partly in the fact that the creatures have evolved together over a long period of time without suffering through great climactic changes, such as an ice age," states Dr. McTaggart Cowan. "Each of the creatures uses the same habitat in a different way and does it without destruction to the land.

"Poorly tended domestic cattle, on the other hand, are one of Central Africa's greatest scourges—miserable, useless, undernourished creatures that defile the water holes, denying them to wildlife. And, by intense over-use, they have done to the land in 20 years what centuries of use by wild beasts and locusts had not done. They have turned large areas of the once productive grassland into a sea of lifeless sand."

Recent studies have shown that the arid bushlands, savannahs and grass plains of Africa will produce much more meat per square mile with the natural animals of the area than would come from cattle on the same land.

During the program Dr. McTaggart Cowan shows the animals as they each use their natural habitat in their own way. The great variety of animals is also shown including a rare film of a weaver bird busily weaving its nest in a tree from reeds and twigs.

Many animals are shown being captured for transportation to national parks. A highlight is the roping of a baby elephant requiring a chase overland in a jeep and three or four men to hold it once lassoed. Another technique shown for capturing animals, is the anaesthetic needle fired from a rifle—a modern-day version of the blow pipe used by primitive tribes in years gone by.

The marking of hippopotami with hard-wearing paint for purposes of later identification—the equivalent of banding birds and branding cattle—creates a tense situation during the program. This is realized not only in the faces of the scientists and natives, who approach one seemingly unconscious beast with the greatest caution but, also evidenced by the fact that the cameraman became so engrossed in what he saw in the viewfinder that he forgot to change focus when he moved closer—and that for a professional cameraman like Chiels Margach is really significant.

Two Programs Highlight Australia

THIS WEEK, two separate programs on CBC radio deal, by coincidence, with the island continent of Australia. On Sunday, August 26, at 5:00 p.m., the Venture series presents a program titled Boomers and Beavers, in which folk-singers Alan Mills of Canada and Rolf Harris of Australia stage a small "hootenanny" of Canadian and Australian folk songs. Together they explain, through song, the history and background of their respective countries. The "boomer" of the title is the slang word for the kangaroo which, in the same way as the beaver in Canada, is used as a national symbol in Australia. Alan Mills will be familiar to many as one of Canada's best-known interpreters of traditional songs. He has been collecting folk material for many years, has made a number of recordings, and has appeared in his own series of programs on CBC radio networks. When not engaged in studying folk lore, he works as a straight dramatic actor, and has made many appearances in National Film Board pictures and in television dramas originating in his native Montreal. Australian Rolf Harris, sometimes referred to as "The Wizard of Aussie," is the man who made the inimitable "wobble board" famous, particularly in his recording of "Tie Me Kangaroo Down, Sport," which took the North American pop-music market by storm a few months ago.

On the Venture program, Harris will demonstrate his skill as an accomplished performer on the wobble board and the digeridoo, instruments that may not be immediately recognizable by musicologists but which are presumably fun to play. The wobble board is simply a piece of plywood, which, when flexed, produces a distinctive "boing, boing;" it is Harris's own invention. The digeridoo, on the other hand, is an authentic aboriginal instrument, his use of which is an outcome of Harris's long study of his country's native tribes.

While Rolf Harris has been visiting this country, Canadian freelance writer and broadcaster Tony Thomas has been paying a two-month visit to Australia. He will give a two-part report on his observations in two programs of the Soundings series, on Thursdays, August 23 and 30, at 8:00 p.m. In the first broadcast, he discusses the agriculture and geography of the country, and the problems of power sources and transportation. In the second, he describes life in the cities and on the beaches, and talks about the quest for a national Australian culture. Below, Tony Thomas records some of his impressions of life "down under:"

Perth is a nice city. It's clean, modern and spacious. And the weather is the kind southern California used to have before the deluge of cars and people turned it into a smog-shrouded jungle. But visiting Perth is something like taking a trip to the moon. I remember standing at a busy cross section in down-town Perth and thinking about distances. Singapore (from where I had just flown) was two thousand miles north, with no civilization in between. Many thousands of miles south was Antarctica and directly west was that eternity of space called the Indian ocean. The nearest Australian city was Adelaide, a mere 1,340 miles east. The state of Western Australia, of which Perth is the capital, is almost a million square miles.

Staggering is the word for your first impression of Australia but it doesn't take you long to feel about space and distances the way the Aussies do, namely nothing much. What does draw and hold your attention is the Aussie attitude toward life. They obviously don't believe that they were put on this earth to do nothing else but work. I remember a Saturday afternoon in Adelaide. The down-town streets were empty and all the stores were shut. This was December and the height of summer. Where were the people? The people were in the parks and they were playing. They were playing

On Safari

A nine-part series about wild animal life in Africa with Armand and Michaela Denis, a husband-and-wife Belgian photo team who specialize in pictures and film of animals in their natural habitat.

