Radio Drama

• First, I would like to send a big thanks to all those who were responsible for the production of The Cloud by Ellston Trevor, (CBC Wednesday Night, August 14, CBC Radio). Although I heard this drama about a year ago, it was a great pleasure to hear it again. I also enjoy the new series on CBC Radio on Late Night Theatre entitled Starship, (Fridays, 10:30 p.m.). I really like drama which deals with science fiction.

—M.G.F., Greta, Man.

Earlier Shows for the Music Lovers

• I have been concerned over the past season about the practice followed by the CBC of assigning most of the symphonic music concerts to the late evening hours. . . . I have mentioned this casually to several of my friends who enjoy symphonic music, and the reaction has been uniformly one of annoyance. None of us expects to have all our music scheduled in the prime listening hours, but we can all remember the time only a year or two ago when two or three symphonic concerts a week were available at a reasonably early hour, and we feel that under the present policy we are the victims of some discrimination in this respect. . . . A return next season to a more equitable distribution of musical programs in this region would be a most welcome move, and I hope that it will prove possible.

—S.A.B., Saskatoon.

A Show for Teenagers

• I agree completely with H.D.C. of Langham, Sask. (Mailbag, Aug. 24-30) who said that Canada should have its own teenage show with recording artists. After seeing American Bandstand I think Canada should have a show like it every afternoon after 4:00 p.m. I know a lot of people all over Canada would agree with me, so how about having a show like that start this fall? Thank you for all your help in the past and keep up the good work.

—Miss B.F., Moose Jaw, Sask.

CBC in the U.S.

• I think your programming is excellent. I enjoy listening to rock 'n roll, but not all the time, and after listening to some of the local stations, CBW is a welcome change of pace. CBC's news coverage is one of the best.

—W.G., Minot, North Dakota.

Listening South of the Border

• My radio is tuned to CBW most of the time, for your programs are excellent, by far the best day in and day out of any station. . . . Sometimes I even feel more informed on Canadian politics and events than those of the U.S., and frequently I don't know about local events because I've been listening across the border instead. Thank you for the pleasure of your daily company during my busy day.

—F.B.K., Grand Forks, North Dakota.

A Look At the World

ON FOUR PROGRAMS this week, CBC presents views of the world and its people. One view is political, the second sociological, the third scientific.

U.N. Review begins its eighth year on CBC-TV on Saturday, September 21. The program, which features commentary, interviews and filmed coverage of the week's events at United Nations headquarters, and reports on the work of U.N. agencies throughout the world, is prepared by CBC's U.N. correspondent, Tom Gould, with the assistance of U.N. radio-television production teams.

Tourism plays an increasing role in world understanding today, a fact reflected in two CBC programs this week. Man in a Landscape (Friday, September 27, CBC-TV) studies various aspects of contemporary travel-for-pleasure, while Traveller's Check (Saturday, September 21, 3:30 p.m. CBC Radio) gives an up-to-date, factual, but entertaining report for prospective visitors to Ireland.

In the last of four programs about the Upper Mantle Project (Sunday, September 22, 5:30 p.m. Radio), Professor J. Tuzo Wilson points out that it's a cockeyed world—literally. It's believed that the earth's land masses may be wandering about, heaving or sinking slightly, and causing vast areas to tilt. These and other interesting views about our world are discussed on the program.

On Our Cover . . .

Back for another season in their familiar Tuesday night spot are Gordon Sinclair, Betty Kennedy, host Fred Davis and Pierre Berton of Front Page Challenge.

AN ICELANDIC pianist who has won world-wide recognition as a master of piano technique is heard on CBC Radio Sunday, September 22 at 12:30 p.m. Rognvaldur Sigurjonsson will be in Winnipeg September 18 for a public performance and will record a program for presentation on Recital in Miniature.

He has given concerts throughout the Scandinavian countries, Austria, Germany, the United States, the Soviet Union and now, Canada. Everywhere he has been heard, critics have acclaimed his technical knowledge, feeling and virtuosity. Typical of his reviews has been one in Dagbladet, Oslo, Norway: ". . . His accomplishments include a universal, highly developed technique which enables him to deal with the most difficult works, and a tone colour scheme in which one does not miss more than the most 'blood red' nuances. His musicality is characterized by a very clear intelligence, a sure feeling of form and an oversight over the subject matter. But his playing is also characterized by a real, masculine feeling for music . . . In no way lacking in warmth and feeling. . ."

Recital in Miniature is produced by Benjamin Horch.

GRANDE PRAIRIE and Peace River viewers will be interested to know that Canadian Football League games blacked out on CBXT Edmonton due to a game being played locally on the telecast date still will be seen on stations CBXTA and CBXTA1. Forthcoming games to be seen in the northern Alberta centres but not in Edmonton will be on September 28, October 5 and October 26.

SYMPHONY WEEK is being marked September 23-28 in Winnipeg—the week in which the Winnipeg Symphony seeks the support of the public for its forthcoming concert season. To assist in publicizing the campaign, CBW radio's Afternoon Concert, Monday and Friday at 3:00 p.m., will feature Symphony conductor Victor Feldbrill introducing recorded performances of some of the highlights of the concerts to be presented by the orchestra. Tuesday and Thursday, members of the orchestra's women's committee will be guests. As well, on CBWT, Wednesday, September 25, at 7:30 p.m., Symphony Backstage will show the Winnipeg Symphony in an informal rehearsal-like setting, with Mr. Feldbrill providing program notes for the music performed.

REACH FOR THE TOP, the panel quiz game featuring high school students, has returned to CBWT for another season by popular demand. It is seen each Monday at 7:00 p.m.

Two teams of four students each compete in answering a wide range of difficult questions testing their academic knowledge and alertness. Warren Davis is quizmaster. This year, competing teams are to be drawn from outlying areas as well as Greater Winnipeg. Jean Mackay, producer.

An Edmonton-produced counterpart of the show is to commence on CBXT Wednesday, October 2 at 7 p.m.

Explorers with Wings

Canada owes a lot to the intrepid bush pilots who have fearlessly tamed the wilds of our country. DISCOVERY, Sundays on CBC-TV, presents a series on these fliers

THE IMPACT OF man's recent earth-orbiting achievements may have dulled memories a little, but it's not too long ago that the term "bush pilot" stirred envy and excitement in the minds of young Canadians.

