REMEMBER there can be no better Christmas present than a gramophone record, or a set of records. Consequently, I have allowed myself a good deal of latitude recently in choosing records for review. Some of these may not have come strictly within the scope of a job and light music on the same general level. It is often difficult to draw the line between recordings of an entertainment nature which rely on their musical content and those which do not. Sometimes

"THE SOUNDS OF TIME"

The King Cole Trio

a record is a good that I just don't want to draw that line.

This month a great record album has been issued which contains scarcely a note of music. I hope readers will allow me a few paragraphs on it, since it is a magnificent piece of work, revealing so much of British history.

The idea was first conceived by Harry Green of "Fifty-Fifty" fame, who was joined by Orville Records the recorded story, in speech and sound, of Britain's history, between 1804 and 1948. As a result, Frederic Maudslayi and Brian Coombs reached the British Programmes Department of the B.B.C. for suitable items, and, after months of arduous work, handed over their findings to John Sings, who married Dorothy's script for the final recording.

"The Sounds of Time," housed in one of the most superb albums I have ever come across, is a masterpiece of records, and is obtainable (45/- complete) in order through the B.B.C. direct from Orville Records Ltd., 182, New Road Street, London, E.C.1. girl well worth watching for her total quality, style and technique. She is supported by that admirably drilled choir we are coming to know so well, and the musicianly Jenkins Orchestra. "Perhaps" is sung by Tony Baver, against a beautifully thought-out arrangement. It is unfortunate that the song's venue had largely passed when the record was made. The record is a masterpiece of records, and is obtainable (45/- complete) in order through the B.B.C. direct from Orville Records Ltd., 182, New Road Street, London, E.C.1.

The King Cole Trio. Cole was clean up for a month with the Karas recording of the Harry Lime Theme. Cole was clean up for a month with the Karas recording of the Harry Lime Theme. Cole was clean up for a month with the Karas recording of the Harry Lime Theme.

One of the great tragedies of Stanley Black's official B.B.C. appointment was that in some cases he had to forego his brilliant piano work. All the more reason why we should welcome the new series of records, in which he is featured as the key-note accompaniment to his orchestra and in the case of the songs, the songs of the King Cole Trio. Cole was clean up for a month with the Karas recording of the Harry Lime Theme.

ALL everyday short-phrase songs of them a little too much so—but it would be a pity to ignore the many gems included in this set. Towards the end, the King Cole Trio is featured as the key-note accompaniment to his orchestra and in the case of the songs, the songs of the King Cole Trio. Cole was clean up for a month with the Karas recording of the Harry Lime Theme.

After such a landmark in recording history, it takes something of an effort to return to the more mundane matter of popular dance music. Or rather, it would be an effort, had not America's most inspired arrangers gone to work recently on the tunes of our own people. If you are amused by human tragedy and national glory then you will find nothing so stirring as "The Sounds of Time." So far as I am concerned, Orville's decision to have produced "The Sounds of Time" is entirely justified. It is a masterpiece of records, and is obtainable (45/- complete) in order through the B.B.C. direct from Orville Records Ltd., 182, New Road Street, London, E.C.1.