Crescent Island. A visit to the wild animal sanctuary at Crescent Island. Scenes show the pet cheetahs of Armand and Michaela Denis. Also, a large Brazilian anteater which Armand bought in a Birmingham, England pet shop.

Bugs Bunny

Vera's Cruise. Sylvester presents a series of cartoons showing his misadventures while pursuing Tweetie Pie on a European tour.

CBXT—Two for Physics

Drs. Patterson Hume and Donald Ivey of the University of Toronto are featured in this series.

Countrytime

Pelee Island. The story of Pelee Island in Lake Erie, the most southern point in Canada where farming is carried on. Few Canadians realize it is possible to stand on Canadian soil and look northward into much of the United States. The growing season in this area is longer than that in the State of Ohio, in fact, it is comparable to that of the eastern part of the State of Virginia.

Also on this program Stan Westaway tells the story of the Wascana development in Regina, where many millions of dollars will be spent in the next 50-100 years in establishing a new university museum, and developing the legislature grounds.

A Song For You

Featuring pianist and song-stylist Jose Poneira in a program of popular music with a special guest each week.

Special guest vocalist this week is Maxine Ware.

You Belong to My Heart	Jose
It's De-Lovely	Maxine
La Matura	Instrumental
You're Driving Me Crazy	Duet

Some of Those Days

A popular summertime variety series which recaptures by-gone days through music, photographs and news-reel film. Bill Bellman is host of the Vancouver-produced show. Regulars in the cast are: comedian-musician Barney Potts; Lance Harrison and his orchestra; and singers Thora Anders; Lorraine McAllister; Pat Walker; Betty Hilker; Pat Morgan; and Maurice Pearson.

1945. Musical and film reminders of the year the Second World War ended and the atom bomb was first used: President Roosevelt dies; Frank Sinatra becomes a bobbysox hero; "Gable's back and Garson's got him" is a Hollywood catchline. A few of the songs are: Let it Snow, I'll Walk Alone and I Had the Craziest Dream.

Sir Francis Drake

Visit to Spain. Drake goes to Spain to represent Queen Elizabeth at a royal wedding and finds himself involved in an attempt to get the unwilling bride-to-be out of Spain.

CBXT—Weekend Sports

Ernie Afaganis reports the latest from the sports world and summarizes highlights from the week's sporting activities.

Doctor Kildare

A series based on the experiences of a young interne in a city hospital. Starring Richard Chamberlain and Raymond Massey.

Front Row Centre

Easter Parade. Musical comedy set in New York and featuring the music of Irving Berlin. Starring Judy Garland, Fred Astaire and Ann Miller.

Discovery

Survival. Dr. Ian McTaggart Cowan discusses what chance the wildlife of Africa have for survival. During the program animals are shown as they each use their natural habitat in their own way. Many animals are shown being captured for transportation to national parks, and a highlight of the program is the roping of a baby elephant requiring a chase overland in a jeep and four men to hold it once lassoed.

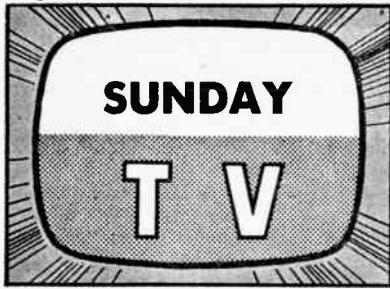

The film was photographed in Africa by Chiels Margach, edited by Danny Tanaka and produced at CBC Vancouver by Tom Connochie.

CBWT—Sergeant Bilko

Phil Silvers as the sergeant seems dedicated to getting around every army rule in the book.

Dr. Ian McTaggart Cowan discusses the chances for survival of Africa's wildlife on Discovery this evening.

Program Notes

AUGUST 26

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information

CBXT—Play of the Week

The House of Bernarda Alba. A most realistic modern Spanish tragedy featuring Eileen Heckart, Anne Revere, Nancy Marchand, Suzanne Pleshette and Lee Grant.

World of Sport

Canadian Amateur Golf Championship. Coverage of play from Sunningdale Country Club at London, Ont. From qualifying rounds on August 13 and 14, 64 amateurs meet in pairs starting August 15, twice a day in 18-hole match play, until only two finalists remain to play the final 36-hole round on August 18. Garry Cowan of Kitchener, Ont., won the 1961 championship and will be entered in the 1962 tourney.

World of Sport

World Soccer. England vs. Bulgaria.

Country Calendar

Topics and features are presented on the agricultural scene. Producer, Gren Bates.