It conjured up a picture of the very epitome of adventurers, a gallant, reckless daredevil, rashly oblivious to danger, who piloted his rickety, fragile craft into Canada's wilderness to open up a whole new country.

Exploring unknown areas, setting up bases as they went along, working under the most primitive conditions, fliers like Punch Dickens and Wop May earned their reputations the hard way, and, like most of the pioneer pilots of the 1920's and '30's, they deserved the acclaim and adulation they received. In 35 years of exploration and development by air, they did as much in the North as others had been able to achieve in 350 years of land and water travel. Some maintain that the bush pilots should rank with La Salle and the La Verendrye brothers in the history of Canadian exploration.

The effect of the airplane on the vast regions of the North was impressive and rapid. It got its start in the early 1920s, when pilots who had survived the dizzying dog-fights of the First World War re-

TWELVE YEARS AGO, when Chinese General Peng Teh-huai was negotiating with United Nations commanders for a truce in Korea, he insisted that only certain days were suitable for opening the conference. The Westerners thought his attitude trivial, absurd, just a device to obstruct a settlement. What they didn't know was that, according to Chinese custom, the general wouldn't consider beginning any important enterprise without first consulting an oracle to determine which days would be auspicious.

That incident, reported by Dr. Lewis C. Walmsley, of the department of East Asiatic Studies at the University of Toronto, points up the baffling nature of the differences between Oriental and Occidental thinking and ways of life. "East is East, and West is West, and never the twain shall meet," wrote Kipling, but he hadn't reckoned on the amazingly rapid development of communications in this century. The twain are meeting, and competing, to an increasing degree, and it has become impossible today to ignore the importance of the East in world affairs.

The attitudes and beliefs of the Chinese have been shaped by centuries of an indigenuous and largely isolated culture, a culture that developed in part from China's geography and was influenced only slightly by the outside world. Invaders have usually been swallowed up by the vastness of the country and the multitudes of Chinese, and thus their identity has been lost in the almost uninterrupted continuity of the Chinese culture. In the present century, China has undergone two massive social and political upheavals, as revolutions have wrenched the country out of its feudal past and into the modern world.

Despite the comparative paucity of information available about modern China, public interest in the country is considerable, to judge from the attention shown recent CBC broadcasts on the subject. Last winter, The Learning Stage, a two-hour nightly radio program on CJBC, Toronto, presented 10 one-hour broadcasts on the history, culture, and contemporary setting of China. Such was the response to these programs that a series of six new broadcasts was assembled from the original material and these are currently being transmitted on the full radio network on Tuesday mornings at 9:30.

This week's broadcast (September 24), sub-titled China and the West, deals with the impact of European influences on China's traditional ways of life. The program of October 1 will be concerned with the fall of traditional China, as old institutions were replaced with new ideas, and the final program of the series, on October 8, tells of The Communist Victory.

Another series on Chinese history and culture, intended for senior high school students, will begin next week as part of CBC's annual series of school broadcasts on radio. Prepared by William G. Saywell, of the department of East Asiatic Studies at the University of Toronto (who was also in large measure responsible for the Chinese Puzzle programs), in co-operation with producer Digby Peers, the broadcasts will deal, in five half-hour episodes, with the land that has been called "The Awakened Giant." Details of these school broadcasts about China will be given in next week's edition of CBC Times.

Combatting Poverty

in 'The Storehouse of Riches'

THE WORD PERU means "storehouse of riches," but ironically this beautiful land of great potential treasure is the scene of some of the most shocking human misery in the world, and some of the greatest contrasts—two distinct ways of life split by barriers of geography and time.

Just a short distance behind the elegance and luxury of great Peruvian hotels, palaces, churches and public buildings, hundreds of thousands of emaciated people exist in squalor. But, incredibly, their lot is better than that of Indians in some parts of the Andes. A few hundred miles from the cultured capital, Lima, with its famous old university (1551) and cosmopolitan life, are forest Indians still practicing cannibalism.

Since Peru was conquered in 1532 by Francisco Pizarro of Spain, there has been hardly any agricultural reform. Some Indian farm labourers earn only a penny a day. Although more than 65 per cent of Peruvians make their living from agriculture, rich landowners, who oppose reform, hold most of the land. The majority of their farm workers are so in debt to them that they can never hope to leave the haciendas.

For many years the country has been headed by dictators or almost-dictators of conservative outlook and small concern for the appalling conditions among the poor, and the country's lack of economic progress. Just over a year ago the government, long at loggerheads with the military, was overthrown, and the President deposed, in a coup supported by the Communists. The dust didn't settle until, early this summer, an election was held and the leader of the Popular Action Party became head of the country.

Peru's new President, handsome, energetic, 51-year-old Fernando Belaunde Terry, a town-planner by profession, has introduced some distinguished technologists and professional men into his cabinet and promises some long-overdue social reforms to alleviate the pressure for change which has been building up urgently. Plans are afoot for distributing some of the privately-held land more equitably, either through expropriation or direct sale.

The present situation there, and the country's future outlook in relation to its long history, will be explored in the CBC Radio documentary series Latin America: 1963, on Tuesday night, September 24, at 10:30. The series has been prepared by Barry Lando, a student of Latin-American affairs who has just been appointed Latin American correspondent for Time magazine. In Peru he interviewed the President; José Antonio Encinas, former member of the Peruvian foreign service and editor of the Lima Expresso; Luis Alberto Sanchez, a leading Peruvian intellectual and politician; Sr. Alfredo Porras, a wealthy conservative who helped draw up a moderate land reform bill passed this year; Sr. Roberto Sarfaty, a 1935 immigrant and now a major wool exporter, and others.

Peru's new President had been in office only a few days when Lando talked to him. Fernando Belaunde Terry comes from a distinguished old Peruvian family with a long history of political involvement. He studied architecture in the U.S. after graduating from the University of San Marcos in Lima, was chief Peruvian delegate to the Founding Assembly of the United Nations in San Francisco, and was president of the Peruvian delegation to the U.N. for two years. Although his party is leftist at core, it has staunch supporters among right-wingers who realize that no right-wing party has a hope of getting elected in Peru today.