20/20

The Fish with the Golden Eye. Now world famous, the smoked Lake Winnipeg goldeye, a Canadian mid-west delicacy, is traced from the dinner plate back to its natural habitat and through its processing for top restaurant consumption. For those who have relished the distinctive goldeye flavour, the program tells why the fish is in such scarce supply after a relatively brief history of epicurean success.

American Musical Theatre

Musical Teams. Singers Earl Wrightson and Lois Hunt and the dance team of Joan Mann and William Skipper recreate the performances made famous by theatrical teams. Host is Jim Morske.

Reflections

A program of music and song with a regular cast consisting of violinist Francis Chaplin, soprano Jean Marshall, baritone Clarence Fleiger, harpist Phyllis Ensher, pianist Carol Hughes, and a string orchestra under the direction of Gordon MacPherson.

As Hazel, the worldly-wise and irrepressible domestic of an average home, Shirley Booth has her cookbook rejected by a publisher.

Hazel

Starring Shirley Booth as Hazel, Don de Fore as George Baxter, Whitney Blake as Dorothy Baxter, and Bobby Buntrock as son Harold.

Hazel's Famous Recipes. Hazel's hopes for recognition in the world of cooking are dashed when the cookbook she has prepared is rejected by a publisher.

Ed Sullivan

Columnist Ed Sullivan hosts this program of variety entertainment featuring top talent from around the world.

Ed's guests include comedian Jerry Lewis; singer Steve Lawrence; comedienne Dorothy Loudon; novelty comedy act the Arnaut Brothers; juggler Francis Brunn; the Tunisian Dancers; mezzo-soprano Martha Perez; and the Hugh Lambert Dancers.

Bonanza

A one-hour western drama filmed in the scenic Lake Tahoe district of California and Nevada. It recreates the excitement of the gold-and-silver-rush days of the 19th century. Featuring Lorne Greene as Ben, Pernell Roberts as Adam, Dan Blocker as Hoss, and Michael Landon as Little Joe.

The Mountain Girl. Little Joe takes a girl to San Francisco to meet her grandfather.

Royal Winnipeg Ballet

This show presents three works by Canadian choreographers from the contemporary repertoire of the Royal Winnipeg Ballet.

Recurrence	James Clouser
Un Et Un Font Deux	Michel Conte
Les Whoops de Doo	Brian MacDonald

Host is Pat Napier. Produced by Robert Alban.

Love Your Magic Spell Is Everywhere	Jean Marshall
Only a Rose	Clarence Fleiger
Yellow Bird	Phyllis Ensher
Spellbound	Carol Hughes
Saeterjenten's Sondag	Francis Chaplin

Summer Magazine

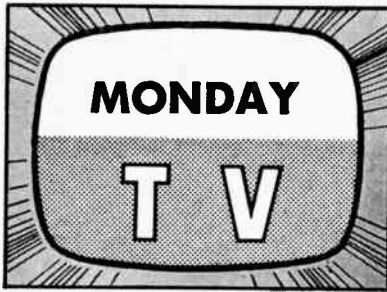

The Hunter. Program examines the ways and customs of hunters from ancient times to the present. A highlight is film of a hawk being trained to hunt in Japan. Naturalist Franklin Russell talks about man's basic need to hunt and how this feeling still exists in more primitive societies.

CBC Newsmagazine

Norman DePoe presents an in-depth report on an item of current interest and importance.

The progress of the Lake Winnipeg Goldeye from its natural habitat to its supreme position on the menus of exclusive restaurants is traced on the program The Fish with the Golden Eye.

Program Notes

AUGUST 27

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information

Live and Learn

A series of half-hour programs about geology. Host is Dr. David Baird, chairman of the department of geology, University of Ottawa.

Doctor Baird illustrates how the path of water is traced from the fall of rain on the land into the pore spaces and fissures underground. Stalactites and stalagmites mark its passing.

Vacation Time

A visit is made to the Britannia Yacht Club, Ottawa, a children's yacht club, to see the activities.

Sir Lancelot. The Bridge. Sir Lancelot uncovers a wicked plot to capture a village.

A cartoon is shown entitled The Owl and the Pussycat, and a St. Bernard dog is the special guest on the program.

Northwest Passage

Fourth Brother. A young man runs into trouble when he tries to prove he didn't participate in a fur robbery committed by his brothers.

CBXT—Gateway

Host, Jim Crossan presents the timely and the topical on the Edmonton scene with Ernie Afaganis and one of Edmonton's top golf pros, Sandy Robinson, who gives pointers on "finessing the fairway woods."

CBXT—Pete and Gladys

Junior. Gladys comes to regret having promised a friend to babysit, when the "baby" turns out to be a chimpanzee.

CBWT—Click

Hosts Ken Haslam and Frank Herbert explain how to make studio lights on a budget and how to make use of these lights in such things as portraiture.

CBWT—Two Faces West

A Case For The Court

Gil Christie is host of this courtroom series which uses actual judges and lawyers, and actors as witnesses. A panel discusses the case with the judge at the end of the show.

Juvenile Court. Two young boys gathering material for a rocket, break into a hardware store and find themselves with their parents in juvenile court. His Honour Judge Fuller presides. Lawyers are: N. D. McRae for the plaintiff and Daniel Coughlin for the defense.

Yes, Yes Nanette

Country Club. Nan's family are forced to assume unaccustomed airs when they join an exclusive country club.

Room For One More

A Trip to the Beach. George's plans to enjoy a weekend alone with his wife do not materialize.

Internationally known Roland Leduc is featured conductor on Concert this evening.

Temps Present

A series of half-hour films made by the National Film Board, and reflecting the French-Canadian scene.

 Piece Concertante for Violin and String Orchestra
 Concerto in G Minor for Organist, String Orchestra and Timpani Poulenc

CBWT—Surfside 6

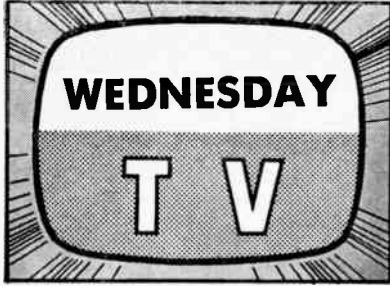

The Clown. Dave Thorn uncovers a sinister plot to put the blame for assassination on an innocent man.

CWNA "Special Edition"

WHILE THEY may not have the circulation of the big-city dailies, Canada's weekly newspapers occupy an important place in the Canadian publishing field. The small, local weekly gets closer to its readers, supplies news about neighborhood happenings that the bigger papers don't have space for or facilities to obtain. The editor of a weekly shares an intimacy with his readers that few other newspapermen experience; if a reader doesn't agree with the editor's views on farm subsidies, for instance, he doesn't write a cold, formal letter, he just tramps into the office and says his piece. There are many problems involved in getting out a weekly—it's often a one-man operation, with the editor serving as publisher, reporter, rewrite man, editorial writer, advertising salesman, copy boy and janitor — but there are rewards as well. Among them is the freedom to air opinions, to stand up for a cause and stick by it, to take the full responsibility for the accuracy of facts and, in short, to run one's own show. By the nature of their work, most weekly editors turn out to be profound individualists, and that in itself is something to wonder at in this age of conformity. Few owners of weeklies ever get rich; some find that a good newspaper attracts readers but not necessarily advertisers, and, as one former editor of a prairie paper once pointed out "an editor's rewards are mostly of the non-material world." But in terms of the other things that make for happiness—friendship, the respect of neighbors, the satisfaction of personal achievement, the opportunity to make a

AUGUST 29

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information

Playground

Abegweit and Stampede Stopover. Two films presenting tourist views of Prince Edward Island, and Calgary during stampede time, respectively.

Abegweit—meaning “cradled in the waves” is the Indian name for P.E.I. Film crosses the island, showing the capital, Charlottetown, Summerside, and some of the activities for holiday-makers including sailing, trout fishing, deep sea fishing, harness racing and lawn bowling.

Stampede Stopover — follows a young girl from the East as she walks from the train through the festive streets of Calgary during stampede time, with a brief glimpse at the stampede itself.

Vacation Time

Building the Bounty. Filmed in Nova Scotia, showing a replica of Captain Bligh's ship being built for the Hollywood movie, Mutiny on the Bounty.

A filmed visit is made to Upper Canada Village. Special guest is yo-yo champion Al Gallow, who demonstrates his skill.

The Living Sea

A series dealing with the various forms of marine life. Host is Dr. Ian McTaggart Cowan, professor of zoology at the University of British Columbia.

Whales. The exciting story of whales and whaling off North Vancouver Island. Highlights of the film are: two baby whales which were brought ashore with their mother; rare sight of Killer Whales travelling in gangs across the Pacific Seas; and Blue Whales off the California coast after their journey from the Bering Sea.

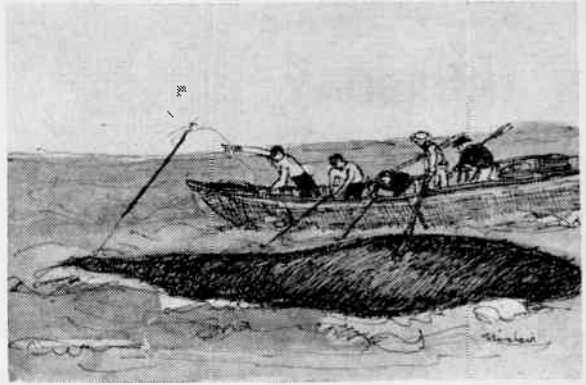

CBXT—Farm Focus

CBC farm commentators Al Richardson and Dick Bocking present topical features about the farm scene in Alberta.