Whether or not he is the adventurous radical he is made out to be, Terry has his work cut out for him, because Peru is still medieval in many respects. But

The Heroism of the CANADIAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCE

An enormous project coming to a conclusion is the radio documentary series on Canada's part in the First World War. J. Frank Willis is producing the programs, to start next year

ONE OF THE largest tape recording assignments ever undertaken by the CBC—in progress now for over a year and to continue for several months more—will come to fruition next year when the CBC Radio Network presents a major series on Canada's contribution to the Allied victory in the First World War. From recordings made with hundreds of veterans representing all arms of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, the programs will comprise a mosaic of personal experience and impression from men who fought for their homeland in the greatest and most terrible war the world had known to that time.

Next year sees the fiftieth anniversary of the war's outbreak. In the historical sense, the First World War is still very close. In another sense, so greatly has the world changed since, it is very far away. To many of us it is an all but forgotten story. Yet nothing in our history can offer greater cause for pride and gratitude than the part played in that war by Canada's soldiers.

After the Battle of Amiens in August, 1918—the battle that turned the tide and opened the way to victory for the Allies—Sir Julian Byng, a British general who had earlier commanded the Canadians and who was later to become Governor-General of Canada, told the commander of the Canadian Corps, Sir Arthur Currie, that the Canadian performance in the battle had been “the finest performance in the war.”

Some time later in the “Hundred Days,” when the Canadian Corps was driving through the last German defences as the spearhead of the victorious Allied offensive, a captured enemy general told Sir Arthur that the Canadians were the troops whom the Germans feared most of all to meet. Other Canadians were to hear similar testimony. And the British wartime Prime Minister Lloyd George was to write later in his war memoirs: “Whenever the Germans found the Canadians coming into the line, they feared the worst.”

The record of Canada's soldiers in the First World War has recently been published in an official history, Canadian Expeditionary Force. The author, Colonel G. W. L. Nicholson, C.D., gives reasons, in his closing chapter, for the reputation that the Canadians earned:

“In their four years away from their homeland, Canadian troops earned the reputation of being tough, resourceful fighters, well trained and well commanded. There has not been lacking testimony from senior Allied commanders that in the latter part of the war no other formation on the Western Front surpassed the Canadian Corps as a superb fighting machine.

Much of its success the Corps owed to the fact that, while other British corps headquarters saw divisions frequently enter and leave their command, the Canadian Corps was in the unique position of being able to preserve its com-

World of Sport

Baseball Game of the Week. Dizzy Dean and Pee Wee Reese report from Yankee Stadium as the Kansas City Athletics play the New York Yankees.

Canada At War

Cinderella on the Left. (June-December 1944). V-1 attacks on London; Canadians overrun rocket sites; the V-2 rocket; Canadians at Vimy Ridge and Boulogne; battle of Scheldt; Antwerp opened; M.T.B.s in the Channel; battle of the Bulge; winter on the Maas.

CFL Football

The B.C. Lions meet the Hamilton Tiger Cats at Civic Stadium, Hamilton. Steve Douglas calls the play-by-play and Fred Sgambati provides the colour commentary.

U.N. Review

Tom Gould, CBC New York correspondent, reports on activities at the United Nations. Film describes the work of U.N. organizations throughout the world.

Countrytime

1. Cheese Making. Cheddar and cottage cheese are made in Manitoba, mainly in the eastern part of the province. Manitoba makes only a fraction of its needs with cheddar cheese imported from Ontario and fancy cheese imported from Ontario and Quebec.

2. Gardener Stan Westaway discusses fall treatments for the lawn.

The Beverly Hillbillies

Granny turns the Clampett's mansion into a hospital when she resumes her practice as a doctor of mountain medicine.

Red River Jamboree

Singing host Stu Phillips with Peggy Neville, the Altones, Ted Komar and the Selkirk Settlers, Joe Johansson and the Valley Beaux and Belles present a show with Shine on Harvest Moon, as its theme. Producer, Armand Baril. Numbers include:

Come In Out of the Rain	Stu Phillips
Greensleeves	Peggy Neville
Green Green	The Altones
Stainless Steel	Selkirk Settlers

Eric Sykes

Sykes and a Mission. Eric embarks on a mission to help the poor and needy. His well-meant plan results in chaos.

On the Desk Of Frank Willis

IN ADDITION to work on his radio series about the Canadian Corps (see page seven) J. Frank Willis is getting ready to face the television cameras again this fall as the host on the public affairs program Question Mark (more about that later), and is also making production plans for various radio ventures to be heard during the fall and winter season (many of them on CBC Sunday Night).

A look through the scripts on his desk brought to light some fascinating material: James Bannerman has produced a script entitled Murder by Court Martial, a dramatization of the famous case of Vice-Admiral the Honourable John Byng, Royal Navy, executed under dubious circumstances in 1757.

Joseph Schull has turned out The Academy of Windsor, marking

These are days of great decisions and important activity in the United Nations. Tom Gould brings up-to-date reports of U.N. Business each Saturday on U.N. Review, returning this week.

the 175th anniversary of King's Collegiate in Windsor, N.S., the oldest boys' school in North America. Schull has also written the second of two scripts on the war of 1812, this one entitled His Majesty's Five, and dealing with the war afloat in the year 1813. One of the five naval officers about whom the story is told, one Pring, sets the scene at the beginning in a time-honoured way: "Five of us there were, all right, though only three at the beginning. And three of us left at the end . . . or two and a half, maybe, for there was not much left of Bob Barclay . . ." Sounds like a gripping tale, even without reading further.

A totally different aspect of Canadian history will turn up in Tommy Tweed's adaptation of W. A. Deacon's book The Four James's, which would seem to be evocative of much the same nostalgia for better times illustrated by the tales of Sarah Binks, the Sweet Songstress of Saskatchewan . . . although the four James's in question were flesh and blood inhabitants of Canada during the nineteenth century, and had in common an outpouring of homespun poetry. Typical, perhaps, was one James Gay of Guelph, a gunsmith, hotelkeeper, umbrella-mender, saw-sharpener, and poet. Moved to poesy by knowledge of a piece of tapestry and a regard for Mary, Queen of Scots, in fact her unseemly end, Gay wrote as follows:

"O Mary, Mary, Queen of Scot,
Your Needlework is not forgot;
Though 300 years have passed,
they say,
Your beautiful piece of tapestry is still in the hands of
Mrs. Thomas Dunn of Nassagaway . . ."

Willis intends to enlist the aid of Lucio Agostini to set some of the verse to music, and Tweed proposes to punctuate the work with the sort of footnote at which he is adept.

THE PROSECUTION RESTS? — William Talman, district attorney on Perry Mason, seen on the CBC television network, has worked as a law clerk, a labourer, a car salesman and a tennis professional.

Program Notes

SEPTEMBER 22

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and add'l program information

Lincoln Centre Day

A special hour-long program commemorating the first anniversary of the opening of New York's Lincoln Centre for the Performing Arts. Guest artists include musical comedy stars Ethel Merman, Sally Ann Howes and David Wayne; Metropolitan Opera baritone Robert Merrill; lyric soprano Veronica Tyler; leading members of the New York City Ballet under the direction of artistic director George Balanchine.

Jacques D'Amboise and Suzanne Farrell are the principal dancers in Stravinsky's Movements; Allegra Kent and Conrad Ludlow are the principal dancers in Bizet's Symphony in C.

Alfredo Antonini conducts the orchestra. Composer Richard Rodgers narrates the musical section. Alistair Cooke is host for the program.

Bonanza

She Walks in Beauty. Hoss falls in love with an infamous San Francisco beauty and causes unusual family friction.

Destruction of the Indian

The Heart of the Forest. First of two programs on the dying Indian tribes of the Amazon jungle. The film examines the Indian's viewpoint in an attempt to understand why he fights so bitterly for the forest, and shows Indians killing fish with poison and collecting jungle medicines.

Discovery

Bush Pilots of the West. A three-part series on the birth of flight and the coming of the bush pilot in Canada.

Today, Part 2: Arctic Pilot. The program begins with a modern expedition to Melville Island in the Arctic where oil drilling and sample drilling for minerals is going on, and shows modern-day bush pilot Ron Wells in action. Also seen is how a bush pilot, Stan McMillan, over 30 years ago, faced the rigours of the Arctic with his party of eight when the McAlpine expedition was lost for 54 days. This caused the first Arctic search for lost airmen.

Recently Stan McMillan flew over this same area again, for the benefit of Robert Reid's CBC camera, and retold his story of the expedition and the 54 days.

CBXT—Thriller

Knock Three-One-Two. When he finds himself deep in gambling debts, a man arranges for his wife's murder in order to collect her bank account.

of 1944, the V-2 attacks on Britain reach their peak. British troops move into Greece to support the partisans. Churchill is seen in Athens and Archbishop Damaskinos becomes Regent. Montgomery and Patton succeed at the Bulge.

Some of Those Days

Tonight's show is the first of two programs recalling the great days of the music hall. Both shows are taped before a live audience in the CBC Vancouver studios. Guest is baritone Tom Hill.

Film and still photos show music hall stars including Marie Lloyd, George Robey, Ella Shields, Champagne Charlie, Vesta Tilley, Harry Lauder, Albert Chevalier, Little Tich, Dan Leno and Jenny Hill. Numbers include:

I'm Henry the Eighth I Am Tom
Waiting at the Church Betty
A Little of What You Fancy Roma
In the Shade of the Old
Apple Tree the quartet

Hazel

George's cousin arrives for a visit and Hazel immediately decides to change her from a shy spinster to an outspoken bachelor girl.

Flashback

Panelists Maggie Morris, Alan Millar, Allan Manings and a guest panelist attempt to identify famous persons, objects and fads of the past. Moderator is Bill Walker.

Bill Walker is the new moderator of Flashback, returning to CBC-TV Sundays.

World of Sport

NFL Football. Joe Tucker describes the play-by-play action from Pitt Stadium as the Pittsburgh Steelers play the New York Giants. Former college and professional coach John Sauer provides expert analysis of the play. CBC sportscasters Hal Kelly and Curly Morrison are heard with colour commentary and a half-time discussion.

Take Thirty

Special guest is Broadway musical star Carol Lawrence. (Miss Lawrence recently married Robert Goulet, former CBC singing star who has turned to the Broadway stage.)

Vacation Time

From Toronto, with Bruce Rogers and Toby Tarnow. Today's guest is a Mr. Krishnan of the Govt. of India Tourist office. Two films are presented about India—an elephant hunt and a ceremonial dance.

Also seen is the film The Painted Stallion, with Hoot Gibson.

On Safari

Outward Bound. Armand and Michaela Denis visit the famous Outward Bound outdoor school for boys on the slopes of Mt. Kilimanjaro in Kenya.

CBXT—Kerry Wood Storybook

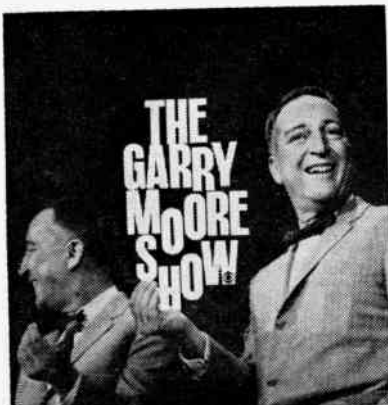

Alberta naturalist and folk-lore expert Kerry Wood demonstrates the art of "pit cooking."

Check-Up

Diabetes. Participant and consultant is Dr. B. S. Leibel of the Banting and Best department of Medical Research, University of Toronto.

The Garry Moore Show

Comedy-variety with host Garry Moore and featuring Durward Kirby. Garry's guests include comedian Alan King; musical comedy star Dorothy Loudon; and Metropolitan opera soprano Eileen Farrell.

The Garry Moore Show returns to CBC-TV Monday, with music, dancing and humour.

Camera Canada

Such is Life. An hour-long look behind-the-scenes at Toronto General Hospital, with particular emphasis on the emergency ward. The program runs the gamut of life from birth to death and portrays the tense drama and excitement of medical and surgical care that goes on day to day in any large hospital. Narration is by Thom Benson.

CBWT—Surfside 6

Separate Checks. Ken Madison and his Surfside buddies are called in when a young man loses $25,000 to a smooth confidence artist.

'Take 30' with Carol Lawrence

CAROL LAWRENCE, one of the liveliest and most versatile singer-dancers in North America, will be seen in a special Take Thirty interview on CBC Television.

The program, to be seen on Monday, September 23, shows aspects of the remarkable Miss Lawrence, perhaps better known to many Canadians as Mrs. Robert Goulet, rarely revealed through her usual on-stage appearances.

Carol's surging career seemed to be climaxed recently by her starring role in West Side Story, but before her now are demanding appearances at New York's Plaza Room (where husband Bob recently triumphed), as guest on the new Danny Kaye Show, as a Manchurian Princess who ages from 17 to 70 in a 90-minute television drama, and a night club tour with Bob Goulet.