CBWT—A To Zoo

Ursines. A film showing the seven different kinds of Bear—their different habits and personalities. The seven are: Himalayan, Sloth, Malayan, Spectacled, Polar and Brown (including the huge Kodiak form).

Rare Killer Whales and Blue Whales, hunted and captured off North Vancouver Island, provide a gripping half-hour of viewing on The Living Sea, Wednesday afternoon.

Underground. The unseen world underground teems with animal life. The film shows some of the giants of the underworld—the shrew, mole, crickets, centipedes, millipedes and earthworms.

CBWT—Care of St. Christopher's

Film tells the story of St. Christopher's, a home for the children of railwaymen in Derby. This home was established to care for children whose parents work in transport but are unable for some reason to provide a proper home for them.

CBWT—Spotlight

Interviews with interesting people visiting Winnipeg or taking part in the city's many activities. Produced by Ted Benoit.

CBWT—County Pride

Cuckoo Land. Stretching from the Thames to Northampton is a long stretch of land known as Buckinghamshire—a county famous for many humorous stories.

CBXT—Hancock

The Missing Page. One-half hour of humor at its finest with Britain's top comedian, Tony Hancock.

Dennis the Menace

Horseless Carriage Club. Mr. Wilson hopes to win the first annual road race for horseless carriages with his 1912 Winton car.

Parade

Parade Takes a Look at the Jet Age. Host Bill Walker introduces singer Betty Robertson and singer-revue artist Bill Cole who star in this musical salute to modern travel. Also appearing are comedienne Jean Templeton and the Billy Van Four vocal quartet. A few of their selections are:

- The Jet Age Betty
- Kill 'Em With Kindness Betty and Jean
- Far Away Places Bill
- Come Fly with Me Betty and Bill

Kraft Mystery Theatre

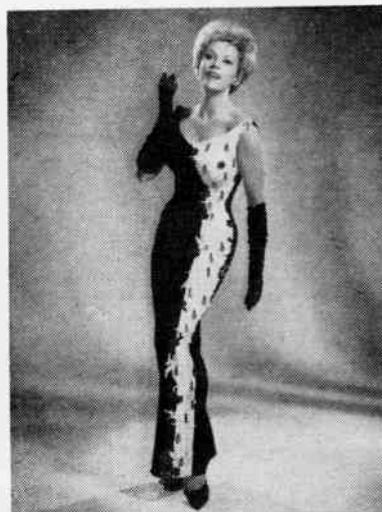

The Problem in Cell No. 13. A brilliant scientist bets a prison warden that he can use his intelligence to break out of a maximum security prison within five days. Featuring Claude Dauphin and Everett Sloane.

Sightline

Historical Program. Included on this program are reports on Victoria, B.C.; a historical pageant at Placentia Bay, Nfld.; and the Pioneer Village reconstructed near Toronto in the Black Creek Conservation area. Fred Davis is emcee.

Hancock

In an attempt to become a volunteer blood donor, Tony turns the local hospital into a state of chaos and confusion.

In a musical salute to modern travel, Betty Robertson (above) teams up with Jean Templeton and Bill Walker on Parade.

BOB MOIR
CBC Winnipeg
Sportscaster

THIS IS the height of the Canadian golf season and CBC this week is coming up with a pair of golf shows—one on the 58th Canadian amateur, which was played at London, Ontario, this year and the other on the Canadian P.G.A. tournament, at the Mississauga golf and country club in Port Credit, Ontario. This year's P.G.A. is the richest of all and should draw the largest entry in the event's history. Radio reports of the P.G.A. are inserted into the record-interview show of Saturday afternoons, Saturday Date. Commentators are Bud Donovan and Jim Chorley.

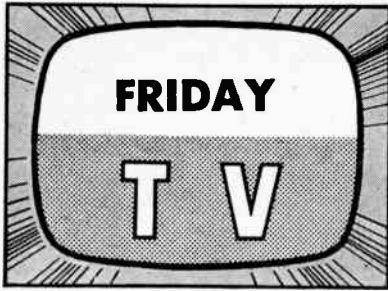

The Canadian amateur is Canada's premier golf event for the fellows generally known as the simon-pures and this year's tournament drew a brilliant field, including surprise British champion Richard Davies of Pasadena, California.