To interviewer and program co-host (with Paul Soles) Anna Cameron, Miss Lawrence tells of her start in showbusiness, from her first professional appearance as a dancer with the Chicago Opera Guild Ballet, to Chicago-based television shows and supper clubs and her own song-and-dance act perfected during school vacations.

In the university to which she won a dramatic scholarship, she was named Freshman of the Year in Theatre. Broadway employed her talents first in 1951 with a part in Showbusiness, from which she moved to New Faces of 1952. So successful was this show that it went on tour and later became the basis for the movie of the same title.

Back in Chicago she joined the Rodgers and Hammerstein show Me and Juliet, followed by a season of summer stock. She gained her own radio and TV shows in Chicago before returning to New York for roles in Plain and Fancy, South Pacific, and later returning again to the Mid-west as leading dancer in the opening season of the Chicago Lyric Opera Company. Other Broadway parts followed: in Shangri-la and the Ziegfeld Follies of 1957.

During this period, Carol set her sights on the coveted role of Maria in West Side Story. Months of suspense followed her audition. She won the part. The critics saved their biggest plaudits for her and the role established Carol among the first rank of performing theatre artists.

Many guest appearances on the American network's personality shows, in major television dramas and in the film versions of Miller's A View from the Bridge, have consolidated her reputation.

On August 12, 1963, she became Mrs. Bob Goulet, of Westchester and Manhattan, N.Y. Her home shows off her hobby: collecting antiques.

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and addit'l program information

Take Thirty

1. In co-operation with the UNICEF representatives around the world, Kate Aitken compiled an exhibit of children's art for display recently at the C.N.E. The exhibit begins a cross-Canada tour October 4. Today, Mrs. Aitken presents works from the exhibit.

2. Eve Ardeil, supervisor of art for the Hamilton public school system, discusses the place of art in the lives of children, the school system and how its prime purpose should be to help the children develop emotionally, intellectually and socially.

Vacation Time

Flying Adventure. Host Dan McAfee, Norman Young and a group of children visit Pitt Meadows Airport outside of Vancouver where private planes can take off and land without interfering with international air traffic. Harry O'Reilly, manager of the airport, escorts the visitors.

Jim Bathhurst demonstrates parachute packing and the group talks with a pilot who built an ultra-light plane from a kit. Norman goes for a ride in a glider and two maintenance men explain the importance of checking an aircraft before taking off.

CBXT—Gateway

Tee to Green. Ernie Afaganis demonstrates the golf swing and asks professional opinions of former Canadian golf champ Henry Martell, head pro at the Highlands Golf Club. Today, they feature a slow-motion film on Moe Norman and George Knudson in action and analyze their swings.

The Patty Duke Show

Academy Award winner Patty Duke stars in a half-hour of fun and frolic involving look-alike cousins.

Ben Casey

With the Rich and Mighty Always a Little Patience. Starring Vincent Edwards, Sam Jaffe and Bettye Ackerman.

Panelists Betty Kennedy, Gordon Sinclair, Pierre Berton and a guest panelist try to identify newspaper headlines associated with challengers. Moderator is Fred Davis.

Live and Learn

The Evolution of Life. Last of a seven-part series which looks back into biological history.

Tonight, Marsupial, Mammoth and Man. Successors to the reptiles, the mammals inherit the earth.

TO MY WAY of thinking the highlight of CBC Television this week is the CFL game in Hamilton between the Tiger Cats and the B.C. Lions. My reason for stating the above is, we'll be watching two teams that could conceivably end up in the 1963 Grey Cup classic in Vancouver, next November 30.

The B.C. Lions were my choice before the season began to win the Western title in spite of the much-ballyhooed Calgary Stampeders, and my reason for picking them was based mainly on quarterbacking. It's my opinion that Joe Kapp is possibly the best QB in the Canadian Football League, Kenny Ploen notwithstanding. However, Kapp has some pretty good horses going for him and both B.C. lines are fierce, fast, and big.

As for the Hamilton Tiger Cats, they are going to have a tougher time, I think, in winning the Eastern Division than the Lions will in winning the West. The Montreal Alouettes who now seem to have a sound quarterback in "Bubba" Mariott, will be tough from here on and should win going away, as witness their 30-1 win over Winnipeg. Admittedly the Bombers were a weary crew after having played Toronto only two days prior, but I don't think the outcome would have been too different even if the Bombers had had a week's rest. According to most coaches with whom I have spoken, the Alouettes are loaded and pointed to the Grey Cup Final.

South of the Border, the NFL game of the week, Sunday on CBC-TV, features the New York Giants, last year's Eastern Division champions, against the Pittsburgh Steelers, who were runners-up to the Giants. This could be the year for the Steelers if their pre-season games mean anything — they've knocked off the Chicago Bears, handily, the Giants and also Detroit.

Once again it'll be a privilege to listen to a real "pro" from all aspects, as ex-NFL'er Curly Morrison takes us to the blackboard and explains in good old laymen's terms what's going on, instead of trying to baffle us (as so many others do) with much player terminology that means little or nothing to the average fan.

Baseball's game of the week, Saturday on TV, moves into New York's Yankee stadium, for a game featuring the pennant-winning New York Yankees (I may be a bit premature on this but I think it's as near a sure thing as one can get) and the lowly Kansas City Athletics who got off to a brilliant start and then sputtered out.

Another Sunday feature is Sports International, with films from the week's major sports events of all types around the world.

Take Thirty

1. Special guest is Louise Bennet, Jamaican folk-lorist and broadcaster. She is founder of the National Jamaican Dancers who performed at the Stratford, Ont., Festival.

2. Jean Morrison and her husband give accounts of their recent experiences while touring some of the less-accessible towns and villages in Pakistan.

Scarlett Hill

The different characters found in a rooming-house in a typical small Canadian community provide the backdrop for serialized stories of romance, drama and comedy.

Vacation Time

1. Playground Players. Today, the Players present "The Baby and the Last Dodo." Producer in Edmonton by Jack Emack.

2. Red River Camp. Today is the final day at the camp-site. All the tents are taken down and the gear is put into the car. Per and the boys sit around and recall some of the events of the past summer and Per decides to take a picture of the gang. It starts to rain and this brings an appropriate conclusion to the series.