All members of Canada's 1961 American Cup team were present, including Nick Weslock, the Canadian champion, Gary Cowan, 1961 runner-up Ted Homenuik, Bob Wylie, Doug Silverberg, Johnny Johnston, Keith Alexander and Bert Ticehurst. Wylie is also the Mexican amateur champion.

Sports fans in Edmonton well remember last year's amateur, played at the Country Club there. Some of the most brilliant golf in years was displayed at Edmonton and the eventual outcome was in doubt until Cowan and Homenuik stepped to the 18th tee on the final round. At that point Cowan held a one-hole edge and both players put their tee shots on the green on the par three hole and the championship was virtually decided.

That tournament was filmed by the CBC and shown in an edited version the following week. The same procedure will be followed in London this year.

cricket, tennis, golf and bowling. Others were in boats on lakes and rivers, when they weren't swimming. And this was not just a lucky percentage of the people, this was all of them and it was the same in Perth, in Sydney, in Brisbane, in Melbourne as it was in Adelaide.

I spent two months in Australia and it wasn't long enough. But it was enough time to get to know how Aussies felt about their position in the world and that they are not as easygoing and as casual as their reputation makes them out to be. Many Australians worry that they haven't made a better impression on the world. They worry about their meagre population—ten million in three million square miles—and like a lot of Canadians they worry about national identity, the Commonwealth, the Cold War, immigration programs and economic progress.

The Australians are, to my observation, a very pro-American people and they seem to envy Canada's proximity to the United States. But they are still a British people—they play cricket, drink tea, drive on the left side of the road and use pounds, shillings and pence. With it all, they are very conscious of being Australian and if their country has been, up to the present, a sleeping giant—then the giant is beginning to stir.

A. J. Liebling

A Profile

THIS WEEK, Four's Company, Saturday, August 25, 9:00 p.m. on radio, presents a program about the American writer, A. J. Liebling, formerly known to readers of the New Yorker as that magazine's reporter-at-large, "Wayward Pressman." Prepared by Ronald Hambleton and read by the members of the drama quartet—Ruth Springford, Diana Maddox, Mavor Moore and John Drainie—the program etches a sharp profile of the writer through Hambleton's selection of some lengthy excerpts from Liebling's work: a stinging view of The Blue Book of the John Birch Society; a thoughtful, damning study of biased newspaper coverage of a railroad strike; a vivid piece of character drawing, about Governor Earl Long of Louisiana; a gourmet's warm reminiscences of gastronomic delights; and a description of a prize-fight written in a precise, fastidious style that is unusual, to say the least, in the field of sports writing. The subjects covered may indicate that Liebling is a man of seeming contradiction. He needs explaining and here is a quote from Hambleton's introduction to the Four's Company program:

"A. J. Liebling's three great interests are sports (boxing in particular), food and wine, and the newspaper business. Perhaps 'interests' is too colourless a word, because in each of these fields he is a critic, and an enthusiast, and an authority. And he can speak of any one of them in terms of the other, as when he casually remarks, in emphasizing a point, that 'a good cook, like a good jockey, must have a clock in his head.' One of his best pieces is an extended comparison between a professional boxer and a concert musician; and it is commonplace for him to paint, without strain or incongruity, a picture of a mid-west locality by detailed references to the Middle East.

"Of course, there are vintage years in journalists as there are in wines, and our selections are taken from the Liebling of the mid-fifties, roughly speaking. Since he was born just after the turn of the century, his mid-fifties more or less correspond with the 20th century's. Before the fifties began, he was on the staff of the New Yorker, and before that a practising newspaperman in Rhode Island, and before that an inquiring student in France. Now, and for the last 10 years, he has closed the circle by being once again a resident of France . . . a journalist, searching for the similarity and contrast between this society and that . . . and a student of his favourite recreations."

In his 'teens and early twenties, Liebling was an amateur boxer, devoting much of his spare time to "the sweet science." In his later articles on the sport, he employs a delicate, artistic writing style that seems in direct contradiction to the subject. A few years ago, when light-heavyweight champion Archie Moore met challenger Harold Johnson, Liebling wrote about the battle. A few excerpts from his article give an indication of the style:

"For several years I had been hearing about Moore, a virtuoso of anachronistic perfection in an age when boxers in general are hurried along like artificially ripened tomatoes, and with similarly unsatisfactory results. Moore was an aging academician, of such celebrity that young fighters came from the very Antipodes to study at his feet, which is where they frequently landed." About the championship fight itself, Liebling wrote, in part: "Instead of flicking, moving around, Moore was reconnoitering in close, looking the challenger over as if he had never seen him before. (They had fought each other four times previously.) So the true artist takes up a work he has laid aside for years, and attempts a fresh approach. Bent forward, his bearded Oberammergau head shielded by a mobile elbow, he made sharp tangential prods at the thorax and abdomen, like a sculptor seeking the grain of a rock or a physician asking where it hurts. In round three, Moore landed one smashing right to the body, as if asking 'Is that where it hurts?', and Johnson's eyes said 'Yes.' Moore went away as quietly happy as a doctor who has made a promising diagnosis." Eventually, after 14 rounds, Moore tired of the sport, and decided to dispatch his opponent. Liebling concludes his report thus: "Watching the men fight on the side of the ring away from me, with Johnson retrograding in my direction at a speed ordinarily observed within town limits, I noted a sudden acceleration of his rearward approach. The synergetic effect of his own withdrawal and the forward propulsion imparted by Mr. Moore's right hand sent him into a spin, which failed to impair Mr. Moore's calm aim. . . . Johnson was so nearly helpless that the referee stopped the bout a few seconds later."

Surely no boxing match has ever been reported in such prose, and with such rich drawing of classical and intellectual cross-references. It is typical of Liebling, and combined with the other excerpts quoted on the program, it gives a profile of the man—erudite, cynical, amused, and highly entertaining.

CBC Wednesday Night
 Music From Stratford

IT'S POSSIBLE that if Bach and Handel were to come to life today they might find themselves more at home playing with a jazz group than with a chamber music ensemble. Why? Because the distinctive feature of jazz is improvisation, and in the time of Bach and Handel such improvisation—on the spot composing of varied chords and counter-melodies—was an integral part of music. Composers used to like nothing better than to sit down at the organ or harpsichord and improvise variations on their own works or those of other composers. Indeed, the keyboard player in the ensemble of the pre-Classical period had to be able to “make it up as he went along,” because he was supplied only with a sketchy outline (called a figured bass) of the harmonic structure of a composition; at the performance, he indulged in “instant composition,” improvising the chords, arpeggios, runs and other ornamentation as the mood seized him. And this is exactly what happens in the free ensemble playing of a jazz group. The practice died out about 200 years ago, when composers began writing down every note exactly as they wanted it played, leaving only that vague quality called “interpretation” up to the performer.

Now an American composer-pianist, 40-year-old Lukas Foss, is trying to revive the long-dead art of improvisation and make it part of contemporary serious music.

Five years ago, he formed a small ensemble—piano, clarinet, cello and percussion—to experiment with his ideas in what might be called classical jam sessions. “Our improvisation is a sort of composition,” says Foss, “in which the choice of notes is left up to the performer.” But the choice is not entirely capricious. “We don’t just play anything that comes to mind. Rather, we play anything that comes to mind within a predetermined, limited form.” To achieve this, the group engages in what seems a contradiction of terms: rehearsals of improvisations. At these rehearsals, they don’t read musical scores, but follow large charts that look like a cross between a floor plan, a football coach’s blackboard, and a game of tic-tac-toe. The charts indicate the over-all plan of the piece, and the individual players must keep within its specific confines, but they are still allowed comparative freedom to experiment. “If we hit on something good,” explains Foss, “we try to remember it; if something bad, we try to forget it.” He admits that he first got the idea of “controlled improvisation” while listening to the high-brow jazz of the Modern Jazz Quartet, but insists that the techniques employed by his group are far more complex than those of jazz. “It’s the difference between playing blackjack and playing bridge.”

Foss, well known as a composer of more conventional music long before he began to experiment with his new ideas, doesn’t expect his system to replace the written score. In fact, the improvisational techniques are only part of his current work, and he has continued to turn out compositions written in the usual way. One of his best-known recent works combines the two approaches; it consists of four movements of fully-scored music, interspersed with improvised interludes. This is Time Cycle, a work for soprano soloist and instrumental ensemble, (Please turn to page 31)

Atlantis, a legendary island in the Atlantic Ocean, just beyond the Straits of Gibraltar, is said to have ruled many years over the lands around the Mediterranean Sea until its people were swallowed up by the ocean together with their homeland. From Medieval times the legend has been perpetuated and the existence of the continent hotly debated. The drawing, suggested by an Egyptian wall carving at Medinet Habu, depicts a battle between the North Sea race and the people of Atlantis, thus providing a theory which links the dwellers of the North to the people of the lost continent. The riddle of the lost Atlantis is examined once more on Speaking Personally.

based on poems by Auden, Housman, Kafka, and Nietzsche, all of them having to do with the flow of time, clocks or bells. It will be heard on CBC Wednesday Night, Aug. 29, in a two-hour program of music from this year's Stratford Music Festival. The program will include, in addition to the Foss work, music by Debussy, Ravel and Mozart, recorded at the week-end concerts held in Stratford during recent weeks. Taking part will be contralto Maureen Forrester, pianist Foss, violinist Oskar Shumsky, 'cellist Leonard Rose, pianist John Newmark, violist Steven Kondaks, soprano Grace-Lynne Martin and the Lukas Foss Improvisation Chamber Ensemble.