3. Who's Who at the Zoo. Today's subject is the zoo itself and a story, written by Goldie Gelmon, is told by Georges LaFleche.

Quick Draw McGraw

Cartoons for the children.

CBWT—Spotlight

Interviews of topical interest to Winnipeggers. Ted Benoit, producer.

CBWT—Cuisine 30

Hints on cooking, particularly outdoor charcoal barbecuing.

CBWT—Symphony Backstage

Marking Symphony Week in Winnipeg, the Winnipeg Symphony Orchestra is seen in an informal concert with a rehearsal-like atmosphere. Conductor Victor Feldbrill provides program notes on the music performed. Neil Harris, producer.

CBXT—Surfside 6

A Slight Case of Chivalry. Dave Thorne finds himself in the middle of a wild comedy of errors when a swash-buckling old friend flees to Miami Beach with a murder charge and a price of $5,000 on his head.

Red River Jamboree

From Winnipeg with songs, stories and dances which create an authentic picture of the Canadian West. Host Stu Phillips, Peggy Neville, The Altones, the Valley Beaux and Belles and Ted Komar and the Selkirk Settlers present a show with Cowgirl as its theme. Producer, Armand Baril. Numbers include:

Cowboy JackStu
You Call Everybody DarlingPeggy
I Got a WifeAltones
Buttons and BowsSelkirk Settlers
Little GirlValley Beaux and Belles

Perry Mason

The Case of the Nebulous Nephew. Mason is hired by two elderly women to defend a young man, accused of murdering his accomplice in a fraud attempt of the two women.

Dr. Finlay's Casebook

(This concluding episode is seen a day earlier than the usual time for the program.)

Behind Closed Doors. Dr. Cameron develops smallpox and becomes critically ill. At the same time Finlay's fiancée decides he is not the man for her and decides to marry someone else.

Man in a Landscape

There'll Always Be a Tourist. Fifth in a six-part series which examines travel for pleasure in the Western world, through the ages from the Greek and Roman classical period up to the 20th century. Anna Cameron appears regularly as the "innocent tourist," questioning guests with expert knowledge about travel in different ages.

Today, Victorian Times—The Cook Tour. A new kind of travel emerged with the establishment of tours by Thomas Cook, the world's first travel agent. The coming of the railroad had a great influence on tourism and travel. Toronto writer R. S. Lambert is guide.

Raymond Burr as Perry Mason, with Zasu Pitts.

Perry Mason Fans...

see Erle Stanley Gardner's ace criminal lawyer in action now each Wednesday on CBC Television.

Stu Phillips, Peggy Neville and the rest of the Red River Jamboree cast will be greeting viewers each Wednesday on the CBC Television network, effective this week.

Program Notes

SEPTEMBER 26

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and add'l program information

Take Thirty

A special film visit to an Austrian Kinderdorf at Imst, a village for homeless children. The film tells of a young Austrian man's solution to the problem of his country's many homeless children. The Austrian, Herman Gmeiner, started his first children's settlement some 12 year's ago. Today, his solution has expanded into a federation of such villages supported by contributions from a world-wide membership.

Vacation Time

Host Dan McAfee, Norman Young and a group of children from the Fraserview Boys Club cross Georgia Strait to Nanaimo on Vancouver Island. They visit an old Hudson's Bay Fort and travel "up island" to Lantzville where their volunteer fire department organized the Sparky Fire Department which consists of about 25 boys and girls from the area.

On the ferry-ride back, Dan and Norman talk to a tourist counsellor who is stationed aboard the ferry to answer questions from tourists. (This is the last show from Vancouver for the season.)

Sir Francis Drake

The Lost Colony of Virginia. When Drake takes supplies to a small colony of English settlers he discovers he has a passenger he hadn't counted on.

CBXT-Gateway

Over the Coals. For his last show of the season, Denny Ranson demonstrates how to prepare a full dinner at the barbecue.

CBXT-I'm Dickens, He's Fenster

Say It with Pictures. Harry and Arch decide to prepare a new carpenters' manual in an attempt to help reduce mishaps on a construction job.

CBWT-Manitoba Profile

This week, Marilyn Phillips and Bill Guest visit the town of Flin Flon.

The Lucy Show

Antony and Cleopatra. Lucy plays the temptress of the Nile for the volunteer fire fighters' version of Shakespeare's Antony and Cleopatra.

The Serial

Beginning a fall and winter series of dramatized serials, in weekly half-hour episodes.

Starting tonight is the first serial of the series, Son of a Hundred Kings, from the novel by Thomas B. Costain, adapted for television by Leslie McFarlane, in 10 episodes. The story concerns a young English waif who arrives in a small Ontario town at the turn of the century, alone and friendless. A kindly millwright takes him into his home and conflicts arise when well-meaning townspeople try to investigate his background which they believe may be a noble and wealthy one.

Renowned Canadian Novels on CBC-TV's 'THE SERIAL'

ADAPTATIONS FROM the major works of internationally acclaimed Canadian novelists will be presented on the CBC's Television network starting September 26.

The half-hour programs under the general title of The Serial, will be shown on Thursday evenings, and represents a major development in prime evening-time programming. The series not only features the work of Canadian authors, but is filmed, in part, in outdoor Canadian locations, making great use of Canadian actors and directors.

First of the serials is a 10-episode adaptation of Thomas B. Costain's Son of a Hundred Kings, dramatized for television by playwright Leslie McFarlane. Set in a small, western Ontario town at the turn of the century, the play tells of an English waif who comes to Comedienne Imogene Coca stars as Grindl, an itinerant domestic always getting involved in amusing and unusual situations.

Parade

A La Carte. A preview of the upcoming performers on Parade, a musical variety and comedy show with a new format each week, returning today for another season.

CBWT-Thriller

Canada to join his father, only to learn on his arrival that his father has died.

Thirteen-year-old English actor Martin Norton came from England to play the role of Ludar Prentice, the boy around whom the story revolves. Also in principal roles are Drew Thompson, Ruth Springford, Robert Christie, Patricia Farmer and Bruce Gray, with a large supporting cast.

Son of a Hundred Kings makes extensive use of outdoor sequences filmed this summer on location at Unionville, Ontario, northeast of Toronto. These sequences are used in conjunction with video-taped segments produced in the CBC's Toronto studios.