Miss Forrester will be heard, accompanied by John Newmark, in Debussy's Trois Chansons de France, settings dating from 1904 of poems by Charles Duc d'Orleans and Tristan L'Hermite. Newmark will also join with Oskar Shumsky, in performing Debussy's Sonata for Violin and Piano, and with Leonard Rose, in the same composer's Sonata for 'Cello and Piano. Shumsky and Rose, who are co-directors (with Glenn Gould) of the Stratford Music Festival, will be heard in a brilliant performance of Ravel's Sonata for Violin and 'Cello. The Mozart work is his Piano Quartet in G minor, K. 478, and it will be played by Shumsky, Kondaks, Rose and Foss. The program will conclude with Time Cycle, in which soprano Grace-Lynne Martin will be soloist, accompanied by the Foss ensemble.

During its visit to Canada, the Foss group spent a day at CBC-TV studios in Toronto, videotaping a rehearsal and performance of Time Cycle for showing in the series The Lively Arts sometime this fall on the television network. On this program, Foss discusses the novel techniques with Canadian composer Harry Somers, and demonstrates the use of the graphs and other devices—including hand signals—in working out the improvisational techniques.

Worth Trying

"We should reject competitive coexistence, and take our stand on coexistence 'plus' — plus ideological coexistence, genuinely free and friendly contacts between East and West, and practical co-operation at United Nations. Though unacceptable to Marxists, and to a few extremists on the 'right,' this gives us the best chance of avoiding nuclear catastrophe, and I believe it is what ordinary people want all over the world, on both sides of the Iron Curtain."—Christopher Mayhew, Member of the British Parliament, speaking in the BBC European Service.

CBC Conductor-Arranger Receives Canada Council Fellowship

THE 37-YEAR-OLD conductor-arranger for Reflections, Sundays on CBC-TV, Gordon Macpherson, has left Canada for six months' study in England, through a Canada Council Senior Arts Fellowship. He will study piano and conducting.

He began studying piano at the age of six, in his home town of Moose Jaw, Sask. He served in the RCAF during World War II as a navigator and saw active service in Burma.

With the assistance of DVA grants he continued his musical studies after the war, and received his Licentiate from the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto. While studying in Toronto from 1945 to 1953, he joined the piano department of the Royal Conservatory and received a scholarship to further his studies at the University of Toronto. During his studies for his Artists' Diploma, his chief source of income was derived from accompanying solo artists.

After graduation in the fall of 1953, Gordon came to Halifax to teach at the Maritime Academy of Music, which eventually became the Maritime Conservatory of Music. A further appointment resulted in his heading the Conservatory piano department.

He immediately became active in the musical life of the city, making appearances with the Halifax Symphony and performing solo recitals in the city and other Maritime centres. At this time, also, he acted as a piano soloist and accompanist on CBC programs.

His first association with Robert Alban, Reflections producer, began with children's radio drama series, for which he performed background music on the electronic organ. This led to other original dramatic scores for Halifax Theatre, CBC Wednesday Night and Summer Stage. He has arranged and composed for a variety of groups, from duos to full orchestra. As a conductor he first started with light variety programs on the national network, such as Invitation, Summer Date and Strings n' Things, many selections of which he also arranged.

Soon after his arrival in Halifax, he gave a recital with the well-known violinist, Francis Chaplin, which was the beginning of a long association. They have since performed on many recitals on CBC programs —Concert Hall, Wednesday Night and Distinguished Artists, and have also been featured on many regional programs.

With the advent of TV he collaborated on many regional and network programs, acting as conductor, composer and arranger. One program he especially remembers is Souvenir, a regional TV program in which he was featured along with Francis Chaplin. The 15-minute show of violin and piano artistry was very popular with CBIIT viewers. This musical format for TV, produced by Robert Alban, eventually extended into a string orchestra show with Chaplin as featured soloist and Macpherson acting as accompanist, soloist and conductor. This show was called Reflections, which has been seen on the CBC-TV network for the last two years.

Gordon has always been interested in chamber music and has experimented with many trios, quartets and quintets. The latest group, the Halifax Trio, has been heard on the national and regional networks.

Gordon is married to the former Billie Buschert, of Chicago, Ill., whom he met while studying in Toronto. They have two children, Sandra, 7 and Stephen, 3.

Conductor Gordon Macpherson discusses a score with harpist Phyllis Ensher for the program, Reflections.