Ronald Weyman, executive producer of The Serial, co-produced

Taking the Gamble Out of Fishing

UNTIL RECENT years, Canada's fishing industry has been almost as big a gamble as roulette or blackjack, but in the next few decades fishing may well become as stable an occupation as farming. Working in relative anonymity, Canadian fisheries scientists are striving to eliminate the luck element from commercial fishing, so that the wayward whims of salmon or cod won't cripple a community in a bad season.

During the past half-century in Canada, science has played an increasing role in the improvement of conditions in the fishing industry, both in the coastal regions and on the Great Lakes. Everything from an oyster to a whale has come under the scrutiny of fisheries researchers at stations across the country, and even the smallest fish can provide a whale-sized problem. How much oxygen do lobsters need in storage? Why do scallops react adversely to water temperature changes? How can lampreys be prevented from destroying valuable food fish in the Great Lakes? Why do some fish behave the way they do?

Some day soon, the sea may be harvested with the same degree of certainty the land is at present. That is one of the goals of the many fisheries research scientists now working in Canada. A film dealing with their work, and including reports on studies of the steel-head trout and the salmon, and the depredations of lamprey eels, will be shown this week on Web of Life, (Friday afternoon, September 27, CBC-TV) from CBC Vancouver.

the 10 episodes with Basil Coleman and Melwyn Breen.

Following the Costain dramatizations, an eight-episode adaptation of Thomas Raddall's novel, The Wings of Night, will begin early in December. Adapted for television by Hugh Webster, the story concerns Neil Jamieson, whose return to his boyhood home in a Nova Scotia lumbering village touches off a chain of events that lead to tragedy.

James Doohan, a Canadian actor now working in Hollywood, plays the lead role, heading a large cast which includes Jane Mallett, Jeremy Wilkin, Irena Mayeskam, Charles Palmer, John Drainie and Karen James. The Wings of Night was filmed on location near Liverpool, N.S., where author Raddall lives.

Strangers in Ste. Angele, an eight-episode serial due for telecast early in 1964, has its setting in a Laurentian ski resort. An original mystery story by Phyllis Lee Peterson, it combines a cast of English- and French-Canadian actors, including Sharon Acker, Bruno Gerussi, Francoise Lemieux, Benoit Girard, Jonathan White, Graydon Gould, Antoinette Giroux, and Ronald Bedard.

The ski resort outdoors scenes were filmed last winter at St. Sauveur in the Laurentians; again, studio shots were video-taped in Toronto. Phyllis Lee Peterson, the author of this previously unexposed serial, has written a number of television dramas in the mythical setting of Ste. Angele. This is the first to include on-location film sequences.

Executive producer Weyman says that future serial productions will include a story set in the foothills of the Canadian Rockies, and another with its setting on the West Coast.

"The Serial is an important development in terms of the use of Canadian material," said Weyman. "It is also a development in terms of using specific locations across the country, escaping the limitations of studio space through film. The Serial, in its weekly, half-hour episode format, allows for the dramatization on television of much longer stories, including novels."

COMBATting POVERTY IN 'THE STOREHOUSE OF RICHES'

it wasn't always backward and poor. The Inca Empire, which thrived from about the 12th century until the Spanish Conquest in 1532, developed highly advanced techniques for agriculture and industry, quite apart from the Old World. The Incas showed brilliance in administration, organization, colonization and communication. Their systems of irrigation, soil conservation, weaving, pottery-making and metal-work, their domestication of the llama and alpaca, and their elegant and beautiful styles of architecture were far from primitive for their time. But they didn't progress beyond the stage the Spaniards found them in, in 1532. Many isolated Indians still use the old, tiresome, time-wasting techniques and adhere to the same standards. They are suspicious of strangers, and would-be improvers have sometimes found themselves bubbling in the Indians' not-so-pretty kettle of fish.

Not so Francisco Pizarro when he and a small band of adventurers landed on Peru's coast and quickly quelled the Indians with firearms, a frightening weapon the Incas had never before encountered. Peru became a vice-royalty and had a tolerable colonial period. But early in the last century the country rose up against domination, and eventually defeated the Spanish forces in 1824. However, the Peruvians found they weren't much better off in independence, for revolts, dictatorships, lengthy boundary disputes and war dashed glowing schemes for a free and thriving nation.

Now, under Terry, plans are riding high again for this poor, mountainous country of roughly the size of Quebec with a population of 11 millions, only ten per cent of whom are white. It's still the land of the Indian. Spanish is the official language, but the Inca language is spoken by 70 to 80 per cent. Most educated Peruvians speak or understand English. On the coast, where living standards are higher, and where there is no colour bar, a middle class is rising fairly rapidly and serving as a catalyst in the economic situation.

But in the sierra the Indians and mestizos, or half-breeds, who predominate, are overcrowded, poor, undernourished, illiterate. Their isolation will probably continue for some time because of the lack of communication in Peru and the extreme cost and difficulty of improving transportation facilities. The resulting disorganization in the country, and the Peruvians' natural conservatism, are two of the main reasons why Peru hasn't had a violent revolution so far, and may prevent one in the near future, although the portable transistor radio is making it possible for remote Peruvians to keep track of what is fomenting in the rest of the country, and outside Peru. Fortunately, the younger, more dynamic members of the Peruvian élite, many of whom have been educated abroad, have begun to take up the cause of the middle and lower classes, though whether they will support major reforms remains to be seen.

Young men with young ideas are coming to the fore, men qualified in professions or technologies, not just political appointees. Hope threatens the shabby, centuries-old status quo in the "storehouse of riches."

turned home with a love of flying in their blood. Only a decade earlier, J. A. D. McCurdy had handled the flimsy, kite-like Silver Dart into the first powered flight in Canada's history, over the ice of Baddeck Bay in Nova Scotia. With the impetus of the war, the art and technology of flying had been pushed ahead with such speed that by 1920 it had become almost commonplace. Almost, but not quite, especially in the severe weather conditions and forbidding topography of Canada's northern bush country.

It's impossible to establish what should be called the first "bush flight" in Canada, but some early achievements can be cited. The first use of aircraft for forest fire patrol was in 1919, over the St. Maurice Valley in Quebec. In 1920, aircraft penetrated the Yukon for the first time, and in that same year the first commercial passenger flight into the north was undertaken, from Winnipeg to The Pas, Man. In 1921, two Junkers monoplanes, owned by Imperial Oil Ltd., became the first aircraft to fly into the Northwest Territories, and by the late 1920s dozens of intrepid pilots, flying the two favourites of the era—Fairchild and Fokkers—were making regular flights to remote locations, carrying in men, equipment and supplies, bringing out gold, mail, and, perhaps most important, information about the country.

During and after the Second World War, another upsurge in bush flying occurred. A new generation of trained pilots appeared on the scene, and new aircraft—the Norseman, Beaver, and Otter, to name a few of the most popular—were brought in to carry bigger loads faster and farther than their predecessors. But the hazards and problems remained much the same as they'd always been: terrible weather conditions, rough and uncharted country, and the ever-present possibility of a lonely death in some undiscovered spot in the vast hinterland.

CBC Vancouver's Discovery series is currently presenting three programs about bush flying in Canada. The series includes rare film footage of the early days and interviews with some of the pilots who helped write a heroic chapter in Canada's history. The program to be seen this Sunday night, Sept. 22, on CBC-TV is sub-titled Arctic Pilot. The third and last program, on Sept. 29, sub-titled Bush Trails to Airlines, traces the development of Canada's air services from one-plane outfits to the large-scale operations of today. Script and production are by Tom Connochie.

position unchanged. The effect was more than an esprit arising from a sense of national pride. The men who made up its units were heartened by the comradeship that comes from shared experience in the face of difficulty and danger, whether the result be reverse or triumph. Their morale was high, and they endured grievous hardships and bitter setbacks with a dogged optimism and irrepressible cheerfulness. They were further strengthened by the confidence which they had in their leaders—a confidence that they would not suffer needless sacrifice through being committed in unsound tactics that had already been tested and found wanting . . .

What's On Tapp?, featuring Gordie Tapp in a half-hour of music and comedy, returns to CBC Radio Thursdays at 1:15 p.m., effective this week.

Guests recently on the mid-day farm shows of CKOS-TV Yorkton were Andrew Opoku, right, Supervisor of Farm Broadcasts for Radio Ghana, and Lionel Moore, CBC Farms Supervisor for the Prairies. At left is Norman Roebuck, emcee of the daily show. Mr. Opoku is among many staff members of Radio Ghana in Canada to observe the CBC's methods.

"The Canadian Corps was fortunate in its leaders. To Sir Julian Byng must go much of the credit for laying the foundations of the Corps' esprit and its splendid fighting efficiency. The Corps reached the peak of its performance under Sir Arthur Currie, whose organizing genius and unflagging efforts were constantly directed towards improving and maintaining the standard of his troops' performance. Currie was particularly determined that Canadians should be spared unnecessary casualties, and it was ever his object to exploit gunpower to the limit for the purpose of saving infantrymen's lives."

It is something of this shared experience, this comradeship in hardship, danger, adversity and triumph, that our tape recordings will reflect. The series will not attempt to be a history of the war but will, it is hoped, be a valuable supplement to history. It will have a chronological sequence, starting with the unprepared and unsuspecting days of pre-war 1914, and following through the outbreak of war and the call to the colours, the training at Valcartier and on Salisbury plain, and the four years of fighting in France and Flanders, from the Canadians' first battles in the Ypres Salient to their victorious entry into Mons on the day the war ended. And the story will be told by men who were there.

The gathering of this many-sided story has meant interviews with First World War soldiers in every part of Canada, and in the United Kingdom, France and Belgium. All in all, it is a big job, and its accomplishment is being made possible by the co-operation of veterans of all ranks, from private to general, who are giving their time generously and painstakingly to the preservation of memories which are part of the heritage of all Canadians.

The producer of the series is J. Frank Willis.

Music Festival In Fishing Village

OF THE MUSIC FESTIVALS cropping up around the world, probably the most unusual and intimate takes place in the little English fishing village of Aldeburgh, awash with the sound of the North Sea, at the end of a railway track three hours and two changes from London. For the last 16 years some of the most interesting new music which has settled into the standard repertoire has had its first performance there.

During eight hectic days in June, 300 international guests are treated to an exuberant array of concerts, recitals, opera performances, choral works, open-air madrigals, art exhibits, poetry readings, lectures, and a gay round of informal parties. Nobody panics if an artist is late—the audience just slips around the corner to a converted garage for coffee "on the house."

Ringmasters for all this activity and the celebrated artists involved are composer-pianist Benjamin Britten and tenor Peter Pears who, with Eric Crozier, dreamed up the idea in 1947. "We were driving to Lucerne," recalls Britten. "We were tired and fed up with chasing around to so many places. 'What a bind!' someone said. 'Why can't we have a festival at home in Alde-burgh?" We were told it was financially impossible. But that's how it all began."

The success of the venture has been almost embarrassing to the founders because it hasn't been advertised at all, and, regrettably, because of cramped quarters at Aldeburgh, would-be subscribers must wait for the death of an original patron before they stand a chance of getting a season ticket.

The program to be heard on CBC Radio's International Festivals series on Friday night, Sept. 27, was recorded at the 16th Aldeburgh Festival, this year. Performers include Britten, who hopes to have a new opera ready for next year's Festival—libretto by William Plomer, based on a plot about a traveller, originally a Japanese play transplanted in medieval times to East Anglia; Yehudi Menuhin, one of the world's great violinists, who raised a few eyebrows this year by playing jazz with Johnny Dankworth's band, and who has been active in British festivals lately so as to be near his two sons, enrolled in English schools; and Maurice Gendron, French cello virtuoso who made his North American debut on CBC-TV in 1958.

Lucy Clowns on CBC-TV Network

The Lucy Show

LUCILLE BALL, the slap-stick queen with a talent for taking viewers on an emotional rollercoaster during her comic adventures, rejoins the CBC-TV fall line-up Thursday, September 26.

Miss Ball stars as a lively widow named Lucy Carmichael, mother of two children.

Sharing the comedy spotlight is Lucy's long-time comedienne side-kick Vivian Vance, as divorcee Vivian Bagley.

Gale Gordon, familiar to television viewers from his roles on the Dennis the Menace and Our Miss Brooks series is featured in frequent episodes as Lucy's penny-pinching banker, Mr. Mooney.

Also appearing in The Lucy Show are Candy Moore as Chris Carmichael, Jimmy Garrett as Jerry Carmichael and Ralph Hart as Sherman Bagley, the Carmichael and Bagley children.

Among the highlights for this fall's shows will be Lucy's unique portrayal of Cleopatra, a flight aloft with runaway balloons and an encounter with a baseball-pitching machine.
